Life Comes To Standstill In East After Snowstorm

By STANLEY W. DARDEN
NEW YORK (UPI)—Buses and industry were at a virtual standstill in the northeast today as millions of persons struggled with the after-effects of the worst snowstorm in the region in eight years. The toll of storm-related deaths mounted steadily.

The New York and American Stock Exchanges were closed for the day as were all commodity exchanges in New York City. Many businesses, including the city's telephone system, were closed. The toll of storm-related deaths mounted steadily.

Washington weather and stayed in Florida an extra day. A meeting of the President's Urban Affairs Council at the White House was canceled when Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and urbanologist Daniel P. Moynihan of Boston were unable to get to Washington.

In New York City, pedestrians walked down the middle of main avenues normally crowded with traffic. Only an occasional car or bus was seen on Fifth, Madison and Lexington Avenues in the midtown area. Sidewalks around large office buildings were the first to be cleared, but large drifts remained in the roadways.

U.S. Bombers Blast Red Positions Near Saigon

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B-52 bombers struck Communist positions in a pre-dawn raid today so close to Saigon that the bomber rattle windows in the capital.

The air strikes 28 miles north of the capital were designed to limit positions from which the Communists could launch a new major offensive, military spokesmen said.

Northwest of Saigon that included 17 mixed rocket rounds, 45 82mm mortars, 33 rocket grenades, 860 pounds of explosives and seven cases of Chinese-made hand grenades, spokesmen reported.

As residents began to dig out of up to 20 inches of snow in the New York area, reports slowly filtered in to police agencies of hundreds of persons being stranded in snow blocked automobiles for up to 15 hours before being rescued.

Israeli, Jordanian Troops Clash South Of Dead Sea

Israeli and Jordanian troops battled with artillery before dawn today south of the Dead Sea, a Jordanian military spokesman said in Amman.

The fight occurred near an Israeli outpost that was bombarded by Russian-made rockets fired from inside Jordan Sunday, according to Israeli military spokesmen.

Significant damage was reported after both incidents. The only known casualty was one wounded laborer at the outpost.

Moon Shots Will Aid Earth Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—A scientist for the Department of the Interior said Sunday the photographs taken of the earth from space have provided a wealth of information about the home planet.

Dr. William Fisher, one of several scientists and astronomers who appeared on an ABC television news special, said the hundreds of pictures taken by both instruments and man-made spacecrafts have provided a greater understanding about subjects ranging from natural resources to farm production.

Dr. Robert Stevenson of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, said on the program spacecraft will map new water supplies from melting snow within in the next 10 years.

"A space watch could reduce the threat of disaster to crops by detecting areas of crop diseases," he said.

Sirhan Trial May Begin This Week

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The attorney defending Sirhan B. Sirhan in his trial for the slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was scheduled to appear in court Monday normally contested in a murder trial.

Opening arguments in the case may begin before the end of this week if the defense and prosecution can agree on six alternate jurors. That some new information was likely to accelerate an discovery of natural resources," said Fisher.

LBJ Breaks Chicago Silence

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President of the United States Johnson has blamed both Chicago officials and demonstrators for "the bloodiest and most terror" in the streets of the city during the Democratic convention last August. He called the confrontation a "tragic, horrible thing."

Johnson, in an interview to be published in the March issue of Time magazine, also said "the alienation" in the youth, particularly hurt Robert Kennedy's candidacy for the White House.

"In the interview with Peter Lagarde, the former president said that occurred is a sad lesson in what happens when decent people on both sides abandon restraint and understanding and confront one another with raw emotion rather than reason.

"At the outset I sympathized with the objectives of both sides in the confrontation. Keeping internal peace and order is the duty of any mayor. Yet expressing deeply felt feelings and thoughts in a general manner is the right of any citizen."

State Calls Russo In Clay Shaw Trial

By H. D. QUIGG
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The state called Perry Russo today to his story of listening while Clay L. Shaw, the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., plotted in detail the murder of President John F. Kennedy.
Russo, 27, an insurance salesman, testified at a hearing held by two judges in New Orleans in September, 1963, he had attended a party in Ferris' apartment here in which the three — in Dist. Atty. J. W. Garrison's opening statement words — "discussed and refined" the plot.
Shaw, 35, a retired businessman, is charged with conspiring with the assassin, now dead, to assassinate Kennedy — but the charge does not allege murder.
Russo's testimony in Shaw's trial in Criminal District Court here will follow that of a state witness, who said he had been hypnotized against his will "possibly 50 or 60 times" over a 15-day period.
That witness, Charles E. Spiess, a New York accountant and tax consultant, testified he

Guidelines On Interest Are Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government has issued a set of guidelines designed to let the public know what credit costs, service charge or other interest are included in those "low monthly payments" for purchases like his used car or color television set.
The so-called "truth in lending" guidelines, which go into effect July 1, were issued by the Federal Reserve Board as the result of a law passed by Congress last year.
The regulations cover a wide range of activities where credit is extended, including bank loans and department store charge accounts, not to mention bills from doctors, dentists and the neighborhood plumber.
Basically, the guidelines require businesses offering credit to clearly explain the terms of that credit, or face a $5,000 fine. A year in jail or both. Credit is defined as any transaction in which the bill is payable in more than four installments. As many as a million businesses offering credit will be covered.
The guidelines even go so far as to require that all numbers, whether printed on bills, contracts and credit agreements be printed at least in 10-point type and slightly larger than the average type size used in most newspaper columns.
Exempt from the guidelines are loans for business purposes, charges of more than $25,000 without a home mortgage, and stock market transactions.

Two Legislative 'Thicket' Stand In Way Of Changing Plan Of Electing Presidents

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is hearing reminders from its own members that any change in the U.S. system of electing Presidents must get through not one but two legislative thickets.

Congress can propose a constitutional amendment only by a two-thirds vote of both the House and Senate. Then it must be approved by three-fourths (38) of the states through their legislatures or special conventions.

There has been a noticeable increase in congressional sentiment for direct popular election of Presidents as a substitute for the present Electoral College system assigning each state one electoral vote for each of its members in the House and Senate.

Doubts persist about whether this or any other proposal would command the necessary two-thirds vote in Congress, although there seems little doubt that two-thirds of the members want some kind of change. The clamor for change grew this year because George C. Wallace's third party vote threatened to deny the needed electoral vote majority to any candidate in 1968.

Critics of the popular vote proposal argue that it would undermine the federal system. They also doubt that 38 states would accept it.

Would the vastly populated states like New York and California yield the extra power they now have in electing Presidents? Those two states alone cast 30 per cent of the 270 electoral votes needed by a winner.

And would the least populous states give up their own inflated power which results from two electoral votes each, has been senators? Small states long have grumbled about the power of the populous states in electing presidents. Yet congressional fact-finders have calculated that one electoral vote represents 75,000 people in Alaska and 283,000 in California.

Since adoption of the Bill of Rights, the states have failed to ratify only three proposed amendments submitted to them by Congress.

In his campaign, President Nixon advocated retention of the present system of electing electoral votes to the states but dividing their electoral votes in proportion to the popular vote.

All states now cast their electoral votes by blocs on a winner-take-all basis.

Another plan being pressed in Congress would allocate electors to the states under the present formula—but each state would have one vote for each congressional district and two from the state at large. Still another proposal would retain the present system but eliminate the electors.

A common feature of all amendments would erase the present constitutional provision to settle presidential elections in the House, with each state having one vote regardless of its population, whenever a candidate failed to poll a majority of the popular or electoral vote.

A UPI poll taken recently indicated at least 48 senators favoring the popular election proposal. The figure is 18 above that in 1959 but still 22 votes short of the number needed for Senate approval.

Pat Paulsen Draws 200,000 Votes In Election, Wins At Possible Effect

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI-Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "I'm glad I didn't defeat Richard Nixon for the President," said one of the new President's election opponents, "because the inauguration fell on the same date as my bowling night."

This gracious admission of defeat combined with rationalization came not from Hubert Humphrey or George C. Wallace.

The statement was made by the premier loser of our time, Pat Paulsen, who ran on a gaudy ticket and says he received some 200,000 write-in votes across the country.

Comedian Paulsen winces at the thought that those votes might seriously have affected the election. To him that isn't funny.

Now, after a hard and humiliating defeat at the polls, Pat is picking up the threads of his life. He plans to run for the presidency again in 1972 because he still is struck with considerable campaign literature and stacks of the book he has written.

But in the interim what will loser Paulsen do? "People ask me about that long-faced campaigner said, 'And I didn't have an answer until I stepped out of the bathtub one morning and looked into the mirror. Then the answer was apparent—sports and physical fitness.'"

Paulsen suffers delusions about his physical attributes. Don Knotts and Phyllis Diller have better chances to play Tarzan than Pat.

Paulsen is signed for regular comedy spots on the new Glen Campbell show for the next eight weeks.

Thereafter he is free to do as he pleases—right now hoping to establish himself in movies playing the pathetic little man who might jump off lovers leap and survive.

Paulsen is convinced there is room for more polished comedy of the Charlie Chaplin variety in movies.

But he's still taking his political defeat hard, inventing every excuse possible: "I'm glad I didn't win. I didn't want the hassle of wrapping all our dishes individually and packing everything in the Volkswagen and driving all the way to Washington."

"In a way President Nixon is lucky. He looked tired at the inauguration. But he's got the next four years to sleep."

The largest training exercise to be held in Alaska in two years is being conducted in the Army's maneuver area near Ft. Wainwright. It is designed to test the effectiveness of combat troops operating in the arctic environment. Under near-combat conditions, pitting "friendly forces" against "aggressors," the ground soldiers are demonstrating their fighting efficiency in a region where winter temperatures sometimes reach more than 60 degrees below zero.

Report: Nixon-To-Moscow-To-Hanoi

Monday, February 10, 1969... AL WESTERGREEN... O. A. GUSH KELKER... WILEY DODDS... GENE ARDERTER... DALE THOMPSON... PAUL STANLEY... O. J. SMITH

WASHINGTON — Despite the deadlock now blocking all progress at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, the mood both in the Nixon administration and among diplomatic row here is anything but gloomy, for a most interesting reason: help from Moscow.

Soviet policy in the Vietnam war has been shrouded for years. Some U.S. diplomats have insisted that Moscow wanted the war to end out of fear that protracted fighting would enhance Chinese Communist influence in Southeast Asia.

With the effusive Soviet reaction to Mr. Nixon's first two weeks in office, they strongly hint that the Kremlin is hyperactive behind the scenes to prevent a breakdown of the Paris talks from interfering with Moscow's objectives regarding the Middle East and arms control, higher on the current Soviet priority list than Vietnam.

viewed here as likely to have a continuing influence on Hanoi. Once that happens, the careful, behind-the-scenes work by the Soviet Union... with the buildup of Mr. Nixon as a man of peace, will collapse. That is a development Moscow wants to avoid at all cost.

Look At Tax Laws

Antone Hits Action In Gem House

BOISE (UPI)—Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, a freshman legislator, said Saturday that action taken this past week by the House Education Committee was "totally irresponsible."

He said, "I don't believe the committee has looked deep enough and into the consequences of proposing a $21 million increase to public school fund."

Antone said if education is funded to this extent by the 10th session of the legislature, and then comes back for another percentage increase the next biennium, "we may not be so fortunate to have a surplus to depend upon."

"I favor the minority group in the education committee which voted against putting an additional $21 million into public schools during the next biennium," he added.

When the conversation turns to cars, a Cadillac owner is seldom asked the model and year of the one he drives. The fact that he drives the car of cars is sufficient. For a Cadillac, regardless of its year, is the most universally desired of all motor cars.

This is because the beauty, craftsmanship, luxury and performance inherent in a Cadillac never go out of style. A case in point is the 1966 model shown above: its Turbo-Hydra-matic transmission, variable-ratio power steering and other refinements have only recently become available on some lesser cars.

Idaho Legislative Finance Official Warns Of Deficit Spending

BOISE (UPI)—A co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee of the Idaho Legislature warned of a possibility of deficit spending in the Gem state Sunday.

Rep. Jenkin L. Palmer, R-Madison, said that a recommendation of the House Education Committee to provide the public schools with $21 million more in state funds in the present biennium could have that result.

Palmer said the budget could reach the $210 million mark and "it will be difficult to save any money."

"The joint committee wants to meet the needs of the state on the best of its ability," said Palmer. "But it is apparent by committee action in the house that the legislature could exceed the ability of Idaho to pay."

Palmer did not forecast what he thought the legislature would provide to the public schools.

The Idaho Education Association has recommended $19 million above the $32.7 million appropriation by the 29th legislature. Gov. Don Samuelson recommended $15.5 million and the State Board of Education increased its request upward from $15.5 million to $19 or $20 million.

Palmer said requests to the joint committee for the surplus general fund monies accruing in the current biennium "now exceeds $22 million." The committee will complete its hearings today. Gov. Samuelson has estimated the surplus will reach $20 million.

"It is difficult to justify a budget of $208 to $209 million," said Palmer.

The governor recommended appropriation of $20.4 million for the 1959-7 biennium.

Palmer said that "if there is any money left over, it could be placed in an emergency fund."

Subcommittees on the Department of Administrative Services, the Personnel Commission and a proposal to transfer the Bureau of Public Accounts will deliberate Tuesday and Wednesday, Palmer said.

The full committee should begin its general fund appropriations recommendations by the end of the week, according to Palmer.

"Bills have been introduced in the Bureau of Public Accounts from the governor's office, one to the state auditor and another to the legislative council."

Palmer said the first bills to be introduced should be to fund the public schools at the higher education institutions. He forecast a single measure for higher education, listing separate appropriations for each of the institutions.

The legislature goes into its 29th legislative day today and Palmer noted that the joint committee has a record of completing its hearings in less than 30 days.

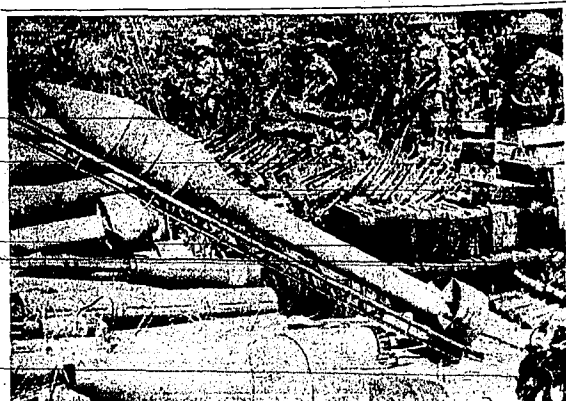

The House has 13 bills and the Senate eight, the calendar shows. Both chambers convene at 10 a. m.

Elements of controversy appear in one bill that would allow county commissioners to establish their own salaries. Presently, their salaries are set by the legislature.

When a group of commissioners representing 26 counties met with the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee nearly two weeks ago, they submitted a request not to set their own salaries.

One bill in the Senate appears to have generated great controversy. It calls for closing the drainage of Big Creek in Idaho and Valley Counties to the hunting, killing or taking of cats and wild birds.

Stockmen oppose the bill, saying the depredations of the big cats are disastrous to livestock in the area.

Legislative Week Is Studied In Report By UPI Writer

By PAUL M. QUINN

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee and House and Senate Education Committees took the week off for a well-deserved rest, but Monday it was to be business as usual in the 40th session of the Idaho Legislature with major decisions forthcoming on the important issues.

The education committees were expected, at about the middle of the week, to come up with solid and possibly final figures for funding public school education.

There were strong indications that the final figure would represent an increase somewhat in the neighborhood of $20.22 million.

This would be about $5 million more than the increase proposed by the State Department of Education.

As the legislative week ended in Idaho, one of the major problems facing the legislature was the opening for the biennium holding up many bills in committee.

And, the situation was further complicated when it was learned Saturday that an attorney general's ruling apparently has blocked plans of the legislature to carry over pending legislation from the first to the second regular session.

Atty. Gen. Robert Robson ruled that the first and second sessions are separate and distinct and that bills pending in law 60 days after adjournment of each session.

While that clarified the when bills become law it also apparently precludes carrying over bills from one session to the other.

Many lawmakers were counting on this as a means of assuring that the 40th session ends in 60 days.

The issue was still cloudy at the week's end.

Sen. Fred Bagley, R-Boise, head of the Senate Education Committee, indicated that he expects information during the coming week from the department of education on public school financing — the major problem of the 1959 legislature.

At the week's end, Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Madison, co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee, said that funding public schools in the time of a $21-million increase could result in deficit spending.

It became more obvious as the legislative week progressed that more and more money is going to have to be spent by the state in this coming biennium.

The chairman of the permanent building fund advisory council, James McClary, Boise, told the Finance-Appropriations Committee it will take about $3 million to complete the new state prison. He asked the committee to approve an appropriation of $3 million in surplus general funds from the current biennium to build the prison. This was the recommendation of Gov. Samuelson.

Other state agencies continued to seek more money than the executive budget.

The finance appropriations lawmakers were asked to recommend to the legislature a lump sum appropriation of $7.6 million for all mental health services.

One of the major legislative accomplishments of the week was the introduction of 39 bills in the senate and house calling for a complete revamping of the state's system of lower courts.

The proposals would abolish probate courts, justices of the peace and other minor courts and place all of their duties under a system of magistrate courts controlled by the state.

Two years ago Gov. Samuelson vetoed part of the court reform package proposed by the 39th session but it appeared the objections he had then have been removed in the new package.

The governor came in for a couple of hard knocks during the week when Democratic spokesmen in both the house and senate accused the administration of using management services, the bureau of public accounts and data processing in a method not intended by lawmakers.

Sen. Cecil Andrus, D-Lewiston, called the administrative services a monster and Rep. William Brauner, D-Caldwell, introduced a house bill that would transfer the bureau of public accounts to the state auditor.

And, there were other legislative developments:

The Idaho Senate passed by a vote of 23-3 a concurrent resolution calling for a broad legislative code of ethics and conduct.

State Auditor Joe Williams requested an attorney general's opinion on the constitutionality of the new legislative pay scale that would more than double the lawmakers' salaries and provide a base of $18,000 annually per lawmaker.

Hugh Hefner Holds Court In Mansion And Bunnies Listen

By SHERRY CONOHAN

CHICAGO (UPI)—It was the biggest hunch of them all—Playboy Magazine Publisher Hugh Hefner's pad—and on Saturday it was filled with a gaggle of girls who had come in response to newspaper ads about a "bunny" hunt.

Even a protester was on hand.

"I'm overwhelmed by the turnout," beamed Hefner, the man behind myth and chief purveyor of the "Playboy Philosophy" as he eyed the bevy of beauties clustered in the living room of the mansion.

This is my idea of a good radio for a party.

About 250 girls were in the room—the first of three shifts. Outside, others lined up for half a block down North State Parkway, standing in the lightly falling snow, awaiting their turn.

Moments before the "audience" with Hefner, the girls had circled around the room talking with Bunnies in working dress about life in what a press spokesman called "Bunnycorn" and admiring the large paneled room with its high beamed ceiling and modern paintings on the walls.

Bunny Georgia, a pretty blonde with sparkling eyes who wore her hair in a single pony tail drawn to one side of her head, was telling a small group how the bunnies can transfer to clubs in other cities. One girl asked if she had ever been a playmate of the month. She smiled and replied, "No."

Not all the girls were job-hunting.

"I was curious, I wanted to see the mansion," one girl said in explaining her presence. "I couldn't become a Bunny anyway—I have two children at home."

"Even if I didn't," she added. "I could. I'd feel funny."

"Bunny Marilyn, who is one of 28 Bunnies living in the mansion, watched the girls on from the sidelines, attired in a brown plaid dress.

"I think it's very nice," she said of the open house. "I think the girls will be telling everybody from here to Los Angeles about the excitement of life as a Bunny and what kind of person Hugh Hefner is. He's really a very, very down to earth person."

Hefner just takes a fatherly attitude towards the Bunnies living here (in the mansion), she added.

When Hefner took the microphone and what girls were invited to ask questions.

"Do you ever give private conferences," asked one young thing.

"Yes, I occasionally do," replied Hefner, jutting out his lower jaw.

Someone else asked about the demonstrators at Grinnell College who had undressed last week during the appearance of a Playboy representative.

"They had the notion, I guess, that men and women are basically the same," he said. "I think it's a very poor way to prove it."

"If they do it again," he smiled. "I wish they'd do it again."

A protester also popped up in the midst of the guests, distributing flyers depicting a woman's body divided into sections like a deer labeled "Chuck," "Rib," "Cala," "Rump" and "Round."

"We feel that Playboy makes women fit into a certain image," she said, refusing to give her name. "There are a lot of women who don't fit into that image who also are beautiful."

Author Dies At Age 63 In Florida

The 63-year-old author spent most of the last year at nearby Grassie Key, where he produced most of the manuscript for "Hurricane Years."

A former executive of Armstrong Cork, he divided his time between Grassie Key, and Lancaster, Pa. Other novels by Hurlburt include "Crash McCull," "Lincoln Lewis," and "Executive Suite."

"Hurricane Years," published in September, dealt with the psychological effects of heart attacks brought on by business stress and necessity.

German Border Guard Finds Western 'Freedom' Lacks Luster

Twin Falls Times-News
Monday, February 10, 1959

By TOM TIEDE

WEST BERLIN — (NEA) — More than 37 million East Germans have fled to the western world in the years since World War II.

Lutz Kirsche, age 22, is one of them.

But Kirsche is a singular example. He's different from the others. He sometimes wishes he'd never escaped at all.

This is his story:

Until last year, Lutz Kirsche had spent all of his life under communism. He was born in postwar East Germany. He grew up with that nation's socialist system.

He says he is not ashamed to admit he was an enthusiastic believer in the system. So much so that he was an officer and leader in many Young Communist organizations.

The party looked at him favorably. And when he was of age he was selected to serve in the politically elite border guard division of the East German military.

It was an honor. Border guards are the most trusted of Communists. And the soldiers are highly respected.

Kirsche was elated—until he was told of his border duties. He was told that if anybody tried to climb over any wall or fence toward the West, he was to shoot them dead.

The order was stunning. Kill his own people?

From his various posts along the border, Lutz Kirsche got a daily look into life on the western side. He had seldom seen it before. It looked more active, more hurried.

But there was something in the West he knew was there but couldn't be seen—freedom. It was what all the defectors were seeking. He couldn't understand it, since he felt he was free enough—but he thought about it anyway.

The young man never really became dissatisfied with the Communist way of life. But the order to kill defectors began to eat at him as he regularly watched life in West Germany.

Any day, any time, someone might try to escape past his post. Then he would have to shoot. It was strict law.

Finally, the thought of it was too much for Lutz Kirsche. And for that matter, he decided to escape himself.

One afternoon, while on sentry duty close to the border, he broke from his post on a dead run to the West. And the time his comrades spotted him.

That was one year ago, this month.

Today, the young defector is enrolled in a West Berlin technical school. He has a six-day week schedule in mechanical drawing. It has been his lifelong desire.

He also has a small apartment in a student dormitory. He has friends. He has dates.

Nice clothes. Some money. But he is not particularly happy.

He is, he explains, still a fugitive from his people. They consider him a coward, traitor and deserter. His family is ashamed, his relatives suspect. He is a nonperson there.

Then too, he adds, he is not really a member of Western society either. He will always be an outsider, he believes. He thinks he is being watched and his mail read.

But his principal problem, he explains, is that the West itself is disappointing. He has always heard about the freedom, but he asks now where it is and what does it do?

His apartment, for instance. In East Germany, he says, the state gives the apartment for life. It cannot be taken away. But in West Germany the landlord can claim it at will.

And employment. In East Germany, he says, the state guarantees work for all. But in West Germany each man must go out on his own to find jobs, sometimes without success.

And medical care and life insurance and schooling. On the other side, he says, socialism takes care of everything.

He says he wonders if people are really so free in the West as they believe. In East Germany, he explains, the party is the ruler; in democracy, he adds, money is.

In both places, he shrugs, something dictates.

And so Lutz Kirsche is today a man without a country. He is not anti-West or pro-West. He is not pro-Communist or anti-Communist. He is dwelling in the amorphous middle.

What can I do? he sighs.

For the present, he thinks he will do nothing but sit tight and continue his studies. He has no real alternative. He knows if he tries to escape back home, he will be jailed—if not shot at the border by his old

Connie Norby, Davis Exchange Nuptial Vows

RUPERT—The United Methodist Church, Rupert, was the setting for the Dec. 29 wedding of Connie Rae Norby, daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Norby and the late Martin Norby, and Bruce Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis, Kendrick.

Rev. Warren McConnell performed the double ring ceremony before an arrangement of candelabra and pine garlands with white tapers and avocado ribbon, and beauty baskets of white chrysanthemums.

The bride given in marriage by her father, Larry Norby, was attired in a floor-length A-line gown of white waterfall brocade, styled with a bateau neckline, three-quarter-length sleeves with fur trim, and a self bow in the back.

The bride's gown was enhanced by a chapel train of self material attached at the waist. Her veil bridled illusion was held by a white fur headpiece, and she carried a white fur muff, accented with pink rosebuds and gold chain.

Mrs. Richard Beaman, sister of the bride, Fairfax, Calif., was matron of honor. Joy Davis, sister of the groom, Provo, were bridesmaids. Leslie Speedy, Fairfield, Calif., and Laura Norby, both nieces of the bride, were attendants. Ring-bearer was Kathryn Speedy, Fairfield, Calif., niece of the bride.

Les Boasin, Wendell, was best man and John Sandy, Hagerman, and Mary Speedy, Bryans, Norby, both nephews of the bride, were ushers.

During the ceremony, Clyde Richan was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Bruns, who also played traditional wedding music.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held in the church hall at the church. The bride-party greeted guests before an Austrian curtain with white tulle and avocado valance, flanked by electric candelabra. Assorted carpeting with white, tropy trees and beauty baskets of red carnations formed the pathway to the receiving line.

Janis Slaughter, sorority sister, Kimberly, was in charge of the guest-book, and Judy Haynes was in charge of gifts, placing them under a lighted Christmas tree flanked by white doves and a crystal chandelier with illuminated garlands. A round illuminated table covered with white embroidered daisies with white satin bows over tulle held the four-tiered square wedding cake which was decorated in white with scrolls and avocado leaves.

Green columns separated the tiers of the cake, which featured a miniature bride and groom on the second layer and white satin wedding bells on the top. A filigree screen accented with evergreen, gold deer and sunburst with twinkling lights enhanced the table decor. Lynne Beckwith cut and served the cake.

An electric fountain, a crystal compote filled with white and gold grapes and a gold cherub complemented the illuminated serving table. Floyd Crandall and Judy Hyde assisted in serving. Mrs. Larry Norby and Deborah DeThomas served as hostesses. Others assisting were Jerry Norby, Jill Norby and Anna DeThomas.

Round quartet tables, covered with embroidered daisies over white tulle, were centered by evergreens and green frosted quartet tables covered with Square quartet tables covered with avocado cloths were centered with gold roses and lighted "I Love My Bride." A white checkered cloth decorated the hallway, enhanced the decor. Bridgroom's cake, mints and nuts also were served.

The bride is attending the University of Idaho, majoring in English sociology. The bridegroom is attending the University of Idaho, majoring in agricultural management. The couple will reside in Moscow.

Pre-nuptial miscellaneous showers were hosted for the bride by Mrs. Wayne Hollenbeck and Mrs. Frank Macle, by the ladies of the American Rifle, Kendrick, and by Mrs. Winnie Fackler, Spokane.

Out-of-town guests attended from Kendrick, Wendell, Fairfield, Fairfax, Calif., and Provo, Utah.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When two young people were to say they wanted to get a book on Sex in Marriage and study it together, you said, "Studying a subject is sure to stimulate the interest, but it is no point in studying the violin if you have to wait two years to practice." A humorous quip—but it makes no sense.

I assume that you think studying about sex will lead to irresponsible experimentation. That is not necessarily so; it is curiosity about sex based on ignorance, which is more apt to cause youth to try it out rather than genuine education about it. It is the dorky forbidden—that which has been kept hidden, which is stimulating, rather than enlightening.

Parents can no longer keep their children ignorant about sex. Our real task is to see to it that it is presented in a mature, wholesome manner.

Sincerely,
R.S.H., Dept. of Education
The American Institute of Family Relations,
Los Angeles, Cal.

DEAR R. S. H.: I do not advocate keeping children ignorant about sex. I think children (and adults, as well) should know all they need to know about sex. But I still say the enigma.

DEAR HARTFORD: Around Thanksgiving time, write them a note and tell them you are "thankful" for friends with whom you can be perfectly friendly. Explain that this year you are "firming" your Christmas gift list, and are sending cards; and unless they truly understand they will appreciate your good sense and will reciprocate accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see that you told those 8th graders that "popularity" wasn't everything. I wish I had learned that earlier. I started out as a homey wallflower who thought being "popular" was the most wonderful thing a girl could be. I started to smoke at 14 to prove I was "grown up." By 16 I had a reputation for being "easy" and I carried on for quite a while at 17, and married a guy I had known four days. By 18 I was divorced, had a child, and was having affairs with married men. Wow, was I popular!

Abby, just keep telling girls to be "frigid." Popularity isn't all it cracked up to be. Don't use my name. I'm trying to straighten myself out.

Police Kill 6 In India Uprising

BOMBAY, India (UPI)—Bursts of police gunfire at rioters killed six persons and wounded at least 12 Sunday. Mobs burned down the main road and rioters declared dusk-to-dawn curfew.

Police Commissioner E.S. Modak blamed the rioting on the paramilitary Special Force organization which two weeks ago began a campaign to jostle non-Maharashtrians from jobs in Maharashtra State.

Arrests On Drug Counts Are Listed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Four adults and seven juveniles were arrested and a dozen medications and needles were confiscated during an early-morning police raid Saturday on two homes in Kearns, Utah.

Deputy Joe Gee of the Salt Lake County Sheriff's Office and four other officers converged on the house after receiving a tip that a "pot party" was in progress.

When Gee's force entered the front room he said, they found four disoriented youths, two of whom appeared seriously ill.

"The kids were completely confused—unaware of what was happening," Gee said. "Two seemed very sick but they improved in an hour or so."

Police said they suspect the youths were using LSD but couldn't confirm it until the lab completes an analysis of the syringes and needles that were found lying openly throughout the house.

Goldberg Asks Civilian Review Of Facts In Seizure Of Pueblo

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, questioning the Navy's decision to suspend the public interest in the Pueblo case, said he would like to see the case reviewed by a civilian panel.

"Goldberg, who also served on the Supreme Court, wrote Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird expressing 'misgivings concerning the procedure being employed in the present inquiry by the Navy into the Pueblo affair.'"

"It is a fundamental and wise principle that no one may be judged in his own case," Goldberg said. "Can there be any doubt under the facts that have been made public that the Navy is not in a position to judge the Pueblo case as a civilian panel would?"

Goldberg said he told the U.S. Security Council the ship was illegally and wrongfully seized in international waters, and that his testimony had borne this out.

However, he said an evaluation panel—and that was all. So Eisenhower thought, however, called British correspondents to the United Kingdom Embassy in Washington moments after the raid had news of their conference.

First, the White House issued shocked denials. Then the staff covered up the story of the raid and the fact that the British were coming from and began to leak their own authentic versions. By this time, however, the staff had covered up the story of the raid and the fact that the British were coming from and began to leak their own authentic versions.

The Nixon staff should have an intimate and educational time of it in Europe.

Wedding?

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—The Nevada County Clerk's office announced Sunday it will support legislation to eliminate the wedding ceremony as a requirement for marriage, enabling couples to wed by merely signing their wedding licenses.

The clerk said they hoped this would end the "wedding" ceremony of Nevada's instant wedding chapels.

Stations in Cleveland, Denver and Little Rock, Ark. canceled "Turn-On" last week. One station manager wrote ABC:

"If your naughty little boys have to write dirty words on walls, please don't use our walls. It's all right to be raucy, but this is just plain dirty."

George Schlatter, executive producer of "Laugh-In" and "Turn-On," said Tom and Dick Smothers, Nancy Sinatra and Tony Newley were among performers who quibbled to be on the new show.

"Turn-On" using double entendres and barbs about hot subjects, was hosted by a computerized, employed electronic technician, graphics and animation in emphasizing impersonality in modern life. It moved at a furious pace.

Schlatter said the show was a "bold step," and that he had nothing but respect for ABC-TV and the sponsor for trying it.

But he said: "I'm shocked and disappointed. I can't believe they'd take it off the air."

CHILLICOTHE, Ill. (UPI)—A Santa Fe Chicago-to-California passenger train derailed Sunday, derailed six miles west of here Sunday, injuring 17 persons.

None of those injured was listed in serious condition and most passengers were allowed to continue their journey on a later train.

Witnesses said one of the two derailed passenger cars was off the tracks, two lying on their side.

in picking Navy men to conduct the inquiry.

Though conceding it might be too late, Goldberg added he believed it would be in the public interest to suspend the Navy's present inquiry in Coronado, Calif., and have the responsibility could be replaced by the civilian tribunal.

If this cannot be done, there should at least be an investigation by a nonmilitary panel into the question of whether the Pueblo was in international waters when it was boarded by the North Koreans on Jan. 23, 1968, he said.

Goldberg said he told the U.S. Security Council the ship was illegally and wrongfully seized in international waters, and that his testimony had borne this out.

However, he said an evaluation panel—and that was all. So Eisenhower thought, however, called British correspondents to the United Kingdom Embassy in Washington moments after the raid had news of their conference.

First, the White House issued shocked denials. Then the staff covered up the story of the raid and the fact that the British were coming from and began to leak their own authentic versions. By this time, however, the staff had covered up the story of the raid and the fact that the British were coming from and began to leak their own authentic versions.

The Nixon staff should have an intimate and educational time of it in Europe.

Massive Last Gasp Effort Is Made In Search For Girl

ALLENSTOWN, N.H. (UPI)—A massive last gasp search in a snowstorm for an 11-year-old girl missing for 10 days turned up possible clues Sunday but officials were close-mouthed about what had been found.

"I won't say it was in vain," said Police Chief Roland Baillargeon as some 600 volunteers returned to search headquarters in a snowfall that had laid down 4 inches while they worked for more than 600 hours.

"Several items were found and turned over to the proper authorities, that is, the attorney general's office," the chief said.

He said he could not indicate anything of the nature of what was found and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry F. Spaloss, who has been handling the case for state authorities, said at his home in Allenstown he did not expect to be informed of the latest developments before Monday.

The girl, Debra Hern, vanished from her home on Jan. 23 while her parents went to work and a brother went to school.

"Blinding" Fireball Turns Night Into Day Across U.S.

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (UPI)—A blinding blue-white fireball believed to be a meteor, turned night into day across Mexico and the southwestern United States Saturday.

The light from the fireball was reported to last at least 1,000 miles along a line stretching from central Arizona deep into the superstition-ridden outlands of northern Mexico.

"It was brilliant, especially the people in the small villages, are very alarmed," Anunsolo said. "They say this is an announcement that the world will soon end."

Reports from four mountain towns as Purral, Santa Barbara de Irujo and Valle Allende said the Mexican residents saw the fireball and felt it pound to earth. Anunsolo said the impact created "a tremendous tremor" that shook the ground for hundreds of miles so hard that "some windows broke."

Minutemen Hold Fort In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Protesters occupying the University of Chicago administration building for the 11th day ringed the building Saturday night by young men thought to be members of the right wing "Minutemen" organization.

Heavy 2 by 6 inch planks were placed across all doors to the building Saturday night. Only one door was in use and that was barricaded with not opened by student guards-undisturbed students or reporters.

The protesters, whose warring militance appeared to have been bolstered by the raid, decided they will introduce a bill, Chicago City council, and the state of Illinois, to force the state to fund the three who freed after questioning by campus police.

Overtime Pay Is Sought For Idaho Employees

BOISE (UPI)—Ben, William G. Crutcher, D-Orofino, said he will introduce a bill calling for time-and-a-half overtime pay for nearly all state employees who work over 40 hours per week.

Under provisions of the bill, the only exceptions to the time-and-a-half rule would be employees of state hospitals or institutions of higher learning.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—Some time ago on favorable news in more than one publication I bought EG&G and Gulton. I'd like your opinion on whether to hold or to take a loss.

A—If you are patient and don't need the capital these days, I believe you'll be successful. Both now trade at the lower end of their 1968 price range and can be purchased by readers who'll appreciate their singular skills and will not be bothered by above-average volatility. Both tend toward relatively high price-earnings multiples.

Q—Whether to buy more IBM depends on the percentage of your capital already invested in this one issue. For long-term investors IBM is now trading at a reasonable multiple, although near-term prospects are clouded.

The recent Justice Department suit brought by the Johnson Administration may be demotivated under President Nixon. Nevertheless, some changes in pricing policies will definitely come as a result of this and other suits pending against IBM. But divestiture of other extreme measures at this time look doubtful.

The French were expected to maintain their positions, thus claiming a clean sweep when Penz unfortunately fell. Russell rushed down the somewhat shorter course laid out by French coach René Sponchiado.

raises to two hearts and South plays the ace. "The play of the hand in hearts" is instructive. South should not lead trumps. He could win the club-lead duck as a starter but the moment he obtained the lead it would be up to him to go after the diamond suit. Jim: "A diamond lead from his own hand would be ducked by West and North's queen would be gobbled up by East's king. A second diamond lead from his hand would be won by West's ace and dummy's jack would become good." Oswald: "South would surely make two hearts and would get an overtrick unless the defense was very good." Jim: "Let's get back to the bidding for a moment. We have seen South rebid one heart. This is automatic in expert circles. The reason is that a one-heart bid may shut out the heart suit. A one-heart call brings in the heart suit and leaves spades available at the one level in case North has four cards in that suit."

You, South, hold: ♠AKLS WK84 ♣32 A498 What do you do now? A—Bid one heart. Partner can raise if he has four hearts, bid one spade with four spades or make some other normal rebid depending on his hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION You bid one heart and partner rebids two diamonds. What do you do now?

South would be inclined to pass either bid. He would make either contract if he played the heart suit so as to pick up partner's jack; otherwise he would be set.

Oswald: "Of course some people open one spade and rebid to two hearts over the no-trump response. That sequence would probably get a three or four-heart bid by North."

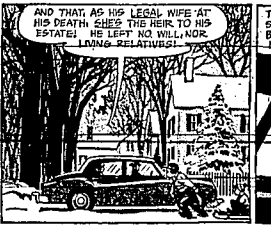

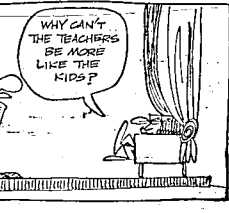

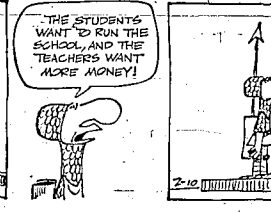

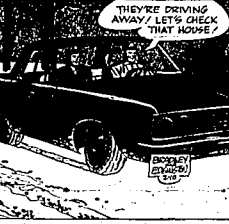

Jim: "Yes, indeed. The club opening works out beautifully. South rebids to one heart over partner's one diamond. North

'Mean Man' Would Give Wife 1,000 Hats But No Mirror

OLD DICK STAKE once described a mean man as the kind of fellow who would lock his wife in a room with 1,000 new hats and no mirror.

SMARTEST GAMINE is the Shuland sheep dog. Most affectionate is the collie. Least inclined to make friends is the chow. Most playful is the beagle. Most apt to be only one man's companion is the German shepherd. Most curious is the fox terrier. Most unpredictable is the scotty. Friendliest is the dachshund. Most gentle with children is the basset. Least apt to be inbred into idleness is the pointer.

Soviet Trawlers Kept At Bay

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — The Coast Guard patrolled the 12-mile limit of the Virginia Capes today keeping at bay a fleet of nearly 80 Soviet bloc trawlers caught fishing too close to shore.

"This was an economic maneuver and not a military one," said Lt. Leo Black, commander of the Coast Guard station at Chincoteague, on Virginia's north shore peninsula.

Not all of the trawlers were identified. But the Coast Guard said the fleet included Soviet, East German and Polish ships according to flags flown in the fleet.

No Decision Reached On ABM Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird contends the Nixon administration has made "no decision" yet on the "in" Sentinel antiballistic missile ABM system despite continued deployment of a Soviet antimissile defense network.

Laird said Sunday the Russians are spending four times as much as the United States on development of an antimissile program. "They are making a much greater effort in the field of defensive strategic weapons capabilities," he said.

The defense secretary indicated the Pentagon would study carefully the Soviet posture during the month ahead before presenting its recommendations for an ABM system for the United States.

LBJ Nixed Recovery Of Pueblo

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Johnson personally halted a plan to recapture the USS Pueblo, saying "I don't want another war," according to Time magazine.

In this week's edition, Time said that Rear Adm. George J. Cassell, former assistant chief of staff for Pacific Fleet Operations, described the plan to the Navy Court of inquiry meeting at Coronado, Calif., on the Pueblo's capture by North Korea early in January of 1968.

According to the magazine, Cassell told the inquiry in a 10-page session that the destroyers USS Triton and USS Higbee were ordered to sail to Wonsan, North Korea.

Under heavy air cover and backed by a U.S. ultimatum to the North Koreans, the Higbee was to sail into Wonsan Harbor and escort the Pueblo to safety.

But Cassell said the plan was vetoed by "higher authority." Time said the authority was Johnson.

The magazine said that as the destroyers sailed toward Wonsan, the President called a conference of top military and foreign affairs aides.

"The advice Johnson received was simply: 'Don't do it,'" Johnson wholeheartedly concurred. Said he: "I don't want another war." Time reported.

The magazine quoted one participant in the conference as saying there was no debate on the proposal.

"On this one there were no hawks or doves. It was unanimous."

Time said that besides the danger of starting a war, "It was obvious to the President and his advisers that the rescue attempt would almost certainly result in the immediate death of Pueblo's crew."

MAJOR FIGHT — The government began a major fight today to eradicate rats that have eaten acres of crops in central Luzon and the island of Mindanao.

Former FDA Chief Assails Drug Manufacturers' Ethics

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. James L. Goddard, former chief of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, says America's major prescription drug manufacturers "work hard to preserve 'the myth that they are public-spirited saviors of mankind' but actually are interested only in 'making money.'"

Goddard, writing in the March issue of Esquire magazine, said the drug industry earns an average return of 18 per cent on invested capital while three dozen other major American industries earn only eight or nine per cent.

"Nobody questions the great contribution that the drug companies have made to the nation's health over the years," Goddard said, "but a number of people, myself included, have begun to question the justification for the enormous price tag they placed on their products."

Goddard said the drug industry, a $5 billion a year enterprise, can make the high profits it does because of "the drug establishment," which he defined as "a close-knit, self-perpetuating power structure consisting of drug manufacturers, government agencies and select members of the medical profession."

Giant Rocket Goes Into High Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A giant military radio satellite rode a rocket through a series of drift maneuvers Sunday to reach a lofty orbit and herald a new era of communications for the foot soldier.

The space switchboard was designed to flash alarm signals to one-man receivers no bigger than a brief case and relay two-way messages between combat units in the field, air and at sea.

The Air Force said it reached its final orbit an estimated 22,300 miles above the Pacific Ocean at 10:37 p.m. EST after its rocket propelled it through two intermediate orbits.

NATIONAL FLOWER — WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., has introduced a resolution to make iris—the state flower of Tennessee—the U.S. national flower. Gore has some powerful opposition. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has long championed the marigold as the national floral choice.
