Reds Destroy Own Cease-Fire With Scores Of Violations

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists are destroying their own Tet cease-fire with scores of violations including a 480-man attack this morning against U.S. Forces 300 miles north of Saigon, military spokesmen said today.
The spokesman said the Communists have broken their week-long truce 170 times since it began 7 a.m. Saturday. They said 128 of the violations came after the start of the Allied 24-hour truce 6 p.m. Sunday.
The spokesman said 96 guerrillas have been killed in

Sealab III Leak Delays Experiment

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—A leak in the Sealab-III underwater laboratory-habitat today delayed the start of a Navy experiment to test man's ability to live and work beneath the sea.
Four aquanauts spent the night inside a compression chamber on a surface support ship anchored over the 75-foot yellow chamber on the ocean floor 610 feet below.
The four aquanauts today were to descend to the Sealab III in a personnel transfer capsule to attempt to stem the leak. It apparently was coming from a fitting in the chamber's hull.
Five teams of nine aquanauts will spend 12 days each inside the Sealab III, working and living on the Continental Shelf at a depth greater than ever before in such a sustained period.
While on the bottom, the teams will investigate human performance, test special equipment and conduct oceanography experiments. They also will build a waystation on the ocean floor for such a sustained period.

Talks Set Optimism For Czech Reforms

PRAGUE (UPI)—The beginning of a series of top-level diplomatic exchanges between Prague and the rest of the Communist bloc today created a climate of optimism for Czechoslovak reforms.
The foreign minister of Poland, Stefan Jedyrchowski, will visit Prague and Bratislava "within the next few days," an official announcement said Sunday.
The visit is at the invitation of Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jan Marko, who initiated the exchanges this month with a trip to Moscow.
He invited his counterparts in all the bloc nations to visit Czechoslovakia. Jedyrchowski's decision to accept indicated the Communist bloc today created a climate of optimism for Czechoslovak reforms.
There were other signs today that "normalization" in Czechoslovakia's relations with its 1908 invaders was improving.
Czechoslovak writers renewed friendly contacts with the Hungarian Writers Union and praised the Hungarian Intellectuals for their tolerance toward the Czechoslovak reforms.
A successful tour by an army political delegation in Bulgaria was also cited by the Czechoslovak press as a sign of improving relations in the bloc.
The party newspaper Rudé Právo said "Hungarian military and political circles created a warm atmosphere for the visit."

Accreditation Rating At Jerome Explained By Aide

JEROME — Aca Ballard, Jerome High School principal, Monday issued a statement regarding the recent announcement that the school had been "downgraded" by the Northwest Accreditation Association.
He noted that even students who did not understand the term "downgraded" were asking, "What is going to happen to our school?"
Ballard stated that the Jerome High School has been fully accredited continuously since 1923. There are 130 high schools in Idaho and only 108 seek accreditation, the reputation obviously cannot meet the standards. The association has four ratings—approved, advised, warned and dropped. Two schools in Idaho received the "warned" rating, one of them was Pocatello. Any school on the "warned" list for two years continuously is dropped.
Of the schools seeking accreditation, approximately 60 per cent are approved and 50 per cent are "advised." This means that they fell short on one or more of the 12 standards required. The Jerome school was in need of improvement in three areas and re-

Turks Protest Visit By U.S. Warships

ISTANBUL (UPI)—Thousands of anti-American demonstrators battled leftist counter-demonstrators in three Turkish cities Sunday during a protest against the visit by U.S. warships to Turkish ports.
Gunshots rang out in Istanbul and police reported two persons were killed in the rioting. Another 60 persons were injured, 18 seriously. Officials had earlier reported three persons were killed.
Other street fighting between leftist and rightist students were reported in Adana and Izmir. In Adana, 20 persons were injured in Adana, in central Turkey, police reported.
The Turkish government met in an urgent four-hour session to discuss the riots and issued a statement deploring the incidents.

U.S. Steps Up Withdrawal Move

PARIS (UPI)—The United States is stepping up its campaign to get North Vietnam to agree to a mutual withdrawal of troops from South Vietnam, Western diplomatic sources said today.
They said this will be the main effort of U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge at Thursday's weekly talks session.
The sources said the withdrawal issue is part of an Allied program to intensify a drive toward military de-escalation of the war.
American officials have expressed "interest" in a Viet Cong hint last week they may be willing to discuss military issues first in the talks, rather than concentrate on political matters.
The Viet Cong's delegation leader, Tran Van Kiem, said in last Thursday's session there could be no conference progress until the United States and its Allies unilaterally withdrew from South Vietnam.
Lodge was expected to zero in on this point Thursday, in hope it might provide a basis to begin real bargaining on military disengagement.
Lodge already has told the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese delegates that if they agree to the withdrawal of Hanoi troops and "subversive elements" from South Vietnam, the United States also would begin pulling out.
In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam talked confidently of victory in a Sunday speech. He said the Allies were "winning in the battlefields, there is no reason for us to be defeated at the conference table."
"The Communists are losing in South Vietnam. There is no reason they can win in Paris," Thieu said.

Five Die In Separate Accidents Near Gooding

GOODING — Five persons died Sunday as a result of two separate accidents near Gooding, a family of four and a Seattle physician, Dr. Marvin N. Lewis, 37, died shortly after he was taken to Gooding Memorial Hospital. He was involved in a car-truck collision at 9:45 a.m. Sunday three miles west of Gooding on Highway 20-26.

The car was on a collision course with the train when the accident occurred. Sheriff Earl Brown said visibility was "zero" when the Lewis car was struck by the engine trying to beat the train to the crossing.
Officers said the train cut the car in two, carrying the motor and front wheels 200 feet down the track. The body of the car was thrown 475 feet west of the crossing.
There were no signals at the crossing, just a stop sign and railroad crossing sign.

Troubled San Francisco State College Reopens

By United Press International
Long-troubled San Francisco State College reopens today, its registration down but "higher than we hoped for," according to acting President S.I. Hayakawa.
The second bombing in four days occurred early Sunday at the school, shattering 18 windows of the Administration Building and causing ear damage to a campus security officer driving past.
Gov. Warren P. Knowles visited National Guardsmen called up to quell violence on the University of Wisconsin and told them they might go home today. At Duke University, a negotiation session between administration officials and black students lessened tension.
At both Wisconsin and Duke, officials agreed to some of the militants' demands, most of which centered around black students. Duke vowed it would set up the first black studies program in the South.
The 23,000-student University of Wisconsin had most of its recent trouble last week when some of its 585 black students and many white supporters called for a boycott for black studies and other demands. Officials of the University of Chicago said it would take another day or two to assess damage done to the Administration Building during the 16-day sit-in which ended Friday. They said the students scrawled obscenities and slogans on walls, burned carpets and slashed wires—though they did not enter administration files.

The board of trustees at Cheyney State College in West Chester, Pa., made permanent the expulsion of six of nine members of the Black Student League involved in campus disorders last November. One student was reinstated and three were suspended for three months retroactive to the expulsion time. Most of the school's 1,600 students are Negroes.
The University of Iowa Chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society was placed on probation and two students censured for participating in an unauthorized campus rally.

Surplus Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department reports that the U.S. Balance of Payments account showed a surplus of nearly $1 billion in the final quarter of 1968, enabling the nation to record its first yearly surplus since 1957.
The department said Sunday preliminary figures indicated a $388 million surplus during the fourth quarter and a $187 million surplus for the entire year.
The move into the black after a $4.8 billion deficit in 1967 was credited to government restrictions on the flow of dollars overseas last year and a substantial increase in foreign investment receipts in American stocks.

Rosie Grier To Testify During Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The narrow party of the Ambassador Hotel erupted in pandemonium moments after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy fell mortally wounded. Two employees grappled with the bushy-haired gunman.
Rosie Grier, Los Angeles Times food columnist, pushed through the crowd and pinned Sirhan B. Sirhan and the two employees over the steel slant table. He swatted away a pair of hands reaching for Sirhan's neck.
Grier, 6-foot-5 and 285 pounds, testified that he saw the gunman today at Sirhan's trial for the assassination of Kennedy. Grier retired from the Rams last year after a 12-year career as a weekly television variety show on a Los Angeles station.
Also scheduled to testify today were Jesus Perez, a kitchen helper at the Ambassador who talked with Sirhan early last June 5 while in the next room, Kennedy delivered his victory speech after the California Democratic presidential primary.
Perez told the grand jury Sirhan asked him "how you'd like to get the money," whether Kennedy was expected to come through the party after he finished his speech.

Airline Rates To Be Increased

Most all major airlines, including Air West, will increase fares Thursday to offset rising operational costs.
According to Hap Masoner, Twin Falls, sales and service manager for Air West, first class fares will be increased $1 each way, and coach and jet commuter fares on trips of less than 500 miles will be $2 higher and those over 500 miles will be $1 more. The minimum one-way fare will be $10.
Air West said it was the first general fare increase since 1962.

Hijack Attempt Is Squelched

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—Bermuda police Sunday seized a male passenger who tried to hijack an Eastern Airlines jet with 67 persons aboard during an emergency landing in Bermuda.
Eastern flight 945 from Boston nonstop to San Juan, Puerto Rico, developed radio trouble during the flight and landed at Hamilton.
"I was walking down the aisle shortly after we touched down when this passenger approached me and said 'I have a gun. We are going to Cuba,'" said stewardess Carol McGrath of Boston.
Miss McGrath went to the cockpit and told the Boeing 720 captain, who radioed the control tower to call the police. Racing onto the field in cars, policemen boarded the plane and asked the man to leave. He was not armed and policemen seized him.
An Eastern spokesman in New York identified the man as a "minority" person, who was accompanied by one of his apparently his wife. There were no further details on the incident.
There was no panic among the 90 passengers and seven crew members. The pilot, Capt. Eugene Gargas, taxied the plane to the terminal without difficulty.
"The man (Sperduto) apparently put up some sort of fight and had to be subdued," an Eastern spokesman in New York said. "They dragged him off the plane."
Mechanics discovered more problems with the plane besides the radio and Eastern said it was sending another plane to Hamilton to take the passengers to San Juan.

THIS FARMER AND RANCHER is a snow surveyor. Although Ellis Fuller, of Rafter 2, Twin Falls, doesn't look like a snow surveyor, he is one of three Salmon Tract farmers who help measure snow depths in the South Hills.

This Snow-Surveying Job Is A Lot Easier Nowadays

A snow surveyor's job today is a lot easier than it was 25 years ago.

Ellis Fuller, a Salmon Tract farmer and rancher, and one of the original five men who set up the snow courses in the South Hills for the Salmon Tract and Roseworth Tract Watershed, said in an interview that after the courses were established, it would take three or four men about a week to measure the snow at all stations.

"Now, with modern equipment and with airplanes," says Mr. Fuller, "it takes a day or two at the most." He said it takes two days to cover the courses with a fixed-wing airplane and snow-cut. "But, beginning with the March 1 snow survey, a helicopter will be used, all courses will be measured in one day, a far cry from a week several years ago."

Mr. Fuller noted that it would take them (snow surveyors) three days alone years ago to measure the snow depths in the Jarbidge area. He said they would stay one night at the Pole Creek Ranger Station and the next night at Jarbidge. A snow-cut would be used on these trips.

Ellis said he and John Pastoor, Glenn Nelson, Morlan Nelson, Boise, state snow surveyor, and Elmo Farrar established the courses in the summer of 1954. Three courses are in the Magic Mountain area and the others are in the Jarbidge area.

The snow courses are measured five times a year — three times by snow-cut and fixed-wing plane and twice by helicopter.

Once the snowcut broke down and needed to be completely overhauled. So Mr. Fuller and Glenn Nelson overhauled the snowcut in a snowbank while Walt Hankins, conservationist with the SCS, chomped wood to keep the fire going. Mr. Fuller said this usually doesn't happen, but sometimes it does.

The only injury that anyone has had on one of these snow survey trips occurred about four years ago to Mr. Fuller. It seems that Ellis had taken off his shoes to wear his feet on the truck and snowcut went off a road and tipped over. A thermostat was knocked over onto Mr. Fuller's big toe, causing him to lose the toenail.

The snow survey team is made up of three men, sometimes four or five, but always at least three. One of the three is an SCS man and the other two are supervisors of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District.

The snow surveys are made every year because most of the Salmon Tract and Roseworth Tract farmers plan their crops according to the water forecast made in April from these five snow surveys.

On State Merger

Idaho Falls Post-Register Governor Samuelson's proposal to create a new State Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services, has commendable integration of existing services in mind. But, as far as the Youth Training Center at St. Anthony is concerned, it may not have all of the desired effect it purports to seek.

mind, many of the juveniles assigned there are drop-outs or those who really never had a genuine brush with education. They have had the exposure, and in many cases a meaningful one, as result of these two programs. There is no assurance as yet in the proposed new department that any new service for neglected or merely the orphaned will be provided. The Youth Training Center should not have to handle this conglomerate, too.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Some influential men around President Nixon believe that he has taken office at a crucial moment in American history and may succeed or fail on his developing attempt to build wholly new approaches to effective governing. The eight Eisenhower years have led many people, including a considerable group of historians and social scientists, to expect from any Republican administration a slowing down, a caretaker management, a tendency simply toward consolidation and cleanup of programs loosely drawn and swiftly adopted by Democratic predecessors.

inside the White House suggests that the new President does not see himself as mere conservator and consolidator. With the encouragement of his more imaginative aides, he is thinking of his task in new and quite different terms. The key word in those very special premises today is "effective."

Especially in the fields of housing, schools and jobs, the growing view of government is that of the Great Over-Promiser which falls big and delivers little or nothing in the end. Writers like Peter F. Drucker are coming along now to underscore notion of government as a social mechanism that really does not work very well. The danger perceived, inside the White House today as well as outside, is not just the old thing about government being too big and, therefore more reliance on the private sector being necessary.

The task is to make the biggest work, and critically, to persuade the American people that federal actions — and the lesser state and local governments — really end up getting things done which affect people who have problems they need to be solved.

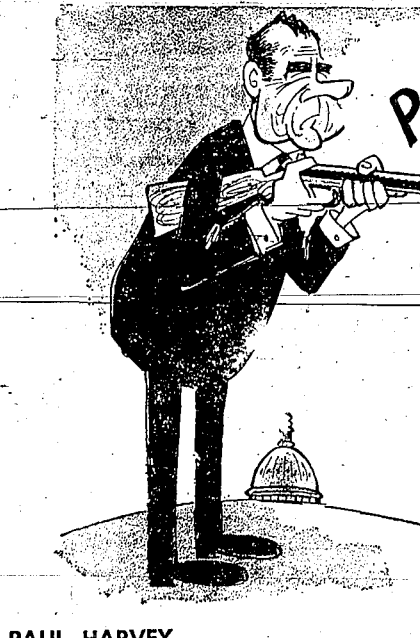

heavily on its cooperative assistance in solving the great urban dilemmas related to jobs, schools and housing. But it would be misleading to imagine that the Nixon men are really that much on the prowl for a whole host of new inventions which can make government itself work more effectively.

To Be Preserved

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch The oil slick that is contaminating the California coast provides a sense of timeliness and special importance to the Senate hearings that are to be held soon on Senator Edmund S. Muskie's resolution to establish a Select Committee on Technology and the Human Environment. And yet in a less dramatic but equally urgent way, the timeliness has been here all along as the air becomes less and less fit to breathe, the water more filled with pollution, the traffic — on and above the ground — increasingly congested.

ate committees with interests in environmental affairs. This will give the committee the broadest perspective it will need for a review of the country's science policies. The omission of representatives from the Armed Services Committee is, however, a defect that needs correction. Military research and development pose one of the largest threats to the environment. It is an especially pernicious threat because so much of the work is done secretly or with a comforting assurance of public safety. By the time the nuclear test ban treaty was enacted, the radiation level in the atmosphere had reached alarming proportions.

Hand-Me-Down

The Likes Of God

What is God like? Sometimes I think this is the question behind all our questions. Perhaps no question relates more pertinently to contemporary events. Rarely is it framed by those precise words except perhaps to chaplains on battlefields and in prisons and in hospitals. What is God like? The late Dr. J. Wallace Hamilton answered that question to my satisfaction when he said the word for God most frequently on Jesus' tongue was "Father."

home. In handling contemporary news I watch helplessly the trade waste of the wayward young, imagine the anguish if I remember hearing of a preacher's son who grew up keen and clean and wholesome. At high school-age he fell in with a brilliant but foulmouthed and atheistic ally. His admiration for the man's brilliance encouraged him to emulate his hero otherwise. At home the boy became silent, irritable, unmanageable, contemptuous of his parents.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Drink Anything

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the best ways to help my wife overcome or try to get the courage to overcome her drinking? She has no desire to stop, but I know she drinks quite a bit every day and replaces what she uses and also uses a great deal of mouthwash to try to hide the odor. She will drink anything from wine to beer, whisky, vodka, anything.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A year ago we tried everything. My 11-year-old daughter's bad breath with no results. One day I kissed her goodby and her breath didn't smell. I asked her about it. When she had brushed her tongue, if she forgets, I send her back to do it. No bad breath. Hope this will help someone. Thanks. It might, but since there are many different causes for bad breath, it won't help everybody. Spices on the surface of the tongue may retain debris that causes the odor.

ART BUCHWALD Save The Draft

WASHINGTON — I went over to my neighbor's house the other day and found his 21-year-old son, Jimmy, in the garage, working on a military machine in the yard. "Save the Draft," "Down With Nixon's Professional Army" and "Keep Our Boys A-Free" were all over the place. Jimmy had a little prodded, because for the last three years Jimmy has been the most vocal critic of the draft in the neighborhood and has attended every Dr. Spock rally in the country.

ANDREW TULLY The First Phase

WASHINGTON—Early or not, the battle for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972 has entered its first phase. That is to say, friends of the potential candidate have started to fire newswoman nasty cracks about the opposition. Usually, there is no malice in these tactics. All the courtesies are trying to do is to emphasize the opposition's weaknesses, while boosting their own man.

Peru Charges Tuna Captain $2,000 Fine

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An American fishing vessel attacked and seized by a Peruvian patrol boat on charges of poaching headed back to sea Saturday after its captain paid a $2,000 fine.

The Peruvian vessel opened fire on a small fleet of tuna boats from the United States 50 miles off the Peruvian coast Friday. One boat, the Marina, from San Diego, Calif., was boarded and towed into port, where it was held 14 hours.

Owners of the California boats said the Peruvian gunfire damaged one of the vessels that later escaped, but the Peruvian embassy in Washington said the fire shots caused no damage.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers immediately summoned the Peruvian ambassador to Washington, Fernando Henriquez, to his office and asked that the release of the tuna boat, government sources in the U.S. capital reported.

Peruvian authorities charged the Marina, loaded with tuna, was taking fish illegally from inside Peru's territorial limit. The United States recognized a 12-mile limit.

Drug Raid Arrests 19 In Salt Lake

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The largest single police raid ever staged in Utah resulted in 19 arrests early today and late Friday as officers "hit" more than a dozen Salt Lake area business and homes in a narcotic crackdown.

Police Chief Dewey J. Fells said the series of raids was the largest single operation ever staged in the state. He said the arrests climaxed a three-month investigation by officers.

The raids began at 8 p.m. as more than 25 federal, state, city and county lawmen swooped down on residences and businesses.

Officials said several types of suspected narcotics and equipment were confiscated in the raids as well as at least two guns and two knives.

Among persons arrested, police said, was a 24-year-old girl working as a Go-Go dancer and cocktail waitress in a lounge on the city's westside.

Police Det. Dave Westley said the girl listed her home as Spokane, Wash. He said she was taken to the Salt Lake County Detention Home for protective custody. She was arrested for delinquency and possession of a dangerous drug, the detective said.

Chief Fells said warrants of arrest and search warrants were issued for the raids by the Salt Lake County Attorney's office and the United States District Attorney's office.

Court Delays Hearing In Church Case

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The hearing for two men accused of unlawfully taking more than $500,000 from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has been continued until Feb. 26.

A preliminary hearing for Lamar Edward Kay, 40, and John Clarence Dwyer, 31, was conducted for six hours Friday before City Judge Melvin H. Morris.

Some five witnesses took the stand to give six hours of testimony in the case, before Morris continued the hearing.

Kay and Dwyer are charged with six grand larceny and six forgery charges in connection with the money allegedly misappropriated from the coffers of the Mormon Church.

Embezzlement charges filed against the men were dismissed six weeks ago.

Friday's hearing was conducted behind closed doors, but officials disclosed persons giving testimony included J. Allen Hildgett, comptroller in the LDS Church offices and two Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from Washington, D.C.

Behind The Scenes Workers Is What Makes "My Fair Lady" Run Smoothly

Members of the cast of "My Fair Lady" are the first to recognize that the show couldn't "go on" without the many members of the Dilettante group who work long hours behind the scenes.

With opening night less than two weeks away, actors and actresses are not the only ones who are making the last minute rush to get the show whipped into shape.

More than 100 people are involved in the many facets of the musical-comedy which opens Feb. 28 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

The long hours of work by the behind the scenes people, combined with the months of rehearsal by the cast and orchestra, will be realized when the curtain rises that night.

Among major behind the scenes members of the crew is Helen Gee, script girl. She works directly with H. Paul Kliss, the director, keeping track of the who, what, when and where of every page of the show.

Ron Hodge, a student at Idaho State University, has made many trips from Pocatello to Twin Falls in his capacity of costume designer. Several of the Dilettantes are working with him, constructing the costumes for the show.

Eight different sets are being constructed and painted at the Dilettante building in Piler. All of the Dilettante members pitch in on this project, and members of the cast can be found there wielding paint brushes and hammers.

Texas Couple Faces Charges Of Beating Son, 4, To Death

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — A Waco couple brought the beaten and burned body of their 4-year-old son to a hospital Saturday about four hours after he had died and within moments were charged with his murder.

Police charged Robert L. Curry and his wife, Celestine, with the death of their son, Ronald Curry.

An autopsy report showed the youngster had been beaten over his entire body and had been severely burned on the feet and buttocks.

Justice of the Peace John Caviness, who denied the couple bond, said it also appeared the boy had been partially submerged in boiling water.

Curry, 20, and his wife, 19, live in a poor neighborhood on Waco's westside. Ronald was the only child.

Dr. Walter Krohn, who performed the autopsy on the child's body, estimated the time of death at about 7 a.m. Saturday.

Officials at Providence Hospital said the Currys arrived at the hospital with their dead son at 11 a.m.

"From all possible evidence, the boy had been dead several hours before he was brought to the hospital," said Krohn. "My report also reveals that the youth had been previously mistreated since his body was covered with old scars and bruises."

Krohn, however, said he was unable to tell how old the scars were.

Caviness said the boy had been well fed despite his physical mistreatment. He said the Currys offered no explanation about their son's death.

Another doctor at Providence Hospital said the child's burns and bruises appeared similar to those he had seen on veterans of prisoners of war camps in World War II.

The doctor said the child's teeth were bent and his lips were smashed. He said it appeared the youngster had been placed atop a hot stove because his buttocks were so badly burned.

Krohn said the official cause of death was a skull fracture. He said the boy's head had been beaten with a blunt instrument.

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an oil delivery man. I also do some furnace repair work in this town of less than 40,000. I have been invited to stay for supper, breakfast, booze, and you name it. I've been put to me cold that the old man won't be home for several hours. I'm welcome to stay and socialize, and may consider cutting down on the bill some.

Abby, I've been married 37 years so you know I'm no kid and take my word for it, I'm no ladies' man. And most of these women are between 35 and 45.

Last Sunday I had a woman call me at six in the morning saying her furnace had gone out. I rushed over there and found that the only thing that had gone out was her husband. What's a guy supposed to do?

OIL MAN
DEAR OIL MAN: Deliver the oil, or fix the furnace, and get out of there.

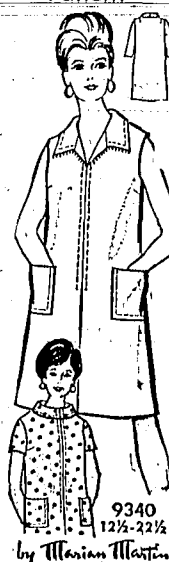

DEAR ABBY: For the last four years I have been living with a man whom I love very much, and by the way he treats me I'm sure he loves me, too. A woman couldn't ask for a more gentle, loving man.

My problem is that I would love to carry his name legally, but every time I mention getting married he gets nervous. I'm afraid if I get too persistent I may lose him. I have no family or real friends to talk to. I am 28 years old, unemployed and he is 31 and has a good job. He is very loyal to me, and we have everything we need, except a marriage license. Abby, why should a piece of paper be so important to me?

PERFECT LOVE
DEAR "PERFECT": That "piece of paper" you want is more than a piece of paper. It's your man's name on the dotted line agreeing to accept all the responsibilities of marriage. This gives a woman the feeling of respectability and security. If your friend nets "nervous" when you mention marriage, maybe he has something to be nervous about. Like a wife somewhere.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "HATE PLUMBER", who doesn't care for big-busted women. He allowed as how he wouldn't go around the corner

Presbyterian Women Discuss Civic Projects

The Presbyterian United Church Women met in the Fireside room recently with Mrs. William Holman presiding in the absence of Mrs. Mary Brown, president.

Deviations were conducted by Miss Elhara Christopher, using the theme "How to Use the Bible."

The program was given by Mrs. Alvin Smutny and Mrs. Fred Moore on the needs of Headstart, Easter Seal and the Community Action of the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Smutny explained that Headstart is the nationwide effort to give pre-school children economically and culturally disadvantaged backgrounds the education, medical care and social services they need.

Volunteers are needed in this endeavor as the children crave love and attention.

Mrs. Moore stated that under community action in the Salvation Army there is a child care center for three and four year olds where volunteers are needed between the hours of 9 a.m. to noon and 3 to 5 p.m.

There also are adult classes in sewing and nutrition for underprivileged women as well as a special education class for mentally retarded children.

Mrs. Smutny said that volunteers are needed at the Easter Seal Clinic which is operated to care for and educate handicapped children. They will also need helpers in their home to house canvases for fund.

A great deal of satisfaction is gained from the association with these handicapped children.

It also was suggested that children from the Duck Valley and other Indian Reservations be taken by families into their homes for the duration of the current year.

Mrs. L. Gillespie spoke briefly on calling opportunities and urged the women to call on shut-ins and help them out with things which they need and are unable to do.

It was announced that the World Day of Prayer will be held in the Presbyterian Church

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) The market was heavy toward sharply lower finish Monday in moderate turnover.

After almost three hours of trading, the uptick indicator, measuring the stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.70 per cent on 1,533 issues across the board. Declines held a commanding edge over advances, 921-412.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials was off 8.76 to 952.19, near 1 p. m. Volume amounted to around 8,230,000 shares, versus 8,660,000 shares at a like period at the weekend.

The news background was mixed, with some sluggishness possibly stemming from the first cutback in steel demand last week since October. Some constructive items, although largely ignored by traders, included the boost in industrial output last month and the largest fourth quarter surplus in the United States balance of payments of any quarter since 1958.

ding and has known you since you were born. You don't remember him because he returned 30 years ago and moved to Joplin. He is at least 80 years young and maybe 80. He and Mrs. Morrow are still regular duplicate players although they don't get far from Joplin.
Jim: "He encloses an interesting hand which you tend to bid more as you get older, and apparently Mr. Morrow has this tendency."
Oswald: "Let's see. He checked for aces and kings and put Mrs. Morrow in seven clubs when she showed the missing one."

Jim: "You wouldn't bid that way with mother. You might go all the way to seven no-trump, but I guess you would settle for six."
Oswald: "That would be a pretty good contract at match points."
Jim: "You can't blame West for doubling. He must have been really mad when Mrs. Morrow proceeded to make the contract."
Oswald: "Jed calls the play a left-hand coup because it is made against the left-hand opponent. Mrs. Morrow led a club to her ace at trick two and got the news about the 5-0 trump break. Many players might have conceded down one but Mrs. Morrow played it out. She took her ace of clubs and finessed her nine. Then she led the three to dummy's eight so that dummy was left with the king-jack of clubs in back of West's queen-10. Then she just cashed her high cards in the other suits, making sure to wind up in her own hand. Poor West had to follow suit until finally Mrs. Morrow led a spade at trick 12. West had to ruff and dummy overruffed."

Inquiry Into Pueblo Affair In Last Day

By RAYMOND C. MEANS
CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—The inquiry into the Pueblo affair today moved into its third and last phase: the crew's 11 months captivity in North Korea.

The first scheduled witness during the open session this afternoon was Lt. Edward R. Murphy, executive officer and second in command to the skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher.

The five admirals investigating the capture of the Pueblo spend the morning reviewing testimony of the first two phases of the inquiry—the capture and the Pueblo's capture—and preparing for the capture phase.

Murphy was expected to elaborate on the role he played in the North Korean prison where the 82 surviving crewmen were taken after the Pueblo was seized Jan. 23, 1968.

Murphy gave an outline of the crew's life in North Korea during a news conference here a few days after the men were flown back to the United States from Korea.

He indicated that the treatment in captivity was "rough" and "terrific," but that the men then added, "The Koreans probably have a lot to show—both North and South. Many of us have good impressions of some North Koreans."

The five-admiral court flew to Norfolk, Va., over the weekend to inspect two ships similar to the Pueblo that could be used to visualize the hours of testimony about what happened during the capture.

Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., head of the court, said the inspection was "extremely useful." Bucher's civilian attorney, E. Miles Harvey, said the trip was "a great deal more successful than expected."

The admirals and Harvey looked at the interior of the USS Range Recover, a sister ship similar in structure to the Pueblo. They also visited the USS Range Recover, a sister ship similar in structure to the Pueblo. They also visited the USS Range Recover, a sister ship similar in structure to the Pueblo.

Spacecraft Named 'Rosemary' Will Ferry Americans To Moon

By TOM TIEDE
KENNEDY SPACE CENTER, Fla. (UPI)—It is almost summer for many of the scientists and engineers who plot America's space odyssey.

That's the season when astronauts are programmed to fly. The three-stage, though it's still several months and many crossed fingers away, the awesome trip has already been booked down to the second.

The third man, Mike Collins, will remain on the command ship, 70 miles above the lunar surface.

Collins will have the most thankless and also the safest job. He will not set foot on the moon. But if anything happens to strand his companions on the moon, he alone will be in position to return to earth.

On the third moon orbit, the lunar module will separate from the command ship and go into orbit on its own. Armstrong and Aldrin will stand up at the controls; there are no seats for the astronauts' short journey.

At 70:27:17, the lunar module will begin descending to the moon at 350 feet per second. It will slow to 50 feet per second at 37:45, only 10 minutes later, to land on one of five predetermined sites.

The astronauts will stay down about three hours. They will take "lunar" samples (rocks, dust, etc.) and set out experimental devices, magnetometers.

Nixon Aides To Discuss Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three of President Nixon's top economic advisers were called before a congressional committee today to explain how the administration plans to deal with inflation and related problems.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, and two of his colleagues were so the first witnesses in seven days of hearings by the Senate-Economic Committee.

The investigation of the state of the economy was one of several major matters facing Congress as it comes back to work today from an extended Lincoln's Birthday recess.

Another corner of the business world appeared in testimony and the administration might now head in conflict over how far to go in forbidding banks and business to merge.

Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee said he would introduce a bill to limit the "bank holding company" idea, an approach that allows the same group of men to operate both bank and business company.

Patman's bill, it appeared, would be far stricter than one the administration plans to send to Congress later this week.

Man Shoots Children, Kills Self

BORDEAUX, France (UPI)—A killer who kept police at bay for two weeks today fatally shot his son, wounded his daughter, then shot and killed himself inside his barricaded farmhouse.

Police said Andre Fourquet, 35, died from a bullet in his throat. His son, Francis, 12, also died, and the man's daughter, Aline, 13, was seriously wounded.

Anti-Churchill Drama Stirs Movement Among British To Forbid Labeling Of Dead

By TOM A. CULLEN
LONDON (NEA)—Sir West Churchill may soon rest in peace in his grave, knowing that his name is protected from slander by a group of his admirers his way.

Led by the Sunday Telegraph, the group is seeking to change British law so that it becomes unlawful to accuse of anything Churchill. As matters stand, a dead man's relatives have no legal recourse even if the deceased is unjustly accused of anything.

What has thrown light on this obscure corner of British law is the play "Soldiers," in which German playwright Rolf Hochhuth accuses Churchill of plotting the murder of Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, the wartime Polish leader.

Sikorski was killed in a plane crash off Gibraltar in July. He had his daughter, two British members of parliament and 12 other people also perished. The plane was deliberately sabotaged with Churchill's connivance, according to Hochhuth. This means, in effect, that the German author jays 16 murders on Churchill's grave.

(Independently of the British press, the pilot of the ill-fated plane and sole survivor of the crash, Capt. Edward Pritchard, now living in California, has initiated a libel suit against Hochhuth, his producers and publisher.)

The theater, where "Soldiers" is playing, Pritchard is playing in the play as "the Czech pilot," which is now showing in London after runs in Berlin, Toronto and New York, has met with a mixed reception here. Many are reacting for John Colico's uncanny impersonation of Churchill (he played the same role on Broadway), but most British feel that the play is a "bit below the belt."

What has angered the British public in particular is that Hochhuth produced a number of libelous and unsubstantiated charges against the great British statesman. The German author says that he has based his play on

Pompeii Losing Long Battle For New Life

By CHARLES W. BELL
POMPEII, Italy (UPI)—Pompeii is dying a second time in the sudden fiery glow of a volcano but in the slow and dusty wake of neglect.

A baking sun, winter rains, erosion, weeds and thieves are destroying the finest remaining example of a Roman town and its culture.

It is not the first time official Italian indifference has failed to preserve a honored antiquity, but in Pompeii's case, the loss would be irreparable.

Already the allure of Pompeii is fading. Once, more than a million persons a year poured through the city to relive its ancient glory. Tourism is now down to 100,000 per year—and dropping.

Sociologists and historians retain lively interest in Pompeii, sifting through the villas, temples, baths and forums buried in 79 A.D. in an eruption of Vesuvius. But almost nobody else cares enough to preserve Pompeii.

It has come back before. An effort to revive it almost every building in the walled city in 63 A.D. Fearful of more earthquakes, the Roman senate refused approval of a bill to fund for years. It finally relented and a newer, grander Pompeii took form.

By building boom financed by wealthy Romans drawn to Pompeii's climate and spectacular settings at the foot of Vesuvius was under way in 70 A.D., when death came for the city from the volcano.

Burning lava poured down the mountain's slopes. A cloud of volcanic dust covered Pompeii and on after that of ash fell in the thriving city burying it within 72 hours.

Only 3,000 of Pompeii's 25,000 residents escaped. The rest remained locked in the earth for centuries, caught in positions of daily life—eating, praying. Bodies of household pets were petrified.

Not for 1,500 years did Pompeii's secrets become known. A worker digging an irrigation tunnel penetrated the ruins and reminded the world of the disaster.

By the late 1780s, systematic looting in large part by nobles seeking artworks for their villas, had stripped Pompeii of much of its precious legacy.

Gradually, scientific interest won out and orderly excavation of Pompeii became a planned and constant work.

Wright Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee said he would introduce a bill to limit the "bank holding company" idea, an approach that allows the same group of men to operate both bank and business company.

Patman's bill, it appeared, would be far stricter than one the administration plans to send to Congress later this week.

Secret Navy Project Is Unveiled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Navy's "Project Sanguine" in Wisconsin, now that the security wraps are partly off, turns out to be only a new approach to an old problem.

The problem is to generate extremely long-wave radio signals that will bounce back and forth between the earth and the ionosphere, traveling great distances and penetrating a considerable depth of water to communicate with submarines beneath the seas.

The Navy already has three long-wave stations at North Pole, Cape, Alaska; at Cape Cod, near Seattle, Wash., and at Cutler, Maine. They can communicate with submarines in the North Atlantic.

Between the three of them they reach most of the navigable seas.

The Wisconsin project, which entered the limelight last week when it was disclosed the Navy has been stamping "Secret" on "Project Sanguine" (see foreigners on newspaper clippings concerning the work, differs from the present stations in these respects:

—If the anticipated construction is carried out, the antenna grid will be placed underground. Instead of covering a few thousand acres, the antenna grid will spread over thousands of square miles.

—Because the length of the radio waves depends on the distance of the antenna, the signals from Wisconsin would be longer-waved (or lower in frequency), they would be global instead of limited in range, and would penetrate a much greater depth of water.

The Wisconsin system would be virtually immune to jamming or attack. No one would have an antenna large enough to generate the right jamming signal, the transmitting equipment would be deep underground and destruction of part of the sub-surface antenna would not prevent the use of the rest of it.

Free Running Dogs Disturb Game Animals

BOISE (UPI)—Domestic dogs are a hazard to wintering big game animals in the Snake River Valley, according to Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Deep snow in many parts of the state has brought big game animals to lower elevations, causing greater concentrations of elk and deer on winter ranges in the foothills near human population this year.

Virtually all Idaho cities and towns are found near herds of wintering big game animals, and domestic dogs have been running and attacking deer and elk in many regions.

Even though a dog may not catch and kill a big game animal, it works for them to move out of the way through deep snow. This burns energy badly needed if the deer are to stay warm and alive. According to conservation officers, free running dogs caused problems recently in the Big Wood River section near Ketchikan. In the Clearwater region near Bonanza, Orofino and Moscow, as well as in the Panhandle region, and elsewhere. Dog owners have been urged to restrain their pets, particularly when homes are located near big game ranges.

Advice from School Superintendent A Newspaper Route is fine training for a boy

If your son ever talks to you about having a Newspaper Route, heed the words of Dr. Wayne M. Carle, superintendent of schools in Dayton, Ohio:

"A newspaper route is a manageable job for even our very young pupils.

"While the entry skills are minimal, however, the newspapers wisely provide an excellent orientation... and continuous appraisal to encourage good performance. They also emphasize maintaining good school records while managing the route.

Route means growth

"Initiative is fostered not only by the earnings from expanding one's route sales but also from the incentives of contents and subscription campaigns. Boys are encouraged to consider a newspaper route not just for the immediate returns but for the growth it offers them toward future complexity...

"Many of these boys become superlative managers of their money. The discipline of regular collections from customers and of meeting the bill from the newspaper are effective introductions to the keeping of accounts and the budgeting of expenditures.

Dollars in the Bank

"When Newspaperboy Awards are made, one of the most interesting aspects of the biographical sketches of the winners is the plans they have for college or advanced study. Nearly all these plans are fortified with hundreds of dollars in the bank—dollars that have been saved while carrying newspaper...

If you are a parent and, like Dr. Carle, can see in a newspaper route an opportunity for your son, our Circulation Department will be pleased to hear from you and from him. There may be a route open now or sometime in the near future. Call today.

Three Army Prisoners Sentenced

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The first three of 27 Army prisoners charged with mutiny for participating in a sit-down strike at the Presidio Stockade have been convicted and sentenced to long prison terms at hard labor.

Four more of the defendants, including two teen-agers, were to go on trial today in the third of a series of court martial proceedings resulting from the demonstration last fall.

The 27 prisoners refused to report for work details Oct. 14 and went on a sit-down strike to protest the fatal shooting of a fellow inmate three days earlier during an escape attempt. They also complained of unsanitary conditions and illegal treatment at the stockade.

Facing trial today were four Californians—Pvt. John D. Colip, 20, Sacramento; Michael Edward Murphy, 19, Tracy; William Gary Hayes, 22, Healdsburg; and Harold Joe Swanson, 18, San Leandro.

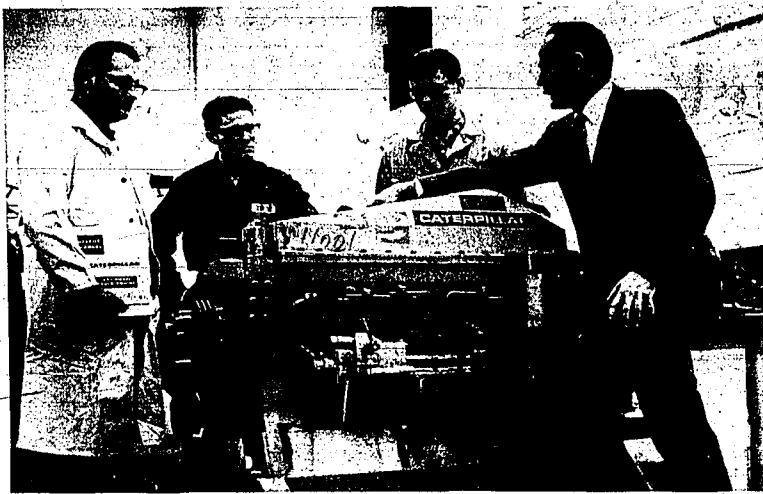

Murphy and Swanson are the first teen-agers among the all-white group to stand trial.

Guilty verdicts were returned Saturday against Pvt. Louis Oscezpinski of Florida, N.Y., and Lawrence Reid of Crescent City, Calif. They were dishonorableably discharged, stripped of rank and pay, and sentenced to terms of 16 and 14 years at hard labor, respectively.

Earlier last week, the court martial board found Pvt. Nesrey D. Sood, 26, Oakland, Calif., guilty of mutiny and sentenced him to 15 years in prison. All the findings are subject to review by higher authorities.

Lt. Col. Richard W. Snyder was named army law officer (judge) for the current session. He succeeded Lt. Col. George R. Robinson, who presided over the first two courts-martial.

Turning Oil-Fouled Channel Into Marine Sanctuary Would Be Expensive

By ELMER LAMMI

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It would cost the government $1 billion or more to turn the oil-fouled Santa Barbara Channel into a marine sanctuary, according to Interior Department estimates.

The $1 billion or more actually would be only a part of the cost of halting all drilling. The sum represents only what the government would lose by paying the oil companies for canceling drilling leases granted by the Interior Department, and in the loss of royalties on the oil. Department legal officials reluctant to discuss the possibility in detail, note the oil companies drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel paid a "bonus" of $600 million for the privilege in addition to regular lease payments and an agreement to give the government $1 for every $5 received for oil pumped out of the ocean floor.

Government lawyers say the leases are "property rights" and if the government now were to take them away, it would have to pay the "fair market value" for them.

Those urging a permanent marine sanctuary be created in the area include the influential Sierra Club, a nationwide conservation organization based in San Francisco, and Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif., whose congressional district includes Santa Barbara.

But what if the cost was $1 billion? Would Teague still favor a permanent halt to drilling?

"Yes, I would," he said. "If you had another of those disasters—and it could come from this same well—the oil

Cambridge Scientists Report Success In Fertilizing Human Egg Outside Body

LONDON (UPI)—Successful fertilization of a human egg outside a woman's body may have carried science a major step forward toward test tube birth, scientific experts said Friday.

The disclosure by three Cambridge scientists that they had taken a human egg, fertilized it with human sperm and produced the beginning of a fetus in experiments could hold future hope for some childless women, the experts said. The fetus was destroyed later.

The experiment was carried out by Dr. Robert C. Edwards, Prof. Barry Baxtster and Patrick Steptoe.

Its results were announced by London Independent Television Thursday night and detailed in the current issue of Nature Magazine, published today.

The experiment represented a major step toward treating some childless women. The magazine article outlined how a female egg could be removed from a woman, fertilized, then replaced in the womb.

Medical sources said the experiment could help thousands of women presently unable to have children.

The television report said the success of the experiment put scientists "in a position not only to replace the fertilized egg in the mother's body but to continue to develop the fertilized egg artificially and perhaps even produce a human baby without using the mother's body again at all."

However, other authorities saw the experiment as only another step toward producing human life in a test tube.

The Nature-Times News Service, in a copyrighted article in today's Times of London, said that, although the experiment represented "a step on the road to test tube babies, several obstacles lie ahead."

"For example, there is no suggestion in the experiment that the development of these embryos could be continued past the point at which a real embryo would derive its nourishment from a placenta," the article said.

The experimenters at Cambridge took eggs from the ovaries of women volunteers and mixed them with a fluid containing male sperm.

Fifty-six eggs were inseminated and the scientists reported that 18 grew sufficiently to be considered fertilized by sperm. It was reported to be the first time a human egg had been fertilized outside the body.

No Bones For TOPS Title

VIENNA (UPI)—Friedrich III, the Roman emperor, was not buried in his tomb in St. Stephen's Cathedral here, tourists visiting the crypt were told today. Experts said the tomb was X-rayed last week and no trace of bones was found. The investigation began when church archives showed that Friedrich died 20 years before his tomb was finished.
