TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1969

TEN CENTS

SURROUNDED BY ALBINO PEACOCKS on the grounds of St. George Castle in Lisbon, Portugal, are three members of the Times-News Magic Fiesta tour of Spain and Portugal. From left are Mrs. E. L. Holynock, Burley, and Mrs. Bobbie Sherwood and Mrs. Dorothy Chapman, both Twin Falls. The weather walls of the castle and adjoining courtyard can be seen in the background. The brace holding up the limbs of the parlor tree at right is an indication of the age of the castle and grounds. Shortly after this photograph was taken the nearly 25 members of the tour took off for Spain, where the last days of the tour are being spent. The group will arrive back in the States this weekend after a two-week tour. Directing the tourist is Mrs. Norma Horzinger, Times-News women's editor.

Laird Says Soviets Test Anti-Missile Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today the Soviet Union is going forward with tests on a sophisticated new anti-missile defense system. Laird, testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that because of the potential threat from Red China and Russia, he would be resigning in his duties to protect the national security if he committed himself against deployment of the U.S. Sentinel ABM system.

Laird told of Soviet tests on a new ABM system while attempting to explain the reasons for last year's decision to begin construction on a U.S. system. "The Soviet Union is going ahead with tests on sophisticated, new ABM systems, according to our intelligence," Laird said.

He did not give any additional information on what the system would include, or how effective it might be against U.S. ICBM's. "As for the Sentinel system, Laird said we're looking at all the options."

He denied some published reports that the Pentagon was not even considering the possibility of abandoning the system. Laird said it would "not be proper for me as secretary of defense" to commit the United States to construction of its own system while the Soviets and the Red Chinese were making progress in the strategic weapons field.

U.S. Asks Geneva Pact

PARIS (UPI)—The United States said today a return to the 1954 Geneva accords which ended the French-Indochina War would bring an early peace to Vietnam. The U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen today's fifth inconclusive Vietnam session.

He had displayed some uneasiness earlier at the Communist position repeated over and over.

In tough statements foreshadowing a hardening of their attitude the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators said the way will go on until there is a complete and unconditional pullout of the American force.

When Lodge asked for a return to the 1954 Geneva accords, North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuan and the Viet Cong's Tran Bui Kiem said the Americans must pull out of Vietnam and accept its people settling the problems along lines suggested by the Communists.

Lodge said despite the hard line he was not completely discouraged by the Communist delaying tactics. He said that in his opinion any settlement would have to be based on the Geneva agreements.

His statements were met by charges of "American neo-colonialism in South Vietnam and other countries." At the same time they gave a clear hint the North Vietnamese had no intention of withdrawing from South Vietnam if the Americans pull out.

"There is one Vietnamese people and one Vietnam," Lodge said. "The North Vietnamese is attacking South Vietnam amounts to saying that the inhabitants of Washington attack those of New York."

Today's session lasted 5 1/2 hours, the shortest since construction expanded talks began Jan. 18. The delegates agreed to meet again next Thursday.

Lodge flatly rejected Communist demands for an unconditional military pullout and said de-escalation of the war by both sides was an absolutely essential first step. He displayed impatience at the repeated demands for an American pullout.

House Boosts Salaries

By RICHARD CHARNÖCK
BOISE (UPI)—The House Appropriations Committee today introduced legislation to raise the salaries of Idaho's elected officials by several thousand dollars and give the governor a $10,000 expense account.

At the same time, the House Ways and Means Committee introduced a bill to clarify computation of the retirement to be paid to Supreme Court justices and district court judges.

Under the formula set forth in this bill, retired justices and judges would be paid 7 1/2 percent of the current annual salary for the office times the number of years up to 25 they have served on the bench.

Salaries of elected officials would not go up until after the next election, thereby excluding incumbents from pay raises at this time.

The salary of the governor would be boosted to $25,000 a year from $17,500 and the salaries of the attorney general and superintendent of public instruction would be raised to $18,000 from $12,500.

The bill also provides that the auditor and treasurer would be hiked to $15,000 from $12,500 and that the lieutenant governor would be raised to $5,000 from $3,000.

At present, many appointed officials receive more money than most of the elected officials. Some state officials and educators receive more money than the governor at present.

From the way the bill setting up the expense account awarded it would appear the governor's expense money would come from the surplus monies in the general fund. The bill states:

"In recognition of the duties that devolve upon the governor as chief executive officer of the state, and in view of the fact that out of many monies not otherwise appropriated from the general fund, the sum of $10,000 shall be set aside from the general fund at the beginning of each fiscal biennium and may be used by the governor at his discretion to assist in defraying expenses relating to or resulting from the discharge of his official duties."

The bill also provides that "such monies shall be permitted for solely on the certificate of the governor."

Tour Group Enjoys Land Of Flamenco

By NORMA HERZINGER
Times-News Women's Editor
MADRID, Spain (Special to the Times-News)—In Portugal it is the Fado and in Spain it is the Flamenco that attracts the attention of visitors.

Some of the Magic Fiesta tourists were introduced to the Flamenco their first night in Madrid when they made a tour of the city and several of the famous night spots. Dinner and entertainment are very late in Spain compared to Idaho living. The festivities didn't begin until about 10 p.m. Dinner was served at 11 p.m. and the first show at midnight, featuring the Flamenco.

Flamenco is a very serious and beautiful dance, enhanced with gorgeous costumes. It tells a story in particular, it only expresses a very poignant way the plight of all men — suffering, love, hate, joy and of death. One can't just watch Flamenco — you must allow your emotions to go along with the dancer. According to the Spaniards, Flamenco is a different and personal experience for everyone.

Nixon To Meet With 'Citizens'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a dramatic break with tradition, President Nixon plans to meet next week with ordinary men and women of Britain, Germany, Italy and France as well as royally, presidents, prime ministers and chancellors.

Disclosing this Wednesday night, authoritative sources said that the President "is contemplating" his 40 to 50 hours of discussions with the heads of states and governments by their very nature "might be less than fully dimensional."

He plans, therefore, to meet with writers, commentators, critics, businessmen, trade union leaders, students and others at closed tea and coffee sessions in London, Bonn, Rome and Paris.

He has instructed the U.S. Embassies in these capitals to send out invitations to between 10 and 15 people who will represent a fair cross-section of their countries, the sources said.

The only capital in which Nixon will not have these "citizen chats" is Brussels, apparently because of the crowded nature of his schedule there.

Significantly, one major public speech planned by the President is in the giant Siemens factory in West Berlin where thousands of Siemens employees are expected to hear him.

There will be other public statements and speeches, of course, principally upon his proposed visits for replies to official welcomes by his hosts. Private talks will be a feature of Nixon's get-acquainted visits with European leaders.

Staff members and others in the fact you just can't act as a minister by committee.

"A strong administrator is needed," Brasseley said.

The administrator of corrections, in addition to replacing the warden, would act as a public manager for the prison.

The Board of Correction would be appointed by the governor and appointments would be subject to Senate approval. Each member would be paid $20 a day while attending meetings.

Bids Being Opened For 3 CSI Buildings

Bid openings for the $2 million second phase of the College of Southern Idaho's new buildings at 10 a.m. this morning, with the subcontractors bids being revealed.

General contract bidding will begin at 8 p.m. tonight at the Holiday Inn.

The contractors will be bidding the three buildings in phase 2 in a package. The construction will include a new physical education building, student union and a dormitory. The health PE building will be located in the area of the Arts Center. The student union building site is to the east across the street from the Fine Arts Center, and the dormitory building site is about 150 yards east of the student union building.

Ed Peterson, of Jones-Fehlberg, CSI architects and planners, said eight general contract bids were submitted for the mechanical sub-contract bids and nine electrical bids have been received.

Mr. Peterson noted this is about the same number of bids received during the first phase bidding for the campus construction.

Prosecutor Asks Death Sentence In 'Murph' Case

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—A state prosecutor demanded the death penalty Wednesday for Jack (Murphy) Terry, charged with the slaying of a pretty secretary.

Assistant State Atty. Edward Murphy asked the jury to return a verdict of seven men and five women to "consider this case without mercy."

Murphy, former beachboy who became notorious as a jewel thief, and Griffith are accused of the blade-knife slaying of two California investment firm executives, Terry Rae Frank, 24, and Anelle Marie Mohr, 21, whose wedding bouquets were found in a trial can called "The Murder of Terry Rae Frank, Dec. 8, 1967. The two men, both 21, are being tried first for the murder of the Frank girl.

T.F. Pastor Heads Sunday School Unit

Rev. Don Mikel, pastor of the Lyawwood Chapel, Twin Falls, was elected president of the Greater Southern Idaho Sunday School Convention Wednesday at the First United Methodist Church.

Other new officers are William Boyd, Twin Falls, first vice president in charge of program; Rev. Don Enders, Rupert, Assembly of God Church; second vice president in charge of publicity; Rev. Joe Jones, pastor of the Missionary Church, Filer, secretary; and Rev. L. L. Lamm, pastor of the Twin Falls Assembly of God Church, treasurer.

During the business meeting it was decided to create a board of directors to add to the advisory board. The purpose of this action is to get broader geographical and denominational representation. Elected to the board were Rev. James Post, Fairfield Community Church; Rev. Keith Maxwell, Fair Falls First Methodist Church; Rev. Don Hoffman, Twin Falls First Christian Church; Rev. George Cooper, Twin Falls First Methodist Church; and Rev. Fred Sill, Bull Church of the Nazarenes.

More than 250 people registered for the convention, according to Rev. Maxwell. This represents a 50 per cent increase over last year's convention attendance. Delegates attended from as far away as Idaho Falls, Challis, Glenns Ferry. Twenty denominations from 35 churches were represented at the convention. The convention was hailed as the most successful ever held. The Southern Idaho group has been meeting for more than six years. Rev. Post was the retiring president of the South Idaho Sunday School Association.

House Solons Seek Limited Jobless Pay

BOISE (UPI)—Republican members of the House State Affairs Committee served notice Wednesday they do not want to raise workmen's compensation benefits for single persons up to $10,000 a year.

While they held for study until Thursday a bill to do just what they were reported to have in mind, a motion to approve the bill is in its present form.

After 10 minutes of discussion, the committee closed its doors and the bill was referred to the floor.

Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, led the GOP-approved motion to limit the amount of compensation to $5,000 a year.

Later, Chairman H. Ford Koehl, R-Boise, reported the committee "after a series of motions" voted to hold the bill in committee for one more day to permit further study of it and companion legislation as well as proposed amendments.

BRYAN RETIRES
BOISE (UPI)—Ed M. Bryan, 70, has retired as clerk of the Idaho State Board of Correction. He has held the post he has held for 23 years.

Surgeons Shift Kidneys, Heart

NEW YORK (UPI)—A team of surgeons at the New York University Medical Center performed a kidney transplant operation on two men and one woman. One man received a new kidney while the other two patients each received a new kidney.

The heart transplant patient was reported "doing very well," but the hospital did not report on the condition of the kidney recipients.

Neither the donor nor the recipients was identified by name. The heart patient was said to be a 36-year-old man and the kidney recipients were identified as a man and a woman.

Senate Hatchets Setup Prison Board Change Voted

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Senate pushed through by a unanimous vote Wednesday a measure abolishing the State Board of Correction and setting up a "parole board" to "alleviate a critical situation at the prison."

The upper chamber passed, 35-0, a measure abolishing the existing board, creating a new bipartisan board of three members, creating a separate board of pardons and parole and calling for appointment of a full-time director of corrections to replace the present warden.

"There is no confidence in the Board of Correction," Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, told the Senate. He termed the warden set up at the prison "just a caretaker's job."

Manley said that separate studies during the past two years have been made and the point to abolishment of the Board of Correction as a full-time entity.

He termed the bill passed Wednesday as a "first step and a stopgap measure."

Three Virginia Colonels Lead Attacks in Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines led by three colonels from Virginia killed 105 North Vietnamese soldiers today in a series of savage close-quarter battles that the unnamed colonels dominating the Communists' A Shau Valley supply route from Laos.

The Marines lost nine men killed and wounded today in the fighting. They captured the mountains to 100 degree heat and fought the North Vietnamese who died rather than surrender their automatic weapons. The Leathernecks captured two, killing the gunners.

Some of the battles were fought within two miles of the Laotian border and it was clear the Marines had won a strong foothold in the campaign to win control of the 30-mile long A Shau Valley. Communist troops and materiel from Laos to the Da Nang area.

UPI correspondent David Lamb who has accompanied the Marines on the sweep said the three battalion commanders from Virginia had urged their sweating troops up the mountain after another, leaving soldiers behind to protect the flanks. They were plunging into Communist defenses in bunker-to-bunker battle.

"There was a sense of the nonsense with fancy command posts out here," said Col.

"Wild Man" Sighting Is Recounted In Old Paper

The recent interest in "Bigfoot" a human-type creature believed to be roaming in the Northern California-Oregon border area prompted officials at the Sawtooth National Forest Service to check their microfilm files of old newspapers for similar sightings in this area.

An Oct. 10, 1882, edition of the Wood River Times features a story on two Camas Prairie cowboys seeing a "wild man." The frightened cowboys described the creature as being considerably taller than six feet, with great muscular arms which reached to his knees.

"The muscles stood out in great knots, and his chest was as broad as that of a bear," they said. "The wild man repeatedly wore skins twisted about his feet and ankles and a wolf skin around his waist. He had long black hair over his body and his face was said to be dark and swarthy. The men said his two tusks protruded from his mouth and his fingers were like claws."

The two cowboys sighted the creature while looking for lost cattle on Camas Prairie. They first stared at it for a while and then drew their pistols and pursued it. After they were exhausted and lay down to rest, the creature approached them and studied them intently. The men said they did not feel justified in shooting the creature, so they watched his head from side to side, moaning and growling. The two men finally

Melvin Laird Barks Up The Wrong Tree

Thursday, February 20, 1969... AL WESTERGREN... THOMAS HOWARD... O. A. (Gus) KELKER... WILEY DODDS... GENE CARPENTER... DALE THOMPSON... PAUL STANDLEY... D. J. SMITH... Circulation Director... Advertising Manager... Managing Editor...

WASHINGTON — I find no comfort in Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's unctuous deposition that in the matter of costly defense projects "any errors that are going to be made... will be made on the side of the safety of the people of this country."

ing. Of course, we all want to keep the country safe and even make it safer, just as we all deplore man-eating dragons. But I do not like the pious suggestion in Laird's words that any citizen who would like to save, say $1.93 on the latest nuclear rocket warhead seeks to weaken our defenses.

red-blooded American like we have heard too many times. Ever since Harry Truman's days in the White House, the military and its lobbyists in Congress have managed to waste billions of dollars on defense simply by scaring the American people to death.

I am scared because it is now unanimously agreed that either the U.S. or the Soviet Union could destroy the other. I am scared because the military seems determined to spend even more money on destructive forces, possibly to kill people a little more dead. I am afraid Congress will bow again to brass hat intimidation and give the Pentagon all the money it wants.

less than they eventually spend. It is the old dodge of setting for a smaller appropriation from Congress and then running into complications and unexpected delays that require more dough.

For example, one government analyst has reported that weapons systems of the more complex variety encounter delays averaging two long years, cost 200 to 300 per cent more than anticipated, and then are only half as reliable as the contracts specified. In another case, a system which was specified to improve our defenses by a "4 factor" at a cost of $1 billion three years hence, finally was installed two years later at a cost of $2 billion and was found to improve our defenses by only a "2 factor."

This has happened all along the line, in cases too numerous to cite in this space. As Sen. Ted Kennedy and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield have noted, the taxpayer consistently pays twice as much as he expected for only half the defense.

Fortunately, rumblings on Capitol Hill that suggest a hard and agonizing reappraisal of the Pentagon's methods of development and procurement. In particular, some legislators are interested in an investigation of why some companies continue to make huge profits while the taxpayer gets no return. Phrases ringing with patriotism, as Laird's do, are not quite enough when the money poured into defense buys no more than what is bargained for.

Collision Course

In the opinion of the National Industrial Conference Board, monetary and fiscal restraints — the tax surcharge, government spending cuts and higher interest rates — already have "sapped much of the energy" from personal consumption.

Now there is concern in some circles that the restraining policies combine to start a slowdown in business, and that when they do they may be as difficult to reverse as they were to start.

The American economy is probably the most complex in the world. It also has proven itself to be the most dynamic. Sooner or later the policy annoyances which have been tossed into it will have their effect.

Possibly it does. One of the problems with the current inflation cycle is its unpredictability. There were those who were certain the income tax surcharge in itself would cause a recession.

It has not — not yet. There were others who saw the combination of surtax and spending cuts (which did not materialize as extensively as expected) as certain to put the econ-

Newer Economics

How would you like to pay a 20 per cent sales tax—but pay no income tax? This is what looms for most Norwegians on Jan. 1, 1970.

Present sales taxes in that country come to about 13.5 per cent. The thought is to raise these substantially, meanwhile doing away with most persons' income taxes, leaving only those on the very wealthiest citizens.

To offset the added tax bite on the poor, Oslo will triple the present child allowances.

Norway says that this new tax system will bring it more in line with the kind of taxes gathered within Common Market countries, in case Norway is ever bidden to join.

Most Americans would doubtless find such a system highly suspicious, and would have to sit down and do a great deal of fast reckoning to try and find out whether it would leave them better or worse off. But since very few tax proposals ever leave one with more in one's pocket, we have our own guess how things would come out.

Indeed, very few suggestions for beating either taxes or any other of the economic challenges strike us as foolproof. No, we'll take that back. We did come upon a suggestion the other day which struck us as worthy of thought. It was Art Buchwald's proposal that the United States stop worrying about the inflation or deflation and concentrate instead on "flation." Worth a try?

Shifting Of The Sentinel

WASHINGTON — Just when Congressional foes of an antiballistic missile (ABM) system were beginning to feel the glow of confidence, they have been endangered by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's potential flank maneuver.

The leading option now being considered by Laird in the Pentagon's ABM reappraisal is to limit deployment of the system to offensive missile sites, far away from metropolitan centers where deployment was originally scheduled. This shift to strictly missile protection—the "hard point" deployment—in defense is designed to provide benefits in both international and domestic politics.

Domestically, it would deflate the rising agitation from urban civic groups fearful of nuclear war heads in their backyards. Sites for offensive missiles aimed at potential enemies are far removed from metropolitan areas, as a "hard point" deployment would be in the wide open spaces.

Internationally, the deployment still provokes Mr. Nixon with what he almost certainly wants the Sentinel ABM system in process of deployment, to use as a bargaining chip once weapons negotiations with the Soviet Union begin. If the missile is in agreement, ABM deployment can be halted and the missiles already in place can be removed.

Actually, no decision has yet been made by Laird and it may be delayed until early March, when Laird's budget revisions are due on Capitol Hill. Moreover, the final decision will be made not at the Pentagon but by the President himself. Nevertheless, "hard point" deployment is now definitely shaping up as the most attractive option now open.

Considering Mr. Nixon's apparent conviction that he can negotiate with the Soviets on an equal basis only if he can counter their ABM development with his own, a decision against any deployment of ABMs is a highly improbable option. Thus, his only real choices are reduction of Sentinel in heavily populated areas, presumably at the nucleus of a much more costly system, or the alternative deployment now under intensive study.

Such "hard point" deployment would satisfy some cold war theoreticians who feel an ABM system, no matter how extensive, could possibly protect the population. It is precisely what Mr. Nixon implied early in his presidential campaign when he rejected the Johnson administration's rationale of deploying Sentinel against a Chinese nuclear threat and, instead, suggested deployment at missile sites to guard against a more imminent Soviet threat.

This possible shift in the Sentinel has deflated momentarily triumphant anti-ABM forces in Congress, led by two Republican Senators — John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Charles H. Percy of Illinois.

The main reason they have been much more successful this year than last is not so much the cogency of their arguments as the nuclear nerves in big city areas—marked for some other placements by the Johnson administration. Ever Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a longtime ABM supporter, was shaken by the Anti-Sentinel sentiment in Seattle.

In fact, emotional big city opposition to Sentinel development had begun to endanger Senate approval — one reason for Laird's order last week halting deployment and ordering a full-scale Pentagon review. But when this halt was prematurely interpreted in the press as the death of the Sentinel, Laird went on CBS' "Face the Nation" last Sunday to make an impassioned argument for defensive missile spending.

Meanwhile, across town, a man was being tried for first-degree murder and his lawyer was being heard by the prosecutor. "I want you, ladies and gentlemen, to send this man to the chair. The defendant turns to his lawyer and asks, 'Can he do that for me?'"

"The lawyer shrugs, 'Heats hell out of me.' " "But you're my lawyer. Don't you know what the law says?" "I never told anyone this before, but I never really cared much for law. Matter of fact, all during school I had this girl and she had an apartment and...

"Look, I don't care about your girl. My life is at stake. If I lose, will you at least make an appeal?" "What's an appeal? You start studying about all this legal mumbo-jumbo in college and you won't have any social life at all."

"But the law says... " "The defendant cried. "What does the law say? And don't get me wrong because I want to write all this down. I never did take notes in school."

The third scene could take place in the courtroom of the new Mayor John V. Lindsay Bridge connecting Long Island with Connecticut. The milligan is standing on the platform with the dignitaries. "Well, Mr. Doubleday, you built a mighty fine bridge."

"That's my job." "It seems to be sagging at one end—is that the way it appeared to be?" "I'll build the bridge—you cut the ribbon."

"Look, there goes the first truck over the bridge—by the way, ERIC LLOYD, THE BRIDGE IS FALLING!" "Sorry about that, I never could figure out how to use a slide rule."

Mighty low fertile eggs reach the stores because among other things, fertilized eggs are in demand for purposes other than eating — hatching, more chickens, and so on. One day I saw quite a rash last fall to find enough fertilized eggs because they were needed to raise virus for the new Hong Kong flu vaccine.

Anyway (I quote Dr. Wilhelm and others) about 2 per cent are under-fertilized eggs, contain blood spots, the result of a minor error committed by the hen—sometimes a small blood vessel ruptured, or sometimes larger, since a drop of blood when the egg is being formed.

Such eggs are detected by candling, or more often, today, by an ultrasonic egg detector. I remember one day by the name of a woman in New Mexico (who raises and eats fertilized eggs), sending me a dozen eggs. I even have a rooster on the place.

She adds an interesting quotation from a text book she studied at New Mexico State University: "The blood clots appear to be under a capsule of blood vessel in the ovary or oviduct..." Do not market eggs with blood clots, although they are common. Consumers object to the appearance.

She continues, "When we sold eggs, and candled them, we ate in a cloudy one and sold the others." To all the poultrymen, I apologize. And to the 25 million hens in the U.S. and their billions of eggs.

And whether they forgive me or not, I shall continue to eat my 300 eggs a year, with or without blood spots. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am acquainted to have a sebaceous cyst removed from the top of my head but am tempted to cancel it. My mother died a year after having a growth removed. They tell me mine is not, however, 2 1/2 inches.

I guess what I am asking is shouldn't I leave it alone as long as it doesn't bother me, or in fact, it doesn't? It is about two inches by two inches.—Mrs. H. I. A cyst of that size is a nuisance especially so far as appearance goes. There is no problem in removing such cysts, and they are not malignant. However, they can become infected and then you have a real problem. I would suggest removal.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Chicken Apology

It seemed like such an innocuous little paragraph that I printed it. Mrs. V. said she and her husband were in dispute over whether it is harmful to eat an egg that has a blood spot on the yolk.

It was not harmful — which is correct — but I stubbed my academic toe by adding, gratuitously, that such "bird spots" denote a fertilized egg and that we get that from the rooster.

You wouldn't believe the storm of protest. I have by now lost count of the letters from poultrymen, not to mention faculty members from Michigan State University, University of Guelph, and others.

Dr. L. A. Wilhelm, president of the Poultry and Egg National Board, was kind enough to comment that "it is impossible for any one person to have the correct answers on everything," a sentiment in which I gratefully concur.

Of the approximately 285 million hens producing table eggs in the United States, the tell-tale "bird spots" on the yolk are present in 2 to 3 per cent of the eggs. Canadian hens, I am told, also are largely celibate.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Bridge Is Joined

It was a great day for the North and South Sides when the Rim-to-Rim Bridge—sometimes called the Twin Falls-Jerome Bridge and now called the Perrine Memorial Bridge—nearly the touching point.

This picture was taken on Aug. 23, 1927, by C. E. Blisbee, the pioneer photographer of things historic by this area.

Then the bridge was joined—and Mr. Blisbee took another picture—later in the same year. The bridge had looked like this ever since.

Before the bridge you could cross in the area but it had to be down the Blue Lanes Grade on the north side of the canyon, across the early day steel river-level bridge constructed by I. B. Perrine, and up the steep road on the south side. And this was trellis-tail.

Mr. Blisbee wrote at the bottom of one of his pictures that the bridge was 1,400 feet long and 476 feet high. The approach roads vary different than in the old days but other than that it's all just as it was.

Tomorrow — another historic picture of the region.

Nixon Seeks German Treaty Approval

EDITOR'S NOTE: The United States and West Germany have become close allies in the years since the end of World War II and President Nixon has made Bonn his main stop on his European tour. An analysis of the reasons for this follows.

By WELLINGTON LONG
BONN (UPI)—President Nixon's main task here will be to overcome West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's conditional rejection of the treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons which the United States and the Soviet Union negotiated a year ago.

All other issues scheduled for discussion during the American chief executive's visit here and in West Berlin will be assessed for their influence on the nuclear decision.

The West German government is torn by a bitter controversy over the nonproliferation treaty. Chancellor Kiesinger, a Christian Democrat, has given the treaty what editorial writer Hann Eich described as "a conditional no."

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, leader of the Social Democrats, has given it a "conditional yes."

As things stand now, the nuclear question could be the main issue of the parliamentary election to be held in September or October, and could presumably destroy the three-year-old government coalition even before then.

On the surface, Kiesinger and his Christian Democrats are worried about the Soviet claim that it has a right under the charter of the United Nations to intervene in Germany as a former enemy state if the latter appears to be violating the peace.

On the surface, Kiesinger and his Christian Democrats are worried about the Soviet claim that it has a right under the charter of the United Nations to intervene in Germany as a former enemy state if the latter appears to be violating the peace.

"The Soviet presumption of the right of intervention is an extraordinary difficulty, and if it is maintained, it would be impossible to sign the treaty," Kiesinger told his parliament.

"We (also) are worried about the possible abuse of the right of control and inspection."

Brandt, on the other hand, considers this argument to be legalist lip-picking, and says that "anyone who considers power politics in this age and depends on legalisms is naive."

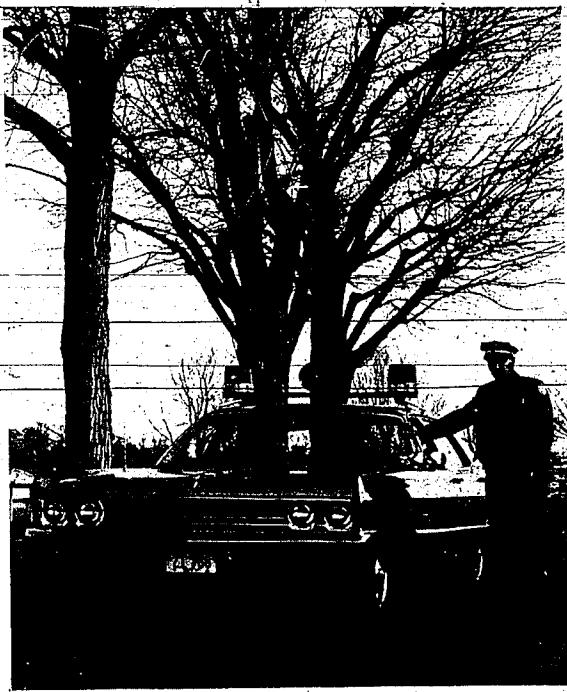

He adds that Germany got as many amendments in the treaty as was possible before the Americans and Russians signed it, and that Germany now would be hurrying only itself by refusing to adhere to it.

But behind the debate over these legalisms are real concerns about future American commitments to Europe.

Kiesinger and Brandt want to know from Nixon: What is his long-term commitment to NATO? Is he prepared to leave the present garrison of 200,000 troops here despite congressional pressure to bring most of the boys home and rely on transatlantic airlifts in emergencies? Is he prepared to tolerate special trading arrangements between Britain and the Common Market in the face of protectionist demands from elements of his own Republican Party?

LIKE THE WOLF SAID in the fairy tale, you can't get away. This new patrol car is one of four the Twin Falls Police Department received recently. The cars, Plymouths, were purchased from Wills Motor. They are built especially for police use and come with heavy-duty tires, power windows, and other features. The car is now in use by police and according to one Wills Company official, "Nothing will outrun these cars."

He will replace former Forest Supervisor Jack B. Shumate, who is now serving as forestry adviser to the government of South Vietnam.

Mr. Wright has served as forest supervisor of the Targhee National Forest since 1959. In that position he has been responsible for leadership of all resource management activities on the 1.6 million acres of Targhee National Forest Service land. Cafe Becomes 'Bloody' Spot During Melee

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Joe Swartz, 56, dropped into Barney's Beaneery recently for a post-midnight snack. Little did he know somebody would try to scap him.

Witnesses said Swartz was sitting at the counter, minding his own business, when suddenly a man identified as Robert Ray Griffin, 29, Oakland, Calif., strode into the dining area from the adjacent bar.

He leaned across the counter and grabbed a meat cleaver from the grill while the cook's back was turned. Then he started swinging the implement as if to scap Swartz.

The cook, Steve Johnson, 56, turned around in time to see Griffin swing the cleaver backwards, preparing for another lunge. Johnson grabbed the cocked arm before it could begin its downward arc and four other customers moved in to subdue the scaphunter.

At this point, an unidentified customer picked up a ketchup bottle and broke it on Griffin's head. Everybody was drenched with the red stuff.

Two sheriff's deputies arrived in the middle of the struggle and one of them said later he thought at first there had been an Indian massacre.

Griffin fled but was picked up a few blocks away. He was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and possession of dangerous drugs.

Barney's Beaneery is a favorite gathering place for artists.

Senate Kills Bill For Highway Funds After Long Debate

By PAUL M. QUINN

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate, after a long and bitter debate, Wednesday killed by a 15-20 margin a bill calling for a $35 million bond issue to rebuild the north-south highway.

Sen. Art Murphy, D-Mullan, switched his vote after the tally was made, however, and kept the measure alive by serving notice he will ask for reconsideration.

The measure was described by its opponents as setting "dangerous precedent" even though one of them termed the highway a "deplorable goat trail."

The bill would permit the voters to decide on Nov. 3, 1970 on whether to allow the issuance of $35 million in bonds.

Seven senators spoke in favor of the bill, including Murphy, and nine others spoke against the measure.

The voting on the measure caused many lines but did pit senators from the north against those from the south.

The debate in the bill was the longest of the 40th session.

The bonding method of financing construction along U.S. Highway 95 was introduced by Sen. Art Murphy, D-Mullan.

He took a swipe at ranchers in his closing debate and said "I have watched stiroin row after row and saw the need for money before this can be done perhaps they could take some from their farm exemp-

Satellite Rescues Vessel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A weather satellite 900 miles above the earth helped rescue a hospital ship from stormy seas by directing it to calmer waters, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The story was told by the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) which operates the National Environmental Satellite Center at Suitland, Md.

The vessel in trouble was the hospital ship, the USS Pueblo, owned by the People to People Foundation, a private organization established here in 1969 by Dr. William C. Walsh.

The ship, staffed by doctors and others serving volunteer tours of duty, goes from port to port in undeveloped countries helping to train local personnel and treating difficult ailments.

It had spent 10 months at Colombo, Ceylon, and was going to Durban, South Africa, when it got into trouble. Ten days out of Ceylon, it was taking its third straight day pounding from the northeast winds off the southeast coast of Madagascar.

Pines were breaking below decks, the ship's hull was damaged. The captain wanted to run from the storm. His dilemma was that he didn't know what way to go.

Virgil Downer, a ham radio operator at Massapequa, N.Y., who once worked aboard the ship and keeps in touch with it, called ESSA's satellite center Tuesday.

Meteorologists took a look at pictures taken by the weather satellite, ESSA 7, and sent radio communication with the ship's master. They advised him to sail north to escape the wind and the heavy rain.

After a while the center received a report from the ship. It said it was encountering weather which was lessening.

Navy Man Sobs At Pueblo Hearing While Telling Of Communist Torture

(CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — (L.R.) Timothy Harris broke down and sobbed at the witness table at the Pueblo court of the despatch that engulfed him after his torture by North Korean soldiers.

"I wanted to take my life," the 23-year-old supply officer of the intelligence ship said chokingly. "I couldn't do it."

Harris recounted his testimony at the "Harris Inquiry" into the capture of the Pueblo by the Communists on the high seas off North Korea Jan. 23, 1968.

Harris, of Jacksonville, Fla., and testified with composure and occasional flashes of humor Tuesday in his Southern accent.

But his composure broke Wednesday when he witnessed his feelings after the Koreans got him to sign a false confession by torture.

"After the initial phase... and he sobbed as he testified Harris said burying his head in his hands. "Only one thing, I wished more than anything..."

Harris began weeping and his head shook. "The (U.S. Admiral) court-walked but Harris was unable to go on.

Attorney E. Miles Harvey, tion gas tax revenue" and put it into the highway construction fund.

Andrus described the proposal as a "tax on the issuance of $35 million worth of bonds to be paid back in 12 years by taking a cent and a third per gallon from the present gasoline tax, as "a tool for the Highway Department."

But opponents argued it would be a "back into politics."

"In arguing for the proposal, Andrus said the Highway Department has estimated it will cost $12 million to make the north-south highway route a good, four-lane highway.

"This bill is a good business investment," he said. "It is permissive legislation and the Highway Board would have complete control of it. . . . This is not a shovel to be placed for use at the discretion of the Highway Department."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said such a bonding proposal would "set a dangerous precedent."

Case said that the highway money would be taken from the executive and legislative branches," Ellsworth said. "Anyone with a pet highway project should use the bonding method to take money from the state gasoline tax funds."

Ellsworth said that taking a cent and a third per gallon of the gasoline tax money to pay for north-south highway construction "would seriously affect money available to counties and cities."

He pointed out that at the present time 30 per cent of the highway user tax goes to counties.

"The interest on this bond issue would be $10 million alone," he said.

"This proposal I can foresee the destruction of our fine Highway Department," Ellsworth added.

Sen. Webster D. Coeur d'Alene, said, "This project would bring the north and the south in Idaho together."

Sen. Nels Solberg, D-Grangeville, said, "We actually need a program like this as a crash program to take care of the north-south highway."

But Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said this is not the proper approach. "The bill would start a new precedent and we would be bypassing the Highway Board."

Sen. Rex Hestley, D-Drummond, spoke against the measure although he did say that U.S. Highway 95 — "the north-south highway" — is a "deplorable goat trail."

Idaho Mental Health Work Deemed In Need Of Revamp

BOISE (UPI) — A National Institute of Mental Health report on Idaho mental health services was released today and it said reorganization of the mental health structure at both state and local level is of "highest priority."

The report, requested by Gov. Don Samuelson in 1968, divided his recommendations into six state mental hospital patients, mental health centers, health services, alcoholism prevention and control services and manpower training.

Samuelson had been reluctant for not releasing the report sooner. It was presented to him in December.

The consultants generally agreed that a separate division of mental health might be desirable. The report said the separate department would be much more versatile and effective in developing the overall network of mental health services appropriate to individual patient needs.

The report indicated that the current $6.50 million funding between the state and local governments "acts as a deterrent to the development of community welfare services."

Author Describes Sirhan As 'Composed' Despite Pandemonium At RFK Killing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sirhan B. Sirhan was "like the eye of a hurricane" in the moments after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot in a crowded hotel pantry, said author George Plimpton.

"He struck me as enormously composed. The rest of us, given this sudden turmoil, were not composed," Plimpton testified for the prosecution Wednesday at Sirhan's trial for murder.

"His reaction in a hurricane of sound and feelings seemed like the eye in the center of a hurricane," Plimpton stated.

He is also a close friend of the Kennedy family.

In a fortresses courtroom Wednesday, Plimpton used those words to describe his impression of Sirhan B. Sirhan after shooting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and being pinned down on a stair table in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel.

Plimpton was one of those who subdued Sirhan. He flew here from the east to testify at the trial.

New York attorney Emile Zola Beman cross-examined Plimpton about "previous testimony to police that he was impressed by Sirhan's "dark brown and enormously peaceful eyes."

Plimpton agreed that Sirhan seemed the calmest person in a scene of pandemonium even though people were fighting to get at him.

Sirhan Spent Five Hours Testing Aim

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sirhan B. Sirhan spent about five hours practicing shooting a handgun before Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, firing more than 300 rounds including some destructive hollow-headed bullets, witnesses said Wednesday at the murder trial of the Palestinian Arab.

"It could kill a dog," Sirhan told Michael Anthony Crookham, a fellow target shooter on June 4 last year during a discussion of the defendant's 22-caliber revolver, the weapon that killed Kennedy.

Sirhan told him he planned a hunting trip but Saccoman advised him it was illegal to hunt with a .22.

The day's first witness, David Montelano, who was also at the target range, said that he and Sirhan did not engage in any conversation about the hollow-headed bullets. "He was just practicing" which "spreads on impact and causes a more extensive wound."

Kennedy succumbed to a head wound that damaged his brain, causing massive hemorrhaging.

Saccoman described the .22 as "a piece of junk" with "plastic grips" and "cheap" compared to his own more expensive pistol.

"Today the state called a series of witnesses, mainly police officers, in the next 10 moments after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot in a crowded hotel pantry," said author George Plimpton.

"He struck me as enormously composed. The rest of us, given this sudden turmoil, were not composed," Plimpton testified for the prosecution Wednesday at Sirhan's trial for murder.

"His reaction in a hurricane of sound and feelings seemed like the eye in the center of a hurricane," Plimpton stated.

Senate Votes School-Age Bill

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate passed Wednesday 22-10 a bill giving the State Board of Education permission to allow children to enter first grade other than at the age of six or older.

The measure was objected to by Sen. James Glocheff, D-Sandpoint, who said that youngsters do not usually have the necessary attention span before the age of six and they do not have the physical and social growth necessary.

Rep. Neil Miller, D-Blackfoot, said he felt the bill has merit, adding, "You can't negotiate the age of six and they do negotiate from us."

Rep. Ed Hedges, R-Boise, said he believed that competition with out-of-state firms would make better businessmen of Idaho supporters.

Rep. Angus Condie, R-Preston, said the proposal amounted to a "restraint of trade" between states.

But Rep. Wayne Tibbits, D-Lorenzo, said it would protect Idahoans from out-of-state firms taking profits from the state.

"I believe," said Roberts in closing debate, "this law may be the means by which we effect reciprocity with states having preference laws."

"Every state around us except Washington has this law," Roberts said.

House Endorses Bill Giving Idaho Bidders Preference

BOISE (UPI) — The House approved 49-18 and sent to the Senate Wednesday a bill that would give resident suppliers a five per cent preference over out-of-state bidders for the purchase of certain bids to the state of Idaho.

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, steered the bill to passage through a brief debate that drew wide references to the "Golden Rule" from the House members.

First to oppose the measure was Rep. William L. Crookham, R-Clatskanie, who said he felt it would cost the state money and added he has a philosophical dislike for hand-picking bidders.

Crookham added that he felt the bill would lead to retaliation by other states.

Rep. Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, disagreed that it would lead to retaliation.

He said the bill applies only to out-of-state bidders whose firms are not in Idaho.

"It's a do-or-utrum others as they do unto you bill," Crapo said.

Rep. Clyde Keithly, R-Nampa, told the house that this was the way I learned the "Golden Rule" gentlemen.

"I don't think we can cure our problems with our neighbors by kicking back at them," he said.

Nationalist China May Sever Ties With Canada

By PHIL NEWSON

Nationalist China is prepared for Canadian and Italian diplomatic recognition of the mainland Communist regime and is equally prepared to break relations with both when they do.

Both explain their actions from the standpoint that Red China is a fact and that it is unrealistic to continue to withhold recognition from a nation whose population soon will reach one billion, a view shared by some members of the U.S. Congress and others.

Officially, the United States continues its support of the Nationalists and has expressed its displeasure to both its NATO allies over their forthcoming actions.

Quietly, the United States and Japan have been trying to persuade Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa to retain his ties with Italy and Canada after recognition of the Peking regime, but he remains adamant.

They "take" their place "is looking toward the new nations of Africa where the Nationalists already have enjoyed considerable success.

Chief factor in this success has been Formosa's agricultural aid program launched in 1961. Among the African countries, the Nationalists have diplomatic relations with 21 as against 14 for Communist China.

Some 600 Nationalist aid officials are at work in Africa, lending technical aid to public health, fisheries and food processing.

One secret of their success, the Nationalists emphasize, is that no political strings are attached.

They have won their friends through a comparatively modest program which so far has cost about $50 million over the flashier projects undertaken in

Mental Health Group Works On Plans To Get Center For Twin Falls

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

Does Twin Falls need a mental health center? Is there a need for services for the mentally ill emotionally ill in Magic Valley?

The answer seems to be a loud and very resounding "yes" but how does one go about getting such a facility?

This question is disturbing many people in the valley at present time. While the controversy continues, the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association is taking the bull by the horns.

Plans call for an application to the federal government for a two-year grant—this grant approved, will provide the needed personnel for a mental health center—personnel such as a director, part-time psychiatrist, two psychologists, two social workers, a psychiatric nurse, two administrators and so on.

It should cost about $300,000 a year to operate such a center, and the association hopes the money can be raised through charity (including the United Negro College Club and the Lincoln school auditorium).

Mrs. Custer; Kinney Given PTA Honors

SHOSHONE—Mrs. Mary Custer, first PTA president for Shoshone unit, and Carl Kinney, principal of the high school, received life membership pins at the February 17 meeting of the Lincoln school auditorium.

Waldo Faught, committee chairman, made the presentation. Others on the committee were Rev. Wesley Johnson and Mrs. Harold Huxter.

Mrs. Custer, first PTA president for the unit organized in 1929, is a charter member of Shoshone Civic Club and helped with numerous community projects over the years.

Mr. Kinney, who has been in the local school since the early 1950's, is past president of the local IEA, currently second vice president of the PTA, and is active in the Assembly of God Church.

Other holders of the life memberships who were recognized were George McCarty, a grade school principal; former school superintendent, Chas. B. Meyer; Mrs. Mickey Short; Mrs. Myron Johnson; Mrs. Bartel Thorne; Mrs. Howard Hill; Mrs. L. M. Hatmaker; Mrs. Helen Mahbutt; Mrs. Luella L. Kinsey; Mrs. Nina Murphy; Mrs. Frank Lequeria; Mrs. Burton Thorne; E. I. Shaw; Waldo Faught; Supt. Kenneth Crothers and Mrs. Doyle Bennett.

Named to the nominating committee were Mrs. Alice Bailey, Mrs. Hatmaker and Mrs. Elvyn Webb.

A discussion was held on the need for a physical exercise program on the grade-school level. Supt. Crothers stated that the need is recognized, but that funds prohibit such at this time.

Mrs. Floyd O. Kislind spoke on the Founders' Day topic, giving a brief history of the organization, beginning in 1937, and introduced a film entitled "What The PTA is All About."

The birthday cake was served in the school cafeteria, having been baked by Mrs. Herbert Forbes, hospitality chairman.

A dinner meeting for all life membership holders will be held at 7 p.m. Feb. 27 at the Y building, Twin Falls. Dr. James Taylor will be featured speaker.

Under the law, however, the federal grant is for a five-year period with the center getting less money each year. In five years the center would support itself, with the help of charity, county and city funds.

City and county officials don't like the state's idea of supporting a bill in five years, and as a result, the plan has not yet been heated up.

The guiding authority for the center would be the non-profit South Central Idaho Mental Health Association. Patients would be from all parts of Magic Valley, with no discrimination on ability to pay, race, color or creed.

However, those who could pay for the services, would. Those who can't will get assistance. To understand the problems in setting up a mental health center, the present machinery should be discussed.

Dr. Kenneth Briggs, a Twin Falls psychiatrist, wants to pay professionals under the federal pay scale system. "This would attract good people and hold them here. You just can't get

Terms Given Mutineers Stir Anger

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Staff sentences of 15 years at San Francisco, handed out to mutineers convicted of mutiny have resulted in strong criticism from community leaders.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph S. Egan said that the sentences were "too light—the standards of the military and inhuman punishment."

The mayor added there was "no doubt that military organization is based on discipline, but a 15-year sentence to a 21-year-old kid caught up in an emotional moment is just disproportionate."

Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., of Anaheim; Mrs. Frank Lequeria, Mrs. Burton Thorne, E. I. Shaw, Waldo Faught, Supt. Kenneth Crothers and Mrs. Doyle Bennett.

The three convicted soldiers are being held at a sit-down strike at the San Francisco Presidio stockade last October.

They said they were protesting the fatal shooting three days earlier of a fellow prisoner who was allegedly feeling a work day in an unsanitary and substandard conditions at the stockade.

A mistrial involving a legal challenge to the result of a change of venue was declared in the trial of a fourth soldier, Pvt. John Colp, 20, Sacramento, Calif.

Le. Col. Gerhard Snyder, the presiding officer who granted the change of venue, ruled the prosecution must start from scratch again because the venue change made previous proceedings moot.

psychiatrist here for $16,000." Many feel the right way would be to set up a mental health center under the Idaho Department of Health.

Presently the state operates mental hospitals at Blackfoot, Idaho, with a total cost of $6-million a year to operate both facilities. State funds, on the other hand, for community mental health centers amount to only about $9,000 a year.

The feeling is that mental health centers could be opened in Idaho communities like Twin Falls, and staffed and operated by the state.

This is being done with the Mental Retardation Center that will be built in Twin Falls this fall. The initial cost of the building, with equipment, is $187,000.

Financing is about 30 per cent federal, 30 per cent state and 40 per cent local. Administration is on the state level, and the hiring and firing is done by the state.

The state does this simply because it is geared and equipped to do just that.

A proposal similar to this, but for mental health only, has been drawn up and submitted to the state.

The public must not confuse mental health with mental retardation. To get a mental health center in Twin Falls, a group of citizens or county or city officials must make a request to the Idaho Department of Health. Funding will be essentially through Congress and the Idaho Legislature. Services will be comprehensive, to provide full mental health aid, and services to patients will not depend on county limits.

Local government will not determine the policy of the center. To the person who needs psychiatric aid and it is estimated that one out of every 10 persons in Idaho needs such aid—how a center is financed or administered makes little difference.

Twin Falls County sends about 24 people a year to State Hospital at Blackfoot—in Magic Valley, the figure is 43. Most of these people are examined, treated and released in an average of three months.

According to Dr. Briggs the treatment of these patients, get at Blackfoot "is very good."

But when the patient returns home, he is returning to the environment and situation that in most cases created the emotional disturbance in the first place.

A lack of follow-up action on patients released from Blackfoot is one of the areas in which a community mental health center would be helpful.

The center also might help keep someone out of Blackfoot.

This could be a Godsend to the young mother with three children who, frightened by a loud noise, is found by her husband crouched in a corner screaming meaningless things.

It would help the middle aged man who has tried to kill himself twice.

It would help the teenager, who for no reason cuts off the legs of the family cat.

It would help the businessman who one day decides to shoot his wife with a shotgun.

It would help the criminal who has been arrested for the fifth time for passing bad checks.

It would help the alcoholic who lets his family go hungry because he needs a drink.

Idaho is rated 49th in the nation on mental health services. In a 1968 survey, it was shown that 2,842 Idaho school children were in need of psychiatric help. None was given.

A mental health center can help a person lead a good life free from the terrible suffering that goes with mental or emotional illness.

"The middle income group is hit hardest by a lack of proper facilities. These people cannot afford to visit a psychiatrist on their own, so they suffer.

The poor get assistance and the rich can afford the price. It's the guy in the middle who often needs help the most, and who is most neglected by a lack of facilities.

When Dr. Briggs came to Twin Falls about five years ago, 90 per cent of his time was filled in the first three weeks.

"That should prove there is a need for mental health care," he said.

A mental health center would provide for consultation and evaluation by professionals; in and out patient care; group therapy and work training; emergency services; family, personal and marriage counseling in individual and group sessions; assistance to courts, schools and other social agencies, and a program designed to inform the public about mental health and the causes and cures of mental illness.

Bliss Quits Morton Favored By GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Knowledgeable Republicans in Congress and the Nixon administration are viewing Sen. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland—the strongest candidate to succeed Sen. C. Bliss as GOP National Chairman.

A senator usually abreast of administration thinking in political affairs said he believed the choice had been narrowed to Morton, a four-term House member, and Sen. Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson, with Morton having more political know-how.

Morton, 54, is the younger brother of former Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, national chairman from 1958 to 1961. Wilkinson now is on the White House staff. Morton's selection would parallel the Democrats' selection of a congressman to succeed a party professional as chairman.

Bliss' successor will be named at the mid-April meeting of the Republican National Committee. But a matter of reality, President Nixon will make the choice.

Bliss' decision to retire was disclosed by the White House in an exchange of letters between Nixon and Bliss, who has been chairman for four years. Bliss was credited with rebuilding the party after the Goldwater defeat in 1964.

One reliable administration source called Morton "a pretty good bet" for the chairmanship but another said there still were several possibilities for the job.

Bliss retired voluntarily and not at Nixon's request.

It was reported to feel that key men in the administration had their own ideas about how the national party organization should function and they should be free to carry them out. Bliss likes to run his own shop.

Soon after Nixon's election Nov. 3, reports began drifting out of New York that some of his advisers wanted a skilled partisan debater in the chairmanship.

These arguments suggested that the GOP needed a television personality equipped to match the Democrats while Nixon's other administration spokesmen took a more aloof stance in dealing with a Congress controlled by Democrats.

After a January conference with Nixon at New York, however, Bliss announced that he would remain in the chairmanship indefinitely. Nixon sent a message to a Jan. 17 meeting of the national committee applauding Bliss' service.

New Draft Lottery May Tap Draftees

WASHINGTON (UPI)— A lottery system may be adopted in the draft and military pay may be completely overhauled even before the Vietnam War ends, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Tuesday.

Laird discussed the draft after announcing at a news conference that he and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will make an 8-day tour of Vietnam starting March 5.

"One of the first pieces of legislation which will be sent to the Congress by the new administration will be in this area—to do away with the inequities that presently exist in our Selective Service Act," Laird said.

Asked if the change in lottery system could be effected while the Vietnam fighting is still in progress, Laird said "I think there is this possibility and that it should be considered."

Laird said the overhaul in military compensation also to be submitted to Congress after studies to be completed by March 15, would increase the pay of recruits as a "first step" toward elimination of the draft after the Vietnam War.

He said the present draft law "just isn't practical" and "must be changed."

Laird was flanked by deputy Defense Secretary David Packard and defense manpower experts who pressed figures showing that college graduates may soon make up 30 per cent of all draftees.

This would compare with only 5 per cent in 1968. The manpower experts said this would be as unfair as the former situation in which college graduates were contributing less than their fair proportion to the draft.

Packard commented that the pay of the recruit "nowhere near what these young men could be making in civilian life." The base pay is currently $109.50 a month.

Rear Adm. William P. Mack, from the defense manpower office, said the present draft law does not provide a practical system for dividing draftees by age groups, because the oldest in each group must be taken first.

If they are divided by calendar years, he said, men born in January would be sure to be drafted and those with birth dates in December would be sure to escape the draft.

"The only alternative to this procedure that seems to make sense is to move to a lottery or random selection system," he said.

Laird said "it does concern me" that an all volunteer force—the Nixon administration's stated objective—might become a professional army of the kind that has led to dictatorships in other countries. But he said he was "not prejudging" what the conclusion on this subject will be.

The defense secretary said that as another step toward an all volunteer force, he hopes recruiting on campuses can be increased despite agitation against it.

Some people who are opposing recruiting on campuses are the same ones who favor an all volunteer force," he said.

USDA Reports Meat Supplies Continue High
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Interior for United Press International.

USDA's consumer and marketing service reports that good shoppers will find excellent supplies of meat, poultry and good supplies of some fresh fruits and vegetables in food stores and supermarkets this weekend.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to be the leader among the meats. Beef features this weekend include roasts, steaks, and ground beef. Pork items in abundance are bacon, Boston butts, chops, ham, roasts, and smoked picnic.

Game meats (flat steaks and portions), and fish filets are the fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions and potatoes are the most abundant fresh vegetables. Good selections of radishes are available in some areas. Fresh fruit in the abundant class are apples, bananas, grapefruit, and oranges.

REQUEST APPROVED WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a Post Central request to discontinue "The Spirit of St. Louis" and "The Penn-Texas" runs after March 20. In its application, the railroad claimed the two passenger trains traveling between New York and St. Louis, Mo., lost over $1.7 million in 1968.

FAA Draws Scolding Over Air Safety Lack

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Four recent airliner crashes that claimed 94 lives "could have been averted" if the proper radar systems had been in use, a congressional committee was told Wednesday.

Kenneth T. Lyons, president of the National Association of Government Employees (NAGE), accused the Federal Aviation Administration of permitting air safety to "drift aimlessly and dangerously."

Lyons, testifying before the House Commerce Committee, said that if the FAA had made precision approach radar systems available, "the cold and brutal facts are the four recent accidents which claimed 94 lives could have been averted."

The NAGE official, who claims to represent 3,000 air traffic controllers, said the four crashes involved airliners on final approaches to landings at Charleston, W. Va.; Hanover, N. H.; Chicago and San Francisco. He also contended that two recent crashes at Bradford, Pa., "likely would not have occurred" if the FAA operated a control tower there.

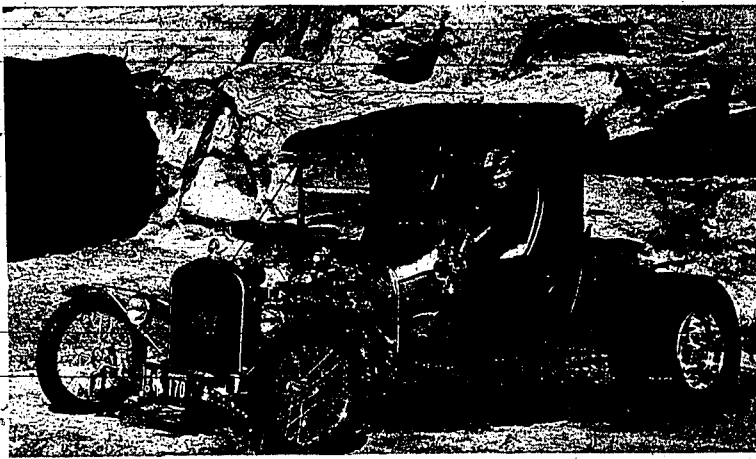

"There are not enough air traffic controllers to handle the growing number of flights and, on top of this, the controllers do not have adequate modern equipment to do their jobs," he said.

Another witness testified that the nation's air traffic volume has doubled in the last six years to the point where overworked and understaffed controllers are forced to take sick leave to rest up.

The testimony was given by George W. Kirske, executive director of the Air Traffic Control Association, before the House Commerce Committee.

Kirske said air traffic volume is twice what it was six years ago and three times what it was 10 years ago, but that the number of air traffic controllers had not kept pace. The result is a massive slow-down in air traffic, he said.

Kirske was backed by F. Lee Bailey, attorney for the Professional Air Traffic Controllers organization. Bailey told the committee that the aviation industry has been "in the hands of controllers—but in the last five years there has been 'no appreciable increase' in manpower.

Officials Of 2 T. F. Veterans Groups Concerned Over Sex Education Council

Two officials of veterans' organizations in Twin Falls were on record Thursday as being "deeply concerned" over roads being made by a national organization connected with some programs geared for the teaching of sex in public schools.

John Price, commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2136 and Frank Mogensson, commander of the American Legion Post No. 7 said in a joint statement that "Idaho is faced with the probability of gaining a new educational program for all children attending public schools. This program is sex education. Since discussed and instigated plans have caused a lot of controversy, we are of the opinion that the views of the two organizations we represent should be made a matter of record."

In the statement both men said that they were disturbed by the part being played nationally, and probably in Idaho, by an organization known as the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States.

This "Council," the two declared, "believes that any sex education is better than none at all and that any teacher can teach the subject."

"According to this organization and Dr. Mary Calderone, executive director of it, a very carefully prepared plan has been put into effect to get the aid of local news media, school administrators, teachers, the clergy, medical people and other 'family helping' professions to back it."

"In fact, where such groups have been formed, they have enjoyed stunning success."

"Well known community figures are invariably tapped, and the group is usually so well organized that the unorganized resistance is caught off guard, at which time the program is adopted."

The two local officials also pointed out that Dr. Lester Kirkendall, associate director of the organization, as well as some other officials "believe that any absolute moral standard is utterly unthinkable."

"He brands patriotism and the sense of our country as immoral," they said.

SCHOOL REOPENS
LONDON (UPI)—The London School of Economics reopened Wednesday after a 25-day suspension of classes due to student protest demonstrations. The students, however, staged another demonstration protesting the school's decision to reopen.

Officials Of 2 T. F. Veterans Groups Concerned Over Sex Education Council

They wanted to bring to the attention of the general public the possibility of danger should such a program be instigated in Twin Falls and this area.

"Neither the American Legion nor the Veterans of Foreign Wars groups are against the teaching of sex in the schools," the statement said. "We would point-out, though, that as things now stand this type of sex education, as advocated by this organization, could well be the source of sex education in our schools as set up at this time."

"We of both organizations ask all parents and other interested persons to take a firm stand on this issue right now and to contact educators, your church leaders, Gov. Samuelson and other state and national leaders and let them know just where you stand."

Both men said that they have many documents concerning the activities of the S.I.E.C.U.S. on file and would be "more than happy" to make them available to interested individuals and organizations.

 EAST BERLIN (NEA)—Kurt Brenner, a half-crippled old man, is openly plotting to escape Communist city.
 He says he will wait until spring, when the weather is better. Then he will limp up to the border, snub his nose at the guards and pass boldly on through.
 "No one will stop him," he says, because his escape has the starkly official East German regime.
 Kurt Brenner (not his real last name) has reached what he calls "the Berlin border." He is 66, retired, and slowed down by old leg injury.
 So, by Communist charts of human efficiency, he is no further, productive or political. And his exit to the West is permitted; even, in a way, wanted.
 The Communist reasoning is starkly official: Brenner stays in East Germany after retirement, he is a liability to socialism. If he leaves, he is a liability to none.

Germany after retirement, he would be saddled with the "chilly logic" of course, applies not only to Kurt Brenner, but to most East Germans of advanced age: women 60 years and above, men 65 and over.
 Each of them is annually perfunctory visited by a "luxury" for younger Communist. They can go and come back, or they can stay. There are some exceptions, Communist forbids the departure of still-productive oldsters (scientists), enemies of the state (or close relatives of those enemies), and those who might be of some future value to the West.

'Blight Of Poverty'

Nixon Plots New 'Poor War'

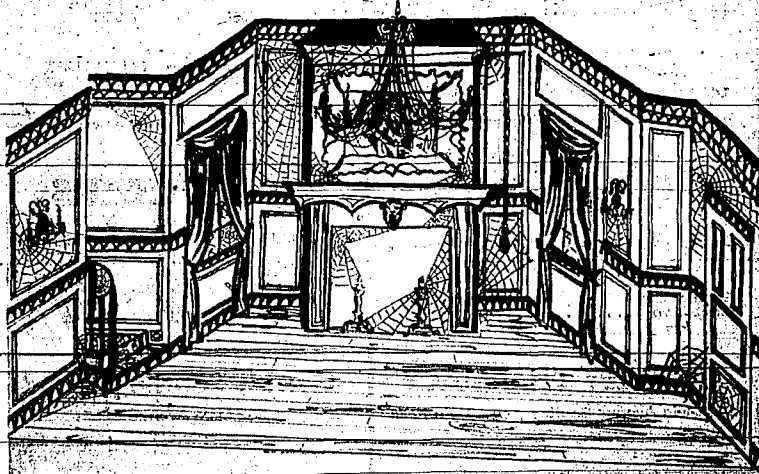

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon told Congress Wednesday he is giving the blight of poverty priority attention and announced a series of initial steps aimed at improving federal aid to the poor.
 In his first formal message to Congress, Nixon declared his administration's intentions to fight poverty: "It cannot and will not be treated lightly or indifferently, or without the most searching examination of how best to marshal the resources available to the federal government for combating it."
 The President proposed administrative changes in four ongoing antipoverty efforts, including the well-known Job Corps and Head Start programs. And he asked Congress to give the parent antipoverty agency, the Office of Economic Opportunity, the funding authority for another year of operations beyond its scheduled June 30 expiration.
 Nixon made clear his requests were not his last word this year on the war on poverty. Before July 1, he said, another message will be sent in the form of "a comprehensive proposal for the future of the federal war on poverty."
 The President embraced the concept of OEO as an experimental agency to try out new antipoverty programs, a newly created number of its current efforts. Special praise was given the pre-school program of Head Start.
 He also declared his intention to straighten out poverty programs that have gone sour. "One of the principal aims of the administration's continuing study of the antipoverty effort will be to provide its management effectiveness," Nixon said.
 "When poverty fund monies are stolen, those hurt most are the poor. When programs are inefficiently administered, those hurt most again are the poor. The public generally and the poor especially have the right to demand effective and efficient management. I intend to provide it."
 Nixon explained that his immediate plans fell into two categories:
 Delegation of operating responsibility of antipoverty programs, which would not require special legislation.
 Programs to departments, which will require congressional approval.
 The President promised, however, to continue OEO as an experimental agency of the government in the overall war on poverty, with the expectation that when "incubator" programs proved to be successful, they then could be transferred to other departments.
 Actions included in the message:
 He directed that preparations be made for delegation of the Head Start program to the department of Health, Education—and Welfare (HEW), effective July 1. Whether this will become permanent will be determined later and word will then be submitted to Congress.
 A switch of the Job Corps from OEO to the Labor Department "as a first step toward better program management."
 Proposed outright transfer from OEO to HEW of the comprehensive health centers program and the foster grand-parents program.

Laird Ponders Deployment Of 'Sentinels'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and his chief deputy have indicated that their study of the nation's antiballistic missile plans has centered on whether to deploy the controversial Sentinel system as it exists or with changes.
 Laird and Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, who is in charge of the comprehensive ABM review, told reporters they did not expect a decision until about mid-March.
 But neither said anything indicating serious plans to scrap the $6 billion Sentinel system or drastically change it. Former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara introduced the Sentinel in 1967 as a limited defense against missile attack, designed primarily to protect against a Communist Chinese nuclear assault in the 1970s.
 Laird and Packard spoke at a Pentagon news conference.

Sen. Kennedy Declares Woes Of Indians Constitute 'National Disgrace' In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has declared that the plight of Indians in American society is a "national tragedy and a national disgrace."
 Kennedy made the observation as his subcommittee on Indian Education took testimony from Indian experts and others on how to improve education and the general welfare of the approximately 500,000 Redmen both on and off reservations.
 "Statistics reveal that the First American is still the last American in terms of employment, education, a decent income, and the chance for a full and rewarding life."
 "This can be considered nothing less than a national tragedy and a national disgrace," the Massachusetts lawmaker said.
 Indian witnesses agreed.
 Don Wanatee, representing the Mesquakie tribe of Tama, Iowa, and Lee-Iman Brightman, a Sioux-Creek who is director of the United Native Americans, demanded Indian control of their schools as a first step toward betterment.
 Wanatee had harsh words for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which wants to close the Indian school at Tama and send the charge of the local public schools. The tribe has obtained a federal court order maintaining its school pending a settlement with the bureau.
 The Indian spokesman said the tribe wanted the bureau school reformed, however, so that tribal culture, language and customs would continue while the children also obtained quality education fitting them for a place in the dominant white world.
 Brightman was harsh on the bureau. He called it "colonialist" and asserted "it is strangling our people."
 The bureau is a cancerous organization, a complete failure as far as education is concerned.
 Brightman said the Indian people were not only "conquered people, but a brutalized people." He added the bureau had put Indian education in the hands of a bunch of hand-picked Uncle Tommies.
 He called for these reforms:
 "Take responsibility for Indian education away from the bureau and put it in the hands of a nationally elected Indian board."
 "Reform curriculum to give Indians pride in their culture."
 "Train Indian teachers to run the schools."
 "Increase emphasis on academic education for Indians, as well as vocational training."

Postal Changes Charted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General Winterrowd announced major shifts in regional postoffice management Wednesday and details of new criteria for selection of postmasters on a nonpolitical basis.

Preference will be given to career post office employees wherever possible but, as announced earlier, no member of Congress will have a say in the final selection.

Blount detailed his plans at a news conference after an appearance on Capitol Hill before House Republicans who subsequently endorsed his plan to take politics out of the mail.

Blount told reporters, back at his office, that 12 of the post office's 15 regional directors would be replaced. They have agreed to resignation or retirement by Feb. 28.

The two retained are Percy Colman, director of the Memphis, Tenn., region and C. W. Shoemaker, director at Wichita, Kan.

In addition, Blount said all existing civil service lists will be nullified. This means withdrawal of almost all of the 467 postmaster nominations submitted to the Senate by the outgoing Johnson administration. Presumably most were Democrats.

Blount said vacancies in the nation's 400 biggest post offices will be filled by an impartial national management selection board. Vacancies in the other 31,800 post offices will be filled by a regional management selection board. A local review board will pass on rural carrier positions, he said.

Blount described the changes as "a more business-like approach" that is one means of helping "to prevent the system from collapsing."

Hagerman Girl Is In Choir Tour

HAGERMAN—Hanna Calkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Duncombe, was selected as a member of the Ricks College a cappella choir which toured southern Idaho and northern Utah recently.

The group performed Friday evening at the Ricks College in Twin Falls. They also appeared at Idaho Falls, Rexburg, Pocatello and Salt Lake City. Their conductor was Inga Johnson.

The Ricks College Symphony Orchestra conducted by Dr. L. Lamar Barrus was also part of the troupe. Miss Calkins is a sophomore at Ricks.

Knothole Basketball Playoff Schedule Set

Chad Browning, city recreation director, has announced the playoff schedule for Knothole Basketball, which will begin Saturday.

In the fourth grade class Parade's Panthers will play Scott's Future Bruins at 11 a.m. Saturday at Robert Stuart for first and second place. At noon 11-12-13-14's Leapers will meet Lyvon's Tigers for fourth place. Each team's Lightnings will play Craven's Badgers for fourth place at noon Saturday at Robert Stuart.

Nixon Girds For First 'Crunch'

By MERRILL SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A veteran government career official said the other day "Wait for the first real crunch—then we'll be able to tell what sort of President Mr. Nixon will make."

And in his first full month as chief executive, Richard M. Nixon has been doing his utmost to prepare for that first "crunch." It could come at any time—in the Middle East, in a city-storm boiling over in anger or possibly in the world money markets.

During his first month, the President, fished few thunderbolts from the White House, overturned no agencies, embarked on no radically new courses of action. Instead, he concentrated on orderly organization of his administration and expert inquiry into problem areas at home and abroad.

Some Republican politicians would prefer a more doctrinaire approach by cleaning out the Democratic Party rascals with great speed and beginning the GOP faithful to on-the-job training. Nixon has elected instead to avoid traditional political housecleaning.

This does not mean job security for higher level appointees left over from the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. Some of them will stay, but many will go—once Nixon and his chief advisers have completed numerous task force studies and matched their results with a talent search for competent administrators. The talent hunt goes on almost as energetically as in the pre-inaugural period.

Considerably before his Jan. 20 inauguration, Nixon knew that once he took office, he would face three major areas of crisis: the international situation including the Vietnam War and the troubled Middle East; steadily increasing inflation in the national economy, and the sprawling, angry mess gathered under a general label of urban problems.

Once in charge officially, the President grouped his top policy-makers and advisers into senior councils for coordination of information, as well as their advice.

He underlined and increased the importance of the National Security Council (NSC) as the chief coordinating body for domestic and foreign policies. He set up the Urban Affairs Council which has been meeting and ultimately, the final decisions on Congress—once or twice a week with him. At the end of his first overhaul of the inefficient postal system, he could best be system; proposals for making more of the poverty program more effective for recipients and less functions along NSC lines in the problems, but acting when it of a federal teacher; tax incentives to encourage black and undramatic, it bringing the Electoral College was somewhat intentional. His system up to the times. For the time being, Nixon the orderly approach of the Eisenhower administration and for Congress one message at a time instead of sending up an omnibus package.

Employment Stabilizes In 8 States

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that nonagricultural wage and salary employment in eight Western states declined less than seasonally in mid-January.

Employment was estimated at 9,502,900 in mid-January, a job loss of 243,100, but less than the drop of 305,000 usually anticipated between December and January, according to Charles Roumasset, director of the bureau's Pacific region.

Manufacturing layoffs matched the seasonal pattern while mining employment remained steady. Construction reported heavier layoffs than expected, but smaller than usual cutbacks were reported in all the other major non-manufacturing industries.

Manufacturing employment levels in mid-January were 40-600 below mid-December, the usual decrease. Cutbacks in non-durable goods, half in food processing, amounted to 250,000, about 6,000 more than the expected number.

The states surveyed were Alaska, Arizona, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon and Washington.

Navy Men Cite Lack Of Briefing On Trip

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—The Navy sent the 83 men of the USS Pueblo on a spy mission to the edge of Communist territory without telling them how to behave if captured.

That was the testimony of three officers of the Pueblo before a Navy court of inquiry into the ship's capture off the coast of North Korea Jan. 23, 1968. The hearing is in its third phase, dealing with the conduct of the men in captivity.

Testimony resumed today before a board of five admirals. Four more witnesses are waiting to describe their 11 months in a Korean prison.

Still at the witness table was today's session opened was testimony of Lt. (jg) William J. Harris, Jacksonville, Fla., who began telling the court his story.

Tuesday, Harris was followed today by CWO Gene H. Lacy, 37, Seattle, Wash.

Like two other officers who testified before him, Harris said his only advice on how to behave as a prisoner of war came before he was commissioned, when he was still in officer candidate school.

There, he was told about the U.S. government's official Code of Conduct, for men who became prisoners of war. It forbids any form of collaboration with the enemy and requires a serviceman to tell his captors only his name, rank, service number and date of birth.

Harris said he received no more instructions after he left OCS, even when he was assigned to the Pueblo, an electronic espionage vessel. His testimony paralleled that of Lt. (jg) Robert K. Murphy Jr., the Pueblo's second in command, and Lt. (jg) Frederick C. Schumacher, the operations officer.

All three said that after violent beatings by the Koreans they agreed to sign "confessions." The Pueblo entered Korean waters and engaged in espionage.

The only variation to their stories involved the length of time they held out.

Harris and Schumacher agreed to sign "confessions" after 11 days. Schumacher's name appeared during their captivity were staged, with the men who took part memorizing their answers in advance.

They got good meals with beer and wine on Korean holidays, but Korean propaganda represented these as everyday events. Actually, the food generally was watery and the men often contracted dysentery.

They contradicted Murphy's testimony the Koreans gave Pueblo prisoners no medical attention. Harris and Schumacher said major illnesses were created by a Korean doctor.

Ex-Rupert Man Charged On Securities

RUPERT (UPI)—A former Rupert man accused of selling securities without a license has appeared for preliminary hearing before Probate Judge Leroy Blacker in Minidoka County.

Blacker said he dismissed a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses against De Vere Kent, now living in Salt Lake City.

However, Kent was bound over to stand trial in Fifth District Court on the charge of selling securities without a license.

Kent was arrested last October on a complaint signed by Addie Sartin, Rupert. She alleged she lost over $10,000 after purchasing stock in Interoak Incorporated, United, a Magic Valley firm now being investigated by the State of Idaho.

No trial date has been set for Kent's appearance in District Court.

Hickel Drafts New Orders On Drilling

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel has issued what he called "newest" drilling standards for oil well operations in California's Santa Barbara Channel.

The new standards, aimed at preventing oil leaks such as the one which fouled beaches in the channel last week, require drilling operations to include extra casing around pipes sunk to oil and gas deposits to prevent leakage into the sea.

Among other things, the regulations require the extra casing down to a depth of 5,000 feet. An interior department spokesman said the leak from a Union Oil Corporation well which produced last week's oil slick was 3,500 feet down.

"Our specific goal has been to develop tough new regulations which will help prevent any future disaster such as we have recently witnessed in the Santa Barbara Channel off the coast of California," Hickel said.

He also said his department was preparing revised drilling rules for offshore operations in other areas of the U.S. continental shelf.

Hickel said he had invited officials of more than 30 oil companies to meet with technical and legal staff members of his department "to see if the industry itself will suggest ways for making our regulations more stringent and more compatible."

Oakley Dumps Raft River While Rockland Defeats Hansen In A-4 Tourney

BURLEY — Oakley and Rockland both came through unscathed in the sixth district A-4 basketball tournament Wednesday night as the Hornets crushed Raft River 35-19, and Rockland broke open a tight game in the fourth quarter to post a 61-50 win over the Hansens Huskies.

Thursday night action will see the Hansen crew play Raft River at 7:30, then Rockland draws Raft River at 8:00 p.m.

The Red Devils drew by in the first round. At 8:00 Murtaugh and Hansen jayvee squads square off to open the first night of the junior varsity tournament.

In the opener it was a matter of just how much Oakley fired power as the smallest Trojan left again in the second half.

The first half was tight as an inspired effort by Darrington kept the Trojans in the ball game. Darrington hit 12 in the first two quarters, and his team only trailed 28-24 at the half.

Kim Martindale had kept the Hornets in the ballgame early as he hit eight quick points and showed the Hornets into a 17-10 lead.

Athletics Sign First Round Choice

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The Oakland A's announced Wednesday the signing of righthanded pitcher Marshall Crossan, their first round pick in the first free agent draft, to a contract, and said he will report to spring training with the club at Mesa, Ariz.

An A's spokesman said Crossan, an 18-year-old native of Vancouver, Wash., has been assigned to the Des Moines club of the reactivated American Association. For the first time this year all A's farmhands will be spring training with the big club.

The A's open their main camp for pitchers and catchers at Mesa, Ariz., Thursday. The hands do not report until mid-March.

Crossan, who stands 6-1 and weighs 180 pounds, had a 3-4 record with 11 strikeouts for the High School in Vancouver as a senior. He averaged 13 strikeouts per game and once struck out many as 19 in a season-winning game.

He currently is a student at San Jose City College.

Davidson Tops Duke In Overtime

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Fourth ranked Davidson scored eight points in overtime Wednesday while holding Duke scoreless and downed the Blue Devils 88-80.

The Wildcats came from behind to tie the score in regulation play on a foul shot by center Mike Maloy with three seconds left.

The Blue Devils had led the Wildcats by as many as 10 points in the first half and held a 43-40 advantage at the half.

Guard Dick Devenizio led the Blue Devils with 28 points while sophomore center Randy Denton added 14 points and 23 rebounds.

The Duke zone defense kept Davidson from scoring a single field goal for four minutes during the first half. Davidson shot 39 per cent from the floor during the first half.

Maloy sparked the Wildcats with 28 points while forward Jerry Kroll added 10 points and forward Doug Cook shot 15.

Cook grabbed 11 rebounds, many of them in the crucial overtime period.

Van Arsdale Stuns New York Cincinnati (UPI)

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Tom Van Arsdale scored 21 points and Oscar Robertson added 19 points and 16 assists Wednesday night as the Cincinnati Royals dealt the stumped New York Knicks their second straight loss, 110-100.

The Royals, given a boost by 21 rebounds by Jerry Lucas, trailed 18-21 in the first half but again hit it well in the final quarter and then pulled away again in the closing minutes.

The Knicks trailed 98-81 with five minutes left but ran off nine straight points to close the game to 99-92.

Dierking, with two clutch baskets for the Royals to give them an eight-point edge.

Guard Walt Frazier, with 27 points, and Dick Barnett, with 26, were the top scorers for New York.

Pistol Pete Nears Hayes'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Frank Selvy, Bob Pettit, Oscar Robertson and Batley Howell have all posted aside for "Pistol Pete" Maravich; now it's Elvin Hayes.

The high-scoring Louisiana State junior needs only 37 more points to tie the "Big E" and thus post the biggest two-year total in NCAA basketball history.

Those 37 points could come Saturday night when LSU and Maravich are at six-ranked Kentucky. Pete got 52 against the Wildcats earlier this year.

Maravich is traveling at a 43.9 ppg clip this season, currently has 2,059 points in 47 games to go to 2,096.

The only other player ever to score more points in two years was Oscar Robertson, who averaged 41.7 ppg in 69 last year.

Next was Pettit, a former Louisiana State star, who averaged 37.8 ppg in 69 last year.

Pettit's Southeastern Conference record of 60 points in one game was erased when "Pistol" scored 69 in 69 last year against Tulane.

Then Maravich marched past Robertson's former record for most points scored in one game by a junior, 1,888, and the SEC career high (2,030) which Howell set in three years in Mississippi State a decade ago.

Maravich should have little trouble reaching his final goal of 2,000 points. That would be Robertson's NCAA career high of 2,973, a mark "Pistol Pete" can top even if he averages "only" 30 ppg the rest of the way.

Maravich's assault on the scoring records highlights Saturday's basketball slate here in the Southeast since he will be the SEC race all but wrapped up.

10 Of 19 Report To Expos Camp

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Ten of the 19 pitchers and catchers on the Montreal Expos' roster reported Wednesday for the first day of spring workouts ever held by the expansion club.

An 11th player, Bob Dalley, who arrived in camp a week early Tuesday because he's going to try to learn to play first base, was also on hand.

The eight pitchers were Mike Wegener, Danny McGinn, Ernie McNally, Carl Morton, Mike Oates, Bob Reynolds, Jerry Robertson and Ed Silverman.

A ninth pitcher, Jack Billingham, arrived in camp but refused to work out because Billingham is slated to be the Expo's No. 3 starter behind Larry Spivey and Mudgett Grant. Neither of them was on hand.

The catchers who reported were John Bateman and Ron Brand.

Bateman played in 111 games last year. Brand played in 40 games for the Astros and hit .100. Dalley played in 106 games for the Dodgers and hit .227.

Defending his decision to delay the players' strike over the pension plan, Dalley said, "I was never in favor of the strike right from the start."

He from now on, "I'm here to play. I think they can settle this without me in it." He also said he had a weight problem but had lost it and figured he needed the extra work.

Bucks' Chief Denies Secret Flip Of Coin

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The president of the Milwaukee Bucks said Wednesday that any reports that he had tossed a secret coin flip that gave the expansion club the rights to Lew Alcindor were "absolutely untrue."

Ray Patterson said further that the coin flip — when there is one — will be open to the press and will be a show.

That the National Basketball Association is using no "shenanigans" in its effort to win the NBA-UCLA star from the rival American Basketball Association.

"The ABA, as reported, has staged a secret draft for Alcindor," Patterson said. "I don't see how that's untrue."

"Talk about 'fixing' a college basketball player," Patterson said. "I'd like to see you fix the present season," Patterson said.

"Just imagine a team trying to win a game and facing the prospect of getting a player of Alcindor's size. The odds like giving a ball club a split personality. What would be the sense of finishing the season?"

"One league or the other will not be held until the last place teams in each division are finally determined," he said.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ken Burdett tallied 21 points and Larry Cannon added 24 as fifth-ranked LaSalle had too many guns for tenth-ranked Duquesne Wednesday night and handed the Dukes an 85-71 defeat.

Women's Section

DEAR ABBY: Due to a serious illness during my childhood, I was advised that I could never have any children. Physically, things aren't any different with me than with other men, and my condition has been kept a secret between me and my parents.

I was married two years ago to a beautiful, outgoing girl. She never mentioned anything about having a family, and I have no reason to tell her about the way things are with me.

Well, she is now pregnant, and things aren't any different. My mother says if my wife doesn't tell me who the father is, SHE will ask her.

Of course I would like to get things straightened around with my wife, but I don't know how to handle it.

Should I go on pretending to believe the baby is mine? What if my mother says something to my wife even after I warn her not to?

I love my wife, but I am sure bewildered.
NO NAME, NO TOWN

DEAR NO NAME: First go to a doctor (urologist, if possible). Men have been known to father children after having been told they were unable. If the child can't possibly be yours, you tell your wife the whole story, and ask her to tell you HERS, and tell your mother to stay out of it.

(P.S. It's not your credit to have married the girl without having told her of your condition.)

DEAR ABBY: There is this man in whom I could be very much interested—but he has one outstanding fault. He talks about himself all the time.

He is nice looking, successful in his business and is very good.

The Feb. 20 meeting will be with Mrs. Harley Rountrree, Twin Falls.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a white satin gown which she made. It featured a beaded neckline and lily point sleeves. Her lace veil, which extended into a chapel train, was held by a crown of white beaded flowers. sins" women commit in fashion, the women-epoke-of-dressing-to the dictates of the very young and moment, too precisely.
Or, as Mrs. Harilaos Theodoracopoulos, of New York and Athens, puts it, "dressing too young for their age. With today's fashions, which are so becoming to teen-agers, the over-30 woman has to be more selective." Mrs. Theodoracopoulos was the model Betsy Pickering until her marriage to the Greek shipping magnate.
"Trying to look much younger than they are" was the cardinal sin Mrs. Gianni Uzielli listed. The blonde young beauty is the former Anne Ford, who one year was paired with her sister, Charlotte Ford, Marchon, on the best-dressed list. On the latest ratings, Mrs. Uzielli made it on her own.
The two were among five on the current list whom I cornered for a talk one early afternoon when I showed up to have their hair done by Marc Sinclair, a Park Avenue hair stylist with a jet set following.
All five graciously filled out questionnaires on assorted fashion topics.
"Being too fashiony," was the sin Mrs. Sherman (Louise) Savitt listed.
"Following the fashion of the moment too precisely," said Mrs. Ahmed Elergun, whose husband owns a record company.
"The women don't look in a three-way mirror before they go out the door," said Mrs. William (Chessy) Rayner.

Faith Changes Life Of Pianist In Dance Band

By DANIEL NEGRIS

Clergyman, Worcester, Mass.

I could play piano before I could read music. "A gift from God," my parents used to say, but I had other ideas.

At 15, I was working with dance bands in my Brooklyn neighborhood. In a couple of years, I was earning enough to decide I didn't need any more schooling, so I quit, though my parents strongly disapproved.

One night, an older saxophonist with whom I had been working, extracted a long, slender, obviously home-made cigarette from his shirt and, grinning slyly, announced, "C'mon, man, get with it!"

I knew it was marijuana. I also knew it was supposed to be "in" with jazz musicians, these "trips" to "happy town," that this was the first time I had directly encountered it.

I did not want my friend to know how ineffectual I was, so I accepted the offer, just like a real prodigal son.

Then, on the first night out on a new tour, it was unpacking my suitcase and saw a book tucked among my suits. It was the Bible; I realized my mother had put it there. I never read it, but I kept it in my suitcase.

Overnight, it seemed, the jobs stopped coming. Too often I'd offered, "I should 'keep' high," but I'd insist on working hard and I'd disgust the band leader. At 23, it looked as if I were finished.

After months without work, a job offer finally came for a band in Salisbury, Md. I did a lot of thinking in Salisbury, but got nowhere.

Then, one night in my room, the thought crossed my mind that my mother's Bible was in my suitcase. I did something I had not done in years. I took out the Bible and began to flip the pages.

Matthew I stopped at Jesus' words: "Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." These words sank deeply into me. Try as I might, I could not forget them. Could Jesus have meant even those who had sinned as much as I had?

Then I prayed: "Lord, forgive me and take away my burden." That was when Christ became as real to me as the sound of piano keys. I was filled with His Spirit, washed of my sin and pulled, overwhelmed by His infinite love and purified by His matchless grace.

Since that night, I have launched a personal crusade of doing for teenagers what I still wish somebody had done for me. I tell them that drugs are a retreat from life. If you want your existence to have any meaning, reach out in your own way to the Lord. He loves you. He is, at this very moment, here in our midst to show us the way.

Next - Jim Nabors, star of TV's "Gomer Pyle," tells how success came, starting the day he put God in the center of his life.

But something else was happening. I was growing increasingly dependent on confidence. I started smoking between performances, before showing up for work, after hours - in fact, every waking moment. Then I tried heroin.

A "heroin high" was different feeling and effect from "pot high." On "pot," I couldn't function properly - and didn't care. I was told by the junkies that this was normal and that I should "keep cool."

On my rare visits home, I could see that my parents were worried about me, although they were unaware of my activities. They had always been religious, so I was prepared when my dad said, "you're not using your talents for the right purpose. God wants better things from you."

"Okay, Dad," I said, knowing I didn't mean it. "Someday I'll come home and set down, just like a real prodigal son."

Nixon Names John Shaffer As FAA Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Nixon's choice to be head of the Federal Aviation Administration is John H. Shaffer, aerospace industry official, once-time jet pilot and life-long Republican, sources said Tuesday.

Shaffer, 49, currently a vice president for TRW Inc., a major aerospace and auto parts manufacturer, would replace David D. Thomas, acting administrator of the FAA. Thomas has been in the top job there since Gen. William McKeever resigned late last year.

Shaffer would take over the FAA, one of the agencies that makes up the Transportation Department, in the midst of growing controversy over airport and airway congestion and air safety—all problems generated by the boom in air travel.

Shaffer, a West Point graduate, and a former Air Force lieutenant colonel, was project production officer for the B50 bomber, and was weapons system manager for the B47 jet bomber. He spent 11 years in the Air Force.
