

Nixon Has Lunch With Queen, Sees Parliament

LONDON (UPI) — President Nixon lunched today with Queen Elizabeth II then paid a short, unscheduled visit to the House of Commons where he heard Prime Minister Harold Wilson extol Nixon's pledge to consult the NATO allies before holding any summit talks with the Russians.

Nixon was believed to be the first U.S. chief executive to visit the British parliament while it was in session.

Outside the gilded splendor of Buckingham Palace, what had been billed as the biggest anti-Nixon demonstration in Britain flopped miserably. Several dozen leftists shouted "down with Nixon!" and threw two rotten apples which fell far short of their mark.

In contrast a crowd of several thousand persons applauded politely and cheered as Nixon arrived with Wilson. They were still there when lunch was over and Nixon left his limousine to shake hands with some of them.

Conservative Rear Admiral Wilson to express to Nixon "our appreciation of the contribution made to the security of Europe by the United States over a period of years."

Wilson replied "I have already expressed this sentiment in a letter to President Nixon. I see that your views are appropriately conveyed to the President."

This was greeted with loud laughter as Nixon was listening. Parliamentary procedure includes a fiction that the presence of members of the public and visitors is ignored.

County Refuses To Authorize Library District In East End

The Twin Falls County Commissioners refused Monday afternoon to authorize the creation of a Hansen-Murtaugh library district.

The action followed by hours a public hearing, at which an estimated 60 people attended. Most voiced opposition to creating a library district in Hansen and Murtaugh.

According to County Commissioner Heber Loughmiller, the people want a library district in that area they can have the right to vote on it.

About a month ago petitions bearing 435 signatures were presented to the Twin Falls County clerk. The petitions called for creation of a library district in Hansen and Murtaugh.

Only 301 signatures were needed. By Idaho law, if enough signatures are collected on petitions, the county commissioners are bound to create a library district. However, the commissioners must hold a public hearing and, if there is doubt, they can recommend an election be held in the district concerned.

Monday the county clerk questioned several signatures appearing on the petitions. "It appeared some signatures were on the petitions 'more than once'."

The commissioners said because of the opposition voiced at the public hearing, and because of the doubt of the validity of some of the signatures of the petitions, "The people in the Hansen-Murtaugh area can vote on the library district matter if they choose to do so."

Mr. Loughmiller said petitions can be circulated again in that area. The petitions, this time, will call for an election on the issue.

If enough signatures — 391 — are collected, then an election will be held among all voters in the Hansen and Murtaugh area.

Commissioner William Chaney said the people against creation of the library district "were against it because it meant higher taxes."

Commissioner Morris Carlson said, "Taxes are what this controversy is all about. They just don't want higher taxes in that district."

If the district is created, financing is provided through a levy on property located in the district. The levy is established once the district is formed.

Only those people who live in the district would be assessed for the library district. The district, if created, would allow residents in the Murtaugh and Hansen area to use the library facilities in Twin Falls.

Residents would also get free bookmobile service, and bookmobile stops would be made at schools in the district.

Mr. Loughmiller said if enough signatures are gathered on petitions calling for an election, "The fair way to do it is to have an election."

'Obscenity' Measure Stalled By Protests

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — Educators, librarians and merchants raised objections to a bill in the Idaho Legislature to crack down on obscenity and pornography in Idaho.

As a result of a 30-minute hearing on the bill, the House Judiciary and Rules Committee named a subcommittee to work with opponents and report back Saturday on whether amendments can be drawn.

Speaking for the Idaho Librarians Association, Bill Hayes of Boise told the committee there is a national commission now studying the question. He said he believed the commission would have its report ready in 15 to 18 months.

Accordingly, he said, the Idaho Legislature should not pass any legislation until it gets "scientific, unbiased and unemotional reports" on the problem from the national commission.

Hayes said that it imposes on each defendant the responsibility of knowing what is obscene while it leaves the definition of "obscenity" to each judge.

Hayes said Idaho already has an "effective law on the books" and suggested it could serve as a sufficient protection to the public until the national commission submits its report.

He also questioned whether the bill would have a sufficient protection to the public until the national commission submits its report.

Hayes said that it imposes on each defendant the responsibility of knowing what is obscene while it leaves the definition of "obscenity" to each judge.

Youths Given Right Of 'Peaceful' Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that high school students have the right to conduct symbolic protests such as wearing black armbands if they do not disrupt discipline or violate the rights of others.

The 7-2 decision by a 5-4 majority, written by Justice Hugo L. Black, who asserted the right of students to wear armbands "is one of their inalienable rights" and will encourage the current wave of student defiance.

Specifically, the court declared that the Des Moines school board was wrong in 1955 when it barred three students from wearing armbands of mourning for Vietnam War dead.

Justice Abe Fortas said in the majority opinion that the constitutional right of free speech was involved and that the school authorities had established there was "any imminent danger of disorder or a breakdown of discipline."

Black, senior justice on the court, wrote a blistering dissent and spoke out in angry objection at today's public session.

"One does not need to be a prophet or the son of a prophet to know that after the court's holdings today that annual students in Iowa schools and indeed in all schools will be ready, able and willing to defy their teachers on practically all orders."

"One who is more unfortunate than the schools since groups of students all over the land already running loose, conducting break-ins, sit-ins, lie-ins and such things."

Black, who will be 83 on Thursday, said the decision "is revolutionary area of permissiveness in this country fostered by the judiciary."

In one of the angriest dissents in recent court history, he commented, "This case... my judgment subjects all the public schools in this country to the whims and caprices of their loudest minority, but maybe not their brightest students."

As his colleagues listened in silence, Black declared from the bench "I discipline any belief in any thing, any word or any sentence of what the court did today."

Justice John M. Harlan also dissented but on a separate, less stormy grounds.

For the majority, Fortas stressed the right of a high school student in freedom of speech.

Advisor Killed

QUANG NGAI CITY, South Vietnam (UPI) — Communists killed an employe of the U.S. Agency for International Development in his home early Sunday. George B. Gaines, 47, of Chicago, a civilian advisor in the northern province of Quang Nam, died in a strictly unprovoked killing when gunfire and five explosions erupted around his home.

Against hazards which are electrical, mechanical and thermal in articles used by children, it said such hazards are not now covered by Federal law.

The commission's report to Congress and President Nixon told of testimony from the Rev. John R. Dreyer, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church in Wellsville, Ohio, whose year-old son, Johnny, was strangled in a crib.

"According to testimony given by the commission, the tragedy was attributable to a

North Viets Launch Attack Against U.S. Marine Unit

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese soldiers, some with explosive charges strapped to their bodies, sprang from the jungle darkness today and smashed into two U.S. Marine camps just below the Demilitarized Zone.

Reports from the battlefront said at least 36 Marines were killed and 113 wounded. More than 55 Communists died in the human wave assaults.

Part of the 40,000-man guerrilla force that has battered U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers guarding the city, despite one of the heaviest Allied bombardments of the war into the capital's "rocket belt." Shock waves from the Allied bombs and shells rolled across Saigon all night.

A U.S. spokesman said 2,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had perished in the offensive since Sunday. But the Reds gave no sign they were ready to give it up. A Viet Cong broadcast said the reprisal offensive showed how strong the Communists are.

U.S. 25th Infantry Division soldiers at gun bases protecting Saigon killed 98 guerrillas in two battles of approach routes from Cambodia. In one, the Communists fired tear and nausea gas into the American base but the wind blew it back at them. U.S. losses were light, spokesman said.

Wave upon wave of B52 bombers splattered 1.4 million pounds of explosives into the burgeoning Red buildup which U.S. Intelligence says has an ultimate goal—Saigon. American planes for the first time range rockets hidden on the outskirts of the capital.

Screaming and with 10-pound incendiary charges strapped to their bodies, North Vietnamese soldiers followed a thunderous mortar barrage into the two U.S. Marine gun bases near the DMZ, which has been demilitarized since 1954.

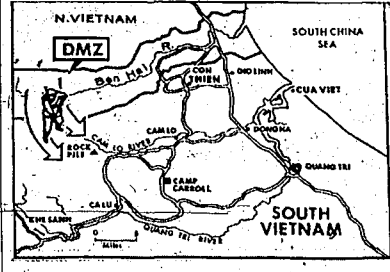

The battle began at 4 a.m. and by 6:30 it was over. Bodies littered the ravaged Marine camps.

The Marine losses brought to 188 Americans dead and more than 1,000 wounded since the Communist offensive since Sunday.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 30 of its soldiers had perished and 1,003 had suffered wounds in fighting the offensive. Almost half that many South Vietnamese civilians had been killed, it was said below the DMZ.

Hailey Sets March 4 Vote On Sewer Plan

HAILEY — Qualified voters will go to the polls March 4 to vote on a Revenue Bond for a sewer and new water system for the city.

Cost of the combined project is $340,000, with $200,000 given to the city last November by the federal government.

At the February meeting of the City Council engineer Carlisle Briggs announced the government had raised this amount by $70,000. Above that there is an outright grant in the amount of $27,000 from the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration. At the present time the city has some $16,000 in the water fund which can be applied towards the cost.

The Hailey Chamber of Commerce is assisting in presenting the plan to the citizens here and con. In an information sheet it states the present water system is inadequate, unsanitary, and the sewer system is insufficient for fire prevention. At any time the citizens could be without water for many days due to collapse of old wooden water mains.

Septic tanks and cesspools in addition to direct dumping of raw sewage into the river is the cause of the present pollution of the upper water table in some properties is nearing the saturation point.

The information sheet states that the Idaho State Board of Health has temporarily certified the city's water system, and that the sewer system is in need of repairs, and present income from the water system may not be sufficient to cover the cost of the future installation of a water and sewer system.

During the summer of 1968 the water system suffered 40 breaks, and present income from the water system may not be sufficient to cover the cost of the future installation of a water and sewer system.

Boise Man Faces Drugs Charge Here

Wesley F. Keeton, 33, Boise, appeared in Twin Falls County Probate Court Monday and asked for a preliminary hearing on a charge of fraudulent procurement of drugs.

He is accused of making a false statement to get a prescription; using a false name to get the prescription; and obtaining the prescription in violation of the law. The charge against him alleges the violations took place in Twin Falls on Jan. 10 and Jan. 21, 1969.

His preliminary hearing will be held at 10 a.m. March 24 before Probate Court Judge Richard Reed. Mr. Keeton is free on $5,000 bond.

T.E. School Board Offers Contracts To Teachers

The Twin Falls school trustees met in special session Monday to reappoint teachers for 1969-70 contracts.

The board voted that contracts for the new school year be offered to those teachers who are recommended by the administrative staff. Recommendations apply to those whose quality of work is acceptable, to those who qualify for an Idaho certificate, to those who meet accreditation standards of the state and the Northwest Accredited Association of Secondary Schools, and to those holding provisional certificates who show an approved college plan leading to a degree and standard certificate.

The resignation of Paul Esperson, eighth grade teacher at O'Leary Junior High School, effective after March 14, was submitted to the board by an assistant superintendent. The trustees accepted the resignation with the stipulation that one per cent of his annual salary be retained as liquidated damages and not as penalty for failure to complete his contract.

Dr. England said funds will likely be available for the purchase of a new building classroom unit. Trustees gave approval to the purchase. All requirements can be satisfied in making such a purchase.

Congressman Queries Role Of Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The future role of Federal Regulatory Agencies under the Nixon administration was questioned Monday because of the removal of the Securities and Exchange Commission Chairman practically the eve of his scheduled testimony before Congress.

Chairman John E. Moss of the House Subcommittee on Commerce and Finance said the "dismissal of Manuel F. Cohen as SEC chairman by President Nixon on Saturday," occurring at the moment of scheduled hearings by his subcommittee, raises all sorts of questions.

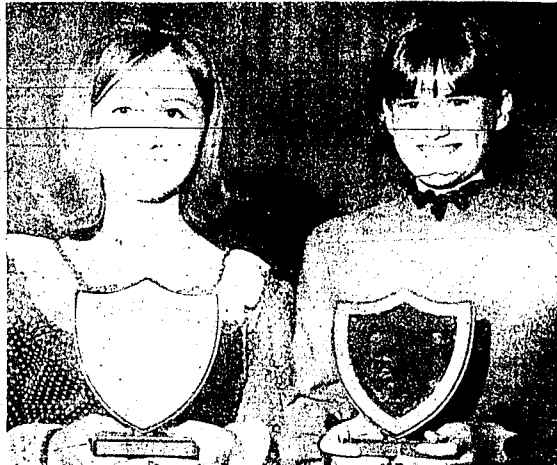

It leads to speculation of the administration's posture in the regulatory arena coming as precipitously as it did," Moss said.

The California Democrat announced that Cohen's successor, former head of the Internal Revenue Service, would replace Cohen as the opening witness Tuesday at hearings into problems of the stock market. Moss said Cohen would be called to testify later in the week.

"His (Cohen's) dismissal at this time is a disservice to the Commission, the industry and the public," Moss added. He said, however, "I have no intention whatever of making an issue in the hearings of Mr. Cohen's dismissal."

Moss acknowledged Nixon's presidential power to remove and appoint SEC chairman but he said "I would have hoped there would be more transitional time in view of the delicacy of the market."

"I look forward now to what Mr. Budge has to say," Moss added. "I have no reason to believe that what Mr. Cohen will have to tell us will be any different than what Mr. Budge will say."

AN ORATORICAL CONTEST featuring 13 ninth grade speakers was held last week at Robert Stuart Junior High School and Patty Dodson, left, wound up the winner. Marleta Bastian was first runnerup in the contest. Plaques were donated by Modern Woodmen of America and the theme dealt with the family. The girls are shown here with their plaques. The contest is designed to encourage appreciation of citizenship in America's youth.

Taxes On Many Groups Exempted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A former head of the Internal Revenue Service urged Congress Monday to tax business profits of all exempted groups, such as church-owned giraffe factories, school bookstores, Girl Scout magazines and farmer cooperatives.

Mortimer M. Caplin, IRS chief in the Kennedy administration, told the House Ways and Means Committee that tax-exempt organizations and groups have an "unfair business competition." The committee is investigating abuses in the tax laws.

"The general taxpayer is being asked to subsidize the commercial encroachment of those to whom Congress has granted the unique privilege of tax exemption," Caplin told the panel.

But the Girl Scouts, represented by Mrs. Orville L. Freeman, wife of the former agriculture secretary, opposed taxation of its advertising income. Mrs. Freeman told the committee that various Girl Scout magazines perform an "important service" and the ads help offset the costs.

Now a private lawyer, Caplin said business involvement by tax-free groups is not confined to foundations—which have been the target of recent committee hearings.

He said churches own giraffe factories, photograph companies, clothing firms, trailers, real estate, oil wells and other businesses. Large college bookstores, Caplin said, were in effect "university-owned department stores." He also asked that farm cooperatives be taxed.

News Report Says Nixon Will Sell Miami Property

MIAMI (UPI)—The Miami Herald said in its Tuesday morning edition that President Nixon plans to sell his interest in an island off Miami Beach for $350,000.

The newspaper said Nixon is selling about 375,000 shares of stock in the Fisher Island Corp. to avoid any chance of a conflict of interest charge that might arise from future development of the island.

The corporation is headed by Nixon's close friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo. The corporation will buy Nixon's stock for $2 a share, almost twice as much as Nixon paid when he began buying the stock in 1962, the newspaper said.

Nixon's investment in the 213-acre island is his largest single asset, according to a statement of his personal and business holdings issued during the presidential campaign. He listed his net worth at $515,830.

Trading Stamps Cost Family Week's Groceries Per Year

ROBERT F. BUCKHORN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressman told the Federal Trade Commission Monday that trading stamps cost the average American family a week's worth of groceries every year.

"While I do not want to eliminate trading stamps," said Rep. Lester I. Wolff, D-N.Y., "there should be an option for the housewife to exchange her stamps for either cash or the premium."

Wolff testified before an FTC hearing on rules it proposed last Jan. 5 to regulate gasoline stations "sweepstakes" and other commercial games intended to promote trade.

"It has been clearly demonstrated that trading stamps add 2 per cent to the cost of food for the average family," Wolff said. "Since the annual cost of food is $50 billion, this means the annual cost of trading stamps is $1 billion."

"Without the cost of trading stamps every American family could have the equivalent of one week's groceries free every year," he said.

Emphasizing that he did not advocate outlawing trading stamps—"my own wife saves stamps—I can't take a stand against my own wife," Wolff said the FTC had been guilty of "nonfeasance" in not regulating trading stamp practices.

He said there was a parallel between trading stamps and games sponsored by the oil companies, which the FTC said sometimes involved unfair and deceptive practices.

The FTC staff study concluded few larger prizes were awarded to the millions of persons playing the games once the original opening promotion had induced large numbers to participate.

Argentina May Mediate Dispute With U. S., Peru

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Argentina indicated Monday it has offered to mediate the dispute between the United States and Peru over political problems.

Relations between Peru and the United States have worsened in recent weeks after Peruvian seizure without compensation of valuable American oil properties and actions taken by Peru against American fishing boats alleged to be violating territorial waters.

Argentine Foreign Ministry sources said in Buenos Aires that the issues between the United States and Peru were being discussed "at the highest levels" in light of an Argentine offer to mediate.

Argentine officials, however, declined to discuss the reports.

In Lima, the Peruvian government had no comment on the mediation reports. Some skepticism was expressed, however, in light of Peru's previous insistence that its problems with the U.S. must be resolved on the basis of Peruvian law.

There was likewise no comment in Lima on reports abroad that the Nixon administration had offered to send a special presidential envoy to Lima to discuss problems between the two nations, if Argentina did indeed mediate.

Deduction For Students Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., today proposed legislation to provide a $1,000 federal income tax deduction to students or their parents to help meet the "skyrocketing costs" of a college education.

In a speech prepared for Senate introduction of the bill, Scott said the deduction would be granted for the cost of tuition and fees up to a $1,000 annual limit.

"The deduction would be granted to parents for each child they are putting through college," he said. "Equally important, it would also be granted to students who, through their own initiative, are working to finance their own education."

"Parents and their college-age children are confronted today with two realities—the necessity for a college education properly to prepare young people for a career and the skyrocketing costs of that education," Scott said.

About Insurance

"We Have To Cut The Fat Out Of Spending"

Looked at your insurance recently?

Your home insurance may well be sagging badly. With costs of construction rising at approximately five per cent per year...

Improvement on a home will, of course, also increase its value.

If using the standard insurance basis of 80 per cent of replacement cost, for example, a homeowner has insured a $20,000 home for $16,000...

Most insurance policies put a premium on 80 per cent coverage—full replacement value of partial loss will be made to the limit of the policy...

Thus, insurance men point out, a roof with a replacement cost of $1,000, with an estimated life of perhaps 20 years, would be replaced in full if it blew off in a storm after, say, 10 years.

If insurance on the home totals less than 80 per cent of current replacement value, however, depreciation factors enter, and the 10-year old roof would bring only half its replacement value — $500 in this case.

A new endorsement to most insurance policies will soon be available in Idaho, possibly by the end of this month, to take care of this problem of rising replacement cost...

Coverage for homes and other private structures would be increased automatically one per cent over the policy's face value every three months, with an accompanying increase in premium.

Most policies have a three-year life, and this increase would boost the face value by four per cent per year, or 12 per cent over the life of the policy...

Insurance would be available, of course, without the endorsement.

The 80 per cent rule still holds, with 80 per cent coverage required for full operation of the endorsement.

So, check your insurance agent. After a fire or other disaster, it's pretty hard to upgrade your insurance!

Campus Precedents

A large body of what lawyers call "case law" is being written in the area of campus unrest. More and more students who have been disciplined for taking part in campus demonstrations are going to court...

One of the most recent is that of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit in Cincinnati, which confirmed the right of a school to regulate the conduct of its students and to expel students for violating those regulations.

The ruling, which upheld the decision of the federal court in Nashville, said in effect that the constitutional right of free speech of three students expelled from Tennessee A. & I. State University was not a license for activities designed to promote unrest and disrupt normal educational activities.

However, courts have not been of one mind in dealing with student demonstrators, says a Commerce Clearing House, which has made an analysis of decisions in this area.

A state-supported school just can't throw out a troublesome student and have done with him, a Missouri court held. In today's world, suspension and expulsion are often more severe and lasting penalties than a fine or a few days in jail. Thus schools are expected to comply with certain standards of fair play, including giving the accused an impartial hearing, making a written statement of the charges against him and permitting him to cross-examine his accuser.

Nor could a school use a rule banning "misconduct" as the only excuse for expelling disruptive members of the student activist group who tried to prevent a chemical company recruiter from conducting interviews, said a U.S. District Court in Wisconsin.

But a school can expel students for using four-letter words, a California court ruled. And blocking the entrance to a building to prevent law full access to it by others is not a legitimate exercise of free speech, said a federal court in Denver.

As for the disciplinary powers of private schools, a federal court in New York threw out a case brought by demonstrators on the ground that the government could not interfere with the internal affairs of a private institution.

So far, no case has gone as high as the Supreme Court, but it is likely that one will have to before a final determination on the rights of students, and of schools, is made.

RAY CROMLEY

Reds Skirting Vital Issues

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is a slushy pace at which President Nixon is responding to the Kremlin's bid for arms control talks.

As some close Nixon advisers see it, if we leap too quickly to arms control talks, it may, paradoxically, strengthen the hands of the Soviet hard-liners.

These advisers say that in the past, when the Soviet Union seemed to be moving toward talks with the United States, Americans invariably leaned to assume a new era had dawned in Moscow and that Soviet aims had changed.

Western suspicions thus were so thoroughly dispelled so very easily that Soviet reactionaries were able to convince their colleagues there was no danger in holding fast to hard-line aims while in such a mood.

Since there was no penalty for a Hungary, a Berlin blockade, a Czechoslovakia or for fomenting insurrections in Latin America, there was an incentive for the Kremlin to seriously attempt to reach a settlement with the West on these matters or to take any such action.

But if she doesn't take the job, who will protect the consumer? President Nixon will find somebody else — perhaps from McCall's or the Ladies Home Journal or Seventeen.

At the time of the thing, Clara said, blowing her nose. "Willie Mae Rogers believed in us. I wouldn't buy anything unless it was approved by Good Housekeeping."

"Clara, I don't want to defame you, but the only products that Good Housekeeping approved were those that advertised in the magazine. If you didn't advertise, you didn't get the approval for anything."

"It doesn't matter. Good Housekeeping would never accept an advertisement unless it was approved by Good Housekeeping."

"How do you know that?" "Because Willie Mae said so. If you can't believe in the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval, why can you believe in...?"

"Clara, get hold of yourself. Willie Mae would have definitely made a wonderful consultant on Consumer Affairs, but there was a conflict of interest."

"You see, she insisted on leaving her job at Good Housekeeping, and there were some congressmen who felt if she had to divide her loyalties between the magazine and the President, the consumer might come out on the short end."

"They can say that. But there is nothing more American than being approved by Good Housekeeping."

ART BUCHWALD

Seal Of Approval

WASHINGTON — I walked into the kitchen of a friend of mine the other day and found her crying.

"What on earth's the matter, Clara?" I asked.

"They won't let Willie Mae Rogers of Good Housekeeping be the President's consultant on Consumer Affairs."

"That was a disappointment to me also, Clara, but I didn't think you would take it so hard."

"But if she doesn't take the job, who will protect the consumer? President Nixon will find somebody else — perhaps from McCall's or the Ladies Home Journal or Seventeen."

"At the time of the thing, Clara said, blowing her nose. "Willie Mae Rogers believed in us. I wouldn't buy anything unless it was approved by Good Housekeeping."

"Clara, I don't want to defame you, but the only products that Good Housekeeping approved were those that advertised in the magazine. If you didn't advertise, you didn't get the approval for anything."

"It doesn't matter. Good Housekeeping would never accept an advertisement unless it was approved by Good Housekeeping."

"How do you know that?" "Because Willie Mae said so. If you can't believe in the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval, why can you believe in...?"

"Clara, get hold of yourself. Willie Mae would have definitely made a wonderful consultant on Consumer Affairs, but there was a conflict of interest."

"You see, she insisted on leaving her job at Good Housekeeping, and there were some congressmen who felt if she had to divide her loyalties between the magazine and the President, the consumer might come out on the short end."

"They can say that. But there is nothing more American than being approved by Good Housekeeping."

"I think President Nixon is sleeping better too, Clara."

before effective arms control can be achieved.

It is obvious that significant arms control is impossible regardless of whatever solemn promises are made by all parties concerned.

This does not mean that arms control talks must wait until all other major problems are solved. But there must be the right mix.

Several years ago my uncle had a gall bladder operation. At that time the doctor told me to be careful about what he ate because without the gall bladder he had nothing to throw off the poisons in his system.

Of course this sounds a little odd to me, but I wanted your opinion. Is there any kind of medication to prevent the effects of alcohol on the liver, lowering the body's blood sugar level?

Alcohol can exaggerate the symptoms of hypoglycemia (low blood sugar). This occurs — I won't go into a detailed explanation — because of the effect of alcohol on the liver, lowering the body's blood sugar level.

That is why, for people with normal blood sugar, a cocktail or two after dinner can stimulate the appetite. But the person with hypoglycemia can find his troubles intensified.

Dear Dr. Hosteson: Please give your opinion of two blue-eyed children. I say it is possible. An in-law says it is possible. —Mrs. E.H.I.

The in-law is correct. It is possible. It has happened, but it is very uncommon. A geneticist could explain why, in terms of genes and heredity, but it's decidedly complicated.

Dear Dr. Hosteson: Some months ago I had my doctor call a Bartholin cyst. I was very uncomfortable. A geneticist could explain why, in terms of genes and heredity, but it's decidedly complicated.

A good example of how some folks can be led astray by a little knowledge, it is true that the gonorrhoea germ is one cause of creating a cyst in a Bartholin gland, but cysts can form from plenty of other causes, including entirely different organisms.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Hosteson in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Hosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Hosteson: I have recently been told that I have an eye disorder known as phlyctenulosis. They say it quite often causes eye and eyelid irritation. How serious is it? —Mrs. B.B.

Phlyctenulosis is a yellow spot appearing in older people on the inner surface of the eye. It is usually painless, but it is related to what is called exposure, it does not interfere with vision.

MR. SPECTATOR

A Useful Edifice

There is not one individual we know of who can claim that this building in downtown Twin Falls in the spring of 1965 was not used to its utmost.

Who does Mr. Spectator think this? There are four reasons in all.

(2) A physician and surgeon had his office in the basement under the harness shop. Doctors have come a long way since then.

(4) A dentist had his office in the basement under the real estate firm.

Mr. Stuart Taylor stands at the doorway of the real estate office. The dentist stands at the top of the steps leading to his office and the harness shop owner stands in the doorway at the left.

The doctor was apparently out making a call.

So, as we pointed out, if you don't think this is using a building to the utmost you must be some kind of a nut.

Tomorrow we'll look at another historic picture of the area.

Only Token Debate Meets Court Reform In Idaho Senate

BOISE (UPI)—The 40th Idaho Legislature entered its 44th legislative day today with full calendars of debate scheduled in both the House and Senate. The State Senate, pushing through 30 court reform bills, was in session until shortly before 6 p.m. Monday—the latest either house has stayed on the job.

Bitter Debate Meets Senate Bill Allowing S&L Firms Right To Have Public Funds

By PAUL M. QUINN
BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Senate, in a bitter debate late Monday, agreed to amend a bill that would give savings and loan associations the right to receive state and public funds as deposits the same as banks.

A Lewiston Democrat, Sen. Carl Andrus, charged that bankers were "bringing pressure" on the legislature to try and destroy the intent of the bill amendments.

Sen. Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, laughed with Andrus after he asked her what profession she was in and she replied she was with a Boise firm of attorneys.

the state's massive court reform program started in 1965 sailed through the upper chamber Monday and were sent to the House with only token opposition.

It took the Senate nearly three hours to clear the 30 court reform bills, but the three hours culminated in a study on the proposals to revamp the lower court system by abolishing the present court system and substituting a consolidated system of magistrate courts.

Under the new system provided in the bill, the magistrate courts in each county would be under the district courts. The magistrates would be appointed for a period of two years by a County Magistrates Commission made up of the heads of the judicial districts in each district, a mayor of one of the cities in the district to be appointed by the governor and the chief district judge in each district.

AGNEW'S ROLE CLARIFIED
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been given "no new authority" and no additional duties because of President Nixon's decision to permit the country according to the White House.

Andrus said, "Once again we find the hard-handed bankers of the state at work." He said "I object to the bill on the methods they are using."

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, said the bill, which cleared the House earlier last week, had been considered for change "if just to bring about some compatibility."

Sen. Vern Brassey, R-Boise, said he was "confused" as to "just what's fair."

FRANCIS C. TURNER, left, has been named administrator of the Federal Highway Administration; and Sec. D. Browne, right, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be assistant secretary of transportation for research and technology. Committee Stalls Bill For 'Study' Driver-Licensing Reform Meets Delay

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI)—A comprehensive bill to revise Idaho's motor vehicle driver licensing code appeared in committee Monday and may not be introduced in the legislature until next year.

As written, the bill would affect farm exemptions in driver licensing because it's an unenforceable law," he told a newspaper after the meeting.

House Committee Ponders Earmarking School Funds

BOISE (UPI)—There appeared to be a growing sentiment in the House Education Committee Monday to earmark a definite piece of the 40th Idaho Legislature's increased appropriation to public schools for teacher salaries.

Members indicated they wanted to wait and see the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee's recommendations on education before supporting a bill of this nature.

George said, "We shouldn't tie the districts to a $500 raise for each teacher but we should give every district enough so they can give a $500 raise."

Handshake Is Way Of Life To French

By WILLIAM SUNDERLAND
PARIS (UPI)—To Americans a handshake is a greeting. To the French it is a way of life. Throughout Europe handshaking is much more common than in the United States. For example, women almost always shake hands with somebody when introduced.
 But the French carry it to an extreme.
 The first five or 10 minutes of every working morning is devoted to shaking hands. Upon arriving in the office, everybody shakes hands with everybody else. In an office of 20 or 30 persons this takes a bit of time. Everybody also says "How are you?" Nobody expects an answer.
 That's fine until lunchtime.

When there may be a few a French handshake. After lunch, the whole thing is repeated, along with the greeting "Did you eat well?" Generally no answer is required.
 When the day's work is over, everybody shakes hands as they march out the door.
 Once in the family, or with close friends, handshaking switches to cheek kissing. It's all very formalized, and different in Paris and the rest of the country.
 "Sex doesn't come into this matter—male kisses male, female kisses female, everybody kisses everybody else."
 In Paris it's the "double kiss." First left cheeks together, accompanied by a loud smack by both parties, then right cheeks, complete with smack. The lips really never touch the other person—just the cheeks.
 In the rest of France it is the "triple kiss"—same procedure but left-right-left.
 Hand kissing is less common, and an art unto itself. One warning to Americans—don't practice it, just doesn't come off.
 First, you don't kiss the hand of a woman unless she is married, or at least well into middle age. Secondly, the lips are not supposed to touch the hand, just hover above it. And no loud smack please.
 Bowing is out of fashion in France, unless you are meeting a visiting king or queen. And "I want to applaud the forthright stand you have taken," Nixon said.
 Heshburg last week announced that his individual group at Notre Dame that substituted "force for rational persuasion" would be given 15 minutes of meditation a day. If the disruption went on after 15 minutes, he said, the students would be suspended. At that point, violators would be provided five more minutes of meditation and then expelled.
 In his "Dear Ted" letter, Nixon disclosed that he had directed Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to discuss with the nation's governors this week "what action, consistent with the traditional independence of American universities, might be taken at the state and federal levels to cope with the growing lawlessness and violence on our campuses."
 The Chief Executive declared that the issues raised by the protesters ranged from minor academic reform to the major concerns of national policy.
 "But the means—some students—small, irresponsible incidents—employed to reflect an impatience with democratic processes, and intolerance of legitimately constituted authority, and a complete disregard for the rights of others," Nixon added.
 "Violence and vandalism have marred many of these protests, and the rights of the majority of the students have been grossly abused," the President added.

Nixon Praises 'Get-Tough' College Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon blames violent student protests on "a small, irresponsible minority" and applauded the get-tough policies of one college president, the White House disclosed Monday.
 Nixon, in a letter released Monday, told Notre Dame President Theodore Heshburg, that he shared Heshburg's concern over campus disorders across the country.
 "I want to applaud the forthright stand you have taken," Nixon said.
 Heshburg last week announced that his individual group at Notre Dame that substituted "force for rational persuasion" would be given 15 minutes of meditation a day. Promising Asian Engineers Offered Graduate Course In Special Problems

By ROBERT KAYLOR
BANGKOK (UPI)—A highway that might last for years in a dry climate can go to pieces in months in the tropics. Standard methods of treating sewage often fail in the hot and steamy climate of South Asia.
 These and other engineering problems peculiar to the region—plus a brain drain that saw bright young engineers leaving Asia—have inspired a new kind of international educational institution in Bangkok.
 It is the Asian Institute of Technology (AIT), a two-year graduate engineering school which allows promising graduates from Asia to continue their studies in Asian engineering, problems, and earn a master's degree.
 At the same time it keeps them from going to Europe or the United States to continue their education and possibly never coming back. The results of their research into Asian problems is available to engineers all over the continent.
 "There's never been an educational institution quite like this before," said AIT's president, Dr. Milton J. Bender Jr., in outlining the school's success in its first year and his ambitious plans to put the institute on a new 400-acre campus by next year.
 AIT opened its doors last year at temporary quarters provided by Bangkok's Chulalongkorn University under a charter from the Thai government giving it international status.
 It was an outgrowth of a small program in graduate engineering studies started by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) in 1958. The AIT was a special project of the former World Bank president, Eugene R. Black, who made several visits to Southeast Asia as President Johnson's adviser on economic affairs for the region. His board of directors now lists members from 10 countries.
 AIT is growing fast. Its first class consisted of 52 graduates from Pakistan, the Philippines, Taiwan and Thailand. The second class is more than double that size.
 The faculty is just as cosmopolitan, including professors from Asia, the United States, Britain and France.
 So far, students have covered a wide range of problems. A Pakistani did research to find out what road materials will best resist Asian humidity. A Thai delved into new ways to great sewage in the muggy Bangkok atmosphere.

 A Filipino did one of the first scientific studies on rainfall, on the island of Luzon. A Chinese studied the mechanics of landslides and how they can be prevented.
 Another Thai produced a thesis on the economic effects of new feeder roads that have opened up isolated villages in his nation's northeast regions.
 So far the biggest share of the financial support for AIT has come from American foreign aid funds, with Australia also contributing and the Lee Foundation of Singapore providing scholarship funds.
 Bender's $15.7 million capital development program over a 10-year period will require additional funds, however, and he hopes to put the emphasis on support from Asian nations themselves, from foundations and from private industry.

Want To Give Your Heart Away? See Your Lawyer

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI)—If you want to give your heart away—see a lawyer.
 In fact, if you plan to will your eye, lung, or other vital organ for a human transplant, make sure your intentions are on a legal document.
 One of the nation's top authorities on wills and trusts, R. G. Page, Jr., senior vice president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, said that since transplant of a vital organ must be made immediately after "death," legal authorization is vital because its lack could delay the operation until the organ is no longer usable.
 "We feel it's good business for someone who wishes to donate an organ of his body after death to make his intentions known through his attorney so that his wishes are carried out," Page said.
 To support this contention, his bank has distributed to members of the North Carolina Bar Association a suggested legal format for dealing with anatomical gifts. The format was prepared by leading attorneys in North Carolina.
 Page admitted that so far, there was a backlog of a flood of potential donors waiting down the door of the bank.

Six Recipients Of New Organs Said Recovering

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six transplant patients who received the heart, liver, kidneys and eye, cornneas of an unidentified donor last week were reported to be "progressing well" Monday.
 Mrs. Lynn Vanney, 27, who received the liver in the most difficult of the transplants, was described as in "excellent" condition.

Old Laws

Many Idaho laws are coming into the 20th century, but other laws are being held over from the days the state was wild and woolly.
 Laws, for example, are loose in the state. But there is one strong restriction still on the law books.
 Idaho is the only state in the nation where the law says to sell ammunition or guns to Indians.
 The law doesn't say anything about freewater.

Aquanaut's Death Diver's Death Blamed On Gas
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Aquonaut Berry M. Cannon's death on the floor of the ocean, 610 feet below the surface, was caused by carbon dioxide poisoning, county coroner R. L. Creason disclosed Monday.
 Cannon, 32, died Feb. 17 as he was about to enter the Sealab III habitat, marked on the ocean floor off San Clemente Island, for 12 days of living and working under water in the Navy's man against the sea program.
 "The method by which Cannon inhaled the lethal carbon dioxide was undeterminable at this time undeterminable and must await determination by a U.S. Navy board of investigation," Creason said.
 However, a Navy spokesman had acknowledged last Thursday that one of the diving rigs used by Cannon and his companions on the fatal dive contained a canister empty of the chemical which was used to absorb carbon dioxide from his air supply.
 The canister is located between two tanks on the diver's back. The helium-oxygen mixture which the diver breathes is circulated through the canister after he exhales so that it can be cleaned of the carbon dioxide waste from his body. The mixture is then recirculated for the aquanaut to breathe again. The empty canister meant the diver using the rig would breathe in carbon dioxide.
 The Navy refused to say whether it was Cannon's rig that was missing the air filter material, but the cause of death would indicate it was.
 Cannon's death was the first in the Sealab program since the Navy began its manned underwater exploration program in 1964.

DEAR ABBY: When I was little, I was spoiled by my parents and now that I am older I am still spoiled, so they yell at me and punish me. Do you think it is fair that I get yelled at and punished for their mistakes? R.R.

We all do quite well, but three of us are married with family obligations, and one is a single "career girl" in her early 40s. She has an excellent position and nobody to worry about but herself, and SHE thinks we should all pitch in EQUALLY for Mother's support.

DEAR ABBY: Yes. How and that children should quarrel over an "obligation" which should be considered a privilege.

Braves Sign Two Pitchers For New Year

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The Atlanta Braves signed one pitcher and another was reported on his way to camp Monday as the threatened players' boycott took another blow from the Braves.

Relief pitcher Ceell Ushaw, whose hesitation to sign was because of salary terms and not the pension squabble, is expected here, Ushaw, 37 last season, is reported to be ready to sign.

Meanwhile, a verbal skirmish between Phil Richards, Braves vice president, and catcher Joe Torre was going hot and heavy.

Explosive contract, however, has been reported by Phil Richards commented, "I don't care if he holds out until Thanksgiving, no more than he has contributed the last two years."

Torre retorted that maybe another club would be interested in his services and maybe Richards should check that possibility.

Richards denies, however, that friction exists between himself and Torre.

Lanier scored 41 points in a winning effort against Niagara and added 42 in a one-point overtime loss to DuPaul.

Also named in the team for the fourth time Monday was Jimmy Hayes of Boston University, who scored 74 points in three games and now holds the school scoring record.

Nothing happened until 30 seconds remained, where Swencan hit both ends of a one and one to apparently clinch it, but Tom Bush hit on a three point play, and CSI had one chance to tie it before another steal and a bucket clinched it for the Cardinals.

Issel Guides Kentucky To 108-79 Win

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Dan Issel's 35 points enabled Kentucky to continue its undefeated run in the Southeastern Conference title Monday night by defeating inept Alabama, 108-79.

The sixth-ranked Wildcats outscored the Crimson Tide 12-0 to take a commanding 25-8 lead with 11:10 remaining in the first half.

Kentucky, which was never challenged, is now 14-1 in the SEC and must only win two of its last three games to clinch the title, barring a loss by Tennessee.

Mike Pratt was next high for Kentucky with 20 points, while Mike Casey added 18. Alabama, 1-4 in SEC, was paced by Tommy Suits with 21 points.

The Crimson Tide's Gary Elliott, who usually provides the scoring punch, scored only six points because of an injury to his right hand suffered last Saturday night against Tennessee.

Villanova is favored to take the team championship and gain permanent possession of the ICA Cup. The talented Wildcats from Philadelphia have four legs on the trophy and need one more victory to gain permanent possession.

The Wildcats won five ICAA trophies since 1957 and 1963 trophies to retire the trophy and another title will give them another cup. Only two other schools—New York University and Manhattan—have retired trophies.

Maryland, strong in the field, expects to bring the field. Villanova is expected to challenge in the 1969 championships.

The Magic Valley Outlaw Tourney To Start Soon. The twelfth annual Magic Valley Basketball Tournament is slated for March 12, 13, 14 and 15, reports Lee Bartlett, this year's tourney being a 16 team single elimination affair.

Strict eligibility regulations will be in force as only a player that has not played with any other team during the tournament or has not played on or against any college or junior college or on any AAU basketball team is eligible to compete.

Only teams from the Magic Valley area will be invited, and to enter Mr. Bartlett must be contacted after 5 p.m. at 1740 Harrison Park Avenue in Twin Falls or at 733-2120.

Two More Cars Enter '500'. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Two more cars were entered Monday in the 1969 Indianapolis "500", bringing the field to 11 for the Memorial Day classic.

The list consists of cars owned by Walter Mechner, Jackson, Mich., and will be powered by turbocharged Offenhauser engines. No list was named for either, but Mechner said the crew chief for both cars will be Ray Dlan, Indianapolis.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway also announced that Goodyear will use the track March 3-7 and March 24-28. The race starts at 11 a.m. and will be run March 10-14 and March 17-21.

Red Wing Player Given OK Sign. DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit Red Wing defenseman Kent Douglas was given permission by team doctors Monday to return to the team.

Douglas, who has missed the last five games after suffering an eye injury in Minnesota Feb. 15, will practice Tuesday and power through the Wednesday game with the Canadiens in Montreal.

General Manager Sid Abel also made a player move, moving right hand defenseman Hnatum back to Fort Worth in the Central Hockey League.

Hnatum, 21, played 14 games last season with the Wings, scoring two goals and one assist.

Montana 75-65. MOSCOW — Jerry Smith and Phil Waddell led the Idaho Vandals to a 75-65 victory over the Montana Grizzlies Monday night in Moscow.

The Vandals led all the way, but came right at it though, but saw Montana tie it up later in the second half before putting on the final surge which earned them a 75-65 victory over the Grizzlies.

Montana scored 41 points in a winning effort against Niagara and added 42 in a one-point overtime loss to DuPaul.

Also named in the team for the fourth time Monday was Jimmy Hayes of Boston University, who scored 74 points in three games and now holds the school scoring record.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Don Canham, athletic director at the University of Michigan, said Monday major league baseball is throwing the nation's colleges a big swerving curve the universities can't handle.

He said the rule which permits the American and National leagues to draft college players after their 21st birthday is bad because "most college juniors are 21 during the spring and they (the pros) can "roll step in and take them—and they do."

"This type of thing has been happening throughout college baseball and it's certainly time they took an intelligent approach to recruiting," Canham said.

Last week the Seattle Pilots signed Dave Renkiewicz, a left-hander expected to be the Wolverines' best hurler this season. Big Ten batting champion Elliott Maddox "was signed" by the Detroit Tigers last summer while Steve Evans, Michigan's best sophomore hurler, was linked to a contract by the St. Louis Cardinals around the same time.

Jeff Zarr, a one-season senior two years ago, was signed by Cincinnati just before last season began.

"It's disgusting," echoed Benedit, "we work with these boys a year or two and they come in and take them."

If baseball doesn't adopt something like the pro football draft, Canham said, "it just simply isn't going to get any cooperation at all from the colleges."

Organized baseball is "so shortsighted it is uprooting the source of supply," he said.

ADVERSITY HOUNDS UNLUCKY EXPERT
At most tables in a duplicate North would wind up as declarer at either three or six no-trump. He would take the diamond finesse somewhere along the line and make either six or seven, depending on whether or not he could gather in four spade tricks.

In the average rubber bridge game South might well play in diamonds. He also would make his contract by means of the same diamond finesse.

We watched our old friend the Unlucky Expert play the hand.

enough, the only thing wrong with his play was the result. He went right up with dummy's ace of hearts. There was no point in giving up a trick in this suit. Then he led dummy's seven of diamonds to his king. Singleton queens have been known to drop on occasion. When the queen failed to fall, he entered dummy with the king of clubs and led the jack of diamonds. East played low. Our hero rose with the ace and was down to his last chance. He played his queen of spades, led the deuce of spades and called for dummy's 10. East wore a surprise trick with the jack of spades and three more with the king-queen of hearts and queen of trumps.

This is one time when we sympathize with our friend. He had taken the best percentage play for his contract but this time, the best percentage play turned out to be a loser.

IT WAS REPORTED a girl is apt to receive twice as many matrimonial proposals in the four years from age 18 through 22 as in the 12 years from age 23 through 35. Remarkable, no? What have the younger girls got that the older girls haven't? It turns out, Our Love and War man claims the report is misleading. Seventy-five per cent of the proposals he says, are crossed by 25 per cent of the men. These fellows are chronic proposers. They start young and move fast, suggesting matrimony to every young lady who slips into their car seat until they hear yes. Naturally, these chronic proposers get married quickly, and so become muzzled at an early age, at least temporarily. That's why a girl's proposal count is apt to fall off after the age of 23. Will print more on this later unless asked to let up.

Voyager Finds Strength In Prayer Amid Storms

By JOHN RIDGWAY

—We were on vacation at ourcroft in Scotland. That morning I was shaving, and only "half listening" to some interview program on the radio. A journalist named David Johnstone was talking about how he planned to row a boat across the ocean. In spite of myself I began to pay attention.

As an officer in the British Parachute Regiment, I had completed a number of fitness and survival tests in various parts of the world. Sometimes before partnered with Sergeant Clay Blyth, I had won a canoe race from Reading to London, a distance of 400 miles, but the Atlantic would be a survival test of a different order. Now I knew that I too, was going to row across the ocean.

I was surprised at how smoothly everything seemed to go—while we were still on land. My wife understood the challenge that this presented to me and gave it her blessing. When I had trouble finding a way to follow the course, Clay Blyth, volunteered to go with me. The Army granted us a leave for the survival experiment.

Ireland. We had made it. We had rowed across the Atlantic and stepped ashore at Kibroran. Those were the facts of the voyage that made the headlines. What to some people seemed like a foolhardy adventure really resulted in a new dimension of faith for us. That faith is best summed up in the log entry Chay made before we landed:

"It is almost as if some Divine hand had created conditions to help us, and then to guide us home. I'll step ashore as a humbler, wiser and more appreciative man."

(From the magazine Guideposts and copyright, 1968, by Guideposts Associates, Inc., Carmel, N.Y.)

Debt Limit Concept Set By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon proposed today a new concept for figuring the national debt limit, while also asking Congress to raise the present ceiling on the amount of money the government can borrow to $382 billion.

The law now imposes a limit of $365 billion. As of June 30, the so-called temporary ceiling will revert to a permanent maximum of $358 billion. The actual debt already is more than $363 billion.

Nixon, in a message made public by the White House, also asked Congress to make the debt limit conform to new budget concepts. Under this arrangement, trust funds—such as the big ones, the social security and highway funds—are figured into the government's total receipts and expenditures.

To conform with this approach, Nixon said, only those federal obligations held by the public—as opposed to federally owned agencies and by trust funds—should be subject to the statutory limit on the public debt.

By this basis, he added, a debt limit of $300 billion would be equivalent to the $352 billion limit he is requesting under the old system.

In his message Nixon said a new review of revenue and spending figures showed that the present $365 billion debt limit would be fractured by mid-April.

Nixon, who in his campaign for the presidency last fall pledged to reduce federal expenditures, declared: "These facts permit me only one prudent course of action. I must ask the congress to revise the debt limit before mid-April."

Chay and I had been at sea now for well over two months, and something important was happening to us. With 11 feet of threatened rain, with our feet and salt sores and the usual cramps making every hour a struggle of willpower, we slowly began to re-examine our lives.

At first, even in the worst of the hurricane, we were half ashamed to pray, because it seemed wrong to ask for help when for years we had prayed only in the sketchiest of ways. Chay recalled the times he had accompanied Manurea in church, and though he drew strength from the knowledge that she was praying for him, he realized for the first time how often he had been in his dealings with God.

But after the first three weeks of cold, wet and fear, we were praying steadily—serious, often wordless prayers. As I worked at the balling pump, I would pray for help and guidance. We knew it was right.

By the middle of August, we were down to half rations, less than 1,600 calories a day. If we did not receive fresh provisions soon, we might not have the strength to battle the next storm.

On the whole voyage we saw perhaps 100 ships, but only four saw us. Earlier, when two of these ships stopped and gave us our position, we had declined offers of food. Now we had an agonizing appraisal.

"That night I prayed for a ship. My fingers had become curled like claws from the shape of the oars. Painfully, I forced my hands together in the attitude I had soon taught as a child.

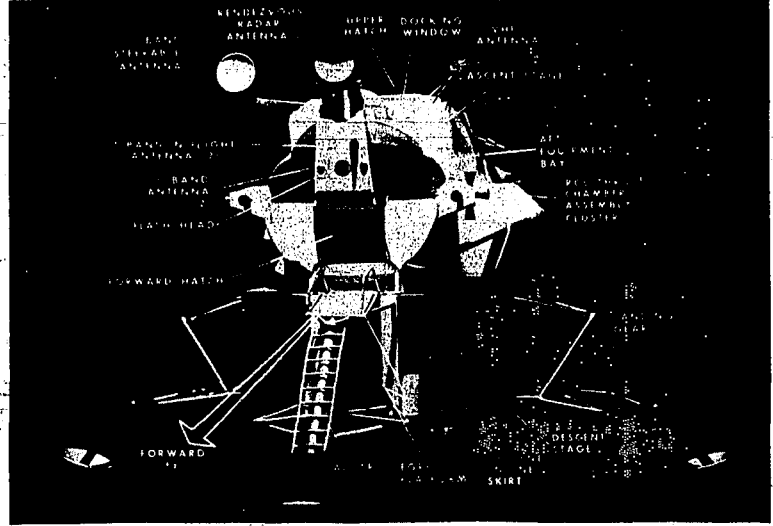

No sooner had I finished the prayer when a marvelous peace stole over me and I fell asleep certain that, whatever happened, we were in safe hands.

Eight days later, toward midday, Chay gave a shout, "A ship!"

We jumped up, shot our last flate. Minutes later we were seated with Captain Mitchell in the freighter Hausell's dining room enjoying coffee and eggs.

We left the Hausell with renewed supplies, strength and hope, far from the ship's navigation room, we had confirmed our own readings; we were only 200 miles from the Irish coast.

With spirits high and our goal almost within our grasp, we pressed on. Fighting through several more storms, we covered the remaining distance in 20 days. And on September 2, we stepped ashore at Kibroran.

'Serenaders' Quartet Is Lauded For Performance

By MARTHA MEAD

Concert goers were supremely gratified Saturday evening upon hearing the "Serenaders" quartet, who performed at the O'Leary Junior High School Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Twin Falls Federated Music Club.

Magic Valley patrons felt particular pride in the fact that two of the members of this outstanding group are natives of this area: Ralph McFarlane, son of Mrs. Ralph L. McFarlane, Twin Falls, and Roger Vincent, Filer.

Each member of the quartet is a solo performer. This sort of combination could produce four simultaneous solos; but these men are trained artists whose voices possess a complementary sonority; their diction is clear and their feeling for phrasing concurrent; these factors enable them to achieve a blending unity.

Accompanist James Angell is an exceptionally fine musician. He is so much a part of the group and so keenly sensitive to their moods, that, instead of just four voices sounding as one, all blend for a totally satisfying effect.

"Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee", from the cantata, "Sleepers Wake", by J. S. Bach, was a stately and beautiful opening for the program. The first group also included music of Mozart and Schubert.

Particularly effective was the moving "Lacrymosa" from Mozart's Requiem, sung with seeming empathy for the composer's personal involvement in this, the last choral piece credited to him in this monumental work, for it was still being composed on the day of his death.

The plaintive harmonies and delicate treatment of the words "Wanderers Nachtlied", by Schubert, created a spell of tranquility.

Ralph McFarlane, tenor, excelled in solo and arias. His aria, the Aubade, or music for dawn, from Lalo's opera "Le

Policy Noted On Concealed Weapon Laws

People traveling outside Twin Falls County and carrying a rifle in their car might run into trouble, it was reported Monday.

A Twin Falls man was arrested in Texas last year. He was going to San Diego, and didn't want to get into trouble. Sheriff's officers reported they have no control on laws in other states.

They also reported the policy on concealed weapons varies somewhat from county to county in Idaho.

High Court Rules Against School Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today ruled against a Midwest school board which in 1965 barred students from wearing black armbands in protest against the Vietnam War.

The armbands were designed to mourn the Vietnam dead and support extension of a pro-peace Christmas War truce in 1965.

Parents of students at the Des Moines, Iowa school—supported by the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU)—sued to bar the school authorities from enforcing the rule and for nominal money damages.

Speaking for a seven-man majority Justice Abe Fortas said "a student's rights... do not embrace merely the classroom hours."

"When he is in the cafeteria, or on the playing field, or on the campus during the authorized hours, he may express his opinions, even on controversial subjects like the conflict in Vietnam, if he does so without materially and substantially interfering with a normal discipline in the operation of the school," and without colliding with the rights of others," the opinion said.

Fortas added however that conduct by a "stirrer" in class or out, "which for any reason... materially disrupts classwork or involves substantial disorder or invasion of the rights of others, is, of course, not immunized by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech."

In the Iowa case, the opinion held, the school authorities had not shown any danger of coming trouble. They must show that their action "was caused by something more than a mere desire to avoid the discomfort and unpleasantness that always accompany an unpopular viewpoint," Fortas commented.

No Pursuers

GARDENA, Calif. (UPI)—Four bandits ordered customers in a cocktail lounge early Sunday: "Strip down."

The 17 men and women complied at gunpoint. They piled their clothes in a heap on the floor and lay down. The gunmen escaped with $3,568 from wallets, purses and cash registers.

Nobody immediately tried to follow the holdup men out the door.

Requiem" exhibited his ability to handle high passages and to respond sensitively to the quietly dramatic situation.

A Battelle was the setting for the duet, "Sotenne in quest'ora" from Verdi's Opera "La Forza del destino", ably and dramatically sung by Ralph McFarlane and Roger Vincent. To land the virtues of Roger's beautiful baritone to people of Magic Valley would be as superfluous as to proclaim today that the earth is round.

The last portion of the program was a delightful melange of folk songs, spirituals and musical comedy—beginning with a medley of songs from "The Wizard of Oz," arranged especially for the "Serenaders" by Harold Arlen.

Ralph McFarlane attended St. Edward's School and graduated from Twin Falls High School. He received his BA Degree in Music from Oberlin College in Ohio and his MA Degree in voice from Roosevelt University in Chicago. He presently resides in New York City, where he is singing professionally. He has been on Community Concert tour with the "Serenaders" for the past eight years.

This is Roger Vincent's second year as a member of this quartet.
