Controversial Movie Canceled At Burley

BURLEY—The movie "Candy," which has created considerable controversy, will not be shown in Burley, says Irvin Harris, theatre owner.

City councilmen discussed the situation with Mr. Harris at the city council meeting last week, noting the film has been banned in Provo, Salt Lake City and Boise and is termed as an obscene film.

Mayor Joe Peters said Saturday that Mr. Harris had canceled the showing and instead scheduled "Camelot" which will begin Wednesday at the Harris Theatre. Councilmen said they had received several phone calls asking that the film not be shown. Similar action was reported this past week in Twin Falls.

Cable TV Is Considered At Shoshone

SHOSHONE—Possibility of allowing a TV cable installation in Shoshone is being considered by the City Council.

At the Merch. meeting last week, Ben Knowlton, United Group Co. met with the council to explain the franchise needed. The company will guarantee five channels and if other communities surrounding Shoshone also join, there may be as many as another nine channels beside the five guaranteed that could be obtained here.

Cost per household per month would be $5 with an additional $1 for each TV set in the house. Initial installation per household is $10 with additional $5 for each extra TV set in the house.

The project could be completed within 18 months, Knowlton told councilmen who took the matter under advisement.

Kenneth Newman, vice president of Burrows, Smith Co., explained the feasibility study for the proposed sewer system for the city which recommends the city combine the existing water department with the sewer department in a utility to be known as the Water and Sewer System of Shoshone.

All water and sewer revenues would be co-mingled and net operating revenues (after payment of maintenance and operation costs) would be pledged to the payment of principal and interest on the proposed water and sewer revenue bonds.

A $395,000 bond election to obtain revenue is recommended.

Mayor Peters will check into the matter.

Building permits approved for remodeling at the Henderson's Service Station, West Main Street.

Jasper Kidd's Journeyman's plumber license were renewed.

Wilburn Roberts was granted a five-space trailer park application.

Mayor Joe Peters said Saturday that Mr. Harris had canceled the showing and instead scheduled "Camelot" which will begin Wednesday at the Harris Theatre. Councilmen said they had received several phone calls asking that the film not be shown. Similar action was reported this past week in Twin Falls.

Councilmen took under consideration a request by Norman Edwards, Paul and O'Neil Reihms, Burley, to establish a Municipal Airport for student instruction only.

At present Phil Payne's Skyways is under contract with the city and provides charter flights and offers student flying lessons. The matter was tabled until a contract with the Federal Aviation Administration is returned.

After making a change in the original contract on the new token parking meters in downtown the contract was approved.

Bills submitted by Bowd Woodward, 2408 Almo Ave., for correcting a drain problem were turned over to John Croft, councilman who is chairman of the Water Department. Mr. Croft is to investigate the matter further and report to the council.

Speeding traffic from near 27th Street on Overland Avenue was discussed by Lee Morgan, councilman. Mr. Morgan reported receiving several complaints on this matter. This is a state highway and the problem has been discussed with the State Highway Department.

Complaints have been voiced of trash scattered at the Arctic Circle on East Main Street, Kent Church, city attorney, and overseer, assist overseer, regular employee, park caretaker, sanitation superintendent, and clerk.

Ordinance 291 relating to sale of Lot 1 in Block 1 of Riverside addition was read and approved.

There were no citizens present to contest the city budget and ordinance 293 authorizing means of raising levies and the amount of the budget was passed.

The Council voted to use a less expensive card for billing the monthly water bills and consideration of the city ditch budget was postponed.

The Council will meet to select an engineer to make a complete report before further action can be taken.

Means of financing the sewer system is being dealt in the report by Newman, along with monthly fees that would be charged users. With combination of the water and sewer systems, the monthly cost for the sewer is set at about $6.25 with the present rate of $3.75 per month on the water to make a total fee of about $10 a month for the individual family use unit. Apartment houses are on water meters in the city.

Frank Dallas recommended that the Council review the Advisory Plans committee on flood control program also. This was lagged upon.

SEVERAL AREAS OF THE U.S. may face major-flood threats this spring, according to the Environmental Science Services Administration, parent agency of the U. S. Weather Bureau. Extremely heavy winter snows throughout the nation led to flooding during the spring melt. The threat in the northern Midwest has reached "alarming" proportions, the ESSA said. Several floods are also anticipated on the upper and lower Mississippi River and the Red River of the north, and the Pacific Northwest may not escape, according to this map-outlining major threat areas. # T. F. Judicial Annex Set To Host Supreme Court

Last year when the judicial annex of the Twin Falls County courthouse was being built, the structure had a large and very special bench—installed in one of its three courtrooms.

The bench, in Judge Theron Ward's Fifth District Courtroom, is designed to seat five men. At the time it wasn't known if two special jurors would be allowed to sit at the bench. But Twin Falls attorneys were in hopes they would, someday.

The bench will indeed be used. Supreme Court Justice Joseph J. McFadden informed Judge

Ward that the High Court would hold a two-day term in Twin Falls Sept. 8 and 9. This is the first time the Supreme Court will hold a session in Twin Falls.

It was all made possible by a law enacted by the Legislature two weeks ago.

In the past the Idaho Supreme Court has had five terms a year. Two of the terms have been in Boise and one each have been in Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, and Pocatello.

By the new law, the High Court will hold six terms a year instead of five. Twin Falls is the addition.

Judge Ward and Douglas Kramer, a Twin Falls attorney, have been prime movers behind the action. Both have expressed their pleasure in having the Supreme Court meet in Twin Falls.

Justice McFadden also expressed his pleasure to Judge Ward, writing, "We (the court) are very pleased to know that the Legislature has approved in legal cases."

our setting up a term of court in the Twin Falls area."

Justice McFadden said it is the plan of the Supreme Court to meet in Twin Falls at the same time that the Pocatello term will be set, which is in September. He said Sept. 8 and 9 are the most likely dates for Twin Falls and said two days would probably be enough time to handle the cases for this area.

However, Justice McFadden said the dates will be confirmed in late summer.

Judge Ward was asked to set aside time for use of the courtroom on the dates mentioned.

Justice McFadden indicated the Supreme Court would travel on to Pocatello after meeting in Twin Falls.

Mr. Kramer reported costs to people involved in cases before the Supreme Court would be lowered. "Attorneys won't have to travel to Boise now to argue cases. This is a considerable saving to the people in the Legislature has approved

Stump Will Resign Post As AIP Chief

Joseph K. Stump Jr., state chairman of the American Independent Party, announced this week he will resign the position effective March 16.

In a letter to State Central Committee and executive committee members, Stump called a meeting of the state central committee in Boise for March 15, and said he was resigning "so no member can claim personal bias against the chairman as an excuse for non-attendance."

Stump said the meeting was called to adopt party rules and air charges and allegations made against the chairman and other party officers.

He said he would resign on the condition that Bernice Howell, former executive committee member, and Erma Morrell, treasurer, give a full and factual financial report to the executive committee so he could central committee.

"So far I have been unable to get any cooperation from either person, and do not know for what several thousands of dollars of AIP money has been spent," he added.

Stump concluded, "If it appears that the real purpose of a few dissenters is to destroy the AIP in its infancy, we will have no alternative but to throw them out."

MAURICE ABRAVANEL will conduct and direct the Utah Symphony when the famed orchestra appears in concert March 21 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center. The symphony appearance is being brought to Twin Falls under the sponsorship of the CSI Lyceum committee. The Utah group is rated as one of the top 12 symphony orchestras in the United States.

Utah Symphony To Appear In Concert Here March 21

Twin Falls has been included by the Utah Symphony's expanded concert itinerary for the 1968-69 season, according to LaVar Steel, chairman of the College of Southern Idaho Lyceum Committee.

Mr. Steel said that the symphony will present a concert at 8:15 p.m. March 21 at the CSI Fine Arts Center under the sponsorship of the Lyceum Committee.

Advance tickets are on sale at the CSI Fine Arts Center, the CSI administration building, and at the door the night of the performance.

The Utah Symphony has been rated as one of the 12 best orchestras in the United States, according to Fortune Magazine, which conducted a survey of the nation's symphonic resources.

Fortune attributes the Utah Symphony's success to its dedicated leadership—that of the musical director and conductor of dedicated committee leaders of its administrated staff and of well-planned, broad-based community support.

The Fortune article observed that a professional symphony orchestra that provided a living for a 100-odd people is among the more luxurious institutions; it can no more pay for itself at the box office than a well-staffed museum can pay its way without admission charges.

The Utah Symphony, one of many that has extended its season, expanded the number of cities it serves and expanded its road tours to make ends meet.

The Utah Symphony, for the past 18 years, has been traveling to communities and schools throughout Utah and neighboring states. The symphony now operates as a regional orchestra and this year the season's tour will carry the orchestra to throughout Utah, Nevada, Idaho and New Mexico and into parts of Colorado, Texas, Oregon and Montana.

This broad-based regional support has contributed significantly to the Utah Symphony's growth pattern as well as to its fiscal success.

Thursday the tobacco mysteriously reappeared. Mr. Haynes didn't say if his police work was responsible for the recovery, but he was heard to comment, "Elementary my dear Watson."

Then he stuffed the pipe full of tobacco and smiled.

Work To Begin On Rupert Street Plan

ROPER'S—The first major installation work opened and a Local Improvement District 12 in Rupert was taken last week during the regular meeting of the city council when bids were opened.

Five bids each for street improvement and storm sewer installation were opened and a contract will be awarded at 5 p.m. March 11, following review of the bids by Hamilton and the Rupert city council when bids were opened.

Carl Gibbs Heads Boise Cascade Unit

BOISE — Carl (Bill) Gibbs has been appointed manager for the Boise-Cascade distribution branch in Twin Falls. The appointment was made recently by B. R. Fisher, general manager of the northwest region building materials and services division.

Mr. Gibbs began his career with Boise Cascade as a warehouseman for the Boise branch. He later became a territory representative for the Twin Falls region. His most recent position was with the Boise Lumber Company, yard lumber and plywood merchandiser.

A native of San Bernardino, Calif., Mr. Gibbs and his wife, Alynne, now live in Twin Falls.

Study Links Sun-Moon With Quakes

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—When the sun and moon are in line with the earth, their combined gravitational pull may be strong enough to trigger earthquakes, a geophysicist believes.

Dr. C. Hewitt Dix of the California Institute of Technology said the pull might have touched off the destructive 1952 Kern County quake, the strongest in Southern California in 95 years.

Dix said there is "no single factor that triggers earthquakes but he pointed out that the sun and moon were in almost a perfect line with the earth at the time of the main Kern County shock.

The quake had a magnitude of 7.7 on the Richter scale and claimed 14 lives and caused an estimated $60 million damage.

Dix said the ground moves up and down about eight inches in strong tidal action, but for the pull to set off an earthquake the ground must already be under great strain so that a small additional strain is sufficient to set it in motion.

At the instant of the main Kern County shock, Dix said, both the sun and moon were in line over the Sahara in North Africa, causing a tidal bulge of 10 inches.

At the same moment, the pull compressed the Earth in California.

The sun and moon were in a position to exert maximum effect on the White Wolf fault on which the quake's epicenter was located.

Dix said "The fault line pointed almost directly at the sun and the new moon."

Dix said his theory was confirmed by a series of aftershocks to the Kern temblor. The first three aftershocks occurred two, four and five days after the main one—and each took place when the sun and moon were over the Sahara.

The improvement in LID 12 will include new curbing and guttering and street improvement in that portion of the city between Eighth Street and Scott Avenue.

The bid of Joe Bailey, Pocatello, was accepted as the low bid for the remodeling of the Rupert civic building. Bailey was awarded the contract for $62,000.

Work will begin immediately and is scheduled to be completed in 90 calendar days. Subcontractor for the plumbing, mechanical and electrical work will be Catmull Plumbing and Heating, Rupert.

Mayor Wendell Johnson was authorized to sign an agreement with the Mindola Irrigation District providing for the widening of the canal banks.

Ordinance 477 was approved, whereby it would be the responsibility of the property owners to clear snow, ice, rubbish and weeds from sidewalks.

Councilman Charles Dairy was appointed to the zoning commission.

A motion was made to amend the zoning and other applicable ordinances to allow a 5,000 square foot minimum for a city lot size provided the lot has street exposure. The matter was taken under advisement.

Gen. Cushman To Get Post In Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., the commander of the U.S. Marine Corps in Vietnam, will be nominated by President Nixon to be deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, the White House announced.

The assignment puts Cushman second in line to CIA Director Richard Helms. He is expected to take over the new duties when his tour as commander of the 23rd Marine Amphibious Force in Vietnam expires March 28.

Cushman, 54, and a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, is a native of St. Paul, Minn. He was awarded the Navy Cross for heroism during the battle for

Gen. Cushman during World War II. He also served as Nixon's assistant on national security affairs when Nixon was vice president.

Community Concert Group Slates De Cormier Singers

The De Cormier Singers will present a staging program from the vast song-repertoire of many nations Thursday at the CSI Fine Arts Center under the auspices of the Magic Valley Community Concert Association.

This group consists of 14 men and women vocalists, plus three instrumentalists.

The De Cormier Singers made their bow in New York in 1962. This was followed by a 30-city tour of the United States and Canada. Each succeeding year they have been booked for sell-out tours.

They bear the stamp of the theatrical know-how and the musical good taste of the founder, Robert De Cormier, who gained nationwide fame through his work as conductor and arranger for the celebrated Harry Belafonte, both for his personal appearances and his recordings. As an arranger he has done work for Jan Peerce, the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, the Philadelphia Orchestra and the New York Philharmonic under Leonard Bernstein.

Under the guidance of Robert De Cormier and his associates, the Singers present a new concept in concert entertainment. The aim is to recreate the cultures of many lands through all artistic means. Variety is the keynote of programs with songs from England, Scotland, Ireland, Norway, Russia, Poland, Croatia, France, Canada, Africa and the West Indies. There is a group of American folk songs including the incomparable spirituals of the American Negro.

Admission is by membership only.

ISU Savant Conducts Rupert Meet

RUPERT—Another successful training session for Rupert business employees held Thursday in Rupert, with James M. Kelly, associate professor, Business Administration, Idaho State University, as guest lecturer.

Some 128 employees attended two sessions and heard Mr. Kelly discuss salesmanship and what motivates people to buy.

Prof. Kelly said four motivating factors to a person's purchases include a need for food and clothing, security, keeping up with his surroundings and filling his ego.

Following his remarks, the employees were invited to submit ideas for a slogan for the city to use throughout the year. A winning slogan will be chosen March 27 and a cash prize awarded.

At that meeting a breakfast will be served at the Red Ram for both employees and employers. A training meeting for the employees will be held on Thursday, followed by another for the employees March 20.

Following the training session, the chamber held the regular weekly meeting during which Rep. Steve Antione phoned in his weekly report.

Prof. Kelly noted that if the government's suggested budget is accepted, there will be no summer school at Idaho State University and that the curriculum would have to be narrowed, causing Idaho students to leave the state.

The chamber members asked the support of Rep. Antione and Sen. Mary Brooks in passing House Bill 207, which would raise the per cent that the non-fair-board sponsors of horse racing would be able to keep.

Fair Board At Jerome Names 2

JEROME—Jim Rupert and Ralph Scott, Hazelton, have been named to the Jerome Fair Board by the county commissioners.

Members who were retained were John Steile, John Van Orman, Ted Peterson, Don Thibault and Mrs. Walter Shouse, and Bill Priest is an ex-officio member.

A reorganization meeting of the new board will be held March 17 at Woods-Cafe.

Film Slated

JEROME—A film "Handle With Care" will be shown at the meeting of the Jerome County Association for Retarded Children at 8 p.m. Monday at the American Legion Hall.

The pupils of Donetto Degan will also give several dance numbers. The public is urged to attend.

Political Point Of View

By L. James Koutnik

San Francisco without a doubt is always been our favorite city. We pat the city as California's capital, never referring to it as "Frisco."

The people in San Francisco know how to live. This is certainly not true of the rest of California, which ranks rather low in our estimation, but for that city there's nothing like it on earth!

One of the major things that has always fascinated us about San Francisco, in particular, is California in general, is the extreme seriousness with which everyone seems to take his politics. The indifference and laziness that we find in Idaho just doesn't exist in California. Everyone down there either hates, or loves, Ronald Reagan or Jesse Unruh, or Shirley Temple or Sen. George Murphy.

Where else in the United States can you find a well-dressed man in a general, is that says "Ronald Reagan" on his sleeve? Where else, but California, will you find a poster in the window of a store, a button that says "Reagan in one of his movie roles, holding a pistol, with a caption underneath it. "Thanks a lot for the vote, Ronald Reagan!"

Youth taking an interest in politics is, indeed, a refreshing sight; however, it's a little unnerving to see 600-800 high school students carrying posters on a long march through town, protesting the court martial of the soldiers at the Presidio. These posters are certainly not innocuous signs, by any means. They are well adorned with swastikas, charges that the army is basically a Nazi organization.

Personal OPINION

QUESTION

Do you feel that expelling dissident students and firing sympathetic teachers is the solution to ending campus unrest?

LOCATION

Interviews in this case were taken in downtown Twin Falls.

ANSWERS

DICK BROTT: "It's one of the solutions. They did this at the university—I attended—and ended the problem; it isn't the only solution, but is one of them."

BOB GOSS: "Not initially, no. The primary responsibility lies with the parents. If they would take the money away from these students, they wouldn't be at school."

MARY SAYRE: "This is a big problem on the larger campuses and it might help."

BOB BEERS: "After reading the newspapers and watching television, I feel the laws were made to protect the guilty. All riots should be stopped by whatever means necessary."

Beers Brott Sayre Goss

Anloff Hill Elledge Woodall

JOAN ELLEDGE: "No, I don't. I don't think this helps because they continue having the same problems. I don't think firing the teachers will help either, they have to be able to express their beliefs."

DENNIS ANLOFF: "I think the teachers are afraid of the students or this would have been stopped long ago."

J. HILL: "I'm inclined to agree with the Notre Dame university president. He said any students participating in rioting or trouble making will be expelled. This, however, is not the total solution—they must find the cause first and eradicate it. There is a reason for everything like this."

RON WOODALL: "I think this is largely the parents' fault. A lot of these students would be causing problems at home, as the parents send them to college to get rid of them."

Hagerman Woman Ponders Sweeping School Reform

Editor, Times-News: The reason for all the trouble we are having in our colleges and schools is general. Our educational system is at fault and needs a good overhauling from the bottom up and also from the top down. I'd state with the State Board of Education who decides what shall be taught and who is qualified to teach it. With the exception of the state superintendent of public instruction, the six members are all appointed by the governor. The superintendent is elected, but the powers that be seem determined to change that office to appointment also. What qualifications a person must have to become a member of the state board of education, I do not know. In Utah all members of the state board of education are elected, one from each of the seven judicial districts except Salt Lake City, which has three, making a nine member board. The state board then hires and sets pay, etc., for the state superintendent of public instruction. I think this system would bring control of our schools back to the people, where it belongs. In Ohio papers the heading is "Educating people for jobs." This is the aim of governor's task force report which proposes massive changes in the Ohio school system. A twenty point program is recommended by the task force which would completely change the emphasis, organization and financing of public education in Ohio. The controlling grade, occupation or craft is just as worthy as learning a profession. Most jobs today and almost all new jobs in the future will require some skill acquired through formal education. The present system of education is not relevant to the needs of 75 per cent of the students. In a period of high employment many young people are unemployed because they lack the job training and skill. Read about this in the "Ohio Farmer" page 8.

Our schools must fit the needs of the people. It is very important to have the best of elementary training also. I have my doubts about the value of the "news man" as they call it. I doubt if anyone can ever get any sense from it. Last year my grandson came home with an "F" on his eighth grade report card. I read "What's the matter here?" and he answered, "Grandma, I am just so mixed up I don't know where I am." We were looking through his book, I decided that he wasn't the only one who was mixed up.

MRS. BUD SMITH (Hagerman)

Buhl Writer Insists Spending Cuts Evaporate

Editor, Times-News: I wonder about those spending cuts which promised when the 10 per cent surtax was enacted? Six billion. So we ended up with bigger than a budget for every department. The boys that went up were more than Congress could stand and suggested cuts were cancelled. I wonder if it's in order of business was to retain the tax and ask for a rebate in the national debt ceiling. The government agencies dating from World War I. Commissions that were appointed then are still meeting once a year, drawing their pay and going home to rest. These are not jobs but lifetime pensions for no work at all. There are a few of the necessities in federal spending. The University of Texas, $45,000 to fund the needs of Stanford $41,000 to study "declassified mail in small groups" $400,000 for television sets in Africa, and

Writer Lauds Efforts Of Teen Dystrophy Unit

Editor, Times-News: I wish to commend to the attention of the citizens of Twin Falls such a tremendous enthusiasm and personal social sacrifices that the "Teen Against Dystrophy" are doing in their many projects to raise funds and do of service to the patients in the Magic Valley area suffering with muscular dystrophy and related neuromuscular diseases. This ambitious and exciting battle is being waged between the College of Southern Idaho and the Twin Falls All-Stars in a benefit event demonstrating how great our community can be today. I am sure that every citizen who sees on the news and television I understand that they are planning a very special patriotic program as half-time entertainment. Now it is up to you and me to show our support and belief in the Magic Valley area. Let's make this event and making it a great success. Let us encourage our youth to continue an interest in helping our fellow citizens. ROBERT J. HERBERGER Assistant District Director (Portland)

WERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The four unsigned members of the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday they will not play in exhibition games until they sign their contracts.

The unsigned players are pitchers Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen, shortstop Paul Popovich and outfielder Len Gabrielson.

"The Dodgers' game with Atlanta here Saturday was rained out. The two clubs are scheduled to play at West Palm Beach Sunday.

Osteen had been scheduled to pitch Monday's game against Houston at Vero Beach. "He came to me this morning and said he didn't want to play in an exhibition game until he signed," said manager Walter Alton. "He said the main thing was not being covered by insurance. I checked with the other three players and they said they felt the same way."

Vice President Al Campanis said he has talked to each of the four unsigned players "at least twice."

"As far as we know there is no rule which says an unsigned player can't play in an exhibition game," Alton said.

The four unsigned players continue to work out with the Dodgers.

In past years the Dodgers haven't signed players until camp but they did this year due to the late strike caused by the player strike.

Invitational Tournament Will Begin 32nd Session Thursday

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 32-hour while the NIT closed Carolina enters the affair with the most impressive records. Based on past performances, the quarterfinals are expected to be the most exciting. The NIT then waited until conditions were favorable for one of the remaining independent teams to finish their season and complete the bulk of its field with less than a week remaining before the start of the tournament. Going into the final weekend of the season, the NIT had three berths open, awaiting the outcome of the Atlantic Coast, Missouri Valley and Big Eight conference races.

Following the selection of Boston College, the NIT waited a week before adding former champions Temple and Southern Illinois, along with Rutgers and West Texas State to the field. After Kentucky closed the Western Athletic Conference title and an automatic bid to the NCAA tourney, the NIT chose SEC runner-up Tennessee.

Two days later, Ohio University, the runner-up in the Mid-American Conference, Wyoming, which lost a playoff game to Brigham Young, for the Western Athletic Conference title, Tulsa and St. Peter's and the NIT-tapped Fordham, Florida and South Carolina.

With the absence of an over-powering team such as UCLA or one dominant player such as Sen. Robert Fidd-Miss-NIT veteran Larry Bird, the NIT hopes to see the United States reach the affair. Boston College (21-3), Rutgers—(21-3) and South-Kum.

Pott And Yancey Remain In Deadlock For Lead Of Citrus Golf Tournament

Texas A-M And Colorado State Stay In Meet

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—John Pott, a 33-year-old veteran from the rain turned into a most of the round and used his birdie to lead the Citrus Open. Pott and Yancey, a former West Point cadet, shot erratic 2-under-par 67s Saturday to share spots and "I hit into the 18th under-par 70s in intermittent rain Saturday to share a one-stroke lead at the end of the third round of the $115,000 Citrus Open golf tournament.

Hard-luck Tommy Aaron, who had started the day tied with Pott and Yancey, shot a 74 Saturday to fall three strokes off the pace.

The 33-year-old Pott, who has won five tournaments during his career, and the 30-year-old Yancey, a Floridian who has won $30,000 but no tournaments in the past 14 months, finished with birdie totals of 12-under-par 208.

Right on their heels, with a 68-70, was lanky Dale Douglass.

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Sonny Bennett scored 32 points and Texas A-M used its superior height to crush Trinity 81-66 Saturday while Colorado State will play the Big Eight closing minutes to edge Dayton.

Nodouble Is Santa Anita 'Cap Winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Nodouble, disqualified out of one $100,000 race, came on with a powerful rush in the final stages Saturday to capture the 32nd running of the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap, top race of the winter in the West.

The Arkansas-bred Nodouble opened up a lead of better than two lengths midway down the stretch and then held off the closing challenge of the great mare Gamely which barely edged out Quicken Tree for second. Nodouble raced the mile and a quarter over a fast track in 2:01.46.

Mount Leads Assault On Record Book

LAFAVETTE, Ind. (UPI)—All-America Rick Mount with 40 points Saturday led a wholesale assault on the record book as Purdue's NCAA tournament-bound basketball Bolleymakers routed Indiana, 120-76, to complete Big Ten warfare with a 13-1 mark.

Purdue, completing its regular season with a 20-4 record, jumped off to a 12-0 lead and the romp was on. It was 58-32 at the half and only the final victory margin remained in doubt.

Funny Fellow Slogs To Don 'Cap Victory

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Wheatley Stable's Funny Fellow, labbed the handicap horse most likely to get rich through the water-drenched Gulfstream Park stretch Saturday to win the $64,200 Don Handicap.

It was Funny Fellow's third try as favorite at winning a big Florida stake this winter and the 4-year-old son of the Irishman made his victory convincing. Previously, he had finished second in both Hialeah's $50,000 Seminole and $100,000 Widener handicaps.

Coming down the middle of the muddy stretch, drenched by early afternoon rains, Funny Fellow overtook a pack of three horses like a runaway airplane 70 yards from the finish and passed them to win by a half length.

"He really turned it out through the home stretch," said Funny Fellow's jockey, Braulio Baeza.

The lightly regarded Tropic King 2nd, a Venezuelan import, finished second. Out The Window was third another three quarters of a length back.

As the betting choices of the rainy day crowd of 15,982, Funny Fellow paid $5.80, $3.80 and $2.80 across the board. Tropic King 2nd, a 14-1 chance, returned $5.60 and $6. Out The Window was worth $4 to show.

Funny Fellow gave the powerful Wheatley Stables its first state victory of the year and it was worth $44,200. It also probably gives trainer Eddy Nely the favorite for the $100,000-added Gulfstream Park Handicap March 22.

Despite the sloppy going, Funny Fellow ran the 1-1/8 mile in the good time of 1:49.1-5, carrying his full weight of 122 pounds.

As usual, Funny Fellow started slowly and ran seventh for the first six furlongs. Brogan set the pace for a half mile then relinquished the lead to Tropic King 2nd. As the field of nine horses turned into the stretch, Funny Fellow was eight lengths behind the leaders, but when Baeza gave him the signal the margin rapidly evaporated.

"I am slipping finished fourth followed in order by Mr. Brogan, Maverick Third, Winged T, Abe's Hope, Yumbel, the surprise winner of the $100,000 Widener Handicap, brought up the rear.

Pelti Duc and Sam Roque were late scratches.

"It was really coming down the last two holes," added Yancey. "I don't know how much longer we could have continued especially with the darkness."

Grouped at 209 with Aaron, who has often been second but never first in nine years on the tour, were Miller Barber, Gay Brewer and defending champion Dan Sikes.

"I haven't won a tournament since capturing the 1967 Masters, had a 67 Saturday and said his game has improved tremendously in recent weeks."

First-round leaders Tommy Weiskopf and Rod Funseth were at 210 along with Jerry Abbott, Fred Beal, New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles, Campbell, a club pro who only plays in a half dozen tournaments a year, matched the course record Friday when he shot an 8-under-par 64.

S. Open champion Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus, who is still looking for his first Florida victory in an otherwise faltering career, headed a list at 211. Trevino had a 68 Saturday, Nicklaus a 71.

Yancey had three birdies and one bogey but had to scramble for his parts on a number of other holes. Pott, in and out of the lead all days, had a wild round. He had four birdies on the back nine and still was only one under par for that stretch.

"You have to take them as they come," Pott said with a grin. "It was really a matter of a couple of feet...then I wouldn't have had any bogeys on the back nine."

"You make a few mistakes and they turn out bogeys every time."

The day's best round, a 5-under-par 65, was turned in by Mason Rudolph, the man who first shot a 64 here two years ago. But even with that, Rudolph was five strokes off the pace at 211 where he was tied for 18th place with former amateur champ Bob Murphy who was raised near here.

Ohio State Cops Second In Big 10

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Jim Clemons continued his torrid late season pace with 35 points Saturday, as Ohio State clinched second place in the Big Ten with a 95-88 win over Michigan.

The Buckeyes finished 9-5 in conference play and 17-7 overall. The loss evened Michigan's Big Ten record at 7-7.

Five days ago, Clemons netted a career-high 37 points against Indiana. Against Michigan, the 6-foot-3 sophomore forward netted 12 field goals and 11 of 14 free throws.

Back-to-back three-point plays by Finney and Meadors pushed the Buckeyes into an 83-74 lead with 7:32 to play. Ohio State was never in danger after that.

Midwest championships in Manhattan, Kan., where Colorado State will play the Big Eight champion and A-M will meet the Missouri Valley champ.

A-M's height—the Aggies' front line averaged nearly 6-foot-9—controlled the boards and grabbed nearly twice as many rebounds as the smaller Tigers.

A-M will play the Big Eight Niles did not miss a shot in the first half while scoring 15 points. He ended up with 17 for the night.

Trinity, the Southland Conference winner, was paced by Felix Thurston and Larry Jeffries with 14 each.

The Tigers finished at 79.5. Colorado State, paced by its twin guards, Lloyd and Floyd Kerr, came from behind to edge Dayton, the defending NIT champion.

Trailing 49-45 with about three minutes to play, CSU's Cliff Shegoss hit two foul shots and a jump shot to tie the score.

Lloyd Kerr then stole the ball and with 54 seconds to go made the first of a one-one-one to give the Rams the lead for good.

Dayton trailed by as much as 10 points in the first half and was down 27-23 at the half, but behind Ken May, Dan Obrovac and Dan Sadler fought back to tie the game with 11:24 left in the second half. Neither team got more than a four-point lead from there.

Lloyd Kerr led all scorers with 17 points, followed by Shegoss with 12 and Floyd Kerr with 11.

BEATS OREGON

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Torrid foul shooting in the final minutes held off an Oregon threat and provided Oregon State with its 1,000th basketball win, 86-82, as the two schools finished their 1969 Pacific 8 Conference schedule Saturday.

VILLAGERS EXAMINE A "10-foot tusk" of a 35-ton sea creature that was washed up on the beach near Tecolula, Mexico, recently. The carcass of the creature was described as about 30 feet long and 18 feet wide, with a "serpent-like" body covered with hard armor, and pointed so it could swim. Marine biologists are studying the beast. (UPI telephoto)

Giant Shark Adds To Curiosity

'Monster' Washes Up On Mexican Shore

VERACRUZ, Mexico (UPI)—While scientists pondered the identity of a "monster" found in the Gulf of Mexico, Mexican fishermen Saturday had something new to talk about—a 2,800 pound shark.

The shark, accidentally became entangled in nets off Barra-do-Alvarado on Friday, and local fishing authorities promptly called the largest shark ever taken off the the Mexican Gulf Coast.

Fishermen Gregorio Navarrete and Antonio Salazar said the fish was a tiger shark and nearly caused their boat to sink when it became entangled in their nets. They said they killed it with harpoons and machetes.

Meanwhile, scientists were still poking at the body of the 39-foot "monster" which washed up on the Gulf of Mexico shore about six miles south of Tecolula on Feb. 28. At least two biologists have said it is nothing more than a body of a big sperm whale, carved into a bizarre shape, by the nibbling of sharks.

Dr. Bernardino Villa, chief mammalogist of the University of Mexico and an authority on prehistoric sea creatures, said it may be the body of an ice-age creature that died 50,000 years ago and was preserved in the Arctic icepack until it came floating southward in a melting iceberg.

Other scientists are keeping quiet, until they have had a chance to make a detailed inspection of the carcass, estimated as weighing about 15 tons. A federal investigating team from Mexico City was expected to arrive shortly.

Scientists described the head of the animal as bird-like in shape. One went fisherman cut off a one-ton bony structure from the head but authorities made him give it up.

Experts say the mutilation of the carcass by souvenir hunters will delay identification.

Local residents, who make only several hundred dollars a year, admitted to pawns they had kept their discovery a secret for four days, hoping to profit from it. The carcass washed up on a Friday but authorities in Veracruz and Tampico did not learn about it until the following Tuesday.

Authorities using heavy earth-movers and a crane hauled the carcass from the beach on Friday and moved it on a flatbed truck to the Fishermen's Cooperative in Tecolula, its current resting place.

Hundreds of curiously spectators have poured into the area and because there are no restaurants, residents are profiting greatly from the sale of food and refreshments.

Game Officer Confutes Chief's Hunting Views

Ed Scholes, regional conservation officer for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, said Thursday that it is unlawful to hunt any wildlife in Idaho without a valid hunting license.

He said there are some exceptions provided for in the law and anyone with questions should contact the district office of the Fish and Game Department in Jerome.

He said all wildlife in Idaho is state property, and it is unlawful to hunt any animal in the state without having a valid hunting license.

Mr. Scholes said the law includes "hunting rockchucks with sling shots. It means all wildlife."

Mr. Scholes' comments were made after an article on concealed weapons was published in the Times-News last Tuesday.

His definition of the law is in conflict with the definitions given by Police Chief Frank Barnett. Mr. Scholes said, Mr. Barnett had stated it is legal to take target practice with a pistol or hunt jack rabbits or other non-game animals without first obtaining a hunting license.

Charges Listed After T. F. Wreck

A Twin Falls man was charged with being drunk in public and with leaving the scene of an accident following a two-vehicle collision in the 200 block of Second Avenue East early Friday.

Kenneth H. Kimball was released on his own recognizance to appear in court later on the charges.

Police records show a car driven by Emmett Harrison, 48, 1908 San Larue Ave. and a pickup truck driven by Mr. Kimball collided head on. There were no injuries. The accident happened at 25 minutes past midnight Friday, officers said.

Mr. Scholes contends this view is not correct. The conservation officer also said it is unlawful to carry an unlicensed rifle or shotgun in the fields and forests of Idaho without a hunting license.

He urged anyone with questions on fish and game laws of Idaho to contact the Jerome office for answers.

TIME FOR SELLING TOOLS, shovels and small equipment items attracts a large following of men. Officials of the auctioneer firm stand on a truck bed, hidden by the crowd, to auction off items ranging from a spool of wire, grease gun, water hose and batteries to a shovel with a broken handle. The sale was held at the D. F. Thibault farm northeast of Jerome, Mr. and Mrs. Thibault left the area for California after 25 years on the same farm.

BUYING A GUN proved easy for Jim Rupert, far left. The gun sold at a bargain price, but the shells brought almost as much when another buyer out bid Mr. Rupert. Center is auctioneer Jim Messersmith Jr., who starts the bidding on the next item while clerk J. W. Messersmith writes down the name of the last buyer. Bidding at the farm sales proves informal as the auctioneer and his followers move from area to area to sell the various items.

Going, Going, Sold--For 50 Cents To The Lady With The Flower Pot In Her Hand

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
 Times-New-Feature Editor

It's possible to find almost anything you want and a lot of things you didn't even know you wanted at a farm sale.

Some people have known this for years and some are just finding it out.

Each week, especially during the winter season, a number of farm auctions are held on farms that are changing hands.

Many of these include the entire accumulation of farm equipment, tools, home furnishings and similar items.

Many antique collectors have found it's a wonderful place to pick up antiques, and many bargain hunters have found it's equally wonderful as a source of bargain priced farm machines, appliances and odds and ends.

Many women who have no interest in farm activities never miss a farm sale. They sometimes come home with such collector's items as old bottles, glass topped fruit jars that are turning color, antique furniture, dishes, copper kettles and even now and then a coffee grinder, bird press or other valuable relic.

A Jerome woman recently paid 50 cents for a box of junk—whooops, it's called miscellaneous items—and in it found the parts of a valuable antique doll which could with effort be restored.

Occasionally demand will be low for such items as electric washers and dryers and the housewife who needs one can purchase it for half the price of those in the new or used appliance stores.

Although many farmers attend the sales as a winter time social function, they usually buy something. It goes without saying that surrounding neighbors always attend the sales and many know of some from their neighbor is selling that they are especially interested in buying.

Unlike other auctions, the auctioneer moves from item to item and conducts the bidding as he reaches that specific item. If you want to bid it doesn't take much of a hand wave or shout to catch the attention of the auctioneer or his assistants.

In Jerome County last week, such sales at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Thibault attracted several hundred persons despite stormy weather.

The sale featured some household items, a quantity of farm machinery and trucks, numerous tools and other odds and ends.

The Thibaults had resided on and sold their property to move to California as a result, all farm equipment and part of the household items had to be sold.

Atmosphere at a farm sale is something like that of a fair. There is usually a lunch stand provided either by an organization or the auctioneer service. No one ever seems to eat before going to a sale even if they start just before noon. Pie, hamburgers and coffee are the favorite items.

Another important phase of the farm sale includes live stock. One auctioneer says he has even sold a litter of puppies during such events but generally cows and horses are the major items.

Large sized live house plants, snow shovels, rolling pins and fishing poles are some of the hot-selling items.

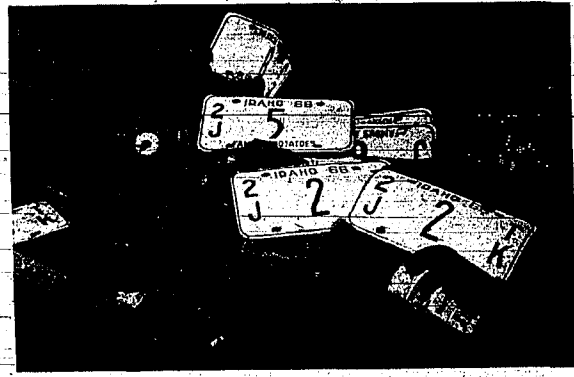

Another category that sells well at farm sales is tack for horses. Western saddles, halters and even rones bring good prices generally. You can always sell an old harness even though they are completely outdated.

When a farmer decides to retire and sell out or just move to another farm, a farm sale is the logical way of disposing of a life time accumulation of equipment, livestock and household goods.

He must get together with the farm auctioneer service, advertise his sales items and then comes the day of the sale.

If all factors work out advantageously, he may obtain more than the items are worth in many cases. He may also suffer a few losses when an expensive item just doesn't happen to be in demand that day, but it's all part of the chance he takes. Farmers gather early and go over the various items of farm machinery, tools, lawnmowers and a few levers before they bid on the items. Women will be found rummaging through boxes of odds and ends—that's where the good items may be hiding, or they may be inspecting furniture and other items before bidding time.

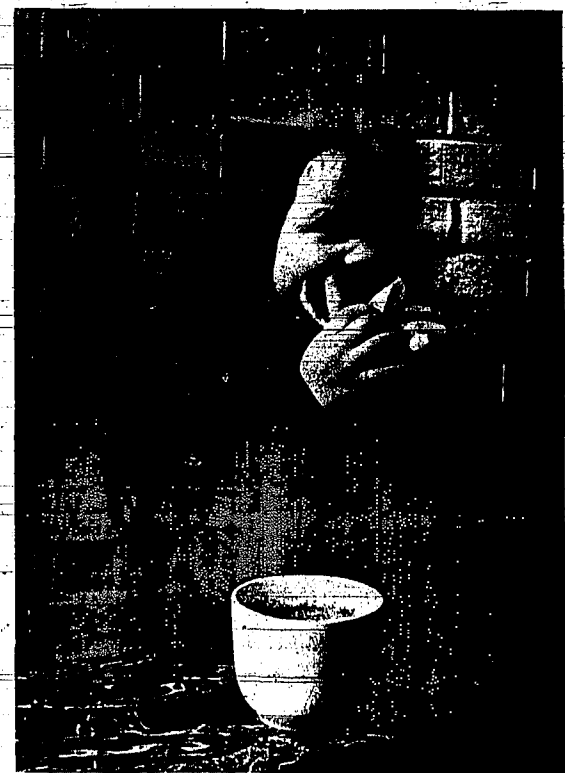

One Twin Falls woman who acquired half-dryer pass the time of day while the auctioneer holds attention of other buyers. James Tangleff, Twin Falls, looks over a group of items he purchased for several dollars.

WHEN THE AUCTIONEER'S CHANT fades away and the crowd departs there is usually something left behind. Here license plates that might have added to someone's collection if the number had been "1" instead of "2" are discarded following the Thibault sale.

FARM-MACHINERY, once the feature attraction at any farm sale is still the focal point for the farmers themselves. Such sales are becoming more popular for their antiques and knickknacks and are attracting an increasing number of city housewives and antique fanciers.

LUNCH IS SERVED at most farm sales and everyone waits to eat until they arrive at the sale. Here a young man who declined to give his name enjoys a hamburger and a cup of hot chocolate. Lunch proved far more interesting to him than the auction.

FARM SALE ACTIVITIES are interesting to say the least. At left, unidentified woman checks through box of "miscellaneous" items sometimes called junk. As the sale progresses purchases are carried away. Here two buyers leave with a large live house plant and a pole lamp. Center, Everett Andrea who purchased a snow shovel and Verdis Larson with newly acquired half-dryer pass the time of day while the auctioneer holds attention of other buyers. James Tangleff, Twin Falls, looks over a group of items he purchased for several dollars. Included is an old fashioned coffee pot, lamp, rolling pin and sundry items. At right Mrs. Rose Ward, Twin Falls, stands with fruit jar under her arms while she listens to other bidding.

High Honor Comes To Meat Packer

Each year the Western States Meat Packers Association, Inc., selects an individual from its 15 state area who has contributed greatly to the industry as a whole.

This year the award, a nearly four foot high trophy known as the Floyd Forbes award, was presented to a Twin Falls man, Otto Florence, Jr., vice president and general manager of Independent Meat Co., who has received the award in the 23rd annual convention of the group in Las Vegas, Nev., last month.

"It was a complete surprise," Mr. Florence said. "My wife didn't even go to the convention with me this year as she looked as though it would be a pretty routine meeting."

"This is the first time a man as young as Mr. Florence (he's 45) has received the award which was started by the association in 1937 in memory of the late C. E. Forbes, founder of the organization.

Several thousand delegates attend the annual convention from the 15 western states including Alaska and Hawaii. Mr. Florence says he has never missed a convention since 1955 and has missed only one board meeting since then and that was due to poor planning by the local airlines.

To qualify for the giant trophy and industry's tribute that accompanies it, an individual must have established himself as a leader in the meat packing field, livestock production and other related activities.

Mr. Florence has done all of this and more. Much of his time and effort have gone into research, experiments and development of programs that are designed to improve the quality of meat production in this and other areas.

"Tests in recent years show that choice beef grown in Idaho and choice beef from the states generally recognized as top meat producers of the nation are not as distinguished," he said.

Mr. Florence has also served on government advisory commissions and boards and is active in the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, now serving as a member of the board of directors.

In addition to serving as chairman of the board of directors of the Western Meat Packers Association, he is also a member of the Chamber of Commerce, serving on the board of directors of the Idaho Meat Packers Association, and is also a member of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, serving on the board of directors of the Idaho Meat Packers Association.

He was named in 1937 to the position of vice president of the Western Meat Packers Association, a position which he held until 1941. WINTER-RANGE-FORAGE shrubs are examined on the Boise Front by Richard Norell, Boise, western regional game biologist, and Mariel Morache, conservation education supervisor. Big game winter range east of the state capital includes approximately 18,800 acres of land owned or controlled by the Idaho Fish and Game Department. This land is in three segments—Boise Front, Charcoal Creek on the east side of Lucky Peak Reservoir, and Moys-Creek from reservoir upstream.

Trend Counts Used To Estimate Big Game For Good Management, Hunting Limits

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Big game trend counts now being made in all parts of the state are proving once more that helicopter and fixed-wing plane winter-spring observations are useful and economical ways of establishing herd levels. Results are used as guidelines to determine hunting seasons and bag limits and counts, while they cannot give the total numbers of animals in an area, do show whether herds are growing, shrinking or remaining stable.

Charles Haynes, game management supervisor, says trend counts were devised as a management tool when the Fish and Game Department learned many years ago that there was no possibility of ever counting all the animals individually in winter ranges often contain large numbers of animals. Thus, deer, antelope, moose, bighorn sheep and mountain goat, big game management specialists found that the key to the problem was not the total number of animals, anyway.

The big thing is how much use animals are making of forage available to them, especially in winter ranges. When shrubs and plants are browsed, slightly, herd size is in balance with its food supply. When forage plants are "hedged" and pruned back more than the annual growth, then the herd is increasing and eating itself out of house and home.

For many years prior to the adoption of techniques for measuring big game trend counts, state game managers from coast to coast spent much manpower and money each winter trying to count all of the animals in each of the big game herds. It just couldn't be done. In Idaho, for example, big game winter ranges often contain many thousands of animals. Thus, deer, antelope, moose, bighorn sheep and mountain goat, big game management specialists found that the key to the problem was not the total number of animals, anyway.

he had covered — or even most of them.

Game managers concluded that, to be worthwhile, animal censuses must be made on the same date and in the same way and under exactly the same weather conditions, or the number of animals could not be compared from year to year. In fact, to really standardize the technique, the same pilot should fly the same course, using the same count of counters. People vary in their ability to "see" far more than is generally believed. Aerial observers require specialized training.

Most important of all in the old days of game counting there was always the unknown percentage of the herd was missed.

"While a precise count of all animals using every winter range in Idaho would be interesting, the vital thing to know in game management work is whether the size of the herd is increasing, declining or remaining stable. For example, the deer herd survey, which has been in the 40's and 50's, only one time was there a decline in the count. It really didn't hinder us too much. We just pointed some red stripes on the hills so they would show up in the snow."

"The only difficulty was to load my wife's favorite bottle of paint on Wednesday's the four men ski."

the herd grows to the point where it is in balance with its winter food supply.

Thus, the key is knowing how much use a herd is making of the winter range. If the hedging is found throughout a critical range, then there are too many on it, whether the number is 1,000 or 10,000. Trend counts showing whether herds are up or down or shadow either the heavy or light use to come in the next few years, irrespective of total herd numbers.

The intensity of browse forage use is determined by systematic measurements on established transect lines. Continued over a period of years, a trend in range condition can be learned from their use. The trend counts are developed to cover the same population factor. This technique is in use now in many states, including Idaho.

"The total big game removed in game management work is from each of the state's 78 management units and subunits is determined each year from hunters' reports cards and the deer herd survey. Thus, with use of forage known and harvested, the third factor (whether the herd is increasing, decreasing or remaining stable) can be found through the use of sample trend counts areas. Complicating factors are too numerous to count all animals in all parts of the state each winter.

On the Boise River drainage, for example, the deer herd numbers on about 2,000 square miles of intermediate, to high elevations. These animals spend the cold months of deep snow on approximately 200 square miles of low country. Helicopter counting areas cover sections of the lower country.

Differences in severity of winter weather show up differences in distribution of animals between winters. A greater proportion of the animals are found on the trend areas located further up the drainage than is the case during severe winters. This circumstance can be anticipated.

The population trend of a big game herd cannot be established by just one year's count. A trend, by definition, consists of several counts made several years in a row, or alternately every two or three years — in any case, at least three successive counts of the same area, whether consecutive years or not. The Idaho practice now is to count every year only on ranges where there are too many animals for the amount of forage produced, and the range deteriorating.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

One of the oldest residents on Camas Prairie is Mrs. Katie Carpenter, a longtime FAIRFIELD resident who for many years was a midwife and practical nurse.

She was honored at an open house on her 90th birthday here at home by her daughter, Mrs. Charles (Mary Lou) Packham. The birthday cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Edward Kratochvil.

Mrs. Carpenter was born Feb. 12, 1870, in Belmont, England. She came to America in 1894 and resided in Chicago with a brother and sister-in-law. She moved to HILL CITY in 1910, where she had another brother residing. She took up a homestead west of Hill City near the present Elmore county line.

She was married to Herbert Carpenter Sept. 21, 1914, and moved to Hill City with a Soldier creek. Mr. Carpenter, who also was a native of England, died May 7, 1955, at the age of 83. They have one daughter, Mrs. Packham, Fairfield, and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Wheatcroft, Fairfield, who is 83; and one brother, Charles Wilkins, Bristol, England, and three grandchildren, Nancy Packham, Hagerman, Calif.; Herbert Packham, TWIN FALLS, and Steven Packham, Portland. She also has four great-grandchildren.

As far as is known, Mrs. Carpenter is next to the oldest resident on Camas Prairie.

It's an old Sun Valley custom — at least for a four-year-old golfer from this resort. For years, during the months Sun Valley's Golf course isn't closed in winter, they have spent each Tuesday on their home green.

When the soft, white flake starts piling up, they appear that they are about to give up on the golf course at BUIH.

The present foursome (one or two names have changed over the years) is composed of Hap Hunter, who, with his orchestra is Sun Valley's top entertainer; Ed Lavery, saxophonist for the orchestra; Dudo Cain, assistant to Hap's special agent Guy Cole, and Ted Loban, of Pete Lana's store on the Mall.

"Since New Year's day we haven't missed a Tuesday getting the 50 shots of golf," said Mr. Miller. "We leave here at 8 a.m. and return home at 6 p.m."

For the most part the temperature has been in the 40's and 50's. Only one time was there a little snow on the course.

"It really didn't hinder us too much. We just pointed some red stripes on the hills so they would show up in the snow."

"The only difficulty was to load my wife's favorite bottle of paint on Wednesday's the four men ski."

The month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Carpenter, SHOSHONE, makes a fifth generation in the family. The baby, Ginger Lorraine, was born February, weighing four pounds and 14 ounces.

Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Shirley Blumer, JEROME, and Warren Blumer, KIDLAND, Wash.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Loren Carpenter, north Shoshone, while maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Gertrude Miles, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and John Turner, McHome, Ark.

Mrs. Elva Blumer, Twin Falls, is another maternal great-grandmother. Paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. May Wheeler, HAGERMAN, and Roy Wheeler, North Shoshone, and paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Edith Callison, Wenatchee, Wash.

DOG POUND "INMATES" have clean and comfortable quarters for their brief confinement. On far left is a small black Sheparke, a relatively rare dog. It was picked up and unclaimed so now has a home with a new family in Twin Falls. Pups constitute most of the traffic at the dog pound. Many are dropped off by their owners who do not want them and others are simply lost and later claimed. Small dogs such as the one peering from the cage on the right are the easiest to place in new homes as most people want a pet that can be kept in the home without taking up too much space. The breed is not as important as the color and size, says Dr. C. I. Manners, poundmaster.

Man's Best Friend Creates Many Problems

THE ONLY DOG IN TOWN who rides around in the dog catcher's vehicle without any qualms is "Pepper." He is the personal pet of Keith Saville, dog catcher, and was rescued from the pound a few days after Mr. Saville assumed duties as dog catcher in 1965.

So you think you'd like to have a dog? When you bring home that furry rambunctious little puppy you are assuming some new responsibilities.

Twin Falls has a dog control ordinance that requires not only proper and current licensing, but holds each dog owner responsible for keeping his dog on his own property.

Usually referred to as a "leash law," the ordinance was passed in 1963 under considerable fire from some city residents and strong urging from others.

Charged with the responsibility of enforcing this eight-page ordinance is Keith Saville, Twin Falls city dog catcher, more properly known as the city humane officer.

Dog catching covers a multitude of things, says Mr. Saville, who has held the position since early 1965, and frequently receives the praise of city officials and citizens for a job well done.

An important part of the city's dog control program is the city pound. Operated under contract by Dr. C. I. Manners, a local veterinarian, the pound is a popular spot, being the only such animal shelter in the valley.

Here the strayed or lost dogs and frequently cats, are kept for a period of 72 hours. If not claimed by their owners during that time, they are either given away or disposed of in a humane manner.

Humane Society members would find little room for complaint in the city pound. Metal enclosures are used to house the dogs similar to those in any animal hospital or boarding area. They are cleaned and disinfected once each day and more frequently in the case of puppies. Newspaper liners are changed at least once a day.

"Newspapers are the best thing we have found for this purpose," says Dr. Manners. "They are clean, absorbent and best of all, inexpensive."

The present dog pound in Twin Falls is identical to Dr. Manners' regular dog care area but in a separate part of the building. For obvious reasons the impounded dogs are separated from the regular canine customers at all times. There is also a run-way at the rear of the building where the dogs are allowed to exercise once each day. The pound is ventilated, heated and never is there an odor of dogs or cats.

Many of the dogs, impounded in various parts of the city, are called for by their owners within the 72 hour limit. Others are given homes—thanks to a waiting list of city and area residents who wish to acquire a nice pet, watch dog, hunting dog or stock dog at a reasonable price.

The only cost to the person who acquires his pet from the pound is the payment of a $5 pound fee and $1 per day for board while the animal was impounded. If the new owner resides in the city, he must purchase a license and have an anti-rabies shot for the pet. A person redeeming his own dog must also pay these fees.

A surprisingly large number of the dogs find now homes through the program. Dr. Manners' pound is a place where DINNER TIME COMES once a day for most of the dogs in the Twin Falls dog pound, and more frequently for pups. Dr. C. I. Manners, who operates the pound under contract with the city, says keeping the pound clean and disinfected is of vital importance. Here Paul Hawkins, an employee at Dr. Manners' veterinarian hospital, prepares to feed dogs in the pound.

REGISTERED GERMAN SHEPHERD puppies held here by Dr. C. I. Manners, left, who operates the dog pound, and Keith Saville, dog catcher, are not too often available at the Twin Falls dog pound, but these two little fellows, their mother and eight brothers and sisters were all brought to the pound and given away in a matter of two days. In this way the pound set a record with 29 dogs collected or brought in, including the German Shepherd family.

All licenses require proof of anti-rabies vaccination each two years. Licenses are purchased at the beginning of each April at the city hall from the city clerk at a cost of $2 per male or spayed female and $1 for female dogs. After July 1 the fee increases $1 in each case.

There are exceptions to licensing such as seeing eye dogs and those maintained at a licensed kennel for commercial purposes.

"If everyone would license his dog and make certain the dog was wearing the license, we wouldn't have any problems," comments the dog catcher.

When a dog is picked up and is wearing a proper license, his owner is immediately notified. In the case of a dog that is of obvious value or one with a current license, the 72-hour period is often extended hoping the owner will call.

"If you lose your dog," says Mr. Saville, "the first place you should call is the city dog pound because chances are if he has been picked up that's where you will find him."

In the event of an injured or sick dog, the poundmaster may destroy the animal if he feels it will not recover. If a stray dog is obviously sick, it is usually destroyed without being admitted to the pound in order to prevent disease spread.

When a dog must be destroyed, and some are each week, Dr. Manners says, they are given a shot of strong barbitalurate which simply puts them to sleep.

"This costs a little more than other methods, but it is more humane," Dr. Manners explained.

"Our dog problems are growing all the time," equanimously says Mr. Saville. "Pups especially keep showing up and nearly all are unlicensed and most have been abandoned in town, usually around the schools. People seem to think a pup will find a new owner if he is abandoned near the schools, but it doesn't always work that way. We make several calls to the grade schools each week."

"All of the problems aren't caused by dogs. We have had snakes, raccoons, muskrats, many cats and even a few goats in our pound and there have been a few stray Shetland ponies from time to time," he added.

Hunting dogs create problems in the full months. Dr. Manners explains. Many are stolen, used for hunting and then abandoned. Others are acquired honestly but turned loose when the season is over, knowing the dog-leacher will pick them up.

Both Dr. Manners and Mr. Saville say a large percentage of the strayed and abandoned animals that arrive at the city pound are from the rural area or from other communities.

"It's a difficult problem and possibly an unfair one to our community," Dr. Manners commented.

Many people whose dogs are licensed or unlicensed do not call for them because they are sorry for them, the dog catcher says, "but I picked out this unabhoy unwilling to pay the pound fees and the court costs if a citation has been issued."

On file in Dr. Manners' office is a list of people who wish to acquire a dog for a pet or some special use. When some thing arrives at the pound that is listed to take a look at the dog. Then if the animal is unclaimed in the three day waiting period and the prospective owner is satisfied, the dog is his.

Both Dr. Manners and Mr. Saville like dogs. The small pet of Mr. Saville was rescued from the pound about four days after he became city dog catcher.

"At first, I wanted to take them all home because, I felt sorry for them," the dog catcher says, "but I picked out this little fellow and he has been around in the city's radio since then."

"Pepper" as the dog catcher's pet is called is probably the only dog in town who rides around in the city's radio dispatch vehicle with the dog catcher's name on it. He is also trained to jump into the rear seat of the car.

Past Presidents Recall Efforts Paid Off In Big Dividends For Their Community

Of the 16 women who have held office of president of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, nine are still residing in Twin Falls and several are still active supporters of the organization.

Each, in looking back on their part in leadership for the organization, noted some special accomplishment or project was undertaken or completed.

The League of Women Voters, this month is preparing for the national observance of the 50th anniversary of its founding. The local organization is somewhat younger, but many members here can look back on more than 20 years of community service.

Mrs. R. L. Summerfield who was League president from 1947 to 1949 said most of her term was dedicated to establishing the struggling young organization. A non-partisan group, the League cannot take a political stand for or against any candidate.

The league's purpose is to collect information views from the candidates and present these to the voting public.

"We had some problems in our early days," Mrs. Summerfield recalls. "Most of the women who were interested enough in government to join the new organization were also deeply involved in their own political parties, and many of our meetings were somewhat heated but they were most informative."

Mrs. Vernon Smith, president in the 1953-54 year, recalls that during that time Leaguers were busy completing a Know Your County study and getting the results in a mimeograph for the use of members. As the out-growth of the county study, the League then was enabled to take positions on issues involving more than just municipal scope. Membership was retained at some 35 members during that year.

President from 1952 to 1953 was Mrs. Joseph McCollum who said one of the highlights of her term was the study of the new $4 billion federal budget. In this year the League also began an all out effort to collect and distribute information sheets for the year's election.

"Our membership increased to the point that we were able to incorporate a second discussion with an amusing highlight was the topic of the principal address for our elegant annual banquet in the Park Hotel was "Sewage," Mrs. McCollum recalls.

"During the term of 1952 Mrs. T. M. Robertson was president of the local league. This was the year in which the league conducted its first major effort against dumping of raw sewage into Rock Creek by the city and many industries.

"It was a great disappointment when our first sewage bond issue failed to receive the necessary two-thirds majority vote," she said.

"Just ten short years ago the League started thinking and doing something about mental health," recalls Mrs. Earl Har-oldsen, president in 1959-60. "We undertook as a local study item a complete survey of the needs and facilities for mental health in Twin Falls County," she said. "We found there were no mental health facilities in our area closer than Boise or Salt Lake City or psychiatric services for children."

Other presidents included Mrs. John Martin, 1959; Mrs. Thomas Rosendahl, 1960; Mrs. Leland Davidson, 1963 and 1964.

Book Review

Of special interest to residents of Magic Valley is the absorbing tale of a gunman who became the center of a bizarre legal drama in early-day Idaho.

"Diamondfield Jack" by David H. Grover is the latest product of the University of Nevada Press. Mr. Grover has carefully disentangled the history and myth in the story in a way that would do credit to any fiction writer.

A swagging young cowboy with a big mouth, Diamondfield Jack Davis, in the summer of 1895 hired on as a gunman for a cattle ranch in the territory encroaching sheepmen, a task at which he was exceptionally adept. His boss was John Sparks, later to become governor of Nevada.

Diamondfield Jack's troubles started with an isolated range incident in which two sheepmen were found shot to death in their Cassia County camp.

The incident sparked what became the next seven years of bitter court fight between powerful and wealthy livestock interests, a political controversy that did not end until the late 1890s.

Diamondfield Jack was at times a quasi-religious issue which fanned the dying embers of anti-Mormonism.

At the end of Diamondfield Jack's bragging about his gun prowess—"cutting it in smoke," as he called it—it didn't take long for the cowboy to become the killer of the sheepmen.

And it took a jury only three hours, after a 10-day trial, to decide Diamondfield Jack was guilty of first degree murder. All of the jurors were from the sheepmen's side of the range boundary between customers and sheepmen. William E. Bohrah, later to become U.S. senator from Idaho, was a special prosecutor. Catherine H. Reed, later known as Mrs. J. H. Hargis, who became an Idaho legend as a criminal lawyer, to head the defense.

Before sentencing, Diamondfield Jack delivered an amazing tirade about the lack of evidence against him and the prejudice in the community of Albion where the trial was held.

but this didn't sway the court. The judge sentenced Jack to be hanged on Jan. 4, 1897.

Diamondfield lived in the shadow of the gallows for the next four years even though two other sparsely employed had meanwhile confessed killing sheepmen and had been acquitted on the grounds of self-defense.

It wasn't until the summer of 1901 that the Idaho Board of Pardons concluded Diamondfield Jack couldn't have killed the sheepmen. So—in what Grover calls a "chance in pseudology"—the board commuted his death sentence to life in prison.

It was the end of 1902 before the Board finally pardoned Davis, setting him free to begin an episode just as flamboyant as the one that had got him before.

Diamondfield wound up in Tonopah-Goldfield mining boom and within a few years became immensely wealthy. In the next few years, winding up his mining associations with the late George Wingfield, who later became Nevada's political kingmaker, and George "Big Boy" Fisher, a middle class man who became U.S. Senator from Nevada.

Davis also rebuilt his reputation as a gambler in a number of clashes with members of the early mining union.

Davis exhausted his wealth in later years, winding up in Las Vegas as a gambling house shill. It was there in 1949 that he came to an unlikely death by stepping in front of a taxi cab.

Author Grover concludes his book with the observation: "If it had been difficult to separate fact from fiction, the blame must go to Diamondfield Jack himself, a man who never worried a great deal about the distinction between the two."

Dr. Grover is a professor of speech and did the research for his book under grants from Oregon State University and Colorado State University. He has taught at both institutions, as well as at the University of Wyoming. He presently is at the University of Utah.

Library Services Explained By Local Official

There are many types of libraries in Magic Valley, but no actual duplication of services, Robert Bruce, Twin Falls public librarian, said Friday in reviewing the current progress of library districts.

Mr. Bruce noted that during a Feb. 24 hearing on the proposed Murtaugh-Hansen district indicated widespread misunderstanding as to the functions of various libraries.

An election has been called for April 22 on establishment of such a district.

"We are pleased with the county commission's immediate action in calling an election," Mr. Bruce said, "and of course were disappointed that our signatures were not sufficient to establish the district."

Many people, he added, are not aware of the specific services of existing libraries and the needs of residents in rural areas.

Libraries in the school system, elementary through senior high school, are tied in closely with the school curriculum; the librarian explained. They provide supporting materials for class assignment. These libraries are not only of books but of other materials such as film strips, film reels, recordings, and other audio-visual materials that are purchased from the library budget. There is one school in the area that has been debating whether or not to turn the purchase of books for the library funds may be turned to the development of a media center. A recent panel discussion at the Twin Falls Public Library, which included high school students, school administrators, school librarians, and public librarians indicated that the college faculty and students of the best school library systems in the state, there are still improvements needed in hours of service and size of book stock before completely satisfactory service is given to the students, Mr. Bruce continued.

The primary function of the CSI library is to provide materials in the subjects covered by the college curriculum. These materials are for the use of the college faculty and students. CSI generously permits the use of its library by residents of the Magic Valley area and to those people whose interests are covered by subjects given by the college. It is very important that the faculty and students must come first.

"Only the third type of library, the public library, is truly representative to the entire community," he added. "Materials are carefully selected with this object in view. If a book is of greatest interest to high school students, it is added to the public library collection. If a reference book on chemistry is of interest to the specialist, it will be of primary interest to the college library. Since students are members of the community and live within the public library's general service area, they are welcome to use any material from that library that may be of help in their school work. Recreational reading for readers of all ages is one of this library's principal responsibilities. Books on general interest, books for the business community, books relating to our primary industries, farming and ranching, all of these should be found in the public library."

The Magic Valley Library Demonstration experiment with the use of school libraries, Mr. Bruce said, for use of the community's adult readers. The experiment was a success, even when special evening hours of service were provided. Adults do not feel free to use a school library. These adult books were snatched up by the high school students. Where the library is closely integrated with the class work, the presence of adults was found annoying by both teachers and students, he added.

In the few cases that adults did use the school libraries, the use of books provided by the Demonstration rather than high school library books, Mr. Bruce said, was a success.

The school libraries, he said, cannot give reference service to the general public; it cannot give the library of deposits. The only extensive back list periodicals is in the public library.

"These are all parts of the general service to the entire community that the public library is responsible for maintaining," the librarian concluded.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

Question from M.R.F.C. Jerome: I have a 2-cent bronze piece dated 1865. I would like to know the value of it. It is in good condition. I also have a five dollar bill, "The Confederate States of America, which is dated Feb. 11, 1865, in Richmond, and signed by C. L. Read of W. V. Giles.

Answer: The United States 2-cent piece was minted in over 13 million copies in 1865—the largest year of production. It was only made for nine years and later years are worth considerably more than the 1865. This coin—in good condition—is quoted at about one dollar each. "Good" condition to a collector means that the coin is generally worn, but still easily recognizable and the date and legend are readable. From the tracer you sent your coin would probably be graded "fine," in which case it would be worth about $1.75.

We can find no record of any Confederate note published in 1865. All listed are dated 1861 to 1864, so without seeing the note there is no identification possible.

From Mrs. G. A. R., Twin Falls: I have a 2-cent coin minted in 1864 and it is in good condition. I would appreciate knowing if it is very rare and what the value of it is.

Answer: There are two varieties of the 1864 2-cent piece. Some 19 million of these were minted, but among them are some specimens called a "small motto" variety. The "large motto," or the bulk of the 1864 coins, sells for from $1.00 up to $3.50—depending upon condition. The "small motto" commands a much higher price—starting at about $20.00 and up from there.

It is hard to distinguish between the two varieties. Among other things, one stem is missing from the leaves on the small have in the collection, although we have photographed others.

Party Prerequisite—Dress As Song Title

attend the annual song title party hosted by the Friendship Circle of the Women of the Moose at the home of Mrs. Gale Killinger.

"BOOTS," "THE SOFT SOLE SHOE" and "Rings on My Fingers" provide the song title costumes for, from left, Mrs. Virgil Malone, Mrs. L. V. Hoffman, secretary-treasurer of the Friendship Circle, and Mrs. Gale Killinger, party hostess.

A PIPE AND A LUNCHBOX provide perfect accessories for Mrs. Charles Matlock as she dresses like "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

Women's Section

Fun And Humor Combine For Women Of Moose Social

By NORMA HERZINGER

To dress as a song title isn't the easiest thing to do—but it does sound like fun and good humor—and the joy of humor is that it comes in many flavors.

Fun and a good time were exactly what members of the Friendship Circle of the Women of the Moose had in mind when they scheduled their annual party. The only prerequisite to this party is that you MUST come dressed as a song title—any song title. It's a marvelous form of relaxation, and if you can sing the song you are dressed as, it makes all the better.

The event was held at the home of Mrs. Gale Killinger and some of the songs represented this year include "The Queen," "Japanese Sand Man," "Baubles, Bangles and Beads," "Boots," "The Soft Sole Shoe," "Rings on My Fingers," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," "I Want a Girl," "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," "The High and the Mighty," "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown," and "Red Roses for a Blue Lady."

These are all songs that take you back a few years. They almost had to go back a few years to get them, too. I read through the listing of some of the current songs on the market and couldn't help but wonder what they would look like in costume. For example, "I'm Living in Shame," "California Soul," "Gummy Giver," "Sweet Cream Ladies," "Hooked on a Feeling," "Toch Me," "I Started a Joke," "Rain in My Heart," "Worst Thing That Could Happen," and "Hey Jude." "Plastic Saddle" might be a good one to try, or "Your Squaw Is on the Warpath." Of course, "Oh-Fa-Di, Oh-Fa-Da" doesn't sound too bad. They two we could go back a few years and point out a few of those that were a little silly—take for example, "Chickeree Chick" or "Three Little Fishes." Oh well!

Members of the Friendship Circle enjoy planning fun parties, and plan on a bigger and better one next year.

Another event the members will be helping to plan is the Idaho State Friendship Degree convalescence scheduled May 4 in Twin Falls, with the Twin Falls Women of the Moose as hostesses.

GLAD IN A COSTUME of yesteryear, Mrs. W. W. Holmgren chose "I Want a Girl" as her song title.

"LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH" is represented by Mrs. George McGinnis, left, during the recent song title party hosted by the Friendship Circle. "The High and the Mighty" is the song chosen by Mrs. Lloyd Kelley, center, and "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown" by Mrs. Claude Severi, right. The Women of the Moose was organized in Twin Falls May 13, 1941, and Mrs. Parroll Nelson was the first member to get her Friendship Degree in 1947 at Boise. The song title party was hosted by Mrs. Gale Killinger at her home.

THE FRIENDSHIP CIRCLE'S only charter member, Mrs. Jake Pope, chose "Red Roses for a Blue Lady" as her song title. Friendship Circle is a degree within the Women of the Moose chapter and is something for the women to work for.

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor whose 10-year-old boy never cared to play cowboys, astronaut, FBI or anything else—normal little boys like to play. He prefers to dress up in his mother's high heels, hats, and jewelry, and run off to play with the little neighbor girl. About six months ago, I understood the boy's behavior when he called his mother and suggested that she take him to a doctor, and this simple matter repelled "What's his heart even had a cold this winter?"

Now, how does one go about wising up a mother like that?

DEAR NEIGHBOR: For the boy's sake, perhaps someone should try to persuade the mother (if he has one). This family needs help, not criticism. It's possible that there is nothing wrong with the boy—but it's better to investigate his childish tendencies.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a mother-in-law who is a darling, but she's one of those who "saves" everything. She has saved all my husband's clothes since he was a small boy. (He is now 33 years old.) She wants me to take them for our son, Abby, some of the clothing is like new, but it's all out of style, and I don't want to dress our six-year-old boy in old-fashioned clothes. She keeps after me to take the clothes home, and I've been putting it off. I know the dear lady means well, but how can I explain to her that we don't want these clothes? I hate to hurt her feelings. I should aid, we aren't poor and can afford to clothe the boy very well.

DEAR TOUCHY: Accept the clothing graciously, then quietly send it to an organization that collects clothes for the needy. If she asks why the boy doesn't wear them, tell her the truth.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to have answers to the following questions which have vexed me and many others in this community.

There is a middle-aged couple living together in this small community. Both are well known. They are not married and everyone wonders why. Both have children by former marriages. Is it his common law wife? Is she entitled (legally) to anything he has, should he die? And is HE entitled to anything she has, should SHE die?

DEAR WONDERING IN COLORADO: The above is the business only of the men and woman directly involved.

DEAR ABBY: That battle-ax in Prescott, Ariz., really got my temper riled.

"Housewives have all day to do their marketing, so why do we working folks have to cut them at the check-out counter at the supermarket after work," she complained.

What does she mean "working folks"? Wonder what she thinks caring for a husband, seven kids, and a 10-room house is. Fun and games, maybe? I don't feel hot when I'm working after my husband gets home

This is a husband.

Note the approving frown on his face. The gleam in his eye. He's looking at a wife (his) who just bought a new spring thing from us. And while she knows it's very new and chic and all that, he just looks at it and thinks she's beautiful. He also thinks she's very clever, because the price tag makes sense to him. It's not cheap, but it's not ridiculous either. He thinks it's very good value and he's very proud of her and the way she handles his money. If you'd like a husband with an approving look and a gleam in his eye — not to mention one that gives many compliments and kisses — see us. Gentlemen Prefer Dark Hair

By GAY PAULEY
UPI-Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) - It's said that gentlemen prefer blondes. But ask most women and they'll say the dark-haired men are rather more popular. If you want to split hairs over this assumption, check in with Jerome Alexander, a wig stylist, who travels the country steadily, talking with women in the stores and appearing on women's television and radio programs.
"The biggest market is for course hair so that it is less noticeable," he says. "It's surprising, but the most popular expand into wigs made from a mixture of black and gray blends. Japanese synthetic hair is the most popular. They're hand-made and you find that women want to look their age. I ask them, 'Memory. It is impossible to look like you are 20 and have the hair of a 30-year-old.'"
Alexander is so fascinated with hair as a fashion item that he has a collection of costumes in his home. He has a pair of trousers with horizontal layers of hair for the collar, and the other a vest and tie, and there are a few and a few more. THE ORDER OF DEMOLAY, an international youth organization that offers teenage boys the training and guidance they need to become better citizens, was founded in 1919 as a result of a young social worker's desire to provide fatherly advice and counsel for a boy who had lost his father. The three head officers of the Twin Falls chapter are John Rode, master counselor; Dave Hamilton, senior counselor; and Fred Walker, junior counselor.

Guidance And Training Offered To Young Men

By GENE SCHNEIDER
Youth Editor

The Order of DeMolay, an international youth organization that offers teenage boys the training and guidance they need to become better citizens, was founded in 1919 as the result of a young social worker's desire to provide fatherly advice and counsel for a boy who had lost his father.

The youth, Louis Lower, went to Frank S. Land, the 28-year-old director of the Social Service Department of the Scotts Rite Bodies in Kansas City, Mo., to ask for a job and seek counsel.

Mr. Land gave young Lower a job as a news boy's cub. With Louis, he realized that the boy's predicament was not confined to him alone, but extended to countless other boys whose fathers had fathers or not. It pointed out a need for a new youth organization—one that would provide the proper training and guidance to better citizenship that no other boys' group offered.

Mr. Land told Lower they would form a new boys' club, and he would bring some of his high school friends to a meeting, and they would get the group organized. So it was in February 1919, Louis Lower and eight of his friends met in the Scottish Rite Temple with Mr. Land for the purpose of forming a new boys' organization. Little did any of the 11 dream, least of all Mr. Land that in just a few years the movement would be active in several countries and territories outside the United States and would have a membership of over 100,000 boys.

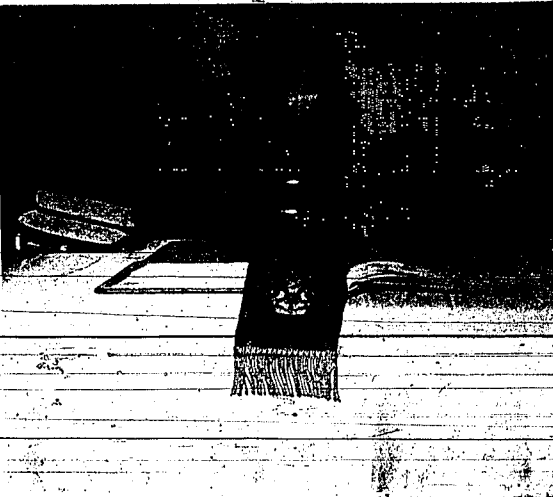

The idea of a club that would be both educational and inspirational was well received by all nine. The question was raised as to what to call this new organization. Mr. Land began reciting many of the famous names in history, but none of them appealed especially to the boys. Then one of the youths suggested that since they were meeting in a Masonic Temple that some of the historic figures connected with Masonry should be recounted.

It was then that Mr. Land mentioned the name of Jacques DeMolay. The name immediately captured the attention and the fancy of each of the nine young minds. When they heard how DeMolay, as the grand master of the Knights Templar, had died a martyr to loyalty and tolerance, they unanimously agreed that DeMolay was their choice of names.

Mr. Land advised them not to act in haste, to think the matter over and meet again at the next meeting. On March 19, 1919, the nine youths along with the 24 of their friends met again in the Masonic Temple and formally organized the Order of DeMolay. It was not until some twenty years later that Mr. Land realized that it is March 19 which was the anniversary date of the death of Jacques DeMolay in 1314.

At the next meeting, Lower was the first to read the DeMolay obligation on a Bible that Mr. Land had received in St. Louis when he was 12, for ten years Sunday School at a residence. The remaining original nine members followed Lower in taking the obligation. At the following meeting, a proposal was brought up that could have brought death to the future greatness of the movement. One of the members proposed that the membership be limited to 75 boys. All the other boys seemed to be in agreement.

Mr. Land pointed out how selfish they were being, and pointed out that DeMolay should not be exclusive. He said, "The but if it was to be good for one boy it must be good for all eligible boys and in 1919, a new world was there. And membership limits were set, Frank Land's speech seemed to be a go ahead signal, for in less than a year the organization of DeMolay in Kansas City grew to a membership of 5,000.

AT THE BEGINNING of each meeting, the DeMolays bow and pay tribute to God. Leading out in the devotion to God is Ron Thompson kneeling at the altar. The remainder of the boys form a triangle and bow to God, facing leader and altar.

IN THE TRADITION of the Knights Templar, ritual was to become a fundamental cornerstone of DeMolay. It revolves about the DeMolay altar in which rests the Holy Bible, and at which a DeMolay obligates himself to be a better son and man, to honor his parents and to love and serve God and his country.

TAKING HIS POSITION at the head of the room, Dave Hamilton, senior counselor for the Order of DeMolay observes the activities of the meeting. Davo has been a member of the order for approximately four years. Part of his duties is the responsibility of presiding at the meetings when the master counselor is absent and counselling younger boys.

In the tradition of the Knights Templar, ritual was to become a fundamental cornerstone of the trial of Jacques DeMolay. In 1920, the youth movement picked Frank Marshall, a leading newspaper and editorial writer for the Kansas City Journal was asked to write a ritual. It is one that Kansas City went to Gumball, Mo., to install a chapter. Someday, it revolves about the DeMolay altar in which rests the Holy Bible, and at which a DeMolay obligates himself to be a better son and man, to honor his parents and to love and serve God, his country and fellow men. To uphold the public to Mr. Land that he was going to stand in mind, and to have to devote full time to well known for its charitable to exercise tolerance for this "prince" of his or's (and) service projects, citizenship obligations of others, and down. The decision was made, training and worthy social actions on the part of the DeMolay obligates himself to be a better son and man, to honor his parents and to love and serve God, his country and fellow men. The organization has become known as the Order of DeMolay. It is a dramatic ceremony, a training better leaders to assure the world of a better tomorrow.

Teenage Drinking Is Fast Becoming A Problem

By LINDA WATSON
Twin Falls-High School

Teenage drinking is rapidly becoming one of the worst problems in the nation today. Such crimes as robbery, car theft and murder can and do stem from teen-age drinking. Most of the potential alcoholics begin their career while in high school. Later, they try a drinker and the excessive drinker or so alcohol should be made illegal until the teen-agers reach 21. It is no longer as entertaining because they can walk into any liquor store and purchase it.

In France, due to their impure water, the French are raised on wine. They do not face the same delinquent problem as the United States. This is a sober-as-proof that one of the main reasons for teen-age drinking is resentment of parental authority.

Another reason some of the youths drink is that they believe they can "out-grow" alcohol. However, the ones who have this usually change their opinions the following morning.

When asked how he felt about teenage drinking, Mike Durand, a senior at Twin Falls High School, replied, "I see nothing wrong with sensible drinking on the teen-age level or the adult level. Most of the teen-agers who drink have enough sense to keep out of trouble when they drink. But alcohol does different things to different people and many drinkers cause much damage while drinking. Unfortunately there is no way to distinguish between the sensible drinker and the excessive drinker or so alcohol should be made illegal until the teen-agers reach 21. It is no longer as entertaining because they can walk into any liquor store and purchase it.

Sophomore Kathy O'Dell also expressed her opinion on the problem. "When you are a teenager you usually want to let everyone know that you can do anything, like driving recklessly, drinking or anything like that. The reason they do these things could be that they don't want to be left out or they want revenge. My opinion of teenage drinking is that if you want to drink, drink. Because it is your life and you can do what you want to do."

"Let Off The Hook" Is Not Policy

By RON STROLBERG
Twin Falls Juvenile Officer

In working with juveniles we find that the most frequent violations which come to the attention of law enforcement officers are the law concerning curfew and larceny.

When any object is concealed or hidden from view, either in the hand, pockets, or under a coat while in a store, a person can be charged with willful concealment. If the item is carried from the store, it is termed petty larceny if the value is valued at more than $150.00 and is carried from the store, the charge is grand larceny.

Curfew deals with the hours of which a child or a certain age shall be allowed by law to be in any public building or upon any public property.

One of the many reasons we hear from juveniles concerning larceny charges, is the attempt to place the blame on the family. Many juveniles give the excuse that their parents would not give them the money needed to buy the items taken. However, too often we find that the offender has sufficient change in his pocket to pay for the item. Most items shoplifted are out of want and not need. Items such as stereo tapes and automobile accessories are most frequent with boys, where cosmetics and clothing are with girls.

Most offenders do not show any concern about the effects a charge of petty larceny—illegal consumption or a connection with narcotics and/or any dangerous drug will have on their future. The value of the item taken in a larceny case indicates only the degree of larceny. A conviction of larceny of these items could result in a limited choice of jobs after the youth gets out of school, including any job connected with the shopping item which reflect on a credit application and the acceptance into some colleges. It can affect a person for the rest of his life.

Filer Paper Suspends Publication

FILER — The Citizen-Record, local newspaper for the past 50 years, has suspended publication and the subscription list has been purchased by the Buhl Herald.

All paid-up Citizen-Record subscribers will be honored by the Buhl Herald and patrons will receive Filer advertising and news through its pages, according to Robert Boyl, Herald publisher.

Robert Ford, former publisher of the Citizen-Record, stated the office will remain open under the present management but will become a full-time commercial printing plant. Future plans included remodeling the office and stocking a line of assorted greeting card lines, gift wrapping and paper supplies and a gift shop, Mr. Ford added.

The newspaper had originated in 1918 when it was known as the Filer-Record. On March 2, 1930, it was combined with the Idaho Citizen of Twin Falls to form the Twin Falls County Citizen-Record.

RON STROLBERG

Due to the amount of shoplifting, the majority of businesses are now training personnel to watch for shoplifters and are equipping their stores with concealed observation plants.

The general feeling of most first time offenders is that they will be given a break. This is not a policy. Through further investigation a decision will be made whether to reinstate the violator or to file a petition in Probate Court.

Next to petty larceny the other most frequent contact with juveniles is through the curfew.

Dogs

 Dr. Manners says he also acquired an excellent hunting dog through the dog pound although he no longer owns the dog.
 After more than four years as city dog catcher, Mr. Saville says a good percentage of dogs in town. The best known offenders are sometimes picked up and returned to their owners with only a warning but generally, the dog owner who doesn't adhere to the city's ordinance finds himself in city police court.

Barking dogs represent another matter, Mr. Saville says. "Unless the person who is making the complaint is willing to take legal action there is little the dog catcher can do other than issue a warning."
 "If your neighbor's barking dog keeps you awake at night, you have to sign a complaint before legal action can be pursued," Mr. Saville warns.

Most of the complaints about barking dogs and those running through the neighborhood do not give their names, but want the dog catcher to correct the problem.
 "Unless I actually witness the dog on the premises of the neighbor there is nothing I can do," the dog catcher explains. One of the busiest days on record at the pound came just over a week ago when Mr. Saville picked up 29 dogs in one day. Included was a parakeet named Shepherd, and the 11 puppies. These dogs and their mother were all given new names within a matter of days. There is always a demand for such dogs.

However, the most frequently requested by those who seek help from the city is to get rid of the small dogs that can easily be kept in the home. Poodles, not too often picked up, will be the most common breeds, and the small terriers, beagles and just plain dogs that are of small size.

Since January, 1964 when the turned brownish-yellow and the plants died.
 "It sounds just like anthracnose disease," White spots on leaves, then later leaves and flowers may wither, especially around flowering time. Fungus often comes from nearby apple trees. There is always a willow sprayer. It also overwintered on infected debris. Disease may be brought in on animal manures.
 Control—Remove and pull-up and control in fall and burn. Use seed that's been treated, since the fungus is often carried on seeds.
 Another trouble is root rot, causing plants to rot at the base of stem. Here again, avoid using manure. Plant seed in new area each year.
 M. L. of Malta: "Every year the leaves of our white birch turn brown and drop off. We used to be able to spray but now the trees are too small. Now we'll have to find some way to control the trouble or cut down the tree."
 "Try using a systemic pesticide around base of your tree. This material is scattered around the tree and watered in. Tree absorbs it and pests are killed when they eat any part of the tissue."

 attends sales regularly notes that at first when attending sales there's an inclination to buy things that look old and interesting.
 "You have to be selective," which, you learn after a little experience. You may go to several sales without buying anything and at another you may purchase a number of items," the woman advised.
 Most farm sale patrons watch closely for sale handbills and advertising and attend the sales offering household items. They result in the same family for many years. Often after the death of an elderly farm couple the estate will include many items of old furniture that can be refinished. Dishes that may have been in the family for years and will have a value as antique items, as well as clocks, butter molds, churros, coffee grinders and the like.
 Another Twin Falls woman who counts herself among the farm sale fans says she makes a list of items from the sale advertisement. Then the list is checked for items the children start in order to inspect these items, establish a maximum limit she is willing to pay on the items and if the housewife or even the working woman with a day off from sales can provide some good entertainment even if they don't always reap profitable by coming up with an outstanding bid.
 "If you are held on Saturday to accommodate the working people as well as farmers. As one woman who has attended sales for many years said, there are more and more people from nearby towns and competition is getting keener all the time."

READER LIKES BROWALLIA: Recently we said that browallia makes a fine plant for porch or window box. A reader writes: "It's also a good plant to have in a sunny window all winter. It takes the place of holly in my house and gives as it does not need much space or support for its continuing bloom of pleasing blue." Tip pinching is important if you want a shaped plant. If you nip the bloom end with your thumb and forefinger, it will soon be replaced with more buds. After the plant has reached the size you want, you can take slips or cuttings and root them in water, making new plants for yourself and friends.

DO YOU MOSQUITOES LOVE YOU? They may not now, but perhaps this summer, why are some people bothered by more mosquitoes than others? After a 10-year search, the USDA has found the answer. When you sweat you give off, among other things, lactic acid. Mosquitoes and some people give off more than others. Perhaps if scientists can camouflage the acid on the body, mosquitoes can prevent mosquito-borne diseases from pestering you while gardening.

HOMIE-GROWN ONIONS- No event more fun than growing your own large "hamburger" onions. Put onion plants out in early spring. Usually, it's simpler to buy your plants from a seed man, although you can grow your own from seed sown now. "Hamburger" onion plants are cheap.

A bunch is a handful as pulled in the field in the south, running 55 to 110 plants per bunch. A couple bunches might cost you $1.50 or so but you can grow them. As soon as you get your onion plants from the seed house, upon them and give them plenty of water. If you can't immediately spread out in cool dry place.

DO NOT WATER, or fret them in ground outside. Don't worry if the roots are not dry, as the bulb will make a new set of roots when planted. Set plants 4 to 5 inches apart in rows 12 to 16 inches apart. Grow them close, and pull every other one for green onions in spring and early summer.

FREE! Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my bulletin, How to Grow Onions, Leeks and Garlic. My guide is packed full of good tips on raising the best onion crop you can.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D.R. of Twin Falls: "Last year we planted some handsome Yew evergreens around our house. I noticed they put out moss around each. In a few days I had a mass of weeds start up under the plantings. Could I spray a weedkiller on the weeds, not hurt the evergreens?"
 "Don't use weedkillers around your evergreens. You're bound to get a few weeds until the plants can become established and crowd them out. Use a hoe to cut off the weeds, and add some more mulch, such as a new dust, coccolamin shells, peat moss, or whatever you are available. Some use a gravel stone mulch. If you can't grow your Yew's bound to get a few weeds popping up through a mulch, but it's no job to pull them up as they appear. After the mulch has been set in a while, weeds disappear and find it more difficult to grow in that area."
 S.E. of Tuller: "Please tell me why can't rats eat peanut anymore. Last summer they grew to a height of 18 inches, and just as they were beginning to blossom the leaves

Burley Labor Camp Plans 20 New Units

BURLEY—Twenty new two-bedroom units will be built at the Burley Labor Camp, which is located on the east side of Burley. Construction is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The old buildings at the Burley Labor Camp will be torn down. The new units will include a small kitchen and bathroom and will be approximately 400 square feet.

New state and federal housing regulations for migrant workers go into effect this spring. Mr. Smith said that the regulations would enforce only the housing used by migrant workers recruited by his department, but emphasized that all other housing would be supervised by the Department of Health.

The Paul Farm Labor Association also has announced that it will build three-bedroom units at the camp, but no date has been decided upon for the construction to begin.

Cassia To Get County Agent Soon

BURLEY—Cassia County residents can expect a county agent to be appointed within a month, reports Dr. James Kraus, dean of the University of Idaho's College of Agriculture. It may be more difficult to take longer to find a home demonstration agent, but the county commissioners expect to have a public meeting was held last week in the district court room on the extension problem in Cassia County, with Dr. Kraus as the only commissioner in attendance. The extension service officials of the Burley Chamber of Commerce.

Bob Hilliard, chairman of the Chamber's agriculture committee, informed about 50 residents in attendance that the chamber committee was acting in a liaison between the county commissioners and the extension service officials. Dr. Kraus, county commissioner and the chamber committee met for most of the day on the problem.

Dr. Kraus reported that an evaluation was being made of the services and programs which the county agents have been handling. The main program has been agriculture, followed by giving assistance in marketing products.

The 4-H programs for the youth are directed by the county agents as well as the home economic programs. Other programs under the direction of the county agents have been assisting with development of the community in public relations and citizenship.

"We know we have problems in the extension service and we are trying to evaluate ourselves," Dr. Kraus stated. "From the questionnaire which included 33 questions, it appears that residents of Cassia County want a county agent and a home demonstration agent, but with changes in the program."

The county commissioners put in the county budget this year and there were no protests made at the budget hearing. Dr. Kraus said the budget is about $500 per agent increase this year and there were no protests made at the budget hearing. Dr. Kraus said the budget is about $500 per agent increase this year and there were no protests made at the budget hearing.

Dr. Kraus suggested that an advisory council be named for Cassia County from a cross section of the people in the county and that this group direct the extension service as to program priorities. This group should also take an inventory of the needs of the county, Dr. Kraus added.

"More specialists in a district, working with the county agent, have been considered, but this would take several months or maybe a year," Mr. Kraus said. At present there are four potato specialists in the state, which seem to have updated the program in this one field.

Local residents expressed views on the expense of placing specialists in the district at taxpayers expense and having 4-H programs without a county agent, and noted that the material is outdated and does not arrive on time.

It also was pointed out it takes a month for requested information to be returned. In answer to 33 questions, it appears that residents of Cassia County want a county agent, Dr. Kraus reported that it is up to the extension service officials at the University and the county commissioners to make this decision.

Dr. Kraus will return to the University with the questionnaire for further study prior to making the county agent appointments for Cassia County. The questionnaire was answered by groups and individuals both county commissioners attended the meeting and Mr. Hilliard and Ed Egan, chairman of the agriculture committee.

Dr. Kraus also reported that an Agriculture Council which is an advisory extension extension 15 years ago is now making a study on what has been done in the extension service the past year.

The group's recommendations and the recommendations from Cassia County residents changes will be made to serve the needs of the most people," stated Kraus, "but we are going to need time."

Al Smith reported to the group on the youth legislature and toastmasters participation.

LENTEN GUDEPOSTS Actor Learns To Control Over-Competitive Spirit

By ROBERT STACK
TV and Film Star

When I was 15 years old, I read an article about a boy my age, Billy Clayton, who had just become an All-American steel champion.

I wonder if I could beat that kid, I said to myself. For a year I spent every after-school hour shooting and then entered the competition.

Billy and I tied for first place. There was a shoot-off and, incredibly, I won.

Well, this just reinforced my competitive spirit. The guy who works hardest wins. In time I developed a competitive spirit which I'm sure was a bit overdone. Competitiveness might be an asset in sports, but outside that limited effort, effort and results do not always go hand in hand.

I saw this myself as my training as an actor began. There is an ingredient in success which goes beyond effort, even to the point of an element of luck, of simple fate.

How the competitor in me resisted this idea, I rejected it even when luck stopped in and smiled on me personally. Through Duenna Durbin I was visiting Duenna Durbin one day at her studio. While the young actress and I were talking, her director walked in. He took one look at me and asked, "How'd you like to play opposite Miss Durbin?"

I thought he was joking. He hadn't asked if I could act, or even if I wanted to. I was offered a chance of a dream.

For a moment I was in a daze. I still could not abandon the idea that success just had to depend on "cutting the other guy." A person who looked me change this attitude was a young girl, Rosemarie How, who had just come to Hollywood from Washington.

One day I was in a roomful of actors when Rosemarie walked in. Two other women interrupted her. Rosemarie started in on her — the studio remark, the innuendo. I watched to see how Rosemarie would react. As it turned out, she would have done it.

But not Rosemarie. It was as if she literally did not hear. As usually in a child, she stepped up to those two women and made friends of them.

Sometime later, I told her how greatly I admired the way she had handled the two women and asked her how she did it.

"I'm not in charge of my own life," Rosemarie said. "Once I discovered that I stopped thinking of other people as threats."

It took me some time to discover that when Rosemarie said she wasn't in charge of her own life, she meant that God was. It was basic to her whole outlook and it was basic to my own. I wanted to live with the rest of my life. Rosemarie and I were married in January, 1936.

And right away she began trying to teach me to look at my career with detachment. Time after time, she pointed out, the roles I had tried for and lost were wrong anyway. On the other hand, roles which came to me most casually had turned out to be the most profitable.

"That is no accident," Rosemarie said. "That's God directing your life. You really ought to stop trying to figure out your own life. This is the time she saves each day for meditation. I did join her — hesitatingly at first, then with greater conviction.

One day I got a telephone call from my agent. He wanted me to consider the part of a federal agent named Effort Ness in a new TV show to be called "The Untouchables." I resisted when I learned that I wasn't first choice for the job. Rosemarie just laughed.

"Maybe your ego is being crushed on purpose," she said. "Maybe God has something special for you to do in this part."

I wondered. Perhaps in this new role I could counter the trend of giving up the better treatment on TV. When I talked with the producer about the part, I told him I wanted to show violence for what it is.

And the remarkable thing is that this show, which nobody wanted to do, became one of the longest-running and most honored vehicles on the air. I am convinced this success came because Rosemarie's ego was so relevant to our lives.

So the competitive spirit in me is finally taking its rightful place. Controlling my own life, my own business has been a matter of discovering God. Today I know that every time I yield myself in His plan, He uses me in ways that I have never even occurred to me. My responsibility is to do my best wherever He puts me, and to leave the outcome to Him.

Perhaps that's the toughest role I've ever had to learn.

I found a way that is difficult but worth the effort! Lay the ribbon, satin side up, on the ironing board. Press your right elbow down on the right end. Press hard so as to keep it in place. While this end is held down, hold the other end up off the board and pull tight so there is no slack. Here comes the hard part. With the right elbow holding the end you must hold the iron in the right hand and just brush the iron-edge over the ribbon two or three times and there you are. Turn the ribbon around, not over, and do the other end the same way. Really not as complicated as it sounds.—B. K.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR DR. DWIGHT L. WILBUR, president, American Medical Association

How can the public best deal with the menace of health quackery?—Mrs. Steve Meyer, Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada

• When a person is worried about his own health or the health of a loved one, he is inclined to be less skeptical of the quack's promises and may become easy prey for these unscrupulous persons. Questions or complaints about quackery should be directed to local health authorities, local voluntary health agencies, Better Business Bureaus, and local medical societies.

FOR ARNOLD PALMER

When you step up to make a shot in a golf tournament, what do you concentrate on the most?—Lestic E. Dunkin, Bremen, Ind.

• When I am about to play any shot in golf, I think about playing it as well as I possibly can. Through experience, I know what I can do with each shot, and I concentrate on doing it. With that in mind, I proceed to the selection of a club, and consideration of other mechanical and course-condition factors involved in making the shot successful.

FOR ED SULLIVAN

Is it true that the late Humphrey Bogart was your teacher?—Will Henry, Napa, Calif.

• That question has come up many times, but I am not the brother of my late friend Humphrey Bogart. When I was much younger, there was a slight resemblance, though.

FOR MICKEY MANTLE

How did you start your baseball career?—James McCormick, McKinleyville, Calif.

• I became interested in baseball through my father and grandfather, both avid fans and good players in their own right. They taught me the how to switch-hit and developed my interest in the game. Baseball was an alternative to swimming in the mines in my home town of Spavinaw, Okla., and my dad was anxious for me to take advantage of my opportunity.

FOR SYLVIA PORTER, financial columnist

Do you personally adhere to a budget?—Mrs. Frank Inglin, Petaluma, Calif.

• No, I have a "built-in" budget right in my head.

FOR OMAR SHARIF, actor

Is the character you play in "Che!" supposed to be Che Guevara, or just a director's interpretation of him?—Gene Danbar, ME, Ulna, Vt.

• The character of Che Guevara, as written, was distilled directly from his diaries and the accounts of his fellow revolutionaries. It's as accurate a picture of him as we can get.

FOR JOHNNY CARSON

Why do you end all your "Tonight" show monologues with a golf swing, and what do you usually shoot?—John Holtrah, Midland, Texas

• I end my monologue with a golf swing because it looks better than pitching a baseball. I usually shoot pigeons, rabbits, squirrels, and old writers.

FOR CAROL LAWRENCE

What do you think of the new "see-through" fashions?—Jane Zeal, Indiana, Okla.

• They are ridiculous and obscene, and I certainly would never be caught wearing one myself.

FOR LT. GEN. LEWIS B. HERSHEY, fighter, School of Service

What trained personnel in the fields of mental health and school counseling in such short supply, why are they not granted graduate draft deferments?—Dorothy Prather, Twin Falls, Idaho

• The Military Selective Service Act of 1967 provides for deferment of graduate students in medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, optometry, or other subjects deemed necessary for national health, safety, or interest. To date, the National Security Council, which sets up classifications, has not recommended additional graduate-student deferments other than those listed above.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Blue Jeans, Updated "Jeans" were named after pants worn by Italian sailors from Genoa (Genoa—jeans, got it?). This spring they are predicted to be the hottest thing in women's party garb, selling for up to $40. The cut, of course, is not the gardening variety, but wallpaper-slug, low-hipped, and fly-front—requiring a figure which needs no camouflage. Among the devotees are Lynda Bird Johnson Robb's sister-in-law, model Trenny Robb, singer Jane Morgan, who wears them to cocktail parties and occasionally to dinner, and actress Jane Fonda.

Jane's jeans

Red-Hat Girls Baby-sitters-in-Stuttgart, Germany, wear red hats to identify themselves, a custom started with airline-horesses invited to cote for children or old people traveling alone. Now all Mutter has to do is pop by the local cafe and spot herself a sitter.

Schnoazzola Speaks Up Jimmy Durante, 76, disputes, in Larry Wilde's book, "The Great Comedians Talk About Comedy," that most comedians get that way because of poor, unhappy childhoods. "Now, I was born in back-of-my-dad's barbershop. But we weren't what you call poverty-stricken. We never wanted for bread. I went to work, selling papers after school. Jolson or Cantor, they didn't have riches, either. My nose? Naturally kids made fun of it and busted it. My ambition was to become a great ragtime piano player, a great orchestra leader like Harry James or Guy Lombardo. There's no psychological reason. I just like to have fun."

How to Make Kids Mind "Punishment today may prevent an accident tomorrow," the American Academy of Pediatrics believes. To keep a child from "daring out" in frame-of-tipping over scalding liquid, start instructions early. Near the first birthday, a baby learns to obey, so take advantage of that. Use a simple command language (no "stop," but "careful") and a firm but calm tone of voice. Be consistent, never threaten without following through, don't give in "just this once." And always tell the truth; don't warn "hot" if it isn't.

Eyes on Picturephone Thousands of deaf persons can't use one of our society's most valuable products—the telephone. But a forthcoming Bell System development will correct that. When Picturephones become available, the deaf will be able to "talk" just as well as anyone. Sign language, of course, is the answer—and pictures will communicate the language coast to coast as quickly as a spoken word on ordinary phones. Shown here is a telephone call between deaf parties in Washington and New York.

The Tragedy Behind Today's

We are a nation of age myths, says this famous young and old from

By HARRY GOLDEN

Author of "Only in America," "For 26 Plain," and his autobiography "The Right Time," to be published next month

WHEN Harvey Haddix of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitched 12 perfect innings against the Milwaukee Braves some years ago, it was big news not because he lost in the 13th inning—but because Harvey was 33 years old.

I had a friend whose sole ambition was to become the youngest member of Congress. Well, he not only didn't win the election, he didn't even win the nomination. Now he's campaigning again, and his theme is that we need "experience," "calm wisdom," and "moderation," all of which he suddenly developed when he passed 35. Twice now he has trapped himself by his own myth—the myth of age.

The real iron curtain is the age curtain separating the young from the middle-aged and the middle-aged from the old and the old from the young—a curtain composed largely of myths.

Part of my inspiration comes out of the realization that I, although pushing 66, still deliver more than 30 lectures a year at various colleges. I get no veneration because of my age. It is not as easy as it sounds.

In one Southern university, for example, a group kept heckling me. "What's a northern Jew like you doing telling us Southerners about our way of life?" they kept asking.

Finally, I barked, "I'll tell you what I'm doing down here. I'm trying to establish a Jewish fraternity to preserve the Christian ethic." A great majority of the students laughed loudly and applauded me.

At a girl's college I asked several of the students whether there was any relationship between the academic revolution and the sexual revolution. One of the girls pursed her lips and said, "The C-minus students are interested in the academic revolution. The boys who want to be doctors, physicists, or engineers are interested in the sexual revolution. The Phi Beta Kappas always mean business." Students do not always regard me as antique. But when we talk later, they do so regard their fathers that way.

I do not want to take up cudgels solely for the old. We practice dreadful inequities among the young. I think of all the graduate-school deans dashing recklessly about now that the draft boards are instructed no longer to issue deferments to graduate students.

There are cities in this country built specifically for the old. When the residents leave their hotels and rooming houses in the morning, their first topic of conversation, always is the success of the morning's bowel movement. They will discuss this until noon: "I take figs every night" or "My doctor in Des Moines gave me something, and I have written him a letter telling him he should patent it—it is so wonderful!"

This is typical of the many retirement centers in Arizona and Florida where the aged live, where the newspapers run 12 pages of obituaries, where the streets are all ramped, where benches proliferate steadily.

This is what we do with the aged: we shove them into this incubator where they live vegetable-like for the small joys of isolated life, fretting about all the annoyances of the day.

"My daughter-in-law hates me and keeps me from seeing the children," is a remark you might hear more than once in any of their cities.

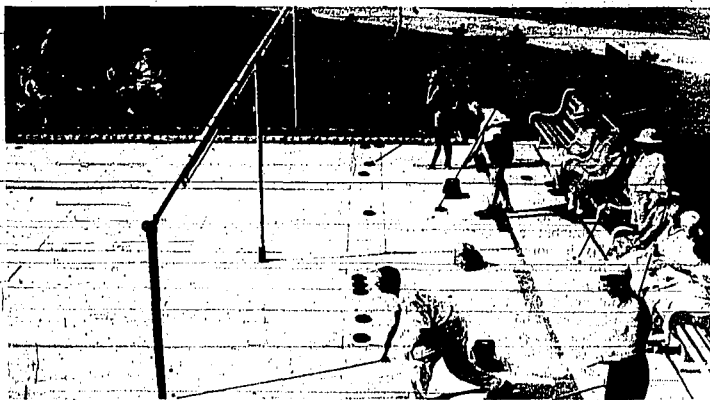

They spend their lives looking out of the window—their daily post-as-noon-as-they-awaken. The mail often is the big event of the day. Then they will run to the mailbox and take letters not addressed to them, which they will not open but hold for the vicarious and momentary thrill of possession and for the joy of saying, "Mrs. Smith, I have a letter that came for you."

This enforced isolation often brings about sad change. Some of the old in these retirement centers are terribly worried about children and dogs. Both mean noise. They investigate carefully before they rent or buy to make sure there are no children and no dogs on the block. An empty house or apartment is cause for deep concern ("We may get something with children?"). The happily giggling child is an object of hostility as though they object to his youth and would deprive him of it.

There are clubs for them based on point-of-origin—the Iowa Club, the Maine Club, the New Jersey Club. They hold singing contests after the Saturday-night lecture on "The Salt-Free Diet." Each club concentrates on songs like "My Wild Irish Rose," and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Whole communities have been built around the myth that the old can't live with the young.

Generation Gap

author-myths that prohibit sharing the joys of an all-too-short life

After the singing competition, the blood-pressure machines do a big business. It is no wonder the old are cranky, the young unregenerate and rude, and the middle-aged panicky.

One of the reasons for this division is that we do not believe merit affects the quality of life. Yet Winston Churchill was in his 60s when he became Britmathematicians get their gifts early and are washed up at 30, never considering that Goethe wrote "Faust" when in his 70s. But when a 47-year-old bishop becomes a cardinal, we say he is young.

The trouble with all of us is that we believe life is like a business graph. We imagine life as a slowly ascending ain's war-time Prime Minister.

But the young, too, have "exclusive areas" in discotheques such as New York's "Wednesday."

On New York's lower East Side, in the crowded tenements, we had a pretty good idea of what life looked like—all ages of life. We lived with kid brothers, maiden aunts, and grandparents. The result was that we didn't think people belonged in the categories of young, middle-aged, or old—we all communicated one way or another. Today, in most suburban complexes, the town at midday is populated only by the women, the kiddies, and the dogs.

We have victimized ourselves by subscribing wholeheartedly to our own myths. We'll retire at 65; not because that is when we should retire, but rather because 65 is the most advantageous retirement age for the insurance business.

We really believe that poets and line which reaches its peak at roughly 50 and then abruptly and relentlessly descends into senility or bankruptcy at 70.

I submit that life is a continuum, an ever-circling curve, every point of which is as near the end as the beginning. Only if it is thus can the old learn more from the young just as the young learn more handily from the old.

There is little reverence for the old in our society. And because there is none, there is probably less reverence for the young.

THINK ABOUT DEATH and START TO LIVE!

It is human nature to put off thoughts of death as long as we can.

This is especially true when our years are young, our health is good, and we're having a wonderful time.

But even in this life, the true values and real joys of living come into clear focus only when we face up to the facts of death and ask ourselves: "What does it mean?"

Once we do this, the terrifying specter of death becomes less fearsome. We see it as a teacher, cautioning us to shape our lives in a manner pleasing to God. We see it not as a Grim Reaper, robbing us of our worldly pleasures, but as the golden gateway to God's greatest of all gifts—eternal life.

There are some people, of course, who believe that after this life there is no more. The pure and the sinful, they contend, all meet the same gloomy end of eternal nothingness; there is no judgment, no punishment, no reward. But if our reason did not tell us this is wrong, we have the clearer assurance of God Himself that man shall live on earth, shall eventually meet death, that he shall be judged and, upon that judgment, shall live eternally either in joy—or misery.

This has been the teaching of the age-old Catholic Church since the time of the Apostles. It is a doctrine that compels a Catholic to think of his life in terms of his death. It sounds like a gloomy doctrine to those who dislike to face up to the facts of death and the certainty of divine judgment, but Catholics are inspired rather than depressed by it.

However gloomy the prospect of death may be, Catholics are constantly reminded by the Church of the importance of fixing up, not instead of trying to ignore it. In the month of November each year, the thoughts of the faithful are especially directed to the special considerations of that occasion when every human being must take off on that final "flight" to God's vast unknown.

If you would like to know how to think about death, what happens after death, how to think about Heaven, how the Church helps its people at death, what's the right attitude toward death as Catholics see it, write today for our free pamphlet. It will be mailed promptly, and nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. EM-53.

"Laugh-In's" Goldie Hawn— "She's Dumb Like a Fox"

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

"AND NOW for the news 20 years
Afrom now—that's in the future, you know—here's Dick." But Dan Rowan, one of the stars of tv's wildly popular "Laugh-In," comes on camera shaking his head in disbelief, a quizzical smile on his face.

Goldie Hawn, the show's authentic "dumb blonde," has done it again, completely fouled-up her lines, made a total mess of the introduction—and stolen the scene. But the really funny thing is that Rowan knows that Goldie will do the same thing next week with the same results.

"That's one of the reasons I love Dan and Dick (the show's costar Dick Martin):
they are so marvelous to work with. They always help out everyone else on the show whenever possible," Goldie says. "Both of them are completely unassuming. They do not impose their will or method of comedy on anyone else."

While Goldie is grateful to "Laugh-In"
for her current popularity, the actual success of the show is due in no small part to her. With her wide-open eyes, blank stare, high-pitched voice, gaping mouth, she epitomizes the "dumb blonde" in the classic Judy Holliday style. One of the reasons Dan Rowan doesn't mind her weekly upstaging is the fact that he knows what's good for Goldie is good for his show, that the audience loves her.

For Goldie, a professional career started at the age of three, when her mother, a wholesale jeweler, started her in dancing school in Washington, D.C. Fifteen years later, Goldie opened up her own dancing class with some 50 students. "I never really wanted for anything; my parents did the very well financially. But I wanted to know
I could go out and buy extra clothes when I wanted to."

Her school was an instant success. "I was the choreographer, instructor, secretary, everything," Goldie recalls fondly.
"But my heart was set on acting."

To realize her ambition, Goldie set out for New York and wound up as a chorlineer at a pavilion at the 1964 World's Fair. Later, she went on tour and eventually got to Los Angeles. She landed a small part in a Walt Disney film, which in turn led to a chorus-line job in Las Vegas. "Then one day I just said to myself, enough is enough, and I quit. I always do things on the spur of the Goldie, Dan, and Dick: a laugh a minute.

moment." So I went back to California."

Goldie heard of an opening in a new series called "Good Morning World." The part called for a "girl-next-door type who constantly carried a teapot around with her," Goldie remembers. "So I went to the audition carrying a teapot. I was the only one there with one. The producers thought it was so crazy, they gave me the part!"

While the series was short-lived, Goldie made an impression, and later, when "Laugh-In" was being cast, the show's producers felt she was a natural.

"The first time I had to give Dan an introduction in the news part of the show,
I didn't try to mess it up. But I'm near-sighted, and the cue cards were too far away, and I got it all mixed up. Dan thought it was so funny he decided to keep it in the next week. Now the cue cards are always wrong. They try to help me mess up the reading, but I have my own method," Goldie says.

"There is one drawback to the whole thing, though," Goldie admits. "I think I'm being hypocrite. People are always expecting me to do something dumb." Say something dumb, Goldie, my friends say.
It's really very embarrassing."

One of her coworkers, though, says,
"She really is dumb, a real dumb blonde."
But Dan Rowan thinks differently. "Yeah, she's dumb all right—dumb like a fox."

Goldie has parlayed her "Laugh-In" popularity into a number of spot-on the late-night talk shows, two guest-appearances in another series, "That's Life," and her first big movie role as Walter Matthau's mistress in "Cactus Flower." Goldie gets $36,000 for that one.
Maybe it pays to be "dumb."

They Call Him "Big Brawling Drags"

By BOB GAINES

DON "BIG DADDY" Garlits can still vividly recall the accident...

"A muggy June morning at the drag strip in Chester, S.C. The starting light goes green as Don lets up the clutch of his roaring supercharged fuel dragster. The car shoots down the quarter-mile track, tires smoking, engine screaming. Suddenly at 170 mph, an explosion. Flames burst out of a ruptured manifold, searing Garlits' face, arms, hands.

Stunned, blinded by the flames, Garlits can feel the fuel spewing to the right. He clutches the wheel with his gloved smoking hand, corrects the slide, and then brakes. The burning car bumps to a stop at the end of the strip. Garlits staggers out of the car and collapses.

"That was back in 1959," recalls Don, a slim, sinewy man of 36. "I was a fresh kid who enjoyed building fast cars and racing them. But after the accident, everything was different. I was in the hospital eight weeks. Until then, it was a game, a tough, exciting game. But I never seriously thought of getting hurt. No one did. But after that, it was a business, a tough, exciting business. But no game."

In the fast, noisy, and occasionally hair-raising world of drag racing, Don Garlits is the sport's ultimate professional, a five-time national champion. He is the man the fans come to watch, the driver other drivers have to beat. If there is anything to know about dragsters and hot rods, "Big Daddy," as he is fondly called by fans, knows it all.

Don Garlits' career virtually spins the history of drag racing. He began as a teenage hot rodder in the early 1950's; racing through the streets of his home town of Seffner, Fla., near Tampa, or speeding across the Causeway at 90-100 mph to street-race against hot rodders in St. Petersburg, traditional rival of Tampa.

"We were just silly kids and took wild chances," he admits. "But I did learn all about building fast cars."

In the mid-1950's, hot rodding was booming on the West Coast, and Eastern drivers like Garlits were starting to challenge the California hot-shots. In a series of races, first in the South and then in California, Garlits proved he was one of the best builders and fastest drivers in the country (the vexed Westerners nicknamed him "The Swamp Rat"—a name Don gave to all his fuel dragsters).

Once he started winning, dragstrip operators were eager to pay him "show money" to race at their tracks. He also found that other drivers wanted him to build them fast dragsters similar to the ones he built for himself. Don opened a hot-rod garage in Seffner and quickly paid for it with race winnings. Today he builds dragsters costing $10,000 to $15,000.

During those early days, Garlits had a reputation as a hot-head ("I maintain my cool, now, though") who sulked, or snipped at fans and officials when he lost. On several occasions, Garlits announced he was quitting racing to concentrate on designing cars. He really quit after the first big accident in 1959, but by the next year, he was back again. The hot-rod racing press began to joke about Garlits' "retirements."

It might be noted that Garlits' first "retirement" took place before he had even begun to race seriously. When he was 20, he met pretty Pat Bieger and decided that "hot rodding" was no business for a serious suitor—so he gave it up. He and Pat were married in February, 1959 (they now have two daughters, Gay Lynn, 9, and Donna, 8).

But the hot-rod bug bit again. "There's a lot more to drag racing than knowing how to build a fast machine or keeping it going in a straight line at 200 mph,"

A spaceman? No, it's Don in his racing gear: asbestos fire suit and gas mask.

"Daddy" of the

In the wild world of high-speed drag racing, Don Garlits is the king.

"Big Daddy" blasts off in his newest dragster, a superpowered Wynn's Charger.

Don says. "Fuel dragsters use exotic fuels like nitromethane, benzene, methanol, and you have to know how to mix them. You have to pick the right rubber compound for your racing tires. Temperature, humidity, and track conditions have to be considered.

"But most of all, you need what amounts to a sixth sense about when the starting lights go from amber to green, and you go. When the cars are equal, a fraction-of-a-second advantage can mean the difference, and the first man out of the hole is the winner only a few seconds later."

Drag racing itself changed during these years. The dragsters got leaner and faster. Parachutes had to be installed to brake the fast machines. More fans began to show up at races. Last year, an estimated 6 million spectators turned out to watch colorful drivers like Tom "The Snake" Prudhomme, John "The Zookeeper" Miligan, Tom "The Mongoose" McEwen, and, of course, "Big Daddy" compete.

But of them all, "Big Daddy" is the king—a magician behind the wheel. At the recent 14th annual national drags at Indianapolis Raceway Park, Garlits showed them how a master handles himself under pressure.

By all rights, Garlits should have lost out in his first-round run against Duke Ray. Garlits left the line first, but Ray caught up and passed him. Then both machines suddenly lost traction. With a masterful use of his accelerator, Garlits bit his tires into the asphalt first and shot ahead. Ray smoked his engine trying to catch up.

In the next round, Garlits "psyched" his opposition who hit the accelerator too hard and spun his smoking tires while Don shot ahead. The next racer fouled, and the next one burned out his motor.

In the final round, Don was matched against Steve Carboni, who had been steadily putting in some of the fastest times at the meet. The "Christmas tree" start system began to blink. Carboni glanced nervously at Garlits, then looked again at the lights.

Green! An explosion of sound and smoking tires blasted down the track. Carboni tried too hard and smoked his engine. Garlits hit the winner's light at 226.7 mph, and collected the $10,000 first-prize money and another national drag championship.

When asked to evaluate his performance, "Big Daddy" grinned and said simply, "It's just a tough business. Don't let anybody tell you different."

The Garlits Family: Don and wife Pat with daughters Donna, (left), 8 and Gay Lyn, 9.

Coiffures in the Spanish Manner

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

Inspired by el matador a young, swirling coiffure, created for short tresses, sports a real-hair pigtail at back to give Latin authenticity.

"ROMANCE IS IN THE AIR. Clothes are going softer and more feminine. Hairdos have to complement the trend," says master stylist Pierre Henri. While he recognizes that "the young may want to look like each other, a real woman wants to look as nature intended!"

For inspiration, Pierre Henri went to the Prado museum in Madrid, where he was so taken by the hair arrangements in the Goya and Velasquez portraits there, he was determined to translate them into a modern idiom.

Result? The Spanish-inspired coiffures here, exclusively created for FAMILY WEEKLY. Many of them, for long hair, are composed of a chignon—massed at the back of the head to enhance the profile or make the neck appear longer—with braids and tendrils usually finishing off each coiffure. But for the short-haired, Pierre Henri has created a mass of ringlets caught up at the back by a coleta, the traditional pigtail of the bullfighter.

A shiny, generous crop of hair is in order for this purely conceived hairdo, which features a classic low chignon at the back, with several curly wisps at temples to add to its symmetry.

Under Pierre Henri's deft fingers, a courtly coiffure emerges: chipbons gathered up at each side with wavy tendrils (the pin-up kind) tenderly placed in each one for regal adornment.

All hairdos executed by Pierre Henri, Style Director of the Saks Fifth Avenue Beauty Salons

How to get rich

How can you get rich some day? Make a hit record... or invent a gadget like the soda hoop... For most of us, these are just dreams. But have you ever stopped to think that there is a way to get rich—possibly only one sure way? Most fortunes, as you know, are made by people who own their own business.

Perhaps you thought of starting a small business of your own... a franchised drive-in, or maybe a service business. Trouble is, you need $10,000 to $15,000 to get started and even then there's a gamble—will there be a chance of ever making really big money. There is an investment which could make you rich—almost overnight! And the beauty of it is, you can start on a shoestring during your spare time, even while holding your regular job.

Cash by Mail

The business is Mail Order—and it's fabulous! Come up with a hot new item... and WHAT?

It strikes like a bolt of lightning! You are suddenly you are deluged with cash orders from all over the country. MORE MONEY than you could ever make in a lifetime!

Like the Vermont dealer who ran one ad in Sports Afield Magazine. His ad pulled 22,000 orders—over A HALF MILLION DOLLARS IN CASH!

There is no other business where you can make a fortune so quickly! A beginner from Newark, N.J. ran his first small ad in House Beautiful—listing an auto and a house. His ad was featured in the "Home Beautiful" Week reported that his ad brought in $3,000 in orders. By the end of his first year in Mail Order, he had grossed over $100,000!

Another beginner—a lawyer from the Midwest, sold an idea by mail to father-in-law. Specially Selected Magazine. His ad was featured in the "Home Beautiful" Week. It made $70,000 the first three months!

Proof

It's a fascinating business! Running ads in newspapers and magazines, mailing gift catalogs... getting cash orders in your sleep—just steady as a clockwork.

There is no other business where you can start on a shoestring and promote your profits—without investing in merchandise! One husband and wife team took their ad in 400,000 selling one item. They obtained $100,000 in orders. They didn't invest in merchandise, and even got the supplier to ship all orders for them!

These exceptional cases are absolute proof that you can get rich in your own Mail Order business. Very rich. Even a U.S. Gov. Report states "A number of one-man Mail Order enterprises make up to $50,000."
