Instant Trial Brings Conviction-

King Killer Enters Prison

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—James Earl Ray, manacled and surrounded by guards, was whisked into the Tennessee State Prison today and lodged in a lonely cell to begin serving his 99-year term less than 24 hours after pleading guilty to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray ducked his head and stopped quickly to avoid photographers as he entered the prison after a 200-mile trip from Memphis, where he changed his plea from innocent to guilty Monday and was sentenced after an instant trial.

Ray travelled to the state prison on the outskirts of Nashville in an eight-car motorcade consisting of Tennessee State Troopers and agents from the Tennessee Bureau of Criminal Identification.

When the motorcade arrived at the front gate of the prison, Ray hopped out of a car and was quickly surrounded by guards wearing dark checked sport coats, dark jackets and white shirts, he glared at the ground and refused to comment as he walked past a group of newsmen and photographers.

Flanked by State Safety Commissioner Greg O'Rear and Highway Patrol Inspector Mickey McGuire, Ray walked past a guard post through the main gate of the prison, across a small courtyard and into the maximum security section to a cell by nine foot cells. Heavy manacles gleamed on his wrists.

Ray will spend at least 20 years in the Tennessee Penitentiary, at the age of 41, he will be eligible for parole. Should he be released then, he could be required to serve eight years remaining on a 10-year term at the Missouri State Prison, plus any additional time he may be given for escaping from that prison.

TBI Chief Wins 'Guilty'

Hopson said Ray's motorcade left Memphis at 5:30 a.m. CST. He refused to discuss the security imposed for the motorcade, which arrived in Nashville shortly after 8 a.m.

The sheriff turned him over to us, we put him in the car and drove him to Nashville," Hopson said in his only comment.

During his brief trial Monday, Ray discounted the theory that there was no conspiracy in the assassination of King last April.

Ray arose during his two and one-half hour trial to tell Judge W. Preston Battle that he disagreed with the various theories that there was a conspiracy to kill King. He did not elaborate.

Battle said the prosecution had not established there was a conspiracy but if there was a conspiracy, no member of such a conspiracy can ever live in peace or die down to pleasant dreams because there is no statute of limitations in capital cases in this state.

The FBI said in Washington, however, that the investigation into the original allegations of a conspiracy is still open. The original FBI warrant charged Eric Starvo Galt, a Ray alias, and who was alleged to be "his brother" with conspiring to kill King. Ray's three brothers apparently never were seriously involved in the investigation.

THIS IS THE maximum-security cell that James Earl Ray, the confessed killer of Dr. Martin Luther King, will occupy at the Tennessee State Prison at Nashville. Ray was hustled to the prison under heavy guard Tuesday, after an "instant trial" in which he pleaded guilty, and sentenced him to 99 years in prison. (UPI telephoto)

Labor Survey For Kellwood Continues To Climb In Area

The second day of a labor survey which will determine if a hosiery manufacturing plant will locate in Twin Falls began Tuesday with about 2,000 people registered for employment.

Kellwood officials have indicated they are very interested in receiving applications from young women in the 20- to 40-year age group. The survey shows many people in the middle age group are making applications, and officials said Tuesday they would like to see more applications from the younger women.

Officials from the Kellwood Co., which hopes to locate a hosiery plant in Twin Falls, expressed approval with the results of the survey Tuesday.

morning. F. Les Fox, manager of employee relations, and Gene Slagle, director of manufacturing, both from the Siler, N. C., Division of Kellwood, have been in Twin Falls directly before the survey, and Jerome Departments of Employment.

Mr. Fox said that they have been well pleased with the response and with the attitude of those applying for employment.

About 1,600 people registered Monday at the Twin Falls office, and by early afternoon about 200 people had registered at Jerome, and another 100 at Gooding.

A steady stream of people were at the Twin Falls office Tuesday morning, but applications were being processed rapidly and there was no waiting line.

It is hoped that at least 4,000 applications will be received. The firm plans to hire about 500 workers, many of them women. The ratio of applications at the Twin Falls office was about two women to each man.

The survey, being conducted with pre-filled registration blanks, ends at 9 p.m. Wednesday. Many volunteer workers are assisting in the survey.

The location of a plant in Twin Falls directly hinges on the results of the labor survey. If the results are favorable, candidates were being processed rapidly and there was no waiting line.

Tiny Cell Awaits James Earl Ray

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—An unmade bed and 30 years of loneliness awaited James Earl Ray today in cell No. 4 in the maximum security building at the Tennessee State Prison.

On an 11-cell corridor with death row at his back, Ray will be permitted to leave the cell only on three occasions—when he is sick, when he showers and when he exercises.

Cell No. 4—messengers are by the door. The cell is enclosed by high walls. Twice a week he will step out of his cell and take a dozen steps to his left and take a shower.

The door to Ray's cell was open late Monday and he was permitted to inspect it. A mattress lay on the bottom bunk but the bed was unmade. A clean white sheet and a clean white pillowcase lay on top of the striped mattress.

Warden Lako Russell and state Corrections Commissioner Harry Avery said Ray would be isolated. There will be no prisoners in adjoining cells.

Although most convicts are taken to the classification process early Monday and newsmen were permitted to inspect it, Ray will remain in maximum security through the classification process which normally takes about six weeks.

Stockmen's warnings were up for southwestern Texas where cold rain and locally heavy snow endangered livestock.

Flagstaff, Ariz., received 15 inches of new snow Monday and early today, with Las Vegas, Nev., catching six inches, Bendin, Utah, five inches, and Zuni, N.M., eight.

Meanwhile, a frigid Arctic air mass drove atop into the southern end of the Rockies. Subzero cold hit the North Plains and Upper Midwest, with 30-degree readings stretching as far south as the mid-Gulf Coast. Skies were generally clear across the Central States and the Deep South.

The Pacific Northwest continued to enjoy fair and reasonable weather.

Golda Meir Accepts Israel Premiership, Plans New Cabinet

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Mrs. Golda Meir fearfully accepted with "awe" the premiership of Israel today and promised to form a new cabinet quickly.

The 70-year-old grandmother, who appeared robust and sprightly at the ceremonies, said she would lead the country with "an awe and responsibility in view of the serious problems facing Israel."

As she spoke, Israel troops busily repaired the damage to the Suez Canal for the third time in the past four days.

Mrs. Meir replaces Levi Eshkol, who died of a heart attack last month. Officially, she is still premier designate and will not take the formal step to her premiership until she completes her cabinet. She has 21 days to do so.

President Zalman Shazar, backed by nearly all of the nation's political factions, formally asked Mrs. Meir to accept the reins of power.

When Mrs. Meir has formed her cabinet, she will take it before parliament (Knesset) for a vote of confidence, then be sworn in as premier.

Mrs. Meir will remain in office only until the country's parliamentary elections this fall.

Mrs. Meir won the premiership with a large majority of support from Israel's 14 political factions. Only three refused to back her despite heavy pressure by campaigners for Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, the popular hero of the 1957 war.

Mrs. Meir came to Palestine in 1921 and stayed on to work the land and help her people move toward nationhood—20 years ago.

Since then, she has earned a reputation for physical bravery as well as political acumen.

Mrs. Meir demonstrated her courage by crossing through Arab lines in a 1950 peace effort in 1948, and again in 1957 when terrorists lobbed a grenade into the Israeli parliament.

In that incident, Mrs. Meir stayed on her feet to make sure then-Premier David Ben-Gurion was safely on the floor. Then three Israeli soldiers threw a grenade west of, wounding her in the leg.

Those exploits have earned her the just that she is the "strongest woman in the Israeli cabinet."

Her political accomplishments range from first Israeli ambassador to the Soviet Union (1948-51) to that incident, Mrs. Meir 1956-60 foreign minister (1955-68).

Bucher Voices Hate For Korean Captors

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—The pilot slipped poured out his hatred for North Korea before the Navy Court of Inquiry.

These people are just bastards, and I hate them," Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher said.

Today the court's five admirals begin questioning Bucher in the wake of his espionage ship Jan. 23, 1958, and the failure to complete destruction of its secret documents.

Bucher testifies in open court Tuesday. The court will go into secret session during afternoon, summoning the 41-year-old Navy commander and his wife, Mrs. Bucher, and C. Donald R. Peppard, 31, Bremerton, Wash.

Peppard had record-keeping duties in the Pueblo's electronic espionage unit. He was in charge of the personnel records of the ship's intelligence section—records the North Koreans captured intact.

Struggling to keep his emotions in check, Bucher testified for about five hours Monday, mostly about his efforts to hold the Pueblo crew together during his 11-month captivity. He read many of his answers from a sheet of paper, with his civilian attorney, E. Miles Harvey, asking the questions.

Bucher said the anti-American "judgmental" of the North Koreans starts at childhood, and told of seeing movies in which children would say: "I want to kill an American when I grow up."

Bucher read the court a list of names of five officers and marked five of them showed marked skill at outwitting the North Koreans and another list of men who showed "strong military leadership."

The only Pueblo officer whose name did not appear on either list was Lt. Edward R. Murphy, a San Diego, Calif., Bucher's executive officer.

Bucher did credit Murphy with devising the only practical way to keep the ship in North Korean captivity, although it was never used. Bucher was questioned personally by the court on reports of personality clashes with Murphy.

Harvey's only question about the Pueblo's operations before capture involved the 50 callouts to the ship's crew on the vessel shortly before she sailed on her last mission.

"It was impossible to fire these callouts," Bucher testified, "unless you fired only a single shot at a time. The mounts were flimsy, and they vibrated when the firing began."

Snow, Cold Spread Misery Through U.S.

By United Press International

Much of the nation resembled an icebox early today, with snow adding to the misery in the Southwest and parts of the Northeast.

Heavy snow and travelers warnings were in effect for higher elevations of Arizona, much of New Mexico and the southern areas of Colorado.

Stockmen's warnings were up for southwestern Texas where cold rain and locally heavy snow endangered livestock.

Flagstaff, Ariz., received 15 inches of new snow Monday and early today, with Las Vegas, Nev., catching six inches, Bendin, Utah, five inches, and Zuni, N.M., eight.

Meanwhile, a frigid Arctic air mass drove atop into the southern end of the Rockies. Subzero cold hit the North Plains and Upper Midwest, with 30-degree readings stretching as far south as the mid-Gulf Coast. Skies were generally clear across the Central States and the Deep South.

Wind Lashes Sea In Recovery Area

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—A recovery ship went to the 10-day, 3.9 million mile offshore test flight.

Officials on the Goddard said a decision was expected later today on the possibility of shifting Apollo 9's landing area further eastward or changing the splashdown time. Landing time is now set for 10:24 a.m. EST Thursday.

However, spokesman Douglas Ward said at the space center the space agency's weather forecast had not changed "and we expect an improvement by Thursday." He also said there are no plans to change the landing-time-or-place.

The Goddard was buffeted by winds gusting up to 45 miles per hour and 15 foot swells during a squall early today. The space agency's weather forecast called for 20 mph winds and swells up to 10 feet. This would be within acceptable launch conditions.

The Apollo 10 moon machine, meanwhile, was riding a tractor from its lowering assembly building to the launch launch pad.

RICHFIELD—Schools here were closed Monday and Tuesday as heavily-falling snow forced students to return to their homes after being unable to reach school.

One school bus was forced to return students to their homes Monday after falling to complete its pickup route when a snowplow that was following became stuck in the high drifts.

According to road supervisor Jim Brown, road crews are working under the "worst conditions of the winter," but it is expected roads will be opened so school can resume Wednesday.

Laser Beam Used In Downtown Survey

Four engineers spent Sunday surveying the six-block area in the downtown development project with a special laser beam instrument.

The geodimeter, as it is called, was used to accurately measure distances of boundaries in the project. Tom Schafer of Newton and Schafer Engineers, explained that they worked Sunday to avoid the heavy traffic.

The laser beam machine sends out a beam of light to a reflector point some distance away. The instrument then receives the light-beam reflected from a reflecting unit and through electronic devices it receives, transmits the time required for the beam of light to travel from the sending unit to the reflecting unit and back. It converts this time delay into a distance. The instrument is capable of accurately measuring distance up to 1,000 of a foot.

Mr. Schafer said the machine enabled the four men to do in about five hours what would have taken 12 hours with conventional-type surveying.

The geodimeter is owned and operated by McCarter and Tuller, a Boise engineering firm. Two men from this firm worked with Paul Newton and Mr. Schafer. The surveying work. The engineers noted that geodimeters are primarily owned by government agencies and are not practical for a firm to use unless it has a lot of engineering. McCarter and Tuller use the machine to survey power transmission lines, since the device can measure distances accurately up to three miles.

Red Gunners Pound 40 Vietnam Bases

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners today shelled 40 more of the United States' bases in the ancient city of Hue to start the third phase of a winter-spring offensive apparently aimed at Saigon here. Three heavy ground attacks on American bases on the approaches to Saigon.

Hue was the first since the start of the 16-day-old Communist offensive and came despite American warnings that such cities as Saigon, Hue and Da Nang were not to be attacked under the agreement that ended U.S. fighting of North Vietnam last Nov. 1.

Communists slammed headlong into U.S. outposts near Phu Vinh, a major northern base of Saigon on the infiltration routes extending from Cambodia.

There were fierce shelling of Landing Zone Orange near a major U.S. base, with heavy ground attacks which were repulsed in heavy fighting. The Communists lost 14 dead.

The Communists also attacked a U.S. 9th Infantry Division base at Phuoc Binh, 40 miles southwest of Saigon. Front reports said the Americans killed 35 Communists in the battle near Phuoc Binh on the edge of the main of the city.

Firemen Kept At Bay While Big German Shepherd Barks

German Shepherds are good dogs, but a man in a fireman's uniform found one early Tuesday that was a little too good.

Firemen couldn't get into the smoke-filled, two-story building at 148 Second Ave. because "Duke," a large German Shepherd trained to protect his master's property, was guarding the entrance.

Smoke poured from the building and firemen tried various ways to make the dog happy. Nothing worked, until they called the dog's owner, Gary Nelson. He had a man in a fireman's uniform called the dog off and firemen entered, only to find a stoker smoking. There was no fire.

Mr. Nelson, owner of Duke and G. Automaton, said he kept his dog in the shop at night to protect equipment.

Duke did a good job, maybe a little too good," the owner reported.

There was no damage at the shop. Damage to the firefighters' pride was not listed.

SURVEYING THE DOWNTOWN area with a geodimeter, a special laser beam instrument, two men from McCarter and Tuller, a Boise engineering firm, they brought the machine to Twin Falls Sunday to assist Newton and Schafer, the Twin Falls firm doing the surveying on Sunday. They chose to do the surveying on Sunday to avoid the heavy traffic. The instrument is capable of accurately measuring distance up to three miles.

Manila Shoeshine Proud Of Work

By CHARLES BERNARD
 MANILA (UPI)—If you are in Manila and have 47 1/2 minutes to spare, you must meet Armando Mahansing, the Pleasant of the Shoeshine. He has been shoeing for 30 years and operates on the sidewalk just around the corner from the Manila-Hilton—where he has come to his shoeshine business for the past five years, he says.

His tools of trade are a wobbly straight-back chair, two broken-foot-rests, a little bit of liquid shoe dye, some neutral wax, a modicum of plain water, some little bit of rag selected from a bag as if they were precious jewels. Added to this is one heck of a lot of honest backbreaking effort and patience produced from his shiny frame he gives you the very best shoeshine available on earth.

Armando's shoeshine will cost you about 25 cents and it is worth every cent of it. I was so impressed I gave him five pesos and shook his hand after he had freed me from his sidewalk chair with a sheen so bright and painstakingly accomplished that my shoes seemed to dance in the sunshine as I walked back to my hotel.

Armando accepted the five pesos with a dignified smile. As would the great chef, the skilled craftsman, or even Picasso, he knew he had created a work of art with the shoeshine and that it was not an indulgent tourist's whim to dance in the sunshine that the job was worth.

Manila is not big yet on the tourist map. It welcomed only a little more than 100,000 tourists in 1962, compared with about 600,000 in Hong Kong and 1.2 million in booming and bustling Hawaii. The city has its problems with a shortage of hotel rooms and a reputation for lawlessness that maybe it doesn't deserve any more than any other big city in the world.

The Philippines, like Armani, do, may be a little short on capital and guided tours for the visitor—but anyone who has recently seen a 45-minute, fifty-cent excuse for a shoeshine in Los Angeles cannot fail to be impressed with Armando Mahansing's wit and heart and soul and honest sweat into the world's best shoeshine.

I was so impressed I gave him five pesos and shook his hand after he had freed me from his sidewalk chair with a sheen so bright and painstakingly accomplished that my shoes seemed to dance in the sunshine as I walked back to my hotel.

Armando accepted the five pesos with a dignified smile. As would the great chef, the skilled craftsman, or even Picasso, he knew he had created a work of art with the shoeshine and that it was not an indulgent tourist's whim to dance in the sunshine that the job was worth.

Manila is not big yet on the tourist map. It welcomed only a little more than 100,000 tourists in 1962, compared with about 600,000 in Hong Kong and 1.2 million in booming and bustling Hawaii. The city has its problems with a shortage of hotel rooms and a reputation for lawlessness that maybe it doesn't deserve any more than any other big city in the world.

The Philippines, like Armani, do, may be a little short on capital and guided tours for the visitor—but anyone who has recently seen a 45-minute, fifty-cent excuse for a shoeshine in Los Angeles cannot fail to be impressed with Armando Mahansing's wit and heart and soul and honest sweat into the world's best shoeshine.

SHOSHONE FALLS IS a big attraction in the Twin Falls area. But there is another, and Mrs. Sherry Olson of Jerome is seen here looking at it. This is Twin Falls, three miles upstream from the famous Shoshone Falls, and right now it is roaring with all its might. The Twin Falls and the Times-News have something in common, because a replica of the falls appears daily at the top of page 1. However, only half of the falls runs today. The other half has been blocked by a huge dam, built after the turn of the century. Mrs. Olson, a life-long resident of Made Valley, said more water is running over Twin Falls than ever before, she thinks.

Atlanta Tops National Rate For Disease
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Atlanta leads the nation's major cities in general disease rate, with one case for every 23 residents, the American Social Health Association reported.

Pittsburgh had the lowest rate with one case for every 223 persons, according to the survey financed by the U. S. Public Health Service and backed by the American Medical Association. The survey was conducted July 1, 1957 through June 30, 1958.

San Francisco was second on the list with one case for every 27 persons, followed by Wash-

Study Shows There Is Hope For Mothers And Fathers Of Future

By RUDY CERNAKOVIC

 Note to parents who despair of their teen-aged offspring: Keep the faith, baby.

A UPI study of youth in Pennsylvania shows there is hope for the mothers and fathers of the future. To be sure, many boys still wear long hair, the girls brag about their "sweetheart" rings and some even insist on playing tough football.

Thinking back, Mom and Dad, Remember when you thought mastering the Charleston or the Jitterbug or collecting Betty Grable pinups was the living end?

The kids today have their aim and purposes just as you had. It is not all fun-and-games. Teen-agers in Philadelphia show a maturity and a sense of responsibility. Disenchanted with metropolitan life, they are not covering their problems, the teen-agers decided to start their own publications.

Kitty Caparella, who is 17, is not too far away from her teens, dreamed up the idea of youthful publications. Employed by the Urban Affairs Department at Temple University where she majored in journalism, Kitty calls her idea "grass roots" journalism.

"The papers think we're a bunch of disturbed children who were trained by letrados," Calhoun said. "That's not true. We're doing this for ourselves."

"The Edge" plans to swap articles with "Dig This," published by a North Philadelphia street gang known as the Moroccos.

The staff writers are dropouts and delinquents with police records. They write their stories with emphasis on "tell it as it is."

The articles are written in the dialect of the Moroccos and deal with their problems. A related front-page story told in the BURLEY — The American Association of University Women of Burley will sponsor the film "The Subject Was Rose" at the Burley Theatre.

One show only will begin at 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Proceeds from the movie showing will be used by the local club for scholarship fund which is given to two Mini-Cassia girls to assist them to attend Idaho Colleges.

Mrs. Elaine Bauman, publicity chairman for the organization, notes that if the film had nothing more going for it than Patricia Neal, it would be seen enough to make this film version of the Broadway play a must to see. Happily for all concerned, however, the film offers much more.

M. G. M. release focuses on an ordinary family living in the back of the close of World War II and in doing so, presents recognizable human beings.

Theft Studied
 A stereophonic record player stolen from the home of Mrs. Roy Hazen, 851 Bracken St. N., during the weekend, Twin Falls Police Sheriff's office is studying the theft.

The theft is being investigated.

Snowmobile Fox Hunt Is Criticized
 EDEN VALLEY, Minn. (UPI)—The snowmobile fox hunt was held as scheduled at Browns Lake here Sunday despite threats of arrest by the Conservation Department and the Minnesota Humane Society.

Conservation Commissioner J. L. Lorrain warned Eden Valley residents Saturday that chasing fox by snowmobile is in violation of Minnesota statutes and participants in the hunt would be arrested.

Sunday the Eden Valley Chamber of Commerce sponsored 10 hunts. During each, one fox was set free in the middle of a lake and hunted by between 15 and 25 snowmobiles. If the fox was netted or caught by hand, his captor received a $50 prize. All the foxes were set free after the hunt.

There were no arrests but Dave Davis, president of the Minnesota Chapter of the Humane Society, said he would file formal charges with Gov. Harold Levander.

Davis, who took movies of the hunt, said the foxes received humane treatment.

"It is unduly cruel to put a defenseless animal on a lake and chase him with 25 large machines," he said. "The fox must be horribly scared."

T.F. Piglet Theft Is Investigated

Nation's High Schools Begin To Feel Wrath Of Students In Revolt

By United-Press International

Student revolt no longer means only college students.

In Los Angeles Monday, a junior high school and a high school were closed and absenteeism virtually shut down four other schools as militant black students called a one-day strike to protest police brutality.

In East St. Louis, 500 students at mostly Negro Rock Junior High School—half the enrollment—staged a boycott Monday to demand the firing of Principal Richard Snyder and Assistant Principal Stanley Campbell. Snyder is white and Campbell is black.

The official Mothers' Club of East St. Louis said the men are not concerned about the children getting a good education. They are bad models for the students.

Six students at Valparaiso (Ind.) High School showed up for classes Monday wearing black arm bands to protest the Vietnam War—a "peaceful demonstration" timed to coincide with a visit by military recruiting officers.

Black junior and senior high-schoolers in Los Angeles, led by the Black Students Alliance, called the strike Monday to demand that police be prohibited from entering school grounds. They contended police used batons to clear 200 youths from the hallways of Carver Junior High School last Friday when police arrested BSU member Joseph Jones, who had gone to Carver to recruit support for a student strike at Southwest College.

Carver was closed Monday and Manual Arts High School was shut on a number of vandalism and status milling around outside. Absenteeism virtually shut down four other Small fires, broken windows, rock-throwing and assaults on teachers were reported at all 18 junior and senior high schools in Negro areas of Los Angeles. Two students were arrested and one cut by flying glass.

About 50 persons demonstrating at Delta State College in Cleveland, Miss., to support black student demands, were arrested Monday by Mississippi Highway patrolmen on charges of blocking hallways and disturbing classes.

At Rutgers University's Newark, N.J., campus, vandals slashed a mixture of shavings ocean and ammonia sulfur dioxide through Conklin Hall, and the acid fumes forced students to use other buildings for some classes. Conklin Hall had been occupied for three days in an earlier demonstration by black students.

About 150 students for a Democratic Society members disrupted recruitment at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., by Chase Manhattan Bank representatives. The demonstrators forced their way past campus patrolmen and entered rooms in which about 40 students from the Graduate School of Business and Public Administration were being interviewed. They were protesting Chase's investments in South Africa.

About 50 students protesting the State University of New York at Stony Brook's role in government research projects scuffled with campus police in a school library. One student was hit on the head with a nightstick.

At another New York state school, black students at the University of Rochester ended a six-day occupation of two floors of the Frederick Douglass Building. They said the university was meeting their demands for more Negro teachers and for a black studies program.

On other campuses:

Chicago—Classes at the Southeast Branch of the Chicago City College were cancelled Monday while faculty members and representatives of black students discussed a list of demands presented last week.

Wisconsin—About 12 of Detroit College's 35 black students set up an Afro-American Culture Center in the Administration Building of the 1,700-student school. President Miller Upton warned them he might call police and the students took their signs, pictures and art displays down.

Compromise Sought On Education Fund To Speed Session

BOISE (UPI)—A six-member conference committee today started to try and hammer out a compromise agreement on funding of higher education between the Idaho House and Senate.

A co-chairman of the study group, Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, said the president of the two universities and Boise State College were asked to bring latest enrollment figures for their institutions to the initial meeting.

Also scheduled to attend the meeting was Dr. Donald Keith, executive director for higher education.

Monday the House rejected Senate changes in the higher education appropriation by an overwhelming vote.

Rep. H. Ferd Koch, R-Boise, had moved that the House concur in the Senate amendments to the higher education bill and the motion failed 20-49.

The appointment of the six-member conference committee was immediately announced.

Last Saturday Senate Republicans—with a party-line vote—increased the funds for Boise State College and cut the other institutions.

They trimmed off $1,100,000 from the University of Idaho, $300,000 from Idaho State University, $200,000 from Lewiston State College, $139,000 from junior colleges and increased Boise State College by $558,000.

Other members of the conference committee include co-chairman Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malden; Sen. Phil Bail, R-Wilder; and Mel Solberg, D-Grandeville; and Reps. John Edwards, R-Council, and William J. Murphy, D-Wallace.

Court Vetoes Hearing On Levy Dispute

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Supreme Court Monday denied a petition for a rehearing by a group trying to prevent phasing out of the inventory tax, claiming it is unconstitutional.

Last Friday, Chief Justice Sam Elsmann filed a petition for the rehearing, contending in a 10-page brief that the court had used the wrong facts to support its holdings in ruling in favor of the inventory phase-out March 5.

The high court also lifted a temporary restraining order against State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon, enabling her to send out more than $300,000 in checks to various counties in the state.

The Supreme Court on Wednesday unanimously upheld orders of Fourth District Judge J. Ray Durisch that the phase-out of the controversial inventory tax was constitutional.

The court determined that the legislature could, at its discretion, lessen the impact of the total exemption from taxation over a period of four years.

Elsmann said in his brief for a rehearing that to place the matter in the hands of the legislature would be to say that there can be no review of legislative action—contrary to a requirement that the courts consider good faith in implementation.

Liquor Serving Allowed In Bill

BOISE (UPI)—A bill introduced in the Idaho Senate by the State Affairs Committee Monday authorizing separate banquet or meeting room facilities to dispense liquor on Sundays to bona fide participants of banquets, meetings or conventions.

The measure would allow the dispensing of liquor on Sundays between the hours of 4 p.m. and 11 p.m., for consumption only within the confines of such banquet room facility.

Such liquor dispensing would not be allowed on holidays that fall on Sunday.

New Bill

BOISE (UPI)—A brand new anti-obscenity bill may be written and introduced in the House this week, Majority Leader Terry Crapo, R-Idaho, Falls, said Monday.

Crapo, chairman of a House judiciary subcommittee charged with amending the present bill, said it was felt writing a new bill might be easier than amending the current one.

He said amendments being prepared late last week would be put into a new bill and possibly would be introduced by Tuesday or Wednesday. He said he hoped such legislation could be enacted at this session of the legislature.

Sen. Church Is Named To Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, is one of three Senate-appointed members named to the United States Territorial Expansion Memorial Commission.

The commission is charged with construction of a permanent memorial at St. Louis honoring "the men who made possible the territorial expansion of the United States."

Chairman of the commission is Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico.

MEETING CHARTED

BOISE (UPI) Gov. Don Samuelson will meet Wednesday with officials of the Army Corps of Engineers to discuss the flood danger faced on various Idaho watersheds.

Driver-Licensing Changes Meet Delay

BOISE (UPI)—The House Transportation and Defense Committee decided Monday to put off until the second regular session of the 40th legislature a bill which proposes sweeping revisions in the Idaho driver licensing code.

Rep. John O. Sessions, R-Diggs, chairman of the committee, said members of the committee will conduct regional meetings to try to get opinions on the bill from local law enforcement officials.

The bill contains the recommendations of the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission, which is supported by Gov. Don Samuelson.

Prosecution Begins Work In Nevada Death-For-Hire Case

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The prosecution opened its case Monday in the murder-for-hire trial of a Reno man, accused of shooting two Wyoming businessmen and dumping their bodies into a common desert gully.

The defendant, Glenn Lucas, 48, is charged with slaying Larry Olinger, 33, and Robert Stucker, 30, both of Jackson, Wyo. The badly decomposed bodies, each with a bullet hole in the back of the head, were discovered in a three-foot-deep gully 20 miles southeast of Carson City in October, 1967.

Three other men—Theodore Linn, Robert Lindblad and David Goldsmith—also face charges in connection with the double murder.

The prosecution said in its opening statement Monday that the state would demand the death penalty and would prove that Lucas was hired to kill the two victims.

Peter Flangas, serving as a deputy to Lyon County District Attorney John Stone, said in opening remarks that Goldsmith was a business partner of the

Specialist Of Hat Design Dies At 83

DETROIT (UPI)—Proud to be an artist, Thomas J. Flattery catered to the chap and uwhims of auto scions, movie funny men, U.S. senators and heavyweight champions.

Flattery, for over 50 years the man to see in Detroit if you wanted a high-class hat, died Saturday night at the age of 83.

"I am a specialist," he would say while carefully appraising a snap brim or a soft felt. "Just like a surgeon or an architect."

Flattery Ford was among his customers. Flattery sold the old-time automobile magnate a silk top hat, size 6 1/2, in which to visit President Woodrow Wilson. The occasion was a Ford trip to Washington to discuss events leading to World War I.

Frank tamer Clyde Beatty, golfer Walter Hagen, Detroit Mayor Frank Cozzens, movie comedian Ben Turpin, U.S. Sen. Truman Newberry and Homer Ferguson, heavyweight champion Jim Corbett, and car-bumper Horace Dodge Sr. — all bought hats from Flattery.

2 Men Plead Guilty For Burglary

Two 22-year-old men appeared in Fifth District Court Monday and pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree burglary.

Judge James Cunningham has delayed sentencing pending the outcome of pre-sentence investigations for both men.

Pleading guilty were Steven C. Webster and William C. Green.

They are accused of entering a car belonging to Terry English of Twin Falls on the night of Feb. 18.

Both men asked for the delay before sentencing to allow time for the pre-sentence investigations. They also asked that they be released from custody.

Judge Cunningham released them on their own recognizance.

Rupert Jaycees Withdraw From Ball Park Project

RUPERT—Another stumbling block has been cast into the path of the development of the Big Valley Ball Park in the northern section of the City of Rupert with a notice of condemnation of the project this week by Rupert Jaycees President Gary Mal.

In the notice, Mr. Mal said it was the consensus of the local group to withdraw their support of the project which two years ago city officials had asked them to spearhead. He said the group felt they could not support the ball park when the city of Rupert must cut its police force to save money.

Mr. Mal charged, "How can we in Rupert justify a decrease in our police force when our population and the crime rate nationwide is spiraling upward?" He noted that the purchase of the Heacre plot on which to build the park was a good investment but, "why do we have to develop it at this moment?"

Teaching Cited As 'Profession' In House Action
BOISE (UPI) — A bill which backs state establishment of teaching as a profession, the Public School Professional Practices Act, cleared the Idaho House, 8-13, Monday.
The bill sets up a 14-member Professional Practices Commission responsible for the adoption of a code of ethics and for conducting hearings where the reputation of a teacher is involved. The commission would be made up of eight teachers, principals, superintendents and officials of the State Department of Education.
Rep. Earl Worthen, R-Balse, an opponent of the measure, contended that the bill removes authority from local school boards.
Supporters said the commission's function is only to recommend action to the State Board of Education. It would conduct investigations and hold hearings only when requested by a local or state board or by a teacher organization.

Water Shortages, Breaks Continue To Plague Hansen

HANSEN — The City of Hansen has been plagued with water shortages for some time. This is due to the fact that sewage installation is under construction. It made it difficult for the residents and construction crews also.
The deep well could not be repaired because a new one was ordered from the east. It became lost en route and was finally located and installed a week ago. It took a few days to find out some power difficulties but now it is performing fine.
The older, shallower well provided water for residents except for a few hours when the water level dropped or a slight cave-in impaired its activities. However, after it was again started, it continued until the other pump was repaired. The construction crews could not use the water from this well, however, as there was not enough for them and residents, too.
Because some of the water lines are difficult to locate, sewer breaks. Some water heaters were also affected.
A shut-off valve control was found to have been defective and has evidently been so for a long time. When it was thought to be turned on, it actually wasn't. When a second shut-off valve control was also directly into the pipeline causing the pressure surge.
The shut-off valve has been repaired. The lines were repaired Tuesday, because school was out. Residents were without water an hour or two at different times on Saturday.
The J. Clawson Construction Co. is making headway with the sewage installation in spite of bad weather. The main line is being laid along Highway 30, Railroad Avenue, Second and Third streets East, and some on Overland and Maple streets. Main trunk lines have now been installed on Fourth Street West or perhaps known to most as Rock Creek.
Except for the highway, Railroad Avenue and some blocks on Maple, Overland, W. I. N. W. and Poplar streets, which run east and west, the main lines will run north and south on the streets. Hookups will be made generally from the front of residential homes.
Residents are urged to identify with stakes where they want their hookups placed in order their property lines if they are gone during the working hours of the day and cannot

Bus Line Is Granted Conditional Approval

JEROME — The North Side Bus Co. of Jerome has been given conditional approval to take over some of the bus service of the Twin Falls - Wells Stage Line.

The Twin Falls bus firm went out of business recently and North Side officials filed application with the Idaho P. U. B. C. Utilities Commission to take over that service.

Monday, the PUC announced it has ruled in favor of transfer of the business permit to the Jerome firm. The transfer is conditional pending final determination of the matter.

North Side officials asked for three of the Twin Falls-Wells Stage Line permits. Permits for Idaho Intrastate business; Nevada Intrastate business; and interest business.

Action on the latter two permits is pending.

The Jerome firm, by approval by the PUC, will transport school children and teachers to and from school for School District No. 281 in Jerome; transport food processing plant workers in the Twin Falls, Burley and Rupert area; and transport passengers by charter service from the Twin Falls-Jerome area to anywhere in the state. The permit rules that the pickup of passengers must be within a 50-mile radius of Twin Falls, but transportation can be offered to any point in the state.

North Side also transports skiers to Pomeroy and Magic Mountain, a service it acquired when Twin Falls-Wells went out of business earlier this year.

Richard Waite, owner of North Side, said he has not determined how much his company will grow because of the transfer permit, but said he was pleased with the Idaho PUC action.

North Side has been in business for about nine years and listed assets of $59,128 recently. The purchase price of the Idaho PUC permit from the Twin Falls-Wells Stage Line was $1,000, it was reported.

Doctor Says Infant Born Lacking Arms

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A prominent pediatrician has testified in U.S. District Court that Thomas H. Diamond had other serious ailments when he was born without arms in April 1961.

Dr. Robert Kaye, chief of pediatrics at Children's Hospital here and professor of pediatrics at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, used color photographs of the infant in his testimony Monday.

The boy's parents are suing the pharmaceutical firm of Richardson-Merrell Inc. and its Cincinnati division, William S. Merrell Co., for damages claiming the boy's birth defects resulted from a thalidomide tranquilizer given his mother during the early months of her first pregnancy. The firm holds the American license for the German patent-holder of thalidomide.

The pediatrician said the boy's arms were poorly defined appendages containing partially formed fingers and fingernails, the right smaller than the left. He said both could be described as "seal-like flippers."

Kaye told the jury that the boy was admitted to Children's Hospital three months after his birth. He said that he, a neurologist and a cardiologist found the child receiving insufficient oxygen and a closer examination revealed a closure near the esophagus. He said it permitted food and liquids to seep into the boy's lungs which could have resulted in infection and "drownings."

Kaye said he and his colleagues also found a "malrotation of the colon" which could have cut off the blood supply to the intestinal tract. He said it was necessary to teach the child's parents how to administer oxygen and to insert a tube into the boy's throat to draw off mucus and foreign matter.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Diamond of suburban Rydal, said the thalidomide tranquilizer was given Mrs. Diamond in a Cincinnati hospital and she did not know that it contained thalidomide. The couple's second child, 15 months younger than Thomas, was born normal and healthy.

Minico's Dorian Choir Sets Public Concert Thursday

RUPERT — Dr. William Ramsey, director of choral activities, works as Rupert Shaw, R. O. G. at Utah State University, will be guest conductor for a public concert presented by the Minico High School's Dorian Choir. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday at the high school.

Preceding the concert Thursday night, Dr. Ramsey will conduct an all-day clinic for choir members. Dr. Ramsey is a noted choral clinician. He studied at Harvard School of Music and at Columbia University. He has worked with such noted directors as Rupert Shaw, R. O. G. at Utah State University, and Igor Stravinsky.

He has performed in Carnegie Hall and was formally Associate Director of the Mid-Summer Music Festival in Lincoln Center for the performing arts.

Thursday's concert will include the "Gloria Mass" by Antonio Vivaldi, directed by Minico choral director Alan Hale. Dr. Ramsey will conduct the choir in several numbers including "How Lovely is Thy Dwelling Place," Brahms; Selections from "Frodo's" poems of Robert Frost put to music by Randall Thompson, and "Alleluia" from the "Brazilian Psalm" by Jean Berger.

The Dorian Choir is a select group of students whose goal is performance of great choral literature. They participate in many area programs during the school year and also present an annual concert tour to high schools in Magic Valley.

Proceeds from the spring concert will be used to defray expenses of the Dorian Choir Shrine Tour and to purchase needed music supplies.

Tickets are available at the school office or from any choir member.

'Greater Effort' Asked On Tickets

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A municipal court judge admonished all county patrolmen to bear down harder on parking citations.

Judge Harry Klusmeier explained to the policemen the citation tickets have five copies and if they don't bear down hard with their pens, the last copy given to the offender is not legible.

SACRISTAN ARRESTED — LOURDES, France (UPI) — The sacristan of the underground Basilica of St. Pius X at this famed Roman Catholic shrine has been arrested with his wife on charges of embezzling $60,000 to $70,000 from collections over the past 10 years. Police said N. Lozano, 54, had been under surveillance for several months.

Fun-Loving Americans Spend $2.5 Billion On Toys Annually

BY DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Life may not be all fun and games for Americans—but they spend more than $2.5 billion annually on toys and games to make life so.

Sales figures from the 68th annual toy fair which closed in New York March 6 indicate the boom is continuing. Retailers visiting the fair ordered more than $300-million of the new toys and games for Christmas merchandising. And even though Japanese competition is getting keener, U. S. manufacturers are bullish about the future.

Sales in 1968 were about seven per cent better than the anticipated growth of ten per cent. Another ten per cent boost is predicted this year. Parker Brothers, the largest manufacturer of games, reflects how serious Americans are about their fun time. "Over the last five years we have averaged a 25 per cent annual growth," said Edward P. Parker, president.

But cheap Japanese labor just as it does with the toy industry, always stands menacingly in the wings. Last year Japan exported $189 million in toys, mostly to the U. S. Ironically, this nation which built exports on copying now claims its designs are being pirated and undersold through cheap labor in Taiwan and Hong Kong.

To meet the competition, Japanese toy makers are building ties with U. S. toy firms. They either market under the auspices of American toy firms or get licenses from American firms to produce their toys.

Today's sophisticated kid demands sophisticated toys and the Japanese manufacturers try to anticipate his whims. They usually succeed but sometimes shipload overruns, and orders are pouring in.

A doll factory in Japan looks like a transistor plant, there is so much emphasis on making dolls function like human beings.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago when I became pregnant out of wedlock, I pleaded with the man responsible for my condition - to marry me. He did, and I've regretted that day ever since.

My husband has never really accepted me or loved me the son I gave him. He has mistreated my baby and is still so cruel and critical of the boy that I fear one day he will run away from home.

I'm writing this letter in hopes it will prevent some young girl from making the mistake I made. Every boy needs a father, and much as I love my son, I'm not so sure he would have been better off had I put him up for adoption. Some good, responsible, childless couple could have given him the home and love he needed and deserved.

DEAR REGRETS: Regret is the cancer of life. Quit punishing yourself. We have no way of knowing whether another course of action would have been better or worse. Many mothers (widows, for instance) have raised children without fathers and have had no regrets.

DEAR ABBY: Re that letter from the 19-year-old working girl who wanted to get a 55-year-old married co-worker a peck on the cheek in return for rides to and from work, and she had a terrible time getting him to stop after one kiss.

You told her: "Nothing is free. Find another way to get to and from work, or pay cash for your transportation. Also cut out the kissing and kiss off this old lecher for good."

ABBY: In my opinion you over-looked an obvious fact. The girl was the aggressor, and this poor man might have interpreted her pecks on the cheek as an invitation. So why should he be labeled "an old lecher" for trying to get more? LEN

DEAR LEN: If I overlooked anything, it was to say that little girls who are taught to peck others with kisses should learn that lesson before they get into serious trouble. A kiss is not always "just a kiss." It is sometimes only the beginning. And my apologies for calling the man an old lecher. FIF

Outlook For Indians Could Be Bright If Pitching Is Solid

By JOE SARGIS

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Alvin Dark proved a year ago that with solid pitching and defense a club—even one like the Cleveland Indians—can go a long way.

It's going to have to prove the point all-over-again in 1969 if the Indians are to be in the American League's Eastern Division race, and for the very same reason. Once again it's hard to see the Indians going all the way unless, of course, the missing ingredient materializes out of somewhere.

The Red Sox, Orioles and Tigers are the teams to beat, says Dark. "No question about it, although the three I think the Red Sox will be the toughest. They are experienced but young, and if (Tony

Jets' Turner Is Official Point Champ

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim Turner of the New York Jets topped the league in scoring history to win the American Football League scoring title solely on kicking, according to official statistics released Monday.

Turner tallied 145 points as the Jets rolled to the world championship, scoring on 43 extra points, 21 field goals and one of 37 as field goal attempts. It was the most points scored by a kicker in professional football history.

Kansas City's Jan Stenerud, Oakland's George Blanda and San Diego's Dennis Pateek tied for the next three places on their kicking as the specialists dominated the scoring race. In 1967, Blanda had become the first man to win the title solely on kicking as he scored 116 points.

Stenerud had 129 points on 39 extra points out of 40 tries and 30 of 40 field goal attempts. Blanda had 117 points on 54 consecutive extra points and 21 of 34 field goals while Pateek scored 108 points with 40 of 43 extra points and 22 of 32 field goal attempts.

The Oakland Raiders led in team scoring with 453 points, which mainly came from a league-high 20 touchdowns. The Jets were second with 419 points. The Raiders' passing attack accounted for 31 touchdowns to be the most productive in the league and the Jets led in touchdowns on the ground with 22.

Red-Hot Royals Are Exhibition Leaders

The Kansas City Royals and the major league club's expansion teams may not be pasties after all.

One week of training doesn't make a season of course, but the Royals would be sloughing the four newly-formed teams would have a combined 114 record and 733 winning percentage at this stage of the spring.

The Royals who completed a three-game sweep of the Washington Senators with a 4-0 victory at Pompano Beach, Fla., Monday are sloughing the way with a 4-1 record in exhibition games. The San Diego Padres are next with a 3-1 mark and the Montreal Expos and Seattle Pilots have 2-1 stales.

The Royals, who some experts feared might be the weakest of the expansion teams, dealt the Senators their fourth straight loss—under Manager Ted Williams behind the complete seven-hit pitching of Calico Cisco, Steve Jones and Larry Sherry. Jones, obtained from the Senators in the draft, was the most impressive of the three pitchers with three hitless innings.

The Padres suffered their first loss in exhibition play when Los Angeles Indians scored a 5-4 victory at Tucson, Ariz. Pitcher Dick Kelley's throwing error, permitting the Indians to score, was the key play of the game.

Ken Harrelson, George Scott and Jerry Moses hit homers in a four-run eighth-inning that carried the Boston Red Sox to a 7-4 triumph over the New York Mets. Billy Coniglio, younger brother of Tony, hit his second homer in as many days to tie the score for the Red Sox at 3-3 in the fifth inning. It was the Mets' third straight loss.

Buddy Bradford's 12th-inning homer lifted the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5 win over the Detroit Tigers after World Series hero Mickey Lolich allowed one unearned run in two innings in his spring debut for the world champions. Gary Peters, 4-13 last season, allowed one unearned run in an impressive three-inning outing for the White Sox.

John Hartenstein, Barry Houser and Larry Killingsworth held the St. Louis Cardinals to four hits as the Pittsburgh Pirates single for their ninth win in four games. Bob Robertson, highly-outed rookie first baseman, homered for the Cardinals in the eighth.

The Cardinals lineup, on other fronts: The Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-1 behind the seven-hit pitching of Grant Jackson, Larry Colton, Al Raffano, Bill Wilson, Frank Fernandez and catcher Tim Lincecum by Bob Murcer, John Orsico and Bill Robinson were the big blows of the New York Atlanta Braves.

 If he would just bear in mind the H (How can I make my contract?) from the Jacoby Key, he would win with a better contract. "Why? What's wrong with sailing home with game and a New York rubber?"

South should see the possibility of losing a trump and three clubs and a sure way to guard against it. At trick two he should play the ace of clubs and continue with a second club at trick three. Another club lead the next time he got in would make it possible for him to ruff his last club with dummy's 10 of trumps.
 It wouldn't worry him if the 10 of trumps were overruffed. He would still be sure of his contract. Of course this line of play might cost an overtrick but who worries about an overtrick when game and rubber are involved?

Priest Named O'Malley Strives To Build 'Image' For Changing Catholic Church

By CARL KOVAC

CHICAGO (NEA) — Any Roman Catholic who has known Patrick J. O'Malley has not been a Bing Crosby-Pop or Brian Auger-style priest. O'Malley, 36, is as far from the kind of old Irish parish priest stereotype as Chicago is from Dublin. He is a young, energetic, and impressionable man who has made himself in a direct but subtle way as he does on a pulp magazine, a newspaper, and a radio station in Aspen, Colo., because it imbues me.

Father O'Malley, 36, a product of the Jesuit St. Ignace High School, is one of the new breed of Catholic priests. He's a rebel, like the Father Grappi kind, but he's not a rebel. He's a priest who has his own ideas about God, his church, and his fellow man. Because he does, he works very hard at trying to bring a new image to the Catholic Church.

O'Malley is dedicated to helping make his church a "new" organization that is "new" and "adaptable, and always listening to the needs of the people it is supposed to serve."

O'Malley is a young priest, but he is not a young priest for personal relationships with those he hopes to serve. He puts his people first. How can a celebrant be responsible for priests and we for example, rap with anyone for reasonable change and recognition within the church. We do not do everything to this end. The federation is programmed to promote mutual understanding, co-operation and participation in the affairs of the church and its superiors.

"We're not trying to create a caste system, an elite or anything else. We're trying to become priests to serve the people and the community. All we're asking is that those in authority realize that they have the responsibility that goes with it."

Father O'Malley says the federation is not a new organization, but a new way of thinking about the church. He says the federation is not a new organization, but a new way of thinking about the church. He says the federation is not a new organization, but a new way of thinking about the church.

Middle-Eastern Oil Flow Shrinks To Western Europe

By BILL MULLINS
United Press International

Imported oil slightly more than 184,000 barrels per day from the Middle East in 1968. Even this figure is down from 1965, when Middle Eastern imports averaged 239,100 barrels per day.

The largest source of imports for the United States is Canada, which supplied 140,000 barrels per day in 1968, and Venezuela, which supplied 31,400 barrels per day.

The Petroleum Association of Japan also reported that 91.9 percent of the oil used in 1968, 86.2 percent in 1967, and 80.4 percent in 1964 and 79.5 percent of the oil used in 1959 was Middle Eastern oil.

The Japanese experts say that the nation's dependence on Middle Eastern oil seems likely to grow, although they add it is not clear why anything definite about the future.

Western Europe will be able to draw increasingly on such sources as the Algerian, Libyan or North African Mediterranean coast.

And the United States probably can draw on sources within 75.3 percent in 1962 and 75.3 percent in 1957.

Costly Job DENVER (UPI) — It was only a small electrical fire in an apartment recently.

When the map of Fire Engine Co. 3 returned to the station house, they discovered someone had swiped $400 color television set.

Time For Living

"No one should dash into this racket," said the motel manager. "It's too risky a proposition for anyone who doesn't have the problems from the ground up."

My wife and I had stopped at a little motor inn while returning from a trip downstate. It was a fairly nice place, but the manager from the motel office was a modest enterprise with husband and wife in charge, and the kids were in the office.

Employment Continues To Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Employment in the nation continued to rise in February, the fifth consecutive month in which substantial gain was recorded, while the unemployment rate remained at the lowest level in 1968.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said unemployment fell to 3.7 percent, down from 3.8 percent in January, as the number of unemployed persons was 2.9 million last month, the department says.

The overall unemployment rate of 3.7 percent of the labor force, the department says, is the lowest since December and January, before the post-Korean period.

Since September, nonfarm payrolls have risen by 1.1 million, an average of 325,000 a month. The greatest increase in February, declared in contract construction, the bureau said, because the usual large February employment decline failed to materialize.

Holdup Teaches Lesson In Shared Bond Of Love

BY PETER LIND HAYES
Entertainer, New York City

A good scare can often teach a lot more than the best advice.
Some years ago, I had such a scare, shared by my wife and about 200 other people.
It was the last night of our two-week engagement at a posh private supper club in Cleveland. Mary was on stage in front of the band, decked out in a lovely taffeta gown. As part of our act I was in the audience, heckling her.
I was sitting at a table where there was only one guest—a slight, neatly dressed man who seemed rather lonely. He smiled at me and tried to start a conversation. I brushed him off. I was busy playing the part of a western lumberjack. Mr. Goodpole, Mary was trying to get me to come up on the stage.
Our banter was interrupted by the sudden appearance of 14 masked men. Over their heads they wore dark stockings with eye slits. One was wearing a gray felt hat. A few of the men carried submachine guns—the rest held revolvers and were Army fatigues and overseas caps. It just didn't seem real. Was this some kind of gag? One of the men leaped onto the stage, grabbed the mike from Mary and snarled into it. "This is a stickup! We're not kidding!"
Maybe Mary thought it was a gag too. She grabbed back the mike. The thug pointed his submachine gun at the ceiling and sprayed it.
Mary went wide-eyed, sprinted from the stage and through the nearest door leading to the kitchen area.
I got up to follow her. A gunman pushed me back to my seat. I scribbled the band leader's slip of paper. The gunman shoved him into a seat next to mine.
I was frantic about Mary. Did she have any money? They were all in the room, all 14.
Thirteen seemed nervous. Amateurs. I was even more frightened. Amateurs have jumpy trigger fingers. The 14th, the man with the gray felt hat, was confident, decisive; apparently he was the leader.
There was a deadly silence. The leader snapped quick orders to the others, positioning them around the room. No one was going to leave before the gunmen were through.
I looked at Val, our band leader. His face was chalk white. The face of the other man at the table was just as white. Mine was probably whiter. I began mumbling, unaware at first that I was praying. "Our Father, Who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy Name; Thy kingdom come."
The leader barked, "All women put your jewelry in your hands! Palms up. Men do the same with their money! All of it."
"Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day."
Val's head was lowered in prayer. The little man was praying, too—in Hebrew. Then he took his money out of his pocket, a packet of neatly folded bills. He looked at it, not nervously, but just as if he were hoping it would count.

precident stickup man. I had left whatever money I had been carrying in the dressing room.
"I haven't got a dime on me," I moaned.
Val stuttered. "Neither . . . neither have I."
How were we going to convince the thugs that we really didn't have any money? They were moving around the room, collecting the loot from the upturned palms. "And forgive us our trespasses . . . Dear God, where is Mary? Keep her safe."
Val grained, "What are we going to do? They won't believe us."
Our companion looked at the consternation on our faces. He held out his hands with the money toward the man who had brushed him off so brusquely.
"Take a little. Leave a little."
"There was a sudden bond between the three of us. And a few minutes earlier I had brushed him off so brusquely.
Val and I took a little—a little money, but a lot of strength. Then we all returned to our own thoughts and prayers. But we were no longer strangers.
"And forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us."
The stickup man reached us and took the money. The leader held the money. The man who had brushed me off opened the safe. They all fled with the collection and the contents of the safe, about $120,000, in cash and four times as much in jewelry. The whole episode took less than 30 minutes.
As soon as they were gone, there was a babble of voices and spurt of hysterical laughter. I turned to thank the little man, but he had disappeared.
I wanted to follow him, to find out his name, but I had bolted after Mary. I found her in a tiny storeroom. She and two waiters had hidden themselves there.
Ever since that night I have wondered about the stranger at our table. If he should ever read this, I invite him to know how much I regret the cold way I first greeted him and how grateful I am for his act of brotherly concern.
