

Applications In Kellwood Co. Labor Survey Go Past 3,000 Mark

Figures compiled Tuesday night after the second day of labor survey in Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties, showed that 3,100 people had filed applications with the Department of Employment in those three cities.

The survey is being conducted for the Kellwood Co., which anticipates construction of a history mill in Twin Falls. An adequate labor force is assured.

The Department of Employment offices in Twin Falls, Gooding and Jerome will remain open until 9 p.m. tonight to accept applications.

John Leinen, manager of the Twin Falls department, said that between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. Wednesday 512 people registered in the survey.

The biggest rush during the two days of the survey was at the beginning of the survey Monday morning, and after 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in Gooding Tuesday 20 people registered, and in Jerome on that day, 20 people had filed application blanks.

In the first 45 minutes after the Twin Falls office opened Wednesday morning about 75 people had added their applications to the 3,100 already filed.

Mr. Leinen said he was very optimistic about the survey and the type of people who are applying for employment with the Kellwood Co.

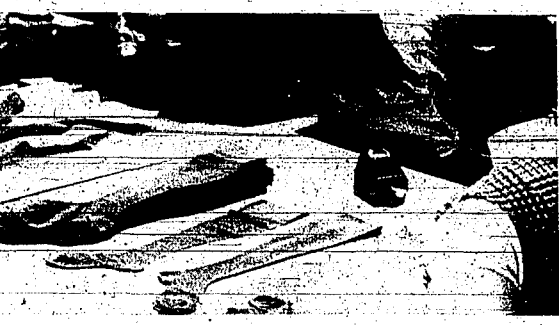

If the labor force is deemed adequate by Kellwood construction, a $12 million plant should begin immediately.

There has been practically no delay so far in processing the application forms and no long waiting in line. Two representatives from Kellwood's Siler City, N.C., headquarters, 16 hours division are here during the survey, but are conducting only sample interviews with applicants picked at random.

It was pointed out Tuesday that the survey is being conducted in KELLWOOD, Pg. 2, Col. 6.

LARGE, WELL-LIGHTED room is one of the main work areas in the Kellwood Co.'s Siler City, N.C., history plant. The company is considering construction of a similar plant in Twin Falls.

THIS WORKER AT the Siler City plant is pairing finished nylon hosiery just before it is packaged. This is one of the many manual tasks in the plant. Workers are required to be neatly dressed and well kempt.

Rough Seas Force Change

Apollo Shifts Landing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 9 astronauts, fearing the raging seas of the stormy Atlantic, were ordered today to stay aloft one more orbit Thursday and alter their moonship toward a calmer landing spot 480 miles to the south.

The splashdown switch will force the spacemen to lengthen their 10-day mission by 98 minutes. The USS Guadacanal, the 650-ton recovery ship, changed course and steamed through mighty, green swells toward the new landing area.

Today, let's go there, yelled Apollo 9 commander James A. McDivitt, who would be tolerated for a safe recovery.

"We think Apollo is a great spacecraft," said one flight controller. "We're not so sure about its qualities as a boat. We sure don't want it to sink."

Flight officials said it would take about 15 hours to steam to the calmer recovery area—time enough to have it on station for splashdown.

"Have it bring all the good weather it can with it," said McDivitt, an Air Force colonel not used to the sea. The Guadacanal was buffeted by raging weather again today, with 15-foot seas sliding dishes and spilling soup in mess areas.

Burglaries

Attempts were made to break into two walk-in safes in two locations sometime Tuesday night or early Wednesday.

Both attempts failed and Wednesday investigating officers said it appears the incidents may be connected.

Police were called to Robert Stuart Junior High School at about 8 a.m. They found a window had been broken open and a large safe in the building had been scoured.

Officers said a large amount of damage was done inside the building.

An attempt was also made to break into a huge safe at the Amalgamated Sugar Co., but county sheriff's officers said this attempt failed also.

A window was broken at the plant and the safe in the office portion of the sugar company complex had been scoured. An attempt had been made to chip away the concrete in which the safe is embedded, but officers said only three inches into the concrete. The concrete is about 18 inches thick.

Sheriff's officers were called about 9 a.m.

Yanks Trap Communists In Battle Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Thousands of Americans, GIs, turned the tables on an ambush north of Saigon and trapped a Communist unit south of the capital in day-long battling that left 133 guerrillas dead today.

The uprising in combat in Saigon's outskirts coincided with a decline in the number of overnight Communist shelling—a change expected by U.S. intelligence officers who predict an attack on Saigon next week.

U.S. military spokesmen said the Reds shelled about two towns and about 13 military camps overnight on the 17th day of their nationwide offensive—the fewest nightly shellings since the drive began.

The drop-off in shelling coincided with reports from Washington that the United States has told the Soviet Union that the allies will retaliate unless the Communists stop their bombardments of populated areas.

American headquarters reported the two major battles outside Saigon—35 miles to the northwest and 45 miles to the southwest—cost light losses among the thousands of GIs who leapt into battle from helicopters.

The battle northwest of Saigon opened with an attempted Communist ambush of a U.S. Division convoy. More than 1,000 Americans swarmed in as reinforcements and trapped the estimated 400 Reds.

A total of 76 Communists died in the fighting. Eight Americans suffered wounds and one of their trucks was damaged in what the 25th Division called a "textbook battle."

The Mekong Delta battle southwest of the city brought to 297 the number of guerrillas killed on infiltration routes to Saigon in the past 48 hours, military spokesmen said.

A patrol of the U.S. 9th Division caught a battalion of about 300 guerrillas moving through paddies and immediately summoned reinforcements, which struck and killed 57 Communists in fighting that ended early today.

March 19 Hearing Set On Hospital Plan

RUPERT — The initial public hearing to allow the citizens an opportunity to voice approval or opposition to the proposed merger of the Cassia and Minidoka Memorial hospitals is scheduled for 8 p.m. March 19 in the Minico High School auditorium.

Called by the Minidoka County Commissioners, the meeting will acquaint area residents with the problems that brought about the recommendation of consolidation and some of the pros and cons that must be solved to accomplish an alternative to the consolidation.

The meeting was scheduled following the announcement last week by the Board of Trustees for the hospitals of their proposal to merge the two hospitals and merge the two hospitals' moral and legal responsibility to provide the highest quality care possible to the residents of the Cassia and Minidoka counties.

The board noted they felt the responsibility could only be met through improved utilization of the physical assets, hospital staff and facilities.

They said that a loss of $175,000 has been recorded as a result of efforts to maintain high quality care in two hospitals with duplication of services during a period of declining utilization, decreased medical staff and shortage of qualified personnel.

The Minidoka County Commissioners, in announcing the public meeting said that within the next several task forces would be formed to serve as advisers to the commissioners. The initial task force consists of Dr. B. C. Humphrey, chief of staff at Minidoka Memorial Hospital; Dr. A. F. Dalley and Dr. H. W. Crawford.

The commissioners indicated they are unanimous in their position that they are opposed to consolidation and that they will do everything in their power to maintain the general hospital at Minidoka County. No proposed solution or solution yet to be proposed will be accepted or rejected without first informing the public of the commissioners' feelings on the proposal and giving the residents of the county public notice of the proposal.

Estimated cost for the three-building second phase was about $2.2 million. The three buildings will join another three, a fine arts center, academic building and maintenance building in which the college moved into last fall.

It is possible that trustees may choose to reject or accept one or all of three proposed buildings, or they may accept or reject only a part of the bids.

Even if part of the bids are rejected, the project would not actually be in trouble time-wise, because the three buildings was set at summer 1970 and the buildings will not actually be in critical need until that fall.

Decision Is Due Monday On CSI Bids

A decision is expected to be reached Monday on bids for three College of Southern Idaho buildings. The bids, for a dormitory, a health PE building and a student union, ran considerably over estimates, and CSI trustees and other officials have been studying the bids since they were received Feb. 26.

Dr. James L. Taylor, CSI president, said Tuesday that a meeting had been scheduled Monday, but was postponed for a week because of the pertinent information on which the decision rests, had not yet been received.

The bid on the health-PE building was generally within estimates, but the bids on the co-educational dormitory and student union were considerably over the estimates.

Strike Ends

PARIS (UPI)—Nearly 10 million French workers Wednesday ended a 24-hour nationwide strike that paralyzed transportation, lighting and other public services.

President Charles de Gaulle charged the strike was a communist-led offensive against the national economy.

The workers' union, the CGT, said the strike was a nationwide television address to support his economic austerity and political reform program or suffer consequences.

George Seguy, communist leader of the giant labor union that led strikers chanting "Down with De Gaulle" through the streets of Paris Tuesday, immediately challenged De Gaulle to reopen the national wage negotiations that caused the strike.

U Of I Chief Warns Education Cannot Survive "Dogfighting"

By RICHARD CIARNOCK

BOISE (UPI)—A university president said a House-Senate conference committee Tuesday higher education in Idaho cannot survive the "kind of dogfighting that has been going on in the legislature."

Referring to sectionalism, Dr. Ernest Hartung of the University of Idaho made the comment during presentation of his testimony to a conference committee seeking a compromise in funding of institutions of higher learning.

He and the presidents of the other three state institutions of higher education said they will have to cut programs if the lawmakers reduce their appropriations below State Board of Education recommendations.

Dr. William E. Davis of Idaho State University summed it up for the committee when the group broke up for lunch.

"I think we're saying, all of us, to the legislature: What kind of institution do you want us to run?"

He said the four presidents can decide down their educational offerings—0-8 point—where they simply are keeping the doors open or they can scale them up so they can move ahead.

"At what level of excellence does the legislature want us to operate?" he asked.

Legislative leaders appointed the six-member conference committee Monday when the House rejected Senate amendments to the House-approved appropriation bill for higher education. The Senate raised Boise State College's appropriation back to the level recommended by Gov. Don Samuelson and the State Board of Education and cut

To Air Athletic Plans

JEROME — A special public meeting of the Jerome high school board is slated for 8 p.m. Thursday at the audio-visual room of the junior high school to review the school's athletic program.

The session is open to the public and constructive comments will be solicited according to Supt. William Lipscomb. A tentative closing time of 10:30 p.m. has been set for the session.

Board members also plan an executive session next Monday to review the 23 applications which have been received for the position of school superintendent to replace Mr. T. Lipscomb, whose contract was not renewed by the board at the December meeting.

Dale Vining, board member reviewed the district curriculum and the book fees pending at Bellwood in January regarding changing of book fees and athletic fees. He noted at Monday night's board meeting that total fees at Minico High School, Rupert, are $25 and credits were not given to students who did not pay the fees. Judge Smithwood has stated that according to the constitution school fees cannot be charged.

Supt. Lipscomb recommended that the school continue to collect the book fees pending a ruling by the Supreme Court. Lipscomb also recommended that one teacher and one aide be hired for the special education class.

Recommendations for summer repairs by Supt. Lipscomb were presented at the board's remodeling of the kitchen at Washington School to conform to state health standards and planning for the first floor expansion and study early in Idaho.

Marvin Whitman, president of the group, urges all cattlemen to attend this 30th annual spring sale.

Sen. Brooks May Be Next Director Of U.S. Mint

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is expected to name Idaho State Sen. Mary Brooks, R-Rupert, as new director of the U.S. Mint.

UPI sources said Tuesday that Nixon has tentatively selected Brooks, 61, as the new director of the U.S. Mint.

Nixon is also expected to maintain a tradition started by Harry S. Truman by naming a woman as the official whose signature will appear on U.S. currency. He has reportedly selected Mrs. Dorothy Andrews Hagan as Treasurer of the United States. Her signature would appear on the lower left-hand side of paper money.

Both Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Elston worked hard for Nixon's election and their appointment would relieve the pressure on the president to name more women to high government posts.

Mrs. Brooks, 61, is the widow of Sen. C. Wayne Brooks of Illinois and assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee.

New Prison Board Nets Extra Member

By LINDY HUGH

BOISE (UPI)—Attorney Gen. Robert Robson said Tuesday that C. L. (Doc) House is still a member of the Board of Correction and William J. Deo of Grangeville is not.

Dec. appointed by Gov. Don Samuelson to the new, partially elected board, was to have replaced House, a member of the old full-time Board of Correction. Deo was sworn into his new office Tuesday.

But House, as of last Tuesday, had not submitted his resignation and appeared to be waiting for another state job before resigning.

But in Robson's opinion, which he emphasized was informal, the constitution "lay out cold" them up so they can move ahead.

"At what level of excellence does the legislature want us to operate?" he asked.

Conferees Reach Accord On Funds

BOISE (UPI)—A House-Senate conference committee reached a tentative agreement today on funding for higher education in the next biennium and took their recommendations back to party caucuses in both houses.

Senate Majority Leader Phil Batt, R-Wilder, a member of the six-man conference committee, said the proposed agreement is a halfway point between House and Senate proposals for spending.

Wreckage From Downed Plane Is Collected

NELLIS AFB, Nev. (UPI)—Scraps of wreckage from an F111A fighter-bomber that crashed 85 miles north of here at a desolate site known as "Twin Falls" were collected Tuesday for inspection by an Air Force investigating team.

The two pilots of the plane, Maj. William Baehche, 24, New York City, and Maj. Edward Schmitz Jr., 26, Prescott, Ariz., ejected safely when their plane crashed March 4. They had been in contact with the Nellis tower before the crash.

"We've been measuring pieces, checking all over the wreckage to see if there was mechanical failure," said Lt. Mike Parkinson. He said the holder of the pilots, headed by Col. Robert Robinson had interrogated the pilots but "it's a long process and we don't know when a report will be made."

It was the 43rd crash since the F111A test program began in 1957. There are approximately 60 F111As stationed at this base and teams of instructors and student pilots fly them all daily.

Expedition On K2 To Be Recounted By Mountaineer

K2 is the second highest mountain on earth, rising 28,254 feet above the sea. It forms a cone for Northern Pakistan, China and Soviet Turkmenia.

In 1953, during the summer, a group of men assembled in Pakistan and attempted to climb the high peak. They got within 3,000 feet of the summit, then had to turn back because of high winds, lack of oxygen and illness among the climbing crew.

The story, one of hardship, humor, and tragedy, will be told Monday evening at the Sun Valley Lodge Snow Room by a man who was on that expedition.

Deo Molenaar, of Port Orford, Ore., presented a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Heuston at Sun Valley. Mr. Molenaar's presentation is being sponsored by the Sun Valley Lodge.

Up that 1953 climb one man was swept away by an avalanche as the party tried to reach the summit of the mountain.

Mr. Molenaar will determine the climb with pictures. He is a geologist and during 1940-41 he and Dr. Heuston worked at the University of Washington. At that time both were part of a group that made films for the training of mountaineers.

Mr. Molenaar also helped establish the ascent route for the Robert F. Kennedy party in the climb of Mount Kennedy in Canada. This party was led by Jim Whittaker, who has climbed Mount Everest.

War Of Nerves Seen

Red Attacks Aim At Nixon

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

American officials in Saigon seem convinced that the current Communist offensive in South Vietnam is less an offensive to win military gains than it is a political maneuver to test President Richard M. Nixon.

"Militarily what they are doing doesn't make any sense," a U.S. official in Saigon told UPI.

UPI correspondent Daniel Southernland.

"But if they are trying to influence American public opinion, it makes a lot of sense."

There is nothing new in attempts to stop them from lobbing a few rockets into Saigon. It does not mean they are strong. But it does mean they are confident.

They are confident because the crux of the dilemma facing Nixon as he ponders his "appropriate response" to the Communist attacks which over the weekend hit more than 50 South Vietnamese cities and towns with rocket and mortar fire.

They are confident because they do not feel necessarily bound by decisions of the former administration and so he could, if he so desired, make an agreement by which the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would refrain from attacks on the cities in exchange for the U.S. bombing of the North.

The North Vietnamese deny there was such an agreement and insist that the Communists made it clear they do not feel necessarily bound by decisions of the former administration and so he could, if he so desired, make an agreement by which the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would refrain from attacks on the cities in exchange for the U.S. bombing of the North.

have a misconception about the type of work connected with a history plant such as may be held here.

The actual knitting of the history is done entirely by machine. Only a very few women employees are connected with this operation, and their job is to check the work of the machines, supplied with cones of nylon thread, tying thread and making minor adjustments.

Mechanics, usually male and college trained, handle the job of keeping the machines running.

Most of the jobs in the plant are concerned with inspecting the knitted history for flaws, preparing them for dyeing and fixing, pairing them and packaging them.

Other jobs include sewing the toes closed (this cannot be done by the knitting machine) and other sewing involved in making party hats.

Employees are required to be neatly dressed, well kept and to keep their hands soft and good shapers. They must supply gallons of hand cream, clippers and manicuring paraphernalia, to insure that this is done.

The plant building itself has been well-lighted, completely air conditioned and closely controlled as to humidity. It was reported that the humidity has to be maintained within 2 per cent of 50 per cent humidity, because of the nature of the nylon thread.

Honored

Friends and fellow Democrats Tuesday night honored Mr. and Mrs. Virginia Smazal for their activities at the forefront of the Twin Falls County Democratic Party.

The affair, attended by about 40 persons, was held at the home of Mrs. Smazal with repeated allusions to political silver linings and the importance of women's votes in determining the outcome of the election.

Mr. Smazal is currently chairman of the Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee and Mrs. Smazal is a long-time precinct committeewoman and is currently state committeewoman for Twin Falls County.

Mr. Smazal has been active in Democratic Party politics since 1948 when he was elected to the Idaho State Democrats. He later organized the eight-county district Democratic Committee in Twin Falls and was coordinator for eight years.

Juneau Shinn, himself formerly chairman of the county Democrats, presided at the event.

back appropriations for the other three schools.

Residents of the two universities and Lewis Clark College said they could not live with the Senate amendments without cutting programs. Dr. Hartung said the analytic program would be the first to get the knife.

Rep. Jenkin L. Palmer, R-Mald, who, with Sen. Richard H. Wagoner, is the sponsor of the analytic program, said he would support the amendments if they could accept more with the understanding that the State would appropriate more money next year.

"Now, Mr. Palmer, you're a rancher and you know that once you've got a growing cow on a farm, you don't do anything about it a year later if it proves to be a mistake," Dr. Hartung said.

After the meeting committee chairman said it was impossible to say when a decision will be reached on funding of higher education for the next biennium.

"Your guess is as good as mine," said Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Mald, when queried on the point.

It is impossible now to tell when a decision will be reached," Sen. Richard H. Wagoner, R-Mald, said.

After meeting with presidents of the state's four institutions of higher education for nearly four hours, the conference committee was later executive sessions to resolve the House-Senate differences.

Monday, the House forced appointment of the conference committee when it rejected Senate amendments to the Higher Education Appropriation Bill.

House amendments raised the minimum age for admission to college and cut proposed spending for the other three schools.

High school will take a major part of the cost of the conference committee assigned by each house to the conference to arrive at a solution. He said if the committee fails to reach a solution the bill would die.

Senator Says

Hogs Live Better Than Some Folks

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said Tuesday most of America's said and hogs live better than the migrant farm workers here.

McGovern said that during two days of investigation in the migrant growing area of Collier and Lee counties, his committee on nutrition saw conditions "that one might expect to find in Asia, not in America."

"Most of the cattle and hogs in America are better fed and sheltered than the families we find in these two counties," McGovern said.

It was the first field trip for the committee, which hopes to draft legislation aimed at improving the lot of migrant farm laborers.

Hijack Triggers Gunfire

CARTEGENA, Colombia (UPI)—Police and soldiers opened fire on a hijacked Colombian airliner which landed in Cartagena Tuesday to take on fuel for the forced flight to Cuba.

Radio reports from the airport said the hijack was averted but that two of the three hijackers managed to escape. They were reported wounded. Unconfirmed reports said two other persons were killed in the crossing and five others wounded. Some of the casualties were aboard the plane.

The plane, with 32 persons aboard, was hijacked in the air between Medellin and Barranquilla. Its pilot landed at Cartagena to take on the fuel needed for the trip to Cuba. The government ordered the plane held on the ground at all costs and police and soldiers opened fire on the DC-8 on the runway. The hijackers returned the fire and a gunbattle ensued. The two hijackers who escaped were said to have fled the scene through the emergency door. The gunfire ended on appeal of the pilot, Capt. Nelson Estrada, who radioed from the cockpit that resistance within the plane had ended.

Authorities then evacuated those aboard the aircraft, operated by SAH airline of Medellin, through escape hatches.

The bottle of the month was won by Mrs. Gene Hopkins. The next meeting will be April 1 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gullick.

What's So Different?

We are developing a credibility gap over the generation gap. Granted that today's young people are the smartest, most informed, most dedicated, most concerned, most everything else - wasn't good generation ever to appear on the face of the earth. If it wasn't true, every public personage from the President on down wouldn't constantly be saying it, would they? But that "the difference between the lives of pre-World War II generations and today's youth is as great as the span between the oldsters and the savages of New Guinea" is, we suggest, just a wee bit of an exaggeration. Margaret Mead, the noted anthropologist, made the comparison recently. Youth are the natives in this new technological land of post-World War II and all those over 25 are foreigners, she said. The root cause of unrest in the nation, that the television-reared, instantaneously knowledgeable youth of today, having been brought up in such a totally new world, are "young creatures of another kind" who don't belong in the old system. One wonders. Is the sending of pictures through the air in 1969 really that much more miraculous than the sending of words in 1929? Is the gleaming supersonic jet any more amazing than the wire and canvas contraption that struggled a few feet off the ground in 1903? Are our high-powered, luxurious, highway-clogging cars of today really that much of a quantum jump from the first one-lunger that exploded down quiet, pastoral Elm Street, U.S.A., in 1899? Has The Pill really had that much more effect on manners and morals

WASHINGTON - Only an appeal from the White House delayed a second confrontation here last week between Southern Republican leaders and White House aides on school desegregation policies in the South - postponing their inevitable moment of truth. That delay did not at all ease the growing anger and anxiety by Southern Republicans over what they regard as President Nixon's refusal to moderate the LBJ guidelines governing school desegregation. Thus, Mr. Nixon and his Southern allies are on a collision course over the school question to climax when the postponed second confrontation is finally held. The administration is planning more technical aid to ease desegregation; the South wants a drastic easing of Southern school policies along the lines proposed by candidate Nixon last fall. Resolution of the two views is far off. The latest meeting between the Dixie Republicans, including several state chairmen and White House political operatives, was held in Washington, Feb. 16. The Southerners dispatched this blunt warning to the White House: unless school guidelines are eased, the President risks losing not only all the Southern states in 1972 but also Southern support at the next Republican convention. A vague understanding came out of that meeting that Robert Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) (who did not attend), would modify guidelines governing desegregation. A second Washington meeting was set for March 3 to cover these changes. So, the Southerners expected to gather here to hear of Finch's new guidelines. At the last minute, however, the White House pleaded that the new "program" was not yet complete. Southerners interpreted this as meaning the eased guidelines would be postponed a bit - realists interpreted the delay as something more ominous. The realists were correct. In fact, their "understanding" seems a "misunderstanding." HEW officials have never agreed to rewrite the guidelines for the simple reason that they are based mainly on law - the basic 1964 civil rights statute plus Federal court cases - no matter what Mr. Nixon said during the campaign. In brief, Finch cannot satisfy the Southern demands and stay within the framework of the law even if he wanted to. Instead of rewriting the guidelines, HEW's realistic plan is a series of lesser steps that could make desegregation somewhat easier in the South and also attack de facto segregation in scores of Northern communities. Finch's first decision, not yet announced, is to ask Congress for much more money under Title IV of the 1964 act which provides expert federal assistance to school districts under orders to desegregate. The emphasis from Washington in the past has been cutting off funds under Title VI of the act, with Title IV starved for funds. Of nine regional offices, only four have Title IV help. But HEW hasn't yet obtained Budget Bureau approval for boosting the present $10 million a year to $20 million. ($8 million more than President Johnson requested). With this key aspect of the Finch plan still under Budget Bureau scrutiny, HEW Under Secretary John Newman cannot go before the House Appropriations Committee to ask for the increase. Struggling for Budget Bureau approval, HEW officials are lobbying the White House. They argue that a radical change in guidelines is impossible and that technical assistance to help Southern school districts comply with the law is the most HEW can offer as a bridge between the Nixon administration and Republicans in the South, now moving into open revolt. The Finch men at HEW, while holding to the letter and spirit of the law, are now moving into some common ground to stave off open defiance. But Southern Republicans, who claim credit for Mr. Nixon's nomination and election, will not be satisfied with handsets instead of major surgery. That's the message the White House will get when that second confrontation finally takes place between Southern leaders and White House political aides.

ART BUCHWALD Kissed His Horse

HOLLYWOOD - Mr. Jack Valenti of the Motion Picture Producers Association has done it. He has kissed a horse in a scene from a film. In order to protect children, his association now informs people through the advertisement that the picture is for adults - whether they are suitable for the whole family or just the adult part of it. The ratings are: X for mature audiences, and finally to X where human beings under 16 are not admitted. I am not criticizing Mr. Valenti's ratings, but actually trying to improve on them. I think he should add another category: warn husbands what to expect. This rating on a film could be X-NFW - which would stand for "not for wives." I say this because I went to a film the other night with my wife only to discover when we got to the theater that it had an X rating. "What does that mean?" she wanted to know. "It means that this picture is a dirty film and only those of us who are mature enough and grown-up enough to understand the implications of what the producer and writer and director are trying to say, are permitted to see it." "You mean it's a dirty picture?" she asked. "We must not use the word dirty in describing a film. It is an art picture, aimed at a specific audience who are more out of step than Doris Day and Rock Hudson." "Those billboards out front look pretty dirty to me." "I don't know. Haven't you ever seen a girl tied behind a bulldozer before?" "Not while it's knocking down a bulldozer." "Well, billboards never really show what the movie is about."

"I Hear They Dislike You In Santa Barbara, Too"

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Changing Doctors

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do you consider a physical way to change doctors? - T.O. This isn't a matter of ethics. Rather, it is a matter of tact and diplomacy. For example, if you want a doctor whose office is nearer to your home, there's no reason why you should not go to him and ask him to refer you to one in a suitable location. Or, as is sometimes the case, if you wish to prefer only those of a certain hospital in case of need, you could reasonably ask to be referred to a physician who is on the staff of that hospital. But if you are simply dissatisfied with a physician and don't care to give him a reason for changing, all you have to do is stop going to him and make an appointment with the new doctor. Patients change doctors right along without ceremony. Some, in fact, change too often and don't give themselves or the doctor the benefit of a good relationship. As to going to two doctors at the same time, without their consent, that's another matter. It can hurt the doctors, but it can't hurt you, because you might be getting medication from both of them. You wouldn't want to happen with unfortunate results. The above, of course, does not apply in instances in which your regular physician is a person you do not like. In such cases the doctors know about it and can guard against double medication or conflicting medication or therapy. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that high potency vitamin B12 is available through the vitamin club, etc., has been used with good success on patients with different kinds of arthritis. Can you enlighten me on this? - Mrs. A.A. There have been claims made for all sorts of arthritis treatments, but I know of no evidence to indicate that vitamin is of any help - unless, of course, the patient happens to be deficient in vitamins to start with. To help people sort out the things that really help from the things that don't, I've designed and mailed my old arthritis leaflet into a full booklet which goes into all the common types of arthritis. It's a booklet that's very common. For a copy of it, called "How You Can Control Arthritis," send 35 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the volume of mail received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

Toward Showdown

There is a flurry of activity in Congress and in a number of state legislatures directed toward punishing those student minorities which insist on running amok on the nation's campuses. Frequently proposals take the form of threatened withdrawal of funds to students and campuses alike. Understandably, college administrators are upset by such talk. They can't see progress coming from a shutting off the funds needed to operate their institutions. Taxpayers also are being heard from - increasing numbers. And their message - loud and clear -

MR. SPECTATOR When Land Was New

It was Oct. 2, 1909 when this picture was taken at Hollister, a community then just getting under way south of Twin Falls toward Nevada. It was a big day in the history of this area. People who wanted land in the New Salmon Falls Creek (Salmon River) project of which the Salmon Dam is the big feature, were arriving to register for this land. The ambitious Salmon project never quite got going because of lack of an adequate water supply. However, now life may be put into the area because there is a very good possibility of more water reaching the general area. At one time it was thought that towns like Hollister would grow into large communities but the advance of transportation - first the railroad and then the automobile in

BRUCE BLOSSAT GOP Being Strengthened

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - It is suddenly apparent that there may be something called Nixon Jack in the political arena. Despite a series of errors that must reflect his intent to focus heavily on his nonpolitical responsibilities, the President at this moment is really farther along than he expected to be by March in his plans to strengthen the Republican party. In Rep. Rogers Morton of Maryland he has exactly the kind of national chairman he was seeking when it first became evident last October that he wished to replace the outgoing one. Even before he is formally installed, Morton will begin doing the "front-man" jobs Nixon wants done - making speeches and other public appearances, explaining administration policy to party people and others, helping to coordinate party-wide efforts, providing the President with his own spokesman who is at once part of the congressional setting and yet separate from it. Within days, Morton will have a No. 2 man whose functions will be chiefly organizational, and shortly after that a new finance chairman will be named to begin getting up the money for expanded organizational efforts. The big 1970 assault on all entrenched Democrats. These new additions will, of course, have to be congenial with Morton, just as Morton himself is highly congenial with White House political cadres and with the President. Key names already are in the works. Even earlier, the Nixon administration has taken steps to draw together the campaign-managing and fund-raising activities of the national committee - with the idea of making it a superior driving force in Nixon's attempt to reinforce the Republican party in major party status in the United States. Men and staffs will be chosen to concentrate on new building efforts in the suburbs, in the inner cities, among the young, and youth that so far have sturdily resisted Republican appeal. Among people in the arts, the sciences, and intellectual pursuits where identification with the Democratic party has been nearly automatic, a campaign management operation will be major. And, as this reporter has indicated several times, they will be closely

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I thought I had found a new name for digitalis but my druggist says it is not. My doctor calls it digitalis and I take it to prevent my heart from kicking a little too fast. - M.F. Quite likely your druggist meant that it is not a new form of digitalis. It is digitalis. For you see, it is digitalis, which is available in different forms for different purposes. They are called, for example, the speed with which they are used by the system. The doctor may call for the type he wants for you, by its trade name, although it is still digitalis. Another commonly used form of digitalis is Digibain, about which another reader asked. The answer is the same: it is digitalis but prepared in a different way and with somewhat different action is, of course, the same. Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the minimum time to cook pork chops 1/2 to 3/4 inches thick to kill trichinellosis infection? - M.K. A half hour is about the minimum for chops - but since both heat and thickness can vary, the surest test is to cook until the meat is white (not pink) all the way through. Pork is a wholesome meat. Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet "How to Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the volume of mail received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

Flier Depends On Faith To Survive Crash Ordeal

By MAT THOMAS D. SMITH III, U.S. Air Force

The date was January 13, 1968. We were flying in an Air Force C-47 from Izmir, Turkey, to our home base in Wiesbaden, Germany.

As a passenger, I was feeling relaxed and cheerful. I had just enjoyed a leave in Turkey that had left me in excellent condition. I was wearing a summer flight suit and light leather jacket; the weather had been pleasant in Turkey.

But it was far from pleasant in Greece. Around the peak of 7,300-foot Mount Helmos a blizzard was raging. We flew too close and ran into what we pilots call a windshear, two layers of high-speed winds blowing in opposite directions. Like a pair of demonic hands those winds seized our transport, spun it like a top, flung it tail-first toward the jagged, snow-covered rocks.

Even before it hit the ground the aircraft was spinning. The fuselage split open just where I was sitting. I felt myself catapulted into a white frothing empyrean back to a world of cold, of pain, of darkness. My first thought was that I was blind. My hands were numb, but when I tried to touch my face I realized that my whole head was encased in snow, ice and frozen blood. When I clawed it all away, I could see. About 400 feet distant was what was left of the aircraft. The largest remaining piece seemed to be the tail section, lying a few feet from a great chasm in the ice.

I heard someone cry out for help. Then I knew why I had been saved.

Two of the men were dead. Two had vanished. One man died as I carried him to what was left of the plane.

The four others were badly hurt—but somehow I managed to get them into the shattered tail section. Then I had to do something to keep out the wind or else the snow would bury us all.

I began to try to bend the jagged metal skin of the plane. My hands were almost useless; I didn't seem to have the necessary strength.

And yet, all the time, I had the most extraordinary feeling that I was not alone, that God was with me. Heally beside me, helping me. So whenever my strength seemed to fail, I would say, "God, I've done all I can by myself; now I must have Your help." Then I'd try again, and I would succeed.

Darkness fell. The temperature dropped to 10 degrees. One man screamed all night; he died the next day.

I knew that rescue planes would be looking for us. But I also knew they would have no chance of finding us in the dark. And when dawnbreak finally came, fog and freezing mist still covered the top of the mountain where we lay.

As the hours passed I knew I would have to make a move. After an air crash, you're supposed to stay with the plane, but we had no food or water; I was the only one who could move.

If I waited much longer, I might be too weak to do anything. Besides, the wind seemed stronger than ever and the tail section kept getting closer to the crevasse.

My plan was simple: I would try to slide, slinger or crawl down the mountain until I got below the overcast. There I would try to signal a plane. I set out, dragging a red parachute to use as a signal.

Somewhat, mostly sliding on the seat of my pants, I worked my way down the mountain. At about 1,000 feet I broke into the clear, spread out my distress signal and lay exhausted. It was about 3:30 in the afternoon.

Within 15 minutes the crew of a C-130 spotted me. The pilot flew low over me, dipping his wings. Finally, I knew his radio would summon rescue.

Then came the toughest part of all: The climb back.

The short January day was ending. I could not survive a night in the open; besides, I wanted to tell my friends help was on the way. But moving up those wind-tortured slopes was almost more than flesh and blood could stand.

Today I'm sure of one thing: I didn't make it back to that plane all by myself. Somebody was helping me—the same Somebody who had spared by life so I could help others survive up there on Nightmare Mountain.

When I got back, I was frozen, delirious, babbling incoherently. But the next day a rescue team of Greek mountaineers reached us.

Later, helicopters from the carrier Forrestal landed on the mountain to assist the flight instructor and the five other survivors to a hospital. I was the only one in good enough shape to go directly to my family.

To feel that your life has been spared for a purpose like this leaves a man feeling very grateful and very humble. I know that the little magazine Guideposts of life bother me far harder than they used to. I try harder to build a solid Christian relationship with my family, realizing in the world is as important to me as passing along the faith and gratitude I feel for the gift of life.

Wallace Vows AIP Plans Active Role

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—George Wallace promised his supporters today that his American Independent Party will continue to function.

In his first public statement since running a distant third in the 1968 presidential election, Wallace indicated in a newsletter that he would be back in the 1972 presidential contest.

"I know that you will want to continue," Wallace said in the newsletter, mailed to 1,000,000 supporters. "I am going to continue. Together, we can contribute to a stronger and more prosperous America."

Wallace said the four-page newsletter was the first in a series of monthly publications through which he will keep in contact with his supporters. In the first issue, mailed today, he claimed that his ticket had "made an auspicious start."

"Because of it, the position taken and the statements made by the other two parties were oriented toward—the middle ground. Particularly, this is true of the candidate who financed 'you' Wallace said the AIP had "vastly changed" the direction of government.

"Our challenge now is to see that campaign commitments are carried out—the change in direction becomes national policy," wrote Wallace.

Dallas Blonde Is New Dog-Catcher

By CHARLES B. LAYTON

DALLAS (UPI)—To a pretty girl, what could be more glamorous than being an airline stewardess?

Answer: being a dog catcher.

At least that's the answer you'll get from Judy Freeman, Dallas' prettiest canine catcher. Miss Freeman also is the only woman catcher Dallas ever has had.

The 27-year-old blonde worked for two and one-half years as an airline stewardess before working for the Dallas Humane Society. She said she made the switch because, "I like animals."

Asked if working for an airline was more glamorous, Miss Freeman said, "Some people might think so. All you're really doing, though, is serving food and rushing around a lot."

"Airline hostesses have a lot of fun," she explained. "A passenger sees a stewardess down on the floor, and asks her what she's looking for." The stewardess answers, "All the glamour they told me about."

The Chicago-born Miss Freeman owns five dogs, three cats, and three birds. She also owns one registered half-Arabian horse, which she trains. Once she managed a hunting and jumping stable.

Miss Freeman is, in short, knowledgeable about animals. "Every breed of dog has its own characteristics," she said.

"But you will find individuals in each breed. Some of your purebreds have been bred for show so long that they're on the dumb side. Their instincts for hunting have been bred out of them."

"But it takes more than love for animals to be a dog warden. Miss Freeman's job requires her to go out alone and pick up stray animals, sometimes vicious ones.

"We're given a rope and a catch pole," she explained. Faced with a vicious dog, Miss Freeman-tries-charm—"Showing some confidence toward—the animals helps," she said. "If you give them confidence, don't rush them, and use a gentle voice, they'll come around."

Once in a while, though, she is bitten. "The first time was the first day I went out," she said. "We had to pick up a female with puppies, and the man I was with had the rope, but she slipped away and jumped at me—I still have the scars."

Miss Freeman since has learned some tricks of the trade. "The men usually handle the dogs by the scruff on the neck. I'm not strong enough for that, so I have to work more with the rope, and by just picking them up," she said.

The shelter at which she works retrieves animals of all kinds. "We're taught how to handle skunks," she said.

Bucher Denies "Surrendering" Ship To Enemy

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI)—Pueblo skipper Lloyd M. Bucher said Tuesday he feels "completely responsible" for the capture of the ship on the Korean coast. He said he had no intention of "surrendering" the ship to the enemy.

Bucher added that the North Koreans had the ship covered with their own machine guns and that an effort to man the ship's weapons would have meant death for the gun crews.

The court also drew from Bucher admission that his first order was to get ready to destroy classified papers in the Pueblo's espionage unit was passed over a loudspeaker that had no outlets in the spy rooms.

Bucher's intelligence officer told him shortly before the North Koreans boarded the vessel that most of the ship's secret papers had been destroyed.

Under cross-examination, the 41-year-old Navy commander admitted he okayed a plan for destruction of the Pueblo's papers without knowing the quantity involved.

The loss of intelligence papers to the enemy is a major issue before the five-member court of inquiry investigating the Pueblo's capture Jan. 23, 1968.

Bucher also testified he did not consider the Pueblo's capture a surrender.

"I didn't consider it surrendering," Bucher said. "We were overwhelmed by odds that gave us no chance of survival."

Under questioning by the court counsel, Capt. William R. Newsome, Bucher said he knew 35-38 electronic devices were located in the Pueblo's espionage unit. But Bucher said he was "not familiar with the quantity of secret papers destroyed."

Pay Bargaining For Teachers Dies In House

BOISE (UPI) — After passing the Idaho House reconsidered and then killed on Tuesday a teacher negotiation bill many persons thought would never make it to the floor for debate.

The motion to reconsider was made by Rep. Harold Snow, R-Moscow. The bill was passed 35-23 by the House at noon.

Rep. Eugene D. Wardner, urged the House to sustain its earlier decision.

She said, "We spent two and one-half days debating a bill this morning. Now it appears that certain things have happened and certain things have been twisted."

"It would seem to me if it was a good bill when we voted on it this morning it would seem to me it still was a good bill," said Rep. John Molyneux, D-Coeur d'Alene. "If there's been any wishy-washy trustees twisting arms since then that shows the need for it."

Highway Board To Call Bids

BOISE (UPI)—Lloyd Barron, member of the Board of Highway Directors, said bids will be opened March 18 for a project consisting of furnishing cover coat material in stockpiles in the vicinity of Eagle and Lucky Peak.

Bids will be opened on the same day for constructing a seal coat on about 48 miles of U.S. 30 at the East Declo-Utah state line.

Bids for three projects will be opened April 1. One project consists of modifying hundred and guard rails on interchanging structures on Interstate Highway 15; another project consists of partial grading and other work on half a mile of U.S. 30 North; and the third project consists of constructing a plant mix base on eight miles of Interstate 15.

SHAVED AND RESTED after an eight-day ordeal trapped far underground, William V. Jones gets a big hug from his granddaughter, DeNae Jones, 6, at a Salt Lake City hospital on Tuesday. Jones, a lead and zinc miner, said his story of his ordeal is "for sale." (UPI telephoto)

Will Sell Tale Of Experiences Miner Puts Ordeal On Block

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A lead and zinc miner, who rose from obscurity to national recognition when he survived eight days buried in a huge cave-in, said Tuesday the story of his experience was for sale.

William V. (Buck) Jones, 60, the tremendous ordeal he had gone through reflected in his tired brown eyes, met with newsmen for the first time.

With his amiable wife, Ethel, looking on, Jones said in a low monotone voice that what happened "in my head" while he waited in a space the size of a loaf, "express their love," Jones said.

Hospital physicians said that other than a few small superficial injuries, the tough old miner who defied death for 200 hours at the 1,200-foot level of mine was in good condition.

A spokesman said Jones "is expected to be released from the hospital in the next day or two, after he has had time to rest from his ordeal."

The veteran miner captured the heart of the nation when rescuers established voice contact with him after three days of searching through a treacherous cave-in.

Time dragged on as rescuers attempted to reach Jones. The battle to save his life heightened and telephone calls and letters flooded in from all over the country to the Jones family.

"We got a lot of letters from West Virginia," a son, Glen said.

Mine officials described Jones as having "nerves of steel" as he calmly helped direct the digging and drilling toward the tiny niche deep in the Oquirrh Mountains 2 1/2 miles southwest of Salt Lake City.

Resolution Asks Land-Law Review

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate on Tuesday received a concurrent resolution calling for the legislative council to conduct a study and review of the laws of the state and policies dealing with management, leasing, sale and control of lands.

If passed, the resolution would direct the council to report to the legislature by Dec. 1, 1969.

Senators Protest Rail Plan

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate made an impassioned plea in the form of a joint memorial to Union Pacific Railroad in an attempt to persuade the line to keep maintenance work in Idaho rather than transferring it to Utah.

The railroad proposes to move much of its repairs and inspections of locomotives and rolling stock to a new facility in Salt Lake City, Sen. John Evans, D-Malden said.

"All we want to do is keep what's already here in Idaho," Evans stated.

The joint memorial was passed unanimously by voice vote. It urged the president, chairman of the executive board and other Union Pacific railroad officials in addition to the Idaho congressional delegation to consider the impact of moving the repair work out of Idaho.

Evans, Senate Minority Leader, said moving the locomotive inspection and repairs out of Idaho "will have a drastic effect on the economy of the areas involved."

He said more than 250 employees and a total of 600 jobs in all could be affected in the Twin Falls, Idaho Falls, Pocatello,ampa, Glenns Ferry and Montpelier areas.

"The railroad derives a good share of its business within our state," Evans said, "and it is our feeling that in return for this business it should consider Idaho's economy."

Today's Market And Financial Report

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market opened lower Wednesday in moderate trading. Reports the Viet Cong plan to continue their offensive in South Vietnam pushed the uncertainty among traders. Monetary uncertainty in France and the potentially explosive Middle East situation added to the jitters.

News at home also had a dismal ring. The House Ways and Means Committee was hearing testimony on a bill to curb conglomerates, and a Commerce Department survey indicated that manufacturers expect a sharp slowdown in the first half of this year.

After almost three hours of trading, the UPI stock market indicator, measuring all 3000 traded, was off 0.17 per cent. Of the 1485 issues on the tape, there were 678 advances and 807 declines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials showed a loss of 2.48 at 118.45 near 1 p.m. The 300 share market, down about a million shares from the previous session at that time.

Syrian Socialists Force Almost Total Isolation

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Arab-Israeli War from which Syria emerged with the smallest loss of territory, the Syrian Baathists broke the extreme left wing of the Syrian Baathist movement, and with the loss of its base in Iraq and have party took over in early 1966, it refused to have any part of began immediately to eliminate. So lightly were the Syrian Gunner Jarring's United Nations Middle East peace negotiators, cigarettes and re- that it was not until the closing hours of the six-day war that the Israelis diverted their attention from Jordan and Egypt to take the Golan Heights, from which they could have advanced to Damascus. In the kaleidoscope of Syrian upheavals in the last 20 years, and since the Baathists themselves are split between military and civilian wings and between moderates and extremists, it was no great surprise when in late February travelers from Damascus reported another power struggle in progress.

Although obscured by traditional Baathist secrecy, three chief figures have emerged. They are Lt. Gen. Hafez Al-Assad, the defense minister who in late February rejected a demand that he appear before the party's disciplinary committee and instead seized control of the country's internal security. President and Premier Nuraddin-Al-Attassi, largely a figurehead. Party Strongman Maj. Gen. Salim Ja'idid who has ruled behind a civilian facade.

James Earl Ray's Life Dealt In Poverty, Racism, Crime

By United Press International

James Earl Ray's early life of poverty, petty crime and bitterness generated enough hatred—particularly of Negroes—to lead him to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., according to Shelby County Atty. Gen. Phil M. Canale.

Ray was born in a rundown shack in Alton, Ill., on the banks of the Mississippi River in 1928.

His father, a railroad man and sometime tenant farmer, died the family after they moved to Quincy, Ill.

"The mother drank. The father abandoned. The children grew up in a red light district," wrote a social worker who visited the Ray home during an early depression days.

At 14, Ray was living with the family in Ewing, Mo., failing school where he fought with smaller children and was caught stealing the class's hot lunch money.

After that Ray joined the Army, but his pattern of "being drunk and breaking arrest" led to three months at hard labor and a general discharge from the Army in 1948.

"There was some indication he was a racket," Canale said, describing the moody, plumpish Ray.

The prosecutor said Ray's life behind bars intensified his hatred of his fellow man and increased his feelings towards Negroes.

Ray was sentenced to 90 days in Los Angeles for a robbery attempt. He got two years for the holdup a taxi driver in Chicago in 1951.

He was caught passing forged money orders in 1955 and spent two years and nine months in Leavenworth Prison.

Ray was caught in 1959 in a St. Louis supermarket stickup and was sentenced to 20 years in the Missouri State Penitentiary at Jefferson City.

Ray's mother is dead as are a brother, Franklin, and a sister, Marjorie.

Three brothers, John, Jerry and Max, and three sisters, Carol, Susan and Melba, are still alive. However, the family is not close.

Nixon Hints Plan For Foreign Trips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, elated by his recent European trip, hinted Tuesday night there will be a lot of foreign travel during his administration both for himself and his Cabinet members.

"The greatest danger (for a leader) is to withdraw too much and to reduce your circle to too few," the President told reporters at the first of three White House parties for members of Congress and their wives.

"I am urging a lot of Cabinet members to do a bit of traveling, but only after they have had a lot of briefing," Nixon said.

Regarding his eight-day trip to Europe, Nixon said: "The answer is that in eight days you don't find the answer to anything you do, you are superficial."

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — The raven-haired Mexican lawyer wearing a borrowed raincoat, started blankly at the floor as she sat before the senators who wanted to know something about hunger.

One of Mrs. Marcello Longoria's five children, a small girl, sat in her lap, hardly stirring.

"We have had no food for the past week," Mrs. Longoria said through an interpreter. "The past two days we haven't had anything to eat."

Sen. George S. McGovern and members of his Select Committee on Nutrition and Human needs listened intently as they sat before a makeshift backdrop of red and white bunting. About 200 migrant workers—mostly Mexican and Negro—dressed in their Sunday best had crowded into the small auditorium to listen.

"I am unable to work because I have five children," said Mrs. Longoria. She had asked that the United States South Florida Migrant Legal Services act as her interpreter because she was ashamed of her broken English. "When my husband got sick we got behind with the rent. There was sickness in our family. All our children were sick."

"My husband had an accident once before and has a six-year-old daughter, Heather."

McGovern and his committee, studying malnutrition among the nation's poor, opened two days of hearings after visiting one of the 50 shabby camps where 10,000 migrant workers live each year when they come here to pick vegetables.

T. Michael Foster, assistant director of the South Florida Migrant Legal Service program, said recent reports from the state health department show 250 families are suffering from severe hunger in the Immokalee area. He said 4200 persons would be eligible to receive free government surplus food if it were available.

The Collier County Commission has refused to participate in the commodities program, or the food stamp program on the grounds that it would cost too much, that the migrants are not their responsibility, and that the laborers wouldn't work if they had free food available. Many local leaders deny hunger exists.

Florida Gov. Claude Kirk has been sitting in on the proceedings as a visitor. "I hope you won't create enthusiasm for a food stamp program," he told the committee. "We are not ready for open."

FILM SHOWN

FILER — A film, "The Americans Nite" describing a trip down the Colorado River, was shown to the Methodist Men's Club and their wives following a dinner in the social hall of the church.

Actress Denies Cancer Rumors

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Film star Elizabeth Taylor, released from a hospital Tuesday, called reports she was suffering from cancer of the spine "absolute rubbish."

"There's nothing to it," the 37-year-old Academy Award winner said as she walked with her husband, Richard Burton, from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital where she had been confined since last Wednesday.

The actress, wearing a gray wool suit with a fresh daisy tucked in a scarf at her neck, said tests made during her hospital stay showed only a bad back.

"I have a bad back. I've always had a bad back."

Minidoka Stake Conference Scheduled This Weekend

RUPERT — Elder Theodore M. Burton, assistant to the Council of Twelve Apostles of the LDS Church, will speak at the Minidoka Stake Conference Saturday and Sunday in Rupert.

Elder Burton earned B.A. and M. A. degrees at the University of Utah and in 1921 obtained his doctorate at Purdue University. He has spent much of his life in Europe in church and government service. Elder Burton first traveled to Europe as a missionary to the Swiss-German mission from 1927-30, during which time he was assistant of the Schleswig-Holstein District.

Later he became technical assistant to the U.S. Treasury Attaché, U. S. Treasury Department in Vienna, Austria, in 1937-38, he held the same post in Berlin.

In 1937, he returned to Europe over a three-year period as German Mission for over three years. From January, 1962 to 1964, he served as president of the European Mission. In January, 1964, he was appointed vice president and general manager of the Genealogical Society and managing director of the Priesthood Genealogy program of the Church. He was professor of chemistry at Utah State University at the time of his calling to be a general authority.

He has served as president of the American Association of University Professors, USU chapter, and as chairman of the Utah-American Chemical Society. He is a member of the Sigma Chi, Phi Lambda Upsilon, Sigma Xi and Alpha Epsilon Delta fraternities.

The conference session will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Stake Tabernacle on 8th and G Street in Rupert. The regular sacrament services which will be held in the individual wards. Visitors are welcome.

THEODORE BURTON

Solon Raps Spending On State Level

RUPERT — Senator Mary Brooks has charged that there is an epidemic of "spending fever" going around the Idaho capital city. She made the accusation during a radio report to the Minidoka County taxpayers Monday.

"I am quite concerned because it has come to my attention that word out around the state is that our rule on Saturday to amend the appropriation for higher education was a relief for Boise College. This is not the fact at all. We Republicans are standing pretty solid and trying to keep the budget down and by amending the main bill for all state higher education institutes in a fashion, we took out $1.3 million."

She said that in the past 18 years, the state's population has increased by four per cent, while the state expenditure had increased by 400 per cent.

Mrs. Brooks noted that she felt there was a spending epidemic partly because of the $20 million surplus.

"We cannot get it through these people's heads that if they spend the money on the schools now, the next time when we do not have a surplus, it will mean a tax increase."

She said the House rejected the amendment Monday morning and that she is now going to the conference committee.

When asked whether or not she believed the legislative session would be hurried, when Mrs. Brooks was asked, she said no, but that if the deadlock on the higher education appropriation could be broken, the legislature could possibly be out by this weekend.

Survey Reveals Many Teens Have Good Time Sans Drugs

By JOAN MANAUER
United Press International

Not all American teenagers are going to get stoned by "pot," you mean marijuana or just going to the dogs.

High as the percentages of drug usage by American teens—90 per cent to 40 per cent of teenagers in urban centers, by some estimates—the fact is by far most of them don't touch the stuff.

"What does this 'silent' majority do for kicks?"

United Press International reports that question: teenagers around the country and the answer is that mainly they are doing pretty much the same things in 1969 that teenagers did in the 1940s.

"They're dancing, having parties, taking part in sports (bowling and skating are big in the winter), watching 'B' movies, buying and listening to pop records, setting their own fashions in clothes and hairdos, engaging in boy-girl talk, and necking a bit when the opportunity affords."

There are, of course, some islands of difference, this being a big country.

In communities in New England, the Midwest and Southwest, "going steady," is going out and even dating may be passe.

"Why should we date?" asked Peggy Webb, 17, a Princeton, Ill. high school senior. "Why should we worry about having a date for everything that comes along? Going steady was all part of that security thing."

"It's much more fun to just not have a date; to just run into somebody and have them say, 'let's do this or that,' than it is to have a full production date."

While teenagers in Edinburg, Texas, and Providence, R.I., also reported a decline in going steady, it remains common in New York and other areas.

A group of Julie Richman High School Juniors in Manhattan agreed going steady was the not-always-achieved goal and that parents no longer "make big deal out of it."

Teen-agers from all over mentioned "necking" on dates. Some suggested a rise in sexual freedom, but others said there was more freedom of talk than action. Several Dallas boys complained plaintively that girls talked about sex—but slapped the face of any boy who expected them to substitute deeds for words.

In the communities where dating currently is decline, the boys and girls have other ways of getting together. One method is "cruising." As explained by Larry Gallo, a Providence high school student, a group of four or five boys in a car make a "prand circle" up one block and down the next, revving the motor at each stoplight. If a bunch of girls happen by in another car, the two groups agree to get together and head for a diner.

"Cruising" points up the popularity of automobiles in the life-of-today's teen-ager. While the girls talk about boys, the boys talk about cars.

Music is another teen preoccupation, and as usual one generation's beat is another generation's bedlam. A Manhattan high school group said acid rock, soul music, blues and "sort of urban folk" are most popular. Favorite performers include the Beatles, James Brown, Donovan, The Supremes and The Temptations.

If there is a generation gap about music, there is an absolute chasm concerning hair. Boys like it long, and insist at least on long sideburns. Some try mustaches—school authorities willing. Less controversial is the long hair for girls, and short plastic cuts also are considered stylish in the teen-age set.

Pierced ears for girls are very much part of the jewelry scene. Some girls in Cincinnati make earrings of their boyfriend's guitar picks and rings are fashioned from beer can pull-tops.

Girls from New York to Hawaii have a scrubbed look—if you ignore their super-light white lipstick and vampy eye makeup.

African fashions are popular, particularly (but not exclusively) with Negro teens, many of them like "Afro" or "natural" hair styles.

Among the individual popular pastimes mentioned, were the "Chinese Fire Drill" in Cincinnati, and "Slave Day" in Cleveland.

A "Chinese Fire Drill" takes place when a carload of teen-agers is stopped by a traffic light. Everybody jumps out of the car, makes as much noise as possible, then leaps back in but in different seats—all before the light turns green.

"Slave Day" as practiced at Euclid High School combines high-spirits with high-purposes. A boy donates a can of food for the poor and receives a ticket entitling him to "enslave" a girl by making her obey any order within reason. One girl recently had to tae-dance on a cafeteria table while singing "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, while other "slaves" had to run through the halls, their shoes on their ears, braying like donkeys. The next day, the girls retaliate.

In a more serious vein, many teen-agers are engaged in publishing underground newspapers.

School Food Service Unit Elects Aides

Mrs. Warren Stroud was elected president of the Idaho School Food Service Association at a recent meeting in the Robert Quatt School, according to Mrs. Harvey Maxson, outgoing president.

Mrs. Maud Avery, Buhl, was elected president-elect; Mrs. Maxson, secretary, and Mrs. Maymie Kacater, Buhl, treasurer.

Discussion was held on dividing the state into several smaller organizations in order to obtain more personalized attention and instructions.

Twin Falls could have one or more chapters and Miller and Buhl could combine in a chapter with perhaps Clover, Holister and Castelford schools joining. A name for the new organization will be selected at the March meeting.

Mrs. Stroud read a poem honoring George Washington. Refreshments were served.

Filer will host the March 20 meeting at the high school.

Roberts Hired As Burley Cage Coach

BURLEY — Neil Roberts, 23, assistant basketball coach at the University of Idaho, accepted the position of physical education supervisor and head basketball coach at Burley High School Tuesday morning after the Cassia County school board Monday night did away with plans for a county-wide athletic director.

Roberts will replace Rulon Budge at the Bobcat basketball team and Mr. Budge will retain his head football coaching duties. The decision to forego plans for a county-wide athletic director was made Monday after Charles Ward of Malheur County found no real interest in creation of such a post. He expressed concern over justifying a salary for the job.

Hymn Used For Lenten Topic At Lutheran Women's Meet

"When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," was the hymn used as the theme for the Lenten topic given by the Ruth Group at the recent meeting of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Immanuel Lutheran Church.

What the true meaning of "The Wondrous Cross" should be to all Christians was unfolded through the words of this hymn.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Daphne Etnsahr.

Mrs. Geraldine Reinke presented the opening devotional service, based on the 23rd Psalm. Guests were Mrs. Eugene Malberg, Mrs. Larry Gier and Mrs. Kirt Ambrose. Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In response to all those people who are disgusted with the unsolicited filth they receive in the mails: Why are they so shook over pornography when the "leered men on our Supreme Court are clearly in favor of it? You may print this and use my name, and I hope you send a copy of it to CONGRESS.

There's nothing sexy about a 51-year-old fat boy in the nude, so sock it to 'em, Abby, and tell husbands to cover up a little, too.

DEAR MR. STURTRIDGE: THE SUPREME COURT is not "clearly in favor" of pornography. They are understandably concerned with the kind of censorship which would deny the individual an right to decide for himself what he may or may not read. And in a free society who shall make these decisions? It is not the court that appears. The "censorship" however well-intended is sometimes worse than the disease.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to a "CONFIDENTIAL" you had in your column not long ago. Your words were: "It is a common and tragic misconception—that people who threaten to commit suicide never do. Nearly everyone who has committed a suicide has warned others of his intentions." I don't know for whom this message was intended, but I want to thank you for printing it. When I told them I was going to try suicide, no one believed me, and I ended up doing just that. As you can see, I am still here. Now I am glad that I didn't succeed, and I'm getting the help I needed all along. God bless you, Abby, and thanks a million.

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas I gave Cindy an engagement ring, and later on we decided that marriage was not for us, so we called the whole thing off. Both Cindy and I are over 25, and I can honestly say that there are no broken hearts. Cindy and I picked out the ring together. She likes it very much and wants to keep it as she has another boy friend who is willing to take over the payments.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 62703, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR GERRY: No, go ahead and ask him. All you have to lose is the down payment.

Glad to be alive.

DEAR ABBY: My husband pointed out a letter in your column from the man who wanted his wife to doll up and put on something sexy, revealing, and provocative once in awhile—just for him.

NOT STRAIGHT. In many healthy children, bowing under age two and knee-knee between ages two and 12 are quite normal growth patterns, a radiologist finds. Dr. Charles E. Shogner of the University of Missouri School of Medicine says that, in healthy youngsters, nothing need be done by way of correction until adolescence, and few children then need any treatment.

Dinner will be served from 5 to 8 p.m., with dancing and cards from 8 p.m. to midnight. Reservations can be obtained by calling Mrs. Madland or Mrs. Crow. Tickets will be sold at the door. Area Art Guild Schedules Meets. SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County Art Guild will hold two meetings, a month, members decided at their last meeting. The first meeting held at 7:30 p.m. the first Wednesday of each month at the city library rooms, will be a business meeting and special art lesson. Mrs. Robert Gaskill is the instructor. At the second meeting of the month, held at 7:30 p.m. on the third Wednesday at the library room, time will be spent in individual painting projects.

The new routine will begin with the Wednesday meeting. All high school students who are interested in drawing or painting are invited to this meeting. They should take a drawing pencil, notebook, eraser, ruler and sketch pad. The members announced they have 12 paintings which will be sold to raise funds. The paintings have been donated by artists. The exact means of selling them will be decided upon at the next meeting. Free art lessons for children of the county were discussed Wednesday at the library room, and Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Richfield, reported that Richfield school is in favor of release-time for one class a week from the 2 p.m. period to the end of school that day for fourth and six graders. Women in Richfield will assist with the painting lessons. Shoshone members reported that a number of students at the Lincoln School are interested in lessons, but that release-time is desirable due to bus schedule and students who travel not being available after school for the lessons. Mrs. Gladys Cope will contact the school officials regarding this.

Fishermen At Gloucester Hook Onto Favorite Food

The days of Gloucester schooners and dory fishing on the Grand Banks are long gone, but "captains courageous" still ship out of this historic port in fair weather and foul. They don't depend on the wind these days, though. That's been replaced by diesel power. Nor are their vessels as big as the old windjammers. But what they lack in size they make up in rugged dependability and they are built to catch fish.

The quarry of Gloucester fishermen these days is whiting—the silver-sided fish that is taken from cold Atlantic waters off the Massachusetts coast. Close kin to the cod, the whiting is a slender fish with lean, white meat and a sweet flavor. A favorite old New England fisherman's breakfast, was fried fresh whiting, slack salted overnight.

Fried Gloucester Whiting: Select small whiting 12 to 14 inches long, one to a portion; remove heads, clean; trim whole. Brush with lemon juice. Sprinkle lightly with salt; roll in flour. Fry in peanut or other vegetable oil heated to 375 degrees. The fish usually rises first. Wait until the entire fish floats to surface, then cook 1/2 minute longer. Drain on absorbent paper.

The delicate flavor of whiting makes it possible to prepare it in many other ways. To broil, have small whiting split and dressed (one per portion). Place skin side down on well greased grill; sprinkle with salt and pepper, brush with melted butter or margarine. Broil, with surface of fish about 4 inches below source of heat, basting often with melted butter, until fish flakes readily with a fork (approximately 6 to 8 minutes). Do not turn. Garnish with chopped parsley. To poach, cook dressed whiting in simmering salted water just until it flakes. Do not overcook.

Jobies Honor Diana Blair

BUHL—Diana Blair was escorted to the altar and presented with a Jobie charm for being the best candy salesman, during the meeting of the Bethel Job's Daughters, with Cookie Atkins, honored queen, presiding.

A report was given by Mrs. Jim Hendrix, promoter of finances on the candy sale. It was noted that 46 boxes of candy remained to be sold and that the girls were to meet at the Bethel to sell the candy and for a party after the sale at the home of Cookie and Candy Atkins.

The honored queen announced that her next money raising event would be a raffle supper sometime in March. Patty Mackay, librarian, gave a poem entitled "The Loom of Time."

Mrs. John Miracle, secretary of the guardian council, announced the proceedings of the grand guardian's council of Idaho. 34th annual session, were received by the Bethel and that the Bethel Bugle has been received, and both are available to any Jobie wishing to read same.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Steve Foukal and Mrs. Marion Harp.

Members of the Harrison Junior Music Club who will play in the Junior Music Festival presented the program during the recent meeting at the Harrison School cafeteria.

The music festival set for March 28 and 29. Those participating in the program included Lesa Pugeant, Bougie Hanson, Joan Wilkie, Katy Kiley, Kandl Bingham, Michelle Burrows, Robin Witherspoon and Carole Kiley. Lari Bingham played the violin, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Le-Loy Bingham.

Refreshments were served by Ann Williams and Bonnie Hanson. The Harrison Junior Music Club is an affiliate of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

NAME OMITTED
The name of the flower girl was erroneously omitted from the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hendrix, appearing in the March 10 issue of the Times-News. Pamela Holmrich, sister of the bridegroom, served as flower girl.

Rebekah Lodge Has Special Meet For Visit

BUHL—Buhl Rebekah Lodge No. 29 met in special session when Mrs. Edith R. Gentry, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Idaho, made her official visit to the Buhl lodge.

During the officers march, an impressive flag ceremony was held with a trio composed of Mrs. Jerry Maxton, Elvera Kennedy and Paul Kennedy presenting the president's song, "This Is My Country." During the number Mr. Kennedy sang a solo and Mrs. Maxton gave a musical reading. The trio was accompanied by Vickie Inchausti.

Dignitaries introduced and welcomed in addition to Mrs. Ramsey were William Boyd, Twin Falls grand representative to Grand Lodge to be held in Baltimore—Anna Leith, Buhl, past president of Ladies Auxiliary Patriarch—Millie—Gertrude Biswell, Shoshone, past president of Ladies Auxiliary Patriarch Millant; Gary Ridgeway, past president of the department commander of Patriarch Millant; Mrs. Bill Couberty, Twin Falls, district deputy president of district five; and Frank Eastman, Twin Falls, Lieutenant colonel of the first regiment, Department Council of Idaho.

Mrs. Ridgeway, Kimberly, department association, musician of Ladies Auxiliary Patriarch Millant; Mrs. Irene Childers, chairman of the institutional and promotional committee of districts five, six, seven and eight; lodge deputies, Mrs. Glen Hosteller, Filer, and Mrs. L. A. Major, Buhl, and Mrs. Lois Hatch, Filer; Mrs. Frank Eastman, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Dale Chatterton, Shoshone, noble grand.

Members of Buhl's drill team, under the direction of Mrs. Maurice Curriington, staff captain, presented a drill for the president.

Mrs. Ramsey presented her message on the topic "Loyalty." Other dignitaries spoke briefly.

A tea was held after the meeting. The table was covered with a white cloth centered with a pink rose spray flanked by double candelabra bearing pink tapers. A silver coffee service and crystal punch bowl completed the table appointment. Mrs. Bill Couberty presided at the coffee service and Mrs. L. D. Major presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Hazel Conrad was tea chairman.

Mrs. Ramsey was feted at a salad bar luncheon at noon at the Lincoln Courts Community

HAVE YOU SEEN THE JUDGE?

OUR CASE RESTS. IT'S JUSTICE MAN.

ALL RISE for the JUDGE

THE JUDGE FROM PONTIAC — A new name. With a special brand of Justice to discourage the so-called performance-minded competition. Like a standard, 366-horse, 400-cubic-inch V-8 with Ram Air and a 4-barrel. Or a 370-horse, 400-cube Ram Air IV V-8, of you so order. Either way, those hood scoops function. Like a fully-synchronized, floor-mounted, 3-speed cogbox. A close-ratio 4-speed-with-Hurat-shifter (you) and a 3-speed Turbo Hydramatic (you) are also in the happy-if-you'd care to order same. Like a 60" air foil, blackened grill, exposed headlights, fiber-glass bolted tires (big and black), steel mag-type wheels, blue-red-yellow striping and Judge I.D. Inside and out. Like an Endura schroz that regards chips, dings and scrapes as acts of treason. Like Morrokide-covered buckets. And a no-nonsense instrument panel that fills you in. In detail. Order a hood-mounted tach and power front disc brakes.

Time For Living

By ROGERS FRANKLIN

Among the many retirement ideas developed in Washington during the Administration of Lyndon Johnson, the following may turn out to be one of the most fruitful.

Source: Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz.

Idea: Encourage Americans over 60 to go back to school for at least two years.

Implementing the idea would, needless to say, involve getting past such difficulties as financing. My concern here, however, is the "why" of the proposal, the main things the secretary had in mind when he made it.

To begin with, education in retirement would help to bridge the gap between working years and leisure years, and ease the transition from the one to the other.

Again, new skills could be acquired, or old ones polished with an eye to further employment, perhaps in the social services, where retirees have already proved their ability.

Moreover, and this is the fact I want to insist on, the individual would gain if he did nothing—except read his knowledge, extend the horizons of his mental life.

It seems impossible for anyone to write about the importance of the argument. All that needs to be said is—it's only part of the story.

The picture was filled in by Harvest Years when the retired monthly articles on the significance of education for seniors, you can tell because his lips are moving—but almost no one hears him.

The next words you hear are that he yields the floor.

The roll call vote nears the end and the clerk beams over "Senator Smith" and the veil of silence is pierced only by sharp-eyed clerk who reads the gentleman's lips.

Cooper has spoken and Mrs. Smith votes but both speak softly they are barely audible. Now, at long last, Mrs. Smith, Cooper, and some other senators may break the sound barrier.

Even if your intellectual passion is alchemy, you don't have to despair. You may not find a practicing alchemist to give you the lowdown on turning base metals into gold, but you can certainly find someone to teach you how it used to be done.

I'm talking about authentic education, which you can check by counting the number of institutions of higher learning mentioned in "A Time for Learning." The universities are notable for the degrees to which they are opening their facilities to retirees.

To bring up an actual case, consider Mrs. Lucia M. Andrews, a grandmother studying geology at Columbia University. Mrs. Andrews wrote of one field trip:

"We walked miles in the woods and fields, clambered over wet stones in stream beds, claved our way up steep rocky slopes, ate our hard-boiled eggs and peanut butter sandwiches by the side of running brooks. Those long days, although a test of stamina, were the keenest pleasure I met and gave me a natural opportunity to become acquainted with my young companions, so different from the youths I had formerly known."

You may think of this as an ideal experience. Yet, there are others to match it in the Harvest Years booklet. The fact is that going back to school after sixty can be as exciting and as meaningful as your first day in class when you were a youngster.

If you'd like to know more about education in and for retirement, you can get "A Time for Learning" by sending me $1.00 to Harvest Years Dept., P.O. Box 104, East 40th Street, New York, N. Y. 10016.

Senate Becomes Audible After Years Of Silence

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Mr. President," whispers Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky. The senator begins speaking, you can tell because his lips are moving—but almost no one hears him.

Envoy Offers 'A Few Words' In Speech To Governors

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Odd and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd:

Charles W. Yost, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, opened his speech to a cheering of state governors with "Just a few words to tide you over for the weekend."

Then he told of the young couple who went to a Justice of the Peace and asked to be married.

"I'm sorry," said his honor, "but we've got a waiting period in the state. The earliest I could conduct the ceremony would be Monday."

"Well," said the prospective bridegroom after a moment's reflection, "could you just say a few words to tide us over the weekend?"

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., discussing the point drug chloromyacin, said: "I'm sorry to see a doctor of life or death to anyone who takes it and dies."

Walter Reed Army Medical Center, reporting that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had been treated in jail, said: "The site it with relief."

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., has been known to oppose civil rights measures and things like that.

Walter Washington, mayor of the District of Columbia, is a Negro.

Age-Old Antagonisms Threaten Irish As Church Foes Renew Their Enmity

By PHIL NEWSOME
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Behind the city walls of Londonderry in 1689, Protestant forces led by the Rev. George Jackson, a Methodist, met a 109-day siege by troops of Catholic King James II. Last October, Protestant and Roman Catholic demonstrators fought along these same walls in the worst outbreak of old antagonisms since the 1920's.

Today they threaten the fall of the North Ireland government.

The trouble began when the Irish Civil Rights Association defied a ban against parading through Protestant areas of Londonderry to protest discrimination against Roman Catholics in housing and voting.

In the ensuing battle, Ulster police used batons and water cannon against the demonstrators, about 180 of whom were injured.

In the spreading disorders, rival Catholic and Protestant demonstrators fought each other and the police.

Police blamed the Irish Republican Army and Communist infiltrators for the disorders. Demonstrators charged police brutality.

From the conflict two principal figures have emerged—Prime Minister Capt. Terence O'Neill, who for five years has followed a policy of moderation in an attempt to erase old religious scars and in November announced far-reaching concessions to the Catholics, including creation of an ombudsman to check on the fairness of government administration and an end to anti-Catholic prejudice in allocation of houses. He has denounced his extremist opponents as "fanatics."

The Rev. Richard Kyllie Paisley, a fighting firebrand and self-described moderator of the Free Presbyterian Church of Ulster, is out on bail from a three-month sentence for unlawful assembly. He has taken over virtual control of Northern Ireland streets.

At home in Belfast, Paisley now feels strong enough to run

'Containerization' Challenge Faced

Revamped Eastern Port Speeds Traffic

NEW YORK (UPI)—The rehabilitation of the nation's deep water ports to meet the needs of the containerization age is a staggering job.

Many of the potential advantages can be frittered away in the actual execution. In most ports, it is calculated that tax money and public management will be needed to carry it out.

But a strictly private enterprise project being carried on west bank of the Hudson River between Bayonne and Jersey City, N.J., may mirror the future of great deep-water harbors.

The project is called Port Jersey and it is being designed to handle freight in large containers by automated methods. It is even envisioned that some day the whole port may be controlled with the aid of an electronic computer.

Nevertheless, Port Jersey executives say the project has the enthusiastic backing of the International Longshoremen's Assn.—Officials, who believe it will create many new jobs for the union's members on the Jersey side on the Hudson.

Arthur L. Abrams, secretary-treasurer of Port Jersey, says the ship operator has estimated that he could save 50 per cent on turnaround costs and 50 per cent in time by using Port Jersey. How much that would enable him actually to increase his business depends, of course, on the length of voyages but most ocean shipping companies consider turnaround costs instead of encroaching farther money and time for more on tidal marshlands, which are important for running And this $180 million water cost but often can't recoup improvement project is being castles. "Exactly how Port Jersey ultimately is completed will depend on the needs of the tenants and customers we get for tax funds."
