

Governor Signs $99.4 Million School Measure

BY PAUL M. QUINN

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson signed into law the $99.4 million public school appropriation bill today, moving the legislature a step closer to adjournment and relieving legislators of a veto threat.

Samuelson described his signing of the bill as "a major step for education."

Wayne York, executive secretary of the Idaho Education Association, said, "I'm relieved. There'll be school in Idaho today."

The governor said, "I'm real happy to sign this. It is the largest appropriation made to public school education in the history of the state."

Samuelson said the $99.4 million figure represented a 55-percent increase for the public schools or $18.65 million.

The figure was near the $19 million demanded by the Idaho Education Association. Teachers had threatened the state with even more stringent sanctions and a possible strike if not granted the increase they sought.

Currently, out-of-state teachers and new teachers are requested not to sign contracts in Idaho.

"I'm glad to see the public schools get this much money," Samuelson said. "The people of Idaho owe thanks to our taxpayers and our legislators that have to boldly give this increase to our public schools."

The 40th Legislature, however, was still deadlocked over high education funding and was in its first day of overtime today. The session was to have adjourned on the 60th day, Thursday.

(See Story, Page 6)

Senate Republicans, however, apparently reached a tentative agreement on the overall budget figure — informed by Samuelson that he would veto anything that exceeded his executive budget figures.

City Street Repair Program Is Outlined

City Engineer Jean Miller has set plans for city street repair for 1969.

Approximately five miles of city streets will be seal-coated during the summer. These streets include Heyburn Avenue, Mountain Drive, Madison Street and Sunrise Boulevard. New surface will be put on some two miles of street which will include Eldridge Avenue, Locust Street and portions of some of the president streets.

Crack seal will be put on approximately two miles of streets including work on Sunrise Boulevard, Martin Street and Blinke Street. One and a half miles of street will receive a dust seal. This work will be done on Floral Avenue and on part of Second Avenue East.

Mr. Miller said most of this work will be done during June and July. Since all the work involves oiling, the city crews must work during the warmest months of the summer. The street work is part of the continual work done each summer. He also said the crews will continue working on Locust and Stadium Boulevards. Falls Avenue will probably be completed by fall.

The city street crews are now patching the streets and will continue to do so until the weather warms and they can work on some of the larger projects. Mr. Miller noted all other cities in the region are having the same problems with their streets breaking up due to the winter weather. The seasonal variation in day-to-day temperatures caused the streets to thaw and freeze many times, causing the breakage.

Crews are presently installing pipe lines at the intersection of

Oil Dealer Will Testify At Inquiries

Joe Clements, a Twin Falls distributor of oil products, is in Washington, D. C., testifying before several Congressional committees on problems facing independent oil dealers.

He is leaving Friday and is slated to testify before a Senate Committee on Small Business and a Senate Committee on Antitrust and Monopoly. Mr. Clements will be in Washington a week, he reported.

Last November Sinclair Oil attempted to put local oil dealers in a bind by buying up several bulk tanks being used by Mr. Clements. Mr. Clements is a distributor of Sinclair products at the time.

Sinclair officials said they were changing the form of distribution in the area and Mr. Clements would no longer be allowed to distribute Sinclair products.

Mr. Clements filed a claim against the company, asking $200,000. The value of the business Mr. Clements built up since 1955.

The claim was denied and Mr. Clements said he will file a lawsuit on the matter.

Sinclair, in the meantime, has sued Mr. Clements asking that property belonging to Mr. Clements be released from Mr. Clements' control.

In a preliminary legal matter Mr. Clements' attorney, Lloyd Walker, was granted permission to inspect certain records pertaining to the way Sinclair does business. The permission was given in an order by Judge Theron Ward of Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

Mr. Clements will still do business in Twin Falls as a distributor of oil products.

Newsman Named

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — Robert B. Miller, Jr., 33, who has served as assistant to the publisher of the Idaho Statesman in Boise, has been named publisher of the Daily Olympia, it was announced Thursday.

Miller, who has assumed an editorial position at the end of the month, replaces Richard Lawrence who resigned.

Tobacco Foe Takes Key Post In Dispute Over Advertising

By WILLIAM B. MEAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The tobacco industry's toughest congressional foe has moved into a key position to block legislation aimed at curbing cigarette advertising. It has been named to the Senate Commerce Committee's subcommittee on consumers.

Mon's move to the chairmanship was expected to be announced Monday by Commerce Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., whom the cigarette industry also considers an enemy.

"If they're anything through their noses, they'll have brought it to my subcommittee," Mon said he was "killed determined" to stop laws that would permit continued cigarette advertising on radio and television.

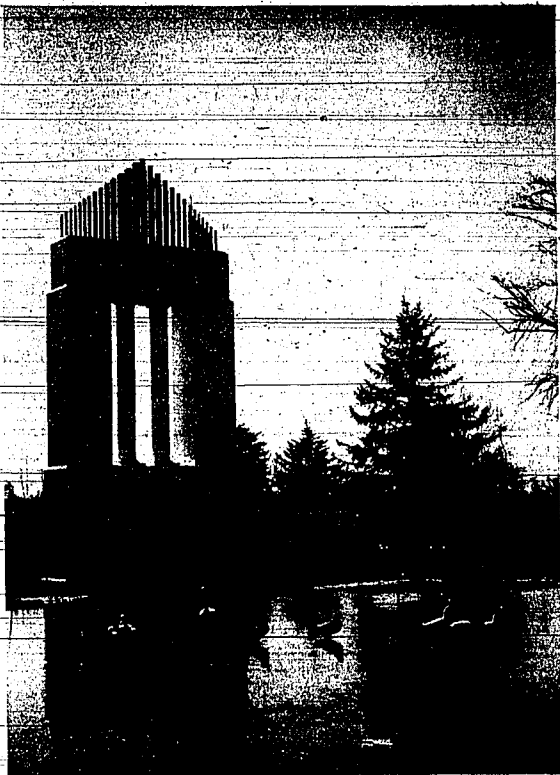

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has proposed a ban on all broadcast advertising of cigarettes. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has proposed a similar health warning for all cigarette ads and commercials. Its wording is so strong that it would rather stop advertising than air the words: "Warning: Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer and other diseases."

Present law forbids any federal or state regulation on cigarette advertising beyond the printed warning on the package, which the FTC contends has done little good.

But the law expires June 30. Unless it is extended or passed again in a new form, the FCC, FTC and state governments would be free to clamp down.

Mon said he would not object to holding subcommittee hearings on the subject but the medical evidence gets strongly presented. Senator General William Stewart has estimated cigarette smoking contributes to one-sixth of the nation's deaths.

Kellwood Co. Assured Employee Training Can Be Handled Here

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News Staff Writer

Representatives of the Siler Division of the Kellwood Co. were assured Thursday that the College of Southern Idaho will be able to offer training programs for potential employees of the firm.

Gene Single, director of manufacturing, and F. Lee Fox, director of employee relations, both from the Siler Division, met Thursday afternoon at the CSI Fine Arts Center with college officials and representatives of state and government agencies.

Among those attending were Roy Irons, Boise, state director of vocational education; Jack McDaniel, Boise, state director of trade and technical education, and representatives of the Department of Employment, Manpower Development Training Act, Farm Home Administration, Technical Action Panel, Vocational Rehabilitation, On-the-Job Training, Department of Commerce and Development, Office of Economic Opportunity and other agencies.

The two Kellwood officials stressed that if the firm does determine to locate in Twin Falls, it is hoped to start a training program for some employees as soon as possible.

More than 10 times the number of people needed for employment in the firm signed up during a three-day labor survey in Twin Falls, Garding and Jerome.

Latest figures on the number of people filing applications show that 5,402 people applied. The location of the plant directly hinges on adequate plant space, Kellwood officials have stated.

They also have been concerned about making arrangements to train the employees for the plant.

They said during the Thursday meeting that amount of training for the dozen job categories probably will range from 2 to 12 weeks.

All the officials at the meeting were KELLWOOD, Pg. 2, Col. 7

Apollo Astronauts Head For Houston

ABOARD USS GUADALCANAL (UPI) — Three Apollo 9 astronauts, Lide despite spectacular days in space and 48 soggy minutes on the Atlantic, head home today from their flight that this summer could turn into reality man's age-old dream of exploring the moon.

James L. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart arrived at about 3 p.m. CST to a big welcome from their families, friends, and fellow workers.

The astronauts ate with the ship's officers Thursday and then met the crew to eat with a Navy sous chef a 550-pound vanilla welcoming cake.

The Thursday splashdown—unlike those of Apollo 7 and 8—was "stable" and right side up. But the recovery was a wild affair which looked like a slipstick comedy.

As the spacecraft, gliding silver in the blue ocean, rolled on the swell, Scott emerged from the hatch, stepped carefully out into a liferaft—and then fell headlong when it pitched in the waves. Schweickart was next out, then McDivitt.

But it took several tries for frogman to snare the pickup basket lowered from a hovering helicopter—and when they did, Schweickart almost hit the spacecraft in the swinging basket and Scott and McDivitt were both dragged through the water.

McDivitt was earlier dumped into the ocean when his liferaft turned over.

Missile Network Will Be Modified For Strong Defense

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today announced he had decided to deploy the Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system on a "substantially modified" basis on an unilaterally defensive design to guard against nuclear attack or missiles fired accidentally by the Soviet Union or Communist China.

Nixon issued a formal announcement on the ABM just before a news conference and after a two hour meeting with bipartisan congressional leaders.

He asserted that the Sentinel system as inherited from the Johnson administration had been modified so that its defensive intent is unmistakable.

"It will be implemented not according to some fixed theoretical schedule, but in a manner clearly related to our periodic analysis of the threat," he declared.

After weeks of studying the Johnson Administration program to deploy the limited Sentinel system following a work suspension in January, Nixon said he had reached three basic conclusions:

—The concept on which the Sentinel program of the previous administration was based should be substantially modified.

—The safety of our country requires that we should proceed now with the development and construction of the new system in a carefully phased program.

—This program will be reviewed annually from the point of view of (A) technical development, (B) the threat, (C) — the diplomatic content including any talks on arms limitation.

Nixon said his planned "measured deployment" was designed to fill three objectives:

—Protection of our land-based retaliatory forces against a direct attack by the Soviet Union.

—Defense of the American people against the kind of nuclear attack which Communist China is likely to be able to mount within the decade.

—Protection against the possibility of accidental attacks from any source.

Israeli Jets Attack Arabs As Tanks Move Toward Suez

Diplomatic reports reaching Beirut from Damascus said Israeli troops moved into Syria under terms of a new military union between the two countries and that the military union could lead eventually to a full union of the two nations ruled by the Baath Socialist party. Iraq already has troops in Jordan.

Warning on Pueblo Reportedly Mislead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A message to the Joint Chiefs of Staff warning that the ill-fated last mission assigned the USS Pueblo might be quite risky never reached the chiefs, congressional investigators charged today.

The warning by the National Security Agency (NSA) was sent on the same day as the Joint Chiefs approved the mission as a low risk operation, Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., declared.

The message carried the signature of the director of the NSA, "suggesting that the characterization of the mission as minimal risk might be wrong," Pike said.

Pike is chairman of a special House armed services subcommittee that has been investigating the seizure of the Pueblo by Communist North Korea on Jan. 23, 1968. He said the NSA message did not object to sending the spy ship off the coast of North Korea and consideration should be given to protecting it.

The Pueblo carried out its mission and was captured without any sea or air protection.

Opening today's session, Pike said the subcommittee had unanimously reached agreement on certain "facts" — among them that the message went astray.

The message was directed to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Pike said. "No member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff received the message."

The message was received at the staff level of the Joint Chiefs and redirected to the commander in chief, Pacific. The commander in chief, Pacific, apparently never received the message. It was received at the staff level in his office and was brought to his attention.

"At the same time that the message was redirected to the commander in chief, Pacific, information copy was sent to the chief of naval operations. The information copy was never delivered."

This message, over the signature of the director of the National Security Agency, was sent by a member of his staff. The director never saw it until after the Pueblo was captured.

Red Troops Attack Viets From DMZ

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops attacking out of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) overwhelmed a 160-man South Vietnamese garrison, killing 10 and wounding 43, military spokesmen said today.

It was the first time since the bombing of North Vietnam stopped last Nov. 1 that the Communists have mounted a ground assault from the so-called buffer strip, U.S. military sources said. The Reds left behind four bodies.

—Pike in the month, the 1968 Communist mounted one of its biggest tank offensives of the war, sending 30 tanks and 15 armored personnel carriers into War Zone D, a Communist-held area in central Vietnam.

"The tankers roared into the heavy jungle 30 miles north of Saigon today on the heels of a wave of North Vietnamese designed to soften up their target. They reported finding one guerrilla slain."

Youth Killed By Gunman In Schoolyard

NEW YORK (UPI) — A gunman lined about 10 youths up in a Spanish Harlem school yard Thursday night, then began firing at them when they tried to flee, police said. One youth was killed and another wounded.

The officer attempted to crawl through the window to check on the building and slipped and broke the window.

Dr. Ernest Bagland, superintendent, said that "we won't open the door for a moment now they do good jobs of keeping an eye on school property."

Police identified the gunman as Jose Espada, 27, a resident of the neighborhood. He was taken into custody.

The dead youth was identified as Caruso Sylvester, 17, who was a member of his job of a malleable jo. Flower Fifth Avenue Hospital in serious condition with a head wound.

T. F. Schools Not Worried, Police Broke In This Time

After two break-ins at local schools in a week, Twin Falls school officials began to feel a building off had found a window open about 10 p.m. Thursday.

But when a broken window was discovered Friday morning at Harrison Elementary School, they were really feeling persecuted.

A small window at the side of the building was found broken 7 p.m. by Tim Long, building and grounds superintendent for the school.

FAIR

Weather Synopsis

A warming trend seems to be over the Northwestern United States. Northerly winds aloft which have been feeding cold fronts to the region for a week or more are backing into the west and warming. High pressure is expected to dominate the Intermountain region and to bring a moderate fair weather at least through the weekend. High temperatures will climb into the 30s at most places in the West by the end of the week. The Magic, Southwest Idaho and Malheur valleys can expect highs in the 40s and 50s today. This will be 5 to 6 degrees warmer than yesterday, and another 2 to 5 degrees of warming will occur Saturday. Tonight will continue rather cool in the Eastern States. A few degrees warming is likely in the western valleys tonight. Skies will continue mostly sunny to clear through Saturday throughout the agricultural valleys of Southern Idaho and portions of Oregon. Temperatures yesterday, afternoon averaged only a degree or two higher than the day before and are expected to be 2 to 4 above zero at Boise and Baker. Los included 4 above zero at Malad, 5 at Idaho Falls, 7 at Pocatello, 8 at Burley, 29 at Boise, and 15 at Burns.

Rupert Jaycees Back Proposed New Park

SUPPORT — Support of the proposed development of the Big Valley Park in the northern section of Rupert was voiced today by members of the Boosters Association. Members of the Boosters Association, the fact that current baseball-and-softball fields used in conjunction with the city recreation program are by the American Legion teams are not the most desirable and in the past have contributed to many injuries and the rapid deterioration of equipment.

Many of the members expressed the opinion that a good recreation program, and especially sports, plays an important part in the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Plans for the park involve a five-year period of development. In addition to the four baseball diamonds, the park will include playgrounds for small children, parking, space and bleachers.

Estimated cost of the development is $1,250,000, about half of which will be financed by matching funds. Any donation of money and labor will be counted in the city's portion of the cost.

Water Users Vote March 28 On American Falls

BURLEY — Water users will have an opportunity to vote March 28 on whether the American Falls dam should be rehabilitated or a new dam constructed, a subject which has been long debated in southern Idaho.

The referendum will give the Department of Interior assistance as to how water users want the American Falls dam problem handled, according to Glenn H. Simmons, superintendent of the Minidoka project, who addressed the Burley Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting this week at Bryan's Cafe.

Harold Nelson, regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation, will attend a meeting here March 27 during which time water users will vote their preference. About 35 different irrigation districts and water groups have water rights on the storage water held in the reservoir.

Mr. Simmons pointed out that the dam needs to be either repaired or rebuilt as soon as possible. Through ordinary congressional procedures the project would take about two years, but under emergency conditions the work might be completed in one year, he added.

If movement of the piers or anything else should happen at the dam, the officials will evacuate some of the water. The danger is imminent as long as there is ice on the lake behind the dam and without the ice there shouldn't be as much concern.

"We are not going to let anything create a hazard at the dam," Mr. Simmons stated.

Cost proposals for construction of a new dam are about $19,666,000 with the storage holders paying $15 to $17 million of the amount. The Fish and Game, Recreation and other agencies will make up the difference.

Another proposal is to rehabilitate the existing dam structure for about $19,230,000. The alternative proposal is to build a new spillway and rehabilitate the non-overflow section for about $19,387,000. This would be a cost of about eight to ten cents per acre-foot per year over 50 years without interest to water users.

The primary problem with the dam is the shear effect of the concrete. In a study of the dam by three specialists in this field they concluded that the dam could be repaired.

According to cost estimates it appears that replacement of the dam would cost only about $40,000 more than rehabilitation.

In the past few years various plans for the American Falls dam have been presented, such as build a coffer dam upstream, repair the spillway for a construction period of three or four years; build a new spillway downstream; build a new dam below the present dam or a water tunnel.

At the Wildhorse Dam in Nevada which had the same problem as American Falls, nothing was done and eventually the water space was cut to 40 percent of the original storage. This could happen at American Falls if something isn't done soon, Mr. Simmons warned.

The ice danger is what causes a tremendous shear effect, whereas without the ice the dam is in no danger from the water pressure on the structure. Presently there are about 11 inches of ice on the lake behind the dam, reported Simmons.

Opposition to raising the dam has been voiced by water users Blackfoot, Indians' landowners around American Falls and Aberdeen, scientists and archaeologists who want to study in the area.

A new dam with the improvements now available in concrete would last about 100 years, compared to 40 years of the present dam. Rehabilitation of the present dam might lengthen its life for another 40 years, stated Simmons.

The American Falls dam holds 1,700,000 acre feet and the Burley Irrigation District has under $400,000 acre feet of the total amount.

Mr. Simmons spoke to the chamber on invitation from Edgar Moorman, chamber Water Resources Committee chairman.

New Airline At Jerome Uses Airport

JEROME — Jerome County Commissioners have signed an agreement with Trans-Magic Airlines for use of the County airport for an indefinite period without charge.

The air lines began service throughout Idaho on Feb. 17. Owner of the line is Ross Lee, Jerome.

Seven petitions were presented to the commissioners and filed with the county clerk requesting a new library district in the east end of the county, which would be called East Jerome County Free Library District.

The district (incorporates the southeast end of the county and Hazelton into the district, but does not include Eden. The clerk was authorized to publish a tentative date of April 21 for a public hearing regarding it.

Turf Club Remodeling Progresses

The remodeling of the Turf Club is coming along well, according to Leo and Robert Soran, co-owners of the business.

They said they are shooting for a May 1 opening date. The owners said they had hoped to open earlier, but some of the kitchen equipment has not arrived and may be some time getting here.

The interior is being decorated in red, black and gold. Leo Soran said the floors will be carpeted in red and this will be installed as soon as it arrives.

Before opening, they plan to enlarge the entrances, put gunnison on the outside of the building and blacktop the parking area. Landscaping will be completed during the summer.

Buhl Couple To Go On LDS Work Mission In Midwest

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Quigley, who have been called on a work mission in the Midwest for the LDS Church, will leave Burley Monday to begin preparation for it.

They will enter the mission home in Salt Lake City on March 22 for a briefing of their duties, and from there will go to mission headquarters in Rapid City, S.D., to begin their work with several Sioux-Indian tribes.

Mr. Quigley has been asked to serve a full year mission, with the possibility of extending it, and will help teach the Indians within the mission district the skills required in setting up a cattle industry for the tribes. Methods of buying and selling will be stressed by Mr. Quigley who has been engaged in the cattle-buying profession for many years.

Buhl has been home for the couple since 1932. They have been very active in LDS Church organizations. He served as bishop of the Buhl First Ward nearly 11 years during the period from 1950-1961, and has been active in Boy Scout work as a camp counselor, scoutmaster, and district commissioner from Buhl Snake River Area Council.

Mrs. Quigley has been a Relief Society organist for the past 10 years, and has also worked as a teacher in the Sunday School, Primary, and MIA, and as a counselor in the Relief Society.

They are the parents of three children, Wade Quigley, Buhl; Mike Quigley, Salt Lake City; and Mrs. Ivy (Joyce) Goodman of Bountiful, Utah; and grand-children of 21 grandchildren and one grandchild in 10 countries.

A testimonial meeting will be held for them on Sunday, at 5 p.m. in the Buhl LDS Chapel. The public is invited to attend, and the Quigleys specially ask that their friends be present.

Snow, Roads Are Concerns At Richfield

RICHFIELD — Principal concerns of the Richfield school board at the March meeting were snow and road conditions.

Possibility of some Saturday school was discussed pending a class progress survey. Richfield schools have been closed 11 1/2 days thus far, principally due to the

Should weather conditions worsen or windy roads make some roads impassable for school buses, the board decided buses would only go to a given point and parents are asked to bring children there and pick them up. In past years some students have needed to stay in town part of the time.

Easter vacation was canceled by the board.

Purchase of another refrigerator for the bus lunch program and a set of World Book encyclopedias were approved. DECA club was given permission to attend the state convention in Pocatello March 28-29.

Tuition fees for 50 students in the Cimarrama area was $7,995.82 paid to Minidoka County.

Teacher vacancies in the school staff for the coming year are coach, math and science teacher for the high school, and fourth grade elementary teacher.

Senator Berates Networks For Excesses Of Violence

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., has berated presidents of three television networks who were helping to "break down the morals of our nation" by emphasizing sex and violence on television.

He also said they had "hoodwinked the public" by not policing their own programs.

"You men who know the difference between right and wrong should say, 'Let's get together, fellows, and do something about it,'" Pastore said at a crowded hearing of the Senate communications subcommittee on television violence.

Congress, he said, could do little to control the networks.

But the presidents of Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. insisted they were already regulating themselves. When the new television season begins next fall, they said, there would be far fewer "action-adventure shows" and fewer violent scenes generally.

Pastore, however, disagreed with television's self-regulatory efforts.

"You have a beautiful code here," he said. "It reads like the 10 commandments. You've hoodwinked the public by writing a set of beautiful rules and not enforcing them."

Surgeon General William H. Stewart told the panel that he and Secretary Robert H. Finch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare had agreed to Pastore's request for a study of television violence.

Dr. Stewart, who it was learned Wednesday will become chancellor of the Louisiana State University medical center next fall, estimated the study would cost in excess of $1 million and take a "considerable" length of time to complete.

He said the funds would come from HEW appropriations.

Rights Leader Views 'Plot' In King Death

CHICAGO (UPI)—American injustice "received the kiss of legitimate recognition" by the quick life sentence imposed on James Earl Ray for the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., the director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, "Operation Breadbasket" has declared.

"The Rev. Jesse L. Jackson said there was a conspiracy which murdered King."

"We were told justice was done by giving a puny, sick white man a 99-year sentence in exchange for the assassin, King, our black prophet," Jackson said.

"But far from justice," Jackson said, "the American judicial system was not allowed even an insensitive and unconcerned inquiry into the murder of a world leader."

"The court proceedings were a callous expression of injustice where killers were granted license to shoot and to eliminate the nation's civil rights leadership."

"Though America still will not admit the truth, there is a conspiracy which killed Dr. King. Even James Earl Ray, noted at his own trial that there are more killers involved in the assassination."

Lincoln Youths Attend Session

RICHFIELD — Mark Dixon, Richfield, and Brian Cooper, Dietrich, attended the International Junior Science and Humanities Symposium at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City.

Cooper, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindell Cooper, Dietrich, received honorable mention for his research paper, "The Tunnel Diode."

Mark Dixon wrote on "Electronic Miniaturization in Television." He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Reichold.

The young men toured the University of Utah science facilities and laboratories and attended lectures on all phases of chemistry, biology, physics, and electronics on the expense-paid trip.

FBI Arrests 24 In Loan Racket

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Twenty-four persons were arrested by the FBI Thursday on charges of taking part in a home improvement loan racket involving employers of a Maryland building and loan association.

Ten others were ordered to surrender in the case and another was being sought, according to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. All were indicted earlier this week by a Baltimore federal grand jury.

Hoover said the arrests culminated a nine-month investigation of the racket, which involved $1 loans and more than $200,000.

Hoover said the indictments charged violation of federal laws prohibiting false statements and conspiracy to make false statements to secure home improvement loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

Buhl High School One Of 38 In Nation To Offer Phase 2 Of Science Course

BUHL - Buhl high school is one of 38 high schools in the nation to participate in the development of phase two of the physical science course being developed by the national Science Foundation through cooperation with Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University.

The Buhl high school was one of the relatively few schools to adopt the introductory phase of the program two years ago which has since been adopted widely throughout the nation. The new pilot program is a continuation of the phase one of laboratory experiments for those in the Humphries, Buhl high school science department director.

The first phase of introductory physical science is a program which serves two purposes. First to be a sound foundation for future physics, chemistry and biology courses. Second to provide for those who do not wish to study physical science later on.

The program places great emphasis on participation by the student in the class work. Apparatus for use in Introductory Physical Science is developed in the laboratory of the Physical Science Group of Education Development Center and produced by independent manufacturers. The unusual emphasis on laboratory experimentation is central to the learning process has necessitated stringent standards of performance in this apparatus.

The amount the student learns is related to the accuracy of the results of his experiment, and therefore to the reliability of his instruments. The frequency of laboratory use is increased to make notes in the book. The text may be kept for reference in later inductive courses which follow IPS.

Physical Science II follows a broad spectrum of students, including those who would normally terminate their science studies with biology. Two major topics were chosen for the course, they can be summed up as some of the fundamentals of the chemistry and physics of electric charge and energy and the conservation of energy.

The transition from IPS to PSII is merely a change of books. The course is intended as a follow-up and the chapters have been numbered consecutively beginning with a partially revised Chapter II of the IPS text.

Introductory Physical Science and Physical Science II form an excellent two-year sequence in physical science. For students who may not be science-oriented and probably would not go on to chemistry and physics, the program followed by a year of biology would comprise a very good science program. For students desiring to go on to upper levels in the science field, it forms a first-class preparation for such studies.

The Buhl school was recommended by the State Department of Education for phase two of the program. Mr. Humphries was required to attend a seminar in Boston for five days before the program could be adopted and he must submit weekly reports on the progress of the program.

Former Nazis Imprisoned For Murder

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) - Two former Nazi SS officers were sentenced to prison Thursday for helping to kill 300 slave laborers whom they had forced to burn the traces of one of Nazi Germany's worst mass murders.

A Stuttgart court sentenced former SS Maj. Hans Sohma, 61, to four years at hard labor and former SS Capt. Fritz Zellnow, 66, to two and one-half years after finding them guilty of complicity in the murder of the body burners at the Babl-Yar Ravine in the Soviet Ukraine.

"Two other members of the Nazi 'Special Commando 1005' - whose task it was to wipe out the evidence of wartime slaughters - were acquitted, Judge Fritz Pranzing said. It had not been proved that former SS Capt. Walter Ernst Hoffgott, 68, and former Sgt. Fritz Krimm, 60, knew they were killing innocent men, unlike Sohma and Zellnow.

Pranzing called the macabre task of "Special Commando 1005" the "denial of burial rights" of Nazi Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

But he emphasized the three-month trial was neither a war-crime trial nor a denazification proceeding, the judge said. "This was an evaluation of the personal guilt of defendants in connection with facts which no were crimes under the criminal code of the Third Reich and which the defendants generally perceived as illegal."

In 1943, "Special Commando 1005" between carrying out similar jobs elsewhere in occupied Poland and Russia, throughout a slave laborers to exhume and burn the bodies of 33,000 Jews at the Babl-Yar Ravine outside Kiev.

The mounds of corpses, saturated with gasoline, burned for a week. The slave laborers were shot to death and added to the pyres to keep them from ever revealing the grisly truth.

Recklessness Draws Blame For Highway Deaths

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) - The unwillingness of citizens to protect their lives and the lives of others on the highway have been blamed for the highway death toll in the United States.

Edward Pyle, president of National Safety Council, told delegates at the Western States Highway Safety Supervisors Conference in Salt Lake that if the U.S. would fully apply every force known, the highway traffic death toll could be cut in half.

Pyle said the percentage of highway fatalities was five times greater in 1952-53 than in the previous four-year period. He pointed out that more than 38,000 American men have died in Vietnam since the early 1960s compared with more than 340,000 deaths on U.S. highways during the same period.

"Until we get as stirred up over highway deaths as we are about the Vietnam War, we simply aren't going to make the progress in highway safety that we could," Pyle said.

Labor Officials To Aid Idahoans

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The U.S. Department of Labor has approved an on-the-job training program to train 200 jobless Polish and Russian immigrants in a variety of occupations.

The labor Department said the training periods and the occupations will be determined by subcontractors worked out by the Idaho State Economic Opportunity Office with private employers.

The program will cost $137,171.

Deadlocked Legislature Faces Threat Of Executive Veto On Funding

BOISE (UPI)—The 40th Idaho Legislature deadlocked over higher education funding and threatened with executive vetoes, was in the first day of overtime with the end of the session near in sight.

The legislature was to have adjourned on the 60th day Thursday.

Gov. Don Samuelson was scheduled to announce today the fate of the $99 million public school funding bill. He had indicated he would veto it if agreement was not reached Thursday night by the Rep-lican majority in the legislature on other budget figures. They did not.

Senate Republicans met until 9:30 p.m. Thursday in caucus but failed to arrive at any solution as to how to resolve the deadlock between the House and Senate on how to fund higher education.

Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Landore, said following the late evening caucus of Republicans that the possibility exists the Senate will make adjustments in their demands for lower funding if the House goes along with adjustments elsewhere.

The Senate Republicans did appoint a negotiating team to meet Friday with the House. Team members will consist of the leadership and several members of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee.

Earlier in the evening, while referring to the possible veto of the nearly $100 million public school appropriation bill—which would provide an additional $18,650,000 in state funds to the public schools—Rep.

Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, majority leader in the House, said, "This is the club he has over our heads."

The governor threatened executive veto of any appropriations measure that would exceed his executive budget recommendations of $269 million.

Samuelson also said he would call the legislature back into session if they exceeded his recommendations, and tried to adjourn.

Legislative leadership said it would be at least nine more days before the impasse over the funding bills can be resolved—if then.

Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malden, a co-chairman of the Finance Appropriations committee, said the House would exceed his executive budget recommendations of $269 million.

Samuelson also said he would call the legislature back into session if they exceeded his recommendations, and tried to adjourn.

Legislative leadership said it would be at least nine more days before the impasse over

The governor made it plain Thursday, both during meetings with legislative leadership and later at a news conference that he expected no tampering with his "top" executive fund budget figure of $269 million.

"I don't even want them coming in with $269.1 million," the governor stated.

Senate Republicans appeared to be sticking by the governor on his recommendations for higher education and seemed unwilling to budge.

During a news conference Thursday the governor used charts and figures to reiterate his budget proposals.

"There's no problem if the legislature will stay under $269 million," he said.

The governor was adamant in his position that the lawmakers are absolutely not to use any of the state's $20-million surplus for "higher" education on recurring items.

At the end of the night Thursday it appeared the problem boiled down to a semantic one on what's considered recurring and what is non-recurring.

Optical Measure Opposed

BOISE (UPI)—A former state legislator Thursday urged the House Health and Welfare Committee to help kill a bill that would regulate the optical profession by controlling its advertising.

William Roden, Boise attorney and former legislator, said the Senate passed bill possesses "enough" merit to warrant opposing it would in effect prohibit any advertising by the optical profession.

"I don't license them. Let's set standards for them," he said. "Don't attack them through the advertising media."

Roden charged that the bill is unnecessary and said it is promoted only by a group of Idaho Optometrists.

"I've said the optometrists sought and received legislation prohibiting false and deceitful advertising in the 1965 session. He said measures also were introduced to correct other professional ills in that session.

Roden also said he was "unhappy" the committee had brought the bill to the House floor for action without hearing opposing testimony.

The committee had heard a group of optometrists earlier in the week testifying in favor of the bill.

Representatives of the advertising media also testified against the bill.

"If there is a problem, advertising should not be a whipping post," Boise radio executive James M. Davidson said.

Volunteers Needed For CAA Center

There is an urgent need for volunteer workers at the Twin Falls Neighborhood Center, according to Mrs. Betty Wooten, center director.

She said the regional Office of Economic Opportunity, Kansas City, Mo., has notified the South Central Community Action Agency that in order to continue the pilot program, the community must participate.

Mrs. Wooten said even though the Day Care Center has been filled, they must have centers to accommodate the community's interest.

Volunteers at the center help supervise the children and assist with the Neighborhood Center program.

Mrs. Wooten noted that if the necessary amount of volunteer help is given, Twin Falls may possibly be funded for another such center.

Playwright Don Petersen Presents Promising Effort

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Keep the name Don Petersen in mind as you check on his next play and see if it fulfills the promise of his first Broadway effort, "Does a Tiger Wear a Necktie?"

"Tiger" indicates that this Davenport, Iowa, native may become a playwright of importance. He wrote powerful dramatic scenes. He has a knack for getting below the surface in creating his characters. He has a keen ear for dramatic speech and even in this tragic first play there is sufficient indication that he has a sense of humor.

The trouble with "Tiger," which is beautifully played by a large cast under the expert direction of Michael A. Schultz, is that it doesn't tell a unified drama. There are several telling and chilling scenes, but they do not relate well.

What Petersen has to learn is that it is possible to write an episodic play with a variety of characters and problems and still bring everything into an eventual focus for meaningful dramatic impact.

This play is set in a metropolitan area (Hittite) and is for youthful narcotics addicts. Hal Holbrook (Mark Twain) is outstanding as another teacher at the place. David Opatoshu gives another of his fine character performances as a psychiatrist, and Al Pacino gives a superb, and a bit over-the-top, portrayal of a youthful inmate whose disappointing search for family roots has turned him into a dangerous animal.

Let us return, however, to "Does a Tiger Wear a Necktie?" The play suffers from having little unity, besides the title and the teacher's relationship to the inmates. It is a well-written exposé of such a place. He dwells on the black-white problem, in a couple of scenes, but this is the "tract." In short, the play gives the impression of lacking purpose.

Had I been a producer, I certainly would like to get first look at Petersen's next play.

Prizes Given For Posters At Jerome

Jerome—Cheryl Freese, Billy Clark and Lorna Luther were awarded prizes at a recent Jaycee meeting for their posters advertising the Battle of the Bands contest.

Clark Erlson was a member of the group. He is a member of the group and is a member of the group.

Leon Feller, hospital administrator, spoke to the group about hospital finances and the need of a progressive care unit.

District president, Doc Wolfe, Twin Falls, talked briefly to the group in his last official visit. He said that the Jerome club is one of the few in district 8 which has members that will be receiving the highest and outstanding work in promotion of Jaycees.

Sen. Budge Says Agency Mised Public

BOISE (UPI)—Seda Springs Republican Sen. Reed Budge Thursday accused the State Department of Education of "intentionally misleading" the legislature in development of proposed revisions to the public school funding formula.

Budge charged that intentional misinformation was given out to the teachers who would receive $500 per year salary increases in the 1969-71 biennium.

The Department of Education had an immediate comment on Budge's statement.

Harold Farley, deputy superintendent of public instruction, represented the committee with a proposed bill containing revisions of the present minimum education foundation program to provide each school district with sufficient funds to provide $500 teachers' salary increases for teachers.

Budge said he was convinced it was not the intent of the department to "accomplish getting the increase to the classroom teachers."

He said the new proposal, which among other things, would increase the participation levy of the districts from 21 to 22 mills, "will damage the position of the small schools and their teachers."

He called for a complete investigation of the state department's activity by the legislature, the people of the state and especially by the teachers.

Gooding Band Wins Jerome Jaycee Fete

JEROME — The "Pleasure Seekers" from Gooding were the winners in the Jaycee-sponsored Battle of the Bands at the Jerome High School.

Over 300 young people attended the competition, at which each competing band played for one-half hour before the winners were selected.

The "Pleasure Seekers" will represent the Jerome Jaycees at the District Battle of the Bands in Burley later in the spring.

Members of the first place band were John Harja, Dean Brown, Hutch Love and John Houlford.

The "Chlorophyll Club Connection" from Jerome with Gary Green, Eddy Hall and Larry Peterson, Top "Blatney" from Jerome with Russell Werry, Randy Norton and Larry Miller are band members.

The "Chlorophyll Club Connection" band is expected to compete in the Duhl Battle of the Bands on March 28 and 29. The "Blatney" band will compete in the Gooding Battle of the Bands.

The Jerome Jaycees expressed appreciation to all parties participating and the people who attended and made the event a success.

Hickel 'Poaches Gators' In Florida

LOST MAN'S RIVER, Everglades National Park, Fla. (UPI)—A black wilderness in the middle of Florida's water wilderness and not an alligator was in sight when Walter Hickel set out to play poacher.

"It's not being the good guy," joked the secretary of the interior as he embarked in a 16-foot outdoor boat in a somewhat comic groan over the half as far as I want to go.

He added, "It's a hairline decision."

Hickel learned that the huge "fives or six" stretching south of Lake Okechobee used to be home for several million alligators. But their ranks are now decimated to an estimated 15,000 by poachers who sell their hides for as much as seven dollars a foot.

The hides are turned into expensive shoes and bags.

Poachers are killing alligators at the rate of 40,000 a year and the toothy saurian has been put on the Interior Department's list of creatures in danger of extinction.

Aging Harlem Congressman Joins Rebellion Of Youth

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Adam Clayton Powell, who has seen a rebellion in Harlem for more years than most college students have lived, has joined the youth rebellion.

Although he is twice 30 and looking to show it, the Harlem congressman says he has achieved an amazing rapport with the current crop of college-age rebels.

To show his commitment to the youth protest movement, Powell said in an interview today he is considering seeking an injunction to stop Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch from cutting off federal aid funds for students convicted of felonies arising from campus disorders.

The veteran Negro Democrat, back in his Washington office for only the third time since January 1968, he was nominated for a second term, $25,000 fine for past misconduct, was acting anything but penitent.

Powell has spent most of his time since September giving speeches to college audiences at fees of $1,750 and up.

Powell said he already is signed up for lectures on "The Divine Right of Dissent" at Notre Dame ("Where I'm going to take an issue with—Father Healy's student protests") the University of Buffalo, Bucknell, Lehigh, Northeastern, Jersey City State, Oklahoma State, Ohio State, Princeton, Trinity, Harvard and Howard.

Wilson And Hines Labor Camps Also Will Rebuild

RUPERT—Wilson and Hines labor camps farm labor housing association's have voted to rebuild the present camp sites in order to qualify in house migrant labor in compliance with new migrant labor housing standards. The decisions follow a decision by the Paul Labor Camp last month to rebuild. To comply with the new standards will employ the services of the same architect, Roger Ling, and architect, Ivan Stone, Twin Falls.

The groups were faced with the possibility of losing their migrant housing facilities if the facilities were not improved or rebuilt by the 1970 farm season. The sites will, however, be okay for use this season following the receipt of a letter of intent to rebuild the units by next year to the employment office.

struction and said that the four-plex units could be built for $200,000 each. The buildings will be on concrete and the same architectural design will be used for each structure. The plan agreed upon provides for one, two or three bedroom units on an interchangeable basis, so that doors can be locked or unlocked to allow for the required number of bedrooms. The standard unit provides for two bedrooms, a kitchen, living space, shower and toilet facilities.

The Hines group agreed to build 10 four-plex units as had the Paul group, and the Wilson association will build either eight or 10. Land in each camp must belong to the association, however, before an FHA loan can be obtained. Mr. Ling is in the process of clearing the sites.

The Bureau of Reclamation presently holds title to the Hines property. The Paul camp ground is owned by the county and is owned by the Northside Land Co. Rent at the Hines site will be increased from the present $4 per week per unit to $10 to $12 a week, as it will at the other camps, to help offset the cost of construction. The cost to the farmer in the Hines area will remain the same, one dollar an acre, although it will be increased by about a dollar an acre in the Wilson area. In speaking to the Wilson group, Mr. Hanes said that the chamber of commerce did not believe the camps were a problem only of the growers, but the problem belonged to the entire community which profits from the migrant labor program. He indicated the chamber would do what it could to help. Mr. Ling said that Rep. Steve Antione had agreed to check with the U.S. House of Representatives to see if those funds could be used to help finance the project. The Wilson group also adopted new articles of incorporation during their meeting this week. The articles changed the name of the group from the Minidoka Northside Growers Association to the Wilson Farm Labor Sponsorship Association. The articles have been filed with the Secretary of State and are awaiting final approval. From the loan standpoint, Mr. Bradshaw explained the require-

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem very petty to you, but it irritates me, like you wouldn't believe. I have an 11-year-old daughter named "Rebecca," a beautiful biblical name which I have always loved. My problem is that everyone else has "Becky." All her friends, her teachers, and even our relatives (knowing how much I HATE that name) call her "Becky." I have told people right to their faces that my daughter's name is "REBECCA" and I would prefer that they address her correctly, but they call her "Becky" anyway. Please tell me what I can do besides correcting those people all the time.

REBECCA'S MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: Relax and don't make such a big deal out of a Rose by any other name. Sometimes "Rosalee."

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print something in the paper for the benefit of people who invite friends over for an afternoon or evening and then let their small children wander in and out of the room. It's not that I don't like children. I do. I have three of my own, but when we invite people over we always get a sitter, or arrange something for the kids to do, so they won't bother us or our guests. There is someone who expressly ASKS to see the kids (this seldom happens) we take him to see the kids for just a minute.

When I go out for fun and relaxation, I don't care to be entertained by children. Mine or anybody else's. I don't think this problem is unique with me; but there is a tactful way to tell your hostess to please "watch" her children from the middle of a cocktail party.

WCSA Meets: JEROME - Mrs. A. F. Heston presented the Program, "The Universal God and the Age of Peace," at the recent meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at the United Methodist Church.

DEAR FED: There is NO "tactful" way to tell a hostess that her kids are a pain in the neck. Parents who permit their children to wander in and out of the room and "bother" guests are totally insensitive to the whole business. And for a guest to even suggest that the child be "removed" would, I'm sure, offend the hostess who would permit the intrusion in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: I would like Marian Martin Pattern

PREPARING AN INTERNATIONAL dinner in observance of Camp Fire Girls Birthday Month are three members of the Tawanska group, from Jett, Sharane Jepson, president; Pam Bridge, treasurer, and Ellen Leaton, secretary. Mrs. Delbert McGuire is leader of the group and it is sponsored by the Twin Falls Altruistic Club. March is officially designated as Birthday Month for Camp Fire Girls. March 17 is Founders' Day and March 23 to 29 is the official Birthday Week. Church Sunday will be observed March 23.

Birthday Month Activities Noted For Camp Fire Girls

March is designated as Birthday Month for Camp Fire Girls. March 17 is Founders' Day, and March 23 to 29 is the official Birthday Week. Church Sunday will be observed March 23, when all the groups will be attending the church of their choice. During the entire month special activities will be carried out in observance of the philosophy of the organization, and accomplishments of the girls. Camp Fire Girls as a national organization was begun in 1910 by Dr. and Mrs. Luther Halsley Gulick and some of their friends. Its purpose is educational as well as recreational, for all girls regardless of race, creed or economic situation. Since Camp Fire Girls embraces in its program girls of age seven through high school, there are a wide variety of activities suitable to the various steps in development. Blue Birds are the second and third graders; Camp Fire Girls are fourth, fifth and sixth; Junior Hi the seventh and eighth, and the Torck Bearer Club the high school members. The Junior Hi level is a recent development, dating back to 1962, in an effort to update the program to better serve the needs of this age girl. There is emphasis on activities planned by the girls themselves, self-improvement, service, exploring new fields of interest, and social activities. There is a Group Torck Bearer rank to achieve, and 25 fields of interest available for individual Torck Bearer accomplishment, according to each girl's choice. The newest Junior-Hi group in Twin Falls is the Tawanska group, whose leader is Mrs. Delbert McGuire. Recently they had an international dinner for parents, with each girl preparing one or more foreign dishes. They presented a talent show for entertainment, including juggling acts, piano solos, a flute solo, and a reading, and later used the same program at one of the father-daughter box socials. For a service project, they are making stuffed toys to give to the hospital and to the Easter Seal Clinic. In addition they have made gifts, gone on field trips, and made favors for the hospital. They are planning money-raising events in order to support their future projects, and hope to have a winter camping trip to Camp Tawanska.

Mrs. Fike Gives Program For Saintpaulia

Mrs. Ray Fike presented the lesson when the Magic Valley Saintpaulia Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Leo Gephner. In presenting the lesson, Mrs. Fike noted, "As the relative position of the earth and moon change, and as they move about the sun, we have a constantly fluctuating electro-magnetic field in which all growing things are either stimulated or depressed. It is time to plant during the first quarter of the moon's phase." A violet quiz was given by Mrs. William Chancy, with prizes going to Mrs. Fike and Mrs. Evelyn Paulson. A St. Patrick's Day theme was carried out by the hostess. Leaves of favorite violet varieties, and favorite methods for rooting leaves were discussed. The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Paulson.

Dinner Slated By Camas Club

FAIRFIELD - The Camas Club will have a catered dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday at the new Willow Run Snowmobile Club. The husbands will be special guests of the members. A program is being planned and there will be cards for those who desire to attend. Reservations must be made by Monday with Mrs. Charles Scoggin. The event is open to the public and non-members are welcome to attend. The affair will be the combined January meeting, which had to be canceled, and the March meeting. The committee includes Mrs. Scoggin, Mrs. Lee Daniel, Mrs. Robert Frostenson, Mrs. Joe Cook, Mrs. Kelly Thomson, Mrs. Carroll Dammann, Mrs. Ethel Lock, Mrs. Roy Bagon, Mrs. Lowell Ray, Mrs. Don Saxman, Mrs. Dickson and Mrs. Edna Lock. The committee will meet with Mrs. Charles Scoggin home to make plans for the event.

Cathie Hamlett, Birrell Recite Nuptial Vows

Wedding vows were recited by Cathie Hamlett and Frank Birrell in a double ring ceremony Jan. 25 in the Fireplace Room at the Twin Falls First Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Hamlett and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Birrell, Pocatello. A large basket of white and pink chrysanthemums and lighted white tapers in tall candleholders, decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums and a greenery, provided the background setting for the rites solemnized by Dr. Harold Nye. Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a street-length white satin gown trimmed with red and blue. She carried a nosegay fashioned with a large chrysanthemum surrounded by pompons and white rosettes tied with white velvet ribbon. Maid of honor was Cindy Pence, college roommate of the bride, Anita Hamlett, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Howard Birrell, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, with Ed Burns and Mike Johnson, Pocatello, as groomsmen and ushers. William Bower, uncle of the bride, was soloist and Mrs. Fran Ritter was pianist. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Donat, Pocatello, grand-

SOCIAL HELD

"HAGERMAN - A social afternoon was held by the Past Noble Grand's club this week at the home of Mrs. Edna Marsh. Games were played and the hostess served refreshments. The Woman's Society of Christian Service, headed by Mrs. Roberta Widrig, was in charge of the reception. The club's fellowship hall immediately after the ceremony. Guests were registered by Kathy Magraw and gifts were delivered by Pamela Warner and Jan Miller. The bride's table was highlighted with silver candelabra with pink tapers and the three-tiered wedding cake. The bride wore a white and topped with white satin bells. Serving were Mrs. Dale Thomas, Jerome, and Mrs. Frank Bower, Kimberly, both aunts of the bride. Presiding at the punch and coffee services were Cathy Wyllie and Mrs. Ellis Reddick. The couple took a wedding trip to Boise. They reside in Pocatello, where both attend Idaho State University. A pre-nuptial shower was given for the bride by Cindy Pence and Linda Ellis at the Pioneer Hall on the campus of Idaho State University.

Eat Half, Freeze Rest Of Double Recipe Pie Dessert

Desserts are wonderful things to have on hand in the freezer. They let you go to town in preparing a great main course with the assurance of a few minutes to dinner ready and just waiting to be brought forth. There is a great variety of wonderful treats you can prepare and freeze. Here are a few, pineapple upside down cakes made in little foil pans needing only to be oven heated before serving; cream cheese filled with ice cream; meringue shells ready for fruit fillings; sponge, angel and shortening type cakes and cookies and most pastry desserts. All freeze well and will keep for four to six weeks if given the good protection of aluminum foil. A good thing to remember when freezing cakes, pies or other desserts that might be crushed or marred during the wrapping is to freeze them firm first, then wrap, seal and label. A fine dessert to start with is the creamy and luscious Frozen Lime Pie illustrated. The recipe makes two pies. It is easy to prepare since the crust is a variation of the popular graham cracker crust and the filling a flavorful custard mixture into which you fold whipped cream. If you serve this dessert on St. Patrick's Day, color the filling a deeper green with food coloring.

DOUBLE RECIPE DESSERT makes one pie to eat the same day, and one to freeze for that rainy day when company drops in unexpectedly. Illustrated above is a frozen lime pie, which is easy to prepare because the crust is a variation of the old reliable graham cracker crust. Plan ahead for St. Patrick's day and add a little more green food coloring to the filling in the pie which is frozen.

Desolate 'Rock Pile' Reveals Beauty, Profit

By WALTER HARVEY
Bethlehem, Pennsylvania

The gray-haired little woman hopped out of my car and stood in the dusty road, looking at the house.

"You can see for yourself, Mrs. Kleiber," I said, "nothing can be done with it. In fact, a house mover should have been built there in the first place."

All real estate brokers have special nicknames for the white elephants on their lists. I call this one "the rock pile" and the reason was obvious—three acres of rocks, all shapes and sizes. The houses were built on the sides of three small hills. In the center was the house.

I sat on one of the rocks and called for her to go through the house. Finally, the sun began to slip behind the hills, she came out and stood on the sagging porch for a moment, her face brightly lit with the light of the miserable old house.

"It's a mess, isn't it?" I said when she came across the yard.

"Don't be sorry, young man. God hasn't put anything on this earth that doesn't have a use. The rocks here are just what she needed. She glanced back at the house, then at the three hills. "I'll take it."

"We arranged most of the details that evening and as we talked she told me about herself and her husband.

He was a successful construction engineer, and she had traveled with him all over the world. They had no children.

"They're retired. They had been quite ill. Their savings were rapidly consumed by medical bills.

Now, old and frail, he was practically an invalid. With only a small sum to live on he had decided it would be cheaper to live in the country than in the city. I went down to see the Kleibers often. The few times I did visit, they were always happily contented in each other's company. I also noticed something odd. Every time I stopped at the house, I would be impressed by the rocks and the hills.

Several times when I went by in good weather I found the porch, wrapped in the thin blankets. Mrs. Kleiber, in long coat and slippers, would be sitting among the boulders.

She would come to the porch and talk to me as long as I stayed, but neither of them seemed to want to do anything they were doing. Somehow the rocks seemed to be forming a pattern, where before they had been wild and unorganized.

Spring brought the usual rush of business, and it wasn't until well into summer that I turned down the line that led to "the rock pile."

The first thing I noticed was a freshly painted sign reading: Three Hills Nursery. I wondered

Evangelistic Services Set By Church

The First Christian Church will hold an "Operation: Good News" Evangelistic program beginning Sunday and ending March 23.

Pastor Howard Larsen, (Klimber) Christian Church, will preach each evening at 7:30 p.m. His themes will be "Back To The Drawing Board," "Menagerie In Glass," "A Good Question," "Try Prayer Power," "A Ladder To Heaven," "Were You There?" and "The Glorious Fellowship." No services on Saturday.

The local minister, Donald Hoffman, will speak both Sunday mornings on the themes "The Appearance of Christ's Body" and "Seek Ye The Lord."

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Carlson, local musical group composed of Dick and Carole Shaffer and Mrs. Gladys Hills, will conduct congregational singing and bring the special musical numbers.

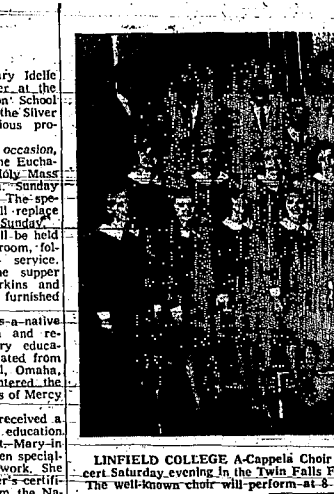

Franklin Sharp is local chairman of arrangements. Others serving as members of the committee are Mrs. Thomas Buckner, Mrs. Melvin Esslinger, Mrs. M. H. Macdonald, Mrs. John Paulsen, and Mrs. Peter Carlson.

Mrs. Peter Carlson has been in charge of the "Prayer Clock" which has secured 92 members who are praying at fifteen-minute intervals around the clock March 14.

The church nursery will be operated at every service. A special section for evangelists will be held this Sunday evening, following the preaching service. The public is invited to all services.

Linfield Choir Sets Concert Here

The well-known Linfield College A-Cappella Choir will perform at 8 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

In its 38th year, the choir is on its annual 12-day tour, this year through Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, and Colorado for the first time. In addition to standard a cappella pieces, the Linfield choir also performs a variety of folk songs, hymns, and contemporary numbers.

Featured in this year's program are "The Psalmist's" by Zimmerman with trumpet and bass accompaniment, "The Coffee Cantata" by Bach, and "Missa Criola," a South American folk mass.

First Baptist Church invites the public to this outstanding musical event, for which a free-will offering will be received for the choir's travel expense.

Episcopal Power Politics

By REV. LESTER KINSLOW

More and more of America's three million Episcopalians are becoming aware of a significant power shift in their denomination's New York headquarters.

And the emerging power figure who is now virtually eclipsing Presiding Bishop John E. Hines is one of the Church's most suave and erudite prelates, Bishop Stephen Bayne.

Formerly director of the Church's Department of Overseas Missions, Bishop Bayne is now Hines' ranking assistant as "Deputy for Program" and vice president of the Executive Council, the denomination's governing body.

Bayne is also expected to be one of the clearest church politicians of the 20th century, having survived almost as many setbacks as Richard Nixon.

Bayne's worst defeat was in Hines' in 1964, though he had been an odds-on favorite in the election to succeed the late Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffrey Fisher.

First Baptist Church invites the public to this outstanding musical event, for which a free-will offering will be received for the choir's travel expense.

Formerly there was a Sunday evening Mass in Gooding. Evening Mass is available each Sunday at 6 p.m. in Rupert and at 7:30 p.m. in Burley and Twin Falls.

WHY DO MEN FIGHT?

International relations are in a condition of almost total anarchy. Nations, cities, businesses, even the churches are torn by dissension. Each's closest relationship, home, is so moved by discord that one out of three marriages ends in divorce, while the children fight, the parents fight, the police fight, everybody fights, WHY?

Strife between men results from conflict within the heart. No man can be a good man until he has peace with others. All of these things are so because of sin in man's heart. Jeremiah 17:9 says, "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked, who can know it?" Because of this sin in the heart, Isaiah 57:21 declares, "There is no peace, says God to the wicked, because you have sinned and come short of the law of my God." This is why does man find a solution to his problem.

When Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, is admitted into the life, He can resolve these inner conflicts and with the forgiveness of sins, peace is restored. Acts 10:43 states, "That through His name whoever believes in Him shall receive remission of sins. With forgiveness of sins comes peace. 'Peace, I leave with you, my peace I give you not as the world gives, but I will give it.' Let your hearts be troubled, neither let you be afraid." (John 14:27)

The Bible gives us the solution to the question, Why Do Men Fight? Admit Him into your life today.

ONLY TOP PLAY
MAKES CONTRACT
 Today's hand is also taken a club from dummy with the intention of finessing the 10. An example of an avoid-Alert East will spoil this plan. He will get in with a club eventually and lead that spade. Eventually he will make his contract. He will simply let West hold the first heart trick by playing low from dummy. If hearts are continued the expert will wind-up with all the rest of the tricks. He will discard a club on the ace of hearts, can the top clubs, ruff a club and discard both his spades on dummy's last two clubs. Somehow we think that most top players would go for five hearts and save the cost of not more than 100 points, or else come out with a profit if North and South went on to six diamonds.

Northeast

Elko Soil Meeting Set

JACKPOT—The annual meeting of the Northeast Elko Soil Conservation District has been scheduled for noon Wednesday at Cactus Pete's in Jackpot.

According to Harvey Hale, chairman of the board of supervisors Harold Harris, U.S. plant materials specialist, Aberdeen, will be guest speaker of the no-host luncheon. He will present a slide-illustrated talk on grasses and legumes that might be adapted to this area for hay, pasture and range.

The Northeast Elko Soil Conservation District has 22 ranching units that are widely scattered over 2,214,424 acres. Of this, 555,070 acres are privately owned, with the remainder being National Forest and National Land Reserve.

The district has entered an agreement with 18 of these ranching units to help develop a coordinated land improvement program. Of these 18 ranching units, 13 have conservation ranch plans. To date, five ranch plans have been developed for a total of 366,693 acres.

Some of the work that has been done within the soil district by cooperators include 50 acres of brush control by plowing; construction of 22,550 feet of irrigation field ditches; 11,865 feet of irrigation pipelines and installed three irrigation sprinkler systems.

Two directors of the district will be elected during this meeting. Directors whose terms expire are Eyer Boies and Lester Agee.

Filer Farm Bureau Hears About Safety

FILER—Mrs. Clinton Dougherty read an article on tractor safety to Farm Bureau members at a meeting in the Grange Hall. The three points stressed included recognizing a hazard, knowing a defense and acting in time.

The Deep Creek and Kimberly Granges will bring the program to the Filer Grange meeting March 21.

Mrs. Ernest Peck read a poem on St. Patrick's Day and Mrs. Raymond Thomas read an essay on the life of St. Patrick. Len Drake showed some home movies of the fiftieth anniversary celebrations of Twin Falls. Mrs. and Mr. Rex Lancaster served refreshments.

Along Fences And Canals

Three members of the Lynn Hiatt family at Richfield have had the misfortune of breaking bones within the past few weeks. Mrs. Lynn Hiatt was the latest victim, receiving a broken right ankle Sunday morning while chasing calves at their ranch west of Richfield.

Her husband broke a leg several weeks ago in a fall while feeding stock. Marsha Dawn Hiatt, 6, broke her right arm while playing on the floor with her sisters. Mrs. Hiatt was transferred from St. Benedict's hospital, Jerome, to a Boise hospital for surgery.

Hoyt Pugh, Richfield, has been doing morning cattle feeding for Dave Kennison who had several ribs broken last week when frozen bales of straw fell on him. Seven foot drifts at the Kennison ranch in north Richfield slows up feeding considerably.

Bill Swan, Three Creek, and Rollie Hawes, Elko, have purchased 40 Angus bulls from Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brooks, Hazelton. The bulls are 2-year-olds.

KING HILL.—Farmers have begun disking and plowing in preparation for planting crops. Wesley Fink, George Terry and others are spreading fertilizer.

Ivan Darrington was elected watermaster for the coming season at the annual meeting of the Almo Water Co. held at the Almo school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davis, Tuttle, have sold their ranch and had a farm sale. They plan to live in the house for several months yet.

Magic Valley's Week-End Farm Paper

SECTION

ACTIVITIES that occurred during the recent Beef Evaluation Day in Jerome are shown in these photos. The event was sponsored by the Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association. Over 60 feeder calves were entered in the program and those attending the event attempted to predict the gainability and carcass grade of the animals. The calves will be fed for about 180 days, slaughtered and then carcasses will be evaluated. This type of program is vital to the beef industry today so producers can predict the average performance of his herd in the feedlot and packing plant.

Cattlemen Predict Gainability Carcass Grade Of Feeder Calves

The performance of over 60 head of feeder calves was predicted by area cattlemen during the recent Beef Evaluation Day, sponsored by the Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association.

The event, where 66 feeder calves were evaluated on the hoof, after being weighed and tagged, took place at the Producers Livestock Marketing Association's yards in Jerome.

Video also will be made or used in the coolers to record carcass values.

A panel of four and those attending the event predicted the gainability and carcass grade of each animal after being fed in the feedlot for about 180 days. The panel consisted of Otto Florence Jr., Independent Meat Co.; Keith Widenhelt, Henry Jones Feedlot; Ralph Olmstead, Olmstead Cattle Co. and Herschel Boydston, College of Southern Idaho.

The steers are being fed at the Olmstead Cattle Co. south of Twin Falls. After they have been fed, they will be taken to Independent Meat Co. for slaughtering and then evaluated again on the hook.

Mr. Boydston video-taped the calves as they were fed. He also video-taped them during the feeding period, prior to slaughtering, with the hopes that these visual aids will have educational value to the livestock industry.

During the association's annual meeting recently Mr. Patrick was re-elected president. Art Kaster, Clover, is vice president, and Jack Pierce, Twin Falls, is secretary-treasurer. Directors named during the meeting include Mr. Patrick, Cedar Mesa District; Richard Mohr, Rogerson; L. P. Larsen, Rock Creek; Roy Smith, Hollister; Arthur DeVisser, Filer; Mr. Kaster, Buhl-Castelford; Tom Sharp, Twin Falls, and Albert Lickley, North Side, district.

Named Editor

CINCINNATI — F. Thomas Huey was appointed the new editor of The Farm Quarterly.

Talks To Grange

BLISS — Dumas Freeman, superintendent of schools, spoke at the meeting of the Bliss Grange recently on school consolidation. It was noted that at the present time, no definite action has been taken regarding the possible consolidation. The next meeting will be held March 29.

He succeeds Grant G. Cannon who died recently. James Rosenthal, publisher of the 325,000 national circulation magazine for business agriculture, made the announcement.

Measure On Tax Filings Introduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal income tax filing deadline of Feb. 15 for farmers would be extended to March 15, under a bill introduced by Rep. Robert V. Denney, R-Neb. Denney said the extra time is needed mainly because January and early February produce the worst weather, hampering farmers from getting help in filing their complex returns.

Farmers, because of the unpredictable nature of their business, were exempted years ago from filing an estimated income as is required of other self-employed taxpayers. But as a result of the exemption they were required to file two months earlier than the regular April 15 deadline for most citizens.

Denney also said federal reports to farmers on how much they were paid in subsidies the previous year, which must accompany the tax returns, usually are not received until the end of January, meaning most farmers have only two weeks to be held at the Catholic Parish prepare and file their returns.

Cedar Draw Hosts Pomona Grange Meet

The Cedar Draw Grange members hosted the Twin Falls County Pomona Grange meeting recently.

Mrs. Earl Young was installed as Flora by Thomas E. Speedy, state executive committee member.

Don Dietz said that several telegrams had been sent to the legislature—in regard to the school consolidation bill. The telegrams indicated opposition to the proposal.

Clifford Davis reported on the Cooperative Marketing Association meeting he recently attended in Buhl. He presented a proposal pertaining to bean marketing. Due to the weather, a recommendation would be made to the secretary of agriculture that beans be placed under acreage control with a 90 per cent parity guarantee on the domestic consumption and the world market price would be received for the portion of the crop exported.

The local Pomona Grange voted not to sponsor the proposal.

The Buhl Grange will host the next Pomona Grange meeting at 7 p.m. April 12. This will be a no-host dinner and open meeting. Reservations must be made by April 9 with respective grange masters. The event will be held at the Catholic Parish.

ATTENTION MEMBERS Of The Twin Falls Labor Camp

THE ANNUAL STOCKHOLDERS MEETING OF THE TWIN FALLS LABOR CAMP WILL BE HELD IN THE IDAHO POWER AUDITORIUM ON THE DATE OF WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19th, 1969, AT 8:00 P.M.

DUE TO NEW FEDERAL AND STATE REGULATIONS THE TWIN FALLS LABOR CAMP IS NOT UP TO THESE GOVERNMENT STANDARDS AND REGULATIONS. UNTIL THESE GOVERNMENT DEMANDS ARE MET LABOR WILL NOT BE RECRUITED FOR THIS AREA NOR WILL THE CAMP BE PERMITTED TO HOUSE ANY TRANSIENT HELP.

I have in the office a list of the requirements which must be met prior to occupancy of this year. Since these demands were handed to me on the date of 3-5-69, I have not had ample time to get estimates on the total costs. I can assure you that a great sum of money will have to be raised to meet the remodeling. By the date of the meeting I will have the estimated cost for your information!

At this annual meeting representatives of the various government agencies will be on hand to give you detailed information concerning our situation. It will then be your decision upon the course you wish to take. Our situation is very serious and I again stress the importance of each and every one of you to be in attendance.

Social Security Question Box

If you have any questions about your social security, address them to: Jim Davis, Box 1239, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Q.—I was born in 1904 and will be 55 years old this year. Since I was born in Idaho, I wrote to Boise to see if I could get a birth certificate. They wrote back and said they don't have a record of my birth. What will I have to do to prove my age in my social security benefits?

A.—If you have a Certificate of Baptism or other church record established before your 5th birthday, you have a proof of almost equal value as a birth certificate. However, if you are unable to obtain either of these records, we will have to have two other proofs of your age such as a census record, hospital birth record, old insurance policy, family Bible, military discharge, marriage records, your child's birth certificate, election register and etc. You should bring any of these proofs you may have to the office of your last year's earnings (income tax return or W-2 form) with you when you come.

Q.—I have been unable to work for the past few months. I am not able to do any work for at least a year. My condition prevents me from leaving the house. How can I sign up for disability? I am 50 years old. If you will contact the social security office, they will mail an application out to you to fill out and return. At the proper time from the social security office will come to your home to complete the necessary action on your application.

Ladies Of Area Grange Entertained

BUHL—Ladies of the Cedar Draw Grange were entertained with a ham supper prepared and served by the members preceding the grange meeting. Carl Hendrix, Lonnie Moore, Preston Gentry and W. B. Stenemetz were in charge of the dinner arrangements.

Ralph Assendrup, program chairman, presented Gene Christofferson, who spoke on income taxes.

During the business meeting, Mrs. J. Mrs. Pearce were accepted into membership and they will be given the obligation at the next meeting.

Carl Hendrix reported on recent legislative activities in Boise. A letter on Bill 221 concerning the consolidation of schools in the county was read and the grange then reported as opposing the consolidation of schools. The letter was signed by grange members and will be sent back to legislative representatives in Boise.

Mrs. Henry Dahlquist, chairman, reported that she had taken a plant to E. B. Hicks, Women's Activity chairman, Mrs. E. B. Hicks, reported on the state and national needle work contest and the all cotton sewing contest. She also announced that she had met cookbooks for sale.

Twelve Cedar Draw grangers attended the visitation meeting held at the Buhl grange hall. Those for the next meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mathews. The program will be the drawing of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hendrix. Grangers who have been members for five years will be presented with 25-year pins during this meeting. All members, especially those who have already earned their 5-year pins, are urged to attend this special meeting.

Wood River Center Unit Slates Party

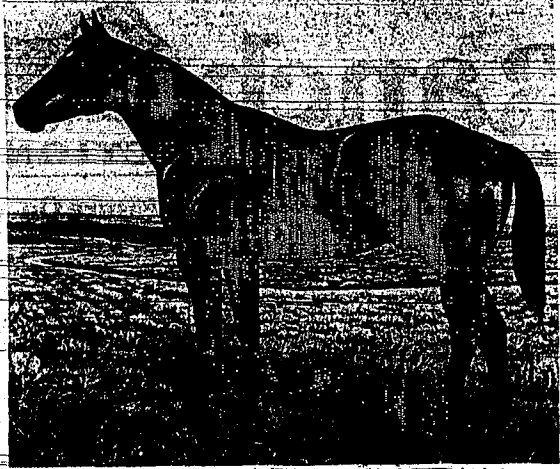

SHOSHONE—Wood River Center Grange members will hold a card party March 28 at the Grange Hall. Pinochle and other card games will be played. Funds raised will be donated to charitable organizations.

Magie Grange members will be guests at the March 27 meeting. This is an exchange program arranged by a committee. Blaine, Pomona Grange, Wood River Grange members will be in charge of the program.

Reid Newby has been appointed to act as chaplain while Mrs. Ada Sandy is away.

Mrs. Donald Sandy, lecturer, read articles on Grange and "New" food.

Members look part in the Hoards dairymen's publication judging contest on farm animals. Winners will be announced at the next meeting.

TOP QUARTER HORSE stallion to be brought into Idaho is this AAA American Quarter Horse Association champion, Rapid Bar, son of Three Bars, is now standing at Shano Lancaster's ranch, south of Filer.

Filer Horse Breeder Brings New Bloodline Into Idaho

The horse industry today is one of the fastest growing industries in the West. Here in Idaho, horse breeders are constantly bringing in new bloodlines to improve the industry.

Thano Lancaster, Filer, is one of the horse breeders who is doing this. Recently Thano leased a champion Quarter Horse stallion from the Leo Gotes Ranch, Gardiner, Nev.

The stallion, Rapid Bar, is the first son of Three Bars to be in Idaho and the first and only AAA American Quarter Horse Association champion to stand in Idaho.

Thano says he is "pleased to have this outstanding horse and this type of blood line in Idaho." This stallion is a champion racing horse as well as a champion cutting, pleasure and roping horse.

Three years ago the Nevada Franch purchased Rapid Bar at the Reed Hill Quarter Horse dispersal sale in Texas for $50,000. Thano says the AQHA had over 500,000 horses registered in the world and 127 of them are AAA champions. Rapid Bar is one of them. He also is second in points of becoming a Supreme Champion, the highest honor a horse can achieve.

Rapid Bar's sire, Three Bars, is the world's leading sire of registered mares racing horses and also the leading sire of money earners. Three Bars also is the second leading brood sire of Quarter Horses in the world.

The stallion's dam is Miss Chicago Bill. Chicago Bill is the fourth leading brood mare sire in the world. Miss Chicago Bill is a 100 per cent producer, having sent five foals to the track and all are registered. Thano said in the short time that the stallion has been brought here, mares from five states have already been booked.

With this outstanding stallion, the horse industry in this area as well as throughout the West should continue to improve.

Public Meet Set On Ground Water Resources In Cassia, T.F. Counties

A much needed report concerning the water resources of parts of Cassia and Twin Falls Counties has just been published by the Idaho Department of Reclamation.

The report was prepared by the U. S. Geological Survey, who has spent several years making a comprehensive study of water resources of the region with emphasis on the occurrence and supply of groundwater. The report is authored by E. G. Croshaw, a hydrologist employed by the U. S. Geological Survey, who has had many years of experience in Idaho investigating the water resources of various areas.

To provide copies of the report to the interested public, and particularly the water users, the Department of Reclamation has scheduled a public meeting at 8 p.m. March 18.

The hearing will be held in the Turley Junior High School auditorium. Representatives of the Geological Survey will be present to briefly explain some of the significant concepts in the report, and copies will be provided to all in attendance. In addition, personnel from the Idaho Department of Reclamation will be in attendance to explain the water rights situation in the area with special emphasis on the three critical groundwater areas now designated.

About 1945, ground-water development started in the area lying within the triangle of Burley, Oakley and Murtaugh on the south side of the Snake River. Most of the water was developed to provide irrigation for thousands of acres of productive land that was once desert. Water was found to exist in significant amounts in several aquifers or water-bearing zones beneath the earth's surface.

The materials in these aquifers varies from location to location, but in some areas they consist of limestone, rhyolite, basalt, or unconsolidated alluvial material. Plentiful supplies of water were found in some of these aquifers so that by 1956 it was estimated that approximately 100,000 acre-feet of ground water was being pumped annually from the ground. The next decade, however, demonstrated that development had only begun.

By 1958, approximately 250,000 acre-feet of ground water was being withdrawn annually for irrigation. This tremendous amount of ground-water development, however, resulted in water level declines in certain areas, and in certain areas, interference between wells was alleged and court cases have been instituted between water users.

Water level decline in portions of the area has prompted the State Reclamation Engineer to close some areas to future ground-water development and has resulted in a need for continuous surveillance of the water levels throughout the area.

Persons wishing copies of the report should write to: Department of Reclamation, Statehouse Annex 2, Boise, Idaho, and ask for Water Information Bulletin No. 8, entitled, "Water Resources of the Goose Creek-Rock Creek Area, Idaho, Utah and Nevada."

The land was sold by the Bureau of Land Management for $655 to Mr. Blossom. His was the only bid received by the BLM.

"Handi Helpers" Officers Picked

SHOSHONE—Officers for the year were elected at a meeting of the Handi Helpers 4-H Club when they met at the home of leader, Mrs. Harold Williams. Phyllis Faught, is president; Brenda Hubbs, vice president; Wanda Faught, secretary, and Carol Williams, treasurer. Kathleen Keaton is reporter. Mrs. Williams discussed projects with the girls. Refreshments were served by Carol Williams.

At the March 27 meeting, Dorothy Hubbs and Brenda Hubbs will give demonstrations. Members will report on their favorite material for sewing.

Farm Bureau At Fairfield Meets

FAIRFIELD—Shepard Quake, Pocatello, executive secretary of the Farm-Bureau Federation, spoke on activities of the current year with special emphasis on a meeting of the Camas County Farm Bureau.

A good crowd attended the meeting at the home of Mrs. Earl Tyckson, Jerome, fieldman for the Farm Bureau, also attended. John Knowlton, president of the Camas County Farm Bureau, has just returned from a tour of Hawaii sponsored by the Farm Bureau Farmer to Farmer tour. He will show pictures and give a report of his trip at the next meeting to be held April 1. Time and place will be announced later.

Idaho Scientist Honored By Weed Science Society

MOSCOW—A long-time University of Idaho agricultural scientist has received the first honorary membership ever awarded by the Western Society of Weed Science.

Dr. Lambert G. Erickson, professor of plant science, was presented the honorary membership during the society's annual meeting earlier this month in Las Vegas, Nev. A member of the society since 1941, Dr. Erickson was cited for continuing contributions to his profession, to the research committee of the society and to general knowledge of weeds and weed control.

Dr. Erickson joined the Idaho college of agriculture faculty in July, 1945. He was among those scientists in on the ground floor in developing 2,4-D as the leading chemical for controlling weeds in grain crops.

He also pioneered research on haloxeton when that poisonous weed was discovered on Idaho rangelands. Through the years, he has become an authority on control of perennial weeds such as the Canadian thistle.

In recent years, Dr. Erickson has turned his attention toward the problems of specific weed control to consideration of crops and the total cropping system as ways to limit weed populations. He is now leading a detailed study on the effects of herbicides on weed control, weed species, chemical composition of the grain crop and possible accumulation of residues either in the soil or crop over a period of years.

"We need to know how all these things fit together," he commented. "It's well known that wide use of 2,4-D has brought about major changes in weed populations in agricultural lands. The chemical effectively controls the weeds that once were the most troublesome. In fact this has helped clear the way for a resistant group of weeds to increase and become economically troublesome."

Beet Leafhopper Potential High In South Idaho

BOISE—(UPI)—At the monthly meeting of the Idaho Beet Leafhopper Commission, members learned the potential for a high concentration of beet leafhoppers in Southern Idaho is dangerous. High Commission chairman Lawrence Gray, Nampa, said conditions in the desert last fall were ideal for starts of Russian thistle, a plant that hosts beet leafhopper in its early stages.

Bulls On Test At Jerome Doing Fine

JEROME — Bulls that are in a performance testing program at the Jerome all-herd test station "have come through in great shape, despite the extreme wet and rainy conditions," F. Patterson and Sook, owners of the station.

Mr. Patterson said the cold did not seem to affect the gain of the bulls, but the rain, snow and the thawing did.

The senior bulls finished the 140-day test on Jan. 18 with a Charolais bull, owned by Tom Prescott, averaging 3.7 pounds per day gain.

Mon Repos Angus Ranch, Jerome, was second with three bulls finishing in the three-pound plus category.

The 112 weigh-day-for-the-junior bulls on the test was held Feb. 23. Mon Repos Angus Ranch is leading with four bulls in the three-pound class. Second is a Shorthorn bull owned by Lewis Dean, Twin Falls, with a 3.3 pound per day gain.

March 25 is the final weigh day for these junior bulls. The all-breed sale has been set for April 12 at the testing station's sale ring.

Farm Program Signup Lags, Says Official

Producer signup for the wheat and feed grain programs is not quite up to expectations at this point, according to Bill Bohl, chairman of the Twin Falls County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Additional signup in the wheat and feed grain programs is needed in the county if we are going to obtain the diversion necessary to reduce wheat and feed grain supplies, the chairman pointed out.

As of March 4, 731 producers in Twin Falls County had signed to divert 662 acres from wheat production and 211 acres from feed grain production.

"On the basis of the Feb. 28 signup report, it appears that wheat signup across the county is somewhat behind," Bohl said. Feed grain signup also seems to be lagging," the chairman said.

"Intended additional diversion on signed wheat farms, as of Feb. 28, is 2.1 million acres. That, the end of signup we should have about five million acres additional diversion."

For feed grains a 37-million acre diversion would bring about the slight reduction in stocks needed this year, the chairman said. As of Feb. 28, total intended diversion on signed farms was about 19.9 million acres.

While signup appears to be slightly behind at this point, producers still have until March 21 to sign up to take part in the program.

"We would like to urge every producer to study his own operation carefully before he makes a final decision. Those who have questions concerning program benefits should visit the local ASCS office for further information," the chairman emphasized.

Grading Station Eyed In Gem State

BOISE — The possibility of establishing a Grain Grading Station in Southeastern Idaho has been taken under study by the Idaho Wheat Commission. It was announced today by commission chairman George Harris, Teton.

According to Harris, the commission discussed the idea at a Grading Station meeting at its regular meeting recently in Boise. The consensus was, Harris said, that the proposed Parcello station might be desirable, but it would also be expensive.

Herschel Ellis, area supervisor for the U. S. Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service, Boise, said that the commission members think the estimated annual cost for a Grain Grading Station would be about $20,000. He said grading in South Idaho Wheat was currently being conducted at facilities of the Ogden Grain Exchange, Utah, with an annual cost of $100,000. Recent complaints about the Ogden facility have been withdrawn, Ellis said.

Also appearing at the commission meeting was Dexter David, head of David Elevator Company, Blackfoot.

At the annual meeting, the Wheat Commission noted to continue support for the Tri-State Grain Standards Committee, including new financial participation in the project by members of the Northwest grain trade. The group is supported by the grain elevators in Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Harris announced that the wheat industry's annual, Convention Breakfast in Washington, D. C., would be held during the week of March 24. Expected to attend are commission members Don Howe, Jerome; Perry; Norman A. Dean, Grandpréville; Vard Mondavon, American Falls; Gwinn Rice, Hill City, and Harris.

SURROUNDED BY SNOW near Richfield, is this old McCormick-Dodge threshing machine. The machine was once used by Glenn Ross' father, H. A. Ross, on the Ross farm northwest of Richfield. Because of the deep snow in the area, the machine is isolated from other equipment and buildings on the farm.

Turnips For Feed Gaining Popularity

The interest of raising turnips for feed in Magic Valley continues to grow, according to L. H. (Spec) Haslam, Globe Seed and Feed Co., said the interest in growing and feeding turnips for cattle and sheep is growing. "Up to the present time the majority of this raising and feeding of turnips has been in the Murtaugh, Burley and Oakley areas, but several others in other parts of the valley are interested in this cash crop."

"One grower in the Murtaugh area is still feeding cattle on turnips on a limited basis, and the turnips are still doing fine and going through the cold, wet winter we have had. These turnips are still in the field."

Mr. Haslam said the turnips were raised for the first time last year in these three areas and the results were so successful that most of those who raised the crop last year are increasing the acreage.

Limited areas should be fenced against sheep, depending on what type of livestock is feeding, so the sheep or cattle can clean up the area in five to seven days. A small amount of roughage should also be fed for perfect results, such as one pound of hay per day to cattle and less to sheep.

"One of the main reasons," Mr. Haslam said, "the farmers and feeders are going for turnips, is because it is a second crop. It is an ideal crop to raise after peas or early grain. Being the second crop this would be clear profit to the farmers because his taxes, water and interest on the farm are all paid by the first crop. The only thing he has against the turnip crop is the seed cost plus a small expense on irrigation."

"One grower in the Oakley area who sowing followed some ground he's already planted 200 acres and sowed this by airplane with two pounds per acre and is trying to get two crops of turnips in one year, which is possible."

"Another grower in the Oakley area is going to plant by airplane some turnip seed on what has been growing and will plant just before the second irrigation."

Mr. Haslam has received some information from Dr. S. H. Morrison, Clinton, Iowa, Feeds and Feeding, and Dr. Richard C. Bull, assistant professor of the University of Idaho's animal science department, on the feed value of turnips in relation to other feed crops.

Dr. Morrison said that on an energy basis, the turnips are

U.S. Turkey Producers Face Threat

Turkey growers throughout the nation are facing a threat of overproducing, Clifford M. Hardin, secretary of agriculture, has cautioned turkey producers against the danger of overproducing.

"If turkey producers carry out their present intentions," he said, "the 1969 turkey crop would total about 110 million — the third largest crop on record."

This serious threat to the turkey industry, according to the Department of Agriculture, is indicated by these factors:

—Turkey producers now state they intend to produce three per cent more birds this year than in 1968.

—Storage stocks of turkeys are larger than were projected earlier this year.

—The hatchery supply flock on Jan. 1 was about three per cent larger than last year.

—Slaughter of breeder hens recently has been less than a year earlier.

The number of turkeys tested for pullorum in recent months is running ahead of testings during the same period last year.

Hardin urged turkey producers to reduce the number of poulters hatched during the best of 1969 season by at least three per cent in order to hold the line on production.

Almost Sold

SALMON — Nine of 10 head of horses impounded under federal range closing orders were just sold, Monday, March 10, at a public auction here by the Bureau of Land Management when they were claimed by their owners.

Dr. Morrison said that on an energy basis, the turnips are

Cattlemen Note Heavy Calf Losses

MOSCOW — Cattlemen in Idaho and other northwest states are suffering calf losses ranging up to 100 per cent of calves in some herds, a University of Idaho veterinarian reported today.

"Death losses are widespread and extensive," Dr. Richard F. Hall, the university's Agricultural Extension Service, veterinarian here, said. "Losses from abortion, often simply because the calves are weak. From what we can find out, the most common cause is a mycoplasma infection, which may approach losses during the worst calf seasons five, or six years ago."

The problems apparently are common among range herds, and may be related to the severe winter weather, Dr. Hall speculated.

"We also suspect there may be responsible — perhaps a disease such as epizootic bovine abortion, which has been reported in Idaho and is being coordinated through Dr. G. E. Nelson at the state diagnostic laboratory in Boise. Veterinarians and county agricultural agents throughout the state are aiding in the studies."

Cooperating also are University of Idaho veterinary scientists, Dr. Floyd Nelson of the veterinary science department, and Dr. R. I. Sweet, associate research professor. They are leading the research efforts in Moscow and Caldwell. The complex of diseases which cause abortion in cattle makes identification of the specific problem difficult, Dr. Hall pointed out. The common abortion-causing diseases include IBR or red nose, bovine virus diarrhoea, leptospirosis, BVD, a disease, vitellina, and epizootic bovine abortion, also known as foetal abortion.

Although research efforts to identify causes of the widespread calf losses are aimed primarily at next year, Dr. Hall said a 14 cattleman committee death loss now by providing extra care for sick calves.

"Consult your veterinarian for recommendations on a specific problem," the extension veterinarian said. "In general, though, you should provide extra care for calves and wet weather, and be sure they feed on the mother's colostrum milk as soon as possible after birth."

Record Crop JOHANNESBURG, South Africa

The last estimate based on conditions at the end of the year in South Africa when most of the harvest has been gathered, puts the season's wheat crop at 13.3 million bags.

Last year's crop was about 12 million bags, which was a record. This will make the country independent of imports for the first time. Local consumption is estimated between 12 and 13 million bags a year.

Spud Peelings For Insulation?

BOZEMAN — Ask any soldier who ever pulled K.P. duty, or any housewife: There's nothing more worthless than a potato peel. Right? Wrong.

A Montana State University professor thinks the lowly spud skin may have real possibilities as an insulating material for homes and other buildings.

The property of the peel that keeps your baked-potato steaming hot long after it leaves the oven might keep your home cozy during the winter cold, theorizes Dr. Eugene H. Bishop of MSU's aerospace and mechanical engineering department.

"How did Bishop stumble on to this discovery? First he burned his hand on a hot potato," he grins. Since then he's been testing the insulation properties of potato-peels in various forms and he's found that, as far as holding down heat loss, the peelings "are as good or better" as such common insulating materials as cork and asbestos.

But before you start dumping old "tuber" skins between your walls: Bishop cautions that there are several questions yet to be answered. "A couple of the most pertinent: Will the skins decay in time, and must they be rendered unappetizing for rodents?"

Bishop is working on that. He expects potato product manufacturers may become interested in this research since, if feasible, converting useless peelings into a marketable byproduct could remove a major nuisance for them: how to dispose of the tons of skins stacked from the vegetable-in-processing.

Potato growers could also be expected to benefit. "There would be no such thing as a bad crop of potatoes," Bishop says, "because all you'd need would be the skins. It might even become more profitable to grow potatoes for the skins alone."

Bishop notes that there is an insulating material derived from sugar cane stalks on the market now. "We'd have to see if potato peels would be better or cheaper."

"Did you know," adds inventor-the-researcher Bishop, "that shredded potato peel burns just like smoking tobacco?"

Now, effective wireworm control, even if you plant before April 1.

Now, you can apply Diazinon* at higher rates and get effective wireworm control when planting before April 1.

Just broadcast Diazinon either as a spray or granular application and control will last long enough to do a job on wireworms.

And what a job it does. Even on any strains that might be resistant to other insecticides. For years growers have been able to rely on Diazinon's effectiveness.

Now you can get the same kind of reliability on early planted potatoes, too.

Of course, Diazinon used at the lower rates still does the job on wireworms in potatoes planted after the first of April.

Either way, early or late, you'll get effective wireworm control with Diazinon.

EXAMINING WELL-DEVELOPED sugar beet plants which could be mechanically planted by farmers after the danger of frost, obtain an exceptional yield, and require no thinning, weeding or cultivation, are, from left, Dr. R. D. Ensign, Moscow, associate director of the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station; Leon Fairbanks, Boise farm representative for Idaho Power Co.; Grant Evans, Rexburg, sales manager for Utah Power and Light Co.; and D. W. Works, Moscow, University of Idaho farm electrification committee leader.

New Sugar Beet Production Process Developed At U. Of I.

MOSCOW, Idaho — Research at the University of Idaho has developed a new production process which would allow farmers to mechanically plant well developed sugar beet seedlings after the danger of frost, according to Dr. R. D. Ensign, associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

"This method offers exceptional yields and would not require thinning, weeding or cultivation," he noted. The project is one of several supported in part by the Idaho farm Electrification program.

D. W. Works, associate research professor in the Department of Agricultural Engineering and project leader, pointed out that sugar beets seeds are presently planted in the soil in early spring and frequently damaged or killed by frost, the danger of frost, according to the farmer to replant two or three times.

"We have been growing sugar beet seedlings under protected greenhouse-like conditions and then transporting them to the field. Research under field conditions on small plots indicates exceptional yields may be obtained by this method — all transplants on a large scale most twice the yield of conventional methods of producing sugar beets," he said.

Other aspects of beet production covered by the research project include the investigation of various kinds of plastic tubelike containers in which to grow the seedlings, and which are adaptable for mechanized plantings. Other research concerns growth medium, time and method of transplanting, and cultural methods and actual yields of beets under field conditions.

"Continued research is needed to develop means of using beets on a large scale farming basis," Ensign noted.

TIM SMEDLEY, Twin Falls, left, receives a trophy from Terry Kidd, Burley, East Magle FFA District president, for winning the Area FFA Public Speaking contest, held recently at Valley.

Winners Of FFA Contests Are Listed

Shoshone and a Twin Falls FFA member came out on top during the recent Magic Valley Area FFA Parliamentary Procedure and Public Speaking Contests at Valley High School.

The Shoshone FFA team was named winner of the contest by a margin of one vote over the team. Second place team was the Twin Falls team, third was Declo and the Oakley team was fourth.

Tim Smedley, Twin Falls, was named winner of the public speaking contest. He spoke on "Best Farming Day." Second was Glenn Ortel, Ellettsville; Clay Harrison, West Milan, third, Jim Lathier, Murtaugh, fourth.

The first place winners of the two area contests now are to the state contest, to be held in two weeks in Twin Falls during the State FFA Convention.

Members of the Shoshone team included Stan Kerner, Carl Pendleton, Larry Kepner, John W. Urrah, Mike Holsley and Ken Young.

The Twin Falls team consisted of Glen Arrington, Bob Carr, Dave Vanover, Ray Ringhart, Randy McCoy and Pete Turner. Members of the Declo team were David Nelson, Danny Waddell, Dennis Harrow, Randy Kidd, Dennis Schreiner and Glen Hild. Members of the Oakley team were David Baker, Chris Baker, David Ebert, Lynn Almonson, Ron Jackson and George Mix.

The public speaking trophy was donated by Thelton Motors, Twin Falls.

Judges were Dr. Marvin Jensen, Snake River Conservation Research Center, Kimberly; Carter Luther, Jerome, and Fred Waddell, Declo, public speaking, and Mr. Luther, Allen Stanley, Eden, and David Jensen, Murtaugh, parliamentary procedure.

Lincoln County Economic Situation Is Described

SHOSHONE — Economics base office, by the office of economic opportunity information center, also included, showing Lincoln county in the Lincoln County Planning Commission meeting held at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office. The report, prepared by Mr. Rawson, was read by Mrs. Arthur Gerity, secretary.

This touched on the economy of the county, marketing, trading and location, shipping, and population figures.

The Shoshone Sale Yard handled 38,587 head of livestock annually, the report states, with a gross sales amounting to $4,480,000.

Most of the hay produced in the county stays in the county; one-third of the milk produced is purchased by Nelson Ricks Creamery, Richfield. Last year about 3,863,024 gallon was handled by the creamery, with exports of milk to other areas: Gooding, Blaine and Jerome county participants being $1,272,929.88.

The other milk produced in the county is sold to Craft Foods, Ida-Gem Dairyman of Jerome and Twin Falls dairies, the report states.

Nelson-Ricks cheese sales for 1968 amounted to $1,571,879.25. Sale of other products in the area amounted to $500,000 on a total of $132,000.00.

Five poultry farms in the county produce 415,000 broilers annually, the report states. Potato production on 6,000 acres yields about 1,200 hundredweight, representing $1,080,000.

There are 1,500 acres of sugar beets in the county, 10,000 beets harvested, while there are 11,000 acres of wheat planted, 563,800 bushels produced, 5,800 acres of mixed grain; 2,800 acres of beans producing 30,000 bags and about 10,000 acres of barley.

There are at present 20 retail businesses in the county, three wholesale, 68 service, one sand and gravel, plus city, county, state and federal offices.

Data compiled by the ASCS

Milk Output For January Listed

BOISE (UPI) — The total production of milk in Idaho was estimated at 114 million pounds during January, 1969, compared with 110 million pounds a year earlier and 114 million pounds two years ago.

The Department of Agriculture said dairymen in Idaho received an average of $1.14 per pound of milkfat in milk used for American cheese during January — seven cents more than a year earlier.

The January milk price in butter, farmers received $1.12 per pound of milkfat, compared with $1.05 a year ago.

than five years of school in 1960 with 8.4 on the U. S. average for Lincoln county high above that at 1.5, while 4.1 had completed two years of secondary education on a national level and 48 had completed the two years on the county level.

The county school enrollment has dropped, with a loss of about 60 children over a five-year period checked. The county has decreased in population somewhat also.

Clifford Ward conducted the meeting. Leo York, Boise, and Willard Stevenson, Twin Falls, were present as representatives of the Farmers-Home-Administration. York spoke briefly stating properly informing the citizens of the work of the planning commission is an important factor in the work.

Arthur Gerity, recreation and wild-life chairman, reported on possible sites for recreation development in the county. He also said the BLM has been notified not to renew leases for signs but that those currently under lease are to be left up until the lease runs out.

Idahoan Named Officer Of National Wool Growers Unit

SALT LAKE CITY — Record crowds looking forward to an optimistic year for the sheep industry closed their 104th annual National Wool Growers Convention held in San Francisco with the election of James E. McKavett, Texas, as their president.

Also elected were Vice Presidents Verne Vivian, Rawlins, Wyo., W. P. Espin, Litchfield, Pa., and William Sjode, Idaho, and St. Anthony, Idaho.

Important resolutions passed by the delegate body included the grazing fees issue. The Federal Land Committee resolved that "the Bureau of Land Management and the Forest Service have now imposed an unreasonable and premature increase in grazing fees on federal lands that does not take into consideration the cost of the permit itself which has a historically recognized capitalized value."

"We urge delay of this new fee so the next Congress will have an opportunity to review the change," said the speaker. "This protest is based upon the premise that the conclusions arrived at by the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture were erroneous because of the omission of some of the cost factors brought out in the cooperative study."

The national association further urged that Congress continue to provide adequate funds for control and eradication of scarpies and wild dogs. The association strongly opposed Food and Drug Administration restrictions that have been recommended on the use of antibiotics on animals for human consumption. They further stated that until a complete study of the effects of such products on humans has been completed they urged that these restrictions be withheld.

USDA Officials Drafting New Egg Inspection Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials are drafting proposals for a new federal egg inspection law, informed sources disclosed today. The legislation will be designed to keep dirty, leaking and cracked eggs from being used in manufactured egg products without effective cleanup practices or other necessary controls.

Sources said the proposal is under review by officials in the department's consumer and marketing services. "Whatever detailed plans these officials work out would next go to Secretary Clifford M. Hardin's office for final approval before the department moves to make a formal public proposal."

Work on developing a mandatory egg inspection bill got under way last year in the department after prodding from Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and other congressional members of food safety measures.

A first round of study, it was reported, produced a tentative proposal under which continuous federal inspection would be required in all plants producing liquid frozen and dried egg products for interstate commerce. Plants producing these products for intrastate sale—plus bakeries, mayonnaise makers and other food manufacturers who use eggs—would not have been subject to continuous inspection, but all such intrastate and food plants would have been required to use anything but clean, sound shell eggs.

Now, the source said, department officials are considering a different approach which would subject interstate and intrastate plants to the same set of regulations.

Under the second plan, any egg products plant—interstate or intrastate—which uses only "clean, sound" shell eggs would be left free of continuous inspection. But any manufacturer who uses eggs which pose a possible health hazard unless handled properly would be subject to continuous inspection under federal regulations.

A department source said that under the first plan, plants using only "clean, sound" eggs would not need continuous inspection because such eggs generally are not a public health problem.

Averages For Local Dairy Herds Listed

There were 40 dairy herds with 2,468 cows on production in January in the Twin Falls County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, according to the Twin Falls County agent, Donald F. Youst.

Testing supervisor, Mrs. Warren Hart, Buhl, reports that 19 herds in Unit 1 totaled 1,366 cows on test with 1,738 milkings. A total of 228 dry cows in Unit 1 were tested, with 1,083 cows on test, with 906 milkings and 188 dry, according to Bill Lamm, Elgin.

Unit 2 testing supervisor, Mr. Youst said that all records are now being processed at the Washington State University Computer processing center. He said that monthly production is now being reported as daily average production for milk and butterfat, and not as total monthly production as previously reported.

The daily average production is for all cows in the herd, including dry cows, not just cows that are milking.

The following daily average production figures list number of cows milking, total cows, average daily milk production and average daily butterfat production for January.

- Unit 1 — Al Smutny, Twin Falls, 112, 122, 41.7, and 1.48; John Alford, 25, 27, 34.2, and 1.19; Calvin Graybeak, 69, 66, 37.6, and 1.03; Foster Lott, 61, 74, 27.2, and .97; James LaGrone, 55, 70, 28.8, and 1.02; and Alan Pierce, 52, 115, 20.9, and 1.41.

- Unit 2 — Irvin Ehlers, 63, 74, 27.7, and 1.01; Harvey Quesada, 25, 24, 25.3, and .91; Gary Custer, 62, 79, 37.4, and 1.24; and Mike Holloway, 11, 12, 45.6, and 1.45, all from Twin Falls.

- Unit 3 — Vernon Lassen, 47, 51, 28.8, and 1.05; and 1.01; Harvey Quesada, 1.54; Walter Mattleson, 85, 108, 27.4, and 1.20; Dale Williams, 28, 35, 30.2, and 1.25; Everett Andrews, 27, 30, 30.7, and 1.19; Gaylord Brown, 27, 38, 30.3, and 1.21; Carl Leonard, 25, 27, 31.6, and 1.21; and Carl Walzel, 40, 59, 22.7, and .88, all Elgin.

- Unit 4 — Roger Stafford, Kimberly, 36, 49, 28.1, and 1.24; Earl Watts, 26, 29, 37.4 and 1.42; and Russel Riggs, 56, 62, 38.1, and 1.60, both Burleigh, W. H. Pearson, Kimberly, 40, 49, 28.1, and 1.10; T. W. Richmond, 70, 85, 39.7, and 1.34; Burton Baughman, 19, 23, 31.0, and 1.12; Harvey Grindstad, 41, 50, 30.2, and 1.07; A. W. Tedlock, 41, 50, 30.2, and 1.03; and Warren Hart, 37, 43, 34.0, and 1.35, all Buhl.

Sturdy New Hybrid Elfin Useful For Creating Multicolor Garden Vistas

Elfins, love a shady lane, and their new ease to maintain a nook or corner in the garden. Just give them half a chance and you'll see how gay and bright they can be.

These are, of course, the remarkable Elfin impatiens, sturdy new hybrids that can turn your problem shade spots into colorful garden vistas. Older "busy Lizzies," as impatiens are sometimes affectionately known, served the shaded areas well for a long time, but now the Elfins have arrived to challenge their performance.

Their range of vivid colors alone is noteworthy. You'll find here are Elfin impatiens in eight distinct hues—scarlet, orange, white, rose, salmon, crimson, fuchsia, and pink. Imagine what any color will do to places the sun never reaches.

You'll like these new hybrids for other reasons, too. They are self-branching at the base, eliminating any need for pinching them back, and they have a firm, uniform habit that keeps mature plants only 12 to 15 inches high.

While other plants that flower in varying degrees of shade are quite limited in their color palette, these plants that flower in shade are quite numerous. Along with the Elfins, knowledgeable gardeners will consider the merits of brodiaea, fibrous and tuberous rooted begonias, lobelia, nicotiana, fuchsia, and, where there is a bit of exposure to the sun, such flowers as calendulas and pansies.

And certainly the rainbow of colors found in coleus gives these plants considerable status in the shaded garden, even though it is only the foliage rather than the flowers that put on the show.

With the fibrous rooted begonia, you'll find a wide range of place for them both in the sun and shade if they are the newer F1 hybrids such as Cinderella White and Cinderella Rose, which has rose-pink flowers. These garden gems have the added attraction of conspicuous golden centers. They grow 8 to 10 inches tall.

Browallias are more often seen adorning pots and hanging baskets than they are in garden settings, but they are equally adaptable to such places, particularly where shade is a factor.

If you must be convinced, try the Silver Bells and Blue-Bells Improved browallias. Both become literally covered with 1/2 inch, bell-shaped flowers—snow white in the case of Silver Bells and lavender blue in Blue Bells Improved. The latter is a dwarf, branching strain that virtually takes care of itself.

Congress May Study Some Farm Bargaining Power Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress probably will give "some consideration" this year to bills promoting farmer bargaining power, a Capitol Hill farm leader said today.

But W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee said in an interview the Nixon administration's timing of new general farm legislation could make passage of a bargaining bill this year unlikely.

Poage said he remains doubtful any major new bargaining bill can be written into law before congress is ready to revise or extend the basic farm support law the day expires at the end of the 1970 crop season.

Interest in new laws making it easier for farmers to negotiate collectively with processors and other big buyers has been running high in farm circles for the past year, President Nixon steered clear of commitment to any specific bargaining plan during his campaign, but did promote an "encouragement of farmers to improve their bargaining power through their cooperatives."

Pressure for congressional attention the issue is expected to pick up next month when the American Farm Bureau federation is due to complete drafting of its new bargaining proposal. The Farm Bureau bill is expected to include provisions under which buyers would be required to negotiate with qualified farmer bargaining associations, but would not be compelled to sign agreements with the farmer groups.

Also on the congressional agenda, meanwhile, is a bargaining bill introduced by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn. The Mondale bill would authorize farmer-buyer negotiations through either an expansion of existing federal marketing order programs, or through creation of a new system of boards which would make binding decisions when farm associations and buyers couldn't agree on contract terms.

"I suppose we'll have to give some consideration" to the bargaining issue, Poage told UPI. Poage believes most lawmakers will favor handling both issues at about the same time. And he said he has seen no sign that the administration will press for passage of a new general farm bill before next year.

"I think we should take up the subject of general farm legislation now," Poage said. "But the chance of getting anything passed this year will depend on when the administration moves to handle both support and production control programs, due to expire next year, for major crops including wheat, feed grains and cotton."

Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin has so far avoided anything faintly resembling a statement on what kind of changes he will propose in price support and production control programs, due to expire next year, for major crops including wheat, feed grains and cotton.

Hardin has announced plans to hold a series of "listening" meetings on college campuses this spring to gather views of farmers and others on future moves in basic farm policy.

Gooding 4-H Council Plans Benefit Event

TUTTLE—The Gooding County 4-H Leader's Council met recently at the home of Mrs. Bob Robinson, Tuttle.

Cliff Harris, Wendell, president, conducted the discussion in regard to the 4-H Benefit Dinner, sponsored by the Gooding County Granges. The date was set for March 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Gooding Grange Hall.

Proceeds will be divided between the 4-Hers and the Youth Grange this year.

Officers were given to all juniors. Anyone who sells 10 or more tickets will be given a 4-H tee shirt.

Sandy Kassel, home agent, presented the program which was entitled "Glad to Grow." Graham Hooper stated that there are two scholarships available for juniors.

Leaders who wish to report on all community beautification progress in the county, to the state convention at Boise. For details contact the County Agent's office.

Each 4-H Club is urged to carry a community project which will help beautify the state. Mr. Hooper reminded the group that the deterioration of most of the past high citizenship was due to the lack of conservation practices.

Suggested activities include planting and labeling trees in public places, clean-up and plant ground cover along roadside and to stabilize banks; plant shade trees, general park improvement, build a firetrap and escape the area in a park or picnic area, grow seedlings for replanting, clean vacant lots, remove trash, remove tires and sand dunes, beautify historical areas and grow and display native plants for the benefit of the public.

UCLA Drops New Mexico State, Santa Clara Nips Weber State In Overtime

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Top-ranked UCLA, slowed down by almost a crawl by deliberate fouls, was able to score enough Thursday night to beat the ninth-ranked Aggies, 33-30, to move into Saturday's first round of the Western Regional basketball playoffs against Santa Clara.

The fourth overtime—Broncos and Weber State played 6:59 in overtime.

Law Alcindor, surrounded all evening by sometimes as many as four Aggies, led the Bruins to their 17th consecutive victory in NCAA Tournament play with 16 points. John Vallely added 10.

The Bruins led only 21-17 at halftime and definitely were bothered by New Mexico State's zone defense. But they got going in the second half, scoring their seven points to improve to a 28-17 advantage. Vallely had a pair of field goals in the seven-minute overtime.

Alcindor twisted his right ankle in a scramble in the final minute of the game and left the court. However, it did not appear that the injury was serious.

With the score 40-28 in UCLA's favor, Alcindor hit three straight field goals—He scored 11 points in the first half. The victory gave the Bruins a 26-1 record for the season. They beat the Aggies 69-49 in last year's regional at Albuquerque, N.M.

UCLA, which now has won 89 of its last 91 games, could not seem to get the New Mexico State defense in the opening half. The Bruins' biggest lead in the first half was eight points at 12-10.

New Mexico State was led in scoring by two players, Sam Lacey and Jimmy Collins. Each had 12 points in the game.

In the first game, Chris Deane and Terry O'Brien each hit two free throws in the final minute and one-half of overtime to give Santa Clara its come-from-behind win.

The Broncos, who have won two straight West Coast Athletic Conference Championships, nearly didn't make it past the underdog Wildcats. After leading by as many as 18 points in the first half, they fell behind in the second half by as many as 10.

Santa Clara led 29-19 at halftime and the regulation score was 59-59.

With the score tied 59-59 in overtime, Dempsey put the Broncos ahead to stay with a free throw with 1:30 to go.

O'Brien made a pair of charity tosses with 20 seconds left and Dempsey added another free throw with 13 to go.

In the second half, Santa Clara moved from a 5-3 deficit into a 27-9 lead with 14:50 gone. Then the Wildcats started to come back.

They tied the score at 32-32 and finally went ahead for the first time in the game at 46-44 with 8:10 left on a 20-foot jump shot from the corner from Larry Burch.

Santa Clara sent the game into overtime on a short jump shot from the side by center Willie McConkey.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Willie McConkey, the National League's home run and run batted in king last season, ended a 12-day holiday Thursday when he signed a two-year contract with the San Francisco Giants for an estimated $35,000 a year.

Giants vice president Chub Feeney announced the signing shortly before San Francisco's 1969 season.

Feeney did not reveal exact terms of the contract, but he said, "Willie got almost what he wanted."

McConkey, obviously happy said, "We each gave a little and I'm very happy with the contract."

McConkey, hit 38 homers and drove in 105 runs last year. He said he had no set goals for the 1969 season, "but there is no reason for me not to expect to do as well again."

The 31-year-old first baseman earned an estimated $65,000 last year and was believed to have been negotiating for a $100,000 pact. The Giants refused to meet that figure but McConkey accepted a $75,000 "little money for security."

By security, he meant a two-year contract which still leaves him open to renegotiate money terms next year.

While Feeney indicated the contract was a solid two-year agreement, McConkey said he had a gentleman's agreement as far as the money part of the contract goes next year.

McConkey's club, Cito King appeared to be even happier than McConkey with the signing. "You hit your life line, you work right away. I can't imagine opening the season without him."

er. You have to instill self-hatred for losing that the only time you will win when you are completely outmanned. The athletic dormitory is good because it brings unity."

Looking at next fall, Coach McNease said, "We don't know exactly what we have because spring practice hasn't started. But we lose only three men who started all the time last year and we feel we are stronger at every position. If the potential is there it is up to the coaches to bring it out. There is a possibility that we will be starting 16 sophomores and our success will depend on it. They have matured sufficiently. Sometimes it takes until the junior year."

Writer Follows Edict, Outlines Working Day

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Under orders from Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Klendenshu, Justice Department lawyers are now required to fill out daily time sheets on which they record their activities in 12-minute segments.

Klendenshu's "clerk" reports will provide valuable statistical data for evaluating case loads. But some of the attorneys view the system as a bureaucratic paperwork.

"Well, you can't really tell what another man is up against until you try it yourself. So I decided to keep a time sheet that breaks down into 12-minute periods."

Since the Justice Department uses coded symbols to denote certain activities, I have done the same on my time sheet.

For example, the notation "S" is Circling Moose Jaw, which is the title of a book by

Prize Winner Gives Trips To His Family

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (UPI)—Ever wonder what happens to those lucky people who win fabulous prizes in drawings and contests?

For some, it changes their whole lives; others take their good luck in stride.

For one winner, Arthur Burrows, it hasn't changed things much, but for his wife and three children it has opened a whole new world.

Two years ago, Burrows won the first annual "Fly Free For Life" sweepstakes—sponsored by American Express' Credit Card Division.

Burrows had an option of $25,000 in cash—but he decided to accept the free-travel prize.

Although he himself has no aircraft job, he has traveled just about everywhere in the world.

Burrows' prize allows him up to $5,000 in travel each year.

So far, he and his family have visited Montreal, Hawaii, Los Angeles, San Francisco, New Orleans and a few other cities.

"What lies ahead? Since the prize also includes escorted tours, Burrows has in mind a trip to Florida and a Caribbean cruise—a tour of the Greek Islands, Japan, Australia and New Zealand.

"We don't really try hard to use up the $5,000 every year," he reports. "We're mostly looking for trips the whole family can enjoy."

As for this year's Fly Free For Life Contest, Burrows got his entry in early. If he wins this time, he'll take the $25,000—to pay taxes.

Pianos Need Maintenance With Care

LINCOLNWOOD, Ill. (UPI)—A piano is a piece of furniture, yes. It's also a musical instrument and as such needs special care.

One manufacturer offers these tips. Place the piano in a sheltered spot, away from direct sunlight, open windows or heating outlets. Excessive heat and changes of temperature cause alternate shrinking and swelling of the wood, drying and cracking of joints, and changes of string tensions.

Try to keep the humidity in the room as even as possible, suggests Shroy & Clark, piano dealers in console pianos. Humidity is the big enemy of most pianos and is most apt to ruin the sounding board.

Keep liquids away from the piano. Spills by convivial guests can ruin the piano action and mean expensive repairs.

Use a good brand of furniture polish on the exposed wood parts, but avoid cleaning the inside. Leave the interior to the piano technician.

Don't put nubby balls or insect repellents inside the instrument. A wood piano will have its wood felt parts properly maintained.

Clean black and white keys with a damp, not a wet, cloth. If need be, remove stubborn stains with a little gentle soap in a cloth. Never use polishes, solvents or other materials on the keys. Never oil the piano—this is the job for the tuner.

And play the piano regularly. Idle pianos deteriorate much more rapidly than pianos that are used.

T. F. Miss Picked For Young GOP Competition

Jan Sinclair, Twin Falls, a sophomore French major at the University of Idaho, has been selected as a finalist in the local Miss Young Republican contest.

The winner will be announced at a dance Saturday in the Student Union Building sponsored by the campus Young Republicans. The university contest is being held in conjunction with the state contest which is still in progress.

The winner of the state contest will be announced at the annual awards banquet of the State Young Republicans convention which will be held April 18-19 in Moscow.

T.F. High School Students Set For Syringa Girls' State

Six Twin Falls High School girls have been selected to attend the 23rd annual Syringa Girls' State.

The convocation will be June 15-21 at Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, under sponsorship of the American Legion Auxiliary, Post No. 7, is the local sponsor.

The summer program is designed to give girls extensive training and practice in the operation of government of state, county and local levels. The Twin Falls group, along with other delegates from Idaho, will travel to Boise, where the Girls' State will conduct a two-day State-session of the state legislature.

Mrs. W. W. Noble is local chairman of the Girls' State committee.

Tierza Danner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Danner, is first alternate.

LINDA LEWIS is an honor student and will be in the all county and other high school clubs. She is an avid skier. The Business and Professional Women's Club is sponsoring her. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garner A. Lewis.

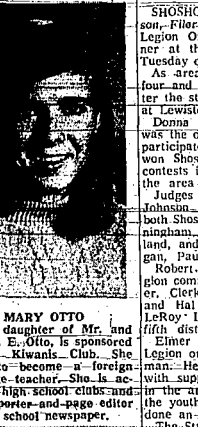

ELIZABETH BAMESBERGER is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bamesberger. She is sponsored by the Sororist Club. She plans to attend college and become a first grade teacher. Youth organizations and speech are listed as her interests.

MISTY CAMERON is sponsored by the Altus Club. She is planning a career in medical research and education. She also is interested in sewing, swimming and skiing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean L. Cameron.

LINDA WATSON is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Watson. She is sponsored by the Rotary Club. She plans to major in medicine at Colorado State University. She has held high school elective offices and dances and plays the piano.

MARY OTTO is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Otto. She is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. She plans to become a foreign language teacher. She is active in high school clubs and is a reporter and page editor for the school newspaper.

Filer Girl Is Area Winner Of Contest

SHOSHONE - Cindy Anderson, Filer, was named the area Legion Oratorical contest winner at the contest event held Tuesday evening here.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson. She is four and five. She will now enter the state contest to be held at Lewiston.

Donna Mabbutt, Shoshone, was the other area entrant who participated Tuesday. She had won Shoshone and District 4 contests in order to qualify for the area event.

Judges were Rev. Wesley Johnson and Howard Adams, both Shoshone; Mrs. Lucie Cunningham, Filer; Mrs. June Loveland, and Rev. Raymond Milligan, Paul.

Robert Lewin, Shoshone Legion commander, was timekeeper. Clerks were Roger Kelley and Hal Ross, Shoshone, and LeRoy Leback, Paul, who is fifth district commander.

Elmer Terry has been local Legion oratorical contest chairman. He announces pleasure with support given the contest in the area this year and said the youth who participated had done an exceptional job.

The State contest will be followed by the national contest, which will be held in Boise this year.

1968 Sets New Records For T. F. Area Employment

December Twin Falls labor force data indicated the year 1968, with all months accounted for, set new all time records for employment and total labor force.

For January the level continued high and the 18,020 worker total was by far the highest ever recorded for that month. Good annual growth was shown by an 820 increase over one year ago. With winter employment well above previous years, the stage is set for an optimistic outlook concerning 1969.

Strongly implicated in the high levels of employment this winter was the high plateau of non-agricultural employment. This restricted the magnitude of normal seasonal fluctuations with more year round jobs offered within many segments of the area's labor force. Food processing establishments provided more jobs over longer seasonal periods, trade firms held longer employment levels and construction activity kept additional workers busy through the cold weather months.

The typical seasonal variation within the Twin Falls labor market area includes a wide spread cutback in employment during January and February. The relative position of the month, therefore, is registered in terms of the size of the declines. If from December, this amount of 550 or more or a reverse of volatility over a six month period that amount to be at least 50.

Pin Awarded

John Henderson, was presented with a 50-year membership pin at the recent meeting of the Omaha Woodmen Lodge. Mr. Henderson joined the society in 1918 and is the only 50-year member in Idaho at the present time.

Food Sale Set

Plans for a cooked food sale were made during a recent meeting of the Dozen Duets 4-H Club.

The sale will be held March 29 at Penny's, Twin Falls. A potluck dinner in April was discussed. The next meeting will be April 1 at the home of Melody Brown.

A variety of building construction projects and renovations have been under way within the area through the cold weather months. The Towerest Manor near the city hall in Twin Falls is well under way. This project will provide rental for restricted income clientele.

A $300,000 remodeling project within the Twin Falls labor market area includes a wide spread cutback in employment during January and February. The relative position of the month, therefore, is registered in terms of the size of the declines. If from December, this amount of 550 or more or a reverse of volatility over a six month period that amount to be at least 50.

Pin Awarded

Elizabeth Havens, was presented with her past presidents care of appreciation.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Ray Reynolds.

Pin Awarded

John Henderson, was presented with a 50-year membership pin at the recent meeting of the Omaha Woodmen Lodge. Mr. Henderson joined the society in 1918 and is the only 50-year member in Idaho at the present time.

Food Sale Set

Plans for a cooked food sale were made during a recent meeting of the Dozen Duets 4-H Club.

The sale will be held March 29 at Penny's, Twin Falls. A potluck dinner in April was discussed. The next meeting will be April 1 at the home of Melody Brown.

A variety of building construction projects and renovations have been under way within the area through the cold weather months. The Towerest Manor near the city hall in Twin Falls is well under way. This project will provide rental for restricted income clientele.

A $300,000 remodeling project within the Twin Falls labor market area includes a wide spread cutback in employment during January and February. The relative position of the month, therefore, is registered in terms of the size of the declines. If from December, this amount of 550 or more or a reverse of volatility over a six month period that amount to be at least 50.
