Rockets Bombard Downtown Saigon In Red Offensive

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops opened the fourth week of the winter offensive Sunday morning by firing seven powerful Soviet-made rockets into downtown Saigon. It was the first shelling of the South Vietnamese capital in 10 days. There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage in the predawn barrage Sunday. U.S. spokesmen said the big missiles apparently landed in the city's first and fourth precincts. One was reported to have slammed into the Newport Bridge, a main span over the Saigon river.

Hughes' Aide Hints Deal On Air West May Collapse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Multimillionaire Howard Hughes' right hand man, R. A. Maheu, testified Friday he had full authority to go ahead with the purchase of Air West but had not yet reached a decision.

Maheu said during a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing on an application by the Hughes Tool Co., Las Vegas, Nev., to acquire Air West, that Hughes had agreed to pay nearly $100 million for the airline.

Hughes, Maheu testified, had agreed to pay about $30 million for the assets of the airline and to assume liability of about $66 million. He said the price was the equivalent of about 22 percent of the airline's stock.

Coeur d'Alene Fire Fighters Ponder Strike Over Salary

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — The Coeur d'Alene Firefighters Union will meet today to consider a strike with city officials over wages.

The firemen are asking for a three per cent per year over the pay of a first-year employee, which is $5,600.

The increase was recommended by a fact-finding committee established by the city last summer to look into salaries of city employees, and Union President Bill Kilborn said his union is merely asking the City Council to abide by that recommendation.

Sunday's meeting was scheduled after Kilborn and Coeur d'Alene Mayor Larry Gardner met Tuesday without apparent progress. That night, firefighters met to discuss the possibility of taking a strike vote, but only at the request of a representative of the International Association, who came to the city from California to quell the lo-share of the airline's stock. During questioning by counsel Ernest P. Kaufmann, Hughes representative conceded the price had been agreed to even though a financial consultant had recommended Hughes not pay more than $20 a share.

Asked why the higher price was agreed to, Maheu said it was in the expectation that Air West would prove profitable in the long run, because of the "tremendous growth" of the area it serves, good existing routes, and the potential of routes for which it has applied.

Asked by Kaufmann who would make the final decision whether to pick up an option buy Air West, Maheu replied, "I will." Under further questioning, Maheu said he might discuss the matter with Hughes but also might act without doing so. If he decided not to go through with the transaction and Hughes disagreed, he said he resigned to a question, Hughes would have to "start from scratch" again.

After Maheu testified he could make the decision without first telling Hughes about it, Kaufmann said he got the impression that "Mr. Hughes is not too concerned over whether this is approved or not."

When the counsel tried to question Maheu on the extent of Hughes' interest in the matter, an attorney for Hughes Tool objected that the application to the CAB was sufficient evidence of interest. The objection was sustained by Ross Newman, the CAB hearing examiner.

Earlier testimony revealed Hughes is the sole stockholder of the tool firm.

Kaufmann asked Maheu a series of questions about how he had communicated with Hughes on various matters involving the Air West case. Maheu responded each time that it had been by telephone. An attorney for Hughes suggested finally that Kaufmann was asking the questions out of personal curiosity and asked if they had any relevance to the case. After Kaufmann replied he wanted to learn whether any of Maheu's contacts with Hughes had been in writing, Maheu responded that all had been oral.

Rubber Firms Recall Tires With Defects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two major tire manufacturers have agreed to recall more than 31,000 tires deemed defective.

The General Tire and Rubber Co. will recall 31,000 tires manufactured last year, because they failed to pass safety tests. The tires were listed as "General Jet-tires-Size 6-16's." The tires will be replaced without charge, the company said.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. is recalling 923 passenger tires, size 6.50x13 with a 6 k sidewall, because of defects. Goodyear said that the tires, made in its Los Angeles plant, might not pass minimum government strength standards because fabric specifications were not met. They could fall under "severe use," a spokesman explained.

All of the defective tires have serial numbers beginning with "UT0" and most are probably still in the hands of dealers, the company said.

Music Scholarships Are Offered To Blind Students

The National Federation of Music Clubs is offering eight $100 scholarships to blind students. Two of the grants will be awarded in each of the four NFMC regions.

The scholarships were established by vote of the board of directors at the 1968 fall session in Cleveland, Ohio, according to information received by Mrs. Donald Youtz, state scholarship chairman.

Mrs. Youtz said the applicant must be a member of the Junior Division in good standing and must not have reached his or her 18th birthday by March 1. The applicant must receive a superior rating at the Junior Music Festival, and must have a letter of recommendation from his teacher, accompanied by an affidavit from the attending ophthalmologist stating the student is "officially blind," with 20/200 or less vision after correction.

Teaching music at the Gooding State School is complex for Mrs. Deloris Robinson, in that her pupils are blind. She notes that it is even more difficult because more than 90 per cent of recently composed music has not been brailled, making the choice of music limited.

Braille music is a system of dots embossed on heavy paper that may be deciphered by touch. All three coded in braille choose at least a few items from each category. The whetals have been set in motion to press braille music, even to instrumental categories.

Blind musicians complain about the lack of contemporary music available to them. From the beginning of history the blind have been known as musicians, Mrs. Robinson noted.

From the bards of antiquity through Bach in later years, Delius and contemporary musicians Jean Langlais and George Shearing, music has often been associated with the blind. In fact, Mrs. Robinson said Louis Braille, who devised the system, was an organist in a Paris church.

Perhaps some future noted blind musician will first gain attention through the National Federation of Music Clubs. The national committee is now studying the bulletin and plans to "tivalis," Mrs. Robinson said.

School Funding Studied

BY PAUL M. QUINN
BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho legislature today received a Conference Committee report on funding higher education at $17,200,000 in general fund monies and $880,000 from the state's $20 million surplus.

House and Senate Democrats and Republicans immediately went into caucus to decide whether or not to try and run the report through by amending House Bill 303—the controversial measure that has tied the 40th Legislative session in knots for a week.

The session was in its 52nd day and second overtime day today with the stage set for a showdown "votebook" on higher education.

If approved, the higher education bill — and a supplementary appropriations measure — would bring the total to $48,150,000 — $2,650,000 more than recommended by Gov. Don Samuelson in his executive budget.

The Conference Committee amendments to the higher education proposal would give the University of Idaho in Moscow $21,200,000 from the general fund; Idaho State University $14,500,000; Boise State College $8,550,000; Lewis Clark $1,500,000 and Junior colleges $1,400,000.

However, the supplementary appropriation from the surplus would add $450,000 — to Boise State College's total of $20,000,000; Idaho State University's figure and $200,000 to the University of Idaho.

Tentative agreement was reached Friday among the Republicans on the Conference Committee proposal.

The future of the measure appeared doubtful.

House Majority Leader Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, said the higher education proposal "just stands a 50-50 chance."

New Charges Are Filed Against North Idahoan

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Donald Otis Hodges, who is presently being held without bond here on charges of first degree murder and kidnaping, received two new charges Friday.

Hodges was jailed on connection with the shooting death of Floyd Johnson, 80, and kidnaping of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Runge, Coeur d'Alene, the night of Feb. 27.

The next day the Runges were held in their home for ransom demanded of one of Mr. Runge's furniture store employees. Hodges was arrested outside Runge's home.

The additional charges were for the kidnaping of Johnson's wife and assaulting her with a deadly weapon.

Writer Sees ABM As 'Idiotic' Plan

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — A nationally known journalist told a University of Idaho audience Friday he feels the proposed anti-ballistic system endorsed by President Nixon is "idiotic."

The statement from Nat Hentoff of New York was made in a panel discussion during the Borah Symposium on War and Violence at the university campus.

At an earlier session a former special advisor to the U.S. Air Force and the office of Naval Intelligence told some 2,000 students and faculty members he supported the idea of this venture.

MINIDOKA COUNTY

Probate Judge Ron Harris and Allen Rasmussen, Burley, were bound over to Fifth District Court Tuesday on a charge of first degree burglary following a preliminary hearing they were arrested Feb. 21 after they allegedly entered the back entrance of the R. S. Smitol Plant and Hayburn, entered the frozen storage building and left with frozen food products. They were seen entering the back entrance and then returning at a run to their car by Hayburn-Marshall-Alzack-Gilby with the assistance of State Patrolman Gene Bolton, arrested the pair. The officers were running radar near the firm when the incident occurred. Rasmussen is presently free after posting a $500 bond, although Harris is in custody of the Minidoka County Sheriff's office in lieu of posting the bond. No date for appearance in district court has been set.

Max Black, Twin Falls, appeared before Judge LeRoy Blacker for a preliminary hearing on a charge of larceny by bailee. Black is accused of selling equipment for a tavern and then not paying the money to the original owner of the equipment. The judge took the matter under advisement and indicated a decision should be forthcoming by April 3. The man is free on a $500 bond.

Lindsay Rakes SDS Students For Violence

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time in his administration Mayor John V. Lindsay has singled out the leftist Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) as part of the source of organized rebellion in the city's schools. Lindsay said the "itinerant troublemakers" in the public schools, including SDS members, would be dealt with "severely" if they continue to stir up trouble. "They've got to be isolated and will be dealt with very, very severely," he said. "There are some Students for a Democratic Society involved, but it is not big." The SDS has been active in student demonstrations on college campuses across the country. The mayor issued his warning after a meeting with a special panel of city officials and other top-level citizens who are studying ways to nip school violence in the bud. The 13-member panel will study student complaints before they erupt into violence, Lindsay said.

Farmer's Wife Discovers 'Miraculous' Strength

By MILDRED SHELL
Housewife, Marble Hill, Mo.

On that sunny August afternoon several years ago there was no indication that anything could mar the beauty and peace of the day. It was a Friday and I could hear the hum of my husband's tractor as he mowed the grass in the field next to our backyard.

weight of the tractor and I wasn't even bothered by its heat. Meanwhile, Howard was struggling to speak... "I can't... longer."

In many private conversations Howard and I had agreed that death was not something to fear. We had surrendered our lives to God many years before. Miraculously, we felt He had brought Howard back after a head wound nearly killed him on Saipan during World War II.

Posthumous Awards Given James Curtis

HAGERMAN — Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Curtis were presented awards, posthumously, last week, for their son, James M. Curtis, who was killed in Vietnam.

"I don't know what it was that caused me to turn suddenly and look at my husband on the tractor. As I did so, I watched in horror and disbelief as the tractor hit something hard in the grass, then turned over, pinning my husband beneath."

"I can't," Howard was straining to breathe and talk at the same time. "A rock under my back... I'm hurt!" His leg was still pinned under the tractor. It was obvious that we couldn't get him out without help.

"Run," I said to Jack. "Phone Mr. Stephens and ask him to bring help." I began running toward the tractor knowing that I had to get Howard out from under before it burst into flames.

Benjamin Christensen, 18, Glenns Ferry, was fined $10 in Glenns Ferry police court for failure to yield right of way at an intersection, following an accident.

The 1968 Plymouth driven by Elizabeth Hampton with which Christensen collided was damaged an estimated $50, according to Glenns Ferry City Patrolman Melvin Helwich. The other car was not damaged, and there were no injuries, Helwich reported.

Help Sought

GLENN'S FERRY — The Ek Ada Community Action Agency is seeking applications for various positions for the Headstart program this summer. It will begin operation June 10, ending Aug. 8. All applications must be in by March 21.

I didn't stop to think how hopelessly ridiculous it would be to search for something to prop up the tractor. There was nothing.

Children In Burley Area Are Given Opportunity To Create

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — The sixth annual crafts classes for children in first grade through eighth grade have been held each Saturday at Burley Junior High School. The classes are co-sponsored by the Burley Soroptimist Club and the Burley City Recreation Department.

A total of 45 students registered for the classes. Two classes were taught each Saturday by Mrs. Jan Bergman, a sixth grade teacher at the Burley Junior High School. Youth in grades five through eight began their class at 9 a.m. and the first grade through fourth grade began their class at 10 a.m. for instruction in handcraft work.

This year the children received instruction in stick craft and leather work. The greatest interest seemed to be in stick craft. Some of the items the youth made included napkin holders, wishing-well planters and bird-houses.

In leather work the youngsters made various colored-heart shaped coin purses which featured the sides laced together.

Some of the youths made cork coasters. A picture was colored on the cork then a clear plastic sheet placed on both sides of the cork and lacing (as in leather work) was used to go around the outside of the coaster.

Newspapers were used to cover the work tables. A tube of glue, a handful of sticks, a piece of leather, a string of lacing were the main items which challenged the youth's initiative in the handcraft classes.

When the projects were completed by the boys and girls they were theirs to keep.

The handcraft classes lasted for eight Saturdays.

When the handcraft classes were in the planning stage by the City of Burley Recreation Department, additional finances were needed for the project. Jack Keen, city recreation director, spoke to the officers of the Burley Soroptimist Club about the project. The officers of the Soroptimist Club in turn brought the project before the membership and after discussion, the group voted to co-sponsor the handcraft classes with the city of Burley as one of the club's youth program projects. Since that time each year the Soroptimist Club has co-sponsored the handcraft classes.

In past years the children have made papier-mache items, wooden articles, leather tooling, ceramics and plastic items.

Each year after the classes are completed, the instructor selects various items which the children have made and displays them during a Soroptimist Club meeting. In this way the club members are able to see some of the items which the children have been working on.

Each item that a child makes during the handcraft classes is given to the child at the close of the session. Some of the children use the items they have made for gifts and others keep articles for their own use.

In 1966 when the Burley Soroptimist Club hosted the Rocky Mountain Regional Soroptimist Convention, the children in the handcraft classes made leather comb cases, leather coin purses and leather key rings which were used as favors at the convention.

Food, Fellowship Combination Are Unbeatable

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent

FILER — Good food — good fellowship — good entertainment — an unbeatable combination. No wonder the husbands and guests, as well as the members of Poplar Hill Social Club, look forward to the club's annual potluck dinner and card party.

This year's event was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reichert. Potluck dinners always create a friendly, relaxed atmosphere and this one was no exception. Although the dinners are always completely unplanned and no one knows what her neighbor is bringing as a "true" potluck should be, this dinner, as the others, had a large assortment of delicious food, from meat and potatoes, through vegetables, rolls, salads and ending with a variety of desserts.

Each member brought dishes and silver for herself and her guests so no time was spent after dinner washing dishes and the lively games of pinochle got underway in good time.

This club prefers to play straight pinochle with no discard and no "race horse." Four hands of play constitute a game, and five nines in a hand are eligible for the traveling prize which is given at the end of the evening to the person receiving the five nines most often. Mrs. Mabel Barron was this year's winner for this prize.

Mrs. Lena Reichert and Reuben Lierman were high score winners and Mrs. Guy Kimball and Cullen Wilson received low score prizes. Mrs. Arnold Gier had purchased the prizes and tables for the party and made arrangements.

The winter card party and potluck dinner originally began some years ago as a fund-raising project for the March of Dimes. Instead of canvassing the neighborhood for contributions to this worthy project, the club decided to hold a party and invite all the neighborhood to come for the dinner and cards and give their contributions at that time.

The idea proved most successful and was repeated for a number of years. After a polio vaccine was found which has almost wiped out the dread disease, the March of Dimes was discontinued, but the club decided to continue with the parties as purely social events.

The first gatherings were held in the old Poplar Hill school house which at that time housed eight grades of students. When consolidation of schools brought the students to Filer, the school house was moved into the town where for a number of years it was used as a gymnasium for one of the elementary schools.

Poplar Hill Social Club is one of the oldest clubs in the area. It was formed to enable the women in the area to become better acquainted with their neighbors. Members like the club so well that several have retained their membership and still attend the meetings even though they have moved to Filer or Twin Falls.

The meeting date has always been the fourth Tuesday afternoon of each month. Meetings are at homes of members where an assistant hostess helps the hostess with serving. A picnic for families is held in the summer and the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds has become the favorite place for it.

Several years ago the club hosted a tea for former members of the club at the Filer Grange Hall. The committee in charge sent an invitation to every woman who had ever been a member of the club and many made a special effort to attend the tea where a pleasant afternoon was spent in reminiscing and renewing of old friendships.

Not Real Successful, But Fun

By LIZ BOLTON

RUPERT — Well, it was not a thriving success, but it was fun. Too many other civic activities around Rupert recently were blamed for the poor turnout to the special hat show for the Mini-Cassia ladies, hosted by the Beta Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The idea for the fund-raising project was borrowed from a Moscow chapter, which reported the idea was well received there. The home of Mrs. Gary Newton, Rupert, was the scene for the half-day show which featured some 125 hats in various colors, shapes, sizes and moods, all selling for under four dollars.

To complement the hats, shifts, greeting cards and evening bags were also available. All merchandise was supplied by "Style Line," Minneapolis, Minn. That not sold was returned for a refund.

This was the initial effort of this kind for the local chapter and it is doubtful that it will be tried again next year, according to Mrs. Newton.

Assisting Mrs. Newton were Patty Wright, Merry Duff, Paula Sanders, Mary Garro, Judy O'Donnell, Fay Herbold and Barbara Olson.

Bism furnished background music.

Past Matrons Conduct Meet

WENDELL — The meeting of the Past Matrons Club was held at the home of Mrs. T. H. Boyd, with the hostess serving a delectable luncheon.

Plans were made for the March meeting to be held at 8 p.m. March 24 with Mrs. Lillian Barton.

At the conclusion of the meeting, work was continued on the fund-raising for civic activities, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Firth, chairman.

Hats

... of various sizes, colors, shapes and moods were shown during the recent half-day hat show sponsored by Beta Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority at the home of Mrs. Gary Newton, Rupert. In picture at left, Barbara Olson lies on one of the hats as she attempts to make a decision between several she liked. The idea for the hat show fund-raising project was borrowed from a Moscow chapter.

DEAR ABBY: What kind of "jam" could a man have gotten himself into that would cost him $5,000?

My fiance tells me that we have to postpone our marriage because a "jam" he got himself into took all his savings. I asked him to tell me the circumstances, but he refused to discuss it. I think that since we are engaged, he should have the right to know. What do you think? BERTIE

DEAR BERTIE: I think you do, too. A $5,000 "jam" represents a lot of sugar.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law is a doll. I love her as though she were my own daughter, but here is the problem. She has been married to my son for over three years now and she has never had and me to her house for a meal. Not once!

I have her and my son over for meals all the time, and we get along fine, so I know it's not that she doesn't care for me.

I know she has had little company dinners. (She has even asked me for recipes, which I give her gladly.) But we are never invited. It's not that she can't afford it because money is the least of their worries. Also she has a nice home and beautiful things to entertain with, so WHY hasn't she ever invited Dad and me over for a meal?

REWILDERED IN L.L.

DEAR BERTIE: If I had to guess, it would be because she lacks confidence and fears she wouldn't measure up.

DEAR ABBY: I was a student nurse but dropped out after one year. One of the things I learned in training was how to give a massage. In fact, that was just about the only thing I really liked about nursing.

A few months ago my roommate had her boyfriend over to the apartment and he complained "about some" someone he had "from" playing football, so I gave him a massage. In a few days he asked if I'd give him another massage, but this time he insisted on paying me. Since then he has sent four other clients, and now I'm massaging regularly. I enjoy doing this and I also like the extra money, but someone told me I am breaking the law! Is it true a person can't massage without a license? I also heard it's against the law to massage someone of the opposite sex. I can't believe it. DIANE

DEAR DIANE: In all states it is illegal to massage professionally without a license, and in some states one may not massage a member of the opposite sex. Check this with your county or state medical society. Or ask a lawyer to check it out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HAT: A man who really wants to work will take any kind of job he can get until something "more in his line" is available. Your man sounds like the kind who, when opportunity knocks at the front door, is out in the back yard looking for four-leaf clovers.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. * * *

Wildlife Federation Asks Steelhead, Salmon Tags; Convention Ends Sunday

BURLEY—In an effort to get some last-minute action from an adjournment minded state legislature, the Idaho Wildlife Federation convention delegates broke into a day of reports to pass a resolution calling for enactment of legislation to allow $1 salmon and steelhead tags.

The resolution, which was passed along by telegram to Boise, came after delegates heard a report from the legislature had managed to keep the bill from coming out of committee. The convention, finding basis among its own large membership and findings of a University of Idaho random fishing poll, felt anadromous anglers were more than happy to contribute more money to keep salmon and steelhead runs coming into the state.

enforcement would go only as far as the people demanded and supported it.

In the evening session, Jim Johnson, Seattle—Bureau of Sport, Fishing and Wildlife, tagging program on steelhead and salmon in the Columbia river. Largely Johnson limited his talk to the mechanics and obvious problems encountered.

"We are not ready to make any recommendations in solving the inter-relationship of water temperature, flow and timing of the runs at specific areas, but this may be more critical than originally thought," he said.

He made one point on the effectiveness of Indian gillnetting in the Columbia river above Bonneville dam. "We had a slow day and trapped and released 12 salmon. Eight of the tags (radios) were returned to us," he said.

He had the first fishing station who had the dam.

The College of Southern Idaho has a combined point average of 47 points per game and helped lead the Golden Eagles to a 27-5 season.

Joining Bush and Adams on the first squad are Ken Reynolds of the College of Eastern Utah, Mike Scheuer of Snow College, and Rick Camac of Mesa College.

U.S. Hockey Squad Is Ripped 17-2

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Coach John Mayasich looked haggard in the dressing room after watching his American team get ripped 17-2 by the world ice hockey champions Saturday.

Bush averaged around 17 points per game for the Eagles, who lost out in their bid for a Hutchinson, Kansas berth when they lost to the Golden Eagles in the regional tournament.

Adams finished the season with a 14 point per game average, while Stephens' season average was nearly 45.

"Honorable mention" honors went to Steve Wallace of Ricks, Kay Miles of Snow College, Harry Gony of Dixie College, Jeffrey Taylor of Snow and John Christian of Dixie.

Seeks Chief

Applications for commissioner to oversee football and basketball officiating are being accepted by the fourth district board of control, reports Board Member George Staudaer, Twin Falls assistant superintendent of schools.

Mayasich said the players on the U.S. squad had been forced to take their vacation or make a break in their studies to come here.

"But, it is more and more difficult to get players to play for their daily bread only," Mayasich quipped. "It's ridiculous to lose with such a score, but don't blame the players, it's the system which is wrong. And there is also another thing—European hockey improves each year."

Mayasich noted that his boys had played only three games and had had only two practice sessions—here in Stockholm, together.

Forest service personnel presented two reports concerned with mining and recreational areas. Max Beese, supervisor of the Sawtooth National Forest, explained the basis, history and planning of the proposed Sawtooth recreation area. Bills authorizing the area have been introduced in both houses of Congress by Idaho's delegation.

He said the matter of mining the sportsmen were told that the laws governing mining on public lands were enacted in 1872 and put the service in the position of trying to regulate a nuclear and space age industry with horse and buggy rules. The service, although it hasn't full power, is trying to serve the interest of all in full multiple use terminology by persuasion.

Still the service feels that with careful advanced planning by both sides, mining and wildlife can co-exist on public lands without being detrimental to each other.

Friday, Twin Falls City Manager Herb Derrick, chairman of the state water planning board, authorized the area have been introduced in both houses of Congress by Idaho's delegation.

He outlined the millions of dollars spent in the past six years by cities and industry and noted some aspects of pollution, such as herbicides, insecticides and livestock operations, haven't been discussed yet. He said he was pleased with the progress made and noted that there are 12,000 stream miles in the state but only about 100 of these are judged by the Fish and Game Department to be polluted enough to endanger the trout.

"But when you live in one of these areas," he said, referring to the Snake River problem, "it is easy to see why people begin pressing for strict and immediate control."

Derrick said he felt the state board of health was now prepared to start taking violators to court. "We've got the easy ones, we've got to get the tough ones," he said.

He added that enforcement will bring about more pressures from all sides and stated that

Personal OPINION

QUESTION

What do you think should be done to solve the problem of disposing of junk automobiles?

LOCATION

Interviews in this case were taken at Shelby's.

ANSWERS

LARRY ROUNDTREE: "I think they should find some way to tear down the cars and do something constructive with the materials."

MRS. B. V. BROWN: "I think they should have some way of crushing them together and baling them for scrap metal."

FLOYD HEAPS: "I think each city should invest in a machine to bale this scrap metal and sell the metal back to the government to make more cars."

MARLENE KNODEL: "I don't know what can be done about it. It certainly is a problem and I don't like the looks of it, but I have no solution."

Roundtree Brown Heaps Knodel

MRS. JAMES LITTLE: "I think it is best what they are doing in some other areas. They are dumping the old cars in low areas and using them for land fill. I certainly don't like the appearance of the junked cars and I would like to see something done about it."

HAL GLINES: "I really haven't given it much thought, but it seems the people could sell the old cars to salvage companies and the salvage companies could cut down the prices on the parts from these cars. Possibly some of the unusable parts could be turned back into other materials."

RANDY HILL: "The only way I know of taking care of this problem is letting the wrecking yards manage it."

MRS. MADRONA MECAM: "I think it's terrible the way people in Twin Falls leave these old cars in their backyards. They should take them to wrecking yards and salvage companies which can make the best use of them. I think this is definitely a problem and a disgrace to our nice city."

Irish Lad Named 'Brian' Can Take Pride In Voice

BY KEVIN MODICA
CHICAGO (UPI) — You may not be able to tell one Irish name from another without a program, so, on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, the Rev. Kevin Shanley, a Carmelite priest and a son of the old sod, provided one.

There are, he said, three classes of Irish names, old Irish, Norman-Irish and Anglo-Irish, evolving from those who were there at the beginning and subsequent invasions.

Old Irish names generally begin in "Mac" or "Mc" meaning grandson or descendant. The prefix "Fitz" from the French "fils" meaning "son" denotes a Norman-Irish name. Anglo-Irish names such as Smith or Woods are merely English translations of Irish names.

Irish names for both boys and girls denote some trait or characteristic. For example, Brian is "thundering voice," Donald means "world mighty," and Kevin is "handsome" or "comely birth."

Girls' names include Eileen meaning "little sunshine," Kathleen "dear to my heart," Bridget, "strength," and Maureen, or "little Mary."

Irish last names usually indicate the occupation or famous deed performed by the ancestor which gave the clan its name. Greatness in battle was attributed in Cahill (battle mighty), Kelly (war, contention), Carney (victorious), MacShane (son of an old hero), Clancy (ruddy warrior) and Murphy (sea warrior).

In the area of fine arts and learning, we find MacWard, son of the bard; Rendron, royal bard; Higgins, knowledge; Healy, ingenious; and Ryan, sage. Fr. Shanley also traced the meaning of the last name of Chicago's Mayor, I. F. (Irishman) Mayor Daley, and found it means "frequenting assemblies."

Names often came from physical characteristics. Hence, Mulligan and Mullins were "pale," McGuire was "pale," Keenan was "slender," "Hansson and Halligan were "handsome," and Russell was "freckled." From personality traits came Joyce, which means "son of joy," Malley, "pleasure," Moore, "rainy," O'Mara "mirthful," and Sherry, "flighly."

Rupert Needs Recreation Director

RUPERT — Several applications are now in for the position of a recreation director for the city of Rupert's summer recreation program, and the position is expected to be filled next week.

City council members reported that since the parks and recreation department were inter-related, the man hired would be in charge of managing the recreation department.

The position was vacated last fall by the resignation of Paul Caldwell who had accepted employment elsewhere.

The applications now in will be reviewed by the Rupert city council Tuesday prior to selection of a director.

Boys Chosen

RUPERT — The twin grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fredrickson, Rupert, were selected recently as winners to appear on a quiz show, sponsored by a Washington television station.

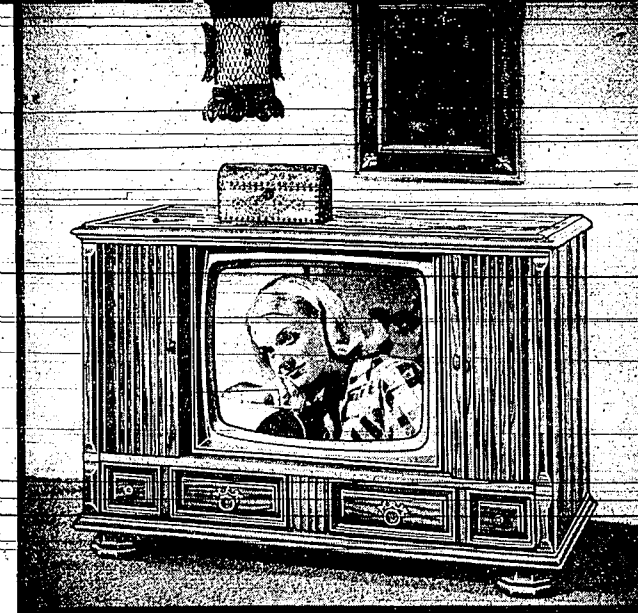

Selected as alternates were Philip and Ted Fredrickson, Moses Lake, Wash. They are among the eight top students at the Moses Lake High School, which has 110 students enrolled.

Children's Theatre Proves Value Through Hard Work, Dedication

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Feature Editor

It takes children and much more to stage a successful children's theatre production. There must also be a staff of directors and hard working adults and the Children's Theatre of Twin Falls has managed during the past eight years to attract its share of such individuals.

Mrs. Gene (Beverly) Sturgill who presented her first public children's theatre production in 1941 is now preparing for the 1950 performance of "The Ghosts and The Gangsters."

This is an original play written by Mrs. Sturgill. It is also a family affair for the Sturgills. Two of the children, to whom the play is dedicated, Kelly and Julie, appear in the play.

Gene Sturgill who usually does everything from building scenery to applying make-up, is also playing a leading role this year. Because one of the men cast as a gangster, dropped out of the production last week, Gene was drafted for the job.

"I wish everyone would look on our Children's Theatre as a family production," says Mrs. Sturgill. "The plays are selected to appeal to the adults as well as the children but a large majority of our audiences are small children."

Especially in the current production satire and sophisticated humor will appeal to the adult theatre fans as well as the children.

"The Ghosts and The Gangsters" is the story of the Muldoon family and the old mansion they inherit and decide to occupy. As they move into the home a group of gangsters also arrive on the scene.

The gangsters are looking for money hidden in the building and attempt to frighten the family away but the Muldoons remain unmoved. In desperation the gangsters set off an explosion to frighten the Muldoons away and when the parents rush to see what is going on they are blown into Heaven. They refuse to enter Heaven until they are certain their children are alright and as a result return to haunt the home and frighten the gangsters. There's a happy ending and a number of comedy situations along the way.

As a result of the Children's Theatre, Twin Falls has become one of only three areas in Idaho where such entertainment is offered. It is the only one that utilizes a large number of children in the production, giving them a chance to participate in drama at an early age.

Mrs. Sturgill said one of the reasons she began the theatre program was to fulfill a need of her own children and one that she longed for as a child but never found.

"I loved drama as a child but couldn't sing, and so all I ever did was a line or two in school and church programs until I was in high school," she recalls.

There is little good drama available to children today, especially in small communities, she feels, but they can become so involved with a play and so apart from movies or television that no comparison can be made. Mrs. Sturgill explains:

"Her plays have not only won the hearts of local children but are also worthy of national and international recognition.

In 1949, she received the top award of the National Children's Theatre Conference, sponsored by the American Educational Theatre Association. The award is given each year to a new children's theatre group and the local group is the only non-professional organization honored in recent years.

Mrs. Sturgill who is now a member of the board of directors of the National Children's Theatre Association, says she has been working in recent years on the group's committee to upgrade scripts for children's plays. This is the reason she wrote this year's production herself.

"I wanted to have a play that utilized the talents of many children as well as adults and there are very few of these so I decided to write my own," she explains.

She has now been asked to work with the international organization in screening and upgrading children's theatre scripts.

A tribute from her own com-

NATIONAL HONOR HAS COME TO Mrs. Gene (Beverly) Sturgill through her untiring efforts with the Twin Falls Children's Theatre. Now in her eighth year, she says the greatest reward comes from bringing good drama to the children and families in Magic Valley.

TWO ADULTS CONTRIBUTING much to the Children's Theatre productions are Helen Geo and Art Frantz. Mr. Frantz attended double rehearsal sessions during the past few weeks, playing leading roles in the Dilettante production and Children's Theatre show.

community was offered Mrs. Sturgill in 1949 when she was awarded the Distinguished Service Award for her work with children and theatre productions.

There are other adults who have served with her in many of the local award winning performances. Arthur Frantz who plays the part of gangster "boss" has been attending rehearsals for both the recent Dilettante production and the Children's Theatre and Mrs. Sturgill says he has contributed much in the past to the children's productions.

Another veteran is Mrs. Ross Ward who has been making costumes for eight years for children and adults.

Mrs. Leland VanderDoes, now business manager, Helen Geo and many others are veteran performers or workers.

One of the major undertakings was the building of a dragon for "The Reluctant Dragon" in 1949. The dragon made good on his own and became the highlight of the United States brochure used in Prague, Czechoslovakia for the International Conference on Children's Theatre.

Over the past eight years hundreds of children have attended the several performances of each play. Underprivileged youngsters attend free and others pay for their tickets and the money goes to improve elementary school libraries in areas from which the children attend.

This year additional library funds have become available and the Children's Theatre projects will go to provide overhead projectors for the grade schools.

Performances of "The Ghosts and The Gangsters" are scheduled for the O'Leary Junior High School Auditorium. The first will be at 4:30 p.m. March 21. Others will be at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on March 28 and 29.

SHE MAKES COSTUMES by the dozen, Mrs. Ross Ward has worked with the Children's Theatre since its first production in 1941 and has been responsible for many of the elaborate costumes.

PART ACTION, COMEDY and satire in "The Ghosts and The Gangsters" will please adults and children alike. Some rehearsal scenes include a broom fight, upper left, between Cheryl Cook and Brian Smith, and at right, the younger Muldoon children played by Denny Wentworth, on chair; Julie Sturgill and Kelly Sturgill mock their older sister, Cheryl Cook. THIS BIOLOGICAL WASTELAND is the way beautiful mountain meadow around trout stream looks after a major drainage operation was completed. It is aptly called "death of fish and wildlife habitat" by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

National Wildlife Week Calls Attention To Need To Provide, Preserve Habitat

By JIM HUMBRID
Idaho Fish and Game Department
Rallying under the theme "Provide Habitat, Please," the National Wildlife Week, March 16-22, is an altogether fitting and proper keynote since game and wildlife managers know enough about wildlife ecology to hold fish and game populations at whatever levels they are willing to pay the price to have, if they can't have it otherwise.

For example, nobody wants to see a return of buffalo herds so large that Bison would repossess the great Plains, or grizzly bears in such numbers that hunters would have to go out in groups for mutual protection. Men and women everywhere join Henry David Thoreau who mourned the loss of what he called "the noblest animal more than a century and one-half ago as follows: 'I take infinite pains to know all the phenomena of the thinking that here I have the entire poem, and then to my chapter I learn that it is but an elaborate and unnecessary have to copy that my ancestors have torn out many of the leaves and the grandest practices and methods of the highest species of fish and wildlife that are listed by the Department of Interior and

When wildlife managers and conservationists and other professionals in the field use the word "habitat" they are bringing together for simplicity the four great needs of all life, whether bird, mammal or fish. These needs are food, cover or protection, water, and living space. To benefit fish and wildlife creatures, these four great needs must occur where they live in the wild.

Book Review

By LUCILLE WOLFE
"The Last Landscape" by William H. Whyte is a plea for better judgment in planning cities. It is not a book that is largely vacant or hardly used at all. Worked out gravel pits, drier water fronts, absolute garbage dumps, and a host of rubble, rubbish strewn areas underneath, high tension lines. Much of this could be put to better use rather than extending the city limits to include subdivisions with no connection to each other.

League Of Women Voters Given Words Of Praise

Congratulations are being given this week by the City of Twin Falls to the local League of Women Voters in conjunction with the observance of the organization's 50th anniversary. Mayor Egon Kroll said the city council will approve an official proclamation Monday to the League for its many worthwhile programs and services to the public.

Mrs. Roy Slatten, local League president, said that the League is honored by the city proclamation and expects in the future to expand its goal to promote improved and active participation in government by all citizens.

Rupert Holds Third Session For Employees

Rupert — "Think Positive" was the message presented to some 25 Rupert business managers and owners Thursday during the third in a series of meetings in conjunction with the second half of "Operation Touchdown."

Speaking to the group was Joe Guillard, a salesman for KAYT radio in Rupert. "Negative thinking can only hold you back," the speaker said. "It doesn't get you anywhere. Negativism can and is destroying not only individuals but businesses, organizations, communities, and so on."

PROCLAMATION HONORING LEAGUE of Women Voters of Twin Falls is signed by Mayor Egon Kroll. On hand for the signing were Mrs. J. M. Robertson, a past president whose interest in the League covers some of its early local projects, and Mrs. Robert Malar, from left, Mrs. Malar is one of the newest members of the local non-partisan organization. Nationally the League is observing its 50th anniversary.

Camas Falls To Make Its Blood Quota

FAIRFIELD — Camas County was 33 pints of blood short of the 75-pint quota at the Red Cross Mobile Blood Drawing Wednesday in the high school gymnasium. There were 42 pints donated with four rejects. The rejects, the officials were considered as one of the causes of the small turnout, according to Mrs. Lee Barron, local blood drive chairman.

Registered nurses in attendance included Mrs. Barron, Mrs. Wesley Fields, Mrs. Leroy Teasdale and Mrs. Frank Wolff were typists. Mrs. Richard Dalin took temperatures; Mrs. Lee Daniel and Mrs. Eberhart traded blood numbers. Nurses aides were Mrs. Harold Brooks, Mrs. Kelly Thomason, Mrs. Charles Scoggin, Mrs. Hubert Lewin had the canteen. Dr. Martin Kerns was attending physician.

Forest Officials Survey Trails For Snowmobiles

Three Forest Service officials surveyed for possible snowmobile trails in the timber area north of Fairfield last week. Fairfield Ranger Gary Smith, Harvey O'Neil and Bob Hoag, staff recreation officer, Sawtooth National Forest, traveled through the Little Smoky and H. I. would appreciate knowing sleighing for the back country.

Mrs. Hoag said the signs will be installed during the summer and the trails will be ready to use next winter. He said many snowmobilers prefer to travel through the timber, especially during bad weather.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

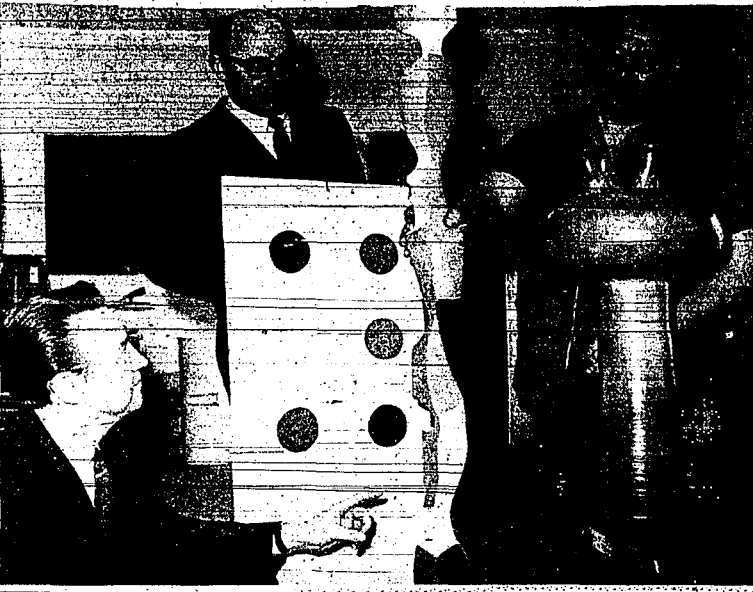

From H. L. D. Rupert, Idaho: I have a piece of fractional currency which I would like to know the value of. Here are two drawings, one of each side, showing the print that is on the back of the bill. I would like to know anything you could tell me about this currency.

Answer: Your drawings are very complete. During the early days of the Civil War, banks in the United States suspended specie payments which removed all coins from circulation, since there was a shortage of specie. A great many merchants were unable to do business because they could not get their goods to customers. Barrier systems were used for some time (the trading of goods for other goods) and the great many merchants were unable to do business because they could not get their goods to customers. The Banker's An Artist At Heart And Your Doctor Is A Sculptor

Did you know your dentist was really an artist? Or maybe you didn't realize your doctor is also a jeweler. Members of the Junior Club have been doing some research and have uncovered a number of hidden talents in the community that will be unveiled March 20 in the second annual Junior Club art auction.

Some of the talent is outstanding, say members of the art auction committee, and those attending will have an opportunity to purchase a true original art object and at the same time contribute to a highly beneficial community project.

"All proceeds from the art auction will be used to bolster the present area-wide campaign for construction of a year-around swimming pool at the YM-YWCA building in Twin Falls. Last year's auction brought in a total of $2,000 which was donated by the club to the fund."

Junior Club members have already donated $1,000 to the swimming pool campaign from their spring tour of homes. Businessmen and other community leaders have been asked by the club to create masterpieces and donate them to the auction. Some will be of genuine value and highly attractive. The collection thus far includes such unusual items as a semi-precious stone that is being cut and polished for mounting by Dr. Elwood Rees. Dr. Rees has published books and gained national renown by many other ways for his work with faceting of gems. Another unique donation is being prepared by Fred Harder. A wall hanging for a recreation or game room will be donated by Mr. Harder complete with some 35 genuine silver dollars.

From his personal collection of silver dollars, he is donating about 35 including one of relatively rare value. The silver dollar chips will be mounted on an eight-sided poker table top with cards and a green felt backing. It can be hung or mounted above a fireplace or otherwise used for decoration.

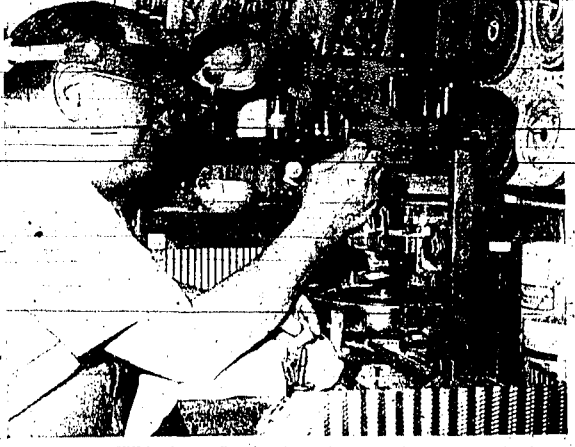

Ken Henderson is donating a hand-carved wooden eagle, and Dr. William Jones will give a black and white pencil-drawing of a cocker spaniel he once owned.

Auctioneers Mike Gray, Jim Danner and Robert Coiner will begin selling the art objects following the dinner—8:30 p.m.—at the Elmore County Hotel. Mr. Gray and Mr. Coiner are chairmen. Mr. Roy Shubb, Mrs. Jerry of the Meyerhoeffer, succeeding Mrs. Junior Club, young wives and Robert Alexander as vice president. Mrs. Fred Harder, donate 45 hours each year in secret. Mrs. Duane Schrank, project work that will benefit their club and community. Now, Jim Reese, publicity, and Mrs. 10 years old, the club has a system of annual events in mind. UNUSUAL ART ITEMS are promised for the March 20 Junior Club Art Auction. Here auctioneers, Robert Coiner and Mike Gray help College of Southern Idaho Art Director LaVar Sicole decide which of several modern art items should be donated to the annual auction. Paintings, sculptures, ceramics and items for which there are no names have been entered. Auction proceeds will go to the YMCA year-around swimming pool fund drive.

FOR THE GAME ROOM this wall plaque by Fred Harder will feature 35 silver dollars as part of the realistic decoration. Committee members say bidding will probably start at more than $45 on this particular item when the auctioneers open the sale Friday night at the Blue Lakes Country Club.

SIX DAYS A WEEK Dr. Elwood Rees is a doctor, but every Thursday he's a jeweler, or more accurately, a gemologist. Dr. Rees has earned national recognition for his work and writings in faceting or cutting of rare stones. He will cut and polish a stone, ready for mounting, to be donated to the March 20 art auction.

FURNITURE IS HIS LINE. Jerry Shano, local furniture store owner, is not going too far afield to produce his art object, he's sticking to his regular line of work. This antique ornate figure cabinet he will donate to the Junior Club Art Auction, is being made from an old television cabinet with some heavy brass pulls; antique paint and wood curving to enhance it.

Ken Henderson is donating a hand-carved wooden eagle, and Dr. William Jones will give a black and white pencil-drawing of a cocker spaniel he once owned.

PULLING TEETH CAN BE a dining occupation so Dr. William Jones resorts to his artistic talent between patients. Here he puts some finishing touches on a pencil sketch of a cocker spaniel. He will donate the sketch to Junior Club for the second annual art auction.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandt and their son, Dave, left when the snow came, to spend the winter in their mobile home in the southland. They were in Mazatlan, Mexico, where they were enjoying sun bathing on the beach and the hot springs of the Pacific, when word started coming from their friends at home of the unusually heavy snowfall with high water content.

"It is difficult to get anyone to shovel, as everyone is in the same predicament," wrote their neighbors. Then came the snow slide which took one Warm Springs home.

Jerome Has Big Turnout At Drawing

JEROME—One of the largest turnout of blood donors was noted at the recent drawing at the Moose hall. It was reported that 127 persons offered blood for the 125 pint quota and there were three rejects, so the quota was missed by only one pint.

One gallon plus were given to Billiam Stauffer, Bill Verly, Felix Dugalski, Jerome, and Marlon McClain, Hazelton, two gallons plus were awarded to John Flynn and Mrs. Carter Luther.

Eleven persons reported for the emergency call for B negative blood. This rare type of blood was urgently needed for an open heart surgery patient in Boise.

Mrs. John Wallin made telephone calls to those on the negative list and letters asking for blood replacement were written by Mrs. Layne Hall and Gary Kestany. Mrs. Leon Baldwin made calls in the Eden area.

Key club members helped to load and unload the bloodmobile van and set up tables. They also distributed posters around town. Those helping were Craig Wallin, Tom Kinn, Mike East, Steve Carlson and Ken Redden.

Nurses were Mrs. Jean Overfield, Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, Mrs. Veronica Moss and Mrs. Kenneth Martin. Nurses aides were Mrs. Carter Luther, Mrs. Daryl Smith, Mary Mann, Mrs. Dick Watson, Mrs. Vic Haynes and Walter Tompa.

Laurela Scheer and Mrs. John Parkinson recorded—historical and Orville Peterson, Joy Sheek, Rita Bulcher and Vicki Skantz were Dyes.

Mrs. S. P. Richter and Mrs. Herman Kuhl were in charge of the canteen, assisted by Mrs. Pearl Overfield. Ladies of the Episcopal Church provided the cookies.

TWO PIECES OF EQUIPMENT, a front loader in the foreground and the rotary plow in the background, work toward one another to widen the deep cut in which snow often piles ten feet deep during a single blizzard.

Nixon Stirs Hornets' Nest With Talk Of Vatican Envoy

GENERATION NOW

A weekly section directed to Magic Valley's young people
Edited by Eugene Schneider

THE MOROTE UKI, the two handed defense is used against Jim Randol by Roy Wagner at the recent session of the karate class. The class is under the direction of Bob Tidd.

HELPING TO bridge the "generation gap" Mike Stephens, 21, endeavors to give Floyd (Pink) Slane, 41, a kumite or free-style sparring kick in the abdomen, groin or sternum area. Mr. Slane is forming a juki block or crossarm block with his hands. Mr. Stephens is the assistant karate instructor. Mr. Slane commutes from Hailey every Saturday to take lessons.

TWANA SKINNER IS demonstrating the kumite kick to the knee of Rod Wagner. This kick is used to break the knee cap and disable the offender. The gracefulness in the movement is something which is taught in all karate movements.

ACCEPTING THE CHALLENGE of working with Mike Pahlol, Mr. Tidd has helped Mike regain the use of his muscles after working with him for approximately three years. Mike was suffering from a partial paralysis of the muscles. He is now very active in his karate lessons.

BY NO MEANS emerged from the "younger set" Bob Tidd karate instructor, shows Mike Stephens his assistant what can happen when someone attempts a left punch to his face. Usual procedures would call for a broken arm and caved in ribs.

Teenagers Learn Art Of Karate

Karate is karate. The main thing is the man himself — not the school he belongs to, nor the style he practices, according to Bob Tidd, Twin Falls karate instructor.

Mr. Tidd has been giving instructions in karate for approximately four years to students ranging from 10-55 years of age. Mr. Tidd's instructor, Raymond Tobson, Honolulu, Hawaii, was the founder of the Kaji Kumite style of karate. Mr. Tidd has his Shu-Dan black belt.

Karate was supposedly invented by a Buddhist monk in India in the 500's A.D. He taught it to the Chinese monks, and from hands, elbows, knees or feet for kicking and blows to vulnerable parts of the body such as the temples, throat and groin. Karate should not be confused with similar Asian sports such as Jujitsu, sumo and Judo — which involve wrestling, throwing and holding an opponent on the ground or choking him. In karate there is little personal contact.

Karate is often-times called "acrobatic boxing," but it has evolved from a purely personal combat defense system and today is perhaps best known for the amazing feats of demolition that experts can perform: a large block of ice can be crushed with the fist; 6 inches of pine wood can be splintered by a kick; and stacks of roofing tiles can be shattered with the elbow or the top of the head.

The three main areas of karate training are callisthenics, kumite and kata. Callisthenics are rigorous and build up acrobatic flexibility and speed. Kumite is training in specific karate kicks, blows, chops and blocks involving the use of the knuckles of the fist, the "chopping" edge of the hand, and the ball and outside edge of the foot. The extended fingers are also strengthened and used like a spear point. Katas are acrobatic forms of punching, kicking, blocking, turning, leaping and dodging which are often practiced with an imaginary opponent.

In a dojo, or karate school, training is done barefoot on a wooden floor; no mats are used. The basic equipment available includes punching bags, weights, bamboo blocks and deep boxes of dried beans or coarse sand for strengthening the extended fingers of the hand.

The traditional costume, or gi, is a loose-fitting jacket and pants usually of white canvas and a long-cotton-fash-or-belt. The color of the belt denotes the wearer's rank. Beginners wear white belts, and successive steps to the black belt of the expert are indicated by yellow, green and brown belts.

There are also various degrees of black belts based on skill and teaching ability; most schools go no higher than the eighth-degree black belt.

For tournament competition students engage in sparring matches in which attacks and defenses are simulated. The kicks and blows are stopped just short of contact or are delivered with controlled contact. Judges decide whether the attacks could have been effective and award points on this basis.

Mr. Tidd's students show great interest in their classes. According to Mr. Tidd, participation by the student is what makes it enjoyable. He also points out that instead of the mind controlling the body, they both work together as one. The body does not wait for an "order" from the brain to act. It does it automatically.

Mr. Tidd welcomes interested persons to come to the classes on Saturday afternoon from until 4:15 and observe. However, he points out that manners and a quiet attitude are very necessary. The class is held in the recreation room above the Twin Falls Labor Temple.

Library Need

From The Twin Falls High School Bruin News

Have you ever visited the Twin Falls Public Library intending to study or read a book, only to find no space available?

Such is the case of most persons wishing to use the facilities of the public library. There just isn't enough room. However, lack of room doesn't stop in the area used by the public. If one were to look into the personnel rooms used by the employees at the library, he would find that they, too, are "cramped for space."

There are three typewriters in use in one small room while in another, books are mended in one corner and an employe works in another.

There is also a great need for a discussion room in the library which would seat approximately 100 people. For example, the Music Club or a literary club could easily hold meetings there if the library had such a room.

One may ask, "but what can be done about it?" There is one possible solution. For the past few months there has been much discussion over the urban renewal of the downtown area. However, not much has been said about the vacant C. C. Anderson building on Main St. Why couldn't this building be remodeled into a new public library? The interior of the building is not so dilapidated that it would cost so very much to convert it into a larger, nicer library that would be easy to reach because it is downtown in the business section. Also, a library of this sort would bring pride to our community and provide a good place to study for all students; secondary, as well as college. There would be wonderful rooms for discussions and plenty of space for storage and personnel offices.

Is it possible for Twin Falls to include a new library in its plans for urban renewal?

There is little chance for this to happen. Neither opponent has anything else to hold except the king of clubs and somehow or other a club count will be available. This leaves the immediate spade finesse at your disposal and you should try it. It is much better from a mathematical standpoint than the trump play—in addition, you can lose the spade finesse and still make your contract. You only miss five tricks. Therefore, when you lay down your ace you have better than a five per cent chance of picking up the king.

Rival Bidding For Company Assets Stirs Anger Of U.S. Financiers

By LEROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI)—It seems nowadays that every time a large company makes a bid to buy up the shares of another company, somebody else horns in with a rival bid.

You don't have to probe deeply into today's securities markets to find the answer. A number of corporations with aggressive financial officers are in the "performance game" up to their necks. In the process they have found that the competitive merger proposal is a gambit on which it is nearly impossible to lose and may easily result in a fat profit.

The most amazing such profit was seriously estimated at $25 million to $30 million and it was reaped by Charles Bluhdorn's Gulf and Western Industries Inc. when G. and W. made an offer for shares of Sinclair Oil Co. and pressed the offer after Sinclair decided to merge with Atlantic Richfield Corp. The price of the stock of Sinclair, a big but rather colorless oil company, rose from 30 to around 136 in the rivalry.

This was the third time recently that G. and W. reaped big profits by starting merger proposals or buying stakes in other companies and then selling out, according to Horace I. Poole, a leading merger consultant.

Poole recalls that G. and W. bought 2,248,000 shares of Allis Chalmers in what looked like just an acquisition bid at prices re-

Sixth-Graders Take Action On Belief About Gift-Giving

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—A group of 26 sixth graders believe that gift giving should be a 12-month thing.

Each week they contribute to a fund which goes to two orphanages for spending money.

Mrs. Eva Townsend, teacher at Jackson Park elementary school in suburban University City, Mo., said someone in the class suggested, "Let's not stop thinking throughout the school year."

"I left it all up to the children," said Mrs. Townsend. The students contacted an orphan's home and were told that they might contribute spending money to a boy named Tim and a girl named Sherri. No 1-a-6-4 names were given, and Mrs. Townsend's students hope to see the two orphans for the first time at the end of the school term.

The idea, explained Mrs.

CSI Slates H.S. Government Class Britain Creates 'Men Without A Country' By Drastically Curtailing Immigration

The College of Southern Idaho Vocational-Technical school will offer another 45-hour high school government class, according to Marvin Glascock, coordinator.

He said that an organizational meeting for people interested in taking the course will be at 8 p.m. April 1 at the vocational school.

Those interested should contact Mr. Glascock at 733-9254, extension 63, prior to the meeting. About 16 people already are signed up, but at least 20 students are needed before the course can begin.

UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Britain a year ago passed legislation drastically curtailing immigration of non-whites, she created a whole new class of men without a country and for herself a moral problem.

The problem concerns the future of up to 200,000 Asian holders of British passports who are being deprived of their means of livelihood in Kenya, Zambia, Uganda and Tanzania.

Britain's hopes of finding a solution during the recently concluded meeting of commonwealth prime ministers collapsed when the four nations named above boycotted meeting of a Britain committee set up to discuss it.

They had demanded assurances that Britain would revise the Commonwealth Immigrants Act of 1968 which limits non-white immigration to 1,500 a year—plus dependents—even though the applicant holds and travels on a British passport.

This Britain refused to do on the grounds that most of the Asians seeking entry would arrive penniless—and that the services of Britain's welfare state already are overburdened.

Each side has accused the other of racism.

Most of those affected are in Kenya—which has the largest communities of non-citizens, including about 160,000 Indians or Pakistanis.

On the side of the African nations, the purge mainly is against those who elected to retain their British passports rather than take citizenship in the newly independent countries.

The Africans claim such persons have no loyalties to the country from which they take their living.

In Kenya, the economy is about 80 per cent in Indian hands.

The purge of Indian shopkeepers and traders is more active now than a year ago when 20,000 panicky Indians and Pakistanis fled the country, mostly to Britain but also to India and Pakistan.

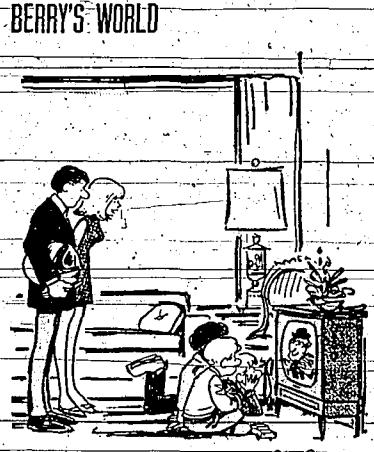

It was that exodus that led to passage of Britain's restrictive immigration act.

Since many of Asian descent were born in Africa, neither India nor Pakistan wants them. Burma began expelling Indians in 1965.

It bothers the British conscience, but Britons don't want them either.

Kenya limits the amount of money a departing alien may take with him, and one sugges-

Townsend, a Negro, was for the class to "adopt" boy and girl in an orphan home." She said all the students turn in weekly notes to the class treasurer, Kenneth Maglockin.

Student Laura Compton said, "People should help each other. If they don't, they're really matter."

Jean Vogel, 12, put it this way: "Both Tim and Sherri don't have any parents or anyone to look up to. I think it was a great idea."

Gene Johnson said he felt that "if we start helping individuals, maybe some other people will do this also." Student Cindy Kalman said, "To me man could not have gotten as far as he is today, if we didn't help each other."

Mrs. Townsend sums up the whole class's feelings: "If fortunate and less fortunate people cooperated, it might mean a better world."

Johnny Carson Enters Business

NEW YORK (UPI)—Television star Johnny Carson is going into the restaurant business.

Carson, star of NBC's Tonight Show, held a news conference to announce the start of "Johnny's American Inn, Inc.," which will franchise restaurants across the nation. The firm will be headquartered in Omaha, Neb.

Thank you, call again!

It's one of those signs you see so many times—you almost forget that it means anything. But it does. It's what America's business is all about.

Maybe a newspaper ad brought you to the store. Or perhaps a tv commercial persuaded you to whatever product you bought. But it was you who went there. You paid for the item with your money and you are going to take it into your home. And if you don't like it, there's no power on earth that can get you to go back to that store or buy that item again.

'Call again' is what puts you in control of the system. It keeps the people who make, and the people who sell, very very sensitive to the fact that you pays yer money and you takes yer choice.

Hansen Assists Group Seeking Safety In Mines

WASHINGTON, D. C. (UPI)—Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, has joined a bipartisan group of Congressional leaders sponsoring a coal-mine safety bill.

The bill, which implements recommendations submitted to Congress by President Nixon, has been referred to the House Education and Labor Committee. Hansen is a member of the committee and serves on its subcommittee.

"The bill proposes a comprehensive new program to attack the health and safety dangers that prevail in the coal mining industry," Hansen said.

He said the bill would establish mandatory health and safety standards and provide the Secretary of the Interior with the authority to develop additional standards.

DEAR POLLY—Leather or plastic bags which have been stored sometimes have dents in them left from something laying on them. If so, lay the bag in front of a wall heater or in front of the oven door. Such ugly places usually disappear with heat.—SALLY

DEAR POLLY—Recently I saw an ad for satin pillowcases to protect hairdos. I have found old satin, nylon or rayon slips which are too long for short hairdos can be cut off below the bustline, sew with the face left on the bottom. They work with either a nylon sleep cap or even without one as the friction that wrecks a hairdo is reduced. Mine always last a week with only a little lifting when I get up in the morning.—MRS. R. A. S.

DEAR POLLY—To make it easier for my husband to give baby a bath I set the portable infant seat in the baby's bathtub and put baby in the seat. Daddy does not have to worry about the baby slipping out of his hands and baby seems to feel more secure, too.—SHEILA Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

JANE'S CORDUROY JUMPER FROM LAST YEAR WAS TOO SHORT SO I SEWED A STRIP OF CORDUROY ON THE BOTTOM AND ADDED MOCK POCKETS AND COVERED BUTTONS!

OH?

IT FITS BEAUTIFULLY NOW AND THE HEM AND POCKETS MAKE IT VERY MUCH IN THIS YEAR!

IT'S AMAZING THAT SOMETHING CAN BE "IN" WITH SO MUCH GIRL STICKING OUT!

DEAR POLLY—My pointer is for the "organizers." The tops of your hair spray cans are great for holding your husband's screws, nails, bolts, etc., and also you ladies can organize your baby pins, clips, earrings. They may play to be life-savers.—KAREN

DEAR POLLY—At the close of the swimming season this year my supply of large bath towels was really short. Next year I will have a large towel imprinted with each child's name or the names will be sewn on or embroidered in large letters. None of my good towels are to be taken to the swimming pool. Each child will be responsible for his own towel just as he is for his swimming suit.—MRS. R. A. N.

DEAR POLLY—I needed a zipper with a decorative pull for a garment I was making and could not find one. I bought a pair of inexpensive mo earrings at the dime store and placed an earring in the hole of the zipper.—CHRISTIE

DEAR POLLY—When sewing pleats, use a pleater, form your pleats and secure them with spring type clothespins until sewn. This keeps the pleats even before sewing. I use the parts of old shower curtains to make laundry bags, bags for scraps and typewriter and sewing machine covers.—MRS. C. M. C.

DEAR POLLY—To remove the adhesive gum that remains on an article after taking off the price tag rub with a pencil eraser.—E. W.

DOLLARS BENEATH DUST
Is There an Art
Treasure in Your Attic?

Ask Them Yourself

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

FOR MILTON FRIEDMAN, economist

How sensible is the two-tier price system for gold in assisting the U.S. balance of payments?—Simon Hendrickson, Bloomington, Ill.

● Very sensible, though it would be still better for the Government to get completely out of the business of trying to affect the price of gold, including removing the restrictions on the ownership, purchase, and sale of gold by U.S. residents. Few things are less important to the U.S. than whether the price of gold in London is $35 an ounce or $100 an ounce. The two-tier system goes part of the way—by giving up any attempt to fix the price of gold in private trading—but it retains the fiction of a fixed $35-an-ounce price for official transactions.

OR EVA ADAMS,

director, United States Mint

How many coins does the mint produce each day? How many workers does it require to produce this number?—Eric Newman, Bergenfield, N.J.

● The rate of production is influenced by the coin denominations being made. If all five denominations were being minted in one day, we could produce 18 million coins in eight hours. We would need the services of approximately 300 employees, including melters, rollers, helpers, pressmen, and others engaged in the actual coinage operations.

FOR L. MENDEL RIVERS,

chairman, House Armed Services Committee

Is it true that time spent at the service academies does not count for pay or retirement benefits, while time in R.O.T.C. does?—Denny L. Johnson, Bunkle, La.

● No—neither the time spent at the service academies nor in the R.O.T.C. program is creditable for military pay or retirement purposes.

FOR TINA COLE

of the "Four King Cousins"

I have read that the "Four King Cousins" now are recording independently. Does this mean you sell no longer be appearing with the entire King family?—Carolann Munos, Beverly Hills, Calif.

● No. We are not leaving the King family. We are just trying to make a career for ourselves aside from family special.

FOR BERNIE "BOOM BOOM"

GEOFFRION, hockey coach

How did you receive your colorful nickname?—John Hartigan, Fair Lawn, N.J.

● I got it from a sportswriter in Montreal in 1951. It came from my slap shot which used to bank off the rink boards during practice. First, there would be the noise of my stick hitting the puck, then the noise of the puck rebounding off the boards—thus the nickname of "Boom Boom."

FOR HAYWOOD HALE BROWN,

Isaacson

Is it true that years ago you always had someone wear your new suits a couple of years before you would wear them?—Mrs. R. Martindell, N. Beach Haven, N.J.

● No. That story about the suits was told about my father, who was famous for what might be called casualness of dress. I couldn't do it any way because suits made today don't even last two years.

FOR CURT COWDY, sports announcer

Please tell me how to figure a baseball pitcher's "earned run average"?—S. C. Babbitt, Charlottesville, Va.

● The total earned runs given up by a pitcher is divided by the number of innings he pitched, giving you the average earned runs per inning. Multiply that number by nine (number of innings in a game), and you have the pitcher's ERA.

FOR ELIZABETH POST,

etiquette expert

Is it proper to wear two lapel pins on a suit coat?—Kenneth Colburn, Lancaster, N.H.

● Unless you are campaigning for a political candidate or have a good reason for wearing a special type of novelty pin, one is the limit. It is much the same as a woman wearing too much jewelry—it is always in bad taste.

FOR JOHN DAVIDSON, singer

Is it true that you recently, to whom were married? If so, to whom and where?—G. M., Cheektowaga, N.Y.

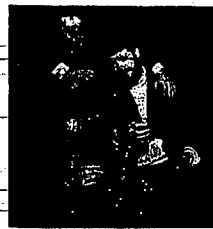

● On Dec. 29 in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Jackie Miller (she is part of the singing team of "Jackie and Gayle") and I were married.

Our Cover Spring's coming! And with it renewed wonders of nature, as examined by the youngsters on our cover. Gardner D. Stout, president of The American Museum of Natural History in New York, tells how you can make the miracle of spring mean more to your children. "It's really not necessary to encourage a child's interest," he says. "It is more important to channel his natural curiosity so he gets the most out of it. If you, as a parent, don't know precise facts, you can set the child on the path of knowledge by sharing his enthusiasm for finding out." Some expert tips: let him have a pet or aquarium—nothing is more exciting than bringing home his first turtle, for instance; give him permission to examine robins' nests at home; take him to nearby parks and ponds and find out how many migrating birds he can see and identify; don't forget to take home some insects or leaves, just emerging for the season; and preserve and mount them; take advantage of nature lectures given by local museums, park districts, nature clubs, and schools. "Mr. Stout says," can remember when, as a little boy, I was taken to the museum by my father. I saw a peregrine falcon carrying its prey to its nest on the New Jersey Palisades. At that early age, I wondered whether I would ever have the good fortune to see so splendid and exciting a bird? And he concludes: "Aside from awakening a child's interest in the study of nature, you can create a joint adventure that brings you and the child closer together."

The Irish Parade "In Ireland we don't have parades on St. Patrick's Day," says Will Miller of the singing Irish Rovers. "They're an American invention. At home it's a quiet and holy day. But Harrigan's Pub in San Francisco entered us in this parade, a late entry. After two hours of waiting, watching Indians and gals girls go by, I told the marshal, 'We're the only Irishmen in the whole town. How about getting us in?' So he stopped the parade and put us in, right behind 1,500 Mexican horsemen. We started to sing over the noise, when six big street sweepers came behind us, drowning us out." Sure and it's back to the old sod next year.

The Irish Rovers

Budding Politicians Many politicians acquired their power-centered personality from coping with a severe physical deprivation, according to "Psychology Today." The publication cites William II of Germany (withered arm); Napoleon (short stature); FDR (polio). Sickly children should have access to a variety of learning experience because "delicate children have gained knowledge from reading that aided in the consolidation of political aims."

The Mink Coat Problem An automobile manufacturer heard complaints about seat covers. Seems some materials part just enough for the long guard hairs of a mink coat to penetrate the weave, but not release when the wearer gets out. Now the firm tests seat covers against an actual mink coat, twisting it under pressure. Any fabric which traps fur fibers gets rejected immediately. Wonder what they do with their old coats?

Just look for 20 famous faces under bottle caps of Coke. Match the faces with brief descriptions and paste the faces on the game card at left. For each description, look through all 20 famous faces to see if any match correctly. For example, get the "Abraham Lincoln" picture liner and glue it in the space marked "Freed Slaves." It's that simple. Correctly completed card wins you $100. But remember, there are 20 liners showing famous faces, and only 10 descriptions on the playing card. So play carefully. Fill in as many spaces as you can correctly and send card to "Big Name Bingo," P.O. Box 537, Westport, Connecticut 06580. Read the official rules below for complete details. Play Big Name Bingo—the most refreshing way in the world to win $100! Why Wives Dominate Husbands—

A noted marriage counselor examines the woman "who wears the pants"— a woman with deep psychological needs and a husband to match

THERE ARE surely more ways than one of dominating a husband.

A wife who, by both word and action, makes it abundantly clear she "wears the pants" may be less dominating than a wife whose "clinging vine" technique suggests that she's lovingly submissive—or than a wife who contrives to rule by being "not very strong," who locks her bedroom door when her husband is in disfavor, who burdens a marriage partner with household chores or drives him to compete with affluent neighbors.

Any behavior that exercises control is domination. It is when a dominating man marries a dominating woman that there's apt to be an impasse. This does not happen often, fortunately. For the more aggressive a woman the more likely she is to be attracted to a passive man and the more likely a passive man is to be attracted to her.

For example, I have in my files the case history of a marriage that was happy for 20 years. The husband, who owned a successful real-estate firm, was quiet and unassuming. The wife, an advertising copywriter, approached masculinity in her aggressiveness. Great commitments, they attended all kinds of sporting events together and went on hikes which most women would have found exhausting.

Only when their one child, an unmarried daughter, became pregnant did they quarrel. The wife refused to speak to their daughter. The father remained friendly, and when the girl married and had her baby, he helped financially. This so infuriated his wife that she transferred to her firm's California office.

A widow with whom this husband became involved was, to every appearance, the antithesis of his flagrantly aggressive wife. She never willingly walked more than one city block, listened spellbound to all he had to say, and reached for his hand across tables and on the street. Thus, of course, she was figuratively "grabbing" him. Nevertheless, with her husband young—until she suggested he get a divorce so they could marry.

"She wants to be carried," he complained. "And I don't intend to carry" anybody. My wife never expected to be carried. When I was with her, it was as if I was with another man. What's more, my wife married me and stayed with me for no other reason than that she wanted to. She earns as much as I do."

This husband, unlike the men who would rate a successful wife no boon to the ego, was sufficiently well-adjusted to talk of his wife's earning capacity with pride.

It became quite plain he wanted to resume their relationship, that while he had reacted well to his wife's aggressiveness, he had come to resent the widow's dependence.

Shortly after I talked to this man, his wife, having reconciled with their daughter, came home. The widow, I presume, looked further and, perhaps, found a man for whom her indirect domination—yes, domination—would be tailor-made.

Many circumstances in our society condition women to believe it to be their right to make all decisions regarding household affairs and finance, child-rearing, and family social life. Their attitude may stem from: imitation of an aggressive mother; retaliation against overly strict parents; an early need to be boss, such as responsibility for home and family before marriage; a job that lets her lead others.

A dominating wife does not necessarily handicap a marriage. There are men who are happy with a woman because she exercises home control. A man who had a dominating mother may regard domination as normal. Other men may seek it because they entertain some doubts about their judgment or because they are insecure about their manhood.

It has been my experience that almost as many marriages founder on the shoals of husbandly aggressiveness as on wifely aggressiveness.

One couple came for counseling because the wife felt curtailed, even demeaned, by her husband's refusal to entrust her with any money, obliging her to ask for $5 or $10.

When I suggested she be given an allowance, her husband shook his head and said, "Never! She'd get to be high-handed like her mother. And that I won't have!"

This man was so rigid in his compulsion to be in complete control that he countered any suggestion his wife might make. If she said a certain movie was good, he would refuse to see it, even when he wanted to.

He is one of a surprisingly large number of men who, still unwilling to accept the emancipation of women, feel it necessary to dominate even to a point where they lack common courtesy. They will refuse to telephone home should they be detained at their office because they might be thought "henpecked."

A distortion of what is and is not masculine may be an outgrowth of many things: the emphasis a father always placed on masculine superiority; perhaps even the sense of shame a man knew when he, as a boy, saw his father emasculated by his overbearing mother or an overreaction to some personal insecurity.

Obviously the more confident a man is the less he will resent wifely domination, particularly in any area in which he doubts his judgment.

One husband told me: "When I buy clothes, I like my wife along. And every morning she puts out the suit, shirt, tie, shoes, and socks I'm to wear. I like her good taste."

Let no one say this man is not a real man. A husband's readiness to accept a wife being more knowledgeable about certain things may well connote security.

Another man, happily married for years, arched his back when his wife sought to extend her domination to an area in which he was unwilling to accept it.

"I've always turned my salary check over to my wife, let her pay the bills and give me an allowance," he explained. "She has better money sense than I have. And I've been happy to have her assume all social responsibility, even to accept and issue invitations without consulting me. But now she wants to plan our marital relations. That's too much!"

Upon finding his wife unable to grasp why he should suddenly refuse to accept her decision, I tried—without ever wholly succeeding—to help her understand that he resented her intent attempt to dominate because he wished their marital relationship to be spontaneous—not planned.

It was not until this husband became impotent, as men may in retreat, that this woman finally agreed that there was one area, at least, in which she might not pull the strings.

Another man, who for years had lived contentedly with his wife's conviction that her decisions were the final word, told me: "I've let her have her own way because, frankly, I don't want to be bothered with a lot of domestic decisions. But now she's trying to tell me how to run my business—and she knows nothing about it."

This man also took refuge in retreat by an increasing concentration on business and bowling. He did not, however, extend his retreat patterns—as may happen in some cases—to an extra-marital affair.

It is understandable that the straying husband often is one who has been locked out of his wife's bedroom or denied marital relations in some other way. A wife who locks her bedroom door asks for real trouble. She may intend her punitive action to last only a night or two, but under these circumstances a man tends to be prone to hostility that only time and love can overcome. And it may happen that before therapy can be effected he will seek a substitute wife.

One wife who dominates by being not "very strong" is equally trouble-prone. Women complain that this wife's low voice makes them sound strident by comparison. Those who entertain her—mostly business associates who wish her husband's good will—have learned to serve the foods she prefers. Anything else she refuses with a patient, smile, and resentful eyes. She never entertains, explaining snidely: "I'm just not up to it."

For her family of three, she requires the weekly services of both a cleaning woman and a laundress. She patronizes only expensive specialty shops, unable, so she says, to endure the jostling of the crowds in the big stores. And following any shopping expedition, the family dines out, although she never serves a meal that requires much preparation.

Her husband thinks her gallant, talks how even when she has spent most of the preceding week in bed she will pull herself together to accompany him wherever he has to go.

Ho, the youngest of four boys, grew up to his brothers' taunts of "slissy," and his mother, who had hoped he would be a girl, declaring, in a voice never meant to be flattering, "You're just like your father!"

Not surprisingly, therefore, he came to have doubts about his manhood and so is happy with a woman whose dependence he finds pleasing and reassuring.

Those who dominate by being apparently weak actually employ the "clinging vine" technique. Clinging vines use their feminine attributes to keep a husband at their side, always translating the time he spends with them and the things he does for them in terms of devotion.

Clinging vines, generally insecure and inherently lonely people, often are possessive enough to be jealous of a husband's male friends, his business, professional, or recreational interests—and even his dog.

They say characteristically, "I don't know what to do, tell me, please."

"You keep it! I'm afraid I might lose it" . . . "I love you so much I wouldn't want to live without you." Rarely do they know they are frauds. And any suggestion they are dominating would horrify them.

One wife intensified her clinging domination by hysterics. Her young husband, returning from a few Sunday hours of football, would find her lying with a compress over her tear-swollen eyes because, she told him, she had felt deserted.

"It's as if," this man explained, "she doesn't want me to be with anybody but her or do anything that doesn't include her. She's forever telling me that marriage counselors recommend married couples spend their time together."

Marriage counselors like marriage to be a close relationship, true. But, as I carefully explained, we do not mean it should be a prison. I suggested this man ask his wife to go to the ball games with him and afterwards take her out for lunch.

Unfortunately, the day she finally agreed to go was chilly and overcast. He came off the field to find her in tears. She said she had a "chill." Their luncheon, too, was an abysmal failure. She kept insisting he cared more about football than he did about her. He argued this. But when he did not offer to give up playing, she rushed from the restaurant.

No one likes scenes. Men especially dislike them. Scenes, therefore, have a way of being a last resort in attempts to dominate.

This husband gave up football. He finds life easier this way. So does his wife. But I would not be surprised if she, keeping him at her side on Sunday mornings, has not in a subtle way lost more than she has gained.

There are women who, with no physical or financial need to do so, require husbands to help with housework and other household chores. Those whose will to dominate takes this direction also may require a man to look after the children. One wife I know asks her husband to bathe the baby every evening. She explains, "While they're splashing around together, I lie down and read the evening newspaper. This way I'm a better conversationalist when the maid serves dinner."

She or the maid could bathe the baby before her husband came home. Then he and his son could have their opportunity for closeness as they shared, let's say, a bedtime story. But the bathing ritual was a way of wifely domination.

Of course, there is never only one reason for the way we behave. Those who tax husbands with housework may do so because they enjoy the sense of power they derive. Or they may prefer going to luncheons, shopping or playing cards to staying home and doing housework. Or they may resent a husband going off to work where they visualize him having a fine old time, being waited on by a pretty secretary and lunching expensively with business associates. There also are wives, plagued by frigidity, who hope in this way to emasculate their husbands so that sex will be less of a nuisance.

Those who dominate because they banker for additional luxuries will talk admiringly of all the things other men provide. They will say, with ill-concealed longing, "Mrs. Next-Door has a new mink stole!" "My brother just bought a big color-tv." "The Down-the-Streets have the most beautiful air-conditioned station wagon."

The husband of such wives are driven to copying the neighboring go-getters—and often at a heavy price to the wife.

A dominating mate, as I mentioned, is not necessarily a handicap to a marriage—but she is a potential danger. Marriage counselors try to diminish any one partner's dominance, when possible, because they have found a cooperative, give-and-take relationship the most wholesome.

In the end, though, it is a couple's self-understanding—individually and as a twosome—that determines the course of a marriage. *

How to Find Art Treasure in Your Attic

The dusty old oil painting or water color just might be a sought-after masterpiece worth thousands of dollars

By DAVID L. GOODRICH

A DOZEN YEARS ago, in a junk shop in Tulsa, Okla., an actor named William Roerick happened to spot a dusty, torn oil painting dated 1874.

Roerick liked the painting and bought it—for $35. Soon after, he learned to his surprise that his purchase was an original work by Winslow Homer, one of America's most famous artists. In 1961 Roerick sold his discovery to an art collector. The price: a mere $25,000.

This story highlights the fact that the junk shops, attics, and parlors of America contain many paintings—and drawings and prints—which, although their owners don't know it, may be worth a good deal of money. And the most exciting aspect is that, to get your hands on a prize painting, you don't have to be an expert!

An upstate New York woman with no formal art training inherited a small water color from her father, who had owned a frame shop. Believing it was worth roughly $100, she took it to a New York City auction house. The picture turned out to have been painted by the late John Marin, a well-known artistic innovator. It was sold for $4,400.

This anecdote concerns a painting by a well-known artist, but it is also possible to turn up worthwhile creations by less-famous men and women, creations worth hundreds rather than thousands.

Through the centuries, many fine portraits, landscapes, seascapes, and still lifes have been executed by obscure American professionals as well as "primitives" (unschooled artists).

One of the most intriguing facts about valuable old paintings is that art experts have exact information about specific ones which have dropped out of sight and might be hiding anywhere—in old barns, basements, antique shops.

Thomas Eakins, the well-known 19th-century painter, did two portraits of President Rutherford B. Hayes, for example. The second is now in a museum in Yonkers, N.Y. The first, painted in 1878, disappeared years ago, and can't be traced. In many ways, the two pictures are alike, but with a major difference: the missing picture was painted on a very hot day, and Hayes was red-faced and perspiring. If found, the missing portrait would be worth between $250,000 and $500,000.

People who own promising-looking pictures often ask: "How can I find out how much my painting is worth?" A good first step is to show it to the staff of a museum. Although policy prevents museums from giving specific price evaluations, they are sometimes willing to provide information concerning authenticity.

Owners should write to museums, saying what they know about the picture's history; it's also helpful to give its dimensions and enclose photographs.

Whenever a previously ignored painting turns out to have real value, the finder receives many rewards: a monetary windfall, the excitement of discovery, the satisfaction of adding to America's store of artistic treasures. In one case, however, the discoverers of a "precious" painting reaped still another dividend—they unearthed a mystery.

In the summer of 1968, a South Carolina couple brought a Caribbean landscape water color to an art expert for identification. To their delight, the expert informed them that they had turned up a previously unknown Winslow Homer. He added, however, that their picture wasn't the original water color but an extremely well-made reproduction.

So, while the lucky couple does own a valuable piece of art, either the original, if found, is much more valuable.

With luck, you may find it!

Do You Have Their Lost Art?

Great sums await the rummagers who discover missing paintings by such artists as Thomas Eakins (left) and Winslow Homer.

THE NEW JAMES BOND—

George Lazenby: Arrogant Egotist

IF you think taking over the movies' most popular role from one of its most popular stars requires experience, humility, and a slight sense of awe, then you're dead wrong.

George Lazenby, the man who is taking over the role of James Bond from Sean Connery, is proof positive of that statement. George, by his own admission is arrogant, egotistical, and self-confident.

George's physical appearance is sure to make him the new heart-throb of women movie-goers. Tall, handsome, and extremely masculine, he epitomizes the lusty 007 character he plays. According to Bond film producers Albert Broccoli and Harry Saltzman, George has much the same screen magnetism as does Connery.

Yet every one of the 29-year-old actor's leading ladies (all 12 of them) in the forthcoming Bond epic, "On Her Majesty's Secret Service," has something to say about Lazenby—all bad. Comments range from: "He's a brilliant conversationalist—as long as you want to talk about Australia" to "He's only interested in sex."

George takes exception to that last comment, though. "When I came to Murren (Switzerland) for location shooting, all the girls were chasing me," George says. "I can't really blame them, all they wanted was publicity, but sooner or later women become ugly and nasty."

An incident in George's past probably accounts for his attitude toward women today. The son of a former railway worker, George grew up in Goulburn, Australia, and held a number of odd jobs to see himself through school.

Later he met a girl and grew extremely fond of her. When she moved to England, George followed a short time later. "I thought it would be great to be with her again," George recalls bitterly, "but when I got there, she wouldn't even talk to me."

George's good looks led to a high-paying job as a mail model and eventually a meeting with Albert

Broccoli. "I saw him in a barber shop one day," Broccoli says, "and he looked like Bond to me." Since Broccoli and Saltzman already were having trouble with Sean Connery, they filed George's name away for future reference.

But if they thought that they had trouble with Connery, they know they're not going to have a picnic with George. Although he signed a seven-year contract, George has his own ideas about cooperating. "No one can make me do what I don't want to do," George says flatly.

Another thing that infuriates George's producers and leading ladies is his indifference and lack of manners. Saltzman, for example, ordered George not to ski while the shooting was going on, explaining that the film was expensive and they couldn't afford an accident.

Next day, Saltzman looked out his window and there was George whizzing down the slope at break-neck speed. All George said was, "He caught me at a bad time. I was about to ask him for a raise!"

One of the film's female stars recalls dropping a load of packages and having George practically walk over her without helping to pick them up.

With virtually no acting experience, how did George feel about taking over the role of the suave British super spy? "No worries," says George. "Bond is basically an arrogant, self-centered s--- and so, and that's the way I play him."

"When you come down to it, I'm really only playing myself."

Now—Developed by Over 1000 Arthritis Specialists and Doctors Working Together—a Needed and Medically-Approved Program to Veronome Arthritis!

Arthritis can be successfully treated. You can recover. Buoyant, pain-free living should be yours. A new 5-way practical plan of positive action causes pain and disability to go.

By William S. Kitay
Medical Science Reporter

If you've had Arthritis for years—have just had first twinges, are susceptible through heredity—or if you have a loved one who suffers from it, here's news.

Scientists have revised their viewpoint on Arthritis and what you can do about it. Science now knows that there is no universal sure-cure miracle pill or drug for Arthritis—and probably never will be.

The plain scientific truth is that you can recover from Arthritis with simpler means. Techniques now available can calm the pain, the activity of Arthritis, even lessen the damage.

What Researchers Discovered

A simple home treatment can get you back on your feet, give you new independence and return you to useful living.

It stops pain, reduces inflammation and swelling, gives greater use of your joints. Simply, it prevents or minimizes the misery and crippling of Arthritis.

It is a 5-way method developed by over 1000 Arthritis specialists and general practitioners working together. It's surprisingly effective in even severe, complicated cases. Often it stops short pain and disability of NEW Arthritis sufferers—virtually as first symptoms begin.

ARTHRITIS DANGER QUIZ!

- Will the juice of one lemon in hot water before breakfast relieve Arthritis? Do special diets help? How does constipation affect Arthritis? Do laxatives help?
- How about Vitamin B-12, Vitamin C and orange juice, orange juice and cod liver oil, lemon juice and baking soda, honey, cream of tartar, multiple vitamins, vegetable juices, food supplements, mineral waters, and herb medicine? Does reducing help?
- Doctors and scientists have investigated virtually any remedy obtainable. You get a full report with the 5-Way plan.
- Will oils be absorbed by your skin and help lubricate a stiff joint? Does linole help? Are dry skin or scalp or ear symptoms indications of Arthritis? Does hair you eat affect how your body builds bones with calcium? Does Vitamin D stimulate the Adrenal glands and ease Arthritis? Are liniments as effective as heat lamps?
- What about a no-meat diet—or meat 3 times daily? No smoking or 3 cigars daily? Opening windows open or closed? Or sleeping on the floor? Do vibrating machines help? Or health belts?
- Does cooling up comfortably in bed relax—or cripple? Will a pillow under your knees when asleep give needed rest—or endanger your ability to walk? When can a small pillow under your head help—and when HARM?
- Will climbing stairs strengthen knees, feet, hips affected—or harm them? Will sitting in one spot avoid using painful knee and save more pain and stiffness—or increase chance of deformity? Should you keep covers off feet? Are long automobile rides good for you? Each year countless people worsen their own Arthritis—unnecessarily. Many give themselves pain, and crippling therapies for little—simply because—they don't know—or tragically believe they are helping and relieving their Arthritis.
- You get a blunt report in 5-Way as described here. The misinformation, confusion, claims and counter claims and ignorance about Arthritis are cleared up. You get the truth about, and how to recognize and avoid, quick cures, "sure cures" and fake remedies.

Why Suffer Needlessly

How often have you done your work with arthritic pain stealing your energy and dulling your efforts—or have you progressed even further, and you've looked with sinking heart at your swollen joints and twisted fingers—actually brushed tears from your eyes because you became so dependent on others' kindness?

A remarkable organization—endorsed to do the job—has banded together the greatest medical drive in Arthritic history—to find the truth about—and OVERCOME ARTHRITIS!

Virtually every conceivable method to treat Arthritis has been investigated. Folk remedies, fake cures, cure-alls, wild hopes of medical science for new drugs—anything promising—even alleviating relief, however unorthodox, has been studied. Over 1000 doctors and scientists joined in. If any method worked, it was retested.

The frauds, the fakes, the false hopes were shown up. Full facts on new medicine—side effects—disadvantages—withdrawal effects—in different situations were frankly faced. The work goes on—searching for the miracle not yet found.

The Simple Truth

But the quickest, surest, safest methods yet found—when again and again proven in different situations—have been included in the 5-Way plan to give you greater relief from aches and pain, greater use of joints, faster resumption of activities.

Whatever form of Arthritis, however complicated or intensive, whatever age and arthritic condition, the flexible 5-Way plan adapts to help.

Here are the most effective techniques in single areas—around—knee—joint—shoulder, ankle; back—neck—techniques to improve circulation in your entire body.

Feel the Improvement—and Say "Yes" to Life Again

See and feel at home your 5-Way plan. Start your body on the way to painfree, normal living. Feel tight joints rest, relax, ease up. Feel muscles dead-in-knobs become more supple. Feel body tension ease, aches and pains, soreness, muscle spasms be relieved. Feel muscle tendons soften and stretch. Feel your body's full-breathing range permitted again. Feel strength of needed muscles increase.

As you return full motion and range to joints, you're preventing and reducing chance of crippling. You're saving corrective action later. Because you have found the full truth about Arthritis and what to do about it, you've been restoring motion, strength and power to stiffened, weakened joints, increasing the range of joints, helping prevent weakening and deterioration of essential muscles impairing your walking, climbing stairs and getting in and out of chairs.

You've gained surprising independence! From disabilities—and you're feeling better than you have in years. You say "YES" to life again!

5-Way Plan In Book Form

The entire plan is now published in one easy-to-refer-to volume. You just use the information you need. What kind of Arthritis do you have? Rheumatoid to Osteo Arthritis—they're here (covering 95% of Arthritis cases) including Rheumatic Fever, Infective Arthritis, Gouty Arthritis, Shoulder and Hand—Syndrome and Traumatic Arthritis—PLUS the RELATED DISORDERS of Rheumatism, Bursitis, Tendinitis, Psychogenic Rheumatism—even Fibrositis, Fasciitis, Tenosynovitis, and Myositis.

Get the facts about the Arthritis that strikes 10 men for each woman—and another kind that strikes 10 women for each man—the Arthritis most past 40 eventually get to some degree—the kind that attacks rugged outdoor men—and another kind that attacks thin, tense, intellectual types—the Arthritis that's the most common cause of heart disease under 40 and often affects children, and how best to minimize heart damage from it—Arthritis a vigorous cough makes painfully worse—a kind involving the upper spine arriving with headache, earache, sore throat; neuritic pains in arms; or stiffness in neck.

And more! The most ignored warning signals of Arthritis and what to do when you first spot them. Facts you should know about aspirin, gold salts, prostigmin, cortex, and cortisone.

What food disorders can do to Arthritis and what you can do about it. The truth about Arthritic corsets and spine braces. What almost every patient first suffering from chronic Arthritis does wrongly that can cause deformity—unnecessarily.

Amazing 6-Months Guarantee! Available To Anyone

Any doctor any arthritis sufferer, anyone susceptible to Arthritis, any family member or friend who wants to help may accept the amazing offer below.

It is not a 24 hour miracle cure. There is none. It's a way-to-help-yourself—and-your-doctor-to-overcome Arthritis, stop Arthritis, relieve pain and misery, restore action to crippled limbs, and give back normal, pain free living.

Only if after looking over the book and 5-Way plan for 10 full days, you're convinced you can be helped, is there any cost. Otherwise, simply return within the ten days for no cost. And if you keep the book for its low cost—if at any time within six months thereafter you or your doctor—have any doubts of what it has done for you in any way it does not do what reading this page has led you to expect, simply return for full refund. Could anything be fairer?
