

Americans By Thousands Pay Respects As Eisenhower Lies In State

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Flanked by men of the military he once led in battle and covered by the flag he served in war and peace, the body of Dwight David Eisenhower lay in a quiet cathedral chapel Saturday while thousands of Americans passed by in tribute.

Bellevue Chapel of Washington National Cathedral, where it will remain until this afternoon. Although a chill wind and occasional light showers swept the cathedral grounds dominating the city's northwest skyline, the mourners here said that solemnly respectful and affectionate, gathered in growing numbers to wait their chance to pay "last respects" to "the man they all knew as 'Ike.'"

10-minute prayer service before noon, the doors of the underground chapel were opened to the public for more than eight hours. The lines of mourners outside snaked around the cathedral and out four blocks at the start, and 80 minutes later the lines stretched six blocks long.

Foreign dignitaries—kings and princes, presidents and prime ministers, comrades-in-arms from World War II—planned to fly to the capital for the funeral after the cathedral Monday afternoon. The body will be borne by train afterwards to Abilene, Kan., for burial.

The former Julie Nixon, and granddaughters Barbara Ann, Susan and Mary Jean. The Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the cathedral and himself a grandson of another President, Woodrow Wilson, said a brief prayer he had composed for the occasion and read from the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer. His prayer said:

Other fireman were unable to find him, but could hear his cries for help. He was in the basement of the building about one hour.

After the Eisenhower family left, the public began moving past the general's bier at the rate of about 1,000 an hour. The first to pay her respects was an army widow, Mrs. Theresa Coleman, 75—"As old as Ike."

Drug Store Blaze Kills T.F. Fireman

Idaho-Weeps Day Of Mourning Declared

Gov. Don Samuelson Friday afternoon issued a proclamation declaring Monday as an official day of mourning.

"Whereas President Nixon has proclaimed Monday, March 31, as an official day of mourning out of honor and respect for the distinguished former president, Dwight David Eisenhower, and

"Now, therefore, I, Don Samuelson, Governor of the State of Idaho, do hereby proclaim Monday, March 31, 1969, as an official day of mourning, in Idaho."

In keeping with the national day of mourning Monday, Twin Falls schools, kindergartens, the College of Southern Idaho, and the Twin Falls Post Office will remain closed out of respect for the former President.

The University of Idaho and Boise State College will also be closed Monday with classes resuming regular schedules Tuesday morning.

JAMES (TED) POULTON, one of the firemen injured at the Lynwood Shopping Center fire Saturday night, was being placed on a stretcher prior to being taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital when this picture was taken by Dan Johnson, Times-News photographer. He was one of the firemen admitted to the hospital for treatment. Roy Parker, another fireman, was pronounced dead-at-the-hospital.

No Date Set In Hagerman Murder Case

GOODING — No date has been set for the preliminary hearing of an Ogden couple charged with the murder of a Hagerman man whose remains were found in a shallow grave last week east of Hagerman.

Sheriff Earl Brown said Saturday that Mrs. Trendwell, 70, who is now in patient at St. Bernard's Hospital, Jerome, was living in Ogden at the time her husband disappeared.

Smoke In Basement Fells Six Others; Explosion Averted

By GENE SCHNEIDER

One fireman is dead and six others were treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital as a result of a Saturday late-afternoon fire in the basement of the Penny Wise Drug Store in the Lynwood Shopping Center.

Dead is Roy Parker, Twin Falls, who had been with the department for a bout five months. He was found in the basement of the building face down in a pool of water.

Injured and admitted to the hospital were: James E. (Ted) Poulton, 46, 218 Locust St.; Don King, 38, 324 Maurice St. North; Derold Wilcock, 40, 219 Walnut; Wayne Campbell, 32, 404 Martin St.; James Miller, 39, 1335 Spruce St.; Richard MacArthur, 21, 782 Filer Avenue West.

The fire, which was reported to the department at about 4:30 p.m., started in the basement of the building. It started near a large amount of gun powder and ammunition which was in storage. Law enforcement authorities "cleared" the surrounding area because of possibility of a major explosion. Small explosions did occur in the basement but little damage resulted from them.

The main floor of the building was not damaged by fire. However, smoke filled the entire building and "smoke" damage is expected to be high. At present time Saturday night no estimate of the damage had been made.

Mr. Parker was pronounced dead shortly after his arrival at the hospital. First aid and oxygen were administered at the scene. A report which could not be substantiated said that Mr. Parker had gone beyond his life line and at that time the danger bell on his oxygen tank rang.

Other fireman were unable to find him, but could hear his cries for help. He was in the basement of the building about one hour.

After the Eisenhower family left, the public began moving past the general's bier at the rate of about 1,000 an hour. The first to pay her respects was an army widow, Mrs. Theresa Coleman, 75—"As old as Ike."

Dr. Taylor, Governor To Ponder Kellwood Training

A conference between Dr. James L. Taylor, College of Southern Idaho president, and Gov. Don Samuelson will be held this week to discuss financing of a training program for employees of the Kellwood Co. Dr. Taylor said that CSI has assured the Kellwood Co. that it will set up training programs for employees of the firm which will be located here. The training program will be offered through the CSI Vocational School.

Dr. Taylor said that Gov. Samuelson has indicated that he will do everything possible in working with CSI to provide educational training for the host firm's employees. Gov. Samuelson has lauded the location of the plant in Twin Falls as a boon to the industrial climate of Idaho.

Dr. Taylor said that at this time there is no such industrial training program going on in Idaho schools. He said that previously training has been undertaken by the industries themselves.

Dr. Taylor said that people will be referred to the training classes by the Department of Employment and that CSI will be selecting and training from these referrals.

Dr. Taylor, along with five other Idaho residents, returned from Siler City, N.C., site of Kellwood's other hosiery manufacturing plant, Thursday.

He said that while in Siler City he received inquiries from Kellwood officials regarding possible CSI training from employees of other Kellwood plants.

Dr. Taylor said that it is possible that something may be worked out on this proposal, but added that the State of Idaho or CSI will not bear the financial brunt of the schooling for out-of-state trainees.

He added that at this time "our main concern is supplying industrial training for area residents — this is our number one objective right now."

City's Highway Board To Meet

The Twin Falls City Highway Commission will meet at noon Monday with Howard Johnson, district highway engineer, to discuss directional signing for State Highway 74 and U.S. Highway 93.

This will also be a get-acquainted session for the commission and Mr. Johnson, who is the new engineer for this district.

The commission will also discuss the National Safety Council Analysis, according to Jean Miller, secretary of the commission.

Two Ketchum Thespians Set Debut

POCATELLO — Two ISU students from Ketchum are among students involved in "Beauty and the Beast," a play which will be presented this year by Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatic honorary.

Proceeds from the production, which will be at 8 p.m., April 11, and 10 a.m., April 12, at Frazier Hall on the ISU campus, will be for the Wyo. drama school scholarships.

Robert Thomas, a freshman drama major from Ketchum, plays the "Beast," and Judith McFarland, also Ketchum, is a member of the cast.

Evaluator

Dr. James L. Taylor, College of Southern Idaho president, will serve on an evaluation team for the Northwest Regional Accrediting Association, he said Friday.

The local educator will travel next week to Glendive, Mont., to assist in the evaluation of the programs at Dawson County Community College.

Burley Will Host Western Crime Confab

BURLEY — The western States Crime Conference will be held May 11-14 at Potrero Inn, hosted by City of Burley and Burley Police Department.

The 19th session will open with registration May 11 and will include city, county, state and federal law enforcement officers from Washington, Idaho, Oregon, California, Wyoming, Montana, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Alaska and Canada.

Featured speakers will be Joseph Casper, assistant director of FBI, Washington, D.C.

The crime conference had its first beginning 18 years ago under the direction of Y. A. Black, identification police officer of Pocatello Police Department. Mr. Black has retired and is presently living in Arizona. That first meeting included Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

B. A. Gurdyanov, Portland, Ore. captain in Oregon State Police, who served as conference moderator the past 18 years, died last September. This year Capt. Lyle Harrell, Salem, Ore., criminal division-Oregon State Police, will serve as conference moderator.

Since the first Crime Conference held 19 years ago in Pocatello, the sessions have been hosted in other states returning to Boise and Idaho Falls during the years. This year makes the fourth time in history of the organization to be held in Idaho.

Some 800 law enforcement officers are expected to attend the Burley session. Last year the conference was held in Salt Lake City.

Work Never Is Finished For Sheriff

SIOUSHONE — Sheriff Thomas W. Connor finds his job varying in type and not quite ever finished.

As illustration, this week he was alerted to transport Lowell Winchester to the Boise State hospital after the elderly man fell at his apartment and was injured. The actual preparation to take Mr. Winchester to Boise involved something like a private valet service. The Sheriff and City Police Chief Bill Anderson carried the man about a flight of stairs from the apartment to the car. Sheriff Connor injured his own back in the process, which required treatment Tuesday morning.

During the late hours Monday night a neighbor's child called to ask the sheriff to take Mrs. "Kathy" Adams to the hospital as she was ill.

The Sheriff said he was happy to oblige and feels this is all just part of his job.

Acute Social Problems Test To Nixon

Magic Valley's Home Newspaper
Sunday, March 30, 1969
AL WESTERBERG, Publisher
THOMAS HOWARD, Assistant to the Publisher
GENE CARPENTER, Circulation Director

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Nixon's administration may turn out to be the most experimental in recent American history since the ground-breaking first years of Franklin D. Roosevelt's regime.

36 years later, it is government itself that is in crisis. He and his most powerful associates sensed it before they took over. But they have had the lesson learned from them with staggering force in their short two months in command.

Mary Brooks

The most capable and gifted Mary Brooks of Idaho is the new Director of the United States Mint. The rumor that she would get the nod to this high post has been going the rounds for quite a spell, as reported in the Times-News a couple of weeks ago, but the official announcement was made by President Nixon.

No doubt about it, this appointment just has to be the highlight of a varied and successful career for this unusual woman who hails from Idaho and from our own section of the state.

It was probably back in the early 1940's when she first became actively interested in things political. Prior to his death in 1945 she was administrative assistant to her father, U.S. Senator John Thomas of Idaho.

Following the death of her husband, Sen. C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois in 1957, she became a member of the Republican National Committee. She was vice-chairman of the committee in 1960 and became known throughout the United States as a result of her efforts in this field.

And, of course, she is in her third term as a Republican Senator in the Idaho State Legislature.

A businesswoman of great ability, it is most fitting that she should have been selected by the President to be Director of the Mint, a job which is traditionally held by a woman.

Idaho and Magic Valley and the small community of Carey, which she lists as home, are all proud of Mary Brooks.

No doubt about one thing — she will do a good job.

"We Interrupt This Program To Bring You A Special Message From Saigon!"

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

About The Nixon-Laird Ploy

WASHINGTON — Working behind an essential curtain of secrecy, the new Administration has now developed an anti-war strategy which is all but certain to start significant withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam within six months.

The key new factor in the equation is what Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird calls "phase two" in the emergency buildup of South Vietnamese forces.

"Phase one" of the buildup would prepare Saigon's army to handle only Communist guerrilla forces in South Vietnam after the mutual withdrawal of both U.S. troops and North Vietnamese regulars.

Operating along those policy lines, the Administration cannot be expected to open as to its intentions. With mutual withdrawal the second item on Paris agenda, the U.S. would work itself quickly into a hopeless burning position if Mr. Nixon announced that failure of the mutual withdrawal proposal is to lead to a start of unilateral withdrawal.

That's why parts of Laird's intentionally vague testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last Friday angered the doves, including Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, the committee chairman. Laird was forced to make the obvious point that "bargaining in public" does not serve the cause of peace in Southeast Asia.

But the very fact that Fulbright, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, and other doves are beginning to stir again, after an unusual period of quiet, is pushing the Administration harder in the direction of Laird's plan.

Moreover, it's not only the doves who are pressing for new policies to close out the war, but the White House itself, some of the President's advisers are privately saying that they like to go to sleep with that "no more nuclear-usable non-combatant logistical support, and green beret troops — most U.S. combat forces could be withdrawn by the summer of 1970."

The Public's Right

WASHINGTON — My friend Mulligan was in a stew. "I'm getting sick of all this 'public's right to know' business."

"What are you talking about?" he asked him.

"I've been watching the ABM hearings for two days and I'll be damned if I know what they're talking about."

"Mulligan, these things should be thrashed out in the open. We have a big stake in the ABM, and if we don't know the pros and cons of the system, we could all be in a jam."

"Is that so?" Mulligan said. "It so happens I was much happier not knowing about the ABM. I was minding my own business, I wasn't aware of the Soviets' first strike peril; I couldn't have cared less about our second-strike deterrent capability, and I didn't even know there was a generation gap in our missiles."

"A generation gap in our missiles?" I said in astonishment.

"Sure, you're not being reasonable," I admonished Mulligan.

"Reasonable? We don't even know if the Minuteman ICBMs will work, so how the hell are we supposed to defend against the ABMs? Suppose the ABM system is protecting missiles that can't get off the ground?"

"You're damn right I don't," said Mulligan. "So I don't want to know any facts at all. You have to be a physicist to understand the questions, much less the answers, at the televised hearings. I say if they're going to make a deal with Mr. Nixon, let it be private. I really don't have any interest in how many more years we have before the Chinese can blow us up."

"You're being unfair to our leaders. All they're trying to do is share their awesome responsibility with you."

"If I wanted that awesome responsibility, I would have run for President or asked Mr. Nixon to make me secretary of defense," Mulligan said. "I'll make a deal with the Administration. I'll give you a sports-wear business if they don't bug me with their problems about the ABM."

"You don't have the nuclear-usable non-combatant logistical support at least interested in the missiles we're building for peace?"

"Mulligan shook his head. 'If you've seen one missile-industrial complex, you've seen 'em all.'"

Crime Battle

Crime is one of the major domestic problems of the nation, but like most other problems — pollution, traffic control, housing or whatever — it is not a crisis of equal proportions in every community. Although crime can and does occur everywhere, it is, essentially, a big-city problem.

Critics are complaining that the government is ignoring this fact by adopting a scattergun approach in implementing the 1968 Safe Streets Act in the "block grant" program to state governments. The funds should, it is argued, go directly to the cities where the problem is worst.

The money — $19 million for planning and $29 million for programs based on the planning in this fiscal year — doesn't start flowing until April, but one group already predicts that it will have no practical effect upon crime because it won't reach high-crime areas.

The National League of Cities studied planning in 31 states and charges that:

The states have erected a whole new level of bureaucracy. In 24 states there are a total of 211 regional crime-control bureaus.

Ohio is cited as an outstandingly bad example. That state has set up 15 regions to plan the fight against crime, with major cities merged with all other governmental units.

Many state allocation formulas favor rural areas disproportionately. Some of the biggest cities are getting inconsequential sums — for instance, Nashville, $7,000; Tulsa, $12,000; Boston, $20,000.

The league foresees spending leaning heavily toward items like new patrol cars, while the recruitment of Negro policemen and making more efficient use of present forces or improving police-community relations will be ignored.

It is to be hoped that the critics are premature in their pessimism. The war against crime is too urgent a matter to be permitted to develop into another one of those Washington-stationhouse porkbarrels, where everybody gets a little, something but nobody gets as much as his needs.

MR. SPECTATOR

It's Worth Reading

Each year we look forward to the annual yearbook of the U.S. Forest Service that covers activities in the Intermountain Region.

And, as usual, the wait was worth the effort, again this time and our copy of the report has just arrived from Floyd Iverson, regional forester with headquarters in Ogden.

Mr. Iverson wrote that "Partnership of Ideas" is the theme of our 1968 publication. A major objective is to highlight some significant achievements of people — both in and out of the forest service — who, working together, every day are finding ways to improve the management and all-around values of National Forest System lands and resources for the public.

"To a significant extent," he wrote, "how our National Forests and National Grasslands are operated touches the lives of all of us. So it is both essential and desirable that there be a continuing and meaningful exchange and interaction of ideas among us."

In the Introduction to the annual report are the words:

While developing new and better ways in resource management, we are not abandoning our rich heritage of conservation principles. Rather, we are building on the good work done by those who preceded us, combining the best of the present with the best of the past to meet the needs of the future.

The road to improvement is always open.

As Mr. Spectator said, the recipients of the report are the grand old men of the land which permits oldsters to tell their grandchildren:

"When I was a kid, it was just this same way."

So far as the heritage of the forest is concerned, if we can keep it for future generations, then that is progress.

PAUL HARVEY

Natives Growing Restless

This column has considered criticism of the Nixon Administration premature; inappropriate.

President Nixon, campaigning, promised to resolve the wilderness crisis. Now he has introduced increasing crime. There is no way any President could accomplish all those ambitious objectives in a few weeks.

Nonetheless, the natives are growing restless.

Increasingly in my travels I am overhearing such criticism at all ages as: "Richard Milhous Johnson."

"It's just continuing the discarded Johnson policy in Vietnam!"

Rumblings of restlessness are heard on the Hill, too.

In the first 10 months after we curtailed bombing and started talking in Paris, 10,000 more Americans were killed.

President Nixon is not unkindly of the dissent, "I can't say from having campaigned this country that the American people are terribly frustrated about this war and they would welcome any initiative that they thought could appropriately bring it to an end on some responsible basis."

Mr. Nixon wants the war to end. With the disengagement of American forces in Vietnam, our dollar drain would diminish, with resultant tax relief and fiscal firmness.

Much disruption of campuses and crime in the streets derive from the military draft; peace, Mr. Nixon has promised, would end the draft.

Yet, if there is to be any possibility of success for the Paris negotiations, the President believes he must continue hard-line diplomacy. He must continue to say "no prospect of withdrawing American troops in the foreseeable future."

Meanwhile, the enemy takes advantage of our curtailed bombing to improve logistics, increase attacks.

More Americans killed and fewer Communists killed in the recent Tet offensive than in a similar offensive a year ago.

Yet, if there is to be any possibility of success for the Paris negotiations, the President believes he must continue hard-line diplomacy. He must continue to say "no prospect of withdrawing American troops in the foreseeable future."

Salmon, Roseworth Tracts Have Above-Normal Snow

The water content of the snow pack in the South Hills for both the Salmon tract and Roseworth tract is well above normal as compared in past years, the April 1 survey shows.

Glen Nelson, chairman of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District supervisors, said that the water content of the snow pack on all courses is 134 per cent, previously recorded averages and 220 per cent above last year. The water content of the soil profile is good which will facilitate the runoff from the snow pack.

The survey was made by Ellis Fuller, John Pastoor and Marvin Taylor, soil district officials, and Jim Marshall, Soil Conservation Service.

The measurements of the snow courses, listing course, snow depths and water content at this time as compared to a year ago and the April 1 water content average years ago, are:

Magic Mountain — 49.5 inches of snow with 18.6 inches of water as compared to 28.7 inches of snow and 11.2 inches of water a year ago. The 26-year water content average is 18.5 inches.

Deadline Ridge — 84.4 inches of snow with 22.2 inches of water as compared to 38.1 inches of snow and 14.6 inches of water a year ago. The 15-year water content average is 21 inches.

Shoshone Basin — Snow depth 108 inches with 20.8 inches of water as compared to 7.5 inches of water as compared to 32.2 inches of snow and 12.1 inches of water last year. The 14-year water content average is 17.7 inches.

Cedar Creek — 64.8 inches of snow with 12.5 inches of water as compared to 10.0 inches of snow and 3.9 inches of water last year. The 14-year water content average is 9 inches.

Bear Creek Meadows — 73.8 inches of snow with 27.3 inches of water as compared to 45.6 inches of snow and 12.9 inches of water last year. The 26-year water content average is 20 as compared with 43.9 inches of snow and 10.6 inches of water a year ago. The 14-year water content average is 18.8 inches.

Red Point — 29.2 inches of snow with 10.2 inches of water as compared to 18 inches of snow and 7 inches of water last year. The 8-year water content average is 9.3 inches.

Wilson Creek — Snow depth is 55 inches with 21.4 inches of water as compared to 16 inches of snow and 8 inches of water content last year. The 8-year water content average is 10.7 inches.

Easter Seal TV Program Is Scheduled

Merle Stoddard, director of the Twin Falls Easter Seal Center, will be presenting her annual program at 4:30 p.m. April 6 on KMYT.

She said they will demonstrate how to watch for clues when hip-reading with 3-year-old Jaye Lunn Heath. Carlena Hills will be shown talking and Mrs. Stoddard will show basic coordination exercises that will help all children. Mrs. Leo Shorthouse will explain why she has been using these exercises in her kindergarten.

There will be a demonstration on how to help the tongue thruster or the deviate swallow-er and Mrs. Stoddard will also have a demonstration on the McGinnis method of association for deaf children.

At the end of the television show Mrs. Stoddard will announce the end of the Easter Seal Campaign. If anyone has been missed during the campaign and wants to donate he should call 733-6111 or 733-3855 between 5 and 6 p.m. April 6. There will be a mobile unit in the area waiting to pick up the donations. An authorized Easter Seal representative will be in each of the cars to accept the donations.

Those living outside the city limits should mail their donations to the Easter Seal Center. Bruce Whitaker, state administrator, Boise, will also appear on the television program. He will introduce Mike Gray, the new Twin Falls delegate.

Hearing On T.F. School Budget Set

A public hearing on the 1969-70 maintenance operating budget for Twin Falls School District No. 411 has been set for 7:30 p.m. April 8 at the School Administration Building.

Superintendent E. H. Ragland made the announcement and said that trustees had authorized the budget hearing at the earliest possible date following the adjournment of the State Legislature.

While the budget will be increased over the 1968-69 requirement, it is expected that the total tax levy will drop from 42 mills to 39 mills. This will be possible because the original bonded debt of 1949 and the bonded funds for the senior high school will be paid in full on June 30. The bonds issued in 1949 amounted to $1,400,000.

The local tax requirement for 1969 taxes is estimated at $1,055,000 compared to $1,066,700 for the 1968 tax requirement.

Substantial increases will be provided for salaries and wages, Dr. Ragland said. Copies of the budget are available at the superintendent's office, 201 Main Ave. W.

RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS on his selection as one of the two outstanding employees of the Magic Valley chapter of the Idaho State Employees Association is State Patrolman Frank Mogensen, conferring here with Mrs. Pat Daniels, president of the area chapter. Dr. K.A. Tyler, Gooding, director of the Idaho Tuberculosis Hospital, was the other state employee selected for the honor.

Radiological Unit Plans For Confab

Magic Valley Radiological Technologists, and Thursday at the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auditorium with Mick College, R.T., Twin Falls, presiding.

Final plans were made for the Radiological Education Seminar by the Idaho State Society of Radiological Technologists to be held at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auditorium all-day April 18.

This Educational Seminar will be presented by Technical Representatives from Eastman Kodak Co., Mallinckrodt Co., GAF Corporation, Picker X-ray, Dupont, and General Electric X-ray division. An executive meeting of the ISRT will be held at 8 a.m. on the 18th just prior to the seminar.

Jean Thompson, R.T., will have charge of registration. The coffee breaks to be hosted by the local group will be in charge of Mrs. David Marrs, Billie Bartholomew, R.T., and Cecil Watson, R.T.

The main advantage of the Educational Seminars this year is that it is geared to R.T.s, non-R.T.s, and students and will bring educational film, lectures, and slides and demonstrations of the latest techniques in the x-ray field of medicine.

Mick College, R.T., program chairman presented Leo Sterling, M.D., Radiologist, at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital whose topic was "Angiography and Angiograms," using slides and subtraction films to demonstrate the value in diagnosis of subdural bleeding, tumors and embolus in the blood vessels of the brain. "Techniques for a Stroke showing Retrograde Cerebral Arteriography," prepared by The Winthrop Co., was shown. Refreshments were served by the Radiological Department from the Twin Falls Clinic.

Major Highway Roadwork To Resume Within Month

Major construction and state highway maintenance will resume within the next 30 days, Twin Falls from Five Points East-north-to-the-Interstate Junction.

Mr. Johnson said the routine maintenance will be considerably more work than in the last several years due to the winter weather causing unusual road breakup.

He said construction work will resume shortly on the interstate from Cottrell to the Utah State line. That involves approximately 46 miles of highway and is under contract to Grant Construction Co. and Inland Asphalt, Spokane, and LeGrand Johnson, Brigham City, Utah. Mr. Johnson said this work is expected to be completed in November.

Work on a maintenance project under contract to Carl E. Nelson, Logan, Utah, on U.S. Highway 30 between Twin Falls and Pipers will begin within the next 30 days.

A maintenance contract for plant mix overlay from Flier to Cedar Crossing will be opened April 8.

HAILEY—The preliminary hearing of a 27-year-old former Sun Valley employe charged with embezzlement of $29,000 has been continued.

No date has been set for continuation of the hearing which began last week before Mrs. Verda Alfred, justice of the peace. Richard R. Clark is charged by Rene Meyer, of the Sun Valley accounting offices, of taking the money on the night of Dec. 22 or early morning hours of Dec. 23, when Mr. Clark was night manager of the Sun Valley Lodge.

After his disappearance, some $23,000 was found missing in some of which was in checks. Officers said about $1,000 had been recovered by stopping payment.

Clark was apprehended in Great Falls, Mont., in February as he was boarding a bus. After waiving extradition, Clark was placed in the custody of Blaine County Sheriff O'Connell-Drester, who flew to Great Falls to pick him up.

Witnesses testifying at the hearing include Rene Meyer, Bruce DePew, Jerome J. Grenier, Georgia Riley, Marion Davis, Mrs. Mite Plumer and Joe McElroy. Subpoenaed by the defense were Guy Coles, Jack Cosman and Jay Silver.

V. K. Jeppesen, Blaine county prosecutor, represented the state and the defendant was represented by Lee Schlender and Stratton Leggett, Kelchum.

It was brought out in testimony that none of the money, nor bags and boxes in which it was reportedly placed, has been recovered.

CSI Gets "Go-Ahead" On Health Building

The "go-ahead" order on the college of Southern Idaho health PE building project has been received from the Regional Office of Education and construction from Arrington Construction Co., Idaho Falls, will move onto the site Monday.

Dr. Taylor said that during a meeting last week in San Francisco he and Mike Gray, CST Housing Commission chairman; Ed Jones, architect with Jones-Fehlborg Associates, and Bob Alexander, CSI attorney, conferred with OE and Housing and Urban Development officials. The conferences were scheduled to get approval on the bid for the health PE building and to coordinate construction of a dormitory, student union and library-administration building.

CSI was directed to resubmit applications on the student union and dormitory, on which bids were opened in February and rejected earlier this month. Low bids on the two structures were considerably over estimates.

It is planned to bid those two buildings and the library-administration building at the same time. A grant of $33,701 from the Office of Education for the library-administration building was received less than a week prior to bids being opened on the gymnasium, dormitory and student union.

Dr. Taylor said that he has been given assurance from the participating federal agencies and the college architects that the college should be able to resubmit applications for bidding the projects within the next 45 days. This still puts completion date at fall, 1970, as planned.

College officials also are considering and studying advantages of combining the student union and library-administration building under one roof. The proposal is still in the "talking stage," Dr. Taylor said, and no decision has been reached.

The site of the health PE building is north of the present Fine Arts Center and west of the CSI Tower.

The brick and pre-cast facade building will contain about 50,000 feet of floor space, including a gymnasium with a seating capacity of 4,000. The bleachers will push back to allow additional instruction space. The split-level building also will include four locker rooms and several teaching areas. According to the architects, it will include all physical education teaching needs, with the exception of a swimming pool.

Rupert Girl, 12, Hurt In Crash

RUPERT—A 12-year-old Rupert girl, Regina Coats, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Coats, was injured Wednesday evening near her home two and a fourth miles west of Rupert.

The girl was headed west on Highway 25 on a bicycle when she turned into the path of a 1956 Ford pickup truck, driven by John Culley, 80, Rupert. Culley was unable to stop and struck her bicycle, throwing her to the ground.

Miss Coats landed on her back and left wrist, spraining the wrist. She was treated by a private physician and released. Damage to her bicycle was estimated at $25. No citations were issued.

Discuss Improving 3 Camps

RUPERT—Plans for the reconstruction of Minidoka County's three labor camps were discussed in detail with emphasis on the Wilson Labor Camp plans Thursday during the Rupert Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Meeting with the chamber group were Keth Smith, with the Mini-Cassia of the State Department of Employment, Vernon Kinnear, chairman of the board of directors for the Wilson Labor Sponsoring Association, and Russell Mohlman, a director of the Wilson board.

Mr. Smith explained that housing for the migrant labor is controlled by two sources, the State Department of Health and the State Department of Employment, which "office results the labor."

Presently, he said, there are four areas that must be met by housing facilities before they can house migrant labor. They are that each worker has 400 square feet of living space, that parents be given reasonable privacy in the sleeping area, that mechanical refrigeration be provided in each housing unit, and that the liquid wastes, such as dish-water, be disposed of sub-surface.

When the camps in the Minidoka area were first informed that the camps had been condemned and could not be used until brought up to the new health standards, the laboring associations of the Paul, Hines, and Wilson camps met to discuss building one centrally located camp. Mr. Kinnear explained.

It was determined, however, that transportation would be a problem, and the groups decided to rebuild each individual camp.

The Wilson camp, Mr. Kinnear said, has been established since 1954 and presently has 137 buildings ranging in size from 12 feet by 14 feet to 14 feet by 20 feet. None of the buildings have inside plumbing, he noted, which is now required. Forty-eight of the old buildings will be auctioned Saturday to make room for the new buildings.

After meeting the requirement of submitting a letter of intent to rebuild the camp, the three labor sponsoring groups will be asked to accept the old camps for the 1969 season, provided a refrigerator and dry well pump are installed.

Partitions are also being prepared to allow the parents privacy in the sleeping area. The partitions will be 8 feet by 8 feet.

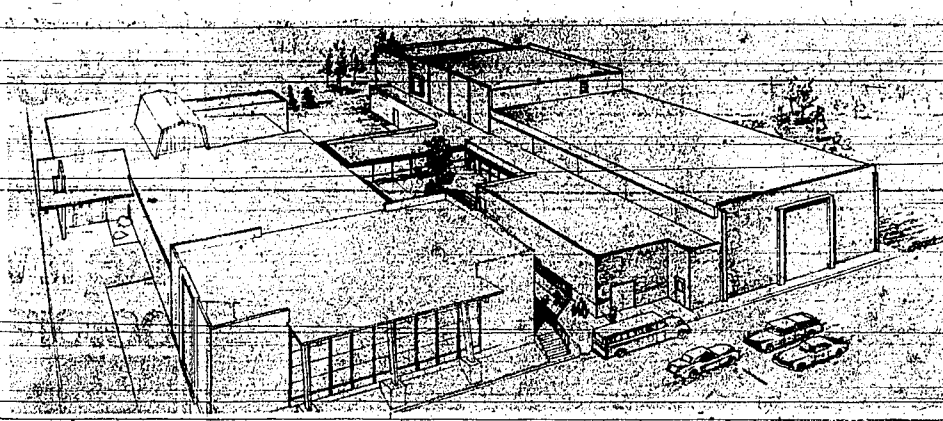

Mr. Kinnear said the Wilson group will borrow $100,000 from the Farmers Home Administration for 33 years to build its new fourplex units at the site, and will increase the cost to the farmer to from $2 an acre to about $3 an acre.

Each building will be divided into four units to house a family each, with an estimated 28 workers per building, he said. Mechanical refrigerators, stoves, plumbing and electric heat will be provided.

Rent will be raised by $5 a week to help finance the project, and Mr. Kinnear noted, it is hoped the camps will be used the entire year.

The three camps in the Minidoka County are employing the same attorney and architect, and perhaps the same contractor as an economy measure.

The labor situation is important to the whole of Rupert, Mr. Mohlman said, because for the Wilson camp alone, the workers are paid a total of $200,000 a year, much of which is spent here.

THIS IS THE ARCHITECTS' concept of what the Twin Falls YMCA-YWCA will look like with the second addition to the right here and to be added on to present facilities near Harmon Park. A fund drive is now under way to raise $395,000 to be paid over the next three years. The drive got under way with a show at the swimming pool, basketball courts and a health club. The architect is Harold Gerber of Twin Falls.

$595,000 YMCA-YWCA Drive Underway

A massive and well-organized campaign is under way at the present time to raise $595,000 for a building addition to the present YMCA-YWCA facilities in Twin Falls.

The addition will include a swimming pool 30 by 75 feet, enclosed to accommodate year-around aquanauts; 10 locker rooms, handball courts and a health club.

The YM-YWCA serves people of all religions, cultures and racial backgrounds and promotes reverence for God, respect for personality, responsibility for the common good and believes in the application of the Golden Rule for human relations.

The Magic Valley YMCA-YWCA in Twin Falls started work on club programs in 1920.

In 1958 Evangeline M. White made provisions in her will for a YMCA-YWCA community center and in 1964 the first unit, the present facilities, was dedicated. This building includes a lobby, administrative offices, staff offices, a chapel, meeting room, kitchen and an all-purpose room.

In 1967, the board of directors of the center started drafting plans for the new addition to the present facilities.

The center serves all of Magic Valley.

Last week the Top Level and Big Gifts divisions of the fund drive got under way with a show at the swimming pool, basketball courts and a health club. The architect is Harold Gerber of Twin Falls.

Helping are Dr. Jack Neeses, John Roper, Vern Routh and Robert Stradley.

Two report meetings a week are planned through the campaign.

Gordon Cox is general campaign chairman and is effort to raise the $595,000 in the next three years through gifts, pledges and donations.

In the building phase, the present facilities will be air conditioned and acoustically treated. Additional paved parking will be provided and some of this space will eventually be used for outdoor games courts.

Mr. Colner is heading the Top Level division and is seeking donations of $15,000 and up. Assisting him are Armour Anderson, Jim Danner, Egbert Kroll, Carl Schuler, Robert Stephan and Lou Thorson.

Asking for donations of $1,500 and up is Mr. Eaton's division.

Nixon Seeks Public Support On Controversial Policies

By LOUIS CASSELL, UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is determined to avoid what he regards as Lyndon B. Johnson's greatest failure—his inability to gain public support for his foreign policy.

For Nixon, as for Johnson, Vietnam will be the acid test for presidential leadership. Johnson flunked—the test. During the latter years of his presidency he found himself condescended by increasingly hostile public opinion on the Vietnam issue. It stemmed in part from weakness with a way that seemed unwinnable. But it also reflected a widespread distrust of Johnson's explanations of why it was right and necessary for America to be in Vietnam.

Rightly or wrongly, a great many Americans got the impression that Johnson was not telling them the whole, unvarnished truth about U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia. This lack of public confidence in the President's conduct applied to his domestic policies as well, and in time reached a point where Johnson felt impelled to renounce any ambition for another term in the White House.

Nixon, a keen student of political processes, views Johnson's Vietnam troubles as a classic example of the way in which public opinion serves as an extra-constitutional check on a President's freedom in the conduct of foreign policy.

Theoretically, under the Constitution, that freedom is very broad. The President is required to seek the advice and consent of the Senate only in the formal treaties, and the concurrence of the entire Congress is required only for a formal declaration of war.

As a practical matter, Congress has some influence over foreign policy because most major decisions involve money and Congress holds the purse strings. But presidents since the time of George Washington have been more inclined to notify than to consult Congress about foreign policy decisions.

Nor does public opinion have anything like the immediate impact on foreign policy that some contemporary advocates of "participatory democracy" insist it should have. Presidents far less strong-willed than Lyndon Johnson have felt that it would be a dereliction of duty to subordinate their own judgment of the nation's best interests and tack with every shift in the wind of public sentiment.

Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Lincoln, Woodrow Wilson, both Roosevelts and Harry S. Truman, to choose only a few conspicuous examples, frequently took steps which they knew would be unpopular, and rode out the ensuing storm of public criticism.

Public opinion becomes a major factor in foreign policy decisions only when, as in the case of Vietnam, it is strongly and persistently on one side to the extent that it excludes continuing national attention.

"Nixon is well aware of the preponderant public sentiment which now favors an early end to the fighting in Vietnam. The American people, I can say from having campaigned for him, are terribly frustrated about this war and they would welcome any initiative that they thought could appropriately bring it to an end on some responsible basis," Nixon said at a recent White House news conference.

He went on to say, however, that a president cannot make foreign policy simply by reading public opinion polls.

It is the responsibility of a President to examine all the options that we have. And then, if he finds that the course he has to take is one that is unpopular, he has to explain it to the American people and gain their support.

Nixon was asked whether, "in the light of the experience of your predecessor," he felt he could "keep American public opinion in line if the Vietnam war were to go on for months or even years."

He replied that he doesn't expect to be confronted with the problem of a war dragging on for "years." Then he said:

"As far as American public opinion is concerned, I think that the American people will support a President if they are told by the President why we are there, what our objectives are, why the cost will be, and what the consequences would be if we took another course of action."

He thinks it can perhaps be somewhat effective in explaining why we are there and also in keeping the American people informed as negotiations go on. I intend to do so."

In the case of Vietnam, dissent from the national policy became, under Johnson, so widespread that it probably represented majority public opinion. But what role does dissent play in foreign policy when it clearly represents a minority opinion?

Under certain circumstances, it can still have a formidable impact. The vast majority of Americans know little and care less about a wide range of foreign policy issues which fall to touch their private lives in any intimate way. On these questions, public opinion is, in effect, a "thin market." A minority of informed, articulate and determined people can raise a clamor which may be heard at the White House as "the voice of the people."

The perennial controversy over naming an ambassador to the Vatican is a case in point. In all likelihood, a majority of the American people, if required to express an opinion, either would favor diplomatic representation at the center of one of the world's finest information-gathering networks or would say that they didn't care much one way or the other. But to a certain segment of the Protestant community opinion open by warning that the cost of withdrawal would be even higher. But he did not succeed, mainly because many people had stopped believing anything he said.

Nixon feels he can be more persuasive—if lack of progress at the Paris peace talks should properly paralyze a nation was to sell the public an indefinite continuation of the war. But he hopes he won't have to cross that bridge.

Viet Peace Hints Boost Mart Strength

By HOWARD LUXENBERG UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stronger Vietnam peace signals propelled the stock market to its second consecutive weekly advance last turnover.

At the tenth session of the expanded Paris Peace Conference the Communists rejected Saigon's offer to meet secretly to help bring about a cease fire. But the Washington administration apparently believed this answer may be an initial smokescreen, and felt the two sides eventually would join in such a meeting.

Optimism also was derived from the domestic news budget, while Roy L. Peterson, chief economist for Bankers Trust, contended that the current record high prime rate—a 7 1/2 per cent may face further upward adjustment if the government is to successfully control inflation. Treasury undersecretary Charles E. Walker Jr. said that rates would begin leveling out sooner rather than later.

Also helping to inspire traders was a program from Research Chief chairman T. D. Patton from the Labor Department that living costs for Americans continued up the upswing in February. It is no let up in sight for this month, spreading aluminum price advance; a Commerce Dept. report that the remainder of 1967's retail trade is a smaller increase than in 1968's final period because of an unexpected buoyant demand in February. BLACK CATS and Hearing Aids

They do have something in common — to the few who will still believe in old-fashioned taboos, but to the vast majority, they are lengths to avoid them. Superstition is one thing. Stubbornness is another. Today, there's just no excuse for not wearing a hearing aid if you're a respectable hearing loss. Milder, efficient, tiny hearing aids — the kind we offer you as "in-canal" or "behind-the-ear" — are available in styles or styles you prefer. In fact, you're conspicuous if you don't wear a hearing aid when you should. Visit us now. We specialize in hearing aids that even your highest hearing aid won't give you. Demos Urge Governor To Veto Bill

RUPERT—The Minidoka County Democratic Central Committee this week sent a telegram to Governor Don Samuelson urging him to veto legislation to raise the interest rate ceiling from eight per cent to 10 per cent.

The action was taken following the passage by the state legislature of legislation to that effect.

The telegram to the governor stated: "Since it raises to 10 per cent in the legal interest rates will adversely affect the economy of Minidoka County by placing an undue burden on the borrowing public and will add to the already excessive inflation, we urge you to protect the Minidoka family by vetoing the Banker's Relief Bill."

Mrs. Phil Bare, county Democratic chairman, said, "This added expense to the average family will be a burden on the 'straw that broke the camel's back.' The economy in Minidoka County is in the state, depends on credit and added interest will cost the county people thousands of dollars. It will be taking money that is being put into schools, roads or hospitals from the people's pockets."

Political Point Of View

By L. James Koutnik

Well, the boys in Boise finally wound it up — and none too soon, either. As a matter of fact, a lot of people (including some of the legislators themselves) feel that they should have wound up this session several weeks ago, and the state would have been far better off. Like all sessions, there was some good and some bad that came out of it, but until we can sift through the nearly 500 bills that have been passed, we will not know exactly just what did take place.

The 40th Session was 74 days long, making it the third-longest session in the history of the state. No telling how long it would have taken if they had not had the pre-session organization last December, in which all of the committees were determined, the house leadership was chosen, and many of the bills were processed at least a month in advance.

More bills have been introduced this time than in any of the years — nearly 1,200. Approximately 800 of these were printed, and it would now appear that approximately 500 — a high figure in its appropriations, with $221.1 million appropriated for the general fund and budget. This is substantially above the $209 million that Samuelson said would be the maximum that he would consider.

What this means is that Samuelson is to reduce the state's operating budget to the figure he considers acceptable. $200 million, then he must do it himself.

He now has the opportunity to do this, inasmuch as the legislature has adjourned and left him with the veto-right to hit each of the funding bills that he has yet to consider. Samuelson will now be able to veto whatever measures he desires to reduce state expenditures to any level he desires, so if he wants to favor the taxpayers by cutting back on all of the funding measures which have been submitted to him after the legislature adjourned, and there will be no chance to override a veto.

This unique situation now permits the governor to give Idaho any kind of a tax saving that he wants to give by just eliminating the funds for practically anything that the legislators have considered. Unfortunately, this business of vetoing the funding bills after the legislature has adjourned may mean that a number of worthy measures will go down the drain, as there will be no opportunity for them to consider the matter again, at least until the next session. This is one of the prices that we pay in Idaho for letting these bills stack up and passing them en masse in the last few days of the session.

Just how effective the 40th Session of the legislature will remain to be seen. Unquestionably the high water mark was the passing of the court reform bill, and the passage of the increased education appropriation. In the second case there's very little they could do about it, one way or the other. They were in the position of either increasing it, or going out of the school business in Idaho entirely. Of course, the prison reorganization measure is another item for which the legislature is responsible.

Outside of that, there was nothing really monumental that was processed through to completion during this session. Most of the measures that the governor wanted passed never got off the ground. This included such things as increasing the state police force by 50 people and the transfer of the narcotics administration to the Department of Law Enforcement.

Of paramount importance, though, were the matters that the legislature did not approve, many of which were in direct violation of working over — not the least of these were the election reform laws which are sadly in need of revision. Unfortunately, the work by the interim committee was generally unacceptable to the legislature.

As a result, we will have the same difficulties in this next session as we had in the past. Nothing was done to change some of the antiquated laws that we have, and it appears that the work will be done for the remainder of Samuelson's term, as he's indicated that any proposed legislation that loosens the liquor laws in any way will be vetoed by him.

Of the approximately 500 pieces of legislation that are being processed in the legislature in the last few days, now that is a lot of activity. We seriously question if there is anyone, or any group up there in Boise who is qualified to make an intelligent evaluation of that many different pieces of legislation. Let's not fool ourselves for a one-minute-into-thinking that the average legislator can possibly keep himself informed on what is involved in this large number of one-minute bills that were being processed.

It would probably be in order to prepare yourself for a number of surprises, as you are surely going to find out that there's a lot of legislation that's gone through the last few days that you didn't even know existed, or for that matter, was even being considered, and it is now on the books.

Automatically this is going to include a certain amount of bad legislation that will slip through inadvertently. This is only normal, and should be considered part of the work. After all, the number of the bills that have been passed consist of corrective legislation to clean up such things as typographical errors, meanings, and matters of intent that were not adequately covered in the original hasty draft of bills passed at the last session.

You may be surprised to know that it's now nearly time for the next session. In fact, there are only nine months until the next session takes place, and this means that everyone — either an individual or a group — who is stumping for a cause that will not have nine months to have the legislation drawn up, do his lobbying, and have it ready to go on the first day of the 1970 session.

It would appear that our legislators may be adjourned in Boise, but they are going to be kept very busy by individuals and groups throughout the state for this 9-month period in anticipation of the 1970 session.

In Twin Falls, the public will have an opportunity to visit with the legislators and discuss this personally next Tuesday at the final legislative no-host luncheon at the American Legion Hall. At this time all four of the Twin Falls county representatives — Bill Lanting, who is the Speaker of the House; Ray Lincoln; Jack Claiborn, and Bill Roberts — will be present, as will Senators Dick High, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and John Barker, senator from the Buhl area.

All of these people will be present at a luncheon to discuss the overall accomplishments of the legislature and, quite probably, will receive a few comments from the audience.

We suggest that you plan on attending this luncheon. You will have a viewpoint you would like to get across to these gentlemen. Remember, this is the same group that will be going back next January, which (to remind you once again) is only nine months away.

Pocatello Activities Are Slated

POCATELLO — "Pistols and Petticoats" will be the theme of the annual Parents' Day weekend at Idaho State University May 2-4.

Associated Women Students is sponsoring the festivities which will include a song fest, crowning of the May Queen and awards and tapping ceremonies.

Several Major Valley centers are among committee members. They include Tracy Peterson, Twin Falls, registration; Rebecca Jones, Gooding, programs; Donna Hopkins, Glenns Ferry, activity points; Anna Mae DeGlee, Twin Falls, favors, and Diane Beck, Twin Falls, scholarship.

Personal OPINION

QUESTION
Do you believe the United States' space program is worth the money being spent on it?

LOCATION

Interviews in this case were taken in Alberson's, 115 Addison Ave.

ANSWERS

ALICE WOODLEY: "I don't know if it is worth it, but I certainly do question it."

FRANK MOGENSEN: "I feel some of the money could be better spent on local problems of poverty, education, law enforcement, etc."

ROY HENDERSON: "I think it's really worthwhile to spend a great deal of money on this program."

JIM MILLER: "I believe it's worth it. If we didn't spend this money other countries would have something we wouldn't have."

Woodley Mogensen Henderson Miller

Anderson Pierce Wright Miller

GEORGE ANDERSON: "Yes, I think it's worth it."

BONITA PIERCE: "I think some of this money could be spent in better ways, like for the poverty programs."

DOROTHY WRIGHT: "No! It could be used on poverty programs and on educating the underprivileged children in this country."

J.R. MILLER: "I think the money could be used for better purposes. We have enough problems here at home."

Final Audit Earnings Of Penneys Told

NEW YORK—J.C. Penney Co., Inc., reported final audited earnings for fiscal 1968 of $109,231,841, or $2.12 a share. Penney's results for the year reflect the acquisition in early March, 1969 of Thrift Drug Co. of Pennsylvania, which is included retroactively on a pooling of interests basis. Earnings for fiscal 1967 as restated totaled $91,622,945, or $1.78 a share.

In late February, the company issued preliminary and unaudited figures for 1968, excluding the pooling of Thrift Drug. Earnings of $107.1 million, equal to $2.14 a share, compared with $89.5 million, or $1.79 a share, in 1967. Sales, as restated to include Thrift Drug, totaled $3,327,621,612 for 1968 compared with $2,881,323,343 in 1967.

Police Blotter

Barbara Burks, 16—Rupert, was cited for backing when not reasonable and safe Tuesday afternoon after backing her 1968 Oldsmobile from the curb on 6th Street in Rupert into a 1968 Volkswagon driven by Robert Scott, 31, Burley. Damage was estimated at $85 to the Oldsmobile and at $250 to the Volkswagon.

Sheriff's Blotter

A failure to yield citation was issued to Nimrod Abeyta, 17, Rupert, Thursday morning after he stopped for a stop sign north of Highway 25 near the intersection of the path of a 1955 Pontiac, driven by Dennis DeThomas, 17, also Rupert. DeThomas was headed west on Highway 25 when the accident occurred. Damage was estimated at $175 to the 1955 Chevrolet driven by Abeyta, and at $100 to DeThomas' Pontiac.

State Police Blotter

Kristy Graham, 16, Burley, and Jeanno Peterson, 16, Heyburn, received minor injuries Wednesday afternoon five miles north of Paul on a county road when the 1966 Volkswagon, driven by Miss Graham, went out of control on gravel and rolled over. Damage to the car, owned by Edna Monrow, was estimated at $900. Miss Graham was cited for failure to keep the vehicle under control.

T. F. Residents Dispute Reported Dissatisfaction Among Police

By FRED L. DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

In the past week and a half a lot of opinions have been expressed on an article published about how Twin Falls law enforcement officers view their jobs.

The article was published March 18. It stated various law enforcement officers were becoming increasingly dissatisfied with their jobs, with low pay, with harassment and with a growing lack of respect on the part of the public toward law enforcement in general.

The statements that appeared in the article have been upheld in opinions expressed by various law enforcement articles. Many private citizens have approached this reporter and expressed their approval and some have expressed their disapproval.

Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Conder expressed his concern with the article and placed the blame for dissatisfaction within Twin Falls law enforcement at the doorstep of the United States Supreme Court.

He said officers are human and they are concerned about criminals gaining freedom on technicalities of the law. "Technicalities that have no or little bearing on the guilt or innocence of the individual concerned," he said. Sheriff Conder said the local courts were fair in their dealings but had to act by the guidelines established by the high court.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said he disapproved of the article, saying he felt the statements did not reflect the feelings of officers in his department.

Twin Falls County Prosecutor Robert Galley had "no comment" on the article.

City Manager Herb Derrick said he is a headline reader, but did glance through the article the night it was published. "I didn't think too much about it. I didn't take it as pointed at us but there is no doubt there is a sick attitude in society. Something has changed in the past few years in respect for the officer and the law he represents."

Twin Falls County Commissioner Morris Carlson said he felt the article was accurate. "I feel very strongly about this. We have been underpaying this salary thing for a long time. We have good deputies and I think we should do everything we can to keep them trained and working for Twin Falls County."

One Twin Falls attorney thought the article might have been irresponsible and that the situation concerned only the Twin Falls County sheriff's office, not the police department.

W. L. (Bill) Chancey, county commissioner, said "Perhaps we should increase the pay to those deputies who are satisfied and let the others go." He said he feels there is an increasing lack of respect for the law and the officer or deputy out doing his duty.

George Bennett, Twin Falls police commissioner, said, "We have a sign problem in the police department but it is not great. Most of our officers are loyal and are to be commended."

Mr. Derrick said he has found that laws can be enforced only to the extent that they are backed by the people. "If we don't have the people behind us, we have no law." He said it was his opinion that society is developing a "right" attitude toward laws and police officers.

It is this reporter's opinion, based on observation for several months, that the courts in Twin Falls County are very fair in their dealings with criminal and misdemeanor matters. In fact, one officer did state recently that he is learning from the courts.

"I may work hard on one case and have my evidence fall through. But it teaches me a lesson. I get better each time."

Courts are interested in protecting the individual's rights in the U. S. Constitution and Supreme Court rulings in that area in recent years. All Americans are guaranteed the basic rights and Twin Falls judges are very fair in these areas, this reporter feels.

Lawyers also are to be commended. They are dedicated to serving a client to the best of their ability.

Court records in the past will show that Twin Falls area lawyers deal fairly with their clients, and represent their clients admirably.

But police officers and sheriff's deputies are human. The public often forgets this, but nevertheless they are. And in losing a case an officer will often be critical of the system.

Most officers this reporter talked to in recent months were not critical of the majority of cases processed through the courts. They are aware of the individual's rights and the courts' responsibilities.

But officers were critical of third and fourth time offenders going free on technicalities of the law.

"These people come back into society time and time again, and over and over they cause trouble," one man said. "We should do something with them. They re-change the course of their life rather than spank them and turn them loose."

Maybe an officer should not comment on the courts, the laws and society. But officers are human and in private conversations often reveal what they feel.

These conversations were relayed in the article. March 18 to inform the public there is some dissatisfaction in Twin Falls law enforcement, dissatisfaction among the men on the beat.

The article was not meant to criticize but was aimed at creating public interest in the problems that face law enforcement in the Twin Falls area today — and tomorrow.

That some police officers and deputy sheriffs are not satisfied with their jobs is a certainty, after talks conducted by this reporter in recent months.

That there will be an exodus of good officers either into other lines of work or to other areas is something that remains to be seen.

But many citizens in Twin Falls believe it is more likely today than it was three or four years ago.

WHAT'S THAT SAYING? ... "In spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love." Well, in this case it looks as though the young lady might be the most aggressive of the two — getting a little amorous on these warm days. Last week Doug Whitmore, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Toy Whitmore, Twin Falls, spends the nice spring days playing outdoors with his next door neighbor, Janell Francis, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merie Francis.

Harbingers Of Spring

By NORMA HERZINGER

Spring is the perfect season to "do your own thing" and youngsters as well as adults take to the sunshine like bees take to honey.

Spring '69 is shaping up to be one of the best ever and the younger set is out in full force flying kites, riding bicycles, playing marbles and hop scotch — and even counting allowance money already to pay for broken windows incurred from misplaced baseballs.

While driving in Twin Falls this past week we found many signs evident of the new season and it's fun to see how people, young and old alike, respond to their "spring fever."

One woman was out washing the windows on her house while another was out raking and pulling weeds.

Athletes were jogging along the streets getting into shape for various competitions — while a few of the older set were out jogging just to get in shape.

Several fellows were seen using their front yards as putting greens — still others were not satisfied with just practice, they went all the way for 18 holes.

The self-service car washes in town did roaring business as teen-agers washed, shined and vacuumed their cars getting ready for that special date or just a "drag down main."

The fashion-conscious women were either modeling in a fashion show or attending one, noting the fresh new styles available from local merchants — and a couple of gals were even brave enough to begin their sun tans.

Everyone responds to "spring fever" in many ways, but, as our teen-agers would say — "That's all right — Whatever turns YOU on."

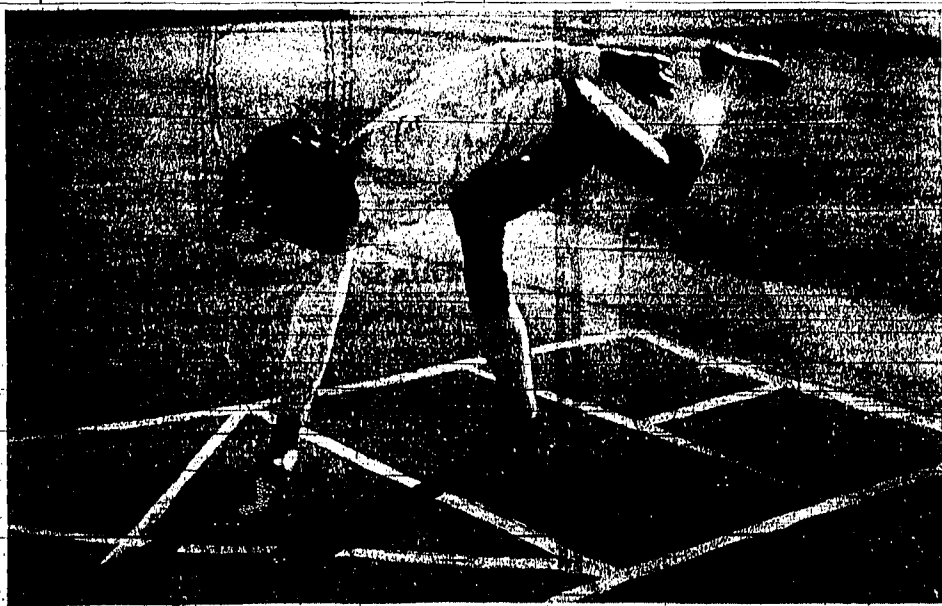

LITTLE 4-YEAR-OLD Shaun Marlon Hedberg, daughter of Mrs. Richard High, discovers the first flowers of spring along with a nice big bee perched right in the middle.

FLYING KITES is a great pastime for Jerry Seamons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oloof Seamons, during the first spring days.

"BATTER UP" and the baseball enthusiasts are out in full force. Here Vicky Mahler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mahler, plays a game of ball with her neighborhood friends.

PAULA PARKER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Parker, plays a game of hop scotch with several of her friends after school. Youngsters take to spring like ducks to water and activities aplenty can be seen throughout town.

WSCS Officers Are Elected In-Richfield

RICHFIELD—An Easter program was presented and officers elected at the meeting of the WSCS (Women's Society of Christian Service) at the home of Mrs. James Thomas. Mrs. Albert Pelley read an article on "The Art of Thinking" and Rev. Harry Thompson gave the Easter lesson. Mrs. C. M. Pridmore and Mrs. Joe Seward reported on attendance at a conference in Gooding where a missionary talked on Nigeria. Officers elected are Mrs. Myrtle Riley, president; Mrs. Eugene Alexander, vice-president; Mrs. Joe Seward, secretary; Mrs. C. M. Pridmore, treasurer; Mrs. Albert Pelley, spiritual growth secretary and Christian social relations; Mrs. C. E. Faddis, missionary education; Mrs. Myrtle Riley, membership; Mrs. Pridmore, local Christian responsibility; Mrs. Max Bell, Mrs. Seward and Mrs. Roy Seward, nominating committee; and Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Pelley and Mrs. Young, Lions Club dinner-committee. The birthday of Mrs. Thomas was celebrated.

THE CURRENT CRAZE with British girls is to wear plenty of jewelry—several necklaces, bracelets and rings all worn together with a chain belt to complete the effect. This unusual collection is made from ordinary hardware items such as washers, hinges, chains and even blacksmith's nails. (UPI-telephoto)

A VERY NEW Beta Sigma Phi unit, Idaho Sigma Chapter, held its Ritual of Jewels for five of its pledges, from Mrs. Eyle Troubled, Mrs. Glenn Crawford, Mrs. Davy Gletzer, Mrs. Murray Bates and Mrs. Robert Humphries, at the home of Mrs. Nell Allen. Assisting with the ritual were Mrs. Betty Diamond, Mrs. Helen Thorne, Mrs. MaryAnn Donnelly, Mrs. Sue Pennington and Mrs. Judy Allen. The group will meet at 8 p.m. April 2 at the home of Mrs. Bates, 1337 Elmwood Circle, when Mrs. Judy Allen will give the program, "Let's Match Wits" and "The Art of Thinking." The chapter will elect officers and name the "Girl of the Year" for Founder's Days April 28.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have an 8-year-old son who comes home crying nearly every day. Some body "hit" him. I tell him he should hit them back, but he says he doesn't like to fight. I have talked to other mothers on the block, and they say a boy has to learn how to protect himself, and if he does, the other boys won't bully him so much. I am not crazy about the idea of my kid getting beat up all the time, so I tell him to stay by himself. He doesn't listen to me. He goes where the other kids are and they can't get along with them and is going to end up getting hit and crying. So what is your answer, ABBY HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think every boy should learn how to defend himself, but yours may also have to learn how to get along better with the other kids.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine made the mistake of joining a footnote on her Christmas card for the effect that it had on two children who are away at college this year. My husband-in-law's card was free-loader, and he immediately figured that they had some spare room, so we could go there for our vacation!

I can just see the role I am going to have to play in coming home for the free rooms. I am sure my cousin wouldn't expect me to do all the cooking and housework, but what woman can't do that? People and not offer to do some work?

We have an eight-room house and, frankly, I'd like to get away from household chores on my vacation.

What do you suggest? JUST THE HOUSEKEEPER

DEAR JUST: If you let your husband rope you into this kind of a "vacation" — you'll deserve it.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this doesn't sound like I am bragging, because I'm not. I married when I was 16, and now, 19 years later, we have as happy a home as anyone could find anywhere.

These are some of the things I've done to make it so: In the morning I wake my husband with a cup of fresh coffee and the morning paper. I've done this for years, but he always thinks me as though it is the first time.

When he comes home in the evening, I again have fresh coffee made and the afternoon paper. Regardless of what they are doing, the children always run to the door to greet him. Before he gets home I make sure I have a fresh dress on, and that my face is nicely made-up, my hair combed, and when he comes in I leave all my problems of the day until he has had his dinner and had time to relax. And then I only bring them up if they are important.

Finally, after our evening meal, we read some passages of the Bible together and pray as a family. When so many marriages are going on the rocks I simply offer these things as suggestions for a happy home. MRS. R. S. SAN ANGELO, TEX.

60th Anniversary Year Marked By Max Factor Co.

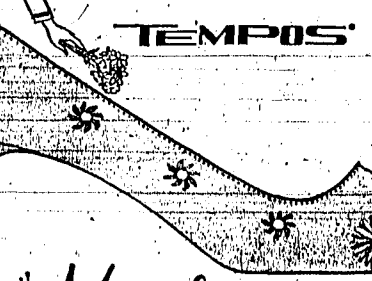

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Congratulations are now being extended to Max Factor and Co., the internationally-famed cosmetics concern, on the occasion of its 60th anniversary year — 60 years of contributing to international beauty, 1909-1969. Today, Max Factor is a name that instantly conjures up appealing visions of flattering fashion make-up, luscious lipsticks, exotic eye make-up, skin-care lotions, and exquisite fragrances. It is a name immediately associated with love, beauty, and femininity. Max Factor's cosmetics are sold everywhere — from California to Canada, from the Rio Grande to the Rhine. The company's worldwide success is now legendary. What began as a one-man make-up and hairdressing shop in Los Angeles is now a multi-million dollar firm, providing employment to more than 10,000 people internationally and producing products that are sold in 100 countries around the world. It is the third largest cosmetics manufacturer in the United States. In California, it is No. 1, and in the international field, it is the largest of the American firms. The company's greatest achievements, according to its president, are its products. Max Factor, grandson of the late Max Factor Sr., who founded the firm, has been in creating fashion make-up and fragrances for the beauty and glamour enhancement of women throughout the world. When it first started 60 years ago, the average woman used little, if any, make-up. "Society actually frowned on it," Mr. Elretein explains. "But today, the average woman wouldn't appear in public or even her own home, without it."

WSCS Easter Program Given By Mrs. Durk

HANSEN — Mrs. Grace Durk presented an Easter program at the Women's Society of Christian Service meeting at the Kimberly United Methodist Church. She was assisted by Mrs. Don Kilborn. Mrs. Marion Wall and Mrs. John Nelson sang, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith. The program was presented at the Community Luncheon will be held May 2 at the Kimberly Methodist Church with the Nazarene Church and Baptist Church women as hostesses. The WSCS women will give a program Sunday at the Mountain View Convalescent Center. The circle meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. McFarland, Wednesday, with Mrs. Ralf Simmons as program chairman. The conference meeting will be May 5 through 7 at LaGrande, Ore., and Co-operative School of Christian Mission will be held May 7 through 11 at the Northwestern Nazarene College Nampa. The Maundy Thursday Palestinian Dinner was planned for Thursday, with Mrs. R. Simmons and Mrs. Don Kilborn in charge of the dining room, and Mrs. Leslie Lowe, Mrs. Rose Wiseman, and Mrs. Ralph Nelson, the kitchen. Fresh fruits, fish, dried fruits, vegetables and un-leavened bread will be the planned menu. Mrs. Roger Thomas will make the bread and other dishes may be brought by those attending the service. A communion service will be held prior to the dinner. A revised list for wedding reception lists was read and accepted by the group. Copies will be made available to those wanting reception services at the church. Mrs. Simmons reported on the magazines, "Response" and "World Outlook," noting the desirable features and advance program reviewed. Mrs. Nora Randall, Mrs. Elzina Tyler and Mrs. Lena Potter were hostesses. The Easter music program was played at the end of the program.

Sanitarian Is Guest Speaker

GLENN'S FERRY — Nicholas A. Cimich, Elmore County sanitarian, was guest speaker at the recent dinner meeting of Nu Chapter, the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, in El Ranch Cafe, Mountain Home. He urged control of water pollution, air pollution, litter and solid wastes. "We're too late to do much with adults of today," he noted, "we must approach it through the children, the next generation." "We've turned our country into a gigantic sewer during the last 50 years," Mr. Cimich stated, "and only 15 per cent of the air pollution comes from industry. It is the responsibility of every one of us to eliminate pollution of the air." Mr. Cimich was the guest of Mrs. Beulah Edwards who presented the evening's program. "How can we improve Our Daily Living Through Health?" Mrs. Margaret Dutton as host.

Benefit Card Party Slated

HANSEN — A benefit card party and cooked food sale was planned for April 9 at the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall by the members of the Rock Creek Workville Club at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Vernon Berney. Mrs. Berney read the 23rd Psalm as the opening exercise. During contest games for the recreation hour, Mrs. Glenn Gott, Mrs. Marion Hansen, Mrs. Vernon Berney, Mrs. Kenneth Larson and Mrs. Leonard Daw, received prizes.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

GLENN'S FERRY — Mrs. Louise Lable was honored at a family dinner birthday party at her home recently. She was 82 years of age that day, and arranging the event were her four daughters, Mrs. G. F. Shrum, Mrs. Marguerite McGill, Mrs. Howard Bloom and Ellen Lable.

Guest Speaker

This was the annual Guest Night for the international honorary society for women teachers, and three other guests included Mrs. Yvonne Trippett, Mrs. Sharon Ineson and Mrs. Margaret Walker. The chapter voted to sponsor Elmore County Fair Queen in the Home" will be candidate, with actual selection presented by Mrs. Harris and left to a committee appointed Mrs. Virginia Beaman.

"Spring Fever" Verses Are Read For Kasota Sagehens

Mrs. Roy Wiedenman was hostess for the March meeting of the Kasota Sagehens. Home Demonstration Club—Mrs. John Pool, president, read two verses relating to "Spring Fever." "I meant to do my work" by Richard LeGallienne and "To My Health" by Helen Lawrie.

Guests were Ko Tateoka and Pat Amend. Thank-you notes from Ruth Scott and Ida Mae Topf were read. A letter from Pearl Young, a member who is spending the winter in Arizona, was shared by the group.

Each sponsoring group reported on what they had done for their special friend at the Idaho State School this past month, and a letter which Group No. 4 received from its friend was read to the club.

Reports were given on the spring potluck luncheon, the needle-meeting and the home decorating clinic. It was noted that the low-calorie lesson may be repeated if enough interest is shown. The District Home Extension Convention in Twin Falls Thursday was discussed. Mrs. Pool reminded members it was time to start making plans for the Jerome County Fair booth.

A silent auction and Guest Night were discussed, with the program chairman and social chairman to make definite plans. Mrs. Pool asked for volunteers to lead 4-H groups in the area, with interested per-

Mrs. Wyman Is Special Guest At Club Meet

FILER—Mrs. Stella Wyman, organizer and charter member of the Poplar Hill Social Club, was a guest at the meeting in the home of Mrs. Reuben Lierman.

Members discussed spring garden plans and Mrs. Lierman read a poem on gardens written by Mrs. Ada Wilson, former member.

Mrs. Julius Jasper and Mrs. J. C. Johnson presented a contest. Members were shown a tableful of flowers, ribbons, net and many other articles and were told to fashion Easter hats. When finished, the creations were modeled and prizes were awarded Mrs. Edward Reichert, Mrs. Fred Reichert, Mrs. Mahan Barron and Mrs. Lierman. Mrs. Jasper received a gift.

Mrs. Lierman, an antique collector, revived the gracious custom of afternoon tea and served her guests from an antique walnut tea wagon she had recently received from the estate of Mrs. Fred Reichert. It is hostess for the April 22 meeting and will be assisted by Mrs. Roy Lancaster.

Alpha Delta Chapter Visits Valley Pottery

GLENNIS FERRY—Three carloads of Alpha Delta Chapter members, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, made a visit to the Snake River Pottery near Hagerman on the regular meeting night.

Included in the party were Mrs. Nancy Montgomery, LaGrande, Ore., who had transferred to the club, and Mrs. O. C. Anderberg, honorary sponsor.

"They all visited Vi and Aldrich Bowler and were introduced to the art of pottery making, all the way from how "Drich" selects the native clay along the river banks, to the formed object which is fired and ready on the pottery wheel.

The Bowlers have been at the pottery for 20 years now and have classes in the art. There are 11 students in one class, and Vi says that's really too many for she cannot give the individual attention she'd like to give.

After the return to Glennis Ferry, all met at Hanson's Cafe for their regular session, with Mrs. Edna reporting on the social chairman she was planning a husband-wife card party at the George Willis ranch home.

At this month's meeting, Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Gary Severson volunteered to plan the programs which the chapter will make for the Founder's Day program in early April.

Chapter members decided to sell the programs as they were requested by the Treasure Valley Horse Breeders Racing Association during the week ends the association is sponsoring racing at the oval here.

The next meeting is April 3 at the Kenneth Lindt home, when Mrs. Joe Woods and Mrs. Willis are arranging the program.

Homemakers Convolve Held In Twin Falls

PAUL—Thirteen members of the Crestview 58ers Extension Homemakers Club participated in the annual South Central Idaho Home Extension Homemakers Convention in Twin Falls.

"Of the group, all of the club's officers were in attendance. Mrs. Leonard Schenk, president, served as voting delegate.

The convention was held in Twin Falls, with the morning's business session and program held at the Elks Lodge. The luncheon and afternoon program were held at the Rogerson Hotel.

Mrs. Yutaka Hanami, from the local group, was the recipient of one of the special prizes.

The county council representative for the Crestview group, Mrs. Joe Kalisek, represented the group at a Monday meeting and assisted with making arrangements and other preparations for the Thursday convention.

Class Meets

VIEW—Hosts for the View LDS Mutual Marriages monthly dinner and social were Mr. and Mrs. Eward Gibby and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana.

Tables were all decorated with spring flowers. After dinner, Mr. Gibby and Mr. Dana showed films on activities. In the View LDS Ward the past ten years and films of the primitive hunting areas of Idaho. Prayers were given by Rex Wrigley and Duane Lind.

Mrs. Bamberry Is Honored On 85th Birthday

JEROME—The 85th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Margaret Bamberry, former Jerome and Twin Falls resident, was observed recently at the home of Mrs. Art Beem. Another daughter, Mrs. Mounty Dick, Arco, assisted in hosting the event.

Mrs. Bamberry chose a bone-white knit dress with green accessories accented with a corsage of deep pink roses and greenery.

The refreshment table was covered with a lined cloth brought from Ireland by Mrs. Bamberry and was centered with a three-tiered birthday cake with St. Patrick decorations and pink rose accents. The centerpiece was pink roses and white cypress branches. St. Patrick napkins and a silver coffee service completed the table appointments.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Delbert Beem and Nancy Dick, granddaughters of the honoree.

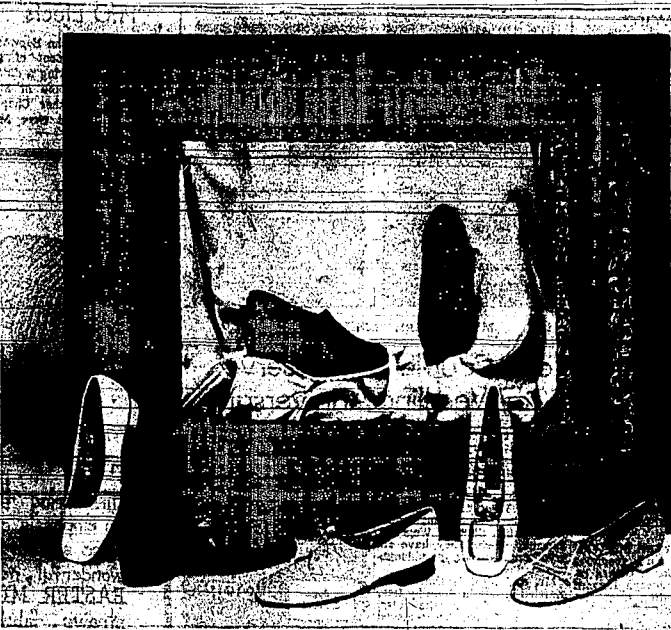

A family dinner was held at Magic Valley Cafe prior to the open house.

All-Day Meet Held By Club

MURTAUGH—Mrs. Del Wrigley, Hansen, was a guest at the all-day meeting of the Happy Hour Club, recently at the home of Mrs. Veata Wilhite. A potluck luncheon was served at noon.

Work was done on individual hobbies. A special day was planned and will be held March 19 when the club members will meet for a noon luncheon at the Depot Grill, Twin Falls, and then will go to the home of Mrs. Jack Gentry where they will play cards. Proceeds will be turned to the YM-YWCA building fund.

Mrs. Hubert Severson received a birthday anniversary gift from her secret sister and Mrs. C. W. Daniels received a special guest gift.

BACK IN THE '40's women found relief for their hot, tired feet with a new shoe called the Verona. It was made of easy-to-scrub fabric; it was airy and comfortable. Summer fabric shoes have come a long way since then. New styles like those of expensive leather shoes and sizzling new colors make summer feet attractive—and yet keep them cool and comfy. The new Summerettes still retain that wash-and-wear feature which made the venerable Verona so popular. This year, hard-core Summerettes will make their debut. They combine washable fabrics with smooth, hard soles.

Good Projects Surface When Girl Scouts Assist

NEW YORK (UPI)—All sorts of good projects surface when a Girl Scout troop's asked what's lacking in a community.

"They'll suggest libraries and play areas for economically deprived places. They'll roll up sleeves and lend helping hands."

Proof comes in a report from the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. listing projects 21 troops in 15 states will undertake with financial assistance from the Reader's Digest Foundation.

They include:

- Conservation projects ranging from a bogwalk in the arboretum in Stamford, Conn., to a walkway in the woods at Vancouver, Wash.
- A library in the basement of a church in Missah, N.J., to benefit families with incomes under $3,000.
- A playground for children in Glymer, Pa., a former coal mine region.
- An Afro-American craft week for 100 Negro girls in Little Rock, Ark.
- A recreation program for the migratory farm worker families in Puyallup Valley, Wash., and renovation of a recreation building in a Mefford, Ore., migrant camp.
- Teaching disabled children swimming in Des Plaines, Ill. And in Evansville, Ind., making nature trails for the handicapped.

The scouts score high marks in conservation projects. In California they plant flowers along major highways. In other places, they're busy year round clearing and marking hiking trails.

Some of the projects are very ambitious. In Buffalo, N.Y., for

Jeanette Hulme Is Bride Of Gary Harper

HAGERMAN—Wedding vows were exchanged by Jeanette Hulme and Gary Harper Feb. 22 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hulme. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hill, Kansas City, Kan.

The double ring nuptials were performed by the Rev. Edward Hargreaves, before the fireplace flanked by beauty baskets of red and white carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length gown of white, fashioned with an oval neckline and long wrist-length sleeves gathered to cuffs of silver. Silver slippers completed her ensemble. She wore a corsage of red sweet-heart roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Doug Maude, sister of the bride. Ed Hulme, Moscow, uncle of the bride, served as best man.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception at the Masonic temple. Guests were registered by Christy Elliott, Hagerman, and Mrs. Pamela Wray, Rexburg.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake and a miniature bride and groom and decorated with white doves and filigree scrolls. The cake was prepared by Mrs. Gooding.

Presiding at the coffee service was Mrs. Kenneth Hulme, Hagerman. Mrs. Grace Oberlin, Boise, served the punch. Mrs. James Conway, Union, Ore., cut and served the cake.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were J. E. Kuhn, Gooding, grandfather of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. James Conway, Union, Ore., Mr. and Mrs. Vern Brodler, Boise, and Mrs. Charles Kimball, Wendell, and Mrs. Luis Bastenhech, Gooding, uncles and aunts of the bride.

Gene Hull Differs With T-N Editorial On Talks

Editor, Times-News: I take exception to the Times-News editorial of Wednesday, March 26, captioned "Gene Hull Talks." The article stated that we should "be realistic" and realize that the Communists have gained their objectives in getting us to cease bombing and reinforce their troops in Vietnam.

Forum Rules

Forum letters must be concerned with topics of general interest and must be of a reasonable length. The editors of the Times-News reserve the right to refuse publication if, in their opinion, the subject matter is not in good taste or is repetitious and has previously been thoroughly covered in the forum.

Writer Maintains Sex Education Not Moribund

Editor, Times-News: May I make a few comments about sex education in the public schools. I am a parent of a 12-year-old child. I have read a great deal of material from Siecus in the last four months. Most of it is written by the same five sex board members who also serve on the staff of Sexology magazine.

Writer Lauds Hagerman Man Concerned About Educational Program

Editor, Times-News: The following question was asked in your March 27 issue: "What is the educational program at Hagerman school ends in June of this year. Can a school district of the size of Hagerman afford to keep such a fine program as this going in the Hagerman schools?"

Editor, Times-News: I publish against the John Birch Society, could not be expected to effectively discount the influence of "Communism." It is clear that we are not like Prof. Kenneth Calverley, who authored a series on Communism used in our armed forces, or Prof. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., who is a member of the Communist Party. His name has not been destroyed in the public eye, so to cite only two of a great many "equals" would be a disservice to the cause.

Eden Pastor Confutes Title "Misery Synod"

The majority of our people, however, are solid Christians who simply do not understand the word "idolatry." Word. One can be a conservative and still live with open ears. To be a conservative is not necessarily to be misinformed. Other denominations may be in greater misery because they have allowed their faith to be "watered down."

Friends, Former Foes Around The World Mourn Passing Of Ike

By United Press International
Kings, statesmen and soldiers from every continent announced Saturday they would gather in Washington Monday for the funeral of Dwight D. Eisenhower, uniting old allies and old enemies alike in testimony to his greatness.

Eisenhower Raised Nixon From Obscurity To Fame

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With the death of Dwight D. Eisenhower, President Nixon loses more than a friend and one-time boss.
Although totally different in their personalities, Eisenhower picked Nixon from relative obscurity in Congress to become his running mate in 1952 and served him for eight years as vice president.
Nixon's daughter, Julie, married Eisenhower's only grandchild, David, last December. Eisenhower's last public appearance was via television during the Republican National Convention, which nominated Richard M. Nixon as the presidential candidate last August. Nixon went to Walter Reed Army Medical Center several times after his inauguration to see his old boss.

President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines were among the ranking world leaders who will be there. So would Marshal Ivan Konev and Vasily Chuikov of the Soviet Union, old World War II allies and cold war foes of Eisenhower.

Ordinary citizens the world over paid some of the most touching tribute to the five star general and president. People wept openly as they read the news in the streets of Paris. Hundreds filed into the U.S. embassy in London.
"A great commander, I served under him," wrote one white-haired gentleman. "I like all the rest he walked away through the scene of some of Eisenhower's finest hours — Grosvenor Square, where he and his allied generals planned the World War II defeat of Nazi Germany and where they lived as heroes in these days."
"A great soldier, an eminent statesman, a sincere friend of France and one for whom I had profound affection," said Dr. Gaullie, who has never forgotten Eisenhower's World War II support for him as chief of free French forces.
Queen Elizabeth II of England said Britons "would not forget his presence among us during the war, nor his continuing friendship in the years that followed."

Earl Mountbatten, who served under Eisenhower as admiral of the British fleet, will represent the Queen in Washington and Defense Minister Danie Healey will represent Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who is in Nigeria.
The Vatican announced that Pope Paul had retired to pray for the general's soul. Cardinal Amleto Giovanni Cicognani issued a statement praising him as a soldier, his superiority as a statesman, his wisdom and balanced judgment as President of the United States.

In contrast to that the president of neighboring Poland, Marian Spychalski, said "General Eisenhower will remain in our minds as the commanding officer of the allied troops in the west on the front against Hitler in Germany. Polish troops also fought under his command."
Most world leaders announced they would be departing for Washington later in the week. Some, like Australia's Prime Minister John Gorton, flew to the United States early Saturday.

Ike To Be Buried There

Abilene Pays Its Respects

BY EDWARD FULTON
ABILENE, Kan. (UPI)—A hushed atmosphere pervaded this central Kansas town today in respect to its most famous son.
Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will be buried Wednesday in a crypt beneath the chapel on the grounds of the Eisenhower Museum and Library. The burial site will be near Ike's first son, Dwight Doud who died at the age of three of scarlet fever in 1920.
The child's remains were reburied in June, 1966 after being interred for years in Denver. The chapel is named "A Place of Meditation."
Ike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower, are buried in the Abilene Cemetery about two miles from the Eisenhower Center. On every visit to Abilene, his boyhood home, the former chief executive spent some time at the cemetery.
The usually-bustling town was quiet today despite the normal activities of a Saturday, a shopping day for most residents. The business district had flags on each utility pole.
They still talk about the day Ike whipped the "Mowb" bully before a cheering crowd in front of City Hall, Ike was 13 at the time, the story has it, and his opponent was a stronger and heavier lad. Although bruised and bloodied, Ike was declared the winner.
It is the best remembered legend of Eisenhower's boyhood in Abilene before he left in 1911 for West Point and a career that brought him the supreme command of allied forces in World War II and later to the White House as 34th president of the United States.
A crowd estimated by City Manager Ken Bittel at 100,000 will converge on the prairie

Johnson Commends Memory Of Ike To 'Scarred World'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said Friday Dwight David Eisenhower will be remembered by a scarred but hopeful world.
"It is, Johnson said, a world that loved the former President and general well.
"A giant of our age is gone," Johnson said after Eisenhower's death. "Dwight David Eisenhower began his service to his people as a soldier of war. He ended as a crusader for peace."
"For both he will be long remembered by a scarred but hopeful world—a world that loved him well."
"The sturdy and enduring virtues of a leader of peace, decency—all found eloquent expression in his life of this good man and noble leader."
"I was proud to serve him while he was President. I respected him as a wise and valued counselor during my own days in the White House."
"I treasure him always as my close and testing friend. His death leaves an empty place in my heart as it will in the hearts of men and women everywhere."
"America will be a lonely land without him, but America will always be a better nation—stronger, safer, more conscious of its heritage, more certain of

Twin Falls Snaps Seven Marks, But Loses To Skyline

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

Everything in relays except for the open 100-yard dash and the two hurdles. Skyline led 11 points out of the century, seven from the lows and nine from the highs for a total of 27 points while Twin Falls, its weakness in the flat races showing, qualified only one man for the finals. He was Randy Cummings who took third in the lows, giving Skyline a net gain of 24 points in the three events.

Sweden Gives U.S. Ninth Hockey Loss

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden handed the United States its ninth loss in the 1968-69 World Ice Hockey Championship Saturday 10-3.

Kjell-Rune Milton and Lars-Göran Nilsson, each scored three times in the rout that kept alive Sweden's hopes of the title. Czechoslovakia needs only a tie with Sweden Sunday to win the championship.

Angry ABA Officials Protest But Lew Wants To Be In NBA

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL (UPI)—Angry officials of the American Basketball Association said Saturday that Lew Alcindor "is not legally or morally bound to sign" with the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association.

However, Alcindor immediately stated in Atlanta that he had given his word to Milwaukee that he would sign with the Bucks. "I would not want to waltz on them," the towering center said.

Commissioner George Mikan of the NBA said he had met with Alcindor the past week and was told the three-time All-American had made no commitment to join the Bucks, who have the NBA draft rights for him.

NCAA Swim Title Won By Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI)—Freshman sensation Mark Spitz became a triple winner Saturday night as Indiana's Hoosiers defeated the host with 104-87 in the annual swimming and diving championships.

The 18-year-old upstart from Santa Clara, Calif., won the 100-yard butterfly by out-touching Ross Wales of Princeton in 49.69 to give the host Hoosiers an insurmountable lead with two events to go.

Spitz previously won the 500-yard freestyle and 100-yard freestyle titles, but he missed the mark in the butterfly of 49.1; he set as a prep star two years ago.

Hickox also won the 200 individual medley on the opening night of competition in the previous American mark was 1:54.4 by Mark Mader of Southern California in 1967. Hickox set the new NCAA record of 1:54.4 last year.

Knicks Rock Bullets In Playoffs; Hawks Stave Off San Diego 116-114

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Knicks ripped off nine straight points early in the fourth quarter to break open a close game and give the Baltimore Bullets a 107-91 lead after afternoon and assume a 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association Eastern Division playoff.

Game No. 3 in the best-of-seven semifinal series will be played Sunday afternoon at Baltimore.

After the lead changed hands 19 times in the first three quarters and with the Knicks holding an 86-80 advantage early in the final period, Dave DeBussche scored two field goals to tie it at 90.

The Knicks, beating Baltimore in the six-game series in the last seven meetings between the two clubs, again presented a well-balanced attack.

Earl Monroe, who tallied 29 points in 4 of them in a torrid third quarter when he helped Baltimore assume its final lead at 70-69.

Reed then moved the Knicks front for good with a field goal and Frazier hit for another basket before Monroe brought the Bullets to within one at 73-70.

However, New York outscored Baltimore 10:5 the rest of the period to go into the final quarter holding an 87-77 lead.

Kevin Loughery, playing close to a point guard because of a groin injury, was the Bullets' second high man with 19 points followed by Wes Unseld with 18 and Jack Marin with 15.

More than six points separated the two teams in the first half. New York assumed its biggest lead before intermission at 59-44 thanks to a 10-point run late in the second quarter and the Knicks went out at halftime holding a 53-49 advantage.

The Bullets hit for 14 points in seven field goals, four of them by Monroe in the opening three minutes of the third quarter to go in front 63-59. However, Frazier and Bradley combined for the Knicks' next 10 points to move New York back in front 69-67.

Frazier took over for Monroe and led three-point play by Loughery inched the Bullets in front again before the Knicks went ahead for good.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The East took advantage of poor shooting and some loose play by the West to score a 104-80 victory in the 7th annual All-Star basketball game.

Neal Walk, a 6-10 standout from Florida, won the "Star of Stars" award as the sparkplug of the East attack under the leadership of Bulter's Tony Jankle.

The East led throughout the first half and took a 48-44 edge into the locker room at intermission.

The latter West team stormed back in the opening minutes of the second half and tied the game at 52-52 and 54-54, but John Warren of St. John's of New York put in a rebounded shot and gave the Easterners the lead for good.

Before the dunk was attempted, the city all-stars 105-70 in an exhibition game sponsored by Teens Against Muscular Dystrophy.

Although the dunk was tempting most of the night, it wasn't until 2:26 remained that the Bulls succumbed to the urge and flushed a breakaway triple. Nate Stevens, after blowing his first dunk attempt, came back with two more.

Dennis Leads Track Victory

GOODING — Wendell sophomore Kirk Dennis picked up three individual firsts and a fourth team victory in a four-way track meet.

Wendell ended up with 73 points while Glenns Ferry had 60, Wood River 59 and Gooding 54.

Dennis won the two short dash events and the low-mile relay, placed third in the high jump, and Gooding high jumper, Chris Oakley, a 6-footer last year, opened well at 6.8 and Jay Bridges, a 7-footer, placed second in the high jump.

Adelman topped San Diego with 26 points. Stu Lanz, another rookie, and Don Koletz had 23 each. Elvin Hayes, the league's leading scorer, was tied to 14 points.

Montreal Clinches NHL Title

MONTREAL (UPI)—The Montreal Canadiens clinched the 1968-69 National Hockey League championship Saturday with a 5-3 victory over the second-place Boston Bruins.

The victory gives Montreal 103 points and breaks the all-time record established by the Detroit Red Wings in 1950-51.

First place gives the Canadiens the Prince of Wales trophy emblematic of finishing on top in the Eastern division of the NHL, and also means $2,250 in bonus money for each of the Canadiens players, compared to only $1,250 for each of the second-place Bruins.

The Canadiens took an early 3-0 lead before Boston struck back in the second period. J.C. Tremblay, Boston goalie, was pulled out and replaced by Gerry Cheevers.

The East led throughout the first half and took a 48-44 edge into the locker room at intermission.

CSI's Tom Bush Selected First Team All-American By Junior College Board

Lanky Tom Bush, the 6'7" prep from Chicago's Cran-High School and the do-everything guy for College of Southern Idaho, has become the first Golden Eagle to claim national All-American-Junior College honors.

He was named first-team All-American by the National Junior College Athletic Association, which caps a bright sophomore year for Bush.

Bush is the first mainline All-American out of the junior college district in many years.

Bush, who led the Eagles in scoring this year and in rebounding for the past two seasons, acknowledged he has received a lot of scholarship offers from throughout the country.

Armed Forces Stars Take AAU-Tourney

Macon, Ga. (UPI)—The Armed Forces All-Stars won their second consecutive National-AAU basketball title Saturday night, whipping Goodyear of Akron, Ohio, 62-45.

Earlier, Lexington, Ky., defeated the Macon Movers 89-71 in the consolation game. The tournament's most valuable player was Garfield Smith of Armed Forces, who led his team in rebounds Saturday with nine.

The All-Stars were tied at 19-19 with only two minutes left in the first half, but a 10-point spur, eight of them by Mike Elluman, left the half-time score at 29-19. Goodyear never regained its lead.

The Armed Forces greatest lead was 53-11 late in the game. The defending champs hit 52 per cent of their shots from the field, compared with Goodyear's 37 per cent.

Waterusers Favor Construction Of New American Falls Dam

BURLEY — The long controversy over the future of the American Falls dam may well be ended, after spaceholders voted unanimously in an advisory ballot for a new dam.

The vote was announced at the close of a meeting in the Ponderosa Inn Friday attended by some 85 persons, representing waterusers and spaceholders in the dam area.

Glenn H. Simmons, Minidoka project superintendent, noted that operating restrictions have been required for the last several years since the Bureau of Reclamation determined that the existing structure does not meet present safety standards.

It was reported the vote was 10 to 0 for construction of a new dam, with five spaceholders not present to cast votes and the 37th spaceholder, Idaho Power Co., abstaining from voting.

Reclamation officials had listed three alternatives — rebuilding the present dam for $19,230,000; or building a new spillway and rebuilding the rest of the dam at an estimated cost of $19,666,000; rehabilitation of the dam at an estimated cost of $19,387,000.

Several of the spaceholders, such as canal company and irrigation districts, indicated they want the dam replaced at its present size.

"The meeting Friday in Burley was one of the most effective and harmonious meetings regarding Idaho's water resources that I have attended in several years," Leonard Graham, chairman of the Committee on Nine, which sponsored the open meeting, stated.

Harold Nelson, regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation, stated that now that the waterusers have made their decision, the Bureau will move ahead to complete the engineering and economic studies based on a replacement of the existing structure.

"In view of the deteriorated condition of the present dam, I am sure that everyone concerned will urge rapid processing of the report and that it meet with congressional approval," Mr. Nelson said.

Could this just possibly be the best sales force in the State of Idaho?

PROBABLY NOT... POSSIBLY SO. Considering the thousands of salesman there are in Idaho, that's quite a statement. Yet, look at the facts. These men have made Mercury the Number One car in Magic Valley for the past eight years.

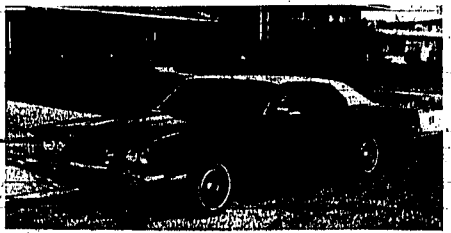

There's nothing especially unusual about these salesmen. They are ordinary family men, dedicated to their jobs, willing to work long hours. The oldest has sixteen years experience in automobile sales. What fires up their enthusiasm... what is the secret of their success?

COULD IT BE the product they sell? The fabulous 1969 Mercury with the fine car touch of the Lincoln-Continental tradition apparent inside and outside, everywhere you look?

OR COULD IT BE the finest service and parts department in the state that keeps customers coming back to Mercury... with the world's finest mechanics and best equipment... a service department that cares about you and your car?

OR COULD IT BE that we at Theisen Motors just try harder to put ourselves in our customers' shoes, to make Theisen Motors the easiest place in the world to buy a car!

OR COULD IT BE THE MERCURY MONTEGO SPORT COUPE ONLY $2488 Down $188 Per Mo. $69.88

Cortez Found Cozumel First But He Was Ahead Of The Discovery

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Editor

The place has been around for quite a time but has only been "found" in the last 11 years or so.

It's the Island of Cozumel, off the Caribbean coast of the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico, and it is probably the last place left in all the world that is not crowded with tourists.

But if you want to see it—and enjoy it—before the big "diversion" starts, you'd better get down there at the next opportunity because when people hear about it that's where they will go.

No doubt about it. Cozumel is today what Acapulco on the Pacific side of Mexico was around 30 years ago.

In a few years it will be as famous as Acapulco but only a few days ago it was still to awake to this fact. As a result my wife and I enjoyed every minute of our six-day stay near San Miguel. It's the only town on the island and just a couple of miles from the very modern Hotel Cozumel Caribe, biggest of the area's three or four hotels.

The Cozumel Caribe is right on a white beach, overlooking water that is so many shades of blue it cannot be described.

Now what can you do in a place that tourists are just starting to find? Plenty!

The place isn't primitive. It's just right. The town dwellers understand little English and those tourists finding the place now understand little Spanish. It makes for lots of interesting situations.

Clerks in the biggest store in town cannot speak English. If you don't think that ends up in some situations, try to ask for a hobbie-pin. You buy things by pointing, price them by waving your hands and mentally add up how much United States money so many pesos will take out of your pocket.

You rent a Hertz Jeep at the hotel. It's interesting but you never get far away. There are only 13 miles of road on the entire island. One road leads across it and ends there. Another skirts the shore but touches neither end.

Like fishing? This is the place. Like swimming? Come on in because the ocean water is about 70 degrees. Like boating? Lots of boats will take you most anywhere you want to go. Nothing luxurious—just good, dependable boats.

Want your wife to hit a beauty parlor and get a shampoo and get? Then you had better bring along your own curlers because the biggest hotel does not have a beauty parlor. Perhaps next year when tourists demand it—but not now.

Like to take it easy? Good place to go. The island "closes" shop for three hours in the afternoon—and everyone takes a nap. Nothing moves, so you join right in and become stationary yourself.

Yes, Cozumel is quite the place. And in your lifetime you will never see another place like it. You will be like we were—right in at the start of a discovery.

Color slides, taken by Mr. and Mrs. Kelker during their recent Yucatan-Cozumel-trip, are now being processed for inclusion in an illustrated lecture of the Mayan area.

The show will include highlights of both the Island of Cozumel, which is featured in today's story, and the Yucatan-Mayan historical area, featured last week.

The shows will be presented on a limited basis at no cost to interested groups as a public service of the Times-News. Appointments should be made through Mr. Kelker at the Times-News office in Twin Falls. The show will be ready for scheduling after mid-April.

1510, saw only Maya Indians and their temples but even few of them. Today these temples are undiscovered. They will be, though, because they are an ace in the hole for tourism. Many of the island's present residents—not more than 6,000 in number—are descendants of the Mayans.

Much of the tourist interest in the area has been sparked by Fernando Barbachano, president and owner of Barbachano's Travel Service with headquarters at Merida, capital city of Yucatan.

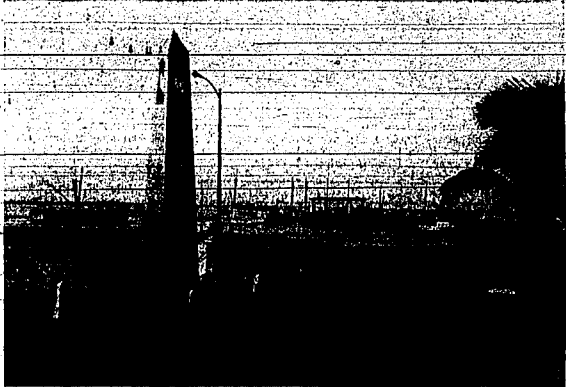

We flew the area on his airline—Aeromaya—and we stayed at his hotels—The Panamericana at Merida, the Mayaland at Chichen Itza, the Hacienda

We knew then we were on vacation and shed of winter. And it was fortunate that we had never overnighted at Merida (we liked been there before. But either

Area Breeder Serves Third Term As National Appaloosa President

They say if you want a job well done, ask a busy man to do it.

This may be what the Appaloosa Horse Club of America has in mind in continuing to reelect L. W. (Bill) Moore, Hansen, as its president.

For 17 years an active Appaloosa breeder and member of the regional and national breeders organization, he was elected to the national board of directors in 1952 and later became vice president, moving into the top office of the national organization in 1966. Since that time he has been reelected twice as president of the Appaloosa Horse Club, in addition to attending national conventions, he has met with regional clubs from Dallas, Texas to New York, York City and San Diego, Calif.

In addition, Mr. Moore finds time to operate a busy warehouse and farm business, a 100-acre farm south of Hansen, the home of his Mindoka Stables.

Willing to admit that his wife, Neva, has had to do most of the work with their own horses since he became national president, he still finds himself deeply involved with an Appaloosa breeding program, racing and showing of horses.

Mr. Moore is also a member of the Twin Falls area Board and is currently vice president of the Idaho Horse Breeders Association, a group actively working on behalf of horse racing and improvement of horse breeds in Idaho.

In an effort to improve his own breeding program, the Moores have brought two famed thoroughbred stallions to Mindoka Stables in Idaho, Colo. and Idaho.

Count Diamond has sired a number of horses now winning races under the Mindoka Stables colors and those of other Idaho horsemen. At the present time, an English stallion with considerable renown in his own country, Gaz-Tim, is standing at Mindoka Stables.

Proof that his program is paying off is noted in the report that a three-year-old gelding, as finished in the 1968 season as the top Appaloosa racing mare in the nation.

When not busy with his warehouse business, farming, horse production, or the Appaloosa Horse Club business, Mr. Moore may be found on his 3,000-acre grazing land in the Shoshone Basin area where the Moores Hereford cattle graze during summer months.

When a devastating fire raged through that area in 1968, destroying his range cover and some of his cattle, Mr. Moore helped in a reseed and rehabilitation program that has made this an outstanding grazing area.

A member of the Shoshone-Oregon-Nevada regional Appaloosa Club, Mr. Moore has also served several years as chairman of the national Appaloosa Horse Club annual sale. He was IOB president and national sale chairman in 1963 when the national convention and sale were held in Boise.

There are approximately 25 horses at Mindoka Stables and there have been as many as 45 and as few as 16, Mr. and Mrs. Moore believe all of their horses should be useable and even the outstanding record herd sire does his share of work when it's time to move cattle. He has been ridden as a parade horse many times, carrying Gov. Don Samuelson and other prominent persons and he is Mrs. Moore's personal pleasure horse. A stranger is often surprised when visiting the Moores to see Mrs. Moore walk up to any of the brood mares, and that she does not without benefit to a hutter or bridle.

For the Moores, the Appaloosa business all started when a mare for sale to them, they had sired without benefit to a hutter or bridle.

The moose, the Appaloosa, and the family, they would find the answer to the moose of his existence, a result of horses. His father, Boke were put aside and BUSINESSMAN, HORSE BREEDER and civic leader, L. W. (Bill) Moore of Hansen is now completing his third term as president of the Appaloosa Horse Club of America. The office takes him some 10,000 miles a year to regional, national and special meetings. He has just returned from California where he addressed a banquet honoring that state's "horseman of the year," a fellow Appaloosa breeder.

Agencies To Cooperate On Road Project

Looking over the popular water skiing and fishing spot during a tour last week were County Commission Chairman Heber Loughmiller, Noah Oliver, Water Ways Committee; Floyd Dayley, Twin Falls Highway District; Bob Boyce and Bill McVain, Bureau of Land Management; Burley and County Commissioners Morris W. One of the most popular fishing, water skiing and boating areas in Twin Falls County, Salmon Dam Reservoir is getting some well deserved attention from area agencies.

Through the cooperation of the Twin Falls County Commissioners, Twin Falls Highway District, Bureau of Land Management, and county Water Ways Committee, plans are completed for a road improvement project at the reservoir.

On a tour this week, representatives of the cooperating agencies agreed improvement is badly needed and that a 3,000-foot roadway should be built this summer. BLM officials will survey the site and Floyd Dayley, county highway district engineer, said his agency will furnish bulldozer equipment for one

State School Sets Summer Workshops

GOODING — Due to desire on the part of parents of preschool children with hearing or visual impairment, the decision has been made to hold special sessions this summer to assist the parents to help their child, according to Ed Reay, superintendent of the State School for the Deaf and Blind.

The purpose of these workshops is to train mothers and other family members who work with those physically impaired children, that they may mature and develop before they are of school age.

The workshop will consist of teaching and demonstrating to mothers the teaching of speech, lip reading, communication and discipline, reading readiness, reading large print by partially sighted children, reading and writing braille, orientation, mobility, eating techniques for those with impaired vision, and efficient living skills.

To help mothers increase their child's attention span, vocabulary and language, to help mothers in ways of improving their answer periods. Each mother will attend with her child for three days during the first week of June.

After the workshops, teachers from the school may visit to the homes of these mothers to further help with the parent-child training. Field representatives for this followup program will be Robert Zagala, Stanford Rupert, Ruth Ellen Parke and Pauline Nelson.

Aims of the workshop include teaching and demonstrating to mothers the teaching of speech, lip reading, communication and discipline, reading readiness, reading large print by partially sighted children, reading and writing braille, orientation, mobility, eating techniques for those with impaired vision, and efficient living skills.

To help mothers increase their child's attention span, vocabulary and language, to help mothers in ways of improving their child's social and maturity growth, to encourage and aid the entire family in understanding and fulfilling the needs of the hearing impaired and visually impaired child.

All mothers of pre-school age (1 month to 4 years) hearing impaired and visually impaired children residing in Idaho will be accepted for the workshop. Information concerning registration and requirements are available at the office of Research at the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind, Gooding.

Each mother is expected to have a sincere interest in developing ways to help her child and agree to devote time and effort to help the child after returning home.

Inner Faith Can Conquer 'Matterhorns' Of Life

By BARBARA WITKOWER, Homemaker, Los Angeles, Calif.

It all started when our son Mark was going through the "parent" stage. He was about 5 and becoming aware that the world was filled with people who expected him to go to school, learn to read and write and do new things that were not always easy.

All this wasn't nearly as tough as playing with his toys or simple family games. And then one day his Uncle Shimmin came to call.

My mother's brother, Uncle Shimmin, had been a small, one-looking child. He barely reached five feet in height and 100 pounds in weight when full grown.

During the depression years his wife died, leaving five little children whom he would not give up although the going was rough.

A jewelry mechanic by trade, Uncle Shimmin found that the years were lean, and the bodies of his children grew thin. They grew up, as children have a way of doing, without even the frosting on the cake, and then one day new life began to unfold for Uncle Shimmin.

A man without formal schooling, he became interested in the wisdom of the ages. Books became his constant companion. Religions especially fascinated him and for 10 years he studied the Bible and the teachings of Buddhism and Confucianism.

Then Uncle Shimmin found a dream stirring within him. It was a strange one for a man who had been searching for truth. He wanted to climb the Matterhorn! There, he felt, he was in Kansas and the family would find the answer to the mystery of his existence.

Boke were put aside and Uncle Shimmin devoted his days to climbing. In the next few years we kept getting reports from him about all the mountains he had climbed in the California area.

"These who wish to climb the Matterhorn must get a permit from the Guide's Union in Zermatt, Switzerland, before they are even allowed to prepare for the actual climb. Somehow Uncle Shimmin raised the fare to Switzerland for his interview. The men at the Guide's Union took one look at Uncle Shimmin's slight frame, his obvious naivete, and tacitly began to discourage him.

He listened and then, in his quiet way, he told the men one shouldn't judge a man's strength and courage from his physical form.

"Man's ability to overcome danger, his courage and power, come from inner qualities," Uncle Shimmin said.

Impressed by his determination and faith in himself, the men at the Guide's Union agreed to let Uncle Shimmin climb Mt. Zermatt, a smaller peak, to prove his prowess. If this went all right, then perhaps he could tackle the Matterhorn. He passed with flying colors.

and on July 27, 1947, Uncle Shimmin started the laborious and dangerous climb up Matterhorn. Finally he reached the summit. His guide, Victor Biner of Zermatt, still talks of the miraculous ease with which Uncle Shimmin met every frustration, every challenge.

There was quite a bit of publicity at the time and when Uncle Shimmin came back to visit us he showed Mark some of the clippings. Impressed by Uncle Shimmin and excited about his climb, Mark flung question after question at him.

"But don't you want to know what I found on top of that Matterhorn?" Uncle Shimmin asked. Naturally Mark wanted to know.

Uncle Shimmin told him that far from the bustle-bede of worldly things, he realized that way up there, close to the sky, God had no special place He called home. The magic wasn't in your own backyard, it was Uncle Shimmin had dreamed, but within your heart. Wherever you are, there lives God, Uncle Shimmin concluded with this statement: "Throughout your life, Mark, there will be a Matterhorn to climb, perhaps in your own backyard and always there will be those people who doubt your ability to climb it. But as long as you know you can, no mountain of any kind will be too tall."

So now when people, young or old, doubt their ability to cope with any situation, our wise little son, with Uncle Shimmin's story still fresh in his mind and heart, pokes me and says, "Money, tell them about Uncle Shimmin!"

Cozumel--New Caribbean Hideout

It so well we stayed two nights coming back because this Mexican community is as far out one way at Cozumel is the other.

Founded 427 years ago, Merida still has structures, arches and shrines which were built within half a dozen years after its birth. In Idaho, we measure history in 100 years. In Merida, 100 years is only yesterday.

It is the stepping-off place to many of the great Mayan ruins of the Peninsula but other than that it has a charm of its own. The Mexican market place is something to behold. But better go with a guide or you may never find your way out. In fact, best way is to hire an English speaking taxi driver for the day. He'll show you every thing you want to see plus more.

Merida has an old world charm and you feel a long way from Idaho. Best traveling time is November, December, January, February, March and April. Other months it rains.

But it is fortunate that everything stops in Merida en route to the island of Cozumel. We hope it remains that way because the two areas are so different. They both should be seen. And the way, of course, is to take the island. You're ready to come back to work that way.

So remember—if you want to get into something fresh and unspoiled and new as tourists see it, then Cozumel is the place. This territory of Mexico (Baja California is the other) is unique.

And with Yucatan and Cozumel you have it all. Ancient history in the ruins of the great temples of the Mayas now being restored, current history in the birth of the latest "place to go" in our world.

If you get a chance for a winter vacation—skip the usual summer one and don't say we didn't tell you the place to see.

Jaycees Hear About Poison Prevention

JEROME — Jim Payton talked to Jerome Jaycees about Poison Prevention Week at a recent meeting. He stressed that an emetic is available at both drug stores for a small charge, and a counter-dose chart is available free.

The club made an official visit with Dave Metzger, Battle of the Bands chairman, and other members from the Cozumel home Saturday. Jeff Kearney made a report on the Jerome Battle of the Bands.

Giffy Moss and Tom Coombs reported on the new vests for members. Members were urged to attend the District meeting in Burley. There will be inter-club competition in three areas. Jeff Kearney will represent "Speak Up." Jim Payton will represent "Spark Plug" and no one has yet been named for "Smoke."

It was announced that there will be a casino party at the Glen Stream home Saturday. Jeff Kearney conducted the "Speak-Up" program with "Law Enforcement and Police Officers" as the topic.

Church Groups Have Meetings

The Alpha Teens of the Twin Falls Grace Baptist Church, met recently at the home of Corilyn Buehler for a time of fellowship during their March party. A potato contest was won by Genny Stone, a draw-in-the-dark contest was won by Mrs. Knutson, and a clover hunt was won by Janice Seaman. Other games were played and refreshments were served.

The Omega's also had a party, recently. They met at the Bowlerama and bowled two games, then left to meet again at the Alpha Teens' home. Seven members of the Youth Group recently attended Youth Rally at Kuna, Idaho. Elections were held for officers and a short devotion was given.

Operation 'Spargo' Involves Twin Falls Army Officer

Maj. Larry Spargo, Twin Falls, battalion executive officer, recently commanded soldiers from the 4th Battalion, 3rd Infantry and Republic of Vietnam Regional Forces in Task Force "Spargo," a joint operation to search a suspected enemy area four miles northeast of Quang Ngai City.

The task force was designed primarily as a test and training operation for future joint measures. It was composed of the Old Guard's Company B and regional force companies 102, 100 and 710. The force was supported by armored personnel carriers and artillery fire.

The joint force detained one Viet Cong suspect in the area, and it was learned from villagers that other Viet Cong had been seen in the area the previous night.

Maj. Spargo also was involved in the evacuation of 14 Vietnamese refugees from the Communist holding and interrogation center near Quang Ngai. The refugees were removed by an American Division utility helicopter after Viet Cong mortar attack in which two rounds landed inside the refugee center.

"We couldn't get an ambulance from Quang Ngai because of the danger of an ambush, so I called for a dustoff," Maj. Spargo said. After the night attack, in which two of the four 60MM mortar rounds landed inside the refugee compound, injuring 16 persons, including four women and six children, the company medic began administering aid. Later, four other men of the 4th Battalion, 3rd Infantry, raced to the tent compound to help the injured refugees.

The helicopter was then called and lifted the refugees to safety. There were no casualties among the Americans.

Explorer Scout To Attend Summer Research, Exploration Program

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish and Game Department
Some people might say that it takes the luck of the Irish to come through in the face of keen competition and win one of 12 national Explorer Awards with an all-expense-paid trip to New York City March 27-29, and an appropriate scholarship covering most costs while participating in this summer-of-major expedition or research project of his own choice.
Even more of an omen is the fact that Patrick C. (Pat) Benson of Boise was born 18 years ago on St. Patrick's Day. Most of these youthful years have gone into hard, dedicated work developing self-discipline, training, moral fabric and leadership. Now, in his senior year at Boise High School, he is one of a dozen national winners of awards in a program co-sponsored annually by the World Center for Exploration, the Explorer's Club and Exploring Division, Boy Scouts of America.

friend has had the opportunity to work with both long and short-winged hawks for the past three years. A pair of golden eagles is held on a federal state permit basis, having been captured prior to congressional legislation a few years ago extending protection to these birds.
Last summer Pat and Tyler Nelson (Morley's son) worked the golden-eagles-for-the-McDonald-Douglas Corp. on a study to learn what the flapping of large bird wings looks like on radar screens. Of course, trained eagles which would return on command were essential. Controlling the eagles is the job of the two Boise boys. Filming location was a site ten miles east of Edwards Air Force Base north of San Bernardino, California. Pat also flew the eagles during the production by ABC of a color-television movie on Rare and Endangered wildlife species of North America.
Commenting about his young friend, Morley Nelson says that Pat's understanding devotion to a cause, persistence and focusing ability are simply fantastic. He represents the very finest of our young people today.
Another adult friend who has helped shape Pat's objectives is James C. Graban, Boise regional conservation educator for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, who has been an Explorer Scout leader for the Explorer's Club. Post 60 plans now include two years at Boise State College and two years at the University of Montana. "A consuming interest is the study of peregrine falcons and other birds of prey. It is his hope that if the expedition this summer is successful he will be able to live with what he wants to do, he hopes to go to the Galapagos Islands about 800 miles off the west coast of South America in the Pacific Ocean, the archipelago where Charles Darwin conceived many of his ideas about the origin of species."
Young Benson says that "the field and exploration sciences" are those which apply in any way to the search and study of

Area Officer Honored By Three Governments For Unusual Liaison Duty

Three governments have paid tribute to a Twin Falls Army major for his efforts on behalf of South Vietnam, Korea and U.S. Armed Forces relations in Vietnam.
Maj. John A. Lang, son of Andrew C. Lang, Twin Falls, is a recipient of commendation from the commanding officer of the 28th Regiment of the Republic of Korea's 1st Infantry Division for his outstanding liaison work and for bringing about a marked improvement in working relations and understanding between the South Vietnamese, Korean and U.S. Armed Forces.
Maj. Lang was awarded the south-vietnamese Honor Medal for exceptional meritorious service. He was also cited by that country for exceptional leadership abilities—resourcefulness and management—exercised in a continuous combat situation as an American advisor.
Maj. Lang was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for valor and heroism in ground combat from Charles A. Corcoran, Maj. Gen., U.S. Army Chief of Staff, on Sept. 10, 1968, the Twin Falls officer rescued several seriously wounded Vietnamese soldiers from burning buildings following an enemy attack on the district headquarters compound at Dong Xuan District, Phu Yen Province, Republic of Vietnam. The commendation from Gen. Corcoran stated his disregard for his own safety and his courageous actions inspired his Vietnamese comrades and contributed to the successful rescue of other injured personnel. His actions reflected highest credit upon himself and the U.S. military service—the commendation added:
"The Combat Infantry badge, The South Vietnamese Service Medal and the Republic of South Vietnam's campaign medal awarded Maj. Lang during his tour of duty in that area."
He served as District Senior Advisor in the Dong Xuan District from March of last year until March, 1968, and was affiliated with the Military Assistance Command, Civilian Operations—Rural Development advisory team. This organization has the dual mission of security for the populace and rural development or nation building.
Security is provided by popular and regional force soldiers and was improved greatly during the past year, Maj. Lang said.

Whatever the goal—a forest ranger, park naturalist, fishery officer or watershed manager—the minimum requirement is a college education that is broad enough to give understanding of the interrelationships of natural resources which make up the environment. This means insights into social, political and economic forces that influence natural resource problems to find realistic alternative solutions.

The local officer has just completed several days in Twin Falls with his wife, Marty, and their four children who reside at 2015 Sherry Lane. He left this week for Ft. Sheridan, Ill., where he will serve as a staff member with the Fifth Army.
Maj. Lang said that under the rural development portion of the mission schools, maternity centers, wells and other facilities have been constructed for the Vietnamese through the self-help concept.
American advisors such as Maj. Lang and South Vietnamese advisors provide the technical assistance and materials and from the improvement volunteer labor. In most cases, he said, they are eager to help and greatly appreciate the facilities which are being erected or re-erected.

Training In Printing set At Gooding

GOODING—Ed Reay, superintendent of the State School for the Deaf and Blind, announced plans are under way to hold a special training program in printing this summer.
Sixteen boys from the printing classes will be invited back for this summer session of the program—go into effect.
Glenn Bauman, printing instructor, will operate the workshop in the new air-conditioned shop in the new building for a period of four or five weeks. It will consist of two or three sessions of two weeks each, beginning at the end of this year. The program has been broken into several sessions to allow the boys to attend family vacation camps, and adults in the program will be provided for the spare time of the participants and they will be able to attend school.
Students eligible for this extra instruction are Robert Sutton, Poccatello; Ronald Fields, Emmett; Rex Twining, John Louis, Brunau; Stephen McCaulous, Boise; David Neumann, Twin Falls; David Saxon, Downey; Roger Taylor, Jerome; Mickey Koch, Wendell; Jay VanLeuren, Twin Falls; James Yarbrough; Robert Smith, Edgar Waddell and Reed Brown, all Gooding; Ken Anderson, Stirling; and Rocky Wonenberg, Buhl.

Mrs. Brooks Sworn In For U.S. Position

RUPERT—State Sen. Mary Brooks attended swearing-in ceremonies at the White House at 11 a.m. Friday (EST) prior to becoming director of the United States Mint Sept. 1 of this year.
During the ceremonies, Mrs. Brooks said, "I am absolutely delighted that the President has appointed me as Director of the U.S. Mint. It is the greatest honor and a great challenge. This particular job, of all jobs within the government, is the one I feel offers me the greatest challenge, and I feel that I am one job I feel best able to perform."
"I welcome this opportunity to serve the President of the United States and to lead the mint and supervision of the six field institutions of the Bureau of Mints—and the Office of the Director of the Mint."
Mrs. Brooks is presently in her third term in the state senate and is GOP Caucus Chairman and Chairman of the State Affairs Committee. She has been assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee since 1965, having been a member of the committee since 1957, when her husband, Sen. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, died.
She has also managed and developed one of the largest sheep and cattle ranches in southern Idaho, the Flat Top Livestock Co.
Her new position will require her to establish the general policies and direct the activities of the mint field institutions in the production of coins, both domestic and foreign, the casting of medals of a national character and the custody, processing and moving of bullion.
Gov. Don Samuelson will also call a successor to Sen. Brooks when she assumes her new position. Those in District 21 having expressed interest in the position include Dale Gardner, legislative chairman from Rupert; Lawrence Hagle, former state senator from Hiley; Rodney Hansen, former state senator from Rupert; John Payson, legislative chairman of District 21 from Rupert; E. V. McLean, all distributor from Kelchum; Harold Hurst, mayor of Hiley; Chuck Atkinson, Blaine county Republican party chairman from Kelchum; Del Hatt, Lincoln county Republican party chairman from Shoshone; and Steve Dollar, attorney from Kelchum.

Pat gives much of the credit for his national recognition to his father, W. W. (Woody) Benson of the Idaho State Health Department and to Morley Nelson, state snow survey supervisor, Soil Conservation Service. Pat became captivated by Nelson's birds. Nelson is one of the world's best-known falconists. The boy-owned a red-tailed hawk in the 4th grade. Early interest in birds grew, until now his career objective is some phase of ornithology, something which will combine college level teaching and field research.
Inasmuch as Nelson is an aviculturist, training and flying birds was a natural choice. His peregrine falcons, his young most of his life. The purpose has been to provide opportunities for high school boys to get first-hand experience in both the shallow and deep problems of fish and wildlife management.

One long-range goal of Woodworth's Explorer Post sponsorship is "to give the boys an idea of motivating some of the boys into training for careers in fish and wildlife management. Five years is not enough time starting at the high school level, to develop professional workers in the conservation of natural resources."
Other boys with outstanding achievements in Boise Explorer Post 60 are Art LeTourneau, Allen Nicholson, Bill Mullens, Richard E. Bird, Dr. William Beebe, Dr. Vilhelmur Stefansson, Herbert Hoover and Dr. Paul A. Siple.
Benson is present this year of the Boise Explorer Scout Specialty Post 60, which he joined four years ago. The Post is organized in Boise under the sponsorship of the Idaho Fish and Game Department. Credit for the establishment of Post 60 goes to twenty-five and its subsequent counterpart around the state at Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, Jerome and Idaho Falls. Benson goes to department director John R. (Dick) Woodworth, who has been active in Boy Scout work

The Money Box

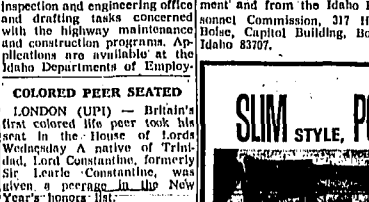

BY FRANK SCHELL

By FRANK SCHELL
Mrs. J. R. D. Kimberly, Idaho: I have 10¢ in paper money, pretty well worn, and would like to know what it is worth.
Answer: You are right—it is a very pretty note. This is a standard 60 Cent note, much used before we went off the gold standard and is normally redeemable in gold, but cannot now be turned in for that coin. Up until just a few years ago your note was worth its own, and could be confiscated by the government, but is now only a collector's item so you can only get a few cents for it. ("Specimen and White," not "Spelman," Harley V. Speelman was Registrar of the Treasury while Frank Dime was Treasurer of the United States. Both served during January, 1922, until September, 1927, if you find it in nice, new, crisp condition, it is worth at least twice face value. The value decreases with the decrease in condition.)
From L. A. Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a real fifty piece of paper which says "Fifty" on the end and has a large picture of a man. On the note it says "Confederate States of America" and "John Adams," also "Richmond." The signatures have been cut out with some kind of round punch. The back has five different "1's" on it, with "FIFTY" in the middle. What can you tell me about it?
Answer: This is a genuine Confederate Note, issued by the Confederate Treasury at Richmond. The reason for the clips on it is that someone was lucky enough to get his money back—no you certainly have had many of the holders of these notes. The clips are cancellations. Your note is worth about $3.00 in the present condition. The man pictured on it is C. G. Monaghan, Secretary of the Treasury for the Confederate States.
(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, care The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401.)

THE SEVENTEEN SPIRES of the U.S. Air Force Academy inter-faith chapel tower 150 feet skyward. The chapel is unique in the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish services can be held simultaneously and the three congregations can enter and leave their respective naves without interfering with each other. The Protestant nave will seat 800, the Catholic nave 500 and the Jewish Synagogue 100 worshippers. In addition to the three naves, there is a meeting room for the use of any religious organization which may not wish to use any of the three chapels.

"Bring Me Men" Is Motto Of A.F.

The idea of an Air Force Academy was in the process of development for more than a third of a century. The evolution of American military aviation during World War I indicated the growing importance of air power to national defense. The decisiveness of aerial warfare in World War II clearly demonstrated the future dominant role of airpower in defense of the free world. Following the war, the Air Force became a separate branch of service and began to make proposals to establish an air academy along the lines of West Point and Annapolis. The military academy had been educating professional officers since 1802 and the Naval Academy since 1845. Now that air and space technology was in full development, the Air Force also needed an institution to prepare a nucleus of career officers dedicated to aerospace purposes and imbued with traits of character and leadership. Proposals for the new academy were interrupted by the Korean War. At the close of this conflict, Congress authorized establishment of the Air Force Academy and President Eisenhower signed the legislation on April 1, 1954.

Plans for building the Air Force Academy began immediately. A site selection committee, composed of prominent civilian and military leaders, screened some 400 locations and visited proposed sites in 22 states. On June 24, 1954, the secretary of the Air Force announced that the site eight miles north of Colorado Springs would be the permanent home of the Air Force Academy.

The academy was established at a temporary location on Lowry Air Force Base in Denver until construction was completed at the permanent site. On July 11, 1955, in ceremonies at Lowry, the first class of 306 cadets was sworn in and the new service academy was dedicated.

While a curriculum, a tradition and a cadet way of life were being formed at Lowry, one of the greatest community building projects in the nation's history went into operation at the permanent site some 60 miles away. Moving at a fast pace on this prodigious project, the academy builders had the cadet buildings ready for occupancy by the time the first cadet class reached its final year. On Aug. 29, 1958, the cadets began to move into their new quarters located in the Rampart Range of the Rocky Mountains.

In 1972 the Cadet Wing reached its authorized strength of approximately 2,500 cadets. In 1994 Congress again passed a law authorizing an annual increase in the size of entering cadet classes until a maximum of 4,417 cadets is reached. This legislation equalized student strength of the Air Force, Army and Naval academies.

The Academy site encompasses 18,000 acres of former ranch land, divided into five mesas with valleys in between. This expanse of land has allowed for construction of an airfield, if approved by Congress, and for further plant expansion to accommodate additional students as needed by the Air Force.

Dominating the western side of the reservation are the majestic mountains with renowned Pikes Peak in the distance. The site adjoins the sweeping plains to the east. On all sides are spectacular scenes of nature to frame the modern campus. Situated at 7,200-foot altitude, the elevated campus seems remarkably appropriate as the location to educate future leaders for space technology and exploration. The site already seems high in the sky, not too far from the vast reaches of outer space.

The cadet area, which is the main complex of the Academy, is constructed on the mesa of ridge at the north end of the site. The buildings are designed in contemporary architectural style featuring glass, aluminum, steel and white marble. Most of the buildings have been named for famous Air Force leaders.

Vandenberg Hall, a cadet dormitory, has 1,320 rooms, squadron areas, hobby shops and a cadet store. Mitchell Hall, a large dining hall surrounded by picture windows, accommodates all the cadets for meals.

Classes are held in Fairchild Hall, the academic building, containing classrooms, laboratories, lecture halls and faculty offices as well as a cadet library and dispensary. An aeronautics laboratory contains extensive equipment to prepare cadets for America's diversified man-in-space programs included among the facilities are irsonic and subsonic wind tunnels, engine test cells, a solid rocket installation and shock tube.

Cadets participate in athletics at the cadet gymnasium which has two swimming pools and facilities for a variety of sports. Social functions are held in Arnold Hall, the cadet social center, including a ballroom, theater, recreation rooms and a snack bar. Religious services are conducted in the cadet chapel, a building unique and striking in its design, with 17 towering spires emitting light to the Protestant nave through colorful stained glass. Catholic and Jewish naves and a meeting room for members of other faiths are located on the lower floor level.

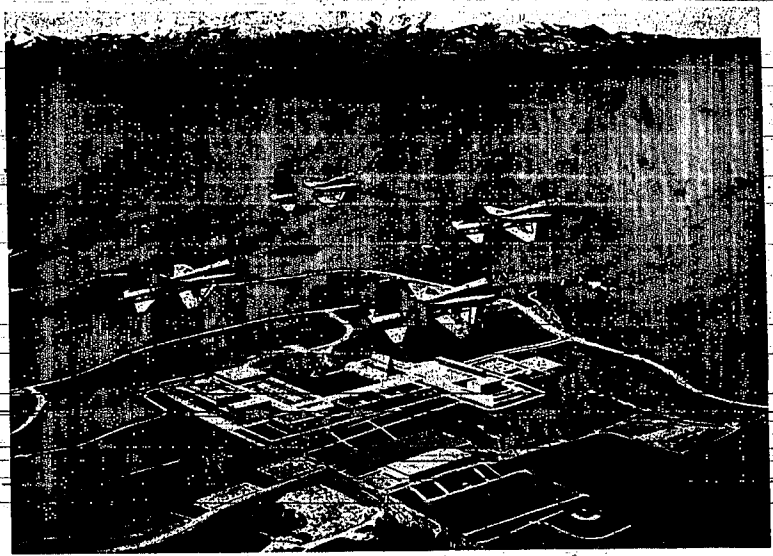

To accommodate the larger cadet classes authorized by legislation, the academy is building another dormitory and expanding classrooms and several other cadet facilities. In addition, a field house has been constructed to provide indoor facilities for the practice of varsity and intramural sports, an indoor competitive track, an ice hockey rink, and a general cadet assembly area.

The academy superintendent and his staff are located in Harmon Hall, the administration building. Behind this building is a Court of Honor where tourists are permitted to view the cadet area and to witness the noon formations of the cadet wing. In front of Harmon Hall is the planetarium utilized for cadet classes as well as demonstrations open to the public.

Located in areas south of the cadet complex are two housing developments for officers and airman, a shopping center, a hospital, the Academy Preparatory School, and a supply and service center. A 40,000-seat football stadium, an 18-hole golf course and a recreation area in the mountains have been constructed with private funds donated through the Air Force Academy Foundation.

The Air Force Academy has become Colorado's number one tourist attraction. Last year over one million people visited the site. The public is invited to tour the academy at any time. A brochure with a map is given to every visiting car at the entering gate to assist the tourists in locating areas of interest.

Those interested in obtaining more information about the Air Force Academy should contact Staff Sgt. William Donnelly at the Air Force Recruiting Office, 1700 E. First St., Col. William Claiborn, Kimberly.

THE ULTRA MODERNISTIC U. S. Air Force Academy cadet complex nestles against the Rampart Range of the Rocky Mountains near Colorado Springs. Dormitories, academic and laboratory facilities, chapel, dining hall, gymnasium and a social center are provided for the cadets. In addition, a library and a planetarium as well as an administration building complete the complex. New construction has been authorized for an expanded wing strength of 4,417 cadets. Present strength of the wing is 3,100. The pictured area is situated at an altitude of 7,200 feet.

child, Twin Falls, rhythm guitar; Dene Williams, Boise, vocalist and Louie Owens, Castleford, lead guitar, won over four other bands. The group won $75 and the right to compete in the district contest April 5 in Burley.

ARRAYED IN THEIR summer parade dress uniforms, cadets of the Air Force Academy pass through the "battle arch" on their way to a formal parade. The 3,100-man wing parades to meals three times a day throughout the year but conduct formal parades only on special occasions.

ESTABLISHMENT.
The establishment has a lot to offer. Spurred by growing problems in recruiting, major companies are turning to the military as a source of new executives. Junior officers with college degrees are being romanced with exciting job offers. Industry is turning vast amounts of its recruiting dollars from campus activity in the services and the about-to-be civilians. "More mature" and "much more serious" are the words being used by management and technical recruitment officials. Campus disturbances by anti-war student groups have turned off many major companies.

Located in areas south of the cadet complex are two housing developments for officers and airman, a shopping center, a hospital, the Academy Preparatory School, and a supply and service center. A 40,000-seat football stadium, an 18-hole golf course and a recreation area in the mountains have been constructed with private funds donated through the Air Force Academy Foundation.

Widows Wait Longer Than Widowers To Marry Again

TWENTY-EIGHT MEN—pre-phon company has discovered posed to her. That is what the studies that we are fashion. Was lady reports. far more apt to reach an execution. Looks like a record. Writes she: alive who has just stepped out. "The summer after my wife I we call him back 30 minutes later rather than 15 or 30 minutes birthday, nine months after. We later later. This is true, sir. It's had six children. I was widowed in our instructions."

IN SANTA MARIA, Cal., lives a gentleman named Lancelotti Shing Lake... IF YOU GO by the statistics, a widower is most apt to remarry, if ever. Just 3½ years after the death of his first wife.

THE NEWEST creation of two Buhl women, Mrs. Harvey Bickelhaupt and Lucille Huston, is Mr. and Mrs. 1890. The women went to their rag bag to find the necessary materials for their latest creation. They previously have created figures by using feathers.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

The BUHL feather artists are at it again! Mrs. Harvey (Glady) Bickelhaupt and Lucille Huston have created "Mr. and Mrs. 1890" just in time for the Easter Parade. This year the ladies went from feathers to the rag-bag to find the necessary materials for their latest creation.

Mr. 1890 wears the typical Victorian business suit of that time period complete with straw hat, striped shirt, bow tie and walking cane. Mrs. 1890 wears a Gibson Giel ensemble complete with bustle and leg-o-mutton sleeves. Her straw bonnet is trimmed with flowers and she carries a crocheted handbag.

Materials used in the figures include wallpaper, paper towels, facial tissue, toilet paper, Christmas wrapping paper, napkins, and odds and ends of material. The eyeslashes on the figures are made of rooster tail feathers. The gentleman's shoes have upholstery tack-eyes with string shoelaces.

Mrs. Bickelhaupt and Miss Huston are now entering their sixth year on the feather and paper projects. Their first creation was a float for a July 4th parade. Perhaps the most widely known project is "Gladys" the purple cow and her family which appeared at the Twin Falls county fair.

Other feather creations include a five-foot rooster, a lively scene, an Easter display and Smokey Bear and cubs.

Smokey Bear was on display at the Idaho state capitol.

The ladies have also made other paper dressed figures, an Indian for the Buhl high school and a bride as a decoration for the ladies showers.

Mr. and Mrs. 1890 will be on display in the window of the M. H. King store in Buhl until Easter.

Almost found — a $20 gold piece! At least several men, working on the J. A. Clawson Construction crew, were sure that was what they had a quick glimpse of before dirt covered it up.

Mont Boyer, a HANSEN resident, was operating a shovel when he "glimpsed" what he thought to be the $20 gold piece, but before he could stop, he had thrown it back into the trench. The trencher picked it up and threw it into the spoil pile and they could not locate it.

Several crew members saw it and reported that it had a double eagle on it and was the size of a $20 gold piece. It was in the corner of Walnut and Third street West in Hansen during the installation of sewage lines.

The crew was digging a trench on Walnut Avenue and the coin was found under the black top surfacing. It appeared to be in good condition and since gold does not deteriorate as a silver coin might, it probably was.

DEAR POLLY—Remove the toilet tissue rolls when almost empty and keep them in each room and one in the car to have handy for dusting.—MRS. C. M.

DEAR POLLY—I looked everywhere trying to find a black dotty pin with a yellow center to wear with a certain dress. Finally, I bought a bright pink one with a yellow dot center and painted the petals with black enamel, using a small oil painting brush.—FRANCES.

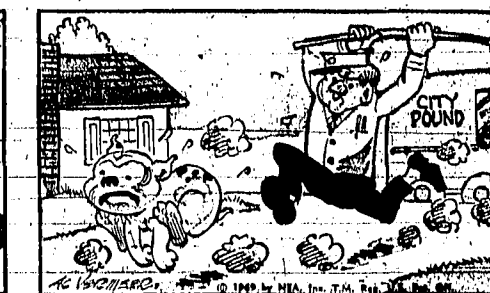

DEAR POLLY—By accident I discovered that silver polish is a good cleaner for my chrome coffee pot and the chrome around my bathroom mirror. I've been clean for a month or so.—MRS. P. R. V.

DEAR POLLY—If your scrub brush gets worn out, you can make one instead of having to buy a new one. Take an onion bag, run it up, put foam rubber in it and then tie the end with a string. Cut off the excess and you have a homemade scrub brush.—SANDRA

DEAR POLLY—When using a resorbable file for cutting threads when suturing or stapling a seam, a double-edged blade can be used by inserting it into the end of a clamp clothespin.—MRS. J. I. S.

DEAR POLLY—To save the top guide on a fishing rod apply a few coats of clear nail polish which keeps it from wearing down so fast and saves money on the guides. You also may like to use the polish on the guides, following it down the rod.—J. C.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR JAMES J. ROWLEY,

chief, U.S. Secret Service

Does the Government reimburse a person who has suffered a loss because he unknowingly accepted counterfeit?—P. T. Higgins, Mont.

● No, but the Secret Service does attempt to educate the public so that people might be better able to distinguish counterfeit from genuine currency.

FOR PATRICK CARR,

professional toy reviewer

What criteria do you use to evaluate toys sent to you from manufacturers?—Mrs. Dorothea Rhodes, Yuma, Ariz.

● All toys are evaluated in two areas—each containing 10 criteria. The first area contains such criteria as durability, safe for continued usage, constant adult supervision not required, and continuing or adaptable play values. The second area covers 10 possible abilities of skills the playing offers, such as imaginative or creative stimuli. Toys evaluated in the affirmative to the 10 required criteria and in at least one of the others receive my emblem of approval.

FOR CLAIRE BLOOM, actress

Recently I read that your daughter is enrolled in a "lycée." What is a lycée? How does it differ from a public school?—Dorothy Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● Lycée is French for a school that prepares students for a university. Since my husband Rod Steiger and I work all over the world and take Anna with us, we had to find a group of schools that had the same curriculum all over the world. That's our lycée.

FOR EDDIE STANKY, former manager, Chicago White Sox

Who is the greatest player you have ever seen?—Paul McComb, Ventnor, N. J.

● Rogers Hornsby was the greatest.

FOR DON ADAMS of "Get Smart"

The credits on your show list a Bill Stafford as a "gaffer." What is a gaffer?—Kathy Mulford, Las Vegas, Nev.

● A gaffer works the lights. Without him, you'd never see me.

FOR STATE REP. JOHN D. ROCKE-

FELLER, IV of V. Va.

Are you the first member of the Rockefeller family to serve as a Democrat? Why did you make this decision?—Brent Shaffer, Aurora, Ill., Va.

● Yes. To me, the Democrats always have been more ready to show an instinct of adventure, a desire to do something about the guy who's down and out. Their way isn't always the most efficient or practical, but at least they're trying.

FOR DORIS DAY

Most women hate freckles. Do you like having them?—Dawn Pollak, Elizabeth, N. J.

● I sure do! I feel they give me a healthy, natural, outdoor look. That's why I always ask my makeup man to let my freckles show.

FOR WATHEN KNEBLEKAMP, president,

Churchill Downs race track

Are tickets on horses finishing in the money in any Kentucky Derby good forever?—Mrs. Mike Hopfinger, Biron, S.D.

● Money for all unexpired tickets is kept at Churchill Downs for two years; then turned over to the state. A ticket presented after two years must be verified by the track, then is cashed by the state. Tickets are "good forever."

FOR FILIP WILSON, comedian

What is your real name? Do you write all your own material?—Mr. E. M. Burggaard, Council Bluffs, Iowa

● My real last name is Wilson and my real first name is Clerow. Don't ask me where that came from. At present, I write all my own material, but for an upcoming TV special I'll hire 10 writers, since the special is also a pilot for a series.

FOR HELEN ROSE, fashion expert

Do you think the square-toed shoe styles will be "out" soon? If so, when?—E. L. Harrington, Handboro, Miss.

● Yes, I do think they will for two reasons: first, styles just naturally keep changing; second, I think a more feminine look is coming back, and square-toed shoes don't fit in with this look.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Busman's Holiday. The daily routine of a long-distance bus driver is more than just coping with traffic. One Greyhound driver, for example, was asked by a Muslim passenger to stop a moment so he could exit and pray at the proper time. The other passengers were put to a vote and agreed. And, too, Vester Honeycutt of Dearborn, Mich., had to change a blowout. He asked his good-natured riders to write notes to his wife explaining his delay. They all did, each adding, "We hope you will accept this excuse and have kept his supper warm." She did.

Chums Patrick O'Neal's ("Castle Keep") traveling companion—a suspect word these days with movie stars—is none other than his father. The elder O'Neal all but disowned Patrick when the youth left the family business in Ocala, Fla., to pursue acting. "Then the Israel war exploded," says Patrick, "and a group of artist-friends wanted to help. I went to Israel with them as a photographer. When I phoned my father to say good-bye, I learned he was planning to go, too—although he'd never been out of the U.S. before. Now we travel the world together."

One Way to Count—Didi Anstett, the reigning Miss U.S.A., from Kirkland, Wash., comes from a family of nine children. "My father is an engineer," she says, "and he's always inventing gimmicks. For instance, we have a big yard and a hill behind the house. He worked out an elaborate sprinkler system to keep it watered. It runs all the time, even in cold weather, to keep the pipes from freezing. In the house, he's got the scheme projected on the wall. It lights up to show what's on; you know, like Sprinkler No. 4. My little sister learned to count that way."

Caribbean Expo. Twelve islands of the British West Indies are opening a fair (April 5-May 31) in Grenada. It's largely to promote the region's products from sculpture to mango custard but, unlike some fairs, it's going to have an original idea in the fun area—a pirate-land-for-kids-with-ships, cutcoaters, and even buried gold. Move over kids!

Oodles of Bottles. Do you get the feeling we're losing the battle against the bottles—discarded ones; that is: Will parks and beaches soon be a blanket of "empties"? Litterbug signs don't seem to help; neither do "Keep America Clean" campaigns. Ah, but salvation may be on the way from Europe in the form of paper-plastic bottles which disintegrate in two years without a trace. There are still a few bugs—not the least of which is that two-year crumple. The world discards 150 billion bottles and cans a year; we've simply got to disintegrate them faster!

NOW YOU CAN ACTUALLY SEE THE SAME WONDERS OF LIFE THAT TOP SCIENTISTS SEE THROUGH THEIR $60,000 ELECTRON MICROSCOPES!

Discover the "secret" world of living things

Look into the heart of life itself through the miracle of your free Micrograph-Viewer. In full-color Micro-Photographs, you'll view lab specimens (enlarged up to 200,000 times) of such wonders as...

- a human egg cell developing into an embryo.
- a healthy blood cell being attacked by bacteria — and fighting back.
- sunlight manufacturing plant food in a leaf.
- the struggle for survival in a drop of pond water between a minute water flea and the many-celled hydra.
- the outer covering of a single human cell as it is rarely seen — two coverings, one on top of the other, with fluid in between.

EVEN IF you were to buy a microscope costing hundreds of dollars, it would not show specimens with the degree of enlargement seen through the Micrograph-Viewer. Yet, this amazing new instrument is yours to keep FREE when you accept a short trial subscription to THE WONDERS OF LIFE PROGRAM.

This exciting new Program sends you each month 16 full-color Micrographs and a fascinating science study that explains them. Now, right at home, you can see and explore the "secret" world of living matter that is invisible except under the most powerful microscopes!

With your Viewer, you will receive full-color Micrographs that are duplicates of slides in the possession of some of the world's foremost scientists. These Micrographs, on transparent color film, are prepared with the finest cameras and most expensive electron microscopes under ideal conditions.

You'll see things through your Micrograph-Viewer as if you were looking through a $60,000 electron microscope! You'll look right into the heart of life itself... discover sights more fantastic than anything astronauts find in space. And you will be viewing the very things you hear about in school and read about in newspapers.

How the Program works

To receive your own Micrograph-Viewer free, you need only accept a short four-month trial subscription. Then, you can continue to enjoy THE WONDERS OF LIFE PROGRAM for as long as you wish — or cancel at any time.

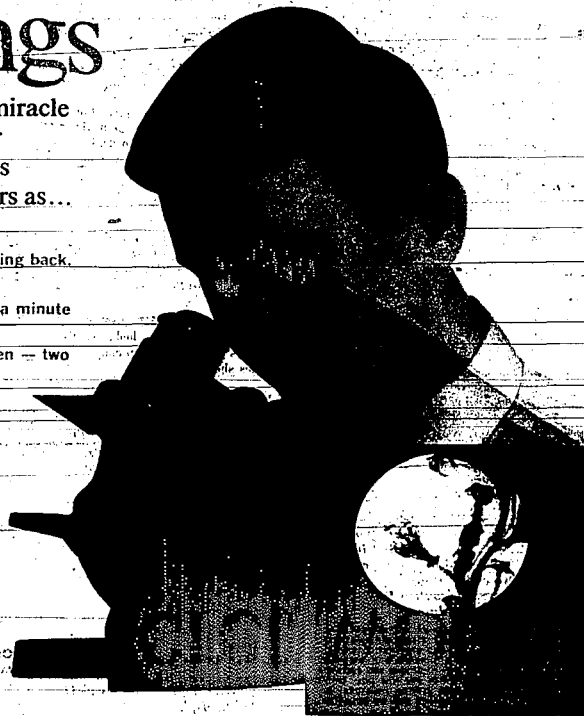

The coupon will bring you the Introductory Set (described at the right) — including your free Micrograph-Viewer — for a 10-day trial examination. If not fully delighted with the Program, merely return the Introductory Set and owe nothing. Otherwise, just pay the low price of $2.95 plus a modest shipping and handling charge.

As a trial member, you will receive each month — at the same low $2.95 price — a new set of 16 full-color Micrographs of specimens to examine in your Viewer, and a 50-page, spiral-bound illustrated Science Folio explaining what you see on the Micrographs.

With each month's shipment, you will cover another aspect of THE WONDERS OF LIFE — such intriguing topics as genetics, evolution, embryology, hormones, the nervous system, plant and animal life, nutrition, disease.

Later on, you will also receive a handsome bookcase file to hold your collection of Science Foliets.

Send no money now to receive your Introductory Set — yours to examine free for 10 days. Just fill out and mail the coupon today.

This revolutionary Micrograph-Viewer is

THE WONDERS OF LIFE PROGRAM

The Micrograph-Viewer is not a microscope. It is a completely new, precision-built teaching instrument equipped with a focusing lens. Just insert the full-color Micrographs sent to you each month, and see enlargements of tiny organisms that even the most powerful school microscopes can't show.

Your Introductory Set also includes:

1. Folio #1 entitled "What Is Life?" — an absorbing 50-page guide through the world of the cell including step-by-step explanations of each Micrograph exhibit.
2. Sixteen fascinating full-color Micrographs with magnifications of up to 200,000 times.
3. Extra magnifying attachment that converts your Viewer into a Macro-Viewer so you can also study actual specimens under magnification.
4. Fun with your Macro-Viewer — a revealing 32-page booklet that adds to your enjoyment and knowledge by showing you how to collect and examine your own specimens of plants, insects, and minerals.

Garden City, N.Y. 11530

Please accept my enrollment in The Wonders of Life Program and send me at once the FREE Micrograph-Viewer and the other exciting materials in this special Introductory Set — as listed in the panel at the left. I will use and examine the materials in my home FREE for 10 days. At the end of that time I will either return the entire Set and owe nothing — or keep everything for only $2.95 plus shipping and handling, under your four-month trial subscription plan. Every month thereafter I will receive a new Wonders of Life Folio together with 16 additional full-color Micrographs at the same low price. I may resign any time after the first four months.

How to Teach Your Child About Money

Has the easy dollar made today's youth financially irresponsible? If it has, there's trouble ahead unless corrected

By ROGER D. KNIGHT, Jr.

Chairman of Denver U.S. National Bank
Chairman of the Foundation for Full Service Banks

"KIDS TODAY don't know the meaning of money. Why, when I was your age, I had to work hard for every penny—and gave most of it to my folks."

Sounds familiar? This lecture on financial responsibility is being repeated by parents to teenagers across the country, in homes both modest and luxurious. One of the most uncomfortable evidences of the generation gap is the difference in attitude toward money in those parents who grew up during the Depression or pre-World War II years and the teens of today's affluent society.

But speeches should be replaced by practical guidelines on sound money management. Here are six helpful ways to teach about money:

1. Allowance: How Much, How Soon? As soon as your child understands what money is for, he should have an allowance to spend as he chooses. And remember that at an early age, 10 pennies seem more grand than a dime.

Allowance also should be an educational tool. If the child spends it all on what you consider bad judgment, such as candy and comic books, remember he is learning something—when the money's gone, it's gone.

As your child grows older, the allowance should grow bigger. A 12- or 13-year-old, for example, has a sense of financial foresight—if the wise parent has helped it along. Allowance now should cover a good deal of the teen's daily expenses—the amount being as much as he shows responsibility in handling. (This will be a lifetime lesson—living within one's means.)

Ideally, allowance could cover transportation to school, lunches, and school supplies—plus enough extra to budget for pleasure and saving. Parents might compare notes around the neighborhood to determine a "reasonable amount."

Other factors to consider are your family income, financial obligations of the home and other children, whether the youngster has income from part-time jobs, and whether he is saving for further education.

Emotional money hang-ups can be formed during these pre-teen years depending on how much you have helped your child's ability to handle money. Compulsive savers, for instance, live in fear of the future. In an inflationary economy, your child should be taught that it's almost impossible to save up enough to cover all possible major disasters—and not really necessary. Saving, ideally, should be for something—but not hoarding.

Compulsive spenders, on the other hand, believe that material things will change him or his life. Here, parents must examine their own attitudes and try not to imbue money with any characteristics other than as a medium of exchange.

2. Saving, Spending, Credit The 13-year-old child is familiar with the idea—if not the habit—of saving. To make it meaningful to him, he should have his own savings account, learn to read a bankbook, and get in the habit of regular saving. By the time he's thinking of a major purchase such as a car or helping to finance his education, he probably will want to work after school and add to his savings account.

Buying the first car provides an opportunity for the adolescent to learn about adult financial arrangements and the fact that big-budget items are seldom saved for totally. Why not let him accompany Dad to the bank to arrange a car loan?

He will see the importance of a good reputation for financial responsibility. He will see that the well-managed family budget allows for repaying the loan and also for saving for college, vacations, investing, and that taking out a bank loan doesn't necessarily mean the borrower is in desperate straits.

3. Learning to Become a Good Shopper The wise parents will not criticize too much if their daughter "wastes" all her baby-sitting income on the latest fashion fad or records. Learning money management isn't a matter of keeping parents satisfied with each expenditure. A girl who will be in charge of her own household budget some day needs time to learn by trial and error.

A practical lesson is to hand her a $10 bill and a shopping list—and let her do the marketing by herself. She'll learn the value of money fast when she sees how little $10 buys.

4. Keeping Records One of the quickest ways to learn sound money management is learning to keep records of income and expenditure. A marvelous grown-up present for the responsible high schooler would be a checking account of his own. When clothing allowance is deposited and purchases paid for by check, the idea of budgeting will soon become clear.

5. Whose Money is It? It is estimated that two-fifths of the quarrels between adolescents and their parents involve earned money—in these areas in particular: are parents justified in appropriating all or some of the earnings of minor children (they have a legal right, but do they have a moral one?); should parents demand that children save at least part of all that is earned?

While each individual family will have its own approaches and answers, the current general practice seems to be for young people to spend their own earnings with some guidance from parents. The child who has demonstrated his responsibility usually gets even more freedom. Even Nursing homes can be pleasant such as at New York's Isabella Geriatric Center.

A NEW JERSEY couple recently had to face one of life's most agonizing decisions—what to do with the old folks.

Rather than commit the husband's aging parents to one of America's nearly 80,000 "nursing homes" (the grandfather, an invalid, was confined to a wheel chair), they chose to build an extra room on their home. They did it out of love but also self-interest: The daughter-in-law feels it will benefit their six children to see older people properly cared for, as well as help make their grandparents' declining years truly golden.

The arrangements, next biggest plus is financial—and not just because the Matsons (as we shall call them) did as much of the work as they could themselves. While construction, utilities, decoration, and furnishing took an outlay of more than $8,000 ($4,000 of it on a five-year loan from the bank), the resulting improvement in the young people's residence represented roughly half the cost of a single year for the elderly couple (about $15,000) in a better-type nursing home. Obviously, the old couple's Social Security couldn't cover that sum.

Not every family with the same problem has a home to expand in like that or can assume the added financial burden while struggling in an era of rising costs. Often there is sheer physical inability to cope with the needs of an aged person that call for professional skills, or there are psychological obstacles which would preclude such a step. The only answer then is a nursing home—with its continuing financial strain.

Some 19 million Americans are now 65 or older, with six million of them past 75. Yet only about 800,000, four percent, with women outnumbering men nearly two to one—live in institutions, mainly "nursing homes" of one kind or another.

The main reason more elderly people who require nursing care are not in "nursing homes" is that they or their families cannot afford the minimum $450 to the more usual $800-and-up a month per individual charged by better nursing homes (those with the resources to treat venerable guests like human beings). Religious and fraternal homes (eight percent of the national total) and those operated by the Government (five percent) do a comparably good

NATIONAL SCANDAL:

The Truth

What do we do with aging parents? More job, but together they have only 30 percent of the nation's nursing-home bed capacity and are hard to get into.

By JAMES C. G. CONNIFF

More than 13,500 state-licensed, profit-making nursing homes (87 percent of the total), with some 600,000 beds, account for this mushrooming industry's $2 billion annual gross. A measure of how profitable nursing homes can be as an investment is the way the stock of one national chain rose 300 percent in six months.

Then, too, even licensed nursing homes have a built-in buffer against failure. Sen. Frank E. Moss of Utah, at a recent Senate subcommittee hearing on the aging, noted that while two-thirds of a certain state's nursing homes were in violation of the law, they were granted an endless number of "grace" periods to make corrections. The reason being that if the homes were closed for violations, where would the old people go? Former President Johnson estimated that the American taxpayer also contributed some $1.2 billion to the homes as a Medicare-guaranteed subsidy via patients on welfare—and 90 percent of nursing homes accept such patients!

Despite their flaws, better-grade nursing homes at least try to ease the shock of sudden transition from a lifetime's familiar surroundings and memories to a potentially alien environment.

They do this with scientifically worked-out color schemes in bedrooms and therapy wings, tasteful and varied plantings in foyers and recreation areas, well-chosen paintings that are replaced from time to time in rooms and hallways, menus painstakingly designed to appeal to the jaded appetite and vanishing taste buds of the aged—and even cocktail hours.

They offer ready access to pleasant outdoor vistas, stress daily exercise, and gently urge those who are not bedridden to be up and about and well-groomed; and, if possible, to go on theater and shopping trips.

Above all, they provide individualized medical and personal care to show, each day, how much the homes' well-trained staff members—and their Volunteer Service Corps and Teen Volunteer Corps Assistants—really care.

But what about the homes that don't try? Informed people rightly refuse to do business with these marginal firetraps.

"Homes" of this stamp not only do not retain the services of a registered nurse but pay substandard hourly wages to personnel with little or no training. If you're lucky, that means local motherly types supplementing a family income, who at least care about patients as people. If you're unlucky, it could mean autistic drifters unemployable elsewhere, who couldn't care less.

This profit-hungry "anteroom to the mortuary" kind of establishment has been found by both Federal and state investigators to spend less than a dollar a day per patient on food. They serve such unappetizing, non-nourishing starch and filler-type foods as rice, bread, oatmeal—for people whose age-dimmed appetites need imaginative menus and whose and more families are facing this question—and learning the answer is cruel both to young and old.

weakened bodies crave nutrition.

The American Nursing Home Association points out that almost half the patients in nursing homes "need assistance in walking, and one in four reportedly cannot walk at all." Yet substandard nursing homes don't bother to mount the more arduous (and more expensive) regimen of regular exercise and recreation that helps restore health and prolong life for the aged patient. They actually make more money by keeping a guest immobilized because Medicare pays a premium for bedridden patients.

In the long, lonely hours when no one from the family can be there to prevent it, the unscrupulous operator of such homes has been known to employ "break-the-spirit" psychological measures to control helpless old folks. Fear of having the buzzer quietly put out of reach at bedtime, for instance, is one technique used to make aging patients toe the line. The elderly may not even tell their children about such tactics, fearing worse reprisals.

Another cruelty is the free use of tranquilizers and narcotics to keep restless patients fuzzy-minded, and hence, more "forgetful" than ever. Nothing could be more ironic than the indiscriminate administration of such drugs in this type of institution, known to bill for needed medications which the patients never get.

By 1970, new Federal regulations will require much higher standards of all types of "homes" that receive Medicare funds—nursing, extended care, convalescent, and intermediate care (beyond room and board but below skilled nursing-home level). These standards will cover such key areas as the services of a trained dietitian (supposedly mandatory even now), tighter control of drugs and medications, and more conscientious keeping of patients' medical records.

There will also be more rigid insistence on fire safety and other anti-accident measures, such as skidproof floors, handrails in corridors, and handgrips and emergency buzzers in bathrooms. Through proximity to a hospital as well as by other means (a physician on duty or on call), there will be greater emphasis on the availability of medical aid in an emergency.

Unfortunately, the one thing there as Family Service or the local health department.

It is not unethical for a practicing physician to have an interest in a nursing home; incidentally, but that inspecting the premises and talking everything out at length, is asking for trouble. So is the person who enters into any lump-sum "life-contract" agreement with a nursing home. Making the home the beneficiary of a patient's estate in return for care "as long as he lives" is a risky business, obviously, and should never be undertaken without the approval of an experienced attorney.

Not everything a nursing home does that looks unkind is actually so. The young couple who built the one-room addition on their home, for example, were appalled to learn, at the nursing homes they visited, that the elderly parents might, or might not, be allowed to room together. They were shocked to think that a husband and wife could be thus callously separated after 56 years.

But now they know, from experience, that the nursing homes often do this wisely because a wife will do little things for an ailing husband that he should be made to do for himself in the interests of his own rehabilitation. When Grandma's away on a visit, they themselves force Grandpa to take over in little ways. It is doing him a lot of good. Crippled as he is, he can make his bed.

Some things should be remedied, of course, and it is up to lawmakers, not nursing homes, to take action. Our tax laws, for instance, permit whoever pays the freight on a nursing-home patient to deduct 100 percent of the cost if the patient is bedridden; but only 40 percent if he is able to get around.

One of the surest ways to make a sick person sicker and kill an elderly ailing patient who does not have to be in bed, is to keep him there, but this tragic proviso encourages us to do so.

Until some semblance of sanity reasserts itself in human affairs, clip and take with you the accompanying list of things to question when you shop for a nursing home—or, if what you find discourages you for economic or other reasons, see your friendly banker about a construction loan for your house. ♦

What to Look for in Choosing a Nursing Home.

- Do most of the patients seem reasonably happy? (Talk to some.)
- Does the staff seem capable and friendly with the patients and personally content? (Ask casually how long those you meet have been there; low turnover rate can be a good sign.)
- Are medical charts available for inspection and kept up to date?
- Are the professional credentials of the home and its staff on display? (If not, be sure to ask to see both.)
- Do all rooms open on a hallway without disturbing others?
- Does each bed and bathroom have a buzzer system that works?
- Is the home odor-free?
- Are hallways wide (eight feet minimum), uncluttered, and securely handrailed on both sides?
- Are rooms cheerful and big enough (rule of thumb: minimum 85 square feet per bed), with good lighting and adequate closet space?
- Is there a homelike community room with cheerful décor and facilities such as a large TV that works? A well-planned recreation program?
- Is the home well-located for the patient's own interests (country, suburban, near or far from shops, transport)?
- What arrangements are there for physical therapy, medications, dental care—and what records are kept of treatment rendered?
- What does daily or monthly charge cover? What will be extra? Have all financial understandings in writing.
- What is the home's policy for Medicare patients? Get it in writing, then see that your relative has a room like the one you are invited to inspect.
- Is the food appetizing, nutritionally balanced, varied (ask to see a week's menu), in sufficient quantity? How do they handle special diets? Ask to see the kitchen—and then drop in unannounced at lunchtime and ask to sample the meal.
- Is there a sprinkler system? Be sure to see it on ceilings throughout the home. Check the fire-department certification that it works.

will not be its some added means of enforcing this wholesome regulatory effort to upgrade all nursing-home facilities throughout the nation—that task falls to the already overworked state agencies.

Probably no one in a given community is likely to know more about the varying qualifications of nursing homes there than your family doctor, so his guidance is the first you should seek if the problem arises. He alone is qualified to determine whether entering a nursing home in the right move. Those lacking a family doctor may turn for help to such agencies does not necessarily involve him as a physician beyond the ordinary concern any owner-citizen should have for its proper administration by the resident staff.

What it does do is give him access to inside knowledge about such a home and that can be helpful to him in directing patients in need of advice. Some nursing homes discreetly exploit a doctor's referral of patients and advertise themselves as "physician-approved."

Anyone who would choose a nursing home on the strength of such an advertisement, without carefully

Knit Buffs Say— Cable It!

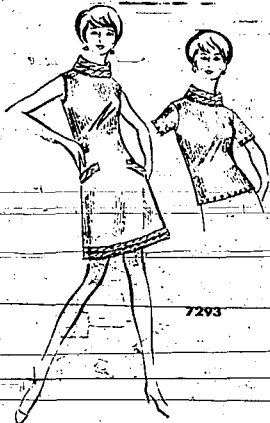

By ROSALYN ABREV

The motion currently before the fashion establishment is cable it—a knit wardrobe, that is!

We do it here, deftly utilizing the easy-to-knit cable stitch as a beautiful design motif rather than in an over-all pattern.

Using the cable indiscriminately, we've designed three interchangeable outfits—a stunning suit, a body-tapering sheath (from which you can also make a shell top), and a jaunty cape.

You can knit all these at home, and breeze into spring with a collection of new outfits, by simply ordering from the coupon below. ♦

It's still the SAME Catholic Church!

It may not seem so, with all the changes made in recent years.

Changes, for example, in the language, music and ceremonies of the Mass! In some regulations and devotions! In certain institutions' structures! In the role of the laity... the garb of religious... the emphasis on social concerns... the new communion with other Christian church bodies.

Christians of our time, of course, have never witnessed changes in the Church which seem so revolutionary! And some may wonder if the winds and waves of renewal and reform that sweep against "the rock of Peter" may not have changed the very nature of the ancient Church.

Actually, however... in its doctrines and the essentials of the Faith... the Church has not changed at all. It is still the custodian of the full deposit of Christian truth... still the divinely-instituted channel of sacramental grace... still the same Catholic Church!

What's happening in the Church today is not a revolution, but another milestone in the evolution and maturing of Christianity to meet the ever-changing spiritual needs of mankind. We call it "The Christian Pilgrimage" and we've just published a pocket-size pamphlet under that title which we are sure you will find highly interesting and enlightening. It's free—and we invite your request for a copy.

This easy-to-read pamphlet gives you a graphic picture of Christianity in its often-turbulent evolution through eight critical ages in its history... the Age of Witness to Christ, Age of Missionaries, Age of Reformers, Age of Teachers, Age of Critics, Age of Catholic Defenders, Age of Rationalism, and the still unfinished era of Liberalism!

We're sure you will enjoy reading "The Christian Pilgrimage" and you are welcome to a copy free without obligation. Write today—ask for Pamphlet EM-29. We'll send it promptly... nobody will call on you.

The Wonderful Ways of Ham

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

Today's ham is a convenience item ranking high in its appeal to homemakers for providing variety at all meals. Hams are available bone-in, semi-boneless and boneless, whole, half or as pieces, as fully cooked or cook-before-eating types. The versatility of ham is apparent in these interesting recipes, especially appropriate during the Easter season.

Flavor-Glazed Baked Ham

Ham (see chart for baking ham in foil)
Flavor Blends (see recipes)
Cloves
Sauces (see recipes)

Arrange a large sheet of heavy-duty aluminum foil in a shallow large roasting pan and place the ham in center.

Pour one-half the amount of one of the Flavor Blends described below over ham and brush it in. Bring foil up, covering ham loosely. Bake according to timetable for ham in aluminum foil.

About 30 min. before baking is finished, open and turn back foil. Spoon out melted fat; remove rind (skin), if any. Score ham in diamond pattern.

Stud with cloves. Pour remaining Flavor Blend over. Insert meat thermometer and continue baking with foil open, basting with drippings, until browned.

Slip an aluminum-foil grill on bone end of ham after transferring ham to serving platter. Accompany with the fruit or wine sauce.

Flavor Blends for Foil-Baked

Whole Ham

Orange: Combine one-half of a 6-oz. can frozen orange juice concentrate, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup bottled steak sauce.

Pineapple: Combine ¼ cup pineapple juice with 1 cup brown sugar. Decorate ham with pineapple slices.

Sherry or Madeira: Pour 1 cup of the wine over ham before baking. To brown and glaze, sprinkle lightly with brown sugar and baste with additional cup of wine.

Sauces to Accompany Ham

Orange: Blend remaining concentrate with 1 cup fruit juice or water.

Pineapple: Use 1 cup unweetened pineapple juice.

Wine: Use 1 cup water. Stir in any one of the above liquids, blending with the juices and drippings in pan. To thicken, add a mixture of cornstarch and liquid (about 1-tablespoon-per-cup-of-liquid). Bring to boiling, stirring constantly, and cook 1 to 2 min.

Ham 'n' Onion Turnovers

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 cup finely chopped cooked ham
1-tablespoon sweet-pickles or relish
1-tablespoon prepared mustard
1 pkg. (8 oz.) refrigerated crescent rolls
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
Sesame or caraway seeds

Heat butter or margarine in a small skillet; add onion and cook until onion is soft and golden, about 5 min., stirring occasionally.

Blend onion, ham, pickle relish, and mustard together.

Open pkg. of rolls and separate dough into triangles. Spoon ham mixture equally onto four of the triangles. Spread to within ¼ in. of the edges. Top with remaining triangles and seal edges with a fork. Place on a baking sheet.

Brush tops lightly with egg yolk and top with seeds.

Bake at 375° F. about 13 min. or until golden brown. Serve immediately. 4 servings

Ham Steak Oriental

¼ cup chili sauce
¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup lemon juice
Cooked smoked ham slice

1 in. thick (about 1½ lbs.)
1 green pepper, seeded and cut into 1-in. squares
1 banana, sliced diagonally into 1-in. pieces

Mix first four ingredients together in a bowl.

Place ham slice in a shallow baking dish and pour soy mixture over it. Allow to stand at room temperature about 1 hr., spooning the sauce over ham occasionally.

Top ham slice with green pepper squares and spoon the sauce evenly over all.

Heat in a 325° F. oven about 25 min., basting occasionally. Add banana chunks and baste again. Bake 5 min. longer.

Remove ham from dish and cut into serving-sized portions. Serve topped with green pepper, banana, and sauce. 4 servings

Note: If desired, cut cooked ham in 2½-in. strips; allow to stand in soy mixture 1 hr. Turn into a large skillet with green pepper; heat thoroughly. Mix in banana; cook until slightly soft. Serve with saffron-seasoned rice.

Roast Buffet Ham with Apricot Glaze

8 oz. dried apricots, cut in pieces

½ cup apple cider
6 tablespoons light brown sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground allspice
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
Canned ham (about 3 lbs.), sliced and tied

Pour cider over apricots in a bowl; cover tightly and refrigerate overnight.

Purée apricot mixture in an electric blender or force through a food-mill. Stir in a mixture of the brown sugar and spices.

Remove excess gelled substance from the ham. Set ham in a shallow roasting pan and spread generously with the apricot mixture.

Heat in a 325° F. oven about 1 hr. 15 min. or length of time recommended by the packer.

Transfer ham to a serving platter. Cut and carefully remove cord. Decorate top, if desired. Surround ham with watercress or parsley.

Heat remaining sauce and serve as an accompaniment to the ham.

About 8 servings

Note: Ham and sauce may be refrigerated after baking and served cold with a hot vegetable medley.

Individual Ham Loaves

1 lb. cooked ham, ground
1 lb. pork sausage meat
1 cup raisin bran flakes
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Dark corn syrup

Combine all ingredients in a large bowl; mix lightly with a fork until blended. Divide into six portions and shape into individual loaves.

Place in a shallow baking pan in a 350° F. oven 25 to 30 min. Brush with the corn syrup during baking.

6 servings

It is almost like a miracle. You can actually lose flab around stomach, thighs, waist, hips, neck, face and not move out of your seat. Unbelievable? New scientific tests show that you get faster and better results from Isometrics, the new method of exercise. Another astounding fact about Isometrics is that you do each exercise only 6 seconds a day. No special equipment is required, or trips to gyms.

DESIGNED BY EXPERTS

The series of exercises in Isometrics — The Static Way to Physical Fitness were prepared under the supervision of Victor F. Ubeck, Professor of Physical Education and Director, Division of Athletics, New York University and Isadore Rossman, M.D., Medical Director, Department of Home Care and Extended Services, Montefiore Hospital, New York.

HOW-TO-PHOTOGRAPHS

Every page is fully illustrated with photographs showing exactly how to perform the Isometrics and how to get the best and fastest results.

A MUST FOR DIETERS

You will still need Isometrics even if you have decided to reduce solely by dieting. Because when the fat is gone there will remain layers and layers of loose, flabby, unattractive skin that had been stretched out by the fat. Miracle Isometrics tightens and restores the firmness to the skin and eliminates the undesired flabbiness. Isometrics does it in only 6 seconds a day. Convince yourself. SCIENCE ASKS:

How Good Is Your Sense of Humor?

IF YOU'RE an average American, the odds are that you pride yourself on your sense of humor.

Well, science has been studying what makes people laugh and why — so here's your chance to match wits with the psychology experts. Answer each of the following questions true or false.

1. Men have a better sense of humor than women.
2. People who are the easiest to make laugh have the best sense of humor.
3. Creativity accompanies a well-developed sense of humor.
4. People who prefer humor based on aggression, derision, or threat are apt to be meek, mild, and unassuming.
5. People who prefer wild, far-out humor tend to be wild and far-out themselves.
6. People who prefer a mild, unaggressive brand of humor tend to be mild and unaggressive, too.
7. People who prefer humor based on sex are likely to have strong personality conflicts.
8. Most people find people jokes funniest.
9. Most people have a well-developed sense of humor.
10. It is dangerous to joke about your fears.

keen and sharp — score much higher on creativity tests!

4. False. Psychological studies at Ohio State University have shown that people who prefer aggressive, derisive humor tend to be strong-minded, outgoing, and self-assertive.

5. False. The same study showed that people who preferred wild humor tended to be the most discriminating in their tastes, able to make delicate and subtle distinctions, and had a highly developed sense of awareness.

6. True. University investigators found that the people who preferred mild humor did tend to have mild and unaggressive personalities. Tests showed them to be easy to get along with and sometimes inclined to let people take advantage of them.

7. False. Studies showed that persons who preferred actually oriented humor were practical-minded and down to earth, socially well-adjusted, with a capacity for making friends easily.

8. True. University of Illinois studies have shown that shock plays an important role in humor response for the majority of people. And since risqué jokes have the biggest shock element, the racy story is likely to have the greatest impact.

9. False. Studies at leading universities show that most people overrate their sense of humor. In one survey, for instance, reactions of hundreds of students were tested on selected jokes. Though none of the jokes was the least bit complicated, no one got the point of all of them.

10. False. Psychologists agree that if you can find a way to laugh at your fears and phobias, you're on your way to coping with them. Whatever your fears are, they aren't likely to get you down if you can laugh at them.

—JOHN E. GIBSON

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies at Wesleyan University have shown that women have a better appreciation of humor in general, a more discriminating sense of humor, and are better judges of what is funny.
2. False. Psychological studies show that the man who appears to be the easiest to amuse is not apt to have an especially keen sense of humor. He is, in fact, trying to conceal that deficiency.
3. True. Air Force sponsored studies reveal that people who are witty — whose sense of humor is

Riddle Me This: It goes into

Teaching Children About Money

in lower income brackets, most parents try not to appropriate the entire earnings of a minor child, although they encourage him to take increasing responsibility for more of his own needs, if not those of the household.

One young adult, for instance, still carries bitter memories of the way, his self-made, wealthy father made him "pay" one-third to one-half of every purchase for pleasure, whether a bicycle or a desk for his bedroom—with the philosophy that he would "appreciate" it more. Later the bicycle was sold, and the small desk was turned into a telephone stand—with none of the child's "investment" ever returned to him.

6. Money Talks: When the family is in a serious financial bind, parents would be wise to talk it over calmly with their teen-agers. If there are heavy expenses such as a new home, a setback in employment, or an expensive illness, explaining why money will be tight for a while is likely to provide a feeling of the security of family solidarity and trust.

It is a valuable experience for youngsters to observe that adults have to make choices, such as giving up a new winter coat because major dentistry is required or vacation at home in order to pay for a new furnace. They'll learn that a financial setback is not the end of the world.

In fact, today's children are the brightest ever, and your own child may come up with valuable ideas on revamping a budget that the older generation has not even considered.

The American teen-ager is affluent, many have after-school jobs, others rising allowances. But all that money becomes so much waste paper unless the youth learns to use it wisely. ♦

Other Ways to Help Your Child Grow Up

Look at those thighs! I wonder now how I had the courage to wear shorts at 195 pounds.

At 121 pounds, I'm able to fit into clothes, chairs and bathtubs—with no squeeze.

I barely fit into my bathtub, until I lost 74 pounds

By Jean Hunter—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

I'm not kidding. I was a tub trying to fit into a tub. 195 pounds! When I think of it now, it's a wonder our trailer wasn't flooded daily.

You see, my family and I live in a mobile home in Marietta, Georgia. And you can't imagine what a squeeze that can be unless you've been fat and tried to move around a compact trailer. Especially when your husband weighs over 200 pounds himself. Each time we tried to pass, one of us had to back up, or step aside.

My weight problem was nothing new to me. I was twelve pounds at birth, and by the time I'd reached eighth grade, I'd eaten myself up to 180 pounds. Mashed potatoes, fried chicken, candy cake, pies—I loved them all.

I'll never forget going to a swim party when I was in high school. One of the boys yelled, "Hey, Jeannie, you look like an elephant in a mouse suit." I wanted to die.

After graduation, I took up practical nursing. While in training the doctors all went to work on me to reduce. They even prescribed reducing pills, but these only set me on my ear. I was a nervous wreck most of the time. And as soon as I'd lose fifteen pounds, I'd weaken and eat double what I did before.

Was my life dull? No dates. No shape. No fun. Only food. I finally decided to join the Navy and see the world. But it was easier said than done. The fact was I was too fat. I needed to lose at least 40 pounds. I'd tried all sorts of diets, liquids, pills and willpower. What was I to try next? A crazy crash-diet of baloney and dry bread. I ate this for breakfast, lunch and dinner, day after day, until I lost enough pounds to be accepted.

Soon after boot camp, however, I began to gain again. But I had a whole year before my next physical, so I didn't care.

Fortunately, I married and left the Navy before the problem presented itself. But my poor husband! He got me on the slim side but wound up with quite an armful. Particularly after our two lovely daughters were born. They're just a year apart, and believe me, there was a lot of fat in between. My clothes looked like battleship covers. And my stockings were the biggest I could buy. You see, my thighs were tremendous. And just walking caused such chafing, I continually had blisters on the inside of my legs.

At 195 pounds, I not only was ashamed of myself, but ashamed for my husband. But what was I to do?

The radio gave me the answer. I had heard Arthur Godfrey talking about a reducing-plain candy made to help you curb your appetite. It was called Ayds and it contained vitamins and minerals. No harmful drugs. Somehow it sounded right for me, especially when he said eating Ayds was like eating candy before meals: It spoiled your appetite.

Next time I went to the drugstore, I bought a box of the chewy vanilla caramel Ayds. Later, I tried both the fudgy chocolate-mint kind and the plain chocolate fudge type.

Well, I started taking one or two Ayds as directed, with a hot drink, three times a day. And it really helped me to eat less. Why? I was able to cut out most of the bread I used to stuff on. And I even passed up desserts without feeling sorry for myself.

I followed the Ayds Plan one whole winter. Ten pounds came off. Twenty. Thirty. Each month, I took my dresses in more and more, until seam met seam.

In the spring, when I began hanging out my wash, without a coat on, my neighbors hardly knew me. By then, I had lost close to 60 pounds.

My sister, who'd always been much slimmer than I, now was the heavier one. In fact, when she asked me to be her matron of honor at her wedding, Mother had to cut her gown bigger and mine smaller.

When I'd finally reached the weight I wanted, I'd not only lost 74 pounds of ugly fat, but also the blisters on my legs. And that was the most wonderful feeling of all.

Recently, I tried on a pair of my big, old shorts. And it's no baloney when I say, thanks to the Ayds Plan, the leg band now fits around my waist.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

A couple was traveling across the country looking for a pleasant, inexpensive place to spend their retirement years. They came upon a small community in the mountains and stopped to talk to the owner of a gas station. "The air seems very invigorating here," they commented for an opener.

"That's right," the proprietor agreed. "The air here is something magic. Why, when I came here, I didn't have the strength to get out of bed, and I couldn't even feed myself. I didn't have any teeth. No hair, either. I just cried all the time."

"You certainly look the picture of health now. Was that?"

"Oh, I reckon about 40 years ago—when I was a baby."

—Stephanie van Esse

"If I looked like my passport photo, I wouldn't be able to make the trip."

—Gertrude Pierson

A teen-age girl received a $50 check as a birthday gift from her doting grandfather. Her father immediately advised her to put it into a savings account. "It will draw interest this way," he counseled her. "Yes, Daddy," replied the girl. "But if I use it to buy some new clothes, just think of all the interest I'll draw."

—Franklin P. Jones

For one of her first dinners, a young bride served a clove-studded baked ham with the ends cut off. When her husband asked the reason for the cut ends, she explained. "Well, that's the way Mother always did it."

The next time his mother-in-law came over, he inquired about the cut ends, and she said, "Why? Because that's the way my mother always did it."

When Grandma arrived for dinner one Sunday, she, too, was asked whether she sliced the ends off the ham. "Certainly," she said, "that's the only way I could get it in the pan."

MENTORS FOR MODERNS TO TRAIN AS CLAIMS ADJUSTERS

Three recent I.A.S. Graduates found new careers in the exciting, challenging and well paying field of Insurance Claim Adjusting.

JOHN P. TROMBA, of Torrington, Connecticut, enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1957 and as a Staff Sergeant in 1966 he attended Officer Candidate School, while stationed at Ft. Bliss, Texas. Capt. John Tromba began his I.A.S. training and upon the expiration of his term of military service, John accepted a position as a claims adjuster with the U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Insurance Company in California.

In spite of a very busy work schedule, "CURT" COLLINS of Detroit, Michigan, took time out to write to I.A.S. expressing his appreciation for his training and the job placement assistance which was afforded in an interesting, challenging and well paying job with "Triple A".

Shortly after finishing high school in Indiana, LOWELL D. WILSON enlisted in the U.S. Air Force. Seven years later he decided to return to civilian life and began his I.A.S. training, thanks to "Project Transition." After completing the program, he accepted a position as claim adjuster with Employers Mutual Insurance Company, in addition to interesting work at a very attractive salary. I drive a new company car and receive free life and health insurance.

Insurance adjusters and investigators are badly needed due to the tremendous increase in claims resulting from automobile accidents, fires, burglaries, riots, storms and industrial accidents. Over 50 million dollars worth of claims paid each day. Top money can be earned in this exciting, fast moving field. Full pay part time. Work at your present job and train at home, then attend training for two weeks at MIAMI BEACH, FLORIDA or LAS VEGAS, NEVADA. Excellent employment assistance. For details without obligation, fill out coupon and mail today.

If you want to STOP SMOKING

Here's How! by At-Tyrl

Known as the "smoker's" of high caliber, At-Tyrl (Thomas) will help you stop smoking. At-Tyrl is a member of the American Chemical, Alcoholic and United American Companies (A.C.A.U.C.).

Believe me, I took water eating and smoking but don't go together—not if you want to stay on top. Having been the champion "hooker" since for twenty years, I couldn't afford to get hooked on the habit. I remembered reading about At-Tyrl and started using it. Thanks to Bantron, I stopped smoking completely in 5 days. It didn't hurt my stomach, food or anything else. I haven't smoked in a year and a half.

I've learned the clinical evidence has established that Bantron is more than 90% effective in helping chronic chain smokers give up smoking completely! Extensive research work at a great American University has shown that 4 out of 5 people who had a desire to stop smoking were able to do so within one week with the help of Bantron. Even those who didn't stop completely cut down drastically.

And the Bantron way is so easy and pleasant! Bantron does not affect your taste, or mouth forming. It acts as a substitute for the nicotine in your system, curbs your desire for tobacco. Try Bantron. You will be amazed at the results you get. It's so safe when taken so directed that you can get all drug stores without a prescription. It's a 100% guaranteed product.

The Three Loves of Peter O'Toole

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

Peter starred with 1968 Oscar winner Katharine Hepburn in "The Lion in Winter."

WHEN Peter O'Toole finished "The Lion in Winter" last year, many movie insiders were convinced he would win an Academy Award nomination. So the first thing he did was cancel all interviews.

This was unusual behavior for a sure-shot Oscar candidate since one would expect Peter to seek publicity actively. But Peter has been stung twice before, winning nominations for "Lawrence of Arabia" and "Becket," only to lose out on Oscar night. In both cases, he may have been the victim of an overly ambitious publicity campaign. And as a result, Peter has developed a contempt for reporters.

Being publicity-shy has given Peter an erogenous public image—he appears to be (and, on the set, actually is) a sarcastic, short-tempered star. But the real O'Toole is a friendly family man.

In fact, he can be a downright sentimentalist, especially when you get him talking about his favorite subjects: his three great loves: Ireland (he was born in Connemara 35 years ago), his wife and children, and his father.

Although he rarely appears in public with his wife, according to a mutual friend, Peter has an ideal marriage (to Welsh actress Sian Phillips). "He knows Sian is there whenever he needs her, and that's a gift that the only real security he has. It is a well-adjusted union."

Peter's concern for his family is evident in many ways. He has a fatherly pride in his two daughters, Kate and Pat, but there is more than just that. When Peter was starring in the stage version of "Becket" in London some years ago, for example, Sian was giving birth to Pat in Dublin. After every performance, Peter would fly to Dublin to be at his wife's side for the night. Next morning, he'd fly back to London. Asked why he didn't bring his wife to London to have the baby, Peter snapped, "Because I was born there, and I want my children born there."

Peter credits much of what he is today to his father. "We never had very much, sometimes not even enough to eat. If it came to that, starving, I mean, he was willing to steal to feed us. I learned a lot about tenacity from him."

Peter also inherited two other things from his father—a fine Irish temper and sound judgment. The temper has earned him a broken nose, broken ribs, and a few sessions in jail. And the judgment has stood him in good stead. "He taught me about horses and racing conditions." Peter is an adept handicapper.

Although he makes $750,000 a picture now, Peter doesn't rely on an agent for his roles. He reads every single script himself, then makes his own decision. "I was raised with the philosophy that my life was my own," Peter says. "And that I shouldn't have to rely on anyone else, although I must admit that, whenever I needed him, my father always helped out, even when he couldn't afford it."

Peter became an actor by a rather devious route: At one time or another, during his early years, he held such jobs as newspaper office boy, union demonstrator, ditch digger, and seaman, and in one year had 14 different addresses including a houseboat which "sank during a party" and a park bench.

A two-year scholarship to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts changed everything for Peter, who is today considered one of the world's finest actors. Yet with all he has going for him, he appears to be a "troubled, unfulfilled individual."

Judging from a statement he made years ago, I'd say security is the answer, security over and above that provided by his wife and children. When he was nominated for an Oscar for "Lawrence of Arabia" in 1962, for instance, Peter immediately took a part in a mediocre play.

"The reasoning was simple," Peter recalls. "If 'Lawrence' flopped, I would be employed. If it was a success, I'd still be working. Either way, I win. You hear about being ruined by success. Well, more people have been ruined by failure. I protected myself."

This year, Peter has no play to keep him "gainfully employed." But this year, somehow, I don't think he needs one. ♦
