Casualties

SAIGON (UPI)—American casualties in South Vietnam totaled 222 dead and 1,285 wounded last week. The U.S. command reported Thursday it was the lowest figure since the start of the Communist winter-spring offensive and an indication of a slow-down in ground fighting. The latest casualty report raised to 35,863 the number of Americans killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, a total 234 greater than the number of U.S. dead in the Korean conflict. A total of 215,484 have been wounded in Vietnam and 1,318 are listed as missing or captured. The casualty report for the week ended April 5 also showed that losses on the government and Communist sides were the lowest in six weeks.

Practice Alert Held By Disaster Teams

Power lines in the area of Washington Street North and Caswell Avenue probably missed a "disaster" Thursday night if they didn't look out their windows. The "disaster" was a plane crash. Forty-two people were hurt; some were killed. At least half a dozen homes were in flames. But it was all a drill. The exercise was a combined Red Cross and Citizens' Band Alert Team test to see how an emergency situation in Twin Falls could be handled. When it was all over last Thursday, officials said the drill went "fairly well" for the first time. A small crop dusting plane—non-existent in the scene of the mock alert. It hit a mock power line and plowed into a row of homes at Washington Street North and Caswell Avenue. Volunteer first aid workers, members of the Checkmates Motorcycle Club, Scouts, Boy Scouts and members of the Citizens' Band Alert Team were notified of the "disaster." They went into action. Power line workers were busy at the scene patching up the victims, all of them scowling. The Citizens' Band people organized communications, coordinating help between the scene and the Red Cross office. The hospital was not called into the exercise, but would be in case of an emergency. Mrs. Irene Basom, director of the Twin Falls Red Cross, said she was relieved from the scene of a disaster to the Red Cross office. "From here we can call the hospital or any other organization that might be able to help. She said cuts, medicine, bandages and more help could be ordered through use of the Citizens' Band Alert Team, a group of people with short wave radio equipment in their cars. Future drills are planned and Mrs. Basom said it appears the efforts will train the team effort to be a major assist in case of a disaster in Twin Falls. "Americans' confident sense of a situation, but we'll be ready," she said.

British Say U.S. Loses World Role

LONDON (UPI)—The United States lost its edge in military strength over Russia in the past year along with the "desire and ability to be the world's policeman," a British Institute said today. The Institute for Strategic Studies predicted the Soviets would overtake the United States in inter-continental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) by mid-1969. But it said the United States would keep its overall lead in nuclear weapons because of its greater submarine and air forces. The institute made its assessment of the relative strengths of the two powers in its latest "strategic survey." The institute is a center for defense and security research, planning intelligence reports from around the world. "It was largely accidental that the end of the American desire and ability to be the universal and dominant power should coincide with the end of eight years of Democrat rule," the survey said. The institute said the United States international role in the 1970s could become the smallest since before World War II. It said there was "an increasing sense that the rewards of American global responsibility were by no means commensurate with the costs. It said recent experiences at home and abroad had exhausted the "American" confident sense of purpose and ability." Because of her upsurge in nuclear strength, the survey said, "The Soviet Union must in terms both of strategic power and of her ability to control conflict in the developing world." The physical strength of both superpowers, however, had not enabled either of them to impose their authority on international events. The survey said the Soviets were diversifying their military forces to acquire the ability to intervene beyond their borders, possibly in support of the new Kremlin doctrine of "limited sovereignty" in Communist bloc countries.

Top Kellwood Job Hopefuls Interviewed

Applicants for personnel manager and maintenance supervisor at the Twin Falls Division of the Kellwood Co. are being interviewed this week by Robert Matthews, plant manager. Thursday, Mr. Matthews interviewed three pre-selected applicants for maintenance supervisor and Friday he was interviewing three pre-selected applicants for personnel manager. It is expected that the two positions will be filled while Mr. Matthews is in Twin Falls. He plans to be here through April 15. About 60 applications for each of the two jobs were received in the labor survey held for Kellwood in March. More than 5,000 applications were received for the Kellwood job. 'New' Landing Site Planned Apollo 12 Astronauts Named

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Three Navy astronauts, including the second American man landing mission planned for Apollo 12, were named Thursday. The "Pete" Conrad will command Apollo 12, accompanied by Richard F. Gordon and Alan Bean. Gordon is a veteran of one previous flight with Conrad and Bean is a rookie. April 11, the first planned landing mission, is scheduled for launch in mid-July and Apollo 12 could blast off as early as Nov. 10. Starting with Conrad's mission, informed sources said, the pace of Apollo spacecrafts will be slowed to every four to six months under new space agency orders. Originally flight was scheduled two months apart. The new schedule applies to at least four and possibly nine moon missions. Apollo 11 will be the last flight under the old schedule. It will be flown by astronauts Neil Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin. The official announcement of the Apollo 12 crew selection was scheduled sometime between November and January. "Four months after the Apollo 12 mission," the space agency selected the crew. "David Scott, 38; Alfred M. Worden, 37; and James B. Irwin, 38—all Air Force officers—to back up the command crew for Apollo 12."

Suspect Queried In Van Auker Case

PITTSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Authorities in Chatham County have sent a yellow hat to the FBI Crime Laboratory for examination as a possible clue in the slaying of a local industrial contractor April 2. Sheriff C.A. Simmons also said that a person has been detained for questioning but no charges have been brought against him. The yellow hat, which was described as a rain hat, was found near the body of Robert W. Van Auker when he was found dead outside his "Siler" City motel near Van Hookers in Siler City visiting a local industrial firm with four other Idaho men. An autopsy revealed he died from a bullet wound in the chest. The hat fits the description of a hat worn by one of two bandits who held up a gas station north of Sanford the night of April 1. Two Negro men are being sought in the robbery.

Israelis Discount Arab Peace Offer

By United Press International King Hussein's six-point Middle East peace plan was a "smoke screen that does not represent a genuine wish for peace with Israel." The statement once more emphasized the role of the Big Four powers in seeking a solution. The Jordanian king outlined his offer Thursday in a speech to the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. For the first time he offered a public pledge to allow Israel to use the Suez Canal, and in reply to questions he said he recognized that "the situation is there and there to stay." Although some of the points had been made before in a United Nations Security Council resolution, offers which he said had the approval of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser—came at a time of mounting Arab attention focused on the efforts of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union to find a diplomatic solution. "Diplomatic sources disclosed today the Big Four had set up a special working group to discuss events between their weekly ambassadorial sessions. "Mohamed-Hassanein-Halim, editor of the Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram, wrote in a column of confidence, the country's forces "should inflict an indisputable military defeat on the Israeli army in one military battle—just one."

Assistant Is Named For T. F. Renewal

The Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency has retained Evan Kelsch as its new assistant director, according to Jim Kelsch, director. Mr. Robertson is currently a case reviewer with the Department of Public Assistance. He will be assuming duties April 22 with the Urban Renewal unit. The board of directors of Urban Renewal voted at its meeting earlier this month to hire Mr. Robertson to assist Mr. Kelsch. He will be added to a staff of three, which includes Mr. Kelsch, a full-time secretary and a part-time secretary. Mr. Kelsch has been director of Urban Renewal in Twin Falls since the agency was established. The new assistant director will work with Mr. Kelsch in all phases of the administration of Urban Renewal, particularly in areas of relocation and property. He will assist people who are now located in areas which Urban Renewal has purchased to find new locations. This includes both businesses and individuals. Mr. Kelsch said he believes that through Mr. Robertson's experience in EPA, other similar programs that he will be a real asset to the Urban Renewal office. Mr. Robertson is a member of the Idaho Public Utilities Committee for the Underprivileged, the Headstart advisory board and the Community Action Agency. He was born in Twin Falls and was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1961. He received his B.A. in history and his M.A. in education from the University of Idaho. He has been working in a supervisory position with the Department of Public Assistance, which he has been with since completing college.

Labor Unions Stage Strikes

ROME (UPI)—The nation's three largest labor unions called a strike for three hours today to mourn two persons killed in rioting against job layoffs in southern Italy, an area long plagued by economic depression. The Italian General Confederation of Labor, the Italian Confederation of Trade Unions and the Italian Union of Workers called a total of more than 1.2 million workers off the job throughout the nation. Two persons were killed, 12 injured and the Battiglian City Hall burned to the ground in the nation's worst labor disorders in many years.

Open pairs will begin play at 10:30 a.m. Sunday with a Hazelton side game and the Jerome side game. The final session will be at 4:30 p.m. The tournament was held in Twin Falls three years ago. Last year it was held at Sun Valley and the year prior to that the tournament was at Burley. Mrs. Thomas F. Marzocca and Mrs. Hartruff are the co-chairmen.

Cong Mortars Hit Cities In Series Of Overnight Raids

SAIGON (UPI)—A barrage of Viet Cong mortar shells slammed into Vinh Long City in the Mekong Delta today, killing 15 persons and wounding 105, South Vietnamese spokesmen said. More than 100 rounds exploded before dawn in the city, 70 miles southwest of Saigon. The offensive followed Allied reports that the drive had tapered off last week to its lowest level. American casualties for that week dropped to their low mark of the offensive—222 killed and 1,285 wounded—while Saigon headquarters said the number of Communist attacks was the lowest of any week this year. Today's salvos included a barrage of mortar rounds into a U.S. camp seven miles from Saigon and several salvos into Allied soldiers guarding approaches to the capital further out. Overall losses were described as light. An American dive bomber Thursday spotted a North Vietnamese machine gun nest 65 miles northwest of Saigon and two miles from the Red Sea SHELL, Pg. 2, Col. 8.

How About Tax Law? Learn To Live With It, Says Assessor

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Staff Writer Local taxing units probably will have to learn to live with the provisions of House Bill 304, signed into law by Gov. Don Samuelson this week. This was the opinion expressed Friday by Twin Falls county officials. Among stipulations of the new law is a maximum increase of four per cent in tax revenue each year for taxing agencies. In addition, the law is retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year. Clifford Thompson, Twin Falls county assessor, says the law also extends the deadline to 1969 for assessing the 20 per cent ratio in assessments. On a basis of 14 per cent of the true cash value used the past three years in this county as an assessment basis, this would mean over the next 13 years there will be a yearly increase in ratio, and some annual cost increase for taxpayers. The fact that the law is retroactive, he said, will likely work some hardships on municipalities, school districts and other agencies that have already adopted increased budgets. "However, this is the law," he said, "and it seems the legislature had in mind an effort to help pay for the tax and tax-supported agencies must comply." Mr. Thompson said some property tax calling is essential under the increase ratio and higher assessed valuations or taxpayers will rebel. Although taxpayers seldom attend budget hearings and protest, they generally call at their assessor's office when the tax bill arrives. Mr. Thompson said, he has no control over the tax law but he usually hears the complaints. Harold Lancaster, Twin Falls County Clerk and budget officer, said that unless some provision is made to hold the line, the taxpayer's bill will increase each year and there is a limit to what he can afford. Apparently this is what the legislature tried to avoid when they set the four per cent maximum, but how they arrived at four per cent is not known. Mr. Thompson said the law is probably more than four per cent increase in living costs annually and some state employes are being asked to accept as high as nine per cent. If the limitations apply to municipalities and school districts for example, they should probably apply to local agencies as well. Mr. Lancaster said county officials welcome the law's provisions for certifying budgets in their amounts rather than mill levies. County officials have been See TAX LAW, Pg. 2, Col. 2.

City Ponders Moves On Tax Limitation

The Twin Falls City Council held a special meeting at noon Thursday to chart action against House Bill 304. The measure was signed Tuesday by Gov. Don Samuelson. A delegation of 24 men representing small taxing units met with the governor Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Hartruff, city manager, was among this group. The bill extends the period for equalizing property tax assessments and sets a four per cent yearly increase limit on property taxes. Since the bill is retroactive to Jan. 1, the City of Twin Falls is operating outside the law. The city property tax revenues were increased 10.62 per cent over last year's. The increase was partially incurred by giving the city employs a 1 1/2 per cent wage increase. The council decided its first action would be to set an advisory committee on the State Tax Commission for a hearing. If the State Tax Commission offers no relief to the city, there will probably be a special city election to contact the taxpayers feel the increase is warranted. Mr. Derrick read a letter from Gov. Samuelson. The governor explained he had signed the law because of the taxpayers so they might see some relief in property taxes. The council urged Bill Langley, city attorney, to contact legal counsel for the Association of Idaho Cities to discuss the legality of the bill. Mr. Langley said he would also be in touch with attorneys for some of the other small taxing units. The city officials expressed dissatisfaction with the legislature's action. They said the legislators had raised their own salaries and the state budget had been increased by approximately 28 per cent. Mr. Derrick said he disliked the bill because it surpasses local government and gives more power to the state.

Sen. Church Assails Ruling Closing Job Corps Camps

Land Department of U.S. Forest Service, basic education and orientation facilities for migrant labor families and a police training academy. "Governor" Alde Richard Hughes also said the office of Gov. Don Samuelson is behind a move to save the centers. Hughes said he has asked the OEO to put the facilities in mothballs temporarily. He said the Marling Camp is a number one or number two in state agencies as the "Department of Interior System." He added, "I think when some of the congressmen start looking at the record this night change."

GOP Solons Criticize Kennedy On Alaskan Tour

By ED DOOLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans left a 3,000-mile inspection tour of Alaska Thursday, charging that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., had turned a serious Senate study of Eskimo living conditions into a "publicity stunt."

GOP Sens. Henry Bellmon, Okla., George Murphy, Calif., and William Saxbe, Ohio, abruptly left the tour 24 hours after it started, a spokesman for Republican members of Kennedy's Indian education subcommittee said.

Bellmon issued a statement through his office here charging that Kennedy had arranged the trip "to confirm preconceived conclusions rather than to obtain an objective view."

"Contributing to the Republican decision to quit the tour, sources here said, was disclosure of a background memorandum prepared by a subcommittee staffer advising Kennedy how to get maximum mileage from television newsmen accompanying the tour.

The 10,000-word memorandum, prepared by subcommittee aide Adrian Parmeter, said in part: "I think that the major focus of the trip, particularly in terms of the photographers and TV cameras which will be accompanying the group, should be on the 'native poverty contrasted with the affluence of the government installations which can be found in practically every village."

The memorandum cited poverty as a cause of poor achievement in education. "It is extremely difficult to get the point and subtleties of cultural differences across to photographers and TV cameras and open to newspaper reporters on a quick trip."

David W. Burke, Kennedy's administrative assistant, accused Republicans of trying to make "something political" out of the tour. The release of the memorandum, he said, was intended to detract from its fact-finding aspects.

Repeating charges that Kennedy was trying to use the trip to boost his own political future, Burke said the senator would certainly not travel with Republicans to Alaska "to kick off a campaign."

Burke said it was "not unusual in a staff memo to a committee chairman . . . to highlight what is going to be investigated" and that there were no political overtones to the memorandum.

Pandora's Box

In 1965, in the case of Seeger vs. the United States, the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that disbeliever in a "Supreme Being" did not automatically disqualify an individual from claiming conscientious objector status.

In alarm, if not in anger, Congress revised the Selective Service law in 1967, substituting for belief in a Supreme Being the religious, philosophical or moral principles of a conscientious objector.

A Federal District judge in Boston has now declared this revised section of the law unconstitutional, and a writ of habeas corpus is expected to ensue should the Supreme Court uphold the decision.

"In the draft act," declared Judge Charles E. Wyanski Jr., "Congress unconstitutionally discriminated against atheists, agnostics, and men who are motivated by profound moral beliefs which constitute the central convictions of their beings."

He concluded that in granting special status to the religious conscientious objector but not to one John Sisson Jr., a 22-year-old Harvard graduate who refused induction because of personal antiwar beliefs, the act violated that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

He also treats a reasonable, conscientious act as a crime," wrote the judge in a 21-page opinion. "It subverts its own power—it invites civil disobedience."

In anticipation of objections that this will make it "easy" to escape the draft by pretending to feelings that do not genuine, he argued that "often it is harder to detect a fraudulent adherent to a religious creed than to recognize a sincere moral protestant."

Understand of Vietnam war dissent, of the unresolved question of the legitimacy of opposition to a particular war but not war in general, muddied what Judge Wyanski called "a clear-cut line between law and morality." He indicated that he might have ruled differently had Sisson been drafted to fight in "a defense

MR. SPECTATOR Weather Might Be Better

It had to be the weather. We should have known that was the reason when our name was left out of the City Directory just put out by R. L. Polk and Co.

Seems that some other people, in addition to the Mr. Spector family, had their names left out of that book. One of them was Connie, Lolsler who has lived in Twin Falls for as long she just refuses to give you the exact date. Women have that right, you know!

But Connie was a little disturbed too. She told officials at the Polk company that she had lived hereabouts all her life and that she was just a little put out that she was left out. She also sent along Mr. Spector's column in which she showed she was a little put out too.

Well, Connie admonished the letter of protest to the company president. He gave it to the vice-president in charge of the Central West District, Directory Division. This gentleman—J. A. Neuhilb by name—wrote Connie, "Connie showed the answer to Mr. Spector and Mr. Spector thought that, any of you readers had your name left out, you would be interested in this answer."

"Your letter concerns me very much," the Polk official wrote, and he added that the situation reflects a condition that they certainly do not want to tolerate.

He cited "human error" possibility in the whittling up of a directory as one reason for the mistake which do occur and said that the appreciated that Connie took the time to write and tell him about it.

Then he concluded: "I know that you allow for the human element since we do have a number of errors down to all kinds of weather and under all kinds of conditions."

So be it, Mr. Spector and Connie both hope that next time the enumerators make the rounds for the city's directory the weather is clear and warm.

Who knows, we might be included in the tabulations.

WASHINGTON — An accelerated schedule of U. S. troop withdrawals is now under preparation by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird with the possibility that as many as 200,000 U.S. troops will be brought home from Vietnam by the election-year fall of 1970.

Although details are secret, this policy of relatively rapid troop pullback which is not contingent on North Vietnam's doing the same — was based partly on Laird's confidential report to President Nixon after his trip to Vietnam last month. Laird knows American support of the war has worn so thin that endless negotiations in Paris will be tolerated. Consequently, the tentative plan calls for the pullout of a division plus supporting air — about 50,000 men — probably, in late spring or early summer. Once started, this withdrawal is expected to accelerate, with more than 5,000 men a month going home, replaced by South Vietnamese.

The policy was worked out by President Nixon, Laird, and Dr. Henry Kissinger. White House foreign policy adviser, and has the full backing of Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Laird, in some of the tensesst talks any American official has ever had with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, ruthlessly pressed Saigon during his inspection trip to put top grade Vietnamese forces into the front line at once. In particular, he demanded that Saigon's best units get into combat simultaneously with a military training program preparing Saigon's army to fight both the Vietcong and North Vietnamese regulars as the U. S. troops withdraw.

Ideally, the U. S. withdrawal would be matched by a pullback of North Vietnamese regulars. If it were, mutual withdrawal could go faster. In fact, however, Administration policymakers are pessimistic over any such happy result in Paris.

Two political developments, it is hoped there, will be set in motion by rapid U. S. withdrawals: first, it will confront Hanoi with a radically changed political climate in which the main enemy will no longer be white "imperialists" but fellow Vietnamese; second, it will force the Thieu regime to go faster in broadening its political base.

This second development is central. While demanding "demilitarization" of the war effort, Washington also is pushing Thieu into negotiations with Vietcong's political arm, the National Liberation Front (NLF). Only a broadening of Thieu's base enabled him to offer to talk to the NLF, and far more broadening is needed for Saigon to make long-range political deals.

These hopeful prospects, regarded by some working-level officials as far too hopeful, are grounded on Laird's conviction that substitution of Vietnamese for U. S. combat troops can in fact be accomplished quickly without serious military reversals.

Confirming this, a study by Herman Kahn, who runs the Hudson Institute brain trust, is under way on a high level. It concludes that removing up to 200,000 U. S. troops is not only possible but essential if Saigon ever is going to stand on its own feet.

But Kahn warns that the U.S. pullback must not give the impression of total pullout. That would cross the fine line of Saigon's confidence in Washington could help topple the Thieu regime and might shatter U. S. prestige around the world.

Skeptics in working levels of the State Department, together with the uniformed military here and in Vietnam, fear that the Nixon-Laird plan will go too fast. They raise difficult questions about what Mr. Nixon would do if, in the midst of the pullback, the enemy launched massive attacks that decimated Saigon's support and inflicted heavy casualties on the remaining U. S. force. Re-escalation by Washington would be probable.

But that is a risk the Administration must accept. There is some hope Hanoi would do nothing to break the rhythm of the U. S. pullback — while attacking it in propaganda as evidence the Americans knew they were licked.

The propaganda defeat would be small enough cost to pay. Indeed, it would be a narrow loss if it were on any scale. One U. S. field artillery battalion was recently replaced by Vietnamese, and another switch is in the works.

In any event, the administration is determined to carry out this plan, realizing the nation's impatience with protracted negotiations and military casualties. It also knows that Republican fortunes in the 1970 election are directly tied to concrete evidence that the war is being liquidated.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am nursing a sprained ankle, an injury I have sustained several times over the last 20 years. (1-18-68)

What causes one to twist an ankle while walking on perfectly level ground and going at a normal gait? Can you explain it? — Mrs. E.F. Sr.

Sometimes it takes very little to stretch or tear a ligament loose from its bony attachment. The fibrous supports (ligaments and joint capsule) may not afterward be as firm as they should be, and it is thus easier to repeat the injury.

Spains of course, a severe spraining degree, minor to severe, may also be the cause. Proper treatment (and support) comparable to that needed for a fractured bone. As you surely know, the real danger is never, more so than in the case of many fractures.

I presume that you wear a relatively low and wide heel to give you more support and stability. Even level ground can have little bumps that lead to a twisting of the ankle outward. Slipping, even if momentary, may be involved.

Possibly an elastic ankle support may be the answer for you.

ANDREW TULLY Baseball Pushes All Aside

WASHINGTON — Forgive me if I don't get that perpetual motion machine finished by autumn's early light. Baseball has arrived on the national scene again, and I must join millions of my peers in master-minding the pennant race, the chase for the gonfalon, inflation cut wall.

The opening of the baseball season is one of mankind's miracles. Although it is Big Business, operated for the most part by paunchy entrepreneurs for financial gratification, spring annually brings word that it has somehow survived. One is tempted to suggest that if the American male can remain faithful to a sport dressed in such vulgar corporate clothing he may yet devise a way of getting along with foreigners.

I suppose this affection for baseball is traceable to the circumstance that Americans are a notoriously sentimental breed, fond of any outdoor exhibition staged by unlettered males indulging themselves in masculinity. The Walter Mitty in all of us is excited at the thought that these lit players on the field are really our proxies.

Besides, a baseball game offers wonderful opportunities for the second guess, and thus is pure Americana. Hardly a by-product of the game is the manager on the spot with the fans. As is well known, the Senator would have won that game had the pitcher thrown an error instead of the older-decreed by their black-headed manager. Should a slugger aim for the fence and strike out, it is obvious to all that the hit-and-run play was crying for execution.

To indulge himself in this after-the-fact expertise, the baseball fan puts up with a great deal. Attending a game subjects him to the evil moans of ushers and special cops and the vendictive howling of cold but dinged. He is periodically warbled by the loud speaker in behalf of he'll be thrown out of the fence and strike out, it is obvious to all that the hit-and-run play was crying for execution.

Yet, bless it baseball survives. It is here again in all its vain glory and adolescent posturing. It's a hunk, but it is our hunk, and like food parents we dot on its arrogance and its intractable. Perhaps it is an outlet for

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Ankie Sprain

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am nursing a sprained ankle, an injury I have sustained several times over the last 20 years. (1-18-68)

What causes one to twist an ankle while walking on perfectly level ground and going at a normal gait? Can you explain it? — Mrs. E.F. Sr.

Sometimes it takes very little to stretch or tear a ligament loose from its bony attachment. The fibrous supports (ligaments and joint capsule) may not afterward be as firm as they should be, and it is thus easier to repeat the injury.

Spains of course, a severe spraining degree, minor to severe, may also be the cause. Proper treatment (and support) comparable to that needed for a fractured bone. As you surely know, the real danger is never, more so than in the case of many fractures.

I presume that you wear a relatively low and wide heel to give you more support and stability. Even level ground can have little bumps that lead to a twisting of the ankle outward. Slipping, even if momentary, may be involved.

Possibly an elastic ankle support may be the answer for you.

Change Noted In Inspection Law

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

The public is accepting the Idaho motor vehicle inspection law, a survey of state police citations in area inspection stations reveals.

And this is in spite of some controversy in the Idaho Legislature this year, and some grumbling by the motorists when the law first went into effect a year and three months ago. The law has been changed in some areas, however. Clarence Norris, Magic Valley representative of the Department of Law Enforcement, says, "Mr. Norris said he is in the process of visiting each inspection station—several hundred of them—in Magic Valley to explain the changes to inspection station operators. "The department also is preparing a new manual on the law, and this should come out sometime in the near future, he said.

One big change involves the elimination of the license plate light as a reason for a citation. Another is the $2 fee charge by inspection station operators. The fee is now charged at all times. Before, the fee was levied if work was done on the vehicle concerned. And, if a vehicle owner wants to do the work on the vehicle himself, he has 15 days to get it done and return to the station to get his sticker. Before, the owner had only 10 days.

The little green sticker goes on the inside of the front windshield on the lower left hand side. Vehicles must be inspected once each year. For instance, if the vehicle was inspected last April it must be inspected again this month. Mr. Norris said some people are forgetting to get this done because enforcement of the law didn't start until the first of February, and citations weren't issued until the first of February. Warning tickets were issued by police through January and vehicle operators had five days in which to get the vehicle inspected. In February, state law enforcement officers started issuing citations to those that didn't have the inspection sticker on their vehicle. Records in Twin Falls County Justice Court show the number of citations issued has not been great, considering there are more than 28,000 vehicles in Twin Falls County alone.

In March, the number of citations processed through Justice Court amounted to only about 25, records show. Mr. Norris also said the public and inspection station operators are working together, with few complaints being registered and few operators being reprimanded by the Department of Law Enforcement.

Mr. Norris said the law received a lot of attention in the last session of the legislature. The law in this regard has been changed to make it easier. Basically, most vehicle owners are concerned with new additions to the slow-moving vehicle law. The law is part of the state's inspection program.

Now it is unlawful for a slow moving vehicle to be operated on a highway a half hour before sunset and a half hour after sunrise. Such vehicles can't exceed 25 miles an hour; they can't operate in a manner that will obstruct the flow of traffic; and they must have foot brakes and mechanical signaling devices. Slow moving vehicles are defined as agricultural machinery, road machinery, roller roads and farm tractors.

These vehicles must have a special adult designating their slow moving vehicles. These tags must be placed on the rear of the vehicle. Slow moving vehicles do not have to have an inspection sticker. This provision remains the same as the old law. It was reported the new manual will deal with all aspects of motor vehicle inspection in Idaho, and the manual will be available to the general public. It will be able to read and understand it.

"Oedipus Tyrannus" Hailed As Exciting CSI Production

By H. PAUL KLISS

It is quite fitting that the first production of the CSI speech and drama department in the Fine Arts Auditorium should be of the "first major" plays to withstand the tests of time in the western world.

"Oedipus Tyrannus," by Sophocles, dates from the fifth century B.C. in Greece, and is considered the first of the great dramas in world literature. Its distinguishing feature, Man to man, is the fact that in spite of the gods, man is the permanent division between stories about the antics of gods and stories about man and his relationship with his actual world. This production, lays great stress on man and his society and its interactions, and does this with contrived clarity and theatrical power. The story of "Oedipus" is the direct parallel of that of the gods "Zeus" and "Hera," who are lived out in human terms. Where the gods were able to correct their mistakes with a chuckle and a whim, these humans could only terminate their actions in personal violence and tragedy. Greek tragedy is much like our own theatre of cruelty, but different in that the Greeks portrayed violence and then portrayed its aftereffects, where our modern theatre portrays the violence and then suggests its results.

"Oedipus" is a tale of such kind of Greek action and comes across to us as the most intriguing of horror stories. In the almost overwhelming first-actor role of "Oedipus" is Keith Conter. He attacks his role of the king with great energy and wrenches from it considerable power and temperament. His moments of rage are not always kept defined by his business, but his lines are vivid and at times—shocking as he whirls from leadership into self-inflicted horror—such a young actor is able to sustain such demands as are made by this play without revealing in the worst kind of melodrama, it is high com-

HEADING A PROJECT by the Twin Falls High School Key Club to assist in the current Cancer Crusade in memory of Mrs. Ann Powers is Mike Durland, club president, here accepting a donation from Mrs. M. L. Gates, 601 Alhuras. The Key Club is one of several youth groups assisting in the fund-raising drive. April has been proclaimed as Cancer Control month by Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll.

300 Cancer Volunteers Distribute Information

Some 300 Cancer Fund volunteers are distributing educational leaflets describing the seven warning signals of cancer and asking individuals to "Help themselves with a checkup and others with a checkup" during April in Twin Falls—as in other Magic Valley communities. Mrs. Paul Carl, Twin Falls, local cancer drive chairman said April has been proclaimed Cancer Control month by Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll, as well as by President Richard Nixon on a national level. Several youth groups are assisting adult volunteers in the fund raising drive in Magic Valley. Two service clubs at the Twin Falls High School are canvassing residential areas in Twin Falls, both in memory of former teachers who were victims of this type of disease. The Key Club project is in memory to Mrs. Ann Powers, high school dean of girls, who died last month, while Interact Club members have helped with the drive for several years in memory of the late John Platt, former teacher and principal. In Filer, the Rainbow girls are again canvassing the entire town and at Castledale, a group of students will solicit in the town and rural area, as they have done for the past several years. Mrs. Carl points out that it is equally important for each resident in the area to obtain the pamphlet outlining the seven danger signs as it is to donate to the American Cancer Society drive. Funds are used to promote the society's three fold program of education, research and service. Anyone who is not contacted and wishes to contribute to the annual cancer crusade is asked to send contributions to either Mrs. Paul Carl, 1879 San LaRue, Twin Falls, or to the Cancer Fund, care of, Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co.

Tax People Urge Delay On Inquiries

The Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday that inquiries about federal income tax refunds at this time of the year only delay payment of them. John C. Anduzia, IRS Information officer, said that taxpayers should wait at least 10 weeks from date of filing the return before inquiring. Mr. Anduzia said it is impossible to check on all individual returns without delaying processing of the refund. By waiting 10 weeks, the taxpayer will either have his refund or a letter explaining why it is held up. CLOSURE THREATENED ANKARA, Turkey (UPI)—Officials at the Middle East University are threatening to close the school for the rest of the semester if student disorders do not cease.

Governor Vetoes Bill Penalizing Phone Vandals

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson has vetoed a bill which would have made it a felony to displace, remove, injure, or destroy any public telephone instrument. Samuelson said under the broad language of the bill, the theft of a phone book from a phone booth could constitute a felony, and said the bill "is far too harsh." The governor said he would support a re-written version of the bill, separating minor offenses against telephone properties, leaving them misdemeanor, and establishing major offenses, perhaps in terms of dollar loss, as felonies.

DEAR ABBY: A man complains because a woman invades his privacy when she walks into his barbershop. "All conversation stops," he says. "Well, ain't that too bad?"
I HAVE to take my boy's (ages 4 and 6) to the barber-shop for their haircuts because their father is dead, and I don't believe in "leaving my kids places for other people to keep their eye on. They're MY kids, and I's MY job, and I stay with them."
Now, how about the MEN who come into beauty parlors to wait for their wives? I know one old coot who goes with his wife just to ogle the half-dressed ladies getting their hair done.
I don't appreciate being stared at by a strange man when I've just had in a shampoo bowl, or have a purple mess on my hair during a color.
So, be a pal, Abby, and tell those who wear 'em into their barber shops unless we have a legitimate reason if they'll not come into my beauty parlors unless THEY have one.
FLORENCE IN WORTHINGTON

DEAR FLORENCE: All right, but the only legitimate reason a man could have for coming into a beauty parlor would be to announce a fire or serve a subpoena.

DEAR ABBY: The doctor says my wife has to have hysterectomy because she has a disease which she says she could have when you pay a dog, which I understand is a similar type operation, she gets fat and lazy, and my slender wife calls it "our REAL daughter."
When my parents celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary

DEAR WISCONSIN: I can't guarantee your wife won't get fat and lazy, but if she does, it won't be because of the operation.

DEAR ABBY: When I was an infant I was adopted by a couple who were told they could have no children. Soon afterwards, they had a little girl of their own. Then a boy, then another boy. All my life I have been introduced as "the girl who was adopted." My brothers were always referred to as "our boys" and my sister as "our REAL daughter."

Some Drinkers Harm Children

VIENNA (UPI) — Only 28 per cent of children from alcoholic families grow up free from mental or physical damage, a survey by the Salzburg Alcohol Welfare Organization revealed today.

The statistics were compiled in a 15 year period in which 5,198 children of 2,802 alcoholic parents were observed, the Catholic news agency Kathpress said.

Some 15.5 per cent of the children grew up under-alcohol living conditions as a result of the financial situation of the alcoholic parent.

Twelve per cent of the children showed severe mental and physical damage due to neglect. Five per cent were removed from parental care due to alcoholism of one or both parents. Eight died of neglect. One died of manslaughter.

Nineteen children were molested sexually by an alcoholic parent, usually the father. A fourth of the children showed bad performance in school.

Sixty per cent of masculine alcoholics came from families where the father was an alcoholic, Kathpress said.

SENIORS!

WILL YOU BE LOOKING FOR EMPLOYMENT SOON?

If so, now is the time to seek the answer to some important questions.

The first — What must I do to get a good job? The answer in most cases is additional training.

This raises the second question — WHERE DO I GET THE TRAINING?

If you are interested in business, we will be happy to outline a course for you that will give you quality training in a relatively short period of time — training that will open the door to career opportunities. The United States Chamber of Commerce states that over one-third of all people working are working in some capacity in business. Just 36 to 48 weeks of training could be the best investment you will ever make.

By United Press International

In Geneva, Switzerland, the peacocks recognized spring and their seasonal mating call.

Hungarians marked spring in Budapest by displaying their fondness for a long public search for deer in the woods and numbers that is called "the marathon hunt."

Waraw radio said young Poles marked the season and swam in the still-cold Baltic.

In Moscow, a young Russian greeted UPI correspondent Edward J. Szymanski and removed a high-collared, ankle-length, long-sleeved coat with fur lining, felt leggings and shapely fur-lined boots.

"I have de-escalated to my spring snow outfit," said the Muscovite, now wearing only a persian lamb hat, a thick wool coat for collar and wool-lined slippers.

Summer could not be far off.

Health Council Advises State On Pay Levels

ST. ANTHONY (UPI)—The Mental Health Advisory Council said Thursday it will recommend to the State Board of Health that those areas in the state wishing to have mental health services should be able to set their own salary schedules.

The council said the present state salary schedule is not equitable and competitive for some mental health positions. Council members said the State Personnel Commission schedule is too low for the position of social workers, psychologists and clinical directors at the state hospitals.

Mindoka and Cassia Counties are attempting to start new mental health services, but have found they could not recruit a social worker at the state salary level.

The two counties want to bypass the State Personnel Commission.

Meanwhile, the council endorsed a plan that the University of Idaho establish a doctoral program in clinical psychology.

The council planned to meet Friday in Idaho Falls.

Nylon Sheets Prove Shocking

WEMBLEY, England (UPI)—The Bradleys' new nylon sheets look just lovely, but they build up such a charge of static electricity that Tom Bradley was nearly knocked down when he gave his wife a good-morning kiss.

"The company that makes the sheets advised Bradley to wear rubber-soled slippers the next time he kisses his wife while she's in bed."

Lambing operations have ended at the Wilford Wrigley ranch at View, and shearing of sheep is under way at their corrals south of View. They report a good crop of lambs and will move the sheep and lambs to the Meadow Creek area soon.

A crew worked on the Knox Pitch Fork Ranch at King Hill to cut out 200 weaner calves, which were taken to the Gooding sale. On Monday approximately 200 calves were deboned and branded by Clarence Miller, Bruneau; Lloyd Jensen, Hagerman; James Kevan, Fairfield; Bud Wells, Gooding; Orilla Trice, Arco, and Bud Allen, Alvin Irving and Dennie Donahue, King Hill. Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Irving fed the crew.

Cattle belonging to Paul Fleming, Bob Adolf, and LeRoy Jolley were trailed to summer range south of Hagerman this week.

Most of the sheep in Hagerman Valley have been trucked to spring range in the Saylor Creek unit which opened March 27. Practically all the sheep in this area are trucked by Cady Auto Co. trucks owned by Marlon Pugmit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peter and family, King Hill, have moved to Roberts, near Idaho Falls. They have leased their ranch to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gluch. Mr. Gluch has seeded mixed grain, and will grow alfalfa on the ranch.

Farmers in the Almo area have been hauling barnyard fertilizer on their farms and have been plowing, leveling and preparing the ground for spring planting. James Sheridan corrugated land on his farm last week.

Stockmen at Almo have been branding and vaccinating calves in preparation for turning out their herds onto spring ranges.

Joe Black, of the Indian Cove area near Glens Ferry, has purchased cattle from Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hampton, along with the range rights on the nearby East Cove and Reed Crystal. Paul, has leased the Hampton farm at Indian Cove and moved into the tenant house. He will be joined by his family when school is out. The Hampton's and daughter, Alaina, will move to the Black Farms east of Glens Ferry, where Mr. Hampton will be employed this summer.

For more than a week 100 swans have been on a pond at the Oliver Lowery place in north Shoshone. Fewer are seen on some of the lower ponds in the area.

Seventeen cranes have been seen in one field in north Shoshone, about two miles from Palmer Store. It is considered unusual to see so many together at one time in the area.

Bill Arbaugh, Glens Ferry, has been doing custom plowing on the Clark Chaffin farm.

John Davis is corrugating alfalfa on his farm six miles east of King Hill. Mrs. Charles Parish and sons are corrugating alfalfa.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Draper and son, Nampa, have moved onto the Ray Hatcher farm. Wayne Draper and sons are planting approximately 200 acres of beets. Leo Trill and William Pruitt are also planting beets.

STEERS in the Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association beef evaluation program are video taped here by Hirschel Boydston, head of the agricultural department, College of Southern Idaho. With these tapes, Boydston can show the beef producers the comparison of the live animals and their carcasses. These steers were taped during the recent 30-day weighing period of the program.

Cattle In Evaluation Program Weighed

The first step in the beef evaluation program, sponsored by the Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association, was completed earlier this week with the weighing of 65 feeder cattle.

According to Rolland Patrick, president, and Jack Pierce, secretary, the cattle have been on feed for 30 days at Olmstead Cattle Co. feedlots and have shown good gains so far in the program. The steers have averaged about three pounds per day for the 30-day feeding period.

Entering cattle in the program are Ed Lierman and Ramseyer Cattle Co., both Filer; U2 Cattle Co., Rogerson; John Darrow and Martin Brothers, both Buhl; Truman Biel and Glen Briggs, both Murtaugh; Truman and Jim Clark and Rolland Patrick, all Castelford; Olmstead Cattle Co., Twin Falls; J. H. Henry, Kimberly, and Muleshoe Ranch, Hammett.

Donald Youz, Twin Falls County agricultural agent, said the program is a cooperative program between the cattlemen's association, cooperating ranchers, Independent Meat Co., College of Southern Idaho, University of Idaho extension and Olmstead Cattle Co.

The cattle began the evaluation program with weighing on March 8 in the Producers Livestock Marketing Association yards in Jerome.

Reschel Boydston, head of the College of Southern Idaho agricultural department, is maintaining a filmed pictorial record of the animals with taped comments to be used at a later date along with carcass quality information recorded by Independent Meat Co. at the end of the feeding period.

Mr. Patrick says, "Mr. Boydston's records should help make a good comparison between the live animals and quality of the meat on the hook." Mr. Patrick added that this information will be presented at a public program this fall.

The next weighing is tentatively set for July 2, when the cattle will have been on feed for 120 days. Steers ready for market at this time will be cut from the group and slaughtered. Subsequent weighings and cuts are tentatively planned for August with the final weigh-out for the remaining steers in early September — 180 days from the beginning of the feeding period.

Excellent Water Supply Forecast

BOISE — An excellent irrigation water supply coupled with a potential for damaging high water on several streams in Idaho is forecast as a result of snow survey measurements completed for April 1.

The monthly snow survey and water forecast reports issued by the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Weather Bureau and the Idaho State Reclamation Engineer's office noted that snowfall during March had been less than one-half of normal, but the cool weather delayed melting of the heavy snowpack.

River forecasts range from 110 per cent or slightly above normal on the Snake River to 238 per cent on the Little Wood River.

River forecasts in this area include Oakley Reservoir inflow,

OPERATING the scales in weighing some 65 steers in the Beef Evaluation Program, sponsored by the Magic Valley Cattlemen's Association, is Art Kaster, Clover. In the background is Richard Noh, Rogerson, one of several cattlemen who helped weigh the steers on the test.

USDA Plans To Relax Import Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department today announced a proposal to relax minimum size and quality standards for round varieties of potatoes imported from Canada.

At present, under a regulation scheduled to be effective through June 14, imported round potatoes must be U.S. No. 2 or better and at least 1 1/2 inches in diameter. In addition, size "B" potatoes, which have a minimum diameter of 1 1/2 inches, can be admitted — but only if they are Grade U.S. No. 1 or better.

Under a proposed new regulation which will be effective June 5 through July 31, imports would have to be U.S. No. 2 or better with a minimum diameter of 1 1/2 inches. This change, in effect, would remove the ban on imports of No. 2 grade size "B" potatoes.

The proposed import requirements are identical to size and quality controls imposed on domestic shipments from southeastern areas subject to federal marketing orders. Federal law requires domestic shipments of this type to be matched by identical controls on imports.

The Agriculture Department added today that import requirements now in effect for "B" and "long varieties" of potatoes will remain unchanged through June 30.

Gambling on wireworms?

No need to, when you can apply Diazinon® at higher rates in early-planted potatoes and get effective wireworm control. Proved effective on the farm, where it counts. Even on strains that may have become resistant to other insecticides.

Stops them without leaving a residue in your potatoes or other crops, like sugar beets, that may follow.

You can broadcast Diazinon within one week of planting. And incorporate it into the top 4 to 8 inches of soil.

Or, band Diazinon at planting, working it 3 to 6 inches into the soil on both sides of the row.

There aren't any field re-entry restrictions when working with Diazinon. And you don't need special protective clothing or devices. Just follow the directions.

This spring don't gamble on wireworm control. Use Diazinon. Proved on the farm, where it counts.

GRASSMAN-OF-YEAR program officials look over a grassman-of-year necktie after a recent organizational meeting of the Twin Falls County Grassman-of-Year group. NFO Official Tells Plight Of Farmers

BOISE (UPI) — A national director of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) told a group in Boise "the next 18 months will see an almost vicious battle for the preservation of free organization in agriculture."

Brynhoff Grahn of Roseau, Minn., said the country is now losing established farmers at a rate of one every four minutes — 24 hours a day. He said these are not those considered "marginal" as to their abilities.

He said the farmers' plight can be attributed to the fact that a marked "deterioration" has been noted during the past 12 months in many areas.

Grahn charged that misinformation about the NFO accounts for about 90 per cent of its problems in dealing with farmers.

He added that tremendous gains have been noted in the Idaho potato industry because of the collective bargaining efforts of the NFO.

South Hills Burn Area Tour Set

Four local soil conservation districts will sponsor a tour in June of the South Hills burn area which was hit by a range fire in 1967.

This tour, set for June 27, is designed to show the results of combined efforts by local ranchers, state, federal and local groups in rehabilitating the rangeland after the severe fire in September, 1967.

The four districts planning this event are the West Cassia Soil Conservation District, Snake River Soil Conservation District, Fish and Game Department, University of Idaho—Extension Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Soil Conservation Service.

Speaking on the various grasses planted in the area will be John Schwendman, Plants Material Center, Pullman, Wash., and Gary Evans, Pocatello, SCS.

Lunch is planned to be served in the South Hills. The public is invited and plan now to attend this outstanding range tour.

This rehabilitation burn area is considered to be the outstanding accomplishment of its type in Idaho.

Quick Way To Put Green Back In Evergreens Listed

Right after the spectacle of and fertilizer. But instead of flower color from rhododendron turning a deep, rich green, the and azaleas, new growth starts, the delicate green of the young growing tips is a delightful contrast to the deep green of older leaves.

During this period of rapid growth, the plant needs water and fertilizer. But instead of flower color from rhododendron turning a deep, rich green, the plant could turn a sickly yellow, despite adequate fertilizer. When there are no insects or diseases present, this could be due to an iron deficiency.

Experiment station scientists say that iron anemic plants can be found everywhere in the United States, especially in soils high in lime or that are poorly drained. Iron anemia shows up as yellowing between the veins.

Now is it possible that a well-fertilized plant can lack iron? Soil experts at Gely Chemical Corp., say that the iron may become "fired up" in the soil and unavailable to the plant. Such a form is Sequestrene Green Foliage Stimulant, an iron chelate.

Plants can recover from iron anemia amazingly fast. For instance, yellow foliage sprayed with the iron chelate Sequestrene can be a lush green in 48 hours. When this iron chelate is mixed with water and poured over the roots, the green color will return within a week if iron is lacking.

Clinic On Performance Records Set

The use of performance records for herd improvement and increased profits will be discussed at a TPR (total performance records) clinic to be held April 22 in Twin Falls.

Sponsoring this clinic is the American Hereford Association and the Idaho Hereford Association and will begin at 10 a.m. in the Fine Arts Center Auditorium on the College of Southern Idaho campus.

The clinic, designed to explain the grassroots of performance testing, will start with the weighing and grading of calves and continue through the processing to the application of performance records.

Herschel Boydston, College of Southern Idaho's agricultural department head, who will be assisting with the clinic, says "This program on production testing and progeny testing, grading, etc., will be of interest to both commercial and registered breeders."

Tips on improved efficiency of selection and culling will be provided by those on the program. On the program, besides Mr. Boydston, will be Art Linton, TPR director for the American Hereford Association; Ward Wolf, field representative for the American Hereford Association; and Lou Rothwell, A.C.O. president of the Idaho Hereford Association.

Mr. Boydston added that this is probably "the time to get acquainted with the program in order that you may make good interpretation of the records which you will undoubtedly see appearing with the pedigree of all sale animals in the near future."

Bird Predators

What to do when birds move and impolitely help themselves to either the seeds you've just planted or the newly sprouted seedlings? One way to foil these predators is to install screening over the seedlings, just a few inches above them. That way the birds can't reach under the screening but the seedlings have room to grow upward.

It isn't hard to tack a piece of wire or plastic mesh to four stakes hammered into the soil at the corners of a planting. And it certainly stops the birds.

Versatile Marigold Is Favored As National Flower

By SHEILA and ALLAN SWENSON
NEA Garden Specialists

America may soon have a national flower. Over the years, debate has raged as gardeners, seed producers, florists and many others sought to name a national flower.

The fact is, the United States is one of the few nations that does not have a national flower. Every state has one. Perhaps this year the marigold will be chosen as America's flower.

States. This bill caps the long crusade by David Burpee, 75-year-old seed company executive for national recognition of his favorite flower.

Years of breeding by Burpee Seed Co., the nation's largest mail-order seed firm, have brought the marigold to unequal perfection. Burpee believes: Colors range from orange to nearly white. Burpee's most effective argument for the marigold as the American flower is that it can grow in all climates and soils on the continent.

"It is native only to America and it stands for friendship," Burpee notes. "The rose is beautiful but it stands for warfare."

the War of the Roses. Besides, many nations have picked a rose as their flower.

From his years of research on testing farms across the country, Burpee has perfected a variety of marigolds. Each new one outshines the others; it seems tall, short, orange, yellow with tiny, button-type blooms or blazes of color six to eight inches across; marigolds have brightened millions of gardens.

"Will the marigold become the national flower? We would like to know what you think. Send a note or letter telling your choice. Vote today and we'll send the bushels of flowers. Power letters on to Washington."

For more effective, economical control, use Cyrol® Amitrole-T Liquid Weedicide® plus a residual herbicide. Cyrol is the most widely preferred product of its type used in combination with soil sterilants.

Cyrol kills the tops of perennial weeds, then continues to work systematically inside the plant to prevent re-growth. This residual herbicide kills young germinating seedlings to prevent any weed re-infestation. This combination treatment is economical—usually about 1/2 the cost of using a soil sterilant alone.

Cyrol is non-flammable, non-corrosive and non-hazardous to workers. Application equipment can be cleaned by merely flushing with clean water.

Contact your herbicide supplier for further information. Before using any pesticide, stop and read the label.

WAY AN EXPERT PLAYS A SQUEEZE

The late Edward Hynes was one of the great dummy players. His specialty was the squeeze play and he liked to announce his squeeze as early in the play as possible. Like most of us Eddy was somewhat of an overbidder. His pump to protect it, Eddy cuts the third diamond, overbid but it was just as well that he was an expert on squeezes.

West opened the ace of hearts and shifted to the five of diamonds. East took the ace and returned a diamond to his partner's king. West continued with the 10 and when East showed out Eddy showed his hand and remarked, "If East has three or more clubs to the queen I am down one. Otherwise I claim the rest of the trick. Of course, since I have claimed I am not allowed to take a club finesse." East groaned. "You drop my queen but wouldn't you have held that card?"

Eddy would not have been squeeze play and he liked to announce his squeeze as early in the play as possible. Like most of us Eddy was somewhat of an overbidder. His pump to protect it, Eddy cuts the third diamond, overbid but it was just as well that he was an expert on squeezes.

When Eddy leads his last trump his other three cards are all clubs. Dummy's last four trumps are the ace-king-jack of clubs and seven of diamonds. West has to discard first and must hold a diamond. Therefore he must discard down to two clubs. North's diamond has done its work and is discarded and the clubs are good for the last three tricks.

Power Mower Problems Solved Before You Start

Fine mow will improve with age. Unfortunately, gasoline that is left over the winter to "ripen" in your lawn-mower's gasoline tank, will not improve. In fact, it may be the cause of a "cold start" problem that could ruin a fine spring day when you feel the lawn needs its first cutting.

Last year's gasoline isn't the only thing that can spoil an otherwise beautiful day. A fouled or worn out spark plug can do it, too... so can a dirty carburetor air cleaner.

of trouble, give the mower a good general cleanup and an oil change if it's a four-cycle-type engine.

New ASCS Official Received $88,684 In Federal Subsidies

By BERNARD BRENNER, UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Kenneth Eugene Frick's Ken-Mar Farm near Bakersfield, Calif., got $88,684.08 in federal-farm program payments last year.

Frick has just taken over the post of administrator of the Agriculture Department's big Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service—the agency which operates farm support and surplus-control programs.

Frick's total may be about the same this year, he said in an interview.

Frick had no part in spelling out the rules of the payment and control programs under which his 2,175-acre farm has operated. The payments were provided by congress under a general farm law extending through the 1970 crop season and under the Federal Sugar Act.

But the agriculture department, headed by secretary Clifford M. Hardin, may soon be confronted by demands that it take a stand on pending bills to put a limit of $20,000 on annual payments to any single farm, beginning in 1970 or 1971.

How does Frick feel about payment limit proposals?

"I have no position on limits at this time," he said.

Frick pointed out that decisions on this issue would have no effect on 1969 payments to his farm, which were determined by policies made before he took government office.

Frick said he expected to play whatever role his job may call for in helping shape future policy. But he said he did not yet know how he would handle the management of his farm after August of this year.

Frick said he had no chance to change his farming arrangements immediately because his government appointment came in the middle of an operating season. He said he had no fixed plans to withdraw from farming, but "about August I will be in an easier position to make a decision on what to do for the 1970 crop year."

Frick said that as government programs are structured now, he has "had no practical alternative to accepting federal payments if he wanted to continue growing his major crops—cotton and sugar beets. The present federal cotton control program is based on the idea that market prices should be held around the relatively low world price level, with farm income supplemented by direct federal payments.

Frick's farm, which he owns with his wife, includes a 434-acre cotton allotment and also produces sugar beets, potatoes, cantaloupes, tomatoes and lettuce. Federal support payments to the Kern County farm in 1968, according to agriculture department records, include $64,487.53 for cotton and $24,196.55 for sugar beets.

Now 48, Frick graduated from the University of California in 1941, served in the Air Force until 1945, and has been farming in Kern County since 1945. During the Eisenhower Administration he served three years—1959-61—on the California State Agricultural Stabilization Committee. The state ASC committees are made up of farmers appointed to help run federal farm programs on the state level.

Fireworks Stands Get Burley Okay

BURLEY Applications for fireworks stands for July 4 have been approved by Burley City Councilmen. The stands will be inspected by Otis Williams, fire chief, when they are constructed.

Applicants include Burley Jaycees, M. H. King Co., LDS Fourth Ward, Heyburn LDS First Ward and LDS Second Ward. Some of the applications were for more than one stand. E. D. Broadhead, Rupert Iron Works, met with the council and asked for some of the City's business in purchasing iron and machine fabrication. Mr. Broadhead was instructed to submit a written presentation to the council on items available.

Leonard Staker, city water superintendent, reported that the sewer lagoon had been producing odors, but now the ice has melted, so the odors can turn over. The smell should be eliminated.

Low pressure lines have been worked on and will be ready for the equipment on week-end, Staker said.

Several new fire hydrants have been installed along West 21st. Approval was granted for Jack Keen, city recreation director, to investigate putting playground equipment on vacant lot 500 Hilland Ave., owned by Veterans of Foreign Wars. The VFW post has volunteered use of the equipment on vacant lot.

Firefighting protective equipment was discussed. Mr. Williams, fire chief, will investigate the possible purchase of fire-fighting equipment. A fire-fighting housing project was discussed and Kent Church, city attorney, reported an ordinance would be submitted at the next council session on the subject.

Complaints on new cars of Bonanza Motors parked in the street covered spaces on 14th Street and Highland Avenue have been received by the councilman. Mayor Peters is checking into the matter.

Building permits were approved for Dr. Thomas J. Blaney, Stan Higgins, Rolland C. Jackson and Gordon Nielson. A plumbing license was approved for Volco Builders, Jerome, and a Journeyman license for Ernest Hayward. A retail liquor license was renewed for Railroad Bar and a beer license was renewed for the Municipal Golf Course.

'Potty' Protest

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Assemblywoman March K. Fong says she will strike the first blow against pay toilets during a mass demonstration at the Capitol.

Mrs. Fong, an Oakland Democrat, told news men that more than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the pay potty protest parade to rally support for her bill to outlaw toilets in public buildings.

When the marchers reach the west steps of the Capitol, Mrs. Fong said, she will use a sledge hammer to smash the first pay potty in the history of California.

Salvation Of Lester Perez

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

The value of the ancient ecclesiastical discipline of excommunication may be expected to undergo some serious re-examination in the light of two recent cases. Mrs. Estelle Onassis and Louisiana segregationist Leader Perez.

Excommunication is no longer able to depose national leaders, for it does not appear to frighten many of its recipients with fear of eternal damnation. Instead, it would appear that the process hurts only those who really care for the Church.

And the standards applied in denying the sacraments appear to be as varied as to provoke bitter cynicism. As an example, the large numbers of Catholics who have been excommunicated for divorce and remarriage are no doubt wondering why the ecclesiastical status of the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy appears to be so vague, when she married the divorced Aristotle Onassis.

There are as many interpretations as to her status in the eyes of the Church as there are answers to the question as to why a Catholic bishop or priest would do if she came to the altar to take Mass.

In New Orleans, when the late Lester Perez was excommunicated in 1962 for flouting church authority by opposing Catholic school integration, this action by the Archbishop of New Orleans was announced in a press conference.

No such announcement was made in March of 1968, however, when Rev. Raymond P. Murphy's successor Archbishop Philip Hannan, Perez obtained "absolution from the Censure" by the public in Salt Lake City, and supporting the authority of the Church.

And in striking contrast to the New Testament assurance of "joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth"—the Repentance and restoration of the powerful boss of Plaquemines Parish in Louisiana was not even mentioned in the Archbishop's own newspaper, The Clarion Herald.

Moreover, such a significant report of a nationally-known segregationist was a unreported in the Plaquemines Gazette as well as both of New Orleans' dailies, The Times-Picayune and The States-Item.

Walter Cowan, editor of the States-Item, this writer stated "We knew nothing of this until 1 p.m. the day before Perez funeral." Cowan also noted that The Times-Picayune had originally reported that Perez would have neither a Catholic funeral nor burial in a Catholic cemetery.

Archbishop Hannan's statement shortly after the funeral, reports that Perez' excommunication was lifted after "his statement, made publicly on March 9, 1968 at a ceremony at Fort Jackson before a numerous group. The fact that it was not reported by the press does not affect the fact that it is a matter of the freedom of the press."

But the Archbishop's statement provided no details of either the size of the "numerous group" at Fort Jackson (a hamlet in Plaquemines) or what Perez had actually said.

If there was any real measure of repentance, Perez' statement it appears highly improbable that it would have escaped the attention of the interest of either the Louisiana or the national press.

George Singleman, one of Judge Perez' closest aides, told the press that he knew nothing of any change in the status of Perez' excommunication until a controversial mystery 4.00 k on a new dimension when six New Orleans priests issued an open letter to Archbishop Hannan which protested the burial service of what they described as "the leading racist of the South" with "full and solemn honors in a Christian church" as "a disgrace to all right-thinking persons Catholic and non-Catholic alike."

In reporting the statement of the six protesting priests, the Times-Picayune included a particularly provocative typographical error in which the priest who said that we must have regard for his family, we say that we can pray with them; have Mass among them; and bury Perez but in private, in their home as a ritual of acceptance." There is considerable public interest in the will of the late boss of oil-rich Plaquemines Parish. This will provides any substantial bequest to the Catholic Church, members of the laity may be expected to reinforce the protest of the six New Orleans priests.

As San Francisco's Father Eugene Boyle put it: "I fall to see how he could have been so foolish as to bequeath a full public retraction." (Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co. 1968)

College Choir To Sing At Buhl Service

BUHL—The Westminster College Choir, Salt Lake City, will sing Sunday morning at the United Methodist Church of Buhl, reports Rev. Paul V. LaRue, pastor, and Morris Sattig, chairman of the worship committee.

The choir will sing during the regular 11 a.m. service and will take the place of the sermon for that morning. Members of the Buhl United Methodist Church will attend the service and others from the community are invited.

Estimote is a liberal arts college founded by the Methodist Church, but now is interdenominationally related to the Methodist, Presbyterian and Lutheran churches. It is completing a 10-day tour of Idaho and Oregon with this performance. A wind ensemble of the church will play the prelude, offertory and postlude music for the service.

The choir is directed by Philip A. Day Jr., of the Westminster College Music Department. The wind ensemble is directed by Stephen Cole, student conductor. Kenneth Koehn is head of the department of music.

After the service, the Women's Society of Christian Service will serve a dinner to the members of the choir and ensemble before they return to Salt Lake City.

The repertoire of the choir includes "Exultate Deo," Scarlatti, "Ave Maria" by Mozart; "All-Breathing Life," Bach; "Alleluia," Berger, and two spirituals, "Were You There at Every Time?" and "The Spirit." The ensemble will play selections by Debussy, Bartok and Handel.

SINGING at the evening services Sunday at the Tyler Street Baptist Church will be the King's Harvesters. The services begin at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 288 Tyler St. Dick Shaffer, Twin Falls, heads this local singing group along with his wife, Carole, and Gladys Hills.

Cooperation Doesn't Mean Compromise

BY HOWARD OLSON
Pastor,
First Church of the Nazarene
Ministerial Assoc.

The Ministerial Association representing the churches of co-sponsors should be united front that is more effective than any other organization. The strength and the success of the association is dependent on the cooperation of the churches and the ministers, and this cooperation is not sacrificed with compromise. A united front to promote good citizenship, fair play, and common decency does not sacrifice individual doctrine nor church policy.

Perhaps many and varied suggestions could be given as to the purpose of a cooperative effort of the churches under the guidance of their ministers. Let me introduce three that come to my mind.

The first I would suggest is that it tends to create a better understanding. The darkness of prejudice and fear is overcome in the light of knowledge and fellowship. Biased opinions vanish with truth. Where can the religious leaders of a community who stand for human dignity and a faith in God be better examples than their cooperative effort in a ministerial alliance?

Secondly, I would suggest that the ministerial association is responsible for creating and developing "a church-mindedness" in the lives of the people
