TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1969

TEN CENTS

Kellwood Training May Start By May 1

First training programs for the Twin Falls Kellwood Co. plant should begin by May 1, Orval Bradley, CSI vocational school director said Thursday. Mr. Bradley said he hoped to pick a starting date by the end of the week. First trainees will be knitting machine fixers, who will require about a year's training. Two knitting machines have arrived in Twin Falls and will be set up at the training center at the C. C. Anderson building. About 20 knitting machine fixers should begin in the initial program, Mr. Bradley said. CSI employees who are being sent here will offer about 10 categories of training for the Kellwood Co. The programs will range in length from a year to about three weeks. Mr. Bradley said some of the first crash programs is completed. Between 300 and 600 people will be taking training in the first programs. It is hoped to pick instructors from the first trainees to teach the continuous programs. The first instructors will be CSI employees who are being sent here

U.S. Recovers Two Bodies From Missing Navy Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. destroyer in the sea off the Korean Peninsula recovered the bodies of one officer and one enlisted man from the Navy intelligence plane shot down by North Korea's Defense Department last week. It added it was now "gravely concerned" about the chances of finding any survivors. These reports emerged from temporary Pentagon briefings during the day. "The plane was apparently taken by surprise. There was no record of any transmission when it disappeared, and its last report was aired via radio teletype 50 minutes before the plane to land, in an attempt at piracy similar to the capture of the USS Pueblo. "The plane was under command of the U.S. Navy and had no mission for the Central Intelligence Agency, or the National Security Agency, or the Pentagon said.

Progress Of T.F. Urban Renewal Project Lauded

By RICHARD HIGH JR., Times-News Night Editor. The local project has moved rapidly, "despite its great complexity," Mr. Keyser said. The Twin Falls urban renewal effort is moving ahead rapidly, showing "the fastest progress of any company know of." A. Jerry Keyser, executive vice president of the Metrocon Division of Larry Smith and Co., a consultant for the Twin Falls project since its inception, said the local project has moved rapidly, "despite its great complexity." Mr. Keyser said the Twin Falls project is complicated by the numerous agencies directly involved and by the fact that all action takes place in "the fishbowl of public meetings." Mr. Keyser contrasted the city project favorably with a "much simpler" private, single-agency project in Medford, Ore., which was started before the Twin Falls project, but which has yet to reach the execution phase. "By contrast, in Twin Falls we're buying property—we're already in the execution phase," he said. Representatives of units interested in the downtown renewal project and corollary projects met in the city hall to give an informal public briefing on project progress to date. Twin Falls City Manager Herb Derrick told the 30 businessmen attending the briefing that "for the first time we can truthfully say everything looks green. I don't think we should feel so bad because we've run into problems."

Sirhan Jury Reaches 1st Degree Verdict

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan Sirhan was found guilty today of first degree murder for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The jury now must decide on punishment—life or death. The seven men and five women, who deliberated 16 hours and 42 minutes before reaching their verdict, found the young Arab was mentally capable of mature premeditation before shooting down the senator last June 5. When the verdict was announced Sirhan, who had been nervously chewing at his fingers, stared straight ahead and showed no emotion. After a moment's rest, the same jurors will hear arguments as to whether Sirhan's fate should be life in prison or a further find it to be murder in the first degree," she intoned. San Quentin. The penalty phase is expected to last only a few days in contrast to the 13-week trial. The prosecution already had announced it would not seek the death penalty but would tell the jurors either sentence would be just. Jury Foreman Bruce D. Elliott handed the paper with the verdict to a bailiff who showed it to Judge Herbert V. Walker and then passed it to Mrs. Alice Nishikawa, the court clerk who read it as the 25-year-old Sirhan listened intently. "We the jury... find the defendant, Sirhan Blahara Sirhan, guilty of murder in violation of Section 187, penal code, a felony as charged in count 1 of the indictment. We find Sirhan to be a murderer in the first degree," she intoned. See RENEWAL, Page 2, Col. 1.

Benedictine Priory To Open Next Week

Members of the Benedictine Order of monks will begin occupying their new priory next week in Twin Falls, according to a spokesman, Jerome, a spokesman for the order. The monks living at the priory will engage in a spiritual life, as well as actively participating with CSI students on a religious level. There also will be space in the priory for laymen to come and make semi-private retreats. Father Simeon said a dedication for the priory will be held, with a general public dedication and open house scheduled later. It is hoped the ceremonies can be held sometime about mid-May. Bishop Sylvester Treinen, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Idaho, and Abbot Damian Jeniges, Abbot from the Mother House in Oregon, will attend. Father Patrick Mowbray will be prior at the new facility.

Reply Planned

READING, Pa. (UPI)—Dr. Albert Schultz, president of Albright College, planned to reply officially today to 23 demands made by students who have conducted a "study-in" at the college library since Sunday night. DDT OUTLAWED LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—The Michigan Agriculture Commission moved Wednesday to ease the Great Lakes pesticide threat by outlawing the sale of DDT in Michigan.

Air West

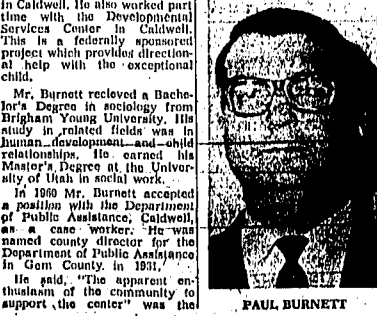

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A hearing examiner for the Civil Aeronautics Board has approved Howard Hughes' $15 million purchase of Air West Airlines. Examiner Ross I. Newmann said he found compelling that Hughes' purchase of the airline would assure the financial integrity of the business of Air West and assure the continuance of air service through eight western states including Utah, Idaho and Montana.

Crossed Lines Give Rare Advice

ELY, England (UPI)—"What should I do for a backache?" the woman asked her doctor over the telephone. "Why not try chicken chow mein?" was the reply. After several similar suggestions, the patient checked with the phone company and found the doctor had changed his phone number without notifying his patients. A Chinese restaurant had taken the number and the waiter who answered the phone explained the state of chicken chow mein.

Director Arrives To Take Charge Of Child Development Center Activities

Paul Burnett, Caldwell, has been named director of the Child Development Center which is to be constructed in Twin Falls this summer. Burnett said he had accepted the position in Twin Falls. Burnett reason it appeared the people here really want the center, and it isn't just something the state is sticking here. Mr. Burnett was in Twin Falls before accepting the position in Caldwell. He also worked part time with the Developmental Center in Caldwell. This is a federally sponsored project which provided directional help with the exceptional child.

Rotary Club Hears Talk On Work Of 40th Legislature

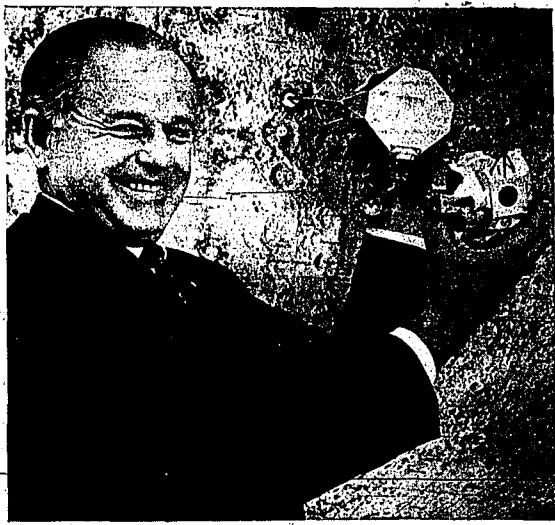

The 40th Idaho Legislature was characterized Wednesday by John Corlett, political writer for the Boise Statesman, as "one of the hardest-working in my experience." Mr. Corlett, speaking at the Twin Falls Rotary Club meeting, evaluated the Legislature's work by stating there were "no major failures, but some disappointments." A significant action and a major disappointment for Gov. Don Samuelson, he said, was the Legislature's failure to appropriate $1 million for fire 60 more state patrolmen. This refusal was an act of

Burley Will Assist With Water Lines

BURLEY—The city of Burley will assist in extending water lines to the Ponderosa Inn to provide better fire protection. But the Ponderosa Inn, which includes motel and a new convention center, must construct 200 feet of fire hydrant city lines to the new convention center. If this is done, the city would add approximately 200 feet to the line and install a fire hydrant. A resolution to this effect was approved by city councilmen at a meeting Tuesday night, according to Mayor Peter. The mayor first asked the council to approve the construction by the city of the entire 200 feet. "The fire hydrant would be a defend, and if fire trucks hooked on the fire hydrant would make the sprinklers inside the convention go dry," he said. "Two fire hydrants for that area are not enough for protection, and the addition would upgrade our water system and decrease fire rates," Mayor Peters said. Councilman John Croft questioned having the city furnish the entire water line, which would cost about $200,000, and set a precedent for the city. "The fire hydrant would be a defend, and if fire trucks hooked on the fire hydrant would make the sprinklers inside the convention go dry," he said. "Two fire hydrants for that area are not enough for protection, and the addition would upgrade our water system and decrease fire rates," Mayor Peters said.

THIS IS THE AFTERMATH of a fire at a cattle and sheep ranch owned by C. W. Cannon. The fire broke out at 4 a.m. Wednesday and an employe, Charles Mark, was notified by a passing motorist. The ranch is two miles north of Hansen. Firemen from the Elmore Volunteer Fire Department extinguished the blaze in two hours, but not before an estimated $40,000 damage had been done. The fire destroyed a granary, a dumptruck and grain and feed pellets. The cause of the fire has not been determined. Fireman stayed at the scene through Wednesday to make certain it wouldn't flare up again.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS OFFICERS OF NASA'S Ames Research Center, Calif.,—Bradford A. Evans, will be guest speaker at the annual Eagle Recognition Banquet at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley. About 300 people, including 64 Eagle Scouts, will attend.

Space Expert To Talk At Eagle Recognition Banquet In Burley

BURLEY — Scouts who have attained the Eagle rank within the past 12 months will be honored Saturday night during a banquet at the Ponderosa Inn. Al Hutchinson, field director for the Snake River Area Council, said about 300 people, including 64 Eagle Scouts, are expected to attend.

Guest speaker will be Bradford A. Evans, public affairs officer of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center, Calif. Mr. Evans is making his second appearance before the Snake River Council, having spoken here in 1967.

He is a 20-year veteran of the country's missile and space program. He began as public information officer for U.S. Air Force aircraft, engine and missile development, in Washington, D.C.

In 1949 he went to Cape Canaveral to organize and operate the public information program for the country's first long range missile launching facility.

As a lieutenant colonel, he went to Korea in 1952, where he was responsible for all Air Force and Marine Corps public information. He also served as an adviser to the Korean Air Force and later became deputy public information officer for the United Nations Command at the Panmunjon truce talks.

After returning to the states, Mr. Evans served as deputy information services officer for the USAF Air Research and Development Command. A fete employed military life, he became working with Space Technology Laboratories in Los Angeles.

Each of the 64 Eagles attending will be accompanied and sponsored by an area businessman and his parents. Wives of the sponsors also are invited.

George Forscher, Burley, is chairman of the annual Eagle Recognition Banquet. Committee members are Matt Smith, Ivan Skinner, Leo Campeau, George Coiner, Glen Simmons, Joe Clements, Earl Haroldson and John Coleman, all Twin Falls; Bob Peterson, Palmer Satterstrom, Dr. Charles Terhune, Lex Kuro, Dale Dunmire and Lewis Dille, all Burley; Hugo Coats, Rupert, and Judge James P. Gossett, Gooding.

Mr. Skinner will be master of ceremonies.

The event starts with a 7 p.m. reception. Dinner will be at 7:45 p.m.

Writer Begins Ocean Voyage On Tiny Raft

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An American writer, with a crew of two, has set sail on the Pacific off Peru's northern coast to match his wife and a fragile straw raft against the sea.

Gene Savoy, 41, a former Portland, Ore., newsman and freelance writer, plans to sail north toward Central America and Mexico to prove the theory that Indians made the trip perhaps 500 years or more before the Spanish conquest.

Savoy's 32-foot ship is similar, he believes, to those used by the Indians. It is constructed of a hollow reed which grows along the shores of Lake Titicaca and looks like a platform resting on two clogs.

The journey is expected to take about two or three months. Savoy and his crew, Italian Tomas Serafini and Peruvian Segundo Grandez, plan to stay with 10 to 20 miles of the shore most of the time but travel out 100 miles or more.

Savoy started the trip from port of Salaverry after several initial delays due to high tides. Dockworkers, fishermen and the curious watched the start of the voyage.

Savoy came to Peru more than a decade ago as a free-lance writer and amateur explorer. He is a self-taught anthropologist.

If he makes it to Central America or Mexico, Savoy said, it will only prove that the Indians could have made the trip. He said it will be a tossup between the time he expects to take for the trip — two to three months — and the time it takes the reeds of the boat to become waterlogged. If the latter happens, the boat will sink, he said.

Savoy also admitted it would be close to the hurricane season before he arrives at his eventual destination.

"And a straw boat is no match for a hurricane," he said.

City Water System Gets Final Touches

The old water reservoir south of Twin Falls is receiving a primer coat of paint as the final touches are going on the city's new water system.

The reservoir, which was covered with a dome top by Crom Prestressing last year, will be painted pink with a green hand around the top. These will be the same colors used on the new reservoir on Harrison Street and Falls Avenue.

Paul Newton, consulting engineer for the water project, said a crew of four or five men from Crom Prestressing has been working on the old reservoir for the past month. Mr. Newton said there has been little leakage from the tank itself, but there has been some from the old valves.

When Crom finishes the clean-up and work on the chlorinator building, Detweiler Brothers will install a chain link fence, sprinkling system and seed the grass. The Crom crew is expected to complete its work in about two weeks.

Mr. Newton said Detweillers still have some street patching to do. He said, however, last fall much of the patching was done too late. The contractors realized they would have to patch these areas again in the spring.

In attesting to the success of the new water project, the employees at the new pump station said they are getting one-tenth of one part chlorine per million gallons of water. Previous years at this time they were using from six to ten parts chlorine per million gallons of water.

Non-Degree Teachers Score Raise

JEROME — Jerome school teachers have received increases ranging from $350 for non-degree teachers up to $800 for those with degrees.

The action, at the monthly school board meeting this week, aroused considerable discussion and argument over the respective merits of raises for non-degree teachers vs. those with degrees.

Under the original salary schedule, non-degree teachers would have received $150 to $250 more per year, while degree teachers would receive about $800.

Barbara Mecham and Mrs. Fred Clubb, presenting the case for the non-degree teachers, said it was only fair that degree teachers start with higher wages, but they felt the raises between the two groups were too far out of proportion.

Salary increases should be based to a great extent upon experience, they said, and most of the non-degree teachers are working toward a degree.

Loren K. Skaug, teacher representing the Jerome chapter of the I.E.A., said there was no reason to pity the non-degree teachers because they had opportunity to obtain their degrees and be paid for doing so while many teachers with B. A. degrees, such as himself, had to pay for their education.

In other business the board accepted resignations from Katherine Ruwert, Frank Parker, William Stover, Kenneth Noble, junior high school principal; Frank Scherer, high school basketball coach, and Margaret Gnelue, who is retiring.

Hired three new teachers, but their names were withheld pending receipt of letters of acceptance and labled a resolution concerning transportation of children from Appleton and Falls City schools.

Also tabled was a recommendation by Superintendent Williams Lindcomb for instigating a physical education program for grades 1 through 10 under Title I program.

The budget hearing was set for April 28 and a trustee election is scheduled May 6.

Election Set

GLENN'S FERRY — The Glenn's Ferry Area PTA will elect officers Monday at meeting in the Glenn's Ferry High School library, reports Mrs. Charles Grow, publicity chairman.

George Powell, superintendent, will discuss the school's financial position, including the reason for the proposed mill levy for plant facilities.

Pete Ford received the red pencil award for his table topic, Ed Hartman presided and Richard Bohle was toastmaster for the evening.

Clyde Annis, Ed Harrison and Pete Ford were evaluators and Price Sears was table topics chairman, with Richard Bohle as timer.

On Income Tax

When man bites dog, that isn't news. When tax collector bites man and man hollers, "Hit me again, harder!"—THAT'S news. The man is Andrew Hacker, a professor of government at Cornell University, who estimates that he forked over more than $4 quarter of his income to sundry federal, state and local tax collectors last year. After giving the matter thought, he is convinced that he, and just about everybody else, should have been made to pay more. "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society," says Mr. Hacker, quoting Oliver Wendell Holmes. Even with the recently imposed surtax, our rates are low compared to other Western countries, and the quality of our civilization reflects this, he contends. He makes some telling points in an article in IBM's "Think" magazine: In a single year, we spend $2 billion on jewelry (as much as the total federal budget for the war on poverty); over $2.5 billion on foreign travel (matching what the 50 states spend on welfare); and not less than $3 billion on pleasure boating (almost double the government's outlay for foreign aid). Last year, more than 60,000 families built swimming pools; there are 1.7 million second homes in the United States, and since 1960 we have laid out more than 10,000 new golf courses for ourselves at a cost exceeding $2 billion (double the amount we pay for community water systems). These figures illustrate that there is no shortage of after-tax cash. One measure of civilization lies in the attitudes which more prosperous citizens display toward those less successful than themselves, says Mr. Hacker. He finds the United States clearly does not rate well by this standard. "Many of our prisons and mental hospitals, for example, are still medieval fortresses wherein society's failures are hidden from public sight. Some of our schools, clinics and even public housing projects are inhuman edifices so administered as to afford little more than sheer physical survival. Most of

WASHINGTON—It is squarely up to the college administrators of the country what Congress does about voting more millions for scholarships and loans to needy students. College authorities will have only themselves to blame if Congress angrily widens the ax on such educational funds. The widespread pussyfooting, temporizing and in some instances outright refusal of college officials to vigorously enforce measures passed by Congress last year to crack down on student rioters and agitators is seriously jeopardizing continued large-scale federal aid to students. That's the stern warning of Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, influential member of the Education and Labor Committee, and author of one of the disciplinary provisions—Section 504 (b) of the Higher Education Act. An Education and Labor subcommittee, of which Scherle is a member, is making a detailed study of the effectiveness of this and other statutes designed to deny federal aid to students engaging in violence and disorders. Under Section 504 (b), the withdrawal of such funds is mandatory, with responsibility for enforcement directly up to college authorities, as follows: "If an institution of higher education determines, after affording notice and opportunity for a hearing, that an individual attending has willfully refused to obey a lawful regulation or order of such institution; and such refusal was of a serious nature and contributed to a substantial disruption of the administration of such institution, then such institution shall deny, for a period of two years, any further payment to or for the direct benefit of, such individual under any of the programs specified in (this law)." Both the mandatory nature of this provision and the responsibility of colleges for its enforcement were strongly stressed by HEW Secretary Finch in his recent letter to college administrators. "It is important for all concerned to understand," Finch told them, "that Congress has spoken and that the law must be enforced. . . . Under this legislation the burden of administration falls upon the institutions. . . . I would suggest that these provisions be fully discussed by all parties at your institution: trustees, administrators, faculty members, students, and where possible, parents." "I hope that a thorough understanding of these provisions would enable you to better determine the ways and means by which you intend to deal with this legislation." Rep. Scherle was more blunt and explicit. "The American lawman, pointing rebuking college authorities for 'not clamping down on student rioters,' asserted that the patience is wearing thin because of such disorders. "The American taxpayer is willing to subsidize education," said Scherle, "but not agitation, turbulence and mindless revolutionary excesses. Colleagues in Congress tell me they are getting a heavy mail from constituents denouncing students flouting the law and demanding forceful action against them. One mid-western colleague who represents a district that includes a Big Ten University, told me that in response to a special questionnaire, he received thousands of replies overwhelmingly favoring denying federal aid to students taking part in campus disturbances. "There is no lack of law to curb these disorders, if college administrators will exercise the intelligence and courage to use it, and they had better get some starch in their backbones and begin enforcing the law or there is a very real possibility that public financial support will be drastically reduced. "The signs are very clear and inescapable, to those who will take the trouble to examine them, that taxpayers are getting fed up with spending large sums for education that all too often leads to chaos and destruction." Scherle expressed astonishment at a letter from Robert J. Cooper, assistant provost of Columbia University, scolding some of the most violent campus disorders in the country, opposing "legislation which attempts by financial means to attack the problem of student unrest." Cooper contended this would be a form of discrimination. "The discrimination argument is completely irrelevant and inapplicable," declared Scherle. "It is like arguing that a poor man and someone with means should not be fined for running through a stop sign because that would discriminate against the poor man. "Scholarships and student loans are granted on the basis of need. So in revoking a grant, that opens the way for a more deserving student to get it. If there is any discrimination, it is between two classes of students—those who are serious about getting an education and those who want to disrupt the functions of a university." Scherle also noted that it is up to colleges to keep other universities informed of disciplinary action taken against students. He called attention to a recent memorandum issued by the U.S. Office of Education stressing this point as follows: "Most important is the fact that action taken by the institution under Section 504, in effect, binding on all other institutions. Information concerning the imposition of a two-year suspension is required to be transmitted from one institution to another, should the student against whom the sanction has been applied elect to transfer. "Since there are no plans in the Office of Education to establish and maintain lists of rioters or persons prescribed under Section 504, the exchange of information relating to the imposition of such sanctions is clearly an institutional responsibility. "It will be several months before the House Education and Labor Committee acts on legislation for federal aid to higher education. The form of this controversial measure is likely to take its wholly contingent. "From the current outlook, the chances are that the bill voted last year for student scholarships and loans will be sharply reduced. "The government to continue to lend financial assistance to those who foment unrest, rebellion and violence is both stupid and grossly unfair to the taxpayer," declared Byrd. "The Attorney General has promised to enforce the laws against agitators who cross the line into terrorism. Such action is well overdue." "It is useless to have laws on the books if they are not going to be enforced, and I am glad to see someone moving at last to enforce them against the insurrectionists who have been having things pretty much their way too long." REAL JORDAN RULERS — King Hussein is holding his shabby throne wily as the will of the guerrilla commandos. That's the grim contention of an authoritative intelligence report that circulated in congressional quarters this week during the Washington visit of the embattled Jordan monarch. "Three points are stressed in this backstage intelligence document. "The commandos are now so powerful in Jordan they can take over control any time they want. The guerrillas work closely with army elements, particularly young officers. Also, the commandos have completely taken over the civilian regime and dominate it. "Overriding aim of the commandos is to precipitate another war with Israel. One means of doing this is to steadily intensify guerrilla warfare, including attacks on populated areas—for the purpose of inducing Israel to attack them. "The commandos have close ties with Russia, and are now getting an increasing flow of Soviet arms and supplies. Moscow is no longer supplying the commandos through Egypt and the other Arab governments; instead, it is dealing directly with the guerrillas. Details of the arms being sent monthly to Russia for training in guerrilla warfare — by Cuban and Viet Cong instructors.

MR. SPECTATOR Things Are That Way

There was a lot of comment when Mr. Spectator, enlarged on the action taken by the Twin Falls City Council in "ruling" on earthquake possibility in this area. Many comments were amusing — but Leo Tremaine, wire editor of the Times-News, took typewriter in hand and took the matter on from where Mr. Spectator left off. His comments about state legislature action are interesting, so read and absorb what Mr. Tremaine has to say: Dear Mr. Spectator: Idaho legislators, both in the state legislature and city councils, are wonder workers, to judge from recent strivings. The Twin Falls City Council, as you know, took a firm stand against earthquakes, declaring the city to be in a minor earthquake zone, and implying that no major quake had ever better joggle the city or dire results would follow. The state legislature took firm action in its recent session in the field of crime and punishment, in a unique bill which in effect circumvents all the tedious business of arrest, imprisonment, and trial of a suspected murderer. The legislature simply declares a murder, in certain cases, dead before the event happened. . . . a fast execution, indeed; right and thly. City legislators, who don't bother themselves with the situation of John Doe, say, were to place heavy insurance on his beloved spouse Mary Doe, with foul and dastardly intent, and, if, following payment of the first premium, he were to shove dear Mary off the Perrine Bridge, with intent of collecting the aforementioned insurance, the would-be law simply says—"That's a no-no!" The darling John Doe cannot collect simply because, in the eyes of the law, he's dead! Legally, he has "pre-deceased the decedent." He died first, in other words. (One might wonder how John could have brought about the demise of Mary if he had died first, but the law conveniently overlooks this minor technicality. This law might give all sorts of precedent to the desperate defense

Quick Officer, Call A Cop!

BRUCE BLOSSAT Hardship For Farmers

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Inflation clearly has become the great bugaboo of the Nixon administration's early months, yet the President seems ready to propose textile import quotas which could make it a good deal worse. Economic specialists suggest that prices on clothing and on fabrics for home furnishings may be bound upward from 15 to 25 per cent if European and other nations exporting textiles to America agree to the "voluntary" quotas Nixon appears to be seeking. But the danger is much greater than that. The countries exporting to us cannot be expected to agree curb their shipments of man-made fibers (cotton textiles already are under voluntary restriction as result of a John F. Kennedy trade without drawing some of our economic blood in return. If Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans' April visit to Europe brings us toward a quota talks in Geneva, as presently indicated, then we may look for hard retaliation. One sees the matter most clearly when it is understood that one-quarter of all this nation's harvested-crop acreage is presently cultivated for foreign markets. These countries include many among the stable bloc which we have long been quite heavily dependent upon. Even without any retaliatory restriction by them, their ability to buy farm and other products from us will be limited if quotas on textiles should be accepted. They need dollars to buy from us. It is plain, then, that any protective action which would lead to retaliation or diminish foreigners' ability to buy here could have serious repercussions in the U.S. farm economy — and beyond. Reduced overseas markets for U.S. crops would send the farmers clamoring to the administration for backup financial support. Any such added federal outlays would only further fuel inflationary fires. Moreover, there is no real reason to believe that the President could halt the protectionist drive by moving on the textile front. New voluntary quotas on steel imports were agreed to by other countries late last year, and a flood of protectionist proposals in other industrial fields is engulfing Congress. One of the great aspects of the whole protectionist matter is that the textile industry has not made out a good case for general damage from imports. A U.S. Tariff Commission study published in 1968 said U.S. producers have enjoyed unparalleled growth since the 1950s and that corporate profits — along with sales, employment and investment — had increased. According to some sources, textile industry profits in the first nine months of 1968 are said to have risen 23 per cent. And, while imports are indeed growing rather rapidly, they still represent a small part of the American market for textiles of its wearing apparel in 1968). Much of the imported material, furthermore, requires additional processing in the United States.

Baby Thyroid

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby was born with an inactive thyroid condition, which was found by a pediatrician after several tests at the age of 6 months. She seems bright but is slow in comparison with a normal baby her age. She started on a quarter grain of thyroid tablets two weeks ago. Her skin color and all-around condition seem somewhat improved. What are her chances in physical and mental development? —F.N. Reading between the lines, I gather that the condition is what is called juvenile myxedema, which is a completely deficiency with the child normal but lacking sufficient thyroid hormone. Early treatment, and the chances for normal development, physical and mental, are good. "This condition should not be confused with cretinism, which is a severe lack of thyroid activity, almost a completely inactive thyroid gland. Such babies show impaired development at birth, and treatment is necessary to avert serious lack of physical and mental development. "Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any harm in taking a quarter daily? I have been doing so for a month and find it does me lots of good.—A.H.K. The way to stop this condition, for one thing, as your bowel becomes accustomed to relying on the enema, it will lose its work naturally without such prodding. In time it also can lead to unhealthful irritation of the bowel. "With you'd read my booklet, 'The Way to Stop this Condition,' which explains how and why the bowel operates normally, and why the laxative habit, and why the enema habit, should be avoided. Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of this newspaper, for a copy. "As to your daily enema's doing you "lots of good," as a doctor I'd want to know in what way you think it is helping you. Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain the purpose of an exuberant patient taking loonidaz? The doctor at the health department explains it to me, but I did not understand the meaning of it. I have been an ex-patient since 1940, and am to take these pills for a year. "This drug was used originally to treat active cases. We have known from experience that the habit of taking enemas sometimes quite a good many years later, because germs lingering hidden in the secret sinuses of the bowels, may begin to multiply causing the disease to become active again. Unfortunately, sometimes the patient is by then pretty well along in life, and the habit is entrenched otherwise, and he is less able to throw off the disease. "In the last couple of years or so, there has been a great increase in use of loonidaz to prevent such relapses. It is not to be taken as a preventive either the patient, and besides protecting the patient, it also protects those around him. "The first time an individual of TB recovers, one must inform the family and friends usually are exposed to the germs before it is discovered that the case has become active again. Note to M.F.: I certainly am not advising anyone to "go ahead and masturbate!" However, excessive masturbation with a thing as worrying about it as much. There is no evidence that it "harms the reproductive organs" or makes you sterile. "Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for the booklet, "Ear Ringing—Details of the New Cure," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Today's remarks are aimed specifically at a man in his 60s who has developed blackouts or fainting spells, and who needs a doctor. However, my answers are directed at quite a variety of letters from other readers, too. "How important is a blackout? This depends on the nature of it. There is such a thing as postural hypotension — that is, a sudden drop in blood pressure in the brain because of changing position, as getting out of bed, or standing up suddenly after having been sitting quietly. "This is a brief dizziness, and vision can "go dark," or be blotted out momentarily. Sitting down or lying down again and then getting up more slowly will prevent this sort of thing. The person does not black out to the extent of losing consciousness. "Episodes of sudden nervous tension may times cause a similar occurrence. "But when a person completely blacks out and the above explanations do not apply, something serious may be indicated, and it is high time to have a thorough examination. "Episodes of sudden nervous tension may times cause a similar occurrence. Among the possible causes: "Epileptic attacks. These can do a lot of harm to one's life, even though there has been no sign earlier. In such cases, it often is secondary to some other condition, which requires attention. "Circulation. There may be some intermittent interruption of circulation to the brain (cerebral anoxia). "A certain type of heart block, interfering with regularity of the heart beat, may be occurring. This can be determined by electrocardiogram. "Anemia. Severe anemia — and this, too, deserves attention — can cause blackouts. "In some cases, these conditions may take extensive treatment; others can be corrected or controlled with considerable ease. "One must be aware that when one has had several blackouts, it is high time to pull one's head out of the sand and find out what needs to be done. County Studies Voting Machines

Complete county election returns within 15 minutes after the polls close could well be possible with the use of voting machines.

This was the conclusion of Twin Falls County Commissioners on return Wednesday morning from a California trip to witness voting machines in use in the Modesto area.

The district attorney's office charges it is medically worthless.

Defendants are Wendell G. Hendricks, 55, an osteopath from San Diego; the Rev. Kenneth Knox, 53, president of the Universal Life Research Foundation in San Bernardino, Calif.; and Mrs. Patricia Arbach, 69, of Orange, Calif.

All are charged with three felony counts — attempted grand theft, practicing medicine without a license, and conspiracy to do both.

Hendricks also is charged with two misdemeanor counts of selling a misbranded drug and two misdemeanor counts of selling a drug which was unlicensed for sale.

REVIEWING LEGISLATION which will be presented at the annual Idaho Youth Legislature Session Thursday through Saturday in Boise, are members of the Magic Valley delegation. From left, they are Deb Johnson, senate messenger, and Sally Williams, Cyndy Rock and Mike Frith, all senators. Nearly 30 youths from Magic Valley will attend the YMCA-sponsored session. Gov. Samuelson will address the group during an opening joint session.

Idaho Youth Legislature Starts Friday

The Idaho Youth Legislature, sponsored by the YMCA, will convene Friday in the State Capitol Building.

Twenty-seven Magic Valley youths are expected to attend. They will be representing seven delegations from four high schools, Chat Barlett, executive director of the Magic Valley YMCA and a member of the Idaho Youth and Government Committee, says.

"The Youth Legislature is the final activity in the YMCA Youth and Government Program. Our purpose in this program is to acquaint youth with the methods by which we in our American form of democratic self-government determine public policy. That," Mr. Barlett said, "is making our laws and to help them make practical application of Christian ideals to the problems of state legislation."

Delegates will attend from Buhl, Burley, Kimberly and Twin Falls. Mike Frith, Twin Falls, representing Beta Hi-Y Club will serve as chairman of the State Affairs Committee. He also will serve as a senator with Sally Williams, Tri-Y Teens, and Cyndy Ronk, Kappa Y-Teens.

Representatives from Twin Falls will include Cheryl Wilkie, Janet Dougherty and Jerry Gage. Kathy Lincoln and Karen Dockstader will serve as reporters. Sirhan's Jurors Ask Clarification Of Judge's Orders

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The jurors in the Sirhan B. Sirhan murder trial asked Wednesday for a re-reading of the judge's instructions regarding second degree murder, indicating they were leaning toward a lesser sentence for the killer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

After 17 more than 12 hours of deliberation, the seven-man, five-woman jury returned to the courtroom and requested Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker to clarify his instructions.

Walker read to them once again the requirements for second

Draft Boards Curbed

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal judge ruled Wednesday a local draft board can not reclassify a registrant 1A for burning his draft card or other violations of the "Selective Service System's delinquency regulations.

Judge John F. Dooning Jr. made the ruling in the trial of Noel Stanley Eisdorfer, 29, of Queens.

Dooning said that the reclassification violated the registrant's "due process" guarantee.

Eisdorfer was found guilty of failing to report for induction at Fort Hamilton June 29, 1967, but Dooning said he would consider an application to drop the indictment.

Local Board 67 had reclassified Eisdorfer 1A and ordered him to report for immediate induction when he was found guilty by the board of failing to correct his ID student (ROTC) deferment status and make other changes.

The existing delinquency regulations, when made the sole basis for the present case, for including a registrant in class and call-up other than those in which he would be included under valid classification regulations are not authorized by law," Dooning said.

The judge also said that application of the delinquent regulations to Eisdorfer as a registrant "denied him his liberty without due process of law."

Idahoan Dies Of Injuries From Car Wreck

PARMA (UPI)—The death of an 81-year-old Parma man Wednesday night in an Ontario, Ore., hospital has raised the state's 1968 highway fatality toll to 58 as compared with 71 on the same date a year ago.

Archie Keep was injured April 1 in a crash near Parma, State Police said he was driving a 1967 Impreza on the highway south of Parma on State Highway 18.

Keep had been listed in fair condition in the hospital up until the time of his death.

Industrialist Fears Nixon May Bring Recession

ORELAND, Pa. (UPI)—The Nixon Administration may have the "distinction" of being the first to create a recession during a war boom, industrialist Milton Shapp says.

The 1968 Democratic gubernatorial candidate said the "hoose of light money" is forcing cut-backs of urban redevelopment to the detriment of poor and moderate income families. He made the comments Wednesday at a meeting of the Associated Builders and Contractors of the Delaware Valley.

Shapp disputed contentions that light money is anti-inflationary. He said light money policies "court recession and unemployment."

The business executive claimed the nation is diverting resources to war "badly needed at home to ease both urban pressures and inflationary pressures."

He called on Nixon to de-escalate the war in Vietnam and to win the battle against "urban decay at home."

Californian Sets Record For Flight

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Bearded and tired, flier Alvin Marks touched down at his home airport Wednesday with a new around-the-world speed record for a light aircraft.

Marks, 42-year-old psychologist turned pilot, crossed the finish line—still in the air—at 2:51 p.m. PST and landed 9 minutes later.

He cut in half the speed record held by Sheila Scott of England.

Marks estimated his average elapsed time speed around the world at 70 to 75 miles per hour. The actual record time will not be known for some time. The officials send their congratulations to the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale in Paris which announces the official time.

Miss Scott took 29 1/2 days in 1967 to circle the earth in a light plane for an average elapsed time speed of 36.15 miles per hour.

'Small Molecule' In Brain May Hold Clue To Memory

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Dr. George Ungar, one of the original "memory transfer" scientists, believes he has traced the physical basis of memory to an encoded and rather small brain molecule.

His hope is to isolate one of the molecules and then to make them in the laboratory. If and when he succeeds it will "open a whole new field of research aimed at deciphering the memory code," he said today.

Ungar and Dr. Einar J. Fjerdings, another of the original "memory transfer" experimentalists and Ungar's colleague at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, spoke at different sessions of the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Their announced purpose was to make a "progress report" on experiments on rats and mice which in 1965 startled both the scientific and non-scientific worlds. They purported to show that the knowledge of a learned animal could be transferred to an unlearned animal by injecting an extract of the learned brain into the unlearned one.

Both scientists said memory or knowledge transfer by brain injection had been experimentally proved beyond reasonable doubt—in rats and mice. They indirectly answered skeptical and critical colleagues by live training in reporting new experimental results and by asserting their original results had been confirmed in whole or part in laboratories abroad and in this country.

Ungar also drastically limited the possibilities. He said "there is good indication that only information acquired recently under conditions of intense and intensive training is transferable." Furthermore, he said, "The degree of transfer is directly proportional to the amount of information injected." However, he said,

Court Delays Polio Loss Suit

BOISE (UPI)—A civil trial of a suit against a manufacturer of polio vaccine filed by a husband and wife has been scheduled for sometime after Sept. 1 in U.S. District Court in Boise.

Flynn R. and Florence Davis are seeking nearly $1 million in damages from Wyeth Laboratories.

Originally the trial was to have been held in January of 1968 after a retrial was ordered by an appeals court.

Pope Plans Visit To Church Council

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI will fly to Geneva in June to visit the World Council of Churches (WCC) and the International Labor Organization (ILO). The Pope's visit to the WCC is a journey to the home of Protestant Calvinism, that he described as "a sign of the times."

In announcing his seventh trip abroad during the weekly audience at St. Peter's Basilica, the Pope made no specific mention of his visit to the WCC. But officials of the Protestant-dominated organization said in Geneva they had received Vatican confirmation of the papal visit—Wednesday—morning by telephone.

The pontiff will make the one-day journey either June 9 or 10, sources said in Geneva.

The ILO, a world labor body that promotes better working conditions and social justice through the United Nations, will celebrate its 50th anniversary during the first weeks of June. The WCC is an organization of 221 Protestant and Orthodox churches.

The Pope's announcement of the trip came unexpectedly at the end of his speech at the weekly audience.

"There is a sign of the times," he said. "We have received an official invitation to go to Geneva and take part in the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the International Labor Organization..."

"To this invitation, so unexpected, corresponding to it does our feelings of esteem for this well-deserving and highly representative international organization, and according to our mission of justice, peace and brotherhood, we have, with humble gratitude, decided to accept the invitation."

There was no explanation from the Vatican of why the Pope omitted to mention the visit to the World Council of Churches.

Rotarians Slate District Meet At Salt Lake City

The annual conference of the 52 Rotary clubs in the Rotary district for this area will be held in Salt Lake City Thursday through Sunday, according to William Langley, president of the Twin Falls club.

"We will discuss matters relating to this Rotary district, in addition to hearing informative addresses and making plans for increasing our service activities," Mr. Langley said.

Among the principal speakers on the conference program is Arch L. Madsen, president of Bonneville International Corp., Salt Lake City.

The conference will nominate a Rotarian to serve as governor of this district for 1969-70. He will be elected, along with 228 other nominees of districts in all parts of the world, at Rotary International's 1969 convention in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Computer Service Offers 'Ticklers' For Memory

By ROBERT STANGER

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — Computers may never duplicate the intricate responses of their creator, the human brain, but they still are a better "memory bank" than man's cerebrum.

So now they're being used commercially as "memory joggers" in the "SOS division" of Canberra Industries, analytical instrumentation and research.

For a relatively modest fee "SOS" will feed into a computer vital statistics a subscriber might forget or information he might need should important documents stray or be stolen.

SOS will record "anything with a number," according to David H. Smith, 29, head of Canberra's sales force and originator of the service.

Depending on what is lost, we will assist a subscriber in obtaining a new document," said Smith, explaining that his firm has necessary forms for this, governmental or otherwise.

Another reminder subscribers of important dates a busy person might forget. A wife's birthday, perhaps, or a favorite piece's graduation. The subscriber will be nudged through a card sent to his office, and he is saved from possible embarrassment.

Smith said subscribers also can be reminded of expiration dates on magazines and insurance policies.

Or perhaps a subscriber loses his car keys while covering a sales territory hundreds of miles from home. A call to SOS and he can find out the factory code number to his keys, and forgo a car dealer can make him a new set.

The alternative might be trying to coax a locksmith to leave his shop and make an impression of the lock on the car, which could put a dent in a wallet.

Before handing out information, SOS checks on a caller's identity by asking his height, weight and birth date which is compared with information on file. "We have to be sure we are giving information to legitimate people," Smith said.

Smith's inspiration for SOS resulted from some personal frustrations. About a year ago he lost a gasoline credit card and wanted to notify the company. A company service station told him to call a New York City number. This resulted in the familiar "I'll have to transfer your call" runaround until he was told to have to write, not phone. . . . to an office in Kansas City.

It took the shock of a temporarily misplaced wallet before he fully realized the aggravating situations caused by the loss of important cards and documents.

SOS charges under $10 for a "package" registration covering credit cards, car keys, important dates and documents. For an appropriate additional charge, it will send the Mrs. a box of chocolates or a bottle of perfume.

Smith says that the broad base of appeal for the service (exclusive of the credit card side) has been surprising.

'MOURNING' ORDERED MADRID (UPI) — Chief of State Gen. Francisco Franco Wednesday ordered three days of official mourning to begin Thursday for former Queen Victoria Eugenia of Spain. The former queen, widow of Spain's last king, Alfonso XIII, died Tuesday night in Lausanne, Switzerland, on the 38th anniversary of her exile from Spain. She was 81.

DEAR ABBY: First you make some reference to the "Wives" of the famous Wright brothers, the inventors of the airplane. Then a man who signed himself "JACK H." wrote in and said you "gooted" because the Wright brothers were both bachelors.

Then some lady from Olympia, Wash., wrote and said you did not goot Jack H. gooted because her grandmother's sister was married to Wilbur Wright.

To set the record straight: MY father was Reuchlin Wright, he was the elder Wright brother. Wilbur died in 1912 and Orville died in 1948.

Orville Wright ("Uncle Orv") was called him named by the executors of his estate. I am sure there have been several Wilbur Wrights, and I do not know that the lady's grandmother's "Four Portraits of Christ, Our Good Shepherd" was the theme of the topic for the recent meeting of the Immanuel Lutheran LWML.

Mother Nature dresses the countryside in splashes of color to celebrate the arrival of spring. The dinner table can also blossom with signs of the change of seasons. This recipe for "Daffodil Meringues" will give just the right, light touch to your spring meals.

"Daffodil Meringues" are snow white, hard meringues filled with a bright yellow lemon-custard. They are a delicate and costly dessert. The sweet, crisp meringue and tart creamy filling complement each other.

The meringues can be prepared well in advance of serving. They can even be frozen if packed in crush-proof containers. The lemon filling can also be prepared in advance, in fact, it should be so that it has time to chill through. Wait until just before serving, though, to fill the meringues. Otherwise the meringue would take up moisture from the filling and lose its crisp texture.

Treat your family to this special dessert or serve it to the ladies-in-waiting. It will bring you compliments all around.

DAFFODIL MERINGUES
4 egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar

Lemon-Custard Filling
Add cream of tartar and salt to egg whites and beat until stiff peaks form. Add sugar, and beat well after each addition. Beat until stiff and shiny. Shape mixture into six to eight meringues with spoon or pastry bag, or several thicknesses of ungreased brown paper placed on baking sheet. Make each about three inches in diameter, leaving an edge to make rim. Bake in preheated 225 degree oven for 70 minutes. Cool thoroughly on wire rack before removing from paper. When cool, fill with Lemon-Custard Filling.

LEMON-CUSTARD FILLING
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup water
2 eggs
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/2 cup lemon juice

Thoroughly combine sugar and cornstarch in top of double boiler. Stir in water. Cook over medium heat until mixture boils, reduce heat and cook one minute longer. Blend small amount of hot mixture with egg yolks and eggs. Return to hot mixture and blend thoroughly. Place over simmering water and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in butter and lemon rind. Gradually stir in lemon juice until well blended. Chill. Spoon into baked metal tins to serve. Makes six to eight servings.

Betty Canary's Wonderful World

British businessmen are being warned that when traveling in behind-the-Iron Curtain countries, the secret police might be waiting for them in the guise of sexy, seductive girls whose object is blackmail. The British government is issuing warnings to its travelers in the form of pamphlets and newspaper stories. I understand that London's Angela Ince, a columnist for the Evening News, has been giving tips to British housewives on how to protect their husbands. One of her best ideas was that wives should insist husbands eat home every night at 8 o'clock. At the point out, "The amount of trouble a man can get into is minimal when he spends his evenings trying to make a telephone link between Omak and Boxleyheath." Her very best idea was that wives go along on the trip and bill the home government for the ticket. Wives of America's traveling businessmen are ready knowing about a thing or two. "Take Me Along!" is one line I'm singing to my husband. Of course that was before I found out where he went. I'm not going to mention any of the towns he visits here in the United States, but just to give you some idea, well, he's the only man in the company who is allowed to use Mule Rental and three bales of hay on his expense account. Because more husbands are traveling these days and because all wives cannot go along, we'll devote this column to methods for protecting husbands from agents and other foreign bodies. I have gathered some tips throughout the years and any wife is welcome to use them.

Combine sugar, gelatin and salt in a saucepan. Add milk and beaten egg yolks. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens slightly.
Remove from heat and add juice and peel. Chill until partially set. Fold in whipped cream. Chill until mixture mounds when spooned. Pile into baked pie shell. Chill. Place sliced mandarin oranges on top.

Economic Woes Vex British

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For the Labor government of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson it was a fairly normal day.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins had no good news to impart in his annual budget message. Instead, he told Britons they still were spending too much and demanded even more belt-tightening.

Neither the labor unions nor the Conservatives like government proposals for labor reform.

Labor was horrified that the government intended to limit its right to strike. Conservatives don't think the reforms went far enough.

And at an engineering plant in Lorry in the Midlands workers rejected the case of a 20-year-old apprentice welder suspended because he refused to trim his shoulder-length hair.

A quickie walkout on the issue had been settled by compromise—the apprentice could keep his long hair but would meet at another plant out of sight of management and customers, and would stay out of the company cafeteria. In return he would receive an extra hour at lunch so he could eat at home.

The day's events were not the culmination of Labor's troubles but only part of a chain of happenings which have plagued the Wilson government for more than a year and now threaten a crisis within the party.

A year ago it was devaluation of the British pound which forced Labor to cut back on its own cherished welfare program. Wilson's efforts to enter the European Common Market had failed. The question of breaking way Rhodes remained unresolved and a Wilson trip to Nigeria in an attempt to mediate that civil war also had failed.

The party had met a string of defeats in Parliamentary elections and public opinion polls gave the Conservatives better than a 20 per cent edge in public popularity over the Laborites.

Now the hottest issue was labor reform strongly supported by public trials of labor abuses.

Since January the country had seen a damaging 24-day strike at the British subsidiary of the Ford Motor Company, affecting Ford production not only in Britain but on the continent as well.

Twenty-four hour strikes had paralyzed mail delivery, slowed telephone service and interrupted banking services.

Planning Unit Named For Lincoln

SHOSHONE — Schedule of terms and appointments for the Lincoln County Planning Commission are announced by County Commissioners.

Clifford Ward, Richfield, who will retire from his present term in 1970, is the chairman. Others who are serving are Floyd Kising, Dietrich, whose term expires in 1974; Mrs. Alice Gerity, Shoshone, 1976; Ward Rawson, Shoshone, 1974; Clifford Stutzman, north Shoshone, 1972; Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, Richfield, 1974; Monte Johnson, Richfield, 1974; Daniel Cooper, Dietrich, 1972; Monte Sorensen, Dietrich, 1972; Lowell Maughn, Rt. 1, Paul, 1972, and Arthur Gerity, Shoshone, 1970.

At the Commissioners meeting this week, Mrs. Derinda Rapp was administered the oath as deputy treasurer, replacing Mrs. Wesley Monson, who moved from the county.

Quarterly reports were received from Mrs. Lucille Kinsey, clerk, $4,228.05; Sheriff Thomas Conroy, $2,200; Probate Judge C. M. Wilson, $50.00, and the monthly report of Justice of Peace C. W. Gwin, for $375.50.

Commissioners approved the state retirement plan for county employees, basing their action from a study having been made the past three months and support received from endorsement of the plan by the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce.

A letter was delivered to the Commissioners by the chamber secretary, Roy Hubert, which stated their support of a retirement program for the employees of the county.

The plan will be retroactive to February, in order to qualify for state rules.

Church Mergers Delayed

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press International

Merger of major Protestant denominations, on a national level, is years away at best. But local churches need not wait. They can begin now to practice Christian unity at the grass roots.

In essence, is the position taken by leaders of nine Protestant bodies—who are conducting small-scale merger negotiations in a forum called the Consultation on Church Union (CCU).

At its recent meeting in Atlanta, Ga., CCU adopted a set of guidelines for interchurch action at the local level. The guidelines suggest ways in which churches of different denominations, such as the same community, may pool their resources or even unite without waiting for their parent bodies to get into effect. It is for two or more neighboring churches to carry out joint programs of study or service. For example, a Methodist church, an Episcopal church and a Presbyterian church could jointly sponsor an inner-city mission which no one of them could handle alone.

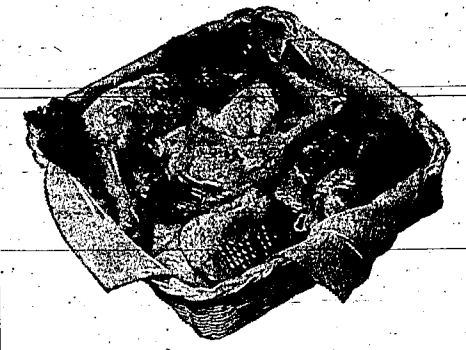

Another possibility is for two or more churches of different denominations to share a professional staff member—such as a director of religious education—who would serve the needs of both congregations. Or, joint use of facilities, such as parish halls or kitchens, which are used for only an hour or so each week.

In fact, with a will to do so, several churches of different denominations could work out mutually agreed-upon practical steps for sharing an entire plant, including the main auditorium or sanctuary in which Sunday worship services are held. The feasibility of this arrangement has already been demonstrated in the "model city" of Columbia, Md., and in the ecumenical inner city church jointly sponsored by several denominations in St. Louis, Mo.

Congregations prepared to go farther toward immediate unity are advised by CCU to consider two alternatives:

They could unite their ministries—which means that they would start worshipping together under the same pastor—while maintaining separate membership rolls so that each person in the combined congregation formally would retain his affiliation with his original parent denomination.

They could establish a federated church, which would send out (or triple, or quadruple) affiliation with the various national denominations involved.

Winery Files $65 Million Contract Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - A California winery has filed a $65 million contract suit against Schenley Industries, Inc., New York, and three other firms for allegedly renegeing on an agreement to sell 5,400 acres of vineyard.

President Robert Straknack said his firm made an oral agreement on Oct. 2, 1968, and next day a $100,000 payment for the acreage at Delano, Kingsburg and Livermore and for Schenley trademarks.

The complaint said Schenley breached the contract on March 10 after Straknack and Co. had disclosed valuable information on its wine- and brandy-manufacture and spent considerable sums preparing to take over a portion of Schenley's business.

Children Wear Rags, Though Family Nets $300 Per Month

By TOM TIEDE
ROSEWELL, Ga. (NEA) — About the only thing social workers ever learn with certainty is that there are no easy answers to chronic poverty.
 Henry B. Chadwick is a case in point.
 Henry, his wife and five small children live at the end of a red dirt road, a few miles westward of this tiny farming community.
 Chadwick, 54, hasn't worked for six years. He has emphysema, asthma and, as he puts it, "real bad stomach trouble most all the time."

Mrs. Chadwick, 38, is a school dropout, daughter of a pauper. She worked once in her life, for two weeks, "but my b-i-a-d-d-e-r wouldn't take the strain."
 The children, age 13 months to five years, wear rags. A school teacher who knows them well says they are "undernourished." Their only whole meal is at school lunch. The fare at home is mostly starch.
 The Chadwick home is a monument to privation. It is half a hundred years old and has never felt a drop of paint. The inside is papered with flattened cardboard boxes. A single turn-of-the-century coal stove heats a room that doubles as living and bedroom.

 The Chadwicks seem deplorably destitute.
 Only, in reality and all honesty, they aren't destitute. Their income, while not much, is not nearly as low as their standard of living.
 The Chadwicks' income is entirely welfare-derived. They receive Social Security disability checks ($65.70), aid to dependent children ($146) and aid to dependent children disability ($57).

In all, the family gets $300 tax-free dollars a month. Social workers are astonished that Chadwicks so little to improve the Chadwicks' lot.
 "Hell," says one state welfare employe, "up to five years ago I was making $60 a week in a job. And with taxes I took home less than $30. But I never lived in any pippen like these people."
 The statement is not made in degradation. Only pity. The welfare agent does not accuse the Chadwicks of money misuse, but he regrets their economic ignorance and believes "thousands of other poor folk" in this state (and others) are in the same ever-sinking boat.

 "The thing is," says Chadwick's caseworker, Mrs. Martha Simmons, "some people just don't know about money. They get it and it goes. I don't think they really think about what they spend it on."
 According to Henry Chadwick, who quit school to work after the third grade, every bit of his welfare money is spent on "necessities."
 He says he has food bills ($60 a month), rent bills ($35), light bills ($10), telephone ($10), heat

(two and one-half tons of coal each winter at $22.50 a ton), clothing for the kids, toilet accessories, and so on.
 "I got to give one of my girls 40 cents a day for lunch and another takes a dime for milk. It just don't stretch no farther."
 On paper, however, the Chadwick welfare income should stretch. His bills, at most, come to $150-$175 tops. That leaves in excess of $100 remaining. He gets surplus food from the government, and his medical bills are paid for by the state. He uses his brother's car and has no apparent indulgences in alcohol or other comforts.

 So where does his money go? "I got two pair of shoes I got to buy right now," Chadwick says, "it all adds up. Anything that comes along, I got to dig down and pay."
 Clearly, Chadwick doesn't know where his money goes.
 There, officials insist, programs within Georgia welfare which are designed to help Henry-Chadwick find out about his bank account. Adult education classes, for example, are offered by state and federal agencies.
 But Chadwick has never attended. Like many needy people, he's too far away, he's not well or, perhaps, he's just not interested.
 So the Chadwick family lives in the dark, much as it always has. Connected to the outside world by a welfare agent and a television set, living far the third of each month.

 "And, sadly, they are content with it all."
 "We like it here," says Henry Chadwick, kicking a beer can in his mud yard. "Needs a little fixin' up. Little rakin'." But we make do, you know what I mean, and this place ain't really bad at all."

Bobby Murcer, 22, and recently returned from the Army, couldn't believe it when Sheehy told him he was getting Mantle's old locker this spring. Mantle average to 438 and hit Mickey himself in Fort Lauderdale.

PRE-EMPTIVE BID STRIKES OIL

South's three-spade opening bid is a typical weak pre-empt. South doesn't expect to make three spades but he isn't bidding with any idea that the hand will belong to his side.

This type of bid is primarily designed to deprive the opponents of bidding space. Most of the time it gets them too high or keeps them too low.

This time the three-spade bid strikes oil. North is looking at a tremendous hand. Give his partner a seven-card spade suit headed by the king and North expects that a slam will roll in.

Roth and Rubens recommend that North jump right to six spades. He should do this, but have suggested in the bidding that North explore for the grand slam. It is possible that South may have a sound pre-empt with the ace of hearts in addition to his spade suit. In any event nothing is lost by using Mr. Blackwood's invention.

A lot might be lost by careless play. West shifts to the queen of clubs at trick two. South's dummy can only not afford the luxury of an immediate trump lead.

The only winning line of play is to cast dummy's ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond high. Next comes a spade to dummy followed by another diamond ruff. A second spade puts dummy in for another low diamond lead. Now South ruffs one of his losing hearts and discards his last heart and club on the king and jack of diamonds.

In case West continues hearts South must play the hand in similar fashion. In other words he must play to ruff three of dummy's diamonds to set up an eventual two discards.

Dachshunds Said Growing More Popular In America

DOGS — The dachshund is getting more popular. Couple years ago it ranked fourth on that list of dogs registered with the American Kennel Club. Now it's ranked third. The beagle, which was third, is slipping, evidently. Too bad. Fine dog, the beagle. The Labrador retriever is getting more popular, too. It has replaced the basset hound in tenth place.

IF YOU WANT to see what slaves we are to habit, try taking your coffee cup in your left hand and holding your doughnut in your right. Southpaws, vice versa. ... WHAT nice distinctions when putting together their dictionaries! For instance, the "sneer" is executed with the mouth, the "smile" only with the eyes. IT IS THE CONTENTION of the dairy farmer that the string milker can squeeze a cupful of juice out of a lemon and the county assessor can get another cupful out of the pulp. FORTUNE — Those old public weighing machines wherein you deposited a coin to get a card with your character analysis plus your weight any of them left? As a gaunt youth, I put a penny in one once and the card read: "You are extraordinarily attractive to the opposite sex. Your weight: 924 lbs."

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q—"DOES your Love and War man have any statistics on how many college girls are willing to kiss on first dates?" A. — He does indeed. Says his research indicates nowadays one girl in three expects to kiss her gentleman friend goodnight on their first occasion out, at least. Q—"WHEN I MEAN something is correct, I say it's 'on the nose.' A horse racing term, right?" A. — No, sir, radio men stated that one. When a director wanted to signal a performer through the studio glass that a program was moving exactly on schedule, he touched his forefinger to his nose. DURABLE FEMALE—Writes Dr. Joseph Peck: "In the small towns of an earlier day when automobile wreckers were not so commonplace, everybody on the street would follow the ambulance to the doctor's office. I made a rule that all the men should go outdoors before they fainted, and all the females hardly should put on gowns and get busy helping me clean up the mess. The female is much more durable than the male in gory situations."

ONLY PRESIDENT who didn't use "I" in his inaugural address was Theodore Roosevelt. TODAY the Peruvian catches more fish than anybody else in the world. WERE YOU AWARE Ohio used to be part of Connecticut. Not was. IN MR. SHAKESPEARE'S time the wedding ring was worn on the thumb. ... STASTICALY, it's the 35-year-old woman who is most apt to commit suicide. LEVERAGE — When a bird bends its knees, its toes lock into a tight grip. So what. Well, a customer asked why a sleeping bird doesn't fall off its limb. That's why.

'Open-Collar Informality' Marks Life In Busy, Modern Singapore

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The elegant Swiss watches in a store... Singapore to pass the time of day with three passersby.

et certified the Soviet discover... Berkeley, Calif. (UPI) — The "positive" discovery of element 104, claimed earlier by Soviet scientists, has been announced by scientists at the University of California.

The Singapore waterfront has been celebrated in film and fiction for generations for its brawls and brothels, smoky bars and opium dens.

Mr. Parr left Wednesday for Washington, D.C., where he will testify in support of the House of Representatives Bill number 277 before the sub-committee on domestic marketing and consumer relations of the House of Representatives.

U. S. Scientists Confirm Discovery of New Element

Berkeley, Calif. (UPI) — The "positive" discovery of element 104, claimed earlier by Soviet scientists, has been announced by scientists at the University of California.

Dr. Albert Ghiorso of UC said two forms of the new element were found in the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, including isotopes 104-227 and 104-253.

Behind the waterfront lies Singapore's Chinatown—teeming streets, outdoor food stands—alive with the sounds and smells of a lot of people living very close together.

Mr. Parr left Wednesday for Washington, D.C., where he will testify in support of the House of Representatives Bill number 277 before the sub-committee on domestic marketing and consumer relations of the House of Representatives.

Ricks Pupils To Present Rupert Show

Rupert — A good turnout is expected for a special variety show scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Minico High School auditorium.

Students from Ricks College, who will provide the entertainment which will include musical numbers and comedy acts.

The beer is cooled with ice cubes in the glasses. Chances of winning in the lottery are tens of thousands to one against, but the noodles are delicious at any of the Chinatown restaurants for well under $1.

Mr. Parr left Wednesday for Washington, D.C., where he will testify in support of the House of Representatives Bill number 277 before the sub-committee on domestic marketing and consumer relations of the House of Representatives.

To Honor Boisean

MOSCOW (UPI) — Alpha Kappa Psi, national business fraternity at the University of Idaho, will honor Dr. H. H. Boyle, as its 1969 "businessman of the year" at a banquet here Saturday, Leland B. Jervik, Moscow, announced Tuesday.
