Rail Centennial Draws 12,000 To Utah Site

PROMONTORY — SUMMIT, Utah (UPI) — One hundred years of transcontinental rail travel was commemorated Saturday and true to tradition, the last spike was missed again. More than 12,000 spectators, including government officials, rail buffs and the curious, came to this remote desert scene by car and bus to watch an exact reenactment of the driving of the golden spike. The 100 years ago linked the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts for travel by "iron-horse."

And just as it happened on May 10, 1869, the key figure missed the spike and the job was finished by an actor portraying a railroad worker. But still the word was flashed across the nation to President Nixon that the commemoration had been successfully completed. Five spikes in all were used in the ceremony — two gold spikes from California, a silver one from Nevada, an iron-silver-gold spike from Arizona and the "last" last spike, a plain iron one.

The first four were gently tapped into pre-drilled holes with a silver tool just as they were 100 years ago and then an iron maul was used to pound in the final iron spike and complete the ceremony. Transportation Secretary John Volpe headed the group of government officials, which included Gov. Calvin L. Rampton of Utah and several other representatives from Utah, Nevada, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming and California.

The rail buffs at the scene Saturday were unable to complete their journey by rail. The nearest railroad line now is 40 miles away. Modern-day diesel unit apparently because Union Pacific refused to allow the slow-moving beam-engine-on-its-rails. At Promontory Summit, antique rails and hand-hewn ties had to be laid down specially for the centennial event. The old rails were torn up during World War II and donated to the war effort.

In halting the historic anniversary, Volpe said completion of the rail-link 100 years ago was "one of the earliest triumphs of American know-how — a great epic of human will and determination." So authentic was the reenactment that the script called for the actor playing Leland Stanford, California governor and president of Central Pacific to miss the spike. Just as he did at the original ceremony. And, once again, a telegraph circuit was set up to flash the news. "The last rail spike is driven. The Pacific Railroad is completed."

Chiropractors Hear Of Help Given In Mental Health Ills

Importance of chiropractic treatment in alleviating non-psychotic mental health problems was stressed Saturday by Dr. R. Dwayne Moulton, Boise, addressing closing sessions of the 54th annual convention of Idaho chiropractic physicians. Dr. Moulton cited numerous examples when chiropractic treatment "release tensions and relax nerves has contributed greatly to the mental control of a patient.

Auxiliary officers are Mrs. Dale Olson, Emmett, president, and Mrs. E. Donovan Matteson, Nampa, secretary-treasurer.

In ceremonies following the annual banquet of the organization Friday night, Dr. Douglas H. Bobs, was awarded the "Chiropractor of the Year" award by Dr. Garth Atwood, Buhl, district governor, American Chiropractic Association. Dr. Hilt was recognized for his outstanding contribution to the profession and to the public through his work during the past legislative session. Tribute was also paid, through several testimonials, to Dr. Milton I. Higgins, Coeur d'Alene.

An Editorial ... Ah, Wilderness

If Don Samuelson had a chance of succeeding himself as Governor of Idaho in 1970, he probably threw it out the window when he endorsed the proposed road and mining development in the White Cloud area. Gov. Samuelson has been in many major battles since the first day he took over his job. He seems to thrive on controversy. If he does not, he has a new controversy he should really have a new birth as a result of his backing this open-pit mining project in the heart of this scenic area of Idaho. The fire aroused among sportsmen and others concerned with preserving scenic attractions was immediately evident. It will become more organized as time goes on and Governor Samuelson will now be the direct target of that fire. But even above the fact that the mining interests might just get the rights they want, is the fact that this whittling away of Idaho's scenic areas is a combination of errors. The errors have been made by various agencies including the U.S. Forest Service. Errors have been made by those who have sold some of the Stanley Basin-Sawtooth Valley iron land for haphazard development projects.

Foes Hit Mining Venture

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The U. S. Forest Service held a hearing at Idaho Falls Saturday to listen to opinions on the proposed road into the White Clouds area — and heard 25 speak in opposition to plans, and three favoring the proposal.

American Smelting and Refining Company (ASARCO) has applied to build a 10-mile road into the rugged White Cloud Peaks area on the ridge of the Challis and Sawtooth National Forests. The estimated 10-mile road would lead to a planned open-pit molybdenum mine that American Smelting and Refining claims could eventually to a multi-million dollar venture.

Idaho Falls Mayor S. Eddy Pederson said, emphasizing that he was at the hearing on an individual, said "it is our responsibility to protect natural resources."

Keith Whiting, the state's "architect mining laws" he examined before the application is considered, adding, "We should take a long look before we open the road into the area." He said the Forest Service should evaluate the losses against the gains.

Keith Whiting, an ASARCO official, said that officials were predicting a shortage of the metal in about 30 years. He said a search was underway to locate the natural resource.

Whiting said "he was in the area last summer and was able to ascertain that the area contained three million tons of molybdenum." He said the proposed mine would employ many persons, and bring substantial tax revenue to Cluster County and the state of Idaho.

Norman Vines, manager of Northwest Mining operations, said that while no emergency today exists for the metal, he said the nation was "depleting metals faster than they are being produced." He added that "going full steam" the mine would not be ready for five years.

Vines said the mine would take about 20,000 tons of the metal each day when it was fully operating. He said about 350 persons would be employed in the mine, and another 2,500 would be hired, with consideration given to families of miners.

Trustees To Air Dispute At Meeting

School board discussions involving students of the Twin Falls High School who participated in distribution of an off-campus publication at the school last week will be "open or closed" according to the wishes of the various students and parents.

This announcement was made Saturday by Dr. Ernest Rungland, superintendent. The board session will be Monday evening in the school administration building.

The school official said that wishes of parents and students would be observed in the matter of requests for open or closed hearings. In the matter of any closed sessions, results of the board's action would be announced as soon as any decision had been reached.

Officials said that Mike Healey, senior class president and one of those involved in the incident, has prepared a public apology, which will be read at the hearing Monday.

Ex-FBI Agent To Address Burley Meet

BURLEY — H. R. Overton, retired FBI Agent, vice president and director of security for Master Charge Bank Credit Card and Western States Bank Card Association, San Francisco, Calif., will be the featured speaker at the Monday luncheon of the 19th Annual Western States-Crime Conference at Ponderosa Inn.

The conference will get under way with registration Sunday and the sessions will begin Monday and run through Wednesday, with special events planned for the ladies.

Mr. Overton, a member of the California Bar Association, served in the FBI for more than 20 years and for seven years thereafter was vice president of the Carte Blanche Corp. For the past year he has been vice president and director of security for the Western States Bankcard Association.

He is a member of the Society of Former Special Agents of the FBI; the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the American Society for Industrial Security.

Also he is a member of the California Check Investigators Association; the California Peace Officers Association and the Bay Counties Peace Officers Association.

Gov. Don Samuelson will welcome Ex-FBI, Page 2, Col. 7.

Converted B-26 Slams Houses

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (UPI) — A converted twin-engine World War II bomber with mechanical trouble skidded low over a playground crowded with ball-playing youngsters Saturday, then crashed into an apartment house and burst into flames.

All four persons aboard the prop-type plane were burned to death but a major disaster was averted by the pilot, who apparently planned to use a baseball field as an emergency landing strip but changed his mind when he saw the youngsters there.

The craft, a converted B26 bomber operated by the Aeronautics Division of North American Rockwell Aviation Company, clipped a corner of one apartment house and then exploded. The flaming wreckage fell into a courtyard in a cluster of three apartment buildings and burned to rubble and ashes.

A Police Department spokesman said the lone casualty in the apartment houses was a 12-year-old girl, Debbie Ryerson, who suffered lacerations when she was hit by bits of flying debris.

Some apartment residents broke windows to make their escape when the plane hit across the street from the Eucalyptus Playground. A playground employe said the craft tried to land on the baseball field, but pulled up because it was filled with youngsters.

"We've got two baseball fields here, and the stands were filled," Phil Near told UPI. "One of the ball players, 13-year-old Jeff Wurzel said he could see the pilot's face as the plane flew low over the field. "It looked like he saw us," said Wurzel. "We all started running because we thought at first he was trying to land."

Mrs. Audrey McNeel, an apartment house resident, said the sound of the plane coming in for its crash landing reminded her of the V2 rockets which she called "Doodle Bugs" — heard when she was a youngster in England during World War II.

El Segundo policeman Ron R. Green was on duty in a squad car and said he saw the plane taking off from International Airport.

"It was banking to left extremely," he said. "It looked like it was going down." Green alerted police headquarters and set up emergency procedures at the scene. The pilot's burned body was still strapped in the seat after the flames were doused. A North American spokesman said the plane was on a test flight, carrying classified electronic equipment.

Judge Faces Charge Of Check Error

Buhl — Justice of the Peace Karl Robertson, Buhl, was free on $1,000 bond Saturday after being arrested late Friday and charged with issuing an illegally dated April 6 check.

The complaint against Mr. Lewis was signed Friday by Twin Falls County Clerk and Auditor Harold Lancaster. Speculatively, it is alleged to have issued a check in the amount of $58.50 to cover his April court report to the county.

Justice of the Peace Reed P. Maughan, Twin Falls, set the bond which was posted a short time later. Mr. Lancaster said the check was dated April 6 and was returned to county Friday. The check was written on a county account maintained to transact justice court business.

Books of the Buhl Justice Court are currently being audited from the time Mr. Lewis took office two years ago. Mr. Lancaster said further action will depend on the outcome of the audit.

It is expected the audit will be completed early in the week. Mr. Lewis is also Buhl city judge and has been in business in Buhl the past 30 years. He was a successful candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of sheriff last August.

Tornadoes

By United Press International
A rash of tornadoes alighted across Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky Saturday, leveling scores of persons. Thunderstorms damaged other areas of the Midwest. Whirlwinds whirled behind the storm. Shepherdsville, Ky., was among the hardest hit communities. At least 20 persons were hurt when a tornado struck south of the city, demolishing six homes and a mobile trailer.

CSI To Graduate Third Senior Class

At 4 p.m. today the third graduating class of the College of Southern Idaho will file into the Fine Arts Center to accept degrees and certificates.

Commencement ceremonies mostly will be restricted to families of the 286 graduates, according to Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women. Graduates will be issued tickets for their families and those holding tickets will be seated first in the 1,000-seat auditorium of the Fine Arts Center.

Commencement speaker will be Dr. Edward P. Smith, president of Grays Harbor College, Aberdeen, Wash. Dr. Smith has held his present position since 1953.

He began his higher education at the college he now administers, graduating from Grays Harbor in 1938 with an associate of arts degree. He continued his education at Central Washington State College, Harvard University, Notre Dame, University of Washington, University of California and Washington State University.

Dr. Smith has been an instructor and coach on the junior high school, high school and college level. Prior to assuming his present position, he was superintendent of schools in Quinault, Wash. He belongs to many educational organizations.

visited Mr. Crabtree this week to discuss an exhibit which will be shown from February through April, 1970. Mr. Crabtree will be in New York for the first few weeks of the presentation and will give demonstrations on his flint work.

Eastern Archaeologists "Discover" T. F.

The Twin Falls area was described as a latter day New England by Dr. Junius Bird, a curator of South American archaeology for the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

Dr. Bird and his colleague Dr. Richard Gould recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Crabtree, Kimberly, to plan an exhibit for the museum.

The Peruvian archaeology expert said after meeting some of the progressive and dedicated people of this area he was reminded of the ingenuity of the New England settlers. He said people like Bill Herrett, Filer, have adapted their minds to the problems of the area and continue to progress in a relatively untouched and natural area. Mr. Herrett has designed many implements which have been useful to area farmers.

Dr. Crabtree introduced the men to Norman Herrett, Herrett's Arts and Science Museum; Steve Herrett, Herrett's Hardware Stocks, and to Gene Timmus, Hagerman. Mr. Timmus has followed the flintknapping techniques for which Mr. Crabtree is noted.

Dr. Gould said they were especially impressed with the Arts and Science Museum and said a man with Mr. Herrett's energy is rare. He said as a young boy he visited a similar museum in Boston, and when it was first begun was smaller than Mr. Herrett's. Dr. Gould said it is almost unbelievable that one man could have done this by himself.

The two men pointed out that the people of this area probably don't realize what talented men they have in the Herrett brothers, Mr. Crabtree and Mr. Timmus. They said they would welcome them to this caliber on the museum staff.

Dr. Bird, a spritely white haired man, was especially pleased with the fine crop of dandelion greens in the area. In fact, he was having some for breakfast the morning of his departure for New York.

His companion said Dr. Bird also delights in preparing catfish and other unusual dishes he has learned about from working in the field. He is known as the foremost expert on Peruvian archaeology and appeared this spring on the NBC special, "The First Americans," a digging in South America along the Straits of Magellan.

Dr. Bird has proven his ingenuity over and over, but he claims one first. He tells his friends he was the first man to float a Model T Ford across the Pampas of Argentina.

The archaeologist, while in the field, found himself in a situation where he had to cross the waters. He said he had done some stalling and managed to ford the water and cross safely.

Dr. Gould, who received his doctorate in archaeology in his native Australia, and his wife, Elizabeth, spent one year living with the aborigines in the western desert of Australia.

They took part in the native ceremonies and experienced the primitive way of life. The anthropologist explained that by living with these people they are able to trace the ways of primitive man. He and his wife have written a number of papers about these people.

The two men traveled to Idaho State University Thursday to view some of Mr. Crabtree's flintworking displays. Dr. Bird was planning to leave shortly for New York, but Dr. Gould will stay on with the Crabtrees to work on the museum display and to learn some of Mr. Crabtree's techniques.

Ron Rolinger Is Circle K District Head

Ron Rolinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Rolinger, Twin Falls, was recently elected governor of the Utah-Idaho District of Circle K International. He was chosen at the organization's annual convention at Boise State College.

Representing Circle K Clubs of 15 colleges and universities throughout the two states, he succeeds Bruce N. Hutchinson, University of Idaho.

Mr. Rolinger has been active in Circle K the past three years. He was a member of the College of Southern Idaho Circle K Club before transferring to Idaho State University this year.

While at CSI he served as club secretary and was chosen the 1968 district outstanding member of the year at last year's convention at Provo, Utah.

He has served as publicity chairman and editor and founder of the club's paper this year.

He was appointed district publications secretary and editor last January and has served in that capacity until his election Aug. 27. In addition to his Circle K activities, he has served as co-chairman of the ISU blood drive this year and is on the Interdisciplinary Council.

Mr. Rolinger is a junior education major and is a writer for the "Bengal," the school newspaper.

He will assume his duties immediately, presiding over the 15 Circle K Clubs of the men's campus service organization, which is sponsored by Kappa International.

Former Students Speak At Declo

DECLO — Bruce Darrington and Mike Matthews, two former Declo High School students were outstanding athletes, spoke at the annual "D Club" Banquet in the LDS Cultural Hall.

Mr. Darrington, who is on the track team at Brigham Young University, encouraged the young athletes to remember they are examples to the younger children.

Mr. Matthews, a physical education major at Idaho State University, Poastello, pointed out going to a small school does not limit athletic potential.

Merrill Robinson, master of ceremonies, introduced David Darrington, secretary who related highlights of the athletic clubs activities the past year.

Lawsuits Ask $25,968 For Crop Damage

Two lawsuits asking $25,968 in damages in connection with lost agricultural crops allegedly resulting from the use of a herbicide have been filed in Fifth District Court.

The suits are against the Archem Products Inc. This brings to six the number of suits filed in the last two weeks against Archem. The total amount of damages asked in all six suits is $67,980.

In the two recent suits, Charles Harris, Bernice M. Swartz and Mary Boyd filed one and Floyd H. Olsen filed the other. The three plaintiffs in the first suit ask $1,103 for losses of beet, wheat and mixed grain crops. Mr. Olsen asks damages for losses of beet and bean crops.

Mr. Olsen asks $18,865 in damages. The plaintiffs in all six actions claim the use of Pyramin herbicide, on crops in 1966 caused the damage.

They allege the herbicide was sold by the defendant firm.

Riotous Students Destroy Small Town In Orgy Of Mother's Day Vandalism

ZAP, N.D. (UPI)—Lucky's bar only has five stools and six booths but the owner had 10,000 cases of beer on hand for weekend consumption. He may not re-open to sell them.

The town of 339 residents, was selling hamburgers at the rate of 1,000 an hour but Jan remarked Saturday, "I'm sad. I'd like to get them out of here."

Bernie Steckler, an insurance salesman from Mandan, came with 7,000 Zap maps and had distributed 4,000 by Friday night.

Instead of bedding down in the park of this community previously billed as the "Fox-Lauderdale of the north," hundreds of students jammed into Jan's Cafe to escape the cold temperatures reading in the 30s.

Nearly 3,000 students are here for what has variously been called a "Mother's Day zap out," "zap out" and "zap to zap bust."

Their arrival here Friday has met with a varied reaction from Zapians. Some mingled cheerfully with the students while others sought shelter in the town hall, turned out the lights and kept their voices low.

The town's four businesses—the cafe, Lucky's, Paul's bar and the Shopper's Market Grocery—expected a windfall $100,000 profit for Zap. Saturday the town scratched its collective head and wondered if the profit would pay for the damage.

Paul's and Lucky's closed early Friday night and may not re-open. The insides of the tavern were torn apart, one restaurant said.

A temporary dance hall, set up in one room of the town hall, was gutted—its plaster board walls, display cases and booths dismantled to provide fuel for a huge bonfire in the middle of the main drag.

Jan Beck, owner of the cafe—which for this weekend only is an all-night cafe and not necessarily by choice—said her windows were broken and other heavy damage had been done to her restaurant.

The local gendarmerie and state police had enough by 11 p.m. They blocked the town, closing off North Dakota 7 to 8 and 10.

The blockade was set up after one driver drove through a barricade of the main street where students were mingling around a huge bonfire fueled by the town hall's contents and the foundation of a building under construction.

The students smashed the car's rear window, put several dents in it and washed it down with beer.

The smell of singed hair and clothing wafted over the crowd.

A newspaper in Glasgow-Scotland, did some digging and came up with some remarkable similarities between Apollo 8's round-the-moon voyage and the lunar journey described by Jules Verne in "From Earth to the Moon" over 100 years ago.

ANDREW TULLY Grace To Be Embarrassed

WASHINGTON—I thought the day would never come, but it now can be reported that the United States Senate, that fascinating mixture of statesmen and posturing clowns, has the grace to be embarrassed. Or, at least, uneasy about what the folks back in Pocatello might be thinking.

There's always Sunday.

"No good. On Sunday I promised to meet with some students who want to abolish the Fourth of July."

Practically the victim of thrill with diligence and in a year's time your brother-in-law will borrow whatever you have accumulated.

PLANTING TREES, 1,000 of them, took several days recently. Decla, Becky Hurd, Earl Hurst, was among the sixth grade class which assisted the Decla Kiwanis club in the project. The Scotch pines were planted on the ranches of James Rodgers and P. H. Finqua. Fifty of the trees will be kept on the Rodgers ranch as a windbreak and the rest will be sold for Christmas trees as a future fund raising project. Seventh and eighth boys also were called on to put shovels to use.

Court Overhaul Urged To Eliminate 'Supermarket Justice' In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A complete overhaul of state criminal systems was urged Saturday by a group of judges and leading lawyers to get rid of "supermarket justice" dispensed by jammed city courts unable to cope with growing social disorder.

They called for creation of state departments of justice encompassing public defenders and prosecutors, police activities, court administration, probation and parole.

The report was issued by the National Defender Project, an arm of the National Legal Aid and Defender Association, an organization created in 1964 under a $2.4 million Ford Foundation grant to promote the defense of accused persons who cannot afford a lawyer.

The project's report said courts are waging "an increasingly unsuccessful holding action against growing disorder," as they are unable to adjust and cope with what is, in essence, a growing revolutionary society.

The quest for order has now totally supplanted the quest for justice, for justice is the first victim in a courtroom where the judge's primary concern must be in keeping his docket current," the report said.

"This 'supermarket' justice dispensed in urban criminal courts may weaken a society in which increasing numbers of people are weakened and are questioning the validity and integrity of that society's institutions.

"In the area of criminal justice, this nation must be prepared to reconsider and perhaps reject its attachment to judicial structures and apparatus devised for a way of life that no longer exists."

The project chairman is New York lawyer Orison S. Marden, a former president of the American Bar Association. Members of its advisory council include Associate Justice Paul

C. Reardon of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, Justice Walter V. Schaefer of the Illinois Supreme Court, President of the American Bar Association Justice Bernard Botwin of the New York State Appellate Division, Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, lawyer Leon Jaworski of Houston, Tex., and former Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Whittaker of Kansas.

The proposal for revamping state administration of criminal justice was made by Prof. Lewis R. Katz of Case Western Reserve Law School in Cleveland.

Urging inclusion of police functions in state justice departments, Katz said many decisions within police departments have been made "solely because they received neither directive or guidance from any other public agency."

Department directors, he said, must have responsibility for selecting policemen through civil service and training them in criminal law, procedure, civil rights and communist relations.

Both the prosecutors' and defenders' divisions would be able to use investigative and laboratory facilities. "It should be part of a 20th Century metropolitan police department," he said.

Most indigents still are defended by private lawyers appointed by trial judges in individual cases. The project advocates a more organized system for appointment of counsel.

The report noted that Houston (Harris County), Tex., has made available a permanent staff of lawyers and investigators to assist appointed attorneys. The virtue of this plan, the report said, is that all lawyers in the county are required to participate.

There are 296 defender offices in the country whose function "is to defend the indigent," according to the report. Federal and state

Sen. Mansfield Sees Hope Of Peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Mansfield said in an interview. He declined to discuss the nature of the moves except to say they have not been made public.

The Montana Democrat disagreed sharply with a member of Nixon's own party, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who Friday criticized the administration for a "sterile and unsuccessful" Vietnam policy.

"I anticipate action," Mansfield said. "It may not come as soon as we would like," he said, and his advisers are aware of some of the results in South Vietnam," Mansfield said in an interview. He declined to discuss the nature of the moves except to say they have not been made public.

Governor Commends Governmental Links

MCCALL, Idaho (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson told the Idaho Federation of Federal Employees Saturday that a feeling of mutual respect has emerged between the state and federal governments.

"I am frank to admit that there has been concern on my part for a long time that the dangers of federal domination are always present," Samuelson said.

"I insist that as long as Idaho and other states meet their obligations and responsibilities, there is no necessity for federal intervention, and unnecessary meddling."

"Because most states have moved to assume and assert their own rights and responsibilities, I believe a feeling of equanimity has developed between state and federal governments and emerged," he said.

"Relations are excellent between Idaho and the departments of national government which all of you represent."

Samuelson reiterated his belief in the concept of multiple use of public lands while allowing for some exceptions such as the limitation of the Sawtooth Primitive Area to single use as a recreation area.

He also praised as "commendable" the progress made in Idaho highway building and maintenance, "considering the huge size of the state and the limited number of dollars available."

"Idaho gets good mileage from its highway dollars," he said. "I might even add that some of those dollars seem to have gone much further than they were intended to go."

Samuelson also spoke out against tax increases either at the federal or state level of government.

Rail Engineer Faces Charge For Blockage

GLENN'S FERRY — a railroad engineer has pleaded innocent to charges of blocking the Commercial Street crossing for 29 minutes.

Tentative trial date is set for May 23 and Ray Morley, Pocatello, has until Monday in post bond. Also cited was the train conductor, Jack Hunt, Hocatello, who has not yet appeared before Glenn Perry Police Judge Earl Mills because of his work schedule.

The men are charged with breaking an ordinance against blocking the crossing which is the only one in town, for more than 10 minutes. Railroad officials note the longer trains now running cause this problem because when they are waiting for a track to clear, they don't fit onto the side tracks as well as the shorter trains used to do, and extend across the Commercial Street crossing.

Students Tapped

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow — Valerie Keaster, Goshute, has been tapped to Mortar Board, senior Women's honorary.

Cindy Schubert, also Gooding, was named to Sigma and Eta Honoraries. Gooding was named to Intercollegiate Knights.

OPINION

QUESTION

Do you think smaller school districts should be consolidated for more economic operation?

LOCATION

Interviews were made in the Twin Falls Post Office.

ANSWERS

GLENN VANDENBOS: "I think students get more individual attention in smaller schools than they do in larger schools. For this reason I favor the smaller districts."

MRS. REED MAUGHAN: "I don't believe I am in favor of that. I think students get more attention and help in the smaller schools."

JOHN ROGERS: "I think they should consolidate. It would be more economical and it would also enable the districts to have better teachers and offer more to the students."

WARNER DOSSEY: "For an economic operation, I would say yes. But if other considerations are viewed, I might say no."

VandenBos Maughan Rogers Dossey

Somer Stephens Phillips Glenn

WARD SONNER: "Absolutely not! I went to a country school and feel I got a better education than those who went to larger schools."

REV. CLAY STEPHENS: "Sometimes I think we are trying to make everything too big. I think some things, such as schools, might serve better if left smaller."

RUGH PHILLIPS: "Yes, I think school districts should be consolidated for more efficient administration and from an economic standpoint."

MRS. GENE GLENN: "I think we should continue to have the smaller districts. I think students in the smaller schools get more out of school. A student who has problems gets more individual attention than he would in a larger school."

Church Dispute Scored

CHICAGO (UPI)—The president of the National Baptist Convention in a statement has condemned the "invasion and disruption of worship service" in New York City's Riverside Church.

The communion services at the interdenominational church overlooking the Hudson River were disrupted last Sunday when James Forman, deputy director of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), forced his way to the pulpit and attempted to speak.

The Rev. Ernest Campbell cut the service short and walked out of the church, but many of the 1,500 worshippers remained to hear Forman voice the demands of the National Black Economic Conference.

The conference, recently formed in Detroit, is seeking $500 million in "reparations" from white churches as "partial payment" for services not paid for when "Negroes" were slaves.

National Baptist Convention President J. H. Jackson said Forman's action "was in violation of the freedom of assembly and the freedom of worship."

"We strongly support the right of all Americans to enjoy the freedom of worship without being molested or the freedom not to worship without being coerced or condemned," Jackson said.

He said the convention, which has 6.2 million members, is "pledged to work for the unity of this nation." Jackson said he had the support of numerous pastors and all the laymen of the convention behind his statement.

Everett Kidner Is Named Highway Aide At Shoshone

SHOSHONE—The promotion of Everett L. Kidner, associate maintenance engineer, to the position of assistant district engineer at Shoshone, has been announced by Ellis L. Mathes, Idaho State Highway engineer.

Mr. Kidner replaces James Flinn, who recently became state traffic engineer with headquarters in Boise.

The new assistant engineer will be responsible for coordinating location, design, materials and traffic on the 1,084-mile State Highway system in the nine southern Idaho counties administered by the Shoshone, of which.

EVERETT L. KIDNER has been appointed assistant district engineer at the Shoshone office of the State Department of Highways. He succeeds James Flinn.

A native of Rapid City, S.D., Mr. Kidner served two years in the Korean War in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He was graduated from the South Dakota School of Mines in 1957.

In 1958, he joined the Idaho Department of Highways as an engineer-in-training. Mr. Kidner received his professional engineering license in 1962 and since that time has been a resident engineer, project engineer, district materials and maintenance engineer.

He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Toastmistresses Conduct Meeting

Magic Toastmistress Club held its regular meeting with Alice Jean Davis presiding and Debra Vollmer as toastmistress. Ethel Martin used song titles for the table topics. Mary Granger of the Twin Falls Toastmistress Club gave the educational lesson. Another member of that group, Betty Pastoor, gave the general evaluation. The programs were made by Roberta Reynolds. A new member, Vera Young, led the pledge to the flag and the invocation.

Music Camp Set At Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY—Annual Sun Valley Music camp activities are planned in two sessions, beginning June 20 and July 21.

The first session will cover three weeks and the second runs for a four week period. College, high school and junior high school students with an interest in furthering music knowledge and appreciation are eligible to attend.

Jacques Brouman, camp director and former conductor of the Boise Philharmonic, is now director of the Charlotte, N.C., Symphony Orchestra.

Additional information of music camp sessions is available from Sun Valley Music Camp, Charlotte, N.C.

Reporters Flee Scientist Describing 'Wave' Patterns

By LEON BURNETT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Odds and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd.

This theoretical physicist (his name doesn't matter) was trying to explain to a couple of reporters what happens when a neutron hits an alpha particle.

"A spherical wave," he said, "a neutron wave, propagates out from the alpha particle. This behaves, he added, somewhat like a sound wave.

"What one of the reporters wanted to know—do these waves consist of?"

The theoretical physicist reflected.

"If you want an honest answer," he finally said, "they are not waves of anything."

The reporters got away as soon as they decently could.

Wilyward Words

—Heard on a Washington radio station's newscast: "President Nixon has asked Congress to crack down on smet puddlers."

—From a press release relayed by teletype: "Doctor Ralph D. Abernathy was advised by wire today that a contention (sic) of AFT (American Federation of Teachers) leaders and teachers is being organized to join the Mother's Day solidarity (sic) march on Sunday in support of the Charleston Hospital Workers."

—In that North Carolina city . . .

"The state of North Carolina has kept (sic) its head in the sand too long."

The International City Managers Association invited any and all to a news-briefing with the explanation (underlined):

"Purpose of the briefing is to announce a major expansion of association programs and activities designed to assist municipal managers in the task of anticipating, controlling and directing the cause of urban change in the 1970."

What it boiled down to was that the outfit was changing its name to the International City Management Association.

Service guys were watering the grass and flowers in Pershing Square, a plot alongside Pennsylvania Avenue a couple of blocks from the White House.

A passerby noticed that adjacent to the park, between the sidewalk and the street, a long patch of new sod had turned quite brown and sickly.

"Hey," he said, pointing, "why don't you shoot some water over here?"

"No sir," replied one of the sprinklers. "That belongs to the Street Department."

Over a week ago, a fellow in gold-colored pants and shirt robbed a bank in Rockville, Md., and fled into the District of Columbia in a bright red car.

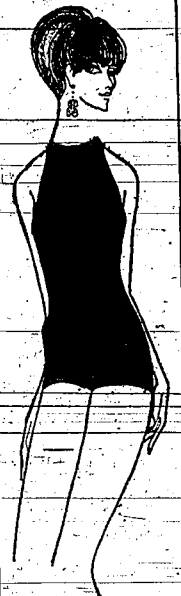

Could be a sign of the fashion times that they haven't caught him yet.

Wendell Breezes To Regional A-3 Title

Dennis Wins Two Events, Ties Record As Trojans Exceed Pre-Meet Hopes

Bridesmaid Wendell, which seemed bent on building a reputation of "dying-in-the-stretch" over the past few years, put everything together Saturday afternoon and breezed into the second regional A-3 track and field championship.

The Trojans, getting a surprise Kirk Dennis in the high jump plus a record-breaking 20-foot in the four hurdles and the two-three-four piece in the discus, more than held their own with third district champion Homedale in the field and demolished the third district challengers on the track.

Wendell was the second regional title for Coach Yogi Behrens' Trojans in the last four years. For the past two regions and last three state meets, Wendell had not been able to meet expectations and its bridesmaid reputation was building firm with 47 points.

Wendell wound up with 47 points — roughly 12 more than figured in pre-meet ratings — while Homedale dipped four to seven points off a possible 47.

Dennis' opening leg got a good lead in the 880-yard relay and Wendell, a third in home easily. Ralph King held third in the high — as Tom Overlie of Hagerman won his third straight title. Schrank took third in the quarter before Dennis came back to beat Overlie in the lows for a share of the 20-foot record.

Stevenson grabbed a second place in the long jump, Hester Beck, Mink Stevenson and Schrank breezed home in the mile relay.

With the exception of Jones' unfortunate fall in the lows that will keep him out of state, Raffi River also held up well with Ward winning the broad jump and taking third in the pole vault and Edwards winning the 220-yard dash in 22.8 for the big points. The Trojans' medley grabbed top record, host district champion Oakley for the first time.

Hagerman sustained a setback when Ray Lapp failed to qualify for state in a high jump competition that ended at 5-10. He's been over 5-11. But the Pirate Intermediate relay stepped back to blue ribbon country and Overlie stayed alive with his first and second finishes in the hurdles.

The highs proved an interesting race as the field was called back after one false start. There was a double gun on the second one with Overlie almost being pulled after taking the first hurdle. Other members of the field also showed but half of them kept going. Overlie then shifted gears and came from fifth to first place in a remarkable recovery for such a short-legged lad.

In the other events, Carey, sophomore, came in with a 100-yard dash to complete the family domination of that event. Schwager of Glens Ferry, upper in district last week by Schrank, came back to win the quarter-mile in a good 5:17.

The important part of the meet was finishing in the top three in any three team or relay advance to state in Boise next week.

Wendell advanced two firsts, two seconds and three thirds in the "individual" races and two first, place relay. Homedale about fell out of contention with

Meeting Set

A meeting of officials and players of the Twin Falls Slow Pitch softball league will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the city hall.

"Team and players entry fees must be paid at or before the meeting," said Chad Browning, city recreation director. "All team rosters must be turned in to Don Frank, league secretary, by that time."

Southwest Loop Changes

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — The Southwest Conference Saturday opened the gates for its basketball teams to play in independent post-season tournaments and outlined a plan it hoped would curtail "a very serious" crowd behavior problem in that sport.

Conference basketball teams have been restricted to only the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship playoffs for the past two decades since the betting scandals of the post World War II era.

Hoop Ruling

But the faculty governing body Saturday adopted a proposal that while the championship still must play in the NCAA meet, another league team would be permitted with conference approval to play in such post-season affairs as the National Invitation Tournament (NIT).

A prepared statement issued by conference Commissioner Howard Grubbs said that the league had the defined "areas of responsibilities for the proper administration of basketball games" and had established "definite guidelines that involve" the institutions and administrators, coaches, players and campus leaders.

Grubbs and conference president J. William Davis of Texas Tech said that "many hours" had been spent by the athletic heads and the faculty group in trying to "do something about such rowdy crowd behavior as marked a half dozen games or more last season.

Bus Crash Kills Assistant Coach

CANFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — An assistant coach was killed and five members of the St. Stephen's High School track team were injured Saturday when their school bus blew a tire and collided with a tractor-trailer.

Paul Casey, 20, of Niles, Ohio, was killed. Five members of the team were treated at a hospital in Youngstown, Ohio, and released.

Authorities said the bus was en route to a track meet, when the collision occurred at an intersection on Ohio 224 near here.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Casey was trapped inside the wrecked bus.

Weber State Sweeps Pair

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Weber State took both ends of the Big Sky Conference doubleheader from Montana State Saturday in Ogden baseball action, 4-3 and 2-1.

In the first game, Weber catcher Kirk Black hit a two-run double in the first to give the Wildcats a lead.

Montana State's catcher Jack Blinn went 2-3 against Weber pitcher Al Hirschman who picked up the win.

In the second game, Weber's freshman southpaw Barry Bagley burst at a two-run homer off Bobcats' white batting power was supplied by Weber right fielder Bill Bowdler, who was 2-3.

Buhl Buries A-2 District Track Field

Wagner's 19.4 In Low Hurdles Highlights Big Indian 93-Point Effort

The Buhl Indians showed off their strength in the sprints and kicked in the hurdles and weights Friday evening to handily run off the first four district A-2 regional track and field titles over-offer.

In a fine display highlighted by a torrid 19.4 in the low hurdles by George Wagner, the Indians piled up 93 points against the second-place Filer. Wood Mezer had 45, Gooding 42 and Jerome 36.

The Indians scored seven first places and qualified men in 11 events for next week's state finals in Boise. Gooding and Filer

White Sox Shut Out Indians 4-0

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Rookie Carlos May drove in three runs and Tommy John and Bob Locker combined on an eight-hitter as the Chicago White Sox continued their domination over Eastern Division teams by blanking the Cleveland Indians 4-0 Saturday in a game delayed by rain for an hour and 20 minutes.

After rain played the game with Chicago at bat in the eighth, Johnson struck out the Indians after giving up a single to Max Alvis and a two-out double to Ken Harrelson. Locker came in and got Tony Horton to ground out then sent the Indians down in the ninth to preserve John's third victory against no losses.

Torrid Jones Paces 3-1 Met Victory

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cleon Jones slammed his fifth homer of the season over the Yankees, overcoming an early strikeout Saturday to give the New York Mets a victory over the Houston Astros.

Jones, who raised his average to .402 with two hits, figured in both New York scoring innings, popping his homer over the 37-foot sign in left in the sixth inning and tallying the Mets' second run in the fourth after a single.

Boise State, Idaho Beaten In Track

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI)—Eastern Washington State College dominated the field events in 94 degree weather to score 81 1/2 points and man out Boise State College for the team championship at the annual Hill Marit relay at Whitman College here Saturday.

Boise State took most of the sprint and middle distance events to score 67 1/2 points. Whitworth finished third in the eight-hitter and with 67 1/2 and the University of Idaho fought with 58 1/2.

Ack Ack Wins

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nell Hollman's Clembling Light charged by heavily favored Ack Ack in the closing yards of the $50,000 Whittier Stakes in Aqueduct Saturday to win the disqualified and yield victory to his rival.

Clembling Light got away to a lead of 9 1/2 lengths in the pick-up speed on the final turn. Then, shortly after entering the stretch, he jugged in hardy and interloped with shield and blade.

Wagner, a junior, became the third fastest low hurdler in Magic Valley history with his fine 19.4, which earned him a decision over Rich Thompson of Jerome. He came back two events later to win the 220-yard dash and anchored the winning 440-yard relay team.

The other half of the Buhl speed duo, senior Don Mathews, repeated as the district 100-yard dash champion, started the winning 440-yard relay team and ran second to Wagner in the 220-yard dash.

But none of that was particularly surprising since they've been doing things like that all season.

Pena Homers As Padres Top Cards

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Roberto Pena's grand-slam home run in the fourth inning Saturday night kept the San Diego Padres from their first victory over the defending National League champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Pena's blow into the left field seats, the first grand slam against the Cardinals this season, knocked out starter Steve Carlton, whose record dropped to 2-4. Carlton's earned-run average went from 1.18 to 2.18. The homer knocked out catcher Chris Cannizzaro, who singled, pinch-hitter Larry Stahl, who walked, and Jerry DaVanon, who singled.

Atlanta Nips Phils 6-3 On Cepeda Smash

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Atlanta Braves' first home run in a series passed ball and Orlando Cepeda led a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning Saturday night to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-3.

Singles by Sunny Jackson and pinch-hitter Rico Carty knocked out Grant Jackson to open the Atlanta lead. Alvin Dark, reliever Jerry Johnson with a sacrifice bunt, but while the Phillies were trying to intentionally walk out, Alvin Dark with a passed ball and Jackson scored the tying run.

Grand Slam Wallop Gives A's 4-3 Win

OAKLAND, Calif. — Rick Monday's grand-slam home run made John Golden the major league winner in the major leagues Saturday as the Oakland A's defeated the New York Yankees 4-3 before a Bat Day crowd of 25,843.

Odum, a 16-game winner last season, scattered four hits and struck out seven in winning his sixth game in seven starts.

Orioles Trim Kansas City

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Reliever Jim Hardin pitched out of an eighth-inning jam and then homered with one out in the bottom of the ninth Saturday giving the Baltimore Orioles a 6-5 triumph over the Kansas City Royals.

Hardin, who ended a game-tying Kansas City rally by setting Juan Rizo in his line, pitched 6 1/2 innings and one pitch by reliever Moe Drabowsky for the homer which broke the Orioles' three-game losing streak.

Domingo Takes Appaloosa Test As Glenns Ferry Racing Opens

GLENN'S FERRY — D. and L. Domingo took the first leg of the Appaloosa Progressive, the first elimination of the Treasure Valley Horse Breeders Racing Association quarterhorse futurity—were held and Miss Leisure Time turned in a whopping $140 for a win uicket Saturday in the opening session of pari-mutuel racing at the Elmore County Fairground track.

Racing will continue at 2 p.m. Sunday and continue on Saturdays and Sundays over the next two weeks. The final day, which will have at least three major features, is slated for Memorial Day.

Rooney Finds 'Glamor' In AFL Set Up

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dan Rooney, son of Pittsburgh Steelers' owner Art Rooney, said the arrangement completed Saturday night between the two major professional football leagues gave him a "boom bright new opportunity."

"I've always rooney about the conclusion of the merger negotiations," said the Steelers' owner, "and I'm glad to see that the American Football League has changed their mind when it became apparent they would be placed in a glamorous division."

Boise State, Idaho Beaten In Track

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI)—Eastern Washington State College dominated the field events in 94 degree weather to score 81 1/2 points and man out Boise State College for the team championship at the annual Hill Marit relay at Whitman College here Saturday.

Boise State took most of the sprint and middle distance events to score 67 1/2 points. Whitworth finished third in the eight-hitter and with 67 1/2 and the University of Idaho fought with 58 1/2.

Ack Ack Wins

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nell Hollman's Clembling Light charged by heavily favored Ack Ack in the closing yards of the $50,000 Whittier Stakes in Aqueduct Saturday to win the disqualified and yield victory to his rival.

Clembling Light got away to a lead of 9 1/2 lengths in the pick-up speed on the final turn. Then, shortly after entering the stretch, he jugged in hardy and interloped with shield and blade.

Late Surge Gives Expos 7-6 Triumph

MONTREAL (UPI)—Gary Sutherland singled home two runs and scored the third run on a wild pitch by reliever Clay Carroll Saturday as the Montreal Expos rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 7-6.

Sutherland delivered his key hit with two out after singles by John Rocabella and pinch-hitter Floyd Wicker and two infield—outs—put runners on second and third. Sutherland went to third on a single by Rusty Staub and scored the third run of the inning on Carroll's wild pitch.

Kosco Rap Sends L.A. Past Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Andy Kosco's triple triggered a two-run rally in the third inning and Don Sutton gained his fourth victory of the season with the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Sutton appeared en route to his third shutout of the season until one out in the ninth when the Pirates scored their run on singles by Willie Stargell and Al Oliver and an error by Paul Popovich on what should have been a game-ending double play.

Rams Sign Jim Seymour To Pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams signed Jim Seymour, All-America end from Notre Dame, to a pro football contract Saturday.

Seymour, No. 1 Ram draft choice, was signed at South Bend, Ind., by Johnny Sanders, assistant general manager, and was quoted as saying: "I'm very happy. It's nice to be all signed up. Now I can start planning."

Ore Vein In Minnie Moore Mine Sought In Drilling

BELLEVUE — The rich and famous Minnie Moore Mine may produce again. The mine, which produced ore valued at $20 million or more at today's prices, went out of business in 1905 when the main vein was lost. It was never recovered, despite several search attempts over the years.

However, recent test drillings at the Silver Star-Queens Mine near Bellevue indicate that the Minnie Moore vein may be close at hand. The drilling, performed by personnel of the nearby Federal Resources mill, is concentrating on an ore body a few hundred feet east of the main ore body of the old Minnie Moore. The Minnie Moore produced an estimated 225,000 tons of high-grade ore carrying 27 ounces of silver ion and yielding 14 per cent gold, according to the U.S. Geological Survey. The ore was valued at $9 million in 1905 and would bring at least $20 million today, the survey said.

The Minnie Moore operated from the 1880s until 1905, when the vein pinched out at the 250-foot level, never to be located again. By contrast, the Silver Star-Queens Mine is currently bringing ore up from the 300 and 900-foot levels at 120 tons per day. The ore carries 13 ounces of silver per ton and yields 10 per cent lead and six per cent zinc.

This production represents a considerable upgrading of quality and a 40-per-cent increase in daily output, a report to Silver Star stockholders said.

QUESTION:

How does a power company operate in times of inflation like these?

ANSWER:

Very carefully—and must keep expanding at the same time!

Inflation affects everyone, usually in an adverse way. That's why so many efforts to curb it are being made. In the meantime, most costs of doing business—or of running a household—are at record-breaking high levels.

You might think a power company could halt new construction until cost conditions improve, but we simply can't stop building—that is, if we continue to render the service required by our customers.

We know today that we must invest $130 million within the next five years—in spite of high construction costs and high interest rates—to provide electric power for area progress, abundantly and on schedule.

Completion of the T. E. Ronch Hills Canyon Development last year gave us a breathing spell before the first unit of another new generating complex must go on the line in eastern Idaho within a few years—but we must make multi-million dollar investments every year in other kinds of facilities to serve you well.

THE WORLD LOOKS BIG to a week old bunny. Here, the lone survivor of a family of nine surveys the back yard of his new home with the John Leinen family, 1938 Falls Ave. E. His fate is still unknown but he is rapidly becoming a prize pet of the family.

BABY RABBIT FINDS a friend in Tracy Grubb, 3, and snuggles under her chin, a favorite place for the orphaned bunny. Now a week old the rabbit is showing signs of surviving in a world with people rather than other rabbits.

Emergency Surgery Nets One Rabbit

When three young Twin Falls boys went hunting recently, they didn't know they were going to come home with some new responsibilities.

SLIGHTLY PREMATURE baby rabbits delivered by Caesarian operation are displayed minutes after birth. At left is Randy Sabin who performed the operation and at right Bruce Leinen, who is raising one of the baby rabbits. The boys delivered the rabbits after shooting the mother while hunting south of Twin Falls.

SIZE OF WEEK-OLD rabbit is illustrated by miniature bottle and package of chewing gum. Still little more than a ball of soft fur, the rabbit is growing rapidly and eating several meals per day. He now follows his owner, Bruce Leinen, about the house. His fate is uncertain with the many potential hazards facing a small rabbit.

But fate had some unusual experiences in-store for them. The three, Bruce Leinen, 17; Randy Sabin, 15, and Jay D. Bryan, 15, all of Twin Falls, were rabbit hunting about seven miles south of town.

They had shot 18 jack rabbits and when they shot number 17, they found it was a female about to give birth to some baby rabbits.

Randy, who says he hopes to become a veterinarian, decided the situation called for some fast action.

Using a pocket knife he performed an emergency Caesarian operation and delivered nine tiny baby rabbits.

As Bruce says, had the mother rabbit not been shot in the neck, which did not injure the baby rabbits, and had the boys not acted immediately, none of the babies would have had a chance.

How to feed a new born rabbit isn't generally known, except by other jackrabbits. Probably due to unsuitable diet and other unfortunate circumstances, most of the tiny animals died.

BEING A BOTTLE BABY no longer has a strong appeal for the week-old infant rabbit. Here he sips milk from a bottle especially designed for tiny animals. Bruce Leinen who has become the "adopted parent" for the tiny rabbit says it eats carrots, milk and formula.

Young People Find Satisfaction Helping Others

Young people in today's line-up are generally those protesting something.

Not all young people are protesting. In fact the majority are finding things that can be changed or improved by other means.

In Twin Falls there are numerous youth organizations and untapped individuals who are volunteering their efforts to help other young people less fortunate. An example can be seen at the local Easter Seal center.

receiving therapy in the center. They also wash windows and woodwork, pull weeds from the lawn and yard, and during the annual Easter Seal campaign, contribute time and effort to raise funds for the center.

Merle Stoddard, center director, said some of the best results in this year's fund campaign came from Camp Fire Girls groups, boy's clubs, MIA groups and other youth.

shone held a blanket loss to collect $78.

Camp Fire Girls participating in the sale of Easter Seal lilies included Jay Lynn Griffin, and Audrey Fuller, both members of the Ko-Ta-Ten-Ya group who topped the sales campaign for Camp Fire Girls.

John's Daughters of Jerome County with Honored Queen Shelley Davis as general chairman also received special thanks from the center for their efforts on behalf of the Easter Lily sales campaign. The 22 girls who participated collected $84.71.

the LDS Church, are required to serve at least 10 hours for the benefit of others.

MIA leaders require girls in this program to help others at least 10 hours per year. By helping handicapped persons they learn to appreciate their own good fortune and also appreciate what others do for them, the leaders explain.

MIA members in the Kimberly-Hansen area, with 12 girls participating, collected nearly $100 for the fund campaign. Youngsters in the Shoshone and Richfield areas of Lincoln County collected $65, according to Mrs. Frank Stearns, trustee, of the center.

Connie Barnhart, Twin Falls, not only comes by the center each Thursday to work with the handicapped children, but is always there when there is some housecleaning to be done, Mrs. Stoddard said.

"How many hours she devotes to us a year cannot be counted but her help is invaluable," the director added.

Another "steady" at the center is Linda Colner, Twin Falls, who works with youngsters who must have exercise to progress in therapy treatment; Mrs. Stoddard, who says she couldn't possibly exercise all the youngsters who need it, spreads her skills the time and effort needed.

can provide much of the time and effort needed.

John Kreilkamp and Hal Wallace have been working after school at the center for some time. Part of their work is with young Tom Davis who is now at the age where he is almost too heavy for Mrs. Stoddard, but still requires support in some of the exercises he must do.

"Without these boys' help," Mrs. Stoddard says, "Tommy's progress would not be so encouraging."

Many adults also help out at the center.

VOLUNTEER SERVICES OFFERED by a number of Magic Valley young people can mean a lot to programs such as that of the Easter Seal Center in Twin Falls for children and adults. Typical of the volunteers are John Kreilkamp, left, and Hal Wallace, right, who assist Tommy Davis in exercises while he walks through trees, a simple but valuable exercise. Carline Lillie, Jerome, not only benefits from hand exercises worked out with Connie Barnhart, but she and Connie have fun together. Miss Barnhart devotes many hours a month to the center, and is always willing to pitch in and help when the windows or walls need cleaning. There is no money for a gardener, so Camp Fire Girls Rita Johnson and Karen Rhee, from left, donate time for weed pulling.

Snake River's Hells Canyon Area Calls For Experienced Boaters

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

With a little luck, anyone wearing a life jacket can get out of rapids in the Salmon River or its Middle Fork. The Snake River, with its masses of deep underwater water as it plies mostly through 75 miles of Hells Canyon, is a different story.

Even experienced white-water raftsmen say they "float in" the Snake River in equipment the Salmon River and Middle Fork.

The big difference is that the Salmon River and tributaries have what is referred to as "soft water," compared with "hard water" found in the Hells Canyon reaches of the Snake River, according to William Platts, Boise, zone fishery biologist for the U.S. Forest Service, Region IV. Mr. Platts is a former jet boat pilot and conservation enforcement officer of the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

The Snake River often is just a swirling turbulence of currents, eddies, and undertows, not a series of rapids separated by dead pools. To a riverman, such differences make the difference between "hard" and "soft" water.

Life vests just won't hold together, or hold a person on top in some of the currents and undertows of the Snake.

Like the mighty Columbia River, which already has been tamed by a string of hydroelectric power dams from Bonneville to Grand Coulee, the roaring Snake River through Hells Canyon someday may be changed into a long, slim pond with the thrill of cataracts gone for all time. But for the present, veteran rivermen still stress the need for proper equipment and experience by anyone who expects to conquer Idaho's roaring rapids cascades of violent white water.

Float trips by professionals sometimes go from Hells Canyon Dam down to Lewiston more than 100 miles to the north, through the gorge where awesome beauty matches the thrills, chills and real dangers of the boisterous river itself. The canyon—deep in the continent—more than a few deep, deep places, averaging 5,500 feet from rim to floor and reaching 8,900 feet in some of the peaks of the Seven Devils Mountains.

"A commercial jet boat takes fishermen and hunters from a small dock on the Oregon side of the river just below Hells Canyon Dam downstream as far as Wild Sheep or Two Creek rapids which are impassible with today's boats. This run is about 15 miles one way, and negotiates several hazardous rapids, including Brush-Creek and Rocky Point. Small private boats and inexperienced white water operators should not attempt to run this stretch of the river.

The skipper, Ralph Page of Oxnard, Oregon, has been summoned to the small dock by firing a side-arm or other weapon. He says if he could get a boat safe through the Wild Sheep (or Two-Creek) rapids he could take it all the way to Lewiston and back on a scheduled basis.

Sportsmen who do not want to take the long, though scenic and thrilling, waterway from Lewiston upstream to Johnson's Bar, the turn-around point for the main boat, "Big Queen," and many river boat trips, can take the steep, winding automobile road from the main Salmon River near White Bird across Platsburg, Middle to Platsburg Landing. This is 14 miles downstream from Johnson's Bar in the veritable heart of Hells Canyon. North to Lewiston are major rapids called Pleasant Valley, Zigzag, Innaga, and Wild Goose. Upstream are Sheep Creek, Waterspout and Granite Creek. Most of these rapids have claimed lives, all of them should be respected.

Keith Hawn, Lewiston district conservation officer and pilot of the department's jet boat for the past five years, says that some of the rapids are bad in high water but not during low flow and vice versa. He recently took the new 22-foot, twin-engined aluminum jet boat on a shake-down demonstration cruise up the Snake River as far as Rush Creek rapids. Waterspout and Granite Creek rapids are challenges that lie ahead. He says the twin jets not only give additional safety, but also better economy and efficiency.

Hawn is district conservation officer in charge of problems on the Snake River as far south as Granite Creek. Fred Edwards of Council is district conservation officer.

Both men cooperate with Oregon State Police, notably Jim Martin, Baker, game division. Boyd Thietzen, Riggs, is the Idaho district conservation officer for the lower Salmon River.

Book Review

By CAROLY BRIGGS

When I write one of these reviews, it is usually on a book that I read some time ago, say three to six months, and which for some reason has fastened my mind. If what the book had to say can survive that long, then it must have something worthwhile in it.

"The Greatest Gamble: A World War II Norwegian Occupation Story" by Per Hansson and translated by Maurice Michael in 1967, is one. Ordinarily, I don't think adventure—no matter how true the story is—is worth specialist recommendations. But if there are some who bring their own special attributes to the book, then it is in the top. In this case, Mr. Hansson is a Norwegian, and he is a real expert on the people of occupied Norway. He captures the feelings and relationships between the Patriots and the Quislings. For this alone it is worth your time to read since it has something to say to us in our own relationships with each other. And in the meantime, if you like a good story of adventure and spies, then I think you will find it sufficiently fast moving to hold your interest for a single sitting. Here's one to read if you happen to be a little down on your fellow man. It will help you to realize how much good there can be in most of us.

The next pack meeting will be held at 8 p.m. May 22. Awards for achievements will be presented by Willie Jensen, cubmaster.

Results of the recent pinewood derby were listed. Winners of the sport were Jerry Vinger, Lenrick, Gerald David, Griffin, and Larry Weitzel, third, and Jimmy Jensen, fourth. In the construction phase of the contest winners were Kenzie Young, first; Rocky Bengtson, second; Doug Joslin, third, and Jimmy Jensen, fourth. Jack Joslin and the "Big Queen" were the winners of the derby with Chet Nola as official starter and Jerry Shackelford as judge.

reek Military Government till Seeks New Regime

By PHIL NEWSOM
Foreign News Analyst

Greek military government has passed its second anniversary on April 21 with restoration of democracy still a long off and the regime still in a state of flux. Many of its most ardent supporters are now in jail, and her husband's money to pull it out of the red.

Former U.S. troops, who were sent to Greece in 1947 to help the Greek government, were sent to Greece in 1947 to help the Greek government, were sent to Greece in 1947 to help the Greek government.

National Nursing Home Week Urges Visits

Mother's Day for the many mothers who are confined to nursing homes and rest homes may not be especially exciting. As a result, the week of May 11 through 17 has been adopted by the American Nursing Home Association as National Nursing Home Week.

Throughout the week, nursing homes in Twin Falls County and other areas will be urging community residents to visit someone in a nursing home.

Mother's Day visits and open house programs during the week are designed to introduce residents of the community to the facilities and services of the nursing homes and to encourage them to begin a practice of brief visits to those who are confined to nursing homes.

Harold Drake, president of the local nursing home association, estimates there are more than 200 men and women living in homes in Twin Falls County.

The majority of these, he says, have families and friends living close by who make frequent and regular visits.

There are a few, however, who have no visitors at all, some of whom have families living near by who are too busy or do not bother to visit more than once a year.

These are the people who benefit most by community minded residents who will take the time to visit now and then.

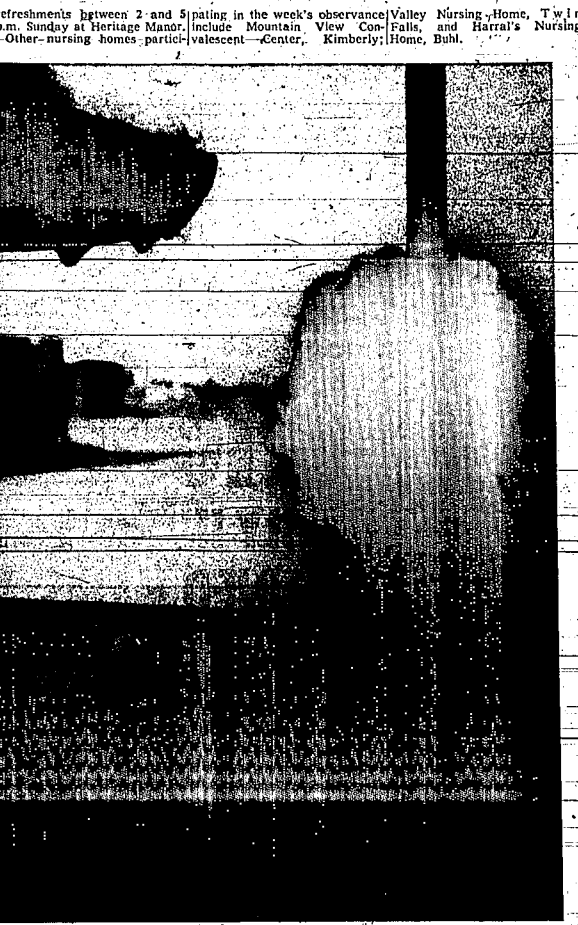

"If you know some one in a nursing home, pay them an occasional visit. If you don't know any one, come in and we will introduce you," says Mrs. Dick Stafford, social director at Hazel Del Mañor and Sky View Manor.

Mr. Drake stated there are a number of people, including many teen age boys and girls, who make a practice of visiting the homes in Twin Falls county at regular intervals.

"Our residents seem to especially enjoy the young people and these youngsters also enjoy visiting some of the pioneer residents of their communities," Mr. Drake explained.

One group paid an early visit to nursing homes with special entertainment. A five-piece musical group who call themselves the "Climax Trash" from the Flier High School visited homes during the past week to play for the residents.

Open house or visitations will be featured at all nursing homes in the area. Mr. Drake said

Glenns Ferry School Sets Final Events

GLENN'S FERRY—Baccalaureate for 40 Glenns Ferry High School graduating seniors will be the main event at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Bishop Kenneth Brown of the LDS church will give the invocation and the chorus. The benediction is to be given by Dean Hildley of the LDS church. The class motto is "We search for a goal, God, and for the children may walk free and equal." The flower is the yellow rose.

BLISS—Barbara Bluhler was presented a $10 scholarship to attend the Idaho State Grange Youth camp at Cascade Lake 4-B camp, Donnelly, June 27-29 at a recent local grange meeting.

Idahoan Sees Life In U.S. As Odd After Europe Tour

(Editor's note: William Sunderland, a native of Idaho, has been serving in various European countries for LPI for the past 12 years. Recently assigned back to the United States, he has found himself looking at life more with the eyes of a foreigner, hence some of his impressions.)

BY WILLIAM SUNDERLAND—New York (UPI)—A strange place America. The plumbing works, the walkway down, and paying cash makes you a bad credit risk. Every country has its own unique customs—and the United States has its share. The trouble is you don't notice them until you've been away a long time. Coming home after 12 years abroad can be something like taking up residence in another foreign land.

Airport At Salmon Is Outdated

SALMON—Idaho's director of aeronautics, Chet Moulton, said a group of city and county officials and interested persons here that advances in aviation have outdistanced the Salmon airport.

He said a new airport location is needed and suggested a site closer to the city or one just north of the city, both adjacent to U.S. Highway 53.

Moulton said state and federal assistance is available if the community wants to go ahead with such an undertaking. "I'd forgotten how friendly Americans are—particularly if they want to sell you something," he said.

MANY NURSING HOME residents may spend a lonely Mother's Day unless community residents take an interest in older citizens. National Nursing Home Week which begins on Mother's Day is designated to call attention to the many residents of nursing homes who do not have friends and relatives in the area and as a result have very few visitors. Organizations and interested citizens of all ages are urged to fill the need of these persons with a brief visit now and then throughout the year.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

By FRANK SCHELL: From E. R. M. Gooding: I have a coin which looks like it is made from aluminum. On one side is a man's head around it Louis II Prince De Monaco. On the back is a shield with some people by it and a crown above it. A large "25" on each side of the shield and the word "FRANC" in the middle. What can you tell me about this coin?

Answer: You have a standard issue, 1 Franc piece of Monaco, issued under Louis the Second, updated. The coin was struck in 1947. Collector value is about 35 cents.

From D. L. Twin Falls: I have a token, or maybe it is a coin, made from aluminum. On one side it has a large "25" and under this number the word "centimes". There is a star, with two dots beside it. The other side says "Golden De La Reunion, 1920". Is this a coin? Where is it from? What is its value?

Answer: This is, indeed, a coin, although not frequently encountered in this part of the country. The coin is from the French island of Reunion (the de la Reunion) an island territory in the Indian Ocean, east of Madagascar. You did not mention the peculiar shape which sets the coin apart from most others. It is hexagonal in shape (six-sided) and resembles our merchant's tokens of this country. It is a fairly scarce coin, and is worth in the neighborhood of $2 to a collector if not badly worn. Collector value is about 35 cents.

From Mrs. C. B. Burley: I have a coin which looks like it is made from copper. It is about as big as our 50 cent piece. On one side is what looks like a dragon and above this dragon the word "Kirin," and below, "10 cashes." On the other side are what look like Chinese letters. Can you tell me about this coin? Is it valuable?

Answer: Sorry! It isn't valuable. Most of the Chinese provincial coinage is not worth much. This "Kirin" is a large quantity. This particular coin comes from the province of Kirin in China, and was issued under the Ching Empire. Actual value of the coin is negligible, and collector value of the coin, brand new, is about 35 cents.

From B. B. Burley: The coin I am interested in is a little larger than a nickel, it is real black—looks like it has been outdug for a long time. There is a hole in the middle of it. On one side is a crown, and the initials "CXR," and on the other side, a "25" and the word "ORE." It is dated 1943. What is this coin for?

Answer: Denmark. It is a standard issue 25-ore piece, struck under the reign of Christian the Tenth of Denmark during the war years of 1942-1946. World War II and is made from zinc—similar to our 1943 steel and zinc cents. The coin has very little value—about 20 cents as a collector's item, and it takes a hundred of these to make a dollar.

"Krone," which is worth about 13 cents in our money. The initials CXR stand for "Christian the 10th, Rex (king). We would like to repeat to our readers that most of the foreign coinage made from base metals (copper, bronze, zinc) are worth very little—even though they have very old dates on them. Such currency is found in large quantities and has very little value, either real or as collector's items. Some of the silver coinage is also a worthless, although the dollar-sized coins do bring good prices. Most dealers buy such coins by the pound, not by the coin, and the large majority of them can be bought brand new for less than a quarter each. (Questions on coins and currency should be sent to THE MONEY BOX, c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401.)

Creditor Plan Listed At Burley

BURLEY—The Wage-Earners plan which consolidates all debts under the direction of a referee, who dispenses payments to creditors, was explained by Mrs. Gary Whiteley, Oakley, to the Burley Credit Women's Chapter.

Only wage earners can qualify for the plan and once in effect, the debtor cannot buy or sell without the consent of the referee.

Mrs. Whiteley was introduced by Mrs. Ralph Butters, educational chairman. Mrs. Fern Peterson will represent the Burley club at the Credit Women's conference in Seattle. Jim Roper of Roper's Clothing Store was the mystery speaker.

Ransom Brown, manager of the Burley Credit Bureau, was a guest.

Neutron Stars Carry Great Weight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There really are neutron stars spinning and flashing in the depths of space.

Their matter is so densely packed that a bit of it the size of a sugar cube weighs a billion tons.

They are only 120 miles in diameter, but their mass is equal to or greater than the sun's.

Their magnetic fields are 20 trillion times as strong as the earth's.

Their gravitational attraction is so powerful that an astronaut trying to land on one would be torn apart before he got closer than 60 miles.

They may be the primary source of the immensely energetic cosmic rays which flood all space.

A year ago, neutron stars existed only in theory. They now exist in fact.

This was the consensus of astronomers who participated in a symposium this week at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences on Pulsars, those strange objects in the heavens which emit electromagnetic signals at regular intervals ranging from 30 times a second to once every 3.75 seconds.

Pulsars were discovered in 1967 by British radio astronomers. Unable to explain the regularity of the radio pulses, some scientists wondered if they might not be an attempt at interstellar communication by advanced civilizations on planets of other solar systems in space.

This was quickly ruled out, however, and a year ago neutron stars were suggested as the source of the mysterious pulsation. Many astronomers scoffed at this notion. Meanwhile, 35 other pulsars have been located in our star family, the Milky Way galaxy.

Discovery of the neutron star pulsar in the heart of the Crab nebula, 35 quadrillion million miles from earth, disposed of the notion that pulsar signals might be from intelligent beings.

The tremendous compression of other solar systems in space.

at forces of gravity which can shrink a sun to a body only 120 miles in diameter are hard to comprehend. One of the scientists tried to make it clear this way:

If the earth were so compressed, he said, "You could hold New York City in the palm of your hand."

the center and Mrs. Stoddard says there is always something to be done that the limited budget on which such centers operate cannot provide.

Not only do the young people give valuable assistance, but many of the children and young handicapped persons enjoy working with these youth more than with an adult. Often, Mrs. Stoddard says, a teen-ager can reach a child who is not willing or able to accept direction from an adult.

An organization that has done much to help with therapy is Saga. This group, headed by Earl Glenn Boorem, is organized for the purpose of helping adults and children in the community.

Saga is strictly a volunteer organization designed to get younger people involved and interested in the community and the next generation. Mrs. Boorem said.

Many members have received training to enable them to train and exercise convalescing.

They are now working with members of the Key Club and Interact Club of the Twin Falls High School. Volunteers from these clubs not only participated in the Easter Seal Fund Drive, but donate their time and services to help youngsters at the center.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Finley Stroup, Leesburg's only resident, made one of his rare visits to Salmon the past week.

It took him from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to "shovel" his way through the seven miles of snow to the Williams Creek Road where he caught a ride to town.

Mr. Stroup, whose nickname is "Cowboy," was accompanied by his dog, "Dog." He last came to Salmon in December for a supply of groceries.

Snow at the old gold-mining town west of Salmon was some three and one-half feet deep this winter while the winter before it was four and one-half feet.

Mr. Stroup, who says he's been living at Leesburg the past 16 or 17 years, lives in the old school house there. He said he's still trying to get an education.

Mr. Stroup recalled that he was working in the mines at Butte and got "sick of beating my head against the wall and not getting anywhere."

After five or six years at that, he came to Salmon with $180. He said he brought a horse and a saddle and loaded up with groceries and a gold pan, then headed up the mountain west of Salmon.

"I didn't know there was such a place as Leesburg. Because of the peace and quiet I found there, I decided to make it home."

His closest neighbor is Neal Allen on the other side of the mountain on Moose Creek, 12 miles away. Mr. Stroup said he didn't know he had a neighbor for many years.

He described his daily routine as "eat, sleep and chop wood." During the winter he said he keeps the fire going and watches the snow fall.

Stroup said he finds most of the summer visitors to Leesburg friendly but a few get under his skin by their actions.

"They want to know everything and get too personal," he said. "One fellow demanded to know what the hell you doing up here?" Just like it was his business.

"They want to know if there are any gold or old coins lying around and they keep digging under the foundations. The old barn roof fell in this winter."

"They always want to dig a hole. There might be a coin there. I tell them to leave it alone. I have to come out in the middle of the night sometimes so I don't want any hole around to fall in."

"I've been trying to answer them pleasantly by telling them I'm doing something they can't do. Minding my own business."

Stroup said he didn't get any mail for 10 years. He has an old radio but he said he doesn't listen to it except for the news once in a while.

Asked if he planned to get a haircut while in town, Stroup replied that the questions were getting too personal so he terminated the interview.

Surgery Nets One Small Rabbit

imals died within the first few days.

One small survivor, however, is growing rapidly and thriving on food and loving care he is receiving at the Lelen home.

A trip to the veterinarian's office was necessary before the little fellow recovered from a case of diarrhea that flunked his two brothers. Thanks to a doll baby bottle and some special infant animal formula the rabbit began to be on his way to adulthood.

Just how long he will survive, with the family can't even tell him with interest is questionable.

The little rabbit, as yet without a name, is "every thing in sight" says a Lelen. It includes donuts, vegetables, bread and milk and formula. He is rapidly outgrowing the bottle feeding but still must eat a number of times a day.

When the youngster made the chin of some member of the John Lelen family, the rabbit sleeps with a piece of fur that substitutes for his lost brothers.

What will become of him when he reaches maturity is still in question. But from the way things are going, Bruce says, he will probably become another family pet.

It may be that Bruce will take the rabbit back to the desert at some later date and turn him loose. Of course he would never be able to shoot rabbits in that area again if he chooses this course of action.

MAKING HIS FIRST trip into town since last December is Finley Stroup, only resident of a place called Leesburg in the Salmon area. Accompanied by his dog, who looks as if the lonely life has done him no harm, Mr. Stroup said it took him more than six hours to "shovel" his way through seven miles of snow to the Williams Creek road where he caught a ride into Salmon.

"Sing In" Climaxes Girl Scout Year

By NORMA HERZINGER

It's that time of year again when the parks are alive with activity and approximately 100 Girl Scouts added to that merriment of confusion when they recently hosted a "Sing In" and wiener roast — a real "Sing Along With Mitch" session.

Each troop came to Twin Falls Harmon Park prepared to teach a song and a game to the other girls, but first — food. The wood had to be hauled to the area and the fires started before the wieners could be roasted and the loud clamors of "I'm starved," could be heard everywhere.

After the wieners were successfully charred (some of them very black), they all dug in with great enthusiasm. Now — if those same charred black wieners were put before them at home they would never have eaten them, but everyone there thought they were the most delicious ever. Why is it food prepared outdoors always tastes better?

As many bags of marshmallows were used as wieners as the girls put them on their sticks for roasting, six and eight at a time.

This was the final joint activity for the Girl Scouts for all groups until Day Camp which is set from June 23 through 29 in Jerome. Day Camp is open to all registered Brownies and Girl Scouts, Junior Girl Scouts are grades four through six.

Groups participating in the "Sing In" include, from Wendell, Troop 810, Mrs. Mary Jane Venstra and Mrs. Kay Mason, leaders, and Troop 814, Mrs. Joyce Collins and Mrs. Pat Benson, leaders; from Jerome, Troop 817, Mrs. Ruth Blomirew and Mrs. Carol Allison, leaders; Troop 13, Mrs. Keith Stein and Mrs. Ronald Lancaster, leaders; Troop No. 41, Mrs. Mary Rose and Leslie Sullivan, leaders, and Troop 87, Mrs. Elva Maddox, leader, and from Twin Falls, Troop 408, Mrs. Mary Bennett and Mrs. Julia Smith, leaders.

Any adults interested in assisting or leading a group next year is asked to contact Mrs. Bennett, 733-8552. During the recent social, the Girl Scouts expressed their appreciation to the community and merchants for their help with the financial drive and cookie sale.

THESE GALS, Mary Ann Jones and Jane Walcott, couldn't wait until they found the buns, but the second wieners they roasted got the full treatment.

A HOT DOG, BUN, mustard, ketchup and relish — and Mary Cresap is set for the first big bite.

AFTER THEY WERE assured the fires were going good, these Girl Scouts prepared to be close to the front of the line. From left are Maritha Dyer, Allison Root, Laura Sullivan and Jony Craig. This was the final joint activity for the Girl Scouts until Day Camp.

CANDY THOMAN was among the many Girl Scouts from seven troops to participate in the recent social at Harmon Park. Girl Scouts attended from Twin Falls, Jerome, Wendell along with their leaders.

Miss Snyder, Dube Marry

Lindsay Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Snyder, Twin Falls, and Roland Peter Dube, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Dube, Natick, N. H., were married at St. Edwards Catholic Church, Natick, N. H., Saturday, May 10.

The bride wore a Gothic gown of silk organdy over panels of silk and featured a high neckline, long sleeves with appliques of aluminum lace and wide lace cuffs. The semi-train was of silk and tulle. The bride's hair was in a simple, elegant style. She carried a bouquet of pink and white flowers. Her bridesmaids wore blue and white. The ceremony was officiated by a priest. The reception was held at a local restaurant. The bride and groom were surrounded by family and friends. The bride's father and mother were present. The bride's brother and sister were also present. The bride's aunt and uncle were also present. The bride's cousins were also present. The bride's friends were also present. The bride and groom are now starting their new life together.

Mrs. Bowers was graduated from Salt Lake Junior High School in 1956 and from Salt Lake University in 1957.

Marital Advice Given By Minister And Wife

By GAY PALLEY
LPTI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—She is the minister who married Duke Nixon and David Eisenhower last December.

She is the bride of 38 years, who says she is contented that "no job, no hobby, no activity on earth can compare with the drama and exhilaration of living with a man living and loving you best to understand you intimately, completely, minutely and helping him to realize his aims and long to make the way it was designed to do."

They are Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, and wife, Ruth, who have written a book aimed for all marriages, and especially for those who in the weeks and months ahead will say "I do."

Dr. Peale, minister of Marble Collegiate Church where Duke and David were wed, said that she "disputed" your inquiries about "Special Marriage." The price of religion in the home is the real foundation that takes up the shocks, the stresses and strains around which the career of life beat in vain.

Praying together, any differences or quarrels tend to fade when "each in turn" talks aloud to the Lord in prayer, and when both are reading the scriptures to one another.

Praying with one observing that "Marriage has always had its hazards," the minister then outlines some of his guidelines.

Love, "and the sex-romance of Elizabeth and Peter, but love in depth, spiritual, conditioned and mature."

Appreciation, "with all of the things we are so busy to appreciate" one of the structure of a marriage.

Communication, "because it is the heart of marriage."

Officers elected include Paul Jones, president; Vicki Sawyer, vice president; Cecelia Gold, secretary; Scott Adams, treasurer; and Robinson and Robbie Adams, program chairman; Substantial secretary and public relations chairman; and Mrs. Bowers, chairman of the board.

Double Celebration Scheduled For Couples

SPRINGDALE — The families of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Norton and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Hurst will honor their parents in a double Golden Wedding Anniversary reception at 7:30 p.m. May 17 at the Springdale LDS Church.

The two couples were married May 16, 1919, in the Logan LDS Temple. Mr. Norton and Mrs. Hurst are brother and sister as are Mr. Hurst and Mrs. Norton.

The couples resided in the Shelly area until 1923 when Mr. and Mrs. Norton moved to Zurich, Mont. They farmed in that area until 1935, then moved to Declo and bought a farm. Mr. and Mrs. Norton have been very active in the LDS auxiliaries. Mrs. Norton has worked in the MIA and Relief Society and is known for the lovely quilt tops she has pieced, and Mr. Norton has worked with the Boy Scouts. Six years ago they sold their home in Declo and purchased a home at 1535 Elba Ave., Burley.

They are parents of eight children. — Mrs. Vaughn (Nina) Wadsworth, Idaho Falls; Mrs. Vera (Myra) Cantel, Burley; Mrs. Joe (Iva) Nebel, Rexburg; Wallace, Norton, Fremont, Calif.; Mrs. Myron (Donna) Okle, Declo; Mrs. Myron (Donna) Okle, Declo; Mrs. Myron (Donna) Okle, Declo; Mrs. Myron (Donna) Okle, Declo.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurst resided in the Shelly area until 1937 when they bought the J. R. Sim-

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A dear friend of mine is a very attractive, young divorcee with two small children. Lately, she's been spending her weekends out of town with her boss, who is married.

Here's the problem: She has been leaving her children at her mother's on weekends, and telling her mother that she's spending the week-end with my husband and me.

I realize this is wrong. My husband says he has covered up for her for the last time, and if I don't tell her she can no longer use us as a cover-up, HE will tell her.

I can't tell her, Abby. It would be like the pot calling the kettle "black" because before I got married I was no better than she is. What should I do?

DEAR PAL: Your friend, "the kettle" could be brewing up an explosive mixture of evidence which could result in losing custody of her children, and bring much unhappiness to the family of her married boyfriend. You're not a "pot" anymore, so tell her, without sitting in judgment, that you'll no longer be a party to this game.

DEAR ABBY: My girl is absolutely best for anything. She doesn't know how to dress.

This may not seem like such a big thing to you—but it's important to me. She's not sloppy or anything like that, but some of the outfits she comes up with are awful. It's not that she can't afford to dress better either, as she has a good-paying job and spends a lot for her clothes. I don't want to hurt her feelings, but how can I let her know that some of her outfits really turn me off?

NO NAME, PLEASE.

It is to some of us over here in Da Nang. A "worried mother" in Oakland, Me., set what she considered a "reasonable" curfew for her 18-year-old son. Nine o'clock on weekdays, and midnight on weekends.

Somebody ought to tell that lady that a lot of us fighting men are exactly the same age as her son.

INCLUDING—
"WONERONE THE NIGHT OWL!"

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 53700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Charter Draped At LAPM Meet

The charter was draped in memory of the late Mrs. J. E. Walle when members of the Ladies Auxiliary Patriarchs of the Millant met recently at the Twin Falls Odd Fellows Temple.

Participating in the ceremony were Mrs. Anna Tath, Mrs. Leand Hudson and Mrs. Walters.

Mrs. Tempa Ellenwood, president, was in charge of the business session and Mrs. William Hopkins gave the opening thought.

Reports were given on cards sent, calls made to bereaved and shut-in, food donated, flowers sent and funerals attended. The report of the yearly review was read by Mrs. Frank Entman who also read the report of the International Department Association, LAPM, meeting.

The closing thought was given by Mrs. George Easton.

A three-tiered cake, baked and decorated in the PM, met by Mrs. Irene Childers, was the table centerpiece, honoring the 23rd Anniversary of the auxiliary. Resolutions were presented by Mrs. Easton. Mrs. Earl Ridgeway read poems in honor of Mother's Day. The next meeting is set for June 2 at the Buhl Odd Fellows Temple.

Girls want to please their boyfriends in the manner of dress. And if you can't be that honest with her, you're not operating on the same wave length. DEAR ABBY: Tell "LAWYER'S WIFE" she has a lot to learn about common law marriages. My parents had such a marriage for 18 years. The lawyer father died and Mother was told that since she was not his "legal" wife, she would receive no widow's pension, although Dad had served 30 years in the navy. They did give us the enormous sum of $18 4 month for each of us kids. And that was in 1950! There were two of us (ages 10 and 12) and you can bet that my poor mother had a hard time of it. ## International Dinner Held By Presbyterians

The May meeting of the Presbyterian Church Women United was held in the Fireside Room and was preceded by an International potluck luncheon.

The luncheon tables were centered with spring flowers and decorated with mementos from many countries. Flags of all nations were displayed on the fireplace in the front of the room. Members of Circle Six were in charge of the decorations.

The devotional services were given by Mrs. E. Gray using the theme, "Reaching Upward."

In the absence of Mrs. Mary Brown, president, Mrs. Fred Moore conducted a short business meeting. The circles were asked to furnish cookies for the Vacation Bible School which will be held at the church from June 9 through June 13.

Ethelyn Walkington distributed pamphlets filled with inspirational thoughts to be used by members during the summer.

The program was given by Mrs. William Hiser, wife of the pastor of the Valley Presbyterian Church in the Eden-Hazelton area. Mrs. Hiser, a native of Iran and only been in this country for a year, spoke about the customs and religions of her country and gave some of her impressions of the United States.

Although the women of her country were formerly uneducated, they are now as well educated as the men. The law permits men to have four wives, but the women now forbid their husbands to have more than one wife.

Literary courses are now taught in the villages so that a whole country is becoming educated. Many of the better educated people are well versed in poetry and speak several languages.

The Moslem religion is the national religion of the country but there are several other religions and there are thousands of Christians due to the missionary schools and churches.

The people of Iran appreciate the financial assistance given by the United States to build dams, schools, hospitals, etc., but the Americans who come there to live in connection with the oil companies, etc., are not too friendly with the Iranian people and prefer to associate with their own groups.

She was surprised to find when she came here that many women in America do their own dishes, work in their gardens, etc. But the thing that impressed her most on her trip across the continent was the wonderful four lane highways.

The Iranian people like their Shih and feel that he is their only hope to keep their country from being overrun by Communism.

Circle meetings are as follows:

Circle, May 22 with Mrs. Carl Irwin at 2 p.m.

Circle Two, with Mrs. Bruce McMillan, 182 Lincoln St., May 22 at 1:30 p.m.

Circle Five, special business meeting at the Fireside Room, Thursday at 9:30 a.m.

Circle Six, dining meeting in dining room, May 23 at 6:30 p.m.

Circle Seven, Tuesday in the Fireside Room at 8 p.m.

Demonstration Is Presented

DEVELO — Mrs. George Hall gave a demonstration on "The Sew, Knit and Stretch Method of New Fabrics" to members of the Thrifty Tidings Home Extension Club when they met at the home of Mrs. Tony Wick.

Mrs. Dick Fujun, president, conducted the business meeting and announced the next meeting will be May 28 at the home of Mrs. Dale Kidd, assisted by Mrs. Lawrence Thompson and Mrs. Jack Adams. A spaghetti dinner will be prepared by Mrs. Adams.

articles, such as underwear, swimming suits, sweaters and children clothes.

Secret pal gifts were presented to Mrs. Dale Kidd, Mrs. Chuck Kowitz, and Mrs. Chet Parks. Pamela Fujun was a special guest.

These are ruffles.

He loves his girl in them. Always did. Still does. You know it and we know it. And it's why we have necklines with ruffles. And hemlines with ruffles. And wrists with ruffles. Along with a lot of other things he likes too. Lots of fabrics, for instance, that are soft and yielding. And lots of little flowing prints. And sweet little buttons. And skirts that move. And puffed sleeves. And pussycat bows. And sashes. If you'd like to know a store that knows all about ruffle power et al see us. We know what you buy clothes for, and it's not just to impress the other girls.

POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Try using upside down golf tees when the kids lose game markers.—SUSIE

DEAR POLLY—When putting away pieces to a jigsaw puzzle I find it is best to put them in a plastic sack. This prevents them falling from the box when it is accidentally knocked from a shelf or dropped.—MRS. H.

DEAR POLLY—Another good use for aluminum pie plates: Punch holes in the bottom with an ice pick, place upside down in a roasting pan and bend slightly to fit the breast of that turkey or a hickory to be roasted.—MRS. F. E.

DEAR POLLY—I used to write letters to my aunt and my sister telling how badly I felt and all the bad things that happened to me. Now I write only the good things and how wonderful it is to be alive and walk. This not only does wonders for my loved ones but also for me. It is very depressing to write or receive a sad letter.—MRS. B. R. L.

DEAR POLLY—To keep from stretching the necks of any pullover or turtleneck sweaters when you hang them on hangers, slip them down near the longer bottom first, rather than pulling the neck up over the hanger from the bottom. This makes sweaters last and stay in shape longer.—MICHAEL

DEAR POLLY—We had a near tragedy in our family when our granddaughter fell through a sliding glass patio door. The results were frightening, but thanks to good care a few more months she is doing fine. May I suggest that those with such doors have decals on them and where they are in plain sight. This may save someone's life.—MRS. M. M.

DEAR POLLY—When filling my flour container I always leave a small amount of flour in the original bag. I add salt and pepper to the flour in the bag and use it for coating chicken to be fried. The bag holds several pieces at once and proves quicker and easier.—MRS. J. N.

DEAR POLLY—When a machine washing blouses, slips, etc., that do not require rinsing, stop the machine just before the final spin and place in the dryer and there will be far fewer wrinkles. If you forget to stop the machine, a slight dampening of the articles before placing them in the dryer will accomplish the same results. Always remove from the dryer just as soon as dry.—MARY

 I often, receive the mail mistaking yours. "You may already have won..." expensive prizes. They say, "You will be notified if yours is the lucky number." Does anybody win? Are answers to these letters used to compile mailing lists? —Stella McGuyre, Punta Gorda, Fla.

• We are not aware currently of any selected lucky-number contest or other promotion which is not awarding prizes under the stated rules. Mailing lists are created from literally thousands of sources. While we have no knowledge of the uses made with names of entrants, we imagine compilations of mailing lists are created with such matter.

FOR MICKEY MANTLE

 Is it true that your twin brothers are still playing ball? —D. L., Atlantic City, N.J.

FOR CHARLES W. ROLL JR.

 director, Political Surveys & Analysis, Princeton, N.J.
 Would President Nixon have won the 1968 election if the outcome had been decided by a system under which a candidate would receive a percentage of electoral votes of a state, according to the percent of popular votes received? If not, who would have won? —Richard Loy, Sarasota, Fla.

• President Nixon would have received more electoral votes than Mr. Humphrey but less than the majority required by the Constitution. The results would have been: Nixon, 280½ electoral votes; Humphrey, 225½; Wallace, 79½, and minority candidates, a total of 13½ votes. The winner would have been determined by the House of Representatives.

Secretary of the Interior
 What is the highest Indian compensation paid monthly? How much "Indian" blood must one have to qualify for compensation? —Mrs. Irene Rohr, Devil's Lake, N.D.

• No Indian is paid compensation by the Federal government simply because he is an Indian. Some tribes have mineral, timber, and other resource income and may divide all or parts of this among tribal members. Some tribes require a specific degree of Indian blood; others, direct descent from a person who appeared on tribal rolls taken years ago.

FOR BARBRA STREISAND

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Computerized Patient Anesthesiology residents at the Los Angeles County-University of Southern California Medical Center all praise their computerized training manikin; according to Medical World News: "Sim One" has plastic skin, a hinged jaw, a heartbeat, muscles that simulate breathing, pulse, and blood pressure, a tongue, teeth, vocal cords, a trachea, esophageal openings, and bronchial tubes. Not much else: he's only half a man (skin)—the top half. He cost $75,000 and may be the last of his species because of his cost. Too bad, since standard training averages 77 days and 59.8 trials on real patients; with Sim One to practice on for 3½ to 9½ hours, only 45.6 days and 30 trials are necessary.

Sim under the knife

White House-Dog House—Almost every President has owned a dog (President Nixon has three). They say a person picks dogs to fit his personality. If so, what kind of dog do you think George Washington owned? Calvin Coolidge? Dwight Eisenhower? Well, Washington had an aristocratic foxhound. That figure, but how do you account for our Cal's porky, wire-haired terrier and his large German Weimaraner?

Build a Better Bank... And the fishermen will beat—or row—a path to your door. The yachtmen, oystermen and fishermen around Chesapeake Bay, Va., get very busy—sometimes too busy to get to the bank. So Kilar-nock's Chesapeake National Bank decided to come to them. The mobile branch is 33 feet long and made of fiber glass. It's a good place to float a loan!

Tax Cutoff? Taxpayers across the nation are voting down escalating school construction appropriations. Maybe there's a lesson for them in the new Green Tree Elementary School in West Bend, Wis., a 500-student building, designed and built by Marshall Erdman & Associates of Madison. This carpeted, air-conditioned building cost

School for saving

$504,000, saving taxpayers $290,000 (or $7.00 per square foot), based on the usual cost of similar schools. Cost cutting was achieved by using factory prefabricated building sections, standardized materials, and modular construction—something like putting together Junior's building set. In addition, six months was shaved from conventional construction time—leaving taxpayers hardly enough time to get set for the next budget battle.

Boys Are Better—Linda Hayden, 15, who she filmed "Baby Love," thinks the American ideal of "mixed schools" (boys and girls together) is good. "We have so few in England," she complained to Family Weekly. "Boys you can trust more than girls. My mum found the same thing. Like keeping secrets. Girls are inclined to turn docty, calculated, tricky little things. Girls' minds are different. Boys don't complicate things as much."

Lessons My Mother Taught Me

Mother's Day inspires this noted author—and probably all of us—to recall what we learned in our early years, whether we liked the teaching methods or not

By STERLING NORTH

Author of "Rascals," "Rascals Are the Brightest People," and "The Wolfing," to be published in August

"Have you been playing marbles, Sterling?" my mother asked sternly.

A GAME OF MARBLES was in noisy, happy progress in the shade of a wide-spreading oak tree in my boyhood town of Edgerton, Wis.

Nine or 10 of us were rolling mibs at a beautiful target some 15 feet farther down the sidewalk. The prize at which we were shooting was a large glass marble with a spiral of varicolored stripes which circled in graceful fashion within this solid crystal globe. The boy who owned this glassie sat with legs spread wide and chanted, "Everybody rolls and nobody hits it! Everybody rolls and nobody hits it! Everybody rolls and nobody hits it!"

It was not easy, with our slightly irregular earthenware marbles, to hit this relatively small target at such a distance. But the odds were not unfair. Everybody knew that one glassie was worth 25 mibs.

I was very young and new at the game, but suddenly to my delight and surprise I hit the target marble which, now, of course, became mine. The boy who had lost his glassie picked up all the mibs between his legs. He was well satisfied with the handful that he scooped into his leather bag.

With great excitement I took the place of the former gambler, spread my legs wide, and put my lovely prize at risk. The mibs came cascading into the area between my legs, while I took up the ancient chant, "Everybody rolls and nobody hits it! Everybody rolls and nobody hits it! Everybody rolls. . . ." There went my beautiful glassie.

But I, too, was satisfied. I had many, many marbles to put in my pouch. It was perfectly fair to quit once you had lost your glassie. Besides I had a distinct feeling of guilt. I was supposed to play "for fun" and never "for keeps." How would I explain my bulging pouch of marbles to my mother?

The rules were well defined around our pleasant and comfortable household in that peaceful spring of 1911. First came the "Thou shalt nots" of the Ten Commandments. Beyond these loomed other restrictions.

My mother believed that gambling was a major social evil.

"If you start playing marbles for 'keeps,' you will soon be pitching pennies," she predicted in her gentle but, earnest voice. "Next you will be playing pool for dimes and quarters."

I saw her point, but it all sounded rather exciting.

"Finally you'll end up playing cards for money and betting on the horses out at the Irish Picnic Grounds. And your poor wife will have to take in washing."

There lived on the other side of the tracks just enough forlorn washerwomen with irresponsible husbands to make the point quite vivid. But at the age of five, my horrible fate seemed rather remote.

What I did not know at that time was that my father was an avid speculator, which in mother's eyes meant a gambler. To my knowledge, he never rolled a pair of dice, played poker, or bet on the horses, but he thoroughly indulged himself in buying and selling real estate, which was usually deeply mortgaged.

I spread my legs wide and put my lovely prize at risk.

"After graduating from college, my parents had a romantic wedding. Bright and handsome, their future seemed assured. But almost immediately, my restless father was dreaming and scheming. He spent many, many hours trying to invent a "perpetual motion machine." He borrowed heavily to become co-owner of a newspaper in Madison, Wis. Next, he purchased a partnership in a printing concern in Evansville, Ind. He then founded a briefly successful bakery in New York City that produced "the first wrapped loaves of Graham bread in America."

My charming, optimistic father! He blew many such beautiful bubbles, almost all of which burst. He never worried, but my mother did.

The family fortunes were at their lowest ebb when I came along in 1906. I was by far the youngest, a "frost child" born when my mother was 40 and when my brother and two sisters were in high school. We were living on a poor, little farm on the shores of Lake Koshkonong near Edgerton, a town to which we soon moved. By 1911, when I played that game of marbles, the family finances were distinctly on the mend. My father had a suite of offices above the First National Bank. He owned a number of properties, (heavily mortgaged, of course), including 1,000 acres of newly-purchased wheat land in Montana. "It won't last," my mother would sometimes sigh.

"Come on, Libby. Cheer up."

"You'll never learn."

But if my father would not "learn," Mother was determined that her children would. Valdictorian of her college class, she taught all of us to read and write at a very early age.

She managed to instill in us considerable common sense and a degree of caution. But her teaching included a great deal of "uncommon sense" as well as about the living world around us, the sky overhead, and the pleasure to be found in good books.

She believed in mastering every subject one studies. I can still hear her say, "If a thing is worth doing, it is worth doing well." Any composition or poem we wrote was handed back to us for further polishing. This ingrained habit of interminable revision stays with me to this day. But to return to the morning of the marble game. Mother immediately noticed the bulging marble pouch and guessed its reason.

"Have you been playing marbles, Sterling?"

"Yes, Mother."

"For keeps?"

I hesitated.

"You know what I told you about gambling!"

I lowered my eyes.

"I shall have to punish you, Sterling."

Her spankings were meaningful. Her little, work-hardened hand could sting.

I vowed to myself I would not cry. But I looked at her beseechingly.

A thought came to her mind. Her son might not remember a spanking. But for the rest of his life he would remember the punishment she now invented.

"You will take your marbles and give them back to the boys and apologize."

"I won't do it."

It was the first time I had ever openly defied her, and her eyes blazed.

"You certainly will!"

"It's unfair," I wailed. "I played by the rules of the game. The kids will just laugh at me."

Only Bud Babcock left the game and came to walk silently beside me. You certainly can tell who your friends are in a moment like this one.

Many psychologists believe that the habit patterns which a child forms before the age of seven strongly influence the entire course of his life. Mother was granted only seven years to influence and guide me. In the cruel month of April, 1914, she was buried in the family plot, worn out by work, worry, and uncertainty. She was 47 years block to where the marble game was still in progress in high gear.

There was a wild scramble for the marbles. I walked away fighting back tears.

"I'm supposed to apologize!"

The marble game stopped abruptly. There was a brief, astonished silence.

"Apologize?"

"For winning your marbles."

"Are you crazy? You got bats in your belfry?"

I opened the pouch and poured the marbles on the sidewalk. There was a wild scramble. I turned and walked away, fighting back the tears.

Hoofs of derision and wild laughter followed me of age.

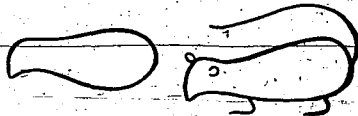

What Mother taught her willing youngest child will never be forgotten. That snowflakes have six points and thousands of patterns. That the two "pointer stars" in the Great Dipper show where the North Star is located. That each antenna of a moth looks like a little fern, while each antenna of a butterfly is a tiny rod tipped with a ball. That every bird, beast, flower, and tree has its very own reason for existing, and so does every single human being.

Truths so simply revealed that they remain indelible. ♦

This year, Oregon.

Fun, sun and scenery are great along the Oregon Coast: This is Cape Kiwanda, one of many headlands that protect public beaches along our 400 mile coastline. It's an accessible seashore, too. Highway 101 takes you the distance with something new to see and do around every turn. Go golfing, clamming, salmon fishing, surfing, sun bathing, beach-combing. Along the way: Friendly towns, fine restaurants and resorts.

Of course, the coast is just one edge of Oregon. Between our other borders you can get next to nature by riding horseback through cowboy country, camping beside one of our many mountain lakes or streams. Accommodations range from modest to downright plush all over this cool, green vacationland. And, the auto travel is really smooth, thanks to Oregon's system of superb highways.

Our 82-page color book tells more. We'll send it, if you'll mail the coupon... and we will see you here this year.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

The leading businessman in a small town was well known for keeping his family on a tight budget. One day his wife ventured hesitantly into a boutique to see what was on sale. A good-looking young woman, hair freshly coiffed, dressed in the latest style, paid for a $50 blouse and then came over to her:

"Aren't you Mrs. Henry?" she said. "I'm Miss Jones, your husband's secretary."

"Ooooh," said Mrs. Henry, with sudden insight, "were you?"

If you want to Stop Smoking, Here's How!

Known as the magician of (TRICK WATER) SKIING—Al Tyll (rhymes with "well") is a many-time winner of National, Masters and North American Championships in trick skiing. Versatile Al Tyll is also an expert snow skier and author of "The Complete Beginner's Guide to Water Skiing."

Trick water skiing may look simple, but no sport is more demanding in terms of stamina, coordination and sheer physical strength. Believe me, trick water skiing and smoking just don't go together—not if you want to stay on top.

Some time ago, I decided I should stop smoking. Although I had been smoking for 14 years, I noticed that now I was smoking more and more and I wasn't doing my best at skiing. Having been the champion trick skier for many years, I just couldn't afford to get hooked on the habit. I had to stay physically fit. However, I found it was getting harder and harder not to reach for a cigarette. Then I remembered reading about Bantron. I went to my drug store, bought a package of Bantron, and started taking it.

I'm very happy to say that with Bantron's help, I stopped smoking completely in 5 days. I had no difficulty in stopping, and didn't feel restless or irritable. It didn't affect my taste for food or anything else and it was so pleasant and easy to take. Just one Bantron pill after each meal for 5 days did the job for me. And now it's been more than 18 months since I've touched a cigarette! I feel very proud to endorse Bantron, and strongly recommend it to anyone who wants to stop smoking. It is a marvelous aid to quitting or to cutting down easily and quickly. Just try Bantron. You'll be amazed how it will help you.

I've learned that clinical evidence has established that Bantron is more than 80% effective in helping chronic chain smokers give up smoking completely. Extensive research work at a great American University has shown that 4 out of 5 people who had a desire to stop smoking were able to do so within one week with the help of Bantron. Even those who didn't stop completely cut down drastically.

Bantron simply acts as a substitute for the nicotine in your system and helps curb the desire for tobacco with a harmless, non-habit forming substance called lobeline. The result is that you feel no pangs of withdrawal and no desire to smoke.

Bantron is easy and pleasant to take. It really worked wonders for me. Even now, when I think of smoking, I just take Bantron instead. I recommend Bantron to everyone who wants to stop smoking quickly and easily. Try it. You'll be amazed with the results, just as I was. It really works!

Bantron is so safe when taken as directed that you can get it at all drug stores without a prescription. It has even been granted a patent by the U.S. Government. Also available in Canada.

Choose the Right Camp for Your Child

By J. GRANT GERSON with Lou Jacobs, Jr.

AS THE precamping season rolls around, my mail gets progressively heavier with queries from parents—some are calm, some are frantic; but they all have a common question—"How can I choose a good camp for my children?"

I have devoted my whole career to children's summer camps, starting as the camp director for the Los Angeles YMCA. For the past 20 years, my wife and I have owned and directed Calamigos Star C Ranch in Malibu, Calif.

From this experience I've come up with answers for parents perplexed by summer-camp selection. Here are some of my answers to the questions asked most often:

What kind of camp should I choose?

First make decisions on whether you want a play camp or a learning camp; whether you want a camp operated by a service organization, church or municipal group, or privately; whether you will need a day camp or an overnight camp.

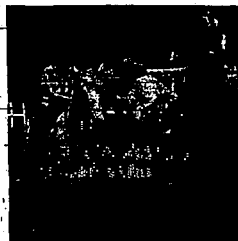

Then request brochures from several camps. If it is not possible to inspect the camp yourself, ask that a representative (often the camp director) visit with your family. Put every conceivable question to him. Don't pull any punches. And keep in mind that the cost is not the most important mark of the camp's excellence.

What should I expect a camp to do for my child?

A good camp should help develop both mental and physical skills; imbue sportsmanship, leadership, self-reliance; help the child grow apart from the pressures of home life, yet have the security of discipline set by the staff; provide a nutritious diet and comfortable accommodations; offer opportunities for new experience; develop the ability to communicate.

Should children have a voice in choosing a camp?

I think so. After you decide on several camps within your budget, in a different setting, offering activities to fit the child's need and abilities—then discuss the pros and cons of each one with him. Let him make the final decision, then he's less likely to think that he's being "sent away" for the summer. If you and the child can visit the camps under consideration, all the better.

Gerson teaches youths about horses.

Is summer camp more than a well-organized program of baby-sitting?

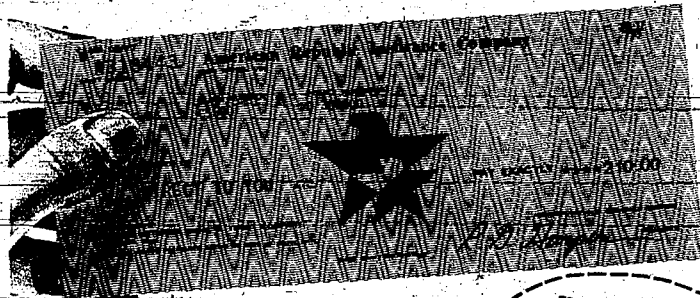

There is no worthwhile professional camp just for child care. Summer camps are under the direction of trained counselors who instruct children in camp living.

As for the different types of camps around the country; there are specialized camps for music, sports, and handicapped children.

There are also camps, called "camperships," that offer partial financial help to needy families.

The American Camping Association, Bradford Wood, Marlinville, Ind., can help you to find a listing of camps, as well as directories published by your own state association and service organizations. The list gives camp organizations, locations, programs, dates, fees, and the person to contact.

If searching for the right camp seems a bit of a chore, remember that it is more than just a vacation for your son or your daughter. It is insurance for your child's future—but only with your careful planning and preparation. ♦

If you were flat on your back in a hospital bed, which of these four "Direct Cash" Plans would best suit your needs?

TAX-FREE MONEY PAID DIRECT TO YOU WHEN YOU ARE IN THE HOSPITAL DUE TO ACCIDENT OR ILLNESS.

Regardless of your age, mail card today and discover...

How to get paid up to $157.50 a week, just like wages, while in the hospital:

Check how many ways you could use this Americare® "Direct Cash" while you are in the hospital:

- Food for your family.
- Clothing your family needs.
- Rent or mortgage payments, utility bills, credit accounts, even your life insurance premiums.
- Car payments and upkeep.
- Help pay medical bills, even if you are enrolled in the Medicare Medical Insurance program.
- Private nurse, if not provided by your regular insurance.
- Private room, if not covered by your present insurance.
- Transportation to another city for special hospital treatment.

WHAT IF YOU should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital, facing a stay of weeks—even months? Check the ways you could use extra spendable cash (see panel at left). Think what $2,000, $5,000 or $10,000—on top of your hospital insurance—could mean to you, regardless of your age or family circumstances:

If you are under 35, you may be just getting a good start in life. With small children, rent or mortgage payments, new furniture and all the other expenses young families have, a serious injury or illness might "wipe you out" financially.

If you are 35 to 65, your children now may be at the "colleget" stage of schooling; living expenses probably are higher than ever; and chances of hospitalization are increasing every year. This is certainly no time to be in a financial bind!

Even if you are 65 or over, and eligible for Medicare, you still will have to pay part of your hospital bills—and you also will have other bills. Everyday expenses, private room, private nurse, other medical costs—bills that Medicare does not cover.

Regardless of your age, the American Republic® "Direct Cash" Plan can pay you badly needed cash every week you are in the hospital... for up to one full year.

Now! Pays Up To $210 A Week!

Protection under the "Direct Cash" Plan is available in individual protection "units." Each unit pays you $52.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to illness OR accident... as much as $10,950.00 for a full year if you have the "4-Unit" Plan.

Compare All These Advantages:

• Pays cash direct to you in addition to any other insurance carried with any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation, Medicare, or any group plan. Cash to spend as you like.

• It is LifeGuarded® Protection and is Guaranteed Renewable. It is YOURS FOR LIFE as long as you make timely payment of the current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health or number of claims. The Company can change applicable table of premium rates.

• You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident sustained after your policy is issued, and for any sickness that first manifests itself after 30 days from the date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U. S. Government or Veterans Hospital.

• NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION, regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

Protection That PAYS

According to the latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percentage of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance.

The Sky-High World of

By WARREN SMITH

Private planes make it possible for vacationers to get anywhere.

$11,000 to $12,000 with full equipment. Expenses, depreciation, and insurance will average 10 cents per air mile. This "dime-a-mile" compares favorably with the cost of auto ownership.

Many private pilots find that the price of a new plane will dent their bank books. They find that buying a reliable used plane is much easier than finding a good used car. Planes are manufactured on a custom basis. Each craft must be regularly inspected by Government-certified mechanics after 100 hours of flight. With routine maintenance, light-plane engines must be overhauled every 1,200 hours of operation. "That is about 150,000 miles of flying," explained used-plane broker John Singer.

"A typical four-passenger plane that is 10 years old will cost from $5,000 to $7,000, depending on condition," Singer reports. "You can also get an older two-passenger plane, in good flying condition for $1,000 to $15,000. The older plane is just as reliable. It just won't go as fast, isn't as shiny, and doesn't have all the extras."

RENTING: Many hobby fliers rent their planes. A two-passenger single-engine plane will rent at $15-25 per hour of use. A four-passenger plane with a 135-mph cruising speed rents for $20-30 from flying-service operators in the Midwest. Costs of renting vary according to regions, and fees are higher in metropolitan areas.

You pay only for actual flying time. There is usually a minimum rental fee of two hours daily on flights away from the home airport.

Flying Clubs: Many fliers form a club and purchase a plane on a share basis. Ten Miami fliers recently put up $900 each and purchased a $9,000 four-passenger plane. The craft is rented to members for $7 per hour.

The rental fee covers upkeep, hangar costs, and other expenses." M. J. Denton, a club member, says.

"Membership in a flying club is the most economical way to fly," Denton believes. "We reserve the time when we want to use the plane. We've never had any problems with conflicting lines among members."

James Sulistio, a Chicago flying-club member, was recently transferred to the West Coast by his company. "I thought there might be a problem in selling my share of the RECENTLY, weekend pilot James Baker and his family climbed into their sleek single-engine plane and soared into the skies above a suburban-Chicago airport.

"Three hours later I was fishing on a nice lake in Missouri," Baker said. "My private pilot's license has tripled our weekend-vacation activities. Flying a plane is easier than driving. The cost? No more than driving."

There are more than 126,000 private planes, ranging from two-place trainers to business jets. And more are coming: last year alone the industry produced more than $600 million worth of aircraft, and 150,000 students enrolled in private flying courses. Private fliers use more than 10,000 airports in the U.S. (commercial lines use only 654).

These aviators range from a grandmother who recently flew the Atlantic solo to teen-age flying clubs.

What about the earthbound "ordinary citizen" who wants wings? Well, here are some tips about the exciting, skyrocketing world of general aviation:

Licenses: "You don't need the eyes of an eagle or to be glowing with health to fly your own plane," reported Bob Evans, a young Clinton, Iowa, business executive. "The first step is to pass a standard insurance-type physical examination. In some cases, special waivers by the FAA will allow a handicapped person to fly."

You then are issued a student license. This permits you to fly with an instructor or solo, with his permission. Qualifications for a license are relatively simple. You must fly for 20 hours with an instructor and complete an additional 20 hours of solo flight. Students must be 16 to start lessons and 17 to obtain a private license. "I soloed in 10 hours," Evans reports. "This cost $350. Solo flight brought the cost of lessons to almost $1,000."

Nationally, pilots qualify for a license in an average of 55 hours. Costs vary from $950 to $1,200.

When your training is completed, you take written and flight tests under the eyes of a Government-approved examiner. You will also be qualified for a lifetime radio-telephone operator's permit.

Buying a Plane: You can stay within your budget or zoom home with a gleaming million-dollar private jet. A sparkling new two-passenger single-engine plane will cost sub," he stated. "I sold it on the same afternoon to a job friend."

Business Possibilities: Frank Zdy, a business consultant in Lakeside, Calif., flies to meetings with his clients on a rented plane. "I obtained a private license because my schedule doesn't always match those of the airlines," Zdy said. "Last Monday I was in Las Vegas, San Francisco, and Sacramento, providing business-building ideas to my clients. The trip would have required a week by automobile. It would be at least two, perhaps three days by airlines. I was home with my family that same evening."

Pleasure Possibilities: "Flying my own plane has opened our vacation and leisure opportunities," Zdy reports. "My wife and I have a ball flying to sports events on weekends."

Zdy has flown to the Cotton Bowl game, the New Orleans Mardi Gras festival, and frequently flies to isolated areas in Mexico for fishing and hunting. "We usually entertain another couple," he stated. "We fly in a four-place plane and go and return when we wish."

A pilot's license provides your ticket to the exciting world of modern aviation.

- New friends, specialized flying clubs, and a limitless range of weekend vacations are fringe benefits.
- Some fliers even build and fly their own experimental aircraft.
- There are various clubs such as the International Flying Farmers, a group dedicated to the use of aviation in agriculture.

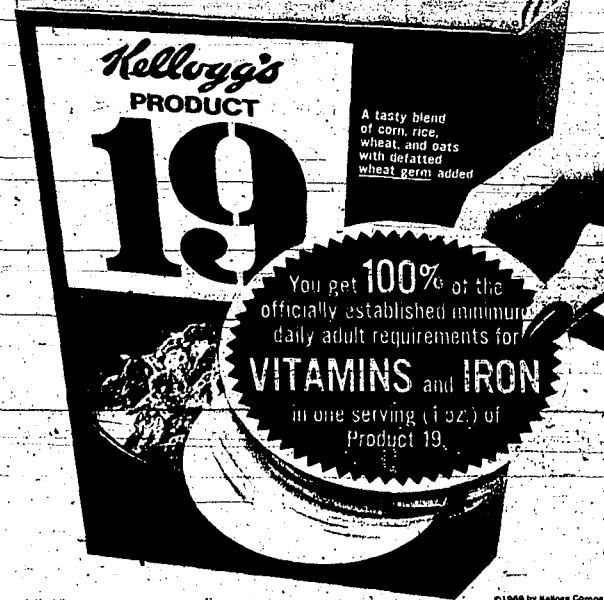

Executives use private jets for much of their travel.

- Fliers from one city will frequently "fly together" to vacation regions. A group of Midwest doctors and their wives recently piloted a squadron of planes to the Bahamas for a winter vacation.
- Aerial antique collectors restore old planes and then don old leather helmets for their breezy flights in their open-cockpit planes.
- Hunting and fishing enthusiasts find a plane puts them in range of unspoiled wilderness. 4

Sunday Night Supper

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

Oriental Oven-Fried Chicken is delicious.

■ Here are recipes for an informal supper in keeping with the relaxed pause of a Sunday evening on the patio.

Oriental Oven-Fried Chicken

- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 3 lbs. chicken pieces for frying
- ½ cup flour
- ½ cup all-vegetable shortening, melted in a skillet
- 2 cans (3 oz. each) chow mein noodles, finely crushed

1. In a large bowl or dish, mix the soy sauce, honey, lemon juice, and garlic. Put chicken into marinade and turn pieces to coat. Cover and refrigerate 2 to 3 hrs., turning pieces once or twice.
2. Remove chicken and coat with flour (shake in a plastic bag, if desired). Dip pieces in melted shortening and then coat with crushed noodles. Place chicken, skin side down, one layer deep in a large, shallow baking dish; pour any remaining shortening over chicken.
3. Cook in a 375°F. oven 30 min. Turn chicken pieces over and continue cooking about 15 min. or until tender.

6 servings

4. Remove from heat. Vigorously stir about 3 tablespoons sauce into the egg; immediately blend into hot sauce, stirring until smooth. Blend in drained spinach, bacon-like pieces, and cheese.
5. Turn mixture into a baking dish. Using additional cheese (about ¼ cup), form a border around the outside edge and sprinkle with paprika.
6. Heat in a 375°F. oven along with the chicken during its final 20 minutes of cooking.

About 6 servings

Vegetable Relish

- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon Accent
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1 cup cider vinegar
- 2 cans (1 lb., 12 oz. each) tomatoes, drained and quartered
- 2 cups chopped green pepper
- 2 cups chopped onion

1. Put sugar, Accent, salt, and vinegar in a saucepan. Stir over medium heat until sugar is dissolved. Mix in vegetables; bring to boiling and simmer 15 min.
2. Remove from heat and cool completely. Ladle into jars and cover tightly. Store in refrigerator.

2½ pts. relish

Choco-Walnut Kisses

Serve these crunchy meringues with a jelly pudding from a can.

- 2 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- ¼ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped

1. Beat the egg whites; salt, cream of tartar, and extract together until frothy. Gradually add the sugar, beating until stiff peaks are formed; fold in chocolate pieces and nuts.
2. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls 2 in. apart, onto cookie sheets covered with unglazed paper (heating parchment).
3. Bake at 300°F. 20 to 25 min. Remove from paper while still warm. Cool and store covered.

About 3 doz. cookies

Now..Makes Dentures Look Like $1-Million

Dentures—especially older dentures—are harder to clean and keep clean than natural teeth. And because they are 15 times softer, they are "out of" for damage and scratch.

That's why so many dentists insist on soaking dentures clean in KLEENITE instead of harsh brushing with abrasive pastes or powders. With KLEENITE you can now clean your precious dentures like fine jewelry—clean them thoroughly but safely.

Because it easy-to-use formula combines 3 different stain-removing actions—(1) detergent; (2) oxidizer; and (3) solvent—KLEENITE makes every dingiest denture clean 3 ways at once.

What's more, KLEENITE is instant-activated the moment you put it in water. It surges into every denture crevice. It penetrates "toughest" tobacco stains... helps soak away film. The difference it makes—even in the dingiest denture—will surprise you.

Try it. Get KLEENITE today at all drug centers.

Helps restore dentures' original whiteness!

This woman is giving herself the equivalent of eight hours of "solid sleep" relaxation in a mere minute! Just one of the fabulous Yoga exercises you can master—on sight!

World's Easiest Yoga

At long last—Yoga that is so downright easy, you can learn it at first sight! So rewarding, it cuts years off your appearance—recharges your body with youthful energy—flushes out of your system the internal poisons that keep you half-ill today! And does it all—in just a few miraculous minutes a day!

Specially designed for men and women OVER FORTY, even if they have neglected and abused their body for years. A new system of HEALING YOGA—consisting of exercises, and of simple HEALING POSTURES designed to redirect the blood-flow within your body to help you:

1) Flush out through your pores the internal wastes and poisons that make you OLD today...
2) Massage and stimulate hidden glands, thus strengthening your powers of digestion and therefore mostly increasing the energy output of your body...
And—most important of all—

3) Flood with super-nourishment the neglected upper-body tissues of your face, neck and hair—and thus dramatically slow down the aging and collapsing process that is aging your appearance faster and faster every year.

All done so easily that your heart won't add even a single extra beat. (So incredibly easy in fact, that the book that brings this new HEALING YOGA to you—to read entirely at our risk—is filled with photos of seventy and eighty-year-old men and women mastering these poses. You must SEE them to believe them.)

How To "Freeze Your Age" For The Next Thirty Years

But why should there be a special book on YOGA OVER FORTY? Why such emphasis on HEALING YOGA? Why are the techniques in this book specially designed to take the abused and fatigued "middle-aged body," and perhaps give that body MORE strength and MORE vigor and MORE resistance against disease than it had even years before!

The answer is simple! Because "middle-age" (and Yoga defines middle-age as the period between forty and eighty) is the last great crossroads of every human life. It is at this point—NOW—that you make the vital decisions that will either propel you onward to sickness and old age... or turn your "physical clock" backward in health and strength and appearance to what can only be called "A SECOND YOUTH!"

The choice is completely up to you. Because if you leave your body alone after forty, the aging processes pick up at a disastrous speed. A chronic tiredness begins to haunt every day. You put on weight you can't take off. The skin of your face begins to crumple, faster and faster—because your heart just can't pump up enough nourishing blood to keep it young any longer.

And, most important of all, gravity—the great killer of all animal life on earth—begins to weigh down your body more and more every year. Until it becomes difficult to walk, almost impossible to run, a terror to climb stairs. Until your entire body becomes a battlefield of aches and pains. Until you find yourself cutting out half the real FUN in life—because suddenly, tragically, you're just "TOO OLD!"

This is sheer nonsense! It is caused—not by age—but by ignorance. Four thousand years of Yoga Youthful Ninety prove it wrong. Here are the facts. Here are the "Age-Freezes" and "Age-

Reverses" that YOU can use to build a wall against sickness and pain—like this:

How To Breathe Yourself Young! Stretch Yourself Young! Sleep Yourself Young!

For example:
Four new sources of energy you never dreamed existed—from the earth, air, water and sun. Page 90 shows you how to tap each one, in minutes.

Cleansing Breaths. Sort of Super-Sighs, that let you breathe weariness right out of your body.

Why the best tranquilizer in the world doesn't cost a penny. It's yours on page 94.

The Blood-Stream Purifier. Forces your body to BURN UP hidden poisons that may have been clogging your cells for years. You may feel the difference—in thrilling new freedom from indigestion alone.

Released for the first time to our knowledge: The simple technique that allows Yoga to sit in the snow, with only a loin-cloth, and be perfectly comfortable. YOU can use this same secret, in minutes, to eliminate cold, hands and feet all winter long.

Previously undisclosed Yoga sex exercises: Their prime purpose: To transmute Physical Energy Into Sexual Energy.

The single most powerful Yoga pose to delay the signs of the human body (page 113). And why it releases a virtual torrent of self-healing processes.

Weight-loss the Yoga Way. How can you lose weight like a young person, if you have an old person's glands? Therefore, Yoga works on your glands—not only to help you lose weight more quickly than you have ever dreamed before—but to actually help you eliminate ugly bulges that have plagued you for years.

Yoga Rejuvenators For Your Face, Your Hair, Your Spins, Your Teeth

Yoga says that age etches itself on your face for two reasons: Because that face becomes starved for enough nourishing blood; and because it loses the battle against gravity, and sags.

Therefore, Yoga floods your face with blood at least once every day. And it temporarily reverses the power of gravity, to force that gravity to combat (at least for a few precious minutes every day) the destruction it has been wreaking on your face for years!

The simple poses that do this are so powerful that they not only pour new youth into your face, but also:

Intiglate the brain, and stimulate mental processes.
Feed the gums and roots of your teeth, and increase their strength and longevity.
Feed the scalp and hair follicles with the same rich, nourishing blood, and (in case after case reported in this book) naturally help retain your own healthy hair.

Prove It Yourself Entirely At Our Risk

But this is only the beginning of course. Almost every page is filled with priceless health secrets, including:

How to avoid incomplete elimination—the number one cause of chronic poisoning of the system after forty.

A Yoga method by which the body can continue to repair its own cells, right up until ninety.

How to stretch, sore-muscle back pain away. Make that sore spine as supple as a kitten's.

Deep internal massage. To firm the stomach... lead to inner cleanliness... increase the gastric fire.

A new way to stop smoking... without eating more (see page 52).

What Yoga can do for you to improve swollen ankles and feet.

Your best exercise to recharge the body—that takes only five minutes a day, and requires you to do ABSOLUTELY NOTHING (but in an entirely new way). See page 117.

And much, much more. But you must try these simple poses yourself to really believe them. The cost of this amazing new system of HEALING YOGA—called YOGA OVER FORTY—is only $3.99 complete, if you decide to keep it.

It costs you nothing if you decide to send it back. The decision is up to you. We believe that SECOND YOUTH lies in the coupon below. If you are willing to test this simple rejuvenating method yourself, at our risk—why not send it in, TODAY.

This free booklet will tell you how you can become a Computer Programmer

50,000 more programmers needed
now! 500,000 more will be needed in a few years!

...and how you can train at home for big earnings in the world's newest, most exciting profession.

IF YOU'RE dissatisfied with your present job, why don't you become a programmer? So great is the demand for programmers, you'll have your choice of openings, with a growing future ahead.

For the vast majority of good positions, a high school education, a logical mind and the right preparation are all that are required. LaSalle, world leader in home education, will train you as a programmer in your spare time.

Why not plan for bigger success in the field where employers are looking for you? Authorities agree that for many years to come there will be more openings in computer programming than people to fill them! Even beginners are paid well, and with experience, programmers can fill major supervisory positions at salaries of $12,000 to $15,000 a year — often as much as $20,000.

Without leaving your present position, you can start your training now — at very low cost. You can study at home, in hours of your own choosing. Experienced LaSalle instructors will guide you by mail every step of the way. Industry experts say this is the most thorough course of its kind that they have seen. The ease and rapidity with which you learn will surprise you.

LaSalle has just published a fascinating booklet "How To Become a Computer Programmer." In simple, non-technical language this booklet tells you what computer programming is; what the programmer does; how you can train by mail through the school that has enrolled more than 1,500,000 people in its many success courses. Mail the coupon for your free copy or write to LaSalle, 417 S. Dearborn, Chicago, Illinois 60605.
