Fishbowl Existence Is Lot Of Law Officers

BURLEY—Law enforcement is "in a fishbowl today because of the unrest in the country," a retired FBI agent told the 19th annual Western States Crime Conference now under way at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley, H. R. Overton, San Francisco, told some 300 law enforcement officers here Monday that crime is a problem all across the nation. Court rulings, social atticredit cards and the Western States Bankers' Association, speaking during the Monday luncheon meeting, he said the credit card problem is here to stay and it is a way of life. "It is," he said, "responsible for more financial loss than any other type of crime. The weapon used is a ballpoint pen."

today's society. By 1972 there will be 100 million credit cards in use, he predicted. "We will soon see the time when cash will not be used and everything will be purchased and paid for through the credit system," he added.

Alpinist Is Given Blame For Tragedy

POKHARA, Nepal (UPI)—The leader of an American mountain climbing team who died along with four other Americans and two guides in an avalanche on Nepal's Mt. Dhaulagiri was criticized Monday by the chief guide for his "obstinacy and impatience and ignorance." Dorje, the chief guide, who returned here with the three American survivors of the slide, told newsmen that "the (Americans) absolutely ignored my warnings on climbing precautions."

He said they also "refused to listen to my advice against climbing in bad weather and rebuffed me for my attempt to prevent them from taking chances against constantly falling avalanches. The leader's obstinacy and impatience cost five Americans and two highly experienced Sherpas their lives," Dorje said.

Louis Reichard of Stanton, Calif., Dr. James Morrissey and James Janney of St. Louis who returned here with Dorje, appeared tired but fit from the hike back from the scene of the April 29 avalanche. Dorje said a day before the disaster, another avalanche hit and he warned the team leader, Boyd N. Everett Jr., of New York against going any further. "The leader was angry with me," he said and ordered him down to a base camp at 12,400 feet. Everett, 35, one of the most experienced climbers in the United States, led the avalanche party the next day and died in the avalanche.

Crewmen For Apollo 10 Will Mesh Varied Personalities

By United Press International They're a trio of contrasts, the crewmen of Apollo 10, yet they mesh their varied personalities into a brand of teamwork that goes beyond brotherhood in its closeness.

Thomas P. Stafford, 34, a baldish six-footer from Oklahoma, commands the team. In small but significant ways, the other two show that the soft-spoken air force colonel is the undisputed boss — and that they like it that way.

John W. Young, 38, shortest member of the crew and the man-of-least-words, flies an F-4 navigator. But behind Young's outward reserve lies a dry wit and a sense of humor that has occasionally gotten the boyish pilot with a shock of unruly brown hair in trouble with staid space agency officials.

Eugene A. Cernan, 34, a tall and suave young man from the remote Chicago suburb, Bellview, Ill., qualifies as the crew's poet and philosopher. He also serves as its systems engineer, charged with keeping watch over the myriad pieces of equipment that make up Apollo 10.

All three men are veteran space pilots. Their mission with Apollo 10 is to moon orbit and practice every step of a lunar landing except the final touch-down itself. To clear the way for other Americans to walk the moon's surface on July 20.

Stage Of Life

Much is made of the fact that half the nation's population is under 30 years of age. This is often suggested as the explanation of student unrest. But in all historical eras, the vast portion of the population has always been under 30, counters a psychologist. In primitive societies, most people die before they reach that age. If chronological youth alone was enough to insure rebellion, the advanced societies—where more of the population reaches old age than ever before in history—should be the least revolutionary and primitive societies the most. This is not the case, says Kenneth Keniston, associate professor of psychology at Yale Medical School. More relevant factors, he says, are the degree of involvement of those under 30 with the established institutions of society and the opportunities that society provides for their continuing intellectual, ethical and emotional development. It is difficult for us to believe it now, but until the end of the Middle Ages, no separate stage of childhood was recognized in Western societies. Infancy ended at 6 or 7 (the "age of reason" in Catholic teaching), whereupon children were integrated into adult society to work as junior partners of the adult world. The recognition of adolescence as a separate stage of life is of even more recent origin, the product of the 19th and 20th centuries. Only as industrial societies became prosperous enough to defer adult work until after puberty could they create institutions—like widespread secondary school education—that could extend adolescence to virtually all young people.

Today, in more developed nations, we are beginning to witness the recognition of still another stage of life. Kenniston calls this the stage of "youth." This stage, which continues into the 20s and sometimes the 30s, provides opportunities for intellectual, emotional and moral development that were never before afforded to any other large group in history. In the student revolts, thinks Kenniston, we are seeing one result of this. What the advanced nations have done is to create their own critics on a mass basis. Young people in college have been freed from the requirements of work, of gainful employment—and even marriage, which permits them to criticize society from a protected position of disengagement. It is not that industrial societies have failed to keep all their promises but that they have succeeded in some ways beyond all expectations. Many of today's students have never experienced anything but affluence, political freedom and social equality. Not all of them, but many of them are searching for a new vision, a new set of values, a new set of targets "beyond freedom and affluence." But they also know that millions have not yet achieved these benefits they take for granted. "What characterizes student unrest in the developed nations," says Kenniston, "is this peculiar mixture of the old and the new, the urgent need to fulfill the promises of the past and, at the same time, to define the possibilities of the future." A more generous appraisal of themselves, our favored youths could not hope to ask for.

WASHINGTON — Noting that he once opposed the heavy expenditures necessary for ballistic missile defense, Dr. Edward Teller is now urging Congress to approve President Nixon's Safeguard-ABM system. Teller, often described as the father of the H-bomb, is saying the United States may already have lost its advantage over Russia in nuclear weapons development. He suggests that superior computer technology may provide an advantage in missile defense. The 61-year-old physicist has been called to testify next week before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee. His views have already been submitted to the Senate Armed Services Committee, however, which is studying the Safeguard system. Teller reportedly recalls that he opposed ABM outlays years ago, when experts estimated that missile defense would cost thirty times as much as the offense necessary to overcome it. He reports that he has changed his mind, now that the economic advantage of offense is only two or three times under defense. In the light of present circumstances, Teller concludes that an ABM defense could well become the key in a strategic power balance. He says it is there-fore vitally important the United States find out whether an effective missile defense can be achieved. In that connection, Teller reportedly suggests that the two initial Safeguard installations could be viewed as pilot operations for that purpose. Teller's statement deals with a couple of the major criticisms leveled at the Safeguard system by other scientists: that its radars would be vulnerable to attack and that the radars might be unable to penetrate the massive discharge of radiation released by the first ABM warhead destroying an incoming missile. Teller suggests that the answer may be a large number of radar observation posts in many locations, and that as technology comes in, the major difficulty, he says, will be a world communications network to gather and evaluate data. In a matter of minutes, even seconds, Teller says, such a network must assemble information, evaluate it, and determine the firing course for defense missiles. He stresses the difficulties involved in such a calculation. However, Teller believes the United States is ahead of Russia in development of electronic computers and in related systems research. He says the United States will be the leader if missile defense comes to depend on speed and reliability of such electronic data processing equipment. His statement is also said to take issue with the critics' complaint that the system is obsolete before it is built. Teller's view is that present hardware can be modified and expanded to produce an improved ABM system in the future. In urging approval of the Safeguard deployment, Teller suggests that such defensive arms are more important than an expanded retaliatory force. That, he says, may be a more important factor than the costs of the defensive weapons. He says that the critics' past administrations, for hiding Russia's increasing strategic strength behind a cloak of secrecy. By doing that, he says, the Pentagon has allowed the Russians to build a permanent strategic advantage over the Russians. These comments contrast sharply with the complaint of ABM critics that Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has declassified data to drum up support for the Safeguard system. Teller says, however, that all the unpleasant data has not yet been made public. He notes that the United States was surprised when Russia exploded an A-bomb in 1949, and an H-bomb in 1953, "lofted" the first Sputnik in 1957, put missiles in Cuba in 1962, tested orbital weapons in 1967, and marched into Czechoslovakia in 1968. Other surprises could well be anticipated, he says. Teller complains that secrecy has been masqueraded as security so that the American people are confused. He couples his endorsement of the Safeguard system with a plea that more information be made public on defense needs. Teller's attack on Pentagon secrecy is aimed directly at former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. Teller's endorsement, while it was not unexpected, will provide a small boost for Safeguard supporters who are hard-pressed to keep the program alive. There is plenty of scientific expertise on both sides of the ABM dispute, but Teller's has been a particularly persuasive voice in Congress. Some veteran lawmakers have not forgotten that it was Teller who pressed for development of the hydrogen bomb, and many top scientists were saying that it was too expensive and that it might not work. President Truman decided for Teller, who then headed the H-bomb development. Only nine months after the United States detonated Teller's first thermonuclear device, Russia fired her first H-bomb.

Impetigo

"Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is impetigo and what causes it? Is it contagious? ... Impetigo is a highly contagious skin infection, caused by the staphylococcus or streptococcus germ. In short, it's a staph infection or strep infection of the skin. "Fifth" is not always the cause. A person may be perfectly clean, yet get the infection from someone else who has it. This may be by touching the person, use of such a person's towel, or any method that can transmit the germs from one person to another. The germs may be carried, for example, by tools or instruments. "Barber's itch" is impetigo. Impetigo is not the problem it used to be, because of the fact that the germs that cause it are effectively combated by antibiotics. All the same, the germs are still present and the staph germ, and the fact that impetigo can be treated expeditiously does not alter the fact that people still get it. It is most common among children. Since these germs are so common, one risk is that they will get a foothold (if germs have feet) in the skin if the germs are present and you scratch, bites, an insect bite, or eczema. That's one of the things we are talking about when we say that you should take precautions against the patient spreading his skin germs to anyone else. See that he uses only his own towels, linens, etc., until the disease has been cured. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss urinary tract infection. Will dilation help or cure this condition? ... Dilation is necessary in some cases, quite unnecessary in others, and your question therefore has no simple answer. Obviously, I can offer to get some basic understanding of urinary problems, which you can do by reading my booklet, "Your Kidneys: Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our baby is one year old and has low legs. Would corrective shoes correct this? ... Mrs. S. B. ... Dear Dr. Thosteson: I plan to be married soon and would like to know what to expect when I have my examination. ... This varies according to location. ... Some states require a "mod-

MR. SPECTATOR

Back Over The Years

"Like we promised you folks last week, we'll take you back in the history of Twin Falls and this general area in the next five columns. Like most stories start, we will start this one right at the beginning and pick up bits of this and that from the first issues of the Twin Falls News. Generally speaking the same issue of the paper No. 1, Vol. 1 on Oct. 28, 1904. So here goes: Big story in the first issue of the News was concerning the growth of the community. The story was written Oct. 28, 1904, and the reporter pointed out that on the first of April (which was about seven months before the paper was published) there was not a single brush removed from the city site. The first improvement that came was a telephone line, south from Shoshone to Blue Lakes, Shoshone Falls and Twin Falls City, then east to Milnor, a distance of about 70 miles. The reporter wrote: "The first building erected was the office of the Twin Falls Investment Co., which was first occupied on July 27. Perrine and Burton's Store, which was the second building erected, was the first to be occupied, having been opened for business on July 27. "On Aug. 10 Prothero's restaurant was opened to be followed at intervals by other business institutions. "At the present time (this was the end of October) there are two general stores, two livery stables, two restaurants, two saloons, a lumber yard, brickyard, meat market, blacksmith shop, rooming house and a real estate office which has broken the Idaho record for sales. "In the course of construction is a hardware store, a drug store and a short order restaurant, which will probably be transferring business two weeks from this date. A $50,000 hotel (that was the Perrine, just recently (torn down) and a stone store building are being excavated for and two other stone buildings will soon begin. A school building is under way. "A national bank has been organized (First National Bank of Twin Falls) and a millinery store is in sight. A physician and dentist are here and religious services are held twice each month. "There are 65 school children in town—and 136 registered voters. "Other stories in the first issue referred to the Kimberly Hotel being under construction. To which Mr. Spectator might add that the name Kimberly was given to the structure when first started but when completed it was "christened" the Perrine. In a column entitled "Local Over-Flow" the editor, who was O. H. Barber, listed items of particular interest. For instance;

The first car of coal arrived last week. Two men were wanted to clear sagebrush land. Wages were $30 a month. S. W. Hazen was proprietor of the Hazen House. Clyde Jensen was a popular traveling man who was visiting in the city. A delegation of Swedish Lutheran ministers was in town looking over things and contemplating a colonization site. Robert McCollom, was erecting a commodious dwelling on his residence lot near the park. Dr. H. W. Clouche of Elgin, Ore., had a car bought and was to open an office here. A. W. Humphrey, a conductor on the Missouri Pacific, was in town looking things over and said he would return and buy land for himself, his two brothers and also his mother. Ernest Tacha, a photographer of Mountain Home, expected to open a photograph gallery in the community. Silas Perkins, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Notus, was in town looking over chances of establishing a church at this point. Oregon Short Line was under contract to build a 70-mile line from Twin Falls and at the end of October, 1904, grading had started between Minidoka and Milnor. And the story said that by spring, 1905, people could buy a ticket at Minidoka and ride all the way into Twin Falls by train—rather than by wagon or horse or stage. Progress was catching up with Twin Falls City. So that's the way it was back in 1904. Tomorrow we will take you into the world of early-day advertising as featured in the News of 1904 and 1905.

The High Cost Of Military

WASHINGTON — One of the reasons the Military-Industrial Complex is catching it from everybody is that there seems to be a certain amount of skepticism regarding the price tags they put on our military hardware. Just the other day it was revealed that Lockheed promised to build 129 big air transporters for a total cost of $2.9 billion. But now it turns out that the planes are going to cost $3.2 billion. And even for an apathetic taxpayer like myself, that seems like a lot of money. I was shocked when I read the news, but that was because I had the idea how the military purchasing system works. Fortunately, I have a friend who deals with the government, and he explained it to me. "You shouldn't come to conclusions just because the C-5A transport cost almost twice as much as everyone thought it would. Anyone can make a $2 billion mistake. Nobody's perfect." "I still don't understand it," I said. "Let me explain it to you. As you know, we build gronmets for the military. Suppose they come to us and say, 'We understand the Soviets have a new gronmet, so we have to have a new gronmet, too.' Well, we tell them it won't be any trouble developing a new gronmet. As a matter of fact, we've been doing research on new gronmets and we already have one on the drawing boards. We've tested every other gronmet obsolete. "So they give us a contract to deliver 1 million gronmets within 24 cents apiece, plus routing costs, advertising, executive bonuses and a fair profit. This brings the gronmets up to $150 each, which is a lot more to be tested. Unfortunately, in the tests it turns out that the gronmet expends when someone breathes on it. So we went back to Research and Development. While they're trying to work the bugs out of it, we have to pay our workers to stand by the production line and this adds to the cost of the gronmet. We inform the military the gronmets will cost $3.50 each. They approve it, and finally we get what we consider an excellent gronmet. "We start production but when we send the first batch off, an Air Force general requests an extra gronmet in the gronmet. We inform him that we will have to retool the entire factory and he okay's it. The gronmets now cost $10 each. "Since this gronmet is supposed to be used for the Navy as well, the Navy Research people scream that for their purposes the gronmet has to have one less groove on it rather than one more. So we have to retool two production lines, which sends the cost of the gronmet up to $30. "With the new specifications, our engineers discover that the Air Force gronmet screws on tightly and the Navy gronmet just has screwed on all. So we have to develop a special screwdriver to be issued with each gronmet, which brings our costs before we take in a labor strike, to $103.30. "That's a lot of money for a gronmet." But in this reporter's experience, any defense contractor will tell you there is no price you can put on gronmets when the national security of the United States is at stake.

Teen Rebellion

The Students for a Democratic Society is now moving into the high schools. This loosely knit youth group, responsible for some of the most violent college riots of the past year, aims at adapting some of its more effective techniques for precollege youngsters. SDS is writing operations pamphlets for the teen-agers. SDS college groups are sponsoring junior chapters in public schools near the campuses. SDS leaders are acting as advisers to high school principals, teachers and school regulations. They're giving advice on what changes are needed to cause the most disruption in the schools. They're pushing the publication of SDS underground newspapers on the high school campuses. One SDS pamphlet for the high school set, points in part to the following underground, destructive actions: ... starting trash can fires and pulling fire alarms are actually forms of protest directed at the school as it is now constituted. "Not only the defense of hair and clothing styles against modification attacks, but the adoption of such styles themselves indicates a general disgust with the values and attitudes that our generation has been forced to accept. It is impossible to determine at this writing how successful

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is impetigo and what causes it? Is it contagious? ... Impetigo is a highly contagious skin infection, caused by the staphylococcus or streptococcus germ. In short, it's a staph infection or strep infection of the skin. "Fifth" is not always the cause. A person may be perfectly clean, yet get the infection from someone else who has it. This may be by touching the person, use of such a person's towel, or any method that can transmit the germs from one person to another. The germs may be carried, for example, by tools or instruments. "Barber's itch" is impetigo. Impetigo is not the problem it used to be, because of the fact that the germs that cause it are effectively combated by antibiotics. All the same, the germs are still present and the staph germ, and the fact that impetigo can be treated expeditiously does not alter the fact that people still get it. It is most common among children. Since these germs are so common, one risk is that they will get a foothold (if germs have feet) in the skin if the germs are present and you scratch, bites, an insect bite, or eczema. That's one of the things we are talking about when we say that you should take precautions against the patient spreading his skin germs to anyone else. See that he uses only his own towels, linens, etc., until the disease has been cured. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss urinary tract infection. Will dilation help or cure this condition? ... Dilation is necessary in some cases, quite unnecessary in others, and your question therefore has no simple answer. Obviously, I can offer to get some basic understanding of urinary problems, which you can do by reading my booklet, "Your Kidneys: Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our baby is one year old and has low legs. Would corrective shoes correct this? ... Mrs. S. B. ... Dear Dr. Thosteson: I plan to be married soon and would like to know what to expect when I have my examination. ... This varies according to location. ... Some states require a "mod-

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who demands that his wife let him stay with another woman on week-ends? He claims he is "indebted" to her because she was "good" to him when he was down in the dumps and having trouble at home.

That man is my husband. He is 63, and so is this other woman. He claims there is no sex involved—just friendship. When he and I had a fight three months ago he left for a short time—and admitted staying with her. Now he's back home again. I am confused. I don't know what to do. I don't know what to do. I don't know what to do.

What do you think? ALSO, SIXTY DEAR ABBY: If you go for this proposition, your week-end is your husband's. This is a full-time deal, and there's no time off for good behavior. Or "bad."

DEAR ABBY: Will you settle an argument for us? When somebody ASKS you for whom you should vote, do you say? My friend says the person who is proud of his choice will come right out and say for whom he voted. I say I prefer not to get involved. It doesn't necessarily mean you are ASHAMED OF YOUR CHOICE. What do YOU say? JUST VOTED

DEAR JUST: I say that one's choice in voting is a personal matter, and he should not feel obliged to disclose it. It has nothing to do with being "proud" or "ashamed"—it's a matter of privacy.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a pickup truck. It's my only means of transportation. I keep it nice and clean and polished, and attempt to use it for dates. I said "attempt" to use it because I've had several dates broken because I was going to use the truck. Two girls broke the date standing right beside it, before I could even open the door.

The odd part is that not one of these girls asked about my transportation when they accepted the date.

I dress well, and behave like a gentleman. I make a good salary, but instead of paying for a new car I am saving for a mobile home.

Should I quit dating until I can afford to take a taxi or buy a new car? The truth is, my dating events are much better when I was wearing the snail blues and using the old "ahoo leather express."

What do you think, nice girls who would prefer a date in a pickup truck to sitting at home? Are they back on the farm? CAPE KENNEDY, FLA.

DEAR CAPE: Your problem isn't wheels. It's your choice of girls. There are still plenty of girls around who would like to date a well-dressed fellow who behaves as a gentleman, and they wouldn't mind being picked up in a pickup truck either. Ask around.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ERNIE: Show me a man who never made a mistake and I'll show you a man who never made anything. The only men who are always making mistakes are below the aid.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

$71,667 Pledged In "Y" Fund Campaign

The YM-YWCA capital funds drive reached the 12-per-cent mark Monday night as workers reported a total of $71,667 collected to date. Boise Youths May Have Longer Hair

BOISE (UPI)—Boys at Boise High can let their hair down now.

Trustees of the Boise Independent School District approved a new code of dress Monday for youngsters at Boise High which is more liberal than that allowed in the past. Boys can have sideburns down to the edge of their jaw, hair over their ears and to the base of their necks and can wear cut-offs in the spring and fall.

Under the new code, they also may wear T-shirts, non-ragged shirts outside their pants, Bermuda shorts or cut-offs during the period from April 15-Oct. 15. Beards and mustaches still are forbidden, however.

Girls may wear dresses as short as mid-thigh. But front and back necklines must be decent and bare midriffs are forbidden.

Between April 15 and Oct. 15, girls also may wear non-corduroy or non-blue jeans pants, hemmed Bermudas or bloomers under dresses if they do not exceed the length of the dress, and collotes and pant dresses if they are no shorter than mid-thigh and are flared away from the leg.

The code was drawn up by a committee of students, faculty and administration.

Trustee Dale Morgan objected to the sideburns and hair length parts of the code and moved that sideburns be limited in length to the bottom of the ear lobe and that hair be "off the ears and off the collar." His motions died for lack of a second.

DEATH PENALTY ASKED. MANILA (UPI)—The prosecution has demanded the death penalty for a police captain and seven other men accused in the slaying of a Chinese millionaire, Remigio Tan, in downtown Manila last fall. The midday murder occurred in view of scores of shoppers and workers.

Crackdown

ACCRA (UPI)—Police confiscated more than $1.4 million Monday in assets allegedly acquired unlawfully by former Ghanaian officials, authorities announced. Guards surrounded houses said to belong to former ministers in the regime of ousted President Kwame Nkrumah. One minister who bought his wife a gold bed was ordered to pay the government $720,000.

Eye Patient Lacks Vision, Wife Reveals

HOUSTON (UPI)—John Madden, a Conroe, Tex., photo shop owner who received a new right eye three weeks ago in what was announced as the world's first total eye transplant, checked out of Methodist Hospital and went home Monday. His wife said he could not see.

"There is no sight but the eye has perfect movement and he has feeling in it," Mrs. Madden said.

Madden, 55, whose eyes had been stitched shut since the April 22 operation to prevent infection, had the bandages removed and was read (read) out of the hospital.

Neither Dr. Conrad D. Moore, who performed the surgery, or Methodist Hospital officials would comment on the success or failure of the transplant.

"I don't know what they expected," said Mrs. Madden from their home in Conroe, a town of 13,000 population of 40 miles north of Houston.

"They tell us that being able to transplant an eye and have movement in it is really something," Mrs. Madden said.

The Houston Ophthalmological Society, in a statement three days after the operation, accused Moore of giving thousands of blind persons a false sense of hope with the total eye transplant.

"The procedure was not based on sufficient experience or knowledge," the medical group said. "The total eye transplant is doomed to failure."

The next day Moore reversed himself and said he did not transplant a total new eye into Madden. Instead, he said he transplanted only part of it.

High-Rise Mail

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Pacific Rocket Society, combining a space-age first with fund raising, has announced plans to launch the nation's first steam-propelled, mail-carrying rocket May 24.

The 85-inch-long rocket will carry 400 envelopes bearing the new Apollo 8 postage stamp cancelled on the first day of issue at Houston, according to Society President John E. Porter of Northrup Institute of Technology.

The envelopes from the symbolic flight then will be sold to stamp collectors.

The rocket will rise to an altitude of about one mile, and then parachute back to earth.

Court Affirms Damage Award To Filer Man

BOISE (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Monday in a 3-2 decision affirmed a district court damage award of $2,000 to Gary Bean of Filer.

Justice Joseph McFadden wrote the majority opinion with Justices Allan Shepard and Clay Spear concurring. Justice Henry McQuade wrote the dissent with Justice Charles Donaldson concurring.

Bean won the damages from Diamond-Alkali Co. and its distributor, Twin Falls Feed and Ice, Inc., for damage to an onion crop as the result of application of a chemical herbicide manufactured by Diamond.

"The plaintiff said he bought the herbicide in 1955 and had it applied to 4.8 acres of onions. A short time after the onions emerged from the ground they withered and died."

The defendants had appealed on the grounds that the lower court erred in allowing the plaintiff's witnesses—all of them farmers with experience in raising onions—to testify about the cause of damage to the crop.

Tornadoes, Hail Pelt Plains Area

By United Press International

Tornadoes hit the Southern Plains again today amid thunderstorms, high winds and hail that spoiled an otherwise tranquil weather scene across the United States.

No injuries were reported due to any of the tornadoes which began striking Monday evening in South-Central Nebraska.

Most touched down in open country. Several outbuildings were damaged on a farm near Rawlston, Neb., by one of at least three twisters that hit the state.

South of the tornado activity was heavy rainfall with Brownsville, Tex., reporting nearly 3 1/2 inches of rain within a six-hour period ending early today.

In sharp contrast, frost warnings were posted for Michigan and scattered frost was expected in the Northeast today while the interior lowlands of the Southwest labored under a spring heat wave that showed no signs of letting up.

Afternoon temperatures once again were expected to hit the 100-degree mark today. Blythe and Needles, Calif., each reported an 83-degree reading at 3 p.m. EDT. At the same time, International Falls, Minn., reported the nation's low of 31 degrees.

Warm temperatures will have their effect today on the flood danger around Denver where the crest of the South Platte River moved into Nebraska.

BLAST KILLS TWO MEXICO CITY (UPI)—An oil pipeline burst near the Mexican Gulf Coast Monday, killing two persons and burning 14 others in a wave of flame that swept through a village of thatched huts.

SPALDING England (UPI)—The owners of the Pigeon Inn are giving a five-gallon barrel of beer to 69-year-old Jack East, a customer so faithful that he has worn a hole in the floor by his favorite spot at the bar.

East downed his first beer in the pub when he was 12 and he has been a regular customer ever since.

"I started late, but I have been making up for it since," he said Monday. "I must have drunk enough pints of beer to buy the place twice over."

Emile Griffith Stops Hayward In Title Prep

Jenkins And Cubs Halt Padres 2-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ferguson Jenkins pitched a five-hitter and drove in one run Monday to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 2-0 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

It was the third shutout of the season for Jenkins and the seventh for the Cubs' pitching staff. San Diego could not collect an extra base hit and had runners on third only once.

Randy Hundley and Al Spangler singled before Adolfo Phillips walked to lead the bases for Chicago in the second, and Jenkins' ground ball gave the Cubs their first run. The second run came in the fifth when Nate Oliver doubled and scored on Billy Williams' single.

Oliver replaced Glenn Beckert as second base when Beckert, the second batter to face starter Gary Ross of the Padres, was hit on the lower left leg and suffered a deep cut on the chin. He was taken to a hospital and given 15 stitches, but X rays showed no fracture.

Seattle Cops Brawl-Marred 8-4 Decision

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Tommy Davis led a three-run double to highlight seven runs first inning and then drove in another run in the sixth inning to lead the Seattle Pilots to a brawl-marred 8-4 victory over the fading New York Yankees.

The game was held up three times by a brawl which resulted in the banishment of New York manager Ralph Houk, Bobby Murcer of the Yankees and Seattle's Ray Oyler. In addition, New York reliever Fred Talbot drew an automatic fine for throwing at Seattle pitcher Marty Patin.

The Pilots, trailing 2-0 in the first as the result of Murcer's two-run homer, took advantage of Al Downing's control problems to score seven times in their half of the inning.

Youngster In Minors Could Be Durocher Answer For Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Leo Durocher requires no long winning streak for his Chicago Cubs in their bid for the 1969 National League championship. "I wouldn't be unhappy with a 10 game winning streak," he said, "but a lot of times after two and lose two, you win don't know what he's hitting now? He said—but he was about .375 and then he got three hits in one game and the next night two more.

Oliver Hit In Ninth Is Giant Killer

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Rookie Oliver singled home Rich Heberner from second base with two out in the ninth-inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants Monday night. Joe Gibbon replaced Perry and Heberner greeted him with a single but right fielder Ken Henderson threw out Sanguillen at the plate.

Gibson Sets Down L.A. For 6-2 Win

California Staves Off Solons 3-2

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The California Angels scored two early runs and held on behind the relief pitching of Hoyt Wilhelm Monday night to hand the Washington Senators their sixth straight loss, 3-2.

Wilhelm picked up for starter Tom Murphy, in the eighth inning and retired the last six batters to record his sixth save. Murphy is now 3-1.

Dick Bosman absorbed his second loss in five decisions. The right hander, who pitched a one-hitter 10 days ago, had to be removed after the third inning when he was struck on the left wrist by a hard liner by Jim Fregosi.

Bosman gave up two runs and five hits as the Angels snapped a three-game losing streak.

After solo runs in the first and second innings, California clinched the game in the fifth when Vic Davalillo walked, took third on Jay Johnston's second double of the night, scoring when Bill Voss's liner bounced off the shoulder of relief pitcher Frank Kreutziger.

Eagles Trade Massive Bob Brown In Five-Man Swap With Los Angeles

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles traded massive offensive tackle Bob Brown at his own request Monday to the Los Angeles Rams in a five-player deal which returned defensive back Irv Cross to the Eagles.

The deal was completed by cross-country telephone within five hours after the 6-foot-4, 235-pound Brown told new general manager Pete Retzlaff he wanted to leave the team for personal reasons.

Along with Brown, the Eagles sent defensive back Jim Nettles to Los Angeles in return for Cross and offensive tackle Joe Carollo and offensive guard Don Chury.

Brown, with two years to go on his contract, said there was "understanding" all around when he talked to Retzlaff Monday to leave. "Sometimes the situations are such that it is for the best."

Retzlaff, in his first rebuttal since taking over as general manager for the National Football League team last week, said he elaborated on his "personal reasons," but he answered no.

Asked if the declaration by Brown shook or jolted him, Retzlaff replied "Of course not. I've been in the business long enough to know that such situations come up."

Cross, a 6-foot-1, 195-pound veteran of eight seasons, was the Eagles seventh draft choice last November. In 1961 and traded to the Rams by recently fired general manager coach Joe Kuharich in 1965. In 1965 and 1968 he was named to the Pro Bowl squad.

Cavilo, a 6-foot-2, 255-pound seven-year veteran from Notre Dame, is noted as a fine blocker and physically rugged player who rarely misses a game with injuries.

Chuy, a 6-foot-1, 255-pounder, has played six years for the Rams since graduation from Clemson.

Nettles, a 5-foot-10, 177-pound four-year veteran from Wisconsin, had been a regular wingback for the Eagles since the 1966 season.

Brown was the Eagles' No. 1 draft choice from Nebraska in 1964, and he played in the 1965 and 1966 Pro Bowl. On Nov. 5, 1967 he suffered torn tendons on his right knee in a game against New Orleans and his play has been affected ever since.

That injury had broken a string of 50 consecutive starts since his rookie year.

Andretti Hits 170 MPH In Indy Trial

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Mario Andretti became the first driver this spring to crack the 170-mile-per-hour mark at the Indianapolis-Motor Speedway, turning a lap in his backup car at 170.197 m.p.h. Monday afternoon.

Mike Mosley, LaPuente, Calif., also used his backup car to reach 167.473 m.p.h.

Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., who finished third in the Indianapolis "500" in his rookie year of 1965 has been plagued by mechanical troubles in the last four Memorial Day races, also had his regular car out for the first time Monday but failed to reach any impressive speeds.

Andretti, twice national driving champion and the "500" pole winner in 1966 and 1967, was making his second appearance of the month in his backup machine, a Lotus powered with a turbocharged Ford engine.

Prior to Monday, the fastest lap turned in "500" practice was last week by A.J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., at 169.237 m.p.h. Foyt Monday had two laps at more than 166 m.p.h.

However, weather permitting, the speeds should increase the rest of this week as drivers and mechanics continue ironing out the "bugs" in preparation for Saturday's first day of qualification for the 500-mile race May 30.

Defending champ Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., had a pair of laps Monday at more than 167 m.p.h. the faster 167.453, Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., turned a lap at 167.442.

Ellis-Cooper Bout Plans Draw Near

LONDON (UPI)—British promoter Mike Barrett said Monday he has reached "broad agreement" with the managers of Jimmy Ellis and Henry Cooper for a fight in England.

"There are many hurdles to be cleared in a fight of this importance, and two of those hurdles have been negotiated," Barrett said.

"I have agreed to terms with Jim Wicks (Cooper's manager) and I have reached a similar understanding with Ellis' manager, Angelo Dundee. Many things are holding up this fight, but you could describe one as being very, very hopeful of clinching a deal."

The fight, if it takes place, would be for Ellis' WBA crown, although the British Boxing Board of Control has refused to recognize it for the heavyweight championship.

The British recognized Cassius Clay as champion until it became apparent he could not fight again. They then threw their weight behind Joe Frazer, recognized as champion in five U.S. states.

The secretary of the British Boxing Board said last week there had been no change in the board's attitude to an Ellis-Cooper fight.

Packers Sign Wyoming Back

GREEN BAY (UPI)—Three draft choices, headed by Wyoming running back Dave Hampton, have returned signed contracts for 1969. Head Coach and General Manager, Phil Bengtson of the Green Bay Packers said Monday.

Hampton, 6-foot and 210-pounds, had a career rushing average of 4.8 yards a carry and averaged 5.5 yards during his senior year. He was selected by the Packers on the ninth round of the pro football draft.

Bengtson said defensive back Dan Eckstein, 5-foot-10, 180-pounds, and running back John Mack, 6-foot-3 and 230-pounds, have also agreed to terms. Eckstein was taken in the 15th round and Mack in the 17th round of the draft.

Hollywood's Big To Arrive Soon

BOSTON (UPI)—It depends on your loyalties. You can regard Bill Russell's return to Los Angeles as a visit to either the scene of his biggest crime or his greatest triumph.

The 35-year-old player-coach of the champion Boston Celtics is "going Hollywood" again and will spend his summer as an elongated cowboy acting in western movies.

Russell, who is driving across country and will make a series of stops for speaking engagements en route to Los Angeles, will be spending his so-called vacation only a few miles from the Forum where his team made National Basketball Association history just last week.

Since Russell both led and directed the Celtics to their 11th playoff championship in 13 years by winning the decisive game at Los Angeles, he will have to face a mixed reaction from the city's sports followers.

In his week, Russell left a trail of statistical "firsts" as his Celtics were called everything from "lucky" to "miraculous."

The unprecedented 11th pro sports championship in 13 seasons had to be the most impressive single item in a huge heap of press clippings.

Buried in the pile was the report by a Priest, Rev. John who is an avowed the Celtics and Russell.

He's an amateur whose figures of player, Russell's career record in the NBA in play. And he's career playoff team, either.

Long Jump Immortal To End Career

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ralph Boston, former world record holder in the long jump, will compete for the final time in his career Saturday in an AAU track and field meet at Villanova, and join a broadcast team telecasting 17 other meets over the next four months, CBS officials said Monday.

The meet on the Villanova track, the Martin Luther King Freedom Games, is the first of a series of 18 AAU track and field meets to be telecast nationally on Saturday afternoon, CBS said.

Boston had planned to retire earlier but changed his mind because of the connection of Saturday's meet with the cause of Martin Luther King, CBS said.

Also entered in the long jump in Saturday's meet is Bob Beamon, current world record holder, who won the gold medal at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, Boston finished third.

Oregon State Head To Ease Beard Ban

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—President James Jensen of Oregon State University Monday ordered that an Athletic Department ban on beards and mustaches be eased as soon as possible.

He followed a recommendation made last Wednesday by a school-wide Commission on Human Rights following a lengthy study. The study followed an order by OSU football coach Dee Andros to linebucker Fred Milton to shave off a beard and mustache.

Milton since has left school and is enrolled at Portland State.

Jensen, in a two paragraph letter to Wallace E. (Bud) Gibbs, chairman of the Oregon State Board of Intercollegiate Athletics, said:

"The Commission on Human Rights and Responsibilities, a broadly representative group of six faculty members and four students of this university, has issued its findings and recommendations following objective and extensive deliberation, and after hearing testimony from individuals involved."

Sweden Soon To Put Ban On Boxing

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The government proposed a bill Monday to ban professional boxing in Sweden and predicted the measure would win approval.

Under the bill, amateur boxing would be allowed if certain safety measures were implemented to protect the fighters.

Minister of Justice Herman Kling sent the proposed bill to the Law Council, where it will be checked before it goes to legislators for a decision later this year.

Kling said professional boxing should be outlawed as a health hazard and amateurs allowed to continue only under stiffer regulations.

Kuhn Refuses To Assist Fired Umps

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has refused to intervene in the firing of two American League baseball umpires, it was disclosed Monday.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Rep. Alexander Flinn, R-N.J., pleaded with Kuhn for more than an hour to take action in the dismissals of Al Salerno and Bill Valentine.

In a joint statement, Goodell and Flinn said they met April 29 with Kuhn and baseball's counsel, Paul A. Porter, in Flinn's office.

The statement said "we stressed to these two gentlemen our position in the case and urged the commissioner to thoroughly review all of the facts and take decisive steps which would lead to the reinstatement of the two umpires."

Goodell and Flinn said Kuhn was non-committal but agreed to contact the lawmakers in a day or two.

"Regrettably, Mr. Kuhn elected to remain detached and not become involved," the statement said. "We learned of his decision through a telephone report from Mr. Porter."

Salerno and Valentine were fired after they began efforts to organize American League umpires. American League President Joe Cronin insisted they were dismissed because of inefficiency.

PLAY IT SAFE IN TOP CONTRACT

The continent-wide charity game of the American Contract Bridge League produced some very interesting hands this year. The expert analysis of hand No. 1 was that South would wind up with one trump. East at two hearts. A good North-South score would be one no-trump making three or four and a good East-West score would be two hearts bid and made.

We watched one South get a nice top because he was crowded in the bidding by his opponents. The club opening and diamond overcall were normal. East's jump to two hearts was one of those modern nuisance bids described as "pre-emptive jump response." It was pre-emptive but South refused to be pre-empted out of the action. He made an overbid of two no-trump and North raised to game.

West's heart opening was won by East's ace. The club return went to West's king and a second club was won by dummy's queen. South came to his hand with a heart. He led his nine of diamonds and let it ride. East collected a surprising trick with his jack but South didn't care. He knew that he was in a line contract and wanted to guard against the slight chance that West had started with all four missing diamonds.

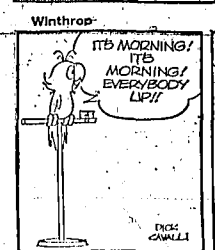

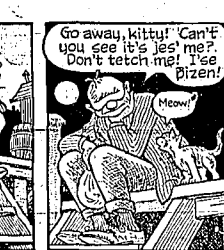

East led his last club. South was in with the ace. He led a second diamond and finessed dummy's queen. There was no problem about the king of diamonds. West needed it for his opening bid. When the queen of diamonds held, South claimed the rest of the diamonds suit for his nine tricks and gave West the last two tricks with the ace of spades and a good club. Three no-trump was enough. He didn't need the overtrick.

Four Seasons Supply Store Sets Opening

Grand opening of one of Twin Falls' newest businesses will be held May 16-17. The new business is Four Seasons Supply, a farm and home supply store, located at 1757 Kimberly Road. Mr. Wavra and Ray Reed are owners of the firm, which also has stores in Rupert, Blackfoot, Idaho Falls and Tremonton, Utah, with a wholesale house in Ogden.

Mr. Wavra said about two years ago the old Mountain State Implement stockholders sold out to Mr. Wavra and Mr. Reed and others, thus resulting in the Four Seasons Supply firm.

The public is invited to its grand opening. Door prizes will be awarded.

Deadline For Rupert Queen Contest Extended To May 22

RUPERT — The 1969 Rupert queen committee has announced a decision to extend the deadline for accepting applications for the 1970 rodeo queen contest from Thursday to May 22.

Rex Rasmussen, committee chairman, said only three applicants have signed up to date. The contest is in conjunction with the 43rd annual Rupert Rodeo and July 4 celebration.

Competing will be Cathy Cassel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rans Cassel; Vicki Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kent, and Kathy Crawford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Crawford.

Others wishing to participate may obtain applications from the Rupert Chamber of Commerce office. Applicants must be at least 16 years old and never married. They must be residents of Minidoka County, the Jackson district of Cassia County or the east end of Jerome County.

Judging will begin June 8, following a month of coaching sessions each Monday and Thursday night at the fairgrounds. During the judging, the Gooding Liberty Bells will drill. Queen candidates will ride in timed events, including barrel racing, as part of the competition.

The initial judging will count 60 per cent of the overall points; appearance and handling will count 15 per cent; and popularity, 25 per cent. The popularity vote will be taken during the annual Chuckwagon Jam held June 28 at the Rupert Civic Building. Candidates will be selling tickets to the event. Don DeLantano and Richard Westendorf are co-chairmen of the event, and the merchants' committee will prepare the event.

Western Wear Days begin in Rupert June 21 and a kangaroo court is being planned for those people caught in Rupert without at least two items of Western attire. A catwalk through the valley to advertise the celebration is also planned.

The Inland Empire Show, with at least two new rides, will arrive in Rupert July 1.

U.S. Talk Of Cutting Troops Creates No Joy Among Allies

By PHIL NEWSOM

Talk that the United States may soon begin withdrawing some of its troops from South Vietnam creates no joy among either the neutrals or its allies in Southeast Asia.

And when Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrives in Bangkok for the May 20-21 meeting of the SEATO nations, he will be greeted with some anxious questions.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos, of the Philippines, has warned that Asians must face "the two realities" of an eventual American withdrawal from Asia and of the growing power of Communist China.

As a result, he said, the Philippines is "revising" its defense plans and foreign policy accordingly, including increased trade ties with the Soviet Union and possible coexistence with Red China.

Latest to join what may become a clamor is the tiny Republic of Singapore.

Australia and New Zealand already have committed forces to the defense of the Singapore-Malaysia region as the British pull back from East of Suez, but Singapore foreign Minister Sinnathuray Rajaratnam declares "this is not enough."

"What is needed," he says, "is a reaffirmation of America's broad commitment in Southeast Asia."

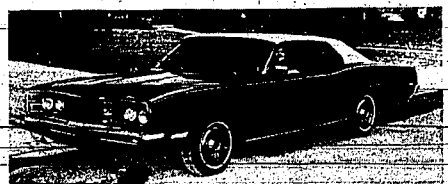

He declares it is a question of timing.

"It is the difference between withdrawal and abandonment," he says.

Marcos believes the U.S. defense umbrella should continue another 10 to 15 years. Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew told a group of Asian businessmen last March that the South Vietnamese should do the fighting and dying themselves but that total withdrawal of American forces would be disastrous.

He proposed a volunteer American army of 100,000 to remain in South Vietnam to provide psychological backbone.
