TWENTY CENTS

Memorial Day Accidents Claim Two Near T.F.

Memorial Day traffic accidents claimed two lives in Twin Falls County and officers warned the worst may be yet to come as traffic increases Sunday afternoon and evening.

Dead were Mrs. Emma Emeilia Gammeter, 84, 421 Jefferson St., Twin Falls, who died Friday morning, and Timothy B. Senten, 18, Route 1, Buhl, who was fatally injured near Castleford Friday night. Both were listed in fair and fairly good condition Saturday in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Investigating state officers said it appeared that the Gammeter vehicle, traveling on Addison Avenue, drove onto S. Highway 30 and was hit broadside by the Wood vehicle. Mr. Gammeter was thrown from the vehicle and suffered head and other multiple injuries. Both women remained in the vehicles and officers said both struck the steering wheels. Mrs. Senten was driving an unlicensed homemade "brushbuggy" on a county road nearly four miles southwest of Castleford at 6:30 p.m. when it went out of control, apparently from mechanical failure. Officers said it appeared the steering rod on the vehicle worked loose, causing the brushbuggy to swerve off the roadway. It skidded along a fence line and overturned, pinning the driver underneath.

Officers said there were no witnesses, but Rod Smith who notified the Twin Falls Police Department, apparently arrived at the scene within minutes after the accident.

Deputy Sheriff T. M. Kendrick said it appeared the vehicle had skidded about 70 feet on its top, dragging the driver underneath. Rescuing motorists were able to pull him from beneath the wreckage and he was taken to the hospital by Magic Valley Ambulance Service from Buhl. He died at 11:10 p.m.

A total of five persons had died on Idaho highways late Saturday, including the two Twin Falls county fatalities, the state toll stood at 109, the same figure as a year ago at this time.

Officers said Saturday that traffic was relatively light but they urged motorists to use caution Sunday as motorists begin returning home from the three-day weekend.

Sheriff's officers in Twin Falls said the Sunday traffic would probably be the heaviest of the weekend. They said drivers would be tired from long trips and possibly strenuous exercise.

All law enforcement agencies in the local area reported they would have full crews on duty and many traffic patrol vehicles would be on the highways to assist motorists and encourage them to observe traffic regulations.

Soldier Weeps On Rescue After Escaping From Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—Sgt. Kenneth R. Gregory, 23, Saturday mired on steak potatoes and ice cream and tried to forget his nine-month ordeal as a prisoner of the Viet Cong.

"When they picked me up, I was crying," said the Altus, Okla., native in recalling his feelings when a U.S. helicopter spotted him Friday walking near the Cambodian border.

Gregory escaped from his Communist captors on Monday and hid out in the jungles for four days before being rescued.

He was taken to the 24th Evacuation Hospital at Long Binh, 15 miles north of Saigon, where doctors reported him in good condition, although he had lost 10 pounds in captivity.

The young soldier was reported missing Aug. 25, 1968. He was a squad leader in command of a five-truck convoy which was ambushed near Tay Ninh City, a provincial capital, 60 miles northwest of Saigon.

"The helicopter crew spotted him about 12 miles northwest of Tay Ninh.

Bombings Mark French Campaign; Hopefuls Guarded

PARIS (UPI)—The Secret Service guards around the homes of the seven presidential candidates in Sunday's election was tightened Saturday following two apparently politically motivated bombings in Paris.

One person was injured in the blasts, the first of which came only 30 minutes after the Friday-midnight end of the two-week campaign.

The bombings coincided with the latest polls which said Sunday's voting would be inconclusive and that the leading contenders, Centrist Alain Poher and Gaullist Georges Pompidou, will fight to succeed Charles de Gaulle in a runoff on June 15.

The polls also showed that one out of three Frenchmen was undecided on how to vote and that the large floating vote among the 29 million eligible persons will decide the contest.

Police said a strong explosive charge went off in predawn hours near the campaign headquarters of Poher, the acting president, injuring a street sweeper.

Shortly afterward a bomb went off in another Paris area, damaging the apartment of Socialist candidate Gaston Defferre.

Defferre, who was at his home town of Marseilles, promptly accused the Gaullist civic service organization behind the bombing. The civic service just as quickly filed a "libel" suit against Defferre.

The incidents followed a two-week campaign which seemed to have failed to whip up political passions and which was deemed a remarkable for

Aides Say Thieu Backs U.S. Plan

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—The White House insisted Saturday there is "no indication" South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu does not support President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan.

Reports of a tougher stand by Thieu were rejected as "interpretations" and "speculation" as Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew to Grand Cay in the Bahamas for further Vietnam peace strategy talks.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the South Vietnamese president "was totally aware and closely consulted on the Vietnam peace plan and supported it... there was full coordination."

"There's no indication that support has changed," he added.

Reports of a growing rift with the Saigon government were based on dispatches from Seoul where Thieu, following a meeting with South Korean leaders, said he would "never" agree to a coalition government with the Viet Cong.

Thieu also balked at withdrawal of any American troops from Vietnam without a mutual enemy withdrawal.

Thieu previously had accepted the premise that some American forces could be pulled out later this year and replaced with South Vietnamese troops.

As the date neared for Nixon's June 8 summit meeting with Thieu on Midway Island, the President summoned Rogers here for a first-hand report on his talks with the South Vietnamese president and other Asian leaders during his

Road Deaths Skyrocket Over Nation

By United Press International

The nation's motorists were writing a new bloody chapter in Memorial holiday highway carnage Saturday. Traffic deaths were running about 50 per cent ahead of the 1968 record-setting pace for the holiday weekend.

A National Safety Council spokesman said a projection of the death pace of better than 6.5 per cent indicated the final total for the 78-hour holiday would be "900 plus," in the upper half of the estimate.

The council had estimated from 550 to 650 traffic deaths during the holiday.

The record for a three-day memorial holiday was set in 1968 when 842 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The record for all Memorial holidays was set last year when 608 persons were killed during a four-day 102-hour holiday period. See DEATHS, Page 2, Col. 8.

Rioting Oil Crews Kill 2 On Island

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (UPI)—The Dutch government flew 300 marines toward this island Saturday to clamp down on striking oil workers who in a day of rioting left at least two persons dead by official count, the city in smoldering ruins and an estimated $10 million in damage.

Dutch troops already on the Caribbean island, 65 miles off the Venezuelan coast, were maintaining order and Prime Minister Ciro Kroon went on the radio to ask the people to return to reason.

Oil workers, demanding higher wages, went on the rampage Friday-burning and looting the free port's exclusive stores but apparently not harming any of the many tourists, including Americans.

(In Washington, the State Department said that "no serious injuries" have been reported among the 1,100 Americans on the Netherlands Antilles Island. Officials said about 300 Americans work on Curacao and that an additional 800 are tourists.)

"The riot was worse than an earthquake and hit us with the violence of a human hurricane," said Ronald Yrausquin, editor of the newspaper "La Tropa of Curacao."

Yrausquin said 90 per cent of Curacao's stores were looted and that raids on liquor stores gave fuel to increase the fury of the mobs. An estimated 3,000 oil workers and sympathizers participated in the bloody violence which reportedly injured more than 100 persons.

The official police reports said two persons were killed in the rioting. But Yrausquin and other sources insisted that three had died.

The editor said that almost half of the prosperous commercial center of Willemstad "went up in flames at the hands of the mobs."

Million Levine and Joseph Canbie, both accountants from New York City, said the fighting was aimed against business and not against the tourists.

Life Underwriters Meet At Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY — The greatest change in the insurance business in recent years is being seen today with the entrance of many companies into the sale of equity products including variable annuities and mutual funds, Raymond King Jr., Charlotte, N.C., told the Idaho State Association of Life Underwriters here today.

The success of this new phase of the insurance business is guaranteed, he said, by the fact that the industry has at present the best qualified group of men that it has ever had. They are well qualified, well trained, properly educated and adequately compensated independent businessmen.

Mr. Kingling was at the Sun Valley meeting to assist in the management training conference for new association officers and committee chairmen. He is the current vice president of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

He gave particular praise to members of the Idaho association at the meeting for their worthwhile participation in public service in the communities where they live. Each of the eight associations is intelligent ly involved with public service programs such as the medical alert program in which bracelets are provided to alert hospitals of disabilities such as allergic or diabetic conditions of the wearer.

Many members are also in the program of the walking blood banks in which the blood of the volunteers is typed so

Personal OPINION

QUESTION
Do you favor the request by President Nixon that the post office department be operated by private citizens, or would you rather government operation continue? If you favor private operation, do you favor a raise in postal rates if this is necessary to show a profit in such an operation?

LOCATION
Interviews in this case were taken in businesses along Main Avenue.

ANSWERS
WALTER MILDON: "I think our businesses should be operated by the businessmen themselves. But, I don't think the postal rates should be increased, they are so terribly high now."

LOWELL HAVENER: "Yes, I think private enterprise is more efficient than government operation."

MRS. CHARLES EGGLESTON: "I think it would be a wise idea to turn it over to private operation and I am certainly in favor of keeping the rates down."

OTIS STRAIN: "Yes, I do. If it is operated by a private concern, I think we should get better service, even if it does cause the rates to increase."

GUS FLOWERS: "I think the post office department should be taken over by private business and operated for profit. Maybe this way they would be able to make those using the postal service pay for it—such as the third class mailers and those with low rates."

VERL BENCH: "If there's a raise in postal rates, I'd rather see the government handle it. But, I would think private operation would be less expensive."

DELORES FERRIS: "I really think Howard Hughes ought to run it, he's doing so well with Air West."

BENNO DETERS: "I think it should be operated like it is. Private operations would cost more and it would take a huge corporation to manage it."

Land Board Mulls Use Of College

BOISE (UPI)—Members of the State Land Board have come up with the conclusion that they may have some trouble deciding what to do with Magic Valley Christian College campus at Albion.

Four members of the board toured the state-owned site recently and agreed that the buildings are in such disrepair that the cost of restoration may be prohibitive.

Secretary of State Pete Conrussa said, "We've had a good look at the place, now we'll have to get together and decide what to do."

The campus has been leased to the Christian College but the school is moving to Baker, Ore. The last session of the legislature gave the land board the responsibility of disposing of the property.

State Auditor Joe Williams said he was for reaching a decision "as quickly as we can so that the maintenance cost will be as small as possible."

The 1969 legislature appropriated $25,000 for maintenance of the institution in the next two years.

Williams said his first choice is to make the campus available to school districts in the area if they wish to acquire it.

In addition to Conrussa and Williams, also making the inspection trip were Atty. Gen. Robert M. Robson and State Superintendent of Public Instruction D.F. Engokling.

Bruce Bioassat Negro Impression Misleading

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Black faces amid the swirling ranks of college protesters sometimes present a misleading impression to suggest they are the dominant element in much campus unrest.

Curiously, although Havana and Hanoi have been urging Carmichael to assume command of the "revolution," both the Castro and Ho Chi Minh regimes have revealed doubts about Carmichael's Marxist purity.

Robert Novak New Politician

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's assignment of an aide to the White House to handle the political troubleshooter ends four months of agonizing political vacuum which has produced a "vacuum" in the White House.

"This is to be sure, a fact of history. But before anyone condemns the American experiment as a monumental and colossal fraud, perhaps we may be permitted to ask a silly question.

If Presidents Washington and Jefferson were slaveowners, why is not President Richard Nixon a slaveowner?

Perhaps it is because Nixon is a Quaker, as was Benjamin Franklin, who spent the last years of his life vainly petitioning Congress to abolish slavery.

Well, then, why is not former President Lyndon B. Johnson, a southerner, a slaveowner?

Perhaps it is because the Industrial Revolution has simply made slavery impractical today. But slavery was abolished long before farming was mechanized.

The answer is, of course, that eight decades after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, with its "flowery rhetoric," the American people could no longer tolerate the existence of an institution so contrary to the ideals on which the nation was founded.

"In that war more than 600,000 men died," writes Mary Joan White in the Wall Street Journal. "Legal slavery also died. Whether slavery could have been abolished short of war is questionable, but it is certain that the methods employed by

RAY CROMLEY Campus Unrest Is Disturbing

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Extremely disturbing evidence is being presented to the government that student riots, as now developing, could have serious long-range effects upon this country.

Den's first test will be in the delicate field of patronage. With one thousand middle to top-level jobs still unfilled, Dent will try to do what has been done badly or not at all: marry jobs and politics.

"I haven't had a political job strategy," the party politician told us, "and most of the jobs are now gone."

To remedy this, Dent will be given jurisdiction over the job-assignment program headed by White House aide Harry Fleming.

Perhaps the most important Dent's new assignment is to identify upcoming political problems for the President and organize a party-wide strategy for dealing with them.

In a case in point was the special election in Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird's Wisconsin district last month. Although Laird long ago warned the President the district might go Democratic, the White House failed to take full advantage of normal political tactics to keep the district in the Republican column.

Moreover, Dent will have full charge of making sure that state elections are kept out of national committee areas in political contact with the President's Cabinet.

They got married and had children, there was no need for adolescent revolt.

The situation today is made worse by the tremendous push on everyone to go to college. This has brought in the millions who would otherwise be repelled by their Hitler Jugend-like terrorism.

Colleges have expanded too rapidly. Classes are too large. Student-faculty contacts are impersonal. Students are lost in anonymity.

Youth needs some romantic ideas. They want to do things. They desire to serve where they think it counts.

One report suggests wide-scale school programs for high school graduates. Young people would work in "socially relevant" projects earning pay and getting professional training as well.

Some of the report writers are convinced the underlying problem in the market is not Vietnam, the draft, the arms race, or the Negro situation. Rather, many of these passive supporters

Czech Chief Lists Purge Of Officials

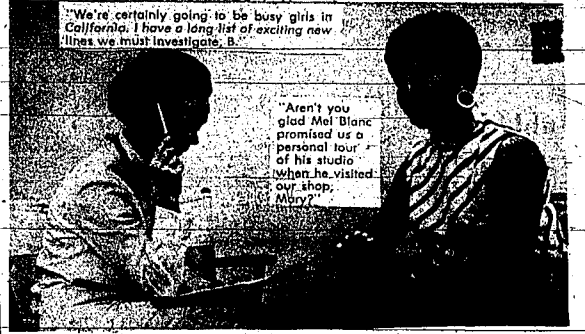

PRAGUE (UPI)—First Secretary Gustav Husak Saturday announced a purge of the Communist party hierarchy that ousted six liberals and reinforced the new orthodox pro-Soviet line in Prague. Those ousted included Otakar Fiala, an economist who tried to change hardline policies that might have brought Czechoslovakia closer to the west. In a 65-minute extemporaneous speech before 1,200 cheering people inside the CKD engineering factory, Husak hammered away at trade unions, journalists, artists and the so-called progressives who blossomed during the 1968 Springtime reform era of Alexander Dubcek. Husak said the party had pruned from its 100-member central committee two progressives who voted in parliament approval for Husak's ad lib comments more than 70 times. The audience broke into laughter when Husak sarcastically remarked about six, in reference to the ousted members, believed to be the three, who signed the "2,000 words" liberal reform manifesto published in the press last June. The audience of party activists, middle-aged and elderly men dressed in knit-shirts or aging suit jackets, roared

Juveniles Enter Stoker Dairy

Burglars, apparently juveniles, broke into the Stoker Dairy building late Friday and stole in Switzerland since the Russian invasion last August. "We are not going to open a branch office of the central committee in Basel because of him." There were cheers when the party chief declared, "We do not need to tell us what to do."

Bobby Kennedy Disdained Guards, Saw Politics As An 'Honorable Adventure'

By JACK V. FOX LOS ANGELES (UPI)—It was nearing midnight in the suite on the fifth floor of the Ambassador Hotel and Bobby Kennedy was slumped down in a chair with his feet propped up. He was speaking to a group of people and sipping from a glass of ginger ale.

The returns showed he had beaten Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in the California Democratic presidential primary and Pierre Salinger was urging him to go down to the Embassy Ballroom below and address the jubilant crowd assembled in a victory celebration.

The senator seemed reluctant. Someone asked him if he had information about the returns other than the figures on the TV tube.

"No," he said. "I used to get all sorts of reports but now television gets it all first. It's getting to be an awful bore."

Mrs. Ethel Kennedy was sitting on the other side of the bed and someone said the vote showed that not everybody disliked her husband. She took a playful poke at the speaker.

"You know they say I win a dog and an astronaut to win a John F. Kennedy," she said on the other side of the room, chuckled.

Bill Barry, Kennedy's bodyguard who was off in a corner chatting. The senator had declined any police protection and Barry had the responsibility for his safety through pro football player Roosevelt Johnson and deathlin champion Rafer Johnson often helped in crowds.

"I got mixed up with the crowd and I can't see," Barry was saying. "And I get tired. Maybe I won't be able to react quickly enough. I wish someone would talk to him."

It was midnight now and finally Bobby got up and put on his coat jacket and straightened his tie and walked out the door toward a service elevator.

Someone asked if he ever wondered if it was all worth it. Implicit in the question was the tragic death of his brother John in Dallas four and one-half years before.

"I like politics," Kennedy said in an honorable adventure. Lord Tweedsmuir said that: "It's an honorable adventure."

Then Kennedy and his wife and Barry and Jess Urub and a few others got into a service elevator and went down to the second floor and through a kitchen area and out onto a small stage overlooking the Embassy room which was filled to bursting with a crowd persisting under the brilliant television lights and buoyed up with platitudes and other spirits. Kennedy got into the mood immediately. He played around with the microphone and asked whether people could hear him. "I want to first express my high regard to Don Drysdale who pitched his sixth straight shutout tonight and I hope that we have as good fortune in our campaign," he said.

It seemed an eternity until an ambulance arrived. Then two attendants carried Kennedy out on a stretcher with Ethel holding back their pace so they wouldn't jostle her husband. They sped to Central Receiving Hospital. Kennedy had sung into a coma.

A young doctor at Central Receiving examined Kennedy and then roughly slapped his face in an attempt to revive Ethel Kennedy, sitting on a high metal stool, gasped. The doctor handed her a stethoscope and put it to Kennedy's heart. An expression of relief spread over Ethel Kennedy's face and she said: "Will he live?"

"Yes, right now he's going to be all right," the doctor said. Father Thomas Peacha of nearby St. Basil's parish entered the room and performed the last rites of the Catholic Church.

But at that time, no one could comprehend that Kennedy died. Kennedy stayed at Central Receiving less than 30 minutes. Then he was transferred to God Samaritan Hospital.

Surgeons spent three hours and 40 minutes removing the fragments of the bullet from his brain.

Frank Mankiewicz, the senator's press secretary, hid his grief and dealt with the horde of newsmen.

At 2 a.m. on the morning of June 6, Mankiewicz read a brief statement. Robert Kennedy had died at 1:44 a.m.

It has been a year now since those shattering days. This correspondent sat for three and one-half months in a fortress courtroom for the trial of Sirhan. Sirhan said he could not even remember killing Kennedy, that he was in "France" when he fired the fatal bullets.

A jury of seven men and five women did not believe him. They sentenced him to death. He sits now in death row in San Quentin awaiting an order to enter the gas chamber which probably will never come.

It has been only a year and yet it seems long, long ago that Robert Kennedy died.

"I like politics," he had said. "It is an honorable adventure."

It was 12:15 a.m. Wednesday the 5th of June, 1968. Kennedy crumbled to the floor. Juan Romero bent over him and put a rosary in his hand. A wild-eyed Ethel Kennedy came tearing her way through the crowd, knelt in a pool of blood and began shouting: "Get back, all of you! Get out! Please get out! For God's sake, give him room to breathe."

Eight feet away, Barry, Greer and Johnson were struggling for the gun, and plucking the tiny assassin down on a steam table. In the ballroom, a noise like "Chinese firecrackers" had been heard and then shouts for a doctor went out over the public address system and the word spread: "Hobby's been shot."

Two police officers arrived and literally ran with Sirhan out of the hotel. They whisked him into a patrol car and sped off to Ramparts station. California Legislative Leader Jess Urub was in the car and Sirhan mumbled, "I did it for my country." For the rest of the night and well into the next day the 24-year-old Arab mimed refusal to tell police anything—not even his name.

Scientists Prove 'Supercontinent' Once Linked Australia, Antarctica

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two scientists said Saturday that Australia and Antarctica, now 2,000 miles apart, were once joined in a supercontinent which broke up millions of years ago. The scientists are Dr. Robert S. Dietz and Walter Sproll of the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA). They are geological oceanographers at ESSA's Atlantic Oceanographic Laboratories in Miami. Their findings followed comparing U.S. and Australian scientists during a cruise in 1967 of the coast and geologic survey ship Oceanographer. The data disclosed a "break-fit" between the two continents, establishing that they used to be one. The results reported by Sproll and Dietz were further support for the theory, accepted by most earth scientists, that the continents are sliding about on the earth's surface. The rate of drift varies from an inch to more than four inches in various parts of the world. The scientist's theory says the present continents used to be part of one or two supercontinents which were shattered millions of years ago by forces surfacing from the earth's interior. One idea is that the planet's expanded crust, that part of it which rises above the ocean, constituted a single continent, called Pangaea. Another theory says that there were two supercontinents, Laurasia in the North and Gondwana in the South. The ESSA scientists believe the evidence supports the two-land theory. The southern continent, Gondwana, consisted of what is now Australia, Antarctica, Africa, India, South America, Madagascar and the southern fragments of Laurasia, according to this view, included North America and Eurasia. It and oceanographic evidence pretty well establishes that South America and Africa once were joined. The fit is obvious as a glance at the map will show, and geologists have found rock strata in eastern South America matching those in western Africa.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI)—Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Saturday the United States must end the Vietnam war and correct its urgent domestic problems or leave the future to a handful of young rebels whose solution is violence.

Justice Douglas Faces Major Battle Over Position With Parvin Foundation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In his controversial 30-year career on the Supreme Court, Justice William O. Douglas has withstood a lot of heat in some pretty hot kitchens. Now at age 76, he's in the hottest political kitchen of his life.

Douglas is under fierce criticism because for about seven years he accepted $12,000 to serve as president and a director of the tax-exempt Parvin Foundation.

His resignation from the post was announced May 23.

The foundation, which promotes better international relations, was established in 1950 by West Coast financier Albert B. Parvin, who once held controlling interest in three Las Vegas gambling casinos.

The link between Douglas and the foundation is not a new disclosure. It surfaced publicly in October, 1966, when Los Angeles Times reporter Ronald J. Ostrow wrote of the association and noted that the foundation derived part of its funds from a first mortgage on the Flamingo Hotel and its legalized gambling operations.

Douglas exploited at the time that the $12,000 annual fee roughly covered the expenses he incurred in travel for the foundation.

What brought the situation to the boiling point this month was the resignation of Abe Fortas as associate justice after disclosure he had accepted a $20,000 fee from a foundation set up by convicted stock manipulator Louis E. Wolfson.

Parvin was named a co-conspirator in the Wolfson indictment, but was never prosecuted or called to testify in the trial.

The entire question of judicial ethics came under scrutiny, and Douglas found himself the target of attack.

The "vigorous, white-haired justice" who wrote such attacks in the past.

In 1953, Douglas issued a last-minute stay of execution for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, who had been condemned to death for passing atomic secrets to the Russians. A resolution of impeachment was filed against Douglas in the House. Telegrams poured into Washington accusing the justice of being pro-communist or possibly a Soviet agent himself.

The court was convened in a special session, the stay was reversed and the furor died down.

Douglas's personal life generated a heated outburst in 1966 when he married his fourth wife, Cathleen Hoffman, then 23 and more than 40 years his junior. Congressmen took the floor to denounce the thrice-married justice on moral grounds. Douglas rode out the storm in silence.

Alexander Rittmeyer, a one-time associate of Wolfson who became the government's chief prosecution witness, testified that Parvin was one of several persons who bought and resold blocks of stock in a Wolfson firm under a prior agreement with Wolfson.

Parvin himself said all he did was buy stock in Wolfson's enterprise like thousands of others.

Parvin has explained that he was "bitten" by the foundation after reading Douglas' book "America Challenged," which had as its theme the need for deeper, better international understanding of the United States.

The foundation was established with $3 million in profits from the Parvin firm obtained through the sale of the Flamingo Hotel and its Las Vegas casino.

One of the major assets of the foundation is 21 1/2 shares of Parvin-Dohrmann stock, which meant that foundation money was coming from Douglas, who was Parvin's successor as president, Fred Warner Neal, a graduate school professor, announcing that the foundation has divested itself of the stock holding.

The funds have been used to set up college scholarships for foreign students at Princeton and the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) and to promote projects abroad. Douglas has travelled to Latin America and elsewhere in behalf of the foundation.

Serving with him on the foundation's board of directors were Parvin; former President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago; Princeton President Robert R. Hoogenboom; former Pulitzer Prize-winning editor Harry Ashmore; and William J. Campbell, chief

Nigerians Say 'Infiltrators' Killed In War

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Rebel infiltrators in mid-west Nigeria have been cleared by federal troops, according to a bulletin issued by Nigerian army headquarters Saturday.

The bulletin said the rebels entered the area a month ago and captured 27 oil technicians.

The statement said the Aboki Etokpal Oil Base in the mid-western state was taken by rebels but had been recaptured by federal troops and "the rebels driven back to the eastern side of the Niger River."

The rebels were reported to have suffered severe losses with the destruction of their east-west bridge heads by federal troops.

The bulletin added that despite the heavy attacks and the increased fire power of the rebels they had "fallen totally" in their plans to recapture Port Harcourt, Unwana and Okigwi Etimaha.

The federal communique claimed the rebels' communication lines in the state had been cut.

The federal first division was claimed to have "blown" the rebel forces throughout the district but gave no further details.

The rebels' most recent attack on federal positions was reported in Lagos Friday to have been a rocket assault on the Ughelli power station, resulting in "slight damage."

The federal government has ordered its troops to "seek and destroy" rebel aircraft reported to be in the air.

Principal Ace Ballard read a congratulatory letter from the school board and faculty and told them, "To us you gave your best—and to you we offer you the best."

any direct personal comment but on Monday he authorized court spokesman Banning E. Banning to inform newsmen that he "knew very little about the tax problems of the Foundation."

The justice was quoted as saying: "As far as the tax credits are concerned, they had tax lawyers and its up to them. It's their job."

Douglas is known to believe that the uproar is intended mainly to force him off the case. In a May 12 letter to Parvin, he was quoted as writing: "I do not propose to bend to any such pressure."

That would seem to suggest that Bill Douglas intends to stick it out in the kitchen, no matter how hot it gets.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—State Auditor Sherman J. Preece has raised objections to the practice of some retiring public officials who donate their official papers to libraries and deduct the appraised value from their income tax.

In a letter to John H. Mitchell, U. S. attorney general, Preece said it was his opinion that public officials were "not at liberty to give this material away or even take it home when they leave office."

"Do they (government officials) have any more right to sell other government property?" Preece asked. "Do they take the chairs and desks they used in government which were furnished to them?"

"To my mind, the Justice Department should file suit in the name of the U. S. Government to recover whatever these men have taken and for which they received money gifts or tax deductions," Preece said.

Preece pointed out that he had been in city, county or state government for 40 years.

"To the best of knowledge," he said, "everything remains in the files when the elected (Utah) state officials leave office. When the files become overcrowded, the state archivists then have the duty to classify this material and utilize it in the best interest of the state," he added.

'Copter Lifts Utah Girl From Cliff

HOLLADAY, Utah (UPI)—A helicopter made a dramatic rescue here after a young Kayville girl fell and became stranded near the peak of Mt. Olympus in Toltec Canyon.

Gayla Schmidt, 17, and four other girls hiked to the top of the mountain about 11:30 p.m. Friday morning and when they began their descent, Miss Schmidt fell 20 feet down the rocky slope.

The girl's companions, assisted by two boys hiking in the area, tried to carry Miss Schmidt but hit down the mountain. At about 4 p.m. they realized that they wouldn't reach the bottom before night fall and decided to go for help.

Sheriff's deputies were contacted approximately two hours later by the injured girl's companions, and members of the jeep patrol and a helicopter were dispatched to the scene.

At 7:45 in the evening the helicopter lifted Miss Schmidt off the mountain and transported her to a waiting ambulance at the mouth of the canyon.

She was later treated for contusions and abrasions at a University hospital and released.

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently gave a beautiful dinner party. I used my good tablecloth and real silver napkins, had candlelight placecards, and served a lovely meal.

After the guests had finished eating and adjourned to the living room, I went into the kitchen for a few minutes, and when I came out I saw the guests exchanging names and addresses. I thought, "My, how nice, they are anxious to know each other better." Then I saw money exchanging hands!

Well, it seems that one lady was selling raffle tickets for her church charity.

I became very much annoyed and told the ticket seller in a nice way, of course, that I didn't like it.

Several of the guests defended her, saying it was a good cause, but what else could they say? What is your opinion of this?

ANNNOYED HOSTESS

DEAR ANNOYED: Oh hand, I'd say it's poor taste to sell raffle tickets to guests at a dinner party, but I would have to know more about how the lady made her pitch.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a wonderful man I've known for years. Mike is intelligent, witty, charming, and he treats me like a goddess. He has asked me to marry him, and I have accepted. Mike is not a nut, he's a sensible down-to-earth guy. The problem? His favorite color is lavender, and he is determined to marry me wearing a lavender suit. HIND NOT ME!

This is the first thing we've seriously disagreed on. I want a conventional wedding. I've been married before and he says my last wedding, which was "conventional," was a big success, but the marriage was a flop.

How do I win this one?

SIBILLA

DEAR ABBY: Why fight so hard to win this one? If Mike is all you say he is, let him wear the pants and choose the color.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know if there is any way possible for a man who has had a police record since the age of 14 to become a registered nurse. He has been convicted of a felony, which had nothing whatsoever to do with narcotics of any kind.

This person has a good wife and a small child, and he wants more than anything else in the world to become a nurse. He has rehabilitated himself and will now lead the good life after having learned the hard way. He has a good job (working for the state) and is considered well-adjusted. Thank you for any help you can give me.

NO NAME, PLEASE!

'Do-Nothing' Americans Trigger Anger Of Veterans

Editor, Times-News: I have always admired men and groups who get things done; people of action, whether they agree with my views or not. Sometimes these elements present an interesting challenge.

For about six months I have been trying, with a degree of success, to recruit members for the Veterans of Foreign Wars from the ranks of our many veterans of foreign service in and around Twin Falls, and have come upon a very pathetic and unfortunate group. The only way from the public as a whole. The question from most of those who back off arises, "What good will it do? What can you do for me?" The answers are, to the first question, not a bit unless you have the courage behind the simple denials and, to the second question, the same thing we are doing for you now without your cooperation and support, only on a larger scale. You can fight City Hall with organization and numbers, plus support. The people who cry the loud-

Reader Believes White Clouds Should Be Seen

Editor, Times-News: I am writing to express myself in full accord with your editorial regarding the road to Castle Peak. I have flown over the White Clouds as a commercial pilot for the past thirty years and am very aware of their beauty; however, very few people ever get to see their beauty. With a road thousands of tourists could see them at first hand.

It was the mines who put the road into the Sea Foam mine there by opening the beautiful Rapid River country to thousands of people who would never see it and they didn't mar the beauty of this area of Josephus Lake, Hell Hole, the Soldier Lakes and Greyhound Ridge. I think there is too much land locked up already in Idaho.

Senior At T. F. High School

Hits Actions Of Young Today

Editor, Times-News: Two weeks ago a meeting was held at O'Leary auditorium where an under-30 speaker discussed the causes, tactics, and the people behind the campus demonstrations and civil riots we are encountering with ever-increasing frequency in our country today.

Present at the meeting were several high school seniors and college students. Throughout the entire meeting they rattled papers, giggled like grade school children, and conversed with the speaker behind the speaker's back. You can imagine how they are encountering with ever-increasing frequency in our country today.

During the talk, the speaker mentioned various symbols, phrases, and other identifying materials by which the revolutionaries and "professional students" recognize those of their persuasion.

He also explained how these symbols have been taken up by the majority of kids in America today and converted to "peace" and "love" signs. One of these symbols of which most of us are familiar is the "peace" sign, the sign of the broken cross.

The revolutionary activists of the modern world, realizing that to use the hammer and sickle would be too obvious, adopted this other very ancient insignia—the inverted trident. It is an archaic symbol of devil worship which the communists have applied to their cause. And now

Actions Of School Board Are Upheld By Twin Falls Man

(Editor's Note: This letter was, through error, left out of the forum last week. Although the topic has been previously discussed, it is being run at this time.)

Editor, Times-News: School boards have a thankless job. They receive a great deal of criticism, little help and understanding, and much apathy from the public. The Twin Falls School Board, its administrators and faculty have my, and my family's support.

As taxpayers and voters, we have all given the school board and its staff the responsibility for the education of our children. With this responsibility must go authority to make and execute rules and regulations. We are a nation of laws, not of whim and in no way do we condone the defiance of it.

This does not mean everyone must agree with each written regulation or "off" the cover of a "free" Letter-to-the-Editor page, available to all students, they should meet with school officials to present a reasonable, intelligent plan.

Baseball Club Plans Dinner For Public To Meet Players

The Magic Valley Baseball Club will host a get acquainted dinner for players, officials and the general public at 8 p.m. June 16 at the Turf Club.

The purpose of the dinner is for the public to meet the players and the coaches before the beginning of the season.

Officials who are expected to be in attendance are Eddie Robinson, administrator; Connie Ryan, baseball manager, Walter (Boom-Boom) Beck, pitching coach; Bill Lucas, assistant administrator and Bill Blake, business manager. The officials will arrive in Twin Falls June 9 and the Atlanta Braves players will arrive after that date.

U. S. Prepares Utah Donates

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Charles Bullock of Cedar City heard Salt Lake City was having financial problems so he sent Mayor J. Bracken Lee a check for $600 million.

There was one catch, however. The check bounced.

This isn't the first time Bullock has displayed his generous nature. And it probably won't be the last.

Lee said recently Bullock read about the city's financial problems during the special session of the Utah Legislature, and he sent Lee a check for $1.5 million.

The Salt Lake City mayor said Bullock usually sends financial advice along with his checks. But the $600 million check arrived without advice or stipulations as to its use.

"I handed the check to a bank official," said Lee, "but it never was credited to our account."

Agreement On Traffic Light To Be Viewed

Jean Miller, Twin Falls city engineer, will present an agreement to the council Monday night in connection with the traffic light to be installed at Falls Avenue and Blue Lakes Boulevard near Highway Department and the city have previously discussed such an agreement.

In other action Monday night, the council heard a report on the bid opening for reconstruction of curb, gutter and sidewalks on Falls Avenue and awarded the contract to the successful bidder.

Mr. Miller will also report on an Association of Idaho Cities meeting he attended last week in Boise. The purpose of the session was to explain how cities can qualify for federal funds to improve traffic problems areas.

An ordinance adopting Grade Protection Ordinance, U.S. Public Health Services recommendations, will be read and adopted.

Other business will include the approval of monthly department reports, license applications and building permits.

'Strong Man' Hurts Police, Lifts Vehicle

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI)—Four policemen were injured and a patrol car was lifted off the ground last week when police attempted to arrest a man described by police as having "superhuman strength."

Abraham Lincoln Craig, 28, who is 5-foot-11 and weighs 165 pounds, was arrested last week by police before they were able to arrest him.

Officers said they received a disturbance call from a store in the city's northeast side. When they arrived Craig barricaded himself inside the house.

After getting Craig to open the door, police said he battled with four officers, pointing a pistol at one of them.

After a struggle, the trigger. The gun did not fire. Officers later found the weapon unloaded.

Four patrolmen managed to disarm Craig before he fought free. Several other officers jumped into the scuffle. Police said Craig, "fighting with clubs and a knife, superhuman strength," escaped.

About an hour later, two detectives saw Craig standing in the middle of an intersection. When the detectives drove up to Craig, police said he grabbed the front bumper of the auto and lifted the front end of the car.

One detective shot Craig four times.

He didn't even act like he was hurt, the officer said.

Doctors said they were running tests to determine if Craig had been under the influence of drugs.

Utah Donates 'Rubber' Check To Help State

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government is ready to start immunizing the nation's school children against another epidemic of German measles expected in 1970 and 1971.

The vaccination campaign will begin as soon as the newly developed German measles or rubella vaccine is licensed, which is expected in June.

Undersecretary John G. Venema of the department of Health, Education and Welfare said an estimated 20 million school children are to be vaccinated within two years with the help of state and local health and education officials.

The last rubella epidemic occurred between 1963 and 1965, causing an estimated 50,000 abnormal pregnancies, malformations and still births throughout the country.

Hew has asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $1.6 million to begin the immunization program.

The government has decided to vaccinate children rather than women of child-bearing age because of possible danger to the fetus and because of women side effects in adults, primarily arthritis.

If there is not enough vaccine for all children, the government will concentrate on immunizing those in kindergarten and the early elementary school years.

More Industry Foreseen For White Clouds

Editor, Times-News: When this mining outfit goes to work in the White Cloud Mountains, here a sawmill will come in, and a great many other things will be done. It would be only fair. Then if something else appeared, there would be another company to go to work. It is just as fair for one as another.

We might salvage that 3,000 acre lake and cut it up into bird baths. That would be about all the state would get out of it.

Oh well, if someone would cross my palm with silver, I might change my mind about it, too.

Dirksen Aide Earns $5,000 In Bank Post

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An aide to Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen reportedly received $5,000 for serving as director of a Chicago bank controlled by financier Roy Cohn, who is now under indictment by a New York grand jury.

A copyrighted dispatch Thursday by Leslie H. Whitten of the Chicago Newspaper Syndicate Bureau also said the aide, Harold E. Rainville, sent a telegram in Dirksen's name to a federal judge who was weighing a decision affecting Cohn and the bank.

Rainville, who is in charge of Dirksen's office in Chicago, denied what he said were "imputations" of wrongdoing. Dirksen could not be reached for comment.

Cohn, a key lieutenant to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy in the early 1950's, was indicted last year on charges involving his handling of the affairs of a parent company to the Chicago bank. He has denied wrongdoing and is awaiting trial.

In his story, Whitten said both Dirksen and Rainville acknowledged the $5,000 payment and the sending of the telegram. He also reported that Rainville, acting at the request of Dirksen and Cohn, arranged for four other prominent Chicagoans to serve with him on the board of the Mercantile National Bank there.

Whitten said Dirksen told him in an interview that he did not see "anything wrong" in Rainville's association with the bank and that it was arranged only to preserve Chicago influence in a Chicago bank.

Four Men Break 4-Minute Mile In Highlight Of Kennedy Games

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—World record holder Jim Ryun of Kansas couldn't run because of a swollen knee but it didn't detract any from the featured four men who broke the four-minute mile on Saturday in the annual Kennedy Memorial track and field games as Chuck Lambert of Arizona State led a group of 15,500 spectators to a four-minute mile with a sparkling 3:58.4.

The mile gave the Games the touch they needed from being washed out as "just another meet" this year because sprinter John Carlos scratched.

Stan Whitley of Kansas set another stadium mark by taking the long jump with a leap of 36-1 1/2. Jay Silverstein of Boston set a 70-10. Ouis Burrell the high jumper at 6-10. Bruce Wilhelm the shot put at 64.8. Dick Ralback the pole vault at 17-3 and Pertti Posi of Brigham Young the triple jump at 51-3 1/4.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Favored Tell raced to his fourth straight grass course victory Saturday when he captured the 28th running of the $350,000 Argonaut Stakes in three years old by nearly two lengths over Hollywood Park's infield course.

Ryun, who first set a mile world record at the University of California three years ago, announced before the start of the race he was unable to run. A crowd of 15,500 gave him a big hand, then settled down to see Lambert lead Sam Blair of the Kent (Ohio) Track Club and Mike Evans of the U.S. Army and John Lawson of the Pacific Coast Club under the four-minute mile barrier.

Of the other events of note, Olympians Willie Davenport, Lee Evans and Ron Whitney won without hardly working a 200-meter dash. Mel Jerry Kinnunen of Finland scored big victories over tough opponents. Davenport took the 120 high hurdles, 1:48.8. Evans took the 440 458. Whitney scored in the intermediate hurdles in 50.6. Collins upset Felix Johnson in 1:48.8. Frank Covelli and Mark Murro in the javelin.

Robert Beamon, the world record holder in the long jump, continued to have his problems and finished fourth with a best of 25 feet, exactly 4 feet, 2 1/2 inches under his world standard.

The long-shot Eagle Fly was second with Lanny's Secret third and Makor, a stable mate of Tell, finishing fourth in the field of nine.

Edition Of BLM Book Is Available

An updated edition of "Room to Roam," the Bureau of Land Management's guide to recreation opportunities on public lands in the Western States and Alaska, has been released. Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel announced today.

The first edition of "Room to Roam" sold over 200,000 copies.

"Room to Roam" features 480 attractions for those vacationing in the outdoors on the public lands—these are—backpacking, camping and picnicking sites, hiking and canoeing trails, historic sites, ghost towns, and areas for hunting, fishing and sightseeing. Many of these are "off the beaten track," but well worth visiting, says the Bureau of Land Management.

More than 40 color photographs show scenery, plants and wildlife. Especially useful for the family planning a vacation trip are six maps outlining regions of the Western States and Alaska. In addition to the 450 million acres of public land administered by the Bureau of Land Management, the 60 maps show the national parks and forests, wildlife refuges, and Indian reservations.

Copies of the revised 32-page full-color atlas are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20540, at 75 cents per copy.

THREE ISLAND CROSSING, viewed here by a Twin Falls County Historical Tour group, is slated to become a state park. The crossing, one of the few points along Snake River where covered wagons could ford on the old Oregon Trail, has long been unnoticed by tourists and local residents alike.

Property is currently being acquired for a tourist stop, picnic tables and historical markers. A number of graves and other historical values may also be designated by the state park development.

Area Sites Tabbed For Development In State Program

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES, Times-News Feature Editor. Many scenic and historical spots in Idaho have long gone unnoticed by out-of-state visitors and simply taken for granted by local residents.

This is about to be changed through the efforts of the Idaho Parks Commission working with matching Bureau of Out Door Recreation funds provided under the Golden Eagle Pass program.

Harold (Pete) Brown, Eiler newly appointed chairman of Idaho's State Parks Commission, said there are three such sites currently slated for development in Magic Valley and adjoining areas. These include Massacre Rocks, between Rupert and American Falls; Three Island Crossing, near, Glenns Ferry, and the Malad River Gorge on State Highway 23, near Tuttle.

The area has had commercial development in the way of a motel and cafe for some time but the only historical designation has been a state marker describing the Indian massacres that have occurred.

Some parts of the state, he said, have almost no developed areas and with limited funds presently available the commission is anxious to provide for the greatest need first. In the Magic Valley area and adjoining Power County, three specific improvements are now underway.

Work has already begun at the Massacre Rocks site to develop a park-like area and to preserve the historical value. Mr. Brown said. New highway construction is slowing down in plans, but the commission has already acquired an old motel building and converted it into a headquarters office.

INDIANS LOOKED DOWN on immigrant wagons from behind these rocks and on Aug. 10, 1882, the Shoshoni Indians attacked a wagon train, killing nine and wounding six. The site will become a state park area with work already underway to improve the area. A former motel building has been acquired as a headquarters and final development is pending completion of new highway construction at the site.

MALAD RIVER GORGE, although only a few hundred feet from State Highway 23, marked by a bridge in background, is by-passed by most tourists. Efforts are underway by the Idaho Park Commission to acquire enough surrounding land to convert the area into a small state park.

Lava Road Proposal Seen As State-Wide Benefit

By LIZ BOLTON, Times-News Correspondent. RUPERT — Proposals for a road across the lava beds separating Arco from Rupert would have a sound economic effect on both communities and provide access to tourist attractions that have gained another 'supper'.

Gov. Don Samuelson who joined a group of Rupert and Arco businessmen and other guests from throughout the state for a tour of the proposed route and voiced his favor to the project.

Along the proposed route would be such tourist attractions as The Great Rift from which the ice caves and the Craters of the Moon were formed, the Wapi lava field, Bear Trap Caves and the Craters of the Moon.

With completion of these, Mr. Brown said the commission will no doubt look into other sites as the Cassia City of Rocks, Pillar Falls and many other scenic areas along Snake River.

Members of the Rupert and Arco Chambers of Commerce sponsored a tour last week to show Gov. Don Samuelson and guests from other parts of the state, the proposed route and its potential.

Signs designating the way had been put up recently by the Rupert and Arco Chambers. En route, talk of the potential of the roadway through from Arco to Rupert consumed much of the travel time. Bus Goode, Rupert Chamber president who joined the governor in the lead car, explained some advantages to be gained in tourism, travel time savings and business transactions between the two areas.

WELCOMING GOVERNOR IN BURLEY are Robert Baisch, center, Rupert Chamber of Commerce president, and Gene Bolton, state police officer. A tour began with the arrival of Gov. Don Samuelson and a drive to join other delegates in Rupert. From there they covered 82 miles of proposed roadway by automobile and airplane to inspect the proposed lava fields road.

along the proposed route that would help justify the cost of the $1 mile improvement linking Rupert and Minidoka with Arco.

The Crystal Ice Caves and Craters of the Moon are formed by the Great Rift which is now a national landmark. On the surface, it appears to be one huge crack in the earth's crust. It is, however, made of numerous fissures running together, and is over 40 miles in length. It has been explored to a depth of 800 feet, making it the deepest open volcanic rift in the world. Volcanic features such as spatter cones, explosion pits, geyser-up fields, lava dikes, pahoehoe pounds and 4 ounces. A total of 2,424 pounds of fish was registered for K and K Day, an all-time high for what which opens the special lake season in Area 1. Statewide general trout season started Saturday, May 31.

BIGGEST KAMLOOPS TROUT registered for the annual K and K competition during the week of May 31-1969. This 31-pounder boated at the mouth of the Clark Fork River in Pend Oreille Lake by Dennis (Bud) Lambert, 15, of Sandpoint. Largest Dolly Varden caught during the week was 22

Idaho's Big Fish Attract Thousands To Panhandle Lakes To Try For Records

More than a ton of trophy fish was taken from Idaho's "Big Hole" in the Panhandle Region during Kamloops and Kokanee Week, May 3-10. Some anglers caught two or more of the tackle-busting trout, May 3-10. Others didn't even get a bump.

Lake Pend Oreille, even in a land of lakes, is in a class all by itself. Of the more than 2,000 well-known lakes in Idaho and several thousand others that are uncharted and even undiscovered, Lake Pend Oreille is most loved not only throughout the state but throughout the United States and foreign countries. It attracts fishermen because of its giant Kamloops-rainbow trout, record-smashing Dolly Varden and large brown trout.

The state's tumultuous geologic past, with its violent glacial and volcanic action, mountain-building, stream shifting, aproning, and engineering, has created artificial embankments, created a broken jumble of peaks and canyons, studded with lakes—irresistible beauty.

Idaho's largest is Lake Pend Oreille, with a surface area of 160 square miles and a recorded depth of 2,500 feet, and straddles Bonner and Kootenai counties. Lake Pend Oreille's main tributary is Clark Fork, which comes out of Montana from the east. Its chief outlet is the Pend Oreille River. However, geologists say that much of the outflow from the "Big Hole" is underground from the Dayview area, supplying Spokane, Washington, about 55-60 miles to the southwest, with a huge underground reservoir of water.

To the south of Lake Pend Oreille and just over some low hills is Lake Coeur d'Alene, ranked as one of the five most beautiful lakes in the world. To the northwest of Lake Pend Oreille is Priest Lake, home of the "mighty mackinac" which, being fishermen and their boats to Idaho from many places. The official state record mackinaw, 34 pounds 5 ounces, was reeled by Russ Herman of Spokane, Washington, in 1963. This monster measured 41 inches, with a girth of 34 inches. The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

From Mrs. P. A. Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a coin with a hole in the middle. It is round and looks like copper. One side is almost smooth but I think I can read the word "Government" on it. On the other side, the words "One Piece" and some decorations. Can you tell me anything about it?

Answer: The coin is from Pakistan. When British India was given its independence the Muslim area broke away to form Pakistan. Pakistan became a republic within the Commonwealth of England in 1956. The coin is a "one-piece" piece, and 64 of them make a rupee. Answer: Sorry — the value to a collector would be in the neighborhood of twenty-five cents — if the coin is new. At present exchange value it is worth about 1.20th of a cent in United States money, since it takes one hundred of these to make a "dinar" and the lira is quoted at 100 cents on the market. The coin was issued from 1961 until 1967 under Victor Emmanuel II. Re D Italy. All it is good for is a conversation piece.

From Pocatello, Idaho, Mrs. D. A. L.: The coin I want to know about looks like brass or copper and has a picture of an eagle on one side. The eagle is facing towards the top, with a numeral "1" in the center. The "1" is shaped like a "5" and the lettering is foreign-looking.

Answer: Your coin is a 1-millime piece of the United Arab Republic, struck from 1960 on. Much in the news now, it was composed of Egypt and Syria, but Syria broke away from Egypt in 1961. The country now has separate coinage. The "millime" is a denomination of coinage. Ten of these equal 1 "piastre" and in turn, it takes 100 piastres to equal 1 pound. The Egyptian pound is now quoted at $1.40 exchange. The millime has very small value. Collector value is quoted at 10 cents, brand new.

From F. S., Twin Falls: I have a very small coin which has three lions on it and the date 1928. On the other side the letters "FESTI" are large "U" and under the one the letters "SENT". Is this play money — the "son" would suggest that it is.

Answer: No — it is not play money. The coin is from Estonia, which was a small republic formed at the end of the first World War and gobbled-up by the Russians during the second world war. The coinage is obsolete (no longer used), and the particular coin you have is worth about a dollar and a quarter to a collector, if it is new in condition. It has no other value, since Estonia is part of the U.S.S.R. and cannot issue its own currency. Incidentally, the coin is made from bronze.

At noontime, a big Dolly Varden was brought aboard the "Alibi". It was wrapped in men's PJs to keep it from drying out and losing weight before it was weighed at one of the official stations.

Mr. Weisshaar has been going out almost every day of every season for the past 11 years, and fishes commercially. He says he should have learned "a thing or two" about fishing Lake Pend Oreille. And, to prove it, he caught a 30-pound 8-ounce Kamloops in 1961, and a 31-pound 8-ounce Kamloops in 1962 — the biggest that year.

One of the things he has learned is to stay off Lake Pend Oreille during bad weather and to get off when storms come up fast. He says the warning usually is a big black cloud coming over the mountains, with wind right behind it. When storms are worse than on the ocean because giant waves are much closer together. Another danger signal is a wall of water several miles long, and many feet high.

Ship-to-shore radio broadcasts warn of coming storms. Dolly Varden, Alibi, relays weather reports on a citizens' two-way radio band, as well as ribald humor and strike — by strike accounts of man-fish battles on the "Big Hole". One announcement from a fishing boat, relayed broadcast from the barge to all receivers on the lake, laconically advised, "I just landed a big Dolly." A few minutes later, the radio sputtered, "It's wearing the lower part of a man's pajamas."

Book Review

By THELMA BALLESEN Assistant Librarian
"The Last Days of the Late, Great State of California" by Curt Gentry.
At 3:13 on a Friday afternoon in 1952, California was shaken by the greatest earthquake in history. Less than two hours later, all of the Golden State west of the San Andreas Fault, including most of San Francisco Peninsula, all of Los Angeles, and more than 15 million people, slid into the Pacific Ocean, thus fulfilling a prediction made years ago by the mystic Edgar Cayce.

Mr. Cayce's prediction of 1941, a much discussed controversial subject, is recalled by Curt Gentry in this current book, which was printed in October and is now in its sixth printing. The author uses the idea of the earthquake as a literary device to expose a history of the state as if it had already been destroyed. Mr. Gentry is a serious journalist whose angry book charges California is being destroyed even without an earthquake by such individuals as water polluters, red wood choppers, and John Birch Society members.

This is a fascinating reading and the author includes all the elements that go into the bewildering amalgam that makes up the California phenomenon. An erudite report of California economics and world-wide influence is outlined in this book. The problems of the migrant worker, the vineyards, the canneries, the distillers, cult and cattlemen, labor unions, lumber, freeways, politics, free speech movement, Vietnam, civil rights, crime, Watts and last but not least, the smog.

Is California inevitably doomed by the earthquake as Pompeii was destroyed by Mount Vesuvius?

IRS "Compliance Survey" Set For Burley And Rupert

BURLEY — A "compliance survey" of many Burley and Rupert business firms will be conducted during June, John C. Andulza, information officer for the Internal Revenue Service, announced today.

Mr. Andulza said the purpose of the survey is to determine if business firms are aware of and complying with federal tax return filing requirements of the law.

The purpose of the survey is not to audit returns, but to determine if all required tax returns are being filed. The survey also will be used to check the completeness of the IRS master file of business taxpayers.

Mr. Andulza said IRS recognizes that most businesses conscientiously comply with the tax laws. He added, however, that because of the laws are complex, some businesses may not be fully aware of all the tax requirements that apply to them.

Revenue officers will contact and assist these businessmen by informing them of the various deductions, withholding, social security and excise tax requirements.

REPRODUCTIONS OF FAMED art works can now be checked out by Twin Falls Public Library patrons just as they check out a book. Ann Holmes who cataloged the 21 paintings now available, places them on shelves in the adult department where they will be on display for the coming two weeks.

Library Offers Check-Out In Home Decor

Need a touch of art to brighten your home? Then take advantage of a new service being introduced by the Twin Falls Public Library. Through the new Library Art Project, patrons of the public library may now check out a painting much as they check out a new book.

The entire selection of 21 well known paintings will be on display in the adult department of the library through the next two weeks. Residents are invited to inspect the paintings and reserve one for check out which will begin following the display.

Thelma Balleisen, assistant librarian, said the service has been offered by libraries in eastern states for some time and is extremely popular.

Under the new system, a library patron may check out one of the paintings for a month.

but because of the limited number now available cannot renew the paintings.

"In this way a housewife or home owner planning to purchase a painting may 'try out' those from the library as a guide to their purchase in color, size and type of work.

Those available are excellent reproductions of outstanding art works from many world famous artists and some from later artists. All are framed and ready for display. Librarian Kathy Bruce is planning an eastern trip in the near future to purchase additional paintings for the local collection.

Each painting is given a catalog number much as a book for library records. Each also contains a history of the artist and a wall mounted on the back of the frame.

Ann Holmes who handled most of the cataloging for the 1968 collection of paintings will be available at all times for inspection of patrons, but after the two week period, the cataloging will be removed and the paintings cannot be seen by patrons. She urged persons to visit the library during the next two weeks to view the collection and then note those they would like to check out or place their names on the waiting list.

Some of the artists and their works include—James, Paolo, "Fruit"; Salvador Dali, "Basket of Bread"; Diego Rivera, "The Old Woman"; Pierre-Auguste Renoir, "By the Seashore," and others.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

When the 4-H season began this spring, Mrs. Eynon (Veld) Ward began her 22nd year as 4-H leader, a record for JEROME COUNTY, if not for all of Magic Valley.

Her husband has been a leader for over 10 years of beef and dairy projects. One of the four children is following in her parents' footsteps. Mrs. Robert Blades, Jerome, has been a 4-H leader for eight years.

Mrs. Ward lives on a farm northeast of Jerome and works in a grocery store.

The clubs have averaged about 10 members each year, making a total of over 200 girls. Mrs. Ward has worked with the girls as they are ages 9 to 17. They make a variety of projects on nutrition, clothing, room improvement, and baby sitting.

A few years ago canning and sewing were the main projects. At every meeting, something is cooked and demonstrated, and then used for refreshments.

Presently the girls meet at school, but when school is out, the meetings begin at 11 a.m. and last most of the day. Most of the girls take both cooking and sewing, and some take room improvement projects.

Mrs. Ward's club consists of the two main clubs in the county fair. They were Barbara Fuller, senior model, who modeled a woolen dress, and Susan Hughes, junior model, with a cotton jumper. Susan also won outstanding rating in nutrition.

When asked what she did with her spare time, Mrs. Ward said it is taken up with 4-H and fishing in the summer and bridge and bowling in the winter. They also never miss a Pony League ball game, for which Mr. Ward is assistant manager.

Mrs. Ward's other interests are Moose Lodge, Garden Club and the Grandview Women's Club.

Oversight

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Engineers surveyed the new Autonetics Corp. plant under construction here and admitted there had been a slight oversight.

Enclosed in the new four walls of the million-square-foot building was a seven-story crane.

Project engineer Dewayne Freburg said the crane was being used inside the structure and used until the building is nearly completed in November.

A wall will then be removed, and a smaller crane will be brought in to remove the large one, piece by piece.

Statistics On Graduates Are Released

More than one-third of the 1969 graduating class of Twin Falls High School attended the College of Southern Idaho this year.

Doyt Simcoe, guidance counselor for the school system, recently prepared a study of the 1968 class which showed 30.12 per cent of the class were attending CSI or Ricks College.

George Staudacher, assistant superintendent and this indicates the college is having a considerable effect on the community and young graduates.

Mr. Simcoe found 14.3 per cent of the class were attending Idaho's four-year schools. There are 5.9 per cent attending four-year schools in Utah, 4.18 per cent unaccounted for. The total figures show 68.31 per cent of the students are receiving education beyond high school.

Of these, 30.12 per cent are attending a junior college; 29.4 per cent are at four-year institutions and 7 per cent are attending business college.

Mr. Staudacher said the 68.31 per cent figure ranks very high nationally.

$101 less than last year's Impala with comparable equipment.

Match that, anybody.

We give you an honest increase in car at an honest decrease in price.

Take the '69 Impala price. We improved the ride. Made it quieter inside. Added an anti-theft locking device. Put steel guard rails in the doors.

Still, this Impala with a 300-hp V8, Turbo Hydramatic, advanced design power disc brakes, head restraints, whitewalls and wheel covers is priced $101* less than in 1968.

The 300-hp V8 is priced $40 less than last year's 270-hp Turbo Hydramatic costs less. Power disc brakes about half as much. Whitewalls a little less. Wheel covers about the same. And head restraints are now standard.

Upping value and dropping price. That's the way Chevrolet operates.

DOUBLE SQUEEZES

TAKE TOP SKILL
If you don't recognize the double squeeze available in today's hand, don't feel ashamed. Double squeezes are always difficult and it's hard to see that the seven-of-hearts is a key card.

Now let's watch expert South's reasoning as he plays the hand. He starts by recognizing the double squeeze available in today's hand, don't feel ashamed. Double squeezes are always difficult and it's hard to see that the seven-of-hearts is a key card.

In that case the Jack of spades is a threat in that suit against East. Even if the seven of hearts can be made a threat against West, the stage is set for a double squeeze. West will have to guard hearts, no one will be able to guard clubs.

South's next play is a low heart from dummy. East might have the ace although West should, South's king knocks out West's ace and West can do nothing better than to lead back the Jack. Note that a club lead would give South a chance to pick up his 12th trick by a finesse.

Now South wins in dummy, ruffs a spade to get back to his hand and runs the rest of the trumps. Dummy's last four cards are the seven of hearts, Jack of spades, ace of clubs. West must discard a club in order to hold a heart. Now the heart is thrown from dummy but that Jack of spades forces East to unguard his queen of clubs. No one had been able to protect clubs and the 10 of that suit becomes South's 13th trick.

HEART TROUBLE—Why do the hearts of some animals beat faster when they're lying down than when they're standing up? Such as the heart of an elephant, for instance. Most mysterious. May have something to do with the medical theory that men who walk a lot are less apt to develop heart trouble than men who sit still all day. Doctors now say the muscular flex of a walking man's leg muscles definitely helps the heart pump blood through his system. That is said to be why mailmen and milkmen get fewer heart attacks than most.

Proposed Lava Road Viewed

Among the spatter cones, The South Gratto, just south of the ice caves, is the largest in the area.

Mr. Papadakis, a master geologist and an ardent spelunker, heard of the ice cave phenomenon while visiting the area and recruited some area explorers to show him the icy wonder.

He immediately decided to develop this underworld so the public could enjoy his "find." In 1963, he began his gigantic project and by 1965, after 1200 feet of tunnel had been dug, opened the caves to the public. Visitors follow the route, traveling 150 feet below the surface into the silent volcano.

Ours was the first group to go through the caves and in the beginning Mr. Papadakis explained that the caves were carbon dated at 2100 years. Sagebrush roots found below the lava field were used to determine the age.

The cave was discovered by accident in 1856 when two spelunkers decided to probe the depths of the Great Rift. Few people believed the tales they told so the wonder remained a secret for the next eight years.

Water dripping on the heads of the visitors and on notebooks and cameras, although a bit distracting, turned out to be melting snow from the surface that may be as much as two years getting through the lava to the caves. The water inside the caves often freezes and creates crystals on the ceiling.

Mr. Papadakis explained the ice caves extend for another 125 feet beyond the final point of view now open and when time permits, that room will also be opened for public inspection. He said he will need to clear another 1000 feet of tunnel to the next room which, although larger than the presently exposed area, does not contain as many intricate ice formations.

"Any time you can cut travel time by half," said Gov. Samuelson during an evening address in Arco, "it is a worthwhile project and would not take long to justify the funds spent to improve the road."

The governor urged the sponsoring organizations to form a committee to explore the possibilities and pledged full support from the governor's office. He spoke in the dining room of the Arco which climaxed the caravan tour and the aerial flight over the proposed route.

A volcanologist from the University of Texas geology department will be in the area this summer to study the crater area, Gov. Samuelson urged he be asked to study the entire area including Craters of the Moon National Monument for possible national park designation.

Other dignitaries who took part in the tour included John Martin, representing U.S. Sen. Leslie R. Anderson, Idaho, Idaho, Idaho, and Mrs. Joan Allen, Twin Falls, representing Rep. Orval Hansen; Ed Pyritz, northern Idahoan Petr.; Idaho Falls, both Bureau of Land Management; Phil Marsha and Dale Harding, Idaho Department of Highways; Tim Mauser, Idaho Department of Commerce and Development; Wilhelm Berkert, Boise, director, State Park & Recreation Commission; State Rep. Falls, Idaho, representing the Idaho Chamber of Commerce and Mindok County Commissioners and Mindok County Chamber of Commerce representatives including Forest Blinke, South Central Idaho and Fly by n Chambers; Ed Guamer, Pocatello Idaho Chamber; Ted Keelney, Burley; Roy Reston, Twin Falls; Karl Cayford, Pocatello; Jim Muffley and Ralph Lucke, North Side Communities; Dr. Miller, American Valley; and Brown, Arco; Bob Datch, Rupert Chamber president, and repre-would have to be a matching fund project, he said.

Mr. Brown said the commission will be working with many other agencies in coordinating programs of roads lighting and signage for park and recreational sites.

The Balanced Rock area, he said, is typical of those being developed by local agencies. This has been relatively well taken care of by Castleford and county interests.

"People should be told... Mr. Brown said, most of the money to develop these recreational facilities come from the Golden Eagle Pass for which the resident pays $7 per season or through the per day fees now required for use of federal picnic and camping areas where improvements have been made.

representatives from the Blackfoot Chamber of Commerce; Paul Chamber of Commerce and several other state legislators and community representatives.

Most Camping, Picnic Areas Are Now Open

Most campgrounds and picnic areas in the Sawtooth National Forest are open and accessible for the opening of fishing season, Forest officials said.

Included are those in the Sawtooth Valley along the Wood River and South Idaho River and in the South Hills. Major exceptions are the Point Campground at Red Fish Lake, which opens July 1, and Lark Cleveland, which is not yet accessible by automobile because of snow.

Recreation visitors were reminded the Golden Eagle charge system will be in effect in June in most areas of the Sawtooth Forest. Some charges begin June 1, but by June 15, all areas where the pass or fees are required will be designated. Season Golden Eagle passes may be purchased from the Sawtooth Forest headquarters in Twin Falls and most major ranger stations.

ICE FORMATIONS COVER walls of the Crystal Ice Caves, a potential tourist attraction 28 miles from Mindoka. This is one of the many features on the proposed road between Arco and Mindoka through the vast lava fields. The ice caves are now open to the public although further exploring and improvement is still underway.

No Pants

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Two thorough female handits emptied Charles S. Brent's pockets — then made off with his pants, too.

"There I was in my sunglasses and T-shirt," Brent, a cabbie, said after the gun-toting, knife-wielding women stole his money, ring, watch and forced him to strip to his underwear before they drove off in his cab.

"I've been cheated before, but not like this," he said.

Prince Charles Faces Tough Time Against Welsh Fanatics

LONDON (NEA) — A West German magazine has offered $25,000 for the first photo showing Prince Charles, the Prince of Wales, being snatched by Welsh nationalists or being kissed by a Welsh university coed.

There is a good likelihood that this offer will be snapped up this summer. There are plenty of crackpots eager to slap the royal face in the interests of Welsh nationalism.

There are probably even more coeds willing for a chance to buss the royal cheek. Prince Charles, the 20-year-old heir to the British throne, will enroll at a state at the University College of Wales, at Aberystwyth, at the end of April. He will study the Welsh language for seven weeks at Aberystwyth, preparing to his formal investiture as Prince of Wales, which will take place at Caernarvon Castle on July 1.

At a foretaste of things to come, four students at Aberystwyth have already staged a hunger strike to protest Prince Charles' enrollment at the university. They and many thousands like them do not recognize him as the legitimate Prince of Wales.

To Welsh nationalists the last Prince was Llywelyn, who was killed in battle in 1282 — by the English, as luck would have it. In the 700 years that have since elapsed — all other Princes of Wales, including the present incumbent, have been imposters, in their eyes.

It is Prince Charles' misfortune to come of age at a time when Welsh nationalism is on the upswing, and when separatist demands have become more ardent.

"I don't blame people demonstrating," Prince Charles said recently with engaging candor. "They've never seen me before, they don't know what I'm like."

You really can't expect people to be overzealous about having a so-called English prince come among them.

The worst of Prince Charles' ordeal will come on July 1, when, in the blue ceremonial uniform of the Royal Regiment of Wales, of which the prince is colonel-in-chief, he kneels before his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, to be crowned.

Will there be cries of "Charles go home" to mar this solemn occasion? How will the people of Caernarvon receive him as his procession winds through their narrow streets?

Although for Charles this summer promises to be a testing time, but then he had been trained for just such a trial and he is well-equipped to handle awkward situations.

From his father, Prince Philip, he inherits his tolerance as well as his personal courage. It took guts to confront the group of Welsh extremists that threw smoke bombs at his car when he failed Cardiff, Wales, last June, but Prince Charles did not flinch.

Breaking away from his bodyguard, the prince went up to the leader of the group, 41-year-old Dafydd Jenkins, and asked the meaning of the slogan that was scrawled in Welsh across Jenkins' banner.

"You should learn Welsh if you want to find out," Jenkins, a building laborer from Glamorgan, taunted him.

"But I am learning Welsh," Prince Charles protested. "Only I am not getting on with it very well."

"I will accept that you are never brilliant," the incorrigible Welshman replied.

Prince Charles' later confession that he was nervous when he walked up to the group. "I just went to see what these people really were getting at, you know," he explained. "They were standing there and they were, I thought, perfectly ordinary people and I thought, you know, one could talk to them as perfectly ordinary people."

From his father, too, Prince Charles has inherited a general noisiness which has prompted him to try his hand at everything from solo flying to amateur theatricals. Prince Charles is fascinated by the marvels of the technological age, and whenever he goes insists upon having the latest machinery and gadgets, including the most complicated electronic hardware, explained to him.

From both his mother and his father, the heir apparent inherits his sense of humor. In a recent Cambridge footlights revue, in which Charles appeared in 14 roles, it was he who suggested that he walk off with his arm around a girl, remarking, nonchalantly, "I must admit I do like giving myself hairs."

There is nothing funny, however, about the small band of extremists among the Welsh nationalists — they have won up a number of bridges and pipelines to call attention to their cause. Scotland Yard Special Branch men have already moved into Aberystwyth, where Prince Charles will attend the university, and into Caernarvon, where he will later be crowned. Altogether it promises to be a hot summer, one which Charles will remember in years to come long after he has become king.

Here a piece of heavy equipment removes section of a former sidewalk. County officials urged motorists to not park on the area until completed. DEAR POLLY—Early this winter a friend gave me a pair of the warmest hand-knit gloves. I found it very difficult to drive with them as the wool slipped. I neatly stitched suede elbow patches on the glove-palm-and-now have real "grip" gloves.—ROSE

DEAR POLLY—I empty the coffee grounds from the percolator on to the plates from which we have eaten eggs. Even if the egg is dried on the plate it will wipe right off with a paper towel. I also use coffee grounds this way in a greasy fry pan.—MARI

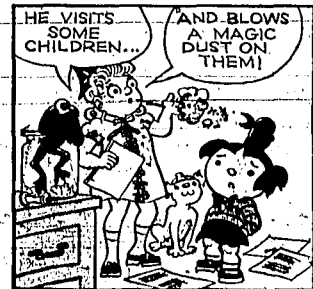

DEAR POLLY—When mothers with small tots come visiting I find an old plastic tablecloth with fair backing makes a fine play area. Spread it on the rug and the baby feels a part of the group since mother or is in sight.—MRS. R. J.

DEAR POLLY—Don't throw away that old card table. Cut the legs down and save the table for sitting on the ground picnics. It's great for serving food at the beach. It keeps the sand away from the food and is still within easy reach.—GINNY

How "Magic" Glasses Let

SELF-HELP QUIZ
Why You Feel "Blue"
And What to Do About It

Ask Them Yourself

FOR REP. SEYMOUR HALPERN

of New York

Is the campaign to put a Secretary of Peace in the President's cabinet making any progress?—Tom Muller, Culver City, Calif.

● Fifty-nine Congressmen joined me in introducing the Peace Act Bill, which would put a Secretary of Peace at the head of a Department of Peace. It would also establish a joint committee on peace and international cooperation in the Congress. As proposed, a new Department of Peace would take jurisdiction over the Agency for International Development, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and the Peace Corps—now under the jurisdiction of the Department of State.

FOR ROMY SCHNEIDER, actress

As a chic dresser, what do you think about the current pants rage?—D.N., Lancaster, Pa.

● The majority of my daytime clothes are pants outfits. I also have an evening sequined tuxedo. I like to accessorize a pants outfit as much as a dress or a skirt.

FOR OTTO J. SCHERSCHLITZ,

Chief of Parks, South Dakota

Whose idea was it originally to carve four Presidents' faces on Mt. Rushmore?—Mrs. Clara Strand, Osnabrock, N.D.

● Doane Robinson, South Dakota politician, first proposed sculpturing figures of local heroes in the granite of Custer State Park. In 1925 sculptor Gutzon Borglum conceived the project as of national significance and chose Mt. Rushmore for the figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Theodore Roosevelt.

FOR GOV. ROBERT DOCKING

of Kansas

Why does Kansas have the highest drift acceptance rate (79.4 percent)?—Mrs. Byrae George, Seattle, Wash.

● An individual must be prescribed minimum standards in physical (medical), mental, and moral areas to be drafted. The statistics report more Kansans have been rejected for not meeting medical standards than the national average, but fewer Kansans have been rejected for mental and moral reasons than the national average. Therefore, Kansans perhaps are not quite as physically fit but are better educated and have fewer convictions for criminal offenses than draftees of other states.

FOR J. EDGAR HOOVER,

Director, FBI

How can parents help stem the growing crime problem in this country?—Harold Powers, Doraville, Ga.

● It is most important for parents to provide children with firm guidance and the influential example of law-abiding, responsible citizenship.

FOR JOHN SHÄFFER,

Administrator, Federal Aviation Administration

About how many planes are there in the air over the U.S. at any given time?—Beatrice Teeple, Toledo, Ohio

● It is impossible to count the number of aircraft. Our best estimate is about 10,000. In addition to the 2,000 or so flights under constant surveillance from the ground—those flying under instrument flight rules (IFR) according to predetermined flight plans—there are about 8,000 other aircraft flying on a see-and-be-see basis.

FOR FANNIE FLAGG, comedienne

I understand that at one time you had your own to-kill show in Birmingham, Ala., and that it was there that you developed many of your celebrity impersonations. What prompted you to concentrate in this area?—F. L., Lancaster, Pa.

● The format of the show called for me to interview well-known people passing through Birmingham. Since usually there were none within a hundred miles of Birmingham, I interviewed myself.

FOR BOWIE KUHN,

Baseball Commissioner

In most sports, no overtime is played to break a tie score. Why is it done in baseball?—H. E. Gillman, Glenlate, Calif.

● Baseball has no time clock. It is always played to a decision, barring rain.

FOR JERRY LEWIS

How does it feel to have a son coming up in the entertainment field?—Pat Davis, Carleers, Miss.

● Some "show folk" don't like the idea of their children in the business, but I'm not one of them. Gary is a very talented performer, and I'm sure he'll do very well, indeed.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Classified Photos Some believe that since we all have two bodies—physical and astral—we can be in two places at once. The theory is called "astral projection." Long John-Nebel (NBC-cable night radio show) not only further explains it in his book (coauthored with Sanford M. Teller) "The Psychic World Around Us," but relates: In the summer of 1966, a listener revealed that he'd found himself astrally projected into CIA vaults, where he saw photos of the old man in a wheel chair, captioned "Adolf Hitler, Jan. 24, 1966." John was skeptical. Then, a couple of years later, "one of America's most prominent authors" related to Nebel that a retired general showed a magazine editor CIA photos of a sickly white-haired old man in a wheel chair, captioned "Adolf Hitler, Buenos Aires, 1965." Long John's "determined disbelief" weakened a little.

My Friend, the Scientist Singer Peggy Lee has had to live with the tragedy of cancer most of her life, she told Family Weekly. "My little sister and my father died of it. And many friends—one just recently." It happens that Peggy is an old friend of a cousin of Dr. Jonas Salk and asked to meet him. ("Some of my favorite people are scientists; their sense of humor is really wild, and they have a great, quiet strength about them.") The result was that Peggy became "Tree of Life" chairman for Salk's cancer research institute in La Jolla, Calif.

sion sprockets) consists of daredevil spins. "It took two years to make," says Colman. "I thought of giving the Commander more of a costume, but so many spectators just knew there was really a person inside running it. I decided on a see-through body."

Laugh-Out "Our society is one in which adult interest in the coming generation is very low and exploitation very high, resulting in mutual hostility and distrust," says Dr. George Sheviakov, author of "Anger in Children." "The angry child must see the helping adult not as another 'enemy' but as a person who calmly accepts his feelings, which are genuine at the moment." Reasoning is futile until after a cooling-off period. Also recommended are opportunities for working off anger through sports, debates, games—and conversation. The psychologist warns parents against sarcasm and encourages laughing together: "The mere physical process of laughing automatically neutralizes anger."

My "Blind" Son Can

By Mrs. ELDA GIBSON

Dr. William Feinbloom, inventor of "miraculose" lens, fits Billy.

OURS IS a deeply religious family. Ever since we first realized that our only child Billy had been born almost totally blind, my husband and I expressed our hearts' desire in silent evening prayers.

Later, in family prayers, we never audibly asked for his sight—we wanted our boy to know we loved him just the way he was. As he grew up, though, I would often see Billy kneeling beside his bed praying for better vision.

Now our faith has been rewarded. Last August we witnessed a miracle being performed. Today our son can read even this magazine page and walk unaided. In a sighted world, Billy is as excited and amazed as an astronaut landing on the moon. As my overjoyed husband, Big Bill, says, "We're on Cloud Nine." When I recall how it all happened, it still seems like a dream.

Billy was born with a congenital defect doctors call microphthalmia. This means his eyeball is much smaller than normal, his cornea, lens, and retina underdeveloped. His vision was virtually zero.

Billy had to learn by Braille at the Utah School for the Deaf and Blind, here in Ogden, Utah. Classed as "legally blind," he is among more than one million Americans with vision of less than 10 percent.

Over the years, we took our boy to many eye specialists and low-vision clinics. Again and again we were told that he did not have any measurable vision to work with, his "eyes" were "hopeless," and that his sight could not be improved by surgery or otherwise. Billy accepted his problem with great courage, adjusted to his limitations, and never complained.

Last summer, we decided to try again. I had read about new types of special lenses developed by Dr. William Feinbloom, a noted ophthalmologist and optical researcher in New York. I understood he specializes in "seeing-aid" for the hard-of-seeing.

We wrote Dr. Feinbloom and, after a phone discussion of Billy's case, arranged an appointment. During our vacation, we took Billy, who is now 16, to New York. Before we left, the three of us prayed together, aloud, for the impossible.

We found Dr. Feinbloom, the inventor of those "magic" lenses, to be a tall, gray-haired, kindly man. Billy walked into his modest office and sat down under an intensely bright light. Day after day, for an entire week, Dr. Feinbloom exhaustively examined and tested him.

At first he doubted that Billy had any vision beyond light perception or shadow vision. Actually, he had less than 1 percent visual acuity, but Dr. Feinbloom felt this could be increased somewhat.

"If there's some vision left—even as little as 1 percent," he told us, "we can help."

To test Billy, the doctor first had to teach him to recognize some numbers since he knew them only by touch, through Braille. For reading, Dr. Feinbloom had to design new triplet air-spaced-microscopic spectacles magnified 28 times! They're the strongest he has ever made during the 40 years that he has helped some 20,000 patients. I understand that no one Dr. Feinbloom has ever aided was as seriously affected as Billy by microphthalmia.

Day after day, Dr. Feinbloom measured and figured and kept modifying the design in his laboratory. When the crucial time came for Billy to try out his glasses for the first time, my husband and I waited breathlessly. Billy sat down under a bright light. I trembled as I held the eye chart for him to read. (Please, let him see this number . . . and the next . . . and the next.)

I watched my son attempting to see and call out the numbers as they became smaller and smaller. Then Dr. Feinbloom exclaimed: "I never would have believed it!" Billy could read numbers even the size of the usual newspaper type.

He started with two pairs of those miraculous glasses made up by Dr. Feinbloom himself: one telescopic pair for long distance, the other microscopic for close up. The triple lenses have air spaces between them to remove the blur from images and to sharpen sight. Later, a third set of glasses was designed to enable him to write.

As long as I live, I'll never forget Billy's reaction to his first experience of real sight. With his new glasses on, he whispered in awe: "Oh, man!" Then he looked at me, quiet for a moment, and blurted out: "Mom, for the first time I see how beautiful you are." I had a hard time holding back the tears.

Leaving the office, looking all around him through his glasses, he kept laughing, and we laughed with him. Chattering away on the street, he commented: "People look funny, like giants . . . I can see that green tree way over there. Unbelievable! . . . Look, a fire hydrant! . . . There's a fat lady carrying a red purse . . . Mother, your hair is so puffed up . . . Everything is so big. Are those really my big feet?"

At lunch, eating his apple pie, Billy grinned. "I can even clean up the crumbs." At the motel where we stayed, he stared at himself in the mirror: "I look rather funny, too." That first night, he went to bed with his glasses on, still looking wonderingly about the room, begging us not to turn off the light.

Through my son's new "eyes," I was forcibly struck by what a sighted world means to one who has always been sightless. At home, when I put Billy's usual breakfast of bacon and eggs before him, he stared at the plate and finally said: "Mother, I never did like eggs much, and now that I can see one I just can't eat it." To his father, he said: "Dad, you chew too fast—Ghoope you don't mind my trying to improve you." How could we possibly mind? It was such a joy to know he sees these things.

At school, the other blind and near-blind students greeted Billy excitedly. Many wanted to try on his glasses. "What's it like to see?" they kept asking. "Sure wish I had something like that," said one friend. "You're a lucky stiff," said another.

The totally blind just felt the glasses and told Bill how happy they were for him. To others, there was now a glimmer of hope. That first week, the glasses were borrowed by so many youngsters that we had to clean them often to remove all the fingerprints.

We knew we had dear friends, but at church the first Sunday after our return we discovered how deeply they cared about our boy. I was embraced by many in our Mormon congregation as they said, "Billy is such a

See Me Now!

Billy Gibson was doomed as a "hopeless case" until a doctor with "magic" glasses opened a new world to him—a world of vision faithful boy, he surely is deserving of this."

One of our friends choked up: "Your Dr. Feinbloom must be wonderful, but I know God helped." Even people I met in the grocery store next day equeezed my hand and said: "Is it really true? Could anything so marvelous happen to Bill!"

And our son couldn't stop marveling. At a football game with his father one Saturday, he stood up to sing the Star-Spangled Banner. With gusto he sang, "O, say can you see . . ." and his smile spread from ear to ear.

Today, wearing his glasses, Billy has at least 70 percent of normal vision for closeness, and 12 to 15 percent for distance. That may seem very little to most people, but to Billy it's tremendous.

"In two or three years," Dr. Feinbloom assured us, "he will have 90 percent normal distance vision. For near-vision, he will be able to read as well and as long as you or I."

Billy used to watch sports on tele-ty, he may still need his cane in heavy traffic. The glasses give him the extra vision to move about with a longer, steadier stride. His eyes do seem to be growing stronger.

Like any normal teen-ager, Billy is dating and goes to school dances and parties. "Girls are great," he says. "The glasses have not changed my feelings about them in the least. All I need is more time for dating."

He puts in a long day—At 5:30 in the morning he is up and at his studies. By 7:20, driven in a car pool with other students, he is at our church seminary for religious instruction. By 8 he's at school.

We can hardly believe it, but this September Billy will leave the School for the Blind and enter Ogden High School as a junior! Billy feels confident he'll be able to walk the seven blocks from our home to the high school without a cane. This summer he'll be trying it out.

Among the adjustment problems Billy faces is spelling. Accustomed to Braille with its many contractions

This fall, at his new school, Billy will be taking English, social law, U.S. history, creative writing, physiology, debating, and health. He plans to go on to the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, where he'll major in political science and minor in radio broadcasting. Why broadcasting? Billy has spent many happy hours in the press box with sports announcers.

His three pairs of wonderful glasses are treasured like gems. He never cleans them with water and is even concerned about wearing them when it rains. He's also worried about scratches, although he uses these glasses for all his activities but wrestling.

When I look at my son these days, I feel we've been specially blessed. After all, we are average Americans. My husband is a telephone repairman, and I am a working mother, holding down my job at the Internal Revenue Service. Yet I found we needn't be the only fortunate family. Last Christmas, a heartwarming thing happened.

Rick a pair of microscopic glasses through a local optometrist cooperating with their inventor, Dr. Feinbloom. Rick had his "seeing-aids" just before Christmas, in time to read the tiny print on his new record albums and to read the dial on his new radio.

How many near-blind people like Rick and Billy can hope to benefit from those ingenious "seeing-aids"? When Dr. Feinbloom came to Ogden recently to conduct a clinic and to lecture before other optometrists, I asked him about it.

"Of the million Americans who are legally blind," he said, "about 100,000 to 200,000 are children suffering from congenital abnormalities or partial blindness due to accident or disease. I believe a substantial number of those now in schools for the blind can attain improved vision through our corrective lenses."

"This type of improvement achieved with Billy is possible in most of these cases. The degree of improvement depends mostly on the percentage of vision remaining and, of course, the precise nature of the eye condition. We can not help those persons who are totally blind, who have only shadow vision or only the ability to tell light from dark."

Dr. Feinbloom told me he has developed more than 50 different types of optical systems. These may be applied to persons of all ages who have lost their vision as a result of eye diseases, nonoperable cataracts, or other congenital conditions.

"Of these cases," he pointed out, "three out of four can be rehabilitated to an extent sufficient to enable them to live more useful lives."

For our son, living a more useful life means he has emerged from a twilight zone into a world he barely knew before. Yesterday, for instance, he and his classmates spent the afternoon touring our state capitol, as they've done before. When he came home, Billy said, "At the Gold Room, I could see how it got its name—I could see the gold!"

Last night, standing outside Billy's room, I listened to him read aloud from "Stories from Mexico." I asked myself, could this possibly be our Billy? God—and Dr. Feinbloom—must have listened to our many silent prayers. ♦ vision with his nose to the screen; now he can sit back a short distance and really enjoy it. An avid sports fan, he is captain of his school's wrestling team, goes to practice almost every evening, and engages in wrestling matches with teams of other schools.

Typing comes easier to Billy now that he can see what he is doing.

After completing his mobility training (with a cane), Billy is now able to catch any bus in our city or walk to any area. At times, for safe-of words, "sighted" spelling has been tough for him. But I'm sure that reading print will help him improve his spelling a great deal. In math, his print-reading teacher is showing him how to do problems on the blackboard. As for reading, at present he sees five or six letters at a time; with more experience, reading will become much easier. "To me," Billy says, "print is very much like learning a foreign language."

"Seeing is believing," Billy tells Mom. "I'm out of the twilight zone."

When the people I work with at IRS heard of Billy's "miracle," they decided to make it also possible for one of his friends, Rick Mansfield, a 15-year-old with limited vision.

Special boxes in our cafeterias were marked "Project Ricky." Employees dropped quarters or more into them "to help Ricky see the beauties of life we all take so easily for granted."

What Makes You Feel "Blue"?

SCIENCE calls it "depression"; most people say they have the "blues" or are "down in the dumps."

Whatever you call it, low periods are unpleasant—unpleasant enough for science to study seriously what causes depression and how it may be alleviated.

Test your knowledge about the "blues" against what experts have discovered. Answer true or false to the following questions and check yourself against the scientifically based answers below.

Fritz Ahrenth for PEO

1. The average person who is reasonably well-adjusted seldom gets the blues.
2. Your I.Q. drops when you're depressed.
3. If you feel depressed often, you're likely to be neurotic.
4. People who blame the weather for their blue moods are just passing the buck.
5. A good way to shake the blues is to get in your car and drive out into the country.
6. When you're down in the dumps, it's normal to resist the efforts of others to help.
7. Most depressions cure themselves and are no cause for alarm.
8. If you suffer persistent depression, try tranquillisers.
9. Music will often dispel a case of the blues quickly.

ANSWERS

1. False. One study of the day-to-day feelings of a cross section of Americans has shown that the majority felt "in good spirits" slightly more than half the time, "neutral" or "so-so" less than a third of the time, and depressed or emotionally "up tight" about one-sixth of the time.
2. True. Psychological tests show that depression slows our mental-reaction time, making it far more difficult to solve problems or do any kind of work which requires clear thinking.
3. False. It's possible, but it's not likely. University of California studies show that one of the chief factors responsible for frequent depression in many people is simply not getting enough sleep. Poor eating habits also are known to cause depression.
4. False. Studies at Columbia University and elsewhere have shown that the weather has a pronounced effect on our emotions. Gloomy, overcast days make people much more subject to depression. That's why many are more depressed during winter.

5. False. When you're feeling really blue, it's a bad policy to get in your car and drive anywhere. A dejected mood slows your reaction time and impairs your ability to judge distance correctly.

6. True. The reason people often resist attempts to snap them out of a spell of the blues, psychiatrists point out, is because everyone has a "need" to feel this way. And if those feelings are denied expression, we are more likely to resent it unconsciously.

7. True. Medical studies show that most depressions are the garden-variety type that cure themselves after running their course. But, if depression persists and the symptoms are severe, a specialist should be consulted.

8. False. Under certain conditions, physicians find various drugs effective in alleviating depressions, but the practice of taking any type of antidepressant drug, except when prescribed by a qualified physician, should be avoided, for many such drugs can cause depression to worsen. Also, both stimulant and tranquilizing drugs may have a multitude of undesired side effects.

9. True. But it must be the right kind of music. Studies at a leading university have shown that music with a fast, snappy rhythm can often do wonders to snap a person out of a melancholy mood. —JOHN E. GIBSON

Delicious Dairy Desserts

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ The lovely month of June is a fitting time for paying tribute to dairy products. Fresh milk, cream, buttermilk, sour cream, butter, cottage cheese, other cheeses, and ice cream are always available. Consume any of these foods as is, or use them in combination with other ingredients for meals and snacks. Here are recipes for favorite dairy desserts.

Coffee Peach Ice Cream Loaf

- 2 slices coffee ice cream
($\frac{1}{4}$ half-gallon each)
- 1 slice vanilla ice cream
($\frac{1}{4}$ half-gallon)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups vanilla wafer crumbs
(about 30 cookies)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup toasted slivered almonds
Peach Sauce (see recipe)

1. Place slices of ice cream (be sure they are the same size) of a tray and set in the freezer.
 2. Meanwhile, mix cookie crumbs with almonds; set aside.
 3. When ready to assemble loaf, see photo. Spread and press $\frac{3}{4}$ cup crumbs onto one slice each of coffee and vanilla ice cream. Alternate layers ending with second coffee layer. Top with remaining crumbs. Wrap in aluminum foil and return to freezer until ready to serve.
 4. Unwrap loaf and place on a chilled plate. Spoon some of the Peach Sauce over ice cream and serve with remaining sauce. 12 servings
- Note: Various combinations of ice cream may be sandwiched together with the crumb-almond mixture. Offer commercial toppings.

Peach Sauce

- Reserved peach syrup
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup toasted slivered almonds
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon rum extract

1. If necessary, add water to peach syrup to make 1 cup.
 2. Blend in a saucepan the cornstarch and orange juice, then mix in peach syrup and fruit peels. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens; cook 2 min. longer.
 3. Remove from heat and cool to room temperature. Mix in peaches, almonds, and extract.
- About $2\frac{1}{2}$ cups sauce

Chocolate Brown Sugar Cake

- $2\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

- 3 eggs
- $3\frac{1}{2}$ sq. (3 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
- 1 cup buttermilk
- Buttermilk Fudge Frosting

1. Grease bottoms of two 9-in. round layer cake pans; line with waxed paper cut to fit bottom of pan; grease paper. Set aside.
2. Sift the cake flour, baking soda, and salt together; set aside.
3. Cream the butter and extract. Gradually add the sugar, creaming thoroughly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating until light and fluffy after each addition. Mix in the chocolate.
4. Alternately add dry ingredients in thirds and buttermilk in halves to creamed mixture, beating only until blended after each addition. Turn into pans; spread evenly.
5. Bake at 350°F . 30 min. or until cake tests done. Cool 10 min. in pans. Remove cake from pans to wire racks to cool completely. Fill and frost. One 9-in. cake

Buttermilk Fudge Frosting

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1. Put the first four ingredients into a heavy 3-qt. saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar is completely dissolved.
2. Increase heat and bring mixture to boiling. Put candy thermometer in place. Cook, stirring constantly, until thermometer registers 232°F .
3. Remove from heat and put the 2 tablespoons butter on top of frosting. Set aside to cool to 110°F . Do not disturb during cooling.

4. When cool, stir in extract and beat until creamy and of spreading consistency. If frosting becomes too thick to spread smoothly, mix in a few drops of hot water.

Enough to fill and frost a 9-in. layer cake

Cottage Cheese Fluff

- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

1. In a small bowl, whip cottage cheese. Mix in a blend of sugar and cinnamon, then lemon peel and juice.
 2. Set on a serving tray with cuts of assorted cheeses and fruits, such as melon, red plums, pears, and grapes.

- 3 tablespoons cream
- 3 cups milk
- 3 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

1. Melt $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the chocolate with the cream in top of a double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. Stir until smooth; spoon about 1 tablespoon into each of 8 soufflé cups or 10 soufflé dishes. Spread evenly. Put cups into a shallow pan; set aside.
2. Scald milk. Melt remaining $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chocolate and, adding gradually, stir in scalded milk until blended.
3. Beat eggs, extract, sugar, and salt together. Gradually add milk mixture, stirring constantly. Pour into chocolate-lined cups.
4. Set pan with filled cups on oven rack and pour boiling water into pan to a depth of 1 in.
5. Bake at 325°F . about 25 min. or until a knife inserted halfway between center and edge of custard comes out clean.
6. Set cups on wire rack to cool slightly. Refrigerate and serve when thoroughly cooled. Unmold if desired. Garnish with whipped cream. 8 to 10 servings

CHERYL MILLER:

She's Happy About Her "Bad Luck"

SHE GOT married on Friday the 13th (last December), broke her ankle in three places two days later (skiing), and was told her tv show ("Daktari") had been cancelled after four years.

But don't feel sorry for Cheryl Miller. She doesn't. "I literally worked all my life," she told me. "I need rest."

When Cheryl said "all her life," it wasn't just a figure of speech. "I got my social security card when I was 17 days old and had my first day in front of the cameras two days later. For five days I played the little baby boy in 'Casanova Brown,' who was swapped back and forth between Gary Cooper and Teresa Wright. When I was 28 days old, I went into 'Marriage Is a Private Affair.' I haven't stopped working since."

Not that her family had a theatrical background. Her father is an architect, and her mother used to work in the accounting department of Sears. It was a matter of circumstance. At the time of her birth (she is one of five children), her family was going through financial difficulties. Because her mother had trouble in the delivery, she had to stay in the hospital longer than expected. That meant they needed a nurse to look after Cheryl, a financial hardship the family could ill afford.

By chance, a movie company was looking for a baby who wouldn't cry a lot, and after they'd gone to half the hospitals in Los Angeles, they found Cheryl.

"Because I was a very passive baby, they asked my mother for permission to use me. She didn't mind because, in addition to furnishing a nurse, they also supplied a chauffeur car for me."

In spite of her constant involvement in show business, Cheryl led a remarkably normal life. She divided her free time among pet animals—including hamsters, white rats, lizards, chameleons, and a jarful of black widow spiders—studying the guitar and piano and eventually earning a B.A. and later an M.A. in music at UCLA.

She has worked hard all her life and now is married, so Cheryl's ambition in show business has diminished. The girl who once wanted to become a choral director in a church today considers her primary function in life to be a good wife, a competent homemaker, and eventually, mother.

Today her favorite leisure-time activity is skiing. She hopes to capitalize on it soon when she and her husband take groups of tourists to the Swiss Alps. The fact that her husband Stanley Miller, a stockbroker, also happens to be an expert skier didn't hurt their romance at all.

"I met Stanley through our next-door neighbor. He was going steady at the time, and I was too, but we kept running into each other at our neighbor's place, and soon he stopped seeing his girl, and I stopped seeing my fellow. And there you are."

She was in a state of shock about the "Daktari" cancellation when she fell down a flight of stairs, dislocated her shoulder, and broke two ribs. "It was at that point that Stanley decided we should get married. He said I couldn't go around being helpless, that I had to have someone to look after me. And now I'm glad it all turned out that way."

So you see, there's no need to feel sorry for Cheryl. Or, if suspect, "look after her."

Now...Denture Invention

For people with both "uppers" and "lowers"

The big difference between natural teeth and dentures is in performance. Natural teeth are held solidly in place by living connective tissue. Without connective tissue, even the most expensive dentures may slip and rock. Gums often get raw and sore. Constant rubbing may cause serious bone damage. Eating can be slow, painful. You speak less clearly. You dare not laugh for fear of dentures dropping.

Now chemists have developed an artificial connective membrane—FIXODENT. It connects dentures with gums and mouth surfaces. It is incredibly effective for both uppers and lowers. FIXODENT's elastic membrane absorbs the shock of biting and chewing helps protect gums from bruising and irritation. You eat faster—bite harder, without pain—enjoy your food more. Eat hard-to-chew foods—steaks, foods—prevent denture malnutrition, a problem of older people.

FIXODENT helps you speak easier, faster, more clearly. When dentures slip you hold them in place with tongue and cheek muscles that ache. FIXODENT helps prevent strain.

The special pencil-point dispenser spools FIXODENT with precision—no oozing over. Often lasts "round-the-clock." It even resists hot drinks. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get special FIXODENT at all drug counters.

THOSE HORRID

AGE SPOTS*

FADE THEM OUT

*Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old—perhaps before you really are. Fade them away with ESOTICHE, that medicinal cream that breaks down masses of pigment on the skin, helps make your skin look again. Equally effective on the face, neck and arms. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—on the granular, greasy base, for softening, lubricating skin as it clears up those blemishes. If you have these age-revealing brown spots, blotches, or if you want clearer, juicier skin, use ESOTICHE. At your favorite drug and toiletry counter. $2.00.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Do you create discomfort when dentures slip, slide or loosen? Just sprinkle a little PASTERTIN on your teeth. PASTERTIN is alkaline—frmer. You eat better, feel more comfortable. PASTERTIN is alkaline—won't sour. It helps check plaque odor. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get PASTERTIN at all drug counters.

TRAVEL

Countless Wonders

Castles and cottages, sport and theater—this St. Lawrence privately owned, but for the man who wants to get away from it all—and has the price, there are still islands for sale.

1000 Island Bridge affords panoramic view.

To get to Canada, the visitor crosses the Thousand Islands International Bridge between Collins Landing, N.Y., and Ivy Lea, Ontario. More than a million automobiles, mostly with tourists, roll over this 8½-mile-long skyway every year. From this scenic span, they can enjoy a breathtaking view of at least 200 of the islands. Fare—$1 one way; $1.60—roundtrip.

The Thousand Islands are a versatile tourist playground, with the deep-blue St. Lawrence a lively arena buzzing with activity. There are fishing and boating, sailing and water-skiing, boat tours at $5 for adults and $1.50 for children, moonlight cruises, and picnicking along the river's public beaches, and community pools. Golf courses abound.

There also are exciting boat and canoe races, fishing tournaments, swimming meets, and water-ski competitions. And when the city fathers run out of ideas, they invent new ones—such as raft racing. Anyone who can put together a contraption that floats and costs no more than $5 is eligible to enter.

In New York State and Ontario, the fishing season for pike and pickerel opens in May, and for black bass and muskellunge, in June. Nonresident license fees in the state are $4.25 for six days and $5.50 for the year; in Ontario, $4 for three days and $8.50 for the year. Fishing boats rent for about $5.50 per day with weekly rates starting at $17.50. Daily rates for guides are about $35.

Communities in the Thousand Islands try to outdo one another in staging special events and other forms of entertainment to please the tourists. Some are: International Highland Games between Alexander Bay and Clayton, Aug. 3; Antique Boat Show, Aug. 17 at Clayton, displaying everything from birchbark canoes to steam vessels; Centennial at Watertown; Pirates Weekend, Sept. 8-10, when a crew of cut-throat-awing buccanniers from King-

BOLDT CASTLE on Heart Island to love. It is located among the Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence River between New York State and Ontario.

George Boldt, a poor boy, came to the U.S. at the turn of the century. He became owner of New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Then he married, and for his bride he bought an island, reshaped it into a heart, and started building a castle. Mrs. Boldt died; work on the castle ceased, and the grieving husband fled the island and never returned.

The incomplete castle, on which $2 million had been spent, is the Thousand Islands' No. 1 tourist attraction. To its empty, marble halls each year come thousands of visitors at 80 cents a head.

The Thousand Islands, "showered" by the U.S. and Canada, actually number 1,780. An old-timer was heard to say, "I reckon that whoever named them got tired counting." Called Manitowans by the Indians (meaning Garden Place of the Great Spirit), they stretch 50 miles from Capa Vincent, N.Y., in the west, to Brockville, Ontario, in the east.

"Just Room Enough," owned by a minister; is one of the smallest islands. It has a cottage, a tree by the door, and a place to tie up a rowboat. The reverend can fish from his kitchen window.

Wellesley, one of the largest, supports a state park with swimming and camping facilities, a luxury hotel with an 18-hole golf course, bridle paths, a bathhouse, and a landing dock. Most of the islands are ton, Ontario, aboard two brigantines, will bombard and invade Alexandria Bay on the other side of the St. Lawrence.

Other tourist attractions are the zoo in Brockville; St. Lawrence Summer Playhouse, Gananoque; Children Never-Never Land at Sky Deck Tower, Hill Island; War of 1812 Battlefields, Sackets Harbor; Old Fort Henry with a scarlet-uniformed drill team and goat mascot, Kingston; Fisheries Research Station; and Tibbets Lighthouse, Cape Vincent.

The tourist has a wide selection of accommodations to choose from. There are luxury hotels and motels from $7 to $30 a day, and others are moderately priced; rooms for rent in tourist homes; housekeeping cottages that rent for around $75 a week; houseboats that sleep up to eight for $925 a week.

Campers at state or provincial trailer parks pay $1.75 a day, including use of electrical outlets.

"Just Room Enough." one of the small islands, has everything for vacationing.

The Thousand Islands are within a day's driving distance for some 96 million persons in the U.S. and Canada. About 85 percent of the tourists come by automobile. Others take buses and planes to Watertown, N.Y., and taxi or hire a car for the 25-mile ride from there to the Islands.

Even prayer is attractive to people visiting the Thousand Islands. There are many churches, but one in particular is popular among visitors of all faiths, the Interdenominational Church held under the skies at Half-Moon Bay, near Gananoque.

Boats become pews. Ministers deliver their sermons from a natural stone pulpit on shore. Prayer books and hymnals are passed out by ushers paddling around in canoes.

It's no gimmick. It's been going on for some 60 years.

AN ENGINEER'S INVENTION

The secret is a scientific spring action casting mechanism developed by a Tennessee Sportsman-Engineer. Called AUTOCAST this wonder-working fishing rod is the result of years of testing the most effective way of automatically casting lures to attract fish — and watching the fish react to each cast underneath the water. From these studies came AUTOCAST — the fishing rod that shoots like a gun. AUTOCASTS are now used by fishermen in 28 countries from the U.S. to Australia.

FORGET BACK CASTING FOREVER

Now! It is no longer necessary to go through the awkward motions of fish casting. The new AUTOCAST eliminates any danger

Medical World News considered AUTOCAST so relaxing for doctors they reported on it in detail.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Itching, loss of sleep and a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pinworms — a very parasitic medical ailment which afflicts 1 out of every 2 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pinworms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayno's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it.

First — a scientific formula carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayno's modern, medically approved ingredient goes to work — kills Pinworms quickly, easily, and painlessly.

Don't take chances with dangerously highly contagious Pinworms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayno's P-W Vermicide — the only guaranteed safe tablets — correct sizes for children and adults.
