STEWART UDALL

Spending Dispute Flares

By NORMAN KEMPSTER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall says the nation should start asking if a $1.8 billion nuclear aircraft carrier task force provides the security of the same money spent on law enforcement, education or smog control.
"We have a military juggernaut that moves forward with its own momentum to its own priorities," Udall told the Senate House committee Friday.
"There has never been a serious attempt, either in Congress or the administration to determine if a dollar spent by the military might have been more useful if it had been spent on a civilian project," Udall said.

"Congress must bear a heavy responsibility for its failure to provide a forum for such discussions," he said.
The subcommittee, headed by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is trying to provide just such a forum.
For four days this week, the committee listened to professors, senators, and past and present public officials in an effort to determine the effect of military spending on the national economy. It plans to hold five more hearings next week.
But Udall reminded the committee defense programs are handled by the Armed Services Committees of the Senate and House. He said these military-minded panels provide a very "cozy supervision" of the Pentagon.

The committees usually meet in secret and much of the information they receive is classified, he said.
Lawmakers, who are not members of the committees, he said, seldom have facts they need to question highly technical military programs and to determine which are vital to the national security and which are frills.
"It is a case of five (congressional) clerks against the Pentagon with all its computers," he said. "It is not surprising that Congress acted as a rubber stamp."
Udall urged President Nixon to take his cabinet to Camp David for two weeks to attempt to decide the relative importance of military and civilian programs competing for the same money.

More than 800 Lions from Southern Idaho and parts of Eastern Oregon attended the convention, which got under way Friday. It ended Saturday night.

Area High School Horsemen Compete In Annual Rodeo

FILER — High school students, looking like professional cowboys and cowgirls during Saturday's rodeo performances, enter their final hours of competition here today.
The last performance of the Fifth District High School Rodeo starts at 2 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club and 68 students from Magic Valley are in the rough-and-tumble competition.

Jake Pope of Twin Falls is rodeo producer.

Heart Ailment Fells Senator On Fishing Trip In Idaho

POCATELLO (UPI) — State Sen. Thomas McAteer, 61, a veteran employe of the Union Pacific Railroad, died Friday night from an apparent heart attack while on a fishing trip with his wife.
An urgent sportsman, McAteer was stricken as he stepped from his automobile at Blackfoot Reservoir. His wife, Wilma, rushed him to Caribou County Hospital at Soda Springs where he was pronounced dead.
McAteer was in his second term as a state senator. He served on the Education, Fish and Game and Local Government and Taxation Committees.
Served in the legislature for his outspokenness, McAteer was born March 2, 1908, in Denver, the son of Charles and Katharine McAteer.
He came to Pocatello as an child with his family and attended St. Joseph's grade school and high school and the Southern Branch of Idaho State — the forerunner of Idaho State University.
The legislator worked for short time for the state of Idaho and then went to work with Union Pacific Railroad as a traveling secretary. He transferred to the linemen's department and three years ago was named as chief clerk to the terminal superintendent.
McAteer was married in 1934. McAteer's colleagues from the legislature in the Pocatello area paid high tributes to the senator Saturday.
State Rep. Carl C. Hopkins, D-Pocatello, said, "I'm sure everyone everywhere will miss Tom and his fight for the little people."
His successor will be appointed by Gov. Don Samuelson.

T.F. Woman Badly Hurt In Car Wreck

DILLON, Colo. (UPI) — A Twin Falls, Idaho woman was killed in critical condition Saturday at a Denver hospital from injuries sustained in a traffic accident which killed her mother.
Mrs. Magdon Haskett of Twin Falls was killed as the driver of a car which struck a rock in the roadway while traveling on a downgrade in a westbound lane of the highway. The car crossed the highway, plunged down an embankment, flew through the air for 60 feet and rolled over, coming to rest on its side. The accident occurred about seven miles east of Dillon.
Mrs. Haskett's mother, Mrs. Helen Wilson of Pocatello, was killed in the wreck, police said. Mrs. Wilson was the mother of 10 children, including Mrs. Ron Ellis, wife of the Pocatello superintendent of schools.

2 Die In Magic Valley Traffic Accidents; County Coroner Asks For Probe

A Filer man saw his wife die in a one-car accident Saturday evening just east of Twin Falls. A second one-car accident claimed the life of a Texas resident Saturday morning, as the 1959 Magic Valley traffic toll climbed to 22.
The victims: Mrs. Hazel Rae Bowen, 46, Filer, wife of James Bowen, a Ramondo Rico, about 25, Hidalgo, Tex.
Mrs. Bowen died after her car went out of control and rolled near the KFI radio tower on Highway 30 west of Twin Falls. The auto hit the curb three times before smashing through a large billboard and coming to a stop on its top in a ditch at the side of the road. Her husband, in a car in front, saw the accident through his rear view mirror. She was thrown from the car.
Officers said Mr. and Mrs. Bowen had been traveling by side on the four-lane Highway 30 east of Twin Falls, at about 50 miles per hour, Mr. Bowen had just pulled ahead of his wife when he saw her car swerved out of control.

Twin Falls County sheriff's office investigated the crash and said it was a known what caused the car to fishtail out of control for nearly 500 feet before it crashed.
Mr. Rico's car went onto the shoulder of the road at a point two miles east of the Hansen Bridge on Interstate 80N. He was a transient worker and was resting in Rupert. When his car rolled he was thrown from the vehicle.
He was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he died nine hours after the mishap. Twin Falls County Coroner Clyde Edwards said he has ordered an autopsy to determine cause of death.
X-rays revealed that Mrs. Bowen's death was caused by

Class Of '69

None too envious a task is that of the current college commencement orator. Unlike his predecessors of years ago, he can have no easy formula for living. He is nervously aware that from his young auditors the old graduation clichés might evoke only mirth or pity. What the overwhelming majority of these young graduates seek is not so much admiration as encouragement to go out and take their part in reshaping a world whose future fills the ablest statesmen with deep concern. American youth has always given a magnificent account of itself. It will do no less in the future.

This year's output of the nation's colleges, men and women alike, realizes that the problems that beset the United States are formidable. From their commencement halls they will carry away, no doubt, some stimulus to their solution. This will be operative long after the speakers' words, as such, are forgotten. Truly marvelous is the adaptability of youth in its twenties. Sound at heart and eager to find their places in life; these young people do not know the fears that beset some of their elders. They face the future boldly.

Maritime Headache

Each year, while the maritime fleets of many other industrialized nations expand their activities and add either one another for a greater share of world business, the American fleet becomes further submerged in its own antiquity and rising costs. Judging by demands now being made by maritime unions, the trend will not be reversed in the near future. The Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, started its bargaining session with management by declaring that all present "inequities" would have to be eliminated before it would agree to talk about a new contract. The inequities, of course, would be denied by the union.

Three other unions, representing radium, and making demands which shipowners estimate would add 40 to 50 per cent to wage costs over a three-year period. Wages are not the only issue, but no one has attempted to add up the cost of the various changes unions are demanding. Most of the demands, it should be noted, are being made against freight carriers. The passenger fleet already is in a moribund state. The unions have agreed to extend the June 15 strike deadline, but only if they are satisfied with the state of the negotiations by then.

Self-Help Projects

A social development scheme called the Penny Foundation doesn't sound like a very pretentious enterprise. The way Sam Greene, the founder, sees it, it doesn't have to be. The retired New York management consultant decided nine years ago there was a better way of creating hope for the economically depressed people of the world than giving away millions of dollars, and he set out to prove it. His plan has not turned Latin America — the locale he chose for his experiment — into a land of riches, but Greene can point to a record of accomplishment for dollar invested superior to that of the Alliance for Progress or any other largesse government program. The Penny Foundation operates on the premise that no matter how poor a person may be, he would rather contribute something to his own self-improvement than accept progress in the form of a handout.

When Greene finds a Latin community which wants some improvement (he doesn't tell them what they should have), he figures its cost per family in pennies. If the townspeople agree, they supply the manual labor and he supplies the capital. A new water system in a small town in Guatemala costs $1,500, but until Greene figured a way for each of the 47 families to pay for it at the rate of three cents a day, the project was out of reach of the poor town. There is a philosophy behind the Penny Foundation which reaches far beyond the poor people of Guatemala.

MR. SPECTATOR

Think You Are Smart?

Like most people, Mr. Spectator is one of those individuals who has a hard time figuring out where he will be tomorrow, let alone a month or so from now. And when it comes to bringing it right down to the minute that is something else again. Likewise it is difficult to figure out how anybody can figure out how to meet the moon, moon and back, let alone announcing the exact minute they will land, when they will do while they are there, when they will return and where — all this days and days in advance of the actual operation. Take, for instance, the latest communication Mr. Spectator received from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. What they have figured out makes you realize how little we, as individuals, really know.

Instruments for measuring seismic activity. "Armstrong and Aldrin are to leave the Moon at 12 noon EDT July 21, rejoin the Command Module and complete the eight-day mission with splashdown in the Pacific Ocean at 12:52 p.m. July 24, for a total ground elapsed time of 195 hours, 20 minutes and 42.2 seconds." "All of the Apollo 11 crew members are veterans of the two-man Gemini space flight series flown during 1965-66. Backup crew members are USN Capt. James A. Lovell, USAF Lt. Col. William A. Anders and civilian Fred W. Haise. Lovell and Anders, both Gemini veterans, were Command Module and Lunar Module Pilot, respectively, on the Moon-circling Apollo 8 mission last December. Haise has not flown in space. "Probable touchdown point for the Apollo 11 LM is Landing Site 2, located in the southwest corner of the Moon's Sea of Tranquility, which was photographed by the Apollo 10 crew from an altitude of about 50,000 feet.

"We quote from part of the communication received from those having to do with the planned Apollo 11 flight — the Moon landing operation. "The preliminary flight plan for the Apollo 11 lunar landing mission, scheduled for launch no earlier than July 16, calls for touchdown on the Moon at 2:22 p.m. EDT July 20. "Nine hours and 60 minutes later — at 12:12 a.m. July 21 — Apollo 11 Commander Neil A. Armstrong, 38, is to step onto the Moon's surface. "Subject to change before launch, the tentative time line for Apollo 11 has been announced by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. While the Command Module Pilot, USAF Lt. Col. Michael Collins, 38, orbits the Moon, Armstrong and USAF Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., 39, lunar Module Pilot, will gather up 50 pounds of surface lunar surface materials for return to Earth. "They are also scheduled to make photographs and leave an experimental package on the Moon which will include a laser reflector and PARIS — A trip to Europe is especially good for the American soul these days. It is a reminder, in awful 1969, that we didn't invent riots and student unrest but inherited them from our forefather continent, where they have been a way of life since medieval times. In France, whose people still cling to the traditional belief that all Americans are amiable barbarians, the tourist is pleased to encounter a self-conscious attitude toward the virtually unremittent misbehavior of French students. "They perhaps have a cause," admitted one French Journalist, "but they are not good for our civilized image." For once, it seems, Frenchmen did it a little harder to look down their noses at us red-blooded Americans. Since misery still loves company, there is another bonus for the visitor from Washington. Even Holland, hitherto noted for its tulips and its autocratic parents and bureaucrats, is having trouble with the economically unwashed and the school-kids. On the surface, Holland seemed much the serenely same when PanAm put down its cargo of D-Day newspapers in Amsterdam. The city still looks like an unrequited picture of its turn-of-the-century self. But trouble has been bubbling up to the surface amidst the tulips and the chilly but happy tourists, and it has erupted into two ugly riots in the past 30 days. The reasons are as different as possible — The Netherlands' royal house and poverty.

The Paris riots of a year ago. A few of the gendarmes were killed by rocks hurled by the enemy, but most of the casualties were students. Then on Sunday, May 11, Dutch television put on a documentary dealing with the poverty-stricken families that live in the so-called "Krot" in the capital city of The Hague. These fifteen thousand families live in the Hague's Krot, which in fact is luxury compared with most slums in Italy and Eastern Europe — and for that matter, some neighborhoods in American cities. But the documentary, made by a cameraman who lived for three weeks in the Krot, inflamed both the poor and the students. Rioting went on for two days and nights, causing property damage estimated at nearly $1 million. Again the cops won the battle, but the students' loss of honor was so great that there will be more rioting until the government approves appropriations to rebuild Holland. Inland Dutch politicians have not yet been intimidated by the teen-age set. It was, therefore, pretty funny to see a picture on student heads with long rubber truncheons, and overburdened barricades — with the help of special new police — that suggest that they look to their own problems.

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH Sweden, The "Cop-Out" Haven

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration strongly disapproves of Sweden's harboring of U. S. military deserters and defectors and has forcefully made that known to the Swedish government. But beyond voicing strenuous disapproval, the U. S. is in no position to retaliate for two reasons. Swedish law expressly prohibits extradition for military offenses; and there is no treaty between the two countries that deals with this particular problem. That's what Rep. John Rarick, D-La., has been informed by Assistant Secretary of State William Macomber in reply to a sharp letter demanding stern action against Sweden for providing a haven for U. S. military "cop-outs."

sanctions and other retaliatory measures are inadvisable. He counseled Sweden's harboring of U. S. military deserters and defectors and has forcefully made that known to the Swedish government. But beyond voicing strenuous disapproval, the U. S. is in no position to retaliate for two reasons. Swedish law expressly prohibits extradition for military offenses; and there is no treaty between the two countries that deals with this particular problem. That's what Rep. John Rarick, D-La., has been informed by Assistant Secretary of State William Macomber in reply to a sharp letter demanding stern action against Sweden for providing a haven for U. S. military "cop-outs."

Sweden is neutral when it serves its own purpose, and the opposite when it doesn't. As I understand it, Sweden is supposed to be neutral in this Nigerian situation, but bombing Nigerian cities and airfields is providing a haven for U. S. deserters and draft dodgers. If that isn't international hypocrisy, I don't know what is.

In school, he believed, his teachers, too, were only interested in his intelligence, and not in him. There was no emphasis on wisdom, on judgment, of values — only in intellectual gymnastics. Many of his subjects were in fields where "intelligence" was largely the interpretation of teachers. Frequently, what was valued was not his verbal aptitude and his ability to reflect the attitudes and particular prejudices of his teachers. Why was I given such high grades in my school, in wonderment, when I was so sick? With all this, this militant did not feel he had any personal relationship with anyone — or with reality. So, he said, "I was attracted to communism because Communists said they needed their people to be poor (like Castro) and still be positive toward Cuba, because their young people chop sugar, go into the mountains, and teach illiterate children..." ART BUCHWALD About The Overrun Playgrounds

WASHINGTON — The District of Columbia almost had a crisis on Memorial Day weekend. The recreation department of the city decided not to open the 15 municipal swimming pools because the department did not have the funds. Mayor Walter Washington, who was informed of the decision by newspaper reporters, angrily ordered the pools opened and said he'd get the money somewhere. Since Congress is in charge of the city's budget, the mayor's request would not be met. The reason is that Mayor Washington will probably appeal to Congress for funds for recreation facilities on the grounds that he needs the money to cool off the summer and give the kids in the district something to do to keep them out of trouble. "My friend Doyle believes this type of appeal is a waste of time. "Congress can't get excited about such arguments," he said. "They've got much bigger fish to fry." "But what's the solution?" "The solution to Washington's recreational budget problem can be found in the Defense Department," Doyle said. "Congress is constantly telling the city it has to live within its budget. If it does out X amount of dollars, then the district shouldn't come back and ask for X." "That makes fiscal sense," I said. "It does," said Doyle. "In every department but one to me. What is the most popular word in the military — industrial complex?" "Exactly. Whenever a defense contractor finds that it's going to cost him more money to make something than he originally thought it would cost, he charges it to overrun. This is something Congress and a certain number of people in this country expect to fund." Doyle said that he would like to see the price be originally bid to win the contract. "Of course not," I said. "OK," Doyle said. "Congress is getting used to overruns. One hundred million dollars here, $500 million there, a billion dollars somewhere else. It is all part of the game." "But what has that got to do with Mayor Washington?" "Instead of the mayor going up to the Hill and pleading his financial needs for extra money to see him through the long, hot summer, he should go up there and proudly announce he's had an overrun on the recreation program of $10 million and apologize to Congress that

It wasn't more." "Would Congress go for it?" "Of course if the mayor explained it. He could say the overrun was caused by inflation, spare parts for recreation centers, labor problems and mistakes made in his department in estimating the recreational needs of the district." Doyle said speaking their language would be a big help. "The mayor could continue by warning that Moscow now has more playgrounds than Washington and the playground gap might become insurmountable by 1975." "Why, it's the old Soviet gap," Doyle said. "Right. When Congress hears that Moscow is building more playgrounds, it will not only demand parity but superiority in the building of playgrounds. The mayor will not get his money, but they'll insist he take more than he needs." Doyle said that he would like to see the price be originally bid to win the contract. "Of course not," I said. "OK," Doyle said. "Congress is getting used to overruns. One hundred million dollars here, $500 million there, a billion dollars somewhere else. It is all part of the game." "But what has that got to do with Mayor Washington?" "Instead of the mayor going up to the Hill and pleading his financial needs for extra money to see him through the long, hot summer, he should go up there and proudly announce he's had an overrun on the recreation program of $10 million and apologize to Congress that Individual doctors are adored by their patients, but as a bunch they are no respect. Now, they collectively, are getting another screaming as a result of a mushrooming Medicare scandal. A Miami osteopath is accused of collecting Medicare payments totaling $285,586 in one year. Two brothers in New Jersey are said to have collected $373,000 from Medicare for patient care in nursing homes they own. The "secret government list" made available to Congress identifies (without naming them) 350,000 of the nation's $50,000 a year in Medicare. Our Senate Finance Committee quite rightly wants to know whether the taxpayers are getting their money's worth from the $9 billion in Medicare payments for health care for the elderly. At the same time, and for the same reason, the tax-financed, Medicare program is being investigated by Congress under the Medicare program. Congress hears that there are thousands of doctors, dentists, optometrists and others who are getting Medicare for a nominal amount from the Medicare program. And the medical profession, per se — including the AMA — allows its reimbursement to build like a mass confession of guilt. "Somebody should be on the stump for the Medicare program replying to these accusations and allegations. The Ohio State Medical Assn. was one of the principal respondents when the scandal broke. With a united and impressive voice, that state's doctors — with the support of the AMA — publicly called for an immediate congressional investigation of this situation. RAY CROMLEY The "Recipe"

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some most revealing things came out in a recent private, very personal discussion between a former student militant extremist and a friend. In the conversation this young man, who had worked with the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), said: "After having sat inactive, internally and externally, in school and outside most of my life, I could not picket, distribute leaflets, run off to Washington, work and talk with people all over the country, as if I had a connection with other people. I felt I was doing that or remaining... inept, selfish, bored, listless and friendless... I felt if I would stop fighting I would disappear, because my stake and claim to life would disappear with it. But in the movement there was always a stake, a claim to get involved in and couldn't let my involvement stop... "We had teach-ins. And in protest against the draft... We had a sit-in, sleep-in. We all slept together in the president's office on his rug... Later that week, I and a few other members of SDS went to confront the president in his office. I was aware of the fact that with me, and many other leftists, if we were granted what we wanted, we would not be happy. We could no longer protest. We would be useless. We would be nothing... We would be nothing... This young man went on to say he had never really belonged to anything. He said he needed to help a part of something, to hold hands with others, to do something. He believed, rightly or wrongly, that his parents had only been interested in pushing his intelligence, his grades in school, his going to a good college and then they had no relationship with him as a person. In school, he believed, his teachers, too, were only interested in his intelligence, and not in him. There was no emphasis on wisdom, on judgment, of values — only in intellectual gymnastics. PAUL HARVEY Doctors Don't Doctors Don't for proper investigation of any such allegation, both to punish the guilty and to clear the innocent. It is extremely unfortunate some similar statement was not forthcoming from their national association. When the charges hit the front page, the physicians concerned earned more than $25,000 each from Medicare last year — somebody should have explained that the gross income of a physician is not the same as a net income. His average 40 to 45 per cent overhead. Nobody did. And while Congress is seeking leaks, the biggest leak of all is in the government's own administration of Medicare. If you insure yourself with a private company, your benefits amount to 82 to 85 cents of every dollar in benefits. But nationally, for the first 18 months of Medicare, Part B, for every $8 paid in each month for each year, only $4.25 was paid out in benefits — only 46.25 per cent. What happened to $3.75 out of every $8? Handling charges. Doctors didn't get those dollars; bureaucrats did. And the medical profession, per se — including the AMA — allows its reimbursement to build like a mass confession of guilt. "Somebody should be on the stump for the Medicare program replying to these accusations and allegations. The Ohio State Medical Assn. was one of the principal respondents when the scandal broke. ## Play Ball? Which Way's First Base?

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

Baseball may still be America's number one sport, but the boys who practice every other week night at Harrison School don't know this yet.

"They are 6 and 7 years old, and most of them don't know a baseball from a turp. This doesn't slow the action, however. And they are learning quickly.

Take a recent night for example. "Go out and take first," the coach told one youngster in that three sizes too large.

The youth obediently followed the coach's pointing finger and walked directly to the school building, several hundred yards away.

"Get back here," the coach yelled. The boy returned and when asked, said with a puzzled expression, "I have to go to the ballroom."

The coach then got the boys all on base, placed the fielders in the right spots, and let a skinny 7-year-old hit a few from a rubber-hitting stake.

The boy swung, and missed the stationary ball. He tried again, connected, and turned to the coach smiling.

"Run to first, run!" the coach yelled.

The boy took off at a half trot. Meanwhile, seven infielders and six outfielders converged on the slowly rolling baseball. There was some confusion. Several bruises later a ball came out of the crowd and fell in a long loop toward second base, where the running hitter was now headed.

"Tag him out, tag him out," the coach yelled.

The second baseman — one of them anyway — dutifully approached the base and the oncoming runner, took aim and with all his might smashed the runner right on the chest with the ball.

"Yuk!" the coach said. One boy had been getting advanced instruction from his mother before reporting to practice. He knew what to do. Approaching the hitting stake, he smashed one deep into left field. The coach didn't have to tell him to run. The boy took off like a shot — headed straight for the pitcher's mound.

"Another lad, who can hit the ball well, was told he might be the clean up hitter. The boy looked confused. His mother said, "That sounds kind of nasty to me."

The coach wandered off, mumbling something about the weather.

"Wait 'til next year," someone said.

"The season hasn't even started yet," a mother offered, hope in her eyes.

"It can wait," she was told.

Trip? Nope!

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (UPI) — Even the prospect of a trip to Washington cannot make the West Newbury selectmen put aside their Yankee thrift.

The selectmen were invited to dispatch one of their number to Washington to meet with Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke for a discussion of local programs.

They decided against it. "We didn't think the expense would be justified by whatever was learned from such a discussion," explained Selectman James Blingham.

Space Agency Cites Hazard Of Shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Apollo 7 spacecraft with three astronauts aboard had just lifted off at Cape Kennedy, suddenly, at Mission Control, the power line surged. Then there was a blackout.

For two interminably long minutes there was no power.

Finally, power was restored. Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA's associate administrator for manned spaceflight, told of the "harrowing experience in 1968" in testimony made public today by a House appropriations subcommittee.

Mueller testified April 15 during a closed hearing at which the subcommittee was considering the budget request of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Mueller asked for funds to provide backup electrical power.

at request for $1.75 million for power and other utility service to the Manned Spacecraft Center (MSC).

The goal is to have "nonintermittible" power sources," said Mueller.

Navy Confirms Drug Use By Personnel At NRTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Capt. W.F. Busik, an information officer at the Navy Bureau of Personnel, has confirmed an investigation is underway into the use of marijuana and LSD among students at Navy nuclear power school at Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Busik said 32 students who admitted to taking or who are suspected of using drugs had been transferred from the school. He said 10 men were still under investigation by the Navy intelligence service and eight had been cleared by the inquiry which started with the arrest of one student May 8. Busik said information from the incomplete investigation indicated that not more than 43 men were involved. Because of the results at Idaho Falls, Busik said the investigation had spread to other bases where the suspected users had been prior to their assignment to the power school. Busik said the 32 men who had transferred from the school had either admitted using drugs, were suspected of using them, or had concealed information about use by others.

He said the Navy's policy on the use of such drugs as LSD and marijuana generally was one of lenience toward those who were caught experimenting with them for the first time. Habitual users were discharged, he said.

$375,000 Suit Filed In Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Truck driver Blair M. Manwill, Boise, has brought suit against the Boise Independent School District and other defendants for $375,000 as the result of a fatal truck-school bus collision May 15.

Manwill alleges that the school bus involved in the collision with the truck he was driving was unfit for the road and constituted a menace in traffic. His complaint described the vehicle as a "defective, inherently dangerous vehicle, unsafe to be driven upon the roads and highways."

Michael Rea, 6, a school bus passenger, died in the collision at Glenwood and Highway 20. Rea's father, sixty other persons were hurt in the accident. Besides the school district, Manwill, who still is hospitalized for treatment of injuries received in the crash, named the Boise School Bus Co., the Ford Motor Co., B&D Automotive of Boise and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co. as defendants.

He also named several individuals as defendants. They are John R. Davidson of Boise School Bus Co.; School Supt. T. C. Bird; bus driver Barry Allen Jenkins; his supervisor, Ronald James Gabriel; school trustees Lucy Daines, Dale O. Morgan, William J. Ewing, Marilee Gross, Robert L. Hendrix Jr., Glenn A. Lundgren, and Marshall Neal Newhouse; Donald H. Larson and Bill L. Dunn of B&D Automotive, and also John R. Davidson. Manwill contends that both Rea and Gabriel were unqualified for their jobs. He alleges that Jenkins "was for the first time in his career as an operator of a motor vehicle and driving a school bus with school children aboard."

SDS Draws Veto On Conclave Bid

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Colorado State University officials have rejected a bid by the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) to hold its national convention here.

Dr. A. R. Chamberlain, president-elect of the school, cited the group's record of "disruption and violence" in turning down the request. "The record of disruption and violence associated with national SDS meetings speak even more eloquently than the pronouncement and advocacy of national SDS leaders for the destruction of American higher education," Chamberlain said Thursday.

Tom Wynman, faculty adviser for SDS at CSU said he was disappointed at the ruling. "If universities are supposed to be such citadels of reason, surely they could not object to a group of students spending a week or so discussing the future not only of higher education in America, but also the future of America itself," Wynman said.

LOOKING-SKEPTICAL AS the director of admissions, at the College of Southern Idaho plans her summer schedule is Wilma Patterson, 20, a sophomore sociology major from Casleford, G. R. Meyerhoeffer, director of admissions and records, said that although summer school registration is below the anticipated number, it already far exceeds, at 480 students, the 375 that registered last summer. Registration for summer classes closes June 10.

36 To Instruct Summer Classes At CSI

Thirty-six faculty members are teaching summer classes at the College of Southern Idaho ranging from the history of civilization to first aid. Creative writing, organic chemistry and landscape watercolor painting are other examples from the 66 courses offered in 12 major fields of study.

As of Thursday evening 480 students had registered for one or more of the 66 classes being offered from June 2 to August 1 in CSI's summer school.

Although classes started Monday of this week, registration will continue through June 10 to enable those coming home from other schools to enter classes without paying a late registration fee.

"We had anticipated an enrollment of nearly 600 students, but the 480 we now have far exceeds the 375 students enrolled last summer," says G. R. Meyerhoeffer, Director of Admissions and Records.

Last summer 44 classes were offered. This year there are 60 academic classes and six work-shops offered.

"Registration for the work-shops, which begin in July and last about one month, will continue until July 8," he added.

U. S. Agrees To Continue Leasing Bases In Spain

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States, after months of sticky negotiations with Spain, has agreed to lease military bases on Spanish soil for another two years.

Terms of the agreement were disclosed Thursday by Sen. J. William Fulbright after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee heads met behind closed doors with State Department officials, including U. Alexis Johnson, undersecretary for political affairs.

Although the Arkansas Democrat refused to disclose exactly how much the United States had agreed to pay for the right to operate two air bases and one submarine base in Spain, he said the figure was well below the $125 million offer Washington reportedly made several weeks ago.

There were reports the two countries had settled on $50 million over the two-year period and Fulbright said the agreement included a loan to the Spanish government from the Export-Import Bank for weapons purchases in the United States.

A formal signing of the lease extension was expected within a few days unless Congress voices objection to it and votes to strike rental funds from the foreign aid bill.

The Spanish government originally sought a five-year extension of the agreement and asked a total of $1 billion. The United States first offered $140 million. When officials in Madrid reduced their demand to $300 million, Washington raised its offer to $175 million for five years.

At that point negotiations reached an impasse and the agreement, first signed in 1953, was extended for six months after it expired Sept. 26. When that six-month period lapsed Spain told the United States to withdraw within one year from the bases involved: Torrejon and Moron airfields, near Madrid and Seville, and the important naval base at Rota, near Cadiz.

Parked Cars Are Hit In Jerome

Police estimated damage at $50 to the Thorpe car, $100 to the Pontiac and $50 to the Ford. No citations were issued.

Mrs. Overturf T.F. Youth Picked To Go Heads Hailey, To Philmont Scout Camp

Bellevue PTA

HAILEY—Mrs. Glen F. Overturf, Bellevue, is the newly elected president of the Hailey Bellevue PTA.

Other officers elected at the final meeting of the year include Wilbur H. Bell, Hailey; first vice president; Janet Cochran, Bellevue, second vice president; Mrs. A. E. Richards, Hailey; secretary; and Mrs. Merle Porter, Hailey, treasurer.

Lifetime memberships were conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Mark Patterson who have taught in Carey, Bellevue and Hailey schools for many years. Mr. Patterson served as Blaine county school superintendent for several years.

Members of the organization will move playground equipment from the old school grounds to the new school.

Several instrumental solos by junior high school music students, under the direction of instructor Richard Price, provided entertainment.

David Hammond, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hammond, 220 Caswell Ave. W., has been selected to attend the Philmont Scout Range, Cimarron, N.M.

The scholarship he received will cover his expenses for a junior leader instructor training course which will be held June 1-25. He received the grant from the State-Roberts Foundation.

Young Hammond is an Eagle Scout from Troop 65, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church. He is one of 28 scouts from the Pacific Northwest selected to attend the conference.

The Scouts will travel through Utah, Colorado and New Mexico en route and returning from the session.

Dart Glead, Snake River Area Council Scout executive, said the boys are chosen on the basis of their leadership qualities and Scout activities. He said when the Scout returns from the course he will work in the council's training program.

He said enrollment is not as large as in past years, but the following classes are being offered: U.S. History I; U.S. History II; Government; World Problems; General English; Review of Algebra and Geometry; General Mathematics; and Physical Fitness.

Classes in General Science, Typing II, Personal Typing and Arts and Crafts will not be offered due to lack of student enrollment.

The first period class will be from 7:30 a.m.; second period from 8:30-10 a.m., and third period from 10-11:30 a.m.

All driver training classes will be conducted at O'Leary Junior High School starting at 8 a.m. Monday. Students who are registered for driver training should report to O'Leary Junior High School.

Mr. Lawrence said registration for the summer school class will continue until noon Friday.

Work Wanted

SHOSHONE—Two Shoshone girls, Debbie Palmer and Janet Jacobsen, plan to attend the LDS Church MIA June Conference and participate in the dance festival there on June 26.

To raise money for the trip, the girls are offering their services for baby sitting, house cleaning or yard work. Mrs. Dallas Ward, who served as their MIA President the past year, recommends the girls be contacted by interested persons.

Degree Awarded

LOMA LINDA—Call—A Buhl man, Dr. George L. Wonsenberg, has received his doctor of dental surgery degree from Loma Linda University.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wonsenberg of Route 4, Buhl. He is one of 56 school of dentistry seniors who graduated here last week.

Draft Board To Seek Deferment

OREGON CITY (UPI)—The Oregon City Selective Service Board has canceled a June 23 preinduction physical examination for Dennis Wright, 19, of Boring.

Two of Wright's brothers have died in Vietnam.

The board has asked Wright to appear June 10, "to see what we can do for him," Chairman William C. Perry Jr. said.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright of Boring lost an older son, a Marine, George H., in Vietnam in May, 1967. A second son, Sp5c4 James Wright, was killed May 31 of this year.

Perry said the case was not covered under the law which prohibits drafting a sole surviving son because the Wrights have a fourth son, Gary, 12, at home.

"But it seems to me that the loss of two sons in two years is a hardship that deserves the consideration of the board," Perry said.

Dennis Wright must now apply for a hardship deferment before the board can act, Perry said.

'Toothpick'

The huge log which the Oregon Jaycees are transporting East for the national Jaycee convention, will be on display at noon Sunday in Hartman Park.

The Douglas Fir log is said to have enough wood for a modern three-bedroom home.

JANITRESS AT ISU. Mrs. Wilma Jones, has been named Idaho's Outstanding Woman Employee of the Year. Mrs. Jones, who prefers to call herself a "scrubwoman," will receive an award June 20 from Gov. Don Samuelson at a banquet at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley. Shown here with Mrs. Jones is Art Busaker, president of the Idaho State Employees Association regional chapter and custodial supervisor of ISU. The plaque is one presented earlier in the year to Mrs. Jones for being named Gateway Chapter winner.

ISU "Scrubwoman" Gets State Award

IDAHO STATE UNIVERSITY, Pocatello—In a nation of fancy job titles, it's refreshing to hear Idaho's Outstanding Woman Employee of the year refer to herself as a "scrubwoman."

Mrs. Wilma Jones, for 12 years a janitress at ISU, won the title in competition with employees in state jobs all over Idaho.

Mrs. Jones says she doesn't know why she won the honor—but speech and drama faculty and students in Frazier Hall know exactly why she deserves the honor. She's been part of the speech and drama action for so long, they say, that the department just couldn't function without her.

According to Donald Asboe, assistant professor of speech and drama, "Wilma is Frazier Hall. Her wonderful sense of humor, exceptional warmth and compassion, keep the staff in running order."

The janitress is regarded by speech and drama students as their second mother because she does so much for them, Mr. Asboe said.

He recalls a desperate student who was looking for someone to take the female lead in a play for a drama direction class. Mrs. Jones agreed to take the part. "Wilma starred," Mr. Asboe said. "We found her to be a fine actress and the student received an excellent grade." She also has addressed a class on semantics. Her subject: the cleanliness of pigs.

City Council Of Shoshone Hears Reports

SHOSHONE — A study of House Bill No. 304 governing the increase in taxes was explained to city councilmen at their meeting this week by City Attorney Stephen W. Bolter.

Since the increase in allowance is only 4 per cent, and the city budget and appropriation ordinance for 1968 was to raise $34,862.81, this means only $23,818.60 can be permitted under this bill. There must be either a special levy election or an appeal made to the state tax department. Otherwise, the budget will have to be trimmed to meet the amount, Mr. Bolter said.

Bids on a tractor and sweepers were received from Elliott's Inc., on a John Deere for $4,140 and Reed Tractor Co. on a Case for $4,800. After consideration of the budget they were all rejected.

A preliminary report of Smith and Jewel engineers for a sewer was submitted and approved. A resolution was passed authorizing the mayor and clerk to make application for federal assistance in public work and facility type projects and for sewage treatment works. They approved the suggestion that options be secured for easements and necessary land for a lagoon site.

The cable TV ordinance was read for the third time and adopted. This will be effective after publication.

Building permits were issued to Arthur Reed Newby and Gilbert Pierson for remodeling and to Leo Senten for a new home. An amount of $150 was approved for the city's share of the cost of fireworks for the July celebration.

Approval was also given on continuation of a swimming program for the city, with lessons read for the third time and adopted. This will be effective after publication.

When a definite time is set for pool use, registration will start.

Fish Dinner Report Given At Hagerman

HAGERMAN — A report on the recent "fish dinner" sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce at the American Legion hall was given at the meeting of the Chamber this week.

Proceeds from the dinner will go toward purchasing Christmas lights for the city. The local Lions Club is also working on this project.

John LeMoine, chamber president, announced the Antique Festival Theatre will give a special performance, sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce, at the Hagerman city park, Labor Day.

This production, in the open air under the stars, will require special staging and sound. The group will present "The Death and Life of Snaky Fitch." Tickets for the event are on sale now through the local chamber. Season tickets which will enable theatergoers to attend six performances of the Antique Festival Theatre during their summer season are also available.

Plans for entering a float in the annual Pioneer Day parade were discussed.

There will be no general meeting of the Chamber during July. A potluck supper is planned for the August meeting with fried chicken to be furnished.

Personal OPINION

QUESTION

Do you think it is a good idea for the city to lease Dierke's Lake? Why or why not?

LOCATION

Interviews in this case were taken in the Idaho Department Store.

ANSWERS

JIM PETERSON: "No, I don't. I think it would be too heavily controlled if the city is to operate the area."

BOB LOZANO: "I approve of anything to improve recreation areas or beautify them, and I would be in favor of this."

CHERI BROWN: "No, I don't think so. I like the way it is operated now."

KEN DRURY: "I think it is a good idea, if the city can clean it up and keep it in good shape. It would be a good recreation area."

Peterson Lozano Brown Drury

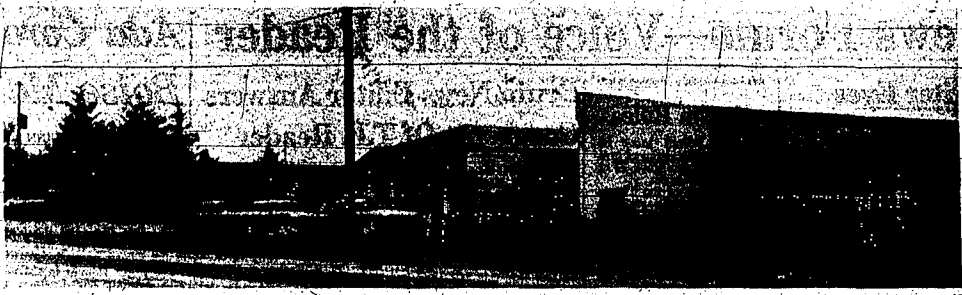

Featherston Craggs Massey Curlew

DICK FEATHERSTON: Yes, I am in favor of this. A city this size needs more accessible recreation areas for its people and the tourists."

JOY CRAGGS: "Yes, I think it would be a good idea. We need something like it here—a good recreation area close to the city."

JOHN MASSEY: "Yes, I like the idea very much. I like the idea of the public owning its own recreation areas and preserving them. Combining this with the Shoshone Falls Park we would have a tremendous recreation area."

DENNIS CURLEW: "Yes, I approve of this if they (the city) will develop the road and maintain the area. It is an excellent water sport area."

Anderson Lumber Co. Plans Grand Opening June 12-14

Anderson Lumber Co. will hold its grand opening at its new location on Addison Avenue East June 12-14. The firm recently sold its old property at 132 Third St. W. to the Times-News and built the new lumber yard. It is located just east of the intersection of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue East.

The yard was built on a five-acre piece of property. Although the present yard covers only about one and one-fourth acres, the firm plans to use the rest of the property for future expansion.

Robt. Mayer, manager, said customers will find a great deal more parking space than at the old location. Mr. Mayer has been manager of the business for the past five and a half years.

Contractors for the new buildings were W. R. Hafer, Earl Peck, Ben Walton and J. A. Clawson.

Mr. Mayer said the new store is carrying some additional lines. They have utensils, household cleaning supplies, small electrical appliances, farm hardware and they have a larger line of building supplies, hardware, tools and power tools. He said they also will be employing two additional people soon. They offer a complete home remodeling consulting service, with one individual specializing in kitchens.

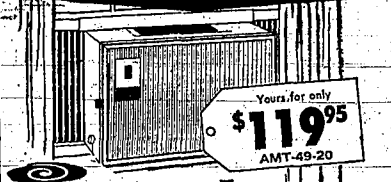

Anderson Lumber Co. has been in existence for 78 years and operates nine lumber yards in Utah and Idaho. The new Twin Falls outlet is one of the company's largest and one of the biggest in the state. The company handles nearly every national brand of home remodeling material.

During the grand opening there will be special gifts, door prizes and refreshments.

The grand opening will be held June 12-14 at the Hotel Utah.

JACKSONVILLE F.F.A. (U.F.I.) — The mosquito-control crew hardly expected to find a marijuana garden during their rounds. But it was there, nevertheless, growing heartily out of a couple of dozen coffee cans.

"At first we thought it was a moonshine still," said one of the crewmen. As the Duval County Vice Squad roared to the area, the marijuana farmers scrambled through a wooded area and fled in a sport car. Officers found about 100 plants growing in two-pound coffee cans.

"This is about the strangest set-up I've seen," said Sgt. J. L. Phillips of the vice squad.

ABM Foes Gird Forces For Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While Congress quietly awaits a showdown on the Safeguard Antimissile System (ABM) system, the fight is being escalated outside in a netherworld of well-financed citizens committees and action groups.

Thousands of dollars from undisclosed sources are being spent on both sides of the issue to finance a barrage of pamphlets, polls, advertisements, books and town meetings in a massive campaign for support on main street.

The objective: Mobilize public opinion and lobby members of Congress. The latest outfit to join the fray is the Citizens Committee for Peace with Security (CCPS), a 200-member pro-ABM organization which claims to be nonpartisan but whose membership roster reads like a who's who list of past and present Republican officials, candidates and contributors.

On the other side is the National Citizens Committee Concerned about the ABM. It also claims to be nonpartisan but its ranks are heavily laced with representatives of the liberal wing of the Democratic party.

Arranged around these groups are local and national organizations somewhat less partisan in nature but just as highly spirited. Most have sprung up overnight in the past few months as the ABM issue spread, the only requirements seeming to be access to a mimeograph machine, money to buy stamps and envelopes and endorsement by leading figures from the business, industrial, scientific or sports world.

Washington Writer Eyes Claims Of ABM Backer

Editor, Times-News: There has been a lot of news coverage of the ABM program in the last several weeks ago. The Times-News has an appeal by Elsa Ullman for public support of the program. I believe it is essential for the nation's defense. The contributor based her appeal largely upon statistics attributed to Washington, D.C. Henry M. Jackson of the Senate. I am sure that Senator Jackson may I present a few opposing observations from his own state.

Editor, Times-News: I had thought to wait until after leaving this state to write the following letter. But I've become a little desperate.

For many months I've looked for some No. 1 Idaho baking potatoes. I fry them with green onions, a whole skillet full for my meal, and of course I eat them fishing trip style — right out of the skillet, without benefit of plate.

Woman Traces Strategy Of Communist Enemies

Editor, Times-News: It is only through keeping our eyes on our opponent and understanding his maneuvers that we can win the war.

Our enemy is the Communist conspiracy, but it is disguising itself in many ways to entice the American people, the enslavement of which is the final major task on its long road to rule the world.

Baseball Lover Wishes Longer Cowboy Season

Editor, Times-News: I want to say I am one that really loves the game of baseball and I certainly appreciate the fact the Cowboys are returning to Twin Falls.

But why on earth do we people who like baseball have to wait every year, till about June 20 to see a baseball game. They don't much more than get started till the season is over.

Arts And Letters Claims Belmont Win

Five-Length Victory Ends Majestic Prince's Hopes For Rare Triple Crown

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arts and Letters, gaining sweet revenge for narrow defeats in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, beat arch-rival Majestic Prince by an impressive 5 1/2 lengths in the Belmont Stakes Saturday to smash the Prince's bid for the Triple Crown.

A record crowd of 66,115 at sunny Belmont Park saw Majestic Prince rally gamely but suffer the first defeat of his career as he failed to add the Belmont to his Derby and Preakness triumphs.

With jockey Braulio Baeza in the saddle, Arts and Letters took the lead as the small field of six left the backstretch and opened a huge lead going around the final turn of the big Long Island race track.

Arts And Letters Simply Shifted Roles On Favorite

NEW YORK (UPI)—Elliott Burch, triumphant trainer of Arts and Letters in the Belmont, disclosed after his colt's smashing victory that he and jockey Braulio Baeza had decided to abandon the tactics that had gotten their horse

Boston Tips Royals 4-0 Behind Nagy

BOSTON (UPI)—George Scott's second homer in as many games helped rookie Mike Nagy to his third straight victory Saturday and paced the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 win over the Kansas City Royals.

Scott, whose fifth home run Friday night set the stage for Boston's extra-inning victory, hit his sixth homer of the season in his first at bat against loser Wally Bunker.

The Red Sox, who had jumped on Bunker for another run in the first, added two more runs to drive Bunker out in the fifth.

Utah State Back Joins Calgary

Matter Of "Taint" May Reverse Verdict On Clay's Ministering

HOUSTON (UPI)—Cassius Clay is tired of his two-year fight to overturn a draft dodging conviction. He wants to go fishing.

"I want to go somewhere, some place and rest," Clay said Friday after U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham recessed a weeklong hearing in connection with the former heavyweight boxing champion's appeal.

"I got a woman and a child on the way and I want a big shiny trailer and I want to go hunting and fishing and lay out in the woods in the sun. I want to get away from the newspaper and the light crowd."

"You know, I've been under this pressure for 16 years," he said. "The pressure might be eased if Clay's attorney, Charles Morgan of Atlanta, can show evidence proving Clay is a black Muslim minister, and entitled to an occupational draft deferment, was not given to the Justice Department. Therefore, Morgan said Friday, Clay's conviction is 'tainted' and should be reversed."

Ingraham gave lawyers for the government a set of defense until June 13 to file written briefs. He gave them an additional week, until June 20, to file answers to each other's briefs. Then he could either reverse the conviction or reopen the hearing.

The date Ingraham set would have two years to go before when Clay was first convicted for refusing induction into the Army. He was given the maximum sentence of five years in jail and fined $10,000 after only 20 minutes of deliberation.

Morgan said the FBI department summaries of Clay's telephone conversations with three Black Muslim leaders—Elijah Muhammad, Herbert Muhammad and John Ali, he said Clay might never have

NOTICE

To Our Policy Holders

A recent announcement by the Twin Falls County Mutual Insurance Company regarding a $500.00 fee for use of their Fire Truck Services has caused concern among property owners outside corporate city limits.

We have arranged with our companies to provide $1000.00 Fire Truck Service fees for any losses on property outside city limits that is insured through our agency.

We suggest that now is an excellent time for property owners whose property is not presently within city fire protection to petition the County Commissioners to organize a Rural Fire Protection District. There are presently some 46 such districts in Idaho providing excellent, low cost fire protection for property and lower insurance rates for the property owners within.

Ryan Hits 3.55.9 In His First Sub Four-Minute Mile Effort This Season

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—World record holder Jim Ryan, who couldn't run last weekend because of a swollen knee, ran the fastest mile in the world this year with a 3:55.9 time in the Coliseum Compton Invitational track-and-field meet Saturday night.

The 22-year-old University of Kansas senior, who also has been bothered by blisters this year, led the way as five runners cracked the four-minute barrier.

Ryan took the lead from Frank Murphy of Villanova and John Mason 180 yards from the tape. He finished eight yards in front of Sam Bair.

Bair was clocked in 3:56.7, his personal best. Martin Liquori of Villanova was next in 3:57.6, followed by Murphy in 3:58.1 and John Lawson in 3:59.3.

Ryan, who set the world record of 3:51.1 in 1967, started off at a snail's pace. He was ninth in the nine-man field at the end of the first 400 with a 62.3. He hustled a little faster in the next quarter to hit the 880 mark in 2:07.7.

The Twins, leading 2-0, scored four runs in the fourth off Jim Hannan, 2-5, before Killebrew clinched the big inning with his 13th homer of the season.

Boswell, 7-5, gave up four singles and allowed only one Senator to reach second base before being replaced by Miller with a 3-2 count on lead-off batter Mike Epstein in the seventh.

Miller with a double and Ed Brock with a two-out double by Brinkman for Washington's top run.

NEAL STEINHAUER of the Army won the shot put at 67 feet, 8 inches, the longest toss in the world in 1969.

The University of Southern California's 440-yard-relay team of Rich Custer, Fred Kuller, Eddie Garrison, and Alan Miller, clocked 2:23.4.

Coffee, brilliant Louisiana State freshman, grabbed the lead on the final turn to win his 400-yard dash with Garcia, USC's freshman guard, by three yards going away, 46.1 to 48.7.

John Carlos of San Jose State, was the meet's only double winner. He took the 100 in 9.5 and came back to annex the 200 in 20.7.

World record holder Bob Robinson checked the Seattle Pilots on only two hits for his fourth shutout of the season Saturday night.

Palmer, boosting his record to 7-2, allowed a single to Don Mincher in the second inning and a single to Tommy Davis in the fourth, then held the Pilots hitless the rest of the way.

Edwards, acquired from the Cardinals in an off-season trade, tied the game at 2-2 with a home run against his old teammates in the fourth inning.

Seagren of USC, who didn't start competition until the bar was at 17 feet, won the pole vault at 176-1-4 to tie the Memorial Coliseum record set by John Pennel in 1968.

Twins' Homer Power Rips Solons 10-1

Killebrew's three-run homer capped a seven-run fourth-inning assault on the Minnesota Twins by Dave Boswell and Bob Miller combined on a six-hitter Saturday to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 10-1 rout of the Washington Senators.

Olympic Group Sidesteps Two Political Issues

WARSAW (UPI)—The International Olympic Committee (IOC) shelved a motion Saturday to expel South Africa and also dismissed South Korean objections to the title of North Korea.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

Jerry Hale has been basketball coach and athletic director at College of Southern Idaho just over a month and it is fair to say he is running the school according to the established rules.

Coch Hale has made that plain by withdrawing scholarship aid from six athletes of whom basketball players— as a result of the six missing cur-few while in Grand Junction, Colo., for the conference basketball season.

Coach Mike Glenn suspended the boys from the team—meaning he went largely with pitch men and catchers in the second game which ended the best of three series.

Coch Hale took the step with great hesitancy and in fact with a lot of wonder on just how that would sit with the fans, him being new and all.

"It was a difficult decision for a lot of reasons and particularly the fact that Coach Hale said there is nothing I would have liked better than to sit back knowing that we had two pretty fair players coming back and not having to go out and fight this recruiting battle. I may be old-fashioned but I think you have to deal in principles."

"I feel that if Coach Glenn felt the rule violation was such that he had to suspend the boys, then as athletic director it is my responsibility to back up that decision and also make it plain that while we don't have many rules, those established will be enforced."

"We have a lot of money invested in scholarships for these boys and there are a lot of responsibilities on the boys' part to live up to these things. If they don't, it indicates to me that they are not interested in playing and there certainly are a lot of boys who would like to have the same opportunity."

On a more personal note, Coach Hale pointed out that CSI now must find a boy who can break the press and help lead the team from the outside. Brown seemed pointed for that job. Goetz figured to help in the forward spot along with Morris Moo and Al Davis. Coach Hale just returned from El Paso, moving his family to Twin Falls, and while he was in town he was unable to contact 6-10 Mike Stevens. Mike told me a few weeks ago he thought he'd be back but a lot of people have been talking to him this spring.

In fact, Stevens has visited Creighton University where ex-CSI Edith Sutton now is the mentor.

"This thing was bound to happen and I just don't think Nate will be back. We're tight on good players. Coach Hale says, 'Until this other thing happened, we had a good returning basketball team. Now we have to have non-freshmen come through.'"

Along that line Coach Hale said Tim Bassett, the 6-7 high jumper from Washington, D.C., is coming to CSI and he has signed 6-8 Ralph Palomar out of El Paso. Bassett should be an instant help according to recruiting re-special sub-committee on racial discrimination will report its findings regarding the matter. As the situation stands, the South African Olympic Committee is recognized by and affiliated with the IOC, but it has not been invited to participate in the Olympic Games.

The IOC disregarded objections from South Korea and voted to keep the title of "Peoples Democratic Republic of Korea" for North Korea.

The South African IOC member, Reginald Honey, had pointed out no specific charges were raised against the South African Olympic Committee.

In other business, the congress turned down requests that soft ball, ski-bob, roller skating and dancing on ice be included on the Olympic program but the IOC agreed to consider them for the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich.

Other decisions included the recommendation of the women's 800-meter hurdle event with a 100-meter event, and the introduction of a one-class sailing competition for the 1972 games. Details were not decided.

The IOC fixed the date of its 1970 congress in Amsterdam as May 7-16 and scheduled the 1971 congress for June 1-6 in Luxembourg.

Tiant Fires Two-Hitter; Indians Win

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Luis Tiant, who dropped his first seven decisions this season, hurled a two-hitter for his third straight victory Saturday and Tony Horton and Russ Snyder hit three home runs as the Cleveland Indians defeated the California Angels 7-0.

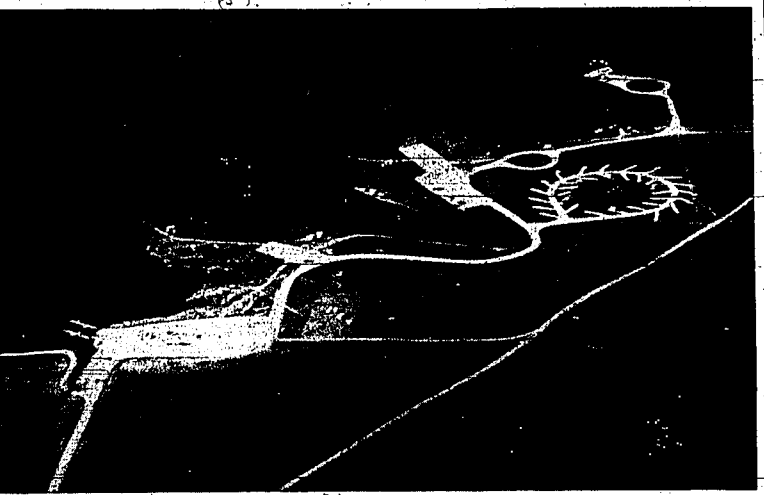

Tiant, who won 21 games last season while posting a 2.00 ERA, walked five as he raised his record to 3-7, and gave the Indians their fourth straight victory.

Horton, who slammed two homers Friday night, belted his first of the season, finishing off Angel starter Tom Murphy, now 4-3. Snyder's single and a walk to Lee Maye gave the Indians a 3-0 lead.

It seemed for a while last week that Wayne Anderson, University of Idaho basketball coach, would be named athletic director at any time. Wednesday it seemed the announcement would be made momentarily.

Anderson, who coached the Junior Ross from the next year, was coming back to Idaho two years ago when the draft caught him. Now his service time is behind him and he's returning again. He's supposed to be in a line now.

Since last week's announcement of 37 high schoolers having signed letters of intent at Idaho, the Vandels have received more. However, they lost a couple-three already in school, disciplinary reasons just might help according to recruiting re-

IMPROVEMENTS ON MORMON Reservoir have been completed by the Idaho Fish and Game Department which owns the access land immediately to the left of the dam. ## NFL Bosses Ban Gimmicks For Kickers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Football League took the gimmickery away from the kicking specialist today with resolution standardizing booting shoes to be worn in all games.

The attempt to realize their own-league met with resistance from a minority of owners and pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle decided to table the program until early July. At one point the owners were at a meeting of the NFL and the NFL voted to retain the 40-player limit for 1969 and extended the contract for the annual salary cap.

The NFL voted to retain the 40-player limit for 1969 and extended the contract for the annual salary cap. Rozelle said "the past month has been one filled with emotion."

He was optimistic that there would be a meeting of NFL minds at the next league session in New York or Chicago.

Raider-Cowboy Tilt Set July 21

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders' announcement Saturday they will meet the Dallas Cowboys in a jockey game at the Oakland Coliseum on Monday night, July 21.

The squads of both clubs will be made up primarily of rookies but will also contain some of the younger veterans to insure sufficient depth at all positions.

Eldridge Dickey, used as a flanker last year, and Ken Stabler, who was on the injured list in 1968 because of injuries, will share the quarterback duties for the Raiders.

T.F. Legion Opens Year By Beating Valley Twice

Sparked by the extra base hitting of Ron Blackwood in the first game, the Twin Falls Legion "A" team swept a doubleheader from Valley Saturday night 11-1 and 6-2.

Blackwood was four-for-four in the first game, hitting a solo homer in the first, a run scoring single in the third and winding up with a pair of doubles.

Twin Falls touched sore-armed Don Meyer for two runs in the first frame when Rick Semba walked, and eventually scored on Dick Capps' sacrifice fly.

Two pitches later Blackwood drilled his homer over the left field wall. In the third frame, Twin Falls added two more in the third, the first on Blackwood's single and then a double by Dave Frazier. Valley got its run in the fourth when Larry Richmond was hit by a pitch.

Blackwood was hit by a pitch and moved to third on Meyer's sacrifice fly scored another run. Twin Falls led it in the third when Vic Wells singled and came home on Steve McClain's triple. After Capps walked, Mike Chandler cleared the bases with a double.

Is Namath Bigger Than Football? See July's Reply

By FRED MCNAMEE UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Is Joe Namath bigger than pro football? Come July he may find that he is not.

Rather than sell his interest in an angle, East Side night spot called Bachelors III because of its accessibility to known gamblers, a tearful Namath announced Friday that he was quitting professional football at the age of 25.

The news stunned the sports world. It is finally the New York Jets, whom Namath led to the American Football League title last year and a subsequent victory over the Baltimore Colts in the world championship game. But already there is speculation—that the talented quarterback will not go through with his decision to quit.

Many sports people feel Namath acted emotionally and that once he has time to think, he will renege and be at the Jets' training camp next month ready to play.

"I doubt it," Namath said. "The whole thing is the principle of it. I'm innocent and I've said I'm innocent, but because I'm a football player, I have to sell out. I've thought about this more than anything I've ever done. It's the only thing that I do. The last thing I want to do is quit football."

There seem to be three major reasons why Namath decided to announce his retirement. The most obvious one is the condition of his knees which have never stopped paining him. He had mentioned this before, but he might quit because of his knees and it is known that his mother and father both wish him to quit for that reason.

Secondly, Namath is very loyal to his partners, Ray Abruzzese and Bobby Van, in the Baltimore III business. If he were forced to give up his interest in the place, it might leave the other two partners with a deplorable investment. Also, Namath has a rebellious nature, which was put to a test by Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who ordered Namath to give up his interest in the bar or face suspension. Namath forced Rozelle to take a rebellious stand. But, it seems inconceivable Namath would give up what he has put in for so long. It is just on a matter of principle. No one has ever mistaken him for Sir Thomas Moore.

Also, he must realize that the very thing he is fighting for, Bachelors III, is eventually bound to suffer financially if he is no longer a prominent figure from the sports world. In fact, as soon as Namath announced his retirement, the stock of Bachelors III dropped 1-4 points.

Namath isn't going to suffer any financial hardship if he doesn't play football. He has a chain of restaurants called "Broadway Joe's," just signed to do a movie and has a book on his life coming out soon. But Namath is a football player, not an actor, a restaurateur or an author, and it is doubtful he will be able to pull himself away from the game.

If he does go through with his plan, the Jets will be in dire straits. Already, the Jets have begun. Split end George Sauer, tight end Pete Lammons and safety Jim Hugdon have all said they will retire if Namath does.

But the real problem will be finding a drawing card to replace Namath. Already there is talk that the Jets might try to get O.J. Simpson, the All-American halfback from Southern California. Simpson, who owns the Buffalo Bills but has been having contract negotiation difficulties with owner Ralph Wilson, the Jets are financially stable, might be able to meet Simpson's price if a deal could be arranged.

COLLECTORS' HEYDAY comes on June 12 with the second annual Magic Valley Antique Dealers show and sale. The event in the Filer Fairground will feature everything from

table supports a number of antique items typical of those to be shown during the three-day event. At right, Mrs. Lancaster and Ramah Sharp, Filer, co-chairman, check a table of items that will be sold by various dealers and collectors.

Antiques Go On Display, Sale At Fairgrounds

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent

FILER — And what do YOU collect — campaign buttons, antique clocks, purple desert glass, Tiffany lamp shades, insulators, spoons, or any others of several hundred items now eagerly sought by "Antiquers"? Whatever it is, you are almost sure to find it at the Antique Show and Sale to be held June 12-14 at the Tom Parks Pavilion in the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds.

The three-day show is the second to be sponsored by the Magic Valley Antique Association, headed by Wilma Lancaster and Ramah Sharp, Twin Falls, and Ed Jagels, Filer.

Collectors and dealers from towns in Magic Valley, as well as Ketchum, Emmett and Pocatello, will have many of their choicest articles on display and a number of them will be for sale.

Show hours on Thursday and Friday will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. There will be a slight admission charge. Exhibitors will be on hand to answer questions regarding the antiques on display.

The idea for having the show come last year when Mrs. Sharp and Mrs. Lancaster decided the Twin Falls area had enough interested antique collectors to warrant a show of their own. Last year's event proved so successful that they decided to make it an annual affair.

Interest in antique collecting has grown rapidly in the last few years. Attics are raided and basements and barns searched for prize items. People throng to farm and garage sales, as well as the sales boasting "antiques."

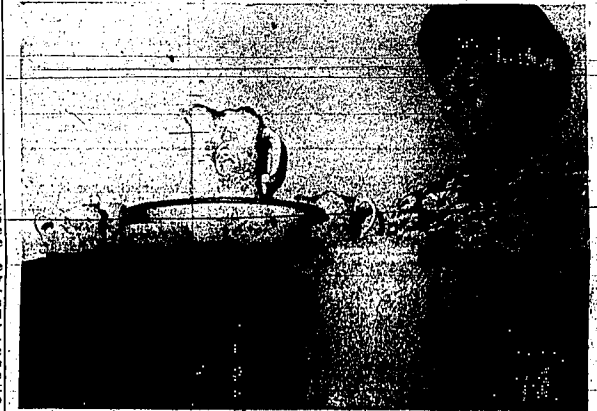

Many people concentrate on collecting one item such as pickle castors, crest sets or clocks; others delight in the many patterns of glassware, cutglass, Art glass and china. Primitives such as old butter churns, coffee grinders, crocks and the like are always in demand.

Refinishing of old furniture has become a popular hobby as old commodes, round oak tables and high-backed bedsteads are brought out of storage and carefully restored. The owner of a marble-topped dresser displays it proudly. An authentic spinning wheel will hold the place of honor by a fireplace or Franklin stove. And a walnut teacart will be brought out to revive the gracious art of afternoon tea.

Bottles of all kinds rank high on the list of collectors' de-

BOWL AND PITCHER SET, including eight pieces, is one of the items Mrs. Nadine Lancaster, Filer, prizes highly. She purchased it in Oregon when held up there because of automobile trouble. The items, probably 100 years old, and made in Liverpool, Ohio, will be displayed during the Filer show and sale.

AN OLD COMMODE, which Mrs. Nadine Lancaster retrieved from a ranch bunk house in Nevada, is inspected by Tammy Allen. Removal of several coats of paint revealed beautiful wood patterns. Glass is popular with everyone. This window collection of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warberg, Twin Falls, is typical of purple and crystal that will be on display and sale. At bottom, Ed Jagels, who shares show chairmanship duties, displays a clock, made in France more than 200 years ago. Not for sale, it probably will be displayed.

HAND MADE CARD which accompanied the gifts of the Dworahak Elementary School Students is shown by retiring principal, Harvey Steel. The card, made on white wrapping paper, contained the names of all the children in the school. It accompanied a gift of jacket and trousers given by the school children.

Retirement Closes 36-Year School Teaching Career

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — "Last day of school" for Harvey Steel held a special meaning this year.

It marked the end of a 36-year career as teacher and principal, all of it spent in the Cassia County School System. Not only did Mr. Steel spend his entire teaching career in the county, but he also obtained his own education here from the first grade through graduation with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Southern Idaho College of Education.

Mr. Steel retired this year as principal of the Dworahak Elementary School and students of the school joined in a surprise farewell party and gift in his honor.

Pupils of the Dworahak school collected coins to purchase a sport jacket, trousers, shirt and socks which were presented during a surprise retirement party for the principal.

Students also prepared a hand-made card of giant size. It included the drawing of a fisherman in a boat and the signatures of all the school students.

Mr. Steel was three years old when he came to Cassia County with his parents. The former Utah family settled in the Basin area, near Oakley, and he attended school in a two-story, two-room school building at Basin. The building was made of rough sawed timber and had a pot-bellied stove in the center of each room for heat.

For the first eight years, this was his school and his high school years were spent in the Oakley Rural High School, formerly the Cassia Academy. While attending high school, he made his home with an aunt and uncle. In his senior year,

Mr. Steel was elected student body president. After graduation he spent two years in California serving a mission for the LDS Church.

After being out of school for seven years during which time he had married, Mr. Steel took the advice of his wife and returned to school. He enrolled at the old Albion State Normal School.

"With less than $1,000, we rented a house for $15 and I worked as janitor to pay the rent and living expenses," he recalled.

Mrs. Steel worked as a nurse and the long rough road toward his higher education began.

Graduation day came in March of 1933 and with his first two years of college, Mr. Steel was able to begin teaching. However, the years that followed were filled with night classes and correspondence courses. On Aug. 7, 1948, he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from the Southern Idaho College of Education.

Mr. Steel has also received credits from the University of Idaho, Utah State Agriculture College and Idaho State College.

His teaching career began at his starting point when he was hired at the Basin School. A new building has been built and he shared the eight grades with another teacher. His salary was $600 for the first year.

Wages weren't much, he remembers, but a huge advance for a family of three could be rented for $4 per month. Mr. Steel taught three years at Basin and then moved to Elba where he was principal and taught the seventh and eighth grades. (Continued On Page A-4, Col. 2)

Lights. These may include old medicine bottles, whiskey bottles, any bottles purrled by the desert sun. Jim Beam bottles are prized by many collectors who try to get complete sets which include many state censals and other important events for which a bottle was specially made.

Collecting is not confined to antiques or bottles. Pottery such as Roseville and McCoy is becoming in demand because although not really old, the items are no longer being made and therefore become collector's items.

One of the newer collectibles is insulators — those colored glass cones used on telephone and electric poles. These come in a surprising range of colors and shapes, and as more and more power and telephone lines go underground, the insulators become more scarce and more sought after. Although usually made of colored glass, they also come in rare porcelain, pottery and rubber.

A highlight of last year's show was a style parade which was presented several times each day. Live models displayed clothes worn in the 1800 and early 1900 periods, with some dating back as far as Civil War times.

This year the show committee is asking people to enter into the spirit of the occasion and wear vintage clothes. On Thursday and Saturday between the hours of 2 and 3 p.m. a fashion show will be held with prizes awarded to the man and woman wearing the oldest and most authentic costume.

Friday's special will be a silent movie skit presented at 3 p.m. Before flickering lights and appropriate music, an oldtime melodrama will be enacted in pantomime.

Some of the antiques on display will also be available for sale! True, most collectors hate to part with any of their treasures, but as one of them said, "When the antiques start crowding you out of your house, you realize it is time you parted with a few."

So whether you are an old hand or a novice at collecting, or even if you haven't yet been bitten by the antique bug, you will enjoy browsing through the stalls at the Antique Show, looking at the mementos of a gentler era; comparing notes with other collectors, and perhaps finding an item for which you have long been searching.

RESTORED HIGH CHAIR shows outstanding workmanship of the turn of the century. The chair, restored by Paul Warberg, Twin Falls, has three position levels, and when lowered, as seen at right, it served as a stroller. This is typical of some of the dealer items to be displayed June 12-14, in the Magle Valley show.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Tribute was paid the late Cecil Cope, soil conservationist, in SHOSHONE for a number of years prior to his sudden death last June, in the Soil Conservation magazine published recently.

Mr. Cope's efforts to establish art contests related to soil conservation and his success in interesting various organizations in the project was noted.

Mrs. Darlene Gaskill, Shoshone, an art teacher, was also given mention for her work in assisting Mr. Cope. More than 100 paintings were submitted in the first-year-of-the contest.

The article quoted Mr. Cope: "It is not overestimating to say that 500 people have learned more about conservation by being involved as parents, relatives or friends of the artists and the painters themselves. How many of these 500 have taught conservation through discussion of the artwork with their friends cannot be estimated."

Mr. Cope, very active in community life, took keen interest in promoting youth, particularly the Scout program, and in providing a means for individuals in the county to show their abilities through special stories he either wrote himself or outlined for the news media during his 10 years in the local conservation office.

Retirement

The old Elba school had no electricity.

In 1938 he moved to Springdale where he also served as principal and seventh and eighth grade teacher for five years.

In 1944, Mr. Steel moved to Burley and taught in the Junior High School for two years. During the summer he held the title of welfare director which meant he was in charge of the summer and winter recreation programs. The following two years he was also teacher at the Burley Junior School and from there he went to Southwest Elementary School in Burley where he spent eight years as a principal.

In 1955 he returned to the Burley Junior High School as principal, a position he held 10 years before moving to his present position at Dworshak Elementary School.

Mrs. Steel has been working as secretary at the Dworshak school and plans to continue another two years.

The couple has three sons, L. A. Var Steel, head of the art department at the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls; James Steel, a medical doctor in the U. S. Air Force; and Virgil Steel who graduates this year from Brigham Young University, an industrial education major.

They also have a daughter, Mrs. Larzac Miles, a medical technician in Livermore, Calif.

Part of his retirement, Mr. Steel says, will be spent building furniture in his carpenter shop at his home. He enjoys riding and plans to spend some time on his brother's ranch at Onley. Another of his interests for many years has been genealogy work for his church which he plans to continue.

Young 'Revolt' Wants Teacher To Join Class

DENVER (UPI)—A phantized student revolt broke out Thursday at Stebbins Elementary School as second-grade students carried placards, saying their teacher had to go to third grade with them.

"Don't say goodbye to your class," read one sign. "That is reason for protest in mass. There will be a great hall, if you'll teach in the fall. On please, Mrs. Johnson, can't you pass?"

The teacher, Mrs. Jo Johnson, wipes away a few tears and says she had been teaching like it 11 years of teaching in the Denver School System.

The 28 students staged the protest Thursday, the last day of school.

School Supt. Dr. Robert D. Gilbert, according to slightly different demonstrations, said the youngsters' demand "should be considered in due course along with all the others."

Cuban Exile Stirs Awe Over Feat

MADRID (UPI)—A Spanish doctor today described a Cuban refugee who, fled Havana to Madrid in the wheel-bay of a jet airliner as a superman.

"There's no other word for it," said Dr. Luis de la Serna, chief of the medical services of Iberia Airlines. The refugee hitched his ride on an Iberia airliner.

De la Serna said the Escapee, Armando Socarras Ramirez, 22, "should not be alive in theory. The chances against his survival were millions to one."

De la Serna advanced the same theory as that of doctors at Madrid's Gran Hospital

General de la Beneficencia, where Socarras is recuperating. They said the youth, clad only in a tropical shirt and trousers, had been deep-frozen in the tiny wheel-bay compartment, where temperatures dropped to at least 40 degrees below zero.

De la Serna said the extreme cold reduced Socarras' need for oxygen, and enabled his body to combat the lack of pressure.

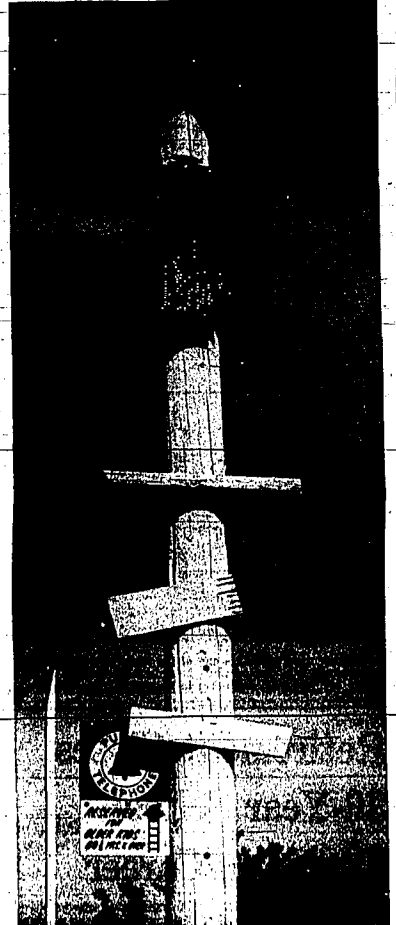

When Socarras arrived at Madrid, covered in ice and almost frozen stiff, his temperature was down to 32.2 degrees.

He was being carefully watched for signs of possible brain and kidney damage. Doctors said his memory may have been affected by the state of shock in which he arrived.

AN OLD TELEPHONE, fashioned from the Green Acres television show is located on a post at the rear of the antique shop owned by Paul Warberg, Twin Falls. He built the old telephone which was lacking any mechanical parts, so decided to do something with it in keeping with his antique shop. There is a small umbrella, and old-fashioned steps leading to the phone and a "Public Telephone," reserved for older kids, 60% years and older.

TESTING MATH ABILITY of Paul Bragg, the X3R machine in the new Ebron Learning Center, Twin Falls, clicks out the letters and lights up to show correct or incorrect answers.

Mrs. Ina Dufur, supervisor and instructor in the center, shows Mr. Bragg how to operate the unique new electronic learning machine for math students.

Electronic Equipment Replacing Instructors In Math, Reading

Most children are fascinated by electronic equipment, and this is being used to their advantage at the new Ebron Learning Center, now open in Twin Falls.

One of several centers in Idaho, designed to assist the child or adult in need of special tutoring in math and reading, the center features mechanical instruction in both subjects.

George Dufur, and his wife, Ina, who work as supervisors of the new center on Falls Avenue West, say much of the teaching and learning process is left up to the student and the machine.

Once the child is shown how to operate the machines, he spends much of the time just working with the equipment at his own rate of speed.

"This seems to encourage the child," Mr. Dufur said, "and the machine makes it fun to learn so the child progresses more rapidly because of his enthusiasm."

Ronald Olsen, Boise, an electronics expert and a former teacher, developed the machines.

The students are evaluated with the regular SRA nationally approved tests. These determine where he is in reading progression, to bring him to the status he should be for his age and grade, Mr. Dufur says, usually takes from a few weeks to two months.

By reading a small story item on the card and then answering questions by pushing levers on the reading machine, the child's grade is recorded and a score kept. Supervisors are able to monitor the child's work by watching a scoring machine in the front office of the building. Monitor and communication equipment is also operated throughout the building.

Each reading student works in a small individual enclosure with his own machine.

Recording equipment is also available for the young students, and numerous books may be used for enjoyment as the child improves.

In the math room is the large X3R Communicator. Using the Ebron Mathematics series, the machine provides both concept development, and special practice of increased retention on mathematics from simple number recognition through the 13 multiplication tables.

While the student works with the machine, his score is recorded in another room for the supervisor to check. Monitoring equipment keeps the instructor in touch and when needed the supervisor is available to work with the student and equipment.

Mrs. Dufur has a degree in education and has taught several years in Idaho schools.

Ronald Olsen, of Ebron, Inc., manufacturer of the machine, now has learning centers in Nampa, Boise, Caldwell, Twin Falls, and Salt Lake City.

"The first was opened in Boise in January, 1968, and has been in use since that time.

Mr. Dufur said as yet the local center has not been working with the school districts in this area although in other areas referrals are frequently being made from the public schools.

Generally, however, the school relies on its satisfied customers to encourage new students.

The machine and its programs are most versatile, Mr. Dufur explained. They have been used without modification for beginning instruction for normal children during regular class periods and self-instruction for slow starters in regular classrooms, for retarded youngsters or those with emotional disturbances.

The Money Box

By FRANK SCHELL

From J. D. J., Burley, Idaho: I have a coin, copper looking, and on one side it has a wreath around, FV111 with a crown on the "11", with date at bottom, 1863.

On the other side it has a "1" in a circle with letters as follows: SKILLING, above and below has the letters RIGMONT. I'm not sure of letter "1" at end of the word as the coin is tarnished but in good shape otherwise. What is it and is it worth much to a collector.

Answer: Your coin is a standard 1-Skilling piece of Denmark, coined under the rule of Frederick VII, who ruled from 1848 until 1863. The word is "RIGSMONT" on the coin. The coinage is obsolete, since Denmark now uses the "ore" and the "kroner." Your coin is worth collector value, about forty cents. There is no exchange value listed on it.

From T. S., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a coin which looks about like our penny. On one side it has a wreath "11" with a crown above it. On the other side it says I HET 1ER and 1763. Can you tell me anything about it? It is in good condition and can all be read. Is it valuable?

Answer: It is not valuable. It is a Dutch article in the Duchy of Sixe-Gotha-Altenburg, in Thuringia — which was one of the German States, before they joined together. The "11" stands for Friedrich III, who ruled the state from 1732 until 1772. The denomination is a common coin of the time. Your coin is worth in the neighborhood of seventy-five cents, if it is in extremely fine condition. Since it is obsolete, it has no exchange value in American money.

From L. A., Halley, Idaho: I have a real small silver coin, in my opinion it is a medal — I would like to know about it. It is smaller than a dime. One side has a lion, standing up, facing the left. The other side has what looks like a castle, with the let-

BEST PLAY PULLS NO OVERTRICKS

The student looked over dummy with no enthusiasm. He was that nice spade suit, but he held the singleton ace and there was only one entry to dummy. Finally the student decided to play to trick two. He cashed his ace of spades, entered dummy with the ace of diamonds.

"I'd have gone after clubs and hoped that the man who won the third club wouldn't have a spade."

"Here is the correct play," said the Professor. "You want to make six and want to play as safely as you can to give yourself every chance. At trick two you cash your ace of spades. At trick three you play your eight-of-clubs-and-duck in dummy irrespective of what is played by West. You win whatever suit is returned, go over to dummy's ace of clubs and claim six-if both opponents follow to that second club. If one shows out you can still lay down dummy's king of spades and hope to drop the queen."

"Your play wouldn't have made seven, would it?" asked the student.

"No," replied the Professor, "but I seem to recall that the contract was for six."

WEIGHT AND ROMANCE—days' work in the afternoon. Why ladies who are overweight seem to be more romantic than exceedingly thin women can be explained scientifically now. They say more romantic to avoid offending. Could say sensual. Or sexy. Doesn't matter. Overweight ladies usually eat plentifully, enjoying their meals immensely. It is far less often true of thin women. In a lengthy study of 42 wives, Syracuse scholars discovered a factor that the women who most crave snacks are the same women who most crave masculine affection. The overweight, of course, is not what causes the women to be romantic. It's just a sign they are so.

EQUALITY—Nobody of Italian extraction should forget it was not Thomas Jefferson, but an Italian named Philip Mazzei who originated that ringing rhetorical: "All men are created equal." Except Mazzei didn't say it that way. Quite two years before Jefferson incorporated his imperfect translation, the foregoing, into the Declaration of Independence, Mazzei said it better. In the Virginia Gazette, under the pen name of Furioso, he wrote: "All men are by nature free and independent... equal to each other in natural rights."

Fun Accessories Include Sunglasses

NEW YORK (NEA) — This year has been the scene of many changes in fashion. Minis and micros fight the mid for top billing. Fright-curly hairdos battle for supremacy over soft waves and romantic falls. And sunglasses and fun glasses have become important year-round accessories.

In every color and shape they sparkle like jewels on store counters. Women have shades to complement every costume and Dorothy Parker's famous "We don't make passes at girls who wear glasses" just isn't true any more.

The growing popularity of glasses as a fashion accessory has also brought about confusion about the type and quality best suited to a woman's needs. And the first distinction that should be made is between sunglasses and fun glasses.

Fun glasses are designed to display the latest style trends, and quality and good vision are often sacrificed. Frames are often weak and lenses made of plastic in fancy colors and prismatic shapes. They can distort vision.

If made of a better quality that eliminates eye stress and discomfort, fun glasses do have their place. A good light-tinted glass is fine for dark or windy days to keep dust out of your eyelashes on. But it won't protect your eyes from sun and glare. Real sunglasses will.

It's easy to choose the right shades, once you know what function you want them to perform.

LOUNGING IN THE sun in her new one-piece suit is Nedra Lingnaw. Nedra has a marvelous golden tan that is accented by the dark blue of the suit and the snowy white collar.

"Dressed Up While Bare" Is '69 Swimsuit Fashion Trend

Want to do the "summer thing" by being the fashion star of the pool or lake this year? Well—the idea seems to be dressed up when bared for swimming by adding belts, scarves, jewelry, etc.

Just having an old beach towel and a swimming suit is passe. This year a complete wardrobe of accessories is featured, especially the coverup to match the suit. Coverups come in an many varied shapes as the girls who wear them. They can take the form of a bra dress, jump suit, long wrap skirt, surfer pants or pull-over shirt.

The total look doesn't stop there, however. The gal who really wants to make the most of the wardrobe bit can wear sun-glasses with wide printed frames to match her swimsuit fabric.

As for swimsuits themselves, it's the one-piece style that creates new waves of fashion excitement. The bikini and two-piece suits continue as perennial favorites for the avid swimmers, however.

The one-piece suit comes in many different styles some exposing much of the body and some, very little. It has turned up in classic-looking swimdresses—or can be seen in clinging bodysuits of striped-knit, very reminiscent of the slinky vamp suit of the 1940's. Other one-piece styles include the fragile cage suits of lace-embroidered cotton voile or dotted swiss and the sleek well-fitted one-piece job that features the peekholes baring the midriff at each side or perhaps the front.

The two-piece suit with the flared, buttoned skirt that buttons onto the bra is one of the more popular swimsuit fashions, featuring coverup styling for after swim parties, etc.

Now if your really want to escape from the ordinary you can wear the vagabond gypsy print tunic type suit with the separate bikini trunks and bright shiny gold bangles dangling from a cut-out midriff, or better yet, the one-piece tank-type suit complete with short sleeves, a scooped neckline and bare back.

So swimming enthusiasts — whatever your pleasure for summer fun, fashion experts have created styles just for you.

A REAL AVID SWIMMER, little Suzette Tegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Tegan, shows this one-piece suit for the younger set.

BIKINI STYLING IS shown by Vicki Herzinger as she wears her two-piece bikini suit of white eyelet over blue cotton.

YOUNG LOVELIES SHOWING three styles of swimsuits popular this season are, from left, Kathy Stewart, Pam Tegan and Cheryl Howard. The suits shown by Kathy and Cheryl are two of the favorites from the Paris Co. The one-piece suit has created fashion news for summer and can be seen in many styles. The bikini and two-piece suits continue as perennial favorites for the avid swimmers. Many of the suits styled like those worn by Kathy and Cheryl have the flared skirt that buttons onto the bra and can be removed for swimming. All photos were taken by Don Johnson.

Salads For Summer Entertaining

A repertoire of interesting salad recipes often eases the preparation work of warm-weather entertaining. When making chicken salad with shelf-handy cans of boned chicken, the only work the creative cook will do is to assemble and combine the ingredients. Without ever lighting the range or oven, she can serve perfect appetizing dishes.

Particularly refreshing choices for warm-weather parties are canned boned chicken salad recipes that include fresh fruit, vegetables or nuts. With the time-consuming job of cooking the chicken done for you, lavish extra effort in dressing up your buffet table or garnishing your dishes. Famous old inns across the country have long known that the simplest chicken dish, served in an elegant manner, will seem quite luxurious. You can imitate this gracious inn atmosphere by serving chicken salads on crystal plates. Or, serve the salad dressing in your prettiest silver bowl. These extra touches will add to the attractiveness of your buffet.

Use fresh fruit to garnish salads, choosing them with an eye to color. Pale green grapes add to the cool look of a salad. Mandarin orange sections or fresh strawberries are a warm color contrast to the delicate chicken meat. Vegetable garnishes in the shape of radish roses, and curls and zigzags from carrots, can be made ahead of time and chilled to crisp perfection in ice water. Simply and naturally add both color and flavor.

Color, flavor, texture and aroma all go together when making a salad. Chicken Salad Compote combines all these elements and is easy to prepare. A medley of canned boned chicken, lovely grapes and pretty orange sections, is topped with a creamy flavorful dressing. Toasted almonds add crunch. For extra eye appeal, garnish with mandarin orange sections and whole grapes. Serve on a bed of crisp iceberg lettuce leaves. You'll wind up with a salad elegant enough for your company buffet table.

Chicken and Pea Salad combines canned boned chicken with colorful peas and glistening black olives. It is then tossed with an unusual orange-flavored dressing. You might decorate this attractive salad with onion rings, centering a whole spanish olive in each.

Be prepared for second helpings when you offer a platter of Fruit and Chicken Salad. Rosy red apples are hollowed out and the fruit meat added to a mixture of chicken, grapes and pecans. It is then tossed with a four-ingredient orange-nut dressing. When well coated, the salad is used to stuff the apples. The result is so lovely you may want to use it as the centerpiece of your serving table.

With your chicken salad recipes, serve warm buttered rolls or biscuits. Follow with coffee and an ice cream or pudding-based dessert. What could be simpler or more satisfying?

One Must Want To Be In Business To Be Successful

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — You can't succeed in business just by trying for the first buck. "You've got to want to be in business," says a woman who in less than 15 years has parlayed a loan of $50 from her husband into a $2 million a year operation.

Certainly, the money is a nice side effect, says Rosemary Callan, a handsome blonde mother of four, grandmother of one. But more important, she holds — "you're creating your own world."

Mrs. Callan was at the beginning and still is willing to work 18 hours a day at the job if necessary. The job is that of selling toys through the home party method. Briefly, it operates thusly: Hostesses (demonstrators) in most instances, young matrons who have children and no other way of earning extra money, invite other women in, give them a demonstration of toys available through Mrs. Callan's firm, headquartered at Warmminster, Pa., not far from Philadelphia. And of course they then take orders.

The demonstrator is paid on a commission basis and also gets a discount on toys she may wish to purchase for her own family.

So many demonstrators have met or exceeded their quotas that Mrs. Callan is giving several hundred of them and their husbands a party, unique she believes, as "reward" in the world of home party sales. She's treating them to a "sweet 15" anniversary party cruise into the Caribbean starting April 13. The date also will mark Mrs. Callan's 50th birthday.

Mrs. Callan stopped by our desk during one of her several spring buying trips to New York's wholesale toy markets to tell how "Rosemary's" baby" started.

"We grew up in West Philadelphia," she said. "My father had lost his trucking business during the depression. There were four of us children and dad always told us, 'look out for your own. If you only sell hot dogs on a corner.'"

She never lost the desire to go into business even after marriage to Frank Callan, an electrician, and the start of a family. In 1953, she took the plunge, putting together a demonstration toy kit with the $50 her husband lent.

But more capital was needed to stock the first "warehouse," the Callans' attic. Her mother, Mrs. Rose Brennan, lent another $1,000 and "because I could not pay her interest I at least gave it her name" — hence the C for Callan and B for Brennan Toy Club, Inc.

As the business thrived, her husband joined it as president, and she became the treasurer. Now, Mrs. Callan runs it alone; her husband died late last year.

Lesson Study Is Presented

HANSEN — Mrs. Kenneth Naylor presented the lesson study on Africa, how through missions Africa can be helped, at the Hansen Circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Sanders.

Mrs. W. I. McFarland opened the meeting with "F a t h e r l y Goodness," from the "Portals of Prayer." Mrs. Marion Wall was a guest.

It was announced the last luncheon of the season will be held at the home of Mrs. Austin Moore, Monday at 1 p.m. with Mrs. Bryan Harris and Mrs. W. C. Klutz as co-hostesses. There will be no more luncheons until September.

The school mission will be held from July 7 through 11 at Nampa.

International Book Project Assists In Making Friends

By GLEN CARPENTER
 LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—One woman's passion to person literary project is helping to teach others in the world about the American way of life and also to win friends to it.
 The program is International Book Project (IBP), which has its headquarters here in the heart of the Bluegrass.
 Founder of the project and its director is Mrs. Harriet D. Van Meter, wife of a Lexington physician.
 It began in 1966 after Mrs. Van Meter returned from a trip to India.
 "Whenever I went I had requests to send information in English," she said. "I found myself so involved in sending things myself it got to be a part of my life."
 She was born the clearing-house which distributes names of book-hungry persons in other countries to people willing to donate them.
 The project operates on an annual budget of about $3,000.
 The first donors came as a result of newspaper stories and magazine articles.
 "People wrote to me and of course I had a good many requests," she said. At first she made speaking appearances, too.
 "I got asked a lot because people are always looking for a free talk," she said.
 Since its beginnings, the IBP has sent books to 30 countries, with about 88 per cent going to India. There are about 1,500 donors with the majority located in the United States. Others live in Canada and Australia and there is one in Switzerland.
 Last year four large donors sent over 50,000 books overseas.
 Mrs. Van Meter started by subscribing to the international edition of Hindu Weekly Review which was published in English. In a letter to the author, she said she would attempt to find books for Indians if they would write her.
 Within five days, hundreds of letters poured in and she still receives several letters each day.
 One recent letter ran, "I will never forget you. Yours is a grand help. Thank you again and again." The letter was from a student working on a master's degree in literature.
 "May we request you and your friends through you to send us biographies of great Americans — presidents like George Washington, Abraham Lincoln; humble men who rose to the top in their field by hard work like Ben Franklin," wrote the headmaster of a high school in India. "They will inspire our children to aim high and reach high also."

 The IBP was incorporated with Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.), former ambassador to India, accepting the honorary presidency.
 Mrs. Van Meter assigns book requests to the donors who ship them overseas. She works from home. A study and basement are her headquarters.
 Most of the books are sent to schools and libraries, but the IBP likes to send them on a family to family or person to person basis when possible.
 "A family has a good feeling about America because they know someone in America they can respect and write to," she said. "In a family, everybody uses books."
 "The most frequently requested ones are children's stories, modern texts of all kinds and levels, and technical manuals."
 There are also requests for religious books but Mrs. Van Meter said she felt it was best not to get too involved in this field. However, the IBP has received wide publicity through the "Catholic Digest."
 While stressing the people to people benefits of the IBP, it would appear to have some influence on the continuing struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union to win minds. A letter received from a reader of the "Catholic Digest" pointed this up.

 A reader wrote, "I was under the impression like many others that Americans feed Indians. Russians make them read, and at last people go to the Russians. What a pity it is."
Club Convenes
 HANSEN — The opening was the Lord's Prayer at the Rock Creek Worthwhile Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Nial Bradshaw.
 A bridal shower was given by the club members honoring Mrs. Taylor Brown.
 A potluck dinner will be held at 7 p. m. June 18 at the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall it was announced.
 The hostess opened and displayed her gifts. Games were played, with prizes being won by Mrs. Ray McKinster, Mrs. Taylor Brown, Johanna Brown and Bonnie Ryan.
 The next regular meeting is at the home of Bonnie Ryan.

National Glamour Grandma Thinks Young To Stay Young

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—She's a grandma with the traditional rocking chair. But she's also a grandma who wears false eyelashes, the latest-in-makeup and models' clothes. She, at 42, is the "National Glamour Grandmother of the Year."

and David, two months. The name of this glamour grandmother: Mrs. Robert (Kathy Elizabeth) Rothacker, of Cincinnati.

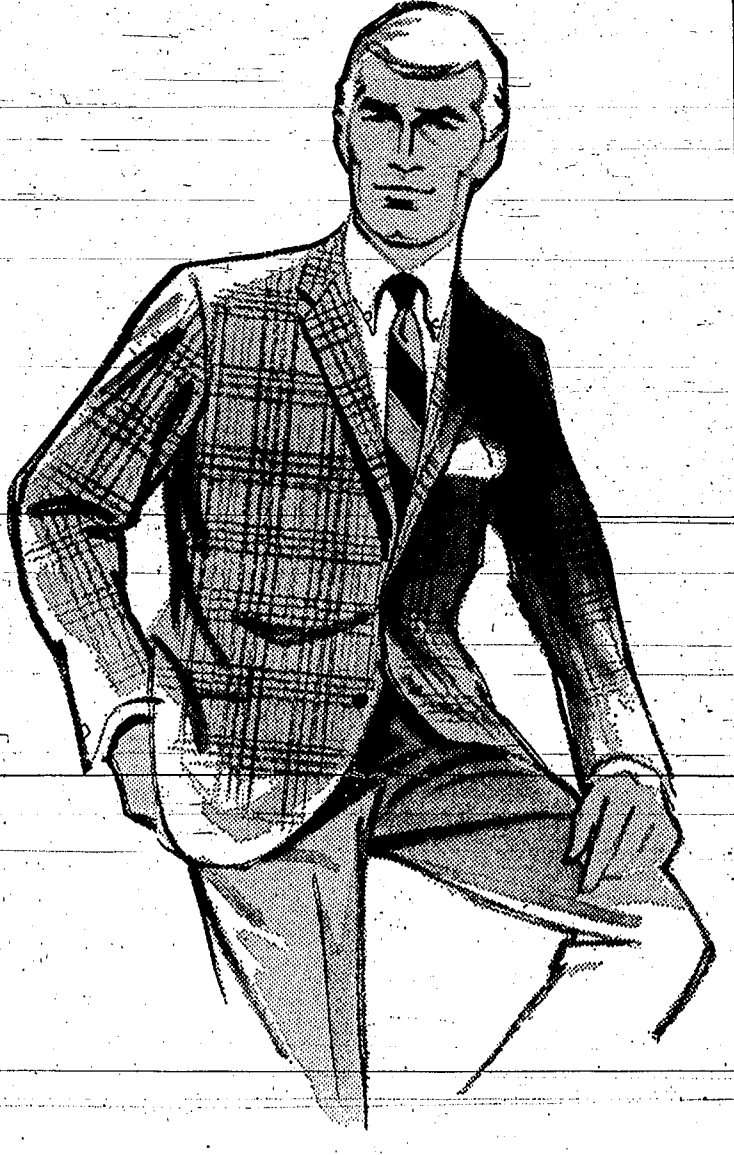

"If you think young, you stay young," said Mrs. Rothacker, who was selected from a field of 5,000 candidates in what its sponsors called the first national search for glamour grandmothers to kill off the stereotyped image of the "matchbox" woman, gray-haired, rocking and knitting.

The finals were held at Horizon City, near El Paso, Tex., and when Mrs. Rothacker returned to Cincinnati friends also had erected a 30 foot sign in her front yard with flashing lights saying, "Welcome Home, Grandma."

By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been giving this matter a lot of thought and have concluded that the custom of the man paying for everything when he takes a lady out is now outmoded.

First of all, today most women have as much, or more money than the man who invites them out. Also, isn't the woman getting as much entertainment as he is?

I can see a man supporting a woman in marriage, as she does many things for him such as keeping house and caring for his children, etc. But in dating, just what is she giving him that he isn't giving HER?

LEO
DEAR LEO: What you say makes sense, but since it is the man's privilege to do the asking, and the woman must wait to be asked, I think initially he should foot the bill. After several dates, if the woman has "as much or more money" than the man, she will invite him to her place for home-cooked meals, and buy him a few gifts. If all evens out.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 3-year-old child, and I have one big complaint to make.

We are trying to teach our little boy NEVER to accept candy or other goodies from strangers, but every time we go to a restaurant or store, the clerks or hostesses are constantly showing candy into his hot little hand.

I realize they think they are being nice to him, but how are we poor parents ever to teach our children not to accept things from strangers when this happens all the time?

I hope you will put this in your column. It might help.

TUSCALOOSA MAMMA
DEAR MAMMA: Tell your child that he may NOT accept anything from a stranger WITHOUT YOUR PERMISSION. And though it is well-meaning, but thoughtless stranger, hostess, or clerk gives the child a "treat," insist that the child return it saying, "I have to ask Mother first." Then, of course, give your permission (if you want the child to have whatever is offered) but go through this ceremony until the child is trained.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 years old, have been married for only six months and I already have a problem. My husband is always looking at strange women and making personal comments about them. "She's well stuck

We RENT and SELL WHEEL CHAIRS

Sandals Similar to Illustration

ed, she has nice legs, she's too fat, she's too skinny, her hair isn't pretty," etc. NOW, ABBY, I wouldn't notice these things if he weren't constantly looking, would he?

I have told him I don't like it, and I wish he'd stop, but he says I'm jealous and should get over it. I've even tried making the same kind of remarks about strange men I see, but it doesn't seem to bother him.

I'm no slob myself, so I don't think I'm jealous. Why does he do this, and how should I handle this irritating problem?

BOthered
DEAR BOTHERED: No matter what he says, if it continues to bother you when he makes personal remarks about either woman, he's trying to get your goat. Try to find out why he feels the need to needle you.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that it is not proper etiquette to use a typewriter for personal correspondence? I recently bought a typewriter and have been using it for that purpose, and now I am told that it is "improper," that all personal letters should be hand-written. What is your opinion?

WONdering
DEAR WONDERING: I would be more concerned with the legibility of a letter than anything else. And I think anyone who would be critical of a typewritten personal letter is a stuffed shirt.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Elgin Wilson was hostess to the group. A business session was conducted by Mrs. Wilson, vice president. The rules for the yearbook cover contest were announced.

Valley Seniors Honored At WSCS Banquet

HAGERMAN — High school graduating seniors were honored at a banquet at the United Methodist Church by members of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Guest speaker was State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft. Rep. Ravenscroft spoke of the state penitentiary, stating "the inmates just have no desire to discipline themselves." He concluded, "The greatest single challenge to maintain a great nation is to return to the fundamental quality which is more responsibility in the family and the individual. We now have the strongest economy, technology, and opportunities are unlimited."

The welcome was given by Mrs. Robert Tupper. Mrs. Tupper noted this was the 20th year the WSCS has served a dinner to the graduating high school class.

Larry Davidson gave the class response. Alfred Sandy was master of ceremonies.

Vocal selections were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sears. Diane Jones played a piano solo. An accordion solo was presented by Mrs. Clifford Brown. Peggy Hendrickson and Cheryl Sandy presented a vocal duet.

Tables were decorated in the class colors of purple and silver featuring purple floral arrangements with silver bows and silver candles surrounded by a garland of purple flowers. Miniflature "graduates" in the school colors of black and orange also graced the tables. The decorations were under the direction of Mrs. George Gardie and Mrs. John W. Jones.

Mrs. Bill Jones was in charge of the serving. Co-chairmen for the event were Mrs. Hazel Russell, Mrs. Ralph Miller and Mrs. Fletcher Haines. They were assisted by other women of the church.

Former Resident Is Married In Indiana

BUHL — Marjorie Ann Holton, South Bend, Ind., daughter of Mrs. Hazel P. Holton and John A. Holton, Buhi, former Twin Falls resident, was married to Richard Charles Adams, Elkhart, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Adams, Clearwater, Fla., in rites June 7 at St. Joseph Catholic Church, South Bend.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Druas.

The bride wore a gown of ribbed organza and Venice lace over tulle, fashioned with an empire bodice, semi-scoop neckline, elbow-length sleeves edged with a deep ruffle and an A-line skirt. The gown was accented with a full chapel train and the sleeves and waistline featured daisy lace trim. Her shoulder-length triple-tiered veil of imported English illusion was held by a metal cap. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and pink sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor was Nancy Adams Albuquerque, N.M., sister of the bridegroom, with Mary Ann Zoeller, Ann Stephens and Ruth Faustich, all South Bend, as bridesmaids.

Richard W. Crawford, served as best man, with Andrew J. Libertone, Roger Robinson and Norma Heminger, all Elkhart, as ushers.

A reception was held after the ceremony at Randall's Inn, South Bend.

The couple took a wedding trip to Northwestern Illinois and will reside in Elkhart. The bridegroom is employed at Miller Laboratories and the bride is employed with the South Bend Community School Corporation.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips and Phillip Mead, Twin Falls.

Baby-Sitting Course Slated For Area Students By YWCA

The YWCA baby-sitting course will begin June 12 for students completing the 5th through 8th grades. The class was erroneously reported to the 10 area schools as beginning June 20.

The course is provided to better educate baby sitters in the importance of their responsibility in caring for young children. This job is one of the most neglected ones in regard to available training and parents requiring previous experience.

Special speakers during the sessions will be from the local police and fire departments and the Public Health Department.

Sessions will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning at 1:30 p.m. Those interested in the class must register at the YWCA by June 11. There will be five sessions. Those completing the course satisfactorily will have their name kept on file at the YWCA for referral to parents wanting baby sitters.

Installation, Dinner Held By Beta Theta Unit

After dinner at the Depot Grill, members of Beta Theta Chapter, Beta Sigma UPhiA, adjourned to the home of Mrs. Lucile Brizee for special installation ceremonies.

Officers installed include Mrs. Brizee, president; Mrs. C. W. Newby, vice president; Mrs. Eva Mahken, treasurer; Mrs. James Page, recording secretary; Mrs. Melvin Harrison, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Olga Coburn, extension officer.

Appointed parliamentarian for the chapter was Mrs. Robert Krauth. Mrs. Clara Brose was appointed historian, and Mrs. D. W. Benkula, program chairman.

Candles were used by Mrs. Ina Knox, installation officer, to designate the different offices and emphasize their meaning.

Programs and the chapter yardstick were discussed for the forthcoming year.

CLASS MEETS

FILER — Rev. and Mrs. Roy Watson and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller were in charge of arrangements for a no-host dinner of the Challenge Class of the Baptist Church. A miniature train carried out an "all aboard" theme.

FOR REP. EMANUEL CELLER

of New York

Why do you oppose 18-year-olds having the right to vote?—Corland Elam, Indianola, Okla.

● This is a matter—that each state can determine for itself; to impose that age qualification uniformly upon the states would require a Constitutional amendment. I am opposed to this. When we consider how easily the adolescent is inflamed, we can readily understand why the demagogue has been able historically to capture the youth of the land. Witness the regimes of Hitler and Mussolini.

FOR JACK LORD of "Hawaii Five-O"

Is it true that you have five of your paintings on permanent display in the Metropolitan Museum?
Do you sell any of your paintings?—Miss Jane Lehman, Waco, Texas

● I have three of my woodcuts and two of my lithographs in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City. Last year I sold $40,000 of my works to private collectors. I am a Sunday painter—the only day of the week I'm not in front of the cameras.

FOR MRS. RICHARD M. NIXON

As the First Lady, do you plan to continue Mrs. Lyndon Johnson's "Beautiful America" program?—C. A. Nichols, Austin, Texas

● I am interested in the continuation of the First Lady's Committee for a More Beautiful Capital, although it will not be my main project.

FOR BILLY GRAHAM

Do you believe there should be an amalgamation of all churches?
David G. Thompson, Bluefield, W. Va.

● As a member of one denomination, I do not work toward the amalgamation of all churches. I believe there is a place for each denomination, providing freedom of worship.

FOR JACKIE GLEASON

Why do you have the "Honeymooners" on every other week, instead of every week?—John Phillips, Spartanburg, S.C.

● It is not easy to memorize three songs and 100-or-so pages of copy each week, or 90 songs and 40,000 pages a season.

FOR GOV. CLAUDE R. KIRK, JR.

of Florida

Does Florida have more lakes than any other state?—Mr. C. J. Byrs, Seattle, Wash.

● Florida has more than 30,000 named lakes and thousands of unnamed ones.

FOR ARLENE FRANCIS, actress

Are you presently on any regular television program?—Martha Minzenmeyer, Temple, Texas

● I'm now on the new "What's My Line?" an afternoon show.

FOR J. ARTHUR HEISE,

author of "The Brass Factories, a Frank Appraisal of West Point, Annapolis, and the Air Force Academy"

I've heard nothing about student-drug use at our military academies. If they've avoided the problem, can civilian colleges learn something from them?—Mrs. B. A. Minneapolis, Minn.

● Hardly. Annapolis has discharged about a dozen midshipmen for smoking marijuana; the Air Force Academy dismissed four cadets. There may be other cases, but with the academics' furtiveness, it's impossible to tell.

FOR JOE CRONIN,

American League president

Are any of the baseball games played under protest ever decided in favor of the protesting team?
Darrell Cheyne, Massillon, Ohio

● Yes, many times. A case in point concerned a game prior to World War II in which the Boston Red Sox was a forfeited game from the Washington Senators. The league forfeited the game to the Red Sox because the Senators neglected to cover the infield when it rained.

FOR BOBBY SHERMAN

of ABC's "Here Come the Brides"
On the show, you stutter. Do you really stutter?
Carol Eckard, Staunton, Va.

● No. My character in the show, Jeremy Bolt, does so because he is the shyest, most sensitive of the three brothers, and it enhances the role as a sympathetic one. When I was asked to play Jeremy, I went to a Los Angeles speech-therapy center to get instruction on how to do the hesitation stammer.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Cover Girl Our cover girl is having fun—and looking forward to more of the same when school lets out for the summer. But, warns the American Medical Association, summer has some special health and safety problems. We asked how children could get the most out of the season with the least trouble, and here's what the AMA suggested: Beware of the potential danger in the following situations: 1. Encounters with nature—exposure to sun, wind, and semipolluted water; and to unfamiliar animals (upset geese and cows can be more dangerous than calm snakes and bears); and to unfamiliar fruits and vegetables such as loadstools and green apples. 2. Unsanitary plumbing when traveling. 3. Fourth of July—firecrackers, but almost as bad, quarrelsome children crowded into the back seat of the homebound car—they can cause accidents. 4. Plastic swimming pools—infections may be passed from one child to another if pool is not kept clean; sunlight and air tend to be self-purifiers. 5. Going barefoot—recommended in carefully policed areas only. 6. Inadequate refrigeration for picnic foods—It's like inoculating the salad with bacteria if food is not kept refrigerated. Have a good summer—after all, the doctors want a vacation, too.

Buddy Hackett

Medical Pitch Some scientists say Vitamin E can help infertile couples have wanted babies. But Bobby Bolin, pitcher for the San Francisco Giants, shook off that signal and used Vitamin E for a sore shoulder. He reports that the vitamin has helped him a lot, according to Medical World News. Kids! Look out for Mom's right arm.

Teacher-Knows Best Red Skelton, recalling his teacher's version of the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, decided to record it. (It's a Columbia hit). In part, here are the meanings: I (a committee of one) Pledge (dedicate all of my worldly good to give without self-pity) allegiance (my love and my devotion) to the Flag (a symbol of freedom) . . . with liberty (the freedom to live one's own life without threats or fear of retaliation) and justice (the principle of dealing fairly with others) for all (it's as much your country as it is mine). OH! Saturday is Flag Day.

Pressure Pain Killer Even in the pressurized cabins of jets, air pressures vary considerably and can close the nasal passages of passengers suffering from sinus trouble, common cold, or hay fever. Lately many air travelers have discovered a new use for a vasoconstricting nasal spray that eases breathing: it prevents the pain that can go with pressure change.

Dead Serious Although he collects valuable paintings and owns a house in Vermont, Buddy Hackett ("The Love Bug") is rather casual about investing for his old age. "I'm not going to have one," Buddy explained to Family Weekly in mock seriousness. "I'm not going to retire, either. Four months short of my 64th birthday, I'm just going to press my 'dead button' and go." Don't be shocked, fans, or worried; Buddy will be only 45 in August.

Can Mediums Speak to the Dead?

The televised séance in which Bishop Pike "communicated" with his dead son has brought this age-old question under scientific study—with some startling conclusions

By BRAD STEIGER

Author of "Voices from Beyond"

SCIENCE NOW asks—can mediums speak to the dead?

Today many orthodox scientists are spending considerable time studying spiritual phenomena, especially since the televised séance in which former Episcopal Bishop James Pike seemed to communicate with his deceased son.

After hearing about the controversial theologian's televised séance in Toronto, the Rev. Frederick M. Morris, rector of New York City's St. Thomas Church, cancelled Bishop Pike's preaching engagements there. The bishop, who had faced heresy charges for not believing in enough things, was now being criticized for believing in too much.

The Rev. Arthur Ford, a minister of the Disciples of Christ Church, who had been Bishop Pike's medium, points out to his critics that the promise of eternal life is the central tenet of the Christian faith. Why, then, he asks, should one reject what appears to be evidence of the validity of this promise?

On the other hand, Dr. D. J. West, psychical researcher, wrote recently that "spiritualism thrives on simple souls . . . Middle-aged women make up the bulk of the audience . . . the medium pours out a stream of verbiage about vibrations of harmony, astral bodies . . . Nothing could be more pathetic or boring."

When Bishop Pike's story was published in his book, "The Other Side," one reviewer declared it "a convincing and disturbing account. It was the surprised, skeptical report of a man seeking rational explanation for extraordinary phenomena that he confronted." Yet another reviewer said it was "nothing more than a loving father's wish fulfillment."

Interest in the beyond, of course, is ageless. At the time of his death, Thomas Edison was working on an instrument that he hoped would pick up messages from the spirit world and translate them into sound. Edison believed man to be composed of billions of highly charged entities that live in the cells. At physical death, these entities swarm . . . betake themselves elsewhere and go on functioning in some other form of environment."

Dr. Joseph E. Rhine, former head of parapsychology at Duke University, who left a career in plant physiology to study psychic phenomena, has done much pioneering work in the field. "The outstanding characteristic of ESP phenomena," says Doctor Rhine, "is its failure to conform to the type of lawfulness expected of physical processes. The conditions seem to defy the spacetime properties on which the science of physics is based."

Dr. Ian Stevenson, chairman of the department of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Virginia, has made an intensive study of 200 cases. He not only claims that man survives physical death but that "reincarnation is a fact."

Dr. Eugene E. Bernard, professor of psychology at North Carolina State University and Dr. Charles Tart, psychologist and lecturer at the University of California, are conducting laboratory experiments to prove that some people have the ability to leave their bodies and float off to the ceiling, another room, or sometimes thousands of miles away.

Former University of Florida staff member Dr. Hornel Hart says that ". . . a world exists that is invisible to our physical senses and yet is a realm of objective experience and of social contacts between conscious personalities."

Hereward Carrington, psychical researcher in "The Case for Psychic Survival," wrote: "We have to deal with a . . . personality which is . . . in touch or contact, in some mysterious way, with another (spiritual) world, from which it derives information and through which genuine messages often come."

It was "Fletcher," Reverend Ford's spirit control, who brought forth Bishop Pike's son and other communicating personalities who were familiar to the clergyman. Fletcher was supposedly a deceased French-Canadian boyhood friend of Reverend Ford.

Bishop Pike has said that he did not see how any research done by Reverend Ford could have brought about such intimate details of his life and the roles that certain individuals had played in shaping his thinking.

With the current upsurge of interest in the spiritual movement, Reverend Ford recently cautioned a conference of religious mediums to put less emphasis on producing séance-room phenomena and more on teaching the essentials of religion.

"We've been guinea pigs long enough," Reverend Ford said. "The phenomena should be a means to an end, and the end should be spiritual understanding and a way to serve our fellowman in a better way."

Dr. J. B. Rhine has said that mediumship may hold the answer to the great and much broader question of the nature of man's personality with respect to the physical world. He is convinced that the laboratory has satisfactorily demonstrated that the human personality is something more than its physical components.

Dr. Karlis Osis, current director of research for the American Society of Psychical Research, has observed that there is undeniable greatness in defeating polio and other diseases, and there is greatness in conquering outer space.

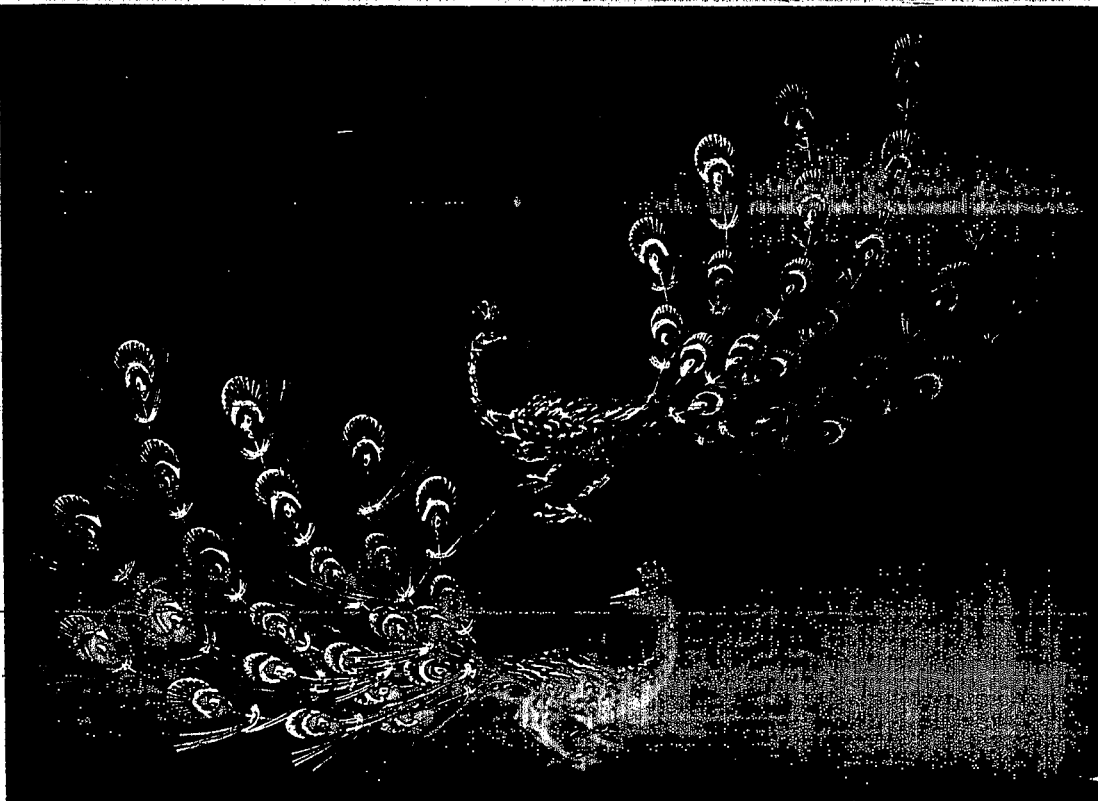

But, he asks, "Is it not at least equally important to know the question answer to such a basic question of human existence: 'What happens when a man dies?'" ♦

Wendy Veevers-Carter cooks family meals on a paraffin (kerosene) stove.

WITH MY husband and three children, I left the freighter and stepped into a tender, which was to take us to our new home—an island on which no human had lived for years, isolated in the Indian Ocean some 700 miles southwest of India and civilization and northeast of primitive Madagascar.

Our island, Astove, was not on any shipping route. It might be months before a ship passed again; there was no airplane landing strip then. Nothing but ourselves and hope.

That was the beginning of my life as Mrs. Robinson Crusoe. Now, more than a year later, the anxieties I felt that first day when I saw the empty white sand beach have lessened; my hopes for a good life have heightened. We have had troubles, yes. But I would not trade being Mrs. Robinson Crusoe (most of the time, that is) for all the world's material possessions.

My husband is Mark Veevers-Carter, a mutton-chop-whiskered former schooner skipper, treasure hunter, and British colonial fisheries officer. He will tell you his experience helped us survive on a deserted island—plus $50,000 for improvements.

Our children are Rory, 9, Ming, 7, and baby Digby, 2. I teach them from correspondence courses from England. I must be very strict about adhering to schedules—the lovely weather, beaches, and the curiosities of nature here are enormous competition for their attention.

I am a former New York City socialite—I emphasize “former.” My father was Clarence Day, author of “Life with Father.” I never cared for the pampered life and began traveling after completing my schooling. I was photographing wild animals when I met Mark in Tanganyika.

When we landed on Astove, we found palm trees, a roofless wooden house, and a graveyard. Part of the British-governed Seychelles, Astove was a “lost” island. Now we are on our way to “luxury”—a planned 14-room house, a farm with pigs, goats, and cattle, plus a tobacco and copra crop, which should bring us some $10,000 a year. Since landing, of course, we have brought in some native laborers to help us, but the island remains ours, alone for all practical purposes. Here's how we live there.

My day begins at dawn, between 5:30 and 6. The light lies cool over the Indian Ocean, and the wind barely stirs the casuarina (oak) tree in the yard. This is the most beautiful time of day. I make breakfast for all the family, and I usually prepare lunch at the same time.

For me, the world of supermarket shopping and “convenience foods” is like another planet. If you run out, you run out. On our short-wave radio, we heard news about a bakers' strike in Britain. “Housewives desperate... no bread for sale...” That gave us a big laugh. How can a woman be so helpless she doesn't know how to bake?

I bake all our bread. When the flour is a few weeks old, I have to sift the weevils out first. When it is a few months old—even sifted—it won't rise. At the moment, we have no bread. The flour is too old, and the weevils have taken over.

But “self-sufficiency” is only a phrase. I depend on many imported things—powdered milk, wheat flour, coffee, tea, curry powder, tomato purée, onions, paraffin (kerosene), Mark's tobacco.

I keep them in a store, which is also the island “shop” for our Seychelles workers. Every purchase is a book transaction. We have no money. When I make out my shopping list for Mahé, on the west coast of India, I shop for one year ahead, down to the last toothbrush.

We don't eat meat every day. But the diet is good, and the children are growing up strong. I find all kinds of wild-growing substitutes for ordinary vegetables. Wild spinach is delicious and pumpkin-tendrils, too. We cultivate sweet potatoes.

We have no electricity, but we do have refrigeration, thank goodness. The “fridge” works on paraffin, and I have a stove that's so good you'd think you were using gas.

We shipped a big library here, and as it happens, on Defoe's “Robinson Crusoe.” Afternoons, it is sometimes so hot we have school in the sea.

Rory, our nine-year-old, is the only child who can remember “civilization”—cars, movies, shops.

My mother, who lives in New York, is anxious for my welfare and sends me all kinds of welcomed goodies. She sent a machine that makes spaghetti. I love spaghetti! It comes out flat instead of round, disappointingly, and it is a whole day's job to make it. I dry it in the sun on trestles, just as the Italians do.

Wendy and her husband Mark enjoy some tropical-island specialties.

husband and children on a "lost island," 700 miles from she would not trade

Robinson Crusoe

Few boats call at Astove. Few people know there is anyone here. The children go wild with excitement when a boat stops by. They get a day off from lessons. The whole routine of the island is disrupted for a week.

But we like visitors—scientists; seafarers, practical men of the kind we can get on with. They have a knack of turning up with supplies of things we have just run out of or simply do not have. Can you imagine what a treat an orange is—just a two-penny African orange—to our children?

Despite the sunshine, we cannot grow citrus fruit here because we get only 24 inches of rain a year. That is the same rainfall as London, making Astove a dry little island for the tropics.

We get batches of up to six months' newspapers at a time. For the day's news we listen to the BBC on short wave from London.

Our own news was bad recently. Ti-Georges—Little George—died. He was the mason's mate, one of the men we have working on the island.

Ti-Georges evidently drank a few jugs of calou (a native intoxicant) one night, and the next morning he needed the hair of the dog. He had two or three. He saw his boss, Armand the mason, fishing on the beach. Armand had caught half a dozen bonefish.

"Donné-moi un poisson," said Ti-

Georges, in the local French accent, reeling a bit. Armand refused to give him a fish. There was swearing, and they grappled. Ti-Georges was badly wounded on the head.

I know quite a bit about nursing—self-taught from a handy volume of "General Nursing Practice." When Ti-Georges came up to the house later that day, I shaved his head and dressed his three wounds. Next day he complained of a headache. Tragically the headache never left him.

I gave him some drugs, including a penicillin injection, though the law says we may not dispense penicillin or any other prescription drugs. For 10 days things went on like this. Then Ti-Georges went into a rigor, jaw locked, the sweat rolling off him.

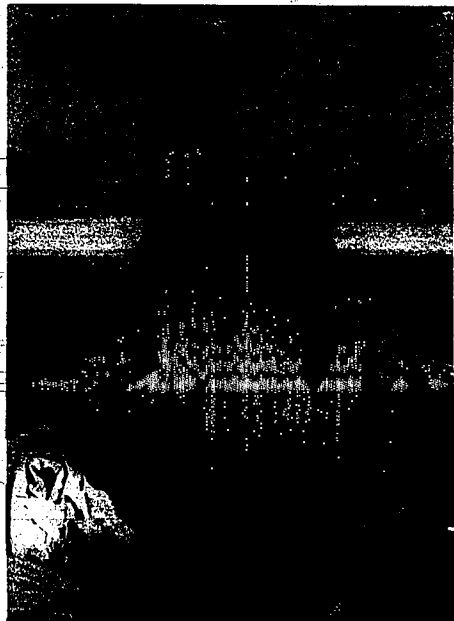

I had an awful premonition what it was—tetanus.

I knew then I could not save Ti-Georges. Only hospitalization and massive doses of antitetanus serum could have pulled him through. We have no serum. I fed him raw eggs and meat extract; I crushed codeine tablets into everything to try to ease his pain.

Death by tetanus is terrible. Ti-Georges never knew what he had, but on the last day he said to me: "Comme ça je quitte la terre, madame? Am I leaving the world?"

I said, "Yes."

Ti-Georges asked for prayers then.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Crusoe on one of their many pleasure jaunts.

Mitha and Myvonne, our two house-girls, came in with Gros Georges, his good friend, and they recited "Hail Mary, Mother of God" in Creole, over and over.

Then Ti-Georges cried out "Je finis, je finis!" and died. He was just 19 years old.

What galls me is that there is no visiting doctor—no medical services whatever—for the outlying islands, and at the same time, there is this stupid regulation that we cannot dispense "dangerous drugs."

I tell you one thing that is heading my next shopping list—and that's morphine. We would have given anything for a few shots of morphine to ease poor Ti-Georges' last hours.

The law? There is no law here except us—and the courtroom is back in Mahé, where Armand will eventually appear.

Armand cried and prayed when he heard of Ti-Georges' death. He is still working here. There is no point in locking him up. Where would he escape to?

Such are our tragedies on Astove. Mark has built a landing strip now for emergency flights—and, we hope, more visitors. Now he is building a radio to call for help, should an emergency arise again.

In the meantime, we bear with inconveniences. I suppose insects must rank highest. In the four months of the rainy season, their hum is as loud as an unrolled fan. At night, Mark must light a smudge, but even in choking smoke, mosquitoes attack us.

Mark has had painful trouble with his teeth but has borne the agony stoically. He must see a dentist soon, but that will mean a trip of many days. And I must see my mother, now 70, soon and assure her we are not mad.

But I will not stay in New York City long. There is too much to do on our island. I would not want to miss the spectacular sunrise, though it signals the beginning of a long, work-filled day. I would not want to miss the feeling that this is our world—my husband's and mine—and that it is a good one for our children.

The life of Mrs. Robinson Crusoe may not be for many women. But it is for this one. ♦

Are You Mismatched with Your Job?

This quiz can help you answer that vital question—and perhaps offer a guide to corrective action

By THEODORE IRWIN

LIKE MANY other Americans, a time may come when you realize that at work you're like a square peg in a round hole. Vaguely or acutely, you sense that you're just not "making it."

Career counselors and personnel directors agree that often at the core of the problem is a basic mismatch between a specific job and a person's skills and aspirations. People who feel out of character in their work, they say, should seek insight into their dissatisfaction and find a new sense of direction.

For an indication of where you stand, take this quick test, based on consultations with industrial psychologists. Answer "yes" or "no" and check conclusions below.

1. Did you choose your career (rather than fall into it by chance)?
2. Do you find it hard to discuss work problems with your boss?
3. Do you feel your efforts are not being appreciated by your superiors?
4. Are your training and skills not being fully utilized?
5. Do you sense that your basic field is too narrow?
6. Does your work lack stimulating challenge?
7. Are you envious of people working in another department of your company?
8. Do you ask yourself, "Why am I knocking myself out in this rat race?"
9. Do you hate to get up in the morning to face your work day?
10. Do you lack pride in your work or feel it doesn't have status with friends?
11. Are you "fed up" with what you're doing?
12. Do you tend to dislike competition, preferring to work with people, not against them?
13. Do you feel like a "lone wolf" in a large organization?

14. Do you seldom tell people, "My company is pretty good"?
15. Are you standing still in your job or growing in it?

ANSWERS

Clearly, the more "Yes" answers you give, the greater your mismatch. Each question, of course, has a different value. It provides clues or implications of how you're out of tune. Here's how career experts interpret the "Yes" responses:

No. 1. You've drifted into a career without planning, perhaps because of parental or economic pressure. You failed to study the alternatives for your skills, thus increasing the probability of a mismatch.

Nos. 2 and 3. Evidently you're not scoring well with your company and probably have been passed over for promotion.

Nos. 4, 5, and 6. Obviously you're not performing at the top level of your capabilities. If your qualifications are not being used, chances are you're not being paid as many dollars as you're actually worth.

No. 7. Your occupational field is probably wrong for you. Instead of production, for example, you may be happier in sales or vice versa.

Nos. 8-11. You are not being stimulated by your job or occupation, which may result in psychological fatigue. You are not identifying with your work when you feel it's beneath you. Frequently, a job or assignment change is the best treatment for the "burned-out" employee. Many tired executives, for instance, are brought to life by new challenges.

No. 12. If you are in a high-pressure, competitive business, why not consider a job with a service organization where you can work with and for people?

Nos. 13 and 14. Your field could be right, but it may be wise to switch companies or go into business for yourself. Many men do better as a big frog in a small puddle, instead of ladder-climbing in a giant corporation. In a small growth company, you can be more creative, expand with it.

No. 15. If you "plateau" in your mid-30s, it's time to start moving, or your lack of a good record can disqualify you for the better jobs. Sure signs of standing still; small or no raises, lack of upgrading.

Now you may have a better picture of where you stand, so you can decide what to do. Before taking action, however, be sure that some temporary mood is not compelling you to cut loose. Don't take another job merely for the sake of change; your reason for changing must be valid.

"If you believe you are mismatched," says John Sullivan, president of The National Registry of New York, "your first step is to assess your talents and relate them realistically to your expectations. Understand who and where you are, and clarify what you're after. Pin down your short- and long-range goals. This will give you the basis for judging the merits of moving to a different job."

Finally, a plan of action should be established. Start by looking around in your present company. Are there opportunities in other departments or divisions better suited to your abilities? Have a frank talk with your boss. With no likely prospects, look outside.

Besides such obvious resources as newspaper ads and employment agencies, consider guidance from a job counselor—or testing service.

Whether it's a mate or a job, it's not easy to make the perfect match. When you do succeed, you'll find a rewarding sense of fulfillment. +

An astonishing South American tomato fruiting tree that gives stunning blossoms for months, blooms yearly even in the North, grows as a tree outdoors and with tropic ease indoors, now is perfected and made available by plant scientists anywhere in America.

What Happened In Half Moon Bay!

The growing fields of California's famous Nurseryman's Exchange are located in Half Moon Bay and there the Danish-American hybridizer, Jerry Jensen, married Brazil's tree tomato to the U.S.A.

South America's luscious tree tomato was discovered by the Danish Indians brought to richest, fullest flavor and lushness by Portuguese missionaries; and hybridized to a super-resistant super-easy-to-grow variety by Jensen.

There are 30 different varieties of tree tomatoes in South America but only one is the lushest, most delicious and easiest to grow of them all! And that one was made over after four years of hybridizing at Half Moon Bay — working with various untweaked, discarded weaker, keeping stronger strains — until the final super variety was ready for you.

Who Put All Those Tomatoes In That Itty Bitty Seed

Imagine one seed does produce over 400 lbs. of tomatoes in one lifetime!

And Brazil's super Tree Tomato is so easy to raise that 80% of normally-planted seeds take, so easy it will grow inside an aplanche a childpendron will grow! So easy, that outside actual tests seeds thrown at random in plowed fields, it grew naturally with no human care.

Each seedling grows to 3 or 4 ft. indoors or up to 8 ft. outdoors or you can stop the growth of the tree at any height you wish between 3 and 6 feet. It is super disease-resistant.

Imagine stunning exotic-shaped leaves up to one foot long! Imagine the constant changing show... first the lovely leaves — then a shower of delicate, fragrant flowers — and finally a beautiful array of juicy luscious tomatoes.

And so prolific that as one crop ripens, Mother Nature sees to it that another crop is taking its place, and this fruiting period goes on for five months.

A Family Delight

Show your children nature's mysterious way of bringing a South American fruit-bearing season right into your own home and reversing the U.S. season, Surprise and delight your friends.

Give Dad the Unusual

By ROSALYN ABBEVAYA.

A CLEVER Dad we know would like just one gift for Father's Day: no bills the day after.

Dedicated to that proposition, FAMILY WEEKLY's annual gift suggestions are for those members of the clan who have saved enough to pay their own way!

1. To keep Dad trim and fit, why not gift him with a Tone-O-Matic belt distributed by American Machine & Foundry? Consisting of 10 pounds of buckshot contained in black vinyl, it slims waist by isometrically forcing muscles to carry more weight while walking, working, or exercising. $20. And if Dad's really the active kind, you can arm him with a Dr. Scholl's Jogger's Survival Kit (not shown) that includes a foot-imprinted sweatshirt, jogger's log and guide, plus foot-care products. $4.95.

2. Fasten the interest piece of jewelry around Dad's wrist: a handsome chain-and-leather watch from Swank. Seventeen-jewel, it features the day and date on its champagne-colored face. $40.

3. How about something lighthearted and whimsical? A package of "Quick Whiskers" from Prince Matchabelli includes adhesive and a starter, supply of Black Watch men's cologne. The artificial mustache, made of real hair, comes in Traditional (straight across), as shown, or Continental style (devilishly curved at the ends) in a choice of shades—even salt-and-pepper! $7.95.

4. Coordinated accessories are the key to the well-dressed Dad. Outfit him with a wardrobe of hose, Burlington's six-pack of stretch socks. They fit all sizes, come in a combination of solid neutral and high-fashion colors. $10.50.

5. If Dad's a home-movie buff, he'll delight in Hahnel Colmatic's motorized Dual-8 film splicer, for Super-8 and regular 8-mm movies. Lever depresses for cutting. Then, at the touch of a button, a sapphire grinding wheel scrapes away the emulsion, producing durable jump-free splices never noticed in your projector. Uses D-size batteries. $29.95.

Most of these gifts are available at your favorite department store.

For the man (or woman) who would like to break out of the salary-rout for good... open doors to thousands of extra dollars of income every year, without risking his present job... and perhaps even start two, three or four little self-perpetuating businesses of his own on the side, that make money for him while he sleeps - here is Just one month and had more than $2,000 cash at any one time."

For an intimate bridal shower, plan an orange-blossom menu. From the first refreshing sip of "orange champagne" through to the final bite of orange-chiffon pie, let the full fragrance of oranges delight your guests.

Orange-Blossom Chiffon Pie

- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 env. unflavored gelatin
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 cup water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

- 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 egg whites

4. Using a clean beater, beat egg white until frothy. Gradually add granulated sugar, continuing to beat until rounded peaks are

- formed. Fold in the gelatin mixture and then the whipped cream.
5. Turn into a baked pastry shell. Using the back of a spoon swirl top. Chill thoroughly. Decorate pie with orange sections or orange sections and pastry cut-outs. One 9-in. pie

Weird New Sonic Lure Caught Fish Like Crazy!

By Lyman Walton, Co-Inventor
As Told to Paul Stag, The Weekend Fisherman

Think of it! My new VIBRATING LURE gives loud, GURGLING-SPLASHING-BUBBLING sounds as you skitter it along the surface of the water! Sends out up to 300 vibrations every minute underneath that water! Looks COMPLETELY UNLIKE ANYTHING THAT ANY FRESH WATER FISH HAS SEEN BEFORE.

And has already used this weird sight and weird sound and weird sonic vibrations — in one of its very first Summer trials — to lure fish into attacking it so savagely that they actually knocked it out of the water. Hauled in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, and pike, even when other lures had caught little or no fish right next to it! Here's why —

CAUGHT! 120 FISH IN ONE HOUR!

Yes! Imagine that YOU were there — at Cattal Lake, Illinois, on August 20, 1961. A hot summer day! A beautiful stream-fed pond — 90 by 60 feet wide! Fishermen trying lures, flies, natural bait! But despite the fact that this is a stocked trout farm with no limit, there is only an occasional strike. It looks like a wasted day!

And then, three die-hard friends decide to try their luck with me! We start to cast from the edge of the water. At the end of our lines is an ENTIRELY DIFFERENT LURE — a weird little metal monster — that casts like a bullet, and flutters back through the water like a drowling bat!

EVEN EXPERIENCED FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT! Almost at once THAT QUIET WATER EXPLODES INTO ACTION! The first strike causes a shout of excitement! And then a second strike! A third, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth! Beautiful rainbows and browns all shimmering from the water — being pulled in at the rate of more than one every minute!

Now the water is almost exploding with fish striking! Sometimes four and five trout savagely attack one lure at the same time! Fifty — seventy — ninety fish are caught and released! People along the shore stop to watch the spectacle!

In one short hour, we have caught and released 120 fish! All WITH the very same weird little lure that can go to work for you next week, without your risking a penny.

WHAT'S THE SECRET? UNDERWATER SONIC VIBRATIONS!

Why did this bat-shaped lure catch fish by the stringer-full — even after ordinary lures, and natural bait have caught little or nothing? For this simple reason —

Because this lure gives off unique GURGLING-BUBBLING-SPLASHING SURFACE NOISES — plus up to 300 sonic vibrations every minute underneath that water — that I believe FISH FIND IRRESISTIBLE!

Yes! I am certain that sonic pulsations are the answer to every fisherman's prayer. I have studied the Navy Fish Biologist reports about the sounds fish make between themselves in the water! I have seen fish follow the propellers of a boat as though they were hypnotized by the sound.

And I have always believed that if I could take those gurgling, bubbling, splashing surface sounds and underwater vibrations — that actually seemed to CALL FISH TO THEM — and build that sound into a "Vibrating Lure" that it could haul in eye-popping catches, even where ordinary lures had caught little or nothing at all! Even in hard-fished waters where the wise old fish run away from ordinary lures!

JUST READ THESE FISH-CATCHING ACHIEVEMENTS!

TRY IT AT OUR RISK!

Yes! Research showed me that lures, like fish, create Sonic Vibrations in the water by their movements! So I have designed the lure that I estimate PLUCKS THROUGH THAT WATER UP TO 200 TIMES A MINUTE! Wing-shaped — bat-like — JERRING AND FLUTTERING MADLY THROUGH THAT

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF THE VIBRA-BAT LURE AND ITS SONIC-EFFECT UNDER WATER! I believe it to be irresistible to fish! Try it entirely at our risk!

WATER — SENDING OUT IRRESISTIBLE SONIC WAVES — GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING SURFACE SOUND THAT TRAVEL THROUGH WATER IN EVERY DIRECTION, AT THE RATE OF 4750 FEET EVERY SECOND, THE ACTUAL SPEED OF SOUND UNDER WATER!

No wonder this "VIBRA-BAT" lure caught a 10 pound 7½ ounce Northern on one of its first tests — only moments after it hit the water — hauled in six bass in sixty minutes in another test, all 2½ pounds or larger — pulled in perch by the dozens in a third test at Belmont Harbor, Illinois, even after live bait and lures had scarcely a strike, and CONTINUED to land so many fish, so quickly, THAT FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

No wonder our tests show this revolutionary new lure hauls in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, pike, salmon and other fresh water fish even in hard fished waters — produces strikes even when other fishermen alongside it are going almost unrewarded!

HOW TO BE A HERO IN YOUR OWN BACKYARD

10 Bright Barbecue Ideas from Reynolds Wrap

LINE YOUR GRILL
Use Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. The foil reflects the heat evenly over the entire grill. Foods cook more evenly. Faster, too. And it's clean-up time just bundle up the sides in the foil and throw 'em away.

CLAMBAKE-IN-A-BUNDLE. On a 24" piece of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap arrange a large frozen lobster tail (or a 1 lb. fresh-killed lobster as shown above); a chicken leg; 6 clams; an ear of corn, silk removed; a scrubbed potato; an onion; ½ cup clam juice. Bring up sides of foil and seal with double fold. Double-fold ends. Place bundle, seam side down, on a second sheet of Heavy Duty foil. Wrap and seal with double fold. Place on grill 4" inches from coals. Cook 1 hour turning every 15 minutes. Serve with melted butter and lemon. Serves one. (The big idea is the no-fuss foil bundle. Works fine, too, with beef or lamb or chicken, and vegetables.)

PEACHES-IN-A-POKE. Arrange two peach halves on a 9 inch square of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon, chopped almonds and (optional) a teaspoon of brandy or rum. Bring foil up and twist-top to close tight. Cook on grill over medium-hot fire about 16 minutes.

HOT GARLIC BREAD. Cut a loaf of Italian Bread in ½ inch slices, not quite through bottom crust. Combine ½ cup softened butter or margarine with 1 minced garlic clove, 1 teaspoon parsley flakes, ¼ teaspoon oregano, ¼ teaspoon dried dill. Spread mixture generously between slices. Wrap loosely in Reynolds Wrap and heat on grill 16 minutes.

"INSTANT HIBACHI!"

While the main dish is cooking on your big grill, let your guests cook their own appetizers kebabs on your "Instant Hibachi." Just line a big cast iron kettle (or oven an old bucket) with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap and build the fire right on the foil.

Delight your family...dazzle your friends...with delicious (and different) dishes that end forever the same-old-thing cookout.

What does it take? Two important ingredients: Reynolds Wrap and your own creativity. Reynolds Wrap is a must for outdoor barbecuing because you can cook in it, even over the hottest coals! It has a special resistance to tearing, so it safely seals in juices and flavors. It keeps hot foods hot till ready to serve. Molds tight and holds tight to any shape...from a lobster to a peach-in-a-poke.

How come? Because every inch of Reynolds Wrap is oven-tempered for flexible strength. Strong, dependable Reynolds Wrap. The barbecue buff's best friend.

FOIL-ROASTED CORN ON THE COB
Remove husks and silk. Brush corn with melted butter or margarine. Wrap each ear tightly in Reynolds Wrap. Roast on top of grill over hot fire about 16 minutes. Foil seals in the fresh-corn flavor and aroma. Foil baked potatoes are great, too. Just scrub the spuds and wrap each one tightly in Heavy Duty foil. Place them directly on the coals around the edge of the fire. Bake about 45 minutes.

SUMMER SQUASH TREAT
Put half-inch slices of squash on very thin onion slices in center of a square of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Season with salt, pepper and snips of fresh dill. Dot with butter. Seal foil with double fold and cook on grill about 25 minutes. Divine! And, you can cook tomatoes, pearl onions and all kinds of frozen vegetables on your outdoor grill, too. The real secret is the tightly sealed foil packet idea.

SPIT ROASTING?
Make a foil pan to catch the drippings. Just turn up all four edges of a double-thickness length of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap in the shape of a narrow rectangular pan and place in front of the coals, directly under the meat. Avoids flame flare-ups.

QUICKIE OVEN
Bake-and-serve biscuits and rolls bake beautifully on the grill. Place them on a sheet of Heavy Duty foil and cover them with another sheet. Good idea with hot dog and hamburger rolls, too.

WONDERFUL WOODY FLAVOR
Soak hickory chips in water and wrap them tightly in foil. Punch holes in the foil to let smoke escape and place the packet right on the coals. Hickory chips won't flame up and burn.

REYNOLDS WRAP
OVEN-TEMPERED
