JOHN L. LEWIS, the longtime leader of the United Mine Workers of America, and vocal champion of unionism in mining, died Wednesday in Washington. (UPI telephoto)

Mine Leader John L. Lewis Dies At 89 In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John L. Lewis burst onto the American labor scene at a time when coal was king. When he departed thousands of coal miners in Appalachia and elsewhere in the nation were out of work. They had been replaced by bulldozers, shovels, and trucks. Coal had been replaced by gas, oil, and even the atom.

Dean Acheson Asks More Arms Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dean Acheson, secretary of state in the administration of President Harry S. Truman, said Wednesday the United States is spending too little—not too much—on arms.

He died Wednesday night at the age of 89. Lewis, longtime president of the United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) and first president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO), retired nine years ago as head of the "Mine Workers." He was married with presidents, industrialists and other union leaders.

Reds Continue Attacks

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. soldiers defending a brand-new camp northeast of Saigon leveled their artillery today and blasted Communist troops that carried through their barbed wire.

Twenty Communist troops got through the barbed wire but were stopped at a mound of dirt bulldozers had built around the GI's foxholes. Lamb said, Three hours after they attacked, the North Vietnamese pulled back.

Government spokesmen said the heaviest barrage Wednesday night into a population center was a two-round salvo that killed eight civilians and wounded eight at Khim Dam, 105 miles northeast of Saigon.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said two Marine helicopters were shot down over the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) during the past weekend trying to rescue a Leatherneck patrol under attack.

South Vietnamese losses for the week were 457 killed and 1,391 wounded. Communist deaths were put at 3,930, subject to revision next week.

Kremlin Boosts Troops

LONDON (UPI)—The Kremlin has sent massive reinforcements to strengthen defenses along key points of the Soviet Union's 4,000-mile frontier with Communist China, diplomatic reports said today.

Despite the growing tension, the two Communist giants were not expected to move toward a major armed confrontation, at least for some time to come. However, diplomatic sources said "latest" indications suggested increased tension in areas to come with occasional local clashes of varying intensity.

The Soviet Union, in turn, is unlikely to unleash preventive war against China, even though its chances of success are now better than in five or 10 years hence when Peking's nuclear capabilities would be much higher.

Revenue Support

The nation's postal system and the public transit systems of nearly every major city have a lot in common, more than just the fact that both are engaged in the business of moving objects from one place to another. Both are caught in a vicious circle of rising costs and deteriorating service. In most cities, the traditional answer has been to raise fares and cut service, with the result that more and more commuters turn to private means of transportation, fare-box revenues lag further behind expenditures and things are worse off than they were before. The Nixon administration now wants to raise postal rates across the board. First-class letters would go from 6 to 7 cents an ounce. It requires no particular sagacity to predict that the post office's annual multi-million-dollar deficit will hardly be reduced by this increase, but it will be less wiped out, and that service will not noticeably improve any more than these things happened when the fee went from 5 cents to 6 cents last year. The difference between the postal service and a bus company, of course, is that the former has no lack of patrons. That, in fact, is its problem — mail volume is out-running the system's capacity to handle it efficiently, at least as it is presently structured. The problem will only get worse, for while people may grumble about increases in the cost of stamps, they have little recourse to private means of mail delivery. Both the nation's postal system and its transit systems pose a common question; however, one which we may ask ourselves some day when we tire of running around in the vicious circle: Can the mass transportation of people or of mail be self-supporting? Should they really be expected to be self-supporting? Or are they both essential public services from which all of us benefit, whether or not all of us utilize them, and as such qualify for the broad-based support of the entire public? In other words, by subsidy from general tax revenues? Strangely, we shrink at the thought, yet we do not expect our police or fire departments or the U. S. Army to be "self-supporting."

WASHINGTON — Broadcasters and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) are bracing for an attack on radio and television programming policies directed by a top theorist of the "New Left." Stations here and in neighboring states will be the first to feel the impact of the inquiry. Radio and television outlets in other areas may be subjected to similar scrutiny later. While programming policies of broadcasters will be the initial focus for a legal task force headed by Marcus Raskin, director of the Institute for Policy Studies here, FCC licensing policies — the standards by which stations are licensed — are its ultimate target. Under the Federal Communications Act, the airwaves are public property, Raskin explains that his task force wants to find out whether licensed broadcasters operate in the public interest or their own, commercial interests. The three-year licenses of all broadcasters in this area — D.C., Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia — expire together on Oct. 1. That is why they are to be the first ones to have their programming reviewed by the Raskin group. Raskin hopes "an analysis of programming and public interest" for those stations can be made public by the group well in advance of the expiration date. Raskin has been an outspoken critic of the Vietnam war and a political activist and writer for "New Left" causes. A year ago he was found guilty in a much publicized case, of conspiring to advise young men to evade the draft. He was the only defendant acquitted in that Boston case which resulted in guilty verdicts against Dr. Benjamin Spock, the non-believing pediatrician, Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., the Yale University chaplain, and two others. Raskin has rounded up half a dozen lawyers and law students, well acquainted with communications law, to do the spadework in the inquiry. "If that respect, the group is more or less consciously patterned after 'Nader's Raiders' — a group organized by Ralph Nader to study the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). However, 'Nader's Raiders' were only able to level public criticism against FTC policies which they found to be ineffectual. The Raskin group can and will go further. At license renewal time other applicants can challenge renewal requests. Very few have done so. The Raskin group will, in effect, be spotlighting licenses which might be subject to successful challenge. The group cannot assist in such a challenge on failure to provide adequate community services. Recent revision of FCC regulations will make the challenge process a bit more difficult for the Raskin group and others who may want to contest renewals in the future. Under new rules, a challenge application could be filed at any time before renewal, but newly approved regulations require that renewals be made by 30 days before the renewal date. Nevertheless, if the Raskin group publishes criticism of stations hereabouts in the early autumn, some of them may find their renewal applications challenged before the deadline. Raskin talks of the public — the community served by a radio or television station — as finding ways to take back the airways which it owns. That is tough talk for broadcasters, but at least two members of the FCC agree that some programming fails to serve the public interest. Moreover, the two commissioners, Nicholas Johnson and Kenneth A. Cox, recently questioned whether their FCC colleagues are interested in applying "any standards at all" in the renewal of licenses. The FCC commissioners commented in dissenting with respect to the renewal of licenses for certain radio and television stations in New York State. They did not propose that licenses be revoked or suspended, but they suggested that the FCC should look "more closely" at applications for renewal of public affairs programming by certain stations. Specifically, they recommended further inquiry into the operation of seven of the 24 commercial television stations in New York State.

centuries, the most accurate gauge of how much food he needs. Your constant efforts to "get a decent meal down him" may be generating some emotional reaction — both in him and in you. This business of falling out of his crib is another matter. Some babies are kept in "snuggly-bunnies," or what ever you care to call them. But once liberated, they are unwilling to go back to them, as a rule. Children's hospitals solve the problem of "climbers" by putting a broad-based net, like a piece of fine muslin, over the crib. It doesn't shut off air or interfere with the view. The mesh is just small enough to prevent a child from getting through it. As to the hyperactivity question, I think it is probably pretty early to speculate on that. Your child may be just an active, healthy age. Very active. Try giving him three meals a day and let him decide when he's had enough. If he gets into things — put breakable or dangerous things out of reach, and be glad that he's healthy enough to be active. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why does a woman have to wait six weeks to have relations with a man after she has a baby? Will anything happen to her if she doesn't wait? Mrs. D.S.R. It takes about that long for the uterus to return to its normal, non-pregnant state. The chief concern is infection. Probably nothing would happen if she doesn't wait the six weeks, but there can be a risk. Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a slight yellowish discharge from the navel? It only lasts about a day at a time. Could this be cancer? D.K. I see no reason to suspect cancer. Do suspect some sort of lingering infection. See your doctor while it is still mild. Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a woman is six weeks into with her period, can a doctor tell by examining her if she is pregnant? My friends say a laboratory urine test can do it. Can I just go to the hospital to have this done? My doctor is on vacation for the next two months. D.S.B. Didn't he tell you of some other doctor to see while he is away? If not, the county medical society can refer you. Or the hospital obstetric can refer you to a suitable physician. The test usually has to be done on a physician's order. Troubled with gout? GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Baby Problems

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 20 months old and I am having several troubles which I would like you to advise me on. He refuses to eat. If I get a decent meal down him once in two days, I'm doing well, and it isn't much compared to what other children eat. Second, and most nerve-racking, is his refusal to go to sleep. He has been told to "let him cry himself to sleep, but we can't do this because he tries to climb out of his crib and has taken several bad falls. Then he wakes up early, and goes from pillar to post finding what he can get into. Please don't think he's a little devil, for he is not destructive or mean, just very loud. I have talked to our family doctor, and a pediatrician, but have not received any satisfaction. Just recently I read an article about a young child and am wondering if this could be our problem. Where can we go to find out? Mrs. D. L. First child, 20 months. Don't mention brothers or sisters. The first two problems — eating and sleeping — are the most frequent ones brought to my attention, and to the attention of other doctors. So frequent that occasionally a doctor has to fight down a temptation to hope that the next baby he sees will have some more "treatable" complaint. As to eating — sounds to me as though your youngster is getting enough for his needs. Nearly all babies do unless they are sick. If he is growing, that's all that matters. Worrying about whether he is eating enough, because he will be. He certainly sounds active enough for his age. Maybe, just maybe, you are overestimating the amount he "ought" to eat. A healthy baby's appetite remains, after all these

Church Teachings

In the long history of the churches, the shepherds have frequently tended to go off in different directions from their flocks — or vice versa — but never has the division been as widespread as it seems to be today. Two University of California sociologists, Prof. Charles Y. Glock and Rodney Stark, have concluded a five-year analysis of prejudice and church belief in the United States. A few of their findings; While 75 to 90 per cent of Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders and clergy are working actively against racial and religious discrimination, the majority of church members are not only prejudiced but also deny the right of the churches to challenge their prejudices. Racial prejudice is higher among members with conservative theological views and among members who are most active in church activities. The traditional Christian image of man prompts such people to blame the miseries of the disadvantaged on their own shortcomings. Half of American Christians continue to blame the Jews for the Crucifixion, despite official church pronouncements to the contrary. Catholics are a little less prejudiced than Protestants and liberal Protestants are a little less prejudiced than conservative Protestants. When the churches search for support for their ethical teachings, they are more likely to find it among those who stay home on Sunday. The sociologists emphasize that "great many devout Christians" do accept their churches' ethical precepts and are trying to fight prejudice, "but when the whole range of Christians is examined, ethical commitment is, seemingly, not the typical product of religious devotion."

Czechoslovakia's Future

PRAGUE — A young Czech student working on his doctorate of wine in Prague had explained that the principal reason why he and his friends so detest Gustav Husak, the country's new leader, is not because of possible new price increases nor the way the newspapers have been turned back into a unending propaganda tract nor even the fact that Husak is a Slovak. "We cannot stand Husak because he loves the Russians so much," the worker continued in terms considerably more colorful than that. "For that, we can never forgive him. The current propaganda suddenly explains Czechoslovakia's bleak prospect today. Husak and his even more strongly pro-Soviet rivals are in power solely at the pleasure of Moscow. That makes it impossible for them to effectively lead a country whose masses, once deeply anti-Soviet, were made the most anti-Russian in the world by last August's invasion. For this continued economic stagnation and national despair are forecast by Czech liberals such as one professor at Charles University who told us: "The people here the Russians and the Russians are determined to run the country; I see very poor future for Czechoslovakia. That Soviet determination is evidenced in Moscow's stance insistence on the restoration of free expression and the purges for instance, the recent removal of Milan Cernik, the popular respected public intellectual, Cernovsky's criticism of Zpravy, the non-Soviet occupation newspaper, and his insistence that the public be changed with crimes he tried by Czechoslovak authorities had made him unacceptable. His election to the Central Committee members for anti-Soviet utterances. Similarly, the Soviets are behind the closing proposal now being considered by the regime to close Czechoslovakia's distinguished Academia — source of the past year's economic and cultural reform act and a hub of Communist Party in Moscow's eyes. "I am extremely pessimistic about the future of the Czech government recently scheduled a musical theater troupe to perform in Moscow. In Prague the Russian film and television reappeared on television. In response, the people are still angry. They resent their and Soviet rioting of March 28 handed the Russians the long-awaited pretext to repress surviving reformers. They also know further violence would produce harsher repression. "I don't see any way for Czechs to show how they feel about the Russians. When a Soviet trade mission held a press conference here, Czech Journalists declared the ban and spoke — even after annoyed Russian uprising. A more forceful protest, unpublicized locally, came two weeks ago at a shipbuilding plant in Prague's industrial suburbs where workers staged an impromptu sit-down strike rather than put on a program for visiting Soviet officials. Russian occupation troops still get the silent treatment in provincial towns where they are quartered. "Russophobia, strong though it is in the masses, is deeper still among liberal intellectuals who believe last August's Soviet tanks destroyed history's last chance to show that Communism and individual liberty can be compatible. "I am aware that any hint of Czechoslovakia's leaving the Soviet bloc would instantly bring Russia's intervention, those liberal voices severely limited reform talk in 1968 to domestic matters. For instance, the liberal weekly Respekt, which was once reputedly aligned with a Czechoslovak non-alignment policy. Now, the liberals realize that their effort was futile because the Soviet system cannot tolerate the infection of free expression, anywhere among Warsaw Pact nations. "This reality precludes any negotiations of 1968's golden days, but surprisingly few liberals are emigrating. A typical case is that of Jozefek, the former Olympic long distance running champion and Czech national hero who was expelled as an army officer because of anti-Soviet statements. Zatepek has coaching offers from many countries (including the U.S.), but he's not accepting any. He's placed here to the bitter end," he told a friend recently. "That end will be bitter, indeed, in the opinion of the lib-herald until the day for off if it ever comes, of a liberalization in the Soviet Union. A former commentator on Radio Prague, prohibited now from writing or broadcasting, told us with typical Czech irony "I see the Russians rejoining — about 20 years from now." It was the most optimistic prophecy we heard in Prague.

Assassination

NEWS ITEM: NBC TV Pays $11,500 for Exclusive Interview With Sirhan Sirhan. Mr. Crump, I understand you are an expert on the assassination of Dr. King. I am thinking of assassinating a major public figure, and I was wondering how much money I could make on it. "It's really depends on the victim. If it's a major public figure, there is quite a bit of money to be made. Previous assassinations have been paid hundreds of thousands of dollars. "That's no problem. We can find a writer to work with you. You sign an exclusive contract with him for your story and then we work out a split. "Well, can you give me some idea of how much money we'd be talking about? "First, there are a few rights. I know several publishers who are willing to go to six figures for the exclusive story and then we work out a split. "After we make a magazine deal, we'll make a newspaper syndication. I'm certain I can create some interest there. "What about television? "Well, that will have to be on an exclusive basis. I don't want you appearing on every network for free. If you see a

MR. SPECTATOR

By Bus -- To Hawaii

Advertisements are interesting — and probably one of the most interesting. Mr. Spectator has come across in many a moon is one on the back of the May-June issue of Continental Trailways Magazine. Said the advertisement: "Continental Trailways Invites You To Take A Hawaiian Panoramic Holiday. Visit The Islands. 7 Day Island of Oahu; 12-day Islands of Oahu, Kauai, Maui, Hawaii. Leave Any Day." The "and" continued by pointing out you will always remember black sand and coral reefs, thundering surf, rainbow encircled misty mountains, flower-carpeted valleys, orchids, beak-foot hedges, the scent of ginger, torch-lit tunnels, Polynesian music, dinners by candle light and the laughter, warmth and relaxed tempo of Aloha Land. So there you have it. A beautiful advertisement about using the bus for a great vacation. Only one thing Mr. Spectator is suspicious of. Nowhere in the spread was there any mention of how you would get from the mainland to the islands. "I'll tell me this is by bus. And if it is — what a way to go!

COMPACT CREATURES The ant having been studied and found not much smarter than people, scientists now turn their attention to some other compact creatures. From the mosquito, for example, they seek to learn how it can make that buzz heard by other mosquitoes 100 feet away even when thunderstorms are booming or sirens wailing. This is not idle curiosity that sets men studying mosquitoes and ants, but a serious search for information that can be put to work for man. Already study of the ant's sound-hounding guidance system has proved useful in the development of sonar, and interested parties are trying to figure out the system — the ant's ability — to navigate with accuracy even in overcast. Certainly there's much to be learned from the creatures that share this planet with man and nature doesn't sue for infringement of patent. In the case of the mosquito, however, there's nothing remarkable in one mosquito killing 100 or thereabouts another mosquito 100 feet away. Because in mosquito country there's bound to be.

a cook for headquarters troops, 116th Armored Cavalry of Twin Falls. The 116th is in its final week of training near Boise. In the center picture, keeping the radios working are SFC Elton Fossenden, left, and Sgt. Larry Simmons. In the

general of the Sixth Army from Presidio, Calif., near San Francisco. Gen. Darnell is accompanied by Col. Theodore R. Pence, Buhl, regimental commander.

Guard Troops Near End Of Desert Training

BOISE — The 3,000 National Guardsmen of the 116th Armored Cavalry Regiment returned to Gowen Field early this week after spending eight days in the desert, 30 miles south of Boise. In the field, the cavalrymen underwent platoon-size testing of combat readiness by the 75th Maneuver Area Command from Dallas, Tex. Each of the regiments' 33 tank and armored cavalry platoons was tested in addition to the three howitzer batteries. As a result of the tests, according to Col. Theodore R. Pence, Buhl, regimental commander, training will be intensified in some areas. "However, as a whole," he said, "the results are gratifying." Last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, dusty convoys of tanks and towed howitzers arrived at Gowen Field where permanent barracks, comfortable cots and hot showers greeted the dusty troops. But their work was not over. They have several more days work, cleaning and servicing weapons, vehicles and tanks. Tanks, guns and armored personnel carriers which are stored at Gowen Field the year-around must be spotless before turning. Each item is inspected by officers and maintenance men before it is accepted. Thursday, the guardsmen enjoyed their first free time since field training began. But, they will get the day off only when all equipment that must be turned in is accepted. Friday, they receive paychecks representing two weeks' regular army pay for the time they spend in training. On Friday, also, the guardsmen will prepare for their return to homes throughout Idaho and Nevada. They will depart Gowen Field on Saturday. The 116th Armored Cavalry, headquartered in Twin Falls, is composed of the First Squadron with units at Caldwell, Homedale, Boise, Buhl, Gooding, Nampa, Weiser, Payette and Emmett; the Second Squadron from Pocatello, Jerome, Hatley, Burley, Twin Falls, Rupert and Preston, and the Third Squadron from Nevada.

Officer Faces New Charges In Riot Case

DETROIT (UPI) — Ronald W. August, suspended Detroit policeman, has been acquitted only of the first-degree murder charge in the death of Aubrey Pollard, 19. Fred Temple, 18, and Carl Cooper, 17, also were killed in the Algiers Motel that night during the 1967 Detroit riots. Several charges have been filed against August, policeman David Senak, 27, and Robert Paille, 33; and private guard Melvin Dismukes. The status of those charges: —Paille was charged with first degree murder in the death of Fred Temple, 18. The nation's postal system and the public transit systems of nearly every major city have a lot in common...

Both are caught in a vicious circle of rising costs and deteriorating service.

In most cities, the traditional answer has been to raise fares and cut service...

The Nixon administration now wants to raise postal rates across the board...

It requires no particular sagacity to predict that the post office's annual multi-million-dollar deficit will hardly be dented...

The difference between the postal service and a bus company, of course, is that the former has no lack of patrons. That, in fact, is its problem...

The problem will only get worse, for while people may grumble about increase in the cost of stamps...

Both the nation's postal system and its transit systems pose a common question, however, one which we may ask ourselves some day...

Can the mass transportation of people or of mail be self-supporting? Should they really be expected to be self-supporting?

Or are they both essential public services from which all of us benefit, whether or not all of us utilize them...

Strangely, we shrink at the thought, yet we do not expect our police or fire departments or the U. S. Army to be "self-supporting."

About Those Radio-TV Licenses

WASHINGTON — Broadcasters and the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) are bracing for an attack on radio and television programming policies...

Stations here and in neighboring states will be the first to feel the impact of the inquiry...

While programming policies of broadcasters will be the initial focus for a legal task force headed by Marcus Raskin...

Raskin hopes "an analysis of programming in the public interest" for those stations can be made public by the group well in advance of the expiration date.

Raskin has been an outspoken critic of the Vietnam war and a political activist and writer for "New Left" causes.

He was the only defendant acquitted in that Boston case which resulted in guilty verdicts against Dr. Benjamin Spock...

Raskin has rounded up half a dozen lawyers and law students, well acquainted with communications law, to do the spadework in the inquiry.

group publishes criticism of stations hereabouts in the early autumn, some of them may demand their renewal applications be challenged before the deadline.

Raskin talks of the public community served by a radio or television station — as finding ways to take back the airwaves which it owns.

Moreover, the two commissioners, Nicholas Johnson and Kenneth A. Cox, recently questioned whether their FCC colleagues are interested in applying an "standard at all" in the renewal of licenses.

The two commissioners commented in dissenting "with respect to the renewal of licenses for certain radio and television stations in New York State."

They did not propose that licenses be revoked or suspended, but they urged that the FCC should look "more closely" at time allotted to news and public affairs programming by certain stations.

Specifically, they recommended further inquiry into the operation of seven of the 24 commercial television stations in New York State.

Church Teachings

In the long history of the churches, the shepherds have frequently tended to go off in different directions from their flocks...

Two University of California sociologists, Prof. Charles Y. Glock and Rodney Stark, have concluded a five-year analysis of prejudice and church belief in the United States.

A few of their findings: While 75 to 90 per cent of Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders and clergy are working actively against racial and religious discrimination...

Racial prejudice is higher among members with conservative theological views and among members who are most active in church activities. The traditional Christian image of man prompts such people to blame the miseries of the disadvantaged on their own shortcomings.

Half of American Christians continue to blame the Jews for the Crucifixion, despite official church pronouncements to the contrary.

Catholics are a little less prejudiced than Protestants and liberal Protestants are a little less prejudiced than conservative Protestants.

When the churches search for support for their ethical teachings, they are more likely to find it among those who stay home on Sunday.

The sociologists emphasize that "a great many devout Christians" do accept their churches' ethical precepts and are trying to fight prejudice, but when the whole picture of Christians is examined, ethical commitment is, seemingly, not the typical product of religious devotion.

Czechoslovakia's Future

PRAGUE — A young Czech street worker polishing off a bottle of wine in a Prague bar explained that the principal reason why he and his friends so detest Dr. Gustav Husak, the country's new leader, is not because of possible new prices...

"We cannot stand Husak because he loves the Russians so much," the worker continued in terms considerably more colorful than that "for that, we can never forgive him."

"That barren analysis succinctly explains Czechoslovakia's bleak prospect today. Husak and his even more strongly pro-Soviet rivals are in power solely because of the pleasure of Moscow. That makes it impossible for them to effectively lead a country whose masses, once deeply russophile, were made the most anti-Russian in the world by just August's invasion."

Accordingly, continued economic stagnation and national despair to forecast by Czech liberals such as one professor at Charles University who told us: "The people hate the Russians and the Russians are determined to ruin the country. I see a very poor future for Czechoslovakia."

That Soviet determination is evidenced in Moscow's stage management of free expression and the respect of Milos Cernovsky, the highly respected public prosecutor. Cernovsky's criticism of the Soviet occupation forces in the past year's newspaper, and his insistence that Soviet soldiers charged with crimes be tried by Czechoslovak authorities has made him unacceptable. His ouster was the prelude to purging six Central Committee members for anti-Soviet utterances.

Similarly, eyes are cast behind the shocking proposal now secretly considered by the regime to close Czechoslovakia's borders to the West. The source of the past year's economic and political reform schemes and a lobbyist of Communist hypocrisy in Moscow's eyes.

Less abrasively, the Russians are pressing the Husak regime to reforge Soviet-Czech cultural ties. A much fortifying by the theatrical producer, the Czech government recently scheduled a musical theater troupe to perform in Moscow. In Prague, Russian films have suddenly reappeared on television.

In response, the people are sullen and passive. They realize their anti-Soviet rioting of March 1968 handed the Russians the long-awaited pretext to repress surviving reforms of 1968. They also know further violence would produce harsher repression.

But there are safer ways for Czechs to show how they feel about the Russians. When a Soviet trade mission held a press conference here, Czech journalists declined the buffet and vodka—even after annoyed Russian organizers. A major Soviet protest, unpublicized locally, came two weeks ago at a shipbuilding plant in Prague's industrial suburb where workers staged a strike.

Impromptu sit-down strikes rather than put on a program for visiting Soviet officers. Russian occupation troops still get the "hottest" treatment in provincial towns where they are quartered.

Nonetheless, strong though it is in the masses, it is deeper still among liberal intellectuals who believe last August's Soviet tanks destroyed history's last chance to show that Communism and individual liberty can be compatible.

Aware that any hint of Czechoslovakian leaning toward the Soviet bloc would instantly bring in a Soviet intervention, those liberals severely limited all reform talk in 1968 to domestic matters. For instance, the liberal weekly Reporter killed all material even remotely suggesting a Czechoslovak "non-alignment" policy. Now, the most realistic hope is the effort was futile because the Soviet system cannot tolerate the infection of free expression and where among Warsaw Pact nations.

That reality precludes any renaissance of 1968's golden days. The only hope is to attract immigrants. A typical case is Emil Zatepek, the former Olympic distance running champion and Czech national hero who was cashiered as an army officer because of anti-Soviet statements. Zatepek has coaching offers from many countries (including the U.S.), but he's not accepting any. "My place is here to the bitter end," he told me recently.

That end will be bitter, indeed, in the opinion of the liberals until the day, far off if it ever comes, of a liberalization in the Soviet regime itself.

A former commentator for Radio Prague, published now from his writing or postcarding, told us with typical Czech irony: "I see the Russians relenting—about 20 years from now. It was the most optimistic prophecy we heard in Prague."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Baby Problems

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 20 months old and I am having several troubles which I think may be related.

He refuses to eat. If I get a decent meal down him once or twice he'll eat a little, but it isn't much compared to what other children eat.

Second, I'm most nervous-wracking. Is his refusal to go to bed because he's been told to let him cry himself to sleep, but we can't do this because he tries to climb out of his crib and has taken several bad falls.

Then he wakes up early, and goes from pillar to post finding what he can get into. Please don't think he's a "devil" for he is not destructive or mean, but very loving.

I have talked to our family doctor and a pediatrician, but haven't received any satisfactory article on the hyperactive child and am wondering if this could be a real problem.

When we go to bed, we go to find out—Mrs. D. L.

First child, maybe? You don't mention brothers or sisters.

The two problems—crying and sleeping—are the most frequent ones brought to my attention, and to the attention of other doctors. So frequent that occasional sleeplessness to fight down the temptation to hope that the next baby he sees will have some more "treatable" complaints.

As to eating—sounds to me as though your youngster is getting enough for his needs.

He's not eating because he's sick. If he is growing satisfactorily, then I'd stop worrying about whether he is eating enough, because he will be eating certainly sounds active enough.

Maybe, just maybe, you are overestimating the amount he "ought" to eat. A healthy baby's appetite remains, after all these years, the same.

"What else?"

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a slight yellowish discharge from the navel? It only lasts about a day at a time. Could this be cancer?—D.K.

I see no reason to suspect cancer, but I do suspect some sort of lingering infection. See your doctor while it is still mild.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a woman is six weeks late with her period, can a doctor tell by examining her if she is pregnant? Her friends say a laboratory or urine test can be done. Can I just go to the hospital to have this done? My doctor is on a vacation for the next two months.—D.D.S.

Didn't he tell you of some other doctor to see while he is away? If not, the county medical society can refer you. Or the hospital doubtless can refer you to a suitable physician. The test usually has to be done on a physician's order.

Troubled with gout? To learn if you have it, see your doctor. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the book "Gout—The Modern Way To Stop It."

Long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Red China

In any discussion of Asia, Red China looms large in the power base. But there is no evidence that the giant is more than a second-rate country.

By any economic measurement, which is the criterion of power among nations, Red China shows up poorly. More poorly, perhaps, than at any time in recent years.

In 1961, the World Bank estimated Red China's per capita income at $55. That is lower than most countries of Asia, including Cambodia, Ceylon and Thailand, usually regarded as the poorer states.

Last year Red China's agricultural output was estimated to be less than the two million tons produced in 1967, and its industrial output was off 10 to 15 per cent from the previous year.

Red China's total output today is about one-fifth that of Japan, which in 1968 passed West Germany as the free world's second largest producer in terms of gross national product.

MR. SPECTATOR

By Bus -- To Hawaii

Advertisements are interesting—and probably one of the most interesting Mr. Spectator has come across in many a moon is one on the back of the May-June issue of Continental Trailways Magazine.

Said the advertisement: "Continental Trailways Invites You To Take A Hawaiian Panoramic Holiday. Visit The Islands. 7-Day Island of Oahu; 12-day, Islands Of Oahu, Kauai, Maui, Hawaii, Leave Any Day."

The "ad" continued by pointing out you will always remember black sand and coral reefs, thundering surf, rainbow encrusted misty mountains, flower-carpeted valleys, orchids, boatstake hedged, the scent of ginger, torch-lit lands, Polynesian music, dinners by candle light and the laughter, warmth and relaxed tempo of Aloha Land.

So there you have it. A beautiful advertisement about using the bus for a great vacation.

Only one thing, Mr. Spectator, is suspicious of. Nowhere in the spread would get from the mainland to the islands.

Don't tell me this is by bus! And if it is — what a way to go!

COMPACT CREATURES The new flying bear studied and found not much smarter than people, scientists now turn their attention to some other compact creatures.

From the mosquito, for example, they seek to learn how it can make that buzz heard by other mosquitoes 100 feet away even when thunderstorms are booming or sirens wailing.

This is not idle curiosity that sets men studying mosquitoes and ants, but a serious search for information that can be put to work for man. Already study of the bat's sound-bouncing guidance system has proved useful in the development of some of the most remarkable machines ever trying to figure out the system that enables bees to navigate with accuracy even in overcast.

Certainly there's much to be learned from the creatures that share this planet with man and nature doesn't sue for infringement of patent. In the case of the mosquito, however, there's nothing remarkable in one mosquito knowing another mosquito 100 feet away.

Because in mosquito country there's bound to be,

Guard Troops Near End Of Desert Training

BOISE — The 3,000 National Guardsmen of the 116th Armored Cavalry Regiment returned to Gowen Field early this week after spending eight days in the desert 30 miles south of Boise. In the field, the cavalrymen underwent platoon-size testing of combat readiness by the 75th Maneuver Area Command from Dallas, Tex.

Each of the regiments 33 tank and armored cavalry platoons was tested in addition to the three howitzer batteries. As a result of the tests, according to Col. Theodore R. Pence, Buhl, regimental commander, training will be intensified in some areas. "However, as a whole," he said, "the results are gratifying."

Last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, dusty convoys of tanks and towed howitzers arrived at Gowen Field where permanent barracks, comfortable cots and hot showers greeted the dusty troops. But their work was not over. They have several more days work, cleaning and servicing weapons, vehicles and tanks.

Tanks, guns and armored personnel carriers which are stored at Gowen Field the year-around must be spotless before turn-in. Each item is inspected by officers and maintenance men before it is accepted. Thursday, the guardsmen enjoyed their first free time since field training began. But, they will get the day off only when all equipment that must be turned in is accepted. Friday, they receive paychecks representing two weeks regular army pay for the time they spend in training. On Friday, also, the guardsmen will prepare for their return to homes throughout Idaho and Nevada. They will depart Gowen Field on Saturday. The 116th Armored Cavalry, headquartered in Twin Falls, is composed of the First Squadron with units at Caldwell, Homedale, Boise, Buhl, Gooding, Nampa, Weiser, Payette and Emmett; the Second Squadron from Pocatello, Jerome, Halley, Burley, Twin Falls, Rupert and Preston, and the Third Squadron from Nevada.

Cat-Lover Shoots 2 Pets, Goes On Rampage Against Co-Workers

RISING CITY, Neb. (UPI)—Irvin "Shorty" Ostrander, a man who has a special love for cats all his life, shot two of his favorite cats at his home north of here.

Neighbors guess that was a tip-off that something was really wrong," said Val Foster, manager of the Farmers Grain Co-op elevator at this community, 10 miles west of Omaha Wednesday.

Foster was one of six persons shot and wounded by Ostrander

Wednesday at the elevator during a shooting spree in Rising City, Neb. Ostrander shot himself. No one died in the shooting and none of the injured was believed critical.

Ostrander had quit his job at the elevator last Saturday because, he told town marshal Val Foster, "I was being giving me a bad time there."

Witnesses said Ostrander arrived at the elevator at mid morning, talked briefly to two employees outside the elevator office and then went in to see Foster.

"He came in and talked to me a little bit," Foster said. "Then he stormed out saying 'I'm going to settle this once and for all.'"

"I told him, 'Shorty go home, we'll settle this later. I thought he wanted me to go outside and fight him with fists.'"

But Ostrander went to his truck and pulled out a .22 caliber automatic rifle, police said. He re-entered the building and met assistant elevator Manager Kenneth Cook.

Cook was wounded in the back.

"I took off then," Foster said. "I headed out the door and east down the street. He started shooting at me and hit me three times in the right arm."

Kelch Cook, the newly named manager of the elevator, had been on the job only about two hours when the shooting occurred. He was hit once in each arm.

Ostrander then went into the elevator office and shot Mrs. Everett Hens, 22, in the chest and hit her on the head with his rifle butt, police said. At the same time, he shot himself in the jaw, knocking out two teeth.

Then he went to his truck and reloaded the rifle, allowing Mrs. Hens time to stumble out into the street.

"By this time the town siren was ringing and Doyle Fozzard and Bill Potter had arrived at the Fire Department, which is right down the street from the elevator," Winchester said.

"The local rescue unit was pulled into the street for Mrs. Hens and Ostrander began firing at it," Foster said.

"He got Doyle Fozzard in the thigh. Then Bill Potter began throwing rocks at him to keep his attention away from us at the rescue unit."

Potter tried to run for safety and was hit in the back.

Ostrander and Mrs. Hens were taken to a Lincoln Hospital and Cook was taken to St. Columbus Hospital. The other three were treated and released.

After he had wounded Potter, Ostrander surrendered himself to Winchester.

Winchester quoted him as saying "I'm ready now. I got the job done."

Samuelson Approves Substantial Boost In Officials' Pay

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Don Samuelson granted big pay raises to 12 key personnel in his administration while other authorities have approved hikes for seven other officials, UPI learned Wednesday.

To become effective July 1, the salary increases are in addition to some sizable boosts approved for a number of other officials during the past six months — some by Samuelson and some by others.

Budget Director James A. Dwyer has confirmed reports of some of the raises, said Samuelson based most of his pay hikes on recommendations from the Governor's Committee on Executive Salaries. In some cases, Dwyer said, Samuelson exceeded the recommendations.

In one case — that of Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley — the Land Board doubled the amount of the raise previously approved by Samuelson.

While the governor was out of the state Tuesday the board approved raising Trombley $16,000 per year from $14,500. Samuelson had recommended raising him to $15,204. The board probably will prevail since it is the appointing authority.

Several state officials, however, have not had a pay boost for a long time. Among them are: C. C. Speck, director of surplus property. Personnel Commission records show he has remained at $10,200 since June 1, 1965.

Another is Director John R. Woodworth whose Fish and Game Department has been a frequent target for criticism by Samuelson. Woodworth was named at $13,800 since Aug. 1, 1965, while other officials with comparable or lesser authority have far surpassed him.

This surprised some officials since the Fish and Game Commission and not the governor supposedly is the appointing authority and therefore has power to set the salary for the director.

Among some key members of the administration not mentioned in the July 1 list are: State Treasurer, $14,500 since Jan. 1, 1968; Finance Commissioner John D. Silva, at $16,872 since last Jan. 1; and Director of Surveyors of the Department of Administrative Services, hired June 1 at $13,788.

Raymond May, the new director of correction, also remains at his present salary — $18,500. He was just hired April 21, however.

Sociology Class May Be Offered

RUPERT — An extension course in beginning Sociology 70 is planned for the Minicassin University by Utah State University if enough students register.

Bill Whitton, representing the University in the endeavor, said the class would meet at least two times a week for five weeks in either Burley or Rupert, depending on the convenience of the students. At least 18 persons must sign up before the class will be offered, however.

Instructor for the five-credit course will be Nilo Meservey and prerequisite is required for the class. Cost will be $40 per student.

Interested persons should contact Mr. Whitton at 430-4757 or 436-0107 before June 18. Mr. Whitton noted that the course does count as campus credit and that the class may be audited if desired.

THREE FILM STARS, Paul Newman, left; Sidney Poitier and Barbara Streisand have announced incorporation of a film-production company to make major films in which they will star. The three said they have each made an initial commitment to produce and star in three films for the new company, First Artists Production Company, Ltd. (UPI telephoto)

Youngsters Weep At Family's Funeral, Head For Jail To Face Murder Charges

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (UPI)—They shall hunger no more," said the preacher, neither shall the sun light them, nor any heat."

As the service ended, Sheriff Lee Bechhold stood up and asked 15-year-old Susan Bailey and her brother Roger, 13, to come with him.

Susan for a brief moment buried her tear-stained face against the sheriff's chest, then the two teenagers were taken away weeping to await the outcome of charges of murder.

Susan and Roger, police said, admitted setting fire to their tarpaper-covered house Sunday openly, but Mrs. Judy Fury, 20-year-old daughter who lives in Joliet, Ill., was dry-eyed, keeping one hand clenched around a white handkerchief and the other gripping her husband's hand.

"I don't feel about anything now," she said.

After the service, Susan and Roger spoke briefly with an aunt and uncle. "They were just asking for something," the aunt explained afterwards, but did not elaborate.

The 12 Baileys were buried at a cemetery on the Kanawha River. As the six coffins were lowered into the ground, Mrs. Obbie Bailey, the children's grandmother, sobbed "I've got to get them out." She was restrained.

Her husband was the only survivor of the fire. He crawled out a bathroom window.

Police said the two Bailey children admitted they siphoned gasoline from their father's truck, carried it into the house in a wash basin and slashed it all around on the wooden floors.

The house went up like tinder.

They are charged with the murder of their father.

Hearings Slated On Highway Route

BOISE (UPI)—The State Highway Board Wednesday authorized hearings on the proposed location and design of Interstate 80N after delegations argued that the freeway is located several miles north of the proposed route.

Hearings will be held at Glenns Ferry July 16 and in Hammett July 17. The proposed location of the highway is the same as previously authorized by the board, and would bypass Hammett about one mile to the north.

A delegation, headed by G.M. Brown, chairman of the Nampa Chamber of Commerce's Transportation Committee, and State Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grandview, asked for a crash program on construction of a new bridge at Walters Ferry on State Highway 45.

Slay Victim Seen Leaving Last Party

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Two witnesses said Tuesday they saw Alice Kalom, wearing a purple blouse and white skirt, leave a party with a young man early Sunday. Clothing of the same description was found by the University of Michigan coed's shot, stabbed and raped body 36 hours later.

"I hope they catch him. I hope and pray to God they do," one witness, a youth who refused to give his name, said of Miss Kalom's slayer. She was the sixth young woman slain in this university area within the last two years.

City police detectives said they had tracked Miss Kalom's last-known whereabouts to an old hall known as "The Deot House." The hall had been rented for a party the last night of the 21-year-old Portage, Mich., girl was seen alive.

A girl friend said she drove Miss Kalom to the hall and dropped her off.

The witnesses, who identified the slain girl from pictures, said they saw her leave the party in the company of a youth about 2 or 3 a.m. Sunday. About 200 people were at the party, they said. The witnesses said police asked them not to give out a description of the youth.

Drive For Burley City Manager Pushed

BURLEY — Petitions are being circulated throughout the city of Burley in an effort to get 500 or more signatures to call for a vote on a city manager type of government.

The committee officers supporting the move for a city manager government reports that as soon as the needed signatures (one-fourth of the total that voted in the last city election) of eligible voters is obtained, the petitions will be presented to the city council.

"After the petitions are presented to the city council they are then required to call for an election on the issue within 10 days," stated Charles Krumm, chairman of the committee.

Persons wishing to volunteer to circulate the petitions or sign the petition should contact a precinct chairman. The chairmen are Byron Hardy, Precinct 1; Grant Fillmore, Precinct 2; and Lewis D. Sandé, Precinct 3.

Six basic points are listed by the committee as the advantages of a city manager form of government:

The basic points are: (1) Instead of six councilmen and a mayor, seven councilmen would be elected. Out of this seven one will be chosen mayor by the council.

(2) The mayor will serve more or less as a chairman of meetings and take care of ceremonial duties and public relations. (3) The salary of the mayor will probably run a little more than the councilmen (which is presently $100 per month).

(4) The council will hire a professional manager educated and trained in this profession, and if possible have a year's experience in assisting a manager in another city.

(5) The manager has charge of all administrative duties, sees that all laws and ordinances are enforced, has charge over all department heads and employees, makes recommendations to the council on affairs of the city, keeps the council informed of financial conditions and needs of the city, prepares and submits an annual budget to the council, submits any reports to the council, they request, or require, and keeps the public informed with reports through the council regarding operation of the city government.

(6) The manager is responsible to the council and can be replaced at any time he isn't doing his job efficiently.

Mr. Krumm is being assisted by other officers of the committee including Elwood M. Rich, vice chairman; Mrs. Ralph Fairchild, secretary; and Dan Chisholm, treasurer.

Presently the city of Burley is operated by a fulltime mayor and six elected councilmen.

Toastmasters In Rupert Adjourn

RUPERT — Pete Ford was awarded the blue pencil for his table topics speech during the concluding meeting of the Rupert Toastmasters Club Monday in Rupert.

The red pencil went to Don Redfield for his speech, "May 10, 1968—Past, Present and Future."

Hugh Coats was toastmaster for the evening and President Ed Hartman was chief critic. Evaluator was Mr. Ford, Clyde Annis was table topics chairman, and Price Sears was a grammarian. Timar was Richard Bohle.

Following the speeches, the group voted to adjourn until August 23 at which time a potluck social will open the new season. The next regular business meeting is scheduled for Sept. 8 at the Red-Ram in Rupert. The group will then meet each Monday night until next summer.

Construction Work At CSI Still Halted

Construction work at the College of Southern Idaho's physical education building remains at a standstill.

Union negotiations to break the deadlock continue in Boise and today college officials said they see no daylight in the near future.

Work on the college's physical education plant stopped a last week when ironworkers walked off the job. They want more money and have been offered but refused a hike to $3.36 an hour.

When ironworkers walked off, other union men working at the site honored the strike and stopped work, too.

Two other major construction projects in Twin Falls — the Bank of Idaho and Kellwood — have not been affected.

The physical education building was scheduled to be finished by next spring. Considering the delay, college officials said, the opening may not come on schedule.

Part of the building is up now and there are pipes and equipment scattered around the site, a background to the pickets that

Sanity Hearing Set For Suspect In Idaho Killing

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — A hearing to determine the sanity of Donald Ouis Hodges, 48, Cataldo, charged with first-degree murder, kidnapping and assault with a deadly weapon, is scheduled to get underway before a district court jury here Thursday.

Hodges is accused of shooting Floyd Johnson, Rose Lake; wounding Johnson's wife, Berntha; and kidnapping Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Runge, Coeur d'Alene, at Runge's Rose Lake ranch about 20 miles southeast of here the night of Feb. 27-28.

He had been scheduled to go to trial June 2 but proceedings were vacated when Judge Watt Prather granted a defense motion for the sanity hearing.

Hodges was arrested as he left the Runge ranch Feb. 28. Kootenai County officers said the father of seven had $20,000 in his possession — the amount Runge, who owns 10 furniture stores in several northern Idaho communities, claims to have paid in ransom.

Hodges has been held in the Kootenai County jail here without bond since his arrest.

Air West Board Anticipates Approval Of Sale

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI) — The sale of Air West assets to Hughes Tool Co. for $94 million will be approved soon by the Civil Aeronautics Board, according to Air West President Robert Henry.

Final plans for liquidation methods were discussed Wednesday in the final meeting of the board of directors of the airline.

After transfer of the $94 million by Hughes in return for the airline's assets and operating rights, the airline corporation will distribute approximately $22 per share to all shareholders and then liquidate.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The three Apollo 10 moon pilots returned to a rousing "welcome back" ceremony at their launch site Wednesday and told a crowd of 10,000 moonport workers, "You're the greatest and we thank you."

The ceremony inside the space center's towering rocket assembly building kicked off a tour of public appearances from Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan.

The astronauts began the day's activities by making a nearby Cape Canaveral, Fla. in an open yellow convertible through the Cape Kennedy Air Force station and the sprawling Kennedy space center which they left on a fiery Saturn 5 rocket 24 days ago.

Stafford pointed out to the launch workers that the U.S. House Monday passed the space agency budget for the next fiscal year and said, "You know, Congress has faith in all you people too."

As the lunar pathfinder spoke, technicians 3 1/2 miles away were readying the 30 story tall Apollo 11 space machine for launch July 16 on the historic moon landing mission.

After leaving the 52-story moon rocket assembly building, the astronauts headed to nearby Titusville for a lunch with the people of surrounding Brevard County. From there the pilots planned to return to the moonport to meet with their colleagues, and then to participate in a parade in Cocoa Beach with their wives and the people of the space center's neighboring community.

Science Sessions Slated

By FREDERICK H. TRESH, United Press International

Since 1953, the National Science Foundation has financed summer institutes for secondary school science and mathematics teachers with the objective of upgrading instruction.

The program was among the federal government's pioneer steps to aid education and, as Dr. James E. Conant puts it, "the institutes are 'perhaps the single most important improvement in recent years in the training of secondary school teachers.' About 21,000 high school teachers attend a total of 450 institutes each summer.

But in addition to their success in improving the quality and qualifications of teachers, the institutes have a significant role in something else: Integrating some colleges and universities in the South.

This is documented by Hilliet Kreighbaum and Hugh Rawson in their book "An Investment in Knowledge," a history of the first dozen years of the NSF program published last week.

Kreighbaum, a pioneer science writer, is now a professor of journalism at New York University. Rawson, formerly a research scientist at NYU, now is associated with the Thomas Y. Crowell Publishing Company.

"One of the byproducts of the institute's program—and one that the national science foundation officials have been proudest of—has been the manner in which these programs have helped further integration in college and universities," the authors said. They quote Dr. Bowen C. Dees, longtime head of the NSF's division of scientific personnel and education, as saying:

"We know that about a dozen schools had Negroes as students for the first time as a result of the institute's program."

The use of government funds through NSF grants, to apply pressure for integration had not been publicly expected prior to the publication of the Kreighbaum-Rawson book.

The authors said NSF policy went through three stages: relatively "hard line" from 1953 to 1956 during which several Southern schools were kept out of the program, a modified stance from 1957 to 1962 during which a ban on discrimination was not explicitly mentioned in agreements between NSF and schools hosting institutes, and a return to the "hard line" in 1962 after which a nondiscrimination clause has appeared in virtually all foundation publications involving institutes.

Kreighbaum and Rawson cite the University of North Carolina, the University of the South, the University of Florida, the University of Arkansas, Duke University, the University of Mississippi, Mississippi State, University of Alabama, Auburn University, Baylor University and the University of South Carolina as among the schools accepting institutes under NSF guidelines between 1953 and 1963.

Rupert Board Reorganizes

RUPERT — The Mindoka County School District Board of Trustees reorganized Monday night during their regular meeting. Dale Garner was elected chairman to replace outgoing trustee Ken Shufeldt.

Mr. Shufeldt was defeated by Sherill Stallings in a recent trustee election in the Acquia district. Elected as vice chairman was Dave Spryer. Other board members are Leo Moore and Leonard Martin.

Dale Garner was reappointed clerk of the group, and Helen Dickenson, treasurer, until her resignation in July.

During the meeting, Mr. Stallings received the oath of office. June 25 was selected as the date to sell the bonds to finance the $2.2 million construction of two new junior high schools for the district. The board will hold a special meeting that night.

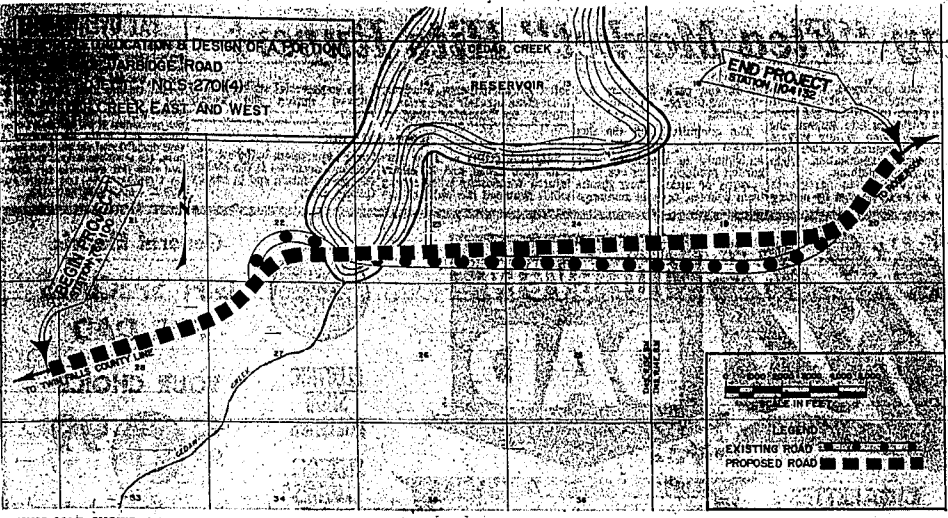

Supt. Camden Meyer said that the architect is preparing plans for the construction but the final date has been set for the building to begin.

THIS MAP SHOWS the proposed Cedar Creek East and West project in the Twin Falls Highway District. The project would start approximately 13 miles west of Rogerson and extend westerly for 6.4 miles. The roadway section would have a 25-foot width paved roadway to be constructed on a right-of-way that varies from 80 feet in privately owned land to 400 feet in public domain. Persons wishing to be heard on the matter should write Wayne Summers, Executive Secretary, Idaho Board of Highway Directors, P. O. Box 7122, Boise, Idaho, 83707 by July 31.

Club Will Pay Half Of Bill

SHOSHONE—Members of the Rotary club have voted to pay one-half the expenses to lay out the project with volunteer labor will cost from $300 to $500. Work is also progressing on the grill being installed at the park. Mr. Churchman and Ivan Hopkins were named to work on the project. The club will operate its snow-removal machine at the July 4 celebration and again at the County Fair Aug. 8-9. Money raised goes to the community betterment projects the club is now involved in. Francis Bergia gave the secretary's report. Guests were John Hadlock and

Dr. Paul Jacobson. A contribution to the eye fund was given for Mrs. Ivan Hopkins' birthday.

Public Opinion On Road Route Sought

The Idaho Board of Highway Directors has issued a notice for an opportunity for the public to be heard concerning the proposed location and design of federal aid secondary highway project known as the Cedar Creek East and West. This is a Twin Falls Highway District project.

Wayne Summers, executive secretary of the board, said the project would be built as a federal aid project by the Idaho Department of Highways with the concurrence of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. Approximately 60 per cent federal funds and 37 per cent highway district matching funds would apply. Access is unrestricted.

Mr. Summers said advisory committees will be available to families displaced by acquisition or clearance of right-of-way necessitated by the proposed project. This service is administered through the area right-of-way agent, district 2, Department of Highways, Shoshone.

Hailey School Trustees Hold Reorganization

HAILEY—The trustees of the class A school district of the Hailey school district held their annual reorganizational meeting Monday night in the district office.

M. L. Trotter, Bellevue, was named chairman; Nick Purdy, Pleasanton, vice chairman; and William Mallory, Hailey, clerk.

Royce Asher was sworn in as a trustee from the Ketchum area, to replace Carl Pothier, who has served for the past 12 years but did not run again.

Milton Bame, Carey, represents the Carey area.

Mr. Vernon Eganer, superintendent, and Ray Jefferson, principal of the Ketchum school, and Gerald Wunderlich, principal of the Hailey Junior High, discussed their organizational plans for the 1969-70 school year.

After discussing the recent plant-facilities bond election which was defeated, heated members voted to hold a second election on Aug. 5, again asking voters to pass a five mill levy for 10 years.

Jack Brown of Ketchum presented a plan for landscaping the new Ketchum school grounds which was taken under consideration. Members discussed securing carpentry for the Carey and Ketchum school buildings.

T. F. Posse To Meet On Weekend

The Twin Falls County Mounted Sheriff's Posse will be host to the Idaho State Posse meeting this weekend.

Mounted posesses from nine counties—Ada, Canyon, Blingham, Bannock, Payette, Jerome, Cassia, Gooding and Twin Falls—will be participating in the two-day event.

The posses will be inspected at 1 p.m. Saturday in the parking lot of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. In preparation for the 3 p.m. parade through the downtown Twin Falls area.

The Saturday evening event starting at 7:30 p.m. in the fairgrounds at Filer include precision drill competition, queen contest and trailer rigs.

Sunday at 2 p.m. races and field events will be held, also at the fairgrounds. These include distance racing from one-quarter of a mile to a mile as well as barrel races.

Awards will be presented to winners of each event.

Robert Taylor Epitomized 'Handsome-Man' Era In Films

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—You'd have liked and admired Robert Taylor, the man.

He epitomized an era of motion pictures: a time in the 30s, 40s and 50s when all leading men were handsome.

During those three decades the matinee idol was at his height: Clark Gable, Tyrone Power, Robert Montgomery and even John Barrymore in his waning years.

Compared to today's fiery leading men, Robert Taylor and his breed are strangers.

Their roles seldom called for the introspective, passionate self-examination of the id and the idiocy of being a human animal. They knew they were men and felt it unnecessary to prove it on-screen or off.

They may have played romantic roles. But they wound up with the leading lady in their arms. And they had sustaining power, the actors named Cooper, Jim Stewart, Bogart and John Wayne. They lasted.

With the exception of Bogey and, perhaps, Barrymore, all of whom were not adverse to the grape—the great stars of Taylor's generation were very good men.

Of them all, Bob Taylor was perhaps the most popular in Hollywood.

Most of his career was spent under contract to MGM where he made film after film, good or bad. He lived up to his contract, fought with no one—except when the script called for it.

He never won an Oscar. But Bob Taylor was on the set every morning in make-up and wardrobe and with his lines memorized. A professional.

His leading ladies were the usual once-powerful MGM could find, from Grete Garbo to the glamor girls of the 50s.

I talked to Taylor a few weeks before his death. He knew it was coming, but he fought it his quiet way, much as did Gary Cooper. He said at the time he was more angry than afraid of worried.

Taylor lived quietly in Mandeville Canyon on a ranch, isolated from the Hollywood hubbub. He liked flying his own plane, riding horses, hunting and fishing. Nightclubs, were for the show-offs, dilettantes and makers of headlines.

He was a quiet man and a poor one-to interview. He had no hostilities to loose on the world. Bob couldn't understand why anything he had to say was more important than anyone else's opinions.

But he always made the attempt to be interesting or humorous, to do what was expected of him.

Unlike many of his contemporaries, Taylor was a stranger to scandal. Even his divorce from Barbara Stanwyck, his first wife, was without clamor.

To the end, Robert Taylor maintained his dignity, his privacy and the affection of his friends.

'Slow' Dolphin Expects Family

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Teachers found Barbie slow to learn and at first thought she was just another unwilling student—then they found she was pregnant.

So the S.S. Marine Wonderland, a floating aquarium at Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, is now looking for the Dr. Spock of the dolphin kingdom.

When the aquarium acquired Barbie, a dolphin, from Tampa, Fla., recently the owners of the ship expected her to perform the usual dolphin tricks. But she wouldn't learn for all the sardines in the world.

The ship officials are now contacting aquarium experts on how to deal with a pregnant his quiet way, much as did Gary

BPW Club Wins Citation At Meet

Twin Falls Business and Professional Club won a citation for equalization at the state convention held recently in McCall.

The award was from the National Federation of Business and Professional Womens Clubs for membership achievement, an award for being a Criteria Club.

Those attending the sessions from Twin Falls were Ina Knox, president; Alda Strong, outgoing president; Lucile Brizeo, treasurer; Vera Rauch, district vice director; Doris Harper, District Woman of Achievement, and Francis Buhler, Ruth Linderman and Alberta Knight, all delegates.

Kenneth L. Scherbinke, 20, 1038 Sunrise Blvd., who was in a car that ran across seven lawns Wednesday, has been charged with reckless driving for decades in the form of textiles.

"We'll be writing to Mr. Miller to tell him the perhaps cause of the lunar surface. Yet many geologists and scientists think man has had pieces of the moon in his possession for decades in the form of textiles.

Those attending the sessions from Twin Falls were Ina Knox, president; Alda Strong, outgoing president; Lucile Brizeo, treasurer; Vera Rauch, district vice director; Doris Harper, District Woman of Achievement, and Francis Buhler, Ruth Linderman and Alberta Knight, all delegates.

Police officers said Mr. Scherbinke told them the throttle on his car jammed, forcing his car across Locust Street, through a hedge and across seven back yard lawns into a garage.

The flight of the car was between Elizabeth Boulevard and Sixth Avenue East in the 1400 and 1300 blocks. No one was hurt, but perhaps cars, bicycles, fences and some gardens were hit by the car as it rushed forward.

Teacher Vacancies Filled In Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Waldo Jones is the new chairman of the School Board here and Elmer Terry is vice-chairman. Mrs. Claude Chess was reappointed clerk-treasurer.

Dr. E. D. Saras and Wayne Sorenson received their oaths of office and were seated on the Board.

Bids for the addition to the high school were opened and reviewed. The contract was awarded to Ullman Construction Company, Twin Falls, apparent low bidder. Construction is expected to be completed by the time school reopens in the fall.

Contracts were approved for Jack D. Bowlin, elementary principal; Ronald Jenkins, music; Robert Wells, English for foreign language; and Mrs. Elizabeth Evans, fifth grade.

Contracts were approved last month for V. C. Ross, English speech and Ken Dixon, junior high math. All positions in the school system are now filled. The board agreed to offer for sale discarded auditorium seats and typing desks to organizations or individuals. Interested persons may contact Supt. Kenneth Crothers.

T. F. Man Is Charged With Embezzling

Gerald E. Seward, 28, Twin Falls, has been charged with embezzlement, police records showed Wednesday.

Mr. Seward was arrested Tuesday on a charge of drunkenness. He was arrested by officers while walking in the 100 block of Madrona St.

He allegedly had a money bag containing $286.91 with him at the time.

Soon after his arrest, officers were notified the Stinker station at 1777 Kimberly Road had been broken into. The manager, Oliver Phlips, was notified and he identified Mr. Seward as an employee.

Mr. Seward was accused of taking the money bag from the station.

Arrangement on the embezzlement charge is pending.

Saturday 'Flea Market' Hits Rupert

RUPERT — Possibly the first in Idaho, a flea market has hit Rupert. The market is scheduled for each Saturday throughout the remainder of the summer, weather permitting, in the Rupert city park.

Sponsored by the Rupert Chamber of Commerce market chautau committee, the market idea was borrowed from Europe, where the event is a common sight. Intended to get more area residents into Rupert, the market is open to any private individual, church or other non-commercial organization wishing to sell something.

Those wishing to participate may do so at no cost by setting up in the park Saturday and "hanging a sign" on their merchandise.

The committee felt the flea market was a good place for individuals to distribute their garden produce, clean out their garages or attics, show results from hobbies, or hold rummage sales. All participants, however, must clean up their spot prior to closing-up Saturday evening.

No commercial selling will be allowed during the weekly event.

House Commerce Committee Reopens Cigarette Ad Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee, in a rare move, has reopened hearings on cigarette advertising legislation to air charges the broadcasting industry presented misleading testimony about self-regulation.

Summoned for a confrontation were Vincent T. Wasilowski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, and his accuser, Warren H. Braten, former head of the New York office of NAB's Code Authority.

The committee had approved the bill. It is rare for a committee to reconsider a bill once it has approved it.

In testimony April 21 Wasilowski left the committee with the impression cigarette commercials were being reviewed by the Code Authority to be sure the ads complied with curbs on smoking appeals aimed at young persons.

Braten resigned May 1 because of what he described as disillusionment over the prospects for successful self-policing of advertising by the industry.

Stockton Halfrich of the Code Authority confirmed the authenticity of the report. He said it had been used as a basis for strengthening the advertising code and drawing up tighter guidelines for its application.

He also confirmed the Code Authority was no longer reviewing cigarette commercials and had passed the job along to individual broadcasters.

LONDON — The dumping of subsidized cheddar-type cheeses in the United Kingdom has caused dairy farmers to call for anti-dumping legislation.

As the industry's self-policing unit for advertising, the Code Authority was credited by Wasilowski with "playing a significant role in dealing with the issue" of preventing glamorized smoking appeals from being made to youth.

But Sunday Braten disclosed the Code Authority discontinued reviewing cigarette commercials in April, 1968. He also made public a confidential 1966 NAB study that concluded then current commercials had "substantial appeal to youth."

WALL PAPER SALE

If the high cost of wallpaper is getting you down, we suggest using paper towels, at our low price, this weekend. People with small babies who blow, throw, and regurgitate baby fecal in all directions should appreciate the advantages of this type of economical wallpaper. Other advantages are: ease of hanging (no expensive glue needed), decorate it yourself (you or neighbor's hippie kid home from college can put any design you want on it), ease of removal (only run for the Kleenex box when you can grab a handy piece of wallpaper).

Mays, Lanier Help Giants End Met Skein

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Willie Mays and Hal Lanier each drove in a pair of runs and Gaylord Perry limited New York to four hits Wednesday night in the San Francisco Giants to a 7-2 victory which snapped New York's winning streak at 11.

Mays doubled home Bobby Bonds in the fourth inning, leading off the New York starter and loser Gary Carter (5-3) and Lanier drove in two runs with a bases-clearing single off Tom McGraw in the sixth.

Perry had New York shut out on two hits until Ed Kranepool reached him for a bases-clearing homer in the seventh and the Mets scored their other run in the eighth on a single by Al Weir.

The defeat was the first of the year for the Giants over the Mets, who had beaten them four times, all during their 11-game streak.

Los Angeles Dodgers 3-0 Wednesday night and snapped the Philadelphia losing streak at nine games.

The 21-year-old right-hander, making only his second major league appearance, was in serious trouble only in the seventh and ninth innings as he evened the big record at 1-1.

Champion, Phils Blank Dodgers 3-0

Champion worked out of a jam in the seventh when with two out he walked Bill Sudakis and Willie Crawford followed with a double. But the rookie caught Bill Russell looking at a called third strike.

The Dodgers threatened again in the ninth with two outs when Tony Talier and Sudakis singled but Chapman found Crawford to end the game.

The Phillies tallied twice before Osteen could get the second out in the first inning. Johnny Briggs opened the first with a walk, Tony Taylor singled and John Callison ripped a double to right, scoring one run.

With one down, Derron Johnson was intentionally walked and Don Money singled in Taylor. Osteen escaped further damage when the Dodgers turned in a double play.

Champion allowed only one earned run in his loss.

Sikes, the fried chicken entrepreneur from Jacksonville, Fla., showed his form with a 4-under-par 66 on Tuesday and on Wednesday polished it off with nine par holes.

Truth to tell, while a number of the players have been talking about finding this course "easier" than they expected, not very many of them have been proving it with sub-par rounds—at least, that they were reporting.

The win was the first for the Western Division in leading Eastern Division leading Cubs. Niekro, now 10-4, had a perfect game until the sixth when Randy Hundley led off with his 10th homer of the season.

The Cardinals jumped on Jim Merritt for three runs in the first inning and added two more in the second to send the Red lefty to his third loss in nine decisions.

The Cardinals got to relief pitcher Bill Short for three more runs in the fourth inning and nicked Clay Carroll, the fifth of six Red pitchers, for their final two.

Pitching Machine Debuts In T.F. As Cowboys Open Training

Baseball, the sport that loves firsts, set another one Wednesday when the first pitching machine was set up at Jaycee Park to help the Magic Valley Cowboys begin their pre-season training period. The machine, a $1,700 job, was sent here by the Atlanta Braves and Assistant Farm Director Bill Lucas and Pitching Coach Walter "Boom Boom" Beck presided over it.

A total of 16 men, including four returnees from last year, showed up for the first practice. The returnees are pitchers Keith Walters and Clint Compton and infielders Leo Groteschchen and Milt Hall.

Manager Connie Ryan said that while a few players will be arriving over the next few days, Monday and Tuesday will see the roster filled to overflowing. He said this was due to a special camp slated this weekend for all the men drafted by the Braves in the recent free agent draft. They will workout under the watchful eyes of General Manager Paul Richards and Farm Director Eddie Robinson along with several other top Atlanta men. The best will be signed and the bulk of them will be assigned to this franchise.

Ryan also said that tentatively Mr. Richards and Mr. Robinson are expected in Twin Falls next week-end probably with recruits with the team through the week or until the league opener. The Cowboys open at O g d e n June 18 and play their first game in Jaycee Park June 20 against the Great Falls Giants.

Pitching Coach Beck expressed satisfaction with the new pitching machine which will save wear and tear on his hurlers and give him more time to work with them. He said the benefit of the machine should be directly traceable to a decrease in sore arms.

Alcindor Hit With Suit For $750,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lew Alcindor, the Milwaukee Bucks rookie superstar, was sued for $750,000 Wednesday for allegedly breaking the jaw of Dennis Grey of the Los Angeles Stars during a pickup basketball game last Saturday.

Grey, who is 6-foot-four and weighs 215 pounds, asked the amount in a lawsuit filed in Superior Court for alleged mental and physical suffering.

He charged the 7-foot-1 1/2 inch, 235-pound Alcindor struck him "maliciously, intentionally and wantonly." The suit said Grey's effectiveness as a professional basketball player had been "diminished, seriously jeopardizing his earning power."

The single blow occurred during a game at a local high school in which Grey, a reserve center for the American Basketball Association team, and Alcindor, who played at UCLA before signing for a reported $1 million with the National Basketball Association club, were on opposing teams.

Warren Davis, a teammate of Grey's on the Stars but who was not playing, described the blow: "Lew's team was taking the ball out of bounds. According to Dennis, Lew turned and threw a punch that landed on the jaw. Lew walked off the court and left the gym."

Dennis told me he couldn't understand why Lew hit him. After Alcindor learned of the injury, he called the hospital, said he was sorry and offered to pay hospitalization costs. "It was just a case where I was provoked," the slim New York product said, "and I don't like to be provoked and I regret very much I reacted the way I did."

Davis said: "It was the last game of the day and there was the usual pushing and shoving that occurs when the guys are tired."

After he was felled, Grey said, "I told him (Alcindor) that if he couldn't take it in a game like that, he would get Chamberlain or (Bill) Russell."

Wills Returns To L.A., Adolfo Sent To Montreal As 3 Clubs Wheel, Deal

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Maurice Wills, baseball's greatest base stealer, returned to the Los Angeles Dodgers today in a four-player trade with the expansion Montreal Expos.

To obtain Wills and veteran outfielder Manny Mota, the Dodgers sent outfielder Ron Fairly and infielder Paul Popovich to the Expos.

The Chicago Cubs then acquired Popovich from Montreal in exchange for outfielder Adolfo Phillips and pitcher Jack Lamabe of the Cubs' Tacoma farm club.

The trade was announced here and in Atlanta, Ga., where the Cubs were playing, shortly after the Expos picked up Popovich and outfielder Ron Fairly from the Los Angeles Dodgers for Maury Wills and outfielder Manny Mota.

Four Yanks Advance In British Meet

HOYLAK, England (UPI)—Peter Bostwick of Locust Valley, N.Y., defeated two-time champion Joe Carr of England 1-up Wednesday to advance to the fourth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Only three other Americans won however, Pete Jackson of Long Island, N.Y., Bill Hyndman of Huntington Valley, Pa., and Dale Morey of Willow Creek, N.Y.

Wills was the key man in the deal and the trade marked his local return to the Dodgers after an absence of three years. Expos General Manager Jim Fanning 1-up Wednesday to advance to the fourth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

T. F. Golfers Okay State Membership

Originaly the Expos had held out for at least two pitchers in exchange for Wills and another player, according to Mike Bonallack of England. Bonallack also won Wednesday in third-round play.

Bostwick made the turn at the 6,500-yard Royal Liverpool Club layout in three-under-par 33 that gave him a two-hole advantage over Carr.

Of the original field of 35 golfers from the United States, nine went as far as the second round, but five of them fell Wednesday.

Hyndman beat Chris Woodford of England 6 and 5, Morey eliminated George Marshall of England 5 and 3 and Jackson defeated Jack Oliver of Valdosta, Ga., 4 and 3.

In the other third-round matches involving Americans, Raymond Watkins of France beat Dick Davies of Huntington Harbor, Calif., 2-up; Brian Stockdale of England beat Bob Falkenberg of Los Angeles and Brazil 3 and 2; Mal Rao of England edged Dr. James Crawford of Winston-Salem, N.C., 1-up in 18 holes; and Warren Vanderbush of Clontar, N.J., 1-up.

Open Berths Exemption Is Changed

HOUSTON (UPI)—The U. S. Golf Association Wednesday changed part of the rules for exemptions for the U. S. Open golf championship to substitute a point system based on performance in various tournaments for the old standard of money winnings.

Coincidentally, under the new system—which will go into effect for the 1970 Open at Chaska, Minn., Arnold Palmer would have received an exemption. This year Palmer, because he failed to make the top 15 in money winnings so far this year, had to earn an Open berth by qualifying in a regional tournament.

Tom Ford Hardin, President of the U. S. G. A., who announced the change, said that it was not brought about because of the protests of some who thought Palmer should have received an exemption based on his prestige even though he was not in the top 15. Hardin said the change had been planned prior to Palmer's case.

Most of the U. S. Open exemptions will remain the same—those given automatically to the Open champions of the last five years, the U. S. amateur champion, the PGA champions of the last five years, the British Open champion, and the top 15 finishers in last year's Open.

However, the exemptions previously given to the current top 15 in money winnings will be changed to a system which awards points for placing in the top five in any tournament offering at least $100,000 in prize money. The winner of such a tournament will receive 10 points with five for second, three for third, two for fourth, and one for fifth. Placing in the PGA championship, the British Open championship, and the Masters will carry a 50 per cent bonus in points.

Alou, Torres Are On Mend

HOUSTON (UPI)—Jimmie Alou, Houston Astro leftfielder, who suffered a major fracture of the jaw bone and a mild concussion in a collision during Monday's game will be out of action for a week to 10 days.

The Astro has recalled Leon Culbreth from a shortstop for the Oklahoma City 89ers, a Houston farm club, to replace Torres.

Alou was contacted by the Astros for Oklahoma City. There was no word on a replacement for Alou.

one of the finest defensive infielders in the majors."

Holliday pointed out that Popovich would strengthen the club in that a time when Glenn Beckert, ace second baseman, is on the disabled list with a broken thumb.

The return to the Dodgers of Wills indicated that club president Walter O'Malley had decided to forgive and forget the incident which led to the shortstop being traded away from the Dodgers in 1967.

O'Malley had been embarrassed after the 1968 season when the Dodgers made a tour of Japan and Wills left the club in the Orient and returned home. Immediately after the tour, the Dodgers began negotiations to trade Wills and he finally went to Pittsburgh.

Prior to his trade, Wills had been captain of the Dodgers and was considered the inspirational leader of the club and largely responsible for helping it win three World Series since its move to Los Angeles in 1958.

Announcement of the trade was made by Dodger Vice President Arthur E. Patterson who said it was a straight player exchange and that the players were reporting immediately to their new clubs.

Wills was the key man in the deal and the trade marked his local return to the Dodgers after an absence of three years. Expos General Manager Jim Fanning 1-up Wednesday to advance to the fourth round of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Light Hitters Shove Boston Past Twins

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—Joe Laitoud, who started the game with an .083 batting average, hit three home runs and drove in three runs in three doubles to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 13-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday night.

Reggie Smith and George Scott each had three singles as the Red Sox collected 16 hits off seven Minnesota pitchers. The Sox scored five runs in the fourth to take a 7-0 lead as Schofield knocked in one run with a double. Dalton Jones scored two with a single and Rico Petrocelli scored on a single. Jones' another on a bloop ball.

Minnesota (10-10) was led by Roger Kumpfer (4), Sieber (4), and Gibson (3). The Twins (10-10) were led by Miller (4), Sieber (4), and Borowski (3). Laitoud (.14, 2nd, 3rd).

Frazier Sees No Problem With Quarry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Heavyweight boxer Joe Frazier, recognized as the world champion in six states, passed off his fight with challenger Jerry Quarry as a fight with a friendly guy "before I try to get a shot at Clay... if he is not ready to come out of retirement."

"Naturally I may have to wait until Uncle Sam gets through with him... but I hope Clay gets out of jail and has a chance at him," Frazier said.

Frazier and Quarry, who meet in a scheduled 15-round title fight at Madison Square Garden June 23, were interviewed Wednesday at a luncheon at Washington's Touchdown Club.

Frazier, who refused to be prodded into making a floundering prediction on so profane any had feelings toward Quarry, said: "Fighting is my profession, my work. I have nothing against him (Quarry). I am friendly toward him now and will be after the fight. He is a good fighter... I think I can beat him. It may take one or 10 rounds," Frazier said. "The fight will be my way... and I'll come out smoking."

Quarry said he feels strong. He predicted he might end the fight during the first five rounds.

"It might go all the way... but I feel strong and I think I can end it quick," Quarry said.

Global Players Seek Ways Home

CARACAS (UPI)—At least a dozen of the U. S. baseball players here since last month with the Global Baseball League have asked the U.S. Embassy to help them get back home, an Embassy spokesman said Wednesday.

Between 20 and 25 players have filed repatriation loan applications by the end of the week, the spokesman said.

"Of the approximately 70 U.S. players here, according to the Embassy, over half are still determined to wait for payment of their salaries and expenses promised by league president Walter Dilbeck. The Ohio businessman who founded the league was reportedly trying to negotiate a loan estimated at over $100,000—to clear up debts here."

Clemente-Led Pirates Rap Astros 13-8

HOUSTON (UPI)—Roberto Clemente's seventh career grand slam home capped a six-run sixth inning and gave the visiting Pittsburgh Pirates a 13-8 victory over the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

Clemente's homer came on the first pitch by reliever Jack Billingham with the Pirates trailing 6-5. All six runs were scored after two were out.

With one out, Jerry May and Fred Patek singled, but starter Don Wilson struck out Bill Mazeroski for the second out. Then Wilson walked pinch-hitter Carl Taylor and was replaced by Skip Guinn.

Error Helps Chicago Top Indians 4-3

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Duane Josephson drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly that climaxed an outburst of three unearned runs in the seventh inning Wednesday night, carrying the Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 decision over the Cleveland Indians.

Luis Tiant, gunning for his fourth consecutive victory, was the victim of the unearned runs and dropped his eighth decision.

Dan Oskiski, who pitched to only one man, won his second game without a defeat.

The Sox were trailing 3-1 when Pete Ward and Galt Hopkins opened the seventh by reaching base on consecutive errors by Vern Fuller and Tony Horton. Ed Herrmann bunted into a forceout but Bobby Knop singled in Hopkins and Buddy Bradford singled home Herrmann with the tying run.

Foul Fly Lets Padres Edge Expos In 11

SA DIEGO (UPI)—Tommie Don's sacrifice foul fly to Donn Clendenon in the 10th inning with the bases full and one out scored Jose Arca with the winning run Wednesday night at San Diego judged the Montreal Expos 6-5 to snap the Padres' four game losing streak.

Clendenon made the catch three feet outside the foul line as his teammates in the Montreal bullpen nearby sat in silence.

Clendenon got the visitors off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when he doubled home Don Bosco, who had walked. When Al Ferrara bobbled the ball in the outfield, Gary Sutherland, who had preceded Clendenon with a single, also scored.

The Padres tallied in the second and third innings to catch up, 2-2, but Montreal again grabbed the edge 5-3 with a three-run surge in the fifth.

Angels Nip Orioles 7-5 In 14 Innings

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Tom Satriano's two-run single with two out in the 14th inning enabled the California Angels to defeat the Baltimore Orioles 7-5 Wednesday night.

Satriano smacked his game winning blow off losing pitcher Pete Richert in the 14th after a single by Jay Johnston and a double by Jim Fregosi as pitcher Pedro Bourbon won his second game against one defeat. Richert suffered his second loss against one victory. Rookie Jim Spencer doubled home Aurelio Rodriguez to put the Angels ahead 5-4 in the top of the 11th but the Orioles, tied the game in the bottom of the inning with two out to score pinch-runner Curt Motton from second base.

TV Critics Commend CBS

For Documenting Hunger

Television in Review
By RICK D BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The fourth annual Critics' Consensus has honored the controversial CBS-TV documentary "Hunger in America" as the most memorable television program of the past year.

Eighteen daily newspaper television columnists, including this writer, are members of the nationwide-Critics' Consensus. The period covered in the latest voting was from May 1, 1968 to May 17, 1969.

"Hunger in America," part of the "CBS Reports" series of occasional broadcasts, was the only program to receive the required two-thirds vote of the columnists.

This was the second consecutive year that only one show got two-thirds of the ballots. The lone winner in 1968 was ABC-TV's four-hour documentary, "Africa."

"Hunger in America," which touched nerves in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was written by producer Martin Carr and associated producer Peter Davis. The reporters were David Cullane and Charles Kuralt. Don Hewitt was the executive producer.

The run-up to "Hunger in America" was ABC-TV's summer Olympics coverage in Mexico City. It got 10 votes, or CORRAL — Mrs. Bertha M. Ashmead, 83, former Corral area resident, died from an unspecified cause at the Dece Hospital, Ogden, Utah.

Mrs. Ashmead was born Jan. 14, 1886, in Smithville, Utah. She attended schools in Smithville and moved with her family in 1896 to Teton Basin, Idaho. She was married to Charles N. Ashmead on April 26, 1905, at St. Anthony. They homesteaded in the Teton Basin for five years, moving to La Grande, Ore., where they lived for one year.

Returning to Idaho in 1911, they settled on the Camas Prairie near Corral on their own ranch. Her husband preceded her in death on Oct. 23, 1963, and she moved to Kaysville, Utah, in 1965 to live with her children. She attended the LDS Church in Fairfield and was active in the Kaysville Ninth Ward Relief Society.

Survivors include one son, Harvey Ashmead, Kaysville, Utah; one daughter, Mrs. Eva Mae Ratliff, Ogden, Utah; one sister, Mary Welland Blackfoot; 10 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by three sons, three sisters and two brothers.

Services for Mrs. Ashmead will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in Thompson Chapel, Gooding. Officiating will be Bishop Leroy Packham, Fairfield. LDS Church interment will be in the Elmwood Cemetery. Good friends may call at the chapel Friday afternoon and until time of services Saturday.

Mrs. Irma Brown

Mrs. Irma Brown, 80, died at a local nursing home Wednesday afternoon of a long illness. She was born May 31, 1889, at Brainerd, Minn., and on July 12, 1911, she was married to Dr. George E. Brown there. He preceded her in death in 1955. She was chief of a Medical Division at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Mrs. Brown had been a resident of Idaho for the past 16 years. She attended the Presbyterian Church and was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She is survived by two sons, Dr. George E. Brown Jr., Twin Falls, and Dr. Hugh S. Brown, Spokane, Wash.; seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Graveside services for Mrs. Irma Brown will be held at 4 p.m. Friday at Twin Falls Cemetery with the Rev. Robert Harvey officiating. White Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Herzinger, Davis Wed

BUHL — Boniface Herzinger, daughter of Terry and Mrs. Frank Herzinger, Buhl, became the bride of Terry Lee Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Voyle Davis, Meridian, in an evening ceremony May 21 at the Buhl United Methodist Church.

Rev. Paul LaRue performed the double ring ceremony before a background setting of candles with white candles and baskets of white gladioli and blue chrysanthemums tipped with silver accented with large blue ribbon bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white tulle and lace gown with a white tulle and lace headpiece accented with white roses, lilies and baby's breath. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and baby's breath accented with blue ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Ronald Eggleston, Shoshone, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Rocky Davis, Meridian, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Taperlighters and ushers were Ronald Eggleston, brother-in-law of the bride, and Rex Calhoun, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. William West was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Lehrman, who also played the traditional wedding music.

Mrs. Glen Herzinger, sister-in-law of the bride, registered the 150 guests from Meridian, Nampa, Bliss, Boise, Kuna, Swan Falls, Hagerman, Buhl, Shoshone and Teton Falls.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the church basement. The bride's table was covered with lace over blue and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with blue and white bells and topped with two white doves and wedding rings backed with tulle. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Pauline Walcott.

Cake was cut and served by Mrs. Eugene Herzinger, Buhl, and Mrs. Norma Herzinger, Twin Falls, sisters-in-law of the bride. Gifts were poured by Mrs. Lowell Shafter, cousin of the bride, and punch was served by Mrs. Joe Gorman, aunt of the bride.

Gifts were opened and displayed by Bruce Eggleston, Shoshone, nephew of the bride, and Vicki Herzinger, Susan Herzinger, Twin Falls, and Ronda Icazurriaga, Shoshone, nieces of the bride. Gifts were registered by Mrs. Glen Herzinger.

Members of the Naomi Circle of the Buhl Methodist Church were in charge of the reception. After a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas, the couple will reside at Swan Falls.

The bride has been employed the past year in Washington, D. C., at the West Bank. The bridegroom is employed by the Idaho Power Co., Swan Falls.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis, grandparents of the bridegroom, and Joe Barjak, Buhl, grandfather of the bride.

Beware Of Friday The 13th

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tomorrow is Friday the thirteenth. You can either watch your step or take the unlucky day with a grain of salt.

Authorities say most people cling to the superstition that the day's bound to be dreadful and to be poorly educated. However, some eggs heads conform. They do so to play it safe—or out of amusement.

Friday, even when it's not the thirteenth, is supposed to be a dreary day. Historians say the day got its bad luck image because at one time criminals went to the gallows on Fridays. Another reason: Christ was crucified on a Friday.

The number 13's bad luck is supposed to be linked to the fact that there were 13 at the last supper—Christ and 12 apostles.

But 13 by itself isn't always bad. Consider a baker's dozen. You get 13 whatever it is when sharing in a baker's dozen, but only pay for 12.

Friday hasn't always been a bad day. Scandinavians once thought the day their luckiest.

One reason the word itself comes from the Anglo Saxon Friggedag, which means Frigg's Day. Frigg was a goddess of love in Norse mythology.

Among office workers, Friday's not exactly dreary. It has given rise to the joyful T.G.I.F. (Thank God, It's Friday) club. A glass raised or bread broken in the name of the club heralds the approaching weekend and its freedom from work.

Superstitions, per se, don't have much place in this scientific era. Primitive man, thinking the world governed by good and evil forces, believed in them. Now we know everything in nature has natural causes. This cause-and-effect theory is based on observation, plus reasoning.

Common superstitions include: Blister on tongue means you've uttered a lie; burning ears indicate someone's talking about you; gift of anything with a cutting edge will cut friendship.

Bad luck associated with some superstitions is easily explained. Unlucky to stub a toe? Of course, it hurts. Unlucky to wear clothes inside out? Naturally. It's bound to make you uncomfortable in the humiliating way.

Consider these other "unlucky" things:

—Unlucky to leave a house by a window. (The house is either on fire or being flooded or the door is stuck or it's locked and you can't find your key. In whatever case, it's not good.)

—Unlucky to sit on a table. (The only time most people would sit on a table is when they are accompanied by their own bad luck—maybe a mouse in the house? Or a burst water pipe sends water cascading over the floor.)

—If you prefer to take Friday the thirteenth with a grain of salt, careful with the salt. If you spill salt, it's supposed to predict a quarrel!

Daughter Born

SHOSHONE—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hall, Ft. Irwin, Calif. She weighed 7 pounds, 2 ounces, and has been named Cynthia Sue. The Halls have a 4-year-old son, Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Martin, their maternal grandparents, live in Shoshone.

FORMER RESIDENTS MOVE

TUTTLE — Dr. Craig Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ell Bennett, Tuttle, and his family are moving to Klamath Falls, Ore., where Dr. Bennett will work in a clinic. Dr. Bennett has been at John Day, Ore., for a number of years in general practice. Mrs. Craig Bennett is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Pember, Buhl.

Magic Valley Favorites

MRS. TED R. HELLER
Box 487, Ashion

Keeps moist for several days.

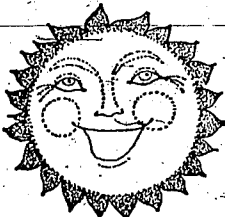

Cherry Torte
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon salad oil
1 can drained sour cherries

Mix dry ingredients together. Add cherries, egg and salad oil. Mix well. This will take about five minutes until sugar is dissolved. Place in an 8-inch square pan or one of equivalent size. Bake 30 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Serve in squares with whipped cream.

(The Times-News will pay $3 each week for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD LEE HEISEL

Judy K. Scott, Heisel Wed In Nevada Rites

RUPERT — Judy Kay Scott and Richard Lee Heisel, both Rupert, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony May 24 in Elko, Nev.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Page, Pocatello, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Heisel, Rupert. Accompanying the couple to Nevada, where they were married by a justice of the peace, were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Vaughn and Mrs. Warren Majors, Rupert, and Cathy Archer, Burley. Mr. Vaughn and Mrs. Majors served as witnesses.

After a honeymoon trip to Twin Falls, the couple resides at 302 East 8th St., Rupert. Mr. Heisel is employed at Parker's Laundry.

An open house is planned for the couple from 7 to 10 p.m. June 14 in their home.

Club Lesson

SPRINGDALE — Mrs. M. H. Manning presented the lesson, "Youself About Immunization," at the recent meeting of the Springdale Happy Homemakers. Mrs. Manning was hostess.

Mrs. James Bronson reported on the day spent at Gettsburg and Mrs. Ivy Manning told of her trip to Canada.

Guests were Mrs. D. H. Fuller, Spanish Fork, Utah, and Mrs. Beatrice Page, Burley. Mrs. Clara Jones will be hostess for the July meeting. Mrs. Manning served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Ray Zollinger.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every Memorial day (or Decoration day as some people still call it) my mother goes out to the cemetery and tears herself apart over the graves of her mother, her father, her brother, and some other relatives who are buried there. I have begged her not to go, but she won't listen to me. My mother is not a well woman, Abby, and carrying on this way can't help but take a lot out of her. This year when I asked my sister to help me try to talk my mother out of going, she said, "If she wants to go, let her. It does it person good to have a good cry." I say, "If a person can avoid an emotional upset (and believe me, this is one) it is better to avoid it." Please ask some of your medical consultants for their opinions.

A DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Three psychiatrists agree that what may appear to you to be an "emotional upset" may actually be a healthy venting exercise. It depends upon the person. It's a good guess that your mother has some unresolved feelings of grief, and she feels better after "hearing herself apart," so let her cry.

DEAR ABBY: I have a couple of parents like you wouldn't believe. My father would have made a perfect warden for San Quentin, and my mother should have been with the FBI. They never take my word for anything. No matter what I say, they check up on me. Abby, I'm a 15-year-old honor roll student. I don't lie, but I am created like a criminal. Sometimes I feel like taking off and never coming back. I am an only child, but that's no excuse. How does a guy get his parents to trust him?

JOHNNY

DEAR JOHNNY: Your parents probably check up on you because they think you're too good to be true. Don't resent it. Be grateful that they care enough about you to want to know where you are and what you're up to. Just keep on being trustworthy and you'll find them trusting you more, and checking on you less.

DEAR RELATIVE: Until this relative will let me know when that she has a hearing loss, you may as well talk to the wall. There are none so deaf as those who will not hear.

DEAR ABBY: Who do you think should decide on how many children a couple should have? The husband or the wife? I think the wife should because she's the one who has to have them, and she's also the one who does most of the work when it comes to raising them.

My husband says he thinks the man should decide. We've been married only three months and don't have any yet, but I think two is plenty. My husband wants four. Can you settle this.

ARGUING

DEAR ARGUING: Why not split the difference and plan out three? Or better yet, have two and then decide if you want to go for more.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 98700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Happy Hour Club Conducts Breakfast Meet

MURTAUGH — Mrs. Morris Lattimer and Mrs. Hubert Syverson prepared and served breakfast to members and guests of the Happy Hour Club recently at the Twin Falls Idaho Power Co. Park.

Guests included Mrs. Kendall Syverson and Carol Lattimer. Murtaugh; Mrs. Elsie Thompson, Twin Falls, and Rhonda Ambrose, Buhl.

Mrs. Jack Gentry was re-elected president of the club during the business meeting. Others elected include Mrs. O. W. Danils, vice president; Mrs. Veeta Wilhite, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. O. E. Wright, reporter.

Mrs. Maude Denton and Mrs. Henry Petersen were elected to serve on the courtesy committee and Mrs. Lattimer, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Gentry were yearbook committee.

Mrs. Wallace Riggs received the special game gift and Mrs. Syverson received a wedding anniversary gift from her secret sister.

Secret sisters were revealed with a gift exchange and new names were drawn.

The club's annual family picnic was planned for 1 p.m. June 22 at the Twin Falls Idaho Power Co. Park.

Mrs. Kendall Syverson demonstrated "how-to" make bread flowers and Mrs. Thompson demonstrated making hats from plastic bleach bottles.

A box of useful gift items was checked for the Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert.

American War Mothers Meet

BURLEY — Plans were reported during the recent meeting of the Cassia Chapter of American War Mothers at home of Mrs. Hallie Boyd.

The session was conducted by Mrs. Katie Schmidt, state secretary and vice president. The state convention of American War Mothers will be held June 16 through 18 at Soda Springs. Mrs. Emma Ashcraft was elected delegate to replace Mrs. Ethel Cannell, president of the Cassia Chapter, who is ill and will be unable to attend the convention.

Mrs. Irma Quantstrom was appointed chapter chaplain for the convention to replace Mrs. Ann Parish, who is unable to attend the state sessions.

Mrs. Parish reported that the chapter memorial at the cemetery was decorated on Memorial Day.

It was announced that a covered dish dinner will be held in August, with time and place to be announced.

The chapter will be in recess during the summer months, and will resume regular meetings in September.

LE LIVRE ET LA PLUME Literary Arts Society officers elected during the May luncheon meeting include, from left, Mrs. Jess Summers, secretary; Mrs. Blaine Molyneux, treasurer; Mrs. Lynn Pettigill, president; Mrs. Lu Dell Waldron, historian-publicity, and Mrs. Gordon Cox, vice president. The luncheon meeting was held at the Colonial House.

Post-Nuptial Shower Held

RICHFIELD — Mrs. Tim Conant was guest-of-honor at a post-nuptial shower at the Methodist Church Reception Rooms. The recent bride is the former Pam Edwards, Richfield.

Hostesses included Mrs. Carl Riley, Mrs. Jack Hubsmith, Mrs. Idell Robinson and Luann Edwards, sister of the bride.

Mrs. Robinson announced program numbers with readings by Mrs. Loyd Lee and Mrs. Don Knowles, Dietrich, and piano selections by DeAnn Dixon, Judy Weiss, Dietrich, registered the guests.

Mrs. Conant greeted guests dressed in her white lace wedding gown. Her mother, Mrs. Sidney Edwards II, Richfield; her grandmother, Mrs. Sidney Edwards, Dietrich, and Mrs. Pete Conant, the bride's mother-in-law, Bliss, were special guests. Others attended from Arco, Gooding, Bliss, Shoshone, Dietrich and Richfield.

Literary Arts Society Elects

Le Livre et La Plume Literary Arts Society held its May luncheon and election of officers at the Colonial House.

Officers elected for the coming year are president, Mrs. Lynn Pettigill; vice president, Mrs. Gordon Cox; secretary, Mrs. Jess Summers, treasurer, Mrs. Blaine Molyneux, and publicity-historian, Mrs. Lu Dell Waldron.

The "I Hate to Housekeep Book" was reviewed by Mrs. Waldron. The author, Peg Bracken, who was born in Twin Falls, also wrote the "I Hate to Cook Book." Mrs. Waldron presented each member a miniature paper broom on which was written a useful household hint taken from the book she reviewed.

The guilded thought was given by Mrs. Ray Moss and Mrs. Jerry Holman gave the author's sketch.

President's Jet Is Marvel Of Electronic Equipment

By MERRIMAN SMITH
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force plane in which President Nixon cruises the world is an electrical and aerodynamic marvel. Not even an Onassis or a Getty could have one, much less afford one.

Air Force One, known in the trade as AF26000, has nine air-to-surface telephones, plus radio-telephone and a bundle of other communications equipment which we cannot tell you about.

Air Force One is part of an executive mission, a group of high-speed jets, which sit at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, waiting to roar into the blue yonder on call from the White House or such other powerful government figures as the Secretaries of Defense and State.

26000 recently underwent a long-overdue overhaul and the aircraft was reconfigured on the inside to President Nixon's taste. The overhaul bill came to something over $800,000.

The men at Boeing thought for a time about installing a shower for the President. But Lt. Col. Ralph Albertazzi, the President's pilot, mixed the idea.

To provide a Presidential shower, he figured would require hauling 600 gallons of extra water and this translated into 3,600 pounds of extra weight — perhaps 600 more when the designers had to consider additional heaters to keep the shower water from freezing at higher altitudes.

Let anyone worry about the President arriving grubby and unwashed at a formal ceremony, he has a rather elaborate bathroom aboard his government aircraft — plus a valet with a travel iron who keeps the Nixon creases constantly sharp.

Quite aside from the physical comforts of the President, Air Force One has other unusual qualities. For one example, she weighs, empty, 13,000 pounds more than a commercial 707 jet. This extra weight is due largely to her communications section which makes Dr. Strangelove look like an old fuddy with an early serial.

And again, when AF26000 hauled the late President John F. Kennedy, the passenger capacity was less than 50 persons,

Police Hold Quakers In War Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the fourth time in a month, a group of Quakers were arrested Wednesday after reading a list of Vietnam War dead from the steps of the U.S. Capitol.

Police arrested 20 of the anti-war demonstrators on charges of unlawful entry after they read the Congressional Record names of U.S. servicemen killed in Southeast Asia. There was no resistance to the arrests, as in the previous instances.

Four Congressmen, who also read names, were not arrested because of their congressional immunity from prosecution for minor offenses while in office.

Joining the demonstrators were Reps. George Brown, D-Calif., Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y. Brown and Koch were making their second appearance with the Quakers, who represent a Quaker action group based in Philadelphia.

Ground-Bound Nuclear Space Rocket Lights Sky In First Test Firing

JACKASS FLATS, Nev. (UPI)—Scientists successfully tested a nuclear rocket system Wednesday which might serve as a supply shuttle for moon colonists or a fact-finder on deep space voyages.

The nuclear rocket engine was fired in a nozzle-down position for the first time. Flame from the system was visible five miles away amid a backdrop of the colorful Calico Mountains and clear desert sky.

A shielded and closed test compartment housed the experimental engine, enabling scientists to observe its operation in a near spacelike atmosphere.

The engine, which burns liquid hydrogen heated to more than 3,000 degrees by a nuclear reactor, operated for 13 minutes with 3.5 minutes at full power. Flames shot 150 feet into the sky as the engine reached its full power thrust of 50,000 pounds. The nuclear reactor operated at levels up to 1,100 thermal megawatts of power or an output comparable to that of Hoover Dam.

Earlier this year, the rocket system was operated at low and intermediate power levels and additional tests are planned in this calendar year. The House of Representatives approved the NASA budget Tuesday which included $50 million earmarked for the NERVA rocket program. Scientists predicted that the NERVA engine would become the workhorse of space. It could be used to shuttle supplies back and forth to moon colonists or as a deep-space voyager—manned or unmanned.

Military experts have expressed an interest in the rocket system—possibly as a surveillance device.

The NERVA nuclear engine—which means nuclear engine for rocket vehicle application—could be launched into space atop a powerful Saturn 5 booster. Exports said, for example, that during a roundtrip to Mars the nuclear engine would be required to operate for one hour at the most. The rocket's capability to start up and then shut down quickly would enable it to make guidance maneuvers and then slide through space for long periods of time.

The experimental engine test was the last step toward development of a flight-qualified engine with 75,000 pounds of thrust. The NERVA program is a joint effort of the Atomic Energy Commission and NASA. Aerojet General and Westinghouse Corp. supply the industrial contracting team.

The rocket system is part of Project Rover, the deep-space program to follow Apollo.

District Meets

SHOSHONE—Republican Legislative Chairman for District 21, John Peavey, announces a legislative district meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, June 17, at the courthouse here.

Purpose of the meeting is to select a chairman to succeed him and to make recommendations to the governor for filling the nuclear rocket program with what scientists call a "grand tour." In the years of 1976-79 the outer planets will be lined up in such a way that one planet could be used like a slingshot to spin a space probe onto the next planet.

a vacancy in the District 21 senate seat which was vacated June 1 by the resignation of Mrs. Mary Brooks.

The precinct men will choose three names to submit to the governor.

S. soldiers were looking for Viet Cong recoilless rifles that had been shelling the Duc Pho base camp regularly for the last three weeks. (UPI telephoto).

Survey Finds Young Rebels To Be 'Unusually Bright'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Usually not planned but arises out of an interaction between protesters and responding authorities.

Black college students, more interested in independence than integration, "provide a fertile base for campus militancy."

"There has been a resurgence of militant white protest largely directed against the gains of the black community."

The policeman in America is "overworked, undertrained, underpaid — and undereducated," and his response to mass protest "has often resulted in an escalation of conflict, hostility and violence."

The violence commission was formed by President Lyndon B. Johnson after the assassinations last year of Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

In studying student protest, the report said the "current student generation is more morally and politically serious and better educated than the generation of the 1950s." The resort to mass protest can not be explained away by referring to personality problems or delinquency, it said.

"On the contrary, research indicates that activists have usually been good students with liberal ideals not unlike those of their parents."

The use of police to quell campus disorders has often "aggravated campus conflict while decreasing support for the university outside the campus," it said.

"Doubtless some student radicals hope for physical confrontations with the police. But there is little evidence that such a hope is widespread."

The report said increasing numbers of persons, besides students and black militants, were relying on protest demonstrations as a political tool. It said the situation could be compared to the emergence of the strike as a tool of organized labor.

Once the public stopped resisting the strike as a tactic, it said, it began to pay attention to the things the workers were striking to win.

Dick King Heads Glens Ferry School Trustees

GLENS FERRY — Dick King was re-elected as chairman of the school trustees for Joint School District 192 at a reorganizational meeting this week. Don Carnahan was elected vice chairman.

It was reported that the district lacks only two teachers — a junior high and a high school instructor. According to Mr. King, applications have been received for the positions.

In other business, the trustees granted permission to the State Highway Department to use school facilities to hold a public hearing July 16.

The Shriners were given permission to use a bus for transporting children to the Shrine Circus June 17. The Girl Scouts were permitted to use a bus to travel to the Mule Shoe Bar Ranch west of the city.

EXPORTS RISE — UTRECHT, The Netherlands (UPI) — Holland's agricultural exports rose from a value of 2.79 billion guilders ($183 billion) in 1960 to 6.65 billion guilders ($185 billion) in 1968.

Murtaugh Man Is Ill In Denver

MURTAUGH — Word was received here this week that Oliver Johnson Sr., is a patient in the intensive care unit of a Denver hospital and will remain hospitalized for at least two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left their home in Murtaugh on Friday for Denver and were staying with their son, Oliver Johnson Jr. and family. Mr. Johnson was not feeling well when they arrived in Denver and was taken to the hospital where examinations showed he had suffered a heart attack.
