

Disciplinary Rights Of Schools Studied By Board Of Trustees

Just how long is too long, and how short is too short, when applied to student's hair and dress styles? And who is "undesirable" and what is really "academically disruptive?"

At the Monday night board meeting, members of the school board and administration officials, including Dr. Ernest Ragland, superintendent; George Staudacher, assistant superintendent; John Lawrence, high school principal; and Richard Bunt, high school dean, and school district attorneys T. M. Robertson and John Rosholt, discussed these matters at length, without reaching any conclusions.

A recodification of Idaho school laws, completed about five years ago, stresses "continual" and "habitual" violation of school policies as grounds for suspension.

According to Mr. Lawrence, district school officials have in the past ordered short suspensions upon a student's first offense for such breaches as smoking, drinking, being drunk or fighting on school grounds. Expulsion also has been provided by local school officials, but students in these cases have been given the right to a hearing before the board of trustees.

In recent years, disciplinary prohibitions were broadened to include illegal use of drugs. In 1965, a general code outlining dress and hair styles also was adopted.

But, after this year's Crystal Ship incident, where students involved in violation of school orders not to distribute an off-campus newspaper at the high school were suspended, school officials began more carefully to research Idaho statutes outlining the authority of an administrator and a school board.

10 Die As Lumbering Cargo Plane Hits Business District On Landing Attempt

MIAMI (UPI)—The old four-engine plane, smoke pouring from its tail and flames spewing from an engine, circled like some stricken giant bird over the city.

Cassia Awaits Opinion On School Vote

BURLEY—Dale Nelson, Cassia County School Superintendent, and members of the school board were awaiting the advice of the school attorney Tuesday on whether or not to hold the proposed $2.0 million school bond election.

Mr. Nelson said after a school board meeting Monday night that the board's attorney would call the state attorney general Tuesday.

Mr. Nelson said after the meeting, however, "Out of necessity we've got to go (with the school bond). The time is ripe. The board feels we might just as well get this passed by the public, if we can, and worry then about the next step of selling the bonds."

Mr. Nelson said, "We've recessed until Wednesday to find out what legal counsel finds out from the attorney general's office."

Israel said only that one of its men was killed in the attack near the southern end of the canal. There was no confirmation of a Cairo report the commandos destroyed two armored cars.

"No Change" Iranian Officials Start Area Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—Billy Graham conceded Monday that New York — "the most difficult city in America" — was still the same despite his 10-day crusade in Madison Square Garden.

"We know by experience that this hasn't changed New York," Graham told a news conference in the Pen Garden Hotel. "It probably hasn't made the smallest dent in the city."

He denied that the crusade could be considered a failure, however.

Ray Crandall, organizer of the 5 p.m. meeting at the Idaho Power Auditorium, said all 104 city retail outlets have been contacted about the measure.

45 Acres Burn In Range Fires Near Burley

BURLEY — Two range fires in the Burley district burned a total of 45 acres over the weekend, according to Bureau of Land Management officials. Because of recent heavy rains, the first fire subsided.

The first fire burned about 30 acres near Rupert on a highway unit Friday. A tanker crew and hand crew were used to extinguish the grass and brush fire.

The fire was apparently man-caused, said Dispatcher Chuck Bate.

The second fire burned about 15 acres in the Silver area Sunday. Lightning-caused, the fire required two tanker trucks to put it out.

Blaze Guts Buhl Potato Warehouse

BUHL — An undetermined amount of damage was done Monday in a blaze which gutted an unused potato warehouse on Buhl's main street.

The 80 by 130-foot wooden building is owned by Mel Gressly, who was not available to estimate the amount of damage. The warehouse was gutted by a fire which started in the Fire Department were called to the fire at 12:20 p.m., and worked for about an hour and one-half to confine the blaze. The warehouse borders a coal yard, which is next to three bulk plants owned by Sinclair, Conoco and American oil companies. Firemen, however, were unable to stop the fire from spreading in this direction.

Fire Chief Lee Monroe said a light rain fell as firemen battled the blaze, but rain was not heavy enough to assist in controlling the fire.

When firemen arrived at the scene, the warehouse already was partially in flames and thick smoke poured from the one-story structure, blanketing the city.

Part of the roof of the warehouse caved in, but the rest of the structure still is standing, the chief said.

Cause of the blaze is not known. Potato equipment, including cutters and sacks, was inside the building.

'Antique' Items Located In Box At Albion School

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson has received a box of newspapers from the Gay day. Lightning-caused, the fire required two tanker trucks to put it out.

The articles were in a copper box removed from a building foundation at the state-owned college campus in Albion.

State Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley said the box was probably put in place with the original Albion Normal School building.

The campus for the past 12 years has been leased to Magic Valley Christian College. The school is moving to Baker, Ore., and the decision of the legislature authorized the Land Board to dispose of the property and to maintain the buildings.

Samuelson said he probably will decide what to do with the box.

The Court And The Ethics Code Story

WASHINGTON — Justice William O. Douglas, under mounting congressional attack for questionable extra-judicial connections, activities and income, played a leading role in blocking Supreme Court's adoption of a code of ethics.

year-old Chief Justice, who retires next week, quickly assured the Court he was not opposed to the code because he felt the Court should do no less than what had been done by the Senate and House.

Matter Of Levity

Of all the awkward words in daily use, "weightlessness" is the most awkward. Headline-writers shudder at its length. Poets eschew it like the plague. It is negative in a ponderous way.

Meanwhile, back at the big word-corral, appears the noun "levity." Dictionaries list several meanings, including "a tendency opposite to that of gravity, formerly supposed to be characteristic of certain bodies."

MR. SPECTATOR

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Though Mayor John V. Lindsay is a beaten Republican, he is far from out of it as a candidate for re-election this fall.

own polls showed voters had built up toward him. Yet evidently not enough of that made itself felt to overcome Marchi's handicaps, little public identity and untested organization support.

(Second in a series of three articles) As I indicated yesterday, hydrocele (low blood sugar) is a capricious masquerader. The patient can have sugar and the shakes, break into a sweat, dizziness, unreasonable spells of grouching, headaches, visual blackouts, mental confusion, even blackouts.

For those who would like the booklet, it will be distributed, as usual, by mail. Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of the Times-News, and ask for the booklet, "Help For Hydrocele." Or just ask for the booklet on low blood sugar.

Mai Lan Is Prime Target For Viet Cong Death Squads

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mai Lan is young, beautiful, talented, and a prime target for the Viet Cong's death squads. She is in New York for six weeks of study, and relative safety. In August she will go back to Vietnam, run her radio program for American servicemen, and worry about her safety—and that of her family. Mai Lan, whose name translates as "Morning Orchid," an assumed name to conceal her identity, has a daily rock 'n' roll, rhythm and blues, country and pop music show on a Saigon station. She broadcasts in English, one of the four languages she speaks fluently, and to reassure servicemen "somebody cares for them."

She has received 100 to 200 fan letters from servicemen each week during the more than three years she's been on the air. Mai Lan, 22, was off the air for a few months in 1968—when the Viet Cong Tet offensive was in full progress and her boss wouldn't allow her to leave home. Mai Lan's second job in Saigon is teaching Vietnamese to English-speaking television audiences, over the armed forces network. She gives hints on getting by in 11 dialects and, according to a former network officer, has helped the U.S. Army interrogators detect a Viet Cong "accident." "I don't like it," she said, "I love it."

Court Decision In Powell Case Raises As Many Questions As It Answered

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court decision in the Adam Clayton Powell case has raised as many questions as it answered and has alarmed lawmakers already wary of the court's attitude toward Congress. The opinion written by retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren held that Powell was unlawfully excluded in 1957 from the House seat to which he was restored this year after the 1958 election. Powell's victory raises questions as to whether the present court, at least, would have ruled that other members elected, who were denied seats, were barred illegally. The Constitution says that "each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members." Warren said that "qualifications" were only those listed in the Constitution, which sets minimum ages and requires U.S. citizenship and residence in the state from which elected. Many but not all members of Congress believed they had much broader power to judge qualifications of members. When the Senate was debating whether to seat Sen. William L. Langer, R-N.D., Sen. Scott W. Lucas of Illinois said the Senate could deny a person his seat simply because it does not like the cut of his jaw, if it wishes to. The Senate needed more than a year to settle the Langer case. A committee investigated an assortment of charges against him and voted 13 to 3 that he was not entitled to the seat. But the Senate voted 52 to 30 to seat him. Warren's opinion indicated the House and Senate really have nothing to judge except vote counts and charges of election improprieties. The Constitution gives both houses power to expel a member already seated by a two-thirds vote for misconduct. Before the Powell case, the last House member elected to be denied a seat was Victor L. Berger, an anti-war Socialist from Wisconsin, in 1919. Warren noted the House acted under a provision of the 14th Amendment, one of those growing out of the Civil War, that no one could be a member of Congress who had given "aid and comfort" to the enemy. Berger later was elected again and seated. In the 1920's, the Senate refused to seat Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, who were accused of spending too much money to win senatorial nominations. An offshoot of the Vare dispute was a case carried to the Supreme Court, which held that the Senate could refuse to seat him. Warren dismissed that case in a footnote, calling it an election dispute, over which the Senate had explicit jurisdiction. A more recent Senate case involved Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo, D-Miss., who was reelected in 1946 but not seated. The Democratic side of an investigating committee concerned itself mostly with rebutting charges that Bilbo had been too cozy with war contractors. The Republican minority accused Bilbo of "vile, contemptible, inflammatory and dangerous language" on the issue of Negro voting. Bilbo departed for home when it was clear that a Senate vote would bar him from his seat. But he was kept on the Senate payroll until he died seven months later.

Unfair Labor Practice Rule Reaffirmed

BOISE (UPI)—The National Labor Relations Board Monday reaffirmed a March 19 ruling by a trial examiner that a Teamsters Union local was "in violation of the National Labor Relations Act" for its "inclusion of a non-union member" in its membership list. The board said it reviewed the rulings of trial examiner Herman Corenman and found no prejudicial error. The complaint against Local 551 of the International Teamsters Union was brought by Dravo Construction Corp. as sponsor of Dworshak Dam Constructors. The trial examiner had ordered the union to cease from "threatening, restraining or coercing Dworshak Dam Constructors..." Corenman said the union admitted it threatened to picket Dworshak Dam Constructors, contending that the firm was a secondary employer and that its primary dispute was with consolidated freighways.

Man May Make Earth Uninhabitable For Life

By R. E. STANNARD JR.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Man, his cities and his skills may soon make earth uninhabitable.

That warning went out to the world Monday in a 66-page United Nations report on problems of the human environment.

Overpopulation, urban glut and technological backlash can spell global crisis within the lifetime of many people, the report says.

The report was ordered when the General Assembly decided last December to convene an international conference in 1972 on what congestion, pollution and erosion can do to the world.

Secretary General Thant and his staff assembled some grim facts:

Seven times as many people crowd the earth today as in Shakespearean times. Mankind will double again before the children reach retirement age.

But the land that feeds man is shrinking. Already over a thousand million acres have been lost to erosion or salinity that sterilize the soil.

Two-thirds of the forest lands have been lost. Under man's dominion over the birds and beasts, 150 species have vanished altogether and a thousand more are fading away.

Cities should enhance civilization by relieving rural land pressures and diversifying human life styles. Yet they are becoming slum-ridden centers of pollution, congestion and crime because governments failed to cope with mass urban migration.

Finally, man's own genes are being altered. Not only conquered nature, but sown seeds of its destruction.

The fuels he burns have raised carbon dioxide level in the atmosphere 10 per cent in the past 100 years. They may raise it 25 per cent by the year 2000, with potentially catastrophic effects on earth's weather and climate.

Fertilizers and pesticides have enabled man to harvest more food from the land, but he is only just learning about some unforeseen hazards. It has been discovered that traces of the popular insecticide DDT reduce by about 75 per cent the photosynthesis process in marine algae which is essential to the oxygen in the air we breathe and to life teeming in the seas. Yet man has already poured an estimated half million tons of DDT into the world, and is adding another 50,000 tons every year.

What is the answer? Coordination at all levels of society, the report says. There must be an integrated national approval and global view geared for preventive action to obviate difficult, expensive and costly correctives after the damage is done.

Legislative Council Mulls Future Of Extension Service

By PAUL M. QUINN

BOISE (UPI)—With the fate of Agriculture Extension Service on its mind, a Legislative Council study committee decided Monday to take the issue to the people.

"The question is are we getting the value paid for," Rep. Clifford M. Scoresby, R-Iona, asked the committee, appointed by a special legislative session to study the extension service.

Others were of the opinion that it boiled down to simply: "Should it be abolished or not?"

The council committee on the extension service agreed to hold a series of public meetings between the last week in June and mid-August to decide what's really the feeling of those concerned.

The joint venture between the federal-state-county governments has been under fire for some time in Idaho—particularly by rural areas. Monday as a "breakdown of communications" between the various county agents, the people they are to serve and the state.

"Many private industries are far outdistancing the present extension operations," Rep. Virgil Farmer, D-Blaine, said. An attempt was made during the past session of the legislature to cut off the state aid to the extension service after a $15 million contribution to salaries this biennium for extension agents.

During the early part of the committee meeting Monday, the Executive Board of the Agriculture Consulting Council urged the Extension Service study group to tread lightly.

The consulting council, while admitting there were failings, said. The small farmer should be given the help possible.

The committee represents a cross section of the concern that is felt," Sen. Reed Rudge, R-Soda Springs, said the agriculture consulting group.

The legislature instructed the council committee to evaluate the benefits derived from the extension service and determine whether it should be reorganized, left the same or dropped completely.

The study group is headed by Rep. Jack Claborn, D-Twin Falls.

"There has been a lot of criticism, but the Extension Service has not been bad," Harold West, a member of the agriculture consulting group representing the Idaho and Bean Commission said. "We don't know where we could be if we didn't have the service."

He told the legislature "We have to remember that agriculture in Idaho is the major industry. The bread and butter of Idaho comes from the small farmers. Without the small farmer there is no small town and it's important that the small farmer be kept on the farm."

West admitted that there appeared to be a "lack of coordination" between the state and county on the extension program.

All those who testified before the study committee were members of the Agriculture Consulting Council Board of Directors.

Bill Borgeson of the Idaho Potato Industry said, "We actually should jump more rapidly—we should jump ahead 10 years."

Ernie Jerome, representing the State Grange, said, "There must be ways to improve the extension service," but he said generally speaking there has been good cooperation between extension agents and his group.

But Jerome added he didn't feel the agents should be left in any one area too long. "Frankly," he said, "they can become stagnant," he said.

West pointed out that the contribution from the counties to the program is "great."

He said in most instances the county furnishes the extension agents with office space, clerical help, supplies and a car. "The state contributes most of the salary."

"Maybe we should talk to the county commissioners long and hard before any drastic changes are made," West said.

Wyoming Youth Awaits Date With Court On Slay Charge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Russell Payne, son of a missing Wyoming couple who authorities believe was murdered, remained in Clark County Jail Monday without bail pending arraignment in Justice Court.

A log jam of paper work delayed Payne's arraignment until Tuesday, if spokesman for the district attorney said. Originally authorities said Payne would appear in Justice Court Monday to advise the court whether he would voluntarily return to Wyoming on a murder warrant.

Payne, 25, surrendered to Clark County Sheriff's deputies Friday, some 24 hours after a murder warrant was issued in Jackson, Wyo., charging he killed his mother, Emmalyn Payne, 53, a former columnist for the Review Journal newspaper in Las Vegas, Wyo., woman and her husband, Dr. Martin Payne, 53, disappeared June 11 from their home.

The Wilson, Wyo., woman and her husband, Dr. Martin Payne, 53, disappeared June 11 from their home. The couple moved from Las Vegas to Wyoming four years ago and their son joined them in March.

Harry Reid, a Nevada state assemblyman and Payne's attorney, said Monday the suspect had not decided whether to waive extradition. Reid indicated he might ask District Court to release Payne on bail, but said that also was undecided.

Wyoming officials said it was believed Mr. and Mrs. Payne were murdered and their bodies dumped in the Snake River. Bloodstains were found in their home as well as their car, which was abandoned seven miles south of Jackson. Authorities said searchers also sighted blood on a bridge which spanned the Snake River.

Despite extensive searching in Wyoming, the bodies have not been found. Sheriff Lawrence Cheney of Teton County, Wyo., said the warrant was issued for Payne charging him with the murder of his mother because the woman's blood type was on

Medication Blamed For Death Of Star

LONDON (UPI)—Pathologists investigating Judy Garland's death ran more laboratory tests today in efforts to determine whether in fact an overdose of sleeping pills killed her.

Scotland Yard sources said an autopsy performed Monday revealed evidence of an excess of sleep-inducing drugs in the star's system. Some of the drugs found in the two-room home where she was found dead Sunday.

"It is absolutely impossible to say if such an overdose was either accidental or otherwise," a Scotland Yard source said. Further lab tests on her blood and some organs were ordered.

Westminster Coroner Colin Thurston called an inquiry for Wednesday to hear testimony, the autopsy report and the laboratory findings to help affix the cause of the 47-year-old singer-actress's death.

Mickey Deans, her fifth husband, was a certain witness whether in person or by sworn statement, for it was he who spent her final hours with the singer and found her dead at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Friends described Miss Garland on her last day as depressed in the early morning and then gay, laughing and joking in the evening over dinner in the Deans home.

Scotland Yard refused to comment on newspaper reports that the pills found in her home were 50 sleeping tablets out of a bottle of 100 she had bought Saturday. The Yard said the tablets were not found next to the body.

Plans got under way to ship the body to New York, probably on Thursday. There, it will be put on public display at the Frank Campbell Funeral Home, with a private funeral and burial on Friday.

A London doctor who treated Miss Garland in her frequent bouts with drugs and alcohol, Phillip Lebon, had said she suffered from cirrhosis of the liver—an incurable disease that affects alcoholics.

"She was living on borrowed time," he said.

ISU Gets Funds For ETV Station

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Don Samuelson Monday announced the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved a $34,000 federal grant for construction of educational television facilities at Idaho State University.

The governor said authorization of the federal funds, together with $113,000 appropriated by the 40th Idaho Legislature, paved the way for the ETV station at Idaho State to become operational within 12 months.

The State Board of Education was applicant for the federal grant.

Monday they were arraigned on charges of escape and destruction of county property. All three are accused of robbing a Berger store owner last Feb. 13. They will appear in court this Friday to enter pleas to the robbery charges and again Monday to enter pleas on escape and destruction of county property. They are being held in the county jail in lieu of posting bond.

Business Today

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Lev Zetlin is an engineer with some revolutionary but respected ideas on how the United States should solve its housing crisis. He believes, for instance, that we could build better homes for out-of-lightweight modules and one-tenth of today's costs, saving about 70 per cent on materials; if advanced technology were put to work at once. And there's the rub, according to Dr. Zetlin, who heads up an engineering consulting firm in New York and the center for research and innovation in building at the University of Virginia. The future he envisions depends on massive government financing to bring about the needed technological revolution. To prove that his theories are practical and save money, Dr. Zetlin has cut $1.5-million from the projected cost of a civic observation tower planned for Milwaukee. It involves his theory that there is 70 per cent waste in the construction of tall buildings. Since much of the material is used to counteract wind, he says, he can find other ways to fight drift, particularly since the building will be under severe "drift" strains only 1 per cent of the time? For the Milwaukee tower, Dr. Zetlin worked out a system of stabilizing the structure much as an airplane is stabilized in flight or a rocket is stabilized for launching. His design calls for the use of gyroscopes and electronic sensors that actuate pilot-type mechanical shock absorbers to keep the light build-

Berkeley Children Preoccupied With Violence And Guardsmen

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Of all the parents puzzled by their children's problems, few Americans are confronted with a five-year-old's explanation of a drawing like this: "This is tear gas... they will throw it at you. It burns, it's hot, it hurts when it gets in your eyes. It's a lot of trucks and soldiers. I want them to leave." Such concerns volunteered by thoughtful little people are a measure of how deeply everybody in Berkeley was daily affected during the recent curfew and 18-day stay in the city of the National Guard. The guard was called upon to restore order in quelling demonstrators at the University of California's "people's park" controversy. During the dispute, one man was fatally shot, 20 wounded by bullets, hundreds arrested and tear gas was dumped over wide areas. Because children were thought to be safer in classes than out of them, all public schools remained in operation—even though tear gas got into elementary and high school—and the guard used areas around two schools for staging activities. At Whittier Elementary school, which was not gassed, the first grade newspaper is a collection of brief essays on what interests each child. Now in the current edition read like this: "Yesterday, a helicopter poured tear gas. It got in a girl's eyes. She went to the hospital to get a patch. She looks funny." Maryann Kajan, coordinator of early childhood education, reported that all 800 children in nursery schools were affected deeply. This was true regardless of the child's location, his parents' opinions in the controversy or whether parents refrained from discussing the situation in his presence, she said. Her evidence includes drawings done by the children at the time. In Berkeley a child often dictates to a typist a story to go with his art. Not only were the drawings suddenly preoccupied with violence, but some children's "self-portraits" showed dramatic deteriorations from ones previously done. Alex Kofan said he found his children's "tear gas bomb" or "bayonet" rather healthy because it was their attempt to deal with reality. But he regretted the example of force provided four-year-olds whom "we are trying to teach to verbalize their feelings, to say 'I'm mad at you,' rather than use their fists."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow who has been dating this fellow (divorced) and we are living in our late thirties. There is no steady arrangement but we do enjoy each other's company. Here's the problem:

Everytime we go out he makes a fuss over the waitress, has to find out her first name and then, or he's on a first name basis with her.

The last time we went out, we sat at a piano bar and the waitress sat down next to him and complained about how tired she was. Well, he proceeded to Needless to say I was embarrassed to death and everyone around was taking it all in. I was so embarrassed that I was very angry when I got home.

We were alone. This led to an argument. He said I was a "snob" and that he was just being "social" and he'd be so sociable with a bartender!

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to NANCY was perfect. There are husbands who are so sensitive and sympathetic to their wives that they actually suffer right along with them.

My father was that way. I still remember one morning right in the middle of the night, my father turned pale, got up from the breakfast table and made his way to the bathroom where he was very sick indeed. Then I heard my mother. "Well, I'm certain now!"

Later when Mother started feeling labor pain, my father doubled up in agony. He was always such a sweet and sympathetic man. A girl is lucky to have such a father.

India May Be About Ready To Play Peace-Maker In Vietnam

By PHIL NEWSOM - UPI Foreign News Analyst - A spurt of Indian diplomatic activity has led to speculation that India may be about ready to attempt a peace-maker role in Vietnam as she once did in Korea. This week Mrs. Indira Gandhi is to hold important meetings with Japanese leaders in Tokyo and goes on from there to Indonesia. Enroute, she is to receive in Bangkok a report from India's foreign affairs secretary, T. N. Sult, on his just-completed mission to Hanoi. Lending further weight to the speculation is the fact that in recent weeks Mrs. Gandhi has conferred in Afghanistan with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and in New Delhi with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers. The subject of Vietnam is believed to have been high in all these meetings. India is in a particularly good position to play an arbiter's role. She has relations with both North and South Vietnam, and is said on occasion to have acted as a transmission line between the United States and Hanoi. She also is chairman of the International Control Commission set up to police the 1954 Geneva Agreement dividing former French Indo China into independent states. In Afghanistan Kosygin discussed with Mrs. Gandhi an Asian security plan to include the nations ringed by Red China, a plan also brought up by party leader Leonid Brezhnev at the Moscow conference of 73 world Communist leaders. At the same meeting, he is said to have given Mrs. Gandhi the go-ahead to take soundings on a possible peace role in Vietnam. In Korea, India played an important role in bringing a cease-fire. Armistice talks had bogged down on the prisoner of war issue until finally it was agreed India would interview Communist prisoners to determine whether they wished to return to North Korea and Red China or remain in South Korea. Politically, India would find it difficult to join in any Asian security plan or to permit stationing of foreign bases on her soil. Japan's no-war constitution also would bar her from any such set up. But both Japan and India have a vital interest in Asian peace and stability. So it will be more than simple economics that Mrs. Gandhi and Japan's Premier Eisaku Sato will be discussing.

Silva Travels To Discuss Funds McNamara Attacks Congress' Spending For Defense Items

BOISE (UPI) - Finance Commissioner John Silva Monday was on a trip designed to take him to the 10 top investment firms in the United States during the next two weeks to discuss Idaho's endowment funds investments. Silva, who left Boise this past weekend, was scheduled to return July 7. During his trip Silva will attend the meeting of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks June 25-27 in Washington, D.C. WAR HALT ASKED NATICK, Mass (UPI) - Massachusetts Methodists called on President Nixon Monday to order an unconditional halt in American offensive military operations in Vietnam. And it will be more than U.S. aid to India that Indian Foreign Affairs Minister Dinesh Singh will be discussing when he goes to Washington next month. BOSTON (UPI) - Congress buys defense items the way women buy perfume - "if it costs more, they conclude it must be better," former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara said in an interview published today in the Boston Globe. The former defense chief said he would not "disparage" the Vietnam War and gave the following reasons: "In the first place, my reasons do not involve any criticism of (former Defense Secretary) Clark Clifford's recent statements. I know how strongly Clark feels about the war. My own reasons stand on their own. I won't have anything to say on Vietnam," McNamara said. Clifford, who replaced McNamara at the Pentagon last week advocated a withdrawal of all combat ground forces from Vietnam by 1970 and involvement in the war. McNamara added "the amount of military hardware can buy us security, and that's a fact we have yet to learn." McNamara, president of the World Bank, was defense secretary for seven years under former Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. He made the comment in an interview in Washington with Globe correspondent Martin F. Nolan. He said the debate on the anti-ballistic missile system and other defense projects is healthy, but added that "independent, a analytical study groups are needed on all these issues. Mao Tse-tung's Miraculous Cures Are Being Questioned

HONG KONG (UPI) - The question before the house is whether the thoughts of Mao Tse-tung can work medical miracles. "Of course, you idiots," a Communist Chinese newspaper in Hong Kong declared, "doubters. Communist radio broadcasts and newspapers both inside and outside China carry numerous reports each day about miracu-

August Draft Call Set For 29,500 Men

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Pentagon issued a draft call today for 29,500 men in August. Also announced that the first 900 troops returning from Vietnam are scheduled to arrive in the United States about July 9. The Pentagon said the first contingent of the 25,000 servicemen being called home by President Nixon are due to leave Vietnam by plane about July 8 and to arrive at McChord Air Force Base, Wash., the following day. They will be the 3rd Battalion, 60th Infantry Regiment of the 9th Infantry Division. The 900 will be taken to Ft. Lewis, near Tacoma, Wash., to be processed for either discharge or new assignments. The Pentagon said two other Vietnam battalions, the 3rd and 4th of the 47th Infantry, would be flown to McChord and Ft. Lewis later. Pentagon spokesmen said the August draft call - all for the Army, was necessary although the size of the Army is being reduced. About 8,000 Army men will not be replaced when they leave the service. An additional 5,000 Army support forces will not be replaced when their terms of service expire, resulting in a 13,000-man cut in the Army, which had 1,514,412 men in April. A reduction in Army strength had long been planned for this year, made possible largely by reduced training requirements. The August draft call compares with 22,300 for July, and more than 33,000 last February, March and April. Earlier, the Pentagon said it is working on contingency plans for withdrawing up to 325,000 troops from Vietnam, if and when President Nixon issues such orders.

Gun Wound Is Fatal For Youth

TROY, Idaho (UPI) - A 14-year-old Clarkston, Wash., youth, Norman A. Brooks, died of an accidental gunshot wound in the chest here Sunday. Brooks and a 13-year-old companion were hunting squirrels on land owned by the victim's grandfather, when the shooting occurred. Latah County, Idaho, investigators said it wanted to know whether Brooks' gun or that of his companion, Bobby Hill, discharged the fatal shot. Officers said the youth were hunting squirrels on the Elbert Heye farm when the accident occurred. Young Hill can trace miles to summon help for his companion, but the youth was pronounced dead at the scene by Latah County Coroner J.B. Brillmann. The farm is located 30 miles north of Clarkston. The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Curtis Brooks, Clarkston.

Searchers Unable To Find Bodies

SALMON (UPI) - Searchers at the Salmon River have so far been unsuccessful in attempts to recover the bodies of Nadine Tuttle, 17, Eiba, and Sherman Walchli, 17, Salmon. The Tuttle girl was lost in the river with her 15-year-old sister Carla when a jet boat sank below Klallum Point at the end of the Salmon River Road June 6. Carla's body was found June 17 in an eddy at Lantz Bar. Walchli was believed to have gone into the river 13 miles north of Salmon when the auto he was driving left U.S. Highway 92 April 13. A fisherman reported hooking into something he later recalled looked like the collar of a white shirt. He was fishing some 2 1/2 miles downstream from where Walchli's auto went into the river. Deputy Sheriff George Nichols and a group of Idaho Fish and Game Department employees have searched the spot near Fourth of July Creek down the river to North Fork, but reported no success.

Frazier Batters Quarry With Hooks In Winning Bout By TKO In Seventh

Quarry Pleaded For 'One More Round'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry Quarry, stopped for the first time in his boxing career, pleaded for "one more round" with the physician, but the doctor would not listen.

Quarry took only the first round, continually beating Frazier to the punch with looping lefts. The Bellflower, Calif., challenger surprised Frazier at the start by marching steadily forward instead of fighting with counter punches.

But that strategy proved faulty when Frazier started storming back in the second round to pulverize Quarry. The Philadelphia champion merely shrugged off Quarry's best punches and began coaxing him to try harder.

Washed Out Rain washed out all chances of the Twin Falls City Slow-Pitch Tourney getting underway Monday night.

DETROIT (UPI)—Jim Price hammered the first punch by Steve Hamilton into the upper deck in left field for a home run, scoring Al Kaline ahead of him in the ninth inning to give the Detroit Tigers a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees Monday night.

Pennel Looks For 18-Foot Vault In Miami Track Meet

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—John Pennel had just taken the world record in the pole vault away from Olympic champion Bob Seagren, when Ralph Boston, the long jumper-turned-television sports reporter, rushed up to interview him.

"When you were coming down the runway did you know you had it?" Boston asked.

"Golly, you never know that Bob...Ralph, sorry," the excited athlete said. "I'm calling you Bob Seagren."

"He's the man to beat," the 28-year-old Pennel said in reference to Seagren, University of Southern California's much-publicized star. "He's the man on top or at least he was," Pennel-Seagren rivalry may reach its apex at Miami, Fla., in the National AAU meet next weekend, and John says there is a strong chance that the word will get its "18-foot vault."

"I definitely think it can be done down there," Pennel offered. "The conditions won't be what you'd call ideal because it's going to be humid. But the competition will be there."

"It's great to have the world record back but it's not exactly novel. I've had it nine or 10 times. The big thing, of course, is to be the first man over 18. They can take your world records away but they can't take a barrier away."

Pennel, who will be 29 next month, has ruled out the 1972 Olympics.

He says he is going to retire from competition at the end of the summer.

"While Seagren captured the gold medal at the Olympics last summer, John finished fifth with 174-3/4. At the 1964 Olympics, he was 11th at 185-1/2. "I think I could have won both of them," the 5-foot-11, 180-pounder declared. "I'm serious when I say that. But I suffered a slipped disc in my back two weeks before Tokyo and at Mexico City when I cleared 174-3/4, the pole went under the bar."

The high point of Pennel's athletic career came at Miami Aug. 24, 1963, when he cracked 17 feet with a 17-1/2 vault.

"The barrier is the thing," he said. "I was the first guy to do it and that'll never change."

Pennel, who was voted the Sullivan Award in 1963 for that performance, is mystified that the 18-foot barrier is unbroken.

"Once someone does it," he remarked, "then I think several others will follow. That was the case at 17 feet. Fred Hansen (the 1964 Olympic gold medalist) was right behind me."

Pennel has had his share of injuries and the most serious came in the summer of 1966 when he had a weight of 180 pounds in Finland and broke his wrist.

"I thought that was the end of my competitive vaulting. I drove by the time I got to the well at least a couple of vaults would be over 18 feet. But they weren't."

Merritt And Reds Topple Padres 5-0

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Jim Merritt pitched a two-hitter as the Cincinnati Reds defeated San Diego 5-0 Monday night and stretched the Padres' losing streak to nine games.

Tony Perez socked a homer with two on during a four-run third inning to pace an 11-hit attack as the Reds snapped a three-game losing streak.

The victory was the seventh in 10 decisions for Merritt who struck out six and didn't walk a batter. He yielded a single to Clarence Gaston and the fifth and another to John Sipek in the ninth.

The Reds got one run in the second inning off loser Gary Ross and then sent him to the showers with a four run spurge in the third inning.

Pete Rose touched off the rally with a single and completed the circuit on singles by Bob Toland and Alex Johnson. Perez followed with his fifth homer of the season.

LA. Drops Braves To Pad Lead

ATLANTA (UPI)—Manny Mota drove in three runs with his first homer of the season and single Monday night to lead Los Angeles to a 5-2 victory over Atlanta and widen the Dodgers' lead to a game and a half over the Braves in the Western Division of the National League.

Mota, recently acquired from Montreal, put the Dodgers in front 2-1 in the third inning when he homered over the left field fence with pitcher Don Sutton, who had singled, aboard.

The Braves caught up in the sixth on Rico Carty's fourth homer, but youthful lefthander George Stone balked home Ted Sizemore in the seventh for the go-ahead run, and Mota clinched the game in the ninth when he singled home Maury Wills, who had tripled and then scored all the way from first, when catcher Bob Tillman overthrew first on a sacrifice by Bill Russell.

Don Sutton, who worked the first six innings, picked up his 11th win against five losses. Sutton gave up only four hits, but a 4-4 tie single in the fourth inning allowed Hank Aaron to trot home with the Braves' other run. Jim Brewer gave up one hit in three innings of relief to gain his 10th win.

Astros Top Giants To Hike Streak

HOUSTON (UPI)—Denia DeLoach led a two-run rally and Gary Geiger slammed a three-run triple to lead the Houston Astros to their seventh straight victory, 3-2 over the San Francisco Giants Monday night.

Don Wilson, 7-6, held the Giants to six hits, one a two-run homer by Dick Groat in the second inning. Jim Ray Hart singled ahead of Dietz' 420-foot smash, which gave the Giants a 2-0 lead.

Menke tied the score in the third with a two-out double after Wilson walked and Leon had a 4-4 tie single. Leon scored the go-ahead run on an infield single by Marty Marlicz.

The Astros, who had won 23 of the last 27 home games, scored four more runs in the fourth, knocking out starter Ray Searcy. Curt Blewett walked and John Edwards singled, bringing on reliever Ron Horbel.

Wilson sacrificed and was safe, loading the bases, when Willie McCovey's throw to third was in the dirt. Geiger, pinching in for McCovey, tripped past center fielder Bobby Bonds to clear the bases. Joe Morgan singled home Geiger.

Packers' End Says '69 To Be Last Year

WAUSAU, Wis. (UPI)—End Willie Davis, Green Bay Packers defensive captain, said Monday night that as things look now the year will be his final season in professional football.

"I can truthfully say that at this moment, without doubt, 1969 will be the final year for me, and I just hope the year will be one I can remember with some pleasant thoughts," Davis said.

He made his remarks in an interview with sportscaster Bill Davis of WAOW-TV.

Davis, who will be 36 July 24, was acquired by the Packers in a 1959 trade. Green Bay has won five National Football League titles since then, with Davis making all-pro four times.

Davis said several months ago he had decided to play in 1969 to try to help the Packers rebound from their worst season in a decade.

ITPA Has Signed 52 Members

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—The newly formed International Tennis Players' Association (ITPA) said Monday it had signed up 52 members, including some from communist nations, and passed a five-point resolution in two weekend meetings.

Arthur Ashe, U.S. Open and amateur champion from Richmond, Va., and John Newcombe, an Australian professional, said a committee from the ITPA would meet with Wimbledon officials to discuss the players' union later Monday.

The two players said the group had discussed the possibility of staging their own tournament, similar to the professional "open" association tournament, and had pulled members on an Open Davis Cup competition.

MAKE CONTRACT, NOT OVERTRICKS

We can think of a lot of old aces to fit today's hand. "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," perhaps, or "Don't count your chickens before they are hatched."

Returning to bridge we might point out that overtricks are nice in rubber bridge but declarer should concentrate on making his contract and that a finesse is never proven until the defender who may hold the key-card has shown out of the suit.

We won't go into an analysis of West's choice of opening lead. Suffice to say that he decided to lead through dummy's spade rather than to attack declarer's diamonds. It turned out to be a very wise choice.

South played a low spade from dummy and East was in with the queen. He shifted to the four of hearts and South was in dummy. He considered leading a spade and giving up a second trick in that suit but decided that he had nothing to lose and a lot to gain by attacking diamonds. He played dummy's nine of that suit.

Much to South's surprise the nine held the trick. Now South was ready to go after an over-trick. The diamond finesse had worked once. It was sure to work again.

He led a second diamond. East showed out and West collected four diamond tricks and 10 points above the line. South collected some valuable experience.

Pro Ball Players Touted As Able To Tab Best Steaks

ANYBODY in search of the best steak houses should find out where the professional baseball players eat. They have a knack for tracking down such establishments. HUSBANDS of buttermilk drinkers are said to develop a characteristic odor about their persons not altogether unlike that of a colicky baby in a crib. THE FELLOW at the counter nearby some time back said to the waitress, "Remember, I'll have those pork chops later." And she replied wryly, "Which way?"

OTHER LEADING MEN known to be cigar smokers are Clint Eastwood, Peter Breck and Fernando Lamas. I'm told, THREE-FOURTHS of the nation's divorced men remarry within five years.

NAME GAME MAN reports there is an Emory Stone in Fresno, Calif. NO BIRD has a sense of smell, claims one ornithologist. Can that be right?

OLD BEN - That Old Ben Franklin was quite a fool. He ever set down simply proof that white clothes are cooler than dark clothes. One winter he put two strips of cloth - one white, the other black - out on the snow. Naturally, the snow under the black cloth melted far more quickly, and he promptly published his findings to make the point.

NAME GAME - "You'll find most girls called Bernice," says our Name Game man, "having a pretty keen talent for sizing up new acquaintances."

Today's Market And Financial Report

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Traders hit the brakes Tuesday on the stock market's prolonged decline. Turnover was fairly heavy. An actively swung into the first hour, advances outnumbered declines for the first time in seven sessions. However, many analysts cautioned against over-enthusiasm. They cited the administration's tough stance on inflation as a factor to be reckoned with over the near term.

Shortly after 1 p. m. the UPI market indicator, measuring all stock traded, showed a gain of 0.75 per cent on 1,524 issues across the tape. Of these, 903 advanced, and 383 declined.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which reflects movement in the blue chips, was up 5.63 to 876.49 at that time. Volume exceeded 9,000,000 shares.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR. Q. I'm a junior in my state (Illinois) university's College of Business Administration. I would like to become a stockbroker. How may I enter this profession?—D.K.

While your college degree is a major asset, it must be supplemented by several years of practical sales and financial experience and a formal aptitude test. For the start of specialized professional training, the lack of a college degree may be offset to some equivalent business or professional experience.

As your first step, ask the university counseling center for the names of NYSE member firms located in Chicago which offer courses to train their registered representatives. Then you should arrange interviews to discuss requirements. Perhaps you should arrange a vacation job for sales or financial experience. Training courses of about 9 months duration are offered by City headquarters. They are followed by several months of supervised practice in the community.

What's the future for Evans, Inc. (OTC)? Its dividends or stock distributions? A friend owns it at 27 and the stock drops disturbs him.—C.R. Chicago-based merchandiser of shoes and wearing apparel. Lower earnings—the first noticeable interruption in the decade of rising share net—reflecting costs of expansion into branch stores and leased departments have a major question, but will answer some questions in his column.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tight money, a lack of loanable funds, and fears of a recession continue to dominate the market, says Spear & Striffler. It adds that the market in the picture is the wide spread between money rates and stock yields, which has been building up for several months, partly because of inflation psychology.

Losers have outnumbered winners by a wide margin in every sector so far this month, striking evidence of the deeply oversold condition of the market. E. F. Hutton & Co. says the market is headed lower, but the firm notes "it is difficult to visualize this happening without an intervening technical rally to correct some of the market overreaction that now exists." This rally may well be unexpectedly vigorous, the firm believes.

Standard & Poor's Corp. feels the business outlook, while sobering, has probably been discounted to an important extent by the decline in stock prices to date. Most likely, the firm says, better opportunities for broad-scale buying will be greeted within the fairly near future.

The monthly short interest position of the market is slightly lower, Walston & Co. notes. One reason is that merger activity has been reduced this year and this has resulted in a drop in arbitrage activity, in which short sales are made, the firm says.

Girl Cut By Glass Table

KING HILL—On Monday Ann Knocks, 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. W. A. Knocks, was found in the house door locked when she returned home. She attempted to climb through the window so she could unlock the door, but fell on a glass-topped table. The glass broke and cut her right leg in several places, both above and below the knee. Lloyd Jensen took her to a local doctor. Forty stitches were required to close the cuts.

This is Dodge City — in Twin Falls. You'll find here, one of the largest stocks of fine used cars in town. Our rapid turnover of new Dodges, Chryslers and Impalas as well as Dodge Trucks, and allows us to fix a price as low or lower than any other dealer between Salt Lake and Seattle.
