THIS PANORAMA VIEW of the northern end of the Sawtooth Ranges is what is seen from the new overlook planned by the Challis National Forest. The two pictures that form the panorama were taken as individual shots from different locations, resulting in the irregular foreground: The Sawtooth Range on the skyline fit together so perfectly, however, that it is being run as a continuous strip. The two lakes at left are Little Redfish Lake, near the bottom, and Redfish Lake, with the jagged summit of Mt. Heyburn just behind it and to the right. The spectacular, jagged spires of this northern end of the Sawtooths are mostly not visible from the present overlook at Galena Summit.

Nixon To Visit Romania

President To Tour 5 Nations

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon will make a five-nation tour of Asia and an unprecedented trip behind the Iron Curtain to Romania next month, the White House announced Saturday.

The round-the-world trip will begin July 23 when Nixon travels to mid-Pacific to welcome America's Apollo 11 astronauts back from the moon and is expected to end Aug. 3.

It would afford him an opportunity to visit American forces in Vietnam, but press secretary Ronald Ziegler said there were such plans at this time for Nixon to visit the war zone. However, any such visit would be kept secret until it was completed.

The tour will take the President to the Philippines, Indonesia, Thailand, India and Pakistan and then to Bucharest for a meeting with Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu and the first visit of an American President to a Communist nation since Franklin D. Roosevelt visited Yalta in 1945.

In announcing the trip, White House officials said it was to emphasize the President's conviction that the United States must remain a Pacific power and to get the thinking of Asian leaders on what America's role would be after the Vietnam War.

President Nixon decided to accept Ceausescu's invitation to visit Romania because "the United States is interested in dealing with the countries of Eastern Europe on the basis of mutual respect and wanted to get the views of one of its leaders of Eastern Europe who has shown concern about peace and East-West relations," they said.

'Astromonk' Readied For Launch

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—An adolescent astronaut named Bonny settled in a cramped space capsule Saturday for launch on a record 30-day earth orbiting flight to help plan for manned voyages lasting a year or longer.

The 14-pound pigtail monkey, a native of Southeast Asian jungles, was reported "nervely and in good shape" as he awaited blastoff in a 1,538-pound biosatellite.

The two-and-one-half-foot tall male monkey was fitted with a wide variety of instruments including 10 sensors surgically and painlessly implanted in his brain to make the most thorough study yet of how prolonged weightlessness affects life processes.

Dr. W. Ross Adey, principal investigator from the University of California at Los Angeles, said the primate should "yield more data than all the manned flights put together." He said tests on the astronaut could not be done on man, but that what is learned from Bonny's reaction to spaceflight can be related to man.

"This is really the purpose of the experiment—to test in part what support man needs in order to survive a year in space," he said. It would take at least a year to fly to a planet and back.

Bonny was expected to be circling earth in a 253-mile high orbit while Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin take off July 16 on man's first moon landing mission.

President Richard F. Nixon announced plans to fly to Cape Kennedy to dine with the pilots launch eve July 15 and then to be on hand in the mid-Pacific to meet the astronauts on their return to earth July 24 with their priceless cargo of moon rock samples.

Two Cities Are Harassed By Snipers

By United Press International

Snipers opened fire on police in violence wracked Omaha, Neb., and Kokomo, Ind., early Saturday. Five persons were hurt when Negro teenagers scuffled with police and stoned cars in Des Moines, Iowa.

A curfew was lifted in troubled Cairo, Ill., after a night of relative calm.

Omaha had its fourth night of disturbances Friday in the wake of the Tuesday shooting of a 14-year-old Negro girl by the adopted son of actress Hedy Lamarr. The shooting occurred at actor John Loder.

Police said snipers opened fire on them in Omaha's near North Side Negro ghetto early Saturday. A short time later, East Chamber's leader of the city's Negro community, was arrested on a weapons charge.

MRS. R. C. LARSEN, Kimberly woman, becomes first of her sex to be a director of the National Livestock and Meat Board.

National Meat Board Picks Area Woman

Announcement of the election of Mrs. Larsen to the post—the first time in the history of the organization that a woman has been picked for the board—was made by David H. Stroud, Chicago, president and executive officer. The annual meeting has just been concluded at Des Moines, Ia.

As the first and only woman to serve on the board, the Kimberly woman will aid in governing the beef, pork and lamb industry promotions nationwide.

1,200 Fresh Troops Join Ben Het Fight

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied commanders Saturday threw more than 1,200 fresh troops and massive B52 raids into an effort to break the Communist siege of Ben Het amid reports North Vietnamese troops were trying to tunnel their way into the jungle outpost just as they did at Dien Bien Phu.

Four battalions of allied troops struck on the ground in support of the garrison of about 200 Americans and 45 South Vietnamese surrounded in the Green Beret camp under siege for the 64th day.

B52 bombers, striking in a four-hour period ending at 6 a.m. Saturday, dropped at least 1.8 million pounds of bombs in 10 saturation strikes against positions of Communist infantry troops who have thrown an iron ring around Ben Het, 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

The bombs churned up jungles six to eight miles from Ben Het, on "Rocket Ridge," a Communist site for shelling the outpost. Communist guns again shelled the camp Saturday after hitting the besieged outpost with hundreds of shots Friday in their heaviest bombardment since they launched their campaign May 6.

Informed military sources said Saturday that Communist troops were attempting to take the Ben Het post from underneath by digging tunnels into its grounds.

The sources said two underground passageways, leading from the jungles toward an artillery position inside the camp, were discovered and blown up Friday by South Vietnamese irregular forces.

Earlier in the week, a North Vietnamese soldier managed to tunnel into an unoccupied bunker at the camp but he was killed by point-blank fire from allied riflemen.

Man Charged In Assault Ruled Insane

A 23-year-old Twin Falls man, charged with assault with deadly weapon with intent to commit murder has been judged legally insane.

Larry F. Daugherty was ruled insane following a hearing Friday afternoon in Fifth Judicial District Court in Twin Falls. A 12-member jury returned the verdict after hearing several witnesses, including Real Pastor, 54, Route 1, Twin Falls, allegedly attacked by the defendant last March with a pitchfork.

Daugherty was assaulted with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder with the reported attack.

Mr. Pastor testified he suffered stab wounds in the face and was hospitalized. He also alleged the defendant took a wallet and ring from him.

Sheriff Paul Corder said Mr. Daugherty will be taken to Blackfoot as soon as commitment papers are received in an office.

Robbery Suspects Get New Hearing, Still Face Trial

A question of Constitutional rights came up in Fifth District Court Friday and, after some discussion, three men accused of robbing the Berger store were given another preliminary hearing.

The first, held in Twin Falls County Probate Court June 12, was a free-for-all. The defendants in the case threatened to walk out because they weren't represented by a court-appointed attorney.

The defendants are Patrick J. Kinser, 32, and Kenneth Moon, 35, both of Seattle, and Earl S. Carver, 44, Marysville. They are accused of robbing a Berger store owner Feb. 13, taking about $200.

At the first hearing, Judge Richard Reed of Probate Court, See HEARING, Pg. 2, Col. 2.

In Jarbidge The 'Fourth' Really Jumps

JARBIDGE, Nev. — If University of California earthquake experts detect a rumble next Friday it won't be San Francisco falling into the sea — it'll only be the good folks at Jarbidge warming up to celebrate the national holiday.

The Fourth of July in Jarbidge is as American as Valley Forge, Bunker Hill and apple pie. And, despite a rumor to the contrary, the annual celebration here will start on scheduled. That means dawn on the Fourth.

It ends when people want it to end and could last right up to Christmas. But Jarbidge natives plan on keeping the town open at least through the Fourth of July weekend.

"They ain't no law west of the Jarbidge River this time of year," claims Frank "Smitty" Smith, the town's chamber of commerce, head cook and the man with the handlebar mustache.

"Come on down. I'll fry you a steak big as a canoe paddle four inches thick," he said in a recent interview. "Afterward, when you've had too much to drink you can crawl off into the willows. When we find you south of the Sea of Galilee with tank and machinegun fire Saturday, damaging a Jordanian vehicle and scattering workers repairing a canal damaged by Israeli fire in the week. He said Jordanian troops returned the fire, but there were no casualties in the 25-minute battle.

Since Monday, Jordan has reported four exchanges of fire and one Israeli air raid over the Al-Adasiyah area.

In Cairo, an Egyptian supervising security court Saturday sentenced an Egyptian photographer, Mounir Abdul Ghani, to 15 years at hard labor for spying, for Israel, a former Egyptian news editor for the Associated Press. Ali Mahmoud Mousa, was acquitted on the same charge.

POINTING OUT ONE heavily forested area in the Four Aces Creek watershed that will be included in a proposed timber sale is Wes Carlson, supervisor of the Challis National Forest. Mr. Carlson says there is considerable mature and over-mature lodgepole pine and Douglas fir in the area that should be harvested.

Timber Sale To Pave Way For Spectacular Sawtooth Overlook

By O. J. SMITH
Times-News Managing Editor

Plans are under way to develop what the Challis National Forest people believe is the most spectacular overlook in the Sawtooth area, and they're going to get the road into it built almost free.

The overlook site is a point on the ridge east of the Salmon River, across from Redfish Lake. The reason it is practically unknown and hasn't been developed before is that a four-to-five-mile road needs to be built up Little Casino Creek so people can get to it.

The happy circumstance enabling the plan to materialize is that a sizeable area of mature and over-mature lodgepole pine and Douglas fir trees in the Little Casino and Four Aces creek drainages needs harvesting.

The Challis National Forest has announced it plans a sale of this timber, and has found there is considerable interest in it among prospective buyers.

As soon as the Stanley Ranger District figures out how much of the timber should be harvested, and how much can be cut without damaging other area resources, bids will be asked. Whoever buys the timber will be required to build the road up

Witnesses Testify In Court Hearing

BURLEY—Ray Messinger, 58, Decio, was bound over to Fifth District Court Friday morning to stand trial on a first-degree murder charge in the shooting of the fatal shooting of his wife Martha, 51, on June 13. Probate Court Judge Vern Carle, heard witnesses which included the son and daughter of the accused, an Accequa man and a Twin Falls pathologist. The witnesses charged in the hearing were a 16-gauge double-barreled shotgun and autopsy reports. Calling witnesses were Mrs. Jay Perry, Decio, at whose home the shooting slaying allegedly took place, and Ron Messinger, engineer in the Decio, daughter and son of the deceased and accused. Henry Reine, Accequa, was also a witness at the hearing. Allegedly all three were present at the time of the shooting. Dr. B. N. Carle, who prepared the autopsy reports on Mrs. Messinger, also testified. Cassia County Public Defender Herman Bedke represents the accused in the case and Cassia County Prosecuting Attorney Gordon Nielson represents the state. Mr. Messinger is being held in Cassia County Jail without bond.

Hearing

(Continued from Page 1) The defendant's counsel called to court-appointed counsel because they refused to tell the court anything about their financial condition. In court Friday, Andy Anderson, Buhl, the defense attorney, contended the defendant's rights may have been violated because they didn't have an attorney at the first preliminary hearing. Judge Theron Ward, in ruling on the matter, said he had no jurisdiction to protect their rights, he would remand the case back to Probate Court for another preliminary hearing. The three defendants were then arraigned on a charge of first degree burglary. Each pleaded innocent to the charge. A trial will be set during the July court calendar. Kinper, Moon and Carver also are charged with escaping from county jail last June and destruction of jail property while making that alleged escape. They have been arraigned in District Court on those charges, but have not entered pleas. Meanwhile, another charge of destruction of property by the three men. They allegedly tried to break out of jail again last Thursday morning. That attempt failed. Judge Ward, in closing the matter Friday, said, "It appears we might have a new jail before this is finished."

Our Highways

No convicted felon has been executed in America for two years, yet the death penalty is meted out daily to unknown numbers of men, women and children who are guilty only of bad luck or bad judgment. They are victims of what the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety calls our "booby-trapped highways."

unexpected skids on faulty surfaces, of poorly planned grades or intersections. As Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., said in opening congressional hearings on the subject recently: "Regardless of the reasons why a driver may leave the paved portion of a high-speed highway, roadside areas should be sufficiently clear of obstructions to give him an opportunity to regain control of his car. He and his passengers should be given a reasonable chance of survival and not be faced with the death penalty for a comparatively minor error."

That Thundering Silence in Hanoi

WASHINGTON — Military experts here now fully expect the North Vietnamese to target their long-awaited summer offensive so as to prove that the South Vietnamese army cannot take up the fighting slack left by the withdrawal of U.S. troops. Further, Hanoi-watchers also fear that military outposts manned by American troops will have an equal priority in the coming Communist offensive. If the North-Vietnamese army is actually able to use its summer offensive to prove that Saigon is unable to take over a front-line operation, the logic of President Nixon's troop-withdrawal strategy will be exposed as faulty and Hanoi's bargaining position at Paris will be vastly enhanced.

Nixon. With some U.S. troops being withdrawn, he would be criticized for expediting the American troops to double jeopardy. Moreover, with high U.S. casualties in the headlines, the President would come under even hotter domestic political pressure to speed up the withdrawal of all American combat troops. Either way, Hanoi would find the President's strategy of a controlled winding-down of U.S. battlefield operations. Hanoi planned his hopes for continuing withdrawal of U.S. troops on one of three conditions: progress in a diplomatic talks at Paris, deescalation by the North Vietnamese, or, finally, proof that Saigon's own military machine can take up the slack left by the draw-down of front-line U.S. soldiers. But the hard fact is that only the last of these offers any justification today of the 1968 withdrawal of 25,000 U.S. troops already announced and an additional number, perhaps 50,000 to 60,000, to be announced in August and later this year. Mr. Nixon's peace efforts, in short, have met only thundering silence in Hanoi.

The Message For The Gouged

WASHINGTON—Citizens who have just been gouged for their last dime by Uncle Sam's tax collectors must find it a touch difficult to understand why Congress still permits the Pentagon to operate as an independent sovereignty, subject to only token control by Capitol Hill. Heaven knows, the military's tendency to waste the taxpayer's substance, seemingly for waste's sake alone, is outrageous enough. But Congress also has a tendency to waste the taxpayer's substance, seemingly for waste's sake alone, in outrageous ways. Last November, just after Fitzgerald had publicly disclosed that costs on the plane had risen about $2 billion, he was told that the Defense Department was reviewing major programs and put to work checking costs on a bowling alley in Thailand and on Air Force One.

Lockheed has now been permitted to build a plane that can descend on landing at only nine feet per second, instead of the 10 feet per second prescribed by the Federal Aviation Administration for commercial carriers. This means the CIA will not be as strong a plane as say, a F-4E jet. What it means to the troops it will carry is not pleasant to contemplate. Costs have risen on the Short Range Attack Missiles from $301 million in January 1968, to $530 million just December. Apparently, cost increases of from 100 per cent up have become commonplace in the Pentagon's purchases. Fitzgerald has described this as the tendency of Air Force officers to "resist anything that might identify excessive costs." These officers, he said, become "advocates" of a program, instead of objective reviewers.

Since tax money is used to pay for these grandiose projects, a whole flock of laws says the military must make sure contractors live up to the contract terms. These laws are being broken daily, simply because Congress is too lazy, or too timid, or too dumb to see that they are enforced. I can't understand why influential men like Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell and Mississippi's Sen. John Stennis haven't stepped into the dog fight and given it a little muscle. One explanation may be the close and tender relationship between the military and Russell and Stennis. Both have supported big military budgets as patriotic acts in the interest of national security. But perhaps it is not out of line to suggest that patriotism is also getting your money's worth. You buy a missile or a flying machine with the people's dough.

About The All-Volunteer Army

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's plan for an all-volunteer Army, after the Vietnam war, has been taking quite a drubbing behind the closed doors of executive congressional hearings. Top military leaders have expressed personal doubts about the President's plan for ending the military draft. Many starred skeptics include Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the former commander in Vietnam who is now Chief-of-Staff of the Army. President Nixon proposed the all-volunteer Army concept during last year's presidential campaign but said such a move must await the end of the Vietnam fighting. For the present, the concept is under study in the Pentagon.

Whole's testified that, before the Vietnam war, at least half of the enlistments in the Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps resulted from the incentive of being drafted. "If you were going back to a force of pre-Vietnam, somewhere around 2.5 million men, I personally don't think you could maintain such a force by an all-volunteer means. Within any reasonable fiscal program that you might say down," the General declared. Wheeler conceded that the implications of an all-volunteer force are difficult to assess. He said, however, that he was basing his comments on his experience with the draft and military personnel problems over the years. Westmoreland told one congressional committee that present U.S. commitments will require a post-war force of also which would need "substantial inducements" to man with volunteers. He thought it would be possible "theoretically" to attract the necessary manpower, but added that it would be "practical" problems.

The former Vietnam commander said the Army should try to recruit a force of long-term enlistments. He suggested, however, that "the selective service machinery would have to continue, in order to provide the incentive to volunteers." "This of course includes voluntary enlistment for other services as well as the Army," said Westmoreland, "and it also involves the status of the reserve forces." In that regard, Westmoreland thought it "questionable" whether the reserves could be maintained as needed without the "persuasive nature" of the selective service machinery. He said that he had reached no firm conclusions on the all-volunteer concept and noted that the "whole question" is still under study. In the closed-door sessions with congressional military experts, Pentagon spokesmen are still trying to get their vital research programs untraced and objections in a so-called university commission to classified Pentagon research.

Li Gen, Austin W. Betts, the Army's research and development chief, has testified that he knows of no significant search effort which has been lost as a result of the growing antagonism on campus. He said that "the anti-war attitude" has not been a source of frustration with the war build-up, it may have impact, the general added.

MR. SPECTATOR

Owyhee County Days

Old books are interesting, especially if they are of history, and one Mr. Spectator got hold of the other day is just about tops on the list. The book is titled "A Historical, Descriptive and Commercial Directory of Owyhee County, Idaho" and it was published in January, 1898. Today the Owyhee area that the book details is long gone. Silver City, DeLamar, Dewey, Castle Creek, Guffey, Wayland and all the others of the big and little mining towns of that day are now either ghost towns or are gone from the face of the map. And yet, when the book was written and the pictures were taken, it was thought that it would go on forever. Why? Well, people just didn't think of what we now days call progress. They thought things would go on tomorrow just like they go on today. And they were wrong.

Dear Mr. Spectator: I wonder how many people have been griping about soggy newspapers for the past few days? Not I! I would be willing to bet a nice dry newspaper that I have the best news carrier around here. She wraps today's paper in an old paper and puts it into our box. The old paper is soggy as heck, but lo and behold, inside is my nice, dry readable paper. Now don't you think that's above and beyond the call to duty? I don't know her name, but her initials are G.C. and we're on Route 65. So do the right thing and give the little gal a pat on the head and a big, fat raise in pay. She deserves it. A Reader

HARD AT WORK

It is no news by now that the longer the followers of Marx try to make his theories work in practice, the more they demonstrate that there are a few basic points about human nature the master did not take into account. One of the main basic is the hope for personal gain as a motivator for individual economic activity, legal or otherwise, and the latest evidence that it springs eternal, even in the socialist breast, comes from Warsaw.

Five Poles have been convicted of counterfeiting for using a state-owned printing plant to make a few bucks on the side—literally. Adding insult to injury, they were turning out not good, or bad Polish zlotys but dollars—$50 and $20 U.S. bills.

DILEMMA OF PORTS

East coast ports are discovering that they are rapidly being pushed into the position the railroads began facing years ago as a result of changing modes of overland travel. The plight of the smaller ports has not been helped by the frequent, long and costly strikes which plague their operations, nor by the attempt by unions to impose on small ports the same economic goals won in more prosperous ports such as New York. Ocean transport is undergoing a major change with the adoption of such devices as containerized cargo, and only those ports with the insight—and capital—to keep abreast of the innovations can guarantee themselves a place in the future.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Trouble Brewing

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Though here and there some successes are reported, "black capitalism" is having its troubles. Some black leaders and other supporters of the idea are laying it on the Nixon administration for not giving a response to the calls for capital assistance in ghetto areas. Almost no rebuilding has occurred in city sectors ravaged by the riots of April, 1968. Inquiry discloses that where federal, state and local agencies are involved, they are too often in a stalemate conflict. They cannot agree, and nothing is done.

Puerto Ricans) and upwards of 800 non-commercial establishments were set out in New York's East Harlem on the construction of $300 million worth of public housing. For the 200,000 people living in that district, economic problems today are worse than before the heavy outlay was made.

Some black leaders and other supporters of the idea are laying it on the Nixon administration for not giving a response to the calls for capital assistance in ghetto areas. Almost no rebuilding has occurred in city sectors ravaged by the riots of April, 1968. Inquiry discloses that where federal, state and local agencies are involved, they are too often in a stalemate conflict. They cannot agree, and nothing is done. The problems are deep-seated. Some stem from the fact that certain agencies, such as the Urban League, tend to be helpful to the poor but have destructive effects. Others result from hazy misconceptions in a neighborhood where the black business leaders have about blacks. Black capitalism is not, of course, a new thing. For decades, black business has been established with banks, insurance firms, a major newspaper and many commercial outlets. Black colleges and other enterprises flourish in many cities. But federal programs frequently cut some of these endeavors even as they move in to "help the poor."

Urbans renewal, conceived from the noblest of purposes, is another federal villain. Question neighborhood leaders in city after city and you find it hard to decide who hates renewal programs more—the blacks who lose homes and businesses are displaced or the whites who fear the consequent scattering of blacks to other areas. Highways are a special case. Their backers make no pretense that they help the poor. That they do damage to the struggling enterprises of the poor being routed through their areas is clear. In one instance in New York, it was estimated that a two-mile stretch of highway would wipe out or dislocate 800 businesses that employed 10,000 people. But this is just part of the story. Many northern cities like to explain away economic stagnation in the ghetto by blaming the South for a inadequate education and training the millions of blacks who have migrated north. Yet Miss Jacobs, in her new book, "The Economy of Cities," suggests that northern leaders fastened on ghetto residents another grave deficiency—a shortage of development capital. Two many times in the post-quarter-century, the more prosperous American cities have chosen to "export" abroad their immense accumulations of excess capital, at great loss to their own areas. The exported capital, she adds, represented money that was being rapidly being pushed into the business of economic triage, error and development by blacks (and others) in American cities. Her crucial point is that many blacks who have made effective use of this home-generated capital, but that white bankers and other businessmen have not been unrelentingly rigid and hence discouraging.

'Motherly' Babysitter Proves Escaped Murderess

By DAVID ALCOTT
 SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Parents who hired a motherly-looking babysitter found it impossible Saturday to believe that she was Winnie Ruth Judd, the insane "Tiger Woman" who 38 years ago killed her two friends and shipped their bodies away in trunks.

Mrs. Judd, who had been a fugitive from an Arizona mental hospital for seven years, was arrested Friday in Danville, a suburban community across the bay from San Francisco. Under the name of Marian Lane, she had been working as a housekeeper and babysitter.

Only last week she was a slither for Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Patmont, caring for their two-year-old child in the suburb of Piedmont.

"My wife thinks it is impossible to believe," said Patmont, a San Francisco attorney.

"Looking back, maybe you could see something a little peculiar, but she really was almost too good to be true—a harmless, sweet, likeable, motherly woman."

For five years, Mrs. Judd had lived as a housekeeper across the street from the Patmonts.

"She is clearly rehabilitated by any standards," Patmont said.

"We have no doubt about her ability to take care of our child," Patmont said that although he is not a criminal lawyer, he would do what he could to help Mrs. Judd, even if she is the notorious trunk murderer of the 1930's.

She was convicted in 1931 of shooting to death two young women, dismembering the bodies in Phoenix and shipping them in trunks to Los Angeles, where their discovery led to her arrest. She was sentenced to hang but judged insane 72 hours before execution and sent to a mental hospital where the death sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Judd escaped from mental hospitals seven times from 1939 to 1962. At the time of her 1962 escape, Dr. Samuel Wick, head of the hospital, said she was no longer considered dangerous.

The Auburn-haired, 65-year-old woman was arrested Friday after investigators stumbled upon her real identity during a probe of a recent unsolved murder in the vicinity, Mrs. Judd is not a suspect in that crime.

Smiling and composed when taken to jail, she denied being the Arizona slayer but when allowed to telephone an attorney, she called Melvin Bell,

Rampton Denies Reports Of Starvation Among Migrants

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A top official of the Utah Migrant Council said Saturday two infants of migrant workers have died in Utah, of malnutrition. The report was officially denied by the office of Gov. Calvin L. Rampton.

Arthur Estrada, executive director of the council, said one was the nine-month-old son of a Navajo family that had migrated to Utah with an estimated 500 other families anticipating employment as cherry harvesters.

Torrential June rains have, however, nearly destroyed this year's crop and left 2,500-3,500 migrants without employment, Estrada said.

According to Estrada, the other child, not yet identified, died in Weber County, also of malnutrition. His information, he said, came from his staff workers in the field.

"These people are living in migrant camps — in houses without heat or insulation — and are doing without food or blankets."

"They stay wherever they can find a place to live," Estrada continued. "Many are huddled in one room because of the low temperatures, we've been having. We need as much help as we can get."

The governor's press secretary denied early reports that migrant children had died. However, a later statement acknowledged the deaths but not the cause.

Blaine Olsen, owner of Owen Mortuary in Brigham County, said an autopsy had not been performed on the Navajo infant.

"The child had apparently been ill for three days before dying," Olsen said. "The physician noted dysentery on the death certificate."

Burley Club To Sponsor AFT Play

BURLEY — Plans are being finalized by members of the Burley Soroptimist Club to sponsor the second annual Antique Festival Theatre group, Buhl, July 13 in a production at Cassia County Fair grounds.

This year the Soroptimist Club members have selected the play "The Death and Life of Squeaky Fitch," written by James Rosenber. The contemporary play is about "some people who lived in Gopher Gulch and a cowboy who wouldn't draw."

Proceeds from the one-night production will be used by the club for a service project. Out of the proceeds from last year's play sponsored by the local club the living room of the new home at the Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert, was furnished by the club. for the council, said the migrants, mainly Mexican Americans and American Indians, face a dim future.

"The situation is going to get much worse before it improves," Jones said. "We still have migrants coming into the state who haven't heard of the crop destruction."

"Cold weather has been hitting us for the last week and it looks as if we'll soon be faced with not only a food problem, but a shelter problem as well," Jones said.

Former American Soldier Prefers Communist Regime

KATOWICE, Poland (UPI)—Harold Webb misses Miami, but he won't go back. "Why should I? he asks. "My sister says I am as good as dead."

Webb was 18 when he enlisted in the U.S. Army to fight in Korea. That was in 1950, the year he left his Florida home and the United States for the last time. Now, at 37, he is a respected English teacher in Katowice, a town in southern Poland just 25 miles from Czechoslovakia.

Harold Webb also is a Communist now. He went over after being captured on the Korean battlefield and spending four years in a prisoner of war camp.

He remembers what it was like, and what made him refuse repatriation when the war was over.

"They say we were brainwashed by the Communists. That is not true, in the prisoner of war camp, we had a chance to think for the first time. We saw the American planes coming over. They dipped their wings on the first run to say, 'Hello boys.' The second time around they dropped bombs on the POW camp and blew up the supply trains bringing us food."

Webb was among 24 American soldiers in the camp who decided not to return to America. He still thinks he made the right decision, although he would like to go home face a visit.

"But I was not born yesterday," he said. "I know that I would not be allowed to carry out my mission, to help the American people. After so many years in the Communist countries, they would just say I am a spy."

Webb said his father was "very polite" when he learned his son would not return from the war. "He said I had my life to lead as I wished and he had his. I haven't heard from him in ten years."

Of his sister, whom he did not identify by name, Webb said: "My sister is a very stupid American. She spoke to some American newspapers and radio. She said, 'For us, he is as good as dead.'"

Army Agrees To Deactivate Stocks Of Gas By Burning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army is going to follow the advice of the National Academy of Sciences and get rid of surplus poison gas by burning or chemically deactivating it.

The Army had planned to ship the gas—most of it stored at Rocky Mountain Arsenal near Denver, Colo.—cross-country by rail and sink it in the Atlantic.

But after a congressional and public outcry the Army asked the scientists for an opinion, and last week the scientists said that even the remote chance of risk was too great.

The Army said Friday that it would burn liquid mustard gas stored in one-ton steel containers at Rocky Mountain Arsenal and chemically deactivate by hydrolysis 12,000 tons of nerve gas rockets stored at Anniston, Ala., and Blue Grass, Ky. The rockets are inside concrete, which in turn is inside heavy steel boxes, welded shut.

The Army was pondering just how to handle 416 "offline" of nerve gas rockets stored at Anniston, Ala., and Blue Grass, Ky. The rockets are inside concrete, which in turn is inside heavy steel boxes, welded shut.

Federal Welfare Ruling Stirs Concern

By LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI)—Sen. Wald Yarborough, R-Grand View, told a special legislative subcommittee today if he were a welfare recipient he'd get right on that old freight train and come to Idaho.

Members of a subcommittee consisting of the budget and fiscal committee, and appointed members from the Senate Public Health and Welfare Committee and the House of Representatives Health and Welfare Committee met to review problems connected with providing social and rehabilitative services.

Sen. Richard Egbert, R-Twin Falls, co-chairman of the budget and fiscal committee, said the committee had been charged by the state legislature with making a study of the Department of Public Assistance.

After a year, he said, he realized "a mistake was made in not giving the responsibility to the welfare committees in the House and Senate."

The new joint committee today showed concern over the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision to eliminate the one-year residency requirement for welfare recipients.

Yarborough said he was concerned that federal welfare recipients would flock to Idaho to receive the increased welfare payments.

"I sit here with the last frontier, as far as I'm concerned. To me this is God's chosen spot."

"If I was a welfare recipient I'd get on that old freight train and come to Idaho."

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said Idaho, Oregon and Washington "may about 100 per cent of what the government says should be paid according to the cost of living. And Utah is about the same."

Rep. Alvin Jostyn, D-Glenns Ferry, asked whether it might be possible to have a welfare recipient only what he had been receiving in his former state for his first year residency in Idaho.

High said the budget and fiscal committee had been told by Bill Child, commissioner of public assistance, that the new Supreme Court ruling would probably save Idaho money.

"This is because Idaho has no training program for fathers with dependent children. Mr. Child felt once this one-year residency requirement was lifted, families would move to states where the training program exists."

"I'm not that optimistic," High added.

Yarborough said he doubted welfare recipients would willingly move to a state to find job training.

"Until you can create the desire to work you aren't going to solve this problem," he said.

Sen. Richard Egbert, D-Tetonla, reported on his meetings with county welfare commissioners.

"It was the opinion of county commissioners we should do more checking on recipients—some aren't getting enough and some are getting more than they need."

Egbert added there was quite a feeling of frustration that though the county commissioners are close to the problems, they are unable to help find solutions.

Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Madras, co-chairman of the Budget and Fiscal Committee, said he thought there was a "general overall lack of communication between the Department of Public Assistance and the county welfare commissioners."

He said he felt the Department of Public Assistance and

BOISE (UPI)—Pocatello Mayor Don Brennan told the Association of Idaho Cities Convention Friday that House Bill 304 must be repealed in the next session of the legislature.

The bill requires local taxing units to petition the State Tax Commission for the right to increase their ad valorem levy by more than 4 per cent per year.

Brennan, in the Boise meeting, said that it is impossible for Idaho's cities to meet their needs with a state law limiting expenditures. The average rate for businesses is 8 per cent, yet Idaho's cities are only allowed to increase their expenditures 4 per cent annually.

Budget Panel Delays Airing Of Pay Fuss

BOISE (UPI)—The fiscal and budget committee, hoping to get the legislative "dog fight" decided Friday, postponed a requested meeting with 31 state department heads to iron out problems with state salaries.

Bill Peterson, director of the State Personnel Commission, told the committee a 11-member intradepartmental advisory committee of department heads had been formed to recommend rules and regulations for the personnel commission, assist with competitive examinations, and aid with updating job classifications.

Presently, Peterson said, the state is faced with the problem of not knowing what kind of pay plan to utilize, and "no real resolution of who sets salaries and on what basis."

To add to their problems, Peterson said, the State Employees Association last week approved a resolution asking for a 15 per cent salary increase, and the Department of Employment is planning to request a 10 per cent salary increase for its employees.

Peterson suggested that the fiscal and budget members meet with the commission and the 31 department heads to listen to the proposed salary increases.

Political Point Of View

By JIM KOUTNIK

It's time Idaho had a governor — not a new governor, just a governor. And just who is it who's saying this? I would like to know the state? The Democrats of course have given voice to this view for some time led by Twin Falls' own Lloyd Walker who appears to be developing into the No. 1 candidate on the Democrat ticket. However, it's surprising the amount of conversation of this type that you hear from Republicans, and therein we have one of the more interesting developments in Idaho politics in a long time.

There is a surprisingly strong development among rank and file Republicans as well as officials in the party, to replace Samuelson at the state convention next spring.

They know they can't keep him off the ballot, as he has more than enough support among the right-wing dominated county organizations to walk away with 50 per cent, or better, of the delegates votes; but there is a larger number — and this is growing steadily — of Republicans, as well as independent voters who are becoming somewhat disenchanted with Big Don; to put it mildly.

The two outstanding leaders of the anti-Samuelson movement at this time include Dick Smith, member (and former president) of the State Board of Education, who has a great following among the educators and the students throughout the state — both on the university and local school levels.

But of recent date Samuelson has found political thorns growing in his own state house garden in the form of his lieutenant governor, Jack Murphy, an attorney from Shoshone, and with considerable legislative background, has never lost sight of the governor's office, and Samuelson is fully aware of this.

In the past week there has been an interesting exchange of news releases and press conferences from the two state house offices concerning Murphy as a candidate. The lieutenant governor made it quite clear that he has an open mind in the matter, which means: "Certainly I'm going to run, if I can get some support, and Big Don making probably what is possibly the most naive statement of the year when he stated "had Murphy's promise to run for governor, and in front of witnesses, too."

The question immediately comes up, that if Murphy would make such a statement, why would anyone be so ingenious to assume that it really meant anything anyway? I cannot help but note that if we accepted a politician's statement at face value that he is not going to run for office, we would never have elected a president since George Washington. I fail to recall one single man running for a major office who did not, invariably, deny the fact that he was even remotely considering the office until almost the election day.

However, some state house informants advise me that Samuelson actually did attempt to extract such a statement — written, no less — from Murphy at a private conference not too long ago. It seems that Murphy was called into a conference with 2 or 3 of Samuelson's staff and was asked point-blank whether or not he intended to run, and Murphy indicated that he hadn't given it much thought, and probably wasn't going to run, and this was followed by Samuelson's demand that Murphy give him a very definite statement in writing, and also in front of the witnesses that he had present.

Well, if anything, Murphy is not stupid. He's learned a lot from his many years, not only as lieutenant-governor, but as a state senator from Lincoln County, and "one thing he learned is not to walk into a junior grade mousetrap like that.

To say he was flabbergasted at the "confrontation" is probably the understatement of the year.

In any event, you can be sure of one thing: there will be a very definite contest in the primary for the gubernatorial nomination. It's not only the Democrats, but many Republicans, who smell blood this time, and the hesitancy that existed at the time of Governor Smylie's administration about opposing the governor certainly does not exist today.

In checking around the state I find that there are a great number of Republican legislators who are also in the anti-Samuelson camp, and they don't care who the candidate is, just so it isn't Big Don. One very prominent member of the legislature informed me that "if Samuelson ends up as the primary candidate, he will pull the entire Republican party, including all state offices, down to defeat with him." He went on to state that "Samuelson's candidacy was a fluke any way you look at it, and he only got 22 per cent of the vote when he did run. If it hadn't been for Swisher, we would have had a different outcome."

However, Don Samuelson is not without his supporters by any means. Gwen Barnett, the "king-pin" woman in the state Republican organization, Roland Wilbur, the chairman, and Grant Kilbourne, the finance chairman, all appear to be thoroughly devoted to the governor and not at all hesitant about extolling his virtues as "hard working, honest, and conscientious." At present this appears to be about as far as the adjectives go, but it's possible a few more will be developed as the campaign comes along.

July 4 Jamboree, Games Scheduled For Shoshone

SHOSHONE — The July 4 celebration here will be a gala with a flag-raising ceremony at 11 a.m. in the recreation field. The American Legion is in charge of the ceremony and will provide a speaker.

A Little League baseball game will begin at 11:30 a.m., and the children's footraces begin at 1 p.m. A Junior Legion ballgame is set for 3 p.m., and a beauty contest for 6 p.m. Horseshoe pitching contests will be held throughout the day.

Shoshone Riding Redskins will stage a Jamboree at 7:30 p.m. under direction of Marvin Cole, president. Fireworks, with the City Volunteer Fire Department in charge, will be seen at 10 p.m.

Herbert Forbes is general chairman of the 1968 celebration, assisted by Francis Bergin and Myron Johnson. D. H. Hansen is in charge of concessions and Victor Bozuto is in charge of the beauty contest.

Four local girls have entered the beauty contest. Mr. Bozuto states, they are Judy Perron, sponsored by the Lincoln County Journal; Dena Blackburn, sponsored by Farmers' Market; Patricia Saras, sponsored by Shoshone Furniture, and Nancy Carpenter, sponsored by Dennis Everett for the Union Pacific Railroad Co.

Bozuto said other girls may enter and they need not necessarily have sponsors. At least four more local girls are needed and there are entrants expected from Jerome in the beauty contest.

The contest divisions for the girls are 14 to 18 years, 6 to 8 years, and 3 to 5 years.

For the Jamboree M. Cole will serve as general manager, with Robert Giles and Roy Couch assisting. Mrs. Floyd Silva will be time keeper, Thomas W. Conner, announcer and Dean Barney will be the chairman of judging. Judges will be obtained from neighboring towns.

Tentative schedule plans for the Jamboree include relay races, clover race, seven-ball race, baton figure-eight, flag and ladies' clover leaf races.

The Jamboree will open with a grand entry parade in which all clubs will participate, even though they are not competing in the contests.

Would-Be Assassins Find Good Weather Threatens Plot To End Archduke's Life

BY RICHARD M. SUDHALTER
SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (UPI)—The sun came up hot in a clear sky the morning of June 28, 1914. That alone made Cvjetko Popovic nervous.

"We hadn't counted on the weather being good," he recalls now. "It had rained for days. Now I was faced with finding some way to conceal the grenades and pistol I was carrying."

Popovic, 18 at the time, was one of a group of seven young Bosnian Serbs with a self-appointed mission—to assassinate the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria. For them he symbolized the tyranny of the Austro-Hungarian Empire in the Slavic lands which later were to become modern Yugoslavia.

"It was about 10 a.m. and the crowds were gathering fast on the quay where the royal car would appear," Popovic said. "The seven of us were spread out in the area, each armed with either grenades or pistols or both."

Popovic today bears little resemblance superficially to the gaunt young man in the greatcoat. His black hair belies his 73 years. His neat gray suit and horn rimmed glasses fit better the professor of philosophy and education he became in his mature years.

But he remembers every detail of that momentous day in history 55 years ago.

"The sound of the royal motorcade drew nearer. The crowd surged forward to get a better look and I suddenly realized I was in grave trouble," he recalled.

"In order to detonate the fuse on the grenade I had to knock it against something hard, like the wall behind me. The fuse lasted 10-11 seconds. If I moved forward with the crowd to see the car with Franz Ferdinand and his wife I couldn't detonate the fuse. But if I stayed back against the wall, alone I could be spotted easily and moreover would have to lose the grenade over the heads of the crowd, taking a chance on the aim."

"But then there was a muffled report—like a grenade that had fizzled, I thought. There was lots of shouting and milling about. Nobody bothered to notice me."

Popovic later learned that his fellow-conspirator, 18-year-old Nedeljko Chabrinovic, had tossed a grenade at the open car. It bounced off the back of Franz Ferdinand's car into the street and exploded, wounding an aide-de-camp.

The conspirators dissolved into the crowd. One of them, an intense young man of 19 named Gavrillo Princip, sat down at a nearby outdoor cafe to drink a cup of coffee and think. Popovic, only a block or two away, panicked.

"I went around in a daze, thinking we've failed, we've failed," but suddenly there was a great shout over by the river and I knew I'd been wrong. I just knew."

Franz Ferdinand had decided at the last moment to change the motorcade route to allow a brief visit to the hospital where his wounded aide was taken. But the drivers were not told. Thus when the procession approached a major bridge intersection the lead car turned right, following the original route. The archduke's car began to follow then stopped directly in front of the waiting Gavrillo Princip, who shot him.

The Bridge today bears Princip's name. One by one the conspirators were rounded up, tried and sentenced. Princip died in a Czech prison. Popovic and his close friend, 17-year-old Vaso Cubrilovic, survived.

Austria declared war on Serbia for alleged responsibility which was never proven. Imperial Germany backed her up. Europe was in upheaval—and World War I was under way.

"If we'd known a world war would grow out of what we did, not a single one of us would have contemplated such an act," Popovic says now. But our motives were pure. We acted out of conviction. For that, certainly, there can be no regret."

Gooding Hospital May Be Cut Without Legislative Action

BOISE (UPI) — Dr. John Carver, director of the State Department of Health, has told the Legislative Committee on the Tuberculosis Hospital that it might be possible to phase out the Gooding Facility with out legislative action.

Carver said he thought the main concept behind his department's work was to "promote the health and mental efficiency of the people of Idaho."

Carver said under the direction of a new Senate bill, his department was outlining its budget with an idea toward programs rather than toward lump sums.

"These action plans deserve to receive some fiscal resources only as long as they do the job and the reason for doing the job exists."

"If it is decided that there is a better way of taking care of tuberculosis patients in Idaho than the hospital facilities at the state hospital, I think the board has the obligation of working toward a more economical way."

Sen. Edith Miller Klein, Boise, asked if the Department of Health has embarked on a program to phase out the hospital in some respect.

Carver answered that any move in that direction would have to be approved by the Board of Health, but added, "We could. Whether we will is another question."

Carver said he saw the function of the Department of Health as performing general supportive services, preventive health care, diagnostic treatment and rehabilitative services, environmental health, and promotion of general health in both the community and the state.

"The Board of Health, he said, "will now decide how much of the department's appropriation should go for each function."

"Periodically every one of these action plans must be re-evaluated by the Board of Health. The Board of Health should then decide what we're doing and how much of the appropriation should be allocated — and it should be related to the current realities and what we expect to happen in the future."

Carver added that he saw the function of the legislative committee to "know what the board is doing, why it is doing it, and whether you approve of it."

OPINION

QUESTION
To what extent do you think schools should be able to dictate the dress and personal appearance of the students?

LOCATION
Interviews in this case were taken in the lobby of the Twin Falls Post Office.

ANSWERS
MRS. DUANE GUNDERSON: "I think the school should be able to dictate what the proper dress should be because of moral standards. We need rules, especially where dress is concerned."

BOB BARTLETT: "I believe the school should have the right to set some guides. I don't approve of some of the short skirts the girls wear, nor some of the boys' long hair. I think guidelines should be set and students expelled if they don't follow them."

DON SCHUCHARDT: "I think cleanliness is important and should be stressed. There should be moderate standards, inasmuch as community mode is considered."

BOB MATSUOKA: "I think there should be some set rules to follow, but I believe the school officials have been pretty liberal."

PETE SHAWVER: "I think the students should be neat in their appearance and their clothing should show good taste."

MAC GREER: "This does seem to be somewhat of a problem, and I think there should be some standards to go by."

RICHARD JONES: "I believe there should be a minimum requirement, but I don't feel they should tell them exactly what they should wear. It should be within reason."

MRS. JIM FLOWERS: "I think the students should meet the standards required by the schools."

WILMA MILLER MARGE CHUPA
... are two of the many people who make the Antique Festival Theatre a success. They make and design costumes for the presentations.

Making Costumes Is Their Function

Two of the most valuable assets to the Antique Theatre are Wilma Miller, Buhl, and Marge Chupa, Twin Falls, who make and design the costumes. They have been working together for the past five summers with the repertory theater. Mrs. Miller got into the costume business through an interest in sewing and involvement as a mother in high school drama with her teen-age daughter, Aldrich Bowler, the theater producer brought her to the Antique Festival Theatre with appreciation and admiration. Mr. Bowler claims she has been one of the company's most staunch members. Marge Chupa assisted Mrs. Miller during the company's second season and constructed 88 costumes intricately designed by the costumer at Utah State University. This was the year the repertory company did "Merry Wives." She not only built costumes, but she played a part. This year she is making costumes for the Mollere farce and helping with properties, Judy Brady and Helen Carter, both Twin Falls, and Ruth Perkins, Buhl, are doing sewing. The Antique Festival Theatre will appear July 10-12 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

Juvenile Gang Wars Claim Rising Toll Of Lives In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The message on the blackboard in the Gang Control Center operated by Philadelphia police is grim: "Gang victims 1967-12; 1968—30; 1969—4."

So far this year, 24 youngsters have been killed in bloody warfare among Philadelphia's teenage gangs, an average of one a week. Since January, 149 boys have been wounded.

Police fear that with school vacations started, the casualty rate may soar.

Death can come swiftly and suddenly to any member of the 77 organized gangs in the city. Usually, the only provocation is getting caught in the "turf" or territory of a rival gang. The capping of an enemy "corner boy" is accomplished by gun, knife or even by kicking.

A turf claimed by a single gang might range in size from four square blocks to eight or 12 square blocks. Police say one territory for the upsurge in violence is that eight new gangs have been formed this year and have been "encroaching on the territory of established gangs."

"They'll fight or kill to protect their corner," Police Commissioner Frank Rife told a State Crime Commission investigation.

Of the 77 juvenile gangs in Philadelphia, 68 are Negro, seven are white and two are Negro-Puerto Rican. They are located in the north Philadelphia ghetto and three other sections of the city. Police estimated total gang membership at more than 3,500.

Each gang is armed with a deadly array of weapons, referred to as "heat" or "iron."

Weapons found by police on gang members include homemade zip guns, starter pistols fashioned to fire .22 caliber bullets, auto aerials to skewer shoes, sashweights, razor-tipped brass knuckles, ice picks, umbrella handles and knives. Zip guns are rapidly giving way to .38 and .45 caliber revolvers obtained in burglaries.

Lt. Joseph E. Rich heads the 44-man gang control unit. He said police couldn't stop the killing "even if we assigned one policeman to every gang member—White there's a will, the kids will find a way."

Rich is astounded by the "callousness and nonchalance" of the young killers.

"We had one boy who killed another and then went out and had his hair processed," the lieutenant said. "Another youth admitted a murder and then went to an all-night card session."

Government officials and private groups are making efforts to stem the bloodshed. Gov. Raymond Shafer has organized a state and local investigation to find out the causes of "these senseless killings." The inquiry opened in Philadelphia earlier this month.

Members Hear Of Cancer Society And Heart Fund

HANSEN—Dr. James H. Spafford, Dr. Roy O. Shaub were guest speakers at the Royal Neighbor meeting at the Woodman Hall. Dr. Spafford spoke for the Cancer society, stressing that funds are used for public education and for professional education and research.

He stated that advances in cancer research are enabling cancer patients to live longer and with greater comfort. He urged that everyone become aware of the danger signals and have periodic check-ups, because early detection is still the best protection.

Dr. Shaub spoke for the Heart Association, stating that again funds are used for public education and research. Under education, meetings with trained instructors are available to local physicians for two-day sessions, keeping them in touch with latest progress in heart surgery.

He stated that Heart Association financed research also studies heart-related illnesses.

Both doctors conducted question and answer periods following their talks. Mrs. Vernon Ball, program chairman, introduced the doctors.

A 7 p.m. potluck dinner was held honoring members whose birthdays occurred in the present quarter. Honorees were Mrs. Wayne Smith, Mrs. Ruby Hill, Mrs. W. I. McFarland, Mrs. Earl Tridico and Mrs. Lewis Reed. Mrs. Thomas Siedemann and Kay Siedemann were guests.

Mrs. Rose Wiseman, Mrs. Mary Taylor, Mrs. Jessie Calico and Lena Bohm were on the decorating committee. Centerpieces of flags and individual place settings of a flag in keeping with patriotic themes were used.

At a previous meeting a two-day trip for the group to various points of interest in Idaho was planned for July.

SHOSHONE—Keith Anderson now works for the Twin Falls highway district. He was formerly employed at the State Highway department here. He and his family will be moving to Twin Falls.

Suspects have been arrested and charged with homicide in all-gang killings so far this year. Rich said the gang members seem "hell bent on destroying themselves for reasons best known to themselves."

Girls are gang members but so far, no girls have been involved in actual violence. Girls serve as weapons carriers during rumbles, however, since male policemen are not allowed to search females.

NO FAVORITES

SUIZZARA Daily (UPI)—Traffic Policeman Mario Yolsich proved that the law pays no favorites when he found himself driving the wrong way on a one-way street. He stopped his car and fined himself $1.00—the standard penalty for the offense.

Arizona State and Brigham Young deadlocked for third at 1,240. Defending champion Florida, first lead the two days of the tournament, tied for fifth with Georgia at 1,241 strokes.

The surprise individual winner was the 69-year-old Bradmoor West course was Bob Clark of California State at Los Angeles. He fired a four-over-par 74 in the final round for a 288 total, three better than his nearest runner-up.

Taylor Hit Helps Royals Top Twins

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Bob "Hawkeye" Taylor's bases-loaded two-run pinch single ignited an eighth inning three-run rally that lifted the Kansas City Royals to a 7-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

A walk, a fielder's choice, an intentional walk to John Martinez and Lou Piniella's single loaded the bases with one out off loser Dave Boswell, now 9-8.

Taylor, who delivered the Kansas City Royals to a 7-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins, lined a 1-3 pitch into center field, scoring Bob Oliver and Martinez to break a 4-1 tie.

McCovey Hits Two, Giants Belt Redlegs

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Willie McCovey hit two homers, one the ninth grand slam of his major league career and drove in six runs Saturday night as the San Francisco Giants outslug the Cincinnati Reds 12-5.

Giant right-hander Ron Herbel, surviving a shaky start, threw the distance in his first starting assignment of the season to register his third victory in four decisions.

McCovey's homers, his 24th and 25th of the season, were two of 15 hits the Giants collected off six Red pitchers.

Blilly Eshridge contributed four of the hits and Bobby Bonds chipped in with his 11th homer of the season.

Two walks and Chico Ruiz' error preceded McCovey's grand slammer in the first inning off loser Jack Flahar.

Ruth Jessen Ups Lead In Women's Meet

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Veteran golfer Ruth Jessen took a two stroke lead in the U.S. Women's Open championship Saturday at third round scores soared with the temperature.

The blonde-haired native of Seattle, Wash., who began the day at one under par, shot out to a three under par lead before registering two bogeys and a double bogey on the last nine holes.

She maintained her lead, however, as playing mate and second round leader Joann Prentice hit a string of five bogeys and a double bogey beginning with the ninth hole.

Her score rocketed to a four over par 223.

"The shot I missed got me in more trouble today than usual," Miss Jessen, a twotime second place finisher in the women's Open, said. She cited the heat which reached the mid 90s and the high humidity as a factor in the rising scores.

Peggy Wilson, an early round leader, moved to second place in the field of 43 professional and amateurs with three over par 222.

Tied with Miss Prentice at four over were Sandra Haynie and Kathy Whitworth who fired the hottest round of the tournament at 69.

Kunz, Montler Receive Awards

ATLANTA (UPI)—Offensive tackle George Kunz of Notre Dame and the East and Mike Montler of Colorado and the West Saturday were chosen by their teammates on the All-America squads as winners of the 1969 Ernie Davis Memorial Award.

The award is given annually to those players considered to have shown outstanding leadership during the week of training before the Coshes All-America football game which was played here Saturday night.

Cokes Set To Regain Crown From Napoles

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Curtis Cokes said Saturday that he will be "better prepared for his time" when he tries to regain his world welterweight championship Sunday in a rematch with Jose "Butterball" Napoles.

Pirates Use 5-Run Eighth To Beat Mets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carl Taylor drove in two insurance runs with a single after Tug McGraw pitched the lead run across Saturday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for five runs in the eighth inning to defeat the New York Mets 7-4.

McGraw replaced starter Gary Gentry with one on and two out when Matty Alou singled and Richie Hebner was safe as Ed Kranepool mopped up his sacrifice bunt.

McGraw then uncorked a wild pitch that allowed pinch runner Jose Martinez to score the run that broke a 2-2 tie.

Taylor's single brought in two runs and two more scored on Jose Pagan's double and Bill Mazeroski's sacrifice fly.

Jim Bunning benefited from the Pirate breakthrough as he went seven innings and picked up his seventh win in 12 decisions.

Gentry was tagged with his sixth loss against seven wins as the Mets dropped their fourth straight game.

Ed Kranepool gave New York a 2-0 lead in the second inning when he hit his seventh home after Cleon Jones' single.

Pittsburgh tied it in the fourth when Manny Sanguillen singled. Al Oliver walked, Pagan lined his first double of the game and Gentry wild-pitched Oliver home.

Cokes, who lost the title last April 18 in Los Angeles, has trained much harder for his fight than Napoles. He has said that the wasn't ready for Napoles in Los Angeles, and that this time he wouldn't be caught off guard.

Napoles, a 29-year-old Cuban-Mexican, on the other hand, has kept his pre-fight training under wraps. He did most of his training at the "El Sol" ranch about 50 miles north of Mexico City, and only came to the capital last Monday.

"All fights are hard," said Napoles Saturday, "but this one will be a lot harder. Cokes has prepared himself much better this time and undoubtedly will offer a better fight. He's a great boxer, although I don't think he was very strong in Los Angeles."

Both Napoles and Cokes closed out their heavy training Thursday and limited themselves to light exercises Friday and Saturday. Napoles added that if Cokes is better prepared for Sunday's fight than he was for Los Angeles the same holds true for him.

In another fight on the card, Ultimino "Sugar" Ramos, former featherweight champion tries a comeback against Filipino Rudy Gonzales. Other bouts include Ruben Olivares against Filipino Nene Jue and bantamweight Chucho Castillo against Filipino Ernie De La Cruz.

Ramos' last fight was an unsuccessful return match for the lightweight crown against Sergio Ortiz in San Juan, Puerto Rico, in 1967.

"I'm ready," affirmed the peppery Cuban. "Like in old times, I'm anxious for the moment to arrive when I climb into the ring and exchange punches with my opponent."

Ramos said his main aim is to prove that he's not through. "I want to begin a campaign that will give me the opportunity of meeting Mando Ramos. Then I can be champion of the world again—this time in the lightweight division."

Desert Law Wins $81,350 Vanity 'Cap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Desert Law beat her stablemate, Gately, by a length and a half Saturday while Amerigo Lady was third in the 28th running of the $81,350 Vanity Handicap, richest feminine stakes in Hollywood Park history.

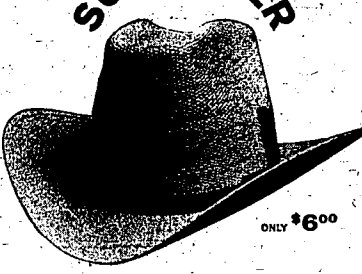

Gately could not catch her stablemate under a staggering impost of 128 pounds, nine more than Desert Law—she tightened in the stretch after the frontrunners had faded.

Desert Law raced the mile and 1/8 in 1:48 1/5 to score her second major distaff victory of the meeting after having won the Milady Handicap earlier in the meeting.

Jockey Laffit Pincay Jr. let Desert Law stride toward the rear of the field of 11 until they passed the half-mile pole where she came to the outside in a powerful closing rush.

Gipson's Record Kickoff Return Sparks West To 14-10 All-Star Win

ATLANTA (UPI)—Paul Gipson's record 74-yard kickoff return sparked the stumbling West Saturday night and the favorites scored two touchdowns in the final period to beat the East 14 to 10 in the annual Coaches All-America football game.

The underdog East appearing in better condition to stand the 90-degree temperatures had taken a 10 to nothing lead with 2:14 left in the third period before Gipson broke numerous tackles and raced the ensuing kickdown to the East 10-yard line. The East held that time at their one-yard line but was forced to punt, and the West then drove 36 yards in 6 plays with fullback Bill Eynart of Oregon State going over from the two-yard line.

Terrell Brown of Oklahoma added the conversion to cut the gap to 10-7. The next time the West got the ball, it marched 61 yards, with the help of two penalties with Gipson from the University of Houston, carrying the

Williams To Set National League's Iron Man Record

CHICAGO (UPI)—His Chicago Cubs teammates call outfielder Billy Williams "the quiet one" so the fanfare that arises Sunday when he sets a National League record for consecutive games will be a thing apart for the 31 year old veteran.

Saturday Williams played in his 894th consecutive game for the Cubs against the St. Louis Cardinals. The first game Sunday will be his 895th, tying the league record held by the Cardinals' Stan Musial, and the second game will be No. 896, the record.

Records are made to be broken, Williams said, "so I'm not unhappy about breaking it. But I haven't played for a long time without ever thinking of this record, and I don't think I really thought about it until I got Richie Ashburn's record last year. Then I started thinking about it."

Magic Valley Shuts Out Idaho Falls; Plays Host To Caldwell Here Monday

IDAHO FALLS (UPI)—The Magic Valley Angels remained in the cellar of the Pioneer League as Magic Valley hurlers Mike Magnus and Rick Wilson combined to throw a five-hit shutout and defeat them 3-0 here Saturday night.

Magic Valley will meet Idaho Falls in a doubleheader Sunday and return to Twin Falls Monday night, to begin a three-night stand against the Caldwell Cubs. All games will begin at 8 p.m.

The Cowboys scored the only earned run of the ballgame in the top of the third inning when Rick Dahlgren singled, was singled to second base by Mike Magnus and scored on a line single to right field by Jeff Geach.

Twin Falls scored again in the top of the fifth when Ronald Houston walked and was sacrificed to second by Larvell Blanks. Houston, in an attempt to steal third base, scored when Angel catcher Greg Dehn threw wild at third.

The Cowboys scored another unearned run in the top of the eighth when Rick Dahlgren, who went 3-3 for the night, led off with a single. He then stole second on an error as Angel pitcher John Martin threw wild at first base.

The only batting threat for Idaho Falls was Mike Martorella, who had two hits in three trips, including a triple.

The linescore:
Twin Falls 001 010 010—3 8 0
Idaho Falls 000 000 000—0 5 3
Magnus, Wilson (6), and Helrel; Smith, Martin (8), Tullier (9) and Dehn.

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Ellie Hendricks climaxed a four-run Baltimore rally with a three-run homer in the sixth inning Saturday, sparking the Orioles to a 6-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Hendricks' fifth homer of the year, off reliever Daryl Patterson, followed singles by Frank Robinson and Boog Powell, a walk and Dave Johnson's sacrifice fly. Robinson's single chased starter Denny McLain.

Pete Richert, who relieved Marcelino Lopez in the sixth, picked up his second victory in four decisions while Jim Palmer got credit for the save.

Detroit (0-10) led 2-0 in the top of the sixth. Robinson's single, off McLain, Patterson (4), Dobson (7), Wilentz (5) and Price; Lopez, Helrel (6), Richert (4), Palmer (32), LP—Patterson (9), RP—Price, (10), Hendricks

Russians Edge Phoenix Rookies

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—The touring Russian National basketball team scored three points in the last minute to edge the Phoenix Suns Rookies 65-64 Saturday night.

The win was the sixth for the Russians in seven games against their current U. S. tour.

Modest Paulauskas sank a free throw to break a 62-62 deadlock with 53 seconds remaining. With 12 seconds left on the clock, Sergey Belov drove down the right side for a lay up to give the Russians a 65-62 advantage.

Steve Jennings of Phoenix narrowed the margin on a 10-foot jump shot with five seconds left.

American Horses Sweep Irish Derby

CURAGH, Ireland (UPI)—American-owned horses monopolized the 8th running of the Irish Sweeps Derby Saturday with French-trained Prince Regent storming home to win the $128,184 first prize.

The horse, judged unlucky in the English Derby earlier this month, showed his class when he wore down Ribofilio with an electrifying burst of speed in the final furlong to win by a length.

Prince Regent, owned by Comtesse De La Valdeine, sister of the former U.S. ambassador to Ireland, Raymond R. Guest, was ridden by English jockey Geoff Lewis and trained by Etienne Poitrel. He started at odds of 7-2 in a field of 15.

Ribofilio was the 2-1 favorite for the 1 1/2 mile race.

Second place was worth $28,022 for Ribofilio. R. Raymond O'Guest's 100-7 chance, Reindeer won a photo-finish duel over English derbies winner Blakely to complete the U.S. triumph and take third place prize money of $17,395.

Talbot Hurls Pilots Past Angels 3-0

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Fred Talbot celebrated his 29th birthday Saturday night by defeating the California Angels, 3-0, as Rich Rollins drove in two runs with a home run and single for the Seattle Pilots.

Talbot, who shut out the Angels for eight innings, allowed a leadoff triple to Bill Voss in the ninth and needed the relief help of Diego Segui to preserve his third victory against two defeats.

But Voss was stranded at third as Segui retired the next three California batters for his sixth save. Talbot gave up seven hits and one walk in his eight innings.

The defeat went to Tom Murphy, now 4-6, who gave up five hits and two runs in five innings.

Speedster Tommy Harper, who has gotten on base only once in the series, stole his 43rd base of the season in the third to put him 13 games ahead of Maury Wills' 1962 record pace of 104 stolen bases.

It took Wills 84 games to get his 43rd, while Harper reached that mark in 71 games.

The fleet-footed Pilot has stolen 13 in a row and has been caught only eight times.

T. F. Legion Splits Twin Bills With Nampa, Caldwell Squads

John Glesler smashed a two-first, stole second, then scored on Butick's double. Twin Falls followed two outs later and led it in the fourth when Blackwood singled, moved to second on a Dave Frazier single, and scored one out later on a wild pick-off attempt at first.

The decisive tallies in the sixth came when Hunsaker, Butick, and Brunel all boomed doubles coupled with a wild pitch.

Friday night with Nampa, after coasting to an easy win in the opener behind the pitching of Mike Chandler and Wayne Graham, John Glesler, in his first pitching appearance of the season, had the Bulldogs set down in no-hit fashion until the sixth inning of the second game.

All went down the drain in the frame when Mike Myer poked a three-run homer for a 3-2 Nampa win. Earlier in the inning Rich Humphrey had legged out a low roller for the first hit off Glesler.

Louis Ready To Return To Work

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, arrived here Saturday "feeling pretty good" less than 48 hours after he was admitted to a New York hospital for treatment of a physical collapse.

Louis, now 35, had been originally scheduled to serve as commentator for a local television company broadcast of the 36-hole United Golf Association's Midwest district tournament which began Saturday at Kitzhawk golf club.

L.A. Shells San Diego In 19-0 Rout

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Willie Davis and Len Gabrielson each drove in two runs to highlight a 19-run third inning and Don Drysdale scattered five hits in his first complete game and shutout this season as the Los Angeles Dodgers shelled the San Diego Padres 19-0 Saturday night.

The win kept Los Angeles one-half game ahead of the Atlanta Braves in the National League's Western Division race.

The third inning explosion and 19 runs were their biggest totals since the Dodgers came to the West Coast in 1958. In the third, Los Angeles sent 15 men to the plate as three San Diego pitchers gave up six hits, six walks, including three with the bases full, and threw four wild pitches.

Davis' two runs batted in came as he doubled in Drysdale, and Willie Crawford, Davis, who also singled and scored two runs in the inning, came home on Gabrielson's single, his second of the inning.

The Dodger scoring opened when the big outfielder singled home Crawford.

Mountain Home Takes 2 From Valley

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI)—Mountain Home took advantage of a two-run throwing error in the opener against Valley's Vikings, then took a free-swinging nightcap in sweeping a Saturday doubleheader 2-0 and 9-7.

Mountain Home starter Kidd went all the way in the first game, limiting Valley to just a pair of hits, while his squad scored all it needed in the last inning. Kidd drew a walk, Aramour lived on an error, and both runners moved down on a fielder's choice.

A wild toss to first base by the shortstop accounted for both runs.

In the second game Valley moved in front 6-2 after three innings, as Richmond and Myer singled, Wolf walked, an interference call pushed one run across, and two successive wild pitches followed.

Mountain Home used a three-run triple by Butch Purdy in the fourth to go ahead 7-6 after a five-run rally.

Billings Routs Ogdén By 9-3

BILLINGS—The Billings Mustangs rallied for seven runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to rout Ogdén, 9-3, in a belated Pioneer League home opener Saturday night.

Ogdén had led 2-1 going into the seventh where Billings had pushed across a solo tally to tie the score.

A two-run double by Stan Walton keyed the seven-run eighth. Walton had three hits and drove in four runs in taking batting honors for the night.

C. L. (BUD) Touchette, chief pilot for Reeder Flying Service, Twin Falls, climbs aboard the Douglas A-26 low-level attack bomber just recently converted for use in fire fighting operations. Pilot Touchette, a retired U.S. Navy commander, recently made the initial test flights in the converted plane.

GEORGE SMITH, CREW chief for the converted A-26 at the Twin Falls city-county airport, takes a look at one of two 2000-horsepower engines on the plane.

Local Plane, A Combat Veteran, Is Readied For New Role As Fire Fighter

The plane was manufactured in Korea and it took more than a year to get her in shape after she hadn't left the ground in a seven-year period. But today she is flying again — but in a new role. No longer will she carry bombs for low level attacks on an enemy. Rather, fitted with several tanks, she will now carry 1,200 gallons of retardant for use in fire fighting.

The plane — a Douglas A-26 — was tested at the local city-county airport for the initial time last week after being reconditioned by mechanics of the Reeder Flying Service.

The two 2,000-horsepower motors pushes the big ship through the air at a top speed of 350 miles an hour. Built toward the end of World War II, she was way ahead of her day so far as speed was concerned.

The plane will be used under contract to the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management. Pilot of the craft will be C. L. (Bud) Touchette, Twin Falls, while George Smith, also of Twin Falls, will be crew chief.

Harbor House Building Set For Summer Opening

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Feature Editor

After several years of fruitless effort, Harbor House of Magic Valley has found a home.

"Home" is a rather dreary-looking, two-story building at 717 Shoshone St. N., that offers more than a mild challenge to the Harbor House organization in the way of making it livable.

Members hope to use the type of volunteer aid now being offered by individuals and organizations in the community to have the old home ready for use yet this summer.

When completed, the area for the first time will have a suitable place to house youngsters who, often through no fault of their own, become wards of the courts. It will no longer be necessary to place the children in jail or return them to the improper environment that may have created their problems.

Probate Judge Richard Reed, who has been elected Harbor House board of directors, chairman succeeding Mrs. Roy Shaub, said the first and most essential step is finding house parents for the project.

Applications for a couple who will live in the home and supervise its young occupants, plan and prepare meals and otherwise operate the home are now being received, he said. Anyone interested is asked to contact Judge Reed or Helen Henderson, both board members, and both with offices in Probate Court.

Working closely with Judge Reed are Mrs. Shaub, vice chairman; Tom Nelson, treasurer, and Mrs. Gale Conner, Castleford, secretary.

Cleaning and redecorating are also two of the pressing problems. Working with a budget of $3,300 for the remainder of the budget year, the board of directors has welcomed many donations of labor and material.

Board members have "set aside their pride and are asking any and all assistance they can get in readying the home for use.

As one board member said, "We are ready to beg, borrow and steal if necessary to get Harbor House open and on its way. With very little noise made at this time, many organizations and individuals have already pledged their assistance.

William Grange board member said Friday he has contacted furniture and appliance dealers, asking their help in obtaining used carpet, appliances such as washer, dryer, vacuum cleaner and other items.

"Everyone I have called has promised to assist and thanks to the help of Sears, Cain's, Petersen's, Shane's and M and Y, I would say our floors are covered and our major appliances assured," Mr. Grange said.

Two organizations have offered unbelievable assistance, Judge Reed reported. The Junior Club of Twin Falls will make funds from the annual Tour of Homes available to Harbor House this year, he announced. In addition, the Civilian Club has announced members will donate their labor to do all painting inside and outside, and between the club and area paint dealers it is believed this momentous task will be completed. John Angerbauer, city commissioner, and local paint store manager, said his firm, Bennett's Paint and Glass and others he plans to contact will make certain paint is made available when the needs are known.

Civilian Club members have also donated $150 to the project and one member, an electrician, has agreed to handle wiring installation. Another cash donation of $25 has been given by the Twin Falls Lions Club.

The home has been leased for the remainder of the current year. (Continued on Page A-3)

FUTURE SHELTER FOR abandoned, orphaned or troubled children will be located at 717 Shoshone St. N. If present Harbor House of Magic Valley plans are successful. Here three youngsters, typical of the ages of Harbor House occupants look over the somewhat neglected and dirty building. Cleaning, painting and furnishing of the house will begin immediately.

CONTEMPLATING CLEANING, decorating chores that will restore the living room to a comfortable pleasant room are Judge Richard Reed and Helen Henderson. The home, known as the old Clark home has been leased for a Harbor House of Magic Valley. Mrs. Henderson and Judge Reed are asking for applications from persons interested in serving as house parents for the new facility.

AN ELEGANT HOME in former days, the future Harbor House of Magic Valley already has been adopted by a number of organizations and individuals for financial and volunteer labor support. Here several board members and those who will be closely associated with its operation inspect the wide

"Music Man" Of Magic Valley—That's J. Hill

Music has been a major factor in the life of J. E. Hill, Twin Falls, and in recent years "Jay" has provided a major influence in the lives of young musicians throughout the country.

This influence is growing as he has now published his fourth book for music instruction for piano students. Aim of all four of his publications, handled through "Pointer" publications, is to make music enjoyable and to introduce "fun" ways of learning to play scales and musical numbers.

Although he has spent most of his life playing for the enjoyment and entertainment of other people, "Jay" had never thought of teaching other people to play piano or organ until about nine years ago.

"I can't read music," Mr. Hill explained, "and that presented something of a problem."

Blind almost since birth because of glaucoma, J. Hill has played since an early age, largely by listening to it several times and memorizing the tunes. His repertoire consists of about 2,000 to 3,000 numbers he can play by memory.

He has been a professional musician, playing both piano and organ in cafes, night clubs, in the early days of radio, television and in concert.

Born in Hansen where his father, Jerome, J. Hill also played in the Northside Club in Jerome, Idaho, but later moved to Denver, Colo.; Estes Park, Colo., and other parts of the country.

Not until 1940 did he obtain the assistance of his first seeing eye dog, "Leda."

"Until then," he recalls, "I guess you could say I stumbled around a lot but with the help of many loyal friends always got where I wanted to go."

That also was the year "Jay" and his wife, "Time" opened their record shop in Twin Falls. "I thought I knew all about music but after we opened the record shop, I wasn't so sure," he said.

The record business proved too confining and it lasted only a year and "Jay" went back to playing for audiences.

Every successful man has to have a helpful wife, and "Jay" is no exception. He and "Time" formerly Albertine Deschapper were married in Boise June 12, 1938, and since that time she has provided the assistance his career has needed.

For many years they maintained a downtown office in the Bank and Trust basement where they operated a letter shop and sold personalized gifts and stationery.

In 1967 they sold the business and again J. Hill became a full time musician.

So when his own interests and abilities, Mr. Hill employed an old-time theater musician to teach him theater organ.

"I had never thought of teaching others," he said, "but this man encouraged me to give it some serious consideration."

"How can I teach sighted people to play piano or organ when I can't read the music they read?" I asked myself.

"This resolved itself and I enrolled in a teaching workshop program in Salt Lake City. I found when you move step by step there is no problem and not only did I enjoy it, but my students, both adults and children, seem to like the system I use," he continued.

J. Hill believes a good musician knows and understands all types of music and his students learn to play jazz, pop music and classical numbers. His first publication resulted because he needed an organized outline for his own students. It involved the process of chord progressions and was used by him for some time on his own before he sent a copy to the editor of "Pointer," leading publication for music instructors.

Working with the assistance of the magazine editor, he worked it into book form and it became a piano instruction book. The first book was titled "Progress with Progression," and from there another was soon in demand and in use by his own students and later published.

The second book deals with scales and chords above the student how to build his own chords. Next came the book on improvising harmony, for the right hand, and the most recent book deals with creative improvising for the left hand.

All have been published and are distributed by Pointer Systems, a nation-wide publisher of music books, tapes and organs. Asked to write two additional books, it looks as though J. Hill has his work cut out for him in the music field.

Don't Try To Adopt Babes Of Woods, It Could Be Dangerous For You And Animals

By TOM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish Game Department

Taking candy from a baby seems more kindhearted than removing a fawn deer from a family where children have fallen in love with it. Veteran conservation officers say that irate protests of parents and fears of youngsters are among the most unpleasant situations they encounter in the line of duty.

Perhaps the hardest part of all is for officers to be accused of citing adults into court and getting them fined when all they did was "save the life" of a baby deer, elk, bighorn sheep, mountain goat, bear, cougar or whatnot. "You don't think we'd let the poor little thing starve. How could you be so cruel?"

Monthly reports from officers during the springtime and letters and calls from people attempting to get permits to adopt babes of the woods, point up the problem. They want to legalize fawn-napping. Their justifications are in the same vein. "It was starving," or "its mother was run over by a car," or "The mother was shot."

It is a fact that young animals are appealing and cute. The "in thing" just now seems to be to make pets of some of Idaho's big game animals in a sense, even though the odds against raising it to maturity are great. Foundling infants are snatched from wild mothers and sometimes literally left on the doorstep of the Idaho Fish and Game Department need expert care through the weaning stage, at least, and sometimes grow up to make unprovoked attacks on their human "benefactors."

An animated feature-length cartoon many years ago characterized a fawn deer with long, soft, somewhat floppy ears; eyes too big for the size of its head; slightly almond-shaped and fringed with long lashes. They were soft and innocent and dark, yet limpid, the epitome of innocence and purity. However, fawn deer would have better chances for survival if they were ugly as sin and repugnant to people.

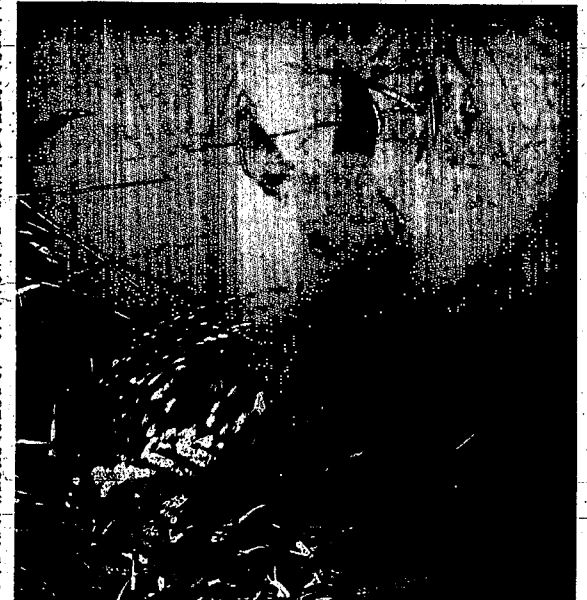

Not only are fawns beautiful, but also they will follow children, suckle their fingers and drink from a bottle, soon switching to milk from a parent. They romp about like lambs on dainty razor-sharp hooves, which make nasty gashes in the tender flesh of children when they lack care in flight. It must be remembered that these partly-tamed wild animals are a dangerous two-legged menace when they are not kept but their fierce instincts. They also lose, or never develop, their ability to fend for themselves. They become easy marks for the guns of poachers.

A good many deer fawns and other babes of the wood die within the first three months of captivity. They develop dysentery and death comes generally because they need milk from their mothers. These are lucky fawns. The unlucky ones are those which thrive on a diet of milk and other species of live to maturity. In addition to razor-sharp hooves, buck deer and males of other species have antlers or horns, supported by heavy neck muscles. They often turn on their foster parents.

For example, a yearling "peep" bull elk was butchered at Farragut State Park a few years ago, and the meat donated to charity, when all efforts to subdue it with tranquilizing drugs failed and the animal could not be transported to a "safer" area further back on the hills. Pairs through the state exhibit wildlife young-of-the-year each fall. The animals generally are supplied by conservation officers. When shows are over, these dangerous pets are hauled to their natural homes in the mountains and plains.

One "spike" elk, raised at the Boise zoo from captive stock, was surplus several years ago and the department was forced to release it in the wild north of the Capital City. This was done. Next morning the animal was lying on the grass at the Daugout schoolhouse. It chased the kids, their dogs and the grownups too.

moose, elk and deer, who take care of such human ministrations to their young. The thing to remember is that young wildlife animals or birds are hard to care for at home. When grown, some are dangerous. Home care also tends to make wild-creatures unable to cope with life in their natural habitat. If the opportunity should ever come to them in the future, to paraphrase the late Thomas Wolfe, "They can't go home again."

CUTE AND APPEALING, this baby fawn is not lost, not abandoned and not orphaned. He will do well if left alone as "mama" is probably not too far away. Not only is it almost certain death for the fawn if he is taken home as a pet, but it is also illegal. Well meaning human friends should not disturb such babes of the woods, say game department officials.

The Money Box

By FRANK SCHELL

From O. R., Burley, Idaho: I have a copper coin which is larger than a quarter. On one side is a crown with a capital "O" and the Roman number IX in it. The other side has a wreath and a large "S" with the word "ORE" under it. What can you tell me about it?

Answer: The coin should have a date on it somewhere between 1874 and 1906. This is a five "ore" piece struck in Denmark under the reign of Christian the 10th, who ruled from 1838 until 1906. It is worth about 1-20th of fourteen cents in exchange value — somewhere around fifteen cents collector value. The coin is made from bronze — not copper.

From H. P., Burley, Idaho: Can you tell me something about a copper coin I have? It is worn pretty smooth, but on one side there is a woman's head and the letters "VICTORIA DEI GRATIA REGINA" and the date 1843. On the other side is a picture of a ship—an old fashioned one — and the words "New Brunswick" and "Half Penny".

Answer: Your coin has rather a peculiar history. New Brunswick is a part of Canada now, but before 1867 it was a separate colony. In 1843, it received the right to coin copper to alleviate a shortage of small change. Some 400,000 half pennies and the same amount of pennies were coined but the coins were disappeared by the British Colonial Office. When the coins were shown on the head of Victoria, then Queen of England. Even though disapproved, the coins remained in circulation until 1854. At that time, amounts of pennies and half-pennies were issued showing the head of the Queen as used on the English coinage.

The condition of your coin would show little value as a collector's item. There are a great many of the coins in existence, about $3.00. Yours would be worth about thirty-five cents.

From A. B. L., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a number of Nicaraguan coins, most of them dated around 1880. Are they worth much money to collectors?

Answer: Not knowing the condition, or values, this is a hard question to answer. Generally speaking, though, the answer is "no." Most of these coins of the period sell for about forty or fifty cents, and the condition must be excellent. Very little of the minor coins of South American or Latin American countries is worth much to collectors. There was a great deal of minted and it is still around.

THIS 31-FOOT FIBER GLASS patrol boat cuts through the waters of the Mekong River in South Vietnam. These U.S. Navy PBRs patrol the rivers and canals of the Mekong Delta and Rung Sat Special Zone in search of Viet Cong personnel and supplies.

Area Man Serving With Unique U.S. Navy Patrol On Mekong Delta Rivers, Canals

BINH THUY, South Vietnam unique and important part of the battle against enemy infiltration in Vietnam is gaining prominent recognition.

It is one of the smallest and least traditional U.S. Navy operations and involves 31-foot fiber-glass river patrol boats, heavily armed, but suitable to navigation of rivers and canals of the Mekong Delta. Here they hunt out Viet Cong supplies and personnel.

Serving with the vital operation is a Twin Falls County youth, Yeoman Third Class Douglas Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wright Jr., Murtaugh. He is attached to the staff of Command River Patrol, Flotilla Five, stationed at Binh Thuy in the Mekong Delta. His job is to provide administrative support to the men who man the patrol boats.

Operating along the rivers and canals of the Delta shipping channels to Saigon, the boats are assigned the task of denying use of these waterways to the Communists. In addition, a few patrol the Perfume River, near Hue to choke Communist troop supply movements in that area and near Cu Viet three miles south of the Demilitarized Zone.

Four men crews including an enlisted boat captain sail the craft of the "Brown Water Navy" and they see more than their share of action, Navy officials say, a good indication they are hurting the Viet Cong.

PBR's carry twin .50-caliber machine guns forward, a single .50-caliber machine gun aft, an automatic grenade launcher and an M-60 machine gun in addition to the crew's individual weapons.

Built on a pleasure craft hull, the boats are powered by water jets and driven by a diesel engine. With the water jets, the boats can operate in less than a foot of water, a vital factor in some shallow canals of the Delta area.

Daily routine for the PBR sailor may involve stopping to check out traffic on the Delta waterways to prevent supplies or enemy incursions from sneaking through. At night after the river curfew, they search for the elusive Viet Cong that try by night to cross the major rivers. Major assets for the PBR's are speed and firepower.

With virtually no armor, the boats must call on Navy SeaWolf helicopter gunships for help when they locate a major crossing party or run into ambush.

Generally they operate from a mobile base built on pontoons and on the rivers the PBR's and helicopters operate from tank landing ships anchored in midstream.

More than 250 of the patrol boats are now operating in South Vietnam. They have several major victories to their credit and their officers and men have won three additional Unit Citations, one Meritorious Unit Citation and a Navy Unit Citation.

Most recent citation was the first Presidential Unit Citation presented by the Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee, The Force was cited for exceptionally meritorious and heroic service from Jan. 31 to April 9, 1968 while engaged in armed conflict with the Viet Cong forces during the Tet Lunar Offensive and counter offensive campaigns.

Their 12-hour patrols are frequently routine, however, and they also provide ambulance service for wounded American and Vietnamese who need medical care not available in their villages.

Because of the PBR's South Vietnam's Delta waterways are safe for innocent traffic and the enemy finds it impossible to move significant amounts of supplies or men without being caught.

YEOMAN DOUGLAS E. WRIGHT, serving with the Command River Patrol Flotilla Five, stationed at Binh Thuy in the heart of the Mekong Delta, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wright Jr., Murtaugh.

FLOATS TAKE SHAPE in many warehouses and barns in the Rupert area in preparation for unrolling July 4 at 11 a.m. in the annual parade that highlights the four-day July 4th celebration. Here, Hubert Coats, left, gets a sneak preview of the float Mayor Wendell Johnson and his business firm will enter. When completed it will compare the old fashioned hand pump with modern water pumping equipment, a vital factor in the life of the Mindoka County economy. Some of the committee members who have been planning all year for July 4 in Rupert include Richard Bohle, rodeo committee; Dick Westendorf, jamboree committee, and Ed Hartman, parade chairman, from left. Competing for 1970 queen honors will be Kathy

In Rupert They "Think July 4" All Year

RUPERT—The approximately 5,000 residents of Rupert and some 4,000 from surrounding communities and states will be celebrating July 4 in Rupert just like they have for more than 40 years.

The only difference may be that in 1969, youngsters can look forward to four big days of celebration and a bit more excitement than their fathers and grandfathers remember.

For some time now clerks in Rupert stores and employes in most businesses have been wearing western attire as a constant reminder of the coming event. When they do things in Rupert, whether it's on July 4 or Christmas, the entire town joins in.

This may be the reason the July 4th celebration has gone on for more than four decades without interruption, and has continued to grow.

While some of the committee members are planning for the annual celebration all year, the actual preparations begin early in May, when queen contestants begin working their horses and preparing for competition. They register for the event early in the spring and all contestants are entered by June.

This year Gail Stoller is reigning queen and contestants for her crown include Kathy Crawford, Vicki Kent, Cathy Casad and Barbara Allen.

In June the entire community swings into action. Already held and acclaimed an outstanding success, was the Chuckwagon Jamboree, June 28.

On Thursday the celebration will be well under way with the initial performance of the rodeo known as "kids' night." All youngsters under 12, and accompanied by parents, are admitted free and are eligible to win one of the free bicycles being given away. Del Haslam, Ovid, is producer for the three rodeo performances.

Another major attraction beginning July 3 is the first of four days of pari-mutuel horse racing, the season's first race program in the Magic Valley area.

Many of the top racing horses from the Intermountain region are expected to see action during the four days of racing. Races begin at the fair grounds track at 1 p.m. through July 6.

Among special events will be the Casita-Doka quarterhorse futurity and the Valley stock two year old Thoroughbred Futurity.

Antand Empire Shows will set up their carnival near the railroad depot in Rupert providing rides and entertainment for children and adults July 1 through 2.

Many civic organizations will set up booths around the city square and sell hamburgers, homemade pie and other snacks.

One of the highlights of the annual celebration over the years has been the July 4th parade. An estimated 12,000 to 14,000 fans gather around the square and line other streets of the parade route for the annual event.

Numerous floats that have been in the planning and building stages behind closed warehouse doors and in barns, for weeks will emerge for their public showings at 11 a.m. on the big day. In addition to the floats, there will be queens, marching bands, riding clubs, antique automobiles, and a fire engine filled with children.

There will be a children's section with decorated bicycles, ponies and pets.

"Moments in History" will be the theme of the parade this year with many floats depicting historical events of the Mindoka County past and present.

On the afternoon of July 4, at 2:30 p.m., the highly acclaimed Letter Carriers Band from Salt Lake City, a parade feature will perform during a concert in the bandshell in city park.

Chances are the fourth generation residents of the county will all be there, but there will be a number of tourists who thought they were passing through Rupert but decided to stay.

Many residents from throughout the valley will be there to witness one of the first major western celebrations and horse racing this year.

Harbor House

(Continued from Page A-1) year through April 9, 1970. From that time the lease runs on a year-to-year basis. Harbor House will pay only $50 per month for the lease.

When the building has been cleaned, furnishing will be the next step. Committee members are asking persons with suitable used furniture, table service, bedding, pictures, towels and other linens, dishes and almost anything in the way of household items, to contact Judge Reed or other board members.

It is estimated anywhere from six to 12 youngsters might use the shelter of Harbor House at any one time. They will range in age from infants to 18 years both boys and girls.

In selecting the Shoshone Street house, members noted there are three large bedrooms upstairs and one downstairs which would permit dormitory-type arrangements for the youngsters, plus a nursery and facilities for the house parents.

Youngsters placed in Harbor House for temporary shelter, will be assigned through probate court and in most cases will be staying from a few days to a few months.

In a similar facility in Idaho Falls, also called Harbor House, the housemother says the longest stay is usually about six months and youngsters average from two weeks to two months. When permanent arrangements can be made by the courts or relatives, the child leaves Harbor House. While there they attend school. The Shoshone Street site is close to grade and junior high school facilities.

The old Clark house was built in 1912 by George Alken and purchased in 1929 by the D. F. Clark family. Mrs. Clark and a daughter, Isabelle Miller operate the Clark-Miller Guest Ranch in Stanley Basin and reside at 302 Fifth Ave. N.

Another daughter, Mrs. T. M. Robertson, Twin Falls, said the house was a hell for summers and attractive home during her school years. The Clark family maintained the home from 1929 until 1955. After Mr. Clark's death, it became too much for Mrs. Clark to keep up and was sold.

"But my mother never found a home she liked as well," Mrs.

PLUMBING AND HEATING present problems in the new Harbor House in Twin Falls. Much of the wiring must be re-installed and Civitan Club members have offered to assist with this and other projects. This utility-bath room on the first floor is in for some changes.

Robertson recalls. During depression years Mrs. Clark rented rooms and boarded working people, many of them newspaper employes and acquaintances of her son-in-law, the late Leo Miller, an advertising staff member of the Times-News.

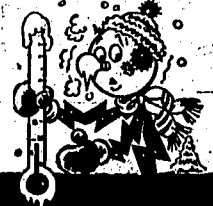

A number of special features had been built into the home, Mrs. Robertson said. In the dining room, just off the kitchen, was a bell for summoning servants from the kitchen. There were no servants in the Clark household so it had little use.

Every closet in the house was wired with an automatic switch to turn on the light when the door opened and the hot water that was the best, the former occupant said.

The house is now owned by and is being leased from Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Joe Seaver, who purchased it from the Clarks and resided in it from about 1933 to 1965. Since that time it has been rented and has had little care as a result of continuously changing tenants.

Harbor House board members say the heating system is still in good condition and will not require replacing. In the home are a large kitchen with pantry storage areas, dining room, utility and bath combination, living room complete with fireplace, large sun-parade way and closet area on the first floor; two stairways leading to the second floor, three bedrooms, bath, hallway on the second floor and an attic area suitable for storage.

Extensive Timber Cutting Program Will Follow Forest Conservation Principal

By DOROTHY POVEY

Times-News Correspondent
KETCHUM—A prime example of forest resource conservation is taking shape in the Placer Creek area of the Sawtooth National Forest and its by-product will be a half-million dollar timber fund.
 Bids have been called for the sale of 4 million board feet of large over-mature timber, mostly Douglas fir, and a clearing program has been approved.
 Placer Creek is located about 20 miles west of Ketchum in the Warm Springs Creek area.
 John Combs, Ketchum ranger, said that based on current lumber prices, the logs delivered at the mill will be worth of $540,000.
 The project will involve construction of an access road into the area and replanting the clear-cut when the harvest is complete.
 Mr. Combs said it will be necessary to construct about five miles of permanent road which will be the responsibility of the purchaser. This is expected to cost around $100,000. However, Mr. Combs said, "It turns to the timber harvester will compensate cost of the road. The purchaser also will receive a payments reduction for timber stampage.
 The road then becomes an investment in the land and a permanent improvement. It will allow better management of all resources and permit the public to enjoy the area.
 Because of the large elk herd in the area and their use of the Placer Creek region during spring calving, the road will not be opened until July 15 each summer and will close again in October. After Oct. 1, the road will be open to two-wheel vehicles and horses only to accommodate hunters during fall hunting season.

 Another three or more miles of logging road also will be constructed, but will not be retained for most use when the timber is harvested.
 Many people, the ranger said, feel clear cutting endangers the forest's chances for recovery.
 "This is not true," he added. "In fact, this method gives us the best possible chance of reestablishing the trees."
 When the large harvest is completed, small trees, all three years old, will be planted by hand over the entire cutting area. This will cost about $34,000 of which about $18,000 will be allocated from the timber sale and the remainder will be from general forest service appropriations.
 In all, the area designated for timber cutting covers some 200 acres or about one-fifth of the forested area of the Placer Creek drainage. Trees will be cut in 15 separate blocks or "patches" ranging from two to 20 acres.
 Trained forest personnel selected the areas to be harvested and these generally contain the oldest and largest trees. Like all living things, trees die of old age. Many now are dying from age and disease. If not harvested soon much usable wood will decay. Old stands of timber such as the Placer Creek region, one losing more wood each year from decay and disease than they are reproducing.
 Thus old trees and those that have already died are of no value and must be removed and new trees planted. It will take about 120 years for the new trees to mature and reach timber stage.
 When usable timber is harvested the "slash," consisting of rotted trees, branches and cull trees, remains in the cutting area.

 Such slash becomes an immediate fire hazard and is harmful for re-establishment of new trees. Loggers will pile the slash with heavy tractors and bulldozers and these piles will be ready for controlled burning under direction of Forest Service rangers for recovery.
 On steep slopes, heavy fire lines will be built surrounding the burn areas which will be "broadcast-burned" without piling the slash. Disposal of slash on the Placer Creek cut will cost $14,000, and like the road construction, is the timber purchaser's responsibility. His own crews will do much of the piling and he will pay the Forest Service to complete the burning task.
 In the multiple-use concept, the Placer Creek area provides grazing for many sheep. This will continue, but protection must be given new seedlings. Replanted areas will require several seasons of protection from livestock.
 Future plans call for extending the new permanent road to the north to meet the Baker Creek Road. This would provide a scenic loop with the Warm Springs Creek Road and Baker Creek Road.
 Mr. Combs said, when necessary, picnic and camping facilities can also be added.
 During hot weather, dense forest along the streams provides a favorite "elk wallow" and these trees are being left for the protection of the large elk herd.
 Clear cutting will re-establish low shrubs, weeds and grass and will provide a favorite feeding ground for the elk and other big game animals, the ranger added.
 Already a favorite "backcountry" hunting ground for sportsmen, this condition will probably be enhanced through-the cutting program, he said.

 In summing up the Placer Creek Timber Sale, Mr. Combs said it provides for utilization and renewal of the forest while protecting or improving all resource values. The entire project is carefully supervised by trained forest technicians and engineers to insure all requirements for perpetuation of all values of the public land are met.
 Loggers, he said, have become the conservationists of the present era, and they do their work carefully, with an eye to future use of the land.
 "We must keep in mind," Mr. Combs said, "this is everyone's land and it must be managed for the benefit of all."

Easter Seal Nets $930 In Lincoln Drive

SHOSHONE—Final returns in Lincoln County for the Idaho Crippled Children Easter Seal Society amounted to $930, according to Mrs. Frank Stearns, Shoshone, county trustee for the Society.
 This is a $215 increase over the amount collected last year and $215 above the all-time high recorded for the Easter Seal campaign in the county last year.
 Proceeds from the sales of Easter Seals cannot hope to provide all that is needed at the clinic for children handicapped in speech and hearing.
 "For that reason it is encouraging to see such projects as the one the Burmah Club has each year for Easter Seal," Mrs. Stearns said.

 The women of the club make a quilt and sell it and the proceeds go to the handicapped children of Easter Seal. The project, carried on for four years, has raised about $1500.
 The Camp Fire Girls and their local leader, Mrs. Robert Strunk, and Girl Scouts and their local leader, Mrs. Howard DeWitt, as well as Shoshone Future Farmers and Mrs. Robert Gaskill have all helped with special projects to raise money for the program.
 "Such excellent response will make it possible to expand the work at the Center," Mrs. Stearns said. The ultimate goal is to help more children who have speech and hearing problems.
 Memorials and gifts may be made throughout the year, and checks mailed to Mrs. Harry Stone, memorial chairman, Shoshone. A receipt will be sent to the donor and a notice sent to the family for whom the gift is made.

Yale Hosts Unique Program To Boost Educational Needs

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
 He finished at the top of his class but the high school in a poor, rural area had so little to offer, he's really not prepared for college.
 Or, he's a product of an urban school system, where the teaching is acceptable—but poor attention, and social pressure detracted from his grade average.
 Most higher education write off either of these hypothetical youths? Or is there a way to prepare them for college—perhaps even one of the nation's best universities?

Jonathan Fanton, coordinator of special educational studies programs at Yale University, believes a solid year of post-high school instruction can help these youths achieve their academic potential and earn them admission to a top-flight college.
 Fanton is a member of the administrative staff and a member of the Transitional Year Program, located at Yale. TYP is not an integral part of Yale but its students have access to its dining, recreational and library facilities. They audit some Yale classes.

The TYP students, mostly members of minority groups who otherwise would not qualify for college, spend one year on the Yale campus in New Haven, Conn., in intensive preparation in key academic areas—English, science, math, social sciences.
 "We've proved to colleges—even places like Yale—that kids who don't look good on paper often really have it," Fanton said.
 In its first three years, TYP has placed 65 per cent of its graduates in colleges, among them Yale, Harvard, MIT, Brandeis, Princeton, Radcliffe, Columbia, Carnegie-Mellon and the University of California.
 Fanton believes the transitional year, in which the students are not registered students at a college, is preferable to admitting them through lowered standards as "special students," as some institutions have done. "This has a tendency to connoit 'second class status,'" he says, and the experience of the "week" program at the campuses of the City University of New York, for example, tend to bear him out.
 TYP, which enrolls about 50 students a year, awards a $2,000 scholarship toward costs of $3,400. Travel expenses and incidentals are extra.
 It's a drop in the bucket, compared with the need. But in Fanton's opinion, more expansion would destroy its effectiveness. He believes it would be far better for the program to be at places where perhaps hundreds of colleges rather than expanded to mass proportions at a handful.

Book Review

By MRS. CAROL JONES
 Twin Falls Public Library
 Rod McKuen is a name that has been popping up more and more on television and on phonograph records.
 Mr. McKuen has done many things, but he is becoming well-known for one accomplishment more than others. He writes poetry, but with a difference. You might refer to his work as poetry for people who don't like poetry.
 This poetry does not have the archaic language of an earlier age, or even the completely meaningless phrases of the beat generation. It would also be wrong to classify his poetry strictly as belonging to the New generation, since his praises are sung by young and the not-so-young alike.
 There is a hint of wistfulness and remembrance of time past

In some of his works; and yet, in others you get the feeling of longing and zest for life. Sadness is found here and there, as well as a touch of humor.
 Rod McKuen's works appear in three books "Listen to the Warm," "Lonesome Cities," and "Stanyan Street and Other Stories" of which "Listen to the Warm" is my particular favorite.
 However, in each book you will undoubtedly find more than one poem you will want to read and share with anyone willing to listen.
 A new publication of Mr. McKuen's is titled "The World of Rod McKuen," a collection of his songs plus the music. There are also full-page photographs of Rod McKuen at his work.
 All of the books mentioned here are available at the Twin Falls Public Library.

to clear the forest of unwanted "slash" may resemble a forest fire, but it is completely under control. If burned on steep grades, fire lines are cut around the area to be burned and burned under supervision of Forest Service officials.

ADJUSTING THE BLUE GARTER for the bride is Jane Alexander, maid of honor, with the assistance of Linda Johnson, left, and Denise Miller. The bride wore an A-line gown of lace over taffeta featuring a high scalloped neckline and ruffles on the sleeves and at the hemline.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID WATSON represent the many young couples throughout the nation being married in June. This wedding was most unique, however, the only voices heard during the ceremony were those of the minister, Rev. Harrie Young, and a vocal trio. The bride and bridegroom repeated their vows in sign language. They were married June 14 in a double ring ceremony at the Buhl First Christian Church.

"I Love You" Means The Same-- Spoken Aloud--Or Sign Language

BY PAULINE DAY

Times-News Correspondent

BÜHL — The only voices heard at the wedding ceremony of Phyllis Anne Bybee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bybee, and David Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Watson, Jerome, were those of the minister, Rev. Harrie Young, and the Garrison sisters trio, who sang the wedding music.

Both the bride and bridegroom, the bride's attendants and the best man are former students at the Idaho State Deaf and Blind School, Gooding.

George Hoyle, an instructor at the Gooding school served as interpreter for the young couple. The bride and bridegroom repeated their vows in sign language before an arch trimmed with pink roses. Large pink scented candles completed the background setting for the 4 p.m. June 14 double ring ceremony, at the Buhl First Christian Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line gown of lace over taffeta featuring a high scalloped neckline and ruffles on the sleeves and at the hemline, and accented with buttons down the back. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a pillbox hat accented with lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Jane Alexander, Pocatello, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Johnson and Denise Miller, both Idaho Falls. The attendants' dresses were made by the bride.

Lance Arave, Tacoma, Wash., served as best man. Ushers were Richard Watson, Jerome, brother of the bridegroom, and Vince Williams, Jerome, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Bill Wetzstein played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the trio composed of Linda and Arlene Garrison and Chris Pearson. Mr. Hoyle also interpreted the words of the wedding songs for the wedding party.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink, and centered with the four-tiered white cake.

The tiers were separated by swans and accented with pink roses. Topping the cake, which was baked and decorated by Mrs. Leonard Walcott, Buhl, were cherubs and a heart. The cake was flanked by pink candles. The mints, in pink and white, were made by the bride.

Mrs. Maxine Thurber, aunt of the bride, and Beverly Stone, sister of the bride, cut and served the cake. Sharon Busman, cousin of the bride, served punch and Lynn Sherrill, poured coffee.

Linda Mort Attends Horizon Club-Regional Conference

Linda Mort, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Mort, 1778 Waterloo Ave., Twin Falls, a member of the O Wa Ta Cin Horizon Club of the Twin Falls Council of the Camp Fire Girls, attended the Horizon Club Regional Conference recently at Washington State University, Pullman.

LINDA MORT

"The theme of the Conference was 'Today's Girl in Tomorrow's World.' Four hundred and seventy-five girls attended from this region which includes Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Miss Mort has been an assistant leader during this past year. She is a nearly 10-year member of Camp Fire Girls and has completed at least one individual Torch Bearer. At the conference she reported on local activities which have included field trips to the Boise Veterans Hospital, the Indian Reservation at Blackfoot and the Sugar Plant in Twin Falls as well as other industry plants and business places.

The local Horizon Club girls are interested in working with the younger groups and have three assistant leaders. Service projects have been Needlework Guild, Red America Beautiful, selling puppets and Easter lilies, group sewing of baby layettes for the needy and lap robes for the veterans hospital. Money for the veterans hospital fund included a rummage sale and candy sale.

Speakers at the conference included Mrs. Vendetta Wagner, national staff member, New York, and Mrs. Art McCartney, dean of students at Washington State University and member of the regional committee of Camp Fire Girls. Other activities included a film, "Adventure '68," and discussion groups featuring classes in youth and recreation, urban affairs, outdoor living, law, medicine, politics, etc.

Social activities featured Ferdinand's Ice Cream Bar, where the girls selected giant ice cream cones from almost 100 flavors. An outdoor fire session was held at which the girls wore their ceremonial gowns and group singing was held at the Folk Chapel. Tours of Idaho State University were also conducted.

Miss Mort found that other councils have similar problems as the girls discussed ways and means of improving the Horizon Club membership and program. She summed-up the weekend in the following words: "It was fabulous."

Renee Evans, Tolk Marry

The United Methodist Church, Filer, was the setting May 17 for the wedding uniting in marriage Renee Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert E. Evans, Twin Falls, and John J. Tolk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tolk, Filer.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Ralph A. Cairns before a background of setting of yellow chrysanthemums and gladioli with gold candelabra and white tapers. Yellow and green bows adorned the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire-styled, floor-length, A-line gown of nylon chiffon over peau de saie, fashioned with wide band of lace on the bell sleeves and hemline. The floor-length veil of illusion edged and accented with matching bands of lace, was held in place by chiffon roses. She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow roses.

Accompanying the bride were Mrs. Nancy Stewart, Pocatello, and Mrs. Kathy Irish, Twin Falls, who were bridesmaids. Guests were registered by Linda Bartlett, Twin Falls.

Dewey Durfee, Wendell, served as best man and Steve Cairns, Twin Falls, as groomsmen. John C. Tolk, Elk Grove, Calif., Keith Quigley, Buhl, and George McGinnis, Twin Falls, served as ushers.

Traditional wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Russell Hall, who accompanied Ron Stokesberry, soloist. The reception immediately after the ceremony was handled by the Martha Circle of the church under the direction of Mrs. Paul Hainline. The bride's table, accented with yellow tapers in crystal candelabra, was covered with a white ruffled lace and lace damask blend cover, handmade by Mrs.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the View LDS Cultural Hall. The bridal party greeted guests behind a white arch entwined with wisteria, white bells and pink satin ribbons.

Flanking the arch were beauty baskets filled with white gladioli and pink carnations accented with pink satin bows.

The bride wore a floor-length, empire-styled gown of peau de saie enhanced with Chantilly lace, long lily point sleeves and a rounded neckline. The two-tiered, elbow-length veil of silk illusion was held by a satin bow accented with pearls and sequins.

Foreign Foods Are Popular In America

SHOSHONE — Foods from other countries are becoming more popular in America, the county home agent, Mrs. Jay Fowles, noted this week on a trend in up.

Frozen and canned specialties of Italian, Oriental and Mexican derivation amounted to more than $400 million in 1967. The trend is up.

One factor that makes prepared, nationally foods so popular in this country, observers said, is their convenience. Features such as boilable pouches, heat-and-serve and toast-and-serve makes the items so convenient they are ready for the table in a few minutes.

Italian dishes lead the pack. Sixty-three per cent of the frozen nationality foods sold in 1967 were Italian style. Pizzas alone accounted for nearly half the total for all nationalities. Chinese food was second and Mexican was third.

Prominence of pizza parlors and Chinese restaurants across the country have made their dishes familiar to increasing millions. Popularity of Mexican foods is spreading from the Southwest across the nation.

As people eat nationally foods in restaurants or purchase them ready prepared for home use, they develop a taste for them that advances sales. More eating out contributes to the pattern, $6.00 higher incomes and more travel.

Pizza comes in many styles home economists remind shoppers. You can get it frozen, refrigerated or in dry mix to prepare yourself. There are wide choices and shapes. Some are made with cheese, others with sausage or pepperoni. They are round, square, or in party size rolls.

The size to buy, of course, depends on the occasion, appetite, and whether the pizza is to be eaten as a snack or main dish.

Mexican foods now canned or frozen include enchiladas, tacos, tamales, tortillas, spanish rice, pinto beans, garbanzos, specialty sauces, and hot dog relishes.

Freshness Of Eggs Reviewed

SHOSHONE — "The egg that peels most easily may not be as fresh as its neighbor," states Mrs. Jay Fowles, extension home economics agent, here.

At this season when consumers use more hard-cooked eggs for potato salad and other hot-weather dishes, she says, it is a factor deserving consideration.

As eggs are stored, they lose carbon dioxide and become easier to peel after cooking. The consumer should understand that eggs that do not peel easily are often freshly laid and generally of high quality. Eggs that have been stored several days peel more readily. Eating quality of both is usually fine.

A greenish coating around the egg yolk, of hard-cooked eggs, is caused by cooking too long and too high a temperature, or it has been cooled rapidly. The greenish color comes from sulfur and iron compounds in the egg. They form at the surface of the yolk when eggs are overcooked. In spite of the color, the eggs are wholesome and nutritious and flavor is not affected.

Today's broken-out eggs seem to be smaller. A broken-out egg of high quality covers less area than the average egg used to. The thick white stands high and firm around the yolk. As eggs are stored, the thick white decreases and the egg tends to cover more surface.

Color of yolk changes, depending on the hen's feed. Birds on grass pasture or that have yellow corn tend to produce dark-colored yolks. Because commercial-laying hens are confined, lighter and more uniformly colored yolks are produced. Yolk color does not affect food value or cooking characteristics.

BETTY CANARY'S

Wonderful World

If you haven't enough of your mind and want to go out looking for depression, you might sit in a public restaurant and order a cup of coffee. Or, take a walk down a busy street or go shopping. You must go into a crowd but the only rule is you have to watch the people. It's Instant Downcast.

The ones without completely blank expressions look grim or annoyed. Or, there are the obviously angry jostling the merely impatient. You can't seem to smile this need not cheer you. Possibly he's on his way to be certified.

For most of us such an exercise is unnecessary. We can manage depression when we are quite alone by adding nagging doubts to withered dreams piled atop daily worries.

I do know a woman, however, who has managed to come up with a marvelous solution for getting rid of the whole mountain. I don't know if it's going to be a lasting solution for her, but to date I can say she is happy, and not in a clamlike way.

Her method was simple. She pretended she died.

I can't think of a more beautiful way of getting rid of junk furniture and old letters, and I asked her what other benefits she had noticed, and just when she had made such a momentous decision.

Cathy decided to "die" when her mother miraculously recovered from what they had been told was a fatal illness. She saw her mother leave the hospital filled with enthusiasm for a new life after having lain for months awaiting her old one.

"And that," Cathy told me, "made me recall all the stories I had read about those who had been close to death and upon recovering had started living fuller yet less-complicated lives."

"I decided to lie down and 'die' one day, and, as I 'died' I looked back at what I had missed and considered what I'd do differently if only I had another chance."

"It makes me sick to think about it!" I said with enthusiasm.

"I thought of those who say they learned what was really important after going through a catastrophe. I decided we did not have to wait for a catastrophe."

"Like the man who went bankrupt and then was successful because he took a chance when he had nothing left to lose?"

"That's the idea."

"But that's getting involved with being brave," I said.

"Why not just say he had nothing left to fear?" she suggested.

"And you're left with the ability to say 'no' to what you think is ridiculous or you can opt for the important and the real and the nondescript?"

"That's it," she said. "What do you think?"

"It just makes me want to die," I said.

Velvet-Lined Jewel Box Is Obsolete

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Put your little velvet-lined jewelry box in moth ball.

Replace it with a foot locker—if you're to keep step with the trend-to-huge-trinkets.

The same are being ordered into fashion's front ranks for fall and winter as the nation's pace-setting designers unbox their newest during a nine-day fashion marathon under way in Manhattan.

Consider giant-sized jewelry shown at the Accessoroma, a highlight of the New York Couture Business Council's splash for the nation's fashion press corps in attendance, nearly 300 strong.

Award-winning designer Stanley Hagler turned out a neck-to-waist "body jewel" of rhinestones and crystals, accented with a fringe of rhinestone tassels. Some crystal chandeliers have less sparkle.

Hagler, holder of 11 Swarovski Great Designs in Jewelry Awards, said the piece weighs about six pounds and costs around $100 a pound.

"The weight is distributed," he said in an interview. "There may be some slight discomfort but women put up with uncomfortable girdles for fashion's sake, so why not jewelry?"

For the few who can afford it and have muscular stamina to wear it, he's also offered a 16-pound rhinestone and aluminum dress—er, body jewel, the head-to-toe type. This is for Jan Baccetti, Miss Maid of Metal, of Cleveland, Ohio. Price? $200 a pound!

The longest accessories: strings of pearls. Some reach to the floor and are meant to be looped and twisted to hem-length so you don't trip yourself to the Peary Gates.

Other accessories to watch for:

—The gypsy look of gobs of chains. (If you don't want to get tangled in your foot locker jewelry box, hammer some nails into the wallboard in the closet and hang the things on these.)

—Jeweled ponytails or large masses of curls concocted with the aid of a dymel fall.

—Jewelry and accessories inspired by knights. Sample: Ornate metal bras to wear over or under see-through clothes.

—Long scarves and stoles to wear any way you wish. Double wrap them around the waist and knot in front; tie in a big Windsor knot around the neck and let the ends float freely, fore or aft.

SHOSHONE The charter for Opal Rebekah Lodge was draped in memory of Mrs. Sylvia Mott at a recent meeting with Mrs. T. V. Strunk, staff captain in charge. Assisting with the ceremony were Mrs. Leonard Daugherty, Mrs. Leonard Kenan, Mrs. Delbert Gehrig, Mrs. Bennie Ray Webb and Mrs. Ernest Eldredge.

Named to a committee to assist Delbert Gehrig of the Odd Fellows Lodge in selecting paint for the exterior of the IOOF building, were Mrs. Gehrig, Mrs. Clayton Peugh and Mrs. Webb.

An explanation of the Decoration of Chivalry was given by the staff captain in as much as one of the lodge members has been nominated for this honor. At the public card party held after the meeting, Mrs. Eldredge and Mrs. George Horn provided refreshments.

WHAT'S THAT NAME, AGAIN?

You've met him. Nice guy—but always certain to embarrass himself and you. Whether you like it or not, he involves you in his troubles. His hearing problem becomes your problem. You have to show—and he's offended if you do.

Chances are, his hearing loss is correctable. But he won't wear a hearing aid. It would "dumb" him, make him conspicuous — of all things!

Sad. Very sad. He simply hasn't noticed that today's tiny, efficient hearing aids — the kind we offer — are so accepted, so popular, so unnoticed as eyeglasses, bridgework, hairpieces. Nobody cares, really, except the happy ones who wear them. Someone should tell him. . . . By the way, how's your hearing? . . .

Manuscripts were read including Olive Kelley's "Who Who in the Garden"; Ethlyn Walkington, "Poky Gets a New Name"; and Pearl Kimball, "We Are Our Own Worst Enemy."

It was reported Pearl Kimball sold articles to the Northside News and Sudie Hager gave an article on how to attend a writers contest by Ansel B. Chapin.

The next meeting is set for September and roll call will be "Blue Bloods." Jeannette L. Moyné will give the program.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell someone (a relative) that it's time she and her husband gave a party? When this couple moved to town three years ago, they didn't know a soul. We introduced them to all of our friends, and now our friends are their friends, too.

They are attractive, charming people and well-liked by all who know them, so they are very popular, but if they don't hurry up and start inviting some of these people back, they won't be popular much longer. It is since we did sponsor them, we feel somewhat responsible for their social "sins of omission": What do we do? I can hardly hold my head up.

NO TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO: It's not necessary to stick your neck out in order to hold your head up. If you "like" this couple and are seriously concerned about their threatened loss of popularity as well as the reflection on yourselves, tell the lady in a nice way that if she's planning to entertain, you'll be glad to help her. If she doesn't get the drift, well, you've done your part.

DEAR ABBY: In a few weeks I am going to become an American citizen. What is the correct thing to do on this occasion? Do you send out announcements or invitations to the ceremony? Is it open to the public, but does this mean family only? Should I have cards printed? It is such a big event for me I want to do something. A big I don't know what. Can you help me?

FUTURE CITIZEN

DEAR CITIZEN: Why not have a private party and invite those with whom you'd like to celebrate the occasion? Printed cards are not necessary. A telephone call or a little note will do. Congratulations.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have enjoyed your column very much. I have never written to anyone for advice before, but now I feel I should.

First let me explain that we have been happily married for 27 years, have 3 wonderful children and 5 grandchildren, so we are not kids.

Now, the problem: I would just love to sleep on satin sheets, and now I see that they are for sale and I want to buy some, but my husband says that no man would sleep on satin sheets. We have decided to let you decide whether I should buy them or not. "YES OR NO"

DEAR YES: Buy one left if your man sleeps on them with no complaints, buy more.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 17 who needs some advice badly. My boyfriend is a very nice guy, but he asks me questions which are none of his business.

He says if I "don't" tell him what he wants to know it means I don't love him or trust him. He also says that no matter what I tell him about myself, he won't hold it against me. We've been going together for a year, and this is the only thing we ever fight about.

He insists that the past should be forgotten, yet he keeps nagging me to tell him everything about mine. I never ask him any questions about his.

What should I do, Abby? I really love him, and I don't want to lose him.

IN A CRUNCH

DEAR IN: Tell your inquisitive boyfriend that he is absolutely right — the past should be forgotten, and if he persists in questioning you, it means he doesn't love or trust you. Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Housewives Sound Off On Quality Of Consumer Goods

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's time again to let the housewives of the nation sound off on quality of consumer goods, especially in the packaged department.

For as time marches on, the consumer becomes more critical and we hope the manufacturers are listening to her roars keenly. Anyone who's ever broken a fingernail trying to open a package that says "no open, press here" knows there is still room for improvement.

Suggestions pour in via letter to National Family Opinion, Inc., a Toledo, Ohio, marketing research firm which claims 90,000 homemaker consultants. Some of their suggestions long since have become a reality—such as making unsalted nuts, peanuts and chips for those on salt free diets.

But many still are in the wishful thinking stage. On that

Rate Of Crime Going Up; Women Top List Of Increase

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The statistic is familiar: Rate of crime going up each year.

What is not so commonly known, however, is that the fact that the rate of crimes by women has increased 110 percent in the last 30 years. On the rate of increase, the women outdo the men.

What factors turn a teen-ager or older girl to crime? Edith Derham, who has written a carefully researched book on the "typical" woman criminal, says law enforcement officials, psychiatrists and sociologists have not found all the answers. But they've discarded some of society's clichés—that the woman commits a crime out of passion only, that she does murder only in a fit of rage.

"Some women criminals are as amoral, as calculating as any man," says Miss Derham. "When a woman commits a crime, they (society) will say, 'Oh, women are so emotional.' Well, men are just as emotional."

But the nature of their crimes usually is different. Women tend to avoid crimes in which physical strength is a major factor, as, say, in a second story operation or bank holdup.

"Women prefer the easier situation," Miss Derham continued in an interview. "So you have the shoplifters, the prostitutes, the quiet and conscientious employees of a bank or other business so trusted that they've been robbing-the-bank by manipulating books and balances."

Other additives to food disturb women. One asks "why don't they" stop adding onion to prepared food items such as frozen soups and casseroles.

The latest compilation of why don't they? includes these also:

Package all salad dressings in wide mouth jars to prevent the wasted dressing that never can be gotten out of the bottom of the bottle.

Manufacture an unscented liquid detergent.

Design some sofas and chairs with the elderly in mind. Most furniture is too close to the floor for them.

Package toothpaste in plastic tubes as they do handcream and shampoo.

Superintendents Eye Background, Ability

NEW YORK (UPI) — Put yourself behind the school superintendent's desk. You have four openings.

Among applicants, in this era of non-conformity, are four with teacher's credentials of a good sort and backgrounds of a so-so-usual sort. To wit:

—One is a former leader of a campus riot and a member of the Student Democratic Society (SDS), the organization blamed for lighting the fuse for many a campus revolt.

—One is a black Afro adherent married to a white girl and looking to settle in a nice, middle-class neighborhood and school district.

—Another comes with a torn personal life. This unwed mother who decided to keep her child wants to counsel teenagers.

—The fourth is an art teacher who dresses the part of the Bohemian. He believes in bull session teaching, his record shows.

All of these are "do your own thing" teachers. As a superintendent, would you seriously consider these non-conformists?

The question, increasingly, is one that school people at the high school level are facing—and not-relishing.

The profiles of the four unusual applicants were circulated to 200 public school administrators in a "School Management" survey.

More than 75 per cent of administrators responding to the education journal survey rejected the four young teachers with "non-conforming backgrounds"—even though each had such qualities as dedication and above average academic records.

Among administrators who would hire the candidates were those who said: "We need this type of honesty."

"I wish more teachers had the guts of their convictions," he said. "He has the kind of characteristics that would allow him to tell it like it is—we don't work enough teachers who can work with students and at least communicate."

Reasons cited for not accepting the unwed mother were: "We don't accept the new morality"; "Parents in the community are not quite ready for her kind of counseling"; "We don't need her missionary zeal for changing moral standards of the community"; "The Bohemian artist would be turned down for the following reasons: 'I want upright, stable citizens, not a crowd of nonconformists'; 'His social pattern strongly suggests interest in, and a background of, narcotics.'"

The student revolt leader was cited for the following reasons: "I have enough trouble without sponsoring a student riot"; "We don't want a possible agitator."

The Afro-American married to a white girl would get the "no" sign for these reasons:

—We have 30 per cent colored teachers, but this community is not ready for mixed marriages; "Too controversial for our community"; "Despite the controversy and the reluctance of most polled administrators—to hire—such teachers, 'School Management' said there is a chance that many of these men and women will run into—and quite possibly fight over—the old norms of all reformers, the system. It is beginning to give a little."

BREAK TAKEN — Glenn Perry — Lindell Penner, director of the summer recreation program for about 50 youngsters, reports a one-week break will be taken from June 30 to July 7. The program will then resume.

UNDERBID HAND MAKES WITH CARE
 We don't think much of the South bidding of today's hand. Their cards warrant the bidding of a grand slam.

There are 13 tricks at clubs if the suit breaks 3-2 so it was just as well for North and South that they only reached six.

It was also just as well that South knew how to make 12 tricks against West's five trumps.

three rounds of spades in order to discard dummy's four of diamonds. So far everything was going fine. His next step was to cash his ace and queen of hearts. He had to get them home sometime and he didn't want to take the chance that West might get a heart discard on the third diamond.

Then he led the third diamond. West still had to follow suit but that didn't really matter. By this time South was in full command. He ruffed with dummy's six of trumps and led a heart. It didn't matter which heart he led since he ruffed it with his king of trumps. West was down to trumps by this time and had to undress.

Then South led his last spade. West ruffed with the 10 and South was in the pleasant position of being able to make his contract by either overruffing or discarding dummy's last heart. Actually he overruffed, led that last heart, ruffed with his king of clubs and made his 12th trick with dummy's eight after West took his jack.

What do you do now?
 A—At six spades, your partner will probably go on to seven if he holds the queen of spades. In fact, he has two aces.

 Instead of bidding three spades your partner has jumped to four spades. What do you do now?

trumps. He played dummy's queen of trumps at trick two and stopped to plan the entire play of the hand. He had to cash as many side suit cards as possible before getting around to doing some cross-ruffing.

Furthermore, he wanted to ruff in dummy first. He started by cashing dummy's second high diamond. Then he played

Thackeray Said Wives Have Sense of Humor

BELIEVE the most dangerous animal in the world is the hostess who continually patters about the room filling up half-empty cocktail glasses.

AN INFANT SPECIALIST contends babies left overeating in their playpens tend to stand up too much. This, he avers, is apt to make them bow-legged or knock-kneed.

OF THOSE COUPLES who have been married at least 20 years, one out of every 100 will get divorced, say the statisticians.

IN HIS ADVICE to young fellows on how to select their wives, that great Love and War man William Thackeray said, "Above all, let her have a sense of humor, for a woman without a laugh in her is the greatest bore in existence."

ON A STONE in a graveyard at Oxford, N. H., can be seen the following epitaph: "To all my friends I bid adieu... A more sudden death you never knew in her is the greatest old mare to drink... She kicked and killed me quicker'n a wink." R. R. sentiment.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR DR. MARIE HINRICHS,

American Medical Association

Who coined the word Medicare?—Mrs. Faye Selby, Quincy, Ill.

● The term Medicare was first applied to the Military Dependents Medical Care program in 1956. Conventionally, this became Dependents Medicare and then finally Medicare. With the amendment of the Social Security Act in 1965, a new program called "Health Insurance for the Aged" was initiated. This is still the official and legal title of the program. When it became law, Medicare was used for convenience. The name of the earlier military program has been changed to CHAMPUS (Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services)

FOR JAMES J. ROWLEY,

Director, U.S. Secret Service

Are John and Caroline Kennedy still under Secret Service protection?—Albert J. Cina, Mar- lone, Fla.

● The law provides that Secret Service protection be afforded to minor children of a former President until each child reaches 16, unless it is declined.

FOR RALPH HOUK,

Manager, New York Yankees

Who came closest to hitting a fair ball out of Yankee Stadium?—B.W., Atlantic City, N.J.

● Mickey Mantle came close twice, each time the ball hitting the upper-deck facade in right field.

FOR JACQUES COUSTEAU,

under-seas explorer

What do you and your men on your ship Calypso do with the findings you discover on your voyages?—J. Williams, Pismo Beach, Calif.

● The findings are sent to the Institute Oceanographic located in Monaco, where scientists and archeologists examine them for value and significance. I am its director.

FOR NORMA ZIMMÉR

of the "Lawrence Welk Show"

Is the wardrobe you use on the "Lawrence Welk Show" your own?—Jan Jørgensen, Racine, Wis.

● Sure it's mine, but most of the time the clothes are furnished by the show's wardrobe department.

FOR R. H. COLEMAN,

President, Remington Arms Co.

Why can't guns be coated inside and out with Teflon to prevent rusting?—S. McGuyre, Charlotte Harbor, Fla.

● As would be the case with any other mechanical coating, Teflon would have to be totally free of pinhole leaks to be completely effective. So far, such impervious coatings have been hard to achieve.

FOR WALTER CRONKITE, CBS News

If you had to choose a second career, what would it be?—B. M. Harris, Weott, Calif.

● Law, with an active interest in politics.

FOR JUDGE ROY HOFHEINZ,

President, Houston Sports Association

What was the total cost of the Astrodome? What is the cost of upkeep per year?—Kevin Hinds, Midland, Texas

● Total cost was $45,350,000. Annual operating expense is about $3 million.

FOR TINA COLE of "My Three Sons"

Are the three babies in the show actually triplets, or are they just three babies who resemble one another?—Katherine Dumont, Pepperell, Mass.

● They are triplets: Guy, Gunnar, and Garth Swanson, born Feb. 21, 1968, to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Swanson of Nevada, Calif.

FOR DAVID KENNEDY,

Secretary of the Treasury

How is more money put into circulation as the population increases?—Kenneth Weckmann, Planagan, Ill.

● The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D.C., supplies the various Federal Reserve Banks and branches which, in turn, supply it to commercial banks within their respective districts. When a commercial bank requires more currency, it requisitions new supplies from the Federal Reserve Bank. When a commercial bank has either damaged or surplus currency, it returns it to the Federal Reserve Bank, where it is either retired or supplied to some other commercial bank. Thus, the amount in circulation can be expanded or contracted, depending on public needs.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Chess, Anyone? Chess is a national spectator sport in Russia and the Balkan countries' equivalent to America's baseball. These Budapest chess partners—and their kibitzers—got so intense they had to resort to the swimming pool to cool off. Do Iron Curtain countries realize that this floating, waterproof chess set—like so many good things in life—comes from that bastion of Western capitalism, America? It was made in Racine, Wis., to be exact. At a cost of one dollar per set, it's cheaper than a baseball game and even slower moving.

Big Smallness Whatever happened to the "small businessman"? He grew up into a big businessman, according to surveys. For example, the American Petroleum Industry says a gasoline station operator grossed $76,000 annually in 1950; now he grosses $135,000. There are 219,000 stations, and the industry is busy recruiting more dealers. Shell Oil looked at its trainees recently and found among them former city mayors, police and fire chiefs, college professors, biologists, pro football players—and even a stock broker of two.

Best Friends "The regeneration of friendships or the formation of new ones can bring more joy to marriage," says Dr. Herbert Otto in his book, "More Joy In Your Marriage." Some friendships, however, can be harmful to a couple's happiness. They may have been fruitful in earlier days, but, because people change, have only a negative aspect now. Yet couples are unwilling to cut the old ties—often for fear of offending their marriage partner. "The major function of friendship is to foster mutual growth, and the unfolding of each person's personality," says Doctor Otto. If a friendship no longer does so, the married couple should face marital facts—they need new friends.

Unbraced for Adventure Jagi Gardner, Cincinnati member of four, believes that any day can be a special occasion and mentions many in her new book, "Let's Celebrate." For instance, "Celebrate your kids' coming out of teeth braces with a picnic lunch full of chewy-unchickies—peanut-butter sandwiches, fried chicken legs, and corn on the cob. For dessert, fill a bag with caramel cubes, peanut chews, and a well-wrapped apple-on-a-stick." Check your dentist, too.

No Respect Comedian Rodney Dangerfield complains, "I don't get any respect, especially from my kids (Melanie Bell, 4, Ethan Scott, 8). I am not their favorite on TV. Melanie prefers 'I Love Lucy.' Brian digs Jackie Gleason—even though I write some of his material. The other day Brian came home and asked me when I was going to be on TV next. I was so happy he'd got some good sense—until he explained, 'My teacher wants to know.'"

What Our GIs in Vietnam Are

By Chaplain (Capt.) ANGELO LITEKY as told to Kevin V. Brown

Father Angelo Liteky, a member of the missionary order of Roman Catholic priests known as Missionary Servants of the Most Holy Trinity and a captain in the United States Army, is the first Army chaplain in history to be awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, this nation's highest award for gallantry in action. Father Liteky, who as often as possible accompanied the troops into combat areas, was cited for bravery in Vietnam when a small infantry force was ambushed by a North Vietnamese battalion. Though wounded himself, Father Liteky continually returned to the battlefield to evacuate the wounded or administer the last rites to the dying. As you read this, he is en route back to Vietnam, having volunteered again to be with the young Americans he admires so much.

SOME TIME after I returned home from my first tour in Vietnam I was watching a news telecast of a helicopter operation there.

The tv reporter had gone along on the mission, an attack on a Viet Cong position. His film showed the tring of the rockets and the explosions of the shells when they hit, and toward the end he commented, "Some of these pilots kill for pay, some of them for pleasure."

I sat there appalled, finally convinced of what I had always suspected. There is more than distance separating the fighting man in Vietnam from the people back home.

There is a considerable gap in understanding both him and his motives. And if news stories about young Americans at home and on campus are as unfair and one-sided as some of those that come out of Vietnam, then there is a gap in understanding them here, too.

I believe I can tell you what the young American in Vietnam is really like. I spent a year and half with him. I stood in the same chow lines with him. I walked the same trails into combat with him. I saw him when he was relaxed, and I saw him when he was under the most severe stress any human being can suffer, when he is under mortal attack and friends are dying around him.

I believe I know the young American GI well enough to say that you can be quite proud of him.

I can't blame the newsmen for the one-sided view you often get of our young people. Most of the reporters are honest men doing an honest job, but, as one admitted, "Father, we're in the man-bites-dog business. The exception makes a better story than the rule."

So, in Vietnam, there are more stories reported of Americans firing into villages (where Viet Cong are known to be hiding) and more pictures taken of women and children fleeing from burning buildings. No one shows these same Americans sharing their food and clothing with the refugees. And, at home, I'm sure there are more stories of campus riots and draft-card burners, than there are of young people quietly going about their studies or willingly entering the service.

Yet I can blame the reader and viewer for not understanding this, for not recognizing that any story has to be unusual or it wouldn't get printed. I can blame you further for not distinguishing, even in the stories you do see, between the facts in the story and the opinion imposed on those facts by the reporter. Despite that tv reporter's comment, I never knew any American fighting man who killed for either pay or pleasure. In fact, I doubt if there's an American in Vietnam who wants to kill for any reason except survival, his own or that of others.

What, then, is the American fighting man really like?

There are at least four of them. The first is the professional soldier, the man who has made the military life his career. He is a man of great integrity who believes deeply in his country and his uniform and is proud that America is always the one nation in the world which will rush to the defense of the weak.

If I could sum up this man's attitude in one word, it would be frustration. He's a professional, he knows his job, and he's convinced we could have won the war long ago—and could still win it today, quickly—if he were allowed to fight to win.

Instead, he is working under a "no-win" policy, restricted in the type of operations he can employ, restricted in the areas he can fight in, and sent into battle like a fighter with one arm tied behind him and told to do the best he can.

It's worse on those who are on their second or third tours. The war has gone on so long, and they see no change. There is no win in sight, and men are still dying.

Large areas are zoned off, even in South Vietnam, where no combat activity is allowed. This is largely for humanitarian reasons, to prevent civilian casualties. Obviously, the Viet Cong, who fight by no humanitarian rules, know about them and use them as sanctuaries.

The professional's frustration was best summed up by one commander who came back from a skirmish where casualties were high. His shirt was soaked through with sweat, and, as he sat back against the trunk of a tree, he said bitterly to no one in particular, "We could take those guys if they'd turn us loose."

The second type is the idealist. Not a professional soldier, he's just as convinced that our cause is just, that we're there to stop communism and preserve freedom for the people of South Vietnam, and he's proud to do what his country asks him to.

I remember one in particular who became very upset when he heard of the bombing halt. He felt it would prolong the war even more and upset his plans. He had developed a real feeling for the Vietnamese people and was concerned about the conditions of poverty under which many of them lived and what the ravages of war had done to them.

"I'd stay here and fight for them even if we pulled out," he told me.

The third group is at the opposite end of the scale from the idealist. I guess you could call him the grumbler. He loves his country and appreciates its benefits, but he's not convinced of the validity of our involvement in Vietnam. Many of this type, in fact, are there only because they'd go to jail if they refused. They'd rather take their chances there than suffer through life here with a dishonorable discharge.

The tragedy of this group is that they're the most vocal of all. They

Really Like

The first chaplain to win the Medal of Honor in Vietnam says Americans have much to be proud of this Fourth of July—especially of our young men serving bravely in a seemingly endless war express their gripes out loud, and this can affect some of the less knowledgeable of their companions." One of the more sophisticated would lead lengthy discussions during the lulls, expounding the theme that the only reason we were in Vietnam was to keep the economy going back home. You can imagine the effect this might have on some of the uneducated among them.

The question I was most often asked usually occurred after a battle when someone lost a friend. "What did he die for?" My usual answer was a variation of the Biblical theme, "Greater love than this hath no man, that he lay down his life for another." Without taking sides in the Vietnam controversy, I tried to explain, "He died trying to create freedom for another people."

I'd often get blank stares. It's a hard argument to document in a conflict of protracted warfare, in which progress is slow and the end never immediately in sight.

By far, the largest group of all—I'd guess about 90 percent—are what I would call the typical GI.

This is the average American youth, the kid next door or the boy down the block. This is the next generation. And, based on my experience with him in Vietnam, I have no qualms about the future.

In the most complex of all wars, he is the least complicated element in it. He is quick to smile, eager to laugh, unfailingly friendly, and very open about his life and his plans.

When I'd sit down and share chow or coffee with him, which I did as often as I could, his favorite topics—in just about this order—were his girl friend or his wife or his family, then what he planned to do when he got back to the States—complete his education or get a job. There was hardly any thought about the overall philosophy of the U.S. getting in or out of Vietnam.

He knew he had a year-long tour to serve, and he geared his life accordingly. It was something to look forward to, so that no matter how bad a situation got he knew there was a day ahead when he could get out of it.

It got to be something of a running joke. Any time a man got "in country," as we called it, he could always tell to the day when he was going to get out. I often used this to strike up a conversation with some of them. "How many days left?"

One of them didn't even stop to think, but snapped back, "Five months, two weeks, three days." Then he laughed and looked at his watch. "And seven hours."

In combat, his motives are not freedom or democracy or anything that noble. It's sheer survival. I witnessed that. On one occasion, I saw three men blown up in front of me. My first thought was, this may be my time to go. By instinct, I picked up a gun dropped by one of the fallen men intending to defend myself with it. But, after a few moments, I put it down again, thinking—If I'm going to die, this is no way for a priest to go. So I went back to ministering to the wounded and dying.

They tell me I carried 20 wounded men from the battlefield to an evacuation area that day, and I know I gave the last rites to nearly 30. So they called me a hero, and I stood in the White House while the President of the United States hung the Medal of Honor around my neck.

But, even as I stood there, I could remember those few moments in Vietnam when I didn't feel very heroic, when my first thoughts were of my own death, and my impulse was to use a weapon to prevent it.

This is my major point. I had motivation; a humanitarian commitment. I had something to inspire me to overcome my ordinary mortal instincts that cried out for survival. And I am suggesting that the ordinary GI in Vietnam does not have as much motivation to inspire him. The confusion surrounding this strange war, and the endless arguments for and against it, have diminished his motivation or distorted it so that he doesn't recognize the right or wrong of it. So his motivation is personal, and he thinks mainly of saving his own hide or that of a buddy—and of going home.

And yet, behold this young American. He serves anyway, and he serves honorably, and he serves bravely. This is what I admire most about him, that he can act so well with so little to inspire him.

I am convinced that if this same young American's family, home, or his own country were under attack, you would see a highly spirited fighting man. This basic truth was confirmed for me by a man I know who fought in combat in World War II.

"Father," he told me, "I can remember what is was like in the U.S. before Pearl Harbor. The war had been going on in Europe for more than two years then, and I couldn't care less about it. But if I had been forced to go to Europe and fight anyway, I'd have felt the same way the kids do today.

"But after Pearl Harbor, I could hardly wait to get in. That's the tragedy of this war. These kids don't have a Pearl Harbor to inspire them."

So, as we approach another Fourth of July, and once more renew our patriotism in America, don't wring your hands and ask me what's to become of this country in the hands of the next generation. I think it will be as safe with them as it has ever been with any generation, and perhaps better than with most.

If you need inspiration yourself, as a priest I can offer you the three cardinal virtues.

Keep faith in our American youth. The great majority of them have demonstrated their faith in us and in our country in a war and on a battleground that would test the patience of Job.

Have hope that, with God's help, men of reason can find a way to relieve them of their dilemma, this burden they never caused but accepted with unbelievable patience.

Finally, show charity toward all men, especially the less fortunate and the misguided few who seek reform through lawless rebellion and violence. I believe we still have a long way to go toward developing a human sensitivity toward suffering people right here in our own land.

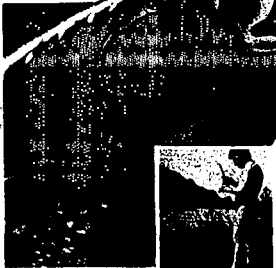

God bless the peaceful reformer, such as Martin Luther King, who risks his reputation and very life to cast light on our faults and to inspire us to seek out the beauty that resides in every human being. ☪

EMILE PLANES

By EMILE PLANES
(AS TOLD TO PAUL STAG)

Here is how I catch more fish than I ever caught in my life before... More fish than I ever dreamed of... and BIGGER fish than I ever suspected possible. Here is how you can catch bass, pike, perch, bream, trout, salmon, crappie, pickerel, walleyes and many, many other kinds of fresh water game and pan fish plus many salt water fish... the same way I do.

Since I invented my fishing lure, I catch so many fish, such BIG fish, and catch them so FAST, people gather to watch me. I've been followed FOUR TIMES in ONE day by a fish warden to find out if my methods are legal. But my entire secret is my fishing lure that's GUARANTEED TO CATCH FISH — or it costs you nothing. Yes, GUARANTEED to catch fish even when other lures or even live bait fails or no coat.

My lure works in lakes, ponds, streams, salt water, saves you time, work, money and disappointment, is ideal for amateurs, experts, trollers, casters, shore fishermen. My lure catches fish differently from anything you've ever seen before in fresh and salt water. Even veteran U.S. fishing guides have been surprised at its astonishing catches. And the French government itself has certified my lure by actual patent as UNIQUE!

them. What I discovered changed every idea I ever had about fishing and fish lures.

Lures Can Frighten Fish Away

I watched UNDERWATER exactly how fish reacted to every lure, live bait, every fishing maneuver and trick used to catch them. I watched fish approach even the best performing lures, even ABOUT TO STRIKE — then suddenly TURN AWAY. Something about even the best performing lures obviously often KEEPS THEM FROM CATCHING FISH. As for the average lure, mostly they seemed actually to BORE the fish — as though they looked to the fish as they looked to me UNDERWATER — shiny, pained bits of metal, plastic and wood. I saw live bait after it was cast turn white and die before my eyes — and saw fish often approach, prepare to strike — THEN TURN AWAY.

Minnows Irresistible

Then I saw the same fish approach actual live swimming minnows and without caution or suspicion STRIKE RAVENOUSLY. I saw the same fish that rejected the lures again and again without caution LIVE SWIMMING MINNOWS. In fact these little minnows seemed to DRAW many fish from a distance — even before being seen.

Why Lures Often Fail

My talks with fish scientists and my own studies convinced me that was the swimming motion of minnows, particularly the swishing tail that attracted many fish. Concluded that no lure I had ever used had SUFFICIENTLY duplicated the living minnow and its motion.

How, I asked myself, could a fish lure be created that would attract fish as the actual living swimming minnows did — and that once attracted would get the same ravenous STRIKE as live minnows — WITHOUT the hesitation, suspicion and FEAR aroused by the lures I saw used?

My Man-Made "Minnow"

After 19 years of study and testing, I have finally created such a man-made "minnow," so like a living swimming minnow in shape, form, feature and motion that fish ravenously STRIKE — without caution — and I catch more fish, bigger fish — faster than ever before in my life.

Because my man-made "fish" looks, darts, wiggles, even "feels" like a minnow... bass, pickerel, perch, trout and many other kinds of fresh and salt water fish attack "voraciously" — within suspicion or fear — even when they're not biting for another fisherman on the lake.

Astonishing Catches Reported

I call my lure VIVIF. Once I perfected VIVIF I started selling them to other fishermen. Soon news of astonishing catches came in — first France — then from other countries.

Yes, from all over come reports of amazing catches — of fish biting where other lures failed of the success, the simplicity, the effectiveness of this VIVIF lure. And what does this mean to you?

Simply this. Now YOU can get more out of fishing than ever before. Now YOU can catch more fish, bigger fish than ever in your life. It is GUARANTEED that you will get at least one penny. It means you no longer need you come back with an empty creel from a long day's fishing. It means no longer need you spend hours of work digging worms and catching minnows or other bait. It means you can save the time expense of continually buying expensive spinners, flies, plugs, bait and lures. It means you can often catch the fish that are not biting on worms, plugs, spoons, canned bait, flies, cut bait or spinners of no cost. It means you can troll, cast, or shore fish with my lure with total success, means you can go out after and come back with large mouth bass, small mouth bass, pike, pickerel, perch, bream, trout, walleye, salmon, red drum, blue bass, blue fish, weak fish and do it time and again over your money with my lure. My lure, VIVIF, is catching fish in 25 countries for delighted fishermen, 3,000,000 VIVIF's have been grabbed up. Already reports from U.S. fishermen say VIVIF is the greatest lure they have ever used. I predict VIVIF will be the world's fastest selling fish lure. But best, the magic power of VIVIF, yourself without risking a penny.

FOURTH OF JULY PICNIC

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ For this Fourth of July celebration, pack your picnic hampers with plenty of convenience foods and drinks along with meat for grilling and pre-prepared vegetables. Choose your picnic site early in the day and enjoy the great outdoors.

Picnic Pointers

Chemical coolants, portable coolers, insulated tote bags, vacuum jugs and bottles assure the safe arrival of perishable foods at the picnic site.

Paper "disposables" such as plates, hot and cold cups; napkins, and towels are valuable helpers, eliminating much of the clean-up job.

Packaged crackers, potato and corn chips, and snack tidbits come in a wide variety of flavors. Tuck several packages into the picnic hamper.

Salad and sandwich greens and crisp vegetable relishes are at their best wrapped or bagged in moisture-vapor-proof material or stored in plastic bags or containers and thoroughly chilled before packing in a tote bag. Take along pickles and olives, too.

Canned baked beans and canned spaghetti are two favorite convenience foods easy to heat at the picnic site. Pack a can opener and a skillet.

Pre-sweetened soft-drink mixes and flavored tea in packets can quickly satisfy thirsty picnicers. Put plenty of packets of favorite flavors in the basket. Keep chilled cans and bottles of noncarbonated fruit drinks, carbonated beverages, and Gatorade icy cold until serving time.

Commercial cookies in bags and boxes are delicious dessert quickies: Include everyone's favorite.

Quantities of marshmallows for toasting over the embering coals at the day's end complete the picnic grand finale.

Glazed Lamb Chops

- 1/2 cup peach preserves
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vegetable bouquet sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 8 lamb chops (rib, loin, or shoulder), cut 1 in. thick

1. Mix preserves, lemon juice, bouquet sauce, and a blend of salt, pepper, and the ground nutmeg.
2. Put into a container, and pack in hamper with a long-handled or small brush and a heat-resistant dish.

Glazed Lamb Chops grilled at the picnic site, baked beans heated on-the-spot, and chilled watermelon make it a picnic de luxe.

3. Have grill hot before ready to cook chops. Put chops and glaze onto grill.
4. Grill chops 3 to 4 in. from coals about 5 min. Turn, salt to taste, and brush with glaze. Grill second side about 5 min., turn, salt to taste, and glaze. Turn and brush frequently with glaze until meat is of desired doneness. To test doneness, slit chops near the bone and note color of the meat.
5. Serve the heated sauce with the grilled chops and vegetable packet. 8 servings

Vegetables in Foil Packet

Measure onto center of an 18-in. square of heavy-duty aluminum foil 2 cups raw carrot slices, 2 cups diagonally cut celery slices, 2 cups green pepper pieces, 1/4 cup salad oil, 2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, and 1 teaspoon chili weed. Seal lightly (bring corners together and squeeze gently). Set packet on the grill and cook 35 min., or until vegetables are tender. Turn edges of foil back and serve vegetables directly from the packet. 8 servings

Salad at the Site

Bring forth plastic bags or containers of chilled greens, other crisp vegetables, and fresh whole tomatoes. Slice tomatoes when ready to serve and accompany with the greens and crisp vegetables. Favorite bottled salad dressings and shakers of Accent, seasoned salt, and pepper are necessary go-alongs.

Do THIS Before You Read The Bible

Reading Holy Scripture, of course, can be an inspiring and comforting practice.

But to get the most out of your Bible reading, you need a solid groundwork of knowledge that the Scriptures do not reveal. For as the New Testament says: "In these epistles there are certain things difficult to understand" (2 Peter 3:16).

The truth of this is manifested by the fact that equally intelligent people often draw conflicting conclusions from the same passages of Holy Scripture. And by the further fact that scholars of all faiths are continually searching the sacred texts to reveal and refine their meanings.

If you would like a better understanding and deeper appreciation of the Scriptures, write for a free copy of our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled: "Introduction to Bible Reading." Its purpose is not to interpret what the Bible says, but to explain how what it says is to be understood. Whether you are a devoted Bible student . . . or just a casual reader . . . this pamphlet will give you the basic principles for understanding not only what the Scriptures say, but what they mean.

It might be argued that the Bible . . . being God's Word . . .

has to be a simple book so that people of all levels of intelligence can understand it. But if this were true, all Bible readers would understand the Scriptures in exactly the same way . . . which they don't.

The fact is, of course, God did not intend that all our knowledge of Him should come from our own reading and interpretation of the Scriptures. In His covenant with the people of Israel, God commissioned the prophets to instruct the faithful in His word. Christ vested the same responsibility in His disciples and His church with the coming of the New Testament.

"Introduction to Bible Reading" gives you a solid groundwork for understanding why the Bible is God's book . . . how it came into being . . . what books it contains . . . and the general principles which should be applied in interpreting it. It also offers samples of some good, modern English translations to help you in your selection of a personal Bible.

For your free copy of this interesting pamphlet, write today. Ask for Pamphlet FM-22. No obligation . . . nobody will call on you.

View from the Top of the Stairs

We groan at glossy photos showing
Those bedrooms keyed to teen-age growing,
Those sharp and groovy sanctuaries,
Designed by dreamy visionaries,
By decorators, so unknowing,
That records all are neatly racked,
The books and magazines are stacked,
All clothes obediently hung
And nothing's ever dropped or flung.
A room one could show with pride—
And totally unoccupied.

—Betty Isler

QUIPS AND QUOTES

"Honey, I'm sending you a box of cookies," a soldier's wife informed him in a letter to Vietnam. When a week passed without the arrival of the box, the soldier, who prided himself on his tact, figured it would reach him any day, so he wrote his wife: "Those were the most delicious cookies I ever ate."

Two weeks later the wife explained in a letter that the cookies had been burned in baking and that she had never sent them. "Who else," she demanded, "is sending you cookies?"

—Daniel Revello

When women play cards, they care less about a good hand than a good earful.

—John Shotwell

A woman walked into a butcher shop and said to the butcher, "That chicken I bought from you yesterday had no wishbone."

The man behind the counter answered, "Madam, our chickens are so contented that they have nothing to wish for."

—Dorothea Kent

Whistle while you work, and you'll make a nervous wreck out of everybody else in the office.

—Dan Bennett

A father lost his temper and, shouting at his teen-age daughter, angrily demanded to know why she had called her girl friend and then had not spoken a word for half an hour.

"She told me to hold the phone," was the teen'er's explanation. "She's having dinner."

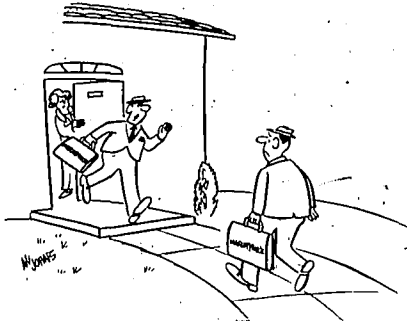

—A. T. Quigg

Moment of Truth

Evaluating her, he thought,
So brilliant . . . so profound . . .
A conversation never could

She read him like a book. She smiled and chose her words discreetly.
"Do tell me more about yourself."
She even said it sweetly.

Revolutionizes Denture Wearing

The big difference between natural teeth and dentures is in performance. Natural teeth are held solidly in place by living connective tissue. Without connective tissue, even the most expensive dentures may slip and rock. Gums often get raw and sore. Constant rubbing may cause serious bone damage. Eating can be slow, painful. You speak less clearly. You are not happy for fear of dentures dropping.

Now chemists have developed an artificial connective membrane—FIXODENT. It connects dentures with gums and mouth surfaces. It is incredibly effective for both uppers and lowers. FIXODENT's elastic membrane absorbs the shock of biting and chewing —helps protect gums from bruising and irritation. You eat faster—bite harder—without pain—enjoy your food more. Eat hard-to-chew foods—steaks, fruit—prevent "denture malnutrition," a problem of older people.

FIXODENT helps you speak easier, faster, more clearly. When dentures slip you hold them in place with tongue and cheek muscles that ache. FIXODENT helps prevent strain.

The special patent-point dispenser spots FIXODENT with precision—no coating over. Often lasts "round-the-clock." It even resists hot drinks. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get special FIXODENT at all drug counters.

AN EXPERT TELLS

How to Make Housework Easier

By JOSEPH H. QUICK

CAN THE HOUSEWIFE modify her business techniques to her daily chores to get more done in less time?

Based on my experience as senior vice president of Wofac Company, management consultants, Moorestown, N.J., I offer the following tips to every housewife who has had to decide which to do first—the breakfast dishes or the beds.

Have a morning timetable. Household mornings are usually hectic, with everyone rushing around while mother tries to keep peace and provide a substantial breakfast. Because of last-minute sleepers, bathroom and breakfast-table traffic frequently jams up.

Stagger the getting-up time, the slowpoke starting first; avoid morning clothes emergencies by training youngsters to lay them out the night before.

Get more help from your children. Youngsters potentially are a source of help, but most mothers complain that they need so much urging that "I'd rather do it myself."

Try the incentive system. If it works in industry, it will work at home. Decide on a fair allowance, and have it understood for what chores it is being paid. Then offer a weekly bonus for doing the work without prodding.

Plan a month ahead. Try the fundamental business technique of planning. The first of every month, with a calendar, map out major chores or projects you want to accomplish—a vacation trip, a child going to camp, redecorating a room, giving a big party. Assign a specific time allotment to each.

As businessmen do, check yourself at the end of the month. If the planned projects were not completed, figure out what went wrong and make a more realistic schedule next time.

Start an efficient file system. Do you make an extensive search for a receipted bill or the vacuum-cleaner maintenance manual? Every home should have an alphabetized accession file, making important records readily available. Cancelled checks, which serve as receipts and should be kept for at least six years, can be stored in a less accessible place.

Paste magazine recipes that you wish to keep on cards and keep them alphabetized in a file box in the kitchen.

Incentives may make children good helpers.

Schedule your leisure time. Realistically calculate the time a bridge game, say, will take, to avoid rushing home to start dinner. With family outings, be initially generous with driving time, then add more to cover the inevitable delays and side excursions which often occur.

To get the most out of public recreational facilities—neighborhood bowling alley or town pool—check with attendants, then plan to go when they are least crowded.

Persuade your husband to take part of his vacation in single days, so excursions can be made on uncrowded weekdays.

Do you and your wife often stay at a party longer than intended, then get a late, tired start for the next day's activities? Agreement on departure time beforehand will avoid this, and the next morning will start easier and happier.

How to do your chores faster. One of Parkinson's Laws say that a given job will expand to take all the time allotted to it. Production managers have learned how to get around this phenomenon. You can profit by their technique.

Think of your working day as divided 15- or 30-minute segments. If you decide to do the breakfast dishes between 8 and 8:15 and the beds between 8:15 and 9, the jobs will get done in the allotted time. Otherwise it will go to wander, without finishing any one job.

Why not try some of these proved techniques that help your husband to accomplish more in less time on his job? *

1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups (15 oz. can) Borden Eagle Brand® Sweetened Condensed Milk
1/2 cup RealLemon Reconstituted Lemon Juice

2 eggs, separated
3 tablespoons sugar

1. Combine Corn Flake Crumbs, the 2 tablespoons sugar and butter in ice cube tray; mix well. Reserve 2 tablespoons of Crumbs mixture for topping. With back of tablespoon press remainder evenly and firmly in bottom of ice cube tray. Chill.

2. In medium-sized mixing bowl, combine Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk and RealLemon lemon juice; stir until thickened. Add egg yolks; mix well.

3. Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in the 3 tablespoons sugar and continue beating until egg whites are stiff, but not dry; gently fold into Condensed Milk mixture. Spread evenly over Crumbs crust; sprinkle with reserved Crumbs mixture.

4. Place on bottom of the freezer compartment of refrigerator, taking care to allow air circulation around the tray to assure freezing. Freeze 6 to 8 hours or until firm. Cut into pie wedges or bars to serve.

Yield: 8 servings. Note: If frozen very hard, set pan on hot, wet towel for a few minutes before cutting.

Now—Boats You Can Tote Atop Your Car

The trunk or roof of your auto can hold these lightweight boats—some of which can be inflated from the dashboard cigarette lighter

By JAMES JOSEPH

THE BIG NEWS in small boats is "car-toppers," low-cost, lightweight family-size boats that can be carried atop your car or in a station wagon. The new inflatables can even be hidden away in the trunk.

Car-toppers don't even need a boat trailer and can be launched any time. Powered by one of the new mini-outboard motors (1½ to about 8 hp), they are fast. Some will pull water skiers, if fitted with 20 to 35 more horsepower.

Most car-tops boats, complete with mini-motor, cost less than $500. An all-fiber-glass 12-foot one with a 4.8 hp outboard costs $327. Another, an inflatable rubberized-canvas boat that's big enough for a family of eight, costs less than $100. Another $100 buys a 3.0-hp mini-motor.

Here's a quick look at what's new in truly portable boats:

Inflatables. You can inflate these in less than five-minutes, thanks to manual or electric air pumps, some powered from your car's cigarette lighter. Tough fabrics (including nylon impregnated with abrasion-resistant synthetic rubber), built-in flotation, and multiple air cells make inflatables safe even on rough water.

Avon's 12-foot inflatable Redshank—complete with two inflatable seats, a manual inflator, built-in car locks, and sized for mini-motors up to 6 hp—weighs 52 pounds and stows in a duffel bag. Pushed by a 3-hp outboard (weight: 28 pounds), it'll carry four in comfort, up to seven with some crowding. The price: around $500 for boat and motor.

Lidar produces two inflatables, both vulcanized into a single piece without glued parts. The P-3 accommodates 6- or 10-hp motors for speeds up to 22 mph. The P-4 ($589.95) handles a 20-hp motor for speeds of 28 mph, enough for water skiing. Zodiac's 10-foot "Cadet" ($372) weighs 64 pounds (including floorboards and an inflatable keel) and can pack a 10-hp motor; speeds up to 50 mph. It'll pack on your car's roof-top luggage rack.

An economy inflatable is Sears, Roebuck's 12-foot, six-passenger rubberized canvas boat ($69.88), which comes with three adjustable seats, a wooden mount for an outboard motor up to 3½ hp, and an air pump. Deflated and stuffed into a duffel bag, this 62-pound package can be carried atop a car or in the trunk.

Fold Boats. Folding boats—from dinghies to folding sloops—go just as easily atop your car as luggage.

"Stowboat"—made of polypropylene plastic—folds into the size of a surfboard. Stowboat's 9-foot, four-passenger model weighs 55 pounds, can be powered with a mini-motor or rigged as a sailboat, and costs upward of $149 (without sailing rig).

Standard car-topper. Thanks to lightweight materials, boats up to 16 feet or so can be racked atop your car. Station-wagon roofs can usually carry boats weighing as much as 250 pounds. While 100-pound roof loads were once about the limit for most standard cars, marine-type roof racks—which distribute the load—are even that limit.

Handy "boat loaders" make rooftop loading easier and convert your car's roof to a boat trailer. Goodhue Enterprises' roof-attached, crank-up "1-Man Boat Loader" (a boat hoist and car-top carrier in one) can be adjusted to fit any car.

A somewhat less automated "swing loader" that fits on the rear bumper, clamps to the boat's stern and lets you "swing" the boat atop the car is marketed by local marine suppliers for about $20. To use it, your car must be equipped with a standard bumper hitch.

Additionally—as for most car-topped boats—you'll need a roof-mounted boat rack to cradle the hull once you've got it atop. The better hug rack ($25-$40) clamp to a car's rain gutters.

Tie-downs, front and rear, are also a must to prevent road wind from lifting and unsating the boat. A handy tie-down (Goodhue Enterprises' H12-10, $2.95) consists of 10 feet of nylon rope with hooks at both ends and a slide bar that lets you taut the tie-down once it's in place.

For their length, aluminum boats are lightest. Wood or plywood is somewhat heavier and fiber glass heavier yet. But fiber glass is strong and easiest to maintain.

Super-lightweight is Appleby's 16-foot Custom Car Top, a four-seat aluminum craft ($177.50 with extruded aluminum gunwales) that's sized for outboard motors up to 10 hp and weighs just 105 pounds.

This inflatable canoe converts to a sailboat.

Another family lightweight is Crestliner's 14-foot Commodore, a handsome aluminum craft that'll pack a motor up to 35 hp, weighs 225 pounds, and costs about $385.

Next, there's the transparent Glasshopper-9. Its glasslike hull (made from ¼-inch thick see-through cellulose acetate that's transparent as a window pane) gives you total visibility beneath the boat. Glasshopper, which weighs 125 pounds, is powered by a 10-hp motor, that goes 21 mph. Price: $340.

If it's speed you want in a car-topable, consider the Hydro-Cycle's 9-foot Barracuda with a 35-hp motor. Capable of speeds to 35-mph and more, this fiber-glass boat can pull two, even three skiers, yet weighs just 215 pounds.

For sailing buffs, there's AMF Alcott's trim, car-topable 14-foot fiber-glass Flyingfish, with built-in flotation, a flexible fiber-glass mast, and sail area enough (120 sq. ft.) to make her go in light breezes. Flyingfish weighs a little over 200 pounds.

The Lidar Samson is an inflatable canoe that converts to a sailboat ($264.95). It's 10 feet, 8 inches long and carries two adults.

For the serious angler, Sears, Roebuck offers Gamefisher 12—a 12-foot fiber-glass car-topper with a built-in insulated ice or beverage well, two built-in rod holders for trolling, and molded-in rod grooves and "tune keepers" to keep things fishable and shipshape. The boat ($209 in some Sears catalog specials), weighs 112 pounds.

Car-topping your boat is all for fun—and convenience. * supplies an income of up to $300.00 a month for as long as six months when accidental injury keeps you from working.

PAYS BENEFITS FOR CANCER AS SOON AS DIAGNOSED. YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE HOSPITALIZED TO COLLECT!

Accident/Cancer has an "early warning" feature to help destroy cancers as soon as they are detected. Many families shy from knowing the worst for fear of expenses, from the knowledge that their health insurance protection is inadequate.

With Accident/Cancer you can get paid even before treatment. You get as much as $2,500.00 immediately, as soon as cancer is detected. This way you know you have the cash for treatment the minute there's a hint of cancer. You won't avoid checkups, and your fears of cancer can be minimized because so many cancer cases can be cured!

You get the following lump-sum cash payments for each of these forms of cancer: $2,500.00 for leukemia; $1,000.00 for internal cancer; $250.00 for each lip cancer, up to a maximum of $500.00; $65.00 for each skin cancer, up to a maximum of $650.00.

You use your tax-free benefits as you see fit, for hospital bills, surgery, cobalt treatments, for doctor bills, for medicines, or for any other purposes you choose.

Yes, by concentrating on the most wanted forms of protection, Mutual of Omaha's Accident/Cancer gives you unprecedented value...so much for so little.
