Soviet Writer Assails Chinese 'Betrayal'

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS

MOSCOW (UPI)—Communist China is joining the United States and West Germany in a plot to contain the Soviet Union, Soviet foreign affairs analyst reported Wednesday.

"This is not simply a question of (Chairman) Mao Tse-Tung betraying Marxism," wrote the analyst, Ernest Gentry, "from the international point of view, the crime that has been committed by the Peking clique has no equal in history."

Gentry's article was published in the Soviet Literary Gazette but, because of publication schedules, was prepared prior to the exchange of Soviet and Chinese protests over another incident in their borders Tuesday. The Soviet news agency Tass, in an official comment on the latest clash in which one Russian was killed, said the Chinese "clearly premeditated" the attack with the aim of intensifying anti-Sovietism in China.

Gentry, referring to earlier border clashes between Soviet and Chinese troops, said the Chinese "has been directed at containment of the Soviet Union since the Bolshevik Revolution of 1918 and currently was being most actively pursued by the United States and West Germany which he described as the "most hawkish hawks."

"This time, Mao has joined the game," the analyst wrote. "Treachery of such a kind goes beyond the boundaries of ideology. In history, there has never been such an example of treachery as the treachery of Mao Tse-Tung, the most dreadful in history."

Gentry charged that Mao's ultimate ambition was to build an empire of all Asia by cooperating with Western forces against Russia.

Tass reported that a Russian boatman was killed and three others wounded when Chinese ambushed a Soviet navigation team Tuesday on Goldeneye Island in the Amur River.

In a broadcast Monday night, broadcast monitored Wednesday in Hong Kong, said a protest was delivered to the Soviet embassy in Peking charging that Russian soldiers fired at Pa Ta Island in the Amur River by boat and burned civilian houses and fired on Chinese, before being driven away by military forces.

Pa Ta and Goldeneye Islands are the same.

TWO PEOPLE WERE ADMITTED to Gooding County Memorial Hospital Wednesday night following this accident in Boise. The Chevrolet above was demolished in the collision, about 9 p.m. Admitted to the hospital were Doris Karr, Rupert, and Gary Kenyon, Klenfeld. Rupert was taken to the hospital by ambulance, but was not hospitalized. The conditions of the victims was listed as good Thursday.

Midwest Battles Floods

U.S. Tells School Units To Merge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon Administration took a new tack today in its steady assault on school segregation by asking for consolidation of all-white school districts with all-Negro districts in Arkansas.

The 10th federal school desegregation action this week in what appeared to be a concerted effort by the administration to counter unfavorable reaction to last week's relaxation of September integration deadlines and substitute stepped-up integration deadlines.

U.S. District Judge N. Mitchell announced the new suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Ft. Smith, Ark., against Bright District No. 6 and the Miller County Board of Education.

The Bright-Star District, District No. 29, is a school district which each district operated only one school with pupils and staff of a single race.

The Bright-Star District school with nearly 200 white students and 10 white teachers is "highly irregular in shape but excluded residential areas populated by Negroes (the Justice Department suit said, it said Miller County District with about 100 Negro students and eight Negro teachers was composed of "two separate and noncontiguous areas."

The government said both white school districts were in January that the department felt they were in violation of the 1964 civil rights act. The government said it had foregone federal funds while the Negro district continues to receive federal aid.

The suit asks that the education provided to the Negro children fell substantially below opportunities provided to the white children.

The government sought a court order requiring the two districts to establish a unitary school district and to provide equal educational opportunities to all students in the same geographic area without regard to the student's race or color.

The government has intervened in this type of suit before but has never brought one on its own.

'Thick' Rainfall Reported

By United Press International

Some thick rainstorms have caused rivers and streams in parts of the Midwest to approach or exceed levels reached during the disastrous spring floods of 1965.

Flooding has become a major concern in parts of Iowa, Missouri and Illinois after what the weather bureau called "frequent and recurring" rains in the Mississippi and Missouri River systems.

A six-hour period ending early today, St. Louis, Mo., was swamped with 1.29 inches of rain in an hour. Ten miles southeast, in a five-hour period, at Belleville, Ill., other scattered showers occurred in the Southern Rockies, the Upper Great Lakes, the Central and northern Plains and the Great Coast.

But it was the Midwest which was most sodden—as it has been rolling in since late June. Winds of 120 miles an hour screamed through Lawrence, Kan., Wednesday reducing visibility to zero as a torrential downpour fell. The monsoon-like condition was part of a storm which swept from Lawrence to Eudora, Kan., to Hays, Mo., to Kansas City.

The Iowa River, reached above the 187-foot level at Madison, Iowa, breaking a 51-year record.

The Cedar River was spilling out of its banks at Waterloo, Iowa, rolling in a flood across U.S. 218. Most of the floodwater was under three feet of water, forcing hundreds out of their homes.

The Mississippi River was in flood from Keithsburg, Ill., to Cape Girardeau, Mo. The falling of water rose above 47 feet in a 21-foot crest due to two weeks of floodwaters closed U.S. 50 near Lebanon, Ill.

The Missouri and Southwest continued having the mildest weather—in the 60s and 70s—and the problem at Houston, Tex., was a lack of water. The City Council, faced with Houston's most severe water shortage after a long drought, banned the use of water on lawns and lawns. The city also banned no lawn-watering or auto-washing in the nation's sixth largest city.

City To Start Park Work At Dierke's Lake

The access road to Dierke's Lake will be closed next week according to Howard Johnson, Twin Falls City parks superintendent.

The city has taken out a one-year lease on the Dierke's Lake property from the state for $25,000. City officials have plans to make the area one of the top recreation spots in the state.

Mr. Johnson said the area will be completely redeveloped and there will be certain areas for swimming, boating and fishing. He said they will also equip the area with picnic tables, camping and trailer parking.

John Miller, city engineer, and his department will work this summer, doing surveying and setting the design and plans for the park. He said the first construction will be the road construction. Actual work on the access road will probably not begin until this winter, Mr. Miller said, because they will need heavy street equipment which will not be available until then.

City Will Report On Traffic Safety

Mark Gibson, Boise, Idaho Traffic Safety Control, will meet at 1 p.m. Monday with city officials to discuss traffic safety plans for Twin Falls. They will meet at the city hall.

Mr. Gibson was in Twin Falls several months ago and presented an analysis and program for Twin Falls and compared it with other cities in Idaho. In a written report, the study was compiled by the National Safety Council and the State Traffic Commission, based on 1968 information.

Attending the meeting will be: Herd Derrick, city manager; Jean Miller, city engineer; Frank Barrett, chief of police, and George Bennett, city councilman.

Mr. Miller said the city officials have been studying these reports and have already made several changes and recommendations for changes. He said some additional crosswalks have been painted and the city has issued the traffic signs and signs. Mr. Miller said his department has also studied railroad crossing protection.

One man from the city engineering department has been developing a traffic accident map. Mr. Miller said this will be updated every six months to enable the police and engineering departments to see where the traffic accidents occur most often.

The city also has determined the action of the manual driving with traffic controls for Highway Construction and Maintenance should be included on all street construction contract specifications.

Mr. Gibson will discuss the changes with the city officials and possibly make some recommendations.

Leak Discovered In Apollo System

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A leak was discovered in Apollo today but a space agency spokesman said it was not expected to delay the start of the lunar landing countdown tonight.

The problem was in Apollo 13's booster rocket. Technicians were ordered to check the rocket's huge fuel tanks to correct it.

The Longview Paper Co. is building a $30 million container plant with full employment of 30 to 35 persons.

A new $250,000 indoor theatre to be built near the Motor-Vu Drive-In.

Construction completed, Bank of Idaho building.

And the Kimberly Regeneration of public homes by Reginald Jones, Inc., which plans employment of 23 persons, and plans for employment of 57 more.

According to Mr. Thompson, the city is planning a $1 million project to build a hotel facility in Twin Falls with a 1970 payroll of 100 and a 1971 payroll of up to 500.

State, Valley Seen On Brink Of Big Boom

A Mountain States Telephone Company executive said Wednesday that Magic Valley and the state of Idaho are "on the threshold of the largest business expansion in the history of the state."

Frank Bromley, Idaho commercial marketing manager for the utility, told Twin Falls businessmen that the Twin Falls area "seems to be coming alive" for the first time in its history.

Two other Magic Valley areas were singled out for commercial growth. Burley and Yachium areas, but the remaining areas of the valley were described as having "no substantial business expansion."

Mr. Bromley said the upturn in the Twin Falls area is "not a fluke. It is a part of a nationwide home construction boom." He said the state of Idaho is "on the threshold of the largest business expansion in the history of the state."

Mideast Arms

PARIS (UPI)—President Georges Pompidou said today France may partly lift its arms embargo on Israel.

France had no immediate intention of lifting its arms embargo on Israel, but he indicated that the country might do so in the future.

Pompidou, in his first press conference since his decision to resume a firm's shipments to the Middle East, was taken over by shipping weapons there.

Casualties Diminish In Viet War Lull

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. military said today that fewer Americans were killed in action last week during the lull in battle—the lowest 419—since the war began in 1964.

Military spokesmen said the level of fighting remained low Wednesday except for a North Vietnamese ambush that killed four Americans and wounded 11.

The attack was reported by the military on Tuesday. The military said 27 dead, 100 wounded and 100 captured.

Allied military analysts still are divided on whether the lull is a new wave of surprise attacks were in the making.

The spokesman of State William P. Rogers has said if the battle lull continues, "corresponding drops in U.S. casualties, the military spokesmen said, would begin this week could be expected.

First Gun Control Charge Filed Here

Magic Valley's first complaint involving a violation of the new federal gun control act was filed against a Twin Falls man Wednesday.

Phillip Cullinan, 42, Monroe St., was charged by officers of the Internal Revenue Service. He allegedly purchased a rifle in February, records show.

Federal officials obtained a search warrant and searched Mr. Cullinan's home, but failed to find the weapon, it was reported.

However, Mr. Cullinan was still charged. He was arraigned in U.S. District Court by Turner Wednesday.

The complaint alleges Mr. Cullinan has been ordered committed for mental reasons on three occasions. It further alleges it is a violation of the control law for a person ordered committed to possess a firearm. The law went into effect last year.

Mr. Cullinan waived a preliminary hearing when he appeared before Commissioner Turner. The case has been turned over to U.S. District Court.

Mr. Cullinan is free on his own recognizance pending his appearance in the federal court.

Commissioner Turner said it is the first federal gun control case to come before him since the law went into effect last year.

Reportedly, federal officials are checking gun stores in Magic Valley for violations, then comparing these sales with records at police stations, sheriff's offices and local courts.

Valley Hearings Due On Idaho Extension Service

Public study sessions on the new Agricultural Extension Service will be held in Magic Valley today.

Rep. Claborn, Twin Falls, announced today.

The study was authorized in the new legislative act and is being conducted by the Legislative Council.

Rep. Claborn, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, leads the subcommittee for the extension service study.

The first valley meeting will be at 10 a.m. in the Gooding County courthouse. The next will be Aug. 6 at the Jerome County courthouse, August 13 at the Blaine County courthouse and the final meeting will be August 20 at the Twin Falls County judicial building.

All meetings will be at 8 p.m. and all legislators in the areas concerned are urged to attend the sessions.

Members of the study subcommittee are: Rep. Claborn, Rep. Dennis Arzen, Cottonwood; Rep. Walter Carr, Emmett; Rep. Virgil Parner, Nampan; Rep. Helen McKinney, Salmon, and Rep. Clifford N. Seabury, Lupa.

Senators on the committee are: Sen. Reed Hudso, O'donoghue; Sen. Cecil Sandberg, Blackfoot; and Sen. James E. Rasmussen, Burley.

Rep. Claborn is chairman of the study subcommittee and Sen. Hudso is vice chairman.

Claborn said the legislative committee has decided to hold joint meetings to get views and recommendations on changes that are necessary for the extension service. It to be continued.

Roofers Union Ends Walkout

BOISE (UPI)—Members of the Southwest Idaho local of the Roofers Union were back on the job today.

They voted Wednesday to accept a contract offer. Frederick Smith, president of the Idaho Employers Council, said the striking roofers accepted the offer, which was made Tuesday after a negotiating session arranged by a federal mediator. The roofers had been on strike since June 1.

The new three-year contract provides for $1.75 per hour raise during the life of the contract plus 11 cents per hour in fringe benefits.

Rep. Stephen March, California, (UPI)—Communist students marched from a rally at Calicut University Wednesday and raided four newspaper offices, smashing furniture and windows and overturning cars and trucks owned by the papers.

Found Dead

METCHUM, Mrs. Frank McMaster was found dead in her bed in a blazing bedroom Thursday morning.

Mrs. McMaster, who works for the McVesters, was feeding the horses and saw smoke coming from the house. She ran next door to the House-B. Kuhnlein home and had them call the fire department.

Her Mr. Kuhnlein and another man, whose name was not reported, then ran to the McMaster home where they found Mrs. McMaster's body and carried her outside. Mr. McMaster, a guide at Red Fish Lake Lodge, was not at home.

It was not known how the fire started or whether it caused Mrs. McMaster's death.

Heyerdahl Nears End Of Voyage; 'Escort' Sails

KRISTIANSTAD, St. Croix, Virgin Islands (UPI)—A converted trawler headed east today to meet Thor Heyerdahl's ship on the last leg of her transatlantic voyage.

Heyerdahl, a Norwegian scientist-explorer who wants to show that ancient Egyptians could have reached South America, is scuttled for the escort after he skinned his lifeboat and carried the last nine passengers on board to support a sagging stud.

The 74-foot twin diesel powered ship, the last of the expedition today at Fort de France, Martinique, and proceeded east at nine knots to rendezvous with Ra.

Tight Allotments On Beets Backed

Four Magic Valley men, all Idaho representatives of the National Sugar Beet Growers Federation, backed a beet acreage allotment hearing in San Francisco July 23.

Jack Claborn, U.S. House of Representatives, Idaho 2, National Sugar Beet Growers Association, said Wednesday the State representatives are expected to favor a 1969 beet acreage allotment of 1,000 acres of sugar beets.

The informal hearing will be before officials of the Department of Agriculture.

The representatives are Mr. Claborn; Leon Pickett, Murietta; Clyde Greenwell, Paul; and Albert Johnson, Pocatello; will also attend the meeting. Mr. Claborn said that the 1969 crop of sugar beets will be a very large crop and will result and the growers will share in the storage cost of the excess sugar.

LOOKING OVER THE marsh area which will soon become a lake at Camp T. E. Roach are Dean Wirsching, left, and Donald Grove, members of Troop 65 sponsored by the First Christian Church. The area is being dammed to form a lake for Scouts to fish, boat and canoe. Robert Erkins, Snake River Trout Farm, has volunteered to stock the lake with trout.

'Close In' Scout Camp Nears Completion

Camp T. E. Roach, which will accommodate Scouts nearby the year around, is nearing completion.

The land, which is opposite Babbar's, on the Snake River below Buhl, was given to the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, for a camp site by the Idaho Power Co.

Don Gleed, Scout executive, said one of the major projects—that of building a road into the canyon—has been completed. Several other die projects are also under way at the camp. A pipeline is being installed to bring water from a spring on the canyon wall.

The dome building, which will be used for training sessions, is nearly finished. This work is being done by Stan Vandenberg and funds for the structure were donated by the Kimberly LDS Church.

A dike is being built to dam off a swamp area which will provide hunting and fishing enjoyment for the Scouts. The concrete has been poured for protection platforms which will be cooled and used by the Scouts for special presentations. There will also be a small open-air chapel.

Gleed said sanitation facilities also will be built this summer. He said there will be a special grand opening Sept. 20, when all the construction will be completed.

From a nearby road and lend a true outdoor away-from-everything atmosphere.

The camp has been under limited use for the past year since the construction began. Mr. Gleed said it would not be in full use until the sanitation facilities are installed.

Several Scout troops made a trip to the camp last fall and planted evergreens in the area. Mr. Gleed said the bare areas will be seeded with a wheatgrass this summer.

The Scout executive said many Magic Valley residents have donated time and money for the camp construction. He said the most activity can be

Campus Riot Bills Will Hit The House

Magic Valley's Home Newspaper
Thursday, July 10, 1969
PHONE 733-0931

WASHINGTON—At least two House members are ready and waiting to vigorously press bills cracking down on student disorders more harshly than the measure narrowly shelved by the Education and Labor Committee.

Sponsors of these tough bills are Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, and William Harsha, R-Ore., author of the pig o' hole "moderate" measure, intend to offer it "as the parliamentary situation permits" as an amendment to some other bill on the floor of the House.

Undeterred by her setback in the committee, of which she is second-ranking member, Mrs. Green is determined to put her legislation "directly" up to the House for a showdown vote. Scherle and Harsha are equally resolved to force House action on their rigorous bills.

Our Scherle amendments aimed at campus disturbances already have been overwhelmingly approved by the House. Two were enacted into law by the last Congress. He is preparing other proposals in the firm belief that Congress is in no mood to tolerate more student disorders.

All my amendments were adopted by the House by large margins, said Scherle. "It is very evident that both Congress and the public at large want formal action in this field. The problem with the liberal element on the Education and Labor Committee is that it is incapable of understanding that the American taxpayer, who is supporting education and these student disorders, has a right to be protected against the mindless revolutionary antics of these radicals, malcontents and agitators."

Hostilities on the Sino-Soviet border and their angry and continuing propaganda campaign have prompted an exhaustive reappraisal here of the possibility of a full-scale military confrontation between Russia and China.

In its review, the intelligence community here is well aware that all the final judgments may not have been made. In Moscow and Peking, however, the clashes which erupted this spring and resulted in fatalities on both sides.

It is assumed, for example, that some Soviet hard-liners are favoring further action to teach the Chinese a lesson. That attitude strengthens the hand of the Kremlin leaders who wish to deal with the China problem now, before Peking achieves a readily deliverable nuclear punch.

In the eyes of the experts, a disciplinary move by Russia could involve no more than a major action, localized at the border. It could, however, involve more: an intrusion of Russian forces into China or an air strike against Peking's nuclear production facilities in Sinkiang province.

In that connection, the recent closing of the trans-Siberian railway to civilian traffic has been the subject of much speculation among observers.

Committee insiders attribute the scuttling of Mrs. Green's bill to three Republicans, two of them secretarial aspirants, and one Democrat, as follows: Representative Carl Perkins, D-N.Y., chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, who strongly encouraged Mrs. Green to offer her measure. But at the last moment, in the closed-door caucus meeting, he switched and sided with the opposition.

He has given no reason for this abrupt volte-face. Representative William Steiger, R-Wis., who co-sponsored the Green bill and supported it until shortly before the final backstage vote. Serving his second term in Congress, Steiger is a politically ambitious and his eye on the Wisconsin governorship. Like Perkins, Steiger has made no explanation of his somersault on the Green bill.

Rep. Marvin Ech, R-Mich., another co-sponsor of the Green bill. His executive session flip-flop is credited to pressure from officers and faculty members of the University of Michigan which is in his district.

Rep. Gordon Reid, R-N.Y., former publisher of the New York Herald Tribune. Peking-inspired embarrassment.

In the eyes of the experts, a disciplinary move by Russia could involve no more than a major action, localized at the border. It could, however, involve more: an intrusion of Russian forces into China or an air strike against Peking's nuclear production facilities in Sinkiang province.

WASHINGTON—At least two House members are ready and waiting to vigorously press bills cracking down on student disorders more harshly than the measure narrowly shelved by the Education and Labor Committee.

Sponsors of these tough bills are Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, and William Harsha, R-Ore., author of the pig o' hole "moderate" measure, intend to offer it "as the parliamentary situation permits" as an amendment to some other bill on the floor of the House.

Undeterred by her setback in the committee, of which she is second-ranking member, Mrs. Green is determined to put her legislation "directly" up to the House for a showdown vote. Scherle and Harsha are equally resolved to force House action on their rigorous bills.

Our Scherle amendments aimed at campus disturbances already have been overwhelmingly approved by the House. Two were enacted into law by the last Congress. He is preparing other proposals in the firm belief that Congress is in no mood to tolerate more student disorders.

All my amendments were adopted by the House by large margins, said Scherle. "It is very evident that both Congress and the public at large want formal action in this field. The problem with the liberal element on the Education and Labor Committee is that it is incapable of understanding that the American taxpayer, who is supporting education and these student disorders, has a right to be protected against the mindless revolutionary antics of these radicals, malcontents and agitators."

Hostilities on the Sino-Soviet border and their angry and continuing propaganda campaign have prompted an exhaustive reappraisal here of the possibility of a full-scale military confrontation between Russia and China.

In its review, the intelligence community here is well aware that all the final judgments may not have been made. In Moscow and Peking, however, the clashes which erupted this spring and resulted in fatalities on both sides.

It is assumed, for example, that some Soviet hard-liners are favoring further action to teach the Chinese a lesson. That attitude strengthens the hand of the Kremlin leaders who wish to deal with the China problem now, before Peking achieves a readily deliverable nuclear punch.

In the eyes of the experts, a disciplinary move by Russia could involve no more than a major action, localized at the border. It could, however, involve more: an intrusion of Russian forces into China or an air strike against Peking's nuclear production facilities in Sinkiang province.

In that connection, the recent closing of the trans-Siberian railway to civilian traffic has been the subject of much speculation among observers.

Committee insiders attribute the scuttling of Mrs. Green's bill to three Republicans, two of them secretarial aspirants, and one Democrat, as follows: Representative Carl Perkins, D-N.Y., chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, who strongly encouraged Mrs. Green to offer her measure. But at the last moment, in the closed-door caucus meeting, he switched and sided with the opposition.

He has given no reason for this abrupt volte-face. Representative William Steiger, R-Wis., who co-sponsored the Green bill and supported it until shortly before the final backstage vote. Serving his second term in Congress, Steiger is a politically ambitious and his eye on the Wisconsin governorship. Like Perkins, Steiger has made no explanation of his somersault on the Green bill.

Rep. Marvin Ech, R-Mich., another co-sponsor of the Green bill. His executive session flip-flop is credited to pressure from officers and faculty members of the University of Michigan which is in his district.

Snake Bite

A medical research team in Salt Lake City has come up with a new snake bite vaccine that just might be the answer to a lot of prayers. This is of interest to people in Southern Idaho. Our desert might well be the rattlesnake capital of the world. And a rattlesnake bite is one of the worst kind.

What this research team has done is come up with a vaccine that makes the deadly rattlesnake bite almost harmless.

Although only a small number of people die each year from snake bites (15 last year) more than 7,000 are bitten a year and each person suffers terrible pain and more than half face the loss of an arm or leg.

A snakebite damages the body tissue it infects and in too many cases poor first aid treatment in connection with snakebite results in additional damage.

A tourniquet applied too tightly and too long, for instance, can cause the loss of a limb. On the other hand if first aid action is taken the victim can die within hours of the bite.

Physicians recommend a snakebite victim be forced to remain calm. A tourniquet should be applied, but not tight. An attempt should be made to extract the venom from the site of the snakebite. The trend now is to let the bitten area bleed freely rather than suck the venom from the wound.

Once these measures have been taken, the practice has been to administer an anti-venom, which has been processed from the blood of a horse.

New Employees

Postal officials have announced their intention of hiring in the near future 11 new employees at a cost of $563,000 each. These are not the usual kind of employees, obviously. They consist of little more than an electronic eye—a computer brain and a mechanical arm.

Although they may not be on the job for year, they already have been given a title—optical character reader. What these devices are designed to do is optically scan the mail and sort it at a rate of 43,000 pieces an hour by reading the zip code.

When built, they will be sent to 10 branches in different areas of the country. At the specified rate of speed, each machine is supposed to sort as much mail as 20 human handlers. Speed may be in the Chinese favor, but some other factors are not.

The initial devices will be able to read only zip codes which are typed or printed. They cannot read handwriting, although the Post Office hopes to overcome that obstacle in future designs.

And that high unit cost would pay the salaries of the 20 men displaced for several years, and there is no estimate of what additional costs would be involved in operators or other personnel required to maintain the equipment.

What about down time? When human handlers run out of mail to sort, they are available for other postal functions. The machine will just sit there with its electronic eye turned off and its computer brain gathering dust.

All things considered, like a $5.6 million investment in how to run a postal system—American style.

Why Not A Change?

Things are not so different today than they were back in 1905 in what is now Magic Valley. Today we don't want to change a lot of things. It was the same way back in 1905 and the main object of attack at that time was the Snake River.

Lots of people wanted to change the name but the good old Twin Falls News—then a few months old—threw all its editorial weight behind those who wanted to leave the name of the river just like it was—the Snake River.

“Da, Da”

ANDREW TULLY Sweeping Tax Reforms Needed

WASHINGTON—For their own sake, neither the politicians on Capitol Hill nor those in the White House should presume any longer that they can get away without adopting sweeping tax reforms.

They don't realize the Fed Up Generation has them on the run, aren't they better start looking for work.

The voters will be looking over the Senator's shoulder as it tackles the issue of the current income tax surcharge, which squeaked through the House by a 210-190 vote. They are aware of Capitol Hill but that the 1970 Congressional elections are just around the corner, and it will be rough on the lawmakers who vote for only one tax reform.

Indeed, President Nixon probably has the most difficult job of his life. He will have to lead the Republican Congress next year to ease his arduous path through the legislative jungle. Without tax reform, he'll have to lead the country into the voters' hand. That he feels the pressure is implicit in his letter to the House in which he proposes a new and meaningful tax reform legislation which would reach that chamber this summer.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats led by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana have vowed they will walk away from any measure they can't count on.

"His situation has been brought about by a beautiful gross miscalculation on the part of voters of confining their complaints to the mills and Saturday afternoon barbecues, the voters have directed them, in letters and telegrams, to their representatives on the Hill. It has finally got through, but the staff will not be satisfied with more promises. A second barrage has been first of the kind which one aide described the volume of mail as "almost incredible."

Nixon's switch to a measure of the taxpayers' revolt. A few weeks ago his spokesmen were saying variously that a Presidential tax reform bill would be introduced for submission to Congress next November or early in 1970. Now Nixon has ordered his bill written into the Senate, and he is ready to can the Democrats to the punch, and the political world.

Nixon's success in squeezing the surtax through the House is deceiving. He not only is faced with a Democratic tax reform bill in the Senate, but he is ready to can the Democrats to the punch, and the political world.

"I know what you're going to do," he said. "You're going to raise the prime rate."

"Why did you have to tell me that?" the vice president said as he put his hand on the vice president's shoulder. "You told me that you had the power to raise the prime rate."

"I know what you're going to do," he said. "You're going to raise the prime rate."

ART BUCHWALD Lending Truth

WASHINGTON—You can read all you want to about high interest rates and the problem the banks are having with "truth in lending." But it's only when you try to make a loan these days that you realize how tough the situation is.

My friend, Kahlisher, went into a bank a few weeks ago to make a $1,000 loan. The assistant vice president said, "Yes, I'm sure we can help you. That's fine."

"Now the prime rate for loans is 16 1/2 per cent."

"That sounds a little high," said Kahlisher. "But I'll take it."

"I said that was the prime rate. That isn't the rate you get. The prime rate is for our large clients who borrow over $1 million. Our rate to you would be 10 per cent."

"Wow, they should call that the prime rate," Kahlisher said. "It's higher."

"Don't you know, Mr. Kahlisher, we're not in a laughing mood these days."

"You don't know the kind of bill I've got here. I don't want any money. Our safety is practically guaranteed. I just don't know what we're going to do."

"I know what you're going to do," he said. "You're going to raise the prime rate."

"Why did you have to tell me that?" the vice president said as he put his hand on the vice president's shoulder. "You told me that you had the power to raise the prime rate."

GEORGE C. THOSTON, M.D. Swelling Feet

Dear Dr. Thoston: I am in my early 60s and have been bothered with swelling of my feet and ankles for two years, recently and tests showed nothing.

My feet swell regardless of whether I am sitting, standing, or lying down. The swelling and what is causing it, M.D.R. Valuable as they are, "tests" are not the sole answer to some of our medical problems. Swelling is a prevalent complaint. There are a lot of possible causes. Some will show up readily in tests ordered by your doctor. Others won't.

Land Panel Seeks Federal Grant Of 8.5 Million Acres

By PAUL M. QUINN
BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Land Law Review Commission decided Wednesday to ask the second half of the 40th Idaho Legislature to memorialize Congress and seek 8.5 million acres of federal land as a grant for the Gem State.

The action was taken upon the motion of commission member R.H. (Bill) Young of Nampa following a report by A.B. Curtis, mayor of Orofino and a member of the 25-man national advisory board to the Federal Land Law Review Commission.

Yellowstone Tourists Hurt By Grizzly

PARK. Wyo. (UPI) — Two tourists were attacked by a bear early today as they lay in their sleeping bags in Yellowstone National Park.

Neither of the victims, David Lou, 22, of Los Angeles, and Michael Rock, 23, of Carnegie, Penn., was injured seriously. Both suffered minor head wounds in the attacks and were in satisfactory condition.

Park Rangers were mystified by the attacks, the second of a kind in the park this summer. All three attacks have been at the Fishing Bridge Campground.

He said, however, that Bureau of Land Management officials said at the meeting held recently in Washington that such a grant would be an "out-right giveaway."

"I do not think it is fair," Curtis said. He added that he had told the commission that the 8.5 million acres should be given to Idaho. Curtis said that much of the land, most of it desert, entry land owned by the BLM, could be used to raise potatoes enough at present time to supply itself.

FIRST MAN ON THE MOON

THE APOLLO 11 moon flight will mark America's first moon landing. The special "moon letter" will accompany the astronauts to the moon.

The moon stamp will be issued late in August with first-day cancellation in Washington, D.C. A "first-day cover" issued at the first time hand-cancelled by astronaut Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin will bear a die proof of the commemorative stamp and will carry a postmark reading "Moon Landing, U.S.A., July 20, 1969." # Dissident Priests Force Showdown CHUR. Switzerland (UPI) — About 80 priests who came to this Alpine village to hear their bishops thought about priestly marriage and other pertinent issues marched on the church policy on the clergy's right to marry and become involved in worldly problems.

The confrontation between conservative bishops and liberal priests reflected a debate embroiling the church from lowly parish priest to Pope Paul VI.

If the Vatican and its hierarchy does not resolve the debate soon, a spokesman for the liberal insurgents warned, "The church will die because there will be no more priests after us."

About 80 priests who came to this Alpine village to hear their bishops thought about priestly marriage and other pertinent issues marched on the church policy on the clergy's right to marry and become involved in worldly problems. The bishops, from both sides of the debate, were in the village for a seminar where the extent to which priests should become involved with social issues outside the religious realm. For 10 months the priests throughout Europe have agitated in varying degrees for official sanction for clerical involvement in urban problems and for an end to celibacy for priests.

Miss Lierman, Geren Marry

FILED—The Clover Lutheran Church was the setting for the June 27 wedding which united in marriage Suzanne Lierman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lierman, Filer, and Lester Geren, son of Mrs. Kenneth Buhl and the late Mr. Sherman Geren, Buhl.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. D. Johnston, pastor. Before an altar decorated with brass vases of pink gladioli and white pompons flanked by large baskets holding pink and white flowers and gold candles with pink tapers. The aisles were marked with pink flowers and white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of pear-de-sole with lace designs highlighted with seed pearls. The gown featured a sabrina neckline, empire bodice and elbow-length lace sleeves. The chapel train was enhanced with medallions and edging of scalloped lace.

A ruffled organza cap of flowers held the long train veil of silk illusion. She wore the traditional blue garter and carried a handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Ida Dunningfeld.

Ellen Lierman was maid-of-honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lyle Lierman and Mrs. Beverly Geren. The ring bearers were lighted by Matthew Martens, Buhl, and Tom Mattix, Wendell, cousins of the bride and bridegroom.

Daryl Geren was best man for his brother and groomsmen were Lyle Lierman and Mark Lierman, brothers of the bride. Ushers were John Kaster, Jerry Kaster and the Lierman family. Ivan Schroeder, organist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Roger Clark, soloist.

A reception for 240 guests was held in the fellowship hall. Mrs. Wayne Jagels was in charge of the guest book. Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Jane Lewis, Miriam Martens, Mrs. Pat Kaster, Mrs. John Kaster and Mrs. Carlton Daniels.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Belkman, Fremont, Idaho, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kaster were reception hosts. Archibald Geren, brother of the bridegroom, Springfield, Ohio, was in charge of tape recordings.

The bride's table was covered with pink lace over white satin flounces and was centered with a four-tiered round wedding cake. The pink cherry cake was iced in white and decorated with hearts, doves, wedding bells and pink roses. Real flowers separated the tiers and it was topped with three bells over a heart-shaped background.

The large cake was flanked by heart-shaped cakes and doves and bearing the names of the bridal couple. Pink tapers and arrangements of roses were on the side of the cakes.

Mrs. Arthur Kaster, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Joe Arambert, Boise, aunt of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Donald Martens, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Viola Mattix, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch. Mrs. Lyle Lierman, aunt of the bride, served coffee. Mrs. Reuben Lierman made the oaks.

The bridegroom's table was covered with white satin flounces and white flowers. Mrs. Evann Cox and Mrs. James Guerry distributed the full-wrapped cake gifts. Gifts were made by Mrs. Carl Roland, Buhl.

The couple greeted the 175 guests before a large heart background of satin, lace and flowers. Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with pink lace cloths and centered with bouquets holding floating flower arrangements.

Joyce Mattix, Barbara Gilbrun and Kathy Lassen were in charge of serving. Kitchen assistants were Mrs. Ednor Meyer, Mrs. Hugo Meyer, Mrs. Martha Hartwig, Mrs. David Lutz and Mrs. Leo Gilbrun.

The couple took a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park and Jackson Hole, Wyo. They will reside in Pocatello, where the bridegroom will attend Idaho State University.

Showers honoring the bride were hosted by Mrs. Wayne Jagels, Mrs. John Kaster and Mrs. Lyle Lierman at the home of the bride. The bride was also showered at the Clover School hosted by Mrs. Arthur Kaster, Mrs. Jerry Kaster, Mrs. Walter Kaster and Mrs. Lyle Lierman.

Mrs. Martin Klep and Mrs. Gordon Schroeder hosted a miscellaneous shower at the Koler home and the couple was given a luncheon shower at the home of Mrs. Schrodler home, with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Schroeder as hosts. The bridegroom's mother and stepfather hosted a rehearsal dinner at the R and R Cafe, Buhl.

Moon Trips Return Many Benefits

By DR. I. M. LEVITT

Director
The Felix Planetary Mission to the moon is not a mere scientific expedition. It is a quest for knowledge that will benefit mankind in many ways.

It would also be much easier and far less costly to leave from the earth. The spacecraft could be assembled in lunar orbit and fueled with propellant brought up from the moon. Manned exploration of the solar system is a realistic objective.

This type of device could be erected on the gentle slope of a lunar crater to launch a probe at about one mile per second to achieve lunar orbit. Without atmospheric friction, there is no danger of spacecraft inactivation during acceleration, and it could be launched into space in time, even less cost.

In which our ideas for the exploitation of the solar system would be revolutionized with the conquest of the moon. After the conquest of the moon, then what? Many scientists have pondered the question and a wide variety of proposals and concepts have been made.

The knowledge acquired now in getting a man onto the moon and later in keeping him there will be incredibly vast. It will filter back to the earth slowly and inexorably to affect almost every step we take in the future.

Processes already in commercial use whose origins can be traced to our will to put a man on the moon and preserve his physical integrity while doing so. But these currently profitable processes are minor compared to what will be available in the future.

With the detonation of the atomic bomb, nuclear energy emerged as a power source and today is becoming the dominant factor in our economy. This energy is derived from the fission process—the splitting of uranium atoms. The hope of tomorrow is that fusion of hydrogen will provide the unprecedented amounts of energy needed for the future.

The problems of producing controlled fusion on the earth are almost insurmountable because of the difficulty of maintaining a hard vacuum and the problem of superconducting magnets to guide the plasma. The experiments might be performed on the moon where a perfect vacuum and extraordinarily low temperatures could provide continuously operable superconducting magnets.

If these problems can be resolved on the moon, a new era of energy for the earth with energy from the future from the ultra-clean processes of fusion. This single development might eliminate the problem of air pollution by returning fossil fuels to the petrochemical industry where they belong instead of burning them to release by-products of sulfur oxides and noxious gases.

Revolutionary developments also await the astronomer—observers on the moon. With a 40-inch telescope they would be able to see farther into space than any other telescope. This greater penetrating power could probe the distant galaxies for clues to the shape, size and structure of the universe.

Because the moon has no atmosphere, the astronomer can look into parts of the electromagnetic spectrum denied to him on earth. With powerful telescopes operating in the infrared region, he may be able to detect the faint red stars which whose primary infrared radiations are mostly absorbed by our atmosphere.

The detection of these stars will also affect our concept of the universe, for cosmography, like any quantitative science, depends upon the amount of available data. Obviously, if there are bodies in space which cannot be seen and that can not be taken into account, our picture of our universe is complete and what we do propose cannot bear any relation to reality.

Another basic question is that of other planetary systems and the possibility of other life in the universe. These fascinating aspects of science have been explored from the earth's surface with striking results. Astronomers have found several stars whose erratic motions indicate planetary systems, but none have been uncovered. Observations from the moon may detect other planetary systems to provide basic data for statistical analysis. From this may come the impetus to explore the universe for radio signals from space.

Currently, so much radio noise is generated on earth that it is faintly detectable radio signals were arriving from space it would be impossible to detect them. However, if a large radio telescope were currently operating on the moon's far side so that the 2,100-mile lunar diameter intercepted between the celestial radio signals and the earth, it might be possible to detect such faint signals. The impact on our civilization would be staggering if celestial radio signals were proved to be the product of an extraterrestrial intelligence.

Because of the moon's smaller size, it is possible to excavate an area about one-fifth that of the earth. It should be easy, therefore, to transport payloads into lunar orbit from lunar orbit.

AIDE APPOINTED
KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—Communist China has appointed Wang as ambassador to Nepal, succeeding Yang King Shu who returned to Peking two years ago. It was announced. The post had been vacant since Yang's departure.

CONQUEST OF THE MOON by mankind will advance knowledge in many fields, including astronomy, biology, chemistry, physics and other related scientific disciplines.

Sam Sheppard Relates Ordeal

In Prison Because Of Appeal

By MARGARET KILGORE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Sam Sheppard testified Tuesday he spent nine days in the Ohio Penitentiary "hole" because the state corrections commission wanted to discourage an appeal of his conviction.

After a sensational trial Sheppard was found guilty in 1955 in the slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn, at their home in the fashionable Village suburb of Cleveland. He spent nine years in prison before a court battle resulted in his freedom in 1964 and a subsequent retrial and acquittal.

He appeared before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency, which has been investigating guard brutality, homosexuality, drug traffic and living conditions in prisons.

"I was chained with leg chains, hand chains, chains around the neck and I don't know where all else. I was placed between two doors for six days. The two doors were less than 12 inches apart," Sheppard said.

"There was no food. There was no light and little air and I felt I would suffocate. I couldn't sleep, I would just pass out. I was allowed to wear my shorts, shoes and socks and no toilet privileges and just stood in my own excrement."

"After six days they removed me from the doors and asked me what I thought. I made a rather unfortunate comment about heritage whereupon I was placed between the doors for three more days."

"When I came out my ankles had swollen so large the shoe straps had split and I almost spent nine days in the hole simply because I wouldn't call off (Attorney F. Lee) Bailey and Dr. Steve, my brother."

"Had I done that, Mr. Koblenz told me that I would probably make parole. But that if I didn't do this there would be trouble, trouble, trouble."

Sheppard was referring to Maury Koblenz, the Ohio corrections commission chairman in Columbus, termed the allegations "an outright and absolute lie."

Koblenz said Sheppard spent two—not nine days—in a correctional cell for violations of prison rules. The prisoners received reprimands for most of the eight infractions, Koblenz said. He also said that 12-inch cells were discontinued at the Ohio Penitentiary 20 years ago. He said the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., should make Sheppard pay his charges.

He insisted he had talked to Sheppard only twice during his nine-year prison term, and that only about Sheppard's claim of having cancer and the question of writing and visiting privileges for his "girl friend."

"I never talked to him about his trial, his brother, attorney or any other aspect of his case," Koblenz said.

Sheppard said he was beaten with rubber hoses three times. "I can show you the scars on my back" and that "each beating was centered on attempts to get rid of Bailey, his brother and his future wife, Arlan Tebbenhofman, whom he married a few hours after he was released from prison."

He and Arlan are now divorced, and Sheppard is in private practice in Gahanna, a Columbus, Ohio, suburb.

Sheppard also told of witnessing the rape of a 16-year-old boy by "six hardened criminals" in Cuyahoga County Jail in Ohio and of convicts obtaining morphine from the penitentiary hospital while on duty—two medicines treating patients.

Dale Huffman, a reporter for the Dayton Daily News—who spent three days and nights in the Mansfield, Ohio, prison on assignment, told the senator that "our prisons in Ohio produce more criminals than they correct."

PRINT CONTRACT SIGNED
NEW YORK (UPI)—Latham Process Corp. has obtained a contract from Standard & Poor's Inc. to print the daily blue list of current municipal bond and note offerings distributed to dealers and banks. The list is assembled by telegraphic optical facsimile transmissions, composed and made up by an electronic computer and then printed by photo offset. The publication of 100 to 200 pages is distributed by air.

ABM Foes Plan Effort On Funding

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bipartisan leaders of the long-range ABM bill are planning an antiballistic missile system, predicting victory and rejecting compromise, have planned to introduce an amendment, rejecting ABM funds, research and development.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., did not indicate when they would call up their amendment but predicted it would mark the first major test of the Senate's willingness to reject the bill and would force the House to re-examine the bill.

The $2-billion bill, which would authorize the purchase and development of military hardware, includes $784 million for deployment of the ABM in two sites. A vote on the bill is not expected this week.

The Cooper-Hart amendment would leave intact the $750 million in the bill but would restrict it to research and development.

The latest United Press International Poll shows 48 senators favor and 48 oppose deployment. Four are undecided.

Nixon To Ask Increases In Bond Interest
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury secretary David M. Kennedy said that the Nixon administration would ask Congress to raise the interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent—even on the $5 billion worth of bonds currently outstanding. The Senate Finance Committee, which would be asked to raise the bond's interest rates, more in line with what private organizations pay.

Spotlight On Youth

MICHAEL BURGESS OF TWIN Falls has returned from a week-long high school Red Cross leadership training center held near Spokane, Wash. He is shown here with Pamela Luoma, Culdesac. The students were two of 49 high school students from a three-state area who attended the center. The training offered them a chance to learn leadership techniques. Mike and Miss Luoma were chosen by their high school counselors and local Red Cross officials.

ELAINE AMBROSE, Wendell student has had one of her poems selected from the National High School Anthology for publication in "Sermons in Poetry." The poem was an excerpt from a longer poem, "Revenge," which received a superior rating at the state declamation contest. "Sermons in Poetry" is a compilation of religious and philosophical poems written by the American youth. Miss Ambrose has had five of her poems printed in the publication.

LESTER BOIAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Boian, Wendell, has received an all-expense paid trip to Chicago for the 1969 Danforth scholarship. The three-week scholarship is sponsored by the Ralston Purina Co. and one college student is chosen in each state. Mr. Boian will be a member of the University of Idaho this fall. The tour will end Aug. 30 at St. Louis, Mo.

RELATIVE DIES — Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mott were called to Ontario, Ore., by the death of his brother-in-law, Lem Davis, 56, of lung cancer. Funeral services were held Thursday.

Nixon Presents Medal Of Honor To Widows Of Three Vietnam War Heroes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will present the Medal of Honor, the nation's highest award for bravery, posthumously today to three soldiers killed during the North Vietnamese offensive in the Central Highlands of Vietnam in May 1969.

The wives of PFC Leslie A. Beltrich, Staff Sgt. Frankie Z. Molnar, and Platoon Sgt. Bruce A. Grandstaff, will accept the medals in a private White House ceremony.

All three were members of the 4th Infantry Division's 1st Battalion, 8th Infantry which took the brunt of the massive North Vietnamese attack in the heavily jungled highlands around Pleiku and Dak To during the period of May 18-20, 1969.

The bring to 87 the number of people awarded the Medal of Honor for heroism in the Vietnam conflict.

Molnar, 26, a native of Logan, W. Va., whose widow now lives in Calgary, Alberta, and Beltrich, 27, of San Jose, Calif., distinguished themselves during human-wave assaults on their battalion's position in the pre-dawn darkness of May 20.

When the North Vietnamese force struck, Molnar left his sheltered foxhole and killed five infiltrators while fighting his way to the defense perimeter. He called his squad to block two attacks and then spotted a grenade that was tossed among a group of wounded he was assisting.

"St. Molnar threw himself on it and absorbed the deadly blast to save his comrades," his citation reads.

Beltrich and four buddies were guarding the battalion's defense perimeter from a foxhole along a main avenue of the attack.

He jumped to his feet in the face of the charging enemy and hurled grenades into their midst, scattering them and forcing them to withdraw.

The attackers came again under cover of a mortar barrage. "As he was about to hurl a grenade, a mortar round exploded just in front of his position, knocking him into the foxhole and causing him to lose his grip on the already armed grenade," the citation said.

Beltrich recognized the threat to the lives of his four comrades and threw himself upon the grenade, shielding his companions from the blast that followed.

Although bleeding profusely, he propped himself up in his hole and continued firing until he died from the wounds.

Grandstaff, 35, of Seattle, Wash., was leading a reconnaissance patrol on May 18 when it got hit with heavy fire from three sides. He darted through the bullets to help several wounded men and saved one of them.

Then he rallied his men, set up a defense perimeter and moved repeatedly outside of it in order to direct helicopter gunships trying to hold off the attackers.

His movements attracted enemy fire which left him severely wounded but despite this he overran, and called down artillery on his own head and fought until he died.

"Although every man in the platoon was a casualty, survivors attest to the indomitable spirit and exceptional courage of this outstanding combat leader who inspired his own men to fight courageously against overwhelming odds and cost the enemy heavy casualties," the citation said.

News Of Servicemen

MARINES DISPATCHED
HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Britain has sent 80 Royal Marine commandos to Bermuda as a precautionary measure for a regional black power conference opening Thursday.

A Royal Navy spokesman said Tuesday some 1,300 delegates mostly from the United States are expected at the meeting.

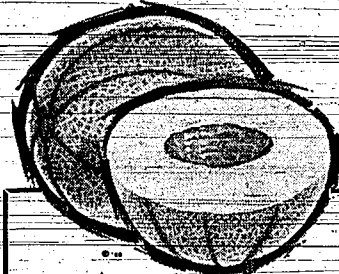

Searcher Appren, Ricky L. Corbett, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Corbett, Hansen, is serving aboard the USS New Jersey participating in the Pacific Midshipmen Training Squadron '69 exercises off the coast of Southern California.

Hospital Corpsman 2c Kenneth E. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wright Jr., and husband of the former Marilyn Gardner, all Murfreesboro, was awarded the Combat Action Ribbon while serving with the First Marine Division in Vietnam.

Young Mormon Missionaries Taste Life 'In The Raw' In Latin American Slums

By MAX JENNINGS
LIMA, Peru (UPI)—He sat forward, his face serious, but with the traces of a smile around his mouth.
 "It was the sharpest family you ever met. They had 10 children in three rooms, but they wanted to give us everything they had."
 It was an experience. Crismon Lewis, a Mormon missionary from Phoenix, Ariz., would never forget.
 He got to know the Catholic family and visited them often in their home. They became Mormons.

three small rooms.
 "When you went in you sat on the mattresses rolled up against the wall," Lewis, 20, said.
 "They had a live turkey in the kitchen and you would have dogs and chickens running between your legs. This turkey in the kitchen well, it wasn't so bad. But we ate it in four Christmases."
 Lewis, one of about 160 Mormon missionaries in Peru and Ecuador, is on his two-year mission for his church. Because of him and many more dedicated young people of the same faith, Mormon influence has grown rapidly in South America. Now the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints claims about 10,000 members in Peru and Ecuador, many if not most of them former Catholics.

 Lewis and his companion, Alan Ballard, 21, of Astoria, Ore., were going to college. Lewis at Brigham Young University in Utah and Ballard at Citrus College in Glendora, Calif., when they decided to go to work for their church.
 They have walked literally thousands of miles, much of it together, telling the people of Peru and Ecuador about their faith. They don't get any pay here you can't think of that kind of poverty in the streets," Ballard said. "You see people urinating on the streets down here—and the things they have to eat."
 Ballard came down before Lewis and has only a few months more on his assignment. Then home.

"It's just one of the things we do," Ballard says. "We've been brought up to go on a mission."
 But when the young missionaries arrived in South America, they admitted their first thoughts were to go back home.
 "When you go in a poor area here you can't think of that kind of poverty in the streets," Ballard said. "You see people urinating on the streets down here—and the things they have to eat."
 Ballard came down before Lewis and has only a few months more on his assignment. Then home.

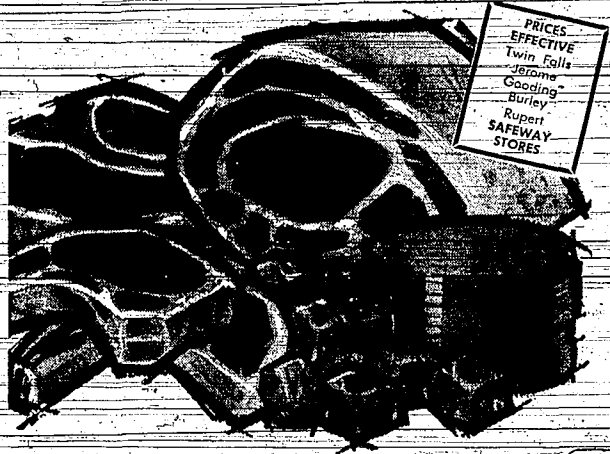

"Right now I'm not even trying to think about home," he says. "Sometimes I get discouraged and things don't go right. But really I don't have a great desire to go home."
 Lewis admits that when he arrived six months ago to work in Bolivia, "I was the most homesick I've ever been. I was very discouraged with the language. It was hard to meet the people. I couldn't talk. But now it's much easier to meet people, and I'm not really homesick at all."
 But he said the Mormons don't date before a mission, and "Gosh, all I can do now is shake hands with a girl."
 For a time Ballard lived in Lima's barriadas, or slums, under conditions almost identical to most of the inhabitants.

 Home was an eight-by-eight-foot room with a bamboo roof, two beds and a movable closet and a dirt floor. The room was behind a little store. He took his meals with the family that lived in the store. There was no shower, no hot water, no toilet, no potatoes and rice, and sometimes a piece of meat at other meals.
 "The toilet had a hole in the floor of cardboard and a flimsy door," he says. It was just a shower. It was just a hole in the floor. He said, "When you wanted to flush it you just turned on the shower."

 "Of course the system had its disadvantages," he said. "I don't know how many bars of soap I lost down that thing."
 Because they have no car, the only mode of transportation other than walking has been by the cheap collective taxis which carry as many passengers as can jam in.
 "This has its disadvantages," Lewis said. "Sometimes you have to sit next to a pig. This happened to me."
 Both young men believe they will take something significant home with them because of their experiences in Latin America. "We're going to have a big-per concept of life. We're going to know more about people and how they feel, and have a greater understanding of poverty and what it means," Lewis said.

 Ballard had about the same thoughts. "I think you go home with a greater outlook on life," he said. "It's how all kinds of people think—not just the people in the U.S."
BOARD TO MEET
BOISE (UPI)—The State Board of Health will hold a special budget meeting Friday at 11 a. m. in room 437 of the statehouse. It was announced Monday.

Icebreaker's Hull Tested For Strength

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI)—How much ice can an icebreaker break before the hull cracks? Battelle Northwest scientists are currently studying this problem here in a project controlled by the U.S. Coast Guard.

Battelle officials said the company hopes to help prevent some of the hull cracking that has occurred in the icebreaker Staten Island when it was in Seattle recently. The ship has been breaking ice in both the Arctic and Antarctic since 1946.

The Staten Island is currently in the icefields of the Bering Sea preparing for a major attempt to ship oil through the arctic ice pack from the Prudhoe Bay oil fields to the East Coast.

Battelle officials said tests on the samples will identify the fracture of failure properties of the hull-plate metal and the behavior of fatigue cracks—how they grow as the ship plows through ice with air temperatures around the freezing mark or lower.

Senate Demos May Curtail Surtax Hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democrats have just about snuffed out President Nixon's hope for speedy extension of the income tax surtax as a symbol of his determination to stop inflation.

The administration warned Tuesday that delay on the House-passed surcharge bill would result in increased inflation, even higher interest rates and possible economic disaster.

But Democratic leaders insisted there would be no vote on the surtax until the Senate was ready to act on overall tax reform legislation.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted it would be late September before Congress could act on the surcharge and "meanwhile the inflationary fever continues to strike its fiftieth flame into the economy."

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, leadoff witness Tuesday in the Senate Finance Committee hearing on the bill, said any hesitation in extending the surcharge would aggravate the inflationary pressure.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would not schedule the surtax bill for a vote until after the bill is ready to go along with tax reform proposals submitted by Finance Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said his committee would make a decision on the surcharge plan only if complete hearings on all tax reform proposals submitted by Long.

Grand Jury Will Be Empaneled In Salt Lake

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A grand jury will be empaneled in Salt Lake County Aug. 18.

Circuit Judge John H. Croft said seven jurors will be drawn from the 4,000 names now included in the jury box. The jurors will be interviewed by Croft and then given cases they will be responsible for investigating.

Under Utah statutes, the business of a grand jury must remain secret until the jurors make their recommendations for indictments or dismissal.

Croft added that state law requires a grand jury hearing be held at least every two years to consider the need for a grand jury investigation.

The seven jurors will have until the end of 1969 to consider their assigned cases.

PLANT CLOSURE ORDERED

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Valley National Industries, Inc. will close its propane processing plant at Ingwood, Calif., early in the autumn. The plant lost $109,000 last year.
