THE APOLLO ASTRONAUTS, along with a team of physicians and observers, will be quarantined for 18 days in this multi-million-dollar facility now aboard the prime recovery carrier Hornet. The six-ton self-contained facility, being loaded aboard the Hornet in top photo, is illustrated below. The astronauts, garbed from head-to-toe in biological isolation garments from the moment they open the hatch of the space capsule, will head directly for the "lark" on the carrier after their recovery Thursday morning. ## Docking Maneuver Completed

By EDWARD K. DELONG
UPI Space Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Leaving their footprints on the moon and their mark in history, America's Apollo 11 astronauts broke free of lunar orbit today and headed home where 15 days of isolation will be their initial heroic reward.

United again in the command ship Columbia, Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins slept soundly as they sped away from the moon after 60 epic hours on and around it.

At 7:30 a.m. EDT they were 26,093 miles from the scene of their triumph and traveling home at 3,016 miles per hour. Ground controllers promised to let the crewmen sleep as long as they wanted after Armstrong and Aldrin safely left the moon in the lunar module, rejoined Collins and fired the big rocket engines to jar them out of lunar orbit.

"You'll have to open up the L.T. doors," Collins radioed as the craft fired at 12:15 a.m. EDT. He referred to the lunar receiving laboratory, an $11 million building here where the three pilots will be quarantined until they are cleared so that no moon germs peck the earth.

A little over 7 hours earlier, Armstrong and Aldrin "trick" down U.S. 11 pilot their Eagle lunar module to a rendezvous and docking with Collins' command ship Columbia.

"How does it feel to have some company?" ground controller Charles P. Duke asked Collins. "Armstrong and Aldrin crawled back aboard."

"Damned good," I'll tell ya," said Collins, who flew the Columbia in a lonely 70-mile search.

Sen. Kennedy Attends Rites For Secretary; Charge Sought

PLYMOUTH, Pa. (UPI)—Miss Kopechne was killed. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, came to this upstate coal mining town today for the funeral of Mary Jo Kopechne, 29, who drowned Saturday when his car plunged into a river.

"How does it feel to have some company?" ground controller Charles P. Duke asked Collins. "Armstrong and Aldrin crawled back aboard."

"Damned good," I'll tell ya," said Collins, who flew the Columbia in a lonely 70-mile search.

A hearing has been set for July 29 in Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., to determine if Kennedy should be prosecuted for an application for a motor vehicle complaint against Kennedy.

The CAB also said it will open an investigation to determine whether Air West, now receiving a subsidy from the government, should continue to receive government subsidy since it is a non-dollar Hughes corporation.

Under the takeover, the airline becomes a division of the Hughes Tool Company.

The order's effective immediately, the CAB said.

The CAB earlier recommended approval of the takeover, saying there was no conflict of interest between the Hughes Tool Company, which manufactures aircraft parts, and the firm's control of the airline.

The Longview Fibre Co., Longview, Wash., has announced it will break ground for a box factory in Twin Falls within two weeks.

In a letter to Herb Derrek, city manager, D. H. Phillips, company vice president, and Gilbert H. Muec Co., Yakima, Wash., will be the contractor for the construction project.

Mr. Phillips wrote Mr. Derrek in regard to the installation of a 12-inch water main from Main and Broadway streets to the city well located for the plant.

The property, which is located southwest of the city, is on South Park Avenue, just west of the Idaho Power Co. plant.

The 14 acre site was purchased from Mrs. Hazel L. Hill, 1424 S. Park Ave. in June, 1967.

A local official earlier announced they will employ approximately 100 people at the local box factory.

CSI Building Plans Reviewed

Ed Jones and Ed Peterson of Jones, Deiberg Associates Architects, Boise, architects for the College of Southern Idaho, reviewed the revised building plans of the student union-administration library complex during a CSI board meeting Monday night.

Dr. James L. Taylor, CSI president, said the plans will be sent to the federal housing commission for review within the week.

He said he is hopeful the bids for the building can be awarded by Sept. 15.

Bids for the structure were found too high when opened in February, and the architects have since altered the plans.

Dr. Taylor noted the knitting machine mechanics class will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the old C. C. Anderson building.

Orval Bradley, CSI Vocational Center director, said the building will be used for the school.

Two small fires, both caused, broke out in the Shako Creek area. Fire Dispatchers, South Hills, said the fires were controlled before covering an acre in size.

Fire conditions, Mr. Smith said, are getting better as the hot dry weather continues. Temperatures are listed as moderate in the Ketchikan and Sawtooth districts and high in other districts.

Charges May Be Filed In Jerome Death

JEROME—Charges are pending into the traffic fatality of a Jerome woman.

Mrs. Gloria Bruckner, 62, Jerome, died as the result of injuries received in an intersection accident Saturday morning.

The driver of a car which collided with a vehicle driven by Edward H. Michelson, 31, Jerome, at the intersection of West D Street and South Alder Street.

According to reports, Mrs. Bruckner was a passenger in the car on impact and the auto passed over her.

The intersection was unmarked, police said.

This is the 25th traffic fatality in Magic Valley this year and the 15th in the state. The last year's fatality was in a car which was struck by an auto, investigation in continuing in that accident.

The board-employed 12 faculty members during the meeting. Dr. Taylor said this leaves only four vacancies.

Plans for scientific equipment to be used in the college laboratory classes were reviewed. The $3,200 bid from Standard Scientific, Salt Lake City, was the apparent low bid.

Members of the Jaycees, who are sponsoring a Little League baseball team, have been asked that a $200 entertainment fee be waived. This was approved.

The resignation of J. P. O'Connor, Idaho Power Co. manager in Twin Falls who has been transferred to Fayette, was accepted. He resigned from the position.

Cabin In South Hills Destroyed By Fire

Fires during the weekend destroyed a $100 to $200 cabin in the South Hills and burned two small areas on Shako Creek.

Fire spread through the light pine building, a storage building and the main cabin before it could be extinguished.

Mr. Fry said Mr. Jones suffered minor burns of one arm and trees were burned at the cabin site, but the fire was controlled before it spread through the forest and adjoining cabins.

In the summer home area, two small fires, both caused, broke out in the Shako Creek area.

Fire Dispatchers, South Hills, said the fires were controlled before covering an acre in size.

Fire conditions, Mr. Smith said, are getting better as the hot dry weather continues. Temperatures are listed as moderate in the Ketchikan and Sawtooth districts and high in other districts.

"Gremlins" Plague Water System

Spooks, ghosts or whatever you may be behind problems in the city's new water system, but members of the City Council are not worried.

It's nothing to worry about, said Jean Miller, city engineer, and something is wrong in the tele-metering system, causing the pumps to turn on or go off at strange hours of the day and night.

He said the system is being checked now and the problem should be corrected shortly. He said outside of the unknown problem, the system is satisfactory.

Residents have been getting little Lakes water for a year now.

In other business Monday, the council passed a resolution calling on the city to attend the 50th anniversary concert at the Twin Falls band to be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the City Park band shell.

All old time members active in the band will be honored at the special concert. Mayor Egon Kroll will gather and make proposals on

Beautiful And Useful, Too?

There was the remarkable quality of the water in the city's new water system, first made in the late 1700s. Not only is the water clean, but it is also soft and pure.

You may be a collector of beauty things who has many more, you may still have a lot of things you would like to have.

Here's the first ad received in the new ad placement section.

Butterfield Ski Plan Fails Again

Officials of the U.S. Forest Service have terminated a proposal to develop the Butterfield Creek area near Highway 93 in Sun Valley.

The notification states that it is not in the public interest to develop the Butterfield Creek area as a winter sports area.

This is the second time that the plan for development of the Butterfield area as a winter sports area has failed.

"—And The Band Played On!"

CHARLES RATCLIFFE

Ask most people what a french horn is and they will stare blankly. Ask Charles Ratcliffe and he will stare, but with pity.

The french horn has been his life blood as far as the Twin Falls Band is concerned. He's been playing this strange curved instrument with the band since 1928, although not continuously.

He was director of the band between 1944 and 1946, again from 1957 through 1965 and again in 1967. He's also been with the band continuously since 1947.

As one of the active, old time members of the Twin Falls Band, he will be honored, along with others, active and retired, at a special concert July 22 at the City Park band shell.

It is the 60th anniversary of the band and concert time is 8 p.m.

Mr. Ratcliffe remembers the concerts once a week in Kimberly, in addition to the concerts in Twin Falls, and he also recalls the times "as a youngster" when he and other band members would play at the county fair and "any other event that came along."

He got his musical training in high school and at the University of Idaho.

Scouts Busy At Jamboree

(Editor's note: The following dispatch was written and mailed in by John Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kinney, one of the Twin Falls Scoutmasters, at the National Jamboree at Coeur d'Alene.)

This past week Jamboree Troop 28 of the Snake River Area Council has been actively participating in events at the Seventh National Boy Scout Jamboree at Fairport State Park.

Saturday, July 19, Troop 28 completed its skillorama, joining 95 other troops from different areas of the country competing in the show. They then used this time to construct a giant model, in order to fit into about a 3,000-foot-of-twine made into rope.

Al Lewis, one of the adult leaders of Troop 28, supervised and helped the boys in making the rope. Other adult leaders assisting were Bob Rowe and Jim Knappe.

Saturday night Troop 28 attended the "Tribute Show" and especially enjoyed the singing group "Up With People." Over 50,000 spectators gave this group a standing ovation. Laughing groups also entertained, with outstanding demonstrations of freeclogging and climbing.

Scout John Holmes, of Troop 28, was selected to represent Troop 28 in the opening flag ceremony.

Scouts from Troop 28 are participating in all the jamboree activities of swimming, fishing, hiking, and also showing with other scouts from throughout the nation. They especially are enjoying the fishing.

A portion of the lake has been stocked with 15,000 fish about 500 boys are allowed to fish at one time for a 40-minute period. They are supplied with poles and bait, and also shown how to tie flies. There is a limit of two fish per day, and three out of five boys caught a fish.

Play day, from traditional scouting activities to attend religious services and join the rest of the nation in celebrating the 50th anniversary of the BSA. The jamboree scouts will take part in Monday's nationwide "day of participation" with a special fire drill. Scouts will be accompanied by Scoutmaster Irving J. Feist.

Col. Schreiber assumed the command July 1. Previously he had served as director of operations at the base.

Entering the Army Air Corps in 1942, the cadet trained in P-40's then flew P-51 Mustang fighters from bases in England. Following the war, he was assigned to the 51st Fighter Group in Okinawa, flying the P-50 Shooting Star. Since then, Col. Schreiber has accumulated 7,000 flight hours.

In 1948 he served for a short time as a cadet in the Air Training Command at Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., followed by an assignment to Navigation Radar School, Mather Air Force Base, Calif.

The cadet moved to the 34th Air Wing, then to the 44th Air Force Base, Fla., in 1946, serving as chief of the fighter branch. # Major 'Storm' Anticipated In Uneasy French Politics

By PHIL NEWSOM—UPI/Foreign News Analyst

Window on the world:

Lull before storm:

Paris observers say the present somber doldrums gripping the French political scene may be a deceptive quiet before a nasty storm in the fall when the millions of French workers, on vacation, come back and find that just about every commodity price has gone up, ignoring warnings of the French government that inflation increases would further push up the inflationary spiral, trade union leaders have put Premier Jacques Chaban-Debras on notice that they will demand wage hikes averaging 7 per cent when the summer holidays end in September.

Accent on youth:

The horde of American journalists descending on Manila for the first stop in President Nixon's Asian tour possibly will be dealing with the newest and youngest members of the Philippine cabinet—a bright 28-year-old former newsmen who is awaiting formal appointment as secretary of the Department of Education, former political columnist and diplomatic reporter for the Manila Daily Bulletin. He has been asked by President Ferdinand E. Marcos to take the post and may be sworn into office before Nixon's arrival July 26.

Airline Promotes "Spaceships" At "Craters Of Moon" Lunching

CRATERS OF THE MOON NATIONAL MONUMENT

Space is the word today — up around the moon and down on Earth.

While the three astronauts are winging their way home from their historic lunar landing, a regional airline is awaiting word from the three on a request of inscribing their names on aircraft the airline now calls "Spaceships."

G. Robert Henry, president of the airline, sent requests to the Apollo crew members by telegram last week. Air West says Gordon Keith, a spokesman for the airline, dubbed its Super DC-9's Spaceships after changing the seating configuration from 90 seats to 81, providing passengers with the most spacious seating available aboard any commuter-coach aircraft in the U.S.

Mr. Kent made the announcement of the telegram to newsmen at a Lunar Luncheon staged recently at this 83-square-mile national monument, believed by many to resemble the surface of the moon.

Mr. Henry's telegram states: "In honor of your forthcoming trip to the moon, respectfully ask permission to inscribe your name on one of our DC-9 jetliners now operating with the most spacious commuter-coach seating of the airline industry and dubbed 'Air West Spaceships.'"

As of yet, no response from the astronauts has been made to this request, and Mr. Kent says newsmen attending the Lunar Luncheon were served "moonshot cocktails" before the luncheon which was served in a picnic

Legislation Set Against Campus Riots

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The assembly voted approval Monday for legislation which would crack-down on campus trouble-makers.

The measure would apply to all public junior colleges, the state college system, and the University of California.

A key provision calls for suspending state aid for up to two years to a scholarship or grant student convicted of a crime arising from a campus disturbance. The decision to cut off the aid would be made by a state board of campus administrators.

Another provision calls for state subsidies to local police for the costs of putting down campus riots. The state would reimburse half the cost after the first $100,000. Still, noted local police costs totaled $700,000 during San Francisco State College disturbances earlier in the year.

A third provision directs the chief campus administrative officer to report or suspend a student and fire or suspend a teacher or administrator convicted of a crime resulting from a campus disturbance.

Dr. Goddard Attacks Pharmacists

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Dr. James Goddard, former commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, said Monday some pharmacists' sympathy with Medicaid are using the patent as the "hostage for change" in the program.

Goddard said in a prepared speech to the Texas Pharmaceutical Association, "I have read of incidents in some states where pharmacists were so angry at the deficiencies of the Medicaid reimbursement program that they refused to fill prescriptions for those who needed the drugs."

"I am appalled at this. The patient is becoming a hostage in this game, and this must not happen."

Goddard, who left the FDA last year and is now a vice president for health sciences of TDR Technology Inc., expressed criticism of federal and state insurance programs, but said pharmacists must not refuse to fill prescriptions for those who need the drugs.

"This shake-up cannot and must not be done at the expense of those who need the drugs," he said, "and it is the duty of government and its allies—the doctors, pharmacists and users of America."

Palm Desert Businessman Shot To Death

PALM DESERT (UPI)—Jack Hale, a wealthy businessman and president of the Palm Desert Chamber of Commerce, was shot to death through a sliding glass door of a shop with rifle Sunday night as he sat watching the moon walk on television.

Hale, 43, was in the living room of his Rancho Palms Hotel, their 16-year-old daughter, Jenny, and Mrs. Hale's sister and her husband.

Police said that at 9 p.m. they heard a shot and the breaking of glass and at first thought the television tube had exploded. Then Hale slumped in his chair with a bullet in his back. The gunman fled without being seen.

The motive for the slaying was a mystery. Hale was extremely well liked in this prosperous desert resort town a few miles from Palm Springs. His firm, the Riva-Rossi County Sheriff's office, investigation of the case, apparently had no suspects.

Hale lived in Pasadena for 13 years, where he worked for the All State Insurance Co. He and his family moved to Palm Desert in January, 1967, when he and Hannon bought out several insurance companies and set up a new firm, Hannon-Hale Insurance Co. Hale was president of the chamber of commerce in March of this year.

He had served in the Marine Corps in the Pacific in World War II and later went to college in the U.S.

The Hale's other child, John, 8, was asleep at the time of the shooting. Mrs. Hale was placed under sedation by a doctor.

Either by coincidence or calculation, the beginning of the withdrawal of 25,000 American troops from Vietnam has been accompanied by a sustained dropoff of enemy combat activity.

DEAR TIRE: A "hint" that's like using a B.C. when you need a cannon. Call a summit meeting and sum it up. Tell your children the kitchen is closed, and so is the laundry and free baby sitting service. And do it now, while there is still time to enjoy yourselves or you'll die in the harness.

DEAR ABBY: Within the last year my husband has reached lovingly for me in his sleep, calling me by the names of different girls in his office. He says he is not responsible for what he does in his sleep. As you can well imagine, this has upset me terribly, and I have not been able to respond to him as a wife should. I love my husband, so I am asking you, Abby, is he or is he not responsible for what he does in his sleep?

DEAR HEARTSEICK: He is not. But keep your eye on him while he's awake.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of an ex-wife? My boyfriend and I are planning on getting married soon after going together for a year. His ex-wife (they were married 18 years) divorced him three years ago and she never gave him any trouble until she found out he was going with me. Now she keeps sending him articles from newspapers and magazines pertaining to "making a marriage work," saying now she sees her mistakes, and she wants to "try again." He has told her point-blank to please let him alone, but these

Apparent Success Of Apollo 11 Will Delay Launch Of Next Mission

By PAUL K. HARRAL
SPACE CENTER. Houston (UPI)—Apollo 11's returning moon explorers, looking for a pinpoint in space to make a safe re-entry to earth, did their moon mission so well that the next U.S. lunar landing flight will be delayed.

At the Manned Spacecraft Center, engineers and technicians already are studying information piped back by the moon pioneers to see how they can make future missions go even more smoothly.

Particularly important was the data that Michael Collins, Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin got on the final 50,000 feet of the trip to the moon's surface.

The astronauts blasted away from moon orbit early today and began their two-day journey home. Their flight plan was deliberately left free of major events to let them rest after their epic flight and prior to their return Thursday.

They went into orbit around the moon Saturday and landed Eagle, the lunar module, on the surface of the Sea of Tranquility Sunday.

"I think probably the areas that we learned the most about were the descent and the lunar activity," said Flight Director Glynn Lunney.

Because the space agency is looking at changes to make in succeeding flights, the launch of Apollo 12 carrying Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean, will be postponed from September until November.

Apollo 12's 363-foot rocket is to be pulled out to the launch pad Saturday, but Cape Kennedy launch operations director, Rocco A. Petrone, announced before Apollo 11's launch, he might delay the rollout if Armstrong and Aldrin landed successfully on the moon.

The pressure, just now off, Apollo 11's successful meet the goal of a moon landing in the decade with five months to spare.

But the splashdown is always critical. The Apollo 11, which will speed straight into a landing without going into earth orbit, must find a 30-mile wide keyhole in space at 400,000 feet to get through the earth's protective atmosphere without burning up.

Should something happen to keep Apollo 11 from safely getting back, Apollo 12 could be launched as early as September. And if both those failed, the space agency had Apollo 13 in reserve for launch in November to make the 1970 deadline.

Senior personnel continue to say Apollo 11 will not actually be accomplished successfully until the Pacific Ocean splashdown. But there is an undercurrent of excitement easily discernible among the hard-nosed scientists and technicians who direct the flights from the ground.

The flight directors are making it clear that while there are things that still need to be studied from the Apollo 11 machines, they are pretty pleased with the way things are going.

THE JODRELL BANK tracking station in England said that Russia's unmanned Luna 15 space vehicle apparently plunged to the surface of the moon in the Sea of Crises about 300 miles from the landing zone of the Apollo 11 astronauts, but the Soviet orbiter apparently hit the moon at about 300 miles per hour. According to tracking station data, the Russian probe would have been severely damaged by the impact. Although Soviet spokesmen have not indicated such was the case, UPI Newsmag spots the relative locations of the Soviet and American landings. (UPI telephoto)

WHEN THE APOLLO 11 astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin Aldrin and Michael Collins, complete their fiery return to earth Thursday morning, the U.S. Navy will be waiting. Here, a rescue helicopter leaves the carrier USS Hornet in a practice recovery and hovers over a "splashdown" scene. NAVY FROGMEN FROM the carrier USS Hornet go through a decontamination procedure during simulated Apollo 11 recovery operations in preparation for the return of the Apollo astronauts Thursday morning. The Navy divers will bring isolation garments to the astronauts, who must undergo an 18-day quarantine to make certain that no moon contaminants are brought back to earth. Crewmen of the Hornet, stationed in a remote area of the Pacific, have had little to do, except practice, they had no television or radio to follow the moon mission, and have been more isolated than nearly anybody on earth as far as keeping up with the mission is concerned. The astronauts are scheduled to hit the Pacific Thursday morning, culminating the epic flight to the moon with a bit of an anticlimax—18 days of isolation in quarantine instead of the usual grand welcome aboard. ## Kosygin Congratulates Astronauts

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Monday congratulated the Apollo 11 astronauts and President Nixon through visiting former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Soviet cosmologists, scientists and others also issued congratulatory statements.

Humphrey, on a private visit to the Soviet Union, was called to Kosygin's office in the Kremlin after the moon walk by Apollo 11. Armstrong and Collins, Apollo 11, Aldrin, he was radioed and televised live around most of the world. Most Russians, however, had to wait until Monday to see television films of the moon landing. Humphrey said Kosygin was "very complimentary" about the Apollo flight, quoting him as saying:

"I want you to tell the President and the American people that the Soviet Union desires to work with the United States in the cause of peace."

The Soviets reported the landing of the astronauts within 20 minutes of touchdown and announced the blastoff Monday even more promptly.

Cosmonaut Dr. Konstantin Fedilov called the landing "an act of self-affirmation of all mankind" and "the realization of the dream of many people."

Proklistov, a civilian doctor of technical science, was one of the astronomers about the first there about Wednesday. Fedilov, who orbited on Oct. 12, 1964, and cosmonaut Cherenman Titov were Frank Borman's exerts during the recent visit by the U.S. astronaut.

An article in the government newspaper Izvestia, Proklistov praised the "rapid reaction and self control" of the two moon men, who "conquered" excellently with the landing operation.

Izvestia also carried a front-page factual account with a two-column photograph of Armstrong and Aldrin on the moon with the Eagle lander in the background. The headline read: "First steps."

Most Americans had their first chance to see the historic first step late Monday afternoon when Soviet television reran the film it screened in a special transmission earlier in the day when most citizens were at work.

The afternoon screening had been edited to blank out the English language commentary and the voice of the astronauts.

It is said that before the astronauts roved the U.S. flag on the moon's surface. In another broadcast, about two hours later, however, the sound and the flag raising had been restored.

With an edit, the government offices reported their rat population was increasing.

There were 100,000 cuts in the civil service before the treasury imposed the economy move—cutting off the civil allowance for government ministries.

Four Nations Keep People From Knowing Of Apollo 11

By JACK BRANNAN
 United Press International

Your governments kept one-fourth of mankind in ignorance of the first step of man's attainment of the moon.

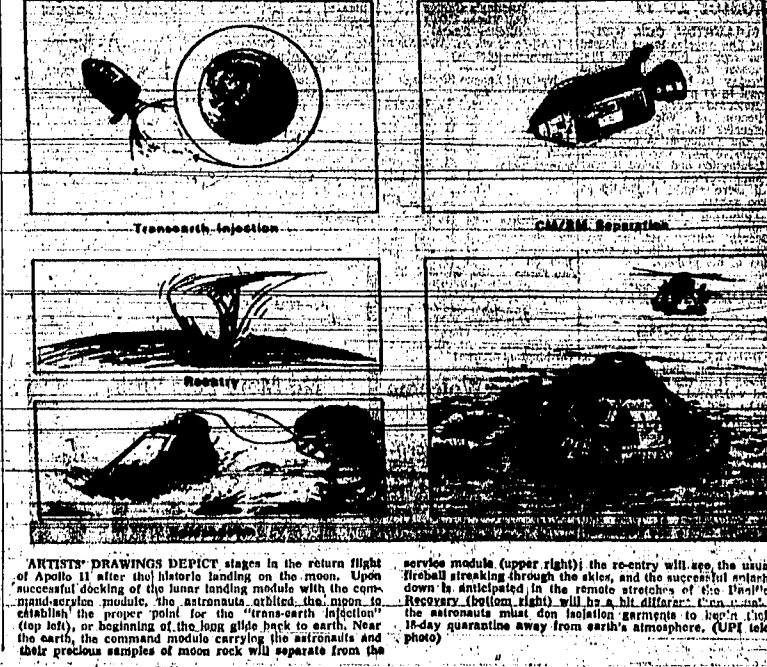

Despite the marvel of electronic communications—that it brought Neil A. Armstrong's first step and first words on the moon almost instantaneously to earth, for all to see and hear, one huge section of the planet was shut out. So was a tiny portion of Eastern Europe.

The rulers of Communist China, North Korea and North Vietnam in Asia and of Albania in Europe withheld the news of man's greatest achievement from more than 800 million people.

Those who are still unaware of man's landing on the moon far outnumber those who actually saw it.

Various estimates suggest that about 500 million, the largest audience ever assembled for a single show,

APOLLO 11 — Transearth Injection And Recovery

ARTISTS DRAWINGS DEPICT stages in the return flight of Apollo 11 after the historic landing on the moon. Upon successful docking of the lunar landing module with the command module, the astronauts orbited the moon to establish the proper point for the "trans-earth injection" (top left), or beginning of the long glide back to earth. Near the earth, the command module carrying the astronauts and their precious samples of moon rock will separate from the service module (upper right); the re-entry will see the usual fireball streaking through the skies, and the successful splashdown is anticipated in the remote stretches of the Pacific. # McLain And Carlton To Start In 40th Annual Mid-Season Classic

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There was almost another Gibson-McLain game Tuesday night but National League manager Red Schoendienst switched signs Monday and named Steve Carlton as the surprise starter for the classic, which will be witnessed by a sellout crowd, including President Nixon, Detroit's Denny McLain and St. Louis' Bob Gibson in the first and fourth games of last year's World Series.

Carlton hadn't even expected to pitch in the game, much less start. He had been scheduled to pitch Sunday for the Cardinals. When that game was washed out, Schoendienst decided to give him the start, even though he has pitched only one inning in previous All-Star game competition.

SURPRISE STARTERS for both leagues were announced Monday before Tuesday's 40th annual All-Star Game. Carlton said he would rather pitch Sunday against the Pirates for the first time in his career.

'Swinging At Everything Close' Makes Matty Alou Tough As .354 Mark Shows

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Baseball's rule-makers should have asked Matty Alou before they tinkered with the mound and the strike zone.

The lefty swinging Alou last year... His .311 career average with the Pirates is actually as level as anybody else's, although it rarely appears that way from the sidelines.

Walker made Alou switch from a 31-ounce bat to a 27-ouncer (he now uses one weighing 33 ounces) and taught him to wait on pitches and hit to left field.

TRICK IS HOW TO MAKE CONTRACT.

South looks over dummy and plans his play of the hand in accordance with the cue word ARCH.

He analyzes the lead as a South lead and goes right up with dummy's queen. He has two lines of play to choose from, depending on what he is not East produces the ace. He had counted government winners and can produce enough extra winners in either clubs or diamonds to give him the nine tricks he needs for his contract. Of course, an optimist will count to 12 winners if both the club and diamond suits can be brought home. South is a realist playing three-no-trump and wants to be sure of nine tricks.

Should East produce the ace and return the suit, South would hold up his king until the third lead and then go after diamonds. He would want to keep West out of the lead.

However, dummy's queen holds the trick and South's H. How can I make my contract — depends on keeping East out of the lead.

South leads dummy's 10 of clubs at trick two. He wants the finesse to succeed but doesn't really care when it loses because there is nothing West can do to hurt him. He can count to nine winners at this point.

If West makes the desperation lead of the ace of hearts, South will have an overtrick; if West leads anything but a heart, South will simply carry out his contract and leave possible overtricks to those who are willing to risk their contracts.

East German Soldiers Must Wear 'Longies' All Summer

THE 50-50 MARRIAGE—Frequently a new bride, who gains 50 per cent of the income, thinks in her husband ought to do 50 per cent of the housework. This is a fallacy. Can work just fine in the first few years of matrimony. But how is such a young lady going to contribute her 50 per cent when she quits work and her gentleman friend's salary goes up? If money were what made 50-50 marriages, there wouldn't be many, if any. With a cue to lightly upon this again next summer between the chapters entitled "Cooking for Two" and "When Baby Comes."

SOLDIERS IN THE EAST—German people's army are required to wear long underwear all summer. That's terrible. No wonder so many of those unfortunate fellows go over the wall.

AMONG THE MOST—A student of professional men, contends a student of the matter, is the fellow who repairs timepieces.

WOMEN TAKE AS MUCH—As men. That's a statistical fact and I believe it. Am acquainted with a stenographer who stays home when she has chapped lips.

SMOKERS—Who remembers Arthur Brisbane, that prodigy editor of yesterday? Not many. He was the fellow who contended that cigar smokers were the swiftest thinkers, pipe smokers the slowest. Brisbane said he trusted cigar smokers to act in emergencies, but believed pipe smokers 100, indicative of the slowest about cigar smokers he apparently did not see fit to print.

Red China Surprises Moon Landing News

By United Press International
Almost all the world bore witness Sunday to mankind's greatest achievement — but in Communist China, home for one-fifth of mankind — there was no report, no announcement, no word that two humans had reached the moon.

Elsewhere, millions watched or listened to American astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin R. Aldrin fulfill for mankind the dream — his cherished for millenniums.

In a unanimity that is rare, but understandable, that part of mankind aware of the achievement expressed hope that it would be beneficial to itself and, in some way, bring peace to earth.

Kings and presidents, prime ministers and prelates sent congratulatory cables to the Apollo 11 astronauts, in rare of the space center at Houston, and to President Nixon in Washington.

Like husbands, housewives and children of the world, its leaders also sat in front of television sets or tuned transistors for radios to follow the moon landing.

"It is an achievement of such importance that I don't know whether it matters to me," the news agency, Tass, announced the moon landing in a 52-word dispatch. "There were no congratulatory messages immediately forthcoming from the Kremlin."

In the other major Communist nation, Chinese leaders decided to withhold the news of man's attainment of the moon from 750 million persons. The Yugoslav news agency, in a dispatch from Peking, said no word of any phase of the Apollo 11 mission had been mentioned in China.

"It may be said with certainty that even for these few Chinese, in such positions normally to know what is happening on our planet — and any point of comparison," said the president of the International Aeronautical Federation, Prof. Edward Weighlin of Helsinki. His comment characterized scientific reaction.

The Soviet Union acknowledged the U.S. triumph but wrote off minutes to be in the news agency, Tass, announced the moon landing in a 52-word dispatch. "There were no congratulatory messages immediately forthcoming from the Kremlin."

"It may be said with certainty that even for these few Chinese, in such positions normally to know what is happening on our planet — and now also beyond it — a very small number of other inhabitants of this enormous country," said the Yugoslav news agency.

President Giuseppe Saragat summarized fulfillment of man's moon dream best for all the world.

"Indescribable" emotions have been aroused throughout the world, he told a nationwide radio and television audience. Pope Paul VI was himself carried away by the news, he borrowed from a biblical angel for his statement issued from his villa at Castel Gandolfo, where he heard the landing on television.

"Victory to God on the highest, and peace on earth to all men of good will," said the Pope. "Honor to you, makers of this special enterprise. Honor to all who made this bold flight possible."

Astronauts' Wives Couldn't Believe Moon Landing Either

By DARRELL MACK
EL LAGO, Tex. (UPI) — The wives of the Apollo 11 astronauts couldn't believe it either.

"I can't believe it's really happening," said Mrs. Jan Armstrong after she saw her husband Neil walking on the moon. Mrs. Joan Aldrin called it "unreal" and Mrs. Pat Collins "marvelous, fantastic."

The day began for the Aldrin family as dramatically as it has for the other astronauts. She was holding the Mission Control "squawk" in her lap.

"I felt I was looking at another simulation." By the time the moon landers set off by a chartreuse dress — spacecraft for a long sleep and said, "I thought it was families were ready for some positively beautiful rest, too."

"I wasn't nervous. I was excited, very excited. As a matter of fact, those men up in Berkeley, Calif. (UPI) are a lot calmer than I. An office of urban programs has been established at the University of California to encourage students and faculty support for minority business ventures."
