TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1969.

TEN CENTS

15-Year Sentences Tough Off Wave Of Destruction By 2 Prisoners

Two Twin Falls County jail inmates, SA man, of the street, looking at this, wouldn't believe it, he said. Kinner managed to do this bare handed in less than 30 minutes. The floor in the shower behind the sheriff was ripped up and a toilet torn out. Two windows behind this cell were also broken out.

Two Twin Falls County jail inmates, Earl Carver and Patrick Kinner, reported to be disgruntled over a 15-year prison sentence given them earlier in the day for escape from the jail. They were in the jail for a long time, and they had broken out of the jail. They were in the jail for a long time, and they had broken out of the jail. men starting the destruction at exactly the same time although they were in cells at least 50 feet apart and separated by several steel doors and walls of concrete. Kinner, a third man who has been accused along with the other two of crimes ranging from robbery through escape and destruction of jail property to first degree burglary, is housed in the city jail. He caused no trouble Tuesday night, he was released. "There's no sense to something like this," Sheriff Paul Corder said. He said the destruction started at 5 p.m. He called for aid and men to get the two men out of their separate cells. "We've got them handcuffed and in leg chains and in a small cell at this time," Sheriff Corder said. "I've been in law enforcement a long time, but I've never seen anything like this. These men have nothing to gain by doing this, but I guess they feel they have nothing to lose." Some water leaked to officers before the jail and it is unknown how much damage has been done to those third floor offices. Sheriff Corder estimated the destruction caused Tuesday a

The sheriff and his wife have an apartment on the jail floor, which has been custom since the jail was built there years ago. The county commissioners have ordered a security communications system installed, which will allow deputies on the main floor to hear even whispered conversations by prisoners. This system is being installed as a first step toward remodeling the jail. Sheriff Corder said he would meet with commissioners and discuss the latest destruction and what can be done to prevent it. Apollo Feels Earth's Tug

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 11, speeding more than 25,000 miles an hour, felt the tug of earth's gravity, passing the halfway point in time today on its 60-hour return from the conquest of the moon. Astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, lightheartedly and joking after completing the historic landing and walk on the lunar surface, still were anxiously looking forward to their splashdown in the Pacific Thursday.

Earth's gravity pulled the moon-bound Apollo 11 toward the planet as it passed the halfway point in time today on its 60-hour return from the conquest of the moon. Astronauts Neil A. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, lightheartedly and joking after completing the historic landing and walk on the lunar surface, still were anxiously looking forward to their splashdown in the Pacific Thursday.

cross between a New Year's celebration and the sound track of a horror movie came over the astronaut's radio frequency. "You sure you don't have anybody in there? We had some downlink and thought you had some things up there," radioed controller Charles Duke. "Where does the white team (of flight controllers) go during its off hours, anyway?" Collins shot back. "The astronauts never did admit they were playing tapes of way-out 'space' sounds as a prank or ground controllers. Before their 17-minute, next See APOLLO, P. 2, Col. 7

A Hurricane Didn't Cause This Damage. It Was the Work of One Man. Sheriff Corder Wonders How In The Place

It was the first of several trials the trio has to face. It all started on Feb. 13 when a Berger store owner was robbed of about $200. Moon, Kinner and Carver were captured in Wells, Nev., that same night. Idaho warrants for their arrest on a robbery charge were issued but it wasn't until late May that they were brought to Idaho — on an extradition warrant signed by the Governor of Nevada — to face the robbery charges. On June 8, they allegedly broke out of the Twin Falls County Jail. They were arrested by police the following day at the golf course club house and charged with burglary, escape

Hughes Ponders Air West

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Intercontinental flight line Hughes, who first sought to buy Air West a year ago, Tuesday was reviewing a President Nixon approved takeover of the West Coast airline. Hughes said he was "determined" to close the deal. A Hughes spokesman said major items to be considered were government subsidy of the airline and the financial status of Air West. President Nixon approved a Civil Aeronautics Board decision Monday to allow Hughes to acquire Air West by a merger with Dole at a later date to face the trial for robbery.

Nixon Carries Message Of Peace On Worldwide Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Nixon arrived in California early today on his 11-day round-the-world journey, carrying with him the same message of peace America's astronauts left on the moon. As the President left Washington Tuesday night, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said, "The message of the olive branch left on the moon by astronauts Armstrong and Aldrin will be carried by the President in his personal effort to find the road to peace, progress and human understanding for all mankind." "We wish him Godspeed, success and a safe return." Nixon will fly to Honolulu, Hawaii, and then to Johnston Island which will be used as a shuttle base for his visit to the USS Hornet. He plans to be on the Hornet to chat with the returning moon astronauts in the isolated quarters. Then he'll hop off at Guam for a flight to Manila, the Philippines and then to Jakarta, New Delhi, India, Lahore, Pakistan; Bucharest, Romania, and Mildenhall Air Force Base, Great Britain. It was also expected, though not announced for security reasons, that Nixon would make a quick side trip to Vietnam for a visit to troops in the war zone. President Lyndon B. Johnson made two such trips while he was in office but they were not disclosed in advance. Before leaving, Nixon entertained more than 500 baseball players, sportswriters, owners, managers, umpires and others associated with the sport at the White House reception. In conjunction with the postponed All-Star Game, the President was given a trophy honoring him as "America's Most Popular Man." He replied, "This will have a very proud place in the presidential library."

3 Escape Artists Convicted Of Burglarizing Golf Clubhouse

A fifth District Court jury deliberated in Twin Falls just half an hour before returning guilty verdicts against three men accused of burglarizing the city golf course club house last June 8. Earl Carver, 41, Marysville, and Kenneth Moon, 35, and Patrick Kinner, 31, were impassive as the verdict was read by the court clerk Tuesday afternoon at the conclusion of the trial. When Judge Theron Ward ordered 15 year prison terms for each man, Moon commented slyly, "Why didn't they just shoot us. It would be quicker than this." The trial started early Tuesday.

Idaho Rodeo Queen To Be Picked Here

A highlight of the Twin Falls County fair and rodeo this year will again be the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest. Harold Howe, president of the fair board, said this is the fourth year in a row this contest has been held in the county. Contestants must be single, never married and between 16 and 24 years of age. The Idaho queen selected will represent the state at the Miss Rodeo America Contest in Las Vegas, Tuesday, November 17. Entry blanks on this contest may be obtained from Gene Hill at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co.

Torrential Downpour Drenches East; Flash Floods Plague Indiana Residents

By United Press International today from Minnesota to Western Nebraska. Scattered thundershowers were also reported across the southern border states to the Southern Rockies today. Indiana residents were plagued by flash floods after the Tuesday deluge. About 200 Milledgeville residents were evacuated from their homes as flood waters roared out of creek beds and closed at least two state highways. The downpour hit Washington the hardest during rush hour, stranding some office workers for a few hours and causing blocking at least three major roads. Clear to partly cloudy skies prevailed over the rest of the nation today. Warmer temperatures were the rule except in the northern border states.

Inquest Seen Likely In Boy's Drowning

It is an almost certainty an inquest into the death of a 9-year-old Twin Falls boy at Nat-Son-Pub nearly two weeks ago will be called. Twin Falls County Coroner Clyde Edwards received Tuesday night reports that still have some details to check and I wish to talk with the prosecutor about this, but as it stands right now I'm almost certain there will be an inquest," he said. An inquest is a legal proceeding at which a jury hears testimony on the cause of death. The boy, Ronald Gene Irish, apparently drowned while on a swimming trip to Nat-Son-Pub July 6. Edwards said he would like to know why the boy drowned. "The boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Irish, 47, 44, 1500 S. See INQUEST, P. 2, Col. 1

Rope Maker

When Twin Falls County Sheriff's office officers went through the cells occupied by Earl Carver and Patrick Kinner, Tuesday evening they found an interesting object of handwork, a hand-braided rope, approximately 12 feet in length, under Kinner's mattress. The officers said he apparently had cut up wool blankets with a razor blade and braided the blanket strands into a heavy-duty rope. The prisoner's hours of labor were in vain, as the braided rope, with the thick, navy blue rope, was found.

Bids On Airport Runway Work Due Within 10 Days

Advertisements for bids for expansion of the main runway at the Twin Falls City County Airport will probably be placed within 10 days and work will start as soon after that as practical. The announcement was made by Gene Millar, city engineer, as members of the airport commission met Tuesday noon. The city engineer said information concerning the proposed improvements was now in the hands of flight officials at the Twin Falls City County Airport. The city engineer said that everything should be "wrapped up" in just a little over a week. Federal, city and county funds are being pooled for airport improvements here and a large amount of no later than Nov. 1 has been set for completion of the projects. This would permit runway work by large piston and jet planes for the winter season. Also at the Tuesday meeting,

Spacesuits Prove Highly Reliable On Moon's Surface

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Space center officials are delighted with the spacesuits worn by Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin during their walk on the moon.

Neither man had any complaints about them, a spokesman said.

Flight Director Clifford Charlesworth said he was impressed with the apparent ease with which the astronauts had been able to move around.

The biomedical telemetry from the pressure suits while they worked outside the landing module was outstanding, Dr. Wheeler reported.

He confessed, however, to a "moment of fright" just before the astronauts opened "Eagle's" hatch for their walk on the moon.

"We felt we were beginning to lose medical data," he said. "It soon became clear that the side of the LM the data cleared up."

Charlesworth speculated that there must have been some electrical interference with the signal while the two men were inside the lunar lander.

The suits, as the world saw on television from the moon, are bulky garments because of the pressure it is necessary to maintain in various conditions. They are made up of 12 different layers of material.

While they greatly restrict astronauts in their movements, they are the best design yet developed to ensure that man can breathe and work in comfortable and unvarying temperatures.

Officially, the suits are described as "manpowered vehicles with a self-contained environment."

Not only do they support life while astronauts work in a hostile environment but they enable them to maintain communication with one another and with earth.

Cool water circulating through tubes in direct contact with the skin conducts body heat away. Without the water cooling such problems as dehydration and heat in the eyes would make virtually impossible for astronauts to function in space.

Space experts were astonished that in spite of the suits' bulk, Armstrong and Aldrin were able to move around with considerable gracefulness.

Mike Collins Endures Time Of Loneliness

By LAWRENCE FALK

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Loneliness is recorded, too.

That while his two fellow astronauts walked the moon, Michael Collins endured a solitude and an isolation more total than even Adam may have endured in Eden.

If Neil A. Armstrong were the first man to walk the moon, Collins in the command ship Columbia was the first to orbit the moon with so little contact with his fellow man.

Collins made 14 lonely orbits while waiting for his two companions in the lunar ship Eagle to rejoin him for the journey back to earth.

All he had for company was a radio receiver and a tape recorder. But the radio was good only when he was on the front side of the moon. Each time the Columbia made its 45-minute sweep behind it, there was silence.

Yet not even Adam could have been so utterly isolated from living things. For there is the testimony of Genesis that God had already created plant and animal when he said: "Let us make man in Our image, after Our likeness."

Mike Collins would be the first to say that the world properly concentrated all of its attention on Armstrong and Aldrin Sunday during their dramatic descent to the lunar surface in the spaceship Eagle.

But there might have been a bit of selfishness or lonesomeness in his voice when ground control radioed to Eagle: "That was a beautiful job, you guys."

"And don't forget one in the command module," Collins said.

Jan Armstrong 'Sweats Out' Moon Liftoff

By H. D. QUIGG

EL LAGO, Tex. (UPI)—Would they get off the moon? Jan Armstrong, whose technical knowledge of the space program is formidable, went into her bedroom with her mother and her older son, Eric, 12, during the crucial countdown Monday that would end in telling whether her husband would stay and die on a lifeless planet or start the long voyage home.

The count went into the last 10 seconds. The mother and son did not speak. The NASA communications line grew quiet. There was sudden static, and Mrs. Armstrong looked up and said: "That must be lightning."

Then came the voice of Neil Armstrong's companion in flight, Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., speaking after ignition. Mrs. Armstrong arose, cried out, clasped her hands over her head and hugged her son with a sigh of relief.

The NASA protocol man at the Armstrong home said: "I got the feeling that this to Jan was the real hurdle—that it looks to her like Green and Gold from now on. Now she is more on Mike."

relaxed." Ricky, Armstrong said only: "Great."

The other Armstrong son, Mark, 6, was in high spirits, running in and out of the bedroom with his new space toy, a miniature model of the NASA Mission Control-pull-a-string and the communicator.

At the Aldrin home in the Nassau Bay community there was cheering, clapping and tears in the group of a dozen relatives and friends in the den.

Aldrin's wife Joan said: "Come on, Mike. Come on, Mike. Come on, Mike." That was when the ascend stage of the module Eagle left the moon and headed for rendezvous with Lt. Col. Michael Collins, pilot of the command ship Columbia in lunar orbit.

After the liftoff, the Aldrin family went to the kitchen for a buffet lunch supplied by neighbors. They also ate the remainder of a cake that had been brought in at midnight by women of the Presbyterian Church of Webster, Tex., or where Aldrin is an elder. It had an inscription in the frosting: "We came in Peace for All Mankind."

The younger Aldrin son, Andrew, 11, received a football game with neighborhood playmates to listen to news of the liftoff.

In the Collins home nearby in Nassau Bay, Pat Collins remained in her bedroom alone for the liftoff and later said she was "very pleased it went as well as it did."

Pat didn't sleep well last night, she said, and looked tired and haggard. Mrs. Armstrong went to bed at 3 a.m. and arose at 9. Mrs. Aldrin got to bed at 12 and got up at 10.

A New Air West

Nothing but good can come to Air West as a result of President Nixon's approval calling for purchase of the airline by a company controlled by Howard Hughes.

When three airlines joined to form Air West, everyone thought it meant a great growth future was in store: How wrong was that thinking.

Instead of growing, the airline started a downward journey which ended just short of disappearing from transportation. Internal bickering among officials of the new line was one of the big reasons for the failure. This bickering caused a drop in the morale of all the workers with a result that Air West was almost a dirty word.

Now that should change. New ownership, for instance, will allow the company to pay bills which have been long due. It will make for a better feeling all the way around.

In Twin Falls, local transportation needs and demands are closely tied to Air West. Improvements are now underway in the City County Airport which should, before winter, allow Air West's jets to land here. The jet age is here and Twin Falls is getting ready for it.

In the past, because of the internal bickering in the company, city and county officials have had a hard time knowing just where the air stood so far as Air West's plans were concerned. Now there should be little doubt.

The aviation committee of Magic Valley—in fact city and county—and just plain citizens everywhere who use air transportation—are glad Air West will be under new management and ownership.

We are happy Howard Hughes and his associates will be a part of our community. We welcome them aboard.

Cuban Airlift

One of the most unusual humane gestures produced by the cold war is the airlift the U.S. government is paying for to bring Cubans who wish to leave the land of Fidel Castro to freedom here.

Twice a day, five days a week, American planes land at an airport 85 miles from Havana to take aboard refugees who have signed up with the Cuban government to leave their homeland.

Four thousand Cubans arrive in Miami legally this way every month. Hundreds of others go to Mexico or Spain. It is not without tremendous cost that they take the step.

They are not allowed to take more than a small suitcase; valuable jewelry and other possessions are confiscated. Young men aged 15 to 27 are not permitted to accompany their parents from Cuba because of military requirements.

Those who sign up for the airlift wait many months before they are permitted to leave—months in which they are forced into hard agricultural labor at minimum wages. There is no time guarantee in the program, but the high level of attainment in space would have been impossible without the preparations and planning which began in earnest a decade ago.

The fact the National Goals Research Staff now exists, presumably will be collecting and digesting voluminous data no one man could present, and presenting a summary of the chief executive, should be a step toward better management of the nation's affairs.

Space Age

The new National Goals Research Staff established by President Nixon might be likened to a huge floodlight lighting alternate pathways through dense forest. The President must still make the ultimate decision on which path to follow, but he will know there is more than one.

How many times in recent history have presidents been forced to make what amounted to crisis decisions on problems which could have been foreseen and planned for in advance, if anyone had possessed the foresight to look into the future?

A decade to space advancement is an example of what advance planning is all about. Of course, not everything government attempts to do should be on the grand scale of the space program, but the high level of attainment in space would have been impossible without the preparations and planning which began in earnest a decade ago.

The fact the National Goals Research Staff now exists, presumably will be collecting and digesting voluminous data no one man could present, and presenting a summary of the chief executive, should be a step toward better management of the nation's affairs.

WASHINGTON—The Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) advisers "deeply troubled multi-billion dollar anti-poverty program, is still blundering in business, thanks to temporary continuing resolution voted by Congress, but a strange lethargy has developed on what should be done about this agency, if anything.

At both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, there is no sign of interest or activity regarding the future of OEO. The administration is doing nothing, and neither is Congress.

This apathy is as curious as the extraordinary amount of money OEO's proposed budget is $2.18 billion—although Congress granted only $1.79 billion last year. The agency employs thousands, and its operations directly affect hundreds of thousands of others throughout the country. Sen. OEO Administrator Donald Rumsfeld gave up a safe House seat to take charge of its widely controversial and scandal-ridden activities.

Yet, astonishingly, literally nothing is being done by the administration or Congress about renewing the Economic Opportunity Act which created OEO and its anti-poverty programs. The law expired June 30.

Following is this inexplicable record of indifference:

The White House still has sent no bill to Congress, and there is no indication it intends to do so. Apparently the initiative is being left to Congress.

Two bills are pending before the House Education and Labor Committee. One offered by Representative Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman, would continue the Act for five years. The other, sponsored by Representative William Ayres, R-Iowa, would provide for a two-year extension of the program, but this bipartisan measure is favored by the administration.

The House committee has had four months of hearings—without a word of comment—on a large bill which would extend the anti-poverty program for a year at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars. But there is no sign of the committee doing anything. In fact, summarily, it will eventually get down to drafting legislation. But when, is anyone's guess.

Whether that will be before the mid-August recess (until after Labor Day) or later, no one knows—nor gives any evidence of caring. The administration isn't pressing for action; Perkins is saying and doing nothing, and neither is anyone else.

In the Senate there is even less interest—if possible, things haven't even been held over there, and there are no plans to do anything. Senate leaders, when asked about the matter, shrug and say, "We're waiting until the House acts, and then we'll proceed."

The same amazing inactivity prevails in OEO.

Administrator Rumsfeld has been in office several months, but has yet to do anything about restoring his severely decimated staff. Some 30 top officials are still unfilled, and when they will be known only to Rumsfeld—if he knows!

The only thing he has done so far is to set up what is called "Direct Task Force" to make a "complete review of the war on poverty."

This is the latest of a long and costly list of such activities in the five-year history of OEO. There have been scores of surveys and analysis totaling more than $30 million, but with no concern about its outcome. Anti-ABM leaders claim they have assurances that when they need him, he will show up and vote with them.

If that is so, it's McCarthy's only contribution to the "cause" he so fervently avowed only a few months ago.

His bland disregard of the needs give OEO a $2.18 billion budget, Rumsfeld's only other concern has been that the Economic Opportunity Act be continued unchanged. This drew caustic bits of derision from both Republicans and Democrats.

Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, sharply reported, "There is urgent need for extensive changes in the anti-poverty program called OEO. I am going to do my utmost to see that that's done."

Rep. Charles Griffin, Ore., second-ranking Democrat on the House Education and Labor Committee, told Rumsfeld, "You have got to be kidding, you aren't doing this seriously. You'll be lucky if you get a one-year renewal with a complete overhaul."

But so far, there is no sign of anything stirring.

There is one glaring hiatus in the two-house battle over the safeguard anti-racialist legislation.

This is the total absence and silence of Sen. Eugene McCarthy—the Minnesota "peace" candidate who one year ago was furiously running for the Democratic presidential nomination, with glancing mentions of the Vietnam war, the "military industrial complex" and related matters.

But throughout the weeks of the torrid ABM battle—the most momentous of this session so far—McCarthy has been conspicuous by his nonattendance.

Not only has he taken no part in the eventual debate, but he has been conspicuously absent from a meeting of the anti-ABM leaders' claim they have assurances that when they need him, he will show up and vote with them.

If that is so, it's McCarthy's only contribution to the "cause" he so fervently avowed only a few months ago.

His bland disregard of the ABM struggle is squarely in keeping with his attitude on all other issues this session. His chaotic indifference has been his course since this Congress got underway Jan. 3.

McCarthy has largely been present for only 12 of his time. This is the second successive year he has done this.

Last year, out of 200 recorded votes in the Senate, McCarthy was absent for 104, on domestic and foreign issues. McCarthy was present for only 12

BRUCE BLOSSAT Hard-To-See

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There can be no doubt now that President Nixon is deliberating well out of his office and seeing far fewer people than did his most recent predecessors.

Says one White House aide, "He's not in there and read and write and think than talk to people all day long."

This habit, of course, already has caused him and some of his key assistants an immense amount of difficulty on the inside Washington circuit—among lawmakers, politicians and administration officials at various echelons. The grumbling is:

"Two aides, Robert Halderman and John Ehrlichman, and especially the former, have taken as large part of the heat. It is clear from the available evidence that most of the time they have been acting in accord with Nixon's wishes in keeping his cabinet members out of the loop."

Whether or not they have ever barred the door for other reasons, or have been over zealous, or have taken it upon themselves to interpose in the context of the complex and not entirely friendly interrelations of the executive branch.

But it is also plain that up to this point Nixon's penchant for office privacy is not making his cabinet members or the public's mind. The public opinion polls continue to suggest that roughly two-thirds of the American public rate his performance so far as p.o.d. Again, from an aide:

"The people obviously don't know the 'how' of his office and reads and writes or whether he talks to a lot of people, so long as he is doing and spinning the things that are going on."

The same assistant ventures, furthermore, that as the issue relates to contacts with senators and congressmen, it is "in some way overstated. He adds:

"More people from Capitol Hill have seen the President than the critics would indicate."

capo. But what really bothers these fellows is they don't feel that anything gets fully worked out or is actually decided as a result of their visits."

That observation raises a wholly different question about the style of the Nixon administration.

As some other published accounts have noted, great delays are common, issues like the Dr. John Knowles affair get shelved and re-shelved O.C.H.E. matters travel a long paper circuit before ever coming to a head.

Below the level of the President himself as this reported noted months ago, there is no co-ordinating officer with both the substantive knowledge of issues and the administrative clout to make the countless decisions that could be handled without direct presidential attention.

It is this curious contradictory effects while some staff people and top department agency heads labor to present matters to Nixon in a digestible form most suitable for decision-making, the President is in fact, often deluged with trivia.

So the true image of the man today is not simply a consciously isolated president quipping by weighing the details of the great problem of war, domestic strife and inflation.

It is a man who, in a sense, is surrounded by a vast sea of secondary matters, even including guests lists for White House parties.

Whatever the individual and collective abilities of his staff, it is unmistakable that the President's misfortune not to have a top co-ordinator for domestic affairs is a real handicap. The President's domestic affairs operation is largely exempt from the criticisms which the difficulties herein described may be classified as "inside baseball." They will still be the public's first time they seriously consider any decision of broad popular interest.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED, Mr. President

WASHINGTON—The task force set up to study the anti-ABM bill, after several months of work, has reported its findings to the White House. The report, which is being reviewed by the President's task force on anti-ABM matters, says that the bill is "a complete review of the war on poverty."

GEORGE C. THOSTENON, M.D. Kind Of Nut

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have allergic asthma, and when I try to explain it to people, they tell me I'm nuts. When I see some people have heart palpitation and others not? Why do some have headaches, upset stomachs, etc. due to allergies?

I also recall that some people seem to be allergic to the same things as I am. Could you explain why and how this condition exists?

I also recall that some people seem to be allergic to the same things as I am. Could you explain why and how this condition exists?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend has what is called myasthenia gravis but is doing rather well with medical help. How does this differ from myasthenia lateralsclerolosa, or are they the same?

I, J. B.

M. G. is a neuro-muscular disorder, while A.L.S. is a disease of the nerve tracts in the spinal cord.

Note to Mrs. M. S.: There are several hospitals within 40 minutes drive of your home, which are equipped to do artery transplants. Your own physician can—and should—advise you on this.

You can lose weight! If you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's book, "Lost Secrets of Reducing" tells you how—naturally and without any gimmicks—to lose weight and still have individual needs. MR. SPECTATOR 3 Cheers For Nessie

Nessie, it appears, has won again and finally the thimble of earth's unsolved natural mysteries—or myths.

Nessie is the cozy name given a strange creature believed to dwell in the deep waters of Loch Ness, supposedly a one-of-a-kind biological leftover from some long-ago age.

Over the years, there have been many reported eye-witness sightings of Nessie—and considerable disagreement as to what shape of creature different eyes saw—but as yet, no concrete evidence acceptable to science that she (or he or it) actually exists.

Lately, the hunt for Nessie has been taking on technological dimensions, sounding of the death knell in such: This summer's effort, the most ambitious to date, involved a submarine, a little yellow number, which, it is hoped, will scout out Nessie's underwater lair.

While with recurrent leaks and other mishaps, however, the sub has been "difficultly getting on with the job," a development local Scots firmly believe is the result of Nessie's well-known flux.

Maybe, maybe not. But while we are not about to admit to being superstitious, or to standing in the way of man's advance of the frontiers of knowledge, secretly we're on Nessie's side.

In an age when man is taking his first steps toward unraveling the secrets of the stars, it's somehow comforting that an age-old mystery right here at home still defies solution.

If Nessie has her (or his or its) any, man will never be a know-it-all.

PASSING PENNY ARCADE

Score one more for inflation.

The ballooning increase in the cost of amusement, as well as living, has done in the penny arcade. The last one coin machine at New York's Coney Island has been retired from service, replaced by one that charges a nickel.

Appropriately enough, it's a fortune teller.

WASHINGTON—I trust the moderates and liberals of the American More-of-Medical Association will not let the anti-ABM bill, which is being reviewed by the President's task force on anti-ABM matters, slip through their fingers.

It is a bill that would increase the anti-ABM program's budget from $100 million to $200 million.

The bill would also increase the number of anti-ABM personnel from 100 to 200.

Kunnes' own words and behavior stamp him as belonging to the radical militant left. His tactics in taking over the Mike to make an incoherent speech are of a piece with the phenomena of a student who sits at the desk and does nothing but read and mumble to himself.

The tragedy of Kunnes and his followers is that they have made friends for the AMA with the radical militant left and their members from the hall with the AMA. The genuine conservatism of the AMA is being lost.

It is high time to defend the AMA against this mischievous attempt to switch the anti-ABM bill's leadership, reverting to its self-proclaimed founder, Dr. Robert W. Johnson.

Pentagon Admits Nerve Gas Stored On Okinawa Island

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon acknowledged Tuesday for the first time that nerve gas is stored on the island of Okinawa and said it will all be removed.

A few hours after the Ryukyu Wall Street Journal last week, the Legislature held a special session on Okinawa calling for the immediate removal of the gas. The report stated that although it acknowledged that the Defense Department said 24 persons were involved in an nerve gas known as GB had been stored there.

It can be incapacitating or fatal, depending on the dosage, on July 8, a small leak was involved in an accident developed in a weapon during a July 8 in which 23 U.S. Army paint removal operation. and safety procedures including protective masks were immediately used, the statement said. No one was seriously affected, the Pentagon said. It said four of the military personnel were briefly hospitalized, all were put under precautionary medical observation, and all 73 were returned to full duty within six hours.

No Ryukyu Islanders or other non-U.S. nationals were involved. While acknowledging the Okinawa accident involved a GB gas leak, the Pentagon stressed that the United States has no biological weapons stored anywhere overseas. About the same time, the state department said Japan is doing and store and does not intend to store lethal chemical weapons in Japan.

Boy Bitten By Dog At Acequia Home

ACEQUIA — Mathew Mickelsen, 2½-year-old son of Mrs. and Mrs. David Mickelsen, Acequia, is still under treatment by a local physician for cuts and scratches received Friday by the family dog.

Mrs. Mickelsen said the boy apparently had been tormenting the dog while playing outside. He came into the house covered with blood. His mother took him to a Rupert physician. The wounds required 42 stitches on the face and head. The dog, part St. Bernard, had only been owned by the family about two weeks. It was taken to a local veterinary hospital where it will be under observation for 10 days before being disposed of. The boy's stitches were removed Tuesday, while the remainder will be removed later this week.

Jamboree Ends As Boy Scouts Adopt Unique 'Commitment' To Action

By WILLIAM J. STANFIELD
FARRAGUT STATE PARK
Idaho (UPI)—Jamboree Scouts began heading for home today spurred to better lives through a week of fun and adventure best wishes from President Nixon and an unprecedented statement of the commitment to guide their own lives.

The jamboree officially closed Tuesday night with a campfire program which featured astronaut Col. Frank Borman, who delivered a message from the President, and the showing of the television film of follow-Scout-Neil Armstrong's historic first step on the moon last Sunday.

Only a handful of these Scouts attending the 7th National Scout Jamboree were able to watch the moon-landing on television Sunday and the President told him: "Frank, I want you to go to Idaho and represent me at the jamboree. Tell the Scouts I attended two jamborees when I was vice president and it is only because I am going to meet the Apollo team that I can't attend as President."

Borman said the President told him to tell them "how important scouting is" and how he "counts on you. Tell each one that I send best wishes and wish them God speed."

Following the showing of the moon activities, which also included the astronauts' message to the jamboree, Borman told the Scouts he "didn't believe there was any generation gap between you and me."

He said, "I believe that the things that made this country great were God and country's of scouting, remembering always duty and honor of country."

The statement also urged that help organize Scout troops in poverty areas, to let Scout leaders know that they want more responsibility in troop activities, and to let the public know about the modern scouting program.

Heyerdahl and his six-man international crew abandoned their transatlantic crossing from Morocco to the New World aboard the raft "Ra" six days ago after the presence of sharks made repairs to the papyrus raft impossible. The crew had hoped to prove that ancient Egyptians could have made a similar trip. (UPI-telephoto)

Florida County Comes To Aid Of Woman Refused Medical Treatment At Hospital

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Sarasota County commissioners voted Tuesday to provide an artificial kidney machine for a critically ill woman if she needs it to save her life.

Joanne Mazurek, 22, remained in critical condition 28 miles away in a hospital when the decision was made, but hospital spokesmen reported that her kidney condition had improved somewhat late Tuesday without the use of the machine.

Domnic Mazurek of North Port had waited outside the hospital commission room until they learned of the action, then "he burst in here in tears," according to Mrs. May Hooper, acting director of the Sarasota County Welfare Department in Sarasota.

Tampa General Hospital had been standing firm on its new policy of requiring guaranteed payment for welfare patients, which apparently would have stood in the way of use of the machine for the young woman.

Panamanian Junta May Break Promise To Hold Free Ballot

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Despite the promise to hold free elections, a Rockefeller-backed Panamanian military junta that it would hold free presidential elections next year, there are increasing doubts that the junta will meet its obligations.

One extremely influential figure in government is Nicolas Arias Barahona, a 28-year-old Ph. D. from the University of Chicago, who is director of planning and administration of the presidency.

"And The Band Played On!"

RALPH PINK

Back in 1912 members of the Twin Falls City Band were asked to play at a lodge dedication ceremony in Burley. Ralph Pink remembers it well.

"We all left by train and got to Burley on time. The drinking must have started the day before, because everyone was real happy when we arrived."

He recalls being taken from the train with other members of the band, and he remembers the band playing at the dedication.

"Everyone was so happy they made us members of that lodge."

The trouble is, Mr. Pink does not know, to this day, what lodge it was.

"All I know is they made all the members of the band members of that lodge. It was a wild initiation."

Mr. Pink also remembers the days just after he joined the band in 1912. He played alto then, something akin to the French horn.

"Somebody the band always managed to finish before I did. That isn't to say I was a bad alto player, but I had the fourth chair down and I missed a note now and then."

Mr. Pink, along with other old time members of the band, will be honored at a specially arranged 60th anniversary concert of the band July 24 at the City Park band shell.

The concert has been arranged by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Citizens Of 'Earth' Hail Successful Apollo Mission

EARTH, Tex. (UPI) — Apollo 11, carrying the first men to walk on another celestial body, will touch down thousands of miles from Earth. The moon astronauts, in fact, probably will never get to Earth and meet the 1,014 inhabitants.

But that did not keep Earthlings from sharing the joy of the first of the world's expressed at the latest peak of America's space program.

"Our whole man-on-the-moon program is just fantastic," said Perry Martin, president of Earth's Chamber of Commerce.

"It's hard to believe but it is just great for both our astronaut and the United States."

"No place of our size said more prayers or watched more television screens this weekend to see our men land on the moon and return to earth," said Faye Starkey, an Earth housewife.

"We hope and pray for their successful return," Mrs. Starkey said.

"It was just wonderful," said Earth Mayor E. C. "Shorty" Kelly.

Earth, a small Texas ranch community, had no special church services Sunday — the day of the moon landing. In fact, there wasn't a regular preacher in town.

The Rev. John W. Williams, pastor of Earth's First Methodist Church, returned to town Sunday night and watched the moonwalk on television. A number of friends accompanied him to the church on Monday to watch the blastoff from the moon.

"All of us are just jubilant," he said. "I'm in favor of the space program all the way, and highly pleased it has been so successful."

In fact, there was no word from Earth-inhabitant Alvin Pittman on man's latest space achievement. It was Pittman who during the flight to Apollo 10, said: "We got no business fooling around with the moon. Danged if I think there's anything up there but a big, empty void."

Next month, for all the good it'll do.

Japan Visit By T.F. Man Is Ended

Mr. and Mrs. Faren C. Faler returned home last week from Japan.

While there Mr. Faler attended a meeting of the board of directors of Lions International, followed by the Lions International Convention.

"Mr. Faler ended his two-year international directorship. His duties also required his accepting many invitations to social functions where he appeared as guest speaker and representative of the international association."

Mr. and Mrs. Faler traveled from their home in Twin Falls, Idaho, to Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Canada and Japan.

Mr. Faler said the experiences of his trip were very interesting, he said, come from all continents, are of many religions and speak many languages.

"We feel very fortunate to have been able to elect a director from Idaho two years ago, since there is only one director for each 35,000 Lion members. That makes it difficult for small states or countries to get a representative on the board."

Mr. Faler said, "This is only the second time in the 52 years of Lionism that we have been successful in winning such an election."

Others from this area attending the Tokyo convention were Fred Gish, Jerome, the retiring district governor and his successor, Donald K. Zuck, Twin Falls, and their wives.

Samuelson Visits Boys At Jamboree

FARRAGUT STATE PARK, Idaho (UPI) — More than one Scout at the 7th National Jamboree has been surprised to encounter a slightly older person turned out to be Gov. Don Samuelson of Idaho.

Samuelson has been here for about 10 days of the week-long encampment to meet officials. He has also spent many hours playing the part of a tourist, drinking out, the display and visiting with the boys.

The governor appeared to take as much pleasure in the jamboree as the scouts — "the program is wonderful," he said. "Everything I have seen has been the greatest."

For some reason, Samuelson has had most of his contact with scouts from Alabama who have adopted the governor.

The scouts presented him with souvenirs ranging from a gallon of water from Mobile Bay to a chunk of steel marble and sorghum.

Most of the gifts were in honor of Alabama's 150th anniversary but Samuelson said he has received enough souvenirs to last him for years.

Idaho Union Aide Asks Mine Showers

BOISE (UPI) — Robert MacFarlane, state president of the AFL-CIO, told the Mine Safety and Health Commission today that facilities should be provided for miners working with uranium.

The board, appointed by Gov. Don Samuelson, has until Oct. 1 to make changes in Idaho's safety code for the mining industry. On that date, certain sections of Idaho's old mining code, passed in 1909, will be repealed.

MacFarlane objected to a section in the proposed new code which said shower facilities should be made available "where water is adequate for bathing facilities."

The section said there should be at least one shower head for every 10 men on a shift.

MacFarlane said he thought shower facilities should always be made available, pointing out in Utah "It's not to be available, even if you have to bring it in by bank car."

He pointed out that there always was a chance of radioactive uranium, and said the mine inspectors were beginning to take readings in all mines.

Roger Fulton, chairman of the group and a representative of the Bunker Hill Mining Co., said he was concerned about the effect required shower facilities might have on the smaller companies. He pointed out there was no way a minor could be forced to shower.

MacFarlane answered, "This is the same as if you provide safety glasses and if the miner doesn't wear them, he's not liable for compensation."

The members tentatively decided to make the section read "where radiation problems exist, water-and-bathing facilities must be made available."

MacFarlane also asked that the group make some definite decision concerning safety equipment that mines must make available to workers.

California Senate Votes To Tax Church-Businesses

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—If we are in a state that we 27-7 Tuesday to tax income derived from the affairs of churches, we are in a sad, sad state," said Dills, voice filled with emotion. "This is a very, very dangerous precedent." Dills questioned which businesses would be determined to be unrelated to religion. He noted churches use outside activities to finance their missionary work and schools. "It will enable the state to examine the entire programs of these churches," he said. "I will vote this will open the door widely." However, Dellenberg said that some churches own "hotels, grade, factories and radio stations" which he said should not be taxed differently simply because their profits support church activities. The "Protestant California Council of Churches" supported the measure in committee hearing. "We are in committee hearing. No other church group spoke against it."

Sen. Church Endorses Court Test Of White Clouds Dispute

BOISE (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church told newsmen Tuesday he favored a court test, if necessary, to establish the Forest Service's authority to regulate mining operations in the White Cloud Mountains. Church said he, Stan Darras of Boise and their 12-year-old sons, Martin and Chase, just returned from a four-day camp-out in the summits of the White Clouds. "I return more convinced than ever that a failure to annex the White Clouds to the proposed Sawtooth National Recreation area, as approved by the Senate, would be a crime against nature," he said. "This is a country that requires special care of its lofty landscape, its salmon spawning waters and its delicate carpet of protective growth," he said. Discussing the controversial application of American Smelting & Refining Co. to build a road to its molybdenum claim at Castle Peak, Church said such a road would destroy everything that is "precious and unique" about the White Clouds.

to the mountains by tractors. While recognizing that a valid mining claim established under provisions of present mining law cannot be denied by retroactive legislation, Church said he still felt regulation was necessary. Discussing the controversial application of American Smelting & Refining Co. to build a road to its molybdenum claim at Castle Peak, Church said such a road would destroy everything that is "precious and unique" about the White Clouds.

He said it is the duty of the Forest Service to explore all other methods of access to the site, including a railway or trolleyway, and to require the use of any alternative found feasible, in place of an open road. "If the expense is justified, it should be accepted by the mining company," he said. "The price to be paid for the privilege of ravishing such beautiful public land for private profit," he said. "If, on the other hand, the mining companies resist such a requirement, as exceeding the present authority of the Forest Service, then now is the time and here is the place to take the question in the federal courts. "We should determine, once and for all, to what degree the public interest can be protected under existing law." Church said he did not know what final position on the pending Sawtooth Recreation bill that Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, would take. But he said McClure's position "will have a pronounced effect on the version of the bill, the House acts up on. Asked if he could back the Sawtooth bill if the House would be to delete the White Clouds annexation, Church said he would "cross that bridge when I come to it." "I would hope the House would pass the bill as passed by the Senate," he said. Church said he felt the White Cloud Mountains were in an area of "such exceptional beauty" that proposed mining there would become a national cause among conservationists.

Youngsters Leave For Easter Seal Camp

Four Magic Valley children complete with their "life support systems" in the way of sleeping bags, left Twin Falls Monday afternoon for Camp Easter Seal, north of Coeur d'Alene. The children are Delezo Ponder, Tom Davis, Shane Muehlert and Mary Ann Amundson. The camp opens this session for children between 9-12 years of age, runs through Aug. 1. Donating to help send the children to camp were the Twin Falls Exchange Club, Kiwanis Club, Key Club, the Internet Club and the Bailey Rotary Club. The children and their parents gathered at the Twin Falls City-County Airport Monday afternoon to take the flight north, and their excitement about the trip was mixed with talk of the "Apollo 11" flight. One youth, waiting for the airplane, said the countdown had started and his mother reminded him not to forget his "life support system," which was his sleeping bag. The boys are going along on the trip to all the children at camp were Connie Barnhart, John Krellkamp and John Blayce. Jeff Peterson of Twin Falls also left on the flight as a helper, but the flight will assist camp from Idaho. The camp program is sponsored by the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults and by Washington State University.

Nixon Predicts U.S. Will Explore Other Planets Soon

By MERRIMAN SMITH WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon predicted Tuesday that by the end of this century we will visit other worlds with some form of life on them. Speaking to about 2,000 foreign exchange students at the south lawn of the White House, Nixon said he did not know what the world would be like at that time, or perhaps some other planet. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who represented the President at the Apollo 11 launch last week, suggested Mars as the next goal of the manned space program. Rep. John W. Wyder, R-N.Y., a member of the House Space Committee, proposed to Nixon Tuesday that the United States join with Russia in sending men to the red planet by the year 2009.

The President was host to the students on a busy day of meetings with Republicans and Democratic congressional leaders, greeting major league baseball stars, and making final preparations to leave Tuesday on his round-the-world diplomatic trip, with a stopoff to greet the returning Apollo 11 crew.

Crash Victim Remains Here In Hospital

An Arlington, Wash., woman, Mrs. Gale Pearce, 28, was listed in good condition Wednesday in Maple Valley Memorial Hospital where she has been under treatment for injuries since Tuesday as a result of a four-car pileup on the south lawn of the White House. Pearce was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Gale Pearce, 28, which was one of three autos struck by a vehicle driven by Kenneth J. Gordy, 28, Burley. Stated police reported the vehicles were all traveling south when the Gordy vehicle, traveling through a construction zone behind the Washington entrance, filled with it, forcing it to collide with two unidentified vehicles in a chain reaction crash. Mrs. Pearce, Mr. Pearce and their three children, Diana, 2, Dennis, 5, and Daniel, 3, were all taken to Maple Valley Memorial Hospital for treatment. Mr. Pearce and the three children were treated for minor injuries and released. Officers charged Mr. Gordy with driving while intoxicated and he was scheduled to appear in justice court to answer the charge.

Sex Crimes Decline In Denmark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sex crimes in Denmark have declined since that nation legalized written pornography two years ago, according to an article in the current issue of Look magazine.

The article quotes a Danish psychiatrist, Dr. Anders Groth, as saying that sex crimes in Copenhagen dealt with 34 per cent in the six months after the Danish parliament repealed all prohibitions against written pornography in June, 1967.

"This general fear has been that pornography gives rise to uncontrolled impulses or acts," Groth said. "If it did, then there would have been a rise of sex crimes since that time."

He said that his decline occurred while other forms of crimes were increasing.

The Danish parliament also voted this June to legalize the production and sale of pictorial pornography to anyone over 16.

The article also quotes Groth as saying that "pornography seems to give a relaxation of passions rather than stimulate uncontrolled impulses."

Legalization of pornography has had an adverse effect on the publishers of such material, the article says. Some publishers have reduced prices in an effort to draw a decline in sales and others have been forced out of business because of the lack of demand.

Lost Race Horse Is Claimed By Jerome Owner

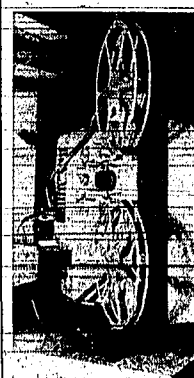

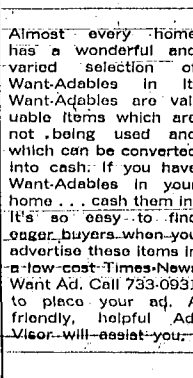

BURLEY — The "lost" race horse and his owner have been reunited.

Ralph Hodgkin, Route 3, Jerome, contacted Cassia county sheriff's officers and claimed the horse they had in "custody" since finding the animal in the westbound lane on Interstate 80N seven miles east of Burley, near the DeLoe interchange, last week.

Mr. Hodgkin told officers the horse had won a race in Pocatello and other people were hauling the animal home for him. They told the owner they had had car trouble, unloaded the horse near Rall River and the animal had got away from them and they were unable to catch it.

Mr. Hodgkin had contacted the sheriff at American Falls in an attempt to find his horse. Cassia sheriff's officers surmise the animal had fallen out of the trailer, for when they found it, the animal had bruises on its shoulder and showed evidence of having fallen onto the highway.

While Astronauts Soar Homeward, Earthlings Prepare Welcome

Apollo Spacemen Gird For Re-Entry Through Fiery Wall

By PAUL K. HARRAL, UPI Space Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The flight of Apollo 11 ends at 12:10 p.m. Thursday in the Pacific Ocean about 1,040 miles southwest of Honolulu, Hawaii.

That point—marking the end of an epic spaceflight and the start of isolation and testing to prove the spacemen healthy—comes after a dramatic re-entry through the fiery heat that the earth's atmosphere can be to a spacecraft.

As the re-entry time approaches, Collins and his moon-explorer comrades—Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.—coasted toward earth with little more to do than watch the home planet swell slowly in size.

"They fired a 10-second rocket burst Tuesday to sharpen their aim on the hoop in the sky they must hit to land safely. Another correction probably won't be jumping orbit. The astronauts necessary to get the bulk of their problems of friction, they would generate heat when they re-entered the atmosphere to go twice the speed of sound. The early days of the space age brought more problems with military guided missiles. They first tried air communication with the mission was being run by Allen of that approach to the problem. He was an astronautics engineer at the Ames Research Center then.

"I reasoned we had to deflect the heat into the air and let it dissipate. Therefore stream-lined shapes were the best possible; they had to be blunt. The blunt end pines into the air first and as the temperature builds rapidly to around 3,000 degrees, the special heat-shield material boils off in superheated gases. The shape of the spacecraft, spews the gas out and away from the spacecraft and its precious cargo.

Inside, it's like sitting in an oven. The heat is so intense that the spacecraft riffs that layer of air through the fiery heat that the hole in the sky—about 30 miles in diameter—is the prospect. Collins and his moon-explorer comrades—Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.—coasted toward earth with little more to do than watch the home planet swell slowly in size.

REPUBLIQUE TOGOLAISE

THE REPUBLIC OF TOGO has commemorated the Apollo 11 lunar flight with a special stamp issue depicting man's first landing on the moon. Designed by M. Shamir of Israel, the stamps were issued in Togo on Monday, the day after the first landing on the moon by American astronauts. The Czechoslovakian Postal Administration also issued two "Man on the Moon" stamps showing an astronaut on the moon. (UPI telephoto)

THIS TWO-STORY white farmhouse five miles from Wapakoneta, Ohio, in which Apollo 11 command pilot Neil Armstrong was born, may become a national historic shrine. Stephen Armstrong, father of the astronaut, said some of the family's happiest memories are associated with the farm. Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes has made a formal request to Interior Secretary Walter to designate the Armstrong birthplace as a national shrine. (UPI telephoto)

TWO ENTERPRISING young businessmen, with their eyes on space but their feet on the ground, set up a "mango-juice" stand in Zanesville, Ohio, during the Apollo 11 flight. With earth temperatures in the high 80s, it is only natural that they would attract thirsty customers. The proprietors are Chris Guff, 6, on left, and Randy Cane, 10; the hopeful customers were identified as Guff Rich, 7, and Tony Jenny Colling, 4, all of Zanesville. (UPI telephoto)

COOLING OFF ON a hot day, young Mark Armstrong, 6-year-old son of astronaut Neil Armstrong, first man to set foot on the moon, enjoys a splashing romp in a swimming pool at his El Lago, Texas, home. Armstrong, commander of the Apollo 11 space mission, and his crew are gathering speed for their fiery plunge through the earth's atmosphere and their triumphant splashdown Thursday morning in the Pacific. Feller, Robinson Trace Verbal Exchange Back To 23-Year-Old Incident

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Both Feller and Robinson cited a 23-year-old episode expense money as the underlying reason for a sudden attack against him Tuesday by fellow Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson regarding the black players. Robinson, the first black man to play major league baseball, had previously cited "the lack of black personnel in front office positions" as a special reception at the White House, to which they colored people thinking, I don't

All-Stars Honor Nixon As No. 1 Fan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The major league All-Star baseball game was postponed by rain Tuesday night for the first time in its history and rescheduled for 1:45 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

A heavy thunderstorm that struck the Washington area in late afternoon and continued unabated for hours finally forced Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to announce the postponement at 8:20 p.m. EDT.

Many of the expected 45,000 fans waited under shelter at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in vain. The postponement, unprecedented in the history of the midsummer classic since its inception in 1933, apparently meant that President Nixon would miss the game. The Chief Executive was scheduled to fly to San Francisco late Tuesday night en route to meeting the returning Apollo astronauts in the Pacific after their splashdown Thursday. The game had been scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m. EDT. The rain was falling several minutes later and, although it had slackened just a bit, Kuhn declared that the field was "unplayable."

All-Star Game Has Its First Rain Out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon invited the great baseball players, past and present, to the White House Tuesday and found them honoring him as "America's No. 1 baseball fan."

"It took a lot of years but I finally made it," the beaming President said as he received a trophy similar to those presented to outstanding baseball players Monday night at a banquet marking the 10th anniversary of a organized professional baseball.

"This will have a very proud place in the Presidential library," he said.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who made the presentation, told him: "Mr. President, you have made the frequency to his own modest athletic abilities. Although he is an avid sports fan, he often remarked he was never good enough to make the team."

More than 500 baseball players, sportswriters, owners, managers, umpires and others associated with the sport, including the White House for a reception Tuesday afternoon before the All-Star game.

"Let's get this reception going so we can all get to the stadium," Nixon said.

To attend the game with the President were Mrs. Nixon, Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower, widow of the former President, David and Julie Eisenhower, the President's daughter and son-in-law, and Tricia Nixon and her escort for the evening, Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif.

The Rev. Billy Graham, a long time Nixon friend, also was included in the party. Standing in the East Room, Nixon reminisced about his own association with the sport.

He recalled he saw his first major league game on July 4, 1936, in Washington when the

Oilers Rocked By Loss Of Two Starters

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—The Houston Oilers pre-season camp was rocked with the loss of two veteran starters Tuesday.

Right-guard Sonny Bishop, an eight-year man from Fresno State, announced he was quitting football to go into the real estate business in Houston.

Bishop came to the Oilers in 1964 in the trade with the Dallas Cowboys. He had spent the last season at Oakland. Bishop had been a starter ever since.

The other loss was right cornerback Leroy Mitchell, considered one of the best in the AFL. Mitchell came to the Oilers in a trade last winter from Boston where he was the team's most valuable player in 1968 and a member of the Eastern Division All-Star team.

The Texas Southern offensive fractured a vertebra in last Saturday's scrimmage and is probably out for the season.

Coach Wally Lemm said he planned to move Jim Le Moine, a third-year man from Utah State, into Bishop's spot and replace Mitchell with Zeke Moore, also a three-year man from Lincoln University.

"Somy told me he had wanted to get into the real estate business all his life," said Lemm. "He said he just couldn't afford to pass up such an excellent opportunity."

Lemm added that with the addition of Mitchell to the Oilers, he thought Houston "would have had the best secondary in pro football."

"Moore (Zeke) has tremendous ability, but no experience," said Lemm. "Now he'll just have to get his experience under fire."

One bright spot for the Oilers came with the announcement that starting defensive tackle Willie Parker would be in camp Wednesday. Parker had no reported "field rust" and the next one-over it.

Rookies Find Pro Training Like College

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI)—It's like college all over again in the training camp for rookies at Greenwood and Clarence Washington of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Greenwood and Washington, who were drafted in successive rounds and are trying to win spots at adjacent positions on the Steeler defensive line, were teammates at Arkansas AMCN.

Both are finding life in a pro football camp, at least the first week, much easier than college.

"It's easier than I thought it would be," said Greenwood, a 230-pound defensive end from Canton, Miss.

"We're just working on technique and it's a lot different because there's so much to learn," added Washington, a 200-pound defensive tackle from Little Rock, Ark.

"It's not that hard," said Greenwood, who said he had a "good feeling" about his new teammates.

Washington and Greenwood both felt the biggest thing they must learn to make the Steeler squad is the best rush.

"In college, you could get around most anyone with a forearm," Washington said. "But I believe I could play up here if I work hard on what I have to learn—pass rush technique and knowing when to rush and when not to rush."

Both are looking around for bigger hitters, especially when they are just as quick as you are," he said.

Stolle Upset By Argentine

GSTAAD, Switzerland (UPI)—Fred Stolle, outstanding Australian tennis professional, was upset by little known Julian Gombay of Argentina in the International Tennis Championships here Tuesday. Stolle lost 4-6, 6-3.

Ray Moore of Australia and Tom Okker of Holland advanced, with Moore edging Rolf Vogelzanger of Switzerland, 4-6, 6-2 and Okker breezing by Bernard Montandun of France, 6-2, 7-5.

In women's play, Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., trimmed Suzanne Peterson of Brazil 6-4, 7-5 and Rosemary Casale of San Francisco routed Joyanna Taylor of Great Britain, 6-1, 6-1.

A DISAPPOINTED young fan sits in a heavy downpour in RPK Stadium waiting for the All-Star game to start. It never did. Dear Abby
BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married nearly 30 years. We have grown children who all have families of their own. It seems that over the years I have lost my wife to our children. All her time is spent with her children and their children. All her time is spent with her grandchildren. She has made a regular habit of coming to my apartment to see me and her grandchildren.

Night after night I have sat in my den alone watching television. My wife gets home about midnight and a little after at which time I am already in bed.

My wife insisted I go out and enjoy myself, so I took her advice which led to meeting a beautiful 51-year-old widow. We are compatible in every way. In short, we have fallen in love. Now, I can no longer enjoy myself and neither is this widow's problem is, am I doing the right thing? How can I tell my wife about this affair? She doesn't suspect a thing and I'm always home before she is.

DISILLUSIONED
DEAR DISILLUSIONED: If you want what sounds like a "good excuse" for your affair, you have one. But that doesn't make it right.

DEAR ABBY: My wife spoiled her son until he was nearly five years old. He is nearly 16, and she is still spoiling him and catering to his every whim. Unfortunately he is our only child so she has been able to devote her entire life to being a "good" mother to him.

Her excuse, "He will be going into the service pretty soon and I want him to enjoy life at home while he can."

The day he was eligible to drive a car she bought him one with her "savings." He has always been the best dressed kid in Highland Park, Illinois, and he's so spoiled you can smell him in Kenosha, Wisconsin.

He is smart, but he's lazy, and barely makes his grades even with tutoring.

My question: If my wife decides to listen to a competent family counselor, can this kid be saved? Or do you think it's too late?

HIS FATHER
DEAR FATHER: It's never too late. The word from here is "try."

DEAR ABBY: As Dr. Paul Ehrlich of Stanford University has observed, "Anyone who stands in the way of measures to bring down the birth rate is automatically working for a rise in the death rate."

Those who understand what the unchecked increase in population means to the future of the world believe that it is morally wrong for a couple to have more than two children.

Tell "ARGUING" to explain that to her husband when he insists that she agree to having a hysterectomy (Or better yet, have two, and adopt two).

CONSERVATIONIST
DEAR CONSERVATIONIST: Lord Brain of Great Britain, another like-minded man said I still another way: "When, wherever you live in the world, you can have children only when you wish that will be a revolution with more far-reaching effects on the pattern of human culture than the discovery of atomic energy."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MARRIAGE'S GIRL": Do as he has asked you to do, and go with others while he is gone. If you really "love" him, and there is faithfulness in your heart, it will remain there until he returns. You are only 16, and a bit too young to wear a "RESERVED" sign.

New Version Of Old Fabric Is Fall Favorite

NEW YORK (NEA)—A new velour-like surface comes in a corduroy, the newest look in sportswear. Uncut corduroy with a ribbed velour-like surface comes in a multitude of styles to appeal to every taste.

Put-togethers are the fashion story from junior petites to better misses' designs. It will spread chronic lung disease among the natives is due to air tainted by the wood fires kept burning almost constantly inside their huts.

Toppers include cropped bolero vests, long tunic vests, bush-pocketed pant dresses, blazers; battle jackets—all worn OVER something—shiny jersey shirts, floral cotton shirts, knit turndown sweaters, combined with pants—wide-leg pants—straight leg pants—shorts—or pants with scooter skirts, wrap skirts, long skirts.

There are the multitude of do-your-own-thing looks. Go west in a yoked, shearing corduroy, snap-closed jacket worn with matching low-rise jeans. In a South-of-the-Border mood, select an earth brown embroidered ribless corduroy bolero. Toss it on over a wide-sleeved blouse and pair these with a sashed paunchy pant.

Do a country girl in a farmerette suspended overall paired with a red and white flower-strewn blouse. Or be sportive in a safari-jumpsuit over a shiny knit Australian bush shirt for the newest layered look.

When evening comes, go glamorous in a black ribless evening blazer suit (it looks like velvet) worn with a dashing, lavishly faced white accented blouse. It's good "mix 'em up," fashion fun for fall and ribless, the new kind of corduroy is playing the game.

DEAR ABBY: As Dr. Paul Ehrlich of Stanford University has observed, "Anyone who stands in the way of measures to bring down the birth rate is automatically working for a rise in the death rate."

Package Sizes Yield To Rule

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Some food manufacturers have agreed to reduce the number of different package sizes.

Harold Neigh, extension consumer economics specialist at the Pennsylvania State University, says that as of Jan. 1, 1969, breakfast cereal is to be packaged in whole ounces, except for individual servings.

Cookie and cracker manufacturers are reducing the number of package sizes from 73 to 56. Many other food manufacturers also plan to reduce the number of package sizes for their products.

To achieve the "layered look" without gathering separates, there are one-piece outfits with skirt hooked to shirt and a belt attached.

'Dumb' Lynn Carlin Learns To Be Nervous In New Film

By DICK KLEINER—YUBA CITY, Calif. (NEA) — This is Lynn Carlin's second movie, and only her second professional acting job in her life.

The first, "Faces," won her an Academy Award nomination for her role in the film. That makes her automatically a major force in Hollywood. It was she who scared when she made "Faces" because "I was too dumb to be nervous," she says.

She isn't dumb any more, and so a bit of nervousness has set in as she acts with George Kennedy, Jim Brown and Fredric March in "Lynn Carlin." The story of how Lynn Carlin happened is one of those freaks which makes people keep hoping that the lightning will strike them some day.

She was raised in Laguna Beach, and her parents were on the show business periphery — her father was business manager for stars like Basil Rathbone and Billie Burke, and her mother had done some radio work.

As a teenager, she acted in little theater groups, but not professionally. She got married to advertising man Ed Carlin — and worked as a secretary.

Her boss, at one time, was Bob Altman, who was then a producer at Screen Gems. John Cassavetes had the office across the hall and he was preparing "Faces" and asked her to read. (Wonder if he was attracted to her because there is some thing of a resemblance between Lynn and Cassavetes' wife, Gena Rowlands. Lynn doesn't see it, except that both have that "lightning" in their eyes.) She is a go-go girl working on deal for the fact.

"Faces" and spent so much time at it that Altman fired her. She never had gotten along so well. Later, after Lynn won the Academy Award nomination, an ad appeared with a critic's quote: "I never forgot Lynn Carlin." Altman is reputed to have nasted that ad upon the wall, with the penciled addition: "Neither will I."

After "Faces" was made, it was three years until it was released. Lynn spent those three years starting a family — she has a 3-year-old son and a 1-year-old daughter — and deciding that she had to act.

Her husband encouraged her, and the rest of her family is getting a vicarious thrill out of her late-blooming emergence. After she got "with a big" impact, she picked this as her second attempt.

Since Cassavetes made "Faces" on a shoestring, he gave each of his players a percentage, instead of a salary. This is beginning to look like a good deal for the fact.

Golden Oldies Hit T. E.

... this week in the form of two dozen vintage fur coats. Earl Faulkner of the Paris and Paris Jr., said the coats are creating quite a sensation in the eastern United States and hopes the fad will progress west. His supplier in New York City says 5,000 of the old coats are being sold there each week. Like good wine, good coats become better with age—at least where they're young, and set is preferred. The fur coats are being sold for $100. They were completely cleaned. Most are missing a button here and there, some have holes in the pockets and tears on the inside and lining, and all show neck fastenings popular during the late-1930s and early-1940s and the shoulders are just a little pulled and the lengths are a little longer than current fashions. The only thing not vintage in this picture is the model, Mrs. Duane Serpa, wearing a Golden Oldie muskrat coat and posing before an old time car. Besides muskrat, there are beaver, chinchilla, Persian lamb and mink coats in the collection.

BETTY CANARY'S Wonderful World

Often have I said that I would never stop to tell you an anecdote about men who spend their summers staring at televised baseball games. No, I've said to my husband, "I'm not one with tunnel vision—I would not think of it. Your home is your castle, that's what I've told him. Here's a color heater and may your moat runneth over."

Actually, I've never minded our summer separation because I keep busy with my own hobbies. There's cutting the grass and polishing the windows and whenever I want a change of pace, I go down and fix the hot-water heater.

This just gives me time to collect authentic case histories of wives-of-televison-baseball fans. Quite a few files bear the bride statement, "Went Home to Sewage."

Home to Father—Father was home because HE was watching a doubleheader, which probably explains why mother was not at home.

Case No. 470 tells of Melissa T., a 48-year-old housewife, who once wrote poetry which rhymed and was found of several trauma occurred one day when she was vacuuming up peanut hulls in front of the television set. In full view of her husband, a great Red Sox fan.

Screaming, "If you really loved me, you'd have married somebody else; she went after him with the cleaning wand but he made it to safety inside a neighbor's house where, incidentally, there was a color set. My husband said, 'I'm in a bind. I just saw Harrelson drive in the winning run on the Indiana Stopped Basins.'"

Case No. 471 tells of Melissa T., a 48-year-old housewife, who has been committed to a hospital for the criminally insane. Her lawyer went berserk in the city department of a document, shouting, "Kill those Tipsters!" and "Club those Cubists!" She attacked stuffed animals with a group plastic ball but procured, investigation shows, from Cramer 8. Leading officers on a merry chase through the streets, she was finally caught in the Pot-Corner—she tried to get at the bird cages. As she was unceremoniously stuffed into a police car she was last heard screaming, "I'm out of the Orioles!" The two children, neither of whom have ever met their father (a man well-known in television sports circles as a vid football, basketball AND baseball fan), have been placed in foster homes.

A very sad case is in File No. 276. Roberta J., a 26-year-old bride of six months, was carried away from her home by two ambulance drivers—turning whom also carried a pregnant girl who had called night-ly for some eighth-inning relief for Mickey Lolich.

Mr. J., who proved to be totally oblivious to ringing tele-phones, was at last contacted when the hospital asked Don Michael to hold up a message in front of the television camera. Mrs. J., after an emergency appendectomy, awakened to find her husband had been heard when sewing her up. She disappeared from the hospital and has not been heard from since, although some believe she is the person writing poison pen letters in a well-known bad musician in Louisville, Ky.

Sex Education Favored By Educators, Poll Shows

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK NEW YORK (UPI)—In many places, first-grade teachers and school administrators are favoring sex education course content dwells more on family life education than on anatomy.

And in those places where the heat of the debate most often grows hottest—the superintendent's office—the leading sentiment is to introduce formal sex education, according to a sampling of the nation's 13,000 school administrators.

Granted anonymity in published results of the survey, the administrators participating in the poll conducted by "Nation's Schools" indicated an impressive 70 per cent of them—that they believe some form of sex education ought to be offered by the schools.

The poll shows that the recent growing and in some cases, very vocal opposition to sex education in schools finds little sympathy among school administrators.

But getting it approved, more and more means standing up to community, political and religious organizations opposing it as trends of the last six months indicate.

Slightly less than two thirds of the schoolmen surveyed do not have sex education programs in their districts. And this is understandable. According to authorities the number of sex education programs has remained relatively stable since 1965.

Among the groups mentioned were the John Birch Society which has launched a national campaign to restrict, or preferably, eliminate sex education programs in the schools, according to "Nation's Schools."

All that aside, here's what the schoolmen said when asked at what grade level sex education ought to begin:

Kindergarten, 32 per cent; grade one, 25 per cent; grade two, 15 per cent; grade three, 10 per cent; grade four, eight per cent; grade five, eight per cent; other grades, 21 per cent.

Among those polled, a two per cent proportional sampling of 14,000 in 50 states, 45 per cent is not in favor of opposition in their states to sex education.

This seems to fit in with an increasing number of published reports that focus on a full-scale siege against sex in the schools, the editors of "Nation's Schools" have advised.

One form of schoolmen said parents are the greatest single roadblock to sex education courses. Some attributed the opposition, in great part, to never sex education programs. These offer more explicit information at an earlier age—often kindergarten and the primary grades. Opposition comes from various groups but a number of schoolmen felt the majority of opposing organizations have strong ties with the far right. Among the groups mentioned were the John Birch Society which has launched a national campaign to restrict, or preferably, eliminate sex education programs in the schools, according to "Nation's Schools."

Miss Rathbun Is Wed To Compher In Valley Rites

FILER—The First Church of the Nazarene was the setting for the June 6 rites which united in marriage Donna Loren Rathbun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Rathbun, Filer, and Buddy LeRoy Compher, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Compher, Buhl.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Jack Weller before a background of a lighted cross flanked by gold candelabras holding white tapers and large white baskets of white gladioli and blue and white chrysanthemums accented with blue and white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white satin gown which featured an empire waistline and rounded neckline. Charitilly lace with a robusid design accented the gown and fitted tapered sleeves. A lace train with scalloped edges fastened at the shoulders.

Her shoulder-length veil of illusion-tulle fell from a jeweled tiara. She carried a bouquet of white-blue-tipped carnations and satin ribbons.

Bonnie Hestley, Hollister, was maid-of-honor. Carol Taylor Buhl, was best man. Ushers were Paul Bach, Buhl, and Gary Rathbun, Buhl, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Roger Knuttsch, organist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Sharon Stokesberry, cousin of the bride. Sharon Stokesberry, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest-book.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Idaho Order of Odd Fellows hall. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over blue and centered with a three-tiered square wedding cake decorated with blue flowers and tiny white doves and topped with two doves and a pair of miniature wedding rings before a heart-shaped handkerchief.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Lois Stokesberry, aunt of the bride, with LaRue Simmons assisting. Mrs. Betty Fraley, Filer, and Mrs. Mildred Towns, Buhl, served coffee and punch.

Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Mary Quinton, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Carolyn Rathbun, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Simmons.

Movie Producer Prefers Locations To Studio Work

COLUSA, Calif. (NEA)—The when he works nights. Jones on Jax. Street has been the big actor had a big thrill in the movies before. Some earlier in the shooting, when years ago, they shot "Member he worked with Fredric March in the home of George Ron, some years, and Kennedy, a big body and Lynn Carlin in a movie buff from way back, was entirely different kind of film, delighted with the chance to work with him."

Kennedy's first job that March, Producer-director Ralph Noel, who is 72, never asked for any son elected to shoot almost all favors. But his agent asked of this picture about a southern black sheriff (Jim Brown) in a sequel to the movie "The Longest Walk" in Sacramento, California, northwest of Sacramento, was scolded by southerners and looks southern.

Noel's own prefers locations to shooting in the studio. His explanation is a classic: "The authenticity of a house is what I'm after," he says. "On a studio sound stage, the set decorator can build a great house—but it always looks decorated. In real life, on location, the house is lived in. It's not like a set."

... tick ... tick ... tick ... is the second major motion picture to use a video tape system, for the director to check out scenes without waiting for rushes, which can take three days. The first was Blake Edwards' "Darling Lili."

As Kennedy and Miss Carlin released, Nelson sat glued in the television monitor at the edge of the set. He could see exactly what the camera would pick up. After rehearsal, the tape was played back.

Once to completely restaged the scene when he could tell via the taped image that Miss Carlin's hair was not quite right. Nelson calls the system "instant re-shoot."

They were shooting at night and George Kennedy kept re-peating, "I hate night work. It says he wakes up early and yawning up at least three times how so never gets any sleep to remove the oil completely."

Siss-Boom-Bah! Filer Girls Judged Superior At Clinic

By MARJORIE LERMAN
Times-News Correspondent

FILER—it was one of the smallest if not the smallest group at the recent regional cheerleader and cheerleader clinic held in Squaw Valley, Calif.

But Filer's team of cheerleaders came home bringing the coveted prize of superior trophy, plus an added bonus of receiving the "most spirited group" award.

The camp, in beautiful Squaw Valley, is one of 23 such camps held during the summer over the United States and open to all young people interested in song leading and cheerleading activities.

Members of the team were Linda Hansing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hansing; Laura Vincent and Jo Vincent, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Vincent; and Cathy Bean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bean. Jo Vincent will be a junior at Filer High School this fall. The other girls are seniors.

Helena Fleenor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Fleenor, also is a cheerleader and had practiced with the group during the year, but was unable to attend the camp in Squaw Valley.

She plans to attend a similar camp in Logan, Utah, in August. The girls found it a beautiful place although most of the time they were cold, the weather was cold, and several times they practiced their drills in the rain.

Each girl paid her own expense for traveling and food and lodging at the camp. Each girl had her own cheering crew to help earn the needed money.

First day of the competition, the girls were given a superior ribbon. This was a repeat of the second and third days. They also received the "spirit stick" which is awarded to the "most spirited group" and were very pleased at receiving this since they were competing with many girls coming from schools all over the country.

On the last day, in competition with the entire camp, they won the superior trophy for the team and a purple ribbon for each individual girl. It was a proud moment for each of them when they were announced.

As Miss Hansing said, "It made it all worth while. There would be times when we would be so tired and so hot from all the practicing, and we would get to feeling discouraged. Then we would begin our competition, and after we found we had won, it was worth all the hard work."

The girls made up all their own cheerleaders and drilled. They got up at six o'clock every morning and usually practiced awhile before breakfast. The morning routines included tumbling classes and learning new cheers. After luncheon, there would be lectures, and practice time. They learned six new cheers each day which were later presented at mass talent shows in the evenings.

Each chalet was divided into 13 units of four girls or boys in a group. The various groups would enter into open competition each day, with the entire camp participating in the final contests.

Highlight of the week was a team trip which the Filer girls took with some 70 other people. They took to the top of the high peak in the mountains and had the top to look around and view the magnificent scenery which the child of dreams of Lake Tahoe.

The team operator was from Sweden and the girls enjoyed his accent. They also enjoyed the yodeling which a fellow passenger from Switzerland entertained the group. They noted many wild flowers covering the mountainsides although the top of the jerseys with smaller numbers on the sleeves.

The beautiful trophy which has a marble base set off by gold columns and topped by a globe, decorated with a cheerleader figure will be presented by the team to the school at the first assembly in the fall.

It will then be placed in the trophy case at the school. The blue ribbons also will be presented to the school, but the purple ones will be kept by themselves.

This Is A Year For Mink Report

For Women Says

BY HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

Fashion, at least, has bridged the much-talked-of generation gap. Pantsuits, mini-skirts, turtlenecks, chains and beads are worn by both generations notwithstanding. A bit of the slightest changes in design make the same styles right for men, and any of the kids' regalia is worn by the adults.

Even elegant mink is in there pitching to win — keeping on top of every new fashion trend for fall.

Mink is no longer the traditional fur it used to be. It's thoroughly with it — in 65 shades of 16 color groups. You can find it from mini to midi to maxi length.

It gets into the gypsy look via a coat of Autumn Haze, Embra natural brown mink with big patch pockets and a gold chain belt.

The flirty skirt that's such a swinger for fall is represented in Tourmaline, English natural beige mink that falls to a swirling skirt of inverted pleats.

The football season will turn the spotlight on a hooded duffel coat in Autumn Haze with suede clasings at the bottom, or a natural pale beige Tourmaline mink with a stand-up collar that turns down to mock turtleneck.

The biggest fashion status symbol in coming season is the muffler scarf and not-to-be-outdone natural mink scarves in a variety of shades appear in lengths up to 123 inches. And they can be lined to match your favorite dress or done all-around in mink.

Coats, Tunics And Trousers Spell Fashion

ROME (UPI) — Maxi coats, tunics and trousers in black, white, red, plum, green and brown spell fashion for 1969-1970, judging by the Italian fall and winter collections shown to date.

Hells run higher and less chunky, although still far from slim. Boots are either ankle length or the stacking boot which attaches with garters.

Scarves again trail to the waist, the knee, even the ankle, but they do all their trailing down the back. The smart thing is to knot an eight or nine foot scarf with the knot just below the bottom of the back of the neck, then let it fall straight.

Alain-Regnaud, for Biki of Milan, showed more trousers than skirts. Pantsuits were replaced by jackets over jumpsuits. For lounge wear, the models wore soft-sole, ballerina slippers. Biki's jackets were flared.

The lavered look appeared again with knife pleats showing six or eight inches below slim wool or silk overdresses.

American Eleanor Garnett, who designs for a more conservative clientele, did bare the knee by day. She liked very flared jackets and matching dresses, but kept sleeves slim.

THE CLASSIC PEARL necklace goes to great lengths to swing with this fall's fashions. An example of the 60-inch or longer-pearl-necklace showed up in several New York fashion shows. Here it swings with Yonhquake's beige crepe party dress. (UPI telephoto)

Maxi Coats Are Everywhere In Fall Collection

ROME (UPI) — Maxi Coats are everywhere in the Italian fall and winter fashion collections and they come in every degree of fullness.

They are typically wrapped plum tweed maxis with skinny sleeves, sloping shoulders, and narrow, sashed waists for the slender woman.

The full figure can be concealed under thick monkey fur or fox maxis which fall to the ground, in between, maxis with a military cut flares out from the waist, which often is adorned with a wide patent-leather belt.

Germana Maruccelli showed a tunic with maxi-coats over trousers, or snug-fitting jackets over maxi-dresses. She lavished fur, often fox, on deep hems, cuffs, collars and hats.

For evening she showed floor-length gowns, or below-the-knee trousers. A tight black jersey bodice was teamed with black ostrich trousers and high boots.

Tiziani offered a brown-plaid wool maxi-lined with white. A Mongolian lamb as his cold-weather antidote. All his models wore tight, elongated skull cap hats.

He liked knife pleats for fullness, as in a yellow chiffon ball gown with enough fabric to make a couple of full circles. A tunic cuthouse also was a pleated chiffon.

Something different in capes was one shaped like a pair of slippers sewn together on the two top edges, with a hole for the model's head. Bottom points were centered front and back just below the waist.

The most expensive-looking maxi coat seen to date was Sarfili's sleeveless evening coat of free-swinging pearl ropes which dangled to the ankle, or formed an eight-foot diameter circle when the model swung about.

BACK IN HAIR FASHION
Braids are back in hair fashion. Thick, braided pony tails, low-hanging side braids and intricately wound coronet braids provide a fast, attractive solution for the what-to-do-with-your-hair problem.

Pocatello Miss To Wed T. F. Man In August

An Aug. 23 wedding at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple is planned by Lillas L. Rawson and Michael L. Talley.

Miss Rawson is the daughter of Mrs. and Mr. Wilbur F. Rawson of Pocatello, and Mr. Talley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Talley, Twin Falls.

Miss Rawson was graduated from Pocatello High School in 1967 and received her degree in forestry from the University of Idaho in 1968. She is employed as a forester for the Pocatello Ranger District of the Carbon National Forest.

Mr. Talley was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1965 and is attending the University of Idaho, majoring in range management. He is employed by the Sawtooth National Forest on the inter-regional fire crew.

PRETTIER FLOWERS
A teaspoonful of detergent added to a quart of water is a reliable formula for reviving partly wilted cut flowers, according to a report from Cornell University's Floriculture Dept. Furthermore, a flower specialist at the University of Wisconsin advises that flowers will last longer if kept in a "clean container which has been washed with hot suds."

LILLAS L. RAWSON

RATE HIGH
Your decorating quotient will be rated high if you use metal objects well for that decorative look. If an old brass or copper kettle years to be on display, you can do a restoring job this way. Scrub the kettle thoroughly with a pine-oil cleaner and scrub brush. Follow with No. 1 steel wool to clean out the dents. A soaking in an oxalic acid solution and rubbing with steel wool will get the kettle cleaner still. As a last step, polish with pumice and fine steel wool again, dry, lacquer and wax. For safety's sake, read labels on all products used and follow instructions carefully.

CLEAN THOSE FILTERS
Most new air conditioners have permanent filters which don't need to be replaced, but do need to be kept clean. The method is to lift the filter out, shake off loose dust, then dip it up and down in hot sudsy water. This loosens and removes the grease soot which the filter has captured. Rinse, dry and apply a coat of special filter oil to help "trap" and hold the next batch of soot.

PAINTSKIRT
The pantskirt makes the fashion scene with pans, culottes, or hidden for a flapped, wrapped look. Some tiny, tiny skirts will feature long, long suspenders.

JANICE DUBEDAT

BRIGHT LINGERIE
With the nude look in fashion gaining more acceptance—see through blouses, etc.—lingerie is playing an increasingly important part as the last-of-its-kind cover-up to stay "in." As a result, manufacturers are turning to bright colors, with prints and full coordination, with bras, slips and bikini pants that match.

Ushers were Calvin Wilcox, Twin Falls, and Mike Smith, Boise. Daria Wilcox registered by Vera Smith, Boise.

Mrs. Phyllis Dietze, Mrs. Dorothy Olsenstein and Mrs. Minnie Thoms served at a reception following the ceremony. The ceremony was at the Colonial House.

We reached for the Moon...

...and grasped it, in the most thrilling achievement of man yet known. For centuries man has dreamed of landing on the moon and now that dream is a reality. Today he stands upon the lunar surface, awed by the universe and exalted by the thought of what he has achieved and will continue to achieve in years to come. We salute the many who contributed to this accomplishment. We salute our astronauts for their daring exploits in the tradition of Columbus and other discoverers. The successful moon landing is the first step in the exploration of space... an exploration we all have a tremendous stake in.

BIDDING REVIEW HELPS MAP PLAY

We are indebted to Frank Parker, king of Boston for today's hand. It is taken from the pages of "Vital Tricks," published by George Coffin in 1937.

South is in a rather risky contract but one that all of us would like to be in.

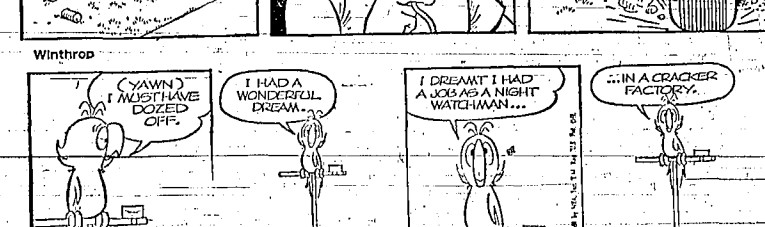

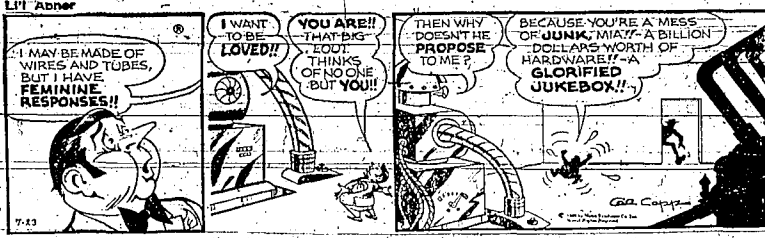

He ruffs the second heart and Analysis of the opening lead and Review of the bidding tell him that West is surely going to show up with the ace of clubs. If East held that card in addition to his good hearts, he would have opened the bidding.

A Count of winners and losers shows South that one club plus six diamonds plus four spades, represents 11 tricks but that he is likely to have only five making four spades and spades and diamonds both fall to break. Then he sees an extra chance in flow can I make this contract?

He immediately leads a club toward dummy. West ducks but South plays the king and leads a second club to put East in with the queen. East would do well to play a trump at this stage of the proceedings but he is careful to ruff with the ace of trumps. Then he leads his five trump-trumps to dummy's eight, ruffs a club with the king of diamonds, enters dummy with a spade, ruffs dummy's last club with the queen of diamonds to dummy's 10, puts West's last trump with the Jack white discarding his fourth spade, and makes the last trick with high spades.

—A dummy referral, however, tells him seven trump, tricks instead of only six.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The first thing Mrs. Sharon Adams wanted to do after sailing more than 5,000 miles across the Pacific alone was to talk. Adams, a sailing instructor, sailed out to meet her near Point Hueneume on Tuesday. "But she had to talk and talk," Mrs. Adams says. "She wanted to see me while she washes her hair."

Deaf Recruit Gains Release From Service

MIAMI (UPI) — A deaf Army recruit who was called "a liar, a traitor, and a coward" because he couldn't pass a hearing test has been discharged after 27 days of servitude. Louis H. His draft notice and a re-affirmation of classification from the state appeared hours after the same day, and he was promptly whisked off to Ft. Jackson, S. C.

AEC To Test Moon Rock

HANFORD, Wash. (UPI) — A portion of the pebbles, rocks and dust scooped off the moon's surface by the Apollo 11 astronauts will be studied at Atomic Energy Commission research laboratories here. A Battelle-Northwest spokesman said the moon material would be brought here for about a week's testing and then taken to Grand Coulee Dam for further research if time is available. He said the analysis of the samples would start here because more radiation counters are available.
