TEN-CENTS

PIONEER DAY OBSERVANCES in several Magic Valley communities Thursday drew many spectators for parades and free barbecues and dinners. From left, a string of pack mules and a float depicting the Mormon pioneer with his hand-drawn cart, were among the entries in the Hagerman celebration.

At Carey, Bishop Oral Stewart and his counselors, Alton Peterson and Millard Meenan, took first place in the church-sponsored driving a surrey which belonged to a pioneer family of the Carey valley. Nixon Proposes Summit

Kennedy Admits Accident Charge

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, leaving many questions unanswered, pleaded guilty today to a charge of leaving the scene of a fatal automobile accident.

By pleading guilty, Kennedy sidestepped the possibility of having to answer questions in court about circumstances surrounding the accident in which Mary Jo Kopechne, a 28-year-old Washington secretary, drowned when a car driven by the senator plunged into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island, which lies across a small channel from Martha's Vineyard.

Kennedy, 37, stood with his eyes cast down as the suspended jail term was announced to the court, which was jammed with more than 160 newsmen and spectators.

WASHINGTON — The thing to remember about the Senate's long ABM debate is that it has not been directed, primarily, at anti-ballistic missiles. The real issue is chaining the Pentagon. It evolves out of a determined drive to apply tight congressional controls to the Department of Defense and its spending programs. President Nixon's planned deployment of the Safeguard missile defense system is a symbol — an important one — in this broader controversy. Opponents are using the Safeguard proposal as a parliamentary pretext for asserting their powers. This other level of the ABM controversy has been implied for months as congressional opponents rallied to fight President Johnson's city-oriented Sentinel.

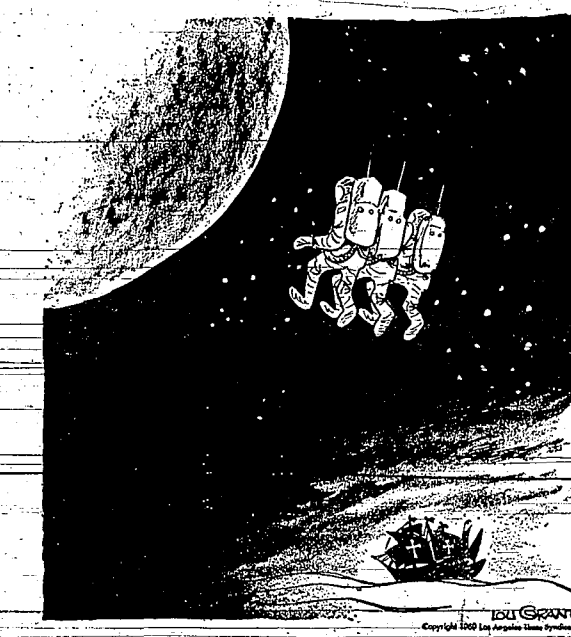

ABM and then shifted to attack Safeguard when President Nixon proposed that it be deployed to protect offensive Minuteman missiles. The aim of ABM opponents is implied no longer. Take it straight from the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. "The real point of the debate is not the ABM as such. The whole point of the debate is an effort on the part of some members of the Senate to reverse some control over the military department. The Senate is the only agency of the government that can do it. I do not exclude President Nixon."

Right Decision

Senator Len Jordan has announced he will support President Nixon's request for deployment of Phase I of the Safeguard Anti-Ballistic Missile System. The Senator should be praised for his decision, made after much thought and his thinking was right from the shoulder and hit the nail right on the head. In plain words, during his talk on the floor of the Senate, he said that "if I am to err in judgment let it be on the side of over-security rather than under-security for the nation."

In defense, to have too much than too little. Senator Jordan said he believed passage of the Safeguard legislation would commit our resources in the most effective manner possible in order to achieve a lasting peace. His action, he said, will permit him to be at peace with his conscience. The ABM debate has been long and, in some instances, personal. Even today the result of the vote which will come soon is not known. It is just that close. But when the vote is taken, and Senator Jordan stands and votes an "aye" for President Nixon's program, we think he is doing the right thing. We compliment him on his stand and Idaho's serious thinking citizens will praise him for it.

Noise Pollution

It has been called the "price of progress" but noise pollution has reached the point where many experts are contending the price is too high. At stake, they say, is the physical and psychological well-being of a large part of the world's population. Dr. Vern O. Knudsen, chancellor emeritus of the University of California and an authority on acoustics, recently said: "Noise, like smog, is a slow agent of death. If it continues for the next 30 years as it has for the last 30, it could become lethal." Industrial workers by the millions suffer from some sort of deafness.

Millions of others are exposed to a constant din which could cause serious hearing loss. Of concern to many authorities is the rising incidence of "community noise" to which even larger numbers of citizens are exposed. Physical ailments, including ulcers, heart diseases, allergies and mental illness have been blamed in part on noise pollution. It is getting worse and will continue to become more destructive until man recognizes that noise pollution, like air and water pollution, is a by-product of civilization which must be controlled.

A File Of Clippings

Louis B. Sturson, who died recently at the age of 80 and who had been a resident of Twin Falls since 1916, apparently had a habit of saving newspaper clippings of one thing or another. The clipping file which was found by relatives after his death really follows no pattern but it did tend to show the varied interests of this pioneer Twin Falls citizen. In any event, Mr. Spectator has acquired the clipping file and spent several interesting and informative hours thumbing through it. It is nothing ornate — just a heavy piece of folder paper with the clippings held inside by a rubber band. What are the clippings about? Let's take a look: One was on the Donnie Quintapolts, born back on Aug 28, 1934 at Callander, Ontario, Canada. One announcing that the "Redmen" were preparing for their music sun dance down on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. Date was July 4, 1937. A large article announcing plans for "Congratious Amelia Earhart" to fly solo around the world. It was dated March 1, 1937. An editorial from the Idaho Evening Times of July 10, 1937 expressing the hope that the American people "are still clinging to the hope" that Amelia Earhart would be found alive. A story about Etta Riley, who operated a millinery business in Twin Falls for years and who was the first charter member of the Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's Club. The date was Dec. 22, 1946. A story by Tom Johnson, then a local reporter, that the high cost of living bothered valley residents back in 1919. The story was written on Dec. 30, 1946. Another that the army, on Nov. 20, 1945 was plowing under $3 million in food and equipment. A clipping about Mrs. Cynthia Abell, Buhl, who celebrated her 101st birthday back in 1950 and could recall events before the Civil War. A story from Washington D. C. and dated Jan. 15, 1959 telling how the few remaining veterans of the Civil War recalled their deeds in the Civil War. A picture from the Twin Falls Daily News on Nov. 14, 1936 showing the San Francisco Bay Bridge (built at a cost of $77 million) on opening day. A story that the population of Twin Falls City had hit 33,000 according to a Chamber of Commerce survey. But Mr. Sturson didn't date the clipping. A story detailing opening of the Royal Bakery in Twin Falls — home of Butternut Bread. The date was June 6, 1926.

The North Will Feel The Lash

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Colleges which submit under pressure to the demands of black students for separate Negro dormitories are liable for prosecution or find cutoffs under the federal laws against segregation in education. Colleges which agree to set up special black courses taught exclusively by black professors or which are limited to black students are likewise liable. That's the word this reporter gets from civil rights men in the Department of Justice, Health, Education and Welfare. These "unlike offshoots" are part of an administration program that will come as a shocker to many northern educators and legislators. Up to now the federal drive for minority rights in schools has centered in 4,477 school districts in 17 southern and border states. By comparison, North, Midwest and West have hardly been touched by the federal men except where individuals brought suits in the courts or initiated complaints. In the new setup, there will be as many federal men working on northern segregation as on southern. Southern administrators say there will be more. Discrimination against non-Negro minorities will receive stronger attention. Civil rights men say in private conversation that the way it looks to them from preliminary surveys, more students may be discriminated against in the North, West and Midwest than in the 17 southern and border states currently attacked. "The discrimination is less open, more subtle, but it is there," says one white administrator. "It is based predominantly on black schools to attend white schools. School buildings are built and school boundaries drawn to create segregation. Teachers are assigned according to color. The Justice Department action on Chicago is a forerunner of what is coming in the North. There is one major problem, an administration men see it, is that teacher assignments have worked out so that black teachers teach blacks and white teachers teach whites. "It doesn't matter," says one IHW civil rights man, "whether the segregation is intentional or unintentional, whether it's desired by the minority or isn't. It's got to go." The drive on the North, Midwest and West is going to be hard sledding. Hidden discrimination is obviously difficult to find and even harder to prove. Says one investigator, "You may have to be in a northern district for days before you see the discrimination. The unfairness may be that subtle. In the South, state laws have provided for dual-school systems. These are easily seen and easily attacked. In the North, the discrimination is not only hidden, but the techniques vary so great from district to district that each case must be studied individually and in depth. There are something over 6,000 Northern, Midwest and Western districts to be checked out, excluding, for the time being, at least those with fewer than 3,000 pupils. In many of course, there likely will be few discrimination problems. But the administration men believe they are going to find serious violations spotted through the North, Midwest and West involving large numbers of students in the aggregate. Some investigators are especially suspicious of conditions in a number of big city systems. In some cases it will be Negroes; in others students of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Indian, Asian or other backgrounds. The thing to watch for, says one IHW aide, is when the pupils on one school in a district are 80 per cent from the minority groups or when the percentage of minority students seems to be on the upswing — in contrast to what's happening in other schools in the area. Or when you notice the black or other minority teachers seem to be concentrated in a few schools.

On Shoveling

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do doctors tell men not to shovel snow? I have been told that it is the exact reason. I had an open heart surgery (Vineberg operation) and was told by a cardiologist that, when you shovel snow, you are not supposed to, but leave that job to the ladies. Since my operation I have been very careful about the things I do before, but not shoveling snow. — J.G.

No, he'll keep going, puffing or not, to get the job finished and done. There are other types of heavy, sudden strain-pushing-stalled cases, lugger heavy objects which are not a good idea. But because of a combination of factors, shoveling the walks is risky. You don't have to "leave it to the ladies." They, especially after menopause, can have heart attacks, too. But there usually are some husky young males you can hire. And these snow-blowing machines require little effort.

PAUL HARVEY

Blow In My Ear

Around Washington recently they've been repeating a crude analogy intended to describe our President's support of the Vietnam war. They're saying he's like a man whose best friend got a girl into trouble and he, Nixon, felt obligated to marry her. On one hand, President Nixon has been yielding to home-front pressure for disengagement while, on the other hand, he continues warily to defend the present Saigon government. Must we remain betrothed to President Thieu? It is entirely possible that a foreign policy, expedient under a President Eisenhower, may now be outdated. Yet despite the conviction that a self-interest foreign policy, once denounced as "isolationism," is now the only workable alternative. Our increasing unpopularity in Southeast Asia and demonstrations against American institutions worldwide attest to the bankruptcy of Interventionism. In Latin America, where other American handouts have often supported unpopular governments, we are, restricted, resisted; our diplomats and presidential emissaries are unuseful. Yet despite the conviction that a self-interest foreign policy, once denounced as "isolationism," is now the only workable alternative. has labeled all critics of our Vietnam involvement "neo-experts" who "don't know what they're talking about." Agreeing with the Nixon Administration is "not going to default on the commitment of four Presidents." That latter quote contradicts at least one of President Nixon's own pronouncements, to the effect that we will not again, alone, defend any of the 41 other nations with which we have mutual defense treaties. The President has recognized the mathematical impossibility of such a polygenetic commitment. I have promised that we will not again "go it alone" as we have, except for token purposes, in Vietnam. So we are learning — but we have not yet learned — that our best possible usefulness to our fellow inhabitants of this planet will not serve us an agenda but as a lightning-bolt. Overextension, has severely damaged American interests. Foreignly, we were told that "isolationism" wouldn't work because we "need world markets." Now we are seeing American markets preempted and American investments abroad confiscated. Ironically, for the most part, we are the best trouble-makers on the globe who have spent the most money. That should tell us — U.S. — to mind our own business. If we do that — mind our own business — efficiently and profitably, we may again lead the world.

You need some basic knowledge to understand the reasons. Heart attacks occur when the blood supply to the heart muscles is shut off or sharply curtailed. What causes heart attacks? Several things. The heart itself may be overworked. It may be strained by an faulty valve. But an even more common problem is hardening of the arteries. This artery walls protrude into the arteries, deposits in the arteries a narrow space through which the blood flows. Sufficient blood may trickle through, but the patient notices no heart disease symptoms. But suppose an embolus — a clot of some sort — lodges at some narrow point in the artery? That obviously, can shut off the blood flow. If this occurs in a branch of the artery that feeds the heart muscle, the result is a heart attack. So where does snow shoveling come in? Well, with heavy exertion, there can be a further increase in the pressure in the walls of the arteries. This can make the difference — a small defect might of itself cause no trouble, but with this additional narrowing, obstruction or a clot may occur. Snow shoveling is in some respect a class by itself. First, it makes sure you are using all you can to relieve the problem. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper requesting the booklet, "How To Deal With Arteriosclerosis," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope that costs 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Following prostate surgery two years ago, the surgeon told me I should never, under any circumstances, drink any coffee, tea or alcohol. I have followed this another doctor told me I should drink all the liquids I could, including coffee, tea, cocoa and beer. I have been a member of the surgery I had undergone. I am now thoroughly confused. V.R.J. I agree with the second doctor. Enjoy yourself. Troubled with vertigo lately? Filer Musician On European Tour

BY MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News Correspondent

FILER—Two months to spend in historic old cities of Europe, touring places rich in ancient musical history and atmosphere in the company of other young music students—this is the enchanted summer just beginning for Laura Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Vincent, and her friend, Merle Cooper, Sacramento, Calif.

Miss Cooper, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Cooper, had been Miss Vincent's roommate at Music Camp in Sun Valley which both girls attended for three years.

The two girls left July 10 by plane for Salt Lake City where they traveled non-stop to New York City. They planned to spend a few days seeing the sights of New York and attending a performance of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. They left July 13 for Munich, Germany, first stop on their trip.

The group will study two weeks in Munich, before its members leave for Gastein, Austria, for further study. While at Gastein, they will attend the well-known music festival in the city. They will return to Munich for more lessons which will include introductions to music, ancient music history, lives of famous composers, private lessons and performance sessions.

This tour is sponsored by the Foreign Study League and is being taken by a large group of musically-inclined students through the United States. Miss Vincent is the only representative from Idaho.

Two weeks will be spent in Vienna, and then the group will travel to Paris. Each place they stay will be highlighted by short trips to see local points of interest. The group will take a voyage down the Seine River in France. The return trip home will be by ocean liner, and will take nine days, bringing them home around August 31.

Each group of 20 young people will be accompanied by an adult counselor. Instruments will be provided for them during the classes since they will be unable to take their own along. On the flight over, each will only be allowed 44 pounds of luggage.

Both Miss Vincent and Miss Cooper speak German quite fluently, which will be a big asset to them. Miss Vincent, a senior this fall, studied for four years in the Filer school.

The young pianist already has a well-rounded musical background. She has studied with Mrs. Tonja Bellini, Twin Falls, for a number of years. At Sun Valley music camp, she studied with Dr. Walter Goldner, director of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

She was the state student number one winner in the 1968 state music auditions. She served as guest soloist with the Idaho State Symphony, at Idaho Falls where she had auditioned for the position.

She was chosen to play at the Idaho State Federation of Music Clubs Convention at the Idaho College, and has received six superior ratings in music festivals in Twin Falls.

Miss Vincent also has studied ballet at the Beverly Haddock Studios. She was eagerly looking forward to the tour which she termed "a lifetime opportunity to learn and study in the advanced culture of Europe and to meet new people and see all the countries."

Boys Win Cooking Prizes In Blueberry Festival

SMITHVILLE, N.J. (UPI)—Remember when boys thought cooking was strictly for girls? Times have changed. Now boys not only enter cooking contests in a competition at the New Jersey Blueberry Festival here, three of the four prizes were won by boys—the two teen-aged sons of a United Methodist minister.

The state-wide contest was open to 8-to-18-year-olds, including all high school home economics students and members of the 4-4 Club and Future Homemakers of America.

Timothy Bowen, 13, and his brother, Thomas, 13, sons of the Rev. Ezra H. Bowen, taught the recipe contest that drew more than 200 entrants. While they were greatly outnumbered by girls in the contest, their 4-4 leader and interest in cooking is evenly balanced between girls and boys in the Beach Haven Club.

The same holds true in the Bowen family. Timothy said in an interview that two of their three sisters also had entered for prizes in the contest. Their 4-4 leader and interest in cooking is evenly balanced between girls and boys in the Beach Haven Club.

The boys said they were so intent on winning that they'd entered almost all eight categories. Timothy skipped only two, and Thomas, one. The older boy had two semifinal winners—his sister and the lightly-sweetened blueberry angel cake mold that was his first prize of a $500 college fund.

Their 4-4 club members had the $100 savings bond and the $100 prize of 100 for blueberry apple butter.

Their feminine competition was just as keen. A contest official said many entered four or five categories each. One girl won first prize for parents to make a 240-mile round trip by car from their north New Jersey home so she could enter. Their 4-4 club members were sold at auction.

The $247 proceeds went to the Future Homemakers and 4-4 organizations.

Lose of The Week Reported By TOPS Club

Mrs. Darrell Sweet although on a trip, lost weight, and she said the group the reason why she was the first to lose weight was the list of daily reminders made out and given to her by the program leader, Mrs. Bob Niven. Mrs. Niven plus to do this for anyone in the group planning to be gone on vacation. For penalties, the girls again gave the pig-a-sweep. In Mrs. Niven's opinion, she had a bulletin board on a wall in the name in the square contest which began with the evening's weight recordings.

For the program next week Mrs. Fred Howard asked that each member bring a baby or small girl picture of herself. Mrs. Charles Johnson sent a thank you card to the club.

Mrs. J. O. Cox gave a cash number—present a thank you card for anyone in the group a commitment to the lady.

Cut remaining cake into cubes, dipping knife into hot water after each slice. Refrigerate cake cubes at least 3 hours. Sprinkle envelope of unfrozen gelatin on 1/2 cup of water in medium saucepan. Let stand 5 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, 1/4 cup of sugar, 1/2 cup of cream and 1 quart of fresh blueberries. Heat, stirring frequently, until mixture boils. Layer half the cake cubes in a 9-quoter turban mold. Pour half the sauce and lightly press down the cake. Add remaining cake cubes and press down. Cover with a thin top of mold. Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a Taurus (born April 24) and I am very tired and have with a Scorpio (born Oct. 26).

First, let me explain that before I knew anything about the zodiac, I foolishly married a Sagittarius, so our marriage was doomed from the start.

My Scorpio married an Aries (and I have since found out they would have made excellent business partners, but their temperaments were all wrong for marriage).

Anyway, my Scorpio has left his Aries, but I can't get rid of my Sagittarius. I'd divorce him but I have no grounds, and he won't divorce me, although he has all the grounds he needs.

My horoscope says I should move over important decisions of the heart until after the first of next year but I just can't spend a night in a Christmas with this miserable man.

My lawyer says that he (my husband) should be the one to move out, but my husband says "I'm not happy here" and I don't think I should do the moving. There is a lot at stake (financially) and I don't want to spoil everything. Can you help?

TAURUS

DEAR ABBY: I need an unbiased opinion on something. I drove over to my husband's of nice one night. He has a bedroom there for when he stays in town. Much to my surprise, his ex-wife was there. They were in the bedroom with the lights off and the door locked. He claims they were only "talking." He said the lights were off because he hates her so much he couldn't stand to look at her face.

There is a desk and two chairs for conversation so it wasn't necessary for them to be in the bedroom.

First, would you believe they were only talking? Second, would there be a reasonable doubt in your mind?

ROSITA

DEAR ABBY: I am about to lose my mind. My father is 73 years old, retired, has no financial worries, and he lives alone in a very nice, modern home.

My problem is in getting someone to take care of him for another. The last one (a very unattractive, common woman in her middle sixties) was an excellent housekeeper, and I paid her double what she could get anywhere else, and she quit after one week!

They quit but her why, she said she'd rather not say, but she did agree to clean for him daily if I would come over and stay in the house with her, or her double what she could get anywhere else, and she quit after one week!

'Smoothest' Operation Lifts Spacemen From Ocean

BOARD USS HORNET (UDR)-At 5:08 a.m. in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, Lt. Clancey Hulseberg, 24, a frogman with the curious appellation "big swimmer," dropped into the dark seas around the Apollo 11 spacecraft, slipped a thumbs-up to the helicopter hovering above.

Michael Collins' voice came over the radio: "Our condition is excellent—all three. Everything take your sweet time."

Hulseberg and three other U.S. Navy frogmen—John Wolfgram, 29, of Fort Atkinson, Wis.; Lt. (jg) Wes Chesler, 22, of Arlington, Va.; and Mike Malloy, 23, of Alderwood Manor, Wash.—were the first men of a massive recovery effort to reach the Apollo 11 astronauts in an operation that took an hour but went as smoothly as any in memory.

"There were sharks all over the place," when he and the other frogmen dropped into the water, Hulseberg reported afterward. "The helicopter kept coming down and giving us a sign. The helos spotted them and scared them off, I guess."

He said the sea "was the roughest we've seen since we first came out a couple of weeks ago" as the frogmen lashed a flotation collar around the spacecraft and inflated two seven-man rubber rafts. Hulseberg and the astronauts decontaminated each other in one raft and the three other swimmers moved upwind of them in the second.

"They were really glad to get out of there," said Hulseberg of the astronauts. "We couldn't talk to each other because of the isolation suits. We tried but everything came out garbled. 'Boy, that raft really bounced around.' One wave about knocked all of us out."

The operation was "tonguey because of the extreme precautions taken to quarantine the astronauts from the moment Hulseberg opened the spacecraft hatch and pushed in three biological isolation garments (BIGs). He was wearing one himself—a bulky, drab hygienic coverall with a gas mask to filter any germs."

Hulseberg slammed the hatch closed and the astronauts donned the garments inside the spacecraft. Minutes later it opened again and the astronauts started coming out into the bobbing liferaft.

The frogman and the space-men together slammed the hatch closed again and then Hulseberg sprayed outside with a powerful germ-killing solution containing iodine, which stained it a mustard yellow, and then scrubbed it down.

By 5:35, the frogman had completed decontaminating the spacecraft. The Hornet was 15 miles away, steaming toward the scene.

Then the four men started swabbing each other's quarantine suits down with sodium hypochlorite, a common household cleaning product and strong disinfectant.

At 6:50 a.m., the first astronaut was hoisted into the chief recovery helicopter, piloted by Cmdr. Donald S. Jones, 41, of Madison, Wis. The Hornet was 1,200 yards away. By 6:53 all three astronauts were on Jones' "Old-66" prime recovery helicopter with them: Dr. William Carpenter, 33, the Canadian-born doctor, who would be going with them into quarantine.

Lt. (jg) Bruce A. Johnson, 25, of Special Beach, captain of "Old-66," said one of the spacemen "gave me the thumbs up; they seemed glad to get back to the ship."

The helicopter touched down on the Hornet's flight deck and the astronauts spent 12 seconds on the deck long enough to walk to the aluminum ladder which will be their quarantine facilities until they arrive at a special lunar receiving laboratory at the manned spacecraft center at Houston Sunday morning.

Every step the astronauts took was followed "by a technician spraying, decontaminating from a fire-extinguisher like canister. An unarmed Marine guard was posted outside."

The astronauts disappeared inside but a moment later one of their faces appeared at a window and cheers swept the hangar deck.

Bells, Cheers Resound

By United Press International

An Arkansas broadcaster called it a fireworks. The governor of Iowa's secretaries rang bells. San Francisco traffic slowed to a crawl to mark the triumphant return Tuesday of the first men to set foot on the moon.

Downtown area bars reported standing room only in Chicago as the televised splashdown. At the Pacific Garden Mission on Chicago's skid row, the transients agreed "it was the greatest thing since the discovery of Columbus sailed into Plymouth Rock (sic)."

"I think it's fabulous, just fabulous. Imagine, men walked on the moon," said Mrs. Kathy Hyde of San Francisco said.

But in a Madison, Wis., town square, the celebration rained. "This is the greatest hoax perpetrated on mankind. These guys in Nevada take the whole time to never more than 30 feet off the ground."

A 50-gun salute was fired at the Army's Presidio of San Francisco.

At Little Rock, Ark., radio and television stations KARK hired fireworks experts to deliver a salute of 21 aerial bombs.

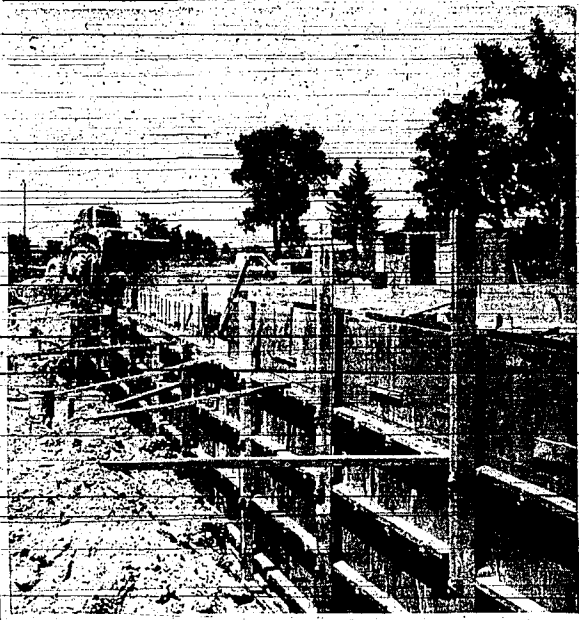

In New York City, 500 business and government leaders watched the splashdown on a 35-foot television screen which their host Western Union International, called the world's largest, the similar structure erected for the splashdown in the mansion of the Lord Mayor of London.

In San Francisco, police reported that traffic fell off in the city's financial district. Illinois Bell Telephone Co. reported a shelve drop in phone calls during the splashdown.

In Des Moines, Iowa, Gov. Robert D. Taylor's secretary grabbed a bell presented by Japan's Jamanishi province, and a replica of the Liberty Bell and rang them five times on the capitol grounds, one ring for each astronaut, and for President Nixon and one for the gods.

Chicago's water department said it appeared that water consumption was below normal during the splashdown. Afterward "when all the people who were sitting in front of this TV got up and went to the bathroom."

At Montclair, N.J., astronaut Buzz Aldrin's home town, civil defense, police and fire crews were alerted and a banner proclaiming "Well Done Buzz Aldrin" stretched across a main street. At Aldrin's old high school, the school band played a "Buzz In" concert. And with the safe return of the astronauts, the first moon landing jokes were being told. In one Wisconsin newspaper office, a dozen televisioners insisted, "When they opened the capsule, a bloated green man with three eyes and webbed feet popped out and belched."

FORMS ARE READY for pouring of the foundation and basement of the new indoor theater being constructed at Eastland Drive and Kimberly Road. Mr. Roy Roper, president of the theater, says the contractor-work is on schedule. The completion date is Nov. 1. Ullman Construction Co., Twin Falls, is the general contractor for the project.

Administration Disapproves 'Inadequate' Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Democratic leaders offered a five-month extension of the income tax surcharge as a compromise Thursday, but the administration objected on grounds it did not go far enough.

The House Ways and Means Committee, meanwhile, gave tentative approval to all revenue-raising measures, including comprehensive tax reform bill, but put off until next week a decision on a proposal to increase the standard 10 percent income tax deduction.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who had held up Senate consideration of the surcharge extension until a tax reform measure comes out of the House, agreed to a vote on extending the surcharge for five months until Nov. 30, as opposed to the administration request for a year's extension to next June 30.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy said the five-month extension was inadequate. "I don't think this does the job," he said, asking the Senate to promptly approve the House-passed bill extending the surcharge to 10 percent for the rest of this year and at 5 percent for the first six months of 1970.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen said the Democratic plan was "neither fair nor equitable" and probably could not pass anyway. Mansfield presented it on a take-or-leave-it basis with the only alternative being no Senate consideration of the surtax extension until a tax reform bill is before the Senate—something that might take months to accomplish.

Although quick floor action was expected on the tax reform measure tentatively approved Thursday by the Ways and Means Committee, the bill could spend months in hearings by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Ways and Means Committee agreed Thursday to eliminate double depreciation of all new buildings, with the exception of housing, including apartment dwellings. The panel also decided to propose broad restrictions on deductions taken by persons who have tax-free income along with taxable income.

Other tentative proposals previously agreed on would boost annual revenue as much as $5 billion in the next several years. These included a reduction from 27.5 to 20 percent in the oil-depletion allowance.

The Senate agreement on a five-month extension was announced at a Tuesday night meeting of members of the Democratic Policy Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, headed by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.

Study Asked Into Local Food Effort

Neighborhood Council members of Twin Falls County meeting Wednesday night voted to make a further investigation into the statement on initiating a food program for low income families in the county.

Larry Mack, Community Action Committee, said the local county commissioners voted to accept the food stamp program here but the Department of Agriculture has indicated food stamp and surplus commodity programs cannot both be authorized in a single state.

Some 23 other counties are operating a surplus commodity program system.

Mr. Mack said the Neighborhood Council plans to write letters to the agencies to obtain in writing an explanation of the regulations.

Are You Tired?

by VIRGIL D. WEIMER
Pastor, Church of the Brethren

Tiredness comes in many degrees and is caused by several factors. There is a good feeling about being tired which results from honest activity.

When a person has labored long hours at a vocation, tiredness can be relaxed and enjoyed. For he finds a sense of satisfaction in a job well done and can look forward to a period of relaxation, rest, and recuperation knowing that such a time has been well earned by honest labor.

This kind of tiredness with its earned period of rest is commendable, for it is part and parcel of a well lived life and receives divine approval. For after God had finished His creation and saw that it was good, "God rested on the seventh day and can look forward to a period of relaxation, rest, and recuperation knowing that such a time has been well earned by honest labor.

DENVER — For the first time in the 122-year U.S. history of the Missouri Synod, the Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, an incumbent president has been defeated for re-election.

Rev. Dr. Oliver Harms, president since 1962, was turned out of office by an awesome political machine which combined anti-evolutionists, political rightists, and enthusiastic saboteurs of fellowship with fellow Lutheran denominations.

The juggernaut not only ousted Harms but also ousted his altar fellowship with the American Lutheran Church, but replaced him with a recent convert from the ultra-conservative Norwegian Lutheran Synod, a man who once asked his denomination to sever relationships with the Missouri Synod.

Rev. Dr. Jacob O. G. Preus, who replaces Harms, explained to a press conference here that he had transferred his allegiance to the ultra-conservative after his call to Concordia Seminary (in Springfield, Illinois) of which he is now president.

Today's Market And Financial Report

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Blue chips led a sharp stock market decline Friday in fairly light trading.

Some pre-weekend portfolio tightening added to the negative pressure already at work on the market. Investors continued to be cautious in face of the prospect of lower corporate profits and a continuation in expansion in the fourth quarter of 1969 and the first quarter of 1970.

The deadlock between the administration and the senate over the income tax surcharge was still another negative factor. The Nixon administration has rejected a compromise offered by senate Democrats which allow for extension of the surtax until November when comprehensive tax reform legislation can be voted on.

The Dow Jones blue chip industrial average fell 6.86 to 7,000.00 compared to 9,000.00 Thursday.

Social Security Question Box

If you have any questions concerning social security benefits or qualifications, address them to: Tom Davis, Box 1339, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Q — My question is about a 57 year old widow who is severely crippled by arthritis. She has never worked under social security herself. Can she get any social security benefits before she is age 60?

A — She may be eligible for what we call the disabled widow's benefit. The eligibility requirements for this payment have to be fully insured; (2) she must be age 50 or older; (3) she must be totally disabled; (4) she must have been disabled before her husband's death, or within seven years after his death, or if she received benefits because she had minor children in her care — within seven years after these payments terminated.

Q — The second part of my question is, what evidence would she need to get this payment?

A — She would need to present evidence of her age and her marriage certificate. When she files her application, arrangements will be made to get medical reports from her doctors.

A — The last part of my question concerns how much a disabled woman age 57 could receive. Would this widow receive as much as age 67 if she could qualify as she would if she waited until age 60 or 62 to apply?

A — No. This benefit is a reduced benefit — the reduction being based on the number of months she is eligible before reaching age 62. For example, at age 59 the disabled widow's benefit would be 60 per cent of her deceased husband's benefit, while if she started receiving payments at 62 it would be 75 per cent. This reduced amount does not increase at age 62 but continues as long as she receives benefits.

Magic Valley's Week-End Farm Paper

LOOKING OVER SOME of the 75 Polled Hereford cows purchased by the Morlunda Farms, Lewisburg, W. Va., are left, Herschel Boydston, head of the agricultural department, College of Southern Idaho, Truman Lawrence, manager of the Morlunda Farms, and Tom Callen, Rogerson rancher. Mr. Lawrence came to Rogerson to see the cattle on the advice of Mr. Boydston, while both were attending the recent National Polled Progress Clinic at Moscow, Mr. Callen furnished the steers for the clinic, which Mr. Lawrence said were outstanding.

Easterner Buys 75 Cows From Tom Callen

Idaho has been known for many years as a top potato state. However, soon it will be known as a top cattle producing state. Mr. Lawrence was in Moscow recently for the National Polled Hereford Progress Clinic when he met Mr. Boydston. At the clinic, Mr. Boydston talked with Mr. Lawrence, who after a few days was planning on buying cattle in North Dakota. He urged him to see some of the herds of the state before going on to North Dakota.

Mr. Callen had furnished 10 top quality steers for the clinic and after seeing the carcasses of the ten and talking with Mr. Callen, Mr. Lawrence decided to visit the Callen herd.

After looking at two Canadian herds, immediately after the clinic, Mr. Lawrence, along with Mr. Boydston, went to Rogerson and examined Mr. Callen's producing herd — particularly the Callen herd.

In examining the Callen herd, Mr. Lawrence said these cows are the type of animals that will fill all phases of the beef industry, whether it be for commercial, purebred, feedlot or for packers.

After close examination of the cattle and their pedigrees, Mr. Lawrence purchased 75 cows from Mr. Callen in September. Mr. Lawrence will pick up the cows by truck and haul them to West Virginia to join his famous Polled Hereford herd.

About 400 purebred cows and about 400 commercial cows are run on the Morlunda Farms, Mr. Lawrence said. Also Mr. Lawrence produces top quality show cattle.

During the 1968 show circuit, Morlunda Farms placed either in first or second place in 28 shows. These shows were all top national shows where competition is tough, says Mr. Lawrence.

Mr. Lawrence said he came here on Mr. Boydston's word alone and as a result, Idaho will be known as a top cattle state.

Tour Slated For Farmer Candidates

RUPERT — A tour of the farming operations of the candidates for the 1969 Outstanding Farmer of the Year award presented by the Rupert Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Aug. 12.

In the past, the tour has been held just prior to the Outstanding Farmer banquet, which will be Nov. 6, but the chamber's agricultural committee voted to hold the tour earlier in the year in order to view the candidate's fields across the state.

Names of the candidates have not yet been released, and July 28 is the deadline for nomination. To date candidates have been nominated by the Emerson Grange, Pioneer Grange, Rupert Grange, Farm Bureau and the Utah-Idaho Farmers Union.

Candidates will be judged on the following criteria: attitude toward the community and their farms; appearance of their operation; use of natural resources; livestock care of their livestock; and machinery, and their conservation practices. The November banquet will be held in the St. Nicholas Parish Hall.

Gary Bradshaw Named Gooding Grassman

GOODING — Gary Bradshaw was selected Gooding County Grassman after a tour recently by a three-man judging committee. Thirty people participated in the half-day tour starting in Wendell and ending near Bliss.

Ed Koester, Gooding County agent, said the condition of the pastures and the pasture management were very good. A real cap of the highlights of the tour show each contestant has a plan of pasture management, which fits his total operation. Each contestant gave reports on his operations.

The Bradshaws, Gary and his father, Kenneth, acquired their ranch five years ago. After running their cattle on the range they decided to change their operation and purchase calves to pasture on the ranch.

They selected to develop 300 acres of sandy, rough land, most of which had not been irrigated prior to installing the sprinkling system. The water is pumped from the canal with 250 acres being handled by one pump and 50 acres by a second. The pumps handled two feet of irrigation water.

Gary estimates the carrying capacity of the pastures has been increased eight to nine times by seeding and irrigating. The sprinkler system includes one mile of mainline with ten laterals, each one-quarter of a mile in length. Mr. Bradshaw noted it costs about $1 per acre per month for power to pump the water. It also costs $32.50 per day to change the pipe.

A new feature to most of the tour members was the fertilizer plan. A nitrogen tank is connected to the sprinkler system so nitrogen can be applied with each irrigation. The plan is to apply 10 pounds of available nitrogen with each irrigation every nine days.

The pasture seeding rate was 15 pounds of orchard grass and six pounds of yellow sweet clover. Gary believes he gets a real boost from the sweet clover for the first two years and then it practically disappears. He seeded much of this with 100 pounds of mixed grain, but now it was very difficult to move the pipe.

Although Bradshaw did not have absolute weight gains, he said they had received a 1.6 pound gain for a 10-month period, which included a winter feeding period. At the time of the tour, 800 head of cattle were on pasture.

There are 80 acres of hay and grain that are gravely irrigated. Some of the waste water is pumped and reused.

Gary has also improved 200 acres of dry range by seeding Nordan created wheat grass. There is a total of 300 acres of dry land included in the ranch. He believes seeding the created wheat doubled the grazing capacity. About 450 head were pastured one month this spring on the dry land.

The judges calculated the carrying capacity on the sprinkled pasture at three yearlings per acre. A good set of corral is very helpful in feeding the cattle easily and a dipping vat is very helpful in fly and insect control. Ordinarily the cattle are put through the dipping vat about once a month during the summer months.

The first stop was at the Rex Johnson farm northwest of Wendell. The Johnsons acquired their farm eight years ago. The original farm was only 40 acres and much of that was waste re-

525 Rams Expected For Filer Sale

FILER—Twenty-seven of Idaho's top purebred sheep breeders are preparing 525 of the best quality 200 registered and range rams for consignment to the Idaho Ram Sale, to be held Aug. 2 on the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds here.

The sale will get under way at 9:45 a.m. with range offerings of Suffolks, Suffolk-Hampshires, Columbias and Targhees.

Improved prices for wool and wool this year give added impetus to this Suffolk sale and buyers from many parts of the West are expected to place bids on the purebred-Suffolk studs, as well as the range ram offerings.

These rams have all been closely inspected by qualified professional inspectors. The highest standard possible is assured the buyers.

The Idaho Ram Sale has built a reputation for quality over the past 48 years—the sale has been held in Filer. According to the sale committee chairman, Fred Edlund, Carey, it has been recognized through the years as an important factor in building better sheep flocks in the Western States.

For the first time, states L. M. Williams, Boise, secretary of the Idaho Wool Growers Association, facts to prove a ram's ability will be offered on certain selection. This is from the University of Idaho.

The animal science department of the College of Agriculture has provided research data such as single or twin, weight at 120 days, over all evaluation at 120 days, and rate of gain on feeding trial after weaning. The latter point is secondary to gain during the first four months, Williams said, but it is important in predicting the kind of feeder lamb the ram can be expected to produce.

Auctioneer of the sale will be Col. Ellis White, Ontario, Ore. The Idaho Wool Growers Association is conducting the sale.

Record Seen

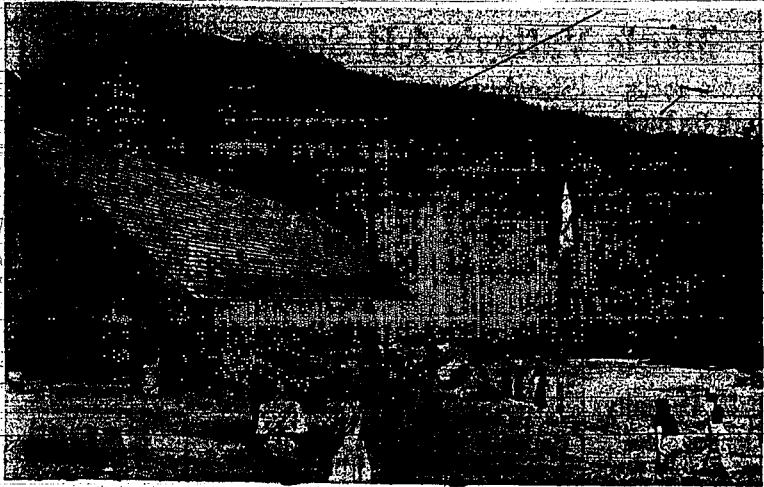

MADRID — A new record is expected to be established in Spanish chicken farms, as it is estimated that egg production will go over the 600 million mark in 1969.

The figure for 1968 — 580 million — had been the highest achieved up to then.

Onion Crop Down

Idaho farmers can expect to harvest 3,900 acres of onions this year, reports the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This is down 200 acres from last year, but 500 acres above the 1957 level. Although some stands are thin, present growing conditions are reported excellent.

Magic Valley 4-H'ers Now Have Camp To Call Home

KETCHUM—Doing one's own thing seems to be "in" these days, and the kind of things a 4-H camp accomplishes are good things.

After years of hard work and many cash donations, the Central Idaho 4-H District finally has a camp to call home, and what a camp it is. The main lodge, costing over $40,000, was built entirely with cash and private donations.

The next phase of the camp project is to build cabins to accommodate about 200 people. This 4-H Camp, located amidst the trees, just north of Ketchum near the Russian-John-Ranger Station, was dedicated last week by state and local officials. Guest speaker was Pete Cernarsa, secretary of state, who praised the camp and its purpose.

Farnum Warr, Milner, member of the camp's executive board, said sleeping facilities are to be constructed as cash becomes available. A total of 17 cabins are scheduled to be constructed. He added cabins lodge and restroom facilities have been constructed, cabins will soon be built at the site.

Demonstrations Highlight Area 4-H Meetings

SHOSHONE—Members of the Handi-Helpers 4-H Club learned about fabrics when they made a trip to Tinglewells at Gooding. Mrs. Harold Williams is their leader.

Phyllis Faught gave a demonstration on how to knit. Carol Swarner, Carol Williams and Ruth Faught gave a demonstration on outdoor cooking by preparing a hamburger dinner in a package for each member over a camp fire.

A lesson on basting and making an apron was given the Sewing Susie's 4-H club. Myra Swarner gave the 4-H pledge and Pledge of Allegiance. Tammy Kinney conducted the meeting and Debbie Scott led the singing. An outing was planned.

Other camp activities include horseshoe pitching, hiking and fishing.

Although the main lodge and restroom facilities have been in use since 1968, there are no permanent sleeping facilities at the site. So, come rain or shine, the 4-H'ers have to sleep in squad tents, erected during camp period for that purpose.

Top Herds On North Side Are Listed

JEROME—Twenty-five herds in the Gooding-Jerome-Lincoln Dairy Herd Improvement Association, unit two, averaged over 1.25 pounds of butterfat daily per cow during May.

Protect Beans with Cygon

controls mites, aphids, leafhoppers, leaf miners, tygus

Can be used up to and including day of harvest

Cygon® 267 Systemic Insecticide is more effective than other compounds because it kills by both contact and systemic action. It gives high initial kill, then continues as a systemic protector—working from within the plant to resist "weathering" that often shortens the effective life of other materials.

Cygon is economical, too. Because it has long-lasting activity and is used at low rates, a little goes a long way. Cygon is also a low-hazard material—and when used according to directions, there are no residue problems.

For further information, contact your local insecticide supplier. Before using any pesticide, stop and read the label.

During the meeting Robert Alexander, Twin Falls attorney, told fertilizer dealers how the "truth in lending" law works and how it applies to most all fertilizer dealers in the valley as well as to other types of businesses that give credit to the consumer.

Mr. Alexander also explained each requirement of the law and showed a film strip on how the regulation works.

Bureau To Implement Sale Law

BOISE — The Bureau of Land Management announced today that regulations have been published and applications will now be accepted in the land office for sale of small acreages of public land authorized by Public Law 90-516.

The law applies to public tracts of agricultural land not exceeding 120 acres and no intentional trespass has taken place on or before Sept. 25, 1968, the date on which the public law was passed. In some cases adjoining landowners have cultivated this land, unaware of their trespass.

Land qualifying for sale must not be required for public purpose and must either have been cultivated or be suitable for cultivation but insufficient in acreage to qualify for homestead or desert entry.

Land office manager Orval Hadley explained that the lands may be sold at public auction for not less than the appraised fair market value. Owners of adjoining lands will have a preference right to purchase the lands if they meet the highest bid. A preference right purchaser will not be required to pay for any improvements he has made to the land, but will be required to pay for prior unauthorized use.

Hadley said that the law which expires in September, 1971, has the objective of providing better private tenure for cultivable lands which are best suited for utilization in connection with adjoining private operation.

SHOSHONE — Wood River Grange members will provide a $25 scholarship to 4-H club congress for one of the 4-H members in either the Wood River or Shoshone or Handy Homemakers clubs.

Flood Control And Irrigation Provided

BOISE — As we move into the peak of the irrigation season, the water supply on all federal reclamation projects throughout the Pacific Northwest is as good as or better than normal, says Regional Director H. T. Nelson of the Bureau of Reclamation.

"The past winter and spring seasons," he continues, "provided wide variations in weather conditions—ranging from heavy precipitation and snowfall to extended periods of extremely dry conditions."

"Despite these problems, by successively updating our water forecasts I appear that after meeting the irrigation requirements for this season, there will still remain substantial holdover storage in most of the reclamation reservoirs throughout the Pacific Northwest. These will be of considerable importance should we have a low water year next year," Mr. Nelson concluded.

For the Little Wood River area, the total runoff for the past season was the largest in 20 years of recording, says the Bureau of Reclamation office. The peak inflow into the reservoir was 3,000 c.f.s. as compared to a previous maximum flow of 2,680 c.f.s. reported in 1957.

Evacuation of storage in Little Wood River Reservoir, which has a capacity of 30,000 acre-feet, began in February.

Although some minor flooding damage was experienced in the area, the difference between the regulated peak of 1,500 c.f.s. and the unregulated inflow of 3,000 c.f.s. would have created major flood damage had not the reservoir been in operation," says the release from the Boise director's office.

Support Price For Shorn Wool Is Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department recently set the government support price for shorn wool marketed in 1970 at 72 cents a pound, up 3 cents from the 1969 level.

At the same time, the department set the 1970 mohair support at 80.2 cents a pound, an increase of 2.8 cents over 1969.

The new wool level was dictated by law. The National Wool Act, which expires after the 1970 season, pegs wool supports to a formula based on farm costs. Mohair supports, by law, are tied closely to the wool price.

The department added that the price of "pulled wool," taken from sheep and lambs slaughtered for meat, supported at a level comparable to the price for shorn wool.

BIG LUNKER, the second taken from a "favorite fishing hole" in the Snake River, is displayed by Jim Nice, Kimberly Road. The seven-pound, 14-ounce Rainbow trout was taken Thursday morning and don't bother to ask exactly where on Snake River — on night crawlers. The fish was 28 inches long, 16 inches around. Nice had a little trouble with the fish since he neglected to take a net, but he waded out into deep water and played the fish completely out before landing him. The reason the spot on the river is so secret and favorite is Nice took an eight and one-half pounder out of 14 years ago.

Lolich Boils Over Actions By McLain

WASHINGTON with McLain on Monday, without a way home. "He told me he was in a hurry, that he had to fly down to Florida or someplace," Lolich said. "I understand he has some real estate of a house near Lakeland."

McLain, last year's 21-game winner and 145 this year, was slated to be the American League's starting pitcher for the All-Star contest Tuesday night. But when it was washed plain after McLain left him stranded in Washington after Wednesday's All-Star game.

Clay Given Five-Year Jail Term

HOUSTON (UPI)—If it hadn't been for the Black Muslim minister, Charles Morgan Jr. of Atlanta, said he would have stepped out of the pages of history.

But this was Muhammad Ali the deflated and not Cassius Clay the boxer. And Clay's record in the court is far different than his undefeated record in the ring.

It was in this same Federal Court two years ago before the experience of the difference between the two Clay's was exactly the same offense.

"ANY JOB LARGE OR SMALL BEYMER PAVING DOES THEM ALL"

The whole thing is ridiculous and nobody knows it any better than Charlie Finley who, as usual, got a little carried away again when he saw Bench put a couple of baseballs into orbit during Wednesday's All-Star contest in Washington.

By pulling that grandstand gesture for Bench with his check, Finley earns Cincinnati's overvaluing thanks for making it a little tougher for it to deal with their 25-year-old catching prodigy who well could be the first ballplayer ever to shoot for a $200,000 salary anyway.

Big gestures are nothing new for Charlie O. He makes 'em all at the time.

DEFENSE HELPLESS WITH RIGHT PLAY

Today's hand was concocted by George S. Coffin of Waltham, Mass., over 30 years ago. When the hand was supposed to have been played, East won the club with the queen and shifted to a trump. South won that trick, cashed dummy's ace of clubs, played three rounds of hearts to make sure that West was out of that suit, and then West in with the ace of diamonds. West was down to diamonds and had to give declarer a ruff in dummy and discard of his jack of clubs. West bet that if East had led back a diamond at trick two the contract would have been beaten but declarer could still make it by a Vienna Coup. He would simply take dummy's ace of clubs and shift to hearts. His trump. On the last trump, East would be squeezed in hearts and clubs.

West's third try to beat the hand was to cash his ace of diamonds and shift to the queen of hearts. This would break up both the Vienna Coup and the diamond end play but declarer would still have a way to make 11 tricks.

Here it is: He wins the heart with his king, leads a heart to the ace, ruffs a heart high, leads a trump to the nine, ruffs the last heart high, leads a trump to dummy's seven and leads a low club from dummy. East wins with the king or queen and is end-played.

A similar type end-play is developed. West opens the queen of hearts. South eliminates hearts in the same manner and throws West in with the ace of diamonds. He leads a club and South lets it ride to East.

Hagerman Man Gets $10,000 Bonus For Rejoining Navy

HAGERMAN — Could you use a $10,000 bonus — tax free? A Hagerman man recently received that amount when he re-enlisted in the U. S. Navy to serve another six years.

Quartermaster IC Russell G. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Adams, serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier, USS Ticonderoga (CVA-14), now operating off the coast of Vietnam, was presented the $10,000 bonus after being administered the oath of re-enlistment.

Since he was in combat zone at the time of his re-enlistment, Adams received the bonus, tax free.

Quartermasters also keep the log of every course and speed change as well as any other significant event, take the helm of the ship during such special activities as underway replenishments and General Quarters; tend the chronometers that are vital for celestial navigation and in general back up the Officer of the deck to insure the safety and accuracy of the ship's movements.

Another facet of Adams' job aboard this Seventh Fleet carrier, is making weekly changes in some 8000 nautical charts and 250 publications.

Adams says that he enjoys working with the sun, moon, and stars and other navigational aids to find out exactly where we are at all times. "It's nice to be seeing some of this old world," he remarked.

His favorite port thus far is Japan. His first ship, the USS Mars, a supply ship, was homeported in Japan.

Prior to his transfer to the Ticonderoga, Adams also served aboard the ocean-going minesweeper, USS Tynally. Aboard the USS Tynally, he was the only quartermaster.

Adams is a 1962 graduate of Hagerman High School.

Short Hours At Library Are Listed

During August the Twin Falls Public Library will be open Tuesday through Saturday each week.

The adult library will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day the library is open, while the children's library will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The library will be closed Mondays during the month.

Librarian Robert Bruce said a shortage of library staff personnel and the necessity of continuing staff vacations before the opening of school caused the trustees to shorten the hours of the library.
