Guerrillas Down Medical 'Copter

By WALTER WHITEHEAD
SAIGON (UPI)—Guerrillas shot down a U.S. medical evacuation helicopter as it lifted off a battlefield on South Vietnam's northern coast. The command said today all 10 persons aboard were killed. U.S. military sources said today that for the first time in months they had no indications that Communist forces had set a date for a new offensive. Communist forces firing automatic weapons riddled the helicopter Sunday as it lifted off 22 miles south of Da Nang and 245 miles northeast of Saigon. The crash killed nine Americans aboard the chopper along with a wounded Viet Cong prisoner. The U.S. dead included two Marine crewmen of the helicopter, two Marine passengers, and two Navy hospital corpsmen. Military spokesmen gave no details on the fighting where the helicopter was downed but said three clashes north of Saigon Sunday resulted in 159 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed without any U.S. losses.

Reorganization Of Idaho School Districts Urged By Two Groups

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI)—Spokesmen for the League of Women Voters and the Idaho Education Association urged a legislative interim committee today to consider school district reorganization in Idaho. Mrs. Robert Hay, Nampa, chairman of the school finance study committee, said the distribution formula it could accomplish only a "patch and patch" of the present formula unless reorganization were considered. "If we are to provide equal educational opportunity for the school children of this state, then school district reorganization and consolidation are necessary," she said. Pointing out the committee had developed against delaying the reorganization question during the study, Mrs. Hay urged members to reconsider their stand. She urged the committee to recommend to the legislature in January mandatory redistricting under direction of the State Board of Education. Wayne York, Boise, executive secretary of the Idaho Education Association (IEA), also called for reorganization. "A more equitable formula may be difficult, if not impossible, until such time as Idaho is willing to take steps to resolve the problem of school district reorganization," York testified. "Idaho has many small and inefficient school districts which See SCHOOL, Pg. 2, Col. 2

Ann Arbor Fear Rises; Eighth Body Found

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Fear is no stranger to the young women who attend the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and Eastern Michigan University seven miles away in Ypsilanti. They knew four girls today as the search went on for a neighborhood slain by a neighborhood killer. Police revealed it Sunday morning, hoping the killer would return. He didn't. Storms Set Off Floods

By United Press International
Flash-floods washed out roads and mud slides plunged Northeastern Pennsylvania as heavy thunderstorms continued from Texas to the Atlantic Ocean today. The U.S. Coast Guard dispatched a team of boats along the Arkansas River, swollen with rain and rough with winds pushing a 12-foot sea, to search for 12 men trying to make Little Rock, Ark., on a homemade raft. Six men were left in a 2 1/2 hour period near Camden, Pa., while Alexandria, La., reported nearly two inches of rain, and Harrisburg and Allentown, Pa., and Nashville, Tenn., reported over 1/2 inches. Two persons were killed Sunday in Seneca, Ohio, when an oil tanker was putting up hay in a farm field. The Coast Guard said the 12 men were reported missing at midnight Sunday. They were attempting to follow the Arkansas River to New Orleans, La., a distance of about 300 miles. The Coast Guard said boats were starting the river between Morrilton and Little Rock where the men had been scheduled to report at 6 p.m. Sunday. Skies were generally clear for the rest of the nation today except for a few isolated thunderstorms in the west. A cold front moving down from Canada sent some early morning temperatures down into the low 50s in the North Central states.

Idaho Falls Youth Killed Near Carey

CAREY — An Idaho Falls youth was killed Saturday morning about eight miles east of here in a one-car accident on U.S. 27. Blaine County Sheriff's Department identified the victim as Scott Tripp, 18, Idaho Falls. Tripp was driving west out of control and rolled over. Investigating officers said Tripp, who was one in the auto, was pinned under the wreckage and was dead when investigators arrived at the scene. Tripp's death was Blaine County's first traffic fatality this year, but is Magic Valley's 27th and Idaho's 124th, equal to the number of deaths recorded on this date a year ago. Men Are Rescued From Coal Mine

WARSAW (UPI)—Wives, daughters and sweethearts weeping for joy, shouted the name of each coal-blackened miner who rose to the surface from the Zawadzki mine when jushing mud and water trapped 10 men a quarter-mile underground. Rescuers saved all but one of the men in a concerted operation in which Communist Poland borrowed a huge drill from West Germany. The drill employed a revolutionary "mechanical mole" to get food to the men far below.

Commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet Monday that a House Armed Services subcommittee has unanimously approved a verdict which puts the blame for the loss of the ship not on the crew, but on military brass. Earlier, a Navy Court of Inquiry had recommended the ship's skipper and other crewmen be court-martialed for allowing their ship to fall into enemy hands. The Navy-Congress recommendation was overruled by John H. Chafee, Navy Department secretary who said the ship's crew had "suffered enough." (UPI-telephoto)

Pueblo Loss Blamed On Top Brass

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House armed services subcommittee has unanimously approved a report which puts much of the blame for loss of the USS Pueblo not on the crew but on military brass, it was learned today. The special investigating subcommittee reached its verdict after a four-month study of the events before, during and after the capture of the American intelligence ship by North Korean patrol boats and aircraft on Jan. 23, 1968. The Navy board, composed of officers, recommended that the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, and other members of the crew be court-martialed on charges of allowing their ship to fall into the hands of the Communists. Navy Secretary John H. Chafee on May 6 of this year overruled that recommendation as well as a recommendation that the Pueblo's skipper and other crew members be court-martialed. Chafee said they had "suffered enough."

Nixon Makes Clear U.S. Will Defend Thailand

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
BANGKOK (UPI)—President Nixon pledged tonight the United States would defend Thailand against any attack from any sources. He did so in a special statement issued shortly after his arrival to make it clear that whatever the United States decided to do in Vietnam it will not abandon its Allies here. Nixon said the United States was extremely grateful for the help of Thailand's troops in Vietnam and added: "The Thai contribution to the struggle to preserve the independence of South Vietnam has been of great significance. He linked this with his pledge to defend Thailand and said, "We and the nations of Southeast Asia share a vital stake in the future peace and prosperity of this region."

Mediator KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)

The possibility that Pope Paul VI will try to mediate the Nigerian civil war arose today with the announcement that top Nigerian officials will be here when he arrives Thursday. Pope Paul told pilgrims in the Vatican that he would speak to both sides in the two-year-old civil war. There was no word whether officials from the secessionist eastern region of Nigeria, Biafra, would send a delegation.

Nixon flew in from Jakarta on the third leg of his seven nation tour. Security measures were unusually heavy at the future-practiced airport, possibly because guerrillas attacked U.S. Air Force base 400 miles northeast of Bangkok hours before he arrived, wounding 200 and damaging two to three planes. Nixon said in the special statement that "our determination to honor our commitments is fully consistent with our convictions that the nations of Asia can and must increasingly shoulder the responsibility for achieving peace and progress in the area." He announced his statement by speaking of American determination to honor its commitments in Asia and the Pacific. "We will honor those commitments not only because we consider them solemn obligations, but equally importantly because we fully recognize that we and the nations of Southeast Asia share a vital stake in the future peace and prosperity of this region." Nixon flew here from Jakarta where he expressed confidence in the leadership of Indonesian President Suharto and pledged to cooperate in bringing about Indonesia's rapid economic and social developments. He was scheduled to return for a project of the costly Apsara II project ahead of needed reforms on the ground. Nixon will be in Bangkok for three days, and the war in neighboring Vietnam and the Communist threat to Thailand will be the main topics of discussion. It was generally believed he might take advantage of an elastic schedule here for a quick visit to Vietnam. In Thailand he faces considerable dissatisfaction over his plan enunciated in the Philippines and Indonesia to provide arms and supplies for Asian countries so they could work for peace without United States being involved with American troops as it is in Vietnam. Nixon had no formal remarks at the airport where a pompous-drenched him and King Phumiphon Adulyadej. But in a later ceremony accepting the keys to the city from the mayor he said the United States will stand firmly with Thailand against those who would threaten it from abroad and at home. The United States already has 47,000 men in Thailand, manning the six big air bases and the "secret war" in Laos which has been overrun in part by 70,000 North Vietnamese supporting the Communist Pathet Lao.

Scientists Work On New Finds About Moon Nature

By EDWARD K. DELONG
UPI Space Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—A week after two Apollo 11 astronauts lifted off its surface, scientists today worked on a pair of important new finds about the nature of the moon. While astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin and Michael Collins relaxed in the commodious quarters of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory (LRL) in Houston, tape-recording everything they could recall from their high, scientific said: "At least one of the dusty black rocks Armstrong and Aldrin brought back from their two-hour walk on the lunar surface was igneous—formed by hot liquid or partly-like material that cooled and solidified. Several stable elements have been recorded on the moon's surface. McIntyre Joins ABM Opponents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Opponents of the Safeguard anti-missile system blasted a new member in their ranks today as the Senate returned to a three-week-old debate on a military procurement bill providing funds for ABM development. Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., who had been one of a handful of uncommitted lawmakers, announced during the weekend that he would vote for deployment for at least a year. His announcement bolstered the anti-ABM campaign in the Senate and opened the way for no-compromise showdown vote on President Nixon's Safeguard proposal. When the vote would come, McIntyre said he had decided to vote for an amendment sponsored by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., that would limit ABM funds to research and development this year. McIntyre said he had counted 40 sure votes against the ABM and hoped to pick up at least two or three more supporters. Among those still undecided were Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.

'Mercy Marathon' Nears T.F. In Drive To Aid Biafrans

The reported starvation of more than two million Biafran natives has prompted five young American men to walk across America from Portland to New York City to raise funds and support for the victims of the Biafran war.

The Mercy Marathon walkers began Portland, leaving from the City Hall accompanied by Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, who walked the first mile, on June 21. They hope to arrive in New York City sometime in November.

Presently in Boise, the Marathon group will head eastward across the Southern Idaho desert this week, arriving in Twin Falls the latter part of the week.

A police escort will accompany the walkers to the city park, where Mayor Egon Kroll will address Twin Falls citizens. Mayor Kroll has endorsed the goal of the Mercy Marathon, which is to raise $10 in donations to the 1,000 miles of the wandering trek across the nation.

The Mercy Marathon is comprised of 11 people — five marchers and a support crew of six, including three in an advance crew and three in an accompanying truck and trailer. Trouble with the trailer delayed the group in Boise, a spokesman said.

In the Boise visit, the walkers have raised more than $2,000 by street and home canvassing, and through mailed donations. Any wishing to donate by mail, may address the Mercy Marathon at the Boise YMCA, 720 Washington St., Boise.

The background of the trek goes back to May, 1967, when the tiny nation of Biafra broke away from the government of Nigeria, and civil war resulted. Nigeria attacked Biafra, helped by Soviet Russia, which supplied jet fighters, bombers, artillery

Dr. Leary's Arraignment Is Scheduled

RIVERSIDE (UPI)—Dr. Timothy F. Leary will be arraigned Thursday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor resulting from the drowning of a teenage girl at his mountain, center ranch while under the influence of LSD.

Leary, former Harvard instructor and advocate of legalizing marijuana, says he is not criminally responsible for the death of Christine Keeler, 17, Laguna Beach, Calif.

Leary described Miss Almeida as a "young girl, a slight acquaintance, who came to our village and did her own thing."

The girl had been living at the commune for about 10 days before she drowned July 14 while swimming in the nude in a pond on the ranch.

Leary told newsmen Saturday he did not know the name of the girl, had not given her any LSD and was in his tepee with his wife when she drowned.

Leary said he used every physical and spiritual device known to revive the girl, including chanting, Buddhist prayers over her body.

Forest Fire Near Challis Uncontrolled

CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI)—A forest fire which has been described as Idaho's biggest this year was still raging out of control Sunday night in the Challis National Forest.

Over 400 acres had burned within six hours, and the weather prediction for today is highly unfavorable to efforts to bring the blaze under control. Hot, dry weather was predicted for the area, with northwesterly winds up to 30 miles an hour.

The fire, which was originally thought to have been caused by lightning, is now thought to have been man-caused, according to officials on the scene. Two children have been mentioned as a possible source of the fire.

The fire is north of Clayton in Blaine County in the vicinity of Bald Mountain.

Two planes used in retardation were to resume operations this morning.

Firms Honored

Well Spent

HORNSMAN, England (UPI)—Fred Hogfish was used to his name but he did not want to inflict a wife and children with it. So when he married he changed his name to Caswell, his wife's maiden name.

"The change cost me 17 pounds—17 shillings ($42.84 dollars) but I consider that money well spent. Hogfish was a name I didn't want, my wife and children to have to put up with," he said.

Visual Tests Planned For Rupert Pupils

RUPERT — Rupert optometrists will conduct public school visual readiness tests in cooperation with the South Central District Optometric Association, beginning at 9 a.m. Aug. 5.

Participating will be Dr. John Head and Dr. Robert Phillips. On that day, all children entering school for the first time will be given tests without charge to help determine if the child is ready for the visually difficult task of learning to read. The tests will also locate vision problems.

The doctors emphasized that the tests do not comprise or substitute for a complete vision examination, but will disclose the presence of visual difficulty if it exists.

A report form on the child's visual readiness for school will be sent by the examining optometrists to the respective school nurse or school administrator.

Tests to be made include determining if the child can see clearly at a distance, as well as at desk and reading distances; examining the eyeball for disease for referral to the family physician; determining if the refractive error exists; determining if the ability to judge distance is normal; testing the child for ability to distinguish the basic colors; and testing to determine if the eyes work as a team.

No appointment is necessary.

Idaho Alums ISU Schedules Conference On "The Aging American"

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—Two University of Idaho graduates and one doctoral student are among a group of geologists in Houston engaged by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to analyze samples of moon rock brought back by the Apollo 11 astronauts.

The two Idaho graduates, Dr. William R. Greenwood and Dr. Donald A. Morrison, will attempt to determine if the moon rocks were formed as a result of high pressure and temperatures.

The other scientist, Roald Fryxell, an assistant professor of anthropology at Washington State University and a geology doctoral student at Idaho, will probe the rocks to see if their volcanic history matches volcanic flows on the earth.

COMMENT

Between Work Pay

Christian Science Monitor
As President Nixon said in his message to Congress last week, the current $11 billion in state unemployment insurance reserves is a useful cushion against recession. During the 1961 business turn-down, job-seeking workers were tied over by about $6 billion in benefits. The unemployment insurance program undoubtedly is also a help to individuals in relatively stable job periods, like the past few years, when workers drew $2.5 to $3 billion annually in between-jobs pay.

The President's plan are employed by state and local governments, which, presumably, he would have created unemployment insurance programs of their own. There is opposition to the President's proposals from three sides. First, union leadership does not think they go far enough; labor particularly wants weekly benefits of 50 per cent of the worker's regular pay made mandatory, whereas the President would continue to leave the setting of the benefit rate up to the states. Second, businesses already in the program fear that their own contributions will be upped with the inclusion of less stable companies. And third, the to-be-included employers are reluctant to pay up to 3.5 per cent of their payroll in jobless insurance taxes — particularly non-profit organizations which cannot pass on the insurance cost to customers.

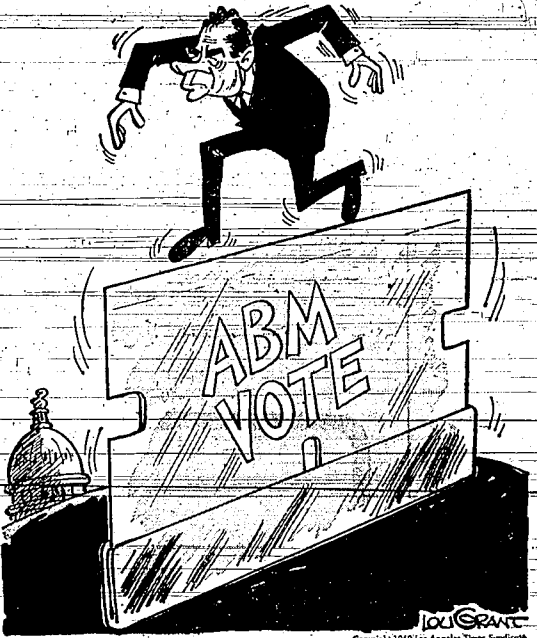

WASHINGTON—For the first time, some of President Nixon's top foreign affairs advisors are now haunted by a potential disasterous decline of U.S. power around the world as a result of Hanoi's blatant refusal to negotiate an end of the war.

Specifically, these Nixon advisors now privately predict that the Soviet Union will be far more intransigent on the arms control talks than seemed likely early this year. At that time, Mr. Nixon was confident that his concessions to North Vietnam would draw reciprocal concessions. Now, however, Moscow is quite likely to echo Hanoi's highly successful hard-nosed bargaining tactics.

to the dwindling cadre of U.S. officials (mostly generals) who still believe in a military solution in Vietnam, this argues for reversal of the Nixon troop withdrawal policy. But the President's dilemma is more profound than that. Having inherited the Vietnam mess, he has to begin troop withdrawals. No do any of his important advisors argue for reversing the effort to do so.

On Mr. Nixon's European trip in February, a high official of the Dutch government took a senior Nixon aide aside to whisper, "He's warning—if the U.S. does not get a fair peace, but seems to accept defeat, the credibility of the U.S. commitment in Western Europe would deteriorate. U.S. influence in Western Europe would correspondingly decline."

The Razor's Edge

BRUCE BLOSSAT

But those advisors now recognize the full worldwide consequences of his necessary withdrawal—an unpleasant and relatively uncalculated. In two months ago, after his major speech on Vietnam, Mr. Nixon was convinced would at least try to match the "cold" under spur of the Justice Department or citizen suits, HEW's hand will be forced and agency action must follow.

The President has little room for maneuver. He has decided to proceed with the withdrawal of National Security Council to withdraw combat troops and limited publically he would, but he is showing the Russians that the critical general told us, "he can be pushed around by a second-rate Communist country."

This means, top policymakers fear, that the necessary tactics in the arms talks. Some of the President's advisors say privately that unilateral action in Vietnam will actually compel Moscow to be far tougher. Already under Communist China's fire for playing loose with the West, the Russians cannot afford to seem milder than little North Vietnam.

Much the same warning has come from Edward Heath, leader of Britain's Conservative party, and very likely the next Prime Minister. When he made a visit in May, Heath made no words about the effect of a U.S. defeat in Southeast Asia. Neglecting to mention that the British have given no help in Vietnam, Heath said the mere appearance of defeat would have a grave effect on European political leaders as the value of its commitment.

More immediately pertinent is the deepening skepticism in our setting in at high unemployment. The President is trying to "rationalize a unilateral pullout," as one general put it to us. His prediction of a "difficult" withdrawal of combat troops here and in Vietnam, was borne out last Sunday when Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, declared flatly he had no intention of changing combat orders to U.S. troops.

There is no revolt of the generals, but it guarantees more resistance from the uniformed Pentagon officers to a future troop withdrawal. There is no thought of a possible reversal of the present position of that would be worse. Indeed, President Nixon's advisors are beginning to understand that the escape hatch — unless Hanoi supplies one. As of now, not even his most optimistic advisor expects that.

A Tattoo?

I couldn't turn down this request. It's a letter, evidently typed painstakingly: "Dear Dr. Thoston: I'd like a few booklets on why tattoos are dangerous. I'd like one of those tattoos but not reasons. Right? Sincerely, M. B. E." "Dear Dr. Thoston: I'm your youngest child, cerebral palsied. My main problem is communication, both speech and writing. However, I'm extremely bright and asks a thousand questions. His latest question is, 'My swimming teacher has a tattoo. Why could he have one?' "I think it's a wonderful young man with great empathy for the handicapped, and I hope you can answer in a way that will not offend him. "Whenever I can channel Mike's questions to a nether source, I do. For eight years I was the only one who answered all questions. Terrific education for me! However, I don't want him to think I am the only human being who will deal with his answers for him. — Mrs. B."

Dear Dr. Thoston: My husband tells me that beer is good for you. I cannot see in what way it could be so. He told me to see a doctor. Mrs. Mel. You'd probably asked the wrong doctor, because I doubt if I will please either of you. Beer, in moderate amounts, can help a man's circulation. Beer in excess is as harmful as an equivalent amount of alcohol taken in any other form.

I troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching, and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Thoston in care of Times-News requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," including long self-test, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thoston: My father doesn't think it's good to wash your hair more than once a week. I think you should wash it twice a week or more. What do you think? — P.C.

I think it all depends on how dirty your hair is. I can see no harm in washing it twice a week, or even often, if the hair is usually oily.

Dear Dr. Thoston: I am 20 and for the last three years, every time I eat, my nose runs and I start to cough. My physician advised that this was due to an allergy, but I suspect it would be wise to go to a specialist in allergies? — A.K.

Note to M. H.: There can, of course, be a "tapeworm" (tapeworm), but a further possibility is that, in some types of worms, the worms may break off — but the remaining portion will grow again. In this case, you must should always follow discovery of a worm, or even part of one.

Dr. Thoston welcomes all reader questions, but requests that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cruellest Tax

Idaho State Journal
Inflation is the cruellest tax of all. It penalizes workers and the poor — most of all. No one is missed. The thrifty suffer little rewards for their self-denial. Pensioners and others with fixed incomes find their living conditions ever more difficult. At the bottom of the human work force, those lacking education and skills are able to find work when inflation is running and they are the first to go when it is slowed or halted. This fact is a headache to the politicians because the uneducated and unskilled are numerous and they have votes.

aggravated by record high interest rates, thus forcing a slowdown in buying and building homes. "Rising building costs and rising interest rates have put home ownership beyond the reach of more and more American families," says Tom B. Scott, Jr., president of the United States Savings and Loan League. This fact contributes to the fires of inflation indirectly, though how much is not known. The money which normally would be invested in homes is denied that outlet, is likely to be spent on other goods and services and thereby fan inflation. Inflation is a greedy monster that never quits of itself. Politicians notoriously are slower to act against it than to vote spending to fight recession. Higher interest rates have boosted costs to every taxpayer because interest costs are the second largest item in the federal budget and are increasing every day. It is high time the government began to set an example of trimming off unnecessary fat.

Better Let HEW

Lewiston Tribune
The Department of Agriculture probably is not entirely to blame if it is true, as Ralph Nader claims, that it has neglected to protect consumers against dirty meat and misleading labeling. The department is suffering from a bad case of divided loyalties. Nader has charged that the department "far more solicitous of packer protection than consumer protection," that it has suppressed reports critical of the meat packing plants, and that it has failed to push for compliance with meat inspection laws. The charges probably are well founded. Nader is a meticulous researcher who usually can document his claims. But the trouble lies not so much in the Department of Agriculture and its Consumer & Marketing Service as in the system. The department has historically represented the producers and processors of food, not the consumers. Its first loyalty traditionally has been to the people who grow the wheat and butcher the steers, not to those who buy the bread and steaks. It should never have been required to look after the conflicting interests of both at the same time.

when it was learned that the department was administering the food-for-the-poor program primarily to dispose of farm surplus commodities and only secondarily to feed the hungry. One result was that families depending largely on surplus commodities were getting badly balanced diets. The same kind of loyalty can be seen in the department's enthusiastic promotion of American cigarettes overseas — a good thing for the tobacco growing clients but a disservice to the consumers it purports to serve. Like the tobacco farmers and the growers of surplus commodities, the meat packers are the clients of the Department of Agriculture and the department's clients will always have first call upon its services. If the consumers of food and fiber are ever to be fairly represented their interests are going to have to be served by another department, most logically Health, Education & Welfare.

Doom Of The Dual Schools

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The flurry of Justice Department actions on school desegregation affecting many southern and some northern school districts is being viewed too narrowly in the heat of the controversy over HEW guidelines. The common judgment is that the departments, ill of a flock of lawsuits is wholly and simply an effort by the Nixon administration to offset the impression left by its recent muted HEW statement that it was taking the desegregation pressure off many slow-moving southern school districts. Probably the President, having measured the furor over the HEW guideline statement of July 3, did indeed want to alter that impression. The timing of the Justice Department moves was hardly coincidental, despite assurances that these actions were long in the works.

But time for modified action is not unlimited. Federal court intervention is predictable in light of the New Kent County case. Where that does not occur under spur of the Justice Department or citizen suits, HEW's hand will be forced and agency action must follow. Critics of the HEW July 3 guideline statement took lightly the assertion that the burden is on local districts to prove they need more time. Actually, it is a hard fact of life. Even if some delay and softening is allowed, the doom of dual schools is not very far off. Here, it's doubtful he'd be ready for the big fall drinking season."

All About Joe

WASHINGTON — The second biggest story of our time was quarterback Joe Namath's decision to sell his interest. In fact, all the talk about Namath so he could return to pro football. Needless to say, it came as a shock and disappointment to bar, grill fans everywhere. As my friend, Jim said to me the other day, while quaffing a beer, "Good quarterbacks are a dime a dozen, but where can you find a million-dollar owner these days who really cares about his job?" "Then you think Joe Namath made a mistake selling his interest in Dolphins III?" "I certainly do," said Jim, blowing the froth off his beer. "Joe Namath represented something in this country to the people who patronize saloons, and he was a symbol of all that good and beautiful stuff. When he decided to go back to football, he let every drinking man in this country know he was giving up."

ART BUCHWALD
"I believe it will be adverse. Many people in the bar and grill business are going to say, 'If Joe Namath can sell his interest, why can't I?' The image of people who do not want to be above reproach, and whether they like it or not professional players can give anyone who sells drinks a bad name." "Do you feel this is the reason that the commissioner of the National Saloon League told Namath he had to stop playing football if he wanted to stay in the bar business?" "The commissioner had no choice," said Eric. "His job is to keep the saloon league clean and free of scandal. Namath might not have done anything wrong associating with people who hang out in pro football, but one incident could hurt the booze business forever, and the commissioner just couldn't take the chance." "Do you think there's any chance of Joe coming back to saloon business, after he realizes he's made a mistake?" "I'm not sure the saloon business hopes so, but I think Joe starts playing football he's going to realize his blunder. He was a big hero in this country when he owned Dolphins III and newspapers covered everything he did and said. But soon after he comes back to saloon business, he's going to be just another drunk who goes to a stupid game of football." "Why do you believe he did it?" "I asked Eric. You know you have to have a great good leg to stand up in saloon, and Joe's legs aren't that good. He probably figured if his legs were bad he might as well go back to football, rather than take the chance of their being permanently injured while sticking in the saloon business." "Eric, what effort do you think this will have on the saloon business throughout the country?"

But time for modified action is not unlimited. Federal court intervention is predictable in light of the New Kent County case. Where that does not occur under spur of the Justice Department or citizen suits, HEW's hand will be forced and agency action must follow. Critics of the HEW July 3 guideline statement took lightly the assertion that the burden is on local districts to prove they need more time. Actually, it is a hard fact of life. THE COLLEGE OF SOUTHERN IDAHO's third law enforcement class reunion and banquet at Kay's Supper Club recently featured recognition for instructors, students, former students and a talk by Twin Falls County Probate Judge Richard Reed. Here, Wes Dobbs, right, CSI law enforcement instructor, receives a plaque honoring him for the work he has done at the school. Presenting the plaque is Dave Neal, the top law enforcement student at the school this year, and behind him is J. R. Burns, a law enforcement student who was master of ceremonies.

Law Enforcement Students Honored At CSI Reunion

Education and law enforcement go together, and this is what it was all about recently when the third law enforcement class reunion of the College of Southern Idaho was held at Kay's Supper Club. Eight men were graduated from this year's law enforcement class and they, along with former graduates, were honored at the dinner. The guest speaker was Twin Falls County Probate Court Judge Richard Reed. He told these attending how important education is to law enforcement today, and said if officers learn the rules, and operate under these rules, it will prevent a judge from someday making a decision which would release a guilty person. Wes Dobbs, law enforcement instructor at the college, presented the Claude F. Wiley Achievement Award to David Neal of Wendell. The award is presented annually to the student who gets the highest scholastic average for the year. Leaders in grades for various law enforcement areas were:

Noted Author, Corey Ford, Dies At 67

HANOVER, N.H. (UPI)—Author Corey Ford, whose work includes the fables of a n and k and modo Americans laugh for nearly a half a century, died Sunday in the Dartmouth College infirmary, five weeks after suffering a stroke. He was 67. An avid outdoorsman, Ford was a columnist for Field and Stream magazines at the time of his death and had recently completed a biography of William "Wild Bill" Donovan, head of the office of Strategic Services and a predecessor of the Central Intelligence Agency, during World War II. Ford's column, "Lower Party," for the past 15 years discussed, through the tales of fictional friends, outdoor adventures ranging from snailfishing off Florida to upland hunting in his adopted New Hampshire. A native New Yorker, Ford had lived in New Hampshire since 1929, moving to Hanover 17 years ago. A 1923 graduate of Columbia, Ford was an honorary member of the Dartmouth class of 1921 and passed on "outdoor lore" to generations of friends among Dartmouth students. Ford's early parodies in the magazine Vanity Fair, written under the pseudonym John Riddell, quickly gained him literary attention and he became one of the first regular contributors to the New Yorker magazine. A producer of 30 books and more than 600 articles, Ford once worked as a scriptwriter in Hollywood, turning out material for W.C. Fields and contributing songs to the Marx Brothers. Ford, a bachelor, has no immediate survivors and funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Kennedy Cheered At Sunday Mass

By RICHARD GROSS

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—Cries of "We're with you, Ted" greeted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as he entered St. Xavier Church here, his third public appearance since the fatal accident last weekend which caused the drowning of pretty blonde secretary Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

Kennedy, accompanied by his pregnant wife Joan and two of his three children sat motionless in his pew Sunday as Msgr. William Thomson read from the Epistle of St. Paul.

"The test has been sent you that does not come to all men. Moreover, God keeps his promise. He will not let you be tested beyond your strength. He will give you with the test a way of emerging from it successfully, and you may be able to endure it."

The Massachusetts Democrat was mobbed and applauded as he entered and emerged from the white clapboard church while thousands of telegrams continued to flood the Kennedy compound urging him not to resign.

His dramatic television statement Friday night Kennedy had said that his admission of guilt to leaving the scene of the fatal accident had caused him to resign his U.S. Senate seat.

Rene Page of Marshfield, a regional supervisor of the Western Union Telegraph Co. office in Hyannis, said Sunday speculation mounted as to when Kennedy would return to Washington since the Senate was expected to vote later this week on the Safeguard antiballistic missile system to which Kennedy is opposed. But the Apollo 11 astronaut, "had no immediate plans for the future."

The aide also said Kennedy still was not ready to decide whether he would resign his Senate seat.

For the second day of the "celebrity" weekend, the 37-year-old senator cruised on the family yacht, the Marlin, for nearly two hours and heached the Apollo 11 astronaut, "had no immediate plans for the future."

Cardinal Richard Cushing of Boston, a long-time family friend, visited the compound briefly.

3 Drivers Are Charged After Crashes

Two drivers were charged with driving while intoxicated, and another with leaving the scene of an accident as a result of weekend accidents in Twin Falls.

Karen Brown, 18, Gooding, was released on bond after being charged with driving while intoxicated. City police records show the vehicle she was driving collided with the bridge on Elizabeth Boulevard at Maurice Street. She was arrested in the 1900 block of Elizabeth Boulevard.

Elmer M. Schoepf, 253 Quincy St., was also charged with driving while intoxicated. Officers said his vehicle collided with one driven by Steven Miller, Twin Falls. Mr. Miller was driving east on Second Avenue when he collided with Schoepf's vehicle, which went through a stop light and collided with his vehicle.

Jesus Montes was charged with leaving the scene of an accident. His automobile allegedly backed into a parked truck owned by Larry Lambert, 700 Second Ave. E. He was arrested in the downtown area shortly after the accident was reported.

More Funds Needed, Area Chamber Told

RUPERT — The major problem facing the city of Rupert is the need for more money, Mayor Wendell Johnson told the gathering of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce recently.

Mayor Johnson said the comment during a discussion of the various problems in the city.

He said the city's police department is a good example of need for more funds. The department maintains a 24-hour communications station which benefits more country people than city, but is financed totally by the city.

"The city is spending more per person than is the county and more than either other city of similar size," he noted.

Garbage pickup also presents a financial problem. Mayor Johnson said the garbage is maintained solely by the city for a minimum charge to the residents of the city. He said presently the garbage is being picked up twice a week, but will either have to be picked up only once a week or rates raised to eliminate the problem and help finance the federal requirements of a Sanitary Land Fill.

Councilman Charles Dalry said the Chamber many twinning the council for more support for the swimming program, but were unwilling to put up more money for the sport.

The H Street problem also was discussed with no feasible solution reached. Mayor Johnson said because the street is now a heavy traffic area, it is much too narrow to handle the demand. "The situation was improved by the new housing developments and the schools in the area."

It was proposed the street be widened but Mayor Johnson said the project would have to be tabled until the existing Local Improvement District were completed.

"The proposal was to be considered, however," Mayor Johnson said, "because it is feasible the city will get funds to do the job since residents pay about $24,000 a year for highway taxes. It was proposed the county residents pay a certain amount per student for each student attending Rupert city schools to help defray the costs."

Jackie Has Begun New Life At 40

SKORPIOUS, Greece (UPI)—For Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis a new life has indeed begun at 40.

The former first lady celebrates her 40th birthday today at this Greek island, far from the New England beaches of her earlier years.

With her wren her husband of less than one year, Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, and her two children, George, 11, and John, 8.

Onassis, one of the world's richest men, is giving his wife carriages in the form of the earth and the moon for birthdays, present inspired by the Apollo 11 moon mission.

The gift has its pathos. It was President John F. Kennedy who launched the moon-landing program and gave it its goal of a man on the moon within this decade.

The jewelry, designed by the internationally known jeweler, Zolotas of Athens, consist of a sapphire-studded earth at the end and a larger moon decorated with rubies hanging from a chain.

The Apollo space ship is attached in a thin gold thread which circles the earth and drops to the moon, representing the space trip.

Among Onassis' other reported presents in his wife is a 40-carat diamond, worth up to $120,000.

Twenty persons were admitted to area hospitals, none in serious condition, and the others were treated for minor injuries and released.

Lunar Sample Is Igneous Rock

By AL ROSSITER Jr., UPI Space Writer.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The first piece of the moon studied in detail has been identified as an igneous rock peppered with glass-lined pits, an "exciting" find which may help resolve some lunar mysteries.

An igneous rock is one formed by the cooling and solidification of a hot liquid or molten material, and the glassy pits may have resulted from the high speed impact of tiny meteoroids while the rock lay exposed on the moon's surface.

It was the first positive identification of a chunk of the moon since it was made Sunday, one day after the opening of the first of two boxes of rock samples brought back by the Apollo 11 astronauts.

Dr. Albert A. King, curator of the LRL, said the rock was 3 1/2 inches long, 1 1/2 inches wide and an inch thick. It was described as a dark gray, fine-grained igneous material with some evidence that some mineral surfaces split among planes.

"There are numerous small pits in the surface of the rock which some observers here believe may have resulted from the impact of micrometeoroids at very high velocities while this rock was exposed on the lunar surface," he said.

"These pits are coated on their interiors with a glassy lining, and some of the glass appears to spray out of the centers, overlapping the surrounding mineral grain."

"This has created quite a deal of excitement here in the laboratory, as you can imagine," King said.

The rock was later placed in a stainless steel can and transferred to a radiation counting laboratory. There, King said, the gamma rays emitted from the rock will be measured to tell how long the rock had been lying on the surface and exposed to gamma radiation from deep space.

Extremely rapid cooling of a liquid material causes glass to appear the first examination of Apollo 11's samples meteoroids pelted the rock with the Sea of Tranquility enough force to melt some of its material, which then cooled quickly.

Many geologists have thought the moon's seas were formed by vast outpourings of lava and glass it appeared the first examination of Apollo 11's samples meteoroids pelted the rock with the Sea of Tranquility enough force to melt some of its material, which then cooled quickly.

U.S. Aims For Multimillion Milestone In Outer Space

By JACK V. FOX

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—The United States is aiming for a multimillion-milestone in space this week which its respects will surpass even man on the moon.

Two Titan Marine spaceships will fly to within 2,000 miles of the planet Mars—on Tuesday. They have no men aboard and after the flypass they will go into eternal orbit around the sun.

But the information they will flash back-give scientists the answer to whether the red planet has the environmental support some form of life comparable to what we know on earth.

If the answer is yes, it will be a giant propulsion for the efforts to put American men on Mars. Vice President Spiro Agnew has called for a national commitment to do so by the close of the century.

Others are calling for a reappraisal of the space program.

Mariner 6, the first of the two $50-million, wiffmill-shaped craft, has been on its voyage from launch at Cape Kennedy since Feb. 24 and will have traveled 241 million miles in 156 days when it reaches "near encounter" with Mars at 11 p.m. EDT Thursday.

Mariner 7 was launched on March 27 and will have flown 197 million miles in 120 days when it approaches 2,000 miles from Mars at 1 a.m. EDT Tuesday, Aug. 5.

A spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, which has conducted the Mars probes for NASA, speaks rather wistfully of Mariner coming right after the moon landing.

"If it hadn't been for Apollo 11," he says, "Mariner would be the No. 1 scientific event of 1969."

Two Air Base Men Die In Auto Mishap

BOISE (UPI)—Two men from the Mountain Home Air Force Base died Sunday afternoon in a car accident near Spring Shores Marina on the shore of Lucky Peak Reservoir, about 15 miles northeast of Boise.

Dead is Ronald Bitters, 20, and Jerry L. Tallkison, 23.

According to the Idaho State Police, the car involved apparently failed to negotiate a curve and landed top-down on a hillside near the roadway.

Bitters was killed immediately at the crash scene and Tallkison, who was the driver of the car, died enroute to a Boise hospital.

The two Sunday afternoon deaths bring the state highway fatality toll for the year to 164 persons, two less than the 166 total recorded on Gen. State roads by this date in 1968.

Navioneers Leave Boise Airport

BOISE (UPI)—Two hundred and twenty five Navioneers took off from the Boise Municipal Airport Saturday, signalling the end to a national convention of Navioneers.

A Navioneer is a special breed of airplane owner which "belongs" to an aircraft called the Navion.

The Navion is considered a very special aircraft by its fans. Only about five thousand of them are in flyable condition country.

It was originally a product of Ryan Aircraft Company and first manufactured in the early 1940's at a cost of about $7,000. Today, a better quality aircraft now commands a price of about $35 to $40,000. They now are produced only on special order. This may account for the extreme amount of pride and care which are reflected by these well-kept aircraft.

In all, some 71 planes flew to Boise. Most of them were 20 to 25 years old.

While in southern Idaho the Navioneers engaged in fly-in breakfasts, aerial treasure hunts and cross-country hops.

All-Youth Horse Show Set Aug. 7

Young riders and owners of Quarter Horses will be gathered in Twin Falls Aug. 7, for the third annual Intermountain Quarter Horse Association All-Youth Show.

Show manager Clyde Smith, Filer, said this is the third year the show has been held in this area, and last year some 300 young horsemen and horsewomen from Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Oregon and Wyoming participated.

There will be 26 regular classes, in addition to six special 4-H classes that are added this year. Mr. Smith said these eligible to compete in the 4-H classes also may enter other classes and events for which they qualify.

The show is approved by the Intermountain Quarter Horse Association, the American Quarter Horse Association and the Intermountain Quarter Horse Breeders Association.

Judges for this year's event will be Duane Green, Goshen, Utah, and Sylvan Williams, Vale, Ore. Mr. Smith said both are outstanding judges and are well known in this area, but have not judged in previous youth shows. Jim Messersmith, Jerome, has donated his services as show announcer and Mrs. Clyde Smith is show secretary.

The show will be held at Frontier Field beginning at 9 a.m. and entries will be accepted up to show time. Mrs. Smith said entries may be obtained at Vickers Saddlery, Twin Falls or from Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

Any youngster who can qualify under the Quarter Horse Association Handbook rules, and who was 18 years old or less on Jan. 1, 1969, is eligible to enter. A single horse may be ridden by more than one contestant, providing he is not used twice in the same class.

Events will include halter classes for mares and geldings,

Motorcycle Helmet Law Ruling Will Be Ignored By Officers

BOISE (UPI)—Despite a District Court ruling that the law is unconstitutional, local area police say they will continue to ticket for violations of the motorcycle helmet law.

It may be a fruitless effort on their part, Friday Fourth District Court Judge Merlin S. Young said the law, enacted by the last session of the Idaho legislature, was unconstitutional.

Attorney E. Don Copple, Boise, said the ruling indicated the law is an infringement on an individual's freedom.

Following the court ruling, Ada County Prosecuting Attorney Eilston Matthews, gave a strong indication that his office would not prosecute complaints based on the helmet law.

Matthews was asked if prosecution "would amount to a direct insult to the court and the judge who made the ruling." He replied, "In this jurisdiction it would."

Boise City Attorney Elbert Gass also gave strong indications that the city may decline to prosecute cases regarding the helmet law. Gass said, "I would feel honor-bound to accept Judge Young's ruling." He added, "We'll give great weight to the decision but we would like to read the decision before we make a final decision."

The State Police, however, will continue to enforce the disputed law. In a teletype message broadcast statewide, Warner C. Mills, Idaho State Commissioner of Law Enforcement said, "A ruling on Idaho law concerning helmets on motorcycles was one of District Court Judge Merlin S. Young in Ada County. The helmet law will be enforced as it stands until the Supreme Court passes a ruling on it. An appeal has been made by the Ada County Prosecutor."

"What the motorcycling public is faced with appears to be a difficult situation. On one hand there is a District Court ruling and statements by area prosecutors that the law is unconstitutional and that they probably would not prosecute violators. But police say they will keep on giving out tickets for violations. The tickets may never get one into court, but as one attorney put it, "It could cost you a lot of money to prove you are right."

Boise Police said Saturday would issue traffic tickets to violators of the law and prosecute them in the Boise lower courts.

The case from which the court ruling came dealt with Gerald W. Albertson, who was arrested

In late April on a traffic charge of riding a motorcycle without a protective helmet.

2 Brothers On Trial For Star's Murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two brothers charged with the bludgeoned murder of silent screen star Ramon Novarro in his Hollywood Hills mansion went on trial today.

Jury selection was scheduled to begin in the case of Paul Robert Ferguson, 27, a house painter, and his brother, Thomas S. Ferguson, 16. Both are from the Chicago area.

Novarro, 69, was beaten on the head with a cane as he lay bound and nude in his bed. An autopsy revealed he suffocated in his own blood.

The prosecution contends his killers were torturing him to find out the location of $3,000 believed hidden in the home.

The state will seek first degree murder convictions. Paul Ferguson could receive the death penalty but his 18-year-old brother was 17 at the time of the crime and could receive a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices fell sharply across a road front on the New York Stock Exchange Monday in moderate active trading.

An accumulation of depressing economic news over the past few weeks did the market's own downward momentum. These factors, the major negative factors at work on the market.

Investors continued to be concerned over the outlook for corporate profits and expansion in the next two quarters. A Wall Street Journal report shows that second quarter profits for major industries were not rising so fast as they have been in the past year. Most severely affected issues were steels, autos and oils.

Some analysts voiced concern that the market may be nearing bottom.

As trading swung into the final hour the UPI marketwide indicator rose 2.36 per cent on 1,523 issues. Declines outnumbered advances eight to one, 1213 to 150. The Dow Jones industrial average fell more than 10 points. Volume topped 9,000,000 shares.

Electronics and oils led the decline. Autos and chemicals and steels were off.

Q—Where do you buy Treasury bills? In what denomination? How much do you pay for them? How much do you receive when they mature?

A—Treasury bills, because of their attractive yields, are receiving increasing attention from the small investor. Purchases in small amounts, multiples of $1,000, are possible. (Anything under $1,000 is considered an odd-lot.) Denominations or face values range between $5,000 and $1 million. But this is the difference between this and the face value that determines their yield.

Every Monday afternoon the Treasury Department auctions Treasury bills over these short-term obligations to replace maturing issues. A bond dealer who specializes in government securities is interested in selling an odd-lot—they are accustomed to institutional orders for $1 million or more. You can buy through a broker—this is probably your best source—there is a small commission and service charge. Buy on Friday, your purchase will be included with others in the Monday auction, avoiding an odd-lot charge.

In spite of these various fees you should still get a return equal to around 7 per cent on a 360-day basis, depending on whether the bill matures in 13, 26, 52, 77, 104, 131, 158, 185, 212, 239, 266, Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a bridge club. One of our members announced yesterday that she was planning to get married next month.

After she left, one of her friends called. "The man she's marrying lost his wife only six months ago, and I think out of respect for her memory they should wait a full year."

Everyone agreed with her, except me.

I said, "They are both seventy years old. They've known each other practically all their lives, and they're both in fairly good health, who knows how much time either of them has left? And if they want to make the most of the remaining time, what's wrong with that?"

How do you feel about it, Abby? A READER

DEAR READER—Under the circumstances I think six months is long enough.

DEAR ABBY: About three years ago I was a bridesmaid for a sorority sister who had an elaborate church wedding. She received many lovely gifts. The marriage didn't even last thru the honeymoon. It was quiet, unexciting, and none of the wedding gifts was returned. (Rumor had it that the groom took them all when he left.)

Now this sorority sister is planning another wedding. Same church, same wedding party, only the man is different. Are we, her friends, obligated to be as generous this time as before? Or will our good wishes suffice? SORORITY SISTER

DEAR ABBY: I don't understand why "Bothers" should be bothered because her husband looks at strange women and comments about them. My husband and I are both "people watchers" who thoroughly enjoy sharing with each other our observations. The other day he said, "Look at that fat fanny." I said,

"What?" He said, "Over there." I looked, and it WAS a fat fanny. I remarked, "Poor dear. We call each other's attention to 'nice legs,' a cute old couple walking arm in arm; smartly dressed women — and men, and slobs, too. It's fun. Let's face it, not rude. The people who go out for dinner want to be seen. The rest are there to eat."

Thru the years I have become sharper in my observations. My specialty is spotting nice children who I greatly like, and comfort — and their mother find them in the crowd. I started people watching 25 years ago back on the farm. I select Granny, who everybody went into town on — Saturday nights and just sat in their cars. Granny said, "Just to watch the people go. I really haven't changed much. 'Bothers' should join the club."

PEOPLE WATCHER IN HERMOSA BEACH

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UNLUCKY" IN CHICAGO: I don't know a fanny. The only fanny I got stuck a successful man over had was developing whatever it took to overcome bad luck.

Shirley Johnson Is Wed To Dixon

Shirley C. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Johnson, became the bride of Melvin R. Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin H. Dixon, all of Twin Falls, at a July 1 wedding in the Faith Assembly of God Church.

Burl Duncan, uncle of the bridegroom, performed the double ring ceremony under a white fern archway trimmed with blue, pink and green carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white satin and chantly lace, made by Joanna Craven, sister of the bridegroom. The gown, styled on a simple-line, featured a high neckline and an A-line accented with a satin front panel. The lace train, attached at the waist, ended in a ruffled train.

The bride wore a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white lace-covered Bible which belonged to the bridegroom's grandmother. The Bible held a single white orchid accented with white points and white ribbon streamers.

Bonnie Church, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and carried a white basket filled with pink, blue and green flowers. Craven, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and Thomas Church, brother-in-law of the bride, served as usher.

The bride was ring bearer. Lynn Hawley provided the floral decorations.

The bride and groom were accompanied by a three-tiered round chocolate cake, decorated with white and pink flowers, green and silver leaves, and small white doves. The cake was topped with three wedding bells and decorated with flowers and not before a white filigree heart.

Nylon "Touch" Makes Summer Fabric Scene

NEW YORK—(NEA) — The newest fabric to make the summer scene this year is a nylon called "Touch."

The fabric has the silky hand and drapability that is just right for the current mood of softness and casual elegance. It was perfected in October but it's a long way from the test tube to the fashion house, and so it made its debut for summer and from the looks of things will be around for a long time to come.

Designers have found that the fabric lends itself to all summer fashions — the dress-over-pants, the gypsy mood, the mindless love hit and the all important jumpsuit.

It turns up in brilliant prints, delicate, peasant prints and sophisticated florals.

SAFETY PLAY ASSURES SLAM

Oswald: "Jeff Rubens' new book, entitled 'The Secrets of Winning Bridge,' discusses general principles of bidding and play in rubber bridge and all forms of duplicate. He does not try to push any particular bidding methods but only those general principles that apply in all bidding systems."

Jim: "It is not a book designed for columnists, since he usually shows just two hands and doesn't tell you what the opponents hold."

Oswald: "He also doesn't bother with the bidding when he is discussing a point of play. Therefore, we have filled in bid."

spot if East follows with the deuce. This play will guard against finding all three spades in the East hand but will cost on overtrick if West holds the singleton king.

Oswald: "This is an example of a simple safety play, in rubber bridge, it would be silly indeed to risk a slam in an effort to pick up an extra trick. Of course, if South were in seven spades, he would have to try to make seven. It is really silly to give up and take down one just to guard against going down two."

Jim: "He points out that at match point duplicate, if you felt that everyone would be in six spades, then you should not take the safety play."

Oswald: "He is right about that but anyone who believes that all declarers in a duplicate game should reach six spades with these cards is living in a dream world. So, even in duplicate play, this safety play should be made."

'Average' Teen-Age Girl Eats Nine Times Each Day

HERE'S A POLLSTER who seriously contends the average teenage girl eats nine times a day. "HOW FREQUENTLY are husbands rather than wives accountable for childless marriages?" inquires Dr. L. M. Boyd, in two out of five cases, I'm told. CAN ANYBODY explain why girls as a rule have more cavities in their teeth than boys do? CABBAGES get hernias? I just read that in a Department of Agriculture bulletin. Interesting. Don't believe the truck messers are onto that yet. THAT ANIMAL with the finest hair is but, with the coarsest, the whale. That's right, the whale. OILY SKIN — Young Tracy, you have oily skin? If so, does this vex you greatly? If so, it irritate you that you shine in the moonlight? Does it bother you that you tend by evening to get a little slippery? Hold on, have good news. A New York City dermatologist named Dr. Louis Wexler says girls so afflicted in all likelihood will maintain a youthful appearing skin until relatively late in life. It is the skin that is most apt to reveal a woman's age. But many-of-these-women-will naturally have more cavities in their teeth than boys do. Head, N. C., got its name.

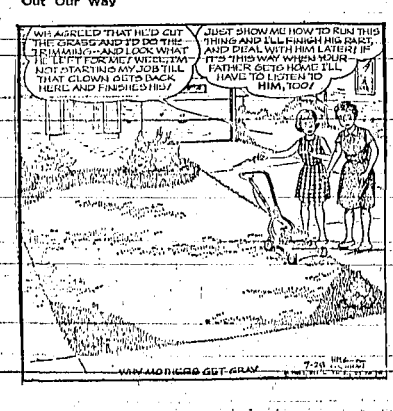

NAME GAME — When called Edith, says our Name Game man, tend to be meticulous in your work. Next morning, romance, they're pretty realistic, he says. It's none too easy to snow an Edith.

YOUR questions and comments are welcomed and will be used wherever possible in checking up. Write to L. M. Boyd, in care of P. O. Box 98187, Seattle, Wash. 98189.
