

I Love A Parade

...especially when it officially fishes in the fair season, as did this one Thursday in Gooding. Here the Wendell High School-Troyettes strut their stuff along the parade route on Gooding's Main Street. The Wendell drill team placed second in the marching drill team division. A large crowd attended the two parades which opened the Gooding fair. Thursday night the Gooding Jaycees sponsored the Idaho State Mounted Drill team competition, and field events and a jamboree were held in the afternoon. Prizes were given for the top three places in four divisions of the adult parade. Rodeo performances are slated Friday and Saturday at the Gooding fair. It is fair time in Shoshone county, where the Lincoln county event opened Friday and will conclude Saturday. Cassia's fair is next week, with the Jerome event scheduled for Aug. 20. TEN CENTS

Tax Bill Goes To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most comprehensive tax revision measure since the income tax was framed in 1913 today faced the prospect of another three months of debate and change in the Senate.

The reform bill, which shuts the door on $7 billion in tax breaks while handing out $9 billion in reductions to individual taxpayers, passed the House Thursday.

House approval came after six months of hearings which produced 15 volumes of testimony, and after two days of floor debate.

A Senate battle appeared certain over plans in the measure to reduce the depletion allowance from 27 1/2 percent to 22 percent. The allowance is considered by many the "symbol" of tax reform.

The Senate Finance Committee, which will conduct tax reform hearings, is headed by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who is opposed to reduction of the oil allowance. During the House vote Thursday, Democratic Whip Hale Boggs, D-La., was the only member of the eight-man delegation from oil-rich Louisiana to vote for the vast reform package.

Senate leaders have promised a vote after completion by Oct. 31 of Finance Committee hearings.

In addition to tax reform and tax relief, the measure includes a six-month extension of the income tax surcharge at 5 percent between Jan. 1 and June 30, 1970.

But tax reform is the substance of the bill. The measure would impose taxes for the first time on foundations; limit tax benefits for the oil and mineral industries, and prevent millionaires from escaping taxation. These were among 27 major areas of change.

In the Senate, meanwhile, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., introduced a bill to equalize federal income tax rates of single persons with those of married persons filing joint returns.

The measure would reduce taxes for several million single persons by about $1.9 billion at 1969 income levels, computed without the 10 percent surcharge now in effect.

YOUNG EXHIBITORS TAKE pride in their horses, not just at show time, but throughout the year. Kim Glavin, one of some 70 youngsters who took part in the Intermountain Quarter Horse Youth Show at Frontier Field Thursday, removes game arena dirt from his horse's hooves. The show, exclusive for young horsemen and horsewomen, teaches youngsters show arena techniques and gives them a better knowledge and understanding of their horses, say show directors.

Intermountain Quarter Horse Youth Show Draws 275 Entries

Every young horseman or horsewoman owns the world's greatest horse. If you don't believe it, ask them, or ask the judges of a walk-up to claim the all-around championship trophy.

The 275 entries covered a total of 30 classes this year, including a number of 4-H classes.

In this new division of the show, only members of 4-H horse clubs were permitted to compete. While other exhibitors represented several surrounding states, most of the 4-H members showing their horses were from Magic Valley community associations, point system, and files.

Mrs. Clyde Smith, show secretary, said winners in this division included G'lan Ward, Twin Falls, top gelding at halt; Bill Mocham, Jerome, champion halter class mare; Johnny Glicker, Twin Falls, western pleasure 13 years of age and under; and Betty Southwick, Jerome, 14 years of age and under.

In the AQHA division, Paula Lancaster exhibited the top mare and G'lan Ward the top gelding.

Clyde Smith, filler, was general show chairman, and Jim Muskrat, Jerome, donated this services as show announcer.

Moustachioed Students Ruled Out Here

Moustaches drew lengthy consideration Thursday evening at the policy recommendation meeting of the Twin Falls parent-student advisory committee.

Twenty-two members of the group met at the high school cafeteria to formulate recommendations to submit to the school board concerning the dress, personal appearance and behavior of the students. These recommendations will be considered by trustees at their regular meeting Monday night.

George Staudacher, assistant superintendent, said after a long discussion on moustaches the committee recommended high school boys should not be allowed to wear them. The vote was split on this matter.

They went along with the present policy governing the length of boys' hair. The hair should not come down on the neck lower than the shirt collar. It should not be over the eyebrows, and sideburns should be no lower than the earlobe.

The group recommended boys be permitted to wear beards and mustaches from the beginning of school through Oct. 15 and from April 15 to the end of the school year. The shorts must be in good taste, and cutoff blue jeans will not be acceptable.

The policy on the night dress was not changed, with the left up to the discretion of the school officials to determine whether their attire is in good taste. Mr. Staudacher said cut-off dresses are preferable, but skirt length should be in good taste.

No change was suggested for the school's existing smoking policies, but the group did ask the board draw up some type of similar policy regarding the use of drugs. Alcohol, no smoking or alcoholic beverages are allowed on campus.

Any student appearing to be under the influence of alcohol at a school function may be expelled.

The committee recommended outside publications be allowed on campus provided school officials give their approval to them. The school officials also will be allowed to judge whether they are engaged in the publication in good taste.

Extension Specialist Plan Eyed

RUPERT — Instigation of an area specialist program in the state to replace the agricultural county agents was favored by a small group of interested taxpayers Thursday night at a meeting in the Minidoka Courthouse.

Harold Wilson, Paul mayor, said he favored the specialist idea since one man cannot be expected to retain in his mind all the answers concerning the 4-H program, pastures, hay and other phases of agriculture.

Paul Smolenski, treasurer and chairman, said that if the specialist idea is instigated it will be better to keep the men in a "highed area" so "that one would be near when needed."

The University of Idaho has recommended that county agents be reduced by 22 men and area specialists be increased from eight to 21 men. The estimated annual budget of the extension service would thus be increased by $100,000 in state appropriation.

The specialists would be paid by the state. Sterling salary would be about $14,000 annually.

Eldon Smith, Rexburg, member of the State Board of Education, said originally the extension service was confined to agricultural research, but in recent years, with the inclusion of more federal money, additional programs, such as 4-H and home demonstration have been added.

Some criticism was expressed about agents' spending too much time in community organizations and clerical work, but it was suggested pamphlets sent to farmers be eliminated as many farmers don't read them.

Paul Smolenski, chairman, conducted the meeting over Rep. Jack Claiborn, Sen. John Reavoy and Rep. Steve Anderson, both Minidoka county; Rep. Vard Clum, Jerome; and Rep. James Martin, both Cassia county.

Arabs Attack

By United Press International
Three Arab commando groups united today in a strike along a four-mile front in what a Palestinian guerrilla organization said was the Arab commando movement's first attack against Israel.

The Arabs claimed they inflicted heavy losses on the Israelis.

The Palestine Armed Struggle Command — PASC — in Damascus — said the commandos attacked three Israeli settlements and three military positions but failed to say exactly where they were.

Interstate 80 Will Provide

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Board of Highway Directors Thursday approved a corridor location and design of the proposed location of Interstate 80N from south Mountain Home interchange through Glenns Ferry.

The route will go by way of Hammett with a connection to Hammett, known as Plan 1.

Hearings were held in Hammett and Glenns Ferry in 1965 and again in July of 1969 to help determine the location of the interstate.

The board based its consideration of the fact that testimony favored Plan 1. As it would be put into service sooner than Plan 3 and also tended itself to stage construction — whereas Plan 3 could not be put into service until it reached Glenns Ferry.

With capital costs of Plan 1 lower, inflation could seriously affect this plan considering the greater length of time for construction.

It was noted that over $200,000 of state highway funds has been invested in design of Plan 1, based on hearing approval by the board by the committee affected in 1963.

Teamsters Strike Halts Pan Am Airways Flights

NEW YORK (UPI) — A strike by more than 8,000 Teamster Union members has forced Pan American World Airways, the nation's largest overseas air carrier, to cancel all out-bound flights from domestic airports until at least 6 p.m. (EDT) today.

The strike by the Airline Brotherhood of Teamsters shut down reservation, cargo, stock and clerical facilities at all Pan Am terminals and offices, according to the union. The airline said supervisors were the only employees on duty.

The union said clerical and other services performed by union members at military installations and at Cape Kennedy, Fla., will continue.

In a statement, the airline said that it had "offered" the union a "counter proposal" and hoped it would be accepted during the day. The statement added that while the counter proposal, "is under consideration Pan Am is canceling all out-bound flights up to 6 p.m. (EDT) today. Air passengers booked for later flights should call Pan Am before flight time."

The union's demands center around a three-year contract which would include a 10 percent annual increase, plus better pension, health and vacation benefits. The last reported management offer was a 9 percent raise over the three-year period.

The union claims the average pay scale is approximately $20 per hour and the 10 percent increase plus a cost-of-living clause would be needed to bring salaries to an acceptable level.

Harvey Katz, an official in the airline's New York office said even though the union has struck "there has been no break-off in the talks."

Injuries In Crash Fatal

JEROME — A Fort Morgan, Colo., man died Thursday of injuries he received in a one-car accident Sunday on Interstate 80N near Jerome.

Mr. Herrera was a passenger in a car driven by Edgardo Gallegos, 30, Burley. Mr. Gallegos remains hospitalized in fair condition.

Idaho State Police said Mr. Herrera was fatally injured when the car the men were riding in went out of control about 5 p.m. Sunday, went into the median strip and rolled three times.

The accident occurred about two miles west of the 80-50 junction. Mr. Herrera reportedly was in Magic Valley doing field work. His body was taken to Twin Falls Mortuary.

2,000 Visit Booth At T. F. Bridge

More than 2,000 people have visited the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce tourist information booth at Perrine Memorial Bridge.

Ray Rostron, chamber manager, said the booth, which was opened June 15, will close Aug. 15.

Walt Betke, who operates the center during the week, said all states but two have been represented by the tourists stopping there. Bill Arma manages the booth on the weekends.

Mr. Rostron said the chamber has received a great number of compliments on how the booth is operated. He said it is difficult to compare the number of people stopping there with last year since the booth was only open 30 days last summer.

Land Leased To Church At Rupert

RUPERT — The city of Rupert has leased a small piece of land on the corner of Eighth and A Streets to the First Ward LDS Church which will black-top the area and use it for parking.

The lease was approved at the city council meeting Tuesday. Councilmen also agreed to oil the alley on block 15, behind the LDS Church, and will install a concave in the alley to drain the water from the site.

Representatives of the Wright subdivision met with the council to request relief from the sub water problem prevalent in that section of town this year. Councilmen agreed to install another pump in the area and to check further into the problem.

Four items recommended for approval by the Northwest Water Pollution Board were approved and include pumps, flow meters and pipes for the lift station in the newly annexed Grandview Addition.

Bill Whitton of the McCool Addition discussed the mosquito problem in the city with the council and noted that the city or wester sprays the city with a plane to relieve the pest problem. The council agreed to study the situation and possible solutions. It was also requested that a stop sign for southbound traffic be installed on South C at its intersection with South Sh. No action was taken.

The appointment of Shelby Zimmerman to replace Dick Cook on the city's recreation board was approved and Dan Cowell was appointed chairman of the group.

A new photo printer machine was purchased for the city for about $805.

The city picnic for city employees and their families and for city committees will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 26 at Neptune Park.

36-Mill Levy Is Retained At Richfield

RICHFIELD — Richfield city board members set the mill levy at 36 mills, the same as last year, at the August meeting.

The general fund is 24 mills; street lights, 10 mills; and recreation, two mills.

Several trees on the north side of town will be removed by Sider Construction Co. to reduce traffic hazards.

John Straulhar, professional engineer, Twin Falls, reported on the need for a gravelled field at the airport due to existing rock ledges. Councilman John Lemmon is in charge of contact with the IATA administrative board regarding the matter.

Councilman Howard DeWitt stated a topography map was being made by the Soil Conservation Service for the city dumpgrounds. DeWitt confers with board of health official Alex Shaffer, regarding work at the dump grounds.

Seal coating of two blocks of city street, oiled last year, was approved.

Request for new sidewalks on part of main street was denied as there were no funds available. Businessmen are allowed to replace sidewalks at their own expense. Estimated cost is $9 per running foot.

Burglary

Twelve tires and wheels, valued at about $1,300 were taken from Southwest Pipe and Steel east of Twin Falls this week.

Sheriff Paul Corder said the tires and wheels were taken from a vehicle parked at the firm's yard sometime between 11 p.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday.

The burglary was not reported until Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff Corder said most of the tires which were taken were either new or newly repaired.

Mrs. Walters Cites Need Of Unity In State Education

SUN-VALLEY (UPI) — Mrs. John Walters, president of the Idaho State Board of Education, said she views the state should have only one board of education.

Mrs. Walters, speaking at the annual convention of Idaho State Administrators, remarked on suggestions that there should be two boards for education—one for the institutes of higher learning and one for public schools.

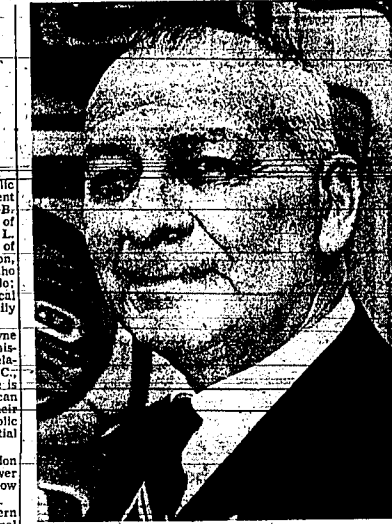

Mrs. Walters said, "We think our state, still with the population of only the medium-sized city, can be best served with one board, even with all of the interlocking pieces involved it seems to us that the great strength of one board is in the coordination and continuity of all its elements."

"Our experience has shown that each board member has an equal interest in each institution or agency under its control and each has no partisanship toward anyone as against another," she said.

Mrs. Walters added, "We believe the state can be best served by having all of these institutions' budgets brought together and presented to the legislature under one board. This prevents any working against each other that might indicate that each component had its own board."

Later in the meeting, the panel on school press relations said that there is a much greater interest in education and public schools than ever before and that community and public press relations are becoming increasingly important to inform the public on the various phases of the school and public's standpoint.

Panel members included Don

Air-Control Panel Mulls Burning Law

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission met in Idaho Falls Thursday and discussed open-burning regulations for the state.

In order for Idaho to receive additional federal monies to implement its air pollution control program, the federal government states that Idaho must establish rules and regulations for open-burning.

The commission received open-burning regulations submitted by the air pollution staff of the Idaho Department of Health and Robert Montgomery, chairman from Pocatello, said the commission will review the guidelines between now and November and come up with open-burning rules and regulations.

Montgomery said that after the rules are established it will be the communities' responsibility to enforce their own regulations and not the commission.

He said, "There is a strong misconception on the part of the public that industry is the only air pollutant in the state. This is a long way from the truth. The public is a major source of air pollution in burning rubbish, garbage, backyard incinerators, fire-burning in open dumps, automobile exhaust, space heaters and many other sources."

The commission also heard a status report on the state's air surveillance system.

Howard Burkhardt, Pocatello engineer, told the commission there were eight high-volume samplers placed at different areas in Idaho to receive air samples.

He said 14 stations have been set up throughout the state to receive dust fall samples and equipment was received to establish 50 monitoring stations for sulphur dioxide.

The commission set a deadline of Dec. 31, 1970, for the industry to comply with the regulations.

In other business, the commission heard a proposal from the Associated General Contractors of Idaho for a more lenient regulation concerning the operation of hot-mix plants. The commission agreed to grant AGC a variance until November and in the meantime the air pollution staff will meet with AGC to work out tentative criteria for emissions from hot-mix plants.

The commission approved a total budget of $189,000 for the next two-year biennium. Of this amount, $78,000 will be from state general funds and $110,000 will be from federal sources.

The old adage, "What goes up must come down," has proven itself again. This time it's a little different way—grocery prices.

Seems as though the past few months, everytime you go into a grocery store, prices have gone up a penny or two on every item making for a traumatic experience for the housewife on a grocery budget.

But the blame on inflation, government leaders, or have you, but perhaps Magic Valley residents will notice a considerable difference in prices in the next few weeks, with a new crop of Twin Falls, and with inflation scheduled for an all-time high this year—we could use some lower prices.

According to the Lynwood store manager, Lee Vander Does, two Safeway stores in Twin Falls, along with 19 of the other Safeway stores in 17 towns in Idaho, will be closed Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to mark down prices on all items.

Marvin Abrams, advertising director for Albertson's, announced in Boise that the two stores in Twin Falls are taking the same route—closing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday to remark all items for a discount-type operation.

Albertson's stores in Boise did this a short time ago. Usually, in a major price change such as this, associated stores are closed for a period of days while the price reductions are listed on all merchandise. In many cases, too, the lower prices will mean that the housewife will no longer receive trading stamps. This, however, is not a set procedure.

The trend toward "discount" retailing in the grocery field is a development gaining national attention. There is little doubt that it is a major effort to reduce prices while, at the same time, maintaining volume.

After a year of lower prices has been increasing and full scale boycotts in Denver and Washington, D. C., have been held recently, so, perhaps, by consumer demand, trying to give the customer what he wants is a main facet in the "discount" trade.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Estelle Ricketts, Jerome, for her services as show chairman of the June Iris show held in Jerome.

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I think there is something wrong with my husband. He was a Marine in World War II and was always very proud of that, but lately he has been sleeping in his uniform, with all his medals, cap and even his service dog.

Should I watch him for other signs of peculiarity? He's not old enough to be getting senile.

WORRIED IN CLEVELAND

DEAR WORRIED: Don't try to diagnose your husband's case. He needs professional help. Get him to a doctor. In or out of uniform.

DEAR ABBY: A couple my husband and I have known for many years suddenly up and got a divorce. All their friends were shocked at the news because no one suspected they weren't getting along and there was certainly no hint of divorce.

It still doesn't make much sense as there seems to be nobody else in the picture and this couple have married children.

Well, they are living apart now which creates some sticky problems for their friends. Would it be proper to invite them BOTH to the same party—but individually?

Dry Apricots And Peaches

After you've canned frozen, eaten and given away all the peaches and apricots you can from your backyard trees — and there's still some left — try drying these fruits!

They're easy to pack and store, economics agent for Twin Falls County.

According to food specialists in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, dried fruits will keep a year or so when stored in a cool, dry, dark place.

Here's how to dry these fruits — in your own oven.

Select about six pounds (12 cups) fresh ripe firm fruit. Wash and dry. Peel if you wish; then cut in halves and remove pits.

To prevent discoloration, soak fruit 15 minutes in a solution of three and one-half table- spoon sodium sulfite to one gallon of water. A drugstore can supply sodium sulfite. Two other, but less effective, treatments are: (1) To dip fruit in a salt-water bath of four to six table- spoon salt to one-gallon of water for about 10 minutes; or (2) precook fruit in steam or boiling water until tender but firm.

Arrange fruit on trays and place in 150 degree oven with the bottom tray three inches above the oven floor. Do not use top unit in electric oven. Prop open the door of an electric oven, eight inches. (This helps control heat and lets out moist air.)

Alternate trays every one or two hours.

Area Rancher Says Wool Is Still Important In Australia

GOODING — "Wool is still the most important single industry in Australia, although mining, fishing, shipping and manufacturing are coming to the fore."

This statement was made recently by Jim Faulkner, Gooding area rancher, who visited Australia this spring. Mr. Faulkner was part of a rotary study exchange group that visited the country "down under."

Mr. Faulkner said the sheep in Australia are mainly Merinos, as they are basically wool rather than lamb producers as here in the United States. However, he said, some Suffolk, Southdown, Border Leicester, Corriedale and Dorset Horn are found there.

While touring the country, Jim found that the Australian wool industry is modern and up to date. "The country has very little irrigation and depends primarily on rain water. The wells there are salty."

"When the rainfall is between 20 and 25 inches, the land is used for grazing and about six sheep grazing on each acre of land per year. When the rainfall is below 20 inches, the land is used for raising grains."

"If the rainfall is below 12 inches, again the land is used for grazing. The Australians also raise fruits and vegetables. Mr. Faulkner said in the northern part of the country, which is tropical, bananas and other tropical fruits are grown and wine grapes, citrus fruits, apples and other fruits are grown in the southern part."

He said many people have truck farms. He said the biggest problem facing these farmers is the shortage of water. The grazing land is turned into wheat crops and Mr. Faulkner sees lighter control on wheat for grazing.

"The Australian government because all storage space already is filled."

He noted Australia ships grain to Red China and Japan.

"Nearly all farmers in South Australia have some sheep," Mr. Faulkner said. "The Merinos are very good sheep. They are very woolly and often face-locked. I encountered several $1,000 to $2,000 rams, but the range ram would run about $40 to $50. There are some polled Merinos as well as Dorsets. The Border Leicester is important as it is mutation type and produces a phenomenal amount of twins."

"I encountered no herding of sheep. All are run in fenced paddocks. The sheepmen have great pride in their good dogs. They are predominantly Border Collie or Kelpies. They figure their dogs are better at herding and staying power. They pay up to $75 for a pup and $150 for a trained dog."

"The shearing and shearing competition is very hot. The shearing season runs around as there is very little snow or freezing temperatures in Australia."

"Many farms with good fences and improvements, that would run four sheep to the acre year around, would be $200 per acre, in the settled areas. Land capable of carrying that amount of sheep in sparsely settled areas would run about $20 to $40 per acre."

Lambs for meat are killed at 12-14 weeks of age and they dress out at about 35 pounds. These bring 15 to 23 cents a pound. The weight of the lamb is also consumer prefers the small lean lamb. The Aussie wool power likes "hogget" or yearling, as he says it has more taste.

"Half of a 'hogget' can be bought for about 10 cents per pound. The weight of the hogget is about 45 cents per pound. The 14-16 pound sides are about $2.75."

"The wool was sold this year for 45 cents a pound. Every fleece is put on a grading table and any stained or sweaty wool is taken away."

"The fleeces into a separate bin according to its wool count. The Merinos have a wool count in the upper 50s or 60s. The other breeds are in the lower 20s to 30s pounds. They are about 4 by 2 1/2 feet and are sacked in 100 lb. wool sacks with hydraulic rams."

"Many growers run predominantly wethers strictly for the wool. Recent comment wethers are about $7 per head. They run them until they are six years old and sell them for $2."

Mr. Faulkner lives near Billis with his wife, Lorna, and three sons, Ray, S., Tom, J., and Dan, J.

Together with his father and two brothers, the ranching operation includes about 1,000 head of cattle, 3,500 sheep and 1,500 acres of farm land.

Jim says he was most impressed with the quality of the Australian wool and their breeding programs.

Farm AND Ranch SECTION

EDGAR LIERMAN, left, and his neighbor, Hugo Meyer, both Filer, are shown in Meyer's Maravian malting barley field which is now being harvested. Lierman estimates he received a net return of $18.75 per acre for his 13 1/2 acre field which averaged 97 bushels to the acre. Larry Meyer, 15, operates the combine for his father.

Two Filer Farmers Raising Malting Barley For Beer Firm

FILER — A comparatively new crop in the Magic Valley and one which is creating a great deal of interest among farmers here, is malting barley. It is now being raised under contract for the Coors Brewing Company.

Hugo Meyer is harvesting 38 acres of the crop and Edgard Lierman has finished a 13 1/2 acre field. Both farms southwest of Filer.

Lierman's field yielded 95,500 pounds of an average of 97 bushels to the acre. Meyer has not completed harvesting his crop so has not yet computed the yield per acre.

Lierman is the second year. Meyer has raised the barley but only the first year under contract to the Coors company.

Last year he planted seven acres of the barley for a trial run, and the yield, after rain damage, was 80 bushels to the acre. The yield would probably have been much higher if the grain could have been harvested prior to the rain which plagued many crops last year.

"Both farmers are members of the Magic Valley Vegetable Growers Association. "Growers are happy to see this new crop come to the valley," stated Mr. Meyer. "As a rotation crop, the net return of $150 to $170 per acre is much greater than that received from canning corn or other fresh canning crops contracted in the valley," he added.

The Commodity Marketing Association with Jim Whelan as its marketing agent, is responsible for bringing Coors to the valley, according to Meyer. Some 1,300 acres were contracted in the valley with Raegon, Idaho, but seedlings and seedlings and loading it on railroad cars for shipment to Golden, Colo.

Growers feel the malting barley has a great potential in the area due to the availability of irrigation water and prospects of normally good dry harvest times. A premium price of $3.40 to $3.50 per hundred weight, depending upon grade, sounds inviting to farmers.

Mr. Lierman stated he was well pleased with his yield of 97 bushels per acre. When asked the secret to his successful crop, he stated it was important to give the crop special care at sowing time to prevent crusting. The proper balance of fertilizer with planned irrigation timing was also mentioned as a factor in making this crop a profitable one, both in grade and in net return.

Association members hope with the introduction of Coors malting barley to the valley, the net return per acre will be an incentive for other contracted crops to rise to its level, resulting in better prices and better economy for all Magic Valley farmers.

"I am very pleased with all aspects of the crop and with the fine Coors personnel with which we deal," stated Mr. Meyer. "As a board member of the Commodity Marketing Agency and also of the Magic Valley Vegetable Growers Association, I am happy to see a competing crop come into the area to help increase the prices of the many other crops we raise."

The malting barley had been tried in northern Idaho several years ago but had not proved successful in that area. With its success almost insured in Magic Valley, acreages planned

I. T. (Pete) Creed received three cracked ribs recently when a horse he was riding fell on him. He was riding the horse in a hay field when it started to stumble. He fell off when the horse stumbled. The horse then got up again and again fell, falling on top of Mr. Creed, cracking his ribs.

Barley combining has been finished at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gallo at Tuttle. Dave Fish, Tuttle, combined the grain.

Harvesting of sweet corn is in progress at Tuttle and has been finished for Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hawkes.

Robert Wright, Halley; Stan Wright, Pocatello, and Jerry Wright, Elko, Nev., assisted with hay harvesting and stacking for their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wright, Tuttle.

Harvesting of grain on the Sallor Creek project, west of Glens Ferry, has been completed and employees are working on machinery in preparation for potato digging operations which will begin in about six weeks.

Roy F. Ross, who farms north of Glens Ferry, has about finished his second cutting of hay and reports there is very little water left in Bennett Creek, but the water has lasted longer than it has most years.

At the Gilbert C. Walker ranch on Cold Springs Creek, near Glens Ferry the second cutting of hay is finished also and men are combining barley.

Second cutting of hay is under way at the W. J. Wilson Stearn ranch west of Glens Ferry and the grain is ready to combine as soon as the hay is up.

Lesler McMurry, Glens Ferry stockman and railroad worker who was injured in a fall from a horse last July 2, still is in a Boise hospital.

To the grain should greatly increase. The seed for the crop is shipped from the Coors plant, Wiler-Mathews, north of Filer, is raising the crop this year.

Grassman Tour Set Tuesday At Rupert

RUPERT — Seven Minidoka County farms have been nominated for the 1969 Farmer of the Year, an annual award presented by the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

Nominees are: Frank Urlick, Nonskaid; are: Frank Urlick, sponsored by the Farm Bureau; Joe Studer, Rupert; Grange; Ruben Ketterling, Plover; George August, March; Utah-Idaho Farmers Union; Jim Horner, Sr., Emerson Grange; R. H. Koch, NPO; and Walt Grant, Minidoka County, Best Growers.

The men and their operations will be judged during the annual tour-to-be-held early this year on Tuesday. The tour will be held later in the fall, but the chamber committee voted to tour early to see the crops in the field.

Members will be judged on their community activities, attitude toward the community and their farms, appearance of their operation, use of natural resources, livestock, crops, livestock and machinery, and their conservation practices.

Speaking at the endeavor is Carl Bond, general chairman, John Cameron, chairman of the tour, and Bill Hanes, chairman of the dinner held each year to announce the winner. The tour will begin at 8 a.m. Tuesday from the Rupert chamber office and it is anticipated it will take about 20 minutes each place for inspection and travel time.

Other committee members, who with others selected from the area, will act as judges. They include Pete Ford, Wayne Ransom, Bill Virtue, Robert Hilliard, Richard Westendorf, LaMont Smith and Mike Ketterling.

During the dinner Nov. 6 at the St. Nicholas Parish Hall, a farm couple will be guests of a business and some 200 persons are expected to attend. It has been customary in the past to also name the Grassman of the year during that banquet but it is uncertain whether or not that award will be made this year.

August March, residing at 352 70th, Rupert, farms 160 acres, raising beef, potatoes and grain. He also farms 120 acres on Unit A, west of Emerson with the best of the raised potatoes and best here.

In addition to raising beef, March feeds about 80 yearling Holstein calves each year to be bred for stock. He has worked in the area for about 30 years and has been at his present location since 1946. Mr. Koch lives alone but manages to farm his own 44 acres. He did farm other places until recently, farming a total of 180 acres at one time. He lives at about 130 head of dairy cows and sells the products in Idaho. His operation is located at 285 100th where he has been for the past 13 years. He has been in the county for 37 years. Besides the cows, Mr. Studer farms 400 acres, 210 of which he owns. He raises corn, grain, and hay, mostly for feed for the livestock. He also runs about 30 head of beef cattle through the area since birth. He has maintained his present home for 20 years.

He raises beef, potatoes, grain and hay, and pasture about 30 head of cattle each winter. He has a daughter and two sons.

Mr. Kraus owns 135 of the 230 acres he farms at 190W 250 of Rupert.

He raises beef, hay, grain and livestock, feeding about 90 heifers for dairy use and 100 steers a year. In the area all of his life, he has been at his present location for 19 years. He is married with three daughters and a son.

Raising sugar beets, beans, grain and hay, Mr. Horner farms 120 acres, 85 of which he owns. His operation is located at 20W 200S of Rupert. He also feeds 200 head of sheep a year, and at one time fed about 100 head of cattle. He has been in the county 25 years and at his present location for five years.

He is married with three sons and a daughter, all four of whom are involved in the agriculture industry. The three boys have each earned the state FFA award and a son, Mr. Horner being made an honorary member three times. One boy also earned the district star farmer award. The boys and Mr. Horner being among them captured about 25 trophies from the fair for cattle, sheep and hog raising.

Cost-Sharing Program Re-Opened

The Agriculture Conservation Program (ACP) has been re-opened in Twin Falls County for fall conservation practices.

Carl Bond, chairman of the Twin Falls County ASC Committee, says applications will be accepted in the county office through Friday, Aug. 15. Any farmer in Twin Falls County wishing cost-sharing for completion of a conservation practice this fall must make application in the county office by Aug. 15.

This program includes such practices as re-organization of irrigation systems, permanent ditch lining, grass seeding for pasture, range practices which provide livestock water or forage, etc.

NEW SHEEP AND HORSE BARNs are being erected in the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds in Filer. Because of the increasing 4-H sheep and horse projects in the county the past two years, more space is needed to house the animals during the upcoming county fair, Sept. 3-4. Erecting the frames for the barns are, from left, Richard Marrow, Hubert Brinkman and Dale Callison, all Filer. The new barns are being constructed directly behind the present sheep and horse barns.

Social Security Question Box

If you have any question concerning social security benefits or qualifications, address them to: Jim Davis, Box 1339, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401.

Q. I've been getting Social Security since I was 62 years old. In six months I'll be 65. Do I have to go back to the Social Security office to sign up for Medicare?

A. No, you don't. Because you're already on Social Security, you'll be covered for Hospital Insurance automatically starting with the first day of the month that you reach 65. You will get a card in the mail asking you if you want the Medical Insurance. Remember this part of Medicare is voluntary and you must take the choice if you wish to pay $4.00 per month for this coverage. You answer yes or no on the card sent to you and mail it back to the Social Security Administration. You won't have to go to the office.

Q. Even though I'll be 63 later this year, I'm not going to retire from my job. Is there any reason I should contact the Social Security office at age 63?

A. Yes, there certainly is — don't forget Medicare. Remember, you don't have to retire and medical protection from your social security. Sign up for Medicare two or three months before you are 65. At that time you can also find out if your social security check will be when you do retire. When you come in to retire, bring proof of your age action, your birth certificate, baptismal certificate, or other documentary evidence, and proof of your last year's earnings such as tax returns or W-2 form.

Dairy Herd Averages Are Listed

There were 20 herds on production in 1968 on production testing in May, in the Twin Falls County Dairy Herd Improvement Association Unit No. 2, according to Twin Falls County Agent, Donald F. Youtz.

Testing Supervisor, Bill Lamp, Filer, reports that 20 herds in Unit 2 with 900 cows milking and 132 cows dry were on test.

Mr. Youtz said that all records are being processed at the Washington State University Computer processing center. He said that monthly production is now being reported as daily average production for milk and butterfat, and not as total monthly production as previously reported.

Youtz also said that the daily average production is for all cows in the herd, including dry cows, not just cows that are milking.

The following daily average production figures list number of cows milking, total cow daily average milk production and average butterfat production for May: Everett Andrews, Filer, 48, 61, 35.0 and 1.21; Burton Baughman, Buhl, 16, 21, 37.2 and 1.32; Gary Custer, Twin Falls, 70, 40, 40.2 and 1.31; Gaylord Drown, Filer, 30, 37, 46.5 and 1.59; Irvin Ehlers, Twin Falls, 67, 70, 42.5 and 1.59; and Harvey Grindstaff, Buhl, 59, 59, 47.4 and 1.37.

Declo Rancher Is Cassia County Grassman Of Year

BURLEY — Cassia County 1969 Grassman of the Year has been selected as James Rodgers, 37-year-old Declo rancher.

Rodgers owns 100 acres, two and one-half miles east of Declo, including 92 acres of pasture, with buildings and corrals comprising the rest of the land. Mr. Rodgers feeds about 500 head of cattle annually.

Wise use of pasture land through a carefully planned rotation program is credited for the successful cattle operation. Cattle weight gains on the Rodgers ranch are among the highest recorded in Cassia County, according to the grassman committee.

As the grassman committee toured the ranch, Mr. Rodgers explained his operation. He leaves a herd on one pasture for three days, then moves the cattle to another pasture, if the harrows and irrigates the first pasture and in about 28 days, the pasture is again ready for grazing.

Type of grass grown is mainly Alta tall Fescue grass. In the fall natural and commercial fertilizer is applied.

From accurate records two years ago, the total weight gain on the Rodgers ranch averaged 1,320 pounds of beef per acre. Last year, the records show, a 2.44 pounds gain per day.

Records kept on each breed in the herd show the Herefords having the best gain, followed by black baldies and Angus show the lowest gain. In the herd are mostly Herefords but other breeds include Angus, black baldies and some Charolais cross-breeds.

Rodgers purchases his cattle in late winter and early spring and pastures them nearly a year before selling. He buys calves primarily.

A native of Colorado, Rodgers was raised near Denver where he was engaged in a cattle raising enterprise with his father and a brother. Later he and his father moved to Elko, Nev., area where they operated a large cattle ranch. Three years ago Rodgers moved to Declo.

Mr. Rodgers is active in farm and community affairs. He is a member of the Farm Bureau, Co-op Supply and serves as a director of the Declo Kiwanis Club.

He and his wife, Barbara, have one son and two daughters.

As Cassia County Grassman of the Year he will compete against other ranchers from some 40 counties in the state for the Idaho Grassman of the Year title.

The state winner will be selected in October from resumes submitted about each candidate. Committee of the program for Cassia County include Merrill Atkinson, chairman, and Gary Post, vice chairman, Soil Conservation Service, and J. Wayne Cole, secretary, Cassia County agent. The local committee members and officers were selected last April during an organizational meeting attended by 25 officials representing local businesses, county and federal agencies.

This year over 40 counties are participating compared to 26 counties last year.

The program recognizes people who have made best economic and conservation use of pasture type grass in their enterprise. Good farming practices with conservation methods is the goal of the program rather than just grass production, according to the local committee.

Protect Beans with Cygon

controls mites, aphids, leafhoppers, leaf miners, lygus

Can be used up to and including day of harvest

Cygon® 267 Systemic Insecticide is more effective than other compounds because it kills by both contact and systemic action. It gives high initial kill, then continues as a systemic protector — working from within the plant to resist "weathering" that often shortens the effective life of other materials.

Cygon is economical, too. Because it has long-lasting activity and is used at low rates, a little goes a long way. Cygon is also a low-hazard material — and when used according to directions, there are no residue problems.

For further information, contact your local insecticide supplier. Before using any pesticide, always read the label.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS: NOTICE OF PROPERTY OWNERS, NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING, NOTICE OF PRIVATE SALE.

AN ANSWER TO EARWIGS:—Most gardeners are content to let their tomatoes ramble over a much of straw, or train them to stakes to keep them off the ground. Keep them watered during the dry season and sprayed with Maneb or Bordeaux mixture for blights. Poor fruit set could be due to cool nights or soil too rich, about 1 inch in common to most gardens, and usually it's nothing to worry about.

—F. R. of Jerome: "We have a beautiful Merion blue grass lawn which has suddenly developed a 'fairy ring,' but does not know what to do with it. The ring is about eight feet in diameter and the grass looks as if a bicycle tire ran around the lawn in circles."

What you have is a so-called "fairy ring" (not fairy ring), and the trouble is due to a fungus which kills the grass. It is simple. Your best bet is to live with it. Some gardeners tell us they have eradicated the trouble by using iron sulfate (magnesium sulfate) in a three-gallon sprinkling can. This is drenched over the entire ring. Some have replaced the grass with fresh soil. My advice: Don't worry about it!

B. H. of Rockland: "I've planted a new lawn this spring, and the mixture contained fertilizer, which we thought was to shade the fine grass and then it would disappear. Now we are left with a lawn that is not doing it. This disappoints us as we have been told that 'fescue' is undesirable. Also, our new lawn has a lot of weeds in. What shall we do?"

—First, don't be disappointed with fescue. It's a good grass and will take dry weather (plus shade) better than other grasses. It's tougher now, but that's no problem if the blades are sharp. As for the weeds, a few new laws have been passed. Money is being put with the grass. Your lawn mower is an excellent weeder and few weeds can stand up under constant mowing.

TWELVE ELM TREES AGAIN:—Our recent notes about Dutch Elm disease brought in a flood of letters from elm admirers. One reader said he had seen elm around five elms over the years. One said it seems very healthy, although it was dying back about five years ago. At that time I wrapped a piece of aluminum foil, two feet high around it — to keep the chipmunk from getting to the feeding stations. Even so, the tree had a good healthy tree, and I think the foil did the trick. Could there be any connection? Another writer: "My elm, which has lost about 60 fine elms, I don't like your 'no cure' forecast. I would like a cure we used and worked. It was a very large refuse fire adjacent to a sick elm. The tree had gone the route of dead-and-dry leaves at the top — all practical branches were bare. We had built a larger fire than intended; a few of the branches caught fire, although by simple oversight that tree was not removed, with the others that year."

In the spring of 68 and again this spring, the tree came out in full leaf. I was sure it was dead. I believe that the heat from the fire cured the tree. Now I'm trying to think of ways to apply heat to all my remaining trees and one thought is to wrap asbestos around the trunk and use a blow torch over the area."

We wish our readers luck in their search for a cure, but I doubt any of our suggestions will work. The fungus which destroys the elms work inside and it takes only one beetle high in the top of the tree to touch off the entire infection.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK:—G. E. of Aberdeen: "How shall I treat rhododendrons so they flower each year. The first year I planted them they bloomed profusely. The next year nothing bloomed."

The flower buds are probably killed by cold winter. Some rhododendrons are harder than others. And, like many other ornamentals, they are often "alternately bearing" — bloom profusely one year and none the next. Cutting off faded blooms to plants will not go to seed. Do it to prevent next year's bloom. Also, a hot dry summer, flower buds for next year's blooms are prevented. Roots should not be allowed to dry out any time. While rhododendrons grow nicely in shaded situations, most varieties will refuse to bloom in deep shade.

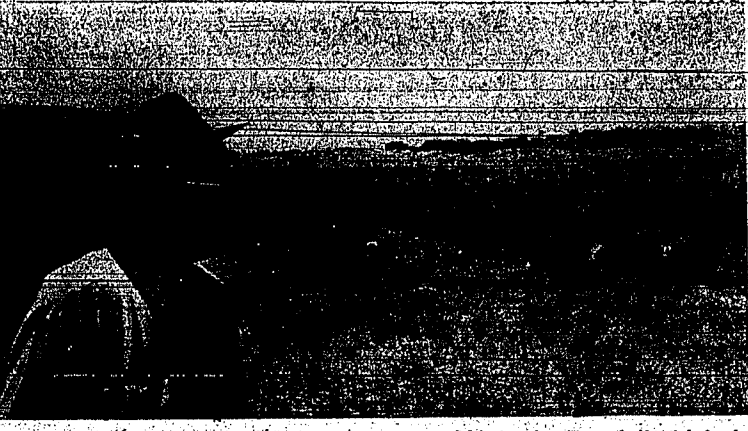

H. E. of Burley: "I saw a floral picture—made of dried flowers. Please tell me how to make one."

Go into the garden and meadow, and gather cultivated and wild flowers. Dry these for a couple weeks, between sheets of newspapers, in a hot telephone book. After that, these can be arranged on a white cardboard, using a tip of glue to fasten each flower.

Frame in picture frame, put piece of glass on and you have a beautiful floral exhibit. This makes a good project for youngsters. For the information of those interested in gathering flowers — both the wild and cultivated types. You'd be surprised to see how beautiful some wild flowers look in a floral frame.

D. R. of Twin Falls: "For the past few years I have not been able to raise good tomatoes. Here's what I do. In early June I put some marlate of potash in the soil, (0-0-60) and in mid-June I add some 0-2-0, and some 4-12-12 plant bed, cut-out the leaves except for top. Result: only two little tomatoes."

You've bewildered your plants and have made hypocritical cuts. You've done it all, you need all that "doctored," which has done nothing but forced them into bad growth and no fruit. Tomatoes need feeding about once during their growing season, and this could be done at lime soil is being worked, or a short while after planting.

LOOKING OUT over his grass seedlings is J. W. Greene, and a son, Calvin, run about 75 cows besides their farming operation. For 48 years he was a volunteer fire warden for the Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management. Recently the BLM retired him because of a policy on age requirements. He is 78 years old.

Magic Valley hunters winning permits to hunt deer and elk in controlled hunt areas were released today by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Game officials said for the first time all elk and deer controlled hunt areas received more applications than the number of permits offered.

Because of the great volume of applications, applicants require cross-checking for accuracy, thus the antelope hunt winners will be available in a few days, officials said.

One small drawing for mountain goat permits will be held Wednesday and applications will be accepted until noon of that date. The hunts are 620A-1, one permit; 620A-2, one permit, and 620A-3, one permit.

The local winners of deer and elk permits are:

DEFENSIVE COUP SINKS CONTRACT

East was one of those players who like to preempt with very weak hands when the vulnerability is favorable to him. South was aware of this and considered making some sort of slam try. After all, South was looking at 21 card points and nine sure winning tricks. Finally, South decided to settle for game only and just bid four spades.

West was West's turn to think against spades but West was sure that South's long study had been about bidding more than four spades and not about whether to bid or to pass, so West decided against a double.

He considered going to five hearts as a sacrifice but finally concluded to try to find a way to defeat the spade contract.

He opened the ace of hearts and looked around for some way to get his partner into the lead.

Rich Allen Said Big Factor As Phil Boss Quits

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Bob Skinner, rapping controversial Richie Allen as a "big factor" in club "disharmony," and bemoaning "lack of front office support," resigned Thursday as manager of the fifth-place Philadelphia Phillies.

The exit of the 37-year-old Skinner, marked the second departure of a pilot of the club in 14 months after run-ins with the temperamental 27-year-old Allen.

Shortly after the end of news conference called to announce Skinner's resignation, Allen, reinstated less than three weeks ago after a lengthy suspension, ran into new trouble with the club.

A Phillies spokesman said Allen failed to make a team bus departing for an exhibition game in Reading, Pa., Thursday night and had been fined "severely."

Allen said he was leaving for California with his family but gave no inkling of his future plans.

Carper said at the news conference he thought Skinner was a "fine person." Then after a number of questions relating to Allen, the Phillies' president said, "we've talked about Allen enough. In fact, we've talked about him for the past four years and I have no more to say about him."

Quinn said Coach George Brett would be asked to take over the reins for the remainder of the season.

Quinn was asked by newsmen to comment on the accusations made by Skinner. The general manager answered, "What Skinner said is his opinion."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bernice Gera, the lady umpire whom organized baseball struck out, announced Thursday a new try to crash into the all-male sport. Armstrong Clearance Fatso

Armstrong has a new cool tire—a wide track made with belts of fiber glass. It may look fat but it's as tough as steel can give you over 40,000 miles of safe driving.

Now Armstrong introduces Fatso, a wide track made with belts of fiber glass. A wide track that lasts a long, long time. Fatso is really built. Underneath his thick rubber hide, and above his nylon cords, he's got two belts of fiber glass that help keep the tread firm and tough.

Fatso resists heat at high speeds. He virtually eliminates blowouts. And he can give you over 40,000 miles of wear. Fatso: A tough cookie available at your Armstrong dealer.
