

Idaho Power Seeks Rate Increase Averaging Five Cents Per Day

By O. A. (Gus) KEIKER
Times-News Editor

The Idaho Power Co. has asked the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for a "cost-of-living" rate raise for electrical service.

Company officials in Twin Falls said that the application for the increase was filed Wednesday afternoon in Boise and that the application explained that the company cannot continue to absorb rising costs that have been pushed to record levels by inflation.

Across the board the average power bill for householders would increase about five cents a day if the application is approved.

Company president Albert Carlsen said the proposed adjustment, applying to all classes of service, will increase the bills of city and farm domestic customers by a maximum of only five cents per day.

Even with this "modest" increase, which for our domestic customers is less than the cost of a postage stamp a day, the homes, farms, irrigation pumpers, businesses and industries we serve will continue to enjoy electric rates comparing very favorably with rates elsewhere in the country," he declared.

Noting that the price of electricity paid by Idaho Power customers has been a "principal exception" to continued increases in the cost of goods and services every family buys, the utility president added:

"Electric service still will be one of the lowest cost items and biggest bargains in the customer's budget."

The company's proposed adjustment is "essential," he said, to cover its present costs of providing service and to attract additional capital for new facilities required by the growing needs of its customers.

"The steady inflationary spiral in all costs, together with a steady decline in our average revenue per kilowatt-hour, leaves us no alternative and makes rate relief a matter of immediate necessity."

A postponement of the company's application to regulatory authorities, according to Carlsen, would be an "ultimate disservice to our customers and would jeopardize both the quality of service and dependability of power supply."

He pointed out that Idaho Power has been forced to seek rate relief only twice before in its 53-year history — both times because of the uncontrollable pressures of inflation.

"This small number of upward adjustments the last of which was granted seven years ago in 1957, compares with 12 voluntary rate reductions we have accomplished for the benefit of our customers."

Carlsen said the company's success in obtaining new venture capital for expansion is "at stake" in its rate application.

In order to supply its customers' growing electrical needs, he said, Idaho Power will be required to build an estimated $200 million of new facilities, including additional generating plants, lines and substations, by the end of 1975.

"Our construction program is absolutely essential to help sustain the momentum of the Snake River Valley's economic progress and must be undertaken despite steadily rising costs," Carlsen asserted.

"As a regulated public utility, Idaho Power has the obligation to provide a constantly expanding supply of power for its service area needs."

He said an Idaho Power five-year expansion program that is general business customers will require an annual total of 9 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity by 1974 and by nearly 3.5 billion kilowatt-hours from 1983. The bulk of the new capital for this expansion must come from the public.

Fete Touches Hearts Of Space Trio

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Neil Armstrong choked back tears as he groped for words to tell America how the Apollo 11 astronauts feel about their country and the honor it has given them.

The first man to set foot on the moon had a glittering array of the nation's high and mighty spellbound as he spoke of sealing a scribbled sign among the masses in New York at the outset of a day of coast-to-coast acclaim.

"Through you we touched the moon," it read.

Armstrong looked around the room, at his fellow astronauts, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., and Michael Collins, at President Nixon, at the great figures in the audience and, through television, at the people of the United States.

"Through you we touched the moon," he said.

"It was our privilege today to cross the country to touch America."

Touch America—the moon men did as they somehow survived—the biggest, toketortape parade in Manhattan, sent two million in Chicago, into shouting jubilation and then flew to the Pacific for a state dinner Wednesday night that was hailed as the most exuberant bash since Andrew Jackson dined before the White House.

Nixon revealed they will start shortly on a tour around the world. It is expected to begin in mid-September and continue plans call for 49 days abroad.

The astronauts head home for Houston for a few days with their wives and families before another super-spectacular in the Astrodome Saturday night.

Members of the sophisticated foreign diplomatic corps were scurrying around for astronaut autographs like schoolgirls at the Century Plaza banquet where Hollywood stars rubbed shoulders with Supreme Court Justices and 44 governors rose in unison to be introduced.

Nixon, beaming with pride, awarded the Medal of Freedom, highest award the United States can bestow on a civilian, Vice President Spiro Agnew read the inscription.

Council Ponders Action

By ANNETTE JENKINS
Times-News Staff Writer

Idaho's Tax Commission has turned down the request of the City of Twin Falls to operate on a budget exceeding the 12 per cent increase the state now allows under new legislation.

The new setup went into effect after Twin Falls officials had adopted the bill. No protests had been received from taxpayers and after it was in operation and expenditures had been made.

House Bill 304, passed near the end of the 40th Legislature, states the budget cannot exceed the four per cent ceiling. City revenues were up only more than 10 per cent from last year's levels.

The city was offered two choices in the provisions of the bill. It could call a citywide election and let the people decide the matter or it could file an appeal with the State Tax Commission.

Mayor Egon Kroll explained a city election would have cost $3,000, so the council took the latter route. He said it had only lost about $400 to file the appeal. He said he was surprised when he heard the appeal had been denied.

In the appeal the city stated the reasons for its increase in tax revenues. Among the matters listed was a pay increase for city employees; repair of secured street damage incurred by the heavy winter weather; city participation in the Urban Renewal Project; the widening of Falls Avenue; development of the areas for the Kellogg manufacturing plant and the Longview Fibre Co.; funds for construction of a police-fire complex; completion of the development of the new Cascade Park; development work at the airport; purchase of a new fire truck; funds for an engineering study for a secondary sewage treatment plant which will be installed by 1972, and funds for the lease of Dierke's Lake.

The Tax Commission said it didn't feel the matters listed constituted a sufficient change in events or circumstances to warrant a rate increase.

Language Barrier Keeps Migrants, Citizens Apart

BEATRIZ IRUEGAS

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of three articles on migrant workers in this area. The interviews were conducted and the articles written by Randall Morgan, a Hansen high school instructor who this fall will instruct at Borah High School at Boise. The series is a Times-News exclusive.)

By RANDALL MORGAN

It is a hot, breezeless afternoon at the Falls Labor Center. I knock on the door of "baraca" eighteen and ask for Beatriz Iruegas.

"Here he comes now," the children shout from around my feet, and I turn to see a big man crossing the dirt street toward me. He has a broad, friendly face and a deep reddish-brown coat, and he wears a beautiful black handkerchief curling out over his eyes.

Freshly showered and dressed after ten hours of hoeing beans, Mr. Iruegas is relaxed and willing to talk. He suggests we include his neighbor, Mr. Cuellar, in a small man, yet he gives the impression of great physical strength.

Q: "What made you decide to leave Mexico and come north?"

A: "I was thirty-four."

Q: "And you, Mr. Cuellar?"

A: "I was twenty-seven when I first came here." Mr. Cuellar is a small man, yet he gives the impression of great physical strength.

Q: "How old were you, Mr. Iruegas, when you first came to Texas from Mexico?"

A: "I was thirty-four."

Q: "And you, Mr. Cuellar?"

A: "I was twenty-seven when I first came here."

Egyptian Commandos Hit

Israelis Across Suez Canal

By United Press International

Egyptian commandos crossed the Suez Canal and attacked Israeli artillery positions on the canal's east bank, Egypt said today. Israel denied there was any damage.

A Cairo spokesman said the commandos caused heavy Israeli casualties and damage and all the troops returned to base safely.

"There is no truth in this whatsoever," an Israeli spokesman said.

Israel said a second soldier died today of wounds suffered in Egyptian shelling of the Suez Canal Wednesday. The announcement said 10 soldiers were wounded.

The attack late Wednesday night followed a day of heavy artillery battling across the canal. Egypt said its guns destroyed a column of 12 Israeli vehicles.

The Egyptian officials said Israel last month bombed the Suezwater Canal linking Cairo, Ismailia and Port Said.

The canal supplies Port Said with most of its fresh water.

Catholics, Protestants Battle In Irish Civil War

LONDON (UPI)—Northern Ireland (UPI)—Thousands of Roman Catholic and Protestant women and children battled each other and police today with clubs, bricks, knives, Molotov cocktails and, for the first time, guns.

The third day of rioting brought out the guns both British and Irish generally slim. Police reports from here and a line other Northern Ireland cities, said at least 10 persons had been shot.

Police said 100 of their number had been injured in Londonderry. Civilian casualties were estimated at more than 300.

In London, it was announced British Prime Minister Harold Wilson interrupted his vacation to fly to Cornwall for a crisis conference with top aides.

In Belfast, the Northern Ireland Parliament summoned its members into special session for the first time in 30 years.

The heart of the rioting was Londonderry's Bogside district, a Catholic stronghold, where hundreds of Catholics manned barricades against marauding Protestant bands and police.

Law Enforcement Facilities Draw Ire Of Gem Officers County and city law enforcement facilities and jails throughout most of East and South Idaho are not adequate, officials of the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission announced today.

The report is the result of a task force study by Idaho law officers of 14 of the Twin Falls Police Chief Frank Barnett is a member.

The report said headquarters and jail facilities in counties and cities in the area concerned are outdated, poorly designed, poorly located, too small, unsightly and unsafe.

Chairman of the task force, Police Chief John Perkins of Pocatello, said, "These recent facilities are not conducive to the promotion of police officers in their own agency or of favorable public impression of law enforcement."

He said sub-standard jail facilities endanger the safety of prisoners through lack of segregation of hardened criminals from other offenders. He said there is also a lack of supervision of inmates.

The report also dealt with the lack of any state-wide police records system, and the lack of such a facility requires significant duplication of effort in connection with the collection and storage of police records by the numerous law enforcement agencies, he said.

The report noted that considerable effort is often involved in the attempt to get reliable up-to-date information from the numerous separate agencies into a centrally operating records system.

Concerning a central crime laboratory, the report disclosed that the state is not equipping a crime laboratory, and that the state is not equipping a crime laboratory, and that the state is not equipping a crime laboratory.

Chief Perkins noted that all agencies are dependent upon the state facilities of the FBI laboratory for the examination of physical evidence. This is generally regarded as an excellent solution to all police laboratory needs.

The FBI warehouse was not utilized before the vote.

Migrant

Continued From Page One we can't speak English. We don't really have a chance to get to know the people here, because we can't talk to them. They don't have a chance to get to know us either.

Mr. Cuelar speaks in smooth, eloquent Spanish. He means forward and gestures for emphasis.

"Are you treated as well in Texas as you are treated here?" "In Texas we have the same problem. Because we speak Spanish with the people it's hard to know what they really think about us."

"Our only complaint is that people who don't speak Spanish just meet the boss. Otherwise we have very little to do with anyone, but ourselves, and they have very little to do with us."

"It's a hard life. You always have to travel, and there's always the chance of an accident, or that you can't find work, or that you won't be able to find work. You just work like a dog."

"At our age what else can we do? Once you get old you can't learn any more."

"Of course not. You want something better for them. 'What about your daughters? Should they seek out their own careers, or do you think it is better for them to become housewives?'"

"I would want them to do more than just get married. Of course I would like to see them in school. If they don't, then they get married, they get a family to support, and then they have a job left for them."

"You feel held back, and sometimes inferior. And you envy others, too. For instance, if you can't afford one, then you feel held back. If you don't have the money, then you have to live on credit, and you end up spending the rest of your life paying for them."

"If there is more work here than in Texas, why don't you move here all year?" "It would be very hard to live here. The winter is six or eight months long, and it's not good for the health."

"There was one complaint that one of our employees who had just left his last job, was already owed to somebody. You've already eaten it. You asked me what I saw. I don't see anything."

"There is a lull in the conversation and the feeling that there is nothing more that needs saying. The air is filled with dinner smells, and the children are crying for food. As I drive out of the labor camp, something happens in my mind: My emotion is almost to live, to live well, not to be a migrant. But your efforts are not enough. How hard you work."

Burley Doctor Will Head Journey To Foreign Lands

Dr. James R. Kircher, Burley, will head a delegation of Idaho people on a people-to-people mission through Sweden, Russia, Poland, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland.

Medical leaders will leave Sept. 9 from the Boise airport on the first leg of the 21-day tour. The delegation includes Kircher, Dr. Fredrick W. Surro, Sandpoint; Dr. and Mrs. Blair Ellsworth, Idaho Falls; and Dr. and Mrs. Charles C. Erickson, Idaho Falls.

"Investors have hundreds of opportunities for placement of their investments. They usually they are not disposed to invest in companies whose earnings are not as high as other companies."

"The simple fact is that Idaho's cost of doing business are rising faster than its revenues. Between 1944 and 1968, the cost of doing business has increased 75 percent, he noted, while wages have gone up 40 percent and prices of materials and supplies have increased 150 percent."

"The utility president emphasized it is 'imperative' for Idaho Power to improve its earnings so it will compare with other industries and utilities with whom it competes for investor money."

"The opening day of the 44th convention of the Idaho Association of County Treasurers featured a Twin Falls attorney saying the Gem State constitution is out of date and needs massive revision."

"This is one means of giving relief for one group of Idahoans," he said. "The convention will end Friday with a banquet at 8 p.m."

"He also said the licensing of automobiles could be put under a state department head."

"The convention will end Friday with a banquet at 8 p.m."

"The $20 million of new construction will further strengthen the economy of Idaho's service area by creating more jobs, local purchases and dollars in circulation, in addition to the playing growing demands for electricity," Carlson said.

"Schirra joins board Palo Alto (UPI)—Former astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. has accepted appointment to the board of directors of Precision Instrument Co., a computer manufacturer."

"The company has attempted to counteract increased costs by 'every means at its disposal,' including operation of a computer plant and advanced technology. But, he added, there is 'no magic formula for absorbing increasing costs and keeping prices even though these measures cannot match the cost spiral.'"

Idaho Chief Attends Fete For Spacemen

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—What does the governor of Idaho say to NASA astronauts? "I didn't have a chance to say anything," reported Don Samuelson of Boise.

"I thought maybe I'd have an opportunity to talk with them (the astronauts), but seeing them on the stage was about as close as I got."

"The governors of America found themselves in a strange position Wednesday night. For a change, they assumed a back seat in relative importance behind the president, the vice president, the Supreme Court, the cabinet."

"After all they went through, said Samuelson, it didn't want to put them through any more introductions."

"All 50 governors were invited by Nixon, but only 44 showed up."

"He offered the first toast, saying his state was in orbit because the astronauts were in orbit. The Golden State this year is celebrating the 20th anniversary of the settlement."

"The governor, referring to the astronauts' grueling tour of tick-escape parades in New York and Los Angeles, said he was glad the days to come they will recall that he (California) let them sit down and we fed them."

"Rengan called the lunar year the year of the stride forward for all mankind."

"All 50 governors were invited by Nixon, but only 44 showed up."

"Mr. Richards said the new ordinance has put his flying school on business. Presently Phil Payne operates Skyway Inc. and manages the airport; and Mr. Richards said Mr. Payne is the only person allowed to operate this kind of business at the airport."

"Mr. Richards said he feels a large percentage of pilots in the present aircraft fleet are pilots who added fee services for aircraft are poor in that it is hard to obtain gasoline and service an aircraft."

"Mr. Richards said he met with the Burley City Council several weeks ago and asked for provisions of the new ordinance. He is urging the council to reconsider and draft up a new ordinance."

'Super C' Freight Train Cuts 24 Hours From Usual Coast-To-Coast Transit Time

By ALBERT W. WIESE

ABOARD THE "SUPER C" IN KANSAS (UPI)—The "Super C" means it's the world's fastest freight train.

Six mornings each week a "Super C" pulls out of the San Francisco, Calif., and Los Angeles and makes the 2,200-mile run in an average time of 37 hours, compared with the normal freight run of 61 hours. The "Super C" is limited to 19 cars and handles only trailer or containerized shipment. Everything is designed for speed—loading, travel and unloading. In Chicago, special unloading equipment has been installed so that within 15 minutes after coming to a stop, the cargo is on track or tractor and headed for its final destination.

Two of the earliest industries in use "Super C" speed were the strawberry growers. During the late spring months almost every train contained several carloads of freshly-picked strawberries bound for midwestern or eastern markets.

On westbound trips the auto manufacturers—most of them have assembly plants in California—found that occasionally there would be a shortage of certain assembly parts. A truck-trailer would be loaded at the main factory, driven to Chicago, loaded and 37 hours later would be on the southern California highway bound for the assembly plant.

"Super C" is the Post Office Department. By shipping newspapers and magazines this way delivery time is cut up to 48 hours. The post office also discovered that some first-class newspapers were being reshipped by the train as air freight. For example, a car of mail placed aboard the "Super C" at Amarillo, Tex., on a Saturday morning reached Chicago about 11 p.m. that night, in ample time for the regular Monday-morning delivery.

The only other cargo stop is Kansas City. Although the "Super C" operates on a regular schedule, crews try on each run to better their time. At the original terminal, crews are on hand, standby two hours before scheduled departure. As soon as the train is loaded, off it goes.

There are 18 crew changes on the Chicago-Los Angeles run and each one bustles. "They love it," said Tom W. Anderson, Santa Fe foreman of engines in Winslow, Ariz. "Each one tries to outdo the other. They compete."

Riding the entire route on the "Super C" a person can feel and see how right Anderson is. As soon as the crew change is complete, two men in the caboose and two men in the caboose

$2,700 Damages Noted In Wreck
Damages were estimated at $1,200 to a tractor and $1,500 to the van of a Lynn Van Lines rig Sunday in a one-vehicle accident on Interstate 80-N. 13 miles northeast of Twin Falls.

John R. Clark, 36, driver, was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released. Investigating state police said he was traveling on the interstate when he pulled up behind a slow moving truck and in attempting to stop jackedknifed the trailer, causing the tractor and trailer to leave the highway and roll over on its right side. Mr. Clark is from Kansas but the truck was out of Los Angeles, Calif., officers said.

County Dads Deny Claim For Law Fee

Twin Falls County Commissioners have denied a $537.50 claim for legal services provided for the county's Probate Court judge.

The claim was submitted last week by the law firm of Kramer, Planter and Meehl. The firm represented Judge Richard Reed in a court action involving Twin Falls Police Chief Frank Barnett.

Commissioners, acting on an order issued by Prosecuting Attorney Robert Galley, said the law firm was not hired in the proceedings.

Commissioners said they would form a policy soon regarding legal services to county officials.

Chief Barnett was found in contempt of court last year during a hearing before Judge Reed. The chief refused to produce certain notes at the hearing. The legal matter involving the notes has been appealed to the Idaho Supreme Court. The case involves and Chief Barnett against Judge Reed and seeks a decision on the circumstances under which a police officer's personal notes should be produced as evidence at a hearing.

The claim submitted by the law firm, for work done on behalf of Judge Reed's ruling last year, was for legal services up to the present time, it was learned. The firm anticipated it would cost between $500 and $600 more by the time the case clears the Supreme Court. Judge Reed has said he did not want to get personally involved in the matter, adding it was Chief Barnett against a sound decision last year. Chief Barnett against the judge. County Clerk Harold Lancaster said the denial of the claim is the decision of the commissioners, and said the claim would be returned unpaid to the law firm.

In fact, American drivers, but President Pierre Sierra said the survey showed that: Women past 45 tend to be either extremely good or extremely bad drivers. Men think of themselves as safer drivers than women, but the girls records are better. Men score higher in alertness tests than women. Men have better reactions than women. Men had higher blood alcohol levels than women. Women had fewer traffic violations than men. Americans drove the equivalent of two million roundtrips to the moon last year.

Rail Service

President Nixon's move to overhaul the Interstate Commerce Commission could turn out to be one of the more significant initiatives of this administration.

The ICC has resisted the trend. But under existing conditions it has been able to do little more than hold up, discontinuation approval for a time before surrendering to the economic facts.

For an emergency starter, the ICC is now asking for a thorough study of the nation's passenger service and the amount of federal aid that may be necessary to meet them.

Paper Gold

After seven years of difficult and delicate negotiations, Washington has obtained from other major Western nations basic agreement on its plan for establishing a new international monetary reserve.

MR. SPECTATOR

That Woman Driver

Well, we finally have it. There are more women drivers today than ever before in history — both in numbers and also percentage-wise.

Of course the day of the one-car family is practically gone but of those folks who still own only the one auto, the women buy most of the gasoline — which means (as you may have guessed) that the old man walks!

Why do all the job advertisements ask for "young workers" and then ask that applicants be deep in experience. Mr. Spectator would like to know how a young worker can have much experience. Everyone seems to be against age until they get old.

So many people are falling out of bed in West Germany that one physician is recommending that beds be sold with safety belts. So happy is that what is reported by Science Service.

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Blount is making some progress in winning congressional support for the far-reaching postal system — but it's still a long way from enactment.

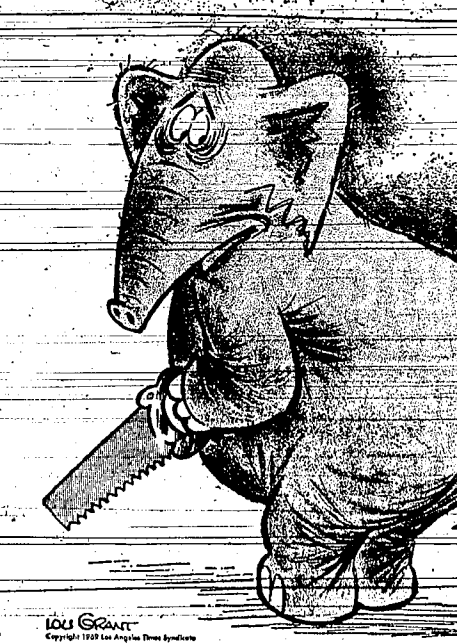

There is overwhelming bipartisan support in Congress on the urgent need for extensively overhauling the widely criticized and defunct postal service. But the tax-far-seller key question is how this is to be done — within the existing Post Office Department, or by converting it into a public corporation along the lines of the highly successful Tennessee Valley Authority.

Another tough obstacle facing the administration is the opposition of Rep. Theodore Dalzell, D-N.Y., chairman. He also has a bill which, like Gross', would do the reorganizing within the postal service.

Rep. Morris Udall, Ariz., ranking Democratic committee member, strongly favors that. So does Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee. His backing is being heavily counted on to put the administration's measure through the Senate.

The large and politically powerful postal unions, vigorously backed by the AFL-CIO, are opposing the public corporation proposal. They say they favor postal reform, but are inflexibly against any meaningful changes, particularly affecting them.

"I May Have To Amputate"

Conservationist Or Not?

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will soon give the first clear sign of his future course on the explosive conservationist question when he decides whether to protect the irreplaceable Everglades National Park in southern Florida from a huge new airport.

But at the Transportation Department, 15 blocks away, the law is read differently. Volpe's lawyers say he has no legal authority to deny Federal assistance to the jetport development unless there is a White House intervention? "If we get President Nixon on our side," an Interior Department official told us, "we might be able to stop this jetport — if we don't, we haven't."

Blocking up the Transportation Department are major airlines who see the jetport as essential to ease overcrowded conditions at Miami Airport. 36 miles away, The jetport's first runway will open next month as a training facility for Miami-based pilots and crews with 150,000 annual training flights planned for the single runway.

If this were the extent of the jetport's construction, the Interior Department officials are convinced that Date County (Miami) envisions the biggest jetport in the world — the major airline terminal of the Southeast, capable of handling 100 jumbo jets and futuristic super-jets.

Actually, a decision in favor of the jetport was made at the Transportation Department long before the Republican takeover. During the Johnson administration, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) — part of the Transportation Department — granted $500,000 to the Date County Port Authority to study the jetport.

Moreover, the Transportation Department's lame duck Democratic officials last December approved — but did not announce — an additional $200,000 grant for research on high-speed ground transport from Miami and Tampa. Word leaked out that the grant construction firm, TRW Inc., the grant construction firm.

But the Transportation Department under Volpe shows a basic disagreement with those decisions. It has just approved another $150,000 grant for landings on the existing single runway — thereby antagonizing Sen. Nelson and Henry M. Jackson, who have introduced legislation to stop the jetport.

Nonetheless, the FAA — part of the Transportation Department — granted $500,000 to the Date County Port Authority to study the jetport.

That is the deployment of Red points-around the globe. The Soviet Union has a system of land-based tracking stations — as the U.S. does. So in order to maintain communications with the Red's spaceflights, the U.S. has to have a system of land-based tracking stations — as the U.S. does.

So far, Postmaster General Blount has carried the brunt of the fighting for the administration's measure. He has won a strategic and hard-fought battle of legislative strategy.

White House strategists are being bluntly told President Nixon has to get to his shoulder to the wheel — the plan is to get it through.

It is believed that the Personal Office of the President is the point being made that so far the President has stood on the sidelines, but he is expected to win the battle.

Russia is preparing to stage another space spectacular. When this will be attempted and the nature of the flight is still unclear. But U.S. authorities are positive a new Soviet space shot is in the making.

Andrew Tully On Fascination

WASHINGTON — There is a sort of horrible fascination in the latest study of the indefatigable Tax Foundation — likeable but somewhat morose — by some uncouth mortician.

Without for the moment downgrading the cupidity of U. S. Federal Government in contributing to raising inflation, it suggests that the Federal Government is guilty of hypocrisy.

Ever since 1962, Washington has urged private industry and labor to sell down prices, cut costs, and while boosting the pay of its own employees 47 per cent.

That, in case anybody cares, is about one quarter the total Federal pay raise in 1968.

Tax Foundation also has put its finger on a practice which insures that more than half of the civilian employees draw the high pay rates.

As a sometime author, I suspect that the Federal pay increases occurred — or were committed — during a period when the Federal Government was in Washington to hold the line against inflation, and even to reduce the Federal budget.

Dear Dr. Hosteson: I am ill and have veins on my thighs, upper legs and just above the knee. I am sure they are not very unusual. They are small but very numerous.

They will disappear with age or will they be there forever? If they are permanent, is there any way they can be removed by surgery or otherwise? — J.L.

These little veins, close to the surface of the skin, are called "spider veins" or "vein stars." They are not varicose veins, which are larger veins in which the valves are weak and pressure builds up and swells the vein.

The spider veins are small, thin, and harmless. They pose a cosmetic rather than a health problem.

It may seem odd that there are many patients at least, they may come and go — again for treatment.

There is no connection with the female hormone (estrogen), even though in a few cases it has been suggested that the skin has been affected in some possible explanation as to why some people have this trouble.

There really is no effective way to get rid of them unless you use some of the cosmetics which are available. There are no injections to inject them or to get rid of them.

Car-Diagnosis Clinics Get New Lease On Life In U.S.

By CARLTON SMITH

It begins to look as though predictions of the death of auto diagnostic clinics have been premature. Recent entries have been inadequately financed, generously promoted and backed by companies that generally think big.

In case you've never seen one, a diagnostic clinic is a service center that checks out each of your car's systems by measuring its performance while under load. The car's wheels spin on huge rollers while all manner of electronic measuring devices diagnose everything from armature-to-valve adjustment.

For a small sum—$15 is typical—a crew of technicians put the car through a series of tests and give the owner a comprehensive report of its current ills and probable future problems.

Diagnostic clinics for cars got off to a booming start in 1962.

when the Mobil Oil Co. opened the first one in New York. It was followed shortly by others, and from a publicity standpoint, the diagnosis seemed destined to become the answer to a motorist's prayers.

Magazine articles appeared, extolling the virtues of a system that substituted electronic accuracy for human frailty. Most of the early clinics made no repairs, and this was accepted as a guarantee of diagnostic purity.

Things moved along well for several years. The numbers of clinics increased, and so did the volume of customers as car owners discovered the clinic and came to understand its functions.

Then about 1967, clinics seemed to fall into a period of doldrums. No longer was the idea lost some of its ability to capture the public imagination. Worst yet, there developed a cottage of doctors who sniped away at the concept.

"People don't want to know what's wrong with a car that will still run," one clinic manager is reported to have said. "It's like taking a kid to the doctor and being told the boy will be bald and need glasses before he's 10."

Others began to doubt the honesty of some clinics, particularly those that performed repairs as well as making the diagnosis.

The most formidable obstacle faced by the clinic concept was an influx of operators possessing little equipment and less skill. Their "clinics" bore a marked resemblance to every greasy garage that pushes "plugs and points" and "adjusts valves."

Lately, however, there has been a resurgence of interest in the unimpaired clinic concept. It is becoming apparent that the position period is going to be greater than most had expected.

Even Mobil—the pioneer—has only five clinics in operation at the moment but is using them to refine equipment that can later be used to equip a larger-scale clinic operation.

For example, "has 100 clinics in operation and leads the field among manufacturers in this area. Retailers like J. C. Penney, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck are heading into the field.

The most recent convert is the Siegler, Inc., an electronics company of wide-ranging interests. It recently opened a $1-million pioneering entry into the diagnostic clinic race and promises that this is only the first of many more to come.

So take heart. The day of fiction-free advice as to what's ailing your transport may be nigh. And none too soon, either. Today's sophisticated machinery is too often beyond the ken of the only man in town who owns a wrench.

Big Don

BOISE (UPI) — Representatives of the Idaho Gem Club today presented Don Samuelson with three Idaho garnet pendants, which he will give to the astronauts' wives at tonight's state banquet in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Virgil Hood, making the presentation, said the garnets were found at Emerald Creek in North Idaho.

Harry Samuelson, Boise, presented lifetime memberships in the Idaho Gem Club for the late Mrs. Edwina Collins, and Edwin Aldrin.

T. F. Youth Hurt In Auto Mishap

Daniel Floyd Romans, 15, Route-1, was listed in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Wednesday following a car-motorcycle accident Tuesday night.

The 1963 Honda he was operating collided with a car driven by Mary F. McCollum, 478 Gardner Ave. She was not injured. The accident occurred at 9:28 p.m. at Shoshone Street West and Third Avenue West.

Young Romans was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way and for driving on a restricted license.

Gooding Woman Has Postal Job

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Helen K. McRae, Gooding, is employed at the local Post Office as temporary substitute. She is a World War II Veteran of the Army Air Corps.

Mrs. McRae is slated to work in the position here due to her war service and her civil service experience in the Gooding Post Office. She reports Robert H. Hunsicker transferred from the postoffice to carry mail at the Dietrich rural route.

Lightning Cause Of Area Blazes

Two small lightning fires were reported Wednesday morning by U.S. Forest Service officials in the Twin Falls area.

Both fires, brought under control Tuesday before serious damage was caused, were known to have started by lightning bolts which were in the north area of the Sawtooth National Forest.

Darrell Smith, Sawtooth fire dispatcher, said he was on the Shako Creek District and the other on the Sawtooth Valley District.

Since June, Mr. Smith said, there have been 22 fires in the local forest area, 11 of these man-caused. He said conditions throughout the Sawtooth are now extremely high for fire danger, and the public is urged to assist in controlling fire potential by being careful with smoking and camp fires. Most of the man-caused fires on the Sawtooth have come from careless smokers, he said.

Mr. Smith said that the regulations requiring a bucket, shovel and axe in all vehicles entering the forest for picnics or camping is in effect and will be enforced through the current fire season.

Use of forest areas for recreation has also been extremely heavy this season, especially during recent hot days, he said.

Move Into House

They have been living at the Aldine apartments, originally here from Escalante. Mr. Sonten is the soil conservationist for the Wood River Soil and Water Conservation office.

Business Today

BOSTON (UPI)—The way Arrington Williams figures it, he's a successful non-businessman.

The 38-year-old civil rights lawyer turned businessman is president of year-old Freedom Industries, Inc., a black-owned business in Boston's Roxbury ghetto. It may become the first black-owned firm to operate a television station in this country.

The TV station is just one of its interesting facets. Others include Freedom Spinoffs like Freedom Foods, Freedom Electronics and Engineering, Inc. and Freedom Manpower.

Penciled in for the future are a die-casting plant, a national brand of cosmetics, as well as Freedom Communications, which is a two-channel 68 in Birmingham, Ala.

Freedom Industries has applied for transfer of the 20th structure permit of channel 68. Neither Williams nor his assistant, Vice President David Smith, a 24-year-old white and black, will comment on the obvious applications of a black TV station in the heart of Dixie until the Federal Communications Commission rules on the matter.

They are eager to talk about other phases of Freedom Industries, from their two supermarkets to the electronics plant which has doubled its work force to 50 in the last two months, to the shoe subsidiary which now imports an extensive line from Europe. Shortly it will be bringing in shoes from the Orient.

"I guess our secret is we were told dumb as a doctor who took it into his palm to do," said Williams as he

Like Mounties, Officers Here Just Never Give Up

City police in Twin Falls didn't let the fact that only one automobile was at the scene of a traffic collision when they arrested a driver who was driving while intoxicated and disorderly conduct.

In custody awaiting arraignment on all three counts Wednesday morning was Larry D. Hollan, Griffin, Nev. Officers said the accident occurred late Tuesday when a vehicle driven by Mr. Hollan struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Norma R. Wilde, Carey. Damage was estimated at $200 to the Wilde vehicle and $250 to the Hollan auto.

Mrs. Wilde was hospitalized with minor injuries. Officers arrested Hollan in the yard of a residence at Fifth Avenue West and Fifth Street South, as he attempted to scale a fence, police reports stated.

Traffic Courts

Robert D. LaCombe, Jerome, was fined $50 in Jerome police court for disturbing the peace.

Neil G. Bolch, Jerome, was fined $30 by Jerome Police Judge C. J. Shupe for reckless driving. He also was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Jimmy N. Stewart, Jerome, was fined $35 in Jerome police court for violation of the basic rule.

A TINY LAKE CAN BE SEEN just to the right of this old stump. The lake was just part of the scenery on top of a ridge leading into the Smokey mountain country near Galena Summit. Times-News reporter Fred Dodds pauses here to take in the scenery and catch his breath before starting back down the trail on his borrowed trail machine. Travel in this kind of country looks impossible. But experienced trail machine riders make it appear easy.

PAUSING ON THE TRAIL to talk about the "widow-maker" ride and the rough country to come are these riders, part of a 50-man group that made the ride last weekend. All members of the Idaho Trail Association, they followed trails through the wilderness, carried no firearms, allowed no fires in the forest and carried all their trash out with them.

IT TAKES A STRONG hand on the throttle, balance and both feet to remain upright while moving up a steep trail over rough ground. This rider, pushed up the trail easily. The Times-News reporter wasn't quite as lucky, spilling his machine halfway up the grade. This is part of the "widow-maker" run last weekend at the Idaho Trail Machine Association ride into the wilderness country near Galena Summit.

Roads, Streets Topic Of Meet With Officials

Officials from the Idaho Department of Highways met Tuesday with city and county district people from Magic Valley concerning the classification of streets and highways in the area.

The meetings were held in compliance with the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1968.

The State Highway Department classified the district roads and then requested the specific areas to make studies. The roadways were classified as principal arterials, minor arterials, collectors and local streets. The Twin Falls city engineering department's study was presented by George Michael, assistant to the city engineer. In most cases the city was in concurrence with the state's studies. The classifications were based on street use.

The studies will serve as the basis for further surveys which may involve designation of road systems eligible for financing from Federal Aid Highway Trust Funds. The future distribution of those funds may also be involved.

Trail Ride Is A "Widow Maker"

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Writer

GALENA SUMMIT — A few miles west and several thousand feet down from here, at the very headwaters of the Salmon River, the shadows were still long and dark in the valley. A group of trail machine riders gathered beneath the American Flag and roused their motors for a climb into the mountains.

It was the fifth annual Idaho Trail Machine Association ride sponsored this year by the Magic Valley chapter of the Gem state group.

The charge up the mountain resembled closely the ride up San Juan hill during the Spanish-American revolution. The ride, one of three organized expeditions, was called the "widow-maker."

Trail machine enthusiasts, and there were more than 250 of them gathered at a camp ground at the headwaters below Galena Summit, love nothing better than a ride in the mountains.

Nearly all the family men who brought their wives and children, and many of the women and children had bikes of their own.

But the "widow-maker" was a male-only ride.

It started at 8 a.m. Saturday. The trail for the first two miles was a jeep track and riders, in single file, followed the ride leader, Duane Way of Twin Falls. Speeds on the track ranged from a Times-News reporter's low of 10 miles an hour to Mr. Way's experienced 25 miles an hour or better.

After crossing three small creeks, with the reporter dumping his borrowed machine through the group stopped at the foot of a very steep hill.

"Go on ahead and get some pictures as we come up," Mr. Way said.

"Okay."

Five minutes and two painful leg bumps later the pictures were taken and the group pushed upward at a steep climb. Now the machines were in first gear and the rear wheels whipped away at the loose rock.

Galena Summit is a high point at the south end of Stanley Basin. To the west, from Galena, there is a ridge just at the timber line. This ridge runs generally west. From this ridge, all water runs south or west into the Smokey Mountain country.

The plan was to top this ridge, then push down into the deep valley on the south side of the ridge. Riders would then turn west and follow a rough trail through the valley, up another mountain, down into another valley, then come back up the ridge just south of the ghost town of Vienna. From Vienna, the plan was to push north, then swing back from Smiley Creek to the campground.

The total distance was 32 miles. In the words of one man who finished the trip late Saturday, it was the toughest 32 miles in Idaho.

Although the Forest Service frowns on trail machine travel in Idaho's primitive area, travel on roads and trails in wilderness area is approved.

Everyone on the "widow-maker" brought his own lunch and carried all his trash out with him. No one carried firearms and there were no fires allowed on the trek.

The plan was for the Times-News representative to ride to the top of the ridge, then walk there for a second group and ride back to base camp with them.

The second ride was called the "Smokey Loop" and this included men and women riders. Some even took their children along on this "lame" ride.

As the "widow-maker" group fought its way higher and higher, the air got warmer, and the muscles stiff with tension and fatigue.

Several places on the trail reached a 20 degree incline. The trail narrowed and often the group ran into loose shale. The shale makes the machine because it is so steep the throttle has to be kept open, hard open, and when a machine begins to bounce it is hard to control the ride. To the experienced, the job isn't too bad. To the novice, the ride is one of sheer terror.

"The valley fell away fast and the group looked at a thousand foot drop on one side; mountain on the other, and steep trail ahead.

Patches of snow could be seen here and there in the shadows and the tall pine trees far behind and were replaced by the gnarled variety that grow in the high country.

The sun was high when the group finally arrived at the ridge six miles from camp.

Here the group rested and talked.

Six miles out of 32, it never made it," one man said. "How do you like it?" another asked.

"You guys are all nuts," was the reply.

There was laughter.

After some picture taking of the breathless scenery at the ridge, the group pumped their engines and descended into the smoky valley.

The reporter waited an hour until riders from the "Smokey Loop" arrived, then started his machine on the trail, keeping the machine in a safe and slow first gear most of the way.

Seven hours after leaving camp, gunning riders began to talk.

Many who had taken the short, 20 mile "Summit Ride," got back first. Then those on the 22 mile "Smokey Loop" arrived.

Mel Quale of Twin Falls, on the latter ride, carried his sleeping son on his arms.

At about 5 p.m. the riders from the "widow-maker" got in. There had been only one casualty. A Boise man damaged his machine on the trail and it had to be hauled out.

"We almost had to carry the machine in some places," Mr. Quale said.

All the men looked tired and there were thick layers of dust on faces and machines.

Everyone talked about their previous rides—inter-tribe and there was some discussion about the ride next year. Where it will be, no one knows.

"Trail machines are fun. I know it will be interesting."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market is relatively indecisive now as it goes through the slow and tedious process of base consolidation, said Hayden Stone, Inc. Emotional selling has finally subsided, and the number of stocks performing better than average has been increasing gradually, the firm said.

We are not in the type of market situation where gloom tends to overshadow reason and this is the time to be buying "cheap" stocks and not heading for a true bear market bottom, the firm said.

Proposed tax reforms would bring new money into the stock market, according to Wright Investors' Service. New minimum tax requirements usually reduce the attraction of tax-exempt state and municipal bonds and will result in a significant flow of funds out of tax-exempt into stocks, the firm said.

The franc devaluation was blamed to cause the least possible confusion in the money markets and will create an early test of the improved technical position of the American stock market, said Gloria Morgan Wm. Stratt.

There should soon be an answer to the question of whether our rally has been merely technical or a true bear market bottom, the firm said.

Larry Smith To Make Debut

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Larry Smith, the Los Angeles Rams' star, will make his debut in the Rams' Saturday night game against the Cleveland Browns.

Smith, a running back who suffered a broken foot bone last season, has had very little contact training at the Rams camp.

Allen said Smith, a University of Florida standout, will be used in the second quarter, and possibly in the second half.

Pat Sudestil, a punter and wide receiver who has been hampered by a ham-string injury, "looks a lot better" and will probably play on a part time basis, Allen said.

Kindergarten Set Aug. 25 In Burley

BURLEY — The Zion Lutheran Church is again offering 17 kindergartens for 5-year-old children. Registration will be held at the church, 24th and Miller avenues, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday and the tuition fee is $12.50 per month per student.

Parents are asked to accompany their children at time of registration.

Classes are scheduled to begin Aug. 25 with two sessions. The morning session will be from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and the afternoon session will be from 1 to 3:30 p.m. All classes will be held in the educational wing of the church.

For a full information is available by contacting Mrs. Arne Nord-Hasselstrom, 438-3328, or Rev. D. H. Becker, 678-9821.

LIVELY STONES FOUND

PITKAA, Sweden (UPI) — Children bathing in the lake of Langstrask in northern Sweden often told their parents about "the round stones" on the bottom of the lake. Tuesday bomb disposal units worked at the bathing place after it was revealed the round stones were live mines. About 20 mines, each loaded with about five pounds of TNT, were picked up during the day.

Dear Abby
By ARIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a fighting man in Viet Nam with a problem that bothers me more than the enemy.

First, I would like to explain that there are six of us guys in one dwelling. We have a young Vietnamese girl who comes in every day to make our beds, clean up the place and do our laundry. For this we each pay her $4 a month.

Well, I have been taking pictures of the natives, the country and other things of interest here, and have sent these pictures to my girl for safekeeping as the rain and heat here are hard on pictures.

And they'll soon be hooked, too.

But, maybe this will make some of those smokers sit up and take notice. THEY STINK. Yes, every cigaret smoker has a terrible odor about his breath, his hair, his skin and his clothes. Why even their hands stink! All the money our perfumes and breath-deodorants is wasted. You can still smell a smoker three feet away. If you don't believe me, the next time you go to kiss a child, ask him how he likes it. He'll tell you the truth. VERY TRULY YOURS EX-SMOKER

DEAR ABBY: Re your column about the 11-year-old Debbie who objects to having a sitter. Debbie's mother we live with her all the way. We have a "sitter" for our 14-year-old son whenever we plan to stay out past his bedtime. And we intend to continue this practice for several years.

Our son is a responsible boy, but the night he slept soundly thru a burglary in the house, the dog, barking, the police arriving, and all sorts of miscellaneous racket going on all night long, he realized that he would have no trouble sleeping thru a fire which could easily burn up the house with HIM in it. DEAR ABBY: May I share my happiness with the world? I threw away my girle about two months ago, and now I am from the States and I understand how I ever put up with that uncomfortable harness for so many years. Now I just slip into a new dress and I'm ready to go. What a time saver! It used to take me 20 minutes to struggle into my girle. FREE AGAIN

DEAR FREE: Congratulations, I'd have to see you before sharing your enthusiasm. Any woman who needs 20 minutes to "struggle" into a girle, needs one.

DEAR ABBY: Roy, O boy, have I got some news for you. My beds aren't made and my dishes are still in the sink, but I've got to get this in the mail. All your talk about smoking and lung-cancer won't mean a thing to people who smoke. They'll go right on smoking because they're hooked. And kids will start, too, because they see grown-ups do it, and they think it's smart.

Grandma's Shawl Appears In Collection For Fall Styles

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

ROME (UPI) - Italian designers dipped into the past for fashions of the future and out of the rag bag of ideas came the grandma's shawl.

Among those endorsing this old-time wrapper with a new international set of customers includes Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

Valentino offered the shawl as an alternative to the maxi-length coats, which just about every other designer in Rome, Paris or New York featured for the fall and winter season. His shawls came in tweed for day, in velvet for evening, and sometimes in pink feathers.

The tweed shawls, with wide cape-like fringes, were matched with slits, dresses or trousers.

As the Italian collections closed and the Paris couture opened its fall series for press and buyers, it looked like a definite year for the maxi, which in length can be anywhere from the bottom of the knee to the floor. Daytime skirt lengths, however, remained two to four inches above the knees with Italy's price setters.

Italy's designers continued the trousers look too, topping them with dress-length tunics.

Newest on the pants scene were jumpers, long sleeved and long legged, some disguised by wrap-around skirts.

Plum proved the number one color, in shades from very pale to almost black. Black and white - alone or in combination - were strong. Fabrics included velvets, satins, silks, crepes, and ruffled or pleated chiffons for evening. By day, wool led the way in worsted, plaid, tweed or a flat surface printed to look like tweed.

Walking down from the top hairdos on Mrs. models were simple, often sleek and short, often resembling the familiar bowl cut of a child.

Party Cookout Is Fun For Everyone

Try patio partying with a flair. Bring on handsome sirloin steaks tamed with elegant flaming fruits. Here's a charcoal-cookery combination that's both delightful and different.

If the number of persons to be served is going to be large, select two or three sirloin steaks. The thicker they are, of course, the more they will serve.

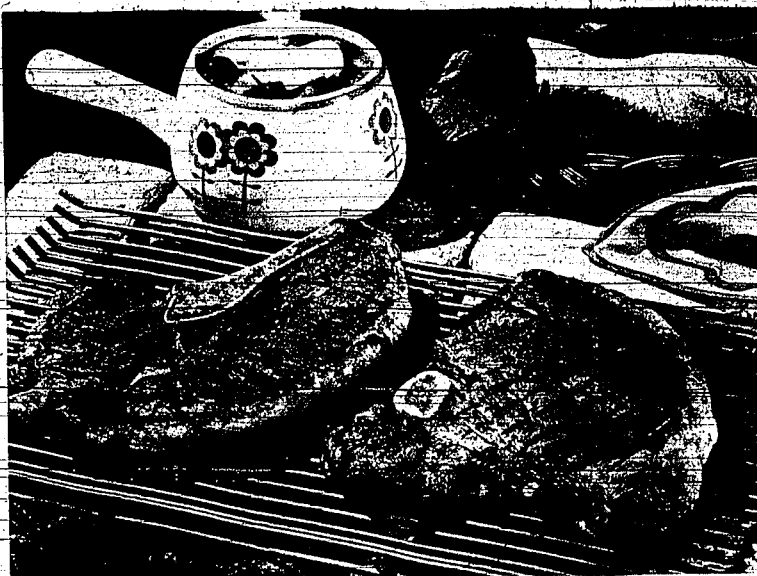

Boneless as well as bone-in sirloin steaks are available from your meat retailer. Those with the bone in have bones of different shapes—like the pin bone which is closest to the short loin section; the flat bone, long and slender, which is in the middle of the sirloin section; and finally the wedge bone, which is adjacent to the round steak.

To broil steaks—Allow charcoal briquets to burn until gray in color. Place sirloin steaks on the grill. Steaks cut one inch thick should be placed two to three inches from the heat.

Steaks cut two inches thick should be placed three to five inches from the heat. When one side is browned, turn, season and finish cooking on the second side. Season.

Steaks cut one inch thick require approximately 15 to 20 minutes for rare steaks and 20 to 25 minutes for medium-done steak. Steaks cut two inches thick require approximately 30 to 35 minutes for rare steak and 40 to 45 minutes for medium-done steak.

Serve with flaming fruit sauce to complement the steak. The sauce is a delightful combination of peaches, dark sweet cherries and mandarin oranges. Three extracts—vanilla, almond and lemon—make for unusual flavor and help flame the fruit after it has been heated in a chafing dish over charcoal briquets.

FLAMING FRUIT SAUCE
 1 can (16 ounces) sliced peaches
 1 can (16 ounces) dark sweet cherries
 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin oranges
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
 1/2 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 4 sugar cubes
 2 tablespoons lemon extract

Drain fruit, reserving one-half cup juices from canned peaches. Place fruit in chafing dish. Combine lemon juice, one-half cup peach juice, vanilla and almond extract and pour over fruit. Sprinkle with sugar and dot with butter or margarine.

Cover and heat until fruit is warm and butter is melted. Just before serving, top with cubes of sugar soaked in lemon extract. Ignite sugar cubes and serve immediately. Six or eight servings.

A backyard or patio charcoal cookout is an informal and satisfying manner of entertaining your friends. It's great family fun, too. Here is a combination grill feast that is easy to prepare.

Teriyaki, with its Far Eastern accent, makes an exotic dish for adults while younger folk savor happily on their favorite hamburgers or frankfurters. Much of the work for these meats can be done before bringing them to the charcoal grill.

Use the cubed sirloin steak used for the tasty Teriyaki several hours or overnight in a liquid sauce of rich molasses, Worcestershire, soy sauce, sherry, onion and ground ginger. Simply alternate the meat with pineapple chunks on skewers. All the charred and charcoal grill them when it's time to eat.

Shape the hamburger meat into patties and cook on the grill. Frankfurters preparatory to grilling, and there's little left to do except make the barbecue sauce. A zesty basic sauce made with unseasoned ketchup, vinegar, tomato sauce and seasonings is delicious on broiled chicken, too. A fancier frankfurter sauce has similar ingredients, plus onion and Worcestershire sauce.

Tips Given For Wife Of Candidates

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The feminine side of the Democratic campaign management team suggests that the well-groomed wife of a candidate might want to carry a wig as insurance when a tight schedule leaves no time for a needed hairdo.

This is among "Tips for a Candidate's Wife" on a single sheet of paper distributed by the Women's Activities Division of the Democratic National Committee. The other side of the page offers "Tips for a Candidate's Husband."

The candidate's wife is advised to make speeches only if her husband wishes and she is a good speaker and then to talk about issues on which she is fully informed.

As for what to wear, the candidate's wife is told "nothing too fancy."
"Good grooming, of course, is essential. On a tight schedule, there may not be time for hairdos when you need them most. You might want to carry a wig as insurance."

As for how the candidate's wife should act, she should be "natural, friendly, interested and cooperative when dealing with voters, campaign workers and the press."

When the candidate is speaking his wife should be attentive, even if she's heard it all before, and should not let her expression betray weariness or boredom.

The advice for a candidate's husband says the voters don't care whether a male candidate has a happy, homelike, or a busy household or whether the children are getting care.

"But with your wife, it's a different story," the Democrats are told. "The voters are interested in this enlightened age—distrust the motives of a woman who runs for office."

"Runners say it can't be a real interest in good government. It must be an unhappy home life. What will become of that candidate? How can she hold down an office and keep the home fires burning?"

"It's your job to let the voters know that she can do it and that you want her to do it, that you're with her all the way."
The candidate's husband also is advised not to feel left out when he is excluded from conversations involving his wife. When this happens, he should talk to others around him and plug his wife's

National Interest Created By 'HELP DAN' Program

NEW YORK — (NEA)—Education in the danger of drugs and alcohol starts at the grade school level in Anchorage, Alaska.

Thanks to Mrs. Edrell Annette Coleman, of Ft. Wainwright, Alaska, classes have been started in the fifth and sixth grades to acquaint children with the problems of drugs, alcohol and narcotics. Mrs. Coleman lumps them under one heading of DAN and precedes it with HELP (Help Educated Little People) for her experimental work.

Mrs. Coleman has been named the 1969 Military Wife of the Year. Her idea, instituted at the Cheen Elementary School, has attracted national interest.

"We were aware of the drug problems facing base children and those who went to public schools. I felt we could reach them. He also is told that he can organize coffee hours and cocktail parties to promote her campaign."

a child at a younger age than the early teens and do some good."

She feels educating young children to the use and abuse of drugs at the elementary level is "the modern way to approach children." Police in Anchorage agree and are quite helpful, she says.

HELP DAN is a club-type program with the pupils acting as their own officers.

"There are five teachers involved at Cheen but we felt we were not as trained or as knowledgeable as professionals."

To fill in gaps, "We invite doctors, FBI agents, members of Alcoholics Anonymous, those from the Cancer Society to speak at weekly club meetings," she explained. Parents may come and sit at the back of the classroom and see what smoking has done to the lungs which are glass containers with angel's hair."

Since receiving the Military

Wife honor Mrs. Coleman has traveled with the Art Linkletter entertainment tour to families at U.S. armed forces bases. She also is Alaska-Mother-of-the-Year.

Through the Linkletter operation, sponsors of the Military Wife award, HELP DAN will receive $5,000 and become a foundation.

In one more year Mrs. Coleman and her husband Maj. Victor Colman, an Army chaplain, will have their first permanent home in Biloxi, Miss., since their marriage 29 years ago.

His tour of duty took them to six states and two foreign countries and she made his military life stimulating with on-base and community work.

"Some military wives don't get involved in the community. This is a shame because they miss something," she says.

She adds children want to make decisions and have the feeling of being independent.

Probably the most dramatic part of the HELP DAN program, Mrs. Coleman says, is Smoking Dan, a mannikin the size of a boy, 12, which she bought for around $10. "You unzip his clothes and see what smoking has done to the lungs which are glass containers with angel's hair."

Since receiving the Military

Board Meet, Workshop Set

Mrs. Donald Runck, Detroit, Mich., will be featured speaker at the summer board meeting and legislative workshop of the Idaho Division of the American Association of University Women. The sessions are set for Friday and Saturday at the Rogerston Hotel.

Mrs. Runck will cover the legislative program at all levels in relations to program structure and to the importance of public opinion.

Mrs. Robert Thornton, newly elected vice president for the North Pacific Region, will be in attendance, as well as Helen Englhart, new legislative program chairman.

A meeting of the executive and program development committees is scheduled for 4 p.m. Friday to make preliminary plans for the biennial convention in Moscow.

Unprinted Law

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho — Failure to print an amendment to the state's drunk driving law led to the printing of a new trial for a man charged with drunk driving blood weight from 15 to 30 had not been printed as the law requires, the judge who convicted here May 28 of involuntary manslaughter.

Dist. Judge Walt Prather ruled that since an amendment reducing the drunken driving blood weight from 15 to 30 had not been printed as the law requires, the judge who convicted here May 28 of involuntary manslaughter, Van Slate's trial misadvised the jurors and could have prejudiced the verdict.

Fire Danger Extreme

In Forests

Ranger Don Owen said that the fire danger on the National Forest is "high" on most of the forest and is "very high" to "extreme" in some areas, such as the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, Loom Creek, and other low elevation areas. All forest users and visitors should be very careful where and how they build campfires and make sure all matches and cigarettes are completely out before being thrown away.

A group of boaters on the Middle Fork are carrying a fire still-burning campfires on the island near the Tappan Ranch. The entire island was burned out before the Forest Service hot-tack crew could reach the area.

Had fire started on either bank in the steep terrain a large and costly fire would likely have occurred. Forest Service investigators have not been able to determine who was responsible for the fire.

WAR CLASSES IDAHOAN MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Ensignman 1st. Class Michael Painter, 28, Moscow, was killed in action in Vietnam Friday when a mortar shell struck his ship, his family learned Monday.

Elderly Couple Renewes Troth

CHIPPewa Falls, Wis. (UPI) — Frank and Hattie Siles were married in 1911. They operated a farm near here and raised seven children.

Two after 40 years of marriage, they were divorced in 1951. Neither would reveal why Siles moved to Chippewa Falls where he was a custodian. His former wife stayed with a son on his farm near Eau Claire. They continued to see each other frequently.

Sunday they were remarried in a quiet ceremony at the home of the Rev. H. P. Palmer, pastor of the Rock Falls Union Baptist Church.

Siles was 82, his wife 82.

"I'll put me right with God again," Mrs. Siles said after the wedding. "Divorce is against the teaching in the Bible and I am happy again."

Asked if he was happy about his remarriage, Siles replied, "That's a heck of a question. I ask a fellow!"

Idaho Power Co. Reunion Set This Weekend In Boise

BOISE — The 14th annual reunion of Idaho Power Co. "Pioneers" — retired and active employees with a quarter-century or more of service — will be held in Boise Saturday and Sunday. It was announced Tuesday.

Advance registrations already have been received from more than 330 of the utility veterans from throughout Idaho Power's service area and elsewhere in the U.S., according to M. C. Ollason, the group's chairman.

He said the meeting will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday with registration at the Downtown Motel, which will be the headquarters.

Events on the opening-day program will include a buffet dinner and golf and bowling tournaments.

New officers will be elected by the pioneers at a breakfast concluding the reunion Sunday. It will start at 8:30 a.m. in the Downtown Motel ballroom.

Principal speaker at the breakfast will be company president Albert Carlson, who will discuss the utility's operations and program of employee benefits.

Ollason said Wilbur Sweet, who retired in 1963 after 40 years with Idaho Power, will leave the greatest dividend he has — the greatest dividend is to attend the reunion. Sweet, an operator at the company's American Falls generating plant

THE CREDIBILITY GAP HO-HUM

COMES TO THE GROCERY BUSINESS

Maybe you remember . . . the big full page ads, the TV commercials . . . the whole bit. For ten years, big out-of-town chains X & Y (or Y and X if you like) have been telling us the little pieces of colored paper (trading stamps) were FREE. They didn't cost you anything — nothing was added onto the price of the groceries. Just like Alice in Wonderland, hundreds of thousands of dollars of nice premiums didn't cost anything and NOBODY paid for them.

But, Hark! All of a Sudden, big out-of-town chains X & Y have discovered that stamps do cost something after all. In fact, they've even fessed up and admitted you've been paying for them all the time, . . . through the nose. Kind of stretches the credibility, doesn't it? In fact, could we call it a GAP? Swensen's Mkts. undoubtedly have little credibility gaps too, but certainly nothing this outstanding.

A NOVELTY FOLKS . . . for about the tenth time in the last 10 years, the big out-of-town chains have done the people of Magic Valley a BIG FAVOR and brought them low prices . . . again.

With frightening Intrepidity, Swensen's Mkts. venture a few questions!

Why is it that the big stores have to keep lowering their prices all the time? How come their prices get so high in the first place? If they've marked their prices down 5-15% while they were closed (please refer to big out-of-town chains ads this week), it should make a lot of people a little bit nostalgic (bitter maybe), about the money they've been shelling out at said stores the last few years. Boy, any store that's been charging 5-15% too much for groceries all this time ought to close for 3 days! In fact, . . .

REFUSING TRICKS SETS CONTRACT

In today's hand, the late Louis Westman has set some sort of record for refusing to take tricks.

The play started simply enough. South won the first spade, led the jack of diamonds and let it ride. Naturally, Louis did not produce his king. South played a second diamond to bridge players. Louis realized that if he took those club tricks he would have to let dummy gain the lead and South would make the rest. Therefore Louis had saved his king of clubs by dropping a higher club under South's ace. He took just one high club and then threw South back in with that deuce.

South's next play was the eight of hearts. The normal play would be to rise with dummy's queen but South had noted Louis' amazing club play. Unless Louis held the heart king, he would simply have taken his three clubs and a heart. Therefore a low heart was played from dummy.

This gave Louis his record. He refused to win that trick at all. Now South was stone cold dead. He tried the desperation play of ace and another heart. Now Louis collected two hearts and his last club, thereby getting back all the tricks he had refused plus the setting trick for interest.

dummy's queen. He wasn't looking at the king in Louis' hand. So Louis had that first trick back.

He led the jack of clubs. South won with the queen and could find no better line of play than to continue with the ace and eight. At this point most people would have happily cashed three club tricks but Louis remembered Vergil's advice: "To be a Greek who comes bearing gifts."

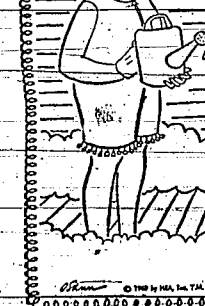

Not that South was a Greek. Merely that Louis had extended that advice to include

Lightning Bolts Can Sizzle Five Times Hotter Than Sun

LIGHTNING - Some lightning bolts are so hot that they can sizzle five times hotter than the sun, says a new study by scientists at the University of Colorado. The study, published in the journal "Science," found that lightning bolts can reach temperatures of up to 30,000 degrees Fahrenheit, which is five times hotter than the sun's surface.

The study was conducted by a team of scientists led by Dr. Robert M. Walsh. They used a special instrument called a "lightning probe" to measure the temperature of lightning bolts. The probe was designed to withstand the intense heat and pressure of a lightning bolt.

The scientists found that lightning bolts can reach temperatures of up to 30,000 degrees Fahrenheit, which is five times hotter than the sun's surface. This is because lightning bolts are made of ionized air, which is a much better conductor of electricity than ordinary air.

The study also found that lightning bolts can travel at speeds of up to 100,000 miles per hour. This is because lightning bolts are made of ionized air, which is much lighter than ordinary air.

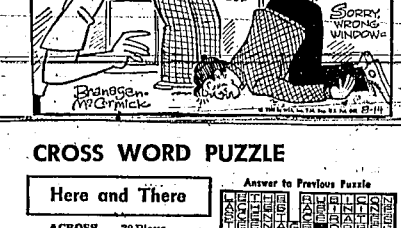

The study has important implications for the study of lightning and the atmosphere. It shows that lightning bolts are much hotter and faster than previously thought. This means that lightning bolts can have a much greater impact on the atmosphere than previously thought.

Ketchum Prepares For 12th Annual Wagon Days Event

KETCHUM — Preparations are under way for the 12th annual Wagon Days Celebration in Ketchum, Aug. 22-24, when the big one-wheeled wagons will roll again, commemorating the freight-line days of the 1880's in the Wood River Valley. The historical parade, which features the freight wagons drawn by 16-horse hitch and other non-motorized conveyances, is slated for 11 a.m. Saturday. An approved quarter horse show will be held at 8 a.m. Sunday on the Greenlee estate. Wayne "Dons" Hiebert, Ketchum, will judge the show with Rocky Goodhue, well-known Obidjan show judge and auctioneer, as announcer. Officials note last year's show lacked only a few entries of being a Class A show and it is hoped this year there will be enough entries to make it so. A Saturday afternoon jambo-ree for the kids and an Old-time Fiddlers dance Saturday night will be among the events planned to entertain the hundreds of persons who flock to Ketchum for this event.

Artists Gripe

ROVANIEMI, Finland (UPI) — Angry artists are planning to sue the police chief of this polar town for damaging a piece of sculpture they had erected. The police chief ripped off allegedly pornographic pictures from Swedish magazines attached to the sculpture, made of a shovel, an axe, leather mittens and brushes stuck in the sand. The pictures were part of the sculpture, claimed the artists. "Immoral," claimed the police chief.
