T. F. Head Start Program Set To Prepare Youngsters For School

The Twin Falls Head Start Program begins its fourth year on Sept. 8 as ninety pre-school children enter classes at the Twin Falls Presbyterian Church.

According to Mrs. Dolores Tjarks, project director, the program will begin with five classrooms, but will be expanded to six in October.

Places for only four children remain open for the September classes, but another 15 children will be admitted to the program in October, she said.

The program is intended to prepare for the first grade child whose parents cannot afford to send them to private kindergarten.

According to Mrs. Tjarks, the classroom "has about 15 children, assisted by two or more adult volunteers.

"We're required to maintain a ratio of one adult to every five children," she said. But to date, no adult volunteers have committed themselves to participart in the program, she said Thursday.

"We need six a day. We start out with a new set of adults every year. But we don't have any that we are sure of that will carry over this year," she said.

Beside adult volunteers, one parent of a head-start child is required to attend each class session.

According to Mrs. Tjarks, the program is directed at adult parents as well as to their children. "Our biggest push in head start is not with children, but with parents."

According to Mrs. Tjarks, 90 per cent of the children admitted to the program must have family incomes below the poverty line as established by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — HEW. The line for a non-farm family of four is $3,300 per year.

When asked how the program day is primarily directed to parents, Mrs. Tjarks said, "We encourage the parents to take basic education courses at the (CSI) vocational school. Those who take part in head start take part in the Career Development Program, where they get six hours of college work paid for each semester — if they take advantage of it."

In addition, she said, monthly parents' meetings are held where instruction is given in preparing for starting school. Teachers, and area doctors give instruction in basic health care.

And parents are encouraged to sign up for Manpower Development Training Act employment training programs.

But during the day in class the student is the center of attention. They start the day with a 9 a.m. breakfast if they are hungry, are given a mid-morning snack, and are served hot lunch before going home for the day at 12:30 p.m.

Other special services given children include medical check-

Not Much

BOISE (UPI) — Acting Gov. Jack Murphy told his agency's conference Thursday the problem with salaries at the universities might be "not so much what you're paying educators, but what you're paying elected officials."

Murphy was asked to comment on a letter Gov. Don Samuelson sent to the State Board of Education.

Samuelson pointed out that of all state employees earning $17,500 or more, 78 per cent are in higher education and 53 per cent are at the University of Idaho.

Murphy said the $17,500 a year salary paid to the governor was "not much when you look at the responsibilities charged to the office."

Included in the festival will be a demonstration of batik technique at 3 p.m. Aug. 30 at the patio in the Mall by Claudia Hill. Miss Hill's designs made by wax and dye on cloth, which have been shown at Ex Libris.

the book shop on the Mall, have aroused keen interest among art lovers this summer.

Bids Asked On 2 New Minidoka Junior High Schools

RUPERT — Bids for the $2.2 million construction of two new junior high schools for the Minidoka School District, as well as the addition at the Heyburn school, will be opened Sept. 23 during a special meeting of the board of trustees.

The group met in special session this week and reviewed plans for the construction presented by architect Grant Brower. The plans were approved and were similar to those released during the bond election in March.

The schools will house the district's seventh, eighth and ninth graders, one located on the Frank Payne property, south of Paul, and the other on the Albert Flocier property, on North H Street, adjacent to the Rupert city limits.

Each building will have a capacity of 700 students and will include an auditorium capable of seating half of the student body, and a regulation size gymnasium. Hot lunch facilities, wireless for educational television and pod classrooms will also be included in the construction as will facilities for vocational courses.

At Heyburn, an all-purpose room, complete with hot lunch facilities and additional classrooms will be added.

The bonds for the construction were sold last June and the money was recently delivered to the school district. Supt. Camden Meyer said much of the money will be re-invested until the district needs it.

In other business in this week's meeting, the trustees approved a code of behavior for the high school students. Meeting with principal Leigh

Engersoll and vice principal Dick Warburton, the board determined penalties for truancy, fighting on or near the school grounds, smoking at school functions, and drinking at school functions.

For truancy, first offenders will be suspended until parents meet with the principal, and second offenders will be suspended until they and their parents meet with the board of trustees.

Fighters, on their first offense, will both be suspended for five days with a two point deduction in grade each day. Subsequent offenses will mean stronger punishment, possibly dismissal from school.

Smokers, on their first offense, will be required to meet, in conference, with their parents and the school principal. Others will be suspended until they and their parents appear before the school board and receive permission to return to school.

Those caught drinking or with alcohol on their breath at school functions will be suspended for five days with a ten point grade point cut. Subsequent offenses will mean suspension until the student and his parents appear before the school board.

The board approved the hiring of Mrs. Wanda Peck as a full-time secretary to take care of attendance. The duties of the security officer, Ed Martin, were clearly defined and it was noted it was his responsibility to check on absent students without phones and those who may make coffee stops.

School buses scheduled to leave at 2:30 p.m. were required to wait until 2:40 before leaving to allow students time to clear their vehicles from the parking lots.

Dick Warburton was hired as vice principal for Minico High School.

The board also approved a letter to parents of students wishing to rent a school-owned instrument. It was noted the fee is $15 a year, to be paid before the student receives the instrument.

Teacher contracts for Rena Asson, third grade at Heyburn; Betty Williams, math at the High School and Dyrthea Moore, third at Acquila, were approved.

Farm Bureau Help Called "Like Fox Guarding Coop"

RUPERT — Minidoka County NFO president Joe Taylor said today the National Farmers Organization has attacked the Farm Bureau proposals, describing them as "a low blow for farmers."

The NFO is part of a solid front of 18 farm organizations opposing Farm Bureau proposals, Oren Leo Staley, NFO president, told House agriculture committee hearings recently.

"Farm Bureau helping farmers," he said, "is like having a fox guard the chicken coop."

The Farm Bureau proposals calling for support prices not to exceed 85 per cent of the average previous three years "would lower the support price of corn approximately 16 cents per bushel the first year, or down to about 89 cents per bushel."

Mr. Staley told the committee, "It would drop each year thereafter," he said.

Mr. Taylor said the Farm Bureau plan would also drop support prices on soybeans 21 cents per bushel to about $2.04 per bushel, and that prices on other commodities would follow the same pattern.

The NFO has also attacked Farm Bureau proposals for massive land retirement, which they said would severely affect rural businesses because the payment per acre would be low, thus cutting down rural income.

Instead, the NFO's farm program would enable farmers to vote each year by commodities and decide what level of support they want and would produce according to the programs they voted for.

Inflation Spiral Indicated In Study Of U. S. Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department has just surveyed the business scene and just about everywhere it looked it found more inflation.

This was gloomy news to the Nixon administration, which has vowed to curb inflation and hopes to have that mission as its foremost domestic goal—accomplished within one year.

How well it has done so far will be judged by the measure today with the Labor Department's report on the most closely watched of all economic indicators—the Consumer Price Index. So far this year the index has reflected a substantial upswing in the cost of goods and services.

An administration economist said in an interview a downturn in the price index for three consecutive months would indicate to him inflation had been checked.

But the Commerce Department's monthly business assessment found "most signs pointing otherwise," it said. Inflationary pressures were "remaining strong" and it found a cooling off only in three areas—farm prices, unemployment had grown to 3.6 per cent last month from 3.3 per cent earlier this year and because of tight money.

But in other key areas, this is what the Commerce Department said:

Personal income—Started off the third quarter of the year...

Industrial prices—"Last month increases were widespread, but the average rate of increase in the fall of lumber prices a reaction to the housing slump; steel prices rose an average of 4.5 per cent this month for items that account for 44 per cent of steel mill output.

Farm prices—They declined sharply but wholesale food prices were unchanged last month. However, last spring's pronounced increases in these prices are still to be fully felt because of tight money.

Retail trade—A separate report showed it was 3 per cent above the same week in 1968 and 1967.

Personal income—Started off the third quarter of the year...

First Security Banks Back U.S. Student Loan Program

The First Security Corp. system of banks has announced its continued support of the student loan program under the Federal Higher Education Act of 1965.

George S. Eccles, President and General Manager of First Security Corporation, said First Security Banks have supported the program since its inception and since made a total of more than 6,000 loans amounting to $4,500,000 in Idaho and Utah.

In his statement, Mr. Eccles said loans will be made to any and all students who can qualify, regardless of their year in school. Students must be, however, attending colleges or universities which have qualified for the federally insured program.

Mr. Eccles said that First Security Banks will now accept and approve student loan applications for the 1969-70 school year, and funds will be disbursed before school starts in September.

Under the Federal Higher Education Act of 1965, students do not have to begin repayment of loans until nine months after graduation. Loans originate through colleges and universities which have qualified for the program.

The program is designed to assist needy students in meeting tuition, books, and living expenses while they are getting their education.

Rumors Say LBJ Acquires Mexico Ranch

BRACKETTVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson may have a secret hideaway in Mexico.

Sources close to Johnson said Thursday he purchased a ranch in Mexico. The sources said they did not know exactly where the ranch was.

It was confirmed, however, Johnson went to Mexico twice within the last week.

A spokesman at Johnson's office said the rumor neither confirm nor deny the story.

If he did buy the ranch, it probably is between the Mexican border communities of Piedras Negras and Ciudad Acuna. Both communities are about 150 miles west-southwest of San Antonio.

David Smith, manager of an exclusive guest ranch near Brackettville, disclosed Thursday Johnson flew to the guest ranch Monday for two days.

During the time Johnson was there, he made two trips into Mexico, accompanied by the former of the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, Tex., the former's wife and another couple.

Lady Bird Johnson and their eldest daughter, Linda, Mrs. Robb were vacationing on the French Riviera when Johnson went to the Brackettville ranch.

THREE LOCOMOTIVES OF the Penn Central Railroad went off on a jaunt of their own Thursday, running unattended through an engine house, around a railyard, off the tracks, through a fence and out onto the adjoining Southeast Expressway, Boston's busiest superhighway, just before the evening rush hour. Opulent Nixon-Park Affair Shuns Protests Of Picketers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Anti-war demonstrators shivered and chanted outside, but inside the St. Francis Hotel it was all jewels and elegance.

The occasion was one rarely seen outside Washington—the President and Mrs. Nixon playing host at a formal state dinner in this case for South Korean President and Mrs. Park Chung-Hee.

The meal, prepared by hotel executive chef Klaus Shefner, had a strong French touch with ducking orange the main course.

The 250-name guest list was varied. It had the usual complement of leaders from government, business and the military. But was sprinkled with Hollywood celebrities.

Two of the most eye-catching guests were Shirley Temple Black, one-time movie child star and now a prominent GOP political figure, and actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, who was seated next to White House foreign policy advisor Henry A. Kissinger.

Missing were California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who were invited but sent regrets. Nixon's failure to invite Cranston to last week's Apollo 11 state dinner in Los Angeles last week had—repercussions—on the California political scene.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief negotiator in the Paris Vietnam peace talks, flew in for the dinner and planned to fly back to the western White House today with the President to discuss the stalemated talks.

The Nixons received the Parks in the presidential suite at a pre-dinner reception. They battled against Dist. Atty. Edmund S. Dineen, who wants to challenge their decision in whose guest had gathered in Pennsylvania. On these grounds the motion asks that the Dineen autopsy.

Mary Jo's Parents Fight To Prevent Exhumation order

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI)—A hearing will be held Monday on a motion asking Luzerne County Court to throw out a request by a Massachusetts district attorney for the exhumation of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Miss Kopechne, 28, was killed July 15 when a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy ran off a wooden bridge on Chappaquiddick Island and plunged into a tidal pond.

The motion was filed on behalf of Miss Kopechne's parents. They are waging a battle against Dist. Atty. Edmund S. Dineen, who wants to challenge their decision in whose guest had gathered in Pennsylvania. On these grounds the motion asks that the Dineen autopsy.

President Judge Bernard C. Bromberg originally had scheduled a hearing Monday on Dineen's request for the exhumation, but temporarily postponed it, hearing and will hear the motion instead.

The Kopechne motion said the Dineen petition failed to set forth sufficient facts to warrant an autopsy.

It also argued Dineen's petition constituted an attack on Dr. Donald C. Mills, associate medical examiner of Dukes County, Mass., who ruled the girl's death as accidental. It questioned the legality of Edmund S. Dineen's decision in whose guest had gathered in Pennsylvania. On these grounds the motion asks that the Dineen autopsy.

Leasing Of Church Spurs Bill For Taxes

MINEOLA, N. Y. (UPI) — A temple which leased part of its property for commercial use will be taxed by Nassau County under a State Supreme Court ruling setting new limits on the immunity of religious institution to taxation.

The decision, handed down Friday by Justice Howard T. Hogan, involved Temple Beth Shalom in East Hills, which leased land and its building to the Roslyn Summer Day Camp.

Hogan ruled that if a tax exempt organization rented a portion of its property, that portion should be taxed.

The case, the first of its kind in New York State, came at a time of widespread reexamination of the question of taxation of churches and religious groups on income derived from non-church activities.

The Supreme Court has agreed to rule on the constitutionality of state laws exempting church property from real estate tax. The California legislature earlier this month approved a bill to collect state corporation taxes from church groups on income from non church related activities and a similar provision is contained in the tax reform measure passed by the House of Representatives.

The Protestant National Council of Churches and the United States Catholic Conference have endorsed such taxation.

Fleeing Congressmen Seek 'Work' In Far-Off Places

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just before Congress is on an officially declared "summer vacation" don't get the idea a lot of the members aren't still right there on the job. They are. Right there in Athens, Paris, Rome, Geneva and you name it as long as it's outside of the country.

You can be sure these traveling lawmakers are working. Otherwise they would not expect you to pay for the trip. You won't get the bills until later.

But last year (when at least 27 of the 535 members went somewhere abroad, sometimes during the congressional session) this kind of overseas work cost about $1 million in official travel expense.

The old bulls who run Congress, and who would rather get on with the work here at home, set up the current three-week recess at the insistence of junior members with children in school. The juniors complained they needed a chance like other folks to experience family vacations.

The timetable was announced at the start of the session, to stop some of the grumbling about this and other matters, and also so everybody would have time to make reservations at Ocean City, Md., or plan a camping trip through the national parks.

We won't know until next year where all they went and what all of your money they spent. However, first reports indicate that not even the fighting in Ireland has deterred lawmakers in their willingness to investigate how the other 16-17ths of the world lives.

Ireland is one of 33 countries, including Japan, to which the House commissioned its Post Office Committee to travel at taxpayer expense, during and after the recess.

As part of this mission Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, R-Ill., agreed to check mail service for sailors on 6th Fleet ships in the Mediterranean, although this necessitated his sweating out visits to Greece, Italy and Spain at a time when he no doubt would rather be taking it easy at home.

And so it goes. Vacation or not, there is always overseas work to be done, and always some congressman willing to do it.

And so everybody would have time to make reservations at Ocean City, Md., or plan a camping trip through the national parks.

Injured 'Samaritan' Wins Plaudits; Attacker Escapes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Stanford Erickson tried to get involved — and only got a beating for his efforts. He can't even go to court over it.

Erickson, 30, said he saw a man beating a woman on a downtown street. Hundreds walked and drove by, but he finally tried to come to the woman's aid. He grabbed at the man, who struck him twice and knocked him down.

"We appreciate your helping," a patrolman told a bruised Erickson after the incident. "When we're in trouble we want guys like you to help us. But you were taken. A sucker. They are man and wife."

"It sounds like he did the right thing," an assistant district attorney said. "Unfortunately there's nothing we can do. The wife didn't want to file charges — it sounds to me as if he's just left high and dry unless he does." He said Erickson hit the man first so he couldn't sue him either.

Erickson commented: "I just don't understand it. It's like condemning a man beating a woman on the street because you don't know if they are married. And if they are, it's like condoning women being beaten by their husbands."

"Some say being a concerned citizen is old fashioned. But I'm old, so maybe it's just nature."

Hair Beauty For Mermaids

Just because you like to swim (doesn't mean you need to look like a drip—You may have the newest bathing suit and your figure may rate a second glance, but what about your hair? Over-exposure to the sun's rays or a youthful frizzes of their luster just as surely as it burns unprotected skin. The hot sun also dries out the natural oils, leaving hair parched and brittle.

Both salt water and chlorinated water can damage your hair if allowed to remain in it any length of time. So always be sure to shampoo after you swim. Easiest way to do this is to have a second shampoo with you and suds your curls right under the shower.

This shower-shampoo should be quick but thorough. Apply shampoo evenly through the hair and work it in with the fingertips. Rinse and suds again. It's the second lathering and final rinsing that brings out all those hidden highlights. Dry with a big, thirsty, turkish towel.

DEAR ABBY: A lady I knew (not well) passed away recently, leaving a husband and three small children. I want very much to express my sympathy and let this man know that I am about ready to blow him out of misery and TELL me what's wrong but it's like talking to a wooden Indian. Can you help me? SYLVIA

DEAR SYLVIA: Give him a taste of his own medicine. When I am about ready to blow him out of misery and TELL me what's wrong but it's like talking to a wooden Indian. Can you help me? SYLVIA

DEAR SYLVIA: Give him a taste of his own medicine. When I am about ready to blow him out of misery and TELL me what's wrong but it's like talking to a wooden Indian. Can you help me? SYLVIA

DEAR ANONYMOUS: If you know his wife "not well," and know him only to say hi to, don't call him. If you want to express your sympathy, send him a note, or card, but don't try for wit or eloquence and please try to contain your eagerness to "help him." It's not the "wrong" idea he may get, but the right one which stands to kill your chances.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 22 years is giving me the "silent treatment" again. What gets me is that he never tells me what he's mad about, he just clams up and doesn't say a word. This is much more annoying to me than a good tongue-lashing.

Live, Dressed Beef Marts Exhibiting More Stability

DENVER — The live and dressed markets both exhibited more stability last week than in the previous few weeks.

However, the market has yet to develop a sound foundation, insuring stability for any extended period of time.

Individuals in the various segments of the industry are becoming able to put a price on their cattle with some confidence. In general, buyer activity was better this week than it has been previously.

Buyers out of the Midwest and Cornbelt, as well as some from Southeast markets, are pulling cattle out of other regions to meet demand in their regions.

Feed cattle prices this week ranged between $29.50 to $32.00, but varied between and within regions. The dressed beef market gained slightly in early week, then steadied at about the following levels on the week: New York, $48.50 in Chicago, $48.50 in Colorado, and $49.50 in Los Angeles.

Feeder cattle continued to sell on a steady to stronger market in most regions. Many expect the feeder cattle market to show continued stability and strength throughout the fall.

Hide and offal from the average 1,000-pound steer was estimated at $2.43 per hundred weight for the week ending Aug. 9, compared to $1.78 the same period last year.

The USDA Aug. 1, 1969, six-month average for live cattle membership.

TWO ADMITTED
Raymond L. Jones, Jerome, and LaMont Smith, Heyburn, have been admitted to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America membership.

Along Fences And Canals

Quite a few Camas Prairie farmers are cutting and baling a second cutting of hay this year. The extra hay left in the ground to bring on a second cutting. Some farmers are just going to sell the second growth for pasture of sheep and cattle. This was a good year for hay on the prairie.

Grain combining is getting under way on Camas Prairie. Some of the farmers of the east end started combining a week or more ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McHargue, Wendell farmers, are building a large addition to their cabin located along Soldier creek near the Ski Lift north of Fairfield.

Catching a skunk was easier than getting rid of it, the Harley Fates discovered when the skunk got trapped in a live trap meant for raccoons feasting on the Fates' corn near Richfield. Fato called on Leslie Busby, local trapper, to open the trap doors carefully and not stir up the skunk. Moving carefully, Busby stepped first one foot and later the other, but instead of moving the skunk twitched its nose like a rabbit and went back to sleep. The men left the corn patch and had a cup of coffee and still the skunk made no move to leave. Hours later it finally ambled out and the Fates hope they have seen the last of it.

Ivan Garnard, Bliss rancher-farmer, cut three fingers on his left hand while planing a board. The most severe cut was his ring finger which was partially severed, requiring three stitches. The third hand is reported healing satisfactorily. Several friends and neighbors have been helping Mr. Garnard build a fence and with his other farm work.

A crew has started to cut chillepe on 100 acres of corn on the Knox Elitch Fork ranch, King Hill.

Wesley Fink is picking both cantaloupes and watermelons on his ranch south of King Hill.

Twenty-eight acres of fine onion seed on the Black Mesa farm project south of King Hill has been harvested. The barley has been threshed, and the first of September harvest will begin on 2,300 acres of potatoes.

R. D. Graham, King Hill, is picking cantaloupes now and the watermelons will soon be ready. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bralnard and family have been living in the R. D. Graham tenant house while Mr. Bralnard was employed on the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Chafin have moved back to their farm near King Hill after living the past year on the Thomas Chafin ranch. They had contracted to sell their farm, but had to repossess it.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gallo, Tuttle, purchased 10 cows and heifers to add to their herd of milk cows.

Output Of Crops Totaled

BOISE—Field crop prospects in Idaho at the first of this month were much improved over the previous month, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service states.

The service said the index of prospective production of all major crops in Idaho was 478 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This is an increase of five points over July 1. Last year the Aug. 1 index was 182.

The harvesting of most all grains is in full swing with ideal weather prevailing.

The reporting service said the Idaho corn for grain yield is forecast at 80 bushels per acre, the same as last month. Production at 1,280,000 bushels compares with 1,968,000 in 1968. Corn acreage is 2,000 less than last year in the state.

Wheat yield per acre is expected to total 47,440,000 bushels, 16 per cent less than last year. Winter wheat yield per acre is estimated at 45 bushels, 19 per cent less than last year. Spring wheat yield is forecast to be 46 bushels, 15 per cent less than last year and 44 last year.

Oat production in Idaho is forecast at 6,018,000 bushels, 14 per cent less than last year. Last year Idaho farmers produced 3,848,000 bushels and in 1967 the level was 4,700,000 bushels.

The estimated Idaho barley yield of 48 bushels on Aug. 1 is 10 bushels above last month's forecast. This yield level would provide 25,820,000 bushels, compared with 24,324,000 in 1968 and 25,921,000 in 1967.

Mixed grain production in Idaho is estimated at 10,000,000 bushels, compared with 7,365,000 last year. Yield per acre on Aug. 1 is 35 bushels compared with 30 bushels last month and 27 bushels in 1968.

Total production of all hay in 1969 is forecast to be 3,568,000 tons, about three per cent more than last year. The expected yield as of Aug. 1 is 2.67 tons per acre.

Sugar beets in Idaho are forecast to reach 500,000 tons, down slightly from last year's prospects, but up from last year's level of 328,000 tons. Idaho farmers are expected to produce 1,717,000 hundredweight of dry beans and 1,919,000 hundredweight of dry peas this year.

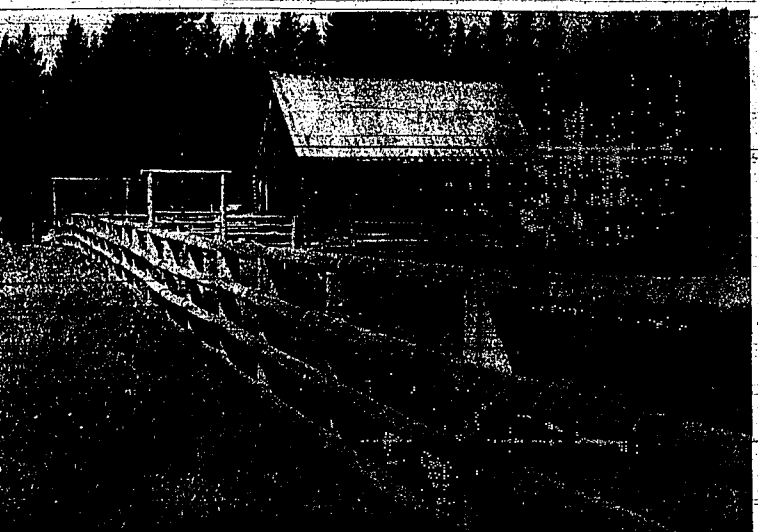

Idaho fruit prospects as of Aug. are generally favorable. The sweet cherry crop is expected to total 2,700 tons, sold down to 100 tons from the July 1 estimate, but well above last year's level of 1,100 tons.

South cherry production of 200 tons is estimated to be 850 tons. The Aug. 1 commercial apple crop estimate at 105 million pounds, compared with 121 million in 1968, and 70.6 million pounds in 1967.

Peaches in Idaho are now expected to total 15 million pounds. Last year the level was 8.5 million pounds and in 1967 the total produced 12.1 million pounds.

Apple production is set at 2,100 tons, compared with 200 tons last year and 1,900 tons in 1967.

Fruit and plums in Idaho are forecast at 11,000 tons. This is 11,500 tons above last year and 1,828 tons above two years ago.

Fertilizing Guide For Spuds Noted

BOISE—A guide to fertilizing potatoes that has been used for several years by the University of Idaho in making recommendations to farmers is still practical, Dr. Richard Ohms, extension potato specialist, said, but he also reported, as a result of research upward adjustments in rates will probably result in even greater yields.

IN SOME AREAS where growers followed new management practices that combine recent ideas on planning, irrigation and weed control, the guide rates should be increased 20 to 30 per cent in making adjustment, growers are notified to consider the amount of nitrogen in the soil from previous crops and crop residues, the kind of growing season and other factors that limit production.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS are based on tests in Idaho fields over a period of years. Spacing, varieties, soil conditions and yield, grade and specific gravity of the potatoes were all considered.

THESE ITEMS reported by Dr. Ohms in a research paper presented at the recent national meeting of the Potato Association of America in Big Rapids, Mich.

Fat Stock Sale Highlights Last Day Of T.F. County Fair

FILER—An innovation of last year's Twin Falls County Fair was the 4-H and FFA Fat Stock sale which was held at the fairgrounds the last day of the fair. The event proved so successful that it will be held again this year on the last fair day, Sept. 6.

All 4-H and Future Farmers of America who are exhibiting their finished meat products are eligible to sell an animal at the sale to take place in the livestock arena. Members will be limited to one animal per person.

Each 4-H and FFA member should have with them a brand inspection slip or other proof of ownership for beef. A service fee will be deducted from the sale price to enable the committee to pay for sale expenses. The payment for animals sold at the sale will be delayed ten days to permit collection of accounts from purchasers.

All animals, regardless of breed, must grade good or better to be eligible to enter and must be clean and well-groomed. Animals are to be delivered by 4-H and FFA members to the loading area on Sept. 7.

The champion and reserve champion will be established by taking the top three places in the 4-H and FFA regular quality showing. These top animals will be judged in a separate event to determine grand and reserve champions. Following this event, the other animals scheduled for sale will be integrated by grade in the sale order in proportion to the number of animals scheduled to sell.

The club members and their parents are responsible for arranging caring for their animals around the sale area and have the continued responsibility of the buyers at loading time on Sunday morning.

The time of loading will be announced at sale time and it will be the responsibility of the exhibitor to deliver the animal to the loading committee that time on Sunday morning.

Grand Champion Not Sold At Cassia 4-H, FFA Sale

Having two beef animals, the Hunt youth made his selection and the one he chose not to sell turned out to be the grand champion.

Hardin May Take 50 Million Acres Out Of Production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin's closely-guarded plans for a new farm program tentatively include a proposal to take 50 million acres out of crop production under long term contracts, informed sources said today.

Under this proposal, the government would contract with farmers to retire the acreage in installments of 10 million acres each year for five years. Average government costs would be about $24 an acre per year. Total costs thus would be about $240 million in the first year, and $1.2 billion a year after the fifth year.

Hardin has not committed the Nixon administration to specific details, yet, sources said, and many details remain unsettled. But the 50-million-acre level as a potential goal has been discussed privately by administration officials with some members of the congressional farm bloc.

Whether the 50-million-acre level is retained in Hardin's final proposal, scheduled to be laid before the House Agriculture Committee sometime next month, Hardin is committed to proposing a long-term land re-growers. Hardin has leaned toward use of the easement device.

Also, it was reported there was no clear consensus yet on how much, if any, cattle grazing would be permitted on land retired.

Hardin and his aides have been meeting regularly in private conferences with House Agriculture Committee members to discuss their evolving plans. Congressional sources said Hardin and his aides have not reported any details of forthcoming proposals to modify the annual price support and acreage control programs for crops like wheat, feed grains and tobacco.

Hardin said it would be cheaper to operate a package consisting of long-term land retirement plus modified annual programs than to continue the existing annual crop programs alone. But details of just how to cut the cost of the crop programs to make them fit the new package remain to be worked out.

One factor certain to play a part in the new programs will be Hardin's decision on whether to propose a ceiling on annual payments to individual farmers. He has not committed himself to a ceiling, but he has said that a practical payment limit plan could be devised.

Stalkage Silage For Cattle Feed Explained

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Feeder silage aftermath pasture for 42 cows and their calves do well during a winter feeding regimen of various parts of the corn plant and pasture aftermath, agricultural engineers learned from an early report of a long-term study at the Purdue University Lynnwood Farm, Carmel, Ind.

T. W. Perry, professor of animal nutrition, and R. C. Peterson, manager of the farm, reported to the recent 62nd annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE) at Purdue on the results of wintering three groups of heifers and their fall-born calves on three feeding treatments.

One group fed on cornstalks in-the-field plus five pounds of alfalfa hay per cow and calf unit per day, beginning in November for 84 days. When the stalks were completely covered with snow additional hay was fed. Then in February for a period of 49 days they were removed from the cornstalk pasture and fed alfalfa hay of medium quality.

The second group fed on alfalfa aftermath pasture for the first 42 days, then for 91 days were given a full feed of cornstover silage plus eight pounds of cracked shell corn and two pounds of a supplement per cow and calf unit daily.

The third group also fed on alfalfa aftermath pasture for 42 days. Then they were switched to a maximum of 60 pounds of corn silage plus two pounds of a supplement per cow and calf unit per day.

All groups of cattle were fed trace mineral salt and a mineral mixture of two parts steamed bone meal and one part salt, on a free choice basis.

The average daily gain for the calves in the first group was 1.5 pounds. In group two the average daily gain was 1.6 pounds, and in group three, 1.8 pounds.

The cows on the first feeding treatment gained nine pounds from November to March, and those on the second regimen gained 25 pounds. The third group gained 105 pounds, but as Perry and Peterson pointed out, they "were probably too fat, whereas those on treatments one and two were in excellent breeding condition."

In a joint session of three divisions of ASAE — electric power and processing; power and machinery; and structures and environment — Perry and Peterson stressed the wisdom of complementing crop production in the corn belt area with beef cattle production.

"With the increased demand for beef today and the projected potential requirement in the decade ahead, it is imperative that more feeder cattle be made available to the cattle feeder pointed out. "The corn belt and at a price that is satisfactory to him and profitable to the feeder calf producer," they production.

Cattlemen Facing Uphill Fight On Import Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cattlemen are facing an uphill fight in their current campaign to reduce federal meat import quotas.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Iowa, recently introduced the latest in a series of import control bills generally favored by cattlemen. It would reduce import quotas through several devices including a cutback in the basic quota itself and inclusion of several additional types of meats among those subject to the quotas.

Cattle industry leaders contend action of this kind is needed because steadily increasing imports under present legislation create "uncertainties" in the U.S. market. The long-run result could be to discourage domestic meat production and thus injure the interests of American consumers, a spokesman for the American National Cattlemen's Association said recently.

Backers of the Hruska bill and other measures aimed at reducing meat imports, however, are facing the fact that retail meat prices currently are at comparatively high levels.

The cattlemen's association and other industry groups have made a point of noting recently that current meat prices are about at 1961 levels, while most other products now sell for more than 40 per cent above 1961 levels—and consumer incomes are 150 per cent above 1961.

But consumers are apparently more sensitive to changes in meat prices than to increases for items they do not buy, as often is the case with other commodities. Retail meat prices here, and with live cattle prices in mid-May at the highest recorded since September, 1961, any move to reduce potential meat supplies by limiting imports might be expected to draw strong protests from consumer groups.

Under present law, U.S. imports of fresh, chilled or frozen meats of several designated types—mostly beef and veal—are limited to 1,069 million pounds. The basic import quota for this year is 888 million pounds. But the law provides that the quota may normally be placed into "reserves" if it appears that imports will run 10 per cent over the base figure.

One key section of the Hruska bill would automatically slash permitted imports 10 per cent by eliminating the provision allowing reserves to exceed the base quota by that amount. The measure also would reduce the base quota itself by setting it at 750 million pounds.

Tips For Rose Spraying Are Offered

SHOSHONE — "If your roses are bothered by bugs, you need not put up with the pests for long," states the County Extension Agent, Ruth Hopkins. "Insecticides will clear them out. Aphids, in particular, the most common rose pest, can be controlled by insecticides. Insect sprays and dusts, and chemicals are also readily available for protection against thrips and slugs. Insect control is essential to keep plants healthy and attractive, although the peak of blooming season has passed for many varieties. Pruning and fertilization are also desirable. The best time to apply fertilizer is in the spring, but a second application may be made later in the season. When plants show evidence of mineral deficiency, yellowing of leaves from lack of nitrogen or purple leaves from lack of phosphorus.

When applied late in the season, however, fertilizers may slow down fresh growth and delay hardening of the wood before winter.

If roses are not pruned they soon grow into a thorny and tangled mass of stems and leaves of poor quality. Sometimes undersized shoots come from the understock. These should be removed. Pruning should be done in the fall or early in the spring.

Do not leave bare stubs when pruning. Make all cuts at an angle, to the point on the crown from which the pruned member originated, or to a strong outward-facing bud.

Most shrub roses should be pruned after they have bloomed. As a rule, these plants are hardy, so pruning is not necessary. Thin out and remove old canes.

They are usually most beautiful when allowed to develop their natural shape. As for insect control, several sprays and dusts are on the market in which insecticide, miticide and fungicide are already mixed. Weekly applications control most rose pests.

USDA Clears Herbicide For Wheat

NEW YORK — A new USDA registration has cleared Geigy's Igran 80W herbicide for weed control in wheat in the Pacific Northwest. The product is marketed in Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

Igran has undergone extensive testing for the past five years in the Pacific Northwest. During this past year, it was tested in commercial pre and post-emergence applications under experimental sales permits.

The new Igran label permits both pre and post-emergence application of the herbicide to control a wide range of broadleaf weeds in wheat. Further, Igran applications are not limited to high-rainfall areas, and the product has been shown to perform equally well on several soil types and in various weed and grass infestations.

For pre-emergence application, rates vary from 1/4 to 2 pounds per acre in sandy loam, to 1/2 to 3 pounds per acre in silt and clay loam. Post-emergence rates range from 1/4 to 1/2 pounds per acre in sandy loam, to 1/2 to 3 pounds per acre in silt and clay loam.

A single pre or post emergence application will provide full season control of such problem weeds as wild radish (leaved), ground well, mustard, speedwell, bedstraw, and catchweed. It will also give partial control of such weeds as dock, wild oat, wild bromo (chestgrass) and rye grass.

Poas and renilla rotated with Igran treated wheat have shown no effects from herbicide carryover. Further, Geigy scientists point out that in 1967-68, a replanting program was conducted whereby wheat treated with both pre and post-emergence applications of Igran was sliced up and the area reseeded with wheat without damage to the crop.

Igran will be marketed as an 80 per cent wettable powder for ground and aerial application.

Hike Noted For Cattle On Feed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rising beef supplies for consumers were indicated today by an agriculture department report estimating the number of cattle and calves to be in six major producing states.

The report estimated nearly 6.3 million head on feed Aug. 1 in Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska and Texas—up 16 per cent from a year earlier. Changes ranged from a one per cent decline for Iowa to a 39 per cent increase in Texas.

A previous report had indicated the number of cattle on feed in the same states July 1 at 17 per cent ahead of year earlier.

The estimates appeared to confirm earlier department forecasts that beef supplies for the last six months of the year will be up slightly.

Boundaries For ASCS Election Set

SHOSHONE — Mack W. Nelson, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, today designated the boundaries of the community within the county where elections of ASCS community committees will be held on Sept. 18.

The elections will be held by which ballots must be post-marked or personally delivered by voters to the County ASCS office.

Boundaries of each community in the county have been set as follows:

Richfield Community, those persons served or who own property served by the Richfield postoffice and including those farms in Township 25-Range 16 ERM served by the Shoshone postoffice.

Shoshone community is designated as those persons served by the Shoshone postoffice and persons served or own property served by Route 1, Gooding within the confines of Lincoln County; Route 1, Jerome, within the confines of Lincoln County; Star Route, Richfield, and including those persons living in Sections 7, 17 and 20 of Township 65-Range 18 ERM served by Louis 1, Dietrich.

Dietrich community, includes those persons served or who own property served by the Dietrich postoffice excepting those persons living in Sections 7, 17 and 20 of Township 65, Range 18 ERM.

Ritman community is designated as those persons served or who own property served by Route 1, Paul, within the confines of Lincoln County.

The chairman explained that petitions signed by six or more eligible voters nominating persons for membership on the community committee will be received at the ASCS office any time before Aug. 25, 1969.

4-H'ers Discuss Judging Contest

Members of the Happy-Go-Lucky 4-H Club discussed judging during a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Britt, leader.

Judging books also were discussed by the members. Conducting this discussion was Beth Britt, Mrs. Britt discussed buying and caring of blouses, slacks and shorts. Care of the hair and good grooming also was discussed.

Demonstrations were given by Karen Roberts on altering a pattern, Kathy Gress on putting a pattern on straight grain, Rae Whitcomb on undergarments, and Diane Schrank, putting in a zipper.

Three Named To FHA Committee

Three Twin Falls County residents have been named to the Twin Falls Committee, Farmers Home Administration.

Jack L. Allen, Twin Falls County supervisor for FHA, said Everett Andrews, Filer; Gail S. Wright, Buhl; and Norman G. Mason, Kimberly, were appointed to the committee.

Mr. Allen said the committee determines the eligibility of the applicants for FHA loans.

Shoshone Man To Attend Meet.

SHOSHONE — Elmer Smith, Shoshone, will attend the Grand Cooperative Wholesale's board of directors meeting on Sept. 2 at Spokane.

He represents District 12, which includes Grand, Supply Stores in Caldwell and Wendell as well as Ida-Best and Idaho Grande Wholesale.

Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON — A bill has been introduced in Congress which would increase from 100 to 640 acres the amount of land in reclamation projects in one ownership eligible for interest-free financing.

The proposed law is designed to do away with the acreage limitation that impedes businesslike farming operations and the subsequent higher costs of agricultural products.

The chairman explained that petitions signed by six or more eligible voters nominating persons for membership on the community committee will be received at the ASCS office any time before Aug. 25, 1969.

Economist Sees Drop In '69 Idaho Crop Production

BOISE — Crop production in Idaho this year may be less than in 1968, the August edition of "Economic Facts for Idaho Agriculture" predicted today. Quentin Banks, marketing information economist of the University of Idaho extension service, said total harvested acreage is expected to be slightly less and yields of wheat and barley will be smaller.

The July summary of the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service indicated grain production will be down.

Potato acreage is larger than last year. Acreage of sugar beets and barley is also more than 1968. However, barley yields are estimated below last year. Potato estimates will be reported in September.

The economist said there are prospects for larger crops of some kinds of Idaho fruit, particularly apples. Range pasture conditions were better in July than at the same time a year ago.

The total U.S. crop acreage planned for harvest in 1969 is about two per cent less than in 1968. Crop prospects are about the same as last year so the final output is also expected to be down slightly.

Production prospects appear adequate, the report said, to meet livestock feed and market needs in most areas of Idaho. If some areas have less feed than required for expansion of the feeding industry, wheat is expected to be available at prices that will make it an attractive substitute.

Idaho cattle feeders had 18 per cent more cattle on feed July 1 than a year earlier. More cattle and calves were placed on feed during the second quarter than in a comparable period last year. Marketings were 12 per cent greater.

The report indicated there were more heavy cattle on feed in Idaho July 1 than last year.

SOUTH LAYS DOWN ON SURE LAYDOWN

Our old friend, the Unlucky Expert, had trapped us again. "What would you bid with the North hand after your partner's space opening is overcalled by four hearts?" he asked. We replied that we would go into a Blackwood routine with every intention of getting to six his disposal. He draws trumps, ruffs his five of hearts, cashes all the diamonds and plays ace and another club. West started with the doubling king-jack. If he wins the second club trick North will take a heart and South will take a heart and discard his last club from the other. If West discards a club on the third diamond of unblocks with his king, then South's 10 of clubs suddenly becomes a trick. Either way South makes his contract. Of course, this is a lucky fall of the cards. Divide clubs 4-3 of place two honors in the East hand and East and West can't make the slam.

Returning to the conversation, he replied, "Of course, it was laydown, but I was dummy. My partner didn't even bother to play the hand out. Instead he took a quick look at dummy, spread his hand and announced, 'Down one. Let me tell you—I never saw anyone accept as fast as our opponents did!'

The Green Thumb

By CHLOE ABRAHAM

THRIPS: WORST GLADIOLUS PEST: If your gladioli have nice spikes which fall to open flowers, blame it on thrips, a tiny pest, so small that 25 of them span an inch. Thrips damage the gladiolus by sucking the juices from the tissues.

Each female lays 200 eggs and these hatch into sap suckers which cause the tender spike to take on a speckled, browned and blasted appearance. The flowers do not open.

CONTROL: It's really simple. Spray the young growth with malathion, sevin or methoxychlor. DDT is the best thrip-killer we have, but we're joined the crowd by not recommending it any longer because of its great residual effect. Another reason we do not recommend DDT is that it often kills the natural enemies of red spider mite, causing this pest to build up.

This fall it's a good idea to treat your germs before you store them away. And next spring, as a precautionary measure, dip the bulbs in lysol, 4 tablespoons to three gallons of water, or one pint to 25 gallons of water. Soak for three hours and plant while wet. This treatment will NOT prevent thrips from attacking foliage so you'll have to treat new growth.

Thrips are more likely to be the cause of failure to have good glads than any other cause. Keep the foliage covered with your favorite insecticide and see the improvement.

HOUSE FLEAS NOT FROM PLANTS: Many have asked us if the tiny fleas that bite you around the ankles are from plants.

The answer: No! Fleas are plaguing homeowners as they return from vacation or camp. Many of these are brought in on clothes, people and animals. Often where a house is closed for a week or more, indoor temperatures build up rapidly and flea development is accelerated.

The newly emerged adults will be hungry and will bite you (especially around ankles) or your pets for a blood meal. In the biting process they release an irritant which makes you scratch the bite.

CONTROL: Vacuum the rugs

After a day or so, you can scrape the papery nest (or whatever it's made from) into a bag and burn. Never do this in the heat of the day, if you're highly allergic to stings, get your neighbor to do it for you.

ROSE FROM SEED: Does it pay to start roses from seed? Probably not, but it's a lot of fun. Breeding a new rose is a high speculative venture, and if you're lucky you might get one variety out of 10,000 worthy of introduction.

Some gardeners mix rose seeds with moist peat moss and place them inside a plastic bag. Seed should be refrigerated for one to three months for a special "ripening" period. An ordinary household refrigerator kept around 40 degrees or so works fine.

Take a look at the seed every two or three weeks, and if any show signs of germinating, put them in small pots, containing a mixture of sand, peat and loam, equal parts. Some gardeners plant seeds as soon as gathered, in small flats and keep them in a cold frame, and when spring rolls around the seed will germinate.

It takes some seed two or three years to germinate, so save the slow starters. Some seedlings of hybrid teas bloom readily after germination, but don't let the first blooms disappoint you. Those of mature plants are better and that's why you should allow them to bloom profusely before deciding.

SHOCKING ANGLE WORMS: A reader asks if her husband's trick of putting an electric cord in the yard to get fishing worms is bad for the lawn.

It may reduce the worm population temporarily, but since the earthworm is so plentiful it's doubtful if the amount of bait a fisherman extracts from the earth will do any harm.

In one year, earthworms can pass as much as 15 tons of dry earth per acre through their bodies. This aerates, drains, mixes soil, making earthworms so valuable.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. E. of Twin Falls: "I have an avocado tree which is now 3 1/2 feet high. I have been told it will grow outdoors and survive our winters. Is that true?"

No. Avocados are native to tropical America and would quickly winter kill. Diet-wise, the avocado is more closely allied to vegetables than they are to fruits. They are always eaten raw, either as salad or as an appetizer. They become bitter if cooked, and we haven't had any luck freezing them.

The best way to start a plant is from seed, or the "pit."

Set the pit in a pot of soil so that the top sticks out about 1/2 inch. Half of the upper seed should be exposed. Water with warm water, and do not keep the soil soggy wet. The first year, the plant will shoot up and get tall. Cut it back to half so new stems will form at the base.

Don't be afraid to trim the plant back for symmetry. It's tough and grows fast. Plant will not fruit indoors, and you'll be a genius if you get it to even bloom for you. The foliage is what you're after when you raise an avocado.

A. E. of Sun Valley: "Six weeks ago I purchased a fuchsia from a reputable local nursery. After transplanting it in a hanging basket, lined with damp moss, it looked good with the buds beginning to form. After a while, the ends of each branch began to wither. I water it every day in the plant-hold to grow, or is there something I'm ignoring?"

I think your problem is that you're overwatering it. Once a day is too much. If water builds up around the roots for just a short period the buds are apt to drop and withering of tips of ten set in. Give the plant full sunlight and do not give it so much watering. Fuchsias seldom form flower buds at temperatures above 65 degrees and that's why they do best in a cool, bright window. Flower bud drop is usually due to high temperature or poor light. This fall, instead of bringing the entire plant indoors, take cuttings of plants and root them in sand or plain tap water.

Six Heifers Entered In Beef Contest

Six local beef heifers have been entered in the Super Beef Contest, sponsored by the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, but it will be several days before the final results of the contest are made available.

The six animals were judged alive on the hoof when they were entered in the contest earlier this week at Independent Meat Co., Twin Falls. After they were judged live on the hoof they were slaughtered and the final retail cuts, the end result of the contest, will be made by the local Albertson's stores. Entering the six heifers, in order, judged by local feeders on the hoof, are an Angus heifer (the carcasses of the six heifers were evaluated by Boyd Gibson, area supervisor for the Federal Grading System. He discussed the carcasses with the producers.

Final results, retail cuts, will be compiled by Albertson's and it is hoped that the final results will be available by the time of the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, Sept. 3-6.

The purpose of the Super Beef Contest is for the feeders to recognize the better animals for feeding; for the cow-calf operator, the type of meat animals that will do the job; and the third factor is the benefit to the consumer.

TWO ADMITTED Raymond L. Jones, Jerome, and LaMont Smith, Heyburn, have been admitted to the Holstein-Friesian Association.

Was Jesus Christ A Hippie?

By REV. L. KINSOLVING

A current and fairly widespread tendency to portray Jesus Christ as a "flower child" or, at the other extreme, a violent revolutionary, indicates the truth of the maxim that in time of conflict, Christ is the first to suffer.

The flower children have discovered that many of the "straight" community can easily be pulled up tight with a reminder that Jesus, too, wore sandals, a beard and long hair.

Yet Jesus would have been regarded as radical indeed had he been shorn, shaven and unadorned (the most familiar footway of the day) or disdained the attire and appearance of any Nazarene business man.

The Gospel record that Jesus in fact a small business man (assistant in his father's proprietor of a carpentry firm—Mark 6:3) may prove uncomfortable to despisers of the "Establishment." But the only spot touch of his life as a business man but, after entering the ministry (at about age 30—Luke 3:23), he specialized in preaching in public places almost all of which, either directly or indirectly, dealt with money.

The Gospels also provide illustrations that, despite his having radical views on what he believed outmoded Sabbath and dietary regulations, he could hardly be considered a dropout or a thorough anti-establishmentarian.

—After healing one leper (Matthew 8:4) he adhered to contemporary health laws by telling the leper to go show himself to the priest—a requirement for release from leperous quarantine.

—He "Render unto Caesar" the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's. (This was a brilliant parody of an apparent attempt either to recall him to the movement, or to have him indicted. While he avoided defining just what does belong to Caesar, his calling a tax collector to be one of the Apostles (Matthew 9:9) indicates that he was hardly an anarchist.)

—As for the established priest-hood, he did not campaign for its abolition, even though he frequently and heatedly disagreed with some of its members. And he had been completely opposed to the established religion of his time (rather than striving for its reformation), he would hardly have cared enough about Jerusalem's Temple to risk his life by driving out the dishonest money changers (Matt. 21:13; Mark 11:17; Luke 19:45; John 2:16).

—If, as some contemporary church critics imply, Jesus was so opposed to organized religion that he would have abandoned religion, it is doubtful indeed that he would have made a custom of going into the Synagogue on the Sabbath (Luke 4:16). Nor would he have selected leaders of this movement (whom he devoted his entire ministry to training)—have thought of himself as a comprehensive health planning Wednesday in Boise. Mrs. Oliver is a member of the committee and Dr. Fox has been asked to attend the program.

In announcing the meeting, Fred O. Graeber, M.D., chairman, stated that the committee would be making recommendations to be made to the Advisory Council for action. Recommendations will cover education, program, financing, recruitment and continuing education of health manpower.

positive extreme of Jesus the pacifist hippie.

There is currently being widely circulated a poster with drawing of a Jesus who looks like a combination of the pirate Blackbeard and an ulcerous Karl Marx.

"I WANT peace, for sedition, criminal anarchy, violence and conspiring to overthrow the established government," proclaims the poster.

This poster also reports that Jesus "dresses poorly" (The Romans thought enough of his clothing to cast lots for it) and associates with bums. "While he lived among the poor—few of whom, like bums, were poor by choice—Jesus was equally congenial with such wealthy people as Joseph of Arimathea, Zacchaeus and Nicodemus. None of these were 'told to sell all they had and give to the poor,' as the poster tells a rich young ruler whom he perceived was unduly devoted to wealth (Luke 18:23).

In contrast to this far-fetched attempt to portray Jesus as a callous Billy The Kid, there is the initial verdict of Pontius Pilate: "Why (crucify him), what evil hath he done?"

—The innocent of the blood of this just man" (Matt. 27:24).

However violent Jesus may have been in cleansing the Temple, he is most poignantly and familiarly remembered on a cross.

And something of the peril of attempting to modernize Jesus is seen in the experience of the devoutly conservative family who reproached their son for smoking by asking:

"Can you imagine Jesus Christ with a cigarette in his mouth?"

"No," replied the youth. "Can you imagine him with a toothbrush?"

Hearing Set Sept. 2 On Tax Assessment Roll In Burley

BURLEY — A hearing on the assessment roll for Local Improvement District No. 15 will be held Sept. 2, according to a resolution passed by Burley City Councilmen.

The next city council meeting will be Sept. 2, due to their regular meeting falling on Labor Day.

Clarence Conrad, president of the Burley Kiwanis Club, met with the councilmen in regard to the park near the east entrance of Burley. Over a year ago the agreement between the city council and the Burley Kiwanis Club was "that the club would prepare and see the ground and the city would take care and maintain the park."

Mr. Conrad reported the club has spent $168 on grass seed and other things, but "we could never get the city to water the seeded grass."

"Now that the park has grown up with weeds, and the blame seems to be falling on the Kiwanis Club without our board of directors' consent," stated Conrad. "We as a club did our part in fulfilling our agreement but the city failed to water the park," he added.

The councilmen replied that they employ a person to water the park in an advisory capacity. Further discussion will be held on the matter and the park problem was tabled.

The councilmen also discussed the possible inclusion of plastic pipe in the city's building code. No action was taken.

The question of two speed limits on Park Avenue was discussed. Most of the councilmen indicated they were in favor of one speed limit, with better signage and highway markers.

Chief of Police, George Warrell was instructed to investigate the situation and make a recommendation to the council. Jack Keen, city recreation director, was directed to close the swimming pool at his discretion.

Six-Run First Carries Magic Valley To 10-4 Decision Over Billings

A six-run first inning, started on Rex Clark's three-run homer, propelled the Magic Valley Cougars past Billings last Thursday night. The teams met in single games at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and the Cougars play host to Great Falls in a pair of doubleheaders Sunday and Monday nights to wrap up the season.

Although the Cougars bounced into a 6-0 lead, they didn't have the game in hand until they overthrew error presented them with two runs in the fifth inning. That moved them out of Billings' reach. The victory went to the third reliever, new comer Jim Myrah, who was deemed most effective in relief. The springboard to the big first-inning started when Rowland Houston appeared caught in a run-down between third and home. But the error sent him to Lavelle Blanks walked and scored on Rick Atkinson's double. After Tom Heierle walked, Cal Kelly singled in Atkinson and Clark followed with his homer.

Billings got on the scoreboard in the second when Bob Coluccio walked and scored on two ground outs. Two innings later, Pedro Garcia and Coluccio sandwiched hits around a walk to Gary Mertz and ground outs delivered two more. In the fifth, Phil Zahn carried home the final Billings run when he lived on a dropped third strike, scored and came in on Garcia's second double.

Rivers Given Loop All-Star Position

Magic Valley's John Rivers was the only Cougboy to be named to the Pioneer League all-star team released Thursday by league President Ben Jewell, while versatile Rich Zimhiger of Salt Lake City was the only unanimous choice.

In a surprise selection, Pedro Garcia of Billings was given the second base nod over Magic Valley's Lavelle Blanks. The loop leader in hits, doubles, and runs-batted-in, Blanks, who also plays shortstop, missed out on that position to league batting leader Bruce McCull of Great Falls.

The speedy Rivers, who has been in a slump for several weeks, is listed in the outfield by Phil Zahn of Billings, fine defensive outfielder, and Royce Stillman, Ogden Dodger center fielder. Horace Speed, a 19-year-old slugger from Falls, was picked as a utility outfielder.

Changes Wanted In NCAA Recruiting

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — The 18-member policy-making council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Thursday recommended some curbs on the winning of a dining of prospective college athletes that would substantially change college recruiting practices.

The council advocated that expense-paid visits to campuses by prospective athletes and visits by college representatives to the athletes' in their homes be limited to two each.

Other restrictions would bar recruitment of athletes before they reach their senior year in high school and would prohibit any contact of the prospectives on high school playing fields.

"I'm glad I've got that first game behind me," said the Buffaloes' coach John Rauch, a coach who is noted for making it tough on rivals from the AFL.

Chicago (2-1) is favored over Houston (1-3) as the Bears attempt to widen its margin over AFL clubs. NFL teams carry a 11-4 advantage into this weekend's interleague battles.

St. Louis (4-0) and Minnesota carry identical 2-0 records into their battle at Memphis. In two Monday night games, the New York Jets go to Oakland to battle the Raiders, whom they beat for the AFL championship in their last match, and Boston and Detroit clash at Montreal.

accepted "a financial aid tender." The recommendations will be submitted for final action at the NCAA's convention Jan. 12-14 in Washington, D.C. The NCAA's membership includes 650 of the nation's major colleges and universities and as such, it is the dominating voice in the regulation of inter-collegiate athletics. In other business, a committee was set up to explore methods to restrict the influx of foreign students to American colleges on hockey scholarships. An NCAA spokesman said, "Americans dominate college hockey teams now. The NCAA is trying to develop athletes for American competition in Olympic ice hockey and the influx of Canadians is hindering that goal." The council will meet for a second day here Friday to discuss other possible changes in the inter-collegiate athletic rules.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The drivers seat in the Pioneer League pennant race. Ogdan's Dodgers went three and one-half games up on the Salt Lake City Bees here Thursday night by exploding for four runs in the eighth inning to grab a 6-3 victory. The win put the Dodgers in the bottom of the third inning when Eddy Rundle scored on an error at first base on a Grant-Steer's single. The Bees added another solo run in the sixth inning on a Salt Lake opened the scoring single by Rich Longhurst.
