

Council Says Goodbye To Two "Fine" Citizens; Picks Acting Manager

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Editor

Members of the Twin Falls city council Monday night bid an official goodbye to two of the area's "finest citizens." One was Vernon Riddle, former city councilman, chairman of the city's planning commission and a civic worker who died that morning. The other was Herb Derrick, city manager who submitted his resignation to accept the executive position as planning director for the Department of Commerce and Development.

And they named Jean Milar, city engineer, to serve as acting city manager effective October 1. The three actions were among those highlighting the session which ran for nearly three hours and saw an expected routine session turn into one in which many matters of present and future importance were considered and reserved for future consideration.

(1) Turned down the "direct" application of Lyman Sperry to construct a Kentucky Fried Chicken outlet in the area bounded by Shoshone St. East, Eleventh Avenue East, B. U. Lakes Blvd., and an alley. Possibility of a motel was also seen at that section but not formed. An impassioned plea for rezoning was made by George Haney on behalf of Mr. Sperry, but a motion by Commissioner Frank Feldman that Lots 1, 2 and 3 be rezoned failed for lack of a second as did one by Commissioner Eugene Stacey that all four lots in the block be rezoned. After a five-minute recess commissioner approved the rezoning of a second as did one by Commissioner Eugene Stacey that all four lots in the block be rezoned. After a five-minute recess commissioner approved the rezoning of a second as did one by Commissioner Eugene Stacey that all four lots in the block be rezoned. After a five-minute recess commissioner approved the rezoning of a second as did one by Commissioner Eugene Stacey that all four lots in the block be rezoned.

It appeared at a future meeting. And during last night's session Commissioner John Angerbauer, who lives near the projected "Kentucky Fried" site, spoke against the proposal in that location. During the discussion, Mr. Haney said that if the new unit was not constructed at the first choice site it might go up on Blue Lakes North near the Blue Lakes Circle. But when it was all over Monday night there was an indication that Mr. Sperry might wait out the results of the contemplated ordinance.

(2) Heard Chief of Police Frank Barnett say that the radar equipment is working fine "when we are able to use it." He indicated that it would be used more in the future. He advocated an alley in the rear of units in the rear of the present Troy-National Laundry building near the postoffice. (3) Also heard Chief Barnett say that the Addison Avenue West drainage situation is "no much better and that a change for the better had been noted even before school starts. He said that there is really no change in the attitude of potential violators, but that much of the improvement can be charged to businessmen who have cooperated by not permitting loitering on their property. (4) Put on first reading the proposed ordinance which would advocate an alley in the rear of units in the rear of the present Troy-National Laundry building near the postoffice. (5) Heard Mrs. Beverly Hughes, a five-year resident and Bill Powell, owner, plans to build another structure on adjoining property which would sandwich the present alley between the two structures. Along this line the councilmen heard Fred Sander, Icaison. She was commended for her postmaster, say the department he "concerned" on possible closing of the alley which was a real puzzle for the rear of the final planning board. (6) Named Jack Muldoon to fill a vacancy on the city planning and zoning commission. (7) Approved license applications, building permits and monthly departmental reports. (8) Authorized Mr. Derrick to call for bids for motor equipment for various departments as provided for in the budget. Commissioners present, in addition to Mr. Stacey, Mr. Feldman and Mr. Angerbauer, were George Bennett and Mayor Eugene Kroll. Commissioners Frank Cook and Robert Warberg were absent.

Hospital Will Sell Surplus At Auction

What do you do with a 1000 style bed pan washer, an early model eye pioneer sick bed or a late head-west style desk? You sell.

That's what the Maple Valley Memorial Hospital Board decided to do Monday night at its monthly meeting.

Twin Falls County commissioners attended and said they planned to sell some surplus items in the courthouse building. Since the old hospital building is to be vacated by Oct. 1, hospital officials are concerned about some of the old relics and equipment in it.

"Let's try an antique sale," board member Joe Savago said, Commissioner William (Bill) Chaney said, "Don't laugh, there's a market."

Commission Chairman Herb Loughmiller added, "I'd like to see you get rid of some of that stuff. We were going to haul it to the dump, but changed our minds and decided to sell it."

"We got $1,000," Mr. Chaney said.

There was no further discussion on the matter until they were 20 pay days a year instead of paying twice a month.

Mr. Chaney said, "Bill," Mr. Graves said, "The committee are set up that way. We'll change the committee." Mr. Chaney said, "But he added, 'It costs us the same each year no matter how we see HOSPITAL, Pg. 2, Col. 1

T. F. Tax Levy Drops Slightly

35,000 More GIs To Return

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced today plans for withdrawal of an additional 35,000 American troops from Vietnam by Dec. 15.

This will raise to 60,000 the total number of GI withdrawals which is expected to begin in the first installment, completed Aug. 31.

"The withdrawal of 60,000 troops is a significant step," the President said, referring to the original 20,000 called for in the first installment, completed Aug. 31.

The authorized Vietnam troop ceiling at the start of this administration was 549,500. "I have decided to reduce the authorized troop ceiling in Vietnam to 484,000 by Dec. 15," the President said in a statement. He explained that under this new ceiling, "a minimum of 60,000 troops will have been withdrawn from Vietnam."

The new figure of 35,000 men to be pulled out—as well as the date for completion of the withdrawal—were different from the number and date mentioned Monday in Saigon by South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ky said 40,500 more Americans would be pulled out by the end of November.

The White House said the total reduction in authorized troop strength by Dec. 15 would reach 60,000 units, but within the authorized ceiling all units are shown at 100 per cent strength.

In actuality, most units are slightly below full strength. The total reduction normally is less than the authorized ceiling by one or two per cent.

"It is a significant step," the President said, "while the figure was different, the new reduction of 35,000 as announced by the President represented little or no conflict with the 40,500 figure mentioned by Ky. Ky apparently was talking in terms of units at 100 per cent strength."

Nixon took the occasion to urge Hanoi again to undertake negotiations truly leading to cessation of hostilities.

Property Values Are Up

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

Tax levies for 1969 in Twin Falls county approved Monday afternoon by the Board of County Commissioners, will give the taxpayer something of a break and at the same time raise just a shade, four per cent, in most cases, more revenue than a year ago.

County Auditor Harold Labcocker in releasing the levies, said they are approved under House Bill 304 which limits taxing agencies in the amount of levies they can set—adding agencies cooperated fully.

The limitations of the bill, he said, are aimed at giving the taxpayer a certain amount of protection in the face of increased assessed valuation, higher tax ratios and rising government costs.

All levies certified this year are down slightly because of higher assessed valuation and the climb in ratio of assessment per acre of assessed value.

Total assessed valuation in the county this year has climbed to $56,263,542, or just over $2 million more than the figure of 1968, $54,841,694.

Under House Bill 304, now in effect, levies are certified in dollars and cents and are restricted to a maximum of one and a half per cent more revenue than the agency received in 1968. The exception in Twin Falls County is the city of Twin Falls, which received special Idaho Tax Commission authorization to bring in 7.8 per cent more revenue in 1969.

General county levies this year are set at $1,688.77 on each $100 of assessed valuation. This compares to $1.691 a year ago. For a taxpayer living in Twin Falls city and school district, the 1969 levy of $12.25 per $100 of assessed property value. Last year the same taxpayer paid $12.80 per $100.

Some levies are up slightly such as the county fair which was $2.66 last year and will be $2.67 in the coming year. On the other hand, the airport levy was $2.03 a year ago and will be $2.01 this year.

Commissioners reported that levies and indigent care had been set.

Police Chief Argues Case As Tribunal Convenes

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

With the hallful jolly juggling of the scales, Chief of Police Clay Spear entered first and Justice Alan Shepard coming in last.

Chief Justice Joseph McArthur made a few remarks before ordering the start of the Twin Falls term of court.

"We wish to thank all the people of Twin Falls and Magic Valley for their hospitality. We are indeed grateful to be here today."

With that, he nodded to Sparky Turner's secretary. She spoke to the blind attorney for just a moment, then the stood and presented the case for his client, Chief Barnett.

On March 21, 1968, Chief Barnett was a witness in Probate Court. He was witness for the defense.

The case was a preliminary hearing, involving two former police officers accused of manslaughter in the case and admitted to make a narcotics arrest.

Chief Barnett had written notes on the case and admitted in court that he had looked at those notes about 10 days before appearing in court. He had not taken them with him but did refer to them as a witness.

He was asked to produce the notes by defense counsel, Chief Barnett refused. Judge Reed then ordered him to produce the notes and Chief Barnett said he was his past experience that he did not have to produce the notes. He was then charged with contempt of court.

The matter was appealed to District Court and later to the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Turner representing Mr. Barnett before the High Court said, "It is appropriate that you are here for the first time before this court as a witness precedent." He then reviewed the background of the case, talking for 40 minutes without once talking with his secretary to refresh his memory.

"To force the production of notes in circumstances like this could hurt law enforcement," Mr. Turner said.

He contended Judge Reed did not have authority to order the production of the notes. "Where an order is invalid there is no contempt," Mr. Turner said. He emphasized Judge Reed did not have the power to make the order (to produce the notes).

Dan Mehl, presenting Judge Reed's case, talked 35 minutes. Each attorney is allowed 45 minutes with the High Court. Barnett's attorney being allowed 10 more minutes after both sides have been heard.

Mrs. Turner representing Mr. Barnett before the High Court said, "It is a dangerous trend in society when people become a law unto themselves—especially police officers, who are bound to uphold the law."

He said it is the right of a judge to have the contempt of court fees "to get order and to allow any trial to go on."

As expected, the justices took the matter under advisement, took a recess, then came back to hear another case before lunch.

Decisions on each of the cases will not be reached for some time, maybe up to three months.

The second case was Riley and Alva Dixon against William II, and Elton Morse.

It involves the sale of farm land to Mr. and Mrs. Morse in 1905.

The appellants contended the contract on the sale was not for the land but for use in title and that a reference to 100 acres was descriptive. The respondents contended the sale was a specific number of acres and they contended they were entitled to a diminution of the sales price.

In the afternoon, the High Court heard the case of William G. Shell against Standard Oil Co. of California and Fireman's Fidelity Insurance Co.

Mr. Shell of Twin Falls filed for a claim of injury on workmen's compensation. The claim was denied. After some time, while trying to get the claim taken care of, the matter was filed with the Industrial Accident Board. It was then determined that the claim should be dismissed because of the statute of limitations. The case was then appealed to the High Court.

Before the court, the claimants' attorneys requested the claim not be barred by the statute of limitations.

The defense claims the petition for a hearing was not filed within one year from the date of filing of the claim.

Today, the court heard Nevada Santos Telephone and Telegraph Co. against James J. and James Kelly. It is a 10 to 10 against Donald Ballard, and Allan Willis against Margaret Willis.

Wednesday, at about 10:30 a.m., the court will hear the case of Jack Paulson against the Mindoko County School District concerning the payment of fees for textbooks and transcripts.

Samuelson Claims Victory In Debate Over White Clouds

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho Gov. Don Samuelson claimed a victory in his battle with the U.S. Forest Service over a proposed high-altitude mine in White Clouds wilderness area and said the project is virtually assured.

The governor made the claim Monday as he took his combination hard sell and listening tour into northern Idaho with stops in Bowers Ferry and Sandpoint. He was scheduled to return to Boise Wednesday after a similar session in Wallace.

Accredited with color pictures as he talked, Samuelson defended his support of the mining project. He said plans for 85 percent of the road into the mining area have been approved and approval of the remaining design is expected soon.

It was a forest service objection to a road into the area which held up the project. American Smelting and Refining Co. spent two years doing exploratory drilling in the area. Samuelson said the molybdenum deposit is the "largest known in the world and worth more than a billion dollars."

He said about 90 percent of the revenue from the mine would remain in Idaho in the form of salaries to between 350 and 500 workers.

Some 50 Bonner County residents and city and county officials attended the three-hour meeting. Samuelson was accompanied by state highway, public assistance, land, health and law enforcement officials.

Reporting on other state problems and projects the governor said the administration is studying ways to grant salary increases.

He said a meeting has been set up within the next two weeks on what can be done to increase state salaries.

The governor also said he is planning a massive program to attract new industries to the state modeled after the highly successful plan used in Ohio.

Widening the state's tax base by bringing in new industry has been a theme of Samuelson's state-wide tour. The meeting at Sandpoint was his seventh county stop and he said he plans to visit 37 more within the next six months.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD Michael E. Goodson is being comforted by his mother here after he was hit by a car near his home Monday evening. He is in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and was admitted for observation. He suffered only apparent scrapes and bruises, it was reported. Police and sheriff's officers were called to the scene, South Park Avenue West and Gulch Lane, at 5:34 p.m. It was reported a car driven by Mrs. Lillian Shafer, 47, Filer, struck the child. Officers said Mrs. Shafer tried to swerve, hit the boy, then her car struck a telephone pole. She was not hurt, it was reported. The boy's mother, Mrs. Sharon B. Fitch, told the boy here, "Don't cry honey. You won't have to go to school tomorrow."

Student Load Grows In Idaho Colleges

BOISE (UPI) — Enrollments in Idaho's colleges and universities have increased dramatically over the 1968-69 school year, according to a statement made Monday by the executive director of the Idaho State Board of Education.

According to Kline, some 6,778 students have enrolled at Boise State College. Of this number, 3,221 are first-time entering students. In addition, over 340 persons are taking vocational-technical courses at BSC.

North Idaho Junior College, Coeur d'Alene, also has enrolled the largest classes in its history, 1,000. Some 50 forestry students will attend professional classes at the north Idaho institution.

Nearby 6,000 students enrolled at the University of Idaho as of Thursday, Sept. 11. That does not include those people who are expected to enroll in the national reactor test center program at Arco, those who are expected to enroll in special classes at Moscow, nor those special students whose programs prevent them from registering when incoming students complete the process.

At Pocatello, Idaho State University has enrolled in excess of 6,100 students at the close of business Monday. Included in this figure are incomplete returns for vocational-technical programs, public service programs for adult basic education, and other non-credit academic operations.

The College of Southern Idaho (junior college) reported a total of 235 vocational enrollees, 317 special students, and 1,132 academic students for a grand total of 1,687. This total is expected to increase as late registrants continue to request courses.

Petersen was named to the post June 15 after several outbreaks of sniping, firebombing and other violence. His appointment was criticized by some Black leaders in the community of 8,500, who said Black applicants were not considered.

When the people of the community, black and white, say they are going to arm themselves and take the law into their own hands, I as a professional policeman, cannot continue," Petersen said Monday.

New Bomber May Cost U.S. $15 Billion To Develop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — designed to replace the B52 at the end of the next decade, at $12 billion. But he said that estimate did not include the additional costs of wages and goods as a result of inflation.

"I would think it would be more than that," he said. "It might be 20 to 25 per cent more."

Opponents of the bomber said it would cost even more than Stennis estimated. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., sponsor of an amendment to cut the administration request for research and development funds from $100 million to $25 million, said it would be "on the order of $25 billion."

Stennis contended the bomber, in strategic terms, would be "a hedge against a breakthrough by a possible adversary against our missiles."

As for its conventional uses, Stennis noted the B52 has been a key weapon in the Vietnam War, adding that "we must need them or we wouldn't be using them so much."

School Funds Guaranteed By New Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An emergency bill to make loans available to about 200,000 financially desperate college students won a lopsided victory in the House Monday. The 2 to 60 vote was a defeat for backers of campus anti-rioting laws.

The measure authorizes the government to increase the current 7 per cent interest ceiling on the guaranteed student loan program by as much as 3 per cent. The added interest is designed to make the student loan program attractive to bankers who have said they need at least 8.5 per cent interest to break even on the loan program.

The government currently guarantees the loans by paying the 7 per cent interest for students whose families earn less than $15,000 a year. It pays the interest as long as the student is in college.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Monday issued guidelines for President Nixon's order cutting back federal construction projects. They exempted six categories of construction from the 75 per cent reduction.

Announcing the guidelines, Budget Director Robert P. Mayo said the President's order, announced Sept. 5, would have an effect "for an indefinite period of time."

The exemptions included: Overseas construction covering the purchase of local labor and materials and the purchase of U.S. labor and materials for "urgently required in-country operations in Vietnam."

Military Solution Gets High Backing

WASHINGTON — The quiet but rising pressure by the generals for a military instead of political solution to the Vietnam war was dramatically evident in a recent private luncheon on Capitol Hill.

Westmoreland was punctiliously careful to say nothing critical of President Nixon and the Nixon plan to withdraw U.S. combat troops as fast as they can be replaced by South Vietnamese.

Westmoreland's grim words could not be described as any veiled signal for a revolt of the generals. But they were tangible evidence of the rearguard action descending on the U.S. troops remaining after most of the combat troops have been withdrawn.

Westmoreland was conjuring up a giant Dien Bien Phu—a reference to the catastrophic French defeat by Ho Chi Minh in 1954.

and Defense Departments over the level of North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam, some military officers in the Pentagon secretly lobbied the press. Their message: that the State Department did not know what it was talking about in claiming a major reduction in infiltration.

Rail Situation

The national trend of railroads to try to rid themselves of the financial burden of passenger service continues, but there are some isolated reasons for optimism.

The Penn Central reports that its Metroliners between New York and Washington have carried a quarter million passengers in their first six months of operation.

The Illinois Central is offering five-day, go-any-day tours to New Orleans from Chicago on its first overnight Panama Limited.

Another change in attitude toward train discontinuance could be studied by railroads as an alternative to abandonment of passenger trains.

Involved are the Cascade between San Francisco and Portland, the City of San Francisco between San Francisco and Ogden, and the Sunset between Los Angeles and New Orleans.

Mass transit is already a formidable problem, one that will become critical in the coming years. The increase in population, problems of air pollution, automobile traffic and the gobbling up of the countryside by highways will necessitate a revival of rail passenger transportation, experts believe.

This will mean millions of miles of new welded track, research and development of new rolling stock and improvements in terminal facilities and ticket handling.

It is imperative that existing facilities be allowed to deteriorate no further. Building a rail passenger service from scratch would be a formidable undertaking.

Anybody Home?

This partially explains the long delay in the President's announcement of a second troop pullback, following the first withdrawal of 25,000 troops announced on June 8.

Moreover, in making the decision to delay that second announcement the President was buying time out of political factors having nothing at all to do with Vietnam.

But despite the euphoria of Apollo, the cost of the long delay has been severe. It has damaged Mr. Nixon's credibility and has revealed the fundamental split between his civilian advisers and his military advisers.

It isn't generally known, for example, that during the political spat between the State and Defense Departments over the level of North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam, some military officers in the Pentagon secretly lobbied the press.

Chances are that Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, a 68-year-old veteran of the Republican wars and a former national chairman of the party, will ride the escalator from minority whip to minority leader to succeed Dirksen.

On Monday morning, Senate office building corridors were buzzing with conservative talk about either Roman Huska of Nebraska or Gordon Allott of Colorado (chairman of the Republican Policy Committee) to take on liberal Scott.

Within 24 hours of the death of Everett McKinley Dirksen, covert but intense lobbying had generated heavy support for a surprise long-shot possibility to succeed him.

Hepatitis

(First in a series of three articles)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have just been in the hospital for five weeks and in bed at home for four more because of hepatitis.

Since having it myself, I have found many others who have had it but cannot find any literature about it.

Can hepatitis come back? When is one safe or sure of not having a relapse?—Mrs. H. B.

It's true that there isn't much reading matter on hepatitis—except technical literature, of which there is much. Yet hepatitis is both serious and prevalent.

The explanation perhaps is that there isn't any startling method of either preventing or curing it.

The common form of hepatitis is infectious hepatitis. (By the way, "hepatitis" means "inflamed liver.")

Infectious hepatitis is the result of a particular virus which attacks the liver, just as, for example, other viruses attack the nose and throat, as in colds, or the urinary tract, as in gonorrhea, or whatever.

The hepatitis virus is transmitted mostly by contaminated foods or water; it probably is also transmitted from person to person, too, but the frequency of this is not established.

A good many people still call hepatitis "yellow jaundice." Actually jaundice is a symptom, not a disease.

does take some lives, usually when the patient has poor robust health to start with, or have already suffered liver damage from other causes, or do not get adequate care, or don't take proper precautions against relapses.

Treatment I'll discuss tomorrow; how to avoid hepatitis the following day.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A couple of toenails have come off my toes completely. It seems I can't pull them off without pain or bleeding. What would cause this?—Mrs. B.C.

This can result from psoriasis of the nail or other skin disorders. Other possibilities are faulty circulation and low thyroid activity. Sometimes it is a familial defect in skin or nail structure.

Note to Mrs. W.L.M.: Those night sweats very often are traced to some chronic infection, and I would suggest that you have a've your doctor make a search, including a chest X-ray.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It is okay to give a child nine months old soft drinks, such as pop?—Mrs. B. P.

I'm opposed to it, not that the baby will be directly harmed by it, but it contains nothing but sweetened flour, instead of satisfying the baby's appetite with that, better to give foods or liquids that will help build a strong body.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'd like to start developing a "sweet tooth" in a child.

Time Out For Lunch

This little picture is proof positive that all students at the O'Leary Junior High School in Twin Falls don't take advantage of the fine hot lunch program.

It shows the steps of the Our Savior Lutheran Church, about a block from the school and toward the downtown section on Second Street North. It was snapped this late afternoon following the luncheon break.

number-plant workers 2 to 1. One work management official estimates that only 5 per cent of office personnel is subject to systematic review of work output, compared to 80 to 85 per cent of production workers.

That doesn't necessarily mean the white collar worker is a goof-off. But it indicates his work may be poorly organized, with resultant inefficiencies.

Bringing the time study and motion study men out of the plant into the front office may be the next step in industrial progress.

Research Might Have Worked

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The tragedy of Hurricane Camille is the maybe — just maybe — the loss of life and property did not have to be as bad as it was if more funds had been spent on some highly profitable areas of space and other weather-related research these past few years.

We are talking now of a few million dollars a year — not billions.

It is already clear that the payoff would have been great in everyday savings to farmers, to industry, to commerce, shipping and to the ordinary citizen.

The saving-in-hurricane damage would have been an extra bonus. It is fashionable these days to be suspicious of dollars spent on space and physical research as somewhat frivolous when other needs are so great.

In the past several years, Congress and some federal agencies have cut at research money so vigorously that for the past year, for example, the growth in Great National product, in real dollars less was expended by the U.S. government on a wide range of fundamental research projects than was spent a few years back.

There are three areas in which this failure to spend a little more may have cost us heavily in lives and dollars in the Camille devastation and will cost us more in other natural disasters to come.

But advanced work is being done in several other countries as well — but not enough, considering the gold mine it can be.

The use of foreign funds the United States has accumulated abroad through the aid programs these funds are not convertible into dollars.

Highly skilled scientists in a number of countries overseas are available at costs significantly lower than are men of comparable ability in the United States.

Finally, and most significantly, the funding of research on weather control in U.S. science laboratories has not been as great as the potential payoff, in the saving in lives, crops, homes, buildings and business and transportation waste would warrant.

Yet, with all this, one point is now generally recognized by those concerned with Camille: The progress already made in space enabled earlier-than-usual warnings in advance of the hurricane.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: These women who complain that their husbands get very dirty in their work and are often too tired or too lazy to take a bath, can take a lesson from me and my wife.

I am a farmer and often get very grimy and sweaty but my wife has never gone to bed with a smelly husband.

Our secret? We always climb into the tub together. We have done this since shortly after we were married.

It has become such a habit with us that we wait for each other to take our bath. Abby and her husband will climb in together, they can bathe together. Believe me, it makes for a clean and happy marriage in more ways than one.

A FARMER, VICTORIA, TEX.

DEAR FARMER—Shall we say, "The couple that bathes together stays together?"

DEAR ABBY: I have a baby, five months old. I have a sister-in-law who has a baby seven months old. She comes to visit me VERY OFTEN — like four or five days a week.

My problem is she NEVER brings any diapers with her. She's always borrowing mine. Abby, she has a washing-machine and I don't. I have to go clear across town to my mother's to wash. I use a whitener and a softener and my sister-in-law doesn't. And when she returns the diapers she borrowed she brings me HERS instead of MINE, and it takes me forever to get them white again.

I have told her a dozen times to bring her own diapers, but she always "forgets." Can you help me?

FED UP

DEAR FED: Take your diapers, whitener and softener and go to your sister-in-law's and wash her LESSON-diapers. You may have to give her three or four lessons, but you'll get your diapers under control and you'll both benefit.

DEAR ABBY: Would you tell your hostesses that while you were a guest in her home someone got into your purse which was in the guest bedroom and stole your money?

I wouldn't want the hostess to feel that she had to make good my loss. Thank you.

NO NAME OR CITY

DEAR NO NAME: Yes, I would tell my hostess.

DEAR ABBY: In response to HOIST MECHANISM FOR raising the fish trap at Hells Canyon Dam so the fish can be put into tank trucks for transportation elsewhere is shown in this picture.

HERE IS a downward glance on the floating fish trap located on the downstream side of Hells Canyon Dam. The fish end up in the trap after passing through a V-entrance. The migrating fish sense the current to find their way around. This setup is used in lieu of a fish ladder because of the height of the dam and it is proving successful. Another trap, with a false weir, is also employed.

Idaho Sport Fishing Benefits Through Facilities Provided In Hells Canyon

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

HELLS CANYON DAM — There's a lot of talk around these parts as the Idaho Power Co. continues established efforts to maintain flow of migrating fish through this area and introduce them into other areas.

Perhaps the most unique setup is the specially constructed fish trap which is on the downstream side of Hells Canyon Dam. This costly structure enables the power company to capture the migrating fish in the trap then by means of a heavy duty hoist mechanism, put them in transport trucks so that their life can continue and their habits provide sport fishing for Idahoans.

The migrating fish — mainly Steelhead and Chinook Salmon — are attracted to the trap by river current. They swim through a series of weirs or V-openings and into the trap. Then they cannot get out and when enough fish are with them they are raised to a high level for landing in the tank trucks. The system is used instead of a fish ladder because of the dam height. And without a current to follow the fish are lost so there is no use dumping them in the water above the dam.

The fall Chinook Salmon are taken in the trap and transported to Oxbow Dam where they are raised in special ponds during the winter and then fingerlings are released below Hells Canyon. The spring Chinook are taken to Rapid River. The Steelhead are taken to Niagara Springs in Magic Valley. There the eggs are taken and fertilized and then after the fish hatch they are kept until they are six to eight inches in length. This takes about a year. The fish are then taken to the Palsimer River near Lendore and released. This has been in operation for about two years. The Rapid River project has been successful and two year returns have been good of four-year-old fish. The first year return from the ocean saw 3,400 fish coming back and in 1968 there were 2,600 fish returned. Idaho Power records show that capacity at Niagara Springs is approximately 2 million eggs and juveniles and at Oxbow the capacity is five million.

When the available eggs or fish are in excess then the Idaho Fish and Game Department steps in to aid. For instance, they have taken eggs to the Clearwater and some adults to the South Fork of the Salmon, the latter to spawn naturally. Steelhead and Chinook sport fishing is important in the scheme of things in Idaho and, unless the supply from the ocean is depleted by commercial fishermen, then availability in Idaho's streams should continue because of projects like the one at Hells Canyon.

Meanwhile, company officials have reported that trout fishing above Hells Canyon and above Oxbow has been excellent this season with many large catches reported. New facilities have not yet been completed for trailer and camper parking in the region with water and electricity furnished.

Mansfield Believes CIA In Clear

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Mike Mansfield today believed the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was "in the clear" in the secret "stranded Green Beret" murder case.

Mansfield, in an interview, emphasized he had not been briefed on the matter, but "from what I know about it, I think the CIA's in the clear."

The majority leader is a member of a special armed services-foreign relations subcommittee that oversees the CIA. He said he expected the subcommittee, in time, to investigate the affair.

"I will have to be cleared up, I'm sure by the appropriate committees concerned at an appropriate time," he said.

Former Sen. Green Beret commander and seven other special forces officers have been arrested on murder charges in the death of a South Vietnamese national who was said to have been a double agent for the Communists in North Vietnam.

Arrangements for the man have blamed the CIA for the episode, coincidentally the intelligence agency ordered the killing.

Mansfield said he did not know whether the Special Forces should be blamed for the killing.

Sen. Charles McNamara, D-Calif., said he will have to "weigh the decision," the majority leader said.

Allott Won't Seek Senate GOP Post

By STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado announced today he would not seek the post of Senate Republican Leader, joining the ranks of a here was battle among Sens. Howard H. Baker (Tenn.), Roman Hruska (Nebr.), and Hugh Scott (Pa.).

In a brief statement, Allott said, "I have no commitments from any of my colleagues nor have asked for such commitments."

Allott, 62, comes from the same conservative wing of the party as Hruska but said he would not pledge his vote before Senate Republicans meet to select a successor to the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

"My sole personal efforts toward assuring that, whatever the outcome of the race as it is presently developing, we shall have an efficient party in the Senate," Allott said.

Baker, 43; Hruska, 65; and Scott, 68, are already campaigning for the post. Hruska announced his candidacy Saturday, the day after Baker and Scott publicly entered the race.

U.S. And Japan Practice Diplomatic Brinkmanship On Issue Of Okinawa

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On the issue of Okinawa both the United States and Japan are practicing diplomatic brinkmanship.

Prior to the arrival of Japanese foreign minister Kishi Aichi for his Washington meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers it had been hoped that conditions for the return of Okinawa to Japan could be settled between the two, needing only the formal approval by President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato in November.

Instead, nothing has been settled and Aichi has predicted frankly that final terms probably will not be settled until the last day of the Nixon-Sato meeting scheduled in Washington for Nov. 1971.

The difficulty is that, while agreeing to Okinawa was returned to Japanese sovereignty, the two approaches — the problem from different angles. The Sato government has staked its life on the return of Okinawa in 1972 and approaches it as a political decision.

Okinawa is the United States' most strategic base in the Pacific and the United States therefore approaches it as a military problem.

Japan agrees that the United States may keep its bases on Okinawa but demands that they be governed by the same rules as are American bases in Japan.

These rules would require that the United States consult with Japan prior to the dispatch of U.S. forces from Okinawa on an offensive mission and the removal of nuclear weapons from the bases.

The United States says it must have "free" use of its obligations to defend Japan and the rest of Asia.

Reportedly, it would be willing to remove its nuclear weapons in peace time but demands the right to return them in the event of a threat to Formosa, the Philippines or South Korea.

The Japanese hold there is no possibility of an outside threat to the Philippines and they fear the effect of their relations with Red China if they agree to the inclusion of Formosa in the nuclear defense perimeter. They would permit it in the case of South Korea.

Becoming inextricably bound up also in the U.S.-Japan negotiations over Okinawa is the equally thorny problem of economic relations between the two.

For the return of Okinawa and the other Ryukyu Islands captured in World War II, the United States wants other than purely military concessions. For instance, it wants Japan to impose self-restrictions on sale of "toxic" electronic items and cultural Affairs Committee in its own restrictions on U. S. 1961.

investments in Japan. Both sides know that eventually a compromise must be reached. But neither so far has budged from its tough stance.

Administrative Selections Made At Washington State

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Appointments to three administrative positions at Washington State University were made by the university's board of regents last week, it was announced Sunday.

The regents named Dr. Allan H. Smith, chairman of the anthropology department, academic vice president of the university. J. Reginald Miller was appointed director of university relations and Dr. James P. Short, professor of sociology, was named director of WSU's new Center for Social Research.

Smith succeeds Dr. Herbert J. Wood, who served as academic vice president last year and who will now become dean of the College of Sciences and Arts.

Miller, who directed the university's divisions of extension services and instructional media, succeeds Allen Miller, who retired as director of Information services.

Regents said Miller would take over the university's state and community relations, conventions and conferences and general university publications.

Short, former dean of the WSU graduate school, took over in an appointment described by Dr. Glenn Terrell, president, as "one of the most important made at Washington State University."

The new center was approved by the last session of the legislature and will be funded during the current biennium by student fees.

Terrell said the center would study and attempt to develop solutions for social problems in the nation.

It will carry on scientific research and disseminate information to the government and industrial leaders, he said.

ATTENDS MEET
BOISE (UPI) — O.T. Hansen, state mine inspector, left Boise Monday to attend the departmental meeting of the National Association of Mine Inspection Agencies in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Tells What Shares Worth
NEW YORK (UPI) — Air West Inc. Monday told its stockholders the terms of its purchase contract with Hughes Tool Co. will bring them no more than $17 per share.

Shareholders' expectations were running as high as $22 per share last Friday after Air West Inc. Monday told its stockholders that Hughes Tool was exercising its option to purchase the airline through a third firm, presumably a company owned by Hughes Tool.

Air West said that, under terms of the contract with Hughes Tool, remodeling of the airline's $16 million net worth deficiency (as of June 30) had to be a payment on liquidation of approximately $17 per share.

Air West added, however, that further changes in the net worth deficiency between June 30 and the closing date could bring the payment lower.

PRESENTING THE FIRST contribution to the upcoming United Fund drive is Dr. Terry Smith, left, who solicited from the College of Southern Idaho faculty. The college contribution was over the 100 per cent level. Jack Muldon, campaign chairman, accepted the check at a director's meeting. The campaign will be kicked off Sept. 23. The United Fund agencies are the Salvation Army, Camp Fire Girls, American Red Cross, YMCA, YWCA, Boy Scouts, Arthritis Foundation, U.S.O., and the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association.

Good Year Foreseen For College

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco State College President S. I. Hayakawa Monday predicted a "good year" on the campus which was torn by violence last year.

But he said he intended to begin the new year next Monday "with authority and responsibility clearly outlined. We intend to publish and distribute statements about policy and procedures so that everyone will know his own place in the system."

Havakawa, known for his tough stand against campus militants, told his faculty that "we have all learned something about the limits beyond which dissent cannot be carried."

Havakawa also outlined the duties of Early Jones, whom he chose as executive vice president some time ago.

"The best way to describe him (Jones) is that he will share some of the presidential responsibilities with me, especially in campus affairs, and I will act for me with the full powers of the presidency when I am away from the campus," Hayakawa said.

Havakawa promised tolerance for "differences of opinion and dissent," but he added: "But I am sure too that we have all learned something about the limits beyond which dissent cannot be carried without damage both to the cause being advocated and to the college itself."

Northern Forest Region Has Busiest Weekend

By United Press International

The Forest Service put in its busiest weekend of the season in the northern region this past three days as it battled fires in the field, including 86 smokejumpers, to battle several-odd blazes and 111 new ones.

The largest of the fires was the Smoky Mountain blaze which burned 80 acres in the Lewis and Clark National Forest near White Sulphur Springs, Mont. It was contained Sunday, but 195 men remained on the lines today putting the fire in heavy timber out.

Forest officials said the week-end, 97 were started by lightning storms that rampaged through parts of the 16-national forest in eastern Washington and western North and South Dakota that make up the northern region.

Forest officials said only the Colville in eastern Washington and the Helena in central Montana did not report fire action over the weekend.

Hardest hit was the Lolo National Forest in western Montana, which reported 38 lightning-caused fires and four blazes started by man. None, however, were reported over 100 acres in size.

Another forest which took a pounding from lightning storms was the Clearwater in north central Idaho with 19 lightning-caused fires reported.

Forest officials said 28,000 gallons of chemical fire retardant were dropped on fires around the region — almost all of it in the Lewis and Clark and Flathead National Forests in Montana. Primary target in the west and north was the Smoky Mountain fire, while 14 small fires in the Flathead called for the use of 13,000 gallons of retardant and 33 smokejumpers.

Although the Weather Bureau is calling for lower temperatures throughout much of the region the next few days, no rain is expected to aid the firefighters and all but the Lewis and Clark and Beaverhead Forests of Montana were reporting "extreme" burning indexes.

The Forest Service said so far this year 791 fires have been reported in the 18 forests — nearly equal with last year's 800 on this date. However, only 46 of this year's fires have been caused by lightning compared with 532 lightning caused blazes at this time a year ago.

Forest officials said so far this year 2,610 acres of national forest land have been burned — well below the 8,747 acres consumed last year at this time.

Pilot Given Heart From Negro Man

STANFORD (UPI)—The hero of a 1955 Pacific ocean airliner crash-landing had a new heart to live Monday — with the borrowed heart of a 32-year-old Negro suicide victim.

Stanford, Jan. 64, retired Pan American Airways pilot from Seattle, Wash., received the heart of Clarence Clark Jr. in Stanford University Medical Center's 18th heart transplant Sunday.

Clark was an outdoor sign company employe who shot himself to death in his Oakland apartment early Saturday. His kidneys were also used in two additional transplants.

Stanford officials believed it was only the second time a Negro's heart was transplanted into a white man. The other case was in the world's second heart transplant, in which the heart of Clive Haupt, a Negro, was transplanted into Dr. Phillip Blainberg, a South African dentist, Jan. 2, 1968.

A surgical team headed by Dr. Norman Shumway performed the heart operation. Kidney recipients, Robert Green, 22, of San Jose and James Santos, 49, of Mountain View, were reported in "satisfactory condition."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks were slightly higher late Tuesday following President Nixon's announcement of additional U.S. troop cutbacks in Vietnam.

However, many issues were treated from the day's top. One analyst remarked that South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky scooped Nixon by a day on the troop announcement and "the market never reacts twice to the same news."

Kay said Monday 40,000 Americans would be pulled out by the end of November. Nixon placed the figures at 35,000 by Dec. 15 and it was his remark that was largely responsible for the market's strong Monday performance.

As trading moved into the final hour, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a gain of 0.16 per cent on a 1.855 points closing the tape. There were 681 advances and 563 declines.

DOUBLE LOSER ON LOSER WINS

Keep east out of the lead and he should have discarded a club on the king of hearts!

The student ruffed the first heart and played out his ace of spades. When both opponents followed he turned his attention to the club suit. East won the second club with the king and promptly cashed the jack. Then he led a diamond. The student played his king but that didn't matter. West was sure of two diamond tricks and took them.

If West continued with the ace of hearts, South would discard another club. If West shifted to a club, South would win the trick with dummy's ace, lead dummy's queen of hearts and once more discard a club.

After this procedure South would be able to ruff two clubs in his hand and set up the last two clubs for diamond discards, leaving only one diamond loser.

"Yes, they were," replied the professor. "You should have made your four spades." The professor was right as always. Do you see what the student should have done? Declarer's problem was to

THIS DEPARTMENT is now committed to search for the client says she has solved the situation here. By setting un-baited mousetraps around her apartment. That can't be right. If you know a fat vegetarian, would you report same? Appropriate it. Hippopotamus don't count. But AN-87-YEAR-OLD SUBSCRIBER who has worked around riding stable most of his life writes: "A horse never chews a woman who's expecting a baby. It's peculiar. But it's true. Never!" Fascinating, if factual.

WAKING, SLEEPING — A Morning Glory is a girl who leaps out of bed with electricity and whips through 80 per cent of her day's work before noon. An Evening Star is a girl who rises late and shines most brightly after the sun has set. Young lady, how would you categorize yourself in this regard? Best secretaries are a mystery for you, well, barbers, the saddle, too, so Wilberforce, get off your horse, and bring him in for lunch? A haunting melody, that one? A. No. Whir, that—classic escapes me. "What opera was it in?" Q. "I SEE BETTY GRABLE is doing TV commercials now. # AEC Aide Blames USGS

BOISE (UPI) — According to the manager of the Idaho operations office of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, the atomic waste burial area in Idaho was recommended by the U. S. Geological Survey.

The site was recommended because of its "nearly ideal characteristics which maximize safety; namely, the site is elevated and is isolated from the ground water by at least 600 feet of layered material."

W. L. Ginkel, also said, that all "reasonable efforts" are made to recover plutonium from radioactive waste before it is sent to the Gem State.

Ginkel replied to a letter by Robert A. Erkins, president of the Snake River Trout Company, Erkins had asked about any potential effect burial of wastes from Rocky Flats, Colo., at the National Reactor Testing Station may have on the rainbow trout.

Ginkel said, "I can assure you that there is no real potential hazard to the ground waters of Idaho as a result of any soil waste disposal practices at the NRTS."

Ginkel said that although plutonium, if introduced into man, was harmful, the containment was approximately 30 times more valuable than gold and all efforts were made to recover the plutonium.

"Because of the desert conditions, the soil does not contain sufficient moisture to provide transport for this material. Moreover, the plutonium is in an essentially insoluble form."

Ginkel added that studies made of the movement of water under the site indicated it was moving at the rate of 10 to 20 feet per day, adding, "at this rate, the water can be expected to reach the Thousand Springs area on the Snake River after the year 2070."

British Army Dismantles Belfast Wall

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British army troops today began dismantling barricades in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area. They met no resistance from Catholics who had vowed to fight to keep the barriers up.

An army statement, issued shortly after a meeting between the Northern Ireland government and Gen. Ian Freeland, the British army commander, said three infantry battalions had moved into the area to protect the Catholics in place of the barricades.

Soldiers started work on six barricades around the Divis Street area, an extension of Falls Road, where heavy fighting was centered during the Aug. 14-15 riots.

One massive barricade near the 10-story Divis Towers apartment building was one of the first to start coming down. It was from the roof of Divis Towers that snipers sowed death and terror with rifles in August.

A total of about 160 Catholic barricades are still up and both the British and Northern Ireland governments, as well as Protestant militants, had demanded they be brought down. Catholics debated among themselves whether to cooperate or resist the dismantling.

Earlier today a weeping Roman Catholic bishop pleaded with his flock to dismantle the barricades and was shouted off the Falls Road by angry Catholic men.

The confrontation between Bishop William Philbin and his flock followed an all night meeting of barricade leaders to decide what to do in the face of the government warning of British army action.

"For God's sake, don't bring more trouble on yourselves," the bishop pleaded as tears streamed down his face. "Let the women and children be heard." He said the all night meeting had voted 47-4 to take down the barricades.

'Rent-A-Peer' Concept Could Help U.S. Companies Gain New Prestige

WASHINGTON (UPI)—George F. Ege, a natural born Philadelphia—who now lives in England in what was once the seat of the Lord of the Manor of Dickleburgh, is one of your typical Yankee go-getters. Inertia is abhorrent to Ege. So when he opened a British export business in 1957, he was saddened to discover a major asset being wasted—namely, the British aristocracy.

Impressive titles, which Ege immediately recognized as having vast commercial potentialities, were just sort of sitting around gathering dust, so to speak.

After brooding upon this at some length, Ege made his move: He opened what might be described as a rent-a-peer agency, calling it "noble directors."

For a price, ranging upwards of 250 guineas per year, a company could arrange through Ege to have a nobleman listed on its letterhead as a member of the board.

Ege said he had found that if two British companies were exporting identical items at identical prices, and one of them had a noble on its board, the company with the titled director would get the business.

I mentioned all of this now as a prelude to reporting that Ege has decided to expand his rent-a-peer agency by offering the service to American companies.

"I know of many gentlemen willing to consider employment contracts," he said in a recent letter setting forth his prospectus.

"They could be very useful to U.S. firms who wish to establish more personal contacts in Britain and also on the continent. These nobles could also be useful in the U.S. domestic market for sales promotion."

"We are able to arrange a selection of great houses in England and Scotland that have fantastic interiors, art treasures, etc., which could be used in connection with the nobles for sales promotion—photos, etc."

I suppose the peer rental service will be especially useful to American companies that are striving to improve their images and acquire higher status. As the following photo caption might demonstrate:

Report Urges End To FTC Practices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special report has laid it on the line to President Nixon—either change the leadership of the Federal Trade Commission and shuffle its priorities or abolish the 55-year-old agency.

"Often the agency has seemed more concerned with protecting competitors of an enterprise practicing deception rather than the consumers," a special commission said Monday in a devastating report on the FTC.

Hershey Out?
NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon hopes to retire Gen. Lewis Hershey, controversial head of the Selective Service System, within the next month, CBS news reported Monday night.

Presidential assistant John Erlichman is screening candidates and has narrowed the list down to four, according to the report, and their identities are a closely guarded secret.

Nixon had requested the American Bar Association's commission to study the FTC to recommend changes in the agency, formed before World War I to administer antitrust and trade regulations.

The special commission's report to the President said the FTC's failure to plan and its procedural delays "are about as serious today as at any time in the agency's history."

The report said FTC's failures to allocate enough funds for consumer protection, "particularly against localized fraud and deception, for antitrust enforcement, monitoring of false advertising and for compliance programs, have sapprted the FTC's effectiveness in critical areas."

The report concluded, "if change does not occur, there will be no substantial purpose to be served by its continued existence."

The report also praised some vigorous FTC efforts in the area of deceptive labeling, such as required health warnings on cigarette packages, in the face of heavy opposition.
