

T. F. County Hears ISU Report On Comprehensive Plans For Future

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

Excluding gambling, what has the Southern part of Twin Falls County got that can compete with Jackpot, Nev.?

"Jackrabbits hunting," someone remarked dryly and the session on comprehensive planning for Twin Falls County got under way.

Several months ago the county commissioners agreed to let a team from Idaho State University make a plan for the county. The city of Twin Falls has since joined in the venture. Heading the ISU planning team is Dr. R. E. Fasolino.

Monday in the old hospital building Dr. Fasolino posed several questions and got varied responses from those attending. Two of the county commissioners were there. Also attending was Jean Miller, acting Twin Falls city manager, and officials from the Bureau of Land Management, the Twin Falls Highway District, the Farmers Home Administration, the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District and Don Youtz, county extension agent.

"What we're here for today," Dr. Fasolino told the group, "is to pick your brains. We want comments from a cross section of the county. We want ideas on what you think the county could or should be like in the next 10, 20 or 30 years."

The commissioners said the county would probably double in population in 30 years. There are 43,000 in the county now. "What will be here to keep them busy and keep them employed?" This was Dr. Fasolino's next question.

Some light—meaning non-polluting—industry and the addition of processing plants to broaden the base of agriculture were urged by more farmers who are idle by their own farms.

Mr. Youtz said, "Many of us like the way the county is now. But we must face it, we are on the verge of a big boom. Some people are opposed to this but never-the-less here it is."

Dr. Fasolino said some heavy "light" industry could be built in the remote areas of the county.

610 N. Julia Davis Dr. Betty, "But when there's anything that will keep the community does not spring up here."

Some expressed the idea at the meeting that the younger people want jobs so they can stay in the area.

Dr. Fasolino said, "It's true, too many young people are leaving because they can't find jobs here. What you need is something more than just an agricultural base."

Clarence Hedrick, of the Soil Conservation Service, said, "People will be receptive to the agricultural base. Mining will open up in years to come. With some gravel, limestone and opalite mining under way now and some claims filed in the Southern part of the county for oil."

Recreation will grow, with an increased need for a camping places.

A campground near Rogerson was mentioned as a possibility to keep tourists in the area.

Everyone agreed that Twin Falls was growing while the other communities in the valley were depending on Twin Falls more and more for goods.

In the near future, Dr. Fasolino and his staff will come back with recommendations on what should be done and how it should be done in order to meet the requirements of the year 2000.

This plan will be known as the county comprehensive plan. It will outline generally a method of orderly growth for the county.

There were no decisions reached at the meeting.

Recruit's Widow Believes Marine Murdered

NEW YORK (UPI) — The young widow of a Marine recruit listed as accidentally drowned at boot camp in Paris Island, S.C., said today she believes his letters indicate he was beaten to death in the stockade for "his attitude."

Mrs. Conception, 20, said today by her attorney, Conrad Lynn, in gain details surrounding the death of the 19-year-old Marine, who was recruited by military authorities who say the reported drowning still is under investigation.

The Marines today continued their investigation into the death of Pvt. Stephen P. Melson, who told physicians before he died Sunday that he had been beaten because he couldn't keep up with other recruits.

Marine investigators said Monday Melson died of a kidney ailment and drill instructor of supervisory personnel had physically abused the recruit.

"I have just two reasons for not believing them," Mrs. Conception said at her home. "He was an excellent swimmer and he wrote me that they were beating him."

Conception was at Paris Island only five days this summer when the Marines stated his missing from his barracks, five days later the military said his body was found in a creek behind the barracks building.

The U.S. Marine Command at the training base said medical examiners there reported the youth died from "accidental drowning" five days before the body was discovered July 5. No other information was made available.

"It doesn't sound right—he would be lying there for five days and no one saw him," she said. "He always got along with them. He always got along with them."

"I believe they beat him to death, maybe in the brig," she said. "He always got along wherever he went."

Mrs. Conception placed an cardboard box in her lap and began showing letters her husband wrote only from Paris Island.

"Take a look at his wallet," she said. "These papers never touched water." Cards and papers inside the plastic wallet were in good condition, she said, although water stains were visible.

Mrs. Conception took out an unopened letter she found inside the wallet. It began, "I just got to the camp. I might not be here for long. I might go to the brig for a week or two."

"I tried my best to do right," she said. "He always got along with me. I'm not going to let these... hit on me like I was an animal or something and I don't like nobody putting their hands on me."

Another letter written and postmarked July 1, the day of Melson's death, began, "I supposed to be going to the brig today. I guess I came down with the wrong attitude."

Mrs. Conception said she asked Rep. Adam Clayton Powell to intervene and seek an autopsy on her husband, who is buried on Long Island. She said she would like to see the body.

"The widow and her 2-year-old daughter moved in with relatives," Mrs. Conception said. "The military won't let me see my body until she turns 21, a year from now."

Supersonic Jet OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon gave the go-ahead today for building an American supersonic transport (SST) capable of carrying up to 300 passengers at speeds of 1,800 miles an hour.

The President told reporters he would ask Congress for about $96 million in development funds which will go toward construction of two models. The Boeing Co. of Seattle is scheduled about 1978.

First flight tests are not expected before the end of 1972, with initial deliveries to airlines scheduled about 1978.

The ultimate cost of the SST may reach $4.5 billion. The federal government's share will be slightly less than $1 billion, Nixon said.

Critics have contended the money is needed more urgently for other purposes, but the President said he decided to go ahead with the plane, for which more than half a billion of federal funds already have been spent, because:

"I want the United States to lead the world in air transport."

Nixon said it was "a difficult decision," made after spirited debate within the administration.

There are still problems to be solved before the SST, particularly in commercial service, but Nixon said he was convinced the "technical factors" could be overcome.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe told reporters after Nixon's announcement that the SST would be banned from overland flights in the United States until the sonic boom problem was solved. The SST will be restricted to transoceanic flights until the noise factor "comes within acceptable limits," Volpe said.

Nixon said his decision would proceed with the SST was in the interest of "the future of American SST," he said, the government will recover its expenses through royalties.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in whose state Boeing will build the plane, said he expected "a real fight" in Congress to win approval for SST funds.

Nixon said the SST would make the world market. Tokyo will be as close to Washington as London is today; Argentina will be as close to Washington as London is today," he said.

Annexation Plans Discussed By City

Twin Falls City Council heard a report on possible areas of annexation during a special meeting at noon Monday.

The report was compiled by the city engineering department and was explained at the meeting by Jean Miller, city engineer, and George Michael, assistant to the engineer.

The engineer divided the study into seven districts adjacent to all sides of the city. They gave the number of houses, assessed valuation and number of people in each district.

Herb Derrick, city manager, said the study was prepared to determine how much land is available for annexation under state law. He said it is inevitable that this land will be annexed by other cities. The city council will take into consideration what is best for the community.

Each district will be considered on a separate basis by the council, Mr. Derrick said. He noted he had recommended the council call for public hearings with the city engineer to take official action on the property, but said this is not necessary under state law.

If the land survey for annexation the council may take the action by adopting a resolution.

Mr. Derrick said the matter will be considered by the council at a regular meeting in the very near future. He pointed out the 1970 census is coming up soon and the city would have only a few months to annex the property and have the people and its people counted in this census.

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Red Sox Manager Dick Williams was fired today.

O'Connell said veteran third-base coach Eddie Popowski would take over the club for the remainder of the American League campaign.

Juvenile Use Of Drugs Extensive

Drug abuse is extensive in Twin Falls with the chances of youths in grade school getting their hands on marijuana, hashish or diet pills rated very good.

This is what Richard Reed, Twin Falls County prosecutor, said Monday in expanding on remarks he made when he announced he would resign his post effective Nov. 7.

When I said parents and law officers are not doing their job, I meant it. But people should not read too much meaning into this," Judge Reed told the Times-News.

"I'm not singling out any person or department."

He said drug abuse is a problem that is new to our culture; it is something we in the older generation have yet to cope with, something we have yet to face."

Sheriff Paul Corrier was contacted and he said, "Judge Reed is a very fine man. He has a high regard for the law and I have nothing but respect for him. When he made the statement I didn't take it personally."

Police Department spokesmen could not be reached for comment, but investigations into drug abuse have been under way for some time and arrest of a juvenile on a charge of attempting to purchase narcotics, was made recently.

Judge Reed said, "My point is, the whole system is lagging far behind the youth of today. There is not now a general awareness of the problem and we do not have that we have now."

He said law enforcement lacks the staffing and equipment, parents lack the proper information, school officials are not up-to-date on drug abuse, and even those aware of the times—judges, police and law officers—are not doing their job. I meant it. But people should not read too much meaning into this," Judge Reed told the Times-News.

Three-Island May Open Next Summer

GLENN'S FERRY — It's possible a new state park will be opened in the Three Islands area next summer. A master plan for the project has been completed.

Harold (Pat) Brown, Fillet Park, Idaho, State Parks Department, told the Times-News Monday the board hopes to have the Three Islands Park project completed by next summer.

"A lot depends on when funds can be let and when work can start," he said. The park site was given approval last week when a federal survey was approved by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. On a 60-acre matching basis, there is $173,085 to do the work.

Mr. Brown said Interstate 80N is being built in the Hammett and Glenn's Ferry area and that project should be done about the same time the Three Islands Park project is finished.

"The park will be about 1 1/2 miles to a mile from the Glenn's Ferry interchange," Mr. Brown said.

There will be facilities for overnight camping and picnicking.

The grant for the project comes from the Land and Water Conservation Fund to help finance development of 45 acres of the Three Islands area. The project includes the ford across the Snake River which was taken by many pioneers traveling on the Oregon Trail.

Mr. Brown said the old pioneer campground was on the south side of the river and the new park will be on the north side of the river. He said it is possible a way might be developed to get people onto the three islands themselves, but it is not an overlook would be built on the north side of the river.

Construction at the site will include 35 picnic tables, 35 picnic areas, an information center, access road, an irrigation system, an interpretive area and landscaping.

The park will always fall in and the anticipates full use of the Three Islands Park when it is finished.

'New' Writings Of Hemingway Found

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — "In the letter Fitzgerald gives Hemingway hell for some of the stuff he had written in his original opening."

Young said the letter was found tucked away among seven schoolboy notebooks in which Hemingway had written an early draft of the novel. One notebook contained Hemingway's original title for the book, "The Sun Is Still Titled in English."

Young's brother, "Ernest Hemingway," in 1922 and "Ernest Hemingway: A Reconsideration" in 1962, had permission to study the manuscripts from Hemingway's widow, Mary, whom he had become acquainted with during his studies.

He said the papers had been stored in, among other places, the back room of a bar in Florida and a Cuban bank vault. The papers were collected by Mrs. Hemingway and taken to a branch office of the First National City Bank of New York.

LEGAL AID NAMED

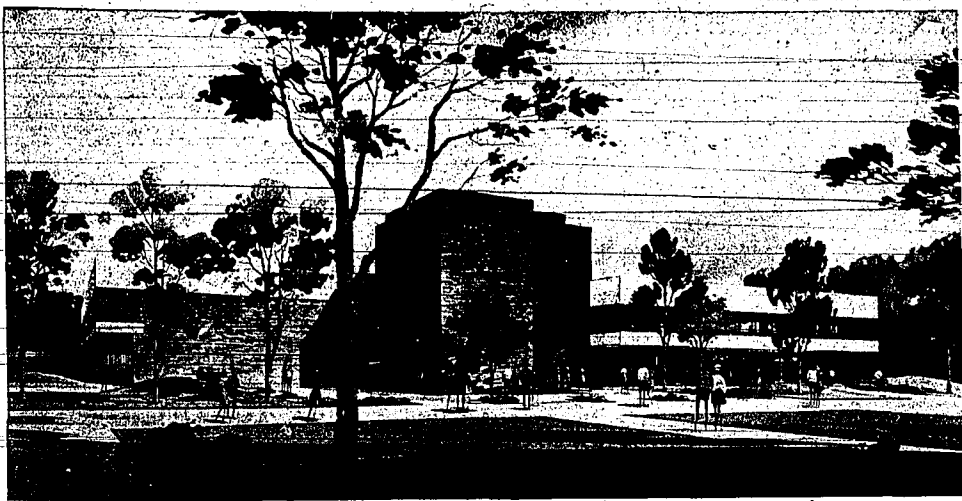

BOISE (UPI) — U.S. Attorney Stephen P. Murray announced Monday appointment of Ernest Hemingway's widow as assistant U.S. Attorney for the District of Idaho.

It will include three novels, 19 short stories, 33 poems and 11 works of non-fiction.

Young, said, however, that "perhaps the most interesting find" was a letter to Hemingway from Fitzgerald. Young said Fitzgerald had caused Hemingway to rewrite the first two chapters of "The Sun Also Rises" and a Cuban bank vault in which Hemingway had written an early draft of the novel. One notebook contained Hemingway's original title for the book, "The Sun Is Still Titled in English."

THE COLLEGE OF Southern Idaho will let bids next month on two new buildings, including this multi-use facility. The other building to be bid at the time is a co-educational dormitory. Approval of the above project, which includes a student union, library and administration offices, was received this week. The "Commons," which will face the Fine Arts Center, will cost in excess of $1 million. Both it and the dormitory should be complete in about one year. Currently under construction on campus is a health-PE building, which will include a gymnasium. The area at the left of the building will be library space and the area at right will house the student union, while administrative offices will be located beneath the student union area.

Vandalism Causes Night Closure Of Walcott Park

RUPERT — In an attempt to squelch teen-age drinking parties and the accompanying vandalism at the Walcott Park at the Milindoka National Wildlife Refuge, manager John Hill has ordered the park closed to the public from dark until 7:30 a.m.

The new ruling will go into effect Oct. 1, and all violators will be subject to charges of trespassing on government property, a federal offense. Mr. Hill noted that a gate across the entrance to the recreation area will be set up and will be closed at 11:30 each night to allow residents of the area time to arrive home.

Camper who wish to remain in the park over night, he said, must remain there after dark and until 7:30 a.m. after the ruling goes into effect.

In announcing the ruling, Mr. Hill noted that recreational activities such as boating, skiing and picnicking will still be encouraged during the light hours of the day. Future plans call for signs giving the park regulations and also information which at the park was kicked in, although nothing was taken; stop signs have been stolen as have route and directional signs, valued at about $15 each; and about half of the littering done at the site is done after dark.

Normally, Mr. Hill said, in the summer most of the daytime visitors go home by 10 p.m. Usually there is a short break and then the kids begin arriving for their parties.

Most hurt by the new ruling will be those groups who enjoy a campfire outing — after-dark. "We just have to make everyone abide by the ruling," Mr. Hill explained, "as we cannot make one group observe it and others not. This is a case of a very few spoiling it for the

RUPERT — In an attempt to quell teen-age drinking parties and the accompanying vandalism at the Walcott Park, the Mielokka National Wildlife Refuge, manager John Hill has ordered the park closed to the public from dark until 7:30 a.m.
 The new ruling will go into effect Oct. 1, and all violators will be subject to charges of trespassing on government property, a federal offense. Mr. Hill noted that a gate across the entrance to the recreation area will be set up and will be closed at 11:30 each night to allow residents of the area time to arrive home.
 Campers who wish to remain in the park over night, he said, must remain there after dark and until 7:30 a.m. after the ruling goes into effect.
 In announcing the ruling, Mr. Hill noted that recreational activities such as boating, skiing and picnicking will still be encouraged during the light hours of the day. Future plans call for signs giving the park regulations and also information which at the park was kicked in, although nothing was taken; stop signs have been stolen as have route and directional signs valued at about $15 each; and about half of the littering done at the site is done after dark.

 Normally, Mr. Hill said, in the summer most of the daytime visitors go home by 10 p.m. Usually there is a short break and then the kids begin arriving for their parties.
 Most hurt by the new ruling will be those groups who enjoy a campfire outing after dark.
 "We just have to make everyone abide by the ruling," Mr. Hill explained, "as we cannot make one group observe it and others not. This is a case of a very few spoiling it for the rest."

C. Loughmiller, Brown Wed

Wedding vows exchanged Aug. 16 in St. Edward's Catholic Church united in marriage a pair of Cynthia Sue Loughmiller, daughter of Heber Loughmiller, Twin Falls, and Bruce L. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown, Ellettsville, Ind.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edmund R. Cody performed the double ring ceremony in afternoon rites. The bride wore a white gown with yellow daisies and blue chrysanthemums for a mod background.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Bridal gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The groom featured the regal look with a wedding ring collar outlined in pearls and pearls accenting the yoked redingote front which revealed a demi-tail "A" line. Pearls also accentuated the neckline of the lace gown and train.

Her bouffant veil of illusion was held by a braided circle of pearls. The lace which ended in a veiled bow. She wore a pair of earrings, borrowed from her stepmother, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Michelle Velly, Twin Falls, first-step sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Greg Brown, Ellettsville, was best man for his brother, and ushers were Don Johnson and Jeff Blankens, both Nampa.

JoAnn Cubit, church organist, played the wedding music.

A reception was held in the parish hall after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with a wedding cake decorated with yellow daisies and white chrysanthemums.

The bride and bridegroom were both graduates of the University of Idaho. They are residing in Nampa. The bride is working for the Idaho First National Bank. The groom is teaching at O'Leary Junior High School, Twin Falls. The bride was honored at a shower hosted by the women of the community at St. Edward's Church at Hollister. The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at their home.

Woody, Christian social relations; Mrs. Roy Clawson, missionary education; Mrs. Eleanor McConkey, membership, and Mrs. Ralph Miller, gift cupboard.

Justice who expressed the desire at the time that Mrs. Fingerson would pass it on to her granddaughter, Mrs. Sandy.

A short business meeting was conducted by the new president, Mrs. Titmus. Mrs. Wasco spoke on the need for help at the Easter Seal Center, Twin Falls. She told them that help can be used any afternoon.

Besides Mrs. Fingerson and Mrs. Wasco, other visitors were Mrs. Cora Burton, Buhl, and Isandra Sanborn, Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Gertrude Wagner.

Mrs. Hazel Monaghan was welcomed as a new member.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I would like you to be a little bit kinder to me. I know that happened to you. This day I still can't believe it. First, let me explain that I am 22, my husband is 24, and we have a four-month-old baby. My husband and I set out for a drive-in movie, and we took our baby with us.

Outside the drive-in theater was a sign saying "NO ADMITTANCE THE AGE OF 17 AND UNDER."

Well, a policeman stopped us outside the gate and said we couldn't take our daughter into the theater because she was under 17.

Now, Abby, I mean, what is a four-month-old baby going to see and do? Would you say that was going a little too far? SPRINGFIELD, VERMONT

DEAR SPRINGFIELD: I and the policeman were being somewhat unreasonably strict. There had been a "babes-in-arms" clause tacked on to the ruling, you probably see nine-year-olds carried in by their parents.

DEAR ABBY: We have a wonderful daughter who has never permitted a date until she reached 16. (Louise was allowed to go to boy-girl parties, but not "date" in a car with just one date.) Would you define, bright girl, very pretty, with high moral standards and who rebelled our decision without whining or rebelling.

Our problem is that the first boy Louise dated on her 16th birthday is a 22-year-old college MAN. Her father says he is too old for her. Of course Louise is upset over this. We have nothing against the way he is very nice and comes from a good family, and we like him as a person, but not as a possible companion for our daughter. An occasional date would be all right, but these two don't care to see anyone else. We are afraid Louise will want to get married and throw away her chances for a college education.

Are we wrong to try to keep them apart?

LOUISE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Not only are you wrong, I doubt if you can do it. You could demand that Louise date others and just to please you she may "go thru the motions." But she has already lost her heart to this young man her feelings for him would probably only grow stronger. But don't worry. Louise has high moral standards and is bright, she'll not rush into anything prematurely.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say a few words to HAD IT, who griped about having to pick up the tab when he dates a woman.

I say, a man who wants the pleasure of dating a lady who has gone to the trouble and expense of making herself attractive, well-groomed, and stylishly dressed, had better be prepared to put his hand-in his pocket and pay for it. Let the idiot stay home and sit in front of the mirror and enjoy looking at the one he loves the most.

All the good men are either dead or married, and only half the married ones are good.

ALSO HAD IT

DEAR ABBY: I would gladly pick up the tab for a date in exchange for the privilege of asking the man out instead of waiting to be asked or maybe being asked by the ones I prefer. Also, for the privilege of earning enough money to be able to afford a date.

Women are still being treated as second-class citizens when it comes to jobs. When women are asked to ask or maybe to be asked, they are usually glad to accept ALL the responsibility that goes with it.

A WOMAN IN K. C.

Area Couple Recites Vows In Castleford

BUHL — Deborah Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verlin Williamson, Buhl, became the bride of Charles Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hopkins, Farmington, on Aug. 23 at the United Methodist Church, Castleford.

Rev. Kendall North performed the double ring ceremony before baskets of white and green gladioli and ivy covered candelabra holding white tapers. In the prayer table, two mint-green tapers flanked one white taper.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length empire-princess-styled gown of ivory antique satin featuring long beaded sleeves and a long train of rose-petaled lace. The bodice top was rose-petaled lace over antique satin. The gown was designed and made by the bride and the bride's mother.

Her wrist-length veil was held by a rose-shaped headpiece. The veil was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Floyd Holloway, Twin Falls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and green gladioli, accented with ribbon streamers. The bouquet was attached to a white Bille.

Mrs. Dave Garrett, Lewiston, college roommate of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Rebecca Williamson, a daughter of the bride, Kaye Michelle Williamson, sister of the bride, and Flower Girl.

Eldon Betz, Pollatch, served as best man. Ushers and candlelighters were John Hopkins and Tom Hopkins, Farmington, brothers of the bridegroom. Doug Hatch, cousin of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Tom Fleming, Buhl, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied a duet, Gayle Sanborn, Lewiston, and Linda Shikohio, Blackfoot, roommates of the bride, who sang.

A reception feted the newlyweds after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a tan lace cloth over white, accented with a three tiered white cake. Mint green tapers flanked the cake. A crystal punch bowl and a vase of flowers were centered the table appointments.

The cake was baked and served by Mrs. Billy Cloughion, Bellevue, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Paul Moyer Mackay, cousin of the bride, served the punch, and Mrs. Ralph Hatch, Buhl, cousin of the bridegroom, poured coffee. Minis and nuts were served by Mrs. Henry Todd, Buhl. Junior Achievement Slate Will Begin In October

By KAREN CRUMBLISS High School Correspondent

You've probably heard the phrase, "I want to do something but here's nothing to do." Parents tell youngsters that when you come to you, you have to get out and find something.

This is where Junior Achievement comes in. It is a significant program for youth in which you find a product, produce, and then get out to sell what ever it is you've produced. It can earn you a lot of money.

For example — Vickie Brown has earned $400 on her own. This has been the highest in sales for Junior Achievement in Twin Falls.

Without, president of the board, along with Russ Anderson, program manager, and Rubo Mayo, board of directors, have been introduced into the program which anyone may enter into.

The organizational functions will begin in October and will continue through the first of February. During the first of October a meeting will be held at 250 Main St., across

Idaho Panel On Land Law Asks Survey

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's commission on federal land laws called Monday for careful study prior to creation of wilderness areas which limit land use to single-type, recreational activity.

In a carefully revised statement of position for presentation at a hearing Thursday in Washington, D. C., the state commission said the economic impact of such land classification should be studied fully.

However, the group said that withdrawals of land for wilderness purposes should not be eliminated but should be limited to create the greatest good for the greatest number.

Originally proposed in much stronger language by Joe Gordon, Kellogg, mining industry representative on the commission, the statement was revised considerably at the suggestion of Dennis Olsen, Idaho Falls.

Gordon's draft called for "unrestricted and unrestricted access" to public lands for prospecting, exploration and mining. The words "unrestricted and unrestricted" were eliminated.

In the original draft, Gordon said that acceptable modifications to update mineral location laws would be those which would reasonably solve problems now present but which would encourage mining on and from the public lands without unduly restricting the incentive.

At Olsen's recommendation, the commission added the words, "reasonable reclamation of surface-mined lands should be required."

Gordon also had proposed returning minerals now under the Mineral Leasing Act to the location system. This, Olsen said, would not work on his motion. It was eliminated from the statement.

In its place, Olsen successfully moved the inclusion of a statement calling attention to the lack of state tax revenue from lands under mineral lease and a request for a greater share of federal revenues from these minerals.

Meantime, the commission — which is considering testimony before the federal Public Land Law Review Commission — has a report from Ed Woolley, former U. S. director of the Bureau of Land Management, and from A. J. Teske, secretary of the Idaho Mining Association.

Woolley, noting the federal Land Law Review Commission completes its work next June, suggested the "hour is late" for Idaho finally to be putting forth its feelings about changes in the laws.

He suggested the state commission have its Congressional delegation send copies of all legislation in this field as soon as it is introduced along with an analysis of such legislation.

Lloyd Halabrt, federal commission — the federal commission would simply make a report with recommendations to the Congress. He said Idaho still would have a chance to speak up at Congressional hearings.

Both he and Woolley strongly recommended the state present a unified stand on the issues. Otherwise, he said, it must fall back on "special interest groups" to go to Washington to fight for amendments.

Halabrt told the state commission about the mining industry's Aug. 8 statement to the federal commission and outlined basically the industry's stand.

He said the industry is convinced that new sources of minerals will not be found and developed unless the industry has continued access to the public lands which "are the largest and best remaining targets for exploration."

Foreign sources of supply, he said, are unreliable — particularly in situations when these are most needed.

"Once these foreign countries get you on the hook," Teske said, "the prices go up terrifically."

'Little Loner In A Corner' Lives

Vacant; Uneventful Life At Hospital

(Editor's note: The following breath depicts a day in the life of Sally, a resident at the Idaho State School and Hospital at Nampa. Sally's actual age, diagnosis and name were not revealed by the hospital. However, it is known that Sally has been at the hospital for approximately 30 years and has no hope of leaving her institutional home. Retarded patients like Sally, whose life is a large room, are called "custodial care" residents.)

By NANCY SHEETZ
NANPA, Idaho (UPI) — Sally's day begins at 5:30 a.m. as an attendant calls her name. Her eyes open but no other response comes. The attendant comes, dresses Sally and takes her to the bathroom. Sally is lucky. Today she gets to wear her own dress. Some residents only have "dated out-of-style" state clothes. Sally is led by the hand into the bathroom and then diapered until the next "potty" time. Breakfast is next on the schedule between 6 and 7 a.m. The attendant sits Sally at a long table with her other 13 "wardmates." Food is placed in front of Sally, but no response. "She must be fed each of her three daily meals." A person could place food in front of her and she would starve to death, an aide said.

Table conversation also is "ill" Sally. Communicating with others at any time is practically non-existent for the 40-year-old woman. Sally can only whimper and some times smile. "I think she understands some things," one licensed practical nurse said. "But she only responds to her name." Attention has increased for Sally with the recent change to

Crime In U.S. Accelerates At Slower Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Crime in the United States rose at a slower rate in the first half of this year than in 1968, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today.

The FBI's Uniform Crime Index report showed an overall rise of 9 per cent in the January to June period of this year, compared to a 7 1/2 per cent increase for the similar period of 1968 and a 17 per cent jump for the first six months of 1967. Hoover said violent crimes in the first half of 1969 rose 13 per cent, with robbery up 17 per cent, forcible rape up 15 per cent, aggravated assault up 10 per cent and murder up 8 per cent.

Crime in both rural areas and large cities of 250,000 or more population showed an average increase of 8 per cent, compared to an 11 per cent increase in suburban areas.

Railroad Walkout Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief negotiator for four shop craft unions said Monday selective strikes would be called against six railroads Oct. 4 unless contact agreements could be reached before then.

William W. Wimpfänger, vice president of the Machinists Union, said the shop unions were planning strikes against individual regional lines rather than a nationwide strike against all major railroads in order to avoid a national emergency that could lead to White House intervention.

He said the strikes were planned for the day after the expiration of a 30-day no-strike cooling off period that began Sept. 2 when the National Mediation Board pulled out of the negotiations and said the talks were hopelessly deadlocked between the unions and the National Railway Labor Conference representing the nation's railroads.

After breakfast Sally resumes her daily activity, sitting in a corner on the floor. Sometimes Sally is "led outside" with the others to play from 7 to 9 a.m. However, she only knows to go sit in a corner on the playground.

"A person can throw a ball and she just sits," the attendant said. "She does not react. But a person can put an arm around her."

The attendant hugged Sally and she started to smile. Joy in Sally's life is confined to a "ride in nice weather" or maybe music. It's hard to tell. Bath time is next at 9 a.m. Sally jets the attendant, dresses her, bathes her, then dresses her. By the time everyone is bathed, it's "potty time" again.

"Then by the time the group finishes this routine, it's lunch time. Sally, a woman about 4 feet, 11 inches tall and weighing approximately 80 pounds, is placed at the table and fed from her yellow tray.

Aides do not worry about brushing Sally's teeth. This middle-aged woman has none. She is on a "soft diet" for the rest of her life.

After lunch, Sally may get to go outside at 11:30 a.m. All winter long, ward-staying then is in store for Sally all day. She huddles on the floor in a "fetal position" and rocks back and forth.

The attendant said there was only one other patient like Sally with no response on Sally's ward.

"I'm thankful there are only two," the state school worker commented, "I like a little aggression. It's not the best never to do anything."

Sally, referred to as the "little loner in a corner," receives the wash and potty routine again at 3 p.m. From 3 to 5 p.m. there is ward-sitting for her. Then dinner is served between 5 and 5:30 p.m.

Family visits often brighten the day for a state school resident. But not for Sally.

One attendant said she can't remember when a Sally has had company. College students help add tender loving care in the summer, but when fall comes, they return to school.

After a supper of soft pork chops, mashed potatoes, beefs and ice cream, Sally "relaxes" on the floor for an evening of sitting. However, nights are good times for playing a phonograph or radio music in Sally's living unit. Some of the residents even sing along, an attendant said.

As 9 or 10 p.m. nears, bed-time rituals go into action. Sally receives the wash and potty treatment once more and then is guided to bed.

The 40-year-old woman is never sick, "never anything," one nurse said.

And another day ends. Tomorrow at 5:30 a.m., Sally's life will repeat itself as it does every day at the Idaho State School and Hospital.

Attorney Claims Rights Violated In Green Beret Case; Bailey Joins Staff

SAIGON (UPI) — A civilian defense attorney said today the military had lost its right to try the Green Beret murder case by violating the constitutional rights of the six defendants.

Henry Rothblatt of New York met with the military defense attorneys in the case to plan an attempt to get the trial transferred to a U. S. civilian court. One of the military attorneys said F. Lee Bailey was joining the defense team.

Rothblatt's allegation that the constitutional rights of the defendants had been violated apparently refers to earlier defense statements that the Army harassed and coerced the prisoners for information while they were in a stockade.

"In this case, they (the military) are the cops and the prosecutors," he said. "They cannot be the judges, too."

Rothblatt said he hoped to have a writ of habeas corpus, seeking the trial transfer, ready for submission to a U. S. Federal Court by early next week.

Bailey agreed today to help defend Capt. Robert F. Maras-Strangler.

of Bloomfield, N.J., whose military defender is Capt. Thomas Young of Honolulu. Bailey's clients have included Dr. Carl Coppolino, Dr. Sam Sheppard and Albert Di Salvo who claimed to be the Boston strangler.

Sweet and sour potatoes.

They're both Idaho Russet Burbank potatoes. They're almost identical in every respect except one. The one on the left was hedged at a profitable price by the man who grew it. The one on the right was sold for cash—at a loss.

You can take much of the risk out of the potato business through the modern business practice of hedging on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Hedging is a useful transaction by which you contract to sell your potatoes at the best available price before they are produced. If, later, the price goes up, it's true you will not make as much as you might have. But if the price drops, you've avoided a serious loss. In either case, you can add dollars to your working capital by borrowing on your hedged production. Many banks will loan more money on hedged potatoes than on unhedged.

Those who buy large quantities of potatoes can protect themselves from an extreme price rise by buying potato futures at a guaranteed price for possible future use.

To learn more about the application of hedging to your business, write to us at the address below and ask for "potato hedging information."

FRAGMENT BID REACHES SLAM

Today's hand plays easily at six spades. Declarer can play safe by cutting two clubs in dummy and discarding his last club on the queen of diamonds. Of course, a diamond lead will frighten him but won't hurt, since trumps break 2-1 and diamonds 4-2.

Bidding to the slam is another problem. When this hand was played in the Eastern championship, only three pairs out of over a hundred got to this lay-down-slam.

One pair got there by means of the bidding shown in the box. It looks crazy but, judging by the results, maybe North and South were crazy as foxes.

They happened to be using fragment bids, plus Italian-type control bidding in which they show the cheapest first- or second-round control. Thus North's bid of four clubs showed a singleton club and strong spade support.

South didn't have much but knew that North's singleton club would fit perfectly with his four little ones, so felt that his hand was worth some slight slam try.

His four-diamond bid, therefore, showed slam interest and first- or second round diamond control.

North felt strong enough to make a slam try of his own by bidding four hearts, whereupon South was ready for a reaction-with-his-six-trumps, side kick and stout heart.

He thought of using Blackwood but bid five hearts instead to show his second-round heart control. This was enough for North. He could find no more fancy bids and simply went to six spades.

Benefits To Area Youths Are Paid

Although the social security laws were changed in 1968 many Magic Valley people are still unaware of the benefits that exist for them.

A Twin Falls youth found out about some benefits the other day.

He inquired at the Twin Falls office and discovered he and his sister were entitled to $42.40 a month each. But by applying late, he lost seven months of benefits.

"I didn't know," the youth said. Social security officials urge anyone in doubt to contact the Twin Falls office.

The youth's mother died in 1966. At the time of her death the father received a death payment but the children didn't qualify for benefits because the mother didn't have any recent work under social security.

The law changed early in 1968. This meant the youth and his sister were eligible for benefits. When the youth inquired, he found out about the $42.40 a month. He also discovered he could get paid back to 12 months, or to September of 1968. This meant he lost benefits from February to September of 1968 because he did not apply in time.

Social security officials said many benefits await people who think they don't have any. He said a check with the Twin Falls office clears questions up quickly.
