London's Famed Chelsea District Falls Prey To Fast-Moving Commercialism

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI)—Just as tourism and exploitation of its quaintness and artiness long ago spoiled New York's Greenwich Village, so are they today erasing most of the charm of London's famed Chelsea district.

As recently as 10 years ago, a resident could choose a dressing gown over his pajamas of a morning and take his dog for a quiet walk down King's Road, the heart of Chelsea, chatting with neighbors as he did so.

Those were the days when Chelsea was known as London's "bohemian" sector, or "London's Greenwich Village." King's Road was just the local shopping and gossiping street for a village-like square mile favored for two centuries by those of literary and artistic talent.

Then came mod Mary Quant's pioneering clothes boutique, Bazaar, and for Chelsea that was the beginning of change.

There still is the occasional bakery that wafts out its delicious smelts of new made bread, but on King's Road it is one of the last reminders of the past. The butcher and candlestick maker, the little tea shops, have disappeared under a furious onslaught by modern commerce.

By recent count, the half-mile "in" stretch of King's Road had 84 assorted boutiques, brass fronted and garishly fitted in contract to the quiet architecture of the gracious houses in the side streets.

King's Road is now such a magnet for tourists and Britons alike that on Saturdays the sidewalks cannot cope with the influx. Visitors go tramping down the middle of the street, threading between the automobiles.

Mini-maxi skirts, boots, wigs, chain belts and buckles have meant a fortune for the shop owners but the death knell of Chelsea's old self.

Most artists and writers haven't a hope of affording the rents. Titled and professional people still live in the elegant free-dotted backstreets, but their houses worth $36,000 to $72,000 10 years ago, have soared in value a good 50 per cent or more. Rents have climbed accordingly.

Shop names reflect the new mood of the road that was originally called after King Charles II. One boutique is called "Kleptomania." "Stop the Shop" has a revolving front that customers can hop aboard. Other store names: "Just Men," "Just Looking," and "Girl."

Diplomatic 'Grapevine' Says Russ Chinese Talks Succeed

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Sino-Soviet Talks: The diplomatic grapevine in Moscow says that the Soviet-Chinese negotiations in Peking are doing better than expected. The Russians appear to be pleased with the reception the Chinese accorded Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov. Although the talks by preliminary agreement are supposed to be confined to border problems, it is reported that Kuznetsov is trying with some success to go into other issues, particularly the resumption of Sino-Soviet trade and normal diplomatic and cultural relations.

Nasser On Downgrade? Persistent reports from the Middle East claim that President Gamal Abdel-Nasser of the United Arab Republic is losing strength. Failure to bring about a military or political solution of the Arab-Israeli conflict has undermined his prestige considerably, according to diplomatic reports.

Philippines Election Rumors say that spending in the Philippines presidential campaign has hit an all-time high. President Ferdinand E. Marcos is said to be spending 25 million pesos (about $6 million) a day. His challenger, Sergio Osmena, Jr., is reported to be laying out one million pesos (about $250,000) a day. This is one of the poorest nations in Asia.

Jim Garrison Seeks Re-Election To Push His Belief In Assassination Conspiracy

By M. GENE MEARNS

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—District Attorney Jim Garrison, who still wants to prove President John F. Kennedy died as part of a conspiracy, has turned temporarily to the practical task of first getting re-elected.

After a jury found Clay Shaw innocent March 1 on Garrison's charges that he conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to assassinate President Kennedy, Garrison dropped from public view, a tired, nervous man. He surfaced only a few weeks ago when the campaign warmed up. Now he is refreshed, a few pounds heavier, and is busy wooing voters. Garrison faces two of his former assistant district attorneys and a young former assistant U.S. Attorney in the Nov. 8 Democratic primary election. If no one candidate gets a majority, the top two will go into a second primary.

In New Orleans, the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election even if there is Republican opposition in the general election.

All three opponents, Harry Conlick, Ross T. Scaccia and Charles R. Ward, have disagreed with Garrison's prosecution of Shaw. They have called it a "complete fraud," a "witch hunt" and they say that it obsessed Garrison to the point that he neglected his duties of prosecuting the prosecution of crime in New Orleans.

Hunter Killed Near Idaho Falls

IDAHO FALLS (UPI)—Donald E. James, 18, 10th, was shot and killed Sunday while hunting near Homer creek.

Law enforcement officers said James was hunting with a group of other men Southeast of Idaho Falls near the boundary of Bonneville County. James was apparently mis-taken for a deer by another hunter.

The name of the other hunter involved was not immediately available.

RETURNS SHOSHONE — Dick Barney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barney, north Shoshone, has returned home after spending a year in Laramie, Wyo., where he completed a technical training course. He received a mechanic's diploma.

public official in the United States to stand up and say that the Warren Commission is a fraud.

As six-foot, six-inch Garrison warms to his subject at political rallies, perspiration breaks out of his brow, his eyebrows twitch, his eyes glitter and sweep the audience. He pauses for dramatic effect.

"It is not over by a long shot," he announces. "You will find out what they did to John F. Kennedy. We did not get why . . . we didn't back off. There is no more investigation now . . . all that is left is prosecution of some of the cases we have. When we finish with the trials, then you'll be proud of your district attorney."

Scaccia quit Garrison's office in 1967 when the Shaw case broke. He denounced it at that time as a fraud and declared himself a candidate against Garrison in this election.

"Garrison has been fanning the flames of hate," says Scaccia, a red-haired, sardonic 34-year-old. "In this campaign we've got a situation where it is hard to move people. It is a pretty hopeless situation. Miracles can happen and Jim Garrison could be beat, but to beat him it would take dollar for dollar in TV time and nobody can match big Jim's

"We made a mistake," Garrison said explaining the $1 million deficit, in that the growing amount of bond forfeitures was not reported directly to him. He promises to do better in the future.

All charges hurled by Conlick, Scaccia, Ward and others seem to bounce against Garrison and fall away. Observers say Garrison still has plenty of political clout in New Orleans based on his popular position against the federal government.

Garrison claims the commission held Oswald was the lone assassin of President Kennedy. Garrison claims the CIA, former President Lyndon Johnson and the "military-industrial complex" all played roles.

"The Shaw case is not closed yet," Garrison says. A few days after Shaw was cleared of conspiracy charges, Garrison filed perjury charges against Shaw, claiming he lied under oath in his trial when he testified he did not know the CIA and other alleged conspirators.

"We weren't even close to being proven wrong (by the Shaw jury). I am not going to apologize for being the only

400 Jailed

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission has been told that on two separate days last July a census revealed there were more than 400 persons confined in 69 Idaho jails.

Less than five per cent of the jail population was female.

CHAIRMAN NAMED BOISE (UPI)—William H. Langrose, Boise attorney, has been appointed state chairman of the Idaho Mental Health Association's remembrance fund.

WBSU-TV hired Louis Bowles and Grace, professional opinion pollers of Dallas, to see how the voters lined up in the district attorney's race. The pollsters reported that 39 per cent mostly approved of Garrison's handling of the job but that 30 per cent disapproved.

A Blow To Moderate Republicanism

NORFOLK, Va. — The remarkable success of William Battle, middle-road Democratic candidate for Governor in gliding together his party's ramshackle coalition in this populous Tidewater region is a severe blow to moderate Republicanism, not only in Virginia but in the entire South.

After squeezing through two Democratic primary elections of unprecedented ferocity, Battle seemed highly vulnerable to Republican candidate Linwood Holton — particularly in the Tidewater, key to Virginia elections. Stalwarts of the conservative Byrd organization, led by Sydney Kellam of Virginia Beach, remained hostile to Battle. Liberals who had supported State Sen. Henry Howell against Battle in the primary seemed ready to support Holton.

four years the ultimate triumph of Republicanism. Rather, Virginia seems to be at the crossroads, ready to determine its political climate for the 1970's. A Republican victory would trigger mass migration to the South — including perhaps Sen. Harry Byrd, Jr., himself — into the Republican party with the Democratic party becoming the minority party controlled by Howell's liberal — Negro forces. Battle, liberal enough to be an intimate of the Kennedy's was not such a Republican ally as conservative enough to play ball with the Byrd machine, would prevent such a polarization as Governor.

Idaho Falls Post-Register

Tolerance for other ideas and a willingness to examine all sides of a complex issue are virtues which all students must learn — including some militant Idaho Falls High School students. Because they didn't agree with the committee of students arranging participation in the Moratorium observance here, they proceeded to beat up one of the leaders and push around the others. One student was given physical treatment because of the altercation.

ground rules should be orderly discussion, peacefully and logically advanced and with presentations from all sides on an issue.

If students want to express themselves individually peacefully, by wearing arm bands, for example, this should be a student's prerogative. But all-school rallies in support of one side of an issue on school time on school grounds, we are confident, will not be acceptable to the school board . . . or should it be.

The Moratorium committee, we are also confident, represented a very small minority on the Idaho Falls High School campus, in its advocacy of the Moratorium. But minorities must have their day in a Democracy in terms of free expression. Such an opportunity was afforded by the peaceful demonstration in front of the post office Wednesday by a handful of people. Such an opportunity was provided at the local Methodist Church for all ages. The panel presentation at the Idaho Falls Rotary club the same week also provided a pro and con discussion of the Moratorium.

The Moratorium presumed greatly on President Nixon. It's organizers made the amazing assumption that President Nixon's withdrawal program would take "eight to 10 years." Obviously, they were not privy to President Nixon's plans — but should have been aware of his declared policy which he obviously was implementing in an orderly fashion. In fact, the possibility of President Nixon declaring a cease fire in South Vietnam, is another indication of the Moratorium's vast presumption on the matter. We are certain history will show that the cease fire was in the mill prior to the Moratorium.

Nevertheless, the Moratorium, although it provided no real alternative to President Nixon, has to be considered an expression of the greatness of this Republic's commitment to free expression — and this right must be determinedly protected. The Moratorium said: "we are not going fast enough," but had no prescription save for focusing a public will on the White House.

Out Of Touch?

Idaho State Journal

One of the ideas proposed by Idaho's city officials at their convention last week must have been born following a too-long social hour. Directors of the Association of Idaho cities suggested the state authorize cities to collect an income tax up to one per cent on all persons employed in the city.

who thinks the taxpayer is in a mood for such legislation has been pretty well out of touch lately. Instead, we hope that the Legislature would give the cities a more equitable share of revenue from liquor sales, and stop permitting counties to tax city residents for county roads.

Imposition of a city income tax doubtless would be sought on a promise of reducing property taxes. But most of us would rather live the latter, than be confronted with another heavy new tax.

School Buildings?

Christian Science Monitor

Empty old textile mills, many of them blocks long, stand idle alongside rivers in many New England towns and cities. Symbols of failure, decline, to many. But it need that, be? A Harvard Graduate School of Education study hit upon the idea of using the buildings for schools. The HGSE people were commissioned to help the one-time mill city of Lowell, Mass., find its way out of its school problems. Lowell needed to replace 23 of its 36 schools. New structures would cost $35 a square foot, but the mills could be rented for far less than that.

In other parts of the country architectural symbols of decline could likewise be turned to advantage. In Louisville, for example, a complex of 24 empty concrete grain silos are to be made into apartments catering to a young clientele. Windows will be chiseled out of the walls of the 12-story-high cylinders with jackhammers.

The time is gone in America when all building problems can be solved by annexing another chunk of open land to get away from cities or towns or industries past their prime. Perhaps the real challenge of our age is not in building anew, but in imaginatively using what we already have.

Don't Blame The Military

Muzzled military men can't talk back; somebody has to. Intimidated by the Hatch Act, military men cannot counter-attack their host of accusers.

The Hatch Act was intended to prevent public criticism of public policy by members of the military. Its effect, however, has been to disarm and silence our military men — and even retired military men who fear deprivation of their pensions.

Now those Americans who are embarrassed and humiliated by our fiasco in Southeast Asia, searching for a scapegoat, can accuse the military of "misleading" them — and the Pentagon's planners, past and present, are required to shoulder the same and take the blame unprotesting.

One voice on the Hill has spoken out in their defense. Rep. Mendel Rivers (D-S-C.), chairman of the House Select Committee, says if we did, in fact, overrun our headlines in Vietnam; if we did blunder into a disastrous war which we should have avoided, it should be remembered that we did so on the advice of civilian leaders — not military men!

But now those civilian leaders are protesting that they got "bad advice" from the Joint Chiefs.

Former State Secretary Dean Acheson endorsed public advertisements backing Lyndon Johnson's war policy in 1965. Now Acheson says he was "misled" during briefings at the Pentagon. He says, "They led us to believe the military situation was more favorable than it was."

And, when governor of Michigan, George Romney similarly claimed that he was "brainwashed by the military."

About Key Jobs

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon, a long senator and congressman and eight years president of the United States, is politically astute in his winning of elections. But he did not learn the trick of bringing a large, entrenched bureaucracy under control.

When John Kennedy came to the presidency in 1961, he put a team of specialists in the White House. These men compiled a list of 3,000 key posts in the government, then doffed and systematically rooted out Republicans and neutrals and inserted men loyal to Kennedy and to the wing of the Democratic party. Their replacements went deep into the departments, even to quiet low levels when these posts were fingered as pressure or control points.

These men were professionals. They developed ways to get around Civil Service regulations aimed at riveting bureaucrats in office.

The operation was carried out so swiftly that in the State Department a bitter fight developed over the employment of so many new top men without adequate security clearance handling the most secret and delicate affairs of government.

Like Kennedy, Nixon started with a list of some 3,000 vulnerable posts. In a few agencies — as at the General Services Administration where little government policy is made — Nixon men have acted with ease.

These were decisions by civilians; not by military men. When our Joint Chiefs were consulted by Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy there was never any doubt but that North Vietnam could be knocked out of combat as Japan once was; by the strategic placement of decisive weapons.

It was our civilian commanders-in-chief who, rightly or wrongly, denied our troops the use of those weapons of decision.

Vietnam is a terribly unhappy situation for us all. Naturally nobody wants to claim the blame for a defeat — or even for a strategic retreat.

But let's not now crucify our military men for following our civilian orders.

A blopsy may be taken for this, as in your case, or the same process may be employed in the midst of surgery. Say a patient has a sore or some other organ has been removed, and there is a question as to whether it is cancerous. The issue is not whether it is cancerous or not. If cancer is present, then the rest of the surgery must be more extensive than otherwise.

Essential as that is, it is only a part of what the pathologist does. Well-run hospitals also have "tissue committees," with their own rules and regulations. Tissue removed in surgery is examined to make sure that it needed to be removed. A surgeon who removes healthy tissue is normal or abnormal, particularly to see whether a malignant change has occurred — that is, whether it is or isn't cancer.

A multitude of tests, unknown to a generation or two ago, provide definite diagnosis of diseases that used to be difficult to identify.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A dermatologist took a biopsy from my face and sent it to a pathologist. I am of the opinion that a pathologist only works on the tissues of dead people, to find the cause of death when it is not known. Am I correct?—E.W.

No, no! No, no way out. If you don't look up "pathology" in a dictionary, you'll find that it is the study of the essential nature of disease — any disease. It is perfectly true that a pathologist is often called when the cause of a death is not otherwise established.

However, the pathologist is of far greater use to the living patient, although they rarely see him. One important responsibility is examining small bits of tissue to see whether the cells are normal or abnormal, particularly to see whether a malignant change has occurred — that is, whether it is or isn't cancer.

A blopsy may be taken for this, as in your case, or the same process may be employed in the midst of surgery. Half a century ago, the hospital which a doctor teach had a pathologist — one. By the time he retired, the pathology laboratory had grown to require five pathologists plus the services of many technicians as aides.

Pathologists

G. BRUCE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For two years I have had an abscess in the rectum. When my left hip starts aching, I know the abscess is flaring up again, and I am in pain for days and can't walk. I'll buy anything you say to prevent another attack.—Mrs. W.R.G.

I'd gladly recommend tell you "something to buy" if I thought it would do any good, but I don't. Rectal abscesses are caused by the same kind of disorder in the rectal canal: it may be a fissure, hemorrhoids, papillitis (inflammation of a raised area), or one of some other cause.

Before you blindly and hopefully buy something, you have an expert examination to find out what disease condition caused this abscess. Then treat that condition. The abscess then will be easy to overcome.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a spontaneous pneumothorax twice within a year. Would it be safe for me to have more children? Suppose this occurred during pregnancy? What effect would it have on the unborn child?—T.Y.

Spontaneous pneumothorax is the rupture and puncturing of a bleb in the lung, and the lung collapses, much as a balloon would. The lung returns to normal when the rupture is closed.

This would have no adverse effect on an unborn child. As to having more children: one cannot predict whether spontaneous pneumothorax will recur. You may have no more attacks. Hence I see no reason to avoid further pregnancy.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching, and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in the column whenever possible.

States Gain Extension On Meat Checks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Department officials have decided not to oppose a bill that would grant a year's extension for states' compliance with federal meat inspection standards. Under the Wholesome Meat Act of 1957, the federal government is empowered to make over inspection of meat for markets within any state that fails to meet an initial deadline of Dec. 15. However, a pending bill sponsored by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Id., would allow states until Dec. 15, 1970 to bring their meat inspection systems up to full equality with the federal program for meat sold in interstate commerce. The Curtis bill would also allow states making "significant progress" toward an equal system by December, 1970 another year — until December, 1971 — to complete improvements in their programs. It was learned recently that administration officials had told the White House Budget Bureau the department would not oppose the proposed extension.

Arraignment Held In Fatality

BOISE (UPI) — Marvin Frank Ronch, 33, Boise, was arraigned here Sunday before Justice of the Peace Frank Chaffin on charges of involuntary manslaughter. The charges followed the death Saturday night of Barbara Ann Vogt, 15, Garden City. The Ada County Sheriff's Office said the involuntary manslaughter charges were lodged Sunday morning. Ronch had been held in the Garden City Jail Saturday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated and then brought to the county jail in Boise. Police said the Vogt girl was hurt some 200 feet through the air after she was struck by a vehicle driven by Ronch that was attempting to pass a pickup truck on the right hand side of Children Blvd. The girl died in a Boise hospital about an hour after the accident.

DEVELOP MISSILES TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's armed forces have started to develop ship-to-ship missiles, the Kyodo news agency said Sunday. Japanese military technicians previously emphasized ship-to-air and anti-submarine missiles.

Statue Of French Soldier To Stay Despite Bridge Project

PARIS (UPI) — For Parisians the statue of the French mercenary soldier on the Alma Bridge is as much an essential part of their city as the Eiffel Tower. The statue of the 19th century Zouave, erected in 1851 on the orders of Napoleon III as a permanent tribute to France's former North African troops, has come to have a special meaning. Excavating when the level of the Seine is raised by melting snows, the rise is measured against the Zouave standing in the shadow of the Eiffel Tower. Newspapers and newspapers will assure riverbank dwellers that "the level is up to the Zouave's ankles" and that there is no danger of the Seine's banks overflowing. Danger level is reached when the muddy waters of the river lap around the soldier's waist. At that height the water also washes onto the roads bordering the Seine. The river rarely reaches that level. The highest it has ever risen was in 1910, when it surged up to the Zouave's neck in one of the worst floods in the history of the French capital. Now city authorities are pulling down the Alma Bridge because it is too low to accommodate growing river traffic and too narrow to cope with road traffic increasing at an even faster rate. But the Zouave will remain. When the City Council announced plans to pull down the Alma Bridge and build another, higher one in its place.

Idaho Woman Is Killed In Crash

ST. ANTHONY (UPI) — Mrs. Eva Rawl Rice, 78, St. Anthony, was killed late Saturday in a car accident on a county road in Fremont County. Idaho State Police said the death brought the Idaho highway traffic death toll to 267 which compares with 242 on this date a year ago. Injured in the other car was Dan Quayle, 20, also from St. Anthony. Officers said the accident occurred a mile west of U. S. Highway 191 and four miles south of St. Anthony. Impatient

NEW YORK (UPI) — A pessimistic impatience with the war in Vietnam is increasing in the United States, according to a new poll by the Louis Harris organization. Four fifths of the public are "fed up and tired" of the war, the poll revealed. Yet 55 per cent do not believe the war will end in two years ago — feel the war has been necessary to thwart Communist aggression in Asia. Results of the poll appear in the current issue of Time magazine, released Sunday.

Victim Says Caller Not 'Zodiac'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A survivor of an attack by a killer who calls himself "Zodiac" does not think Zodiac is the same man who called a television talk show to talk to attorney Melvin Belli. Bryan Hartnell, a pre-law student who talked to Zodiac for a half hour before being critically stabbed, listened to tapes of the television program Wednesday and again Friday. He said he could not be sure whether the voice was the same, but commented that when the voice told Belli "I've got to kill," it seemed younger and more excitable than Zodiac. Hartnell and Cella Ann Shepard, 22, encountered the man believed to be Zodiac Sept. 27 on a lonely beach near Lake Geryessa in Napa County 60 miles northeast of San Francisco. He said the man had such a calm voice "it never entered my mind that he would try to kill me." The attacker stood 40 feet away behind a tree, donned a black hood and then ordered the couple, at gunpoint, to give him money. He directed Miss Shepard to tie up Hartnell with clothesline he provided and then tied up the girl. But his quiet line of talk did "nothing to make me frightened," Hartnell said.

Senate Committee Seeks New Approach To Solve Costs Of Political Campaigns

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A senate subcommittee is looking at a new approach to cope with the ever climbing cost of political campaigns. But the outlook for passage of a new law appears no more promising than that for related bills lost in the congressional maze more than a decade. The new bill blames television for most of the increase in campaign expenses. It would require TV stations to sell campaign time to candidates for the House and Senate at 20 to 30 per cent of commercial rates. Thirty-eight senators and 34 House members have joined in endorsing the proposal. Yet the question is being asked whether a majority of incumbent House members would vote to share this help with potential challengers. Incumbents already have built-in advantages when they seek re-election. For many, these include free television radio time to deliver recorded reports to their constituencies before they announce they are running again. In hearings before the Senate communications subcommittee last week, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., thought the bill would command more support if it included governors. Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, Democratic national chairman, supported the bill as a first step but wanted it to apply to presidential candidates in 1972. He said Hubert H. Humphrey might have won the presidential election last year if the Democrats had more early money available for television. Presidents of the three television networks all opposed the bill. They said they would be agreeable to reducing rates for candidates using television but objected to having rates set by a law which would exempt political advertising on radio and in newspapers. The networks chiefs repeated their calls for repeal of the "equal time" provision of existing law so they could offer time to major candidates for debates and other programs that would enlighten the voters. Suspension of that law in 1960

Moves Will Be Tried To End Student Draft-Deferments

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rarely successful moves that would upset traditional House procedures will be attempted this week to end student draft deferments and increase aid to education.

Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., has announced he will try to open the entire Selective Service law to amendments Wednesday when the House takes up President Nixon's plan for a draft-type lottery.

Two House committees—Armed Service and Rules—have recommended voting be limited to a proposed repeal of restrictions that bar the president from instituting a draft lottery.

Bolling and a band of Democratic congressmen argue that many changes are needed in the draft laws and now is the time to make them.

One of the changes he is seeking is an end to college draft deferments on the grounds of "inequity" or "financially privileged should not escape the draft for four years while others less fortunate are called up to do the fighting."

A fight is also expected Tuesday over a generally routine "continuing resolution" that would allow agencies still without an approved budget to continue spending at their most recent budget levels.

Sponsors of increased aid to education are expected to try beefing up college aid now instead of waiting for final approval of an appropriations bill.

A move will be made to increase interim spending for education to $20 million from the $200 million voted by the House Appropriations Committee.

German Mark Increase Put Into Effect

BONN (UPI)—The increase in the value of the West German mark went into effect today, making imported goods cheaper for West Germans and exported goods more expensive for foreigners.

The new rate for the mark became official at midnight.

Chancellor Willy Brandt's new Social Democratic government announced the revaluation Friday, increasing the mark's value from 25 to 27.3 cents.

Post-Mortem Performed On Mummy

LONDON (UPI)—Two British anatomists said a belated post-mortem examination of a 3,300-year-old mummy of Egyptian Pharaoh Tutankhamen showed he apparently died from a blow on the head.

Although conceding that the pharaoh probably died violently, neither Prof. R. G. Harrison nor Dr. R. C. Connolly of the University of Liverpool could draw the conclusion in their report that he had been assassinated. History, however, shows that Tutankhamen was a likely target for political or religious assassins when he died at the age of 19 about 1352 B.C.

The two anatomists conducted their examination last December at Tutankhamen's tomb in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor, the Thebes of ancient Egypt. Discovery of the still-intact tomb by British archaeologists in 1922, in addition to being historically significant, popularized the pharaoh in modern times and prompted a nickname for him, "King Tut."

LOS ANGELES CITY Fire Department Battalion Chief Ernest inspects part of a mammoth crescent-shaped fissure in the 1100 block of Pasco Del Mar late Sunday. Geologists said the fissure may have been precipitated by recent earthquakes in the Southern California area. Within two hours after it was noticed, the crack police described as "bottomless" zipped through the living room of one home and extended 80-feet down a bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean. There were no injuries reported. (UPI telephoto)

Pope Announces Greater Powers To Be Given Bishops

By RAY MOSELEY

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI announced today in a speech closing the World Synod of Bishops he intends to give greater powers to bishops while making sure his own supreme authority in the Roman Catholic church is untouched.

The Pope said he accepts recommendations of the bishops synods to be held once every two years and for bishops to be given an active role in the work of the permanent Synod Secretariat of the Vatican.

He said he also would give "utmost consideration" to the possibility of bishops writing their own agenda for future synods.

The Pope made no mention of the key proposal before the synod—a recommendation that he consult bishops before deciding questions of major importance to the church, such as the church position on birth control.

The synod voted today on 13 separate proposals for giving bishops greater authority with the Pope in the government of the church.

Synod sources said the results would be announced Tuesday.

The Pope Sunday presided the assembly, saying it was leading the church toward goals, "not yet clear but already lofty and marvelous."

Addressing 30,000 pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square, he hailed the synod as a "sign of the times" and a historic event.

Pope Paul earlier had disappointed some of the synod liberals by reaffirming the church law on celibacy for priests, calling Saturday on the Virgin Mary to grant "supernatural support" to celibacy and "make us also understand its worth—its heroism, beauty, joy and strength."

Campaign Trip Set By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon puts the finishing touches today on plans for his first political campaign trip in support of Republican candidates since he entered the White House.

Nixon spent the weekend at Camp David mountain retreat in Maryland where he worked on major speeches on Vietnam and Latin America.

A presidential foray across the Potomac River into Virginia is set for Tuesday in behalf of Linwood T. Holton who is seeking to defeat Democratic nominee William C. Battle in the governor's race.

The President will address a rally in Holton's hometown of Ronoke Tuesday night.

Nixon is also scheduled to make appearances in Morris-town and Hartsacks, N.J., to boost the candidacy of Rep. William T. Cahill for governor. Cahill faces Robert B. Meyner, the Democratic candidate who served the maximum permissible two consecutive terms before the current governor, Democrat Richard Hughes, won another eight years.

The GOP has not elected a New Jersey governor since 1949, but a feud between Meyner and the Hudson County Democratic organization gives Cahill a chance for an upset.

The Democrats are similarly split in Virginia, where the Republicans have not elected a governor since Reconstruction days.

Driver Charged After Accident

James Romans, no address listed, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident. He was taken into custody late Saturday after Leonard Sellers, 231 Maurice St., notified officers his parked vehicle had been damaged.

Several witnesses told officers they saw the Romans vehicle collide with the parked vehicle and leave the scene. Damage was estimated at $100 to the Sellers pickup truck and $75 to the Romans car.

DEAR ABBY: How I wish I had had some sex education in school. Not one word was spoken about "sex" in our house. My mother was a minister's daughter and my father was a minister! My husband and I were shocked to learn that we had to get married. (He was 22 and I was 20.) Believe it or not I was a virgin, but we went in for some very heavy petting although we never went "all the way" technically. But I got pregnant anyway, and the "virginal" membrane was broken by the doctor before the birth of my baby. (If this sounds impossible, ask a doctor.) I am lucky. We have a wonderful marriage, but had we not been so stupid and naive we could have avoided a lot of embarrassment for our families.

Kissing Sparks Science To Cure Common Cold

One hundred and eighty-five million cold germs may come in from the cold this winter, but not for long, if preventive medicine prevails in the end. One of the oddest ways of finding a cure for colds and sore throats is now taking place at the University of Wisconsin, under the auspices of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Instead of trying to cure the common cold, medical researchers are conducting kissing experiments which are devised to give germs every chance to pass from one person to another.

According to Dr. Elliot Dick and Dr. Donn J. D'Alessio, two noted respiratory virologists from Wisconsin University, in Madison, Wis., some day these kissing experiments may help astronauts get to Mars free of sniffles. Some astronauts on multi-manned missions, despite all precautions, have come down with colds.

Medical history is replete with similar cures and preventions of colds and sore throats. A Victorian remedy for a heavy cough consisted of having the patient eat a bowl of raw onions.

English fishermen many years ago tried to ward off colds by clenching to their chests a live fish. Some early American set-for you for being in favor of sex education in school. I was married at 18, and you wouldn't believe how ignorant I was. My poor dear mother kept telling me that "experience was the best teacher" because she didn't know how to tell me all the things I should have known. I'm not blaming her. HER mother probably never told her anything either. I am a mother now myself, and I think all children should have their questions answered honestly at home, but there should be a good sex education program in every school—beginning in kindergarten.

EVERYBODY HAS A PROBLEM. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nix-On-Pix TOPS Club Observes 10th Anniversary

The Nix-On-Pix TOPS Club members observed the club's tenth anniversary recently. This is the oldest established TOPS club in Idaho and the only afternoon group in Twin Falls. Mrs. Grace York was the founder of the club in 1959 while in Twin Falls visiting her daughter. Mrs. York was in a TOPS club in California, and wanted to establish with a club for the time she was to be visiting here. She found there were no clubs in this area so ran an article in the newspaper to let the public know she was interested in starting one. The first meeting had 50 persons present and 25 signing up for the club. The next week the Nix-On-Pix Etiologists received their charter.

Twenty-one members weighed in at city hall—9 losing 17 pounds and eight gaining 4 1/2 pounds. "Best Loser of the Week" went to Arlene Francis with a seven-pound loss. After weighing all members met at the Turf Club for a low calorie luncheon and the crowning of the three-month queens.

The queen in divas was Mrs. Francis, with runner-up, Florence Mayer. Sharon Debban was queen in division four, with Lila Mason runner-up. The Stork Club queen was Pat Staggers with a 17 1/2-pound loss but also a gain of a lovely daughter, Nellie Horjes—was KOES for the three-month period. Each royal lady received a pink rose corsage and charms for their bracelets.

Vonda Wagner, club leader, received a standing ovation from the club members during sound-off. She was graduated as KOES at the Area Rally last week. Eleven members had perfect attendance for the three-month period. They are Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. Horjes, Ardh Berney, Orlime Armstrong, Irene LaPray, Margaret Grant, Florence Mayer, Wanda Mott, Della Blaine, Donna Deane and Sharon Debban. Each received a Pyrex dish.

Misses of ceremonies for the fun to be a Mrs. Minerva Smith, Robert Grant, Jerome, entertained the group with a medley of songs on his electric guitar for the Roberts Dunlap gave two readings.

Lamonica Throws For 3 TD Passes As Oakland Stops San Diego 24-12

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Daryle Lamonica threw three touchdowns passes and was aided by a stubborn defense as the undefeated Oakland Raiders stopped the San Diego Chargers 24-12 in an American Football League game Sunday attended by two Soviet cosmonauts.

Spray Has Single-Stroke San Francisco Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Steve Spray won his first tournament in five years Sunday when he ran down a six-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole, the only birdie of the round to finish with a one-under-par 70 and a 72-hole score of 15-under 269 and capture the $100,000 San Francisco Open.

Snead Paces Eagles Past Saints 13-10

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Tommy Snead frustrated the 245 yards he gained in the air without a touchdown registered, ran five yards for a score on a bootleg Sunday to nail down a Philadelphia Eagles 13-10 victory over the winless New Orleans Saints.

Snead's score came midway through the third quarter after he had seen the heavy-handed Eagles drop no fewer than six passes—two of them certain touchdowns missed by Ben Hawkins.

The Eagles, holding a 6-3 halftime lead on two field goals by Sam Barker, opened a third quarter drive on their 34 following a Saints kick. The big ground-gainer was a 65-yard pass from Snead to Harold Jackson which carried to the New Orleans 8.

Veroy Keyes took a handoff for a three-yard slash at right end and then on the same play Snead sent Keyes outside while he hid the ball. Snead set out on his own, Snead's drive against the flow and outran everyone into the end zone.

The Saints, trailing 13-3, took over the ball on their 39 with four minutes left in the game. Jim Newsum completed six passes and they moved the 61 yards. Nwowski hit Jim Hester with an 11-yard touchdown pass with 48 left.

Dempsey's conversion cut the score to 13-10, but Bill Bradley recovered a New Orleans' short kickoff on the Eagles' 48. The Saints held for three downs and then a 22-yard punt by Bradley gave New Orleans the ball on their 29 with one minute left.

Joe Scarpati settled it for the Eagles with an interception on the first play.

KANSAS CITY'S GLOSTER RICHARDSON (30) DIVES OVER THE GOAL LINE FOR THE CHIEFS THIRD TOUCHDOWN AGAINST CINCINNATI Sunday. The play started from the six-yard line. Bengal defenders are Bill Bergery (60), James Johnson (29), Bobby

Warren McVea 80-Yard Dash Sparks Chiefs Past Bengals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Kansas City scored two touchdowns in an 8-second span with a 42-22 American Football League victory over Cincinnati.

Cincinnati had rallied to within six points at 23-22 before Warren McVea dashed 80 yards against his old team. The key play was a 37-yard pass to Alworth on a third and 31 situation. Alworth leaped and ran 21 yards for the final touchdown.

Kansas City built a 28-12 lead in the third quarter on the running and pass receiving of yards rushing and 101 passing. But the Bengals, who earlier handed the Chiefs their only win in Cincinnati, refused to fold. Defensive end, Harry Gunner, who created a safety in the first half, picked off a pass in Livingston's past and ran 70 yards for a touchdown.

Garrett had given the Chiefs a commanding lead at 8:37 left in the third quarter on a 10-yard pass from Livingston. The Kansas City running back left the game early in the fourth quarter after being struck by a 27-yard Livingston to Robert Holmes pass.

Muhimmann kicked a 35 yard field goal for Cincinnati and Sam Wyche threw a 59-yard scoring pass to Bob Trumpy. Gunner caused a safety when he knocked the ball out of Livingston's hands and it bounced into the end zone, where Kansas City's Ed Budde fell on it.

The Chiefs, now 6-1, stayed primarily on the ground, grinding out 313 yards rushing.

Livingston, who is 5-8 and weighs 180 pounds, said Austin, his face white with excitement, said "I'll kill him, so-and-so."

Livingston said he had heard that Austin had told Roy Yardhigh, Press sports editor, "I'm going to get him (Livingston)."

"I wasn't going to let him hit me. I was afraid of him," Livingston said. "I wouldn't let him think I wasn't going into the dressing room because of him."

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (UPI)—The compromise of national officials closed quietly Sunday with many delegates complaining that the one really African issue confronting the Olympic movement—racial discrimination in sports—had not been faced squarely.

Writer Gets Bums Rush From Austin

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Pat Livingston, Pittsburgh Press football writer, had just finished interviewing Washington coach Vince Lombardi Sunday and was ready to leave the Redskins' dressing room when Bill Austin, Redskins' line coach, seized him.

"Get out of my dressing room," shouted Austin who is 6 feet and weighs 200 pounds. "Get out of here, you-go-and-so."

Livingston, who is 5-8 and weighs 180 pounds, said Austin threw a hammerlock on him.

"He just grabbed me and pushed me about five yards," Livingston said. "He blames me for losing his job as the Steeler head coach. He is a 2-11 coach (Pittsburgh's record) and Livingston said, 'I wouldn't let him think I wasn't going into the dressing room because of him.'"

Jurgensen, Redskins Top Steelers, Hanratty 14-7

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Sonny Jurgensen scrambled for one touchdown and passed for another in helping Washington get behind for a 14-7 victory over Pittsburgh Sunday and spoiling Terry Hanratty's debut as a National Football League starter.

The paunchy Jurgensen, never noted for his running ability, raced over from the 10-yard line midway through the third quarter to end an 80-yard drive and tie the score at 7-7.

On his first play following the kickoff, Marlin McKeever grabbed Hanratty's second interception and then Jurgensen threw a 7-yard scoring pass to Charley Taylor for the winning points.

Hanratty, Notre Dame's All-American quarterback last past two seasons, ineffective most of the game, failed in two spectacular bids in the final minutes to bring Pittsburgh a tie.

Washington's penalty Washington took possession. Then after three long passes played in the final minutes, the Redskins' nine-yard line, Hanratty goals.
