India Political Shakeup Threatens Gandhi's Role

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The conservative old guard of India's ruling Congress Party today expelled Prime Minister Indira Gandhi from party membership in a move that threatened her job as premier and plunged the country into political crisis.

Hundreds of demonstrators began converging on Mrs. Gandhi's headquarters in support of the 31-year-old prime minister and a demonstration leader said it was "just the beginning" of a nationwide struggle against her opponents, known as "The Syndicate."

The expulsion was ordered by 11 of the 21 members of the Congress Working Committee of the Congress Party at a three-hour meeting. Mrs. Gandhi and nine of her supporters boycotted the meeting and then denounced its result as "unconstitutional."

To maintain her role as premier, Mrs. Gandhi probably will have to form a coalition with the Communist Party and other leftist groups. She is still thought to have a small majority in the lower house of the People's (Lok Sabha) but if members desert her she might have to call general elections.

The Congress Party has ruled India since Indian independence and is the only national party. There is no other party to fill a void left by its disintegration which has been slow but steady in recent years. That disintegration speeded up after Mrs. Gandhi became premier four years ago.

The syndicate is made up of the aging and powerful political barons of the cities and towns who were leaders in India's struggle for independence from Britain. They are generally referred to as The Syndicate, and they are the last July when an open fight exploded over party leadership. She was firm and won out.

Mrs. Gandhi's troubles began immediately. Instead of following their direction she ignored them. The feud simmered until she was forced to delegate to others the task of finding solutions to such grave problems as poverty, disease and India's population explosion—which has brought its population to 500 million persons.

Yanks Catch North Viets By Surprise

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops aboard armored personnel carriers directed against the North Viets caught a company of North Vietnamese troops threatening the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and chased them across three hills in an 11-hour battle reported today.

Military spokesmen described the clash three miles south of the DMZ Tuesday as the biggest fight in that area since U.S. Marines began pulling out a month ago.

Twelve North Vietnamese were killed in the running battle. Two of the U.S. 5th Mechanized Infantry Division soldiers died and 10 suffered wounds after catching the guerrillas on a hillside at 4:30 a.m.

The battle below Con Thien on the eastern end of the DMZ was one of several skirmishes reported. Military spokesmen said a total of 220 Communist troops were killed against U.S. losses of five dead and 37 wounded.

U.S. B52 bombers came in from foreign bases for eight raids during the night, two of them hitting at the western end of the zone near the old abandoned Allied fortress at Khe Sanh.

No Go

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Law and order is a little slower at State Capitol these days. Someone stole the capitol policeman's golf cart.

The $200 cart had been provided so the security officer could make his rounds faster. But he failed to secure it in the underground parking lot behind the capitol and a thief took it.

Now the officer is making his rounds on foot.

Metropac To Be Ready By Next May

Mountain Bell officials hope to offer complete Metropac service by next May.

Metropac is a sophisticated switching system that will allow subscribers to call any of 14 cities in Magic Valley without a long distance charge. The service, however, costs more than regular service and is available only to those who subscribe.

Kenneth Mann, district manager of Mountain Bell, said Monday the company will start contacting potential subscribers in March.

"We mailed out questionnaires last year and about 1,700 indicated they would want this service when it is available," he said.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission approved the service following a hearing in Twin Falls a year and a half ago.

At that time it was a question of extended area service or Metropac. Under the first, everyone would have had to pay more for their telephone service, but everyone would have been able to call cities in Magic Valley without a special long distance charge.

Metropac allows callers to telephone people up to distances within a 30 mile radius of the originating call.

Mr. Mann said engineering work has been under way for several months, and work will be finished by next spring. The Metropac service is expected to start next May.

Finch Backs Federal Ban Of Pesticide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch has endorsed a report recommending that major use of DDT be brought to an end in the United States over a two-year period, it was disclosed today.

John G. Veneman, undersecretary of the department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Finch had discussed the proposal with two cabinet colleagues, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin and Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, and both "were receptive to the idea."

A high Agriculture Department source said the department expects to announce soon a ban on most—but not all—uses of the widely used pesticide.

Veneman said Finch had not signed an order for an outright ban since authority to curb use of DDT on crops is under Hardin rather than the HEW secretary.

"What he did was accept a report which concludes that major use of DDT be phased out over a period of two years," Veneman told newsmen on Capitol Hill.

City Asking Waivers To Get Funds

Property owners in the Monte Vista Subdivision No. 2 will receive notices this week concerning a waiver of covenant.

Jean Milar, acting city manager, said when the subdivision was first platted it was expected all lots would be used for residential purposes and a restriction was filed to this effect.

Since that time, several lots were deeded to the city and Cascade Park was constructed. Mr. Milar said this was found to be adverse to the filed restriction.

He said the city now has an opportunity to obtain more than $40,000 in federal funds from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to offset the costs of the park. For this reason the property owners will be asked to sign the waiver.

Mr. Milar said this involves about 200 signatures of the property owners. He has hired two women who will begin visiting the property owners the last part of the week. The people in the area will receive letters concerning the matter before the visitations.

Jerome School Gets Praise For Project

JEROME — Dr. J. Engleking, head of the State Department of Public Instruction, has congratulated the Jerome High School staff and Supt. John Campbell for their efforts to set up communication with teachers and students through the "Meet and Discuss" forums.

The state official stated in a letter that although the problems will be many, the idea is good and should work, and wished the students and leaders good luck in their project.

In Mr. Campbell's report to trustees and interested citizens at the board meeting Monday night, he told what the first two sessions had covered and what would be discussed at the meeting to be held this week in the school library. Students would like to plan for the addition of more lifetime sports in the curriculum.

They would like to have someone from CSI describe future plans for the college.

Mr. Campbell told the board, "If acceptance of what these youngsters have to say is sincere and not arbitrary, this idea should work. The idea of communicating is the soundness of the communication, and these sessions are a means of providing this communication."

Warren Kaye reported the results of the auction of the Pleasant Plains School property. Lem Utter bought the property for $2,900. The appraised value of the property had been set at $2,600.

After a report from Leroy Craig concerning insurance on the school district's two empty buildings, it was decided to maintain the existing insurance

T.F. Has Chance For "Perfect Year" Of Topping Blood Quotas

"Can Twin Falls meet the challenge of a perfect Red Cross collection year?"

This is the statement issued today by Harold Hove, honorary chairman of the November blood drawing, set for Thursday from 2-7 p.m. in the American Legion Hall.

Mr. Hove said, "If Twin Falls meets its quota of 150 pints at the next blood drawing on Thursday, it will mean a perfect blood collection year for Twin Falls."

"This is the first time in the history of Twin Falls that this has ever been done. I am very proud of the citizens of Twin Falls for their support of the Red Cross blood program so far in 1969. For the five drawings held thus far we have met or exceeded our quota each time."

"I urge everyone to take time Thursday to give of yourself so others may live."

Red Cross officials are excited about this drawing Thursday as they are hoping to see the first perfect blood collection year in the history of Twin Falls. So far in the five previous drawings, the collection figures are: January, 225 pints; March, 220 pints; May, 150 pints; July, 179 pints; and September, 213 pints.

According to David Nelson, chairman of the Twin Falls Blood Drive Program, the blood that is drawn in Twin Falls is immediately shipped to Boise in special cool containers.

"Boise all blood is typed to check its safety. Then it is stored in a large blood bank. Any hospital in the Boise region needing blood, makes the request to Boise and blood is shipped by the fastest means possible to the requesting hospital."

Mr. Nelson said Red Cross blood is never wasted and any blood that is not used before the expiration date, is processed and the various components of the blood are separated and sent to hospitals when requested.

Loyalty Asked

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's adjutant general has asked all citizens to continue to demonstrate their support of the United States by flying the nation's flag at their homes and businesses through Sunday.

Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett said he also has asked all Idaho Army and Air National Guardsmen to fly their flags, and to drive with their headlights on and to keep porchlights burning through Sunday.

Nixon, Pat Cheer Veterans Hospital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Nixon observed Veterans Day Tuesday by spending an hour chatting and joking with patients at the District of Columbia Veterans Hospital.

"Good," Nixon replied. "Tell me when you are on the promotion list."

The President, an avid sports fan, shared with some patients his impression of Sundays 28-28 "let them know that the nation has not forgotten their service and sacrifices."

At the hospital in far northeast Washington, Nixon and the First Lady toured wards separately, exchanging greetings and light-hearted banter with those they met, including Glen Seaman, a

$50 Stolen From Church In Twin Falls

More than $50 has been reported stolen from the Twin Falls Presbyterian Church, Twin Falls City Police report.

The theft was reported Tuesday to officers.

Entry was gained through an unlocked window on the east side of the west wing of the church. The thief then pried open the door to the office area and also pried open a filing cabinet in which the money was kept.

About $54 was taken from several envelopes and church receipts from church functions were kept. An undetermined amount of money and some checks also were taken from a blue money bag, officers said.

The burglary apparently took place sometime after Sunday afternoon.

Harbor House Opens Doors To Public On Sunday; Tribute To Project Supporters

An opportunity to better understand the purpose of Harbor House of Magic Valley and to inspect the facilities being offered residents throughout the area in an open house program Sunday.

From noon until 4 p.m. house parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Schiffler, and members of the Harbor House Inc. board of directors will be at the new home to welcome interested persons. Chairman of the board, Richard Reed, said this will be a final opportunity for the public to tour the home as it will be no longer open for public inspection. Because of the nature of the home's use it is not possible to maintain it on an open basis, Mr. Reed explained.

All persons who can are urged to visit Harbor House Sunday afternoon. Small brochures, describing the purpose of the home and the history of its establishment as well as other information will be distributed. Members of the Altrusa Club will serve refreshments during the afternoon. Several other organizations have donated cookies.

Mr. Reed said the open house has been scheduled to accommodate those who may wish to drop by after church or during the afternoon and still have time for other Sunday outings. Board members noted the open house will be a tribute to those who have worked since 1968 to establish this type of facility, to the board of county commissioners for their support, and to the countless people, organizations and businesses that have contributed to the home.

Included in the brochure will be a list of more than 150 persons, firms and organizations that contributed money, supplies, material, labor and other assistance.

Mr. Reed noted without the help of these people it would not have been possible to have a Harbor House here and an effort has been made to thank all involved but some may have been overlooked and as a result the open house will be a thank-you to the entire community.

Harbor House, he noted, has already served to shelter a number of children although in use only a brief time. It is designed to take care of the emergency and temporary needs which often arise in a community. Youngsters awaiting Probate Court hearings will be placed in the home or will be spending several days or even in some cases weeks in Harbor House.

Final plans for the open house were made during a board meeting Monday afternoon. In other business Tom Nelson resigned as organization treasurer and board members elected Curtis Eaton to fill the post.

OPEN HOUSE IN NEW Harbor House is planned for Sunday afternoon with interested residents from throughout Magic Valley urged to visit the new facility, meet house parents and board members. Some of those involved in planning for the open house during a Monday afternoon meeting include Richard Reed, board chairman; Tom Nelson, treasurer; Larry Hauber and Mrs. Joseph Humphreys, seated all from left, and standing, E. E. Jellison, Mrs. Gale Conner, secretary, Castleford, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Schiffler, house parents, and Morris Carlson, county commissioner.

Commission Rapped For Judge Choice

Actions of the Twin Falls County Commissioners in filling the probate judge's seat was attacked Tuesday by Vince Smazal, Twin Falls County Democratic chairman.

"The people of Twin Falls County must feel a little like Alice in Wonderland as they watch the conduct of the business of Twin Falls County," he said.

"They have been treated in the spectacle of the probate judge, who just one year ago campaigned for his office with the promise he would fulfill his obligation to the people by doing a good job and completing his term. This is the third Republican office-holder in recent years to walk out on his contract with the people of the county."

"The people paid to give the judge experience, but as soon as he felt he had enough, the people were forgotten."

"The conduct of the county commissioners in filling the vacancy is even more contemptuous of the people. There were four applicants for the job — three from Twin Falls County and one from Boise, and the Boise man got the job."

Two of the Twin Falls County men were lawyers and had the support of their bar association. The other was the Justice of the Peace with plenty of practical experience to have handled the job. All of the probate judge episode is an excellent example of one-party politics," Mr. Smazal concluded.

Masons To Honor Four Area Men

Four area Masons will be honored Friday night at an open house at the Masonic Temple for having achieved the highest honor possible in the lodge.

John Parris, Claude Gordon, Floyd Bandy and G. Paul Bragg have filled all offices, including presiding in the highest in all four Masonic bodies—the Blue Lodge, Royal Arch, Council and Commanding. Only some 1,800 men in the United States have achieved this. The four have also received other honors while working their way up.

The open house will start at 8 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the Willa Dean Nielson Dance School and Rex Reed will sing. Refreshments will follow.

Don Haasch, Boise, a Grand Lodge officer, will be among the distinguished guests attending from out-of-town. He will speak briefly on the Knights of the York Cross.

$237 Theft Reported At Dairy Depot

Twin Falls City Police are investigating the theft of $237.63 Wednesday morning from the Stoker Dairy Depot outlet at 269 Washington St. N.

Officers said the building was apparently unlocked with a key, as there was no sign of forcible entry. The burglary apparently took place between 4:30 a.m. when a deliveryman picked up his supply of milk, and 8 a.m. when other employees entered the building.

The money was in a brown paper bag hidden in the building, officers said.

Bandits Stage 'Commando' Raid

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Fifteen bandits staged a commando-type raid at Whitehead Metals Co. in northeast Philadelphia Tuesday night and fled with nearly 11,000 pounds of price-controlled nickel, worth $120,000 on the black market.

The two-hour job was marked by almost mechanical precision. The raiders handcuffed and used adhesive tape to bind eight employees and used company equipment to load three trucks they brought with them.

Lesson In Korea

While Americans weigh the plan of President Nixon for extricating our troops from South Vietnam, it is timely to call attention to what is going on in Korea.

Democratic doves have thought they saw in Vietnam may have proved to be a mirage. To a degree, the election results became by President Nixon's voluntary involvement an indirect referendum on his stand.

Idaho Consumers Need 'Good Lawyer' To Cope With Complaints Over Merchandise

By LINDY HIGH
(One of a series)

BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho consumer with a complaint should either know a good lawyer or be on speaking terms with the salesman that sold him the goods.

The simple fact is that there is no effective consumer protection legislation on the books in Idaho.

The two laws more frequently cited are the Fair Trade Act and the Unfair Sales Act. Unfortunately for the consumer, both laws are really pricing acts designed chiefly to protect the small merchant.

And to top things off, responsibility for enforcing the legislation is placed with Idaho's Department of Commerce and Development. Executive Secretary Al Minton of the department said his solution is to turn any complaints over to the attorney general's office.

The rising concern over consumer protection is not limited to Idaho. Tim Brennan, executive secretary of the Idaho Retailers Association, credits the increasing interest to the housewives.

"It's because of food," Brennan said. "The housewife becomes more excited about food because it's the only area normally in her budget she has any control of."

"The rest of her salary, usually, is dedicated to contract payments and the fixed expenses," Brennan said. "When food prices increase, not because of retailers, but because of inflation — she gets excited."

Brennan is working closely with the attorney general's office to draw up consumer legislation, although he firmly believes most retailers are dedicated to satisfying customer complaints.

Assistant Attorney General Richard Greener, who rides herd on consumer problems in the office, said he felt that 99 percent of the merchants are legitimate, and that 99 percent of the business practices are fair and honest.

Greener and Assistant Attorney General Stewart Morris, who are working on proposed consumer protective legislation, say that the measure will be aimed at the "fly-by-nighters" and the more abusive problems.

Morris said the main thing he hoped for would be a "cooling off period" to protect against high pressure door-to-door salesmen who can sell a product that wasn't really wanted and leave before something goes wrong.

"I've heard of one salesman that actually told a lady he could put ice cubes in her vacuum cleaner and turn it on reverse and use it for an air conditioner," Morris said. "Some people believe these things."

Morris said another aspect of consumer legislation would be to prevent obviously deceptive advertising. As an example, he said a retailer could buy a fountain pen for $5 and, with a 50 percent markup, would sell it for $7.50.

He said some would price the pen at $10 for a few days, then mark it down to $7.50 and pass it off as a bargain.

Some acts are already prohibited under Idaho's Deceptive Practices Act, Morris said. "But there's some question whether the attorney general can bring action to enjoin it."

Greener said the "uninformed" person tends to be victimized more than others.

He said a "classic" example of consumer bilk is the traveling sales outfit that will offer to put siding on a house. Although Greener said there is usually a markup of the job, the salesman will inform the owner that their house will be going for them when they do this," Greener said. "The consumer thinks he's going in there to purchase at a bargain home siding, after viewing the model, the owners will be paid. Greener said a contract is then assigned, and three or four pieces of siding will be attached, and then they're never seen or heard from again."

He said that in this case, a contract action would be possible "but practically speaking they (the salesmen) are not going to be found."

Greener also said his proposed legislation would prevent "bait and switch" advertising. The practice is usually seen when the "bait" is a product advertised at an extremely low price but the product is obviously no good, so the customer is "switched" to a higher priced item.

"They have a lot of things going for them when they do this," Greener said. "The consumer thinks he's going in there to purchase at a bargain home siding, after viewing the model, the owners will be paid. Greener said a contract is then assigned, and three or four pieces of siding will be attached, and then they're never seen or heard from again."

He said that in this case, a contract action would be possible "but practically speaking they (the salesmen) are not going to be found."

Greener also said his proposed legislation would prevent "bait and switch" advertising. The practice is usually seen when the "bait" is a product advertised at an extremely low price but the product is obviously no good, so the customer is "switched" to a higher priced item.

"It's akin to the old chain letter thing," Greener said. "Those who find themselves getting into the end of the pyramid find themselves laden with a very costly amount of merchandise which can't be sold to anyone because the market has been saturated."

Next: The need for consumer legislation.

'Lonely' Murderer Complains Of Being Ignored By Public

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Up to the end of Oct. I have killed 7 people," he said. "I have grown rather angry with the police for their telling lies about me. So I will change the way the collection of slaves."

The passage about collecting slaves, which was followed by his statement there would be no future announcements, apparently was a reference to one of his previous cryptograms which said souls of his victims would be his slaves in the afterworld.

At the bottom of his message on the greeting card Zodiac printed, "Des July Aug Sept Oct equals 7"

He previously had claimed responsibility for the killings of Betty Lou Jensen, 16, and her boyfriend, David Farady, 17, near Vallejo last Dec. 20; Darlene Ferrin, 22, near Vallejo, July 5; Cecilia Ann Shepard, 22, in Napa County Sept. 27, and San Francisco cab driver Paul Stein, 29, Oct. 11.

The letters did not specify the two additional killings but the "Aug" reference corresponded with the deaths of two San Jose teen-age girls Aug. 3. They died of multiple stab wounds.

Four of Zodiac's alleged victims were shot and one was stabbed numerous times, but the San Jose slayings had not previously been attributed to him.

San Jose Chief of Detectives Barton Collins said he doubted they were the work of Zodiac, because the boasting slayer would have wanted to take "credit" for stabbings of Deborah Gay Eurlong, 14, and Kathleen Snoozy, 15, earlier.

In one of his previous notes, Zodiac warned that "school children are nice targets."

"I think I shall wipe out a school bus some morning," he wrote. "Just shoot out the front tires and then pick off the kiddies as they come bouncing out."

School buses throughout the area were under armed guard for weeks following the threat.

"The police shall never catch me," Zodiac said in his latest letter, "because I have been too clever for them."

Indian Task Force Voices Anger Over 'Conspiracy Of Silence' Against Red Men

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — None of that "staid and noble child of nature" stuff for the American Indian Task Force. This is an angry group of men and women, and they don't care who knows it.

The task force is comprised of 42 Indians from 32 tribes in 15 states. They came together originally to help write a book, "Our Brother's Keeper—The Indian in White America," and more recently to tell Vice President Spiro T. Agnew what the Indian needs, most is a voice and a hand "in his own destiny."

The task force held a news conference Tuesday to report on its four-hour meeting with Agnew and presidential aide Leonard Garment. But first some of the task force offered opinions of the news media and the small notice they said was given to the new book.

"We must indict you as being a major part of that conspiracy of silence that hides the daily injustices to which our people are subjected," Janet McCloud, a Nisqually from Yelm, Wash., read from the task force's prepared statement.

"Because you, the press, have not chosen in your might to consider us important enough or sensational enough, there is no one to listen, and ultimately there is no redress for these grievances," Ernie Stevens, an Oneida now living in Sacramento, Calif., read in a low, choked voice. "It is you who have helped entrust us to a massive bureaucracy and left us there—the captive—America's prisoners of war."

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Up to the end of Oct. I have killed 7 people," he said. "I have grown rather angry with the police for their telling lies about me. So I will change the way the collection of slaves."

The passage about collecting slaves, which was followed by his statement there would be no future announcements, apparently was a reference to one of his previous cryptograms which said souls of his victims would be his slaves in the afterworld.

At the bottom of his message on the greeting card Zodiac printed, "Des July Aug Sept Oct equals 7"

He previously had claimed responsibility for the killings of Betty Lou Jensen, 16, and her boyfriend, David Farady, 17, near Vallejo last Dec. 20; Darlene Ferrin, 22, near Vallejo, July 5; Cecilia Ann Shepard, 22, in Napa County Sept. 27, and San Francisco cab driver Paul Stein, 29, Oct. 11.

The letters did not specify the two additional killings but the "Aug" reference corresponded with the deaths of two San Jose teen-age girls Aug. 3. They died of multiple stab wounds.

Four of Zodiac's alleged victims were shot and one was stabbed numerous times, but the San Jose slayings had not previously been attributed to him.

San Jose Chief of Detectives Barton Collins said he doubted they were the work of Zodiac, because the boasting slayer would have wanted to take "credit" for stabbings of Deborah Gay Eurlong, 14, and Kathleen Snoozy, 15, earlier.

In one of his previous notes, Zodiac warned that "school children are nice targets."

"I think I shall wipe out a school bus some morning," he wrote. "Just shoot out the front tires and then pick off the kiddies as they come bouncing out."

School buses throughout the area were under armed guard for weeks following the threat.

"The police shall never catch me," Zodiac said in his latest letter, "because I have been too clever for them."

Bronx Youth Imprisoned For 15 Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Bronx youth has been sentenced to a maximum 15-year term in Sing Sing prison for the beating of a social worker from Arizona.

The defendant, Clinton Butler, 21, also was sentenced to four years in prison for manslaughter in the June slaying of a police officer in April, 1966. Bronx Supreme Court Justice Sidney A. Fine directed that both sentences be served concurrently.

Butler was free on bail awaiting sentence on the manslaughter charge when the assault occurred last August against Miss Ellice Higginbotham, 25, of Phoenix.

Weary Britons Probe Effects Of Jet Travel On Humans

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — winged horse of mythology? Turning day into night, 14 weary Britons Tuesday began 10 days of tests to determine how long-distance jet travel affects the human body and mind.

The travelers, having gained nine hours, arrived from London Monday night to start the U.S. phase of Project Pegasus, a study of the body's "biological clock" sponsored by Syntex Corp. and Trans World Airlines.

Stepping off a jet in the dark at San Francisco International Airport, Dr. Miriam Moore-Robinson glanced at her wrist watch and said: "I have twenty past seven in the morning. I am waking up now inside me and my appetite is increasing. But I have to go to bed."

Dr. Moore-Robinson is one of six scientists who will be testing project Pegasus participants with an array of sophisticated equipment.

The range of tests will include checks of judgement, memory, mood, reaction time and ability to make decisions. Biological specimens will be assayed for corticoid growth and sex hormone content as well as breakdown products of brain hormones.

Dr. Kenneth Birgin, an organizer of the study, said that even though travelers think they are efficient after long-distance trips, body changes can occur which affect judgment.

The project also could result in important information on future flights on supersonic transports, said a spokesman for Pegasus, named after the

Jerome Heritage Home Is Full, Operates At Profit

JEROME—Larry Harper, executive director of the Jerome Housing Authority, told board members at their monthly meeting Monday that the Heritage Homes housing for the elderly is all-filled and is operating at a profit.

All members of the Jerome Housing Authority were present to vote on several resolutions suggested by the HUD auditor.

The Jerome unit is operating on a service agreement with the Twin Falls unit, but the auditor told Mr. Harper that since the Jerome Housing Authority has a separate contract with the government, these resolutions must be reviewed.

Resolutions to amend the by-laws were passed by the board giving the vice-chairman authority to counter sign checks in the event the chairman is not available, travel and mileage to be paid members housing authority attending to designated, official business; reimbursable policy to reimburse operating authority for administration and maintenance salaries.

To comply with requirements of the annual contribution contract, a resolution was passed to deduct excess money in the general fund into HUD-approved investment securities.

Mr. Harper informed the board members that the recreation hall of Heritage Homes is being used more all the time by the residents and also by civic organizations and club groups. The recreation hall is available to any group on a first reservation basis. Reservations for the hall can be made by contacting Mr. Harper or Guy Kennedy, the care taker of Heritage Homes.

The recreation hall and all the facilities are open to anyone for use and a minimal charge is made for its use.

Mr. Harper also informed the board that a "no bicycle riding allowed" sign has been placed at the entrance of the Heritage Homes. This came about as the result of the many complaints of the residents about bicyclers making it dangerous for these elderly people to dodge them while crossing streets in the housing area.

The auditor's report for the first operating quarter, will be completed soon and will be presented at a future meeting.

'Deplorable' Mail Service Stirs Protest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Like many Americans, former Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., thinks the U.S. mail service is deplorable.

The difference is that he is busy lobbying for improvement. He thinks the best way is for Congress to convert the post office into a nonprofit government corporation.

Morton held a small luncheon to make his pitch to the press. He admitted almost every day he sets a hand to these days is lost.

"The post office is unmanageable," he said. "It's run by 335 members of Congress who form the board of directors. They set rates and fix costs."

"Actually," the onetime Republican national chairman who is the brother of the present one said, "The members of Congress would love to give it up. But publicly they have to say they don't want to and I can understand that."

He was talking about the postal unions, which are fighting the removal of the post office from tight congressional control in fear it will give them less bargaining power. Congressmen are highly responsive to the unions, who represent some 750,000 employees.

The government corporation was first proposed in 1967 by former Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, a Democrat, and since endorsed and submitted to Congress by both President Lyndon B. Johnson and President Nixon.

Morton and O'Brien united in what Morton calls a "strange political marriage," as co-chairman of the Citizens Committee for Postal Reform.

The corporation proposal recently lost on a 13 to 13 tie vote in the House Post Office Committee but is still open to amendment of the floor and to revival in the Senate. Morton holds considerable hope for it next year.

Workshop At Jerome Shows How To Make Simple Tools

JEROME — Stan Olson, head of Physical Education and Health, State Department of Education, Boise, conducted an "In-Service Workshop" Monday for teachers and principals of the elementary schools, and the physical education department staff of the Jerome schools.

He presented a film and demonstrations showing what can be done in the class room to create working tools for very little money or the usual expensive facilities needed for a physical education program.

One demonstration showed how to make a ball out of yarn and a racket from a coat hanger and nylon stockings. When finished, one has the tools to play a game similar to badminton right in the class room. The film gave illustrations on how to set up a "self made" bowling alley or golf course in a gymnasium, plus many other interesting ways to create equipment to be used in this relatively new innovation, elementary physical education.

According to Roger Michener, physical education and athletic coordinator of School District No. 261, the students were dismissed an hour early from school, Monday, so they could donate an hour of school time and the teachers could donate an hour of their own time to make a two-hour workshop session.

The In-Service workshop, presented as an introduction to National Education Week, provided the teachers with ideas they have been looking for concerning what to use in the new elementary Physical Education trend. It was held in the Junior High School audio-visual room.

Miss King, who has attended college the past three years, will leave this week for Salt Lake City and take a language training mission at Ricks College before departure early next year for Denmark.

Speakers included members of the Wendell King family, Rex, Craig, Chris and Ann, Clifford Ward, Mrs. Grant Flavel, an aunt of Miss King, Bishop Vern Nelson, Miss King and her parents.

A duet was sung by Wendell King and Son Rex, and a group song by the family. Mrs. Kenneth Johnson was piano accompanist.

Area Girl Honored At Farewell Fete

RICHFIELD—A farewell testimonial recently honored Eva King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell King, Richfield, who will be a missionary to Denmark. The service was held at the LDS church.

FCC Okays Call Letters For Station

POCATELLO (ISU) — The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has approved KBGL-TV as the call letters for the $448,000 Idaho State University Educational Television station now under construction. Herb Everitt, director of radio-TV services at ISU, said this was the second choice of call letters requested. "In making applications to the FCC for call letter assignment, it is required that five choices be submitted," Mr. Everitt said. "The FCC then determines which of the five it will assign to the proposed station. The first choice on the list submitted to the FCC was KISU, with the second being KBGL-TV. A reason for the FCC assignment is that ISU has been operating a campus FM station with KBGL-FM as its call letters. I'm very pleased that KBGL-TV was assigned as it will provide a continued identification of long-standing service." The FCC has granted a construction permit for a non-commercial standard broadcast TV station to be operated on Channel 10 by Idaho State University.

Mrs. Jean King reported the names submitted by the nominating committee for directors. Included were Jim Chatburn, Albion; Mrs. Linda Helouska, Jack Holland Sr., Alan R. Kendrick, Gayle Midgley, Mrs. Fac Stoddard and Mrs. Ruth Terhune, all Burley; Mrs. Carleen Clayville, Declo; Mrs. Glen Parke and Dale Pierce, both Malta; Mrs. Okelberry and Mrs. Sorenson were nominated from the floor and all 12 names were accepted for new directors.

It was announced that posters have been placed in all three banks on easels so the public can be kept aware of the County Red Cross Fund Drive progress. District leaders for the Burley residential area include Willard McLaws, Gladys Esquire, Mrs. Frank Ham, Neal Jepperson, Mrs. Saide McMurphy, Mrs. Carolyn Joslyn, Mrs. Lyle Morton, Mrs. Pat Church, Mrs. Don McEwan, Mrs. Ann Christian, Mrs. Bonnie Anderson, Mrs. Jean Gibson and Mrs. Ed Bailey.

Carolyn Barnes is serving as division chairman of rural areas and Farnum Warr will direct the drive in the Milner area. Bob Peterson will assist with the drive in the Milner area. Bob Peterson will assist with the drive in special assignments. Tracy Swigart, Red Cross Field Representative, Pocatello was a guest during the breakfast meeting.

"Help us help by giving to the Red Cross" is this year's fund drive slogan. The American Red Cross assists members of the Armed Forces and their families; veterans; disaster victims and those who are in need. Other areas where the Red Cross helps is the blood program, home nursing instruction, first aid training, swimming and boating safety and community services. The Red Cross is financed by voluntary contributions and locally the duties are performed by volunteer workers.

Pete Conrad Will Aim Ship At Tiny Target On Moon's Soil

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 12 commander Charles "Pete" Conrad wants to set his moonship down between two little unnamed craters that lie just 300 feet apart on the lunar Ocean of Storms.

Not just any two little craters, either. Two very specific ones.

The larger of the two is the crater in which Surveyor 3, a robot camera ship, landed in 1967. Conrad and Alan L. Bean are scheduled to visit the Surveyor during their second moonwalk, snip off some of the robot's parts and return them to earth.

Conrad gives himself a 50-50 chance of accomplishing this difficult feat of pinpoint navigation. If he makes it, he will have achieved the second most important objective of his flight.

Proving the possibility of such a "point landing," as mission planners call it, is vastly important to Apollo flights in the future, which will aim for scientifically interesting sites in the rugged lunar highlands.

The first of these highland landings is scheduled to take place during Apollo 13 next March.

Pilots on these missions must be able to land on tiny, pre-selected places smooth enough for a safe touchdown and yet within the area that scientists want explored.

"We hope to develop our techniques on this mission that will lead us to perhaps further development on the next mission, leading us to the capability of landing in some very tight places," said Apollo Mission Director Chester Lee. "Conrad's task is to test techniques for this type of pinpoint landing on the relatively smooth, arid Ocean of Storms. Failure here would not be too dangerous. If he misses the target, Conrad still has a good chance of making a safe landing on a smooth plain."

Achieving the point landing would be a major achievement over Apollo 11. America's first moon landing crew touched down about one mile south and four miles west of the center of its target. The pilots were still barely within the broad target oval, and the aiming accuracy was fine for what was required—a safe landing and return to earth.

Since then, mission planners have improved on methods for predicting the spacecraft's path around the moon, tracking it, feeding it computer data to use in navigation and flying without adding errors to the computerized navigation. They think the computer-controlled initial descent will be accurate enough for Conrad to take control manually and fly to his target.

ACTRESS HAS SON
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Salma Hayek, who plays "The Flying Nun" on television, became the mother of a 7-pound, 4-ounce baby boy Monday.

Court Denies Appeal Of War Protester

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A man cannot simply decide he is a conscientious objector to avoid the draft and service in Vietnam, according to the U.S. court of Appeals.

The three-judge panel also declared that the case of John H. Sisson, 22, was "wrongly decided" by a U.S. District Court in Boston. The Boston court said Sisson had a right to label himself a conscientious objector—a ruling now on appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The ruling upheld an earlier decision by District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli in the case of Louis A. Negre, 22, of Bakersfield, Calif. Negre contended that religious grounds should not be necessary for a conscientious objector classification. However, the court ruled that "a conscientious objector classification may not be given to an objector to the Vietnam War solely on his personal moral code, based upon his sociological and philosophical views, rather than on religious training and belief."

Smell Of Garlic Lures Alligator

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—For Kasey the alligator, the smell of marshmallows and garlic bread apparently is stronger than the call of the wild.

The three-foot mascot of the Kennedy Space Center (KSC) roamed off mysteriously for several weeks from his home in the pond between the space center's cafeteria and headquarters building. There were fears Kasey had been kidnaped by poachers and sold as a handbag.

But cafeteria lunchers found Kasey back in residence, and hungry as ever, Monday and concluded he had only gone off to court a lady gator. Two alligators were put in the pond in July in an attempt to restore its natural ecology. One of the gators disappeared right away, but Kasey stayed to become a favorite of space workers. They gave him his name and Kasey quickly learned when lunch was.

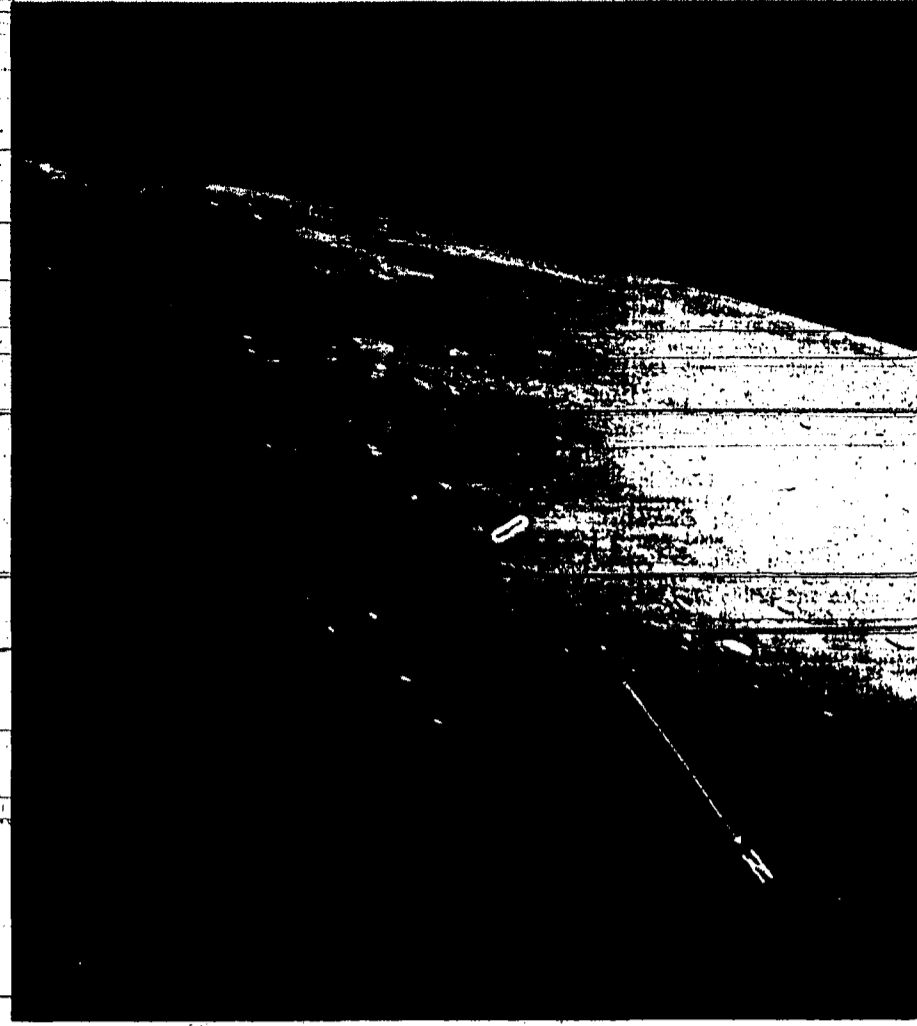

He likes marshmallows and garlic bread best.

Moon's Surface Presents Bizarre View Of Jagged Peaks, Airless 'Atmosphere'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—For the second time in earth and 6,700 miles in diameter and 238,857 miles above our globe, the moon is jagged with mountains rising as high as 20,000 feet, pitted with craters. The moon travels through space at 2,287 miles an hour. Lunar gravity exerts one-sixth the force of gravity on earth. As an object that weighs 60 pounds on earth would weigh only 10 pounds on the moon. That is why astronauts walking on the moon bound us on a trampoline. Scientists are not sure how the moon was formed. The three main theories are:

1. It was once part of the earth and split off; that evolved as a separate body at the same time the earth was formed; that it formed somewhere else in space and wandered until it was captured by the earth's gravitational field.

War Veteran Honeymoons In Hawaii

KAILUA-KONA, Hawaii (UPI)—The Albert Nirensteins have started their Hawaiian honeymoon.

Nirenstein, 22, Stamford, Conn., lost both legs in Vietnam and then married his former nurse—twice.

The Nirensteins were flown here as guests of the Hilton Hotel's Corp. and checked into the ocean-side Kona Hilton on the island of Hawaii.

Hawaiian flowers, tropical fruit, champagne and a chartered fishing boat awaited their arrival from New York.

They were married Sunday in the penthouse of the New York Hilton Hotel and flown to the islands where they said they planned to engage in their favorite sport—deep-sea fishing—as part of their honeymoon.

Concert Planned

WENDELL—The United Presbyterian Church of Wendell is making plans to host the Watch Academy Choir on Sunday, Nov. 16.

The choir will present a concert of religious music at the morning worship service. The Watch Academy is located in Mount Pleasant, Utah, and is owned and operated by the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

During the 1963-64 NFL seasons, Baltimore Colt Lenny Moore ran for touchdowns in 11 straight games, setting a league record.

The couple was to be guests of the hotel here until Nov. 18, after which Nirenstein plans to return to the University of Connecticut and his wife will continue hospital in Phoenixville, Pa., where he met Nancy, 26.

News Of Record

JEROME COUNTY Police Blotter

Several thefts from autos, by thieves apparently looking for automotive stereo sets and tape players, were reported to Jerome police over the weekend. Thefts included the entry of a car parked on South Garfield St., where a briefcase was removed from a car and the contents were scattered over a yard.

On East Second St., several tapes were taken from a car after an attempt to remove a stereo set, which had been commercially installed, failed.

On East Third St., two five-gallon gasoline cans had been unfastened from a pickup truck. One empty can was discarded and a full one was taken.

A stereo tape player, valued at $90 was taken from a car parked at a residence on South Fillmore St., police said.

Police Chief C. H. Putney said all vehicles were locked.

Demonstrators Said Inspired By Communists

NEW YORK (UPI)—Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said Monday that most leaders of the demonstrations opposing the Vietnam war are "Communists or Communist-inspired."

Volpe thus became the latest member of President Nixon's cabinet to criticize antiwar demonstrators who this week are planning a mass march in Washington as part of the continuing Vietnam moratorium.

"If you look closely at the leaders of these demonstrations," Volpe told a news conference at the Americana Hotel, "I'd be very surprised if you don't find the majority of the organizers are Communists or Communist-inspired."

DEAR ABBY: I have read in your column many letters from the family of the bride resenting bitterly the family of the groom paying off their social obligations by inviting all their shirt-tail relatives, friends, neighbors, and business acquaintances to a wedding since it's paid for by the bride's parents...

I recently returned from the orient where I attended a wedding and was informed of their solution to the wedding guest problem. Each family invites as many guests as they wish and each family PAYS for his own guests. Clever?

Parents At Youth Ranch Have Special Challenge

BY LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent

RUPERT—It takes a special "brand" of individual to accept the responsibility of raising a dozen "adopted" sons and the Idaho Youth Ranch near Rupert needs all it can get.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neal, present head home parents at the ranch, are special individuals who function rather well as parents to their adopted family. The Neals joined the ranch "start" about six months ago after leaving a similar post at Boytown of Missouri where they had served for about six years.

"We had sold our farm and just did nothing for a year," Mrs. Neal explained. "We weren't happy and one day saw an ad for more parents at Boytown. We talked to the people and before the interview was complete, we were sold on the idea."

With relatives in Boise, and a start in married life in Wyoming, the Neals visited out West often and once toured the Youth Ranch near Rupert.

"When we saw the extreme need the ranch faced for parents," Jaunita said, "we decided to give it a try. We wanted to move back to the area anyway."

The Neals, who have raised one daughter of their own, have had the finest training, with experience being the best teacher for such a position. While at Boytown, they learned the Rosenberg System of Diagnostic and Therapeutic Intervention as taught by a St. Louis psychiatrist who often visited the Missouri home.

"We're very satisfied with the work here," Mr. Neal added, "as the boys are no different here than in Missouri. So many boys need help. We do not regret leaving Missouri as the campus there is well staffed and there is little problem finding parents for those boys."

The Neals and their dozen sons have problems similar to any other family, and have instigated a program of group therapy to keep control. The boys pressure a dissident into "straightening himself out."

Although the program originated in the Neal home, it is spreading throughout the other homes on the ranch and is expected to eventually be the main source of discipline at the ranch.

He added that, as parents, the couple wished to maintain a relaxed but firm atmosphere at the ranch. "The most important thing to disciplinary action is structure," he said. "The four main points in structure are a minimum of rules, cottage routine, group manipulation, and consistency, with consistency being the most important."

Special education instructors are Ross Johnson, hired by the Minidoka County School District, and Miss Charlene Critchlow, a retired instructor who donates her time and talents to helping teach the boys. Norman Jones, employed as a case worker at the ranch, also teaches a class in auto mechanics. Classroom facilities are provided in the basement of the new home which is occupied by the Neals at the ranch.

The parents at the ranch, which now number four couples, often meet throughout the week to discuss similar problems and their solutions to help keep the boys' lives moving smoothly. Other parents include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eshelman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goisor, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Mahling, who are presently in training.

A new program has been added to help the boys earn extra money.

The boys are hired for certain ranch jobs and paid according to their work and age. Some of the older boys work in the harvest, while the younger ones handle the landscaping and gardening, but all are kept busy.

"The ranch is slowly turning into a treatment center for the boys," Mr. Neal said, "but we are still keeping it as home-like and relaxed as possible."

The objectives of the ranch, according to ranch executive director Lee Childs is to take the troubled boy out of his present environment, to work on his social behavior and help him get along in society, to educate him, and to get him back into his family environment periodically in order to work with the family problem.

The Neals have enthusiastically accepted the challenge and are accepted as authority by the boys at their new home on the ranch.

MRS. HARRY NEAL is assisted in her cooking chores at the Youth Ranch near Rupert by Pedro, one of the "adopted" boys, while her husband samples. Mr. and Mrs. Neal are head "home parents" at the ranch and have had special training in working with troubled youths, having spent six years at Boys Town of Missouri.

Cassia Hospital Benefits From Utah Medical Program

BURLEY — Several patients in the Cassia Memorial Hospital have directly benefited from the Intermountain Regional Medical Program centered at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City.

Established under the direction of Dr. C. Hilmon Castle, the Intermountain Regional Medical Program has provided educational and clinical services in heart, cancer, stroke and related diseases. Specific services to the Cassia Memorial Hospital include medical education programs and training programs for physicians, nurses and electronic technicians. Additionally, some $10,000 in electronic monitoring equipment was provided making the Coronary Care Unit possible.

As one of several regional medical programs, IRMP serves an area geographically extending to Southern Montana, parts of Wyoming, Southern Idaho as well as Western Nevada in the Reno area and is judged as perhaps the most successful in providing extensive services at the local hospital level. Local officials say, however, to continue this concept, additional faculty and specialized resource personnel must be developed.

Consequently, a sub-regional center providing the latest and most effective methods of diagnostic and therapeutic medicine surrounding these specific diseases, hospital officials said. A close cooperative effort between members of the Cassia Memorial Hospital Medical Staff and the Intermountain Regional Medical Program presently exists.

According to Dr. Eugene Holsinger, Medical Staff representative to the Advisory Council of the Intermountain Regional Medical Program in Pocatello, "If our benefits from participating in the new sub-center compare with those we have received in the past, we can expect further important developments of health care in our area."

The Cassia Memorial Hospital expects to participate in these programs and share a small portion of the expense of the program. Present cost estimates would not exceed seven cents per patient day.

The leading cause of death in the United States is heart disease; consequently, current emphasis has been placed on the development of Coronary Care Units along with programs for treating cardiac arrhythmias. Future emphasis from the Intermountain Regional Medical Program will include cancer, stroke and other related diseases.

It is an opportunity for Cassia Memorial Hospital to continue to participate both educationally and clinically with a medical
