Armed Trio Grabs $1.3 Million From Armored Truck

NEW YORK (UPI)—Armed young men in a smooth-talking operation held up the armored car and escaped with more than $1.3 million in small bills being transported from Aqueeduct Race Track to a Manhattan bank. It was the second largest cash robbery in this country.

Only the Aug. 14, 1962 hijack of a U.S. mail truck at Plymouth, Mass., which netted $1,551,277 exceeded the amount taken Wednesday. That robbery remains unsolved. A close third was the Brink's Inc. counting house holdup Jan. 17, 1950, which amounted to $1,218,211 in cash. Six men were convicted in that holdup but the money was never recovered.

Police said little more than five minutes elapsed between the time the men converged behind Raftery's returning to the armored car and the time they escaped in a 1958 model car after locking the three guards in the vehicle and looting the truck of most of its cash.

Detectives investigating the case said Raftery had just given the secret knock and the door had been opened by guard James Kerrigan, 50, when three armed men described as in their 30s stepped up and jabbed pistols in Raftery's back.

When Kerrigan reached for his revolver one bandit asked: "Do you want to live to enjoy your pension?"

Kerrigan dropped his weapon. Two of the bandits climbed into the truck while their companion got into the cab and drove the vehicle a few blocks away to a residential section of Brooklyn. There the robbers transferred 10 bags of money to their car, ignoring other bags containing heavy coins.

The men then sped off after manhandling the guards and locking them in the back of the truck.

A housewife, curious about the bags of money being transferred, in a residential neighborhood, called police. Roadblocks set up at tunnels and bridges leading from Brooklyn failed to intercept the robbers, who, police said, had used a stolen car in the holdup.

STATE REP. VERNON Ravenscroft of Tuttle spoke to members of the Twin Falls County Tax Equalization Association Wednesday night at the county's judicial annex. He spoke on the controversial House Bill 304, and said it was a bill designed to give Idaho taxpayers tax relief in coming years.

4 Arrested After Bomb Shatters Men's Room In Court Building

NEW YORK (UPI)—FBI agents and police today arrested three men and a young woman after a bomb exploded in the Criminal Courts Building. The blast was the fourth in two days on "establishment" buildings in populous Manhattan.

The four were charged with conspiracy and held for arraignment later today but were not immediately known whether they had any connection with Wednesday night's bombing of the Criminal Courts Building.

The FBI said two of the men arrested were picked up while in the act of putting dynamite time bombs in U.S. Army trucks at a National Guard armory in Manhattan. They said the bombs were set to go off at 4 a.m. today.

The explosion in the fifth floor men's room of the Criminal Courts Building occurred while night court was in session three floors below. Some 250 persons were evacuated from the building. One woman was treated for shock.

As in the bombings early Tuesday of the RCA building, the General Motors building and the Chase Manhattan Bank headquarters, United Press International received a special delivery letter ostensibly from the perpetrator. Each letter specified accurately where and when the bombs would explode.

The letters were mailed before the blasts took place. However, in Wednesday night's explosion the bomb planter failed to telephone a warning that the building would be bombed, as he did in the Tuesday bombings.

In both letters to UPI the writer stated that a "warning to evacuate will be given."

Today's letter to UPI was received at 7 a.m. and apparently was mailed Wednesday night from the Grand Central station of the post office in midtown Manhattan.

There have been eight bombings in six months in New York, including three in Manhattan corporation skyscrapers early Tuesday morning. On Wednesday alone, police said they received more than 70 bomb scares—including one that forced the evacuation of some 15,000 persons from the 58-story Pan Am Building. No bombs were found.

Reds Pleased Launch Set For Friday

SAIGON (UPI) — Hanoi Radio said today North Vietnamese peace organizations "warmly welcome and support" this weekend's anti-war demonstrations in the United States.

The broadcast monitored in Saigon said the groups resolved in a meeting Tuesday that the U.S. protests represent "a just struggle by tens of millions of Americans who traditionally love peace, freedom and justice."

"We consider the American people as our friends in arms," said Professor Hoang Minh Glam, chairman of the Vietnam Committee for Unity with the American people.

47 Apply For T.F. City Manager Post

The Twin Falls City Council and the three newly elected councilmen met earlier this week to review applications for the city manager position.

Mayor Egon Kroll said the group met for about two hours and reviewed 47 applications. He said the aspirants are from all parts of the United States and are all well qualified.

The mayor said many of the applicants are city managers or assistant city managers in other towns. A good many of them, he said, are former Idahoans wanting to return to their home state. Some are interested in Twin Falls for the recreation offered in the area.

Mayor Kroll said he was astounded by the number of applications. He said he had expected about 20. He said the council will meet again to review new applications and look into some of the more promising ones.

Several other applications have been received since their meeting.

He said the council probably will make an announcement of the selection at its first December meeting.

Permit Asked For Road Into White Clouds

CHALLIS (UPI) — Five Po-catiello men have asked Challis National Forest to issue a road permit giving them access to molybdenum mining claims on Big Boulder Creek in the White Clouds.

Formed into a limited partnership known as the Meadow View Mining Group, the five are Edward Hansen, Don Lovin, Jerry Fransen, Elton Vroman and Frank Fisher.

Hearing Set Nov. 25 In Murder Case

GOOSING—Preliminary hearing for Lester Hewitt, charged with first degree murder, has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Nov. 25 before Gooding Probate Judge C. E. Spencer.

The hearing will be held in the district courtroom. Hewitt is charged with the death of Ira Treadwell, whose remains were found on the Treadwell property a half mile east of Hagerman last March 26.

Hewitt and his wife, who died last May in Gooding Memorial Hospital, were arrested the following day in Ogden and brought here to face murder charges.

The preliminary hearing has been delayed by Mr. Hewitt's death and illness of her husband. It was postponed from Sept. 15 because Hewitt was ill at the time.

Mr. Treadwell disappeared in 1954 and Gooding county sheriff's officers have searched for several possible gravesites during the intervening years.

Spuds Opposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House rejected Wednesday, by a vote of 171 to 198, a bill which would have provided for the promotion of potatoes and potato products.

Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said following defeat of the bill that it might be bad news for the farmer.

"I fear that congressional leadership, which in the past opposed all efforts to come up with new approaches in the agricultural field, plus the traditional opposition of urban congressmen, may mean similar rejection for any new farm programs," McClure said.

Officer Killed In Battle With New York Youths

CHICAGO (UPI)—One policeman and a gang member were killed and seven policemen and another youth wounded early today in a gun battle on the South Side.

Police said the shooting came after members of the East Side Disciples fired on officers answering the call for help of a man who had escaped from two men holding him at gunpoint in an alley.

Life Behind Bars

LA JONIA, Colo. (UPI)—Elmer Harry Lucero, 24, walked into the police station here and admitted committing four burglaries since being released from the state reformatory last month, police said.

Officers said Lucero told them he really did not prefer life behind bars, but thought it was better than being unemployed on the outside.

Air West Executive Will Speak At Symposium Here

WASHINGTON (UPI)—HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch said Wednesday the Nixon Administration would implement recommendations that most domestic use of DDT pesticides be banned within two years.

At a news conference where recommendations of a study commission were released, Finch said he and the Idaho agriculture and interior secretaries had agreed to sign an agreement on the commission's recommendations.

Asked if that meant the government would curb the use of DDT and its derivative, DDD, Finch said: "Absolutely. We made a commitment here."

The Health, Education and Welfare Secretary did not spell out the specific steps the government would take. "I assume we will begin to list

Federal Ban Planned On DDT

specifics in a few weeks," Finch said.

The report, prepared by a 16-man HEW study group Finch commissioned in April, however, said all nonessential uses of DDT and DDD should be eliminated within the next two years.

The study concluded that "the field of pesticide toxicology exemplifies the absurdity of a situation in which 200 million Americans are undergoing a lifelong exposure, yet our knowledge of what is happening to them is at best fragmentary and for the most part indirect and inferential."

The group said the use of pesticides in modern society are so important "that we must learn to live with them. But it said, the use of long-life pesticides such as DDT and DDD must be limited to the prevention and control of human diseases and other uses for which no alternative is available.

DDT, one of the most common chemical pesticides, has become the object of growing criticism as a potential threat to man's health, primarily because its toxicity takes so long to dissipate.

The commission noted that most Americans show an average of 12 parts per million of DDT residue in fatty tissues and that pesticide traces have been found far from areas of their use.

Pesticide residues have reduced the populations of several wild species, the report said. "Certain birds, fishes and insects are especially vulnerable," it added.

Finch, who said he had discussed the report with President Nixon and Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, and a Walter J. Hickey, sent the commission study to the White House. There it was referred to Lee A. Durbidge, the President's chief scientific adviser, for further discussion by the Environmental Quality Council which he heads.

While calling DDT "the most ubiquitous and predominant of all pesticide residues in man," the commission also cited other pesticides which it said can lead to contamination of the environment.

The list included aldrin, dieldrin, endrin, heptachlor, chlordane, benzene, hexachloride, lindane and compounds containing arsenic, lead or mercury.

"Unavoidable residues of these persistent pesticides will continue to occur in the soil, water, air and food supplies for a period of years despite

Taxpayers Told Bill 304 Protects Them

"Controversial? You could say it's the most controversial bill that came out of the last meeting of the Legislature."

These were the words of Vernon Ravenscroft, a Democratic state representative of Tuttle, as he spoke to 20 members of the Twin Falls County Tax Equalization Association Wednesday night at the county's judicial annex.

"House Bill 304 is not perfect by any means. But it is a misunderstood bill," Rep. Ravenscroft said.

The bill limits taxing units in the state to budget increases of no more than four per cent in the next year.

The City of Twin Falls had to get special permission from the state Tax Commission to move its budget up, because its budget had already been set and approved when the measure came out of the Legislature.

Rep. Ravenscroft said the bill was meant for "taxpayer protection," and went on to explain why.

Between now and 1982, assessors in each Idaho county are to gradually raise their ratios on assessment of property. It is at 15 per cent of true value in Twin Falls County now, and will reach the 20 per cent level by 1982.

By the same token, utilities' rates will come down, but that by 1982 taxes on all property will be paid on the same basis.

Mr. Ravenscroft said, "If the legislature did nothing, the taxpayer would face taxes as much as double or triple what they are now. We had to put in some kind of protection for the taxpayer. This is House Bill 304."

He said the bill needs some changes, but added "No one has come up with a replacement to the bill yet."

He said amendments to the bill in the next Legislature would probably iron out some of the difficulties, and added, "The four per cent provision could be worded to mean four per cent over the high of the past five years rather than in the budget of the previous year as it now stands."

He said there might also be a provision added to the bill that would give the people the right to petition for a budget election. "In this manner, the people themselves could either approve or disapprove of a budget for any taxing unit in the state."

He said the aim is for uniformity throughout Idaho in taxation matters.

Speaking on bond elections in Idaho, he said, "I seek your opinions. I feel that if everyone See TAX BILL, Pg. 2, Col. 3

Home In T.F. Damaged By Fire, Smoke

Extensive damage was done to a Twin Falls residence in an early Thursday morning blaze, according to Twin Falls firemen.

The fire at 331 Tyler St. was reported at 3:39 a.m. and when firemen arrived extensive smoke, heat and fire damage already had occurred. Firemen said a couch was on fire and had burned a hole through the floor. A partition also had been burned through, burning clothes in a closet.

None of the residents of the frame house, the family of Ray Peterson, was overcome by smoke.

Two trucks answered the call, firemen said. They also said that while cause of the fire is not known, arson is not suspected.

There were no new fires in the county Wednesday night, but sheriff's officers still are keeping a close watch on rural areas since seven fires have occurred in the last week in which arson is the probable cause. The first fire was Thursday night, when the county fairgrounds grandstand was burned, and the last fire was early Monday morning. There were two vacant houses and four haystacks burned in those fires.

A second Twin Falls family, however, has received a threatening telephone call this week. Wednesday evening a family residing near Curry was telephoned and told their house would be set on fire.

The last threat was Monday night, when a Twin Falls city resident received a similar call.

Twin Falls city and county officers are cooperating in an investigation of the seven threatening set fires, but as of Thursday morning no arrests had been made.

The park director, Perez Olando, said the action was decided upon by the national park trustees. No official reason was given.

Weather Synopsis

Pleasant fall weather is expected to continue for at least two or three days throughout Southern Idaho, and Eastern Oregon.

Some cloudiness will continue to spill from east of the Continental Divide into the Eastern Idaho valleys, but skies will be sunny much of the time and no precipitation is expected. A few patches of valley fog may form during the night and early morning hours throughout this region.

Daytime temperatures will continue mild for this time of year with afternoon highs mostly in the 50s. A few of the warmer spots near the Oregon border will reach the lower 60s. The nights will continue moderately cool with lows mostly in the upper 20s and lower 30s.

The weather maps show a strong protective high pressure ridge persisting over the western states. A band of showers and some heavy snow flurries are found along the east slopes of the Continental Divide. Deep low pressure is over the Great Lakes region, and another old-fashioned northeaster is expected to move up the Atlantic seaboard during the next two days.

Pacific storm systems are weak and are taking a path through Southern Canada. No major change in this general pattern is indicated for at least three or four days.

Therefore, the extended outlook for the agricultural valleys of Southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon is for continued dry and mild weather through Saturday and Sunday. Best of all, fall plowing, and other outside farm work should be able to continue with no interruption from the weather through the remainder of this week.

Yesterday was mostly sunny in Eastern Oregon and Western Idaho, and partly cloudy to occasionally cloudy in Eastern Idaho. No precipitation was reported, but it did get rather windy at times from Magic Valley eastward in response to a weak disturbance east of the divide.

High temperatures reported in southern Idaho were mostly in the 50s, ranging from 61 at Mountain Home to 50 at Malad. Pendleton, Ore., and Winnemucca, Nev., both reported highs of 62.

The night was mostly fair except for a few patches of cloudiness and fog in Eastern Idaho. Lows reported this morning included 25 at Idaho Falls, 33 at Pocatello, 39 at Burley, 37 at Mountain Home, 33 at Boise, 27 at Burns, 38 at Pendleton, and 21 at Winnemucca. No precipitation has been reported during the past three days.

Congress Checks Into Advertising Of Fake Prizes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was told Wednesday that major prizes are seldom awarded in the advertising promotional sweepstakes that promise, "You may already have won..."

Roy A. Prewitt, a Federal Trade Commission (FTC) investigator, said an FTC study of the sweepstakes popular with mail order firms, magazines and soap and oil companies, showed that in the past two years fewer than one out of every 10 prizes offered are ever awarded.

Prewitt told the House small business subcommittee the companies give away "only a fraction" of the prizes they promised.

For seven months, the subcommittee has been investigating hundreds of sweepstakes contests where winners are said to be preselected. In this contest, customers are solicited to buy products or enter the contest and see if they may already have won one of thousands of dollars in prizes.

Subcommittee Chairman John Dingell, D-Mich., said the study was "indisputable evidence" that first, second or third major prizes ranging from European vacations to color televisions, are "seldom ever awarded."

can vote on a bond election there should be some way to have everyone pay for the bond they approve.

As it stands now, owners of real property in Idaho can vote, and the vote must pass by a two-thirds majority. Recently the United States Supreme Court ruled everyone should be allowed to vote on bond issues.

This ruling has placed many bonds "unsalable in Idaho because of the wording of our law," he said. "The bonds are guaranteed by the property of the voters, and if need be that property could be sold to raise the money to pay off the bond. That is the way the law reads," he said.

Twin Falls County Clerk Harold Lancaster also spoke at the meeting, and said he has "mixed emotions about House Bill 304," and added, "But in the long run I'm in favor of it but recommend some amendments."

He said the bill is designed to hold tax increases at a minimum.

Mr. Lancaster also said he expects the 1970 county budget to be higher than the 1969 budget, saying, "Material costs more today than it did last year and we have to face this rising cost of living."

He said the county is planning to give its employees a five per cent hike in wages next year, then praised the county commissioners for the job they are doing.

T.F. Police Seeking Hit, Run Drivers

Twin Falls City Police are attempting to identify persons responsible for two car thefts and four hit and run accidents Thursday night and a car theft Wednesday morning in the city.

Officers said the hit and run accidents occurred between 8:40 p.m. and 9 p.m. Wednesday night. Four cars were reported to have been hit by another car in the incidents. A car matching the description of the hit and run vehicle was later found abandoned.

Two cars reported to have been stolen also were abandoned and city police chased the person driving one of the cars, but were unable to catch the suspect. Detectives were fingerprinting the stolen vehicles Thursday morning, in an attempt to identify the auto thief.

"Dark Spots" In City To Be Lighted

Idaho Power Co. officials are preparing a proposal for the illumination of Falls Avenue, as proposed for annexation and other "dark spots" in the city.

Jean Milar, acting city manager, said he expects to receive the recommendations by Dec. 1. He said a preliminary request was made on lighting for Falls Avenue about a year ago and a specific request was made about Nov. 1.

Mr. Milar said more sidewalk lights will be installed in the Falls Avenue area next year and illumination is scheduled here first.

Father Simeon Van De Vondt of St. Benedict's Priory recently wrote a letter to the city manager expressing concern over the poor lighting along Falls Avenue. Mr. Milar said the matter is under consideration and the city will act as soon as possible.

Toddler, 3, Hit By Car, Is Uninjured

A young Twin Falls girl, struck Wednesday afternoon by a car on Second Street East, apparently escaped without injury, according to Twin Falls City Police.

Officers said Heidi Hansen, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laren Hansen, darted from in front of two parked cars into the path of a 1965 Comet driven by Bill E. Berry, 44, Twin Falls.

The Berry vehicle was traveling northeast on Second Street East about 5:30 p.m. when the accident occurred. Mr. Berry applied the brakes of his vehicle in an attempt to avoid the girl, officers said.

Neither Mr. Berry nor two passengers in the Comet, Sherri Day and Renea Berry, both 8, was injured. The Hansen girl was checked by a local physician and was determined to be uninjured.

Reds Launch Offensive; 34 Yanks Die

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists' winter offensive flared along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Wednesday and today and 34 Americans were killed and 121 wounded in the biggest battles there in eight months.

The Communists lost 108 killed, American spokesmen reported. A North Vietnamese force of 500 men attacked in several points behind mortar barrages and rocket propelled grenade fire but were driven back with dive-bombers, artillery, tanks and helicopter gunships before they could penetrate the barbed wire defenses.

It was the heaviest toll of American dead in a 24-hour period in two months and the attacks were believed to represent increased Communist "annihilation attacks" to coincide with the weekend antiwar demonstrations in the United States. Captured documents indicated such a plan.

Open House Set Monday At Shoshone

SHOSHONE—An open house will be held for the November PTA meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the high school building.

Students have indicated they would like their parents to visit the school, become acquainted with their teachers and course, and this will provide an opportunity, school and PTA officials state to "shorten the generation gap."

The parents will follow the schedule of classes their children attend in junior and senior high school during the evening.

A short business meeting will be followed by the tour.

A similar type open house was held last Monday at the elementary school, grades one through six, PTA officials state.

They operated a confectionery in Nampa and later both worked for creameries in Twin Falls and Buhl. Mrs. Gosselin had lived in Idaho Falls the past 14 years.

Reds Launch Offensive; 34 Yanks Die

SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists' winter offensive flared along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Wednesday and today and 34 Americans were killed and 121 wounded in the biggest battles there in eight months.

The Communists lost 108 killed, American spokesmen reported. A North Vietnamese force of 500 men attacked in several points behind mortar barrages and rocket propelled grenade fire but were driven back with dive-bombers, artillery, tanks and helicopter gunships before they could penetrate the barbed wire defenses.

It was the heaviest toll of American dead in a 24-hour period in two months and the attacks were believed to represent increased Communist "annihilation attacks" to coincide with the weekend antiwar demonstrations in the United States. Captured documents indicated such a plan.

Their representatives met with Labor Secretary George P. Shultz Wednesday. President Nixon's appointment of a fact finding board Oct. 3 put off a strike for at least 60 days. The board recommended the unions accept the rails' offer of a 2-per cent wage retroactive to Jan. 1, but the unions refused.

Youths Beat Elderly Man In Robbery

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Two youths, one wearing braces on both legs, beat an elderly Bakersfield man with a cane Tuesday after he refused to give them money.

The victim, Eugene McCarthy, 76, told police the two youths approached him in the parking lot at a department store and asked for money and a ride home. He refused to give them money and the youth with braces struck him with a cane.

He was knocked down but managed to grab one of the youths as they attempted to flee when store employees came to McCarthy's aid.

The J. A. Clawson Co., Twin Falls, is contractor for that improvement with a low bid of $175,494 for the work. Subcontractors are First Street Plumbing and Heating and Alva Lewis.

Preparations for the fill under the classroom slab at the West Minico site are also being made. The two new junior high schools are being built by Mitchell Construction Co., Pocatello, who was the low bidder of $1,621,300 for the two buildings.

Subcontractors are Home Heating and Plumbing and Lava Lewis for the electrical work.

At Heyburn, roof trusses will be installed in a few days while the walls are partially up. Brickwork on the walls will be done soon, Mr. Brower said.

Mr. Meyer explained that at the site, five classrooms are being added to the existing elementary school facilities and will probably be in use by next semester. When the classrooms are complete, the old building at the site will be demolished and an all purpose room built in its place. That is not expected to be completed before the end of the year, however.

Teacher Corps

The nation is experiencing withdrawal symptoms from more than one war.

As Vietnam has turned sour, so has the grand design launched so hopefully at about the same time for a massive assault on ignorance, disease, blight and deprivation here at home.

Willard Wirtz, former secretary of Labor, charged the other day that the war in Vietnam "has created a divisiveness and bitterness in the U.S. that has reduced it to a state of stagnation."

In large degree, of course, the administration's continuing battle with inflation is a factor in this "stagnation" since gains against inflation depend upon retreats all along the federal spending front, from defense procurement to funding of antipoverty programs.

Yet despite all the talk about what could be done when the war in Vietnam is over, neither the people nor the administration nor the Congress seem to be exactly chafing at the bit to unleash all those looked-for billions and redirect them at our domestic problems.

One example of an idea that started out as a bright hope but which is now all but dead is the Appalachian Volunteers, a program under which the Office of Economic Opportunity once sent hundreds of young people into the mountains of Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky to organize and educate the poor with the aim of helping them to help themselves to better their lives.

Not in such dire straits but still indicative of the waning national enthusiasm for the war on poverty, ignorance, etc. is the Teacher Corps.

Established in 1965, the corps is a nationwide effort to improve educational opportunities for children from low-income families by attracting able college students in two-year programs in which they continue their own educations while serving in poverty area schools.

Some 1,950 men and women college undergraduates and graduates are currently involved in Teacher Corps programs located in 36 states and the District of Columbia and working with 72 institutions of higher learning, 136 school districts and three state correctional institutions.

Since the corps began more than 5,500 interns and team leaders have been enrolled. Of those interns who completed service in 1968, 86 per cent said they planned to continue their careers in education, 72 per cent of them in poverty area schools. The same patterns seem to be continuing among 1969 interns.

This is especially encouraging in view of other surveys which show that very few of the nation's graduating teachers intend to seek jobs in poverty area schools.

Nevertheless, "The Teacher Corps usually has about as much trouble getting money out of Congress as Eva had crossing the ice," says one official.

This year the House lopped the administration's request for fiscal 1970 appropriations from $31.1 million to $21.7 million. Although this is $800,000 more than was appropriated in fiscal 1969, because of inflation and other factors it will actually support fewer corps members than in the previous year.

The appropriations bill is now in the Senate, where the corps has scaled down its request to $24.7 million. At this figure, it could enlist 500 more corps members than last year.

This is 1/100th the number of GIs the nation is supporting, at immensely greater cost, in Vietnam.

More Dough To Protect Consumers?

WASHINGTON — There must be a happier alternative to slow death than that proposed by Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y. In the fashion of the times, Rosenthal wants to spend a lot more of the taxpayers' dough on a brand new Federal agency to protect consumers.

Washington, of course, needs another agency like it needs another Adam Clayton Powell. But there is a certain breed of politicians so lacking in imagination — and so careless with other people's money — that they are incapable of addressing themselves to a problem without calling for the employment of more bureaucratic bodies.

100 co-sponsors in the House and Senate for his earlier proposal for a department of consumer affairs.

Rosenthal's agency would have a staff of about 1,000 persons. This, he notes with the casual irrelevance of the pitchman, is only 1 per cent of the number of Agriculture Department employees, although he admits it is 20 times the number proposed for the new consumer unit in the Justice Department proposed by the President.

again that they tend to be much less subservient to their bosses than men, possibly because males usually have a family to provide for. Moreover, most of the buyers of consumer goods are women, and it takes one to understand one. I suggest that Mrs. Knauer would be more likely to brave John Mitchell's wrath than that of her feminine peers.

"Who? Who? Who?"

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Down The Ladder Of Despair

WASHINGTON — The depths of despair to which the Democratic party has sunk following the scattered elections can be measured by the importance being attached to how Mayor John V. Lindsay responds to a plea from Illinois.

The plea, tendered just before Lindsay's reelection, was for the Mayor to campaign in behalf of liberal Democrat Edward Warman against conservative Republican Philip Crane in a Nov. 25 special Congressional election on Chicago's North Shore. A visit by Lindsay won't save underdog Warman in his impenetrably Republican district.

Just such a conversion has now become the principal hope of salvation for many Democrats stunned by Tuesday's results. Lindsay's 42 percent vote, based mainly on backing from the super-liberal borough of Manhattan, against divided opposition from two underfinanced conservative opponents, is scarcely the mark of an unbeatable candidate. Yet, to many Democratic leaders across the country that we contacted by telephone, he looks far better than anybody now in their own stable.

Indeed, Democratic interest in Lindsay as 1972 challenger against President Nixon heightened dramatically as a result of Tuesday's combination, Lindsay surviving in New York and Democratic disaster in the New Jersey and Virginia elections for Governor.

Those two elections brought home to Democrats the gravity of their national condition, obscured until now by success in fragmentary, special Congressional elections. The catastrophic outcome in two states so dissimilar as New Jersey and Virginia provides a clearer reflection of their state nationally.

Tuesday's results, for one thing, indicate Richard M. Nixon to be considerably more popular than skeptical Democratic politicians have believed. Although Republicans in the two states privately concede they were not helped by Mr. Nixon's election eve speech about Vietnam (and, probably, were hurt by it in New Jersey), there is no doubt his personal campaign visits were most effective.

More significant, the two losses were peculiarly party defeats for the Democrats, revealing the state of organizational decay and division.

The nomination in New Jersey of former Gov. Robert Meyner, a tired relic of the 1950s, was a classic failure of party leadership. Moreover, Democratic leaders now admit that Meyner was doomed against Republican Rep. William Cahill from the start because of the vendetta against him by Democratic boss John Kenny of Hudson County. In fact, raucously open support of Cahill against Meyner by the Hudson County machine was only a blatant example of a common Democratic syndrome. Entrenched big-city organizations are interested mainly in patronage-producing local operations, ignoring state and national politics. In New Jersey, the state party is today a half-million dollars in debt with little hope of regaining solvency and no help expected from local bosses.

Democratic problems in Virginia, though more sophisticated, are not much less severe. As we reported earlier from Virginia, moderate William Battle seemed to have patched up the ramshackle old Democratic coalition in his campaign for Governor. Election returns, however, showed Battle had made peace with the old Byrd machine on the right but not the followers of state Sen. Henry Howell on the left.

In the campaign's closing days, liberal pleas for a symbolic piece of the party action in the form of a state party vice-chairmanship were vetoed by the Byrd machine's guardians: Gov. Mills Godwin and State Chairman Watkins Abbott. Howell, who ran Battle a close race for the nomination, was not even seated at the head table at the $100-a-plate luncheon in Richmond, Oct. 27. Subsequently, Battle's upset loss to Republican Linwood Holton was fueled by liberal defections in the Tidewater and northern Virginia.

The aftermath of Battle's defeat may be the cross-over of Byrd machine chieftains (perhaps even Sen. Harry Byrd, Jr., himself) to the Republicans, while the Democratic party becomes essentially a labor-Negro party — no formula for victory in the South.

For such problems as the parochial decay of big-city bossism in New Jersey and a narrowing electoral base in Virginia, Democratic leaders have inadequate comprehension and certainly no solutions. But they do finally realize they are in deep trouble with a vacuum of leadership, since the decline of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. That is why they are now looking toward Lindsay.

On election night when leaderless and forlorn liberal Democrats in New York met in a private room at Toots Shor's to celebrate, the prevailing topic of discussion was whether or not Lindsay would make the big switch. The shattering impact of election returns elsewhere has now made that a matter for Democratic speculation across the country.

Under Nixon's "Buyer's Bill of Rights," a consumer protection division would be created in the Justice Department. It would be headed by Virginia N. Knauer, the President's adviser on consumer affairs, who would be given statutory coordinating powers to intervene in agency and court cases similar to those she now has under executive order. Mrs. Knauer now has 21 employees and a budget of $451,000.

Rosenthal's argument is that Mrs. Knauer would be too overruled by Atty. Gen. John (Close the Gates of Mercy) Mitchell to operate effectively. "I can't visualize Mrs. Knauer telling Mitchell in which cases to intervene," says Rosenthal.

Well, I can. Although I am only casually acquainted with Mrs. Knauer, I assume she has the instincts and attitudes of the 20th Century American female. Women have shown time and

There is no reason why some of the multitudinous employees of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare couldn't be shifted from counting paper clips for a go at the consumer protection chore. It would give these people something to do, resolve the problem of conflict-of-interest, and give the new unit a home in a department more philosophically attuned to consumer affairs than Mitchell's hard-nosed little principality.

But the basic advantage of the Nixon plan is that it would cost less money than Rosenthal's. Nader's argument that we should be willing to spend as much for consumer protection as for an atomic submarine is aimed at the clouds. It seems to me our ruling masters place too much emphasis on matching domestic spending to military purchases. In my dream world, they would put both to the meat axe.

ART BUCHWALD

The Telegrams

WASHINGTON — The most interesting thing to me as far as President Nixon's speech on Vietnam went, was to see the large stacks of Western Union telegrams on his desk in the White House. The President called in the press, news and TV photographers to prove he had the vast support of the American people the day after he made his speech.

What surprised me was how President Nixon got the telegrams so fast. Anyone who has dealt with Western Union in the last few years knows that sending a telegram via Western Union is no problem — it's getting them to deliver the telegrams that takes a bit of doing.

This is how the conversation usually goes.

"I'd like to send a telegram."

"What is the party's name and telephone number?"

"What do you want to know his telephone number for?"

"So we can phone the message to him."

"Look, if I wanted to phone him, I'd call him myself. I want to send a telegram."

"What we do is call your party and then mail him the telegram. He should have the wire in a few days."

"If I wanted to write him, I'd send him a letter. I want to send a telegram, and I want it delivered to him."

"Well, why didn't you say so? We'll deliver it for you for an extra 75 cents charge, above the cost of the telegram."

Now, I'm not attacking the Western Union Co. for trying to make the delivery of a telegram a profitable business. The snappy WU boy of yesteryear, dressed in his uniform, is a thing of the past; and WU probably makes more money selling candygams than telegrams.

All I'm doing is raising the question of how President Nixon managed to get Western Union to deliver the telegrams on the same day without making the sender pay the extra 75 cents.

What probably happened was that right after the President's speech, he received a phone call.

"Is this President Nixon?"

"Yes, it is."

"What is your first name, please?"

"Richard — the middle initial is M."

"We have a telegram for you. May I read it?"

"Yes, go ahead."

"Wholeheartedly support your wonderful speech, which laid it on the line and gave courage to the Great Silent Majority. Keep socking it to them."

"That's wonderful. Who signed it?"

"It's signed Julie and David."

"The President hung up and the phone rang again."

"President Nixon? We have a telegram for you."

"Read it."

"You certainly took care of the effete snobs and bad apples. My prayers are with you. Love — Spiro."

All right long the phone kept ringing and either the President, Mrs. Nixon or Tricia had to write down the messages. They were groggy at breakfast, and finally the President realized he wasn't going to get any work done. So he called a meeting of the National Security Council and it was suggested that the attorney general ask Western Union if they might deliver the telegrams to the White House instead of phoning them in, despite the fact that most senders had not paid the extra 75 cents.

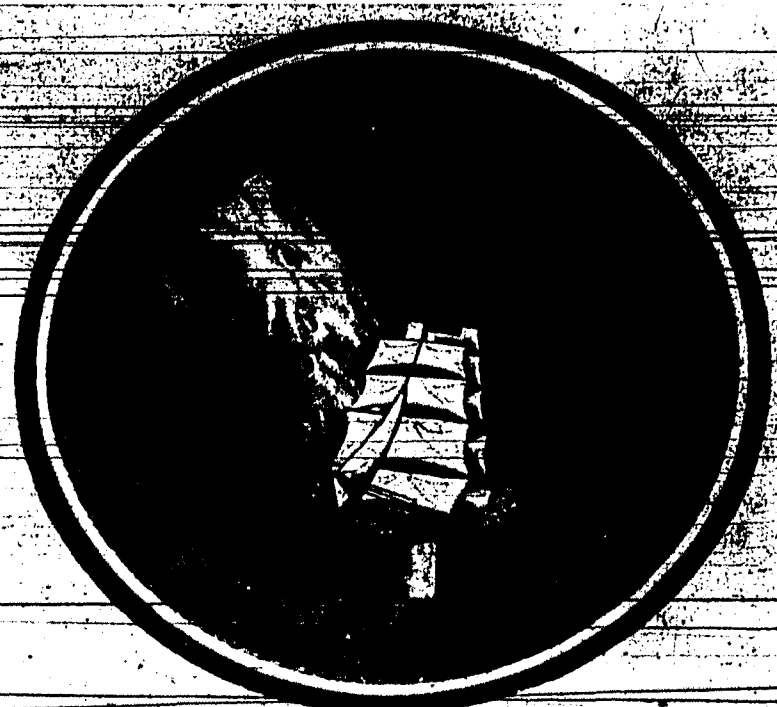

Western Union, in a wave of patriotism, agreed to the request, on the condition that the President wouldn't tell anyone that he was getting his telegrams on the same day without payment of an extra fee.

The President agreed, but he was so overwhelmed by the number of wires he received that he forgot his promise and called in the press. Now Western Union is in a helluva jam because the Great Silent Majority has suddenly discovered it can send a telegram and have it delivered on the same day without paying 75 cents.

It's the first break the Great Silent Majority has had in years.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Badge Of Courage

Mr. Spectator thought you would like to see the official crew badge for members of Apollo 12, the United States second lunar landing mission.

The clippership signifies that the crew is all Navy and symbolically relates the e a of the clippership to the era of space flight.

The crew members point out that as the clippership brought foreign shores closer to the United States and marked the increased utilization of the seas by this nation, spacecraft have opened the way to other planets and Apollo 12 marks the increased utilization of space based on knowledge gained on earlier missions.

The portion of the moon shown is representative of the Ocean of Storms area in which Apollo 12 will land.

So there you have it. But for your information there will only be three fellows who can officially wear the badge. They are Charles Conrad, Richard Gordon and Alan Bean. They are the boys making the trip.

VOTING AGE

Young people who have given vent to their frustrations and anger by taking to the streets will find a reaction in the recent elections. Voters of two states, Ohio and New Jersey, in which lowering the voting age was a referendum this year defeated the proposal overwhelmingly.

Last year, voters of Nebraska and Hawaii similarly rejected an earlier vote franchise. A dozen states scheduling the question on the ballot next year are not expected to change the trend toward rejection.

This is a turnaround in sentiment which had been building up for a number of years in favor of a lower voting age.

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

The Christmas tree industry is a gigantic multi-million dollar business, perhaps exceeding $100 million at the retail level in the United States. This year 45 million trees will be sold.

Harvesting of trees begins about 10 weeks before Christmas. Labor and transportation represent much of the cost. Millions of trees are exported from Canada to the U. S. each year.

A Christmas tree, big or little, indoors or out, is a symbol everywhere of the Christmas spirit.

BERRY'S WORLD

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Nose Surgery

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Just what does "submucous resection of the nasal septum" involve?

I have been told I should have this done. I am skeptical about its success since the doctor informed me that I would probably still have to have a series of allergy tests to try to alleviate a constant post-nasal drip, headaches, etc.

Is this surgery very common and what is the record for its success? — D.L.H.

Submucous resection indicates that the cartilage dividing the two nostrils is crooked, bent, or displaced, and is interfering with the airway in at least one side of the nose, perhaps both sides. The "resection" means that a portion of this cartilage will be removed, to eliminate the obstruction it is causing. The "submucous" part means that a flap of the mucous membrane will be laid back temporarily, then replaced at the end of the operation.

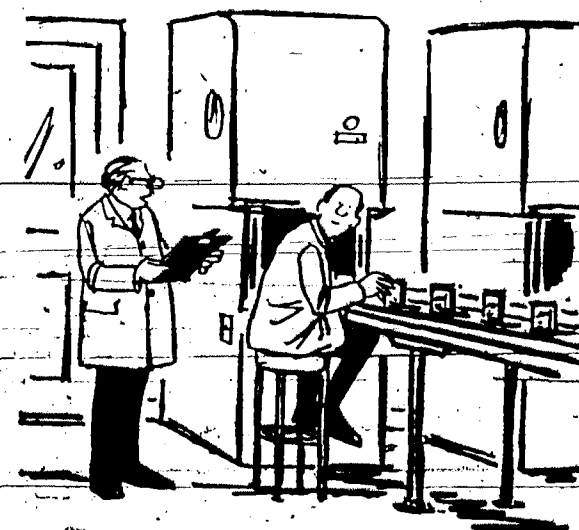

It is common procedure, and generally successful — unless some other problem is causing some of the trouble.

And that's the case with you. You have the crooked septum, but apparently you have an allergic condition as well.

Straightening out the crooked septum will help correct drainage of nasal secretions (reduce postnasal drip), but because of the allergy you are undoubtedly having a heavier flow of such secretions, and it is very likely that the nasal membranes are boggy and swollen. This by itself will cause a good deal of the trouble to continue.

Therefore, when a patient has your combination of troubles, it is good practice on the doctor's part to try to clear up or control this allergic congestion first. Otherwise the patient is likely to feel that the operation was a failure.

Your doctor is playing straight with you, in a real sense telling you that the operation isn't going to bring a quick end to all your discomfort. You've still got to bring that allergic congestion under control before you are going to realize the benefits of the operation.

"It looks as though we're going to have to go back to putting FOOD in with our nostrils."

Gina Lollobrigida Tells Reporters Of Plan To Marry U. S. Financier Soon

ROME (UPI) — Gina Lollobrigida, the Italian film actress, announced Wednesday that she plans to marry an American financier, George Kaufman, who is five years younger than she.

Miss Lollobrigida made the announcement at a news conference at Rome's International Airport prior to departing with Kaufman for New York City.

The actress told newsmen that she and Kaufman had not yet decided the date or site of their wedding but that it would be "shortly." It will be the second marriage for both.

Miss Lollobrigida, 41, was divorced by Dr. Milko Skofic in Austria last year after several years of separation. They have one child, Milko Jr., who is in school in Switzerland. Kaufman, who said he is in the construction industry, was divorced four years ago and has two children by his former wife.

A second marriage would create problems for Miss Lollobrigida. If she continues to reside in Italy, Italy does not recognize divorce, and she has asked the Roman Catholic Church's Sacred Rota for an annulment of her marriage to Skofic. The Yugoslav-born physician has since married an Austrian opera singer.

Unless the Rota grants an annulment, she is considered under Italian law to be still married to Skofic and could be prosecuted for bigamy by marrying again.

"I have so many lawyers," she said.

During the news conference, Kaufman sat at the actress' side smiling at her comments. She said she will continue with her professional life and will return to Italy in eight days to begin work on an American film to be entitled, "No Job." Miss Lollobrigida said she met Kaufman at the home of friends in New York three months ago and "fell in love with him very quickly."

Holland Of Florida To Quit Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., announced Wednesday he would not seek re-election for a fifth term next year because of an increasingly severe heart ailment.

Holland, 77, who came to the Senate in 1946, said he has suffered from angina for the past eight years.

Holland joined 80-year-old Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, the Senate's oldest member, and Sen. Eugene S. McCarthy, D-Minn., in announcing their retirements.

Republicans had already declared Holland's seat one of their major targets whether he ran or not and two GOP contenders have formally announced.

They are Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Ill., reportedly backed by President Nixon, and Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne, backed by Florida's Republican Gov. Claude Kirk.

Holland's withdrawal made it a wide open race for the Democrats, who already had a growing list of potential contenders.

Holland's announcement brought to an end a long political career which began when he became prosecuting attorney in Polk County, Fla., in 1919.

He was a county judge, member of the state Senate, and then governor from 1941 until 1945. He was appointed to the Senate in 1946 to succeed the late Charles O. Andrews and elected the same year for the full term beginning in Jan. 1947.

In the Senate, Holland was a key member of the Southern bloc and assumed its leadership early this year when Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., became president pro-tem. He is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Appropriations Committee and a member of the Agriculture Committee.

Icebreaker Docks At New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — The icebreaker-tanker SS Manhattan, its hull scraped by weeks of cutting through frozen Arctic seas, sailed into New York harbor Wednesday at the end of a 10-week round trip through the Northwest Passage.

The return of the 125,000-ton tanker ended the first stage of an expedition mainly financed by the Humble Oil Co. to prove that icebreaking tankers can profitably carry crude oil from recently discovered oil fields on Alaska's North Slope to the East Coast of the United States.

"We do not yet know the answers to the economic questions," said M. A. Wright, chairman of Humble's Board of Trustees, at a news conference held as the tanker tied up.

Construction On T.F. Child Help Center Is On Schedule

Construction is progressing on job completed in 180 days. The schedule at the Child-Develop company's bid on the project center, according to Paul was $178,000.

Mr. Burnett said the building should be ready for occupancy in June or July, depending on the weather. He said the progress of the construction to date is, in part, due to the nice fall weather.

Otis Hall Construction Co. began the project the first week of October and is to have the

we can bring Alaskan oil to the East Coast markets, or not we cannot."

The problem, he said, is money. The Manhattan has proved that commercial icebreakers can operate in the Arctic seas, but the cost of building such tankers could still prove prohibitive.

While Wright and other officials of the oil company described the voyage, the families of the crew waited on the pier for the ship to dock.

Water Pollution Control Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel said Wednesday his department is developing a new approach for long-range financing of efforts to control water pollution. Year-to-year Congressional appropriations are not adequate, he said.

Hickel didn't spell out what the new plan will be, but hinted strongly that it might involve borrowing funds to be paid off over a long period of time.

Idaho Officials Emphasize Great Need For Adequate Consumer-Protection Laws

By LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI) — Boise's Better Business Bureau, the only one in the state, reported that it received only 223 consumer complaints last year, compared to 8,627 inquiries.

But a Boise newspaper which accepts reader complaints and questions said that an estimated 55 to 60 per cent of its letters concerned consumer problems.

While the Idaho Retailers Association isn't set up to receive consumer complaints, Executive Secretary Tim Brennan said "do you know that if we had a department that could handle every complaint that arose in the state of Idaho against a merchant, we would have to double the size of state government?"

Brennan believes that complaints in Idaho may be limited because, for the most part, Idaho merchants are dealing with known customers and depend on public good will for their business.

"The average person that goes into a store in Idaho has a relationship with that store and with the manager of that store," Brennan said. "Certainly this is true of the small community, which is most communities in Idaho."

Brennan said he felt that the free enterprise system was the greatest protection to the consumer.

"If the retailer has shabby merchandise and is abusive to the customers, he normally does not stay in business because the customers are intelligent enough to go down the street where they can be treated in a favorable manner," Brennan said.

Nevertheless, Brennan said he was helping the attorney general's office write legislation which he hoped would "protect the consumer without putting grossly unjust regulations which would be expensive to administer for the legitimate retailer who is dedicated to satisfying the customer."

"We have all kinds of fraud laws, but it's difficult to prosecute," he said. "We do need legislation in Idaho to protect the public against the obvious abusive acts of illegitimate retailers."

Attorney General Robert Robson is even firmer, saying there is "no question but what there's a crying need for consumer protective legislation."

Kenneth Miller, secretary manager of the Idaho State Automobile Association, said his organization had no "formal" means of dealing with consumer complaints, but at least had control over service garages and motels that contract with the automobile association.

Miller cited two recent cases in which he was involved. In one, he said, a Nevada service station put new tires on a car that had been driven only 4,000 miles. In the other, he said, two Canadian women traveling in Idaho Falls had their new shock absorbers replaced.

"Which is one of the things they pull on unsuspecting women," Miller said that some claims for faulty work could go to small claims court, "but actually they (consumers) have to resort to their own resources."

Miller said he believed there was need for consumer protective legislation, adding "you see the Better Business Bureau warning people about certain areas and still people are getting involved."

He said protection is especially needed for people "with modest means and who haven't had the advantage of a good education. They get a fast talk sales job and if something does go wrong they don't know where to turn and it isn't worth paying attorneys' fees for."

Assistant Attorney General Richard Greener said the frustrating aspect at this point is that we get numerous complaints and it's discouraging in mind that it is good for the economy to have a small businessman in business.

Executive Secretary Al Min-ton of the Department of Commerce and Development, which is legally responsible for enforcement of the acts, said he thought the Fair Trade Act was "complicated and difficult to enforce."

Robson said that Commerce and Development had only one man to enforce the act and that he was not a trained investigator.

Next: The Better Business Bureau.

Zodiac Killer Believed 'Moonlighting In Murder'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Zodiac killer may be a minor office worker who moonlights at murder, a police official said Wednesday and his latest letters indicate he may kill again.

"I don't picture him as a man who works with his hands," Capt. Martin Lee, San Francisco chief of inspectors, told a news conference. "I think he has a small job and possibly one where he does work with paper, possibly at his desk."

"I would guess he is from the (San Francisco) bay area . . . He has been called insane and a scumbag but I don't believe it. I think he is legally sane. He has a knowledge of the difference between right and wrong."

But, Lee said, he could give no "reassuring word" about any imminent apprehension of the killer who has terrorized the bay area for nearly a year with five murders, boasting about them in letters to newspapers and police.

Zodiac's latest letters received by the San Francisco Chronicle Tuesday included one of his characteristic coded messages and the now-familiar salutation, "This is the Zodiac speaking."

In the letters, dotted with misspellings and grammatical errors, he claimed two more victims, hinting that they were two teen-aged girls stabbed to death in San Jose, Calif., last August. He also said he would disguise his future murders as robberies and accidental deaths to throw police off the track.

Lee said, however, he gave "no credence" to theories that Zodiac was responsible for the stabbings of Kathy Snoozy, 15, and Deborah Gay Furlong, 14, last Aug. 3, in San Jose.

"There is absolutely no evidence linking him with those murders," he said.

City Clerk Assumes Job At Kimberly

KIMBERLY — Charles Johnson, former Twin Falls deputy sheriff, has assumed fulltime duties as Kimberly city clerk, council members announce.

He replaces the late Carl Ridgeway who held the post for many years. The appointment was announced at the Kimberly city council meeting this week.

Councilmen discussed the water, sewage and garbage rates and noted they probably will have to be raised soon because of hikes in gas and power rates.

They were advised by Bill Langley, Twin Falls, legal advisor, that the council cannot set aside funds for the express purpose of improving the sewerage system which will be needed soon. A secondary plant will be needed within two years, councilmen said.

The council decided to call for bids for garbage hauling. The present contract expires Jan. 1.

Improvement Work Closes Area Airport

RICHFIELD — The Richfield airport was closed Wednesday for extensive improvement to the runway.

Douglas Sluder and Jack Myers, Bellevue, are using land leveling equipment for dirt filling and gravel work. The Richfield Highway District will help with contour and shaping of the area. The Richfield branch of the Bank of Idaho is purchasing fuel used in the project.

Donated community labor will be available as needed, officials said. At present the Bank of Idaho is transporting computer records to Boise by auto instead of air.

After the airport project is completed, the runway will be restricted for use of light planes only for a period, possibly until spring.

'Wildest Prisoner' Returns To Nezperce County Lockup

LEWISTON (UPI) — Edwin Ashe, 32, considered the wildest prisoner ever held in the Nezperce County jail, was back there Wednesday after turning himself in.

Ashe escaped from the minimum security trustee quarters at the jail Monday night. He walked up and knocked on the jail door Tuesday, saying he had gone for a walk along the Clearwater River to do some thinking and had not planned to stay away.

Ashe was stripped of his limited trustee privileges and placed in a specially constructed cell in which there is nothing movable or removable.

Since his arrest in early July on a charge of kidnapping an 18-year-old local housewife,

Ashe has been charged with destruction of public property for two rampages he is accused of starting in which more than $6,500 damage was done to jail facilities.

Last Monday he had been sent to State Hospital South at Blackfoot for psychiatric care but escaped from there early this month and hitchhiked his way back here.

Angler Rescued After 24 Days

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Morehm Richard Hale, 30, a New Zealand fisherman, was rescued 50 miles off the New Zealand coast Wednesday after drifting for 24 days and living off fish and one cup of water every four days.

Hale told the ship's doctor of the U.S. liner Mariposa that he distilled sea water and obtained fresh drinking water. The doctor pronounced him in "surprisingly good condition" and said he should be able to walk ashore when the Mariposa docks late today.

Third Youth Arrested In School Fire

SANDPOINT (UPI) — A third teenager has been arrested and charged in connection with the $300,000 fire at the Cocolalia Grade School south of here last Saturday.

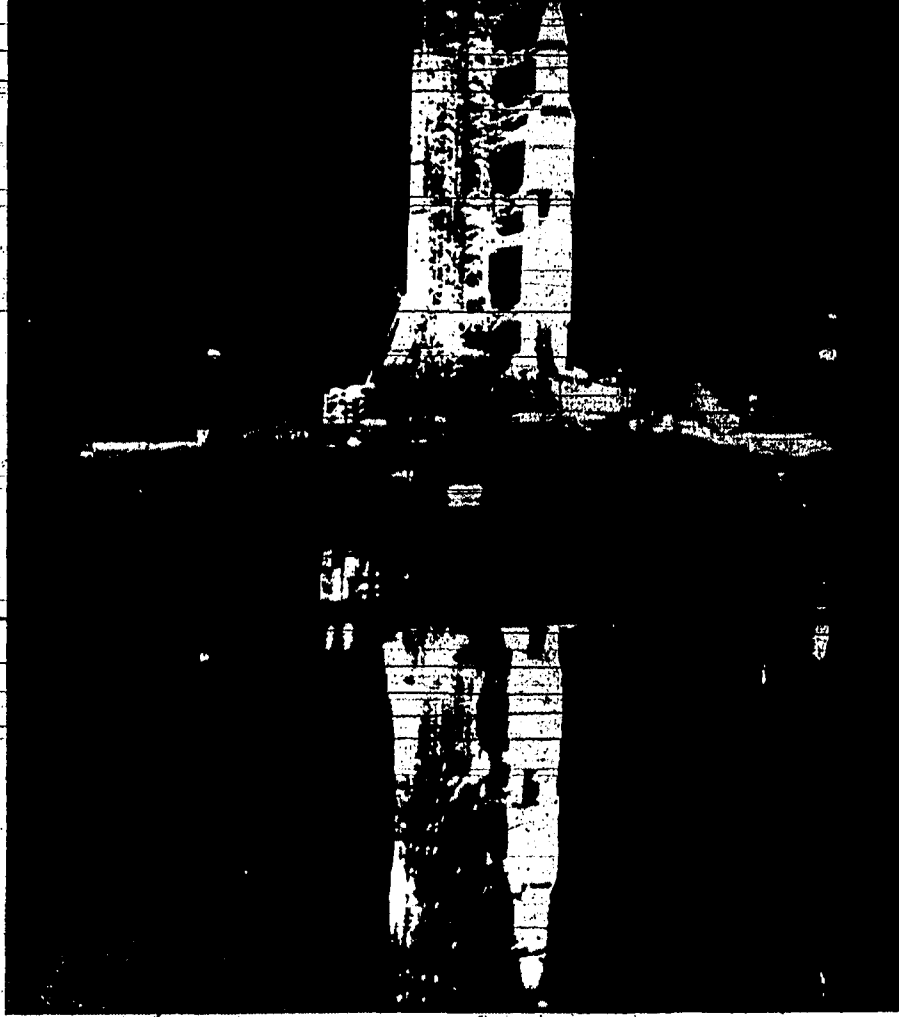

The youth, whose name was withheld because of his age, was charged with malicious destruction of public property, which is a misdemeanor, and was scheduled to be remanded to the juvenile court.

The other two suspects in the case, Dale Wilcox, 18, and Michael Taylor, 16, were charged with first-degree burglary. In addition, Wilcox was charged with second-degree arson.

Bonner County Sheriff Robert Wilcox said Wilcox and Taylor were going to be tried as adults in the case.

The two, both students at Sandpoint High School, were arrested Tuesday by the sheriff. Wilcox said at the time of the arrests that both suspects had signed statements in connection with the case.

Officers said one of the youths directed them to a wooded area several miles southwest of the school where several hundred dollars worth of recorders, projectors and typewriters were recovered.

Jerry Rubin Is Arrested For Leaving Chicago Courtroom

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jerry Rubin removed his wig as he walked into the Federal Building and the U.S. marshals moved toward him.

"I think the judge is out to get us one by one," he said as they led him away.

Rubin was arrested Wednesday night, four hours after he walked out of the trial of the "Chicago Seven." He and six other men are charged with conspiring to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Rubin walked out of the courtroom about one half hour before Wednesday's 4:30 p.m. adjournment time. Five minutes after he left, a prosecution witness, Chicago undercover policeman Irwin Bock, mentioned his name. When the prosecution asked Bock to identify Rubin, Rubin's absence was discovered.

U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman ordered Rubin's arrest and revoked $10,000 bond. When defense attorney William M. Kunstler told Hoffman Rubin had a "commitment he had in keeping Hoffman angrily replied: 'I do not permit defendants to walk out on their trials.'"

When Kunstler said he had understood the judge agreed to permit absences, Hoffman said, "The only understanding we have is that the defendants will be allowed to go to the washroom."

Court sources said Rubin had planned to go to New Brunswick, N.J., for a speech at Rutgers University. Four hours later, Rubin walked into the Federal Building to surrender voluntarily and said he had been going to O'Hare International Airport to fly to New Brunswick when he heard he was being sought.

Rubin, with defendant Abbie Hoffman, a leader of the Youth International Party, has been wearing a long wig because his hair was cut short while he served a previous jail sentence. He told reporters Judge Hoffman was trying to keep him from appearing in Washington at this weekend's anti-Vietnam war rally.

Introduced by Supr. Neil Anderson, he talked on the observance of Veteran's Day and suggested observing a Peace day.

Arnold Ross gave the invocation, Toby Dayley led the flag salute, and Mark Dixon gave the benediction. The high school chorus sang "Freedom Isn't Free," directed by Mrs. L. T. Sanders. Mrs. Sanders also directed singing of patriotic songs by the audience and was piano accompanist.

FTC Charges 'Sweepstakes' Prizes Often Nonexistent

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Federal Trade Commission study shows the top prizes in many sweepstakes are seldom awarded.

The small business subcommittee investigating the sweepstakes giveaways was told Wednesday "only a fraction" of the prizes offered — yachts, cars, vacations — ever were awarded, according to the seven-month FTC survey.

The sweepstakes contests are used to sell products by offering millions of dollars in prizes through the mail.

The investigators said the largest companies in America

Angler Rescued After 24 Days

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Morehm Richard Hale, 30, a New Zealand fisherman, was rescued 50 miles off the New Zealand coast Wednesday after drifting for 24 days and living off fish and one cup of water every four days.

Hale told the ship's doctor of the U.S. liner Mariposa that he distilled sea water and obtained fresh drinking water. The doctor pronounced him in "surprisingly good condition" and said he should be able to walk ashore when the Mariposa docks late today.

New Poverty 'War' Proposal Would Apportion $6 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new poverty war proposal by the federal government. Precise cost comparisons Americans $6 billion in cash were not immediately available. The commission said its plan would cost $7 billion, of which $6 billion would go directly to the poor. The administration has set the cost of its proposal at $4 billion on top of the current $4.2 billion welfare budget.

Both proposals are rooted in the belief poor people would rather earn their living than receive charity.

Nixon has coppered this with the work requirement and incentive payments for taking job training. But the commission said those steps were not necessary because no one could support himself better than by working.

On the surface the commission proposal's income floor of $2,400 for a penniless family of four would seem far larger than the $1,600 in cash offered by Nixon. But when the purchasing power of food stamps is added to Nixon's proposal, its value rises to about $2,900.

The biggest resemblances are the promises that poverty will not go away by itself; that poor people must have more money;

LBJ May Be Ordered To Chicago Conspiracy Trial

By TONY FULLER
CHICAGO (UPI)—If the defense in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial has its way, it will put on the witness stand a parade of past and present political powers, including former President Lyndon B. Johnson.
 Stewart Ball, a member of the legal staff defending the seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, said Tuesday subpoenas were being drawn for Johnson, Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark.
 Chicago Mayor Richard Daley has already been subpoenaed and was expected to testify when the defense opens its case, possibly Friday.
 Ball said other luminaries will be called to testify but declined to reveal their names.
 Whether any of the political figures will actually reach the witness stand was questionable. Those wishing to avoid appearing can send a lawyer to court asking that the subpoena be quashed. U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman then would rule on the motion.
 Such revelations in and out of court as those made Tuesday have revealed the general outline of the defense case. The defense will argue that the real conspiracy was one carried out by the government in an attempt to prevent "legitimate protest" at the time of the convention.
 They will contend the refusal of officials, including Johnson, to issue demonstration permits or otherwise accommodate the protesters, set the stage for confrontation and eventual violence between police and demonstrators.
 As a corollary they will argue Chicago police ran amok among crowds of protesters and that it was police who rioted.

Red China Loses New U.N. Plea

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Communist China came closer but still lost this year's vote on ousting Nationalist China from the United Nations and bringing in Peking representatives instead.
 The General Assembly gave 48 votes to the Communist regime and 56 to the Nationalist government Tuesday, with 21 abstentions. Peking would have needed a two-thirds majority for membership.
 This was four more affirmative votes for Peking than it obtained last year. The 1968 resolution favoring the Communists over the Nationalists received 44 votes, with 58 opposed and 21 abstentions.
 Only one nation, Indonesia, did not participate in the roll-call vote in the 126-nation assembly. The Jakarta government also was absent during last year's balloting on the question.

Haynsworth Veto Deemed 'Disastrous'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supporters of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. said that if the Senate refuses to confirm him as a Supreme Court justice his life will be destroyed and his judicial career finished.
 Sens. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., and George Murphy, R-Calif., delivered emotional and impassioned appeals for support of Haynsworth on the Senate floor. Formal debate on the nomination by President Nixon begins today.
 Allott said that if Haynsworth is rejected, he probably would resign "out of his own pride" as chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. He asked senators to consider Haynsworth's "children and his children's children."
 Senate Republican Whip Robert Griffin, Mich., told the Senate he was "very much disturbed" by the Murphy and Allott statements and regretted they had raised the possibility of Haynsworth retiring from the bench.

Congress Hears Warning That Potential Shortage Of Natural Gas May Force Homeowners To Seek Other Fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was told Wednesday that many homeowners may be denied new gas service after 1975 unless action is taken now to head off growing shortages.
 But no shortage is seen this winter and probably none for the winter of 1970-71.
 The warning of impending gas shortages came from both government officials and spokesmen for the gas industry—including two former members of Congress.
 Assistant Interior Secretary Hollis M. Dole told a Senate interior subcommittee that "a serious supply problem will be fully upon us by 1975 if current trends persist and immediate corrective action is not taken."
 Prospective new residential customers, Dole said, would be unable to get gas service and would have to turn to oil or electricity to heat their homes.
 The Interior Department official's warning was backed in testimony from Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., and former Rep. Walter E. Rogers, D-Tex.—both now representing the gas industry.
 Kuchel, speaking for the Pacific Lighting System, urged Congress to look to Alaska for natural gas to meet growing demand in the "lower 48" states.

Killebrew Is Voted Most Valuable Player, Topping AL In Homers And RBIs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Harmon Killebrew, an .847 hitter when he signed a pro baseball contract, today was voted the Most Valuable Player in the American League for 1969 by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

MVP Win Makes Killebrew 'Most Surprised Of All'

ONTARIO, Ore. (UPI)—Harmon Killebrew, voted Wednesday the American Baseball League's most valuable player, said "I'm probably the most surprised of all."

Owens Ties Mark, Trails In Point Duel

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oklahoma running back Steve Owens, among the candidates for the Heisman Trophy, tied the three-year NCAA record of 51 touchdowns by Army's Glenn Davis Saturday, but still trails in this season's scoring race.

Owens has 18 touchdowns this year for 108 points. Leaving him one touchdown behind Kansas State's Mack Herron (114 points).

Both scored one touchdown while their teams suffered Big Eight Conference defeats Saturday.

The most decisive leaders in statistics released today are Idaho's Jerry Hendren, whose 82 pass receptions put him 19 ahead of his nearest competitor, and Wyoming's Bob Jacobs, leading the kick-scoring category by 11 points with 70.

Billy Watson of the Citadel leads the punt returners with 24 returns for 378 yards and a 15.8 average. Vanderbilt's Doug Mathews is the top kickoff returner with 586 yards and a 24.4 average and Penn State's Neal Smith leads in interceptions with eight.

Caps Pin Fifth Defeat On Nets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Washington Caps rolled to their third straight American Basketball Association victory Tuesday night, handing the New York Nets their fifth consecutive loss, 102-101.

Warren Armstrong and Frank Card led the Caps to their seventh victory in 13 games. Armstrong scored 26 points and Card had 19.

REEDER FLYING SERVICE "YOUR COMPLETE FLYING FACILITY" CHARTER AND AIR FREIGHT CESSNA SALES AND SERVICE. Includes flight instruction, helicopter service, crop spraying.

straight to the A.L. champion Baltimore Orioles in a best-of-five playoff.

Killebrew collected 294 of a possible 336 points and was named on all 24 ballots submitted by the selection committee of the BBWAA. Two writers from each league city participated in the voting.

Boog Powell, Baltimore's big first baseman and the only other player to be honored with his name on all two dozen ballots, trailed badly in the voting with 227 points. Teammate Frank Robinson was third with 162 points, Frank Howard of the "new" Washington Senators finished fourth with 115 and Reggie Jackson of the Oakland Athletics was fifth with 110 points.

Killebrew received 16 first place votes, Powell six and Robinson two. Points were based on 14 for first, nine for second, eight for third and down to one for a 10th place nod.

Thirty-seven players were acknowledged by the baseball writers. Denny McLain of Detroit, the league's MVP last year and co-sharer of this year's Cy Young pitching award, received 85 points.

The Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians were the only teams without representation in the voting.

Killebrew is the second member of the Twins to be named MVP (Zolo Versalles won it in 1965) and only the third non-pennant winner to acquire this renowned award since Brooks Robinson of Baltimore in 1964.

The MVP honor represents a climax to a spectacular comeback by Killebrew, who suffered a hamstring injury during the 1968 All-Star game and was sidelined for most of that season.

Killebrew termed the 1969 campaign the most consistent of his career.

"The main thing this season was that I was consistent all season. I stayed away from slumps. This year I played in every game.

As to the prospects for next year, Killebrew would only comment, "I'll be out there for spring training."

In the meantime, when the banquet circuit permits, he'll be out bird hunting in Oregon and Idaho.

Dartmouth Is Still Tops Defensively

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unbeaten Dartmouth is still the toughest college football team in the nation to move against.

The Indians (7-0) are the leaders in total defense for the third consecutive week, according to the latest figures released Wednesday by the National Collegiate Sports Service.

Dartmouth has allowed its opponents only 201.3 yards per game compared to 208.6 yards per game for runnerup Syracuse. The Indians' defensive strength has been on pass defense where they lead the nation with only 53.7 yards allowed per game.

The hardest team to run against is Wyoming, which has allowed only 34.4 yards per game rushing in eight contests.

Arkansas boasts the best defense against scoring. The Razorbacks have allowed their opponents only 6.6 points a game. Top-ranked Ohio State is second with a 7.9 average.

The nation's best punting team is Tulane, which has averaged 44 yards per kick.

Mollenkopf Feels Purdue Has Good Chance Against Ohio State

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—In 14 years as Purdue's football coach, Jack Mollenkopf hasn't had many disappointments.

His Bolleymakers made it to the Rose Bowl three years ago for the first time, edging Southern California, 14-13, and he had high hopes for a return trip last year.

First Ohio State and then Minnesota ruined his chances. Saturday the Purdue's will seek to avenge last year's 13-0 defeat at Ohio State, and Mollenkopf, known for his success in wrecking long winning streaks, figures his club has a good chance to derail the country's No. 1 powerhouse.

"I think we have a good chance at them," said "The Ripper" following last week's 41-13 massacre of Michigan State.

"We have to play 100 per cent football and they have to make some mistakes. I think we can do it. We're going to Columbus with that in mind."

As stature a follower of the national football scene as Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty, who wined as Purdue regulars ran up a 41-0 score on his proteges before the reserves took over, agrees.

Auburn Is On List Of Sun Bowl Maybes

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Auburn's Tigers, who defeated Arizona 34-10 in last year's game, were among 16 teams listed officially Wednesday as on the "black list" for the 35th annual Sun Bowl football game, scheduled Dec. 20.

The Tigers were among six Southeastern Conference teams singled out by the Sun Bowl Selection Committee. The others were Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana State and Mississippi.

Also on the list were Colorado, Kansas State and Nebraska from the Big Eight; independents Florida State, West Virginia and Houston; and four members of the Western Athletic Conference—Wyoming, Utah, Arizona State and Brigham Young.

The game, third oldest among the nation's post-season classics, will have national television exposure (CBS) for the second year in a row, thus almost doubling the "take home" lure which the sponsors hope will entice a name school.

The game, part of this Texas-Mexico border city's annual Sun Carnival, is played in Sun Bowl Stadium, which seats only 30,000 and thus has had a limited "gate" before getting the television pact.

A spokesman said the selection committee "hopes to name at least one of the teams by next Monday," which is the earliest date under NCAA rules that a team may be officially contacted.

Among those mentioned, Mississippi appeared here in 1967, Florida State and Wyoming in 1966 and Georgia in 1964.

"Any team that can put the ball into the air as successfully as Purdue—and they have good runners, too—has to have a chance against Ohio State," he said.

"Purdue doesn't have the team speed of Ohio State and may have trouble keeping Ohio State from controlling the ball, but OSU hasn't played against a passer as tough as Mike Phipps."

Staub Signs $70,000 Pact With Expos

MONTREAL (UPI)—Outfielder Rusty Staub, who batted .302 with 29 home runs last season, Wednesday signed his 1970 contract with the Montreal Expos for a reported $70,000.

Staub, who became a big favorite with the Montreal fans in their first season, is the first member of the Expos to sign for the 1970 season. The rangy redhead paced the club in batting last year and was named to the National League All-Star squad.

"Staub is our real superstar, and we're happy to announce his signing first," said general manager Jim Fanning. "He tries 100 per cent of the time and at the age of only 25 has turned out some fantastic records."

Staub, a seven-year veteran, has a .281 lifetime batting average and has hit 86 homers.

Fanning also announced the Expos have picked Homestead, Fla., as their 1970 spring training base for minor league players. However, hopes for a Class AAA club in Winnipeg, Canada, were dimming.

Fanning said the Expos had been seeking to operate out of Winnipeg, but the American Association, the league in which Winnipeg would have become a member, reportedly was opposed to the idea.

Colorado State Sees Point Duel

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI)—Colorado State University coach Mike Lude expects a lot of scoring in the Rams' game Saturday against Idaho University. He just hopes his team ends up with the most points.

Idaho has averaged 20.5 points per game this year, but has grown up even more. Therefore, the Vandals have only a 2-8 record.

Colorado State University has averaged 22.8 points per game, but has been stiffer on defense than their upcoming opponents.

Sophomore tailback Lawrence McCutcheon will need only 39 yards in the game to become the best sophomore rusher in Western Athletic Conference history. He has 732 yards already.

PRESLEY ARRESTED BERKELEY (UPI)—Former University of California basketball star Robert Presley was held in Berkeley Municipal jail today on charges stemming from an alleged travelers check fraud.

Mets 'Earned' $18,338.88 Each During Series

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets received record individual shares for winning the 1969 World Series, each receiving $18,338.88.

The Mets divided $657,473.02 into 36 full shares of $18,338.88 each after winning the National League championship series and world championship. The total amount distributed to players was $1,142,200.93.

In the playoffs, 30 per cent of the distribution went to New York and Baltimore and 20 per cent to Minnesota and Atlanta. Los Angeles Dodgers' Managers Hank Bauer (Oakland), Larry Shepard (Pittsburgh), Dave Bristol (Cincinnati) and Dick Williams (Boston), all fired at or near the end of the season, were voted full shares by their teams.

Bill Rigney, ousted in mid-season, was voted a half-share by California. The figures awarded easily surpassed the guaranteed funds of $15,000 to the World Series winner—$10,000 to the loser and $5,000 to playoff teams.

Other full shares determined by final standings were: Chicago (NL) ($574.94); San Francisco ($612.13); Detroit ($630.50); Oakland ($597.87); Pittsburgh ($204.27); Cincinnati ($203.97); Boston ($179.53); and California ($193.30).

The Mets voted 35 full shares including 26 players, manager Gil Hodges, coaches Eddie Yost, Joe Pignatano, Al Walker and Yogi Berra, trainers Gus Mauch and Joe Deer, clubhouse attendant Nick Torman and head groundskeeper John McCarthy.

Donn Clendenen, who joined the Mets in mid-June and was named the outstanding player in the Series, and Jack Dilauri, brought up late in May from the minors, were awarded full shares. Bobby Pfeil, who played most of the season but was dropped before the Series also was awarded a full cut.

The Mets also voted a half-share to utilityman Amos Otis ($9,169.08) and one-fifth share to assistant clubhouse man Roy Neuber. The remainder of the total was divided among barbers, batting practice pitchers and seven minor leaguers who joined the Mets in September.

Baltimore players voted out 32 full shares, including all coaches, trainer Ralph Salvon and equipment manager Clay Reid. The Orioles also handed out a twelfth share, two quarter shares, a one-fifth share and one three-twentieths share.

Idaho State Sees Battle Against Boise State As Biggest Game Of Season

POCATELLO — In a season filled with big games for Idaho State, the biggest game yet is on tap Saturday. Ed Cavanaugh takes his ISU football team to Boise for a Saturday 1:30 game with once-beaten Boise State.

Tony Knap's Broncos are nationally ranked among the top defensive teams in the country and also are among the scoring leaders, showing no sign of faltering.

QB Eric Guthrie, who did so much to help beat ISU 27-20 last year in the first-ever game between the two schools, started his first game in many moons, last weekend and led his team to a 23-20 win over Colorado Western.

The game also pointed up another Bronco strong point. Placekicker Gary Stivers is an expert at his specialty and boot-

Landry Defends Morton From Anonymous Criticism

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry takes strong objection to an anonymous National Football League player's report that Cowboys quarterback Craig Morton is overrated and can be "had."

The player, a defensive back who supposedly has played against Morton this year, was quoted out of New York as saying Morton "is overrated... if you can jump on his primary receiver all the time, you can stop him."

Landry, at his regular mid-week press luncheon, seemed to jump at the chance to answer that one.

"You take the primary receiver away from any quarterback in the league and he'll be in for a rough day," Landry quipped. "But first, you've got to know who the primary receiver is and that isn't easy."

"I think Morton has been doing a fine job and I think if Morton has one strong point above his other qualities, it is his ability to go to secondary receivers."

"Sure, he's suffered some interceptions in recent games, but in all fairness to him, he has been able to work out very little prior to the games because of his shoulder and finger injuries."

"The more chance he gets to work with his receivers, the fewer interceptions he'll throw—and vice versa," Landry pointed out.

Landry said the club's injury situation was "much more

Kansas Is Ghost Team, Just Scares

By United Press International.

Kansas linebacker Emery Hicks just about has the situation pegged.

"We're a ghost team," says Hicks. "We just scare everybody."

The Jayhawks, fighting a six-game losing streak, have a pitiful 1-7 record. Still four of those losses have been by four points or less. The last two, to Oklahoma State and Colorado, have been by three points each.

The future isn't any brighter. Kansas plays Oklahoma Saturday in Norman, Okla., before returning home to meet power Tennessee in the season finale.

Wednesday's practice wasn't one to pep up coach Pepper Rodgers either.

"It just wasn't a very good one at all," said Rodgers. "This late in the season, you can't expect guys to be too thrilled at a practice. Especially in our situation."

Kansas faces a unique prospect. The Jayhawks are within two losses of going from a 9-1 season to 1-9 in one year.

"I'd just as soon go 9-1 one year and then go 1-9 the next as to go 5-5 and 5-5," said Rodgers. "Mediocrity isn't what I want. I'd rather be real good or real bad."

All-Star Tilt May Be Moved To Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A group which hopes to move the American Football Coaches Association's annual all-star game to Birmingham next year received approval Wednesday of the City Park Board for use of Legion Field June 20 or 27 for the game.

H. C. Stubbs, who headed an organization formed three years ago to try to have an NCAA collegiate championship playoff here, said he was convinced the financially troubled East-West collegiate game would be a success if moved here from Atlanta.

Stubbs said Bill Murray, executive director of the coaches organization, was in Birmingham Monday to inspect 70,000-seat Legion Field and other accommodations in the city.

The game, which matches gridgers who have just completed their college careers, was played in Buffalo, N. Y., for several years before being moved to Atlanta in 1966.

"Although telecast nationally, the game has continued to suffer at the gate, and attendance dropped to 17,000 this year at Atlanta Stadium. The contest for Atlanta Stadium has been cancelled."

"We feel confident the game could become a tremendous success in Birmingham," Stubbs said. "In addition to having a group already formed and ready to go, we have a college football oriented community and one of the finest football stadiums in the country."

Pros Raid British Davis Cup Team

LONDON (UPI)—British Davis Cup stars Mark Cox and Graham Stilwell, whose team beat Britain to the European zone final this year, confirmed Wednesday they have accepted terms to turn professional with World Championship Tennis Inc., of Dallas, Tex.

Stilwell, 24, this week has been guaranteed $90,000 for a four-year contract and Cox, a 26-year-old left-hander, $75,000 for a three-year contract. They are due to play their first matches as pros Feb. 1.

Their defection to the pro group leaves the British Davis cup squad sadly depleted.

McMillan Hired In Mets' Chain

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets announced Wednesday that former National League All-Star shortstop Roy McMillan will manage their Tidewater, Va., Triple A farm club next season.

McMillan, 40, has managed two seasons in the minor leagues and last year piloted Memphis to the Texas League championship. McMillan, who starred for 16 seasons in the National League, replaces Clyde McCullough as manager of Tidewater.

Hull, Hawk Talks Hit New Snags

CHICAGO (UPI) — Another delay came about Wednesday in negotiations between Bobby Hull and the Chicago Black Hawks for the star left wing to rejoin the team.

A source involved in the negotiations, said "I think we arrived at a meeting of the minds. He might sign tomorrow."

It was learned Monday that Hull had agreed to terms for him to rejoin the team, but because news of the agreement leaked out, Black Hawks management issued a statement Tuesday which delayed completion of the settlement.

Hull was perturbed by the statement, in which the club said Hull did not speak for the team, and further negotiations were required Wednesday.

Hull and his agents had been hoping that he could join the team and be ready to play in this weekend's games against Oakland and Montreal. However, Hawk general manager Tommy Ivan doubted that Hull could be physically ready to play at that time.

Hull has not been permitted to work out with the club pending settlement of his dispute. Once he signs the conditional agreements now under discussion, he can work out with the team, but he will not play until coach Billy Reay and Ivan choose to put him on the ice.

Georgia Tech Quarterback Is Suspended

ATLANTA (UPI)—It looks as if Georgia Tech will have to face Notre Dame Saturday night without the services of sophomore quarterback Charles Dudish, who has been suspended "indefinitely" again by coach Bud Carson.

In keeping with a long-standing policy, Georgia Tech, Carson would say only that Dudish, who has been in and out of hot water frequently during his 14 months at the school, was suspended Wednesday "for violation of rules that apply to all Georgia Tech athletes."

Carson said the suspension did not have to mean the end of Dudish's grid career at Tech. "It's up to him, that's why I said indefinitely," he added.

With Dudish out, Carson said, either Jack O'Neill or Jack Williams probably would start against Notre Dame.

Dudish, one of the most widely heralded prep stars in the nation two years ago and one of two prep quarterbacks who were the subject of a national television show about college recruiting, was suspended previously last winter by Carson.

Researchers Find Rebirth In Badly Polluted Lake

DAVIS (UPI) — A pair of University of California scientists reported Wednesday that Clear Lake, a badly polluted former resort lake, is getting a new lease on life.

They credited the introduction of a tiny fish called the Mississippi silverside and the decision to end the use of the hard pesticide DDD 12 years ago with giving the Northern California lake a "biological resurrection."

The lake was a favorite vacation spot for thousands of recreationists and water sport enthusiasts but for 20 years has been an algae filled sump. The use of DDD in the late 1940s to control hordes of gnats was blamed for triggering the pollution.

But two university researchers, Sherburne Cook Jr. and Steven G. Herman, reported that algae growth has been cut up to 90 per cent and that the once-thrived western grebe waterfowl population is making a comeback.

Two National Leaders Fighting For Big Sky Receiving Crown

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—A tight race has developed between "The Blade" and "The Flea" for Big Sky Conference pass receiving honors, statistics released Wednesday showed.

Jerry "The Blade" Hendren of the University of Idaho continues to lead the league in catches with 82 despite a poor game last weekend against Weber State in which he caught only three aeriels for 29 yards.

Ed "The Flea" Bell of Idaho State moved to within two catches of Hendren. He now has 80 receptions for 1,330 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Both lead their respective university and college division statistics nationally.

Jerry Dunne of Idaho State leads the passing ranks by one yard over Idaho's Steve Olson, who has missed the last three games due to a back injury and who is out of action for the rest of the season.

Dunne has completed 106 of 219 throwing attempts for 1,422 yards and 14 touchdowns. Olson had hit on 112 of 229 passes for 1,421 yards and nine touchdowns before being put in traction for two weeks because of his injuries.

Les Kent of Montana needs only 100 yards rushing this weekend to go over the 1,000 yard mark for the season. He holds a 58-yard lead over Sam Gipson of Weber in rushing statistics, 900 yards to 842.

Dunne easily leads the total offense race with 1,872 yards passing and rushing to Olson's 1,345. Ray Brum of Montana could drop Olson into third place in conference standings in total offense this week by picking up 125 yards. Brum now has 1,220 yards overall to his credit.

Bell continued his large lead over Hendren in the conference scoring race with 104 points to Hendren's 86.

Conference champion Montana leads in two team categories — rushing offense and rushing defense. The Grizzlies pace the standings by averaging 318 yards a game on the ground and by holding their nine opponents to only 108 yards a contest by the same route.

Idaho State, on the strength of its passing game, leads in total offense and pass offense, averaging 456 yards per game — 287 of it through the air.

Weber State leads the defensive ranks, having given up 270 yards a contest. The Wildcats are also the pass defense leaders on the strength of holding their nine opponents to 161 yards each.

Stanford To End All Ties With BYU

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Stanford University will end its athletic ties with Brigham Young University after current commitments run out in 1970.

President Kenneth Pitzer said on Wednesday that because of BYU's discriminatory policies, Stanford will conclude its other ties with the completion of two basketball games in December 1970.

"It is the policy of Stanford University," he said in a statement, "not to schedule events with institutions which practice discrimination on a basis of race or national origin, or which are affiliated with or sponsored by institutions which do so."

Top officials of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, which sponsors BYU, have told Stanford University officials that the Church currently has policies stating that no Negro of African lineage may have the right of priesthood.

"So long as the policy remains in effect, it is my opinion that it constitutes discrimination on the basis of race within the meanings of the guidelines established by the (Stanford) Human Relations Commission."

BYU has been the target of boycotts and demonstrations in recent years by black athletes at San Jose State, University of Texas at El Paso and most recently the University of Wyoming.

House Ready To Ease Restriction On Sport Ammo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to allow hunters to buy shotgun and rifle ammunition without paperwork won a vital legislative victory Wednesday that almost certainly assures its passage within a few days.

The House Rules Committee voted to allow a Senate measure relaxing ammunition registration requirements to go to a House-Senate conference committee.

Sports-minded House members said they will ask the House to order the conferees in advance to go along with the Senate. The issue thus should be settled finally in the next few days.

Indiana Blasts Cougars 130-111

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—Bob Netolicky's shooting and Mel Daniels' rebounding in the second half spirited the Indiana Pacers to a 130-111 win over the Carolina Cougars Wednesday in an American Basketball Association game.

Netolicky dumped in 18 of his 20 points in the second half and Daniels pulled down 21 rebounds for the evening. The Pacers outrebounded the Cougars 45-29, handing them their first home loss.

Leading 56-53 at the half the Pacers pulled away in the third quarter and at one time in the fourth quarter commanded a 23-point lead.

The Cougars managed to come within 9 points of the Pacers, 120-111, late in the final period but the Indiana team scored the last 10 points of the game.

Board Eyes Bus Routes At Kimberly

KIMBERLY—Two bus routes and their problems were considered when the Kimberly school board met this week. Some of the turn-arounds on the routes aren't graveled and could be a problem to the bus drivers.

Don J. Farnes of Don's Mobil will be servicing the buses this year.

A discussion was held on the walk-in cooler to be installed in the hot lunch room. It was decided to divide it, using part as a freezer and the rest as a cooler. Work on this is now in progress.

No decision was made at the moment with regard to the purchase of a football scoreboard. Members were reminded of the Idaho Trustees Association meeting to be held through Saturday at Pocatello. These reviewed resolutions that will be presented there.

Nixon Administration Defends Deferments For Students Despite Protest By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration defended draft deferments for college students Wednesday despite Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's charge that they let wealthier youths "avoid the shooting for four years" while hoping the Vietnam War would end.

"I think it's very appropriate for that boy to finish his education, then go into the service and contribute a little something extra," John G. Veneman, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), said at Kennedy's subcommittee hearing.

Hazard?

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (UPI)—Eugene Methvin, a Readers Digest representative in Washington, received a ticket for jogging on a freeway during the Sigma Delta Chi journalism society convention under way this week. The citation noted he was traveling 2 miles an hour.

But Kennedy, D-Mass., impatiently puffing a thin cigar, said neither money nor brains—the tools for entering college—should favor one youth over another in a government policy which sometimes means life or death. About 30 per cent of U.S. servicemen killed in Vietnam have been draftees.

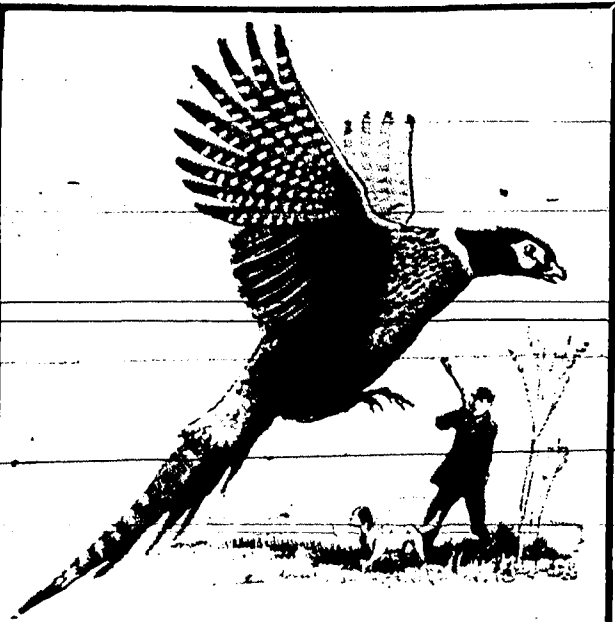

Kennedy, conducting hearings on alleged draft inequities before his Senate subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure, said Nixon should abolish student deferments by executive order. He said students frequently perjure a student deferment into an occupational deferment and dodge military service altogether.

About 1.6 million college youth now have student deferments, and another 350,000 are deferred on grounds their civilian jobs are essential. "The basic requirements of our society require a reservoir of college trained people,"

Veneman said. He urged quick Senate passage of Nixon's draft lottery bill, under which draftees would be picked by random choice, with the selection limited almost entirely to 19 year olds.

Kennedy said he hoped the lottery bill would pass the Senate "in a week or two." It already has passed the House. But the Massachusetts Democrat said he considered it only a prelude to congressional action next year on "the kinds of sweeping draft reform so important to guaranteeing a fair, non-disruptive draft."

Previously, Kennedy stilled the lottery bill in hopes of adding other reforms as amendments. He relented Tuesday at the insistence of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. In the meantime, Kennedy said, Nixon should wipe out both college and occupational deferments.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Rudy works for a large company, and as you know there is a pecking order in all companies. The chairman of the board is apple-polished by the vice presidents, the vice presidents are apple-polished by the department heads, the department heads are apple-polished by the buyers, and so on down the line.

Well, whenever Rudy's company has a party, they have an orchestra and dancing. Rudy is a very good dancer, but never get to dance with him. He spends the entire evening dancing with his boss's wives, so the bosses will be free to dance with all the cute young things. Rudy says I am not to complain because this is "legitimate apple-polishing," which is a part of his job.

Now I'm all for Rudy making points with his bosses, but do you think it's fair for him to leave me sitting all evening while he dances with the boss's wives? RUDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Rudy doesn't need polished apples for all the applesauce he's giving you. No man should dance with another woman unless his own wife is occupied. (A little "henpecking" could have a legitimate place in this pecking order.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 65-year-old woman, never married and just retired have taken care of an older ailing sister who died eight weeks ago.

I was so lonesome, I went to a store and bought myself a beautiful large doll. I set her in the chair and I sometimes talk to her.

I am worried. Is anything wrong with me? Why did I buy a doll at my age? Should I give it away or just let it sit there? Thank you. WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You bought a doll at your age because you wanted one. And there is nothing wrong with that. But you really should get out a little more, see people, and perhaps team up with a companion. Too much solitude can be depressing.

QUESTION

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Loper, internationally known Beverly Hills, Calif., designer, says police couldn't arrest anyone for nudity during the famed Woodstock Rock Festival. "When you have two pounds of dirt on you, you can't be considered nude—even though there's no clothing, can you?" he asked.

They've even taken out-of-town trips together just like married folks, and have recently announced (to the surprise of no one) that they are "engaged" to be married!

A large wedding is planned and I have heard that all of us in the office will be invited. How can I tactfully turn down this wedding invitation? I don't care to attend the wedding of people who have lived in sin for a whole year. INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: Simply decline. You are not expected to explain why. P. S. You could be wrong about this "sin" charge, you know. Are you "indignant" enough to quit working for this "sinner"? If not, why not?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOST FAITH" IN CHICAGO: Perhaps a lesson in "faith" can be best illustrated in this way:

A mother had just received word that her only son, a bright, handsome man of 22, had been killed in Vietnam. Her pastor tried vainly to console her in her grief.

"Where was your God when my only son was killed?" she cried. "The same place He was when HIS only son was killed," the pastor quietly replied.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69200, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

KNOWING FOE HELPS SAVE SLAM

Today's hand was sent to us by Leon Levinsohn, who has been playing in Mississippi and Alabama bridge tournaments as long as we have, which means he played in the first one. He didn't show us the East and West hands or the bidding, so we have made up some bidding of our own. There would be no real play for the slam with a club lead but West opened the 10 of hearts and Leon had a chance to make his slam. The normal play would be to draw trumps and lead the jack of diamonds toward dummy's king. This would represent a 50-50 chance but Leon tried a different line. He won the heart in dummy and led the seven of diamonds at trick two. His reasoning was that West was the sort of player who would surely lead an ace against a slam if he had one. Hence, East was marked with the diamond ace and the play of a diamond to the king would not work. He asked us what we thought of his play. Our answer is that it pays to know your opponent. Since he was sure that West would have opened the diamond ace if he had it, then there was no reason to lead toward the king. His choice lay between this play and that of leading a low club at trick two in the hope that West would win the trick and not find a diamond shift. That play would not have worked and, while this play really should not have succeeded, it did work and we see why Mr. Levinsohn, after 30 years of play, is still a dangerous opponent.

Oswald Jacoby, world-famed bridge expert and co-author with his son Jim of the popular Win at Bridge column, has written a 64-page booklet of bridge tips for Times-News readers. ## Sleep Specialist Says Women Have More Nightmares

CONSIDER THIS — "How many people who commit murder are goaded into it?" inquires a clonk. That, I don't know. But I do know approximately half the people who get murdered have regards of arrest on personal assault charges. An illuminating statistic, what? A SLEEP SPECIALIST contends women have more nightmares than men. YOU, TOO, MAY FEEL this figure is low, but it's reported the average American only uses the telephone about 10 times a week. IN SWEDEN it's against the law to exhibit a trained monkey. CHARACTERISTIC of a Peace girl, says our Playlet man, is her gift for polite double talk. EVERY FOURTH PATIENT in this country has something to do with cars. HOLIDAYS — Our Chief Prognosticator says the novelty boys can be expected to market perfume for dogs against this Christmas. They did fairly well in seasons past with a scotch called Kennel No. 9, I'm told. So you think that's quaint, do you? That's not so quaint. What's quaint is the successful sale of false eyelashes for dogs. Thousands have been turned over at $3.95 a pair. CUSTOMER SERVICE — How far can a man stroll to make himself understood? A. About 200 yards. "HOW MANY CIGARS can an automatic cigar-rolling machine turn out in an hour?" A. Little better than 600. Q. "OF THOSE COUPLES who can't have babies, how often is it the husband's fault?" A. In every fourth case. Q. "WHAT'S the commonest surgery?" A. The name of that no-tie steak house in Phoenix, Ariz. Refer to the place where the management cuts off the ties of all male customers who enter wearing same and facks said ties to the ceiling. Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used wherever possible in "Checking Up." Address mail to L. M. Boyd, in care of this newspaper.

Here I am right on time, Henry—or would you rather I take the rollers out?

Author Will Speak In T.F. On 'Sex Education Expose'

JOHN STEINBACHER

John Steinbacher, education editor and author, will speak on "The Expose of Sex Education" at a public meeting in Holiday Inn, Twin Falls, at 8 p.m. Friday.

Sponsoring Mr. Steinbacher's visit is the Idaho Families United.

Mr. Steinbacher has written several books and has spoken throughout the nation on family life education and was quoted in the October Reader's Digest as the leading spokesman on the issue in the nation.

He has appeared on such TV shows as the Bob Dornan Show, the Joe Pyne Show and many radio stations. On Dec. 29, he will appear on a TV show in Los Angeles along with Art Linkletter, Tommy Smothers and Timothy Leary on the subject of drugs.

Mr. Steinbacher is a graduate of Pacific University and has taken graduate work at Long Beach State College, UCLA and Sacramento State College. He also studied for three years at San Francisco Theological Seminary.

He recently scripted an album, "The Child Seducers," narrated by John Carandine. He has just completed a script for a new album entitled "There's Only One America," featuring the voices of James Stewart, John Wayne, Dale Evans and Walter Brennan.

The public is invited, and a donation will be collected.

Court Bans New Light For Autos

NEW YORK (UPI)—An auto manufacturer does not have the right to introduce new equipment that meets minimum federal safety standards if the equipment is forbidden by individual states, the U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled.

In ruling against a special headlight known as "Super-Lite" that the Chrysler Corp. introduced as optional equipment on its 1969 Dodges, the court upheld the bans imposed on the light by Vermont, New York and New Hampshire.

Chrysler contended the light should be allowed because it complied with the Federal Traffic Act. The firm said the bright light is designed to provide additional forward visibility on high-speed highways without causing additional glare for oncoming drivers, but the three states said it would be hazardous on hilly, winding, two-lane roads.

Chief Judge J. Edward Lumbard said in the 20-page opinion written by the three-judge panel:

"What is perfectly safe on straight roads over the flat terrain of states such as Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas may be very hazardous on hilly, winding roads in Vermont and New York."

Rail Official Stresses Need Of Fund Help

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of one of the nation's largest railroads told Congress today railroads never will be able to give the passenger first-class service unless the government shares the bill.

Penn Central Chairman Stuart T. Saunders claimed "it is beyond the financial capability of Penn Central alone, or the railroad industry alone, to reverse the deterioration of passenger service."

The answer to the problem, Saunders told the House Commerce Committee, is this: "We must have substantial assistance and we must have it now."

According to Saunders, time already has run out on passenger service.

ROGER WAGNER DIRECTS the choral group which bears his name, the Roger Wagner Chorale. The world-famous group will be appearing in concert at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 22 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center. The concert is under the sponsorship of the CSI Lyceum-Committee.

AVOID ACCIDENTS

The greatest number of accidents happen right in the home. Run a safety check of your surroundings. The kitchen is a prime booby area. It's stocked with powerful chemicals to keep things clean and sanitary. But the same labor-saving chemicals that are helpful can be dangerous and even fatal—if they are mis-handled. Use them according to directions and keep them away from youngsters.

Roger Wagner Chorale Sets Appearance In Twin Falls

The Roger Wagner Chorale will be presented in concert Nov. 22 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center under sponsorship of the CSI Lyceum Committee.

The ensemble bearing his name has appeared in every state in the nation, besides overseas tours covering the Middle East, Eastern and Western Europe, all of South America, Central America, Mexico, Canada and Japan.

Mr. Wagner holds a doctorate cum laude in musicology and was commended by Pope Paul VI for his contributions to sacred music.

With a madrigal group of 12 voices as a nucleus, Mr. Wagner developed and trained the larger group which became officially

Airlines May Join Forces In Northeast

NEW YORK (UPI)—Northwest and Northeast airlines have reached a tentative agreement to merge in a deal that would link a wealthy carrier with one of the poorest.

The proposed merger is subject to approval of the Civil Aeronautics Board and stockholders of both airlines. Donald W. Nyrop, Northwest president, and George B. Storer, Northeast chairman, announced the plans Tuesday. Storer is chairman of Storer Broadcasting Co. which owns 86 per cent of Northeast.

There was speculation that if this action was approved, several other major airlines would be involved in mergers in the near future.

Terms of the tentative agreement call for an exchange of one share of Northwest common stock for five shares of Northeast common stock.
