City Trims Annexation Plans, Protest Continues

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

The Twin Falls City Council has once again changed its plans on the annexation of lands surrounding the city.

Instead of bringing seven areas into the city, the council now plans on bringing in only six. And of these six two are being altered.

So that these proposed changes might be incorporated along with the four areas already approved through their second readings — the second of three readings before an ordinance can become law — the council will meet in special session at City Hall at 11 a.m. next Monday to discuss the matters.

About 100 people turned out Monday night to again protest the city's annexation proposals. Two weeks ago about 200 people were at City Hall to voice their opposition to the annexations.

Mayor Egon Kroll said, "That is why we got together and meet like this. It gives us all a chance to be heard and we can make these changes."

The council has decided to leave out the Clinton Earl and Farmstead subdivisions. This was area four proposed for annexation, an area near the Kellwood Co. site south of the city.

Also, in area five the council plans to leave the Longview Fibre Co. plant out of the city until Jan. 1, 1971.

And in area 7, the city plans to leave out the area west of Grandview Drive and south of Filer Avenue West.

All other annexation proposals remain as originally set two weeks ago and have been approved through their second readings. Final action on all the annexation proposals will come at the council's Dec. 1 meeting. Several individuals expressed opposition to the annexation move with Ray Crandal saying, "It all boils down to this: the present citizens of the city, are going to pay, and pay for this."

Police Chief Frank Barnett said he anticipates it will take two more officers and "maybe" one more vehicle to patrol the increased city area. He said he has included a request for four more officers in his 1970 budget, but this does not include the annexation if it is approved.

One woman said, "This annexation thing just makes me sick. We will probably have to sell our home. We can't afford to pay the higher tax."

Former County Probate Judge Richard Reed said, "This plan is ill-advised and the engineering information is not correct."

He asked the council to wait three or four years before annexation of area seven, which is an area on the northwest edge of the city.

In other council action, the council approved for first reading a new ordinance on animal control for the newly annexed areas, if they are annexed.

The animal control ordinance provides a two year grace period for owners of animals. This means they do not have to purchase permits for two years. The city presently allows citizens to own all kinds of animals with the exception of pigs. Ownership, however, requires that citizens meet certain controls on noise and sanitation. Seven animals are allowed on an acre of ground.

A beer license was approved for the new owners of the Black Light Bulb, located in the American Legion Hall. However, See ANNEXATION, Pg. 2, Col. 3

ACTING CITY MANAGER Jean Millar stands at a city map to point out various areas proposed for annexation during the city council meeting Monday night. Seated before him is City Councilman Robert Warberg. An estimated 100 people attended the meeting.

Try Again!

DETROIT (UPI)—Joseph Hatcher arrived at 5 a.m. Monday at the offices of the Automobile Club of Michigan so he could be first in line to buy license plates.

When the offices opened four hours later, Hatcher was the first to be turned away. This year, the state requires that plate buyers bring their car titles with them.

Hatcher didn't.

Patriarch Of Kennedys Dies At 81

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI)—Joseph P. Kennedy, multimillionaire father of a President and two U.S. Senators in a tragedy-stalked family, died today. He was 81.

The patriarch of the fabulous Kennedy clan who lost two sons — one a President and the other a senator — to assassins' bullets was an invalid since felled by a stroke nearly eight years ago.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., his lone surviving son who spent the night in a lonely vigil at his father's bedside was with the senior Kennedy when he died. The senator's mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, his wife Joan and R. Sargent Shriver, U.S. ambassador to France, also were present.

Soldier Says Friends Told Of Massacre

CLAREMONT, Calif. (UPI)—An ex-GI whose letters apparently triggered an investigation into the alleged slaughter of hundreds of Vietnamese civilians by U.S. soldiers said Monday he learned of "the massacre from men who were there."

Ronald Ridenhour, 23, a sophomore at Claremont Men's College here, said he mailed letters last April 2 to President Nixon, Secretary of State William Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and more than 20 congressmen and senators describing what he had heard.

"It is supposed to have happened in March, 1968, and I first learned about it a month later," Ridenhour said. "I did not witness the killings, but I knew a lot of people who had been there, and they told me about it."

BOMB DISARMED

YOKOHAMA, Japan (UPI)—Japanese police Monday night disarmed a time bomb placed near a gate of the American Consulate in Yokohama. A consulate guard said he saw two men plant the bomb at 11 p.m. and then drive off. Experts said it was set to go off at midnight.

Water Financing Sought

U.S. To Protect Lands

HARRISON LOESCH, ASSISTANT secretary of the Interior for Public Land Management, left, conferred with Gov. Don Samuelson during sessions of the Third Annual Governor's Conference. Mr. Loesch was speaker at the banquet Monday night at the Holiday Inn and Governor Samuelson was luncheon speaker as the conference concluded today. Attendance was over the 300 mark.

Advisory Group Is Planned

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Editor

Appointment of a Governor's "blue ribbon" water resource development advisory committee to explore non-federal sources of financing Idaho's proposed projects was announced here today by Gov. Don Samuelson.

The governor made the announcement as he gave the concluding talk at the Third Annual Governor's Conference on Natural Resources of Idaho which ended following a luncheon session at the Holiday Inn.

The conference got under way Sunday afternoon and reports were given by more than 25 experts in various fields during sessions Monday and this morning.

In making the announcement that he had appointed the advisory committee the governor said the names of members coming from industry, the legislature, water user groups and state government would be announced within a few days.

"Their reason for existing will be to investigate the state and private role in financing water resource development," the governor said. "A united front appears to me to be the only means at our disposal for solving the problem of land availability."

He said that appointment of the committee was decided upon because "you and I all know that water and land resource development is fundamental and paramount to the continued economic growth of Idaho."

He added that the "clear fact has emerged that water resource development in the West will receive a low priority even after the Vietnam War is concluded. Therefore, non-federal sources of financing have become an urgent matter and Idaho is exploring every possibility of pushing ahead on its own."

Gov. Samuelson said that the "spirit of cooperation" would be a strong relationship among state and federal agencies and private interests "working toward common goals."

"Such a relationship can take us to greater heights of achievement than we've ever dreamed would be possible," he said.

U.S., Soviet Aides Open Arms Conclave

HELSINKI (UPI)—American and Soviet arms negotiators met in secret session today to work out procedures and an agenda for talks to try to freeze and possibly even reduce their nuclear armories.

The first working session of the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) opened in the American Embassy with the Soviet delegation headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semenov arriving in four Russian-made Volga cars.

Waiting for them in a special chamber, which delegates call "The SALT Room" were chief

U.S. arms negotiator Gerard C. Smith and his arms exports. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson has not yet arrived from the United States where he is undergoing treatment for an ulcer and Philip J. Farley, alternate U.S. representative at talks, is not expected until later in the discussions.

The Russians and the Americans convened in an attempt to agree on how to go ahead of the immensely intricate task of discussing limitation of their awesome arsenals of nuclear weapons which could largely destroy their countries and millions of persons.

Neither side has come up at least publicly with any conditions for the talks. The SALT project has been nearly three years in the preparation and prospects were for years of negotiating.

Rupert Man Killed When Truck Upsets

RUPERT — James W. Livingston, 54, Rupert, was killed in a one vehicle accident 15 miles northwest of Rupert on State Highway 24 late Monday night.

Minidoka county sheriff's officers said Mr. Livingston was headed west when his 1963 Chevrolet pickup truck went off the edge of the highway, causing the driver to lose control. The truck overturned and Mr. Livingston was thrown from the truck, but was found lying near the front wheels. He had not been touched by the wheels. The truck came to rest on its wheels.

Mr. Livingston was employed by the Bruneau Sheep Co. northwest of Rupert.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Robert C. Walk, Minidoka county coroner.

Mr. Livingston was alone in the truck. Passing motorists noticed the truck sitting in the borrow pit and notified officers.

The body is at Walk Mortuary.

Apollo 12 Loops Moon With Precision, Plots Landing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 12's astronauts looped the moon with unerring precision today, checked out the lander Intrepid and said "we're ready to go" for a pinpoint touchdown on the Ocean of Storms.

"We've checked all the things we're supposed to and they're all shipshape," Alan L. Bean radioed earth control from Intrepid's cabin.

Bean and Charles "Pete" Conrad planned to unlatch the landing craft from the nose of the command ship Yankee Clipper late tonight and land on the moon at 1:53 a.m. EST Wednesday. Richard F. Gordon will remain in orbit.

The three astronauts announced to the world "The Yankee Clipper has arrived with Intrepid in tow" after a braking blast placed them in orbit at the end of a 3 1/2 day voyage from earth. They were awed by the view and sounded like excited tourists with a scientific bent.

"It almost looks like somebody took some cake icing and spread it with a big knife, laid it all around and then somebody shot some BB's into it," Bean said in a midnight

Decision Nears On Haynsworth

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The battleground in the fight over Supreme Court nominee Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., narrowed today to a field of 14 senators—nine Republicans and five Democrats.

As the three-month Senate fust over the Greenville, S.C., federal circuit judge drew toward a finish, there were signs a White House-inspired small campaign was paying off.

The latest senators to publicly commit their votes—William B. Spong Jr., D-Va., and Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt.—both wound up in the pro-Haynsworth column.

Kellwood Vice President Visits Plant In T.F., Operation Due To Start In January

John J. White, dean of the hosiery industry and a vice president of the Kellwood Co., is in Twin Falls this week making a progress check on the company's new hosiery manufacturing plant.

Mr. White, on his third visit to Twin Falls, is a veteran of 45 years in the hosiery industry and is recognized as one of the foremost experts in the field. He has been with the Kellwood Co. since it was formed in December, 1961.

His first trip to Twin Falls was a year ago, when Kellwood Co. officials were searching for a site for a new hosiery manufacturing plant. Of all the sites he saw or was asked to see, Mr. White said he was most impressed with Twin Falls.

"The cooperation of all in Twin Falls concerned with Kellwood's move here was most impressive," he said. "This includes city fathers, county officials, the building contractor, the College of Southern Idaho, state officials, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and many other people," he said.

He said he is pleased with the progress on the Kellwood factory at the south edge of Twin Falls and it is planned to begin operation in the factory shortly after the first of the year.

The Kellwood factory is about 90 per cent complete at this time. Most of the remaining work is inside construction, which is about 85 per cent complete.

Mr. White said he has not inspected any of the training courses which the College of

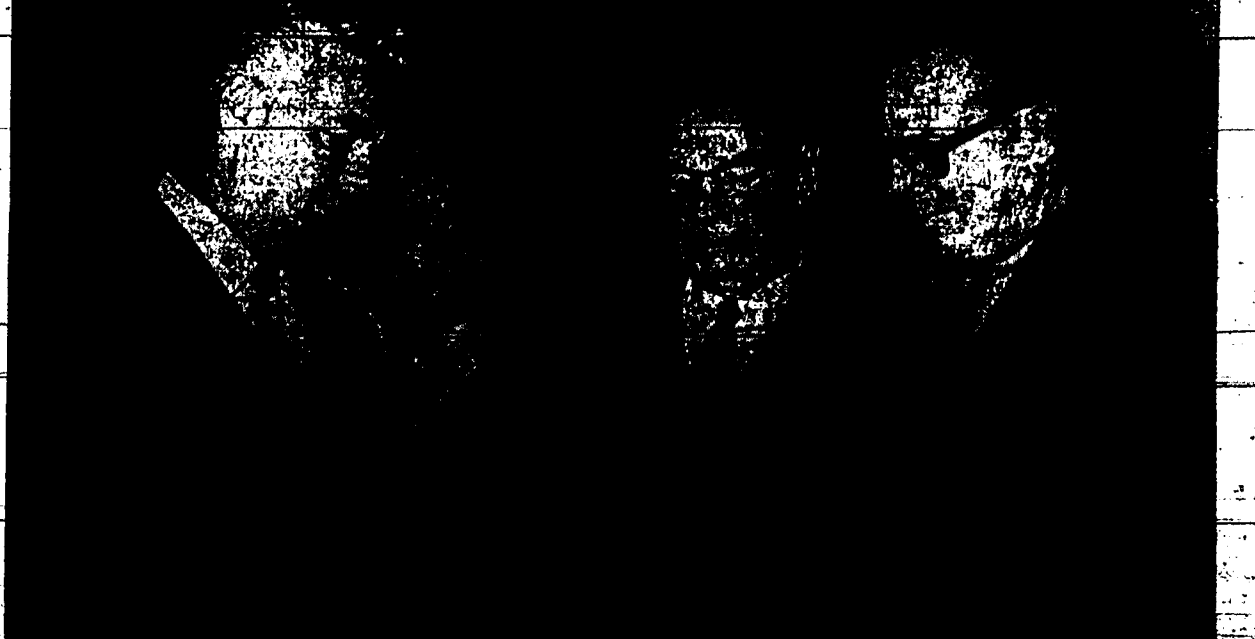

Kellwood Vice President Visits Plant In T.F., Operation Due To Start In January

Southern Idaho is holding at the old C. C. Anderson building, but has heard favorable reports on the courses designed for the knitting industry.

Mr. White said the hosiery industry has changed radically in the past 45 years, with the largest recent change being the advent of panty hose. Mr. White said a substantial portion of the hosiery made and sold by the Kellwood Co. is now panty hose.

He said women first began wearing hosiery in about 1900 and since then there have been several changes in the industry, including the pre-World War II invention of nylon.

Prior to that, hosiery was made from cotton, silk and rayon. The change to seamless stockings also was an important change in the hosiery industry, he said.

Weather Synopsis

Although high pressure has returned to the Northwestern states, moist air ahead of a Pacific disturbance had penetrated inland as far southeast as Southwestern Idaho by this morning. This moisture will spread into the remainder of Southern Idaho today and will produce variable cloudiness over these agricultural valleys through midweek. Some snow is expected over the mountain areas on Wednesday and some snow or rain may spread into the lower Malheur and Southern Idaho valleys on Thursday.

A slight warming trend will take place through Wednesday with high readings today ranging from the 30s in Southeastern Idaho to the 40s in the west. About three to five degrees additional warming is expected on Wednesday.

Low readings tonight will range from the teens in the Southeast Idaho highlands to the 20s in East-Central Oregon and Southwestern Idaho.

The extended weather outlook indicates a slight chance of light rain or snow about Thursday, otherwise little or no precipitation is expected into the weekend. Temperatures through Saturday will average near normal with the warmest period at the end of the week.

Skies yesterday were partly cloudy but cleared over all but the western valleys last night. The only precipitation during the past 24 hours were traces at Mountain Home and Boise.

High temperatures over Southern Idaho yesterday were three to nine degrees lower than the previous day and ranged from 33 at Idaho Falls to 42 at Kuna and Mountain Home. Low readings last night were mostly in the upper teens and the 20s.

Annexation

The license will not be awarded until the new owners make certain building modifications. The business is expected to open again in about two weeks.

The business was closed recently and the old owners turned in their beer license at the last county meeting.

The new owners said they have no connection with the old owners.

The city approved the low bid of $8,608 from the Twin Falls Association of Insurance Agents for the city's liability coverage for the coming year.

Three new police cars were purchased from Glen Jenkins Chevrolet for a total cost of $5,897. Glen Jenkins submitted the low bid recently.

Second Avenue East and North were designated traffic thoroughfares in a new ordinance and the speed limit was set at 25 miles an hour.

The council will appear at a public Utilities Commission hearing in Twin Falls Dec. 8 to present the city's view on the proposed rate increase by the Idaho Power Co.

Jean Mildr, city manager, said the city's electricity bill runs about $100,000 a year now, and he estimates the cost will be $120,000 a year if the rate hike is approved.

Country Club Elects Aides

JEROME — Jerome Country Club members elected Dr. Lauren M. Neher and V. E. Camozzi to the board of directors at their annual meeting held Saturday.

Mr. Camozzi and Dr. Neher were elected to fill the expired terms of C. R. N. Shepherd and Ralph O'Harrow.

A general review of the year's activities was given by Mr. Shepherd. Mr. Shepherd told the club members that revenues are over last year and the club is operating debt free.

The sprinkling system being purchased by the membership has been paid for now, and it was decided to retain the $15 a year assessment per membership to enable new additions to the golf course to be made and so needed equipment for maintenance can be purchased. Dues will be $50 and the total assessment for 1970 will be $50.

Nudists' Plans Receive Setback

DURSLEY, England (UPI) — Dursley residents had no objections to nudists sunning about in the town's 32-acre woods.

But when the Town Council members heard the nudists wanted to build huts, sauna baths and a swimming pool, they put their foot down.

A spokesman for a local delegation told the council they had no objection to the nudist club, but insisted the buildings would spoil woodland in "an area of already outstanding natural beauty."

Want A Good Yule Tree? Cut Your Own

Five hundred Christmas tree permits will be sold this year on the Twin Falls Ranger District of the Sawtooth National Forest, Ranger Lewis Munson announced Tuesday.

He said plans have been made to sell the permits again this year, but they will be available only at the ranger district office, 1525 Addison Ave. E., in Twin Falls.

Forest officials said those wishing to cut trees in the Ketchum or Hailey districts, however, must purchase the permits in Hailey and Ketchum from the ranger district offices.

Cost is $1 per permit and each applicant will receive a metal tree tag entitling him to one lodgepole pine or alpine fir tree up to eight feet in height.

Ranger Munson said the larger trees are not to be topped. The metal tag must be securely locked to the trunk of the tree after cutting. The Forest Service requires all trees be cut at least 200 feet from any main travel road, campground, summer home or other buildings.

Permits go on sale Nov. 24 through Dec. 19 and may be obtained at the ranger district office from 8 a.m. to noon and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Mr. Munson suggested those wishing trees to obtain their permits early, as they are available on a first come, first served basis only.

HAILEY — Hailey Chamber of Commerce will continue its protest to the Civil Aeronautics Board regarding Air West's refusal to relinquish its certificate of service to the Hailey - Sun Valley airport.

Members voted almost unanimously to let the protest stand in a poll taken at Monday's meeting. Members not present at the meeting were telephoned.

At the same time, the application of Sun Valley Airlines for a "convenience of necessity" permit to fly the Twin Falls-Hailey, Sun Valley route, was approved and the secretary instructed to advise the Public Utilities Commission.

Roland Smith of Sun Valley Airlines, who was a guest, in speaking of the air mail service, said approximately 1,000 pounds of air mail goes in and out of Hailey every day and that the carrier receives 12 cents a pound to Salt Lake City and 6 cents a pound to Boise.

Gas Rates

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Public Utilities Commission has granted Intermountain Gas Company a temporary five per cent rate increase, pending a decision on the firm's application for a higher bond.

PUC President Ralph Wickberg said the increase would raise revenue for the company by $982,068 per year. A spokesman for the company said that amounted to a flat five per cent on all classes of users.

Intermountain Gas Company's request for an 11.7 per cent permanent increase will be set for hearing probably in January, Wickberg said.

Miner's Winter Food Is Burned

HAILEY — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Knight came to Hailey to purchase a new supply of food for the winter. Their entire supply of meat, cases of canned food and fruits and vegetables canned by Mrs. Knight were destroyed when the shed in which they were stored burned to the ground.

Mr. Knight is employed at the Hoodoo mine on Slate creek about five miles from Clayton on the Salmon river, and he and his wife and son are living in a rented farmhouse not far from the mine. Their deep freeze was filled with meat, and the other food was stored in one of the mine sheds.

Low heat from a butane stove kept the temperature in the shed above freezing. It is believed the fire started from this stove.

ST. MARK'S CATHEDRAL is believed to be the actual burial place of St. Mark who wrote the Gospel of St. Mark. Byzantine architecture, decorated with marvelous statues and mosaics stands out in this photograph by Leo Anderson.

TOLL CASTLE on the Rhine River above Boppard looks like a misty dream out of the past. Autumn foliage and vineyards walk up the steep mountain side.

MEMBERS OF the Romantic Europe tour group, with most participants from the Magic Valley, were caught by Leo Anderson's camera right after the blowing of a whistle which is blown at noon and calls in hundreds of pigeons for feeding.

ROME, THE ETERNAL CITY, is a fabulous outdoor museum of art and antiquity of which this monument, featuring Michelangelo's Moses is only one streetside item. Leo Anderson said wire running down the street made photographing of this item difficult.

Miss Teenage America Cares About Keeping Individuality

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Debbie Patton had been Miss Teenage America for less than 24 hours, but she was already concerned about keeping herself "separate from the title." She said she wanted people to think of her as an individual rather than as Miss Teenage America of 1970. Debbie, a 5-foot-7, green-eyed brunette from Odessa, Tex., won the crown Saturday night in the finale of the week-long pageant. "It feels great," she told a news conference Sunday, "but I can't really comprehend what it will mean to me."

Along with the title, the senior at Permian High School in Odessa, where she had been voted most intelligent girl and most dependable girl, was scholarships, a new wardrobe and a year of personal appearances around the country. The other finalists included Nancy Meek, Miss Teenage Indianapolis, first runnerup; Christina Coeman, Miss Teenage Jacksonville, Fla., second runnerup, and Sylvia Stockwell, Miss Teenage Colorado Springs, Colo., third runnerup.

Retired Savings-Loan President Finds Hobby Of Photography Comes In Handy

When Leo Anderson retired a few months ago he didn't. The former president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Twin Falls, has too many hobbies and one of the more interesting ones is photography. So, when he decided he should get away from it all for awhile and join the Romantic Europe tour of Europe sponsored by Magic Carpet Travels, he took along his wife and three cameras. In one camera he had black and white film, in another a slow color film and in the third a fast color film. He admitted to friends on the trip that he could photographic most anything that came along. And he did just that. He ended up as the tour's personal photographer as some of the pictures which accompany this article prove. But Mr. Anderson hints he is no used-to-working that it is hard to take a trip and do nothing. "And photography is a good hobby to keep me busy," he said. In addition to taking the pictures he also develops and prints them which, in itself, will give him something else to do after any trip he takes is over. The recent Romantic Europe trip was one of the most successful in which Magic Valley people participated. There were 42 tour members, for the 22 day jaunt by air and surface transportation. Members visited Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Monte Carlo, France and England. Members of the tour were: Mr. and Mrs. William Walters Filer, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gillespie, 726 Filer Ave.; Mrs. J. W. Banbury, 183 Larkspur Drive; Mrs. Grace French, Buhl; Mrs. Bette Pene, 218 Buchanan St.; Mrs. James Sinclair, 262 Lincoln St., and Mrs. Sarah Painter, 1910 San LaRue Ave. Also, Mrs. W. A. Coiner, Hansen; Mrs. W. H. Detweiler, Hazelton; Mrs. Charlotte McMaster, 833 Shoshone St. E.; Amy Stein, Boise; Mrs. J. L. Jesson, Milwaukee, Ore.; Mrs. Jessie Dean, Wendell; Mrs. Esther Gunther, John Day, Ore., and

Two commissioners for the Twin Falls Highway District will be elected Dec. 1. Positions are being sought in subdistrict No. 1 and subdistrict No. 2 for four-year terms. Nominations for these positions must be in not less than 10 days before the elections. Petitions can be obtained at the highway district office at 4122 Highland Ave. E. Kenneth H. Poe is the incumbent commissioner for subdistrict No. 1 and Ralph E. Olmstead is the incumbent in subdistrict No. 2. Consumer Rights

It was probably coincidental that the President's message to Congress on consumer protection, which the administration called the "Buyer's Bill of Rights," came on the heels of the controversy about cyclamates and other food additives...

In his "Buyer's Bill of Rights," the President has proposed strengthening the government's role in consumer protection. Included in his plan is a reorganization of the Federal Trade Commission...

Without waiting for congressional approval, Mr. Nixon has ordered the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to fully investigate the 600 food additives now on the market...

It is able to collect and assimilate the results of investigations, and tests from private, scientific and governmental laboratories with a much clearer picture of trends, peculiar results or shortcomings than any single industry or manufacturer could hope to achieve.

Emphasis On Giving

Every year, members of the Idaho Council of Churches and the Roman Catholic Diocese of Boise join in sponsoring an annual clothing collection to obtain gravely needed garments, shoes and bedding materials for impoverished men, women and children overseas...

The materials will be shipped and distributed overseas to deserving needy persons, entirely without regard to race or religion, through the global facilities of Lutheran World Relief, the Catholic Relief Services, and Church World Service...

The most urgent need for clothing this year is for victims on both sides of the Nigeria-Biafra war, as well as those affected by the conflicts in Vietnam, the Middle East, and between Honduras and El Salvador.

What better way could we celebrate Thanksgiving than by placing the emphasis on the giving?

MR. SPECTATOR

John Doe, M.D., A.B.F.P.

There is no question that the lot of the general medical practitioner has suffered considerably in the last quarter century. Not only have his ranks been considerably diminished, inundating those family doctors who remain under a backbreaking load...

Medical school graduates have been shunning general practice for any number of mushrooming specialties for several reasons. Money may be one, but far higher on the scale is prestige.

It is the specialist who achieves prominence within the profession, is invited to prepare a paper for a medical seminar and who almost exclusively receives grants and recognition for his research efforts.

After years of fighting a losing battle by pointing out the inadequacy of a medical system staffed predominantly by specialists in one kind of ailment, the general practitioners are resorting to the old pragmatic tactic: if you can't beat them, join them.

Earlier this year the American Academy of General Practice set the wheels in motion. Beginning next year, examinations will be required for those who wish to qualify as specialists in family practice, and new graduates will be required to either complete a residency, as other specialists now do, or practice for at least six years before taking the accreditation exam.

In exchange, the family specialist will be given a new set of initials following M.D. after his name. The new specialist will become John Doe, M.D., A.B.F.P. (for American Board of Family Practice).

The family doctor is needed today, perhaps more so than at any time in history. Elevating his professional status among his own colleagues will be a big step toward full acceptance and participation in the endless opportunities available to medical practitioners today.

HANSEN BRIDGE

This fall, just three short years ago, we lost a shrine - we let it go. 'Twas the end of an era is what they said.

When the old bridge dropped, it fell like lead. They cut the cables and let it fall. The towers, girders, beams and all.

Those cables, set in strong concrete, had held it firm under horses' feet.

As farmers' wagons passed that way loaded with grain or beans or hay.

What stories the historic wreck could tell!

It had served an era and served it well.

The suspension span of steel and wood.

The highest in North America stood.

A dollar then was silver true, and none for waste could the people spare.

A mere hundred thousand built the bridge.

That lay a wreck in the canyon there!

"We'll save the metal and burn the wood."

The wreckers' said. They did, but good.

It took a million bucks and more to build a wide, sleek, modern span.

But we remember the one before. We'll not forget. We never can.

OFF-THE-WATER SHIP

A cargo ship which can cross the Atlantic Ocean in 24 hours? That prospect is being held out for the 1980s, as one of the accomplishments of air cushion ships now in the planning stages.

WASHINGTON - A self-appointed "steering committee" of communists, Trotskyites, socialists, radical pacifists and other extremists was masterminding and manipulating last week's series of anti-Vietnam activities.

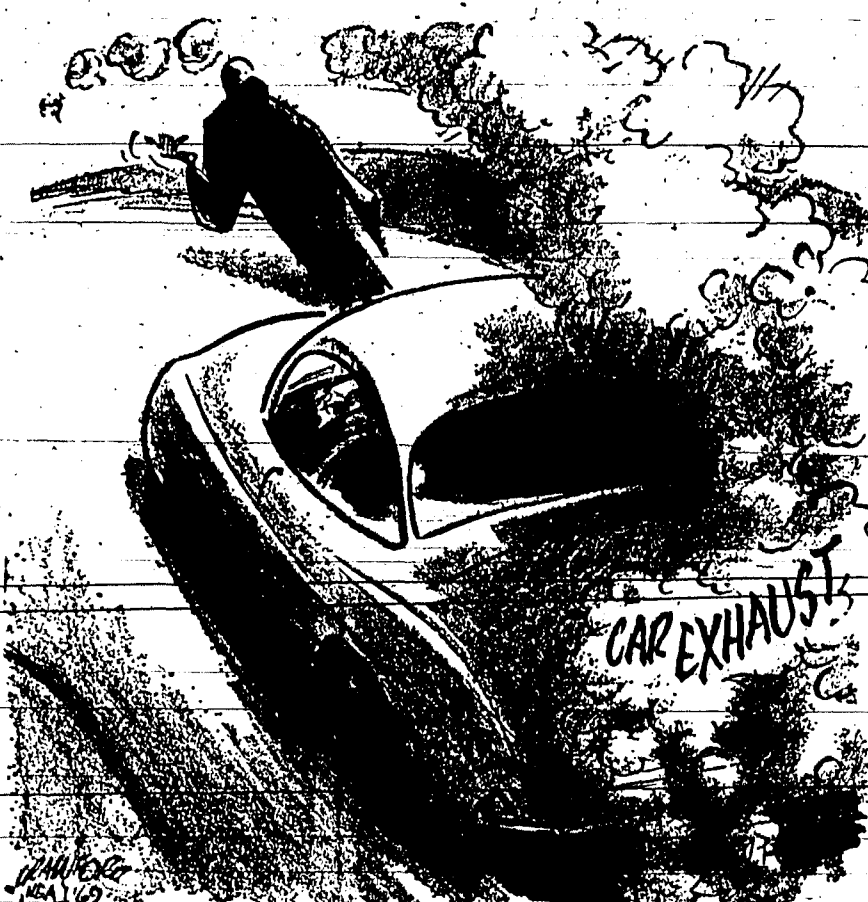

Vietnam dissenters. Actually, "New Mobe" is a new facade for the National Mobilization Committee for Peace in Vietnam ("Mobe"), which had a three-year history of violence and civil disobedience.

It was convened at the call of a group of 30 Marxist and radical leaders. Most of them are now members of the back-stage steering committee. Some 800 representatives of revolutionary and pacifist organizations attended the meeting.

Also present were individuals who claim to be connected with "GI underground newspapers" devoted to disseminating anti-war propaganda and denunciations of U. S. armed forces.

The great tragedy, he warns, is that "thousands of well-meaning Americans may allow themselves unwittingly to be manipulated into furthering these sinister goals."

The Hitchhiker

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

The President's New Lobbyist

WASHINGTON - President Nixon plans to give Harry Dent, his razor-sharp political troubleshooter, the delicate chore of running his Congressional relations.

Sept. 29 to Phillip Areeda, executive director of President Nixon's Cabinet task force on oil import control, Collado forecast that a reduction in the oil depletion allowance from the present 27.5 per cent down to 20 per cent would not affect domestic production until 1974.

While grateful for Mr. Nixon's campaign visit to New Jersey, Cahill men were unhappy that both the President and Holton at the luncheon tied the two gubernatorial victories so closely to Mr. Nixon and his Vietnam policy.

Dent will take over day-to-day supervision of Congressional lobbying from Bryce Harlow, who is being kicked upstairs to the staff reorganization. What was not announced and is not scheduled for announcement is Dent replacing Harlow as chief White House lobbyist (though Harlow will still be available for broad policy guidance in Congressional affairs).

What's more, Collado projects only slightly reduced production through the 1970s. While official industry sources testified that the 20 per cent depletion allowance would result in a dangerous 50 per cent cut in production by 1980, Collado estimates a reduction of only 5.26 per cent by 1980 under the reduced tax advantage.

Actually, Cahill's aides are of two minds about the new Governor's relations with the White House. They need lots of Federal help for the state's complicated problems and so desire good relations with Mr. Nixon.

Personally well organized Dent is expected to improve technical proficiency in the office. He may well end year-long Congressional grumbling about not getting White House answers to telephone calls.

A footnote: Collado's surprising forecasts will be used by tax reformers in their attempts to override the Senate Finance Committee's action in setting the oil depletion at 23 per cent. The reformers have a better than even chance on the Senate floor to restore the 20 per cent figure passed by the House.

Nevertheless, even Dent's colleagues on the White House staff admit he is scarcely the best man to win over the large, unruly bloc of liberal Republican Senators who constitute Mr. Nixon's most sensitive problems in Congress.

Supporters of Gov.-elect William Cahill of New Jersey were considerably less than happy about Wednesday's White House victory luncheon staged by President Nixon for Cahill and Governor-elect Linwood Holton of Virginia.

PAUL HARVEY

On Next Year

Nixon voters, impatient because the President has not fulfilled those ambitious promises of the last election campaign, must realize that Congress is already campaigning in the next election.

With the exceptions of extending the surtax and voting for the ABM, his Congress has been long on talk and short on action.

Every member of Congress has an important stake in next year's election whether he, personally, is a candidate or not.

However the President pleads his cause, he knows Congress will not declare a moratorium on partisan politics; at least it never has.

Presently Republicans need 30 seats to gain control of the House, seven to dominate the Senate.

Next year, needed or politically popular White House legislation will have been sufficiently rephrased so that it will have a Democratic flavor.

President Nixon will be concentrating his coming 12 months on "looking good," encouraging election of a GOP Congress.

More likely, for enactment of any meaningful reforms he and we will have to wait until next year.

The oil industry's insistence that a reduced oil depletion allowance will result in calamitous drops in crude oil production has been undercut by one of its most respected executives: Emilio G. Collado, executive vice president of Standard Oil Co. (N.J.).

For the whole system which we sometimes pretend to deplore involves the parties of two parts trying to outdo one another in a least a periodic effort to woo you.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

It's Torture

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My mother, who lives in a distant state, is undergoing colon irrigation to get rid of "toxic poisons." The treatments flush the colon with 45 gallons of water in an hour's time.

The result can be an "irritable colon," and disrupted defecation reflex - the bowel loses its normal rhythm.

So far she has had three treatments, and is now to take 100 castor oil capsules, five a day, at first, then two or three.

In addition, water intoxication is possible, and this can be a serious matter. The colon, as I said, absorbs water. Getting 45 gallons in a short time makes water intoxication a real risk.

She still has to have more treatments since she "is not cleared of all the poison yet."

This is not the first time I've heard of these "colon irrigations," but I thought the practice was declining. It had its vogue among practitioners who, although purporting to treat illnesses, do not have the necessary training for accurate diagnosis.

Is there any value or any harm in such treatments? - Mrs. C.F.

Urge your mother to stop this dangerous nonsense and go to a reliable physician who can diagnose her complaints accurately rather than talking about "toxic poisons."

Some of the weird "treatments" that readers tell me about are both amazing and deplorable. I wouldn't call this performance a treatment; I'd call it torture.

She may have some osteoarthritis, or some other ailment causing her discomfort, but flushing away minerals from her system and overloading it with water will not help her. She needs and deserves rational treatment.

Apparently, she is not alarmed at being drawn into Nixon's Monday night speech on Vietnam.

To start with, the whole concept is wrong: the function of the colon is not to dispose of poisons. Rather, the colon accepts the highly liquid contents of the small intestine, and extracts from it certain minerals needed by the body - chiefly sodium, but also potassium and some others.

Actually, Cahill's aides are of two minds about the new Governor's relations with the White House.

At the same time, the colon extracts water from the contents, leaving the solid material to be expelled by the bowel. This is not poison; it is the waste material, fibers, and other ingredients of our food which are not digestible.

Supporters of Gov.-elect William Cahill of New Jersey were considerably less than happy about Wednesday's White House victory luncheon staged by President Nixon for Cahill and Governor-elect Linwood Holton of Virginia.

The water flush you describe will remove the bowel content - but it also removes protective mucus.

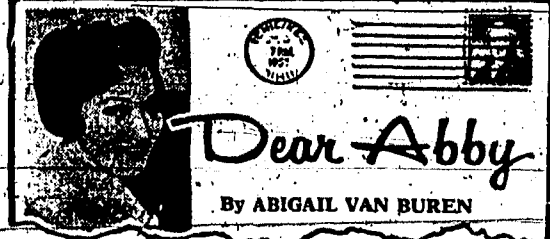

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I missed your article about chronic bladder infection that was in the paper. Would you run another?

There are so many other questions waiting for answers that I rather you sent for my booklet, "Your Kidneys - Facts You Need to Know About Them." Send 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of the Times-News and I'll send you the booklet.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a plain ordinary GI doing my "thing" in Vietnam. My problem is my mother. This sweet little old lady has been working as a door-to-door saleslady trying to earn money to meet me in Sydney, Australia, on my "R and R."

Now, Abby, don't get me wrong. I love my mother, but I really didn't have in mind spending my "R and R" walking my 50-year-old mother around Sydney. I mean there are things I'd like to do and places I would like to go where a sweet little old lady wouldn't fit in. Abby, I can tell from her letters that she has her heart set on meeting me.

How can I tell her not to? I don't want to break her hard-working heart. Sign this.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE PARENTS OF THE WIFE" IN VICTORIA, TEXAS: I am sure you mean well, but don't try to talk your daughter into taking back a husband who "beats her to a bloody pulp ONLY when he gets drunk." He may get drunk and kill her one day. Then what will happen to those adorable children? After the husband joins ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS and proves that he can stay off the sauce for a while, she can give him another chance.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69-700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

DEAR BEAST: If you honestly think you'd break your mother's heart, then let her meet you. Little old ladies of 50 are a lot sharper than you think they are. She could surprise you, join forces with a middle-aged kangaroo, and find herself a couple of jumps ahead of you.

DEAR ABBY: What should a woman do when someone crowds in ahead of her in a check-out line or at some counter where there are more customers than clerks to take their money? This happened to me again yesterday, and I was really upset because I was in a hurry. Afterwards, I was mad at myself for not having had the courage to stand up for my rights and put that rude woman in her place. If I had been determined to say something, what should I have said?

DEAR MAD: You could have said, "Excuse me, madame, but I believe I was ahead of you." But one so rude as to crowd in ahead of another would probably have countered with, "Oh, no you weren't! I was ahead of YOU!" You'd have gained nothing but a second attack of indignation, so you are better off acting lady-like and remaining silent.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a word to "ATTRACTED" from one who has "BEEN THERE."

Don't give yourself a moment alone with the man who attracts you. It works!

I had the best excuse in the world — an impotent husband. But he's a fine man and a good father. I would never give up a man with my husband's qualities, and break up my family

Violin Making Is Literary Program Topic

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Williams presented the program at a recent meeting of the Book-Literary Art Guild at their home.

Mrs. Williams gave the biography of Antonio Stradivari, famous violin maker, and Mr. Williams showed several of the 18 violins he has made and described the intricate work that goes into handmade violins.

Mrs. Garth Galloway, club president, was in charge of the business meeting. The guided thought was given by Mrs. W. R. Christensen.

Hostesses were Mrs. Vaun-J. McArthur and Mrs. Norman Herzinger.

The next meeting is a Christmas party Dec. 11 at the home of Mrs. Charles Reeder.

"Blue Ribbon" Committee To Study Water Financing

Such cooperation should have the "first target" of eliminating the 160-acre limit on land under the Carey Act. It should be raised, he said, to at least 320 acres. Family-sized farms then would be able to operate competitively and the state would be able to help develop desert lands for this kind of farm.

"A new spirit of cooperation is imperative as well, in making desert entry land available for development," the governor said. "Every effort should be made to process desert entry applications as rapidly as possible. And fast action should be taken to resolve conflicting interests in land opened up for this type of use."

Turning again to water, he said it will "certainly take cooperation" and an entirely new approach "to solve the problem of the federal government's cut-back in funds for reclamation projects. That's why I suggested to the Idaho Water Resource Board in September that steps must be taken to consider the possibilities of non-federal financing."

The chief executive said "we must work together" and added that "never should there be separate spheres of influence—on which public agencies and private interests carry on their affairs in a vacuum independently of each other. To my way of thinking, cooperation means a continued dialogue between the public and private sector."

Gov. Samuelson said there is "no doubt" that agriculture will continue to hold its place of prominence.

"It is simply not true that agriculture is a declining industry," he said. "Except for the number of people it takes to run our farms, agriculture is an expanding industry. Every year American agriculture uses more capital, more science and technology, more managerial capacity, more purchased production inputs, more specialized marketing facilities, and more research than the year before."

"From all signs, the future of agriculture in Idaho looks excellent and I say that the future is golden if we work together and take advantage of it."

The governor was introduced by Curtis Eaton, executive vice president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co., who was master of ceremonies at the luncheon.

Sponsors of the conference, which attracted more than 300 leaders from over the state, was the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Protection

placed under sustained yield management to provide the lumber needs for homes.

"The thread that runs through this decision—making is meeting the needs of the public whether for wilderness and solitude, for enhanced hunting and fishing, or for essential minerals, forest products and agricultural commodities."

O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Times-News editor, was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

Principal talk this morning was given by Kenneth C. Walker, assistant deputy administrator, United States Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Center, Washington, D.C.

Mr. Walker, discussing agriculture's involvement in pollution, said that agriculture's efforts to control pollution must be coordinated with those for controlling urban and industrial pollution to insure maximum environmental improvement.

While it may be possible to identify and separate sources of pollution as being agricultural or non-agricultural in origin, it is not always possible to separate and identify the end results of the pollutants.

"Ultimate responsibility for preventing, controlling or abating agriculture-related pollution rates with the individual farmers, ranchers, feedlot operators and forest owners, and with the industries that process agricultural and forestry products. Programs for improving environmental quality must aim at identifying the real sources of pollution in order to prevent further deterioration and restore the quality of the environment to a socio-economically acceptable level," he said.

Mr. Walker pointed out that "concern for the quality of the environment has been growing rapidly in recent years."

"There is a rising interest across the Nation in cleaning up the environment."

"Like most activities of man, agriculture contributes to the pollution of the environment. The involvement is a two-way street. Agriculture frequently is affected by its own contribution and also by the contribution of other industries," Mr. Walker concluded.

Other speakers at this morning's concluding session were Herb Derrick, state planning director; Gordon C. Trombley, state land commissioner; John R. Woodworth, director, Idaho Fish and Game Department; Rodney Hansen, chairman, Idaho Soil Conservation Commission; Joe Fallini, state director, BLM; C. O. Youngstrom, associate director, U. of I. extension service; Lee T. Morgan, state conservationist, SCS, and Max Rees, regional planner, coordinating Forest Service, Ogden.

Lawyers Ask Prompt End Of Race Bias

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration said Monday it needs more time in six Southern states to carry out desegregation plans, but Negro lawyers said racial lines should be erased now.

Thirteen judges heard arguments in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on whether 16 districts in Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Alabama and Texas are using the wrong kind of desegregation plans or merely taking too much time to complete them.

"We believe the court should let school boards submit their own plans," said U.S. Deputy Attorney General David L. Norman in behalf of the government. "We believe this technique is a good one, and it should be followed now."

"The timing issue is not insurmountable. The Supreme Court did not intend to hold that there would never be a case where some school board would not have a reason for delaying implementation of the desegregation," Norman said.

Sato Hopes For End Of Viet War

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

No one hopes more fervently than Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato that the United States is out of the war in Vietnam before the end of 1972.

He meets with President Nixon in Washington this week with a date for the return to Japan of the strategic island of Okinawa the most pressing item on his agenda.

And that date must depend in large part on events in Vietnam.

In Japan the talks are regarded as the most important between the two powers since the end of World War II, and the pressures on Sato are so great that before leaving Tokyo he declared:

"I have staked my political life on the reversion of Okinawa to Japan."

It was scarcely an exaggeration.

No other emotional issue stirs the Japanese so much as Okinawa and its population of one million. Closely linked with it in the Japanese mind is the mutual security treaty linking the United States and Japan which expires in June, 1970.

It will extend itself automatically subject to 12 months cancellation unless either side acts to stop it.

Both the United States and the Japanese government want it extended.

Egypt Chief Claims War Is Success

By United Press International

EGYPT'S war minister, Gen. Mohamed Fawzi, says his country's war of attrition against Israel is a success, killing about 150 Israelis every month.

Fawzi made the statement Monday in a report to a secret session of the national assembly. The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram carried an account of the report today.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli military spokesman said four Israeli soldiers and a soldier's visiting wife were wounded in an early morning attack by Arab guerrillas on a military headquarters in the northern Sinai.

The spokesman said a curfew was imposed on the area after the 5 a.m. attack on the outpost near El Arish and that security forces had begun a hunt for the raiders. Bazookas were said to have been used in the attack.

In his report to the national assembly, Fawzi also said Egypt is planning to escalate its military operations against Israel but warned that Egypt must be ready to absorb additional Israeli blows.

The Egyptian official said the ratio of Israeli casualties to its population was four times the Egyptian figure.

Onrushing Technology Threatens Survival Of Many 'Dying Arts,' Such As Tom-Toms

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every now and then I come across a newspaper or magazine feature about one of America's "dying arts"—old skills that are being driven into oblivion by onrushing technology.

Buttonhooking, for example, is a dying art. I doubt you could find one person in ten thousand who could operate a buttonhook with any appreciable degree of dexterity. And I could name a dozen others in a trice.

(Naming things in a trice, incidentally, is itself a dying art. There aren't more than a score of really first-rate trice-namers left. And most of them are past their prime.)

Ordinarily, a reference to a dying art causes me no more than a twinge of nostalgia. But the other day I read about one that gave me genuine concern.

Before I broach it, let us examine the conditions underlying this onset of anxiety. Consider, if you will, that:

—Telephone service, particularly in big cities, is becoming increasingly inefficient, with circuits tied up when you need them, and that sort of thing.

—Mail service, as even post office partitions will admit, leaves much to be desired and in the opinion of some observers is on the brink of chaos.

—Telegraph service seems to be shrinking and relies mainly on telephone and mail service for delivery.

When you consider these things you will perhaps share the feeling of disquiet that I experienced when I learned from the National Geographic Society that sending messages by tom-tom is now a dying art.

Man, that is bad news for sure!

I mean, the way things are going with our other modes of communication, we need to have those tom-toms available as a back-up system.

"In old India," the Geographic says, "relays of drummers could send a message 300 miles in just 17 minutes." Which would be a big improvement over telephone, telegraph and postal service.

I tried to make a 300-mile telephone call a few evenings ago and it took me 57 minutes just to get past the busy signals on the area code.

As a precautionary measure, we should use federal subsidies to underwrite tom-tom training, and just to be on the safe side, we had better make certain the Indian smoke signaling doesn't become a dead art either.

HEART RECIPIENT DIES PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Bernard "Ben" Anolik, a former boxing promoter who lived 14 1/2 months with a transplanted heart, died early today at Presbyterian-University Hospital.

When you consider these things you will perhaps share the feeling of disquiet that I experienced when I learned from the National Geographic Society that sending messages by tom-tom is now a dying art.

"Once the mainstay of primitive communication, village drums around the world have grown old and worn," Geographic reports. "Young tribesmen from Africa to Alaska show little interest in pursuing the complex art."

Bomb Hoax Halts Work At 'Times'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Production was stopped at the New York Times for an hour Monday night because of a bomb of the Times building off Broadway.

The hoax, second in a week at the Times, came in an anonymous call to the emergency police number at 9:30 p.m. and police asked editorial and production employees to leave the building while it was searched. No explosives were found.

The last scare, which came after three Manhattan skyscrapers actually were bombed, also proved to be a hoax.

HUSKY BIRD AWAITS WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon gets an advance peek today at what may be his Thanksgiving dinner—a live 40-pound broad-breasted white turkey grown in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley.

Land-Law Panel Nears End Of Job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the next seven months, a commission of prominent Americans will complete a six-year review of the public lands of the United States—their laws and limits, policies and problems.

It has been a mammoth task for which the Public Land Law Review Commission has had to extend its original lifespan by a year and a half.

But now, it is on schedule to finish its job by June 30, 1970, with a report to Congress and the President.

Commission Director Milton A. Pearl says he and the commission chairman, the indefatigable congressman from Colorado, Wayne N. Aspinall, agree: "We will complete on time."

Judge Denies Mistrial Plea In Case Of 'Chicago Eight'

By TONY FULLER

CHICAGO (UPI)—U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman says the defense has not proved that the government is opening mail addressed to attorneys for the "Chicago Seven."

"My chamber has virtually become a post office for the defendants," Hoffman said Monday in denying defense requests for a mistrial in the case of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

"I am not going to charge you rent for office space," Hoffman told defense attorney Leonard I. Weinglass. He advised the defense to have its mail addressed to its own offices instead of his chambers.

Weinglass told Hoffman undercover agents had been active in infiltrating the defense camp, and the defense attorneys are not sure whom they can trust. Weinglass referred to Irwin Bock, a police undercover agent who infiltrated several antiwar groups during the 1968 convention.

Bock, 29, a clean-cut Navy veteran who faced his fifth day on the stand today—four of them under cross-examination—testified he talked with Weinglass last June at the request of Weinglass and subsequently signed a statement saying none of the defendants was guilty of wrong-doing. Bock said he signed that statement before the defense found out he was an undercover agent.

Bock underwent strenuous cross-examination Monday as the defense led him through a line-by-line recital of his direct examination, trying to find contradictions. While Bock confused some names and dates, he seemed unshaken about the central part of his testimony.

He testified he did not see Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis urge protesters to occupy a hill in Grant Park during the convention — other defendants have testified they did see Davis shout a crowd to storm the hill on which a statue of Civil War Gen. John A. Logan stands.

Among other things, he said Davis told three other defendants that if demonstration parade permits were not granted, a "mill-in" could be held in downtown Chicago during which "windows could be smashed . . . and small tires set."

He testified he did not see Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis urge protesters to occupy a hill in Grant Park during the convention — other defendants have testified they did see Davis shout a crowd to storm the hill on which a statue of Civil War Gen. John A. Logan stands.

Ladies Please! White House Sets Ground Rules For Press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Ladies of the press" carrying tape recorders in their brassieres and taking notes while hidden behind the potted palms are not welcome at White House state dinners.

Mrs. Connie Stuart, Mrs. Pat Nixon's staff director, laid down the new ground rules to the female press corps Monday at the White House.

"If I think some of you have gotten exceedingly busy because you're carrying tape recorders around, I might question how you gained so much weight."

"Please, ladies, you are here as guests and guests do not wander around taking notes, even behind potted palms."

Mrs. Stuart, who has conducted her twice-a-week press briefings like schoolroom lectures, then advised the women on how the "well brought up lady" conducts herself at such affairs.

"Let's be fair to the guests. Please introduce yourself just like any nice, well brought up lady would do. Please introduce yourself to the guests and chat with them. Let's not converge in groups."

When they do talk to guests, Mrs. Stuart advised, newswomen are to take only "mental impressions" and then they may dash off to a press room where they can act "professionally."

Mrs. Stuart, named to her post recently, indicated she was speaking for President and Mrs. Nixon.

Mrs. Stuart's concern is an old sore point at the White House. Jacqueline Kennedy once called the ladies of the press "harpies" and suggested they be held at bay by White House military aides with bayonets and wear huge signs identifying themselves as the press.

S.F. Mayor Hits Leaders Of Panthers

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco called Monday for passage of a law making it illegal to stand up in a crowd and advocate assassination of the president.

The Democratic gubernatorial aspirant was angered by a black panther leader's statement, "We'll kill anybody that stands in the way of our freedom."

David Hilliard, panther chief of staff, shouted that threat at an antiwar demonstration Saturday in San Francisco. Many protesters booed.

"That's carrying freedom of speech too far," said Alioto. "I think the black people are embarrassed by David Hilliard."

Alioto roundly criticized the panthers during a luncheon speech to the business-oriented Comstock Club and later at a news conference.

"It seems to me, the mayor said, that if there isn't already there should be a federal and state law prohibiting the exhortation of assassinating the President of the United States and/or other public figures."

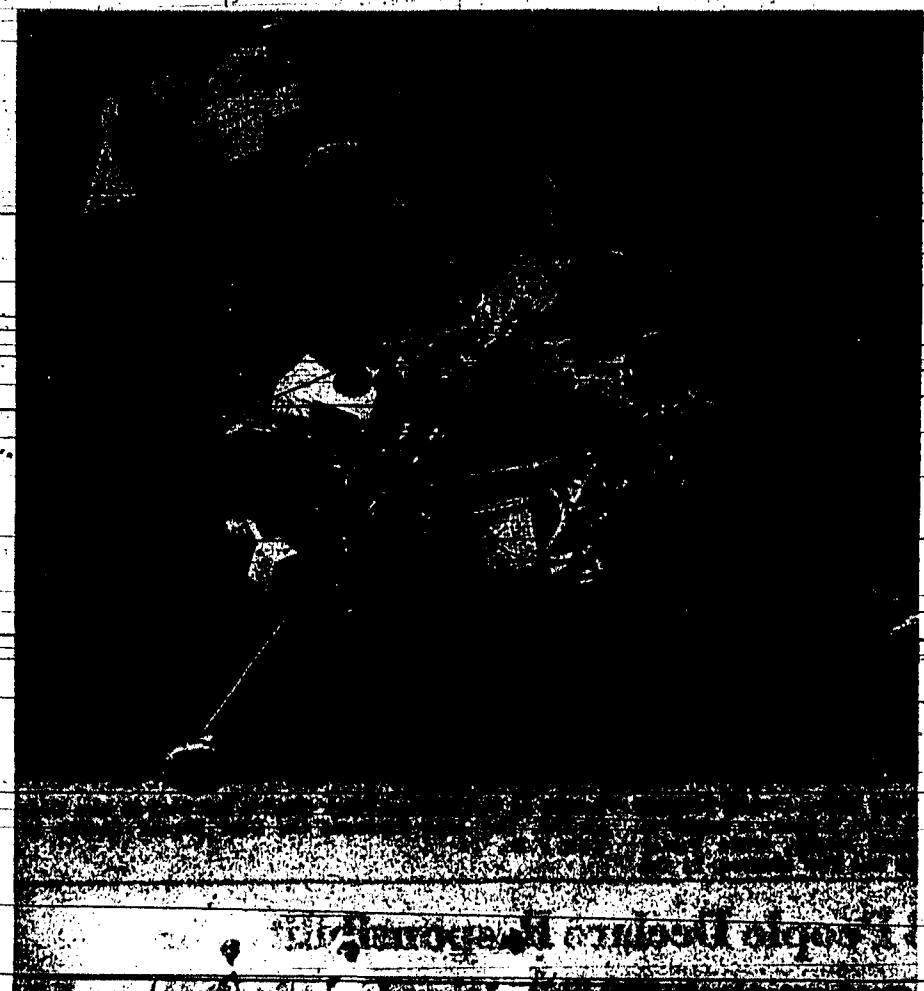

Alioto, an attorney, said he was convinced such a law would be judged constitutional.

There is no state law against advocating the assassination of a public figure. It is illegal, however, to conspire to commit a crime.

There is a federal law prohibiting threats against the president, but this has been interpreted to mean only those which are written.

A Reagan aide said Hilliard made a similar threat against both the president and the governor during a rally at Sacramento State College.

A turnout crowd of 600 also heard Alioto declare that state government should tell the automobile industry either to come up with a smogless engine or "we'll take matters into our own hands."

ENGINEERS OF THE HUGHES Aircraft Co., which built the Surveyor moon scout vehicles, examine a test model of the craft. Nicknamed HALO by Industrialist Howard Hughes, for Hughes Aircraft Lunar Observer, five of the craft rest on the surface of the moon. Part of the Apollo 12 mission will be to recover parts of Surveyor III for return to earth and study for effects of the moon environment.

Part Of Howard Hughes' Vast Empire To Be Returned To Earth By Apollo Team

The mysterious Howard Hughes engineers, years ago, built and Hughes has been found. He is perfecting the Surveyor remote well and living on the moon, controlled moon craft. Four Not really but at least part years ago, Surveyor III made of the Hughes empire is on the a soft landing on the moon's moon and Wednesday if every Ocean of Storms.

Wednesday, Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan Bean are slated to walk about a quarter of a mile from their The billionaire's space system lunar landing craft and inspect the Surveyor. Their inspection will determine how well machines built by earth man stand up in the harsh environment of the moon.

The prime target will be the television camera mounted on Surveyor. It contains many gears, small motors and lubricants.

The study is also expected to give man some clue on how earth micro-organisms survive on the moon. If any were carried to the moon by Surveyor, they may still be alive in components of Surveyor.

Surveyor probes were the first invasions of the moon from earth. The scout vehicles were designed and built by Hughes space engineers, and the name given to the craft is HALO, named by Howard Hughes and meaning Hughes Aircraft Lunar Observer.

When in action, it sent back more than 6,000 pictures of the moon's surface. The craft rests on a 10 degree slope about 150 feet from the lip of a small crater.

Hughes space scientists have advised national space administration officials that the television camera, the scoop from the claw and arm device of Surveyor, aluminum insulation, a thermal switch and a section of an antenna offer the best study possibilities.

Butter Instead Of Guns Talk Made By Pope Paul In Rome

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI told four American state governors Monday he hopes the United States will "resist the temptation" to supply have-not nations with guns instead of butter.

The Pope spoke in English to governors James A. Rhodes of Ohio, Marvin Mandel of Maryland, Frank Light of Rhode Island and Frank Farrar of South Dakota.

He said the American people have been generous in aiding less fortunate nations. "We trust the American people will never become discouraged in their efforts to aid the developing nations and that they will resist the temptation to furnish such countries with armaments which menace human life and security."

"Men cannot love one another with offensive arms in their hands," the Pope said, quoting his speech to the United Nations on Oct. 4, 1965.

Secretary Robert H. Finch of Health, Education and Welfare announced during the weekend that the deadline had been pushed back from Feb. 1, 1970, to Sept. 1, 1970.

The deadline change does not affect the order to remove soft drinks containing the artificial sweeteners from the market by Jan. 1.

Teachers At Denver Go On Strike

DENVER (UPI) — Almost 3,000 public school teachers staged their first education strike in Colorado history Monday, closing all but 48 of Denver's elementary schools.

Opponents called striking teachers, who want higher pay, "a bunch of snow bunnies, old pros and rum-dums."

All of the city's 25 junior and senior high school and 44 of the 92 elementary schools were closed, giving most of the 96,000 public school students a day off.

About 2,000 cheering teachers vowed at a rally to stay away from classes until their demands were met by the board of education.

Officials of the striking Denver Classroom Teachers Association (DCTA) said they counted 2,734 teachers away from class and 1,216 who had shown up for work.

Numerous pickets dotted the snowy sidewalks in front of the schools.

The Board of Education and the DCTA broke off a 16-hour bargaining session Monday morning after the teacher negotiators refused a six-point school board offer which would have depended on an election for voter approval.

Houdini-Like Escapee Winds Up In Jail

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A hit and run driving suspect who made a Houdini-like escape from his handcuffs and drove off in a police squad car was arrested Monday.

Richard Longoria, 20, was originally arrested Saturday morning after his vehicle collided with a sheriff's squad car in front of the hall of justice. Sheriff's Deputy Harold Turner, 47, was seriously hurt in the mishap.

After the collision, arresting deputies handcuffed Longoria's hands behind his back and left him in the squad car alone while they investigated the condition of Officer Turner.

Longoria slipped out of the manacles and drove off.

The abandoned squad car was found Sunday in Elysian Park where it had been rolled over several times.

Longoria was arrested after he tried to borrow $300 dollars from his probation officer. The probation officer tipped the police off and Longoria was apprehended.

Apollo's Reply Is Corrected By Space Agency

"That was sweeper, man your brooms" on the boat-swain's pipe," said Jack Riley, a space agency public affairs officer. All three Apollo 12 astronauts are Navy command-

Diamonds Floating In Space? University Of California Scientist Says It's True

By DUSTON HARVEY BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Huge dust clouds found throughout the universe may be made of tiny diamonds, a University of California radioastronomer said Monday.

Dr. David D. Cudaback told a science writers seminar there was evidence the dark clouds could be made of diamonds about a quarter-millionth of an inch in diameter.

Their surfaces, he said, would be big enough to act as "factories" in the making of molecules from individual atoms floating through space.

Cudaback said the diamond theory would account for the reddish hue of starlight which passes through the clouds.

"This interpretation is open to question," he said. "But it is the best we can make."

Another theory suggests the reddish hue may be due to ice or ice-covered graphite in the dust clouds. But Cudaback said astronomers haven't been able to find the amount of ice needed to produce the color change.

He said graphite, another form of carbon which has been suggested for some time as a component of the dust clouds, is no more probable than diamonds.

"In fact, chemists have told me diamonds may be more likely than graphite in the condition of interstellar space," he said.

Cudaback said diamonds could form under the low temperatures and pressures found in the atmospheres of dying stars, where the dust clouds are believed to originate.

He told a seminar for the House-Senate subcommittee on economy in government, said the suspicion had ostracized him and gradually stripped away his duties until he was reduced to menial tasks like supervising a bowling alley in Thailand.

The Pentagon announced Nov. 4 that Fitzgerald's job was one of those being abolished as an economy move. It insisted that economy was the only reason and that Fitzgerald's past actions had nothing to do with it.

Now that his job as deputy for management systems has been abolished, he testified, he is worried about finding work because of "unfounded accusations" that he had violated security by giving secret information to Congress.

Fitzgerald testified one year after he disclosed to the subcommittee on Nov. 13, 1968, that the CIA, world's biggest airplane, would cost the government more than $5 billion to build—rather than the $3.4 billion estimated by the Air Force.

"Blue Ribbon" Committee To Study Water Financing

Such cooperation should have the "best target" of eliminating the 160-acre limit on land under the Carey Act. It should be raised to at least 320 acres. Family-sized farms then would be able to operate competitively and the state would be able to help develop desert lands for this kind of farm.

"A new spirit of cooperation is imperative as well as making desert entry land available for development," the governor said. "Every effort should be made to process desert entry applications as rapidly as possible. And fast action should be taken to resolve conflicting interests in land opened up for this type of use."

Turning again to water, he said it will "certainly take cooperation" and an entirely new approach "to solve the problem of the federal government's cut-back in funds for reclamation projects. That's why I suggested to the Idaho Water Resource Board in September that steps must be taken to consider the possibilities of non-federal financing."

The chief executive said "we must work together" and added that "never should there be separate spheres of influence in which public agencies and private interests carry on their affairs in a vacuum independently of each other. To my way of thinking, cooperation means a continued dialogue between the public and private sector."

Gov. Samuelson said there is "no doubt" that agriculture will continue to hold its place of prominence.

"It is simply not true that agriculture is a declining industry," he said. "Except for the number of people it takes to run our farms, agriculture is an expanding industry. Every year American agriculture uses more capital, more science and technology, more managerial capacity, more purchased production inputs, more specialized marketing facilities and more research than the year before."

"From all signs, the future of agriculture in Idaho looks excellent and I say that the future is golden if we work together and take advantage of it."

The governor was introduced by Curtis Eaton, executive vice president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co., who was master of ceremonies at the luncheon.

Sponsors of the conference, which attracted more than 300 leaders from over the state, was the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

placed under sustained yield management to provide the lumber needs for homes.

"The threat that runs through this decision — making is meeting the needs of the public, whether for wilderness and solitude, for enhanced hunting and fishing, or for essential minerals, forest products and agricultural commodities."

Sato Hopes For End Of Viet War

O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Times News editor, was master of ceremonies at the banquet.

Principal talk this morning was given by Kenneth C. Walker, assistant deputy administrator, United States Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Research Center, Washington, D.C.

Mr. Walker, discussing agriculture's involvement in pollution, said that agriculture's efforts to control pollution must be coordinated with those for controlling urban and industrial pollution to insure maximum environmental improvement.

"While it may be possible to identify and separate sources of pollution as being agricultural or non-agricultural in origin, it is not always possible to separate and identify the end results of the pollutants."

"Ultimate responsibility for preventing, controlling or abating agriculture-related pollution rests with the individual farmers, ranchers, feedlot operators and forest owners, and with the industries that process agricultural and forestry products. Programs for improving environmental quality must aim at identifying the real sources of pollution in order to prevent further deterioration and restore the quality of the environment to a socio-economically acceptable level," he said.

Mr. Walker pointed out that "concern for the quality of the environment has been growing rapidly in recent years."

"There is a rising interest across the Nation in cleaning up the environment."

"Like most activities of man, agriculture contributes to the pollution of the environment. The involvement is a two-way street. Agriculture frequently is affected by its own contribution and also by the contribution of other industries," Mr. Walker concluded.

Other speakers at this morning's concluding sessions were Herb Derrick, state planning director; Gordon C. Trombley, state land commissioner; John R. Woodworth, director, Idaho Fish and Game Department; Rodney Hansen, chairman, Idaho Soil Conservation Commission; Joe Fallon, state director, BLM; C. O. Youngstrom, associate director, U. of I. extension service; Lee T. Morgan, state conservation planner, and Max Reed, regional SCS coordinator, Forest Service, Ogden.

Land-Law Panel Nears End Of Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the next seven months, a commission of prominent Americans will complete a six-year review of the public lands of the United States—their laws and limits, policies and problems.

It has been a mammoth task, for which the Public Land Law Review Commission has had to extend its original lifespan by a year and a half.

But now, it is on schedule to finish its job by June 30, 1970, with a report to Congress and the President.

Commission Director Milton A. Pearl says he and the commission chairman, the indefatigable congressman from Colorado, Wayne N. Aspinall, agree: "We will complete on time."

Egypt Chief Claims War Is Success

By United Press International

Egypt's war minister, Gen. Mohamed Fawzi, says his country's war of attrition against Israel is a success, killing about 150 Israelis every month.

Fawzi made the statement Monday in a report to a secret session of the national assembly. The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram carried an account of the report today.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli military spokesman said four Israeli soldiers and a soldier's visiting wife were wounded in an early morning attack by Arab guerrillas on a military headquarters in the northern Sinai.

The spokesman said a curfew was imposed on the area after the 5 a.m. attack on the outpost near El Arish and that security forces had begun a hunt for the raiders. Bazookas were said to have been used in the attack.

In his report to the national assembly, Fawzi also said Egypt is planning to escalate its military operations against Israel but warned that Egypt must be ready to absorb additional Israeli blows.

The Egyptian official said the ratio of Israeli casualties to its population was four times the Egyptian figure.

Lawyers Ask Prompt End Of Race Bias

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration said Monday it needs more time in six Southern states to carry out desegregation plans, but Negro lawyers said racial lines should be erased now.

Thirteen judges heard arguments in the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on whether 16 districts in Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Alabama and Texas are using the wrong kind of desegregation plans or merely taking too much time to complete them.

"We believe the court should let school boards submit their own plans," said U.S. Deputy Attorney General David L. Norman in behalf of the government. "We believe this technique is a good one, and it should be followed now."

"The timing issue is not insurmountable. The Supreme Court did not intend to hold that there would never be a case where some school board would not have a reason for delaying implementation of the desegregation," Norman said.

Onrushing Technology Threatens Survival Of Many 'Dying Arts,' Such As Tom-Toms

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every now and then I come across a newspaper or magazine feature about one of America's "dying arts"—old skills that are being driven into oblivion by onrushing technology.

Buttonhooking, for example, is a dying art. I doubt you could find one person in ten thousand who could operate a buttonhook with any appreciable degree of dexterity. And I could name a dozen others in a trice.

(Naming things in a trice, incidentally, is itself a dying art. There aren't more than a score of really first rate tricenamers left. And most of them are past their prime.)

Ordinarily, a reference to a dying art causes me no more than a twinge of nostalgia. But the other day I read about one that gave me genuine concern.

Before I broach it, let us examine the conditions underlying its onset of anxiety. Consider, if you will, that:

—Telephone service, particularly in big cities, is becoming increasingly inefficient, with circuits tied up when you need them and that sort of thing.

—Mail service, as even post office participants will admit, leaves much to be desired and is in the opinion of some observers is on the brink of chaos.

—Telegraph service seems to be shrinking and relies mainly on telephone and mail service for delivery.

—When you consider these things you will perhaps share the feeling of disquiet that I experienced when I learned from the National Geographic Society that sending messages by tom-tom is now a dying art.

"Once the mainstay of primitive communication, village drums around the world have grown old and worn," the Geographic reports. "Young tribesmen from Africa to Alaska show little interest in pursuing the complex art."

I mean, the way things are going with our other modes of communication, we need to have those tom-toms available as a back-up system.

"In old India," the Geographic says, "relays of drummers could send a message 300 miles in just 17 minutes." Which would be a big improvement over telephone, telegraph and postal service.

I tried to make a 300-mile telephone call a few evenings ago and it took me 57 minutes just to get past the busy signals on the area code.

As a precautionary measure, we should use federal subsidies to underwrite tom-tom training, and just to be on the safe side, we had better make certain the Indian smoke signaling doesn't become a dead art either.

Man, that is bad news for sure!

NEW YORK (UPI)—Production was stopped at the New York Times for an hour Monday night because of a bomb off Broadway.

The hoax, second in a week at the Times, came in an anonymous call to the emergency police number at 9:30 p.m. and police asked editorial and production employees to leave the building while it was searched. No explosives were found.

The last scare, which came after three Manhattan skyscrapers actually were bombed, also proved to be a hoax.

Judge Denies Mistrial Plea In Case Of 'Chicago Eight'

By TONY FULLER

CHICAGO (UPI)—U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman says the defense has not proved that the government is opening mail addressed to attorneys for the "Chicago Seven."

"My chamber has virtually become a post office for the defendants," Hoffman said Monday in denying defense requests for a mistrial in the case of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots at the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

"I am not going to charge you rent for office space," Hoffman told defense attorney Leonard I. Weinglass. He advised the defense to have its mail addressed to its own offices instead of his chambers.

Weinglass told Hoffman under cover agents had been active in infiltrating the defense camp, and the defense attorneys are not sure whom they can trust. Weinglass referred to Irwin Bock, a police undercover agent who infiltrated several antiwar groups during the 1968 convention.

Bock, 29, a clean-cut Navy veteran who faced his fifth day on the stand today—four of them under cross-examination—testified he talked with Weinglass last June at the request of Weinglass and subsequently signed a statement saying none of the defendants was guilty of wrong-doing. Bock said he signed that statement before the defense found out he was an undercover agent.

Bock underwent strenuous cross-examination Monday as the defense led him through a line-by-line recital of his direct examination, trying to find contradictions. While Bock confused some names and dates, he seemed unshaken about the central part of his testimony.

He testified he did not see Rennard C. "Rennie" Davis urge protesters to occupy a hill in Grant Park during the convention — other defendants have testified they did see Davis exhort a crowd to storm the hill on which a statue of Civil War Gen. John A. Logan stands.

Among other things, he said Davis told three other defendants that if demonstration parade permits were not granted, a "mill-in" could be held in downtown Chicago during which "windows could be smashed... and small fires set."

Settlement

BOSTON (UPI)—A Brookline man Monday was awarded $820,000 for injuries, including the loss of a hand, suffered in an automobile accident last year. It was believed to be the nation's largest out-of-court settlement for a personal injury claim.

John Buckman, 22, received the settlement for injuries suffered March 15, 1968, in a truck-auto collision near New Haven, Conn.

The defendants were the Wilson Freight Co. of Ohio and Chester Berger of New Jersey, driver of a Wilson truck which struck a car in which Buckman was riding.

Buckman, who had been hitchhiking, was riding in a car driven by Walter M. Jackson of Hartford, Conn. Jackson was killed in the crash which sent the car hurtling 300 feet along the Connecticut Turnpike before it burst into flames.

Ladies Please! White House Sets Ground Rules For Press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Ladies of the press" carrying tape recorders in their brassieres and taking notes while hidden behind the potted palms are not welcome at White House state dinners.

Mrs. Connie Stuart, Mrs. Pat Nixon's staff director, laid down the new ground rules to the female press corps Monday at the White House.

"I just think some of you have gotten exceedingly busy because you're carrying tape recorders around. I might question how you gained so much weight."

"Please, ladies, you are here as guests and guests do not wander around taking notes, even behind potted palms."

Mrs. Stuart, who has conducted her twice-a-week press briefings like schoolroom lectures, then advised the women on how the "well-brought-up lady" conducts herself at such affairs.

"Let's be fair to the guests. Please introduce yourself just like any nice, well-brought-up lady would do. Please introduce yourself to the guests and chat with them. Let's not converge in groups."

When they do talk to guests, Mrs. Stuart advised, newswomen are to take only "mental impressions" and then they may dash off to a press room where they can act "professionally."

Mrs. Stuart named to her post recently, indicated she was sneaking for President and Mrs. Nixon.

Mrs. Stuart's concern is an old sore point at the White House. Jacqueline Kennedy once called the ladies of the press "harpies" and suggested they be held at bay by White House military aides with bayonets and wear huge signs identifying themselves as the press.

Teachers At Denver Go On Strike

DENVER (UPI) — Almost 3,000 public school teachers staged their first education strike in Colorado history Monday, closing all but 48 of Denver's elementary schools.

Opponents called striking teachers, who want higher pay, "a bunch of snow bunnies, old pros and rum-dums."

All of the city's 25 junior and senior high school and 44 of the 92 elementary schools were closed, giving most of the 96,000 public school students a day off.

About 2,000 cheering teachers vowed at a rally to stay away from classes until their demands were met by the board of education.

Officials of the striking Denver Classroom Teachers Association (DCTA) said they counted 2,734 teachers away from class and 1,216 who had shown up for work.

Numerous pickets dotted the snowy sidewalks in front of the schools.

The Board of Education and the DCTA broke off a 16-hour bargaining session Monday morning after the teacher negotiators refused a six-point school board offer which would have depended on an election for voter approval.

Part Of Howard Hughes' Vast Empire To Be Returned To Earth By Apollo Team

The mysterious Howard Hughes engineers, years ago, built and perfected the Surveyor remote-control moon craft. Four well and living on the moon, controlled moon craft. Four not really, but at least part years ago, Surveyor III made of the Hughes empire is on the soft landing on the moon's moon and Wednesday if every Ocean of Storms.

The prime target will be the television camera mounted on Surveyor. It contains many gears, small motors and lubricants.

The study is also expected to give man some clue on how earth microorganisms survive on the moon. If any were carried to the moon by Surveyor, they may still be alive in components of Surveyor.

Surveyor probes were the first invasions of the moon from earth. The small vehicles were designed and built by Hughes space engineers, and the name given to the craft is HALO, named by Howard Hughes and meaning Hughes Aircraft Lunar Observer.

When in action, it sent back more than 6,000 pictures of the moon's surface. The craft rests on a 10 degree slope about 150 feet from the lip of a small crater.

Hughes space scientists have advised national space administration officials that the television camera, the scope, the claw and arm device of Surveyor, aluminum insulation, a thermal switch and a section of an antenna offer the best study possibilities.

Butter Instead Of Guns Talk Made By Pope Paul In Rome

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI told four American state governors Monday he hopes the United States will "resist the temptation" to supply have-not nations with guns instead of butter.

The Pope spoke in English to governors James A. Rhodes of Ohio, Marvin Mandel of Maryland, Frank Light of Rhode Island and Frank Farrar of South Dakota.

He said the American people have been generous in aiding less fortunate nations.

"We trust the American people will never become discouraged in their efforts to aid the developing nations and that they will resist the temptation to furnish such countries with armaments which menace human life and security."

"Men cannot love one another with offensive arms in their hands," the Pope said, quoting his speech to the United Nations on Oct. 4, 1965.

Houdini-Like Escapee Winds Up In Jail

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A hit and run driving suspect who made a Houdini-like escape from his handcuffs and drove off in a police squad car was arrested Monday.

Richard Longoria, 20, was originally arrested Saturday morning after his vehicle collided with a sheriff's squad car in front of the hall of justice. Sheriff's Deputy Harold Turner, 47, was seriously hurt in the mishap.

After the collision, arresting deputies handcuffed Longoria's hands behind his back and left him in the squad car alone while they investigated the condition of Officer Turner.

Longoria slipped out of the manacles and drove off.

The abandoned squad car was found Sunday in Elysian Park where it had been rolled over several times.

Longoria was arrested after he tried to borrow $300 dollars from his probation officer. The probation officer tipped the police off and Longoria was apprehended.

S.F. Mayor Hits Leaders Of Panthers

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco called Monday for passage of a law making it illegal to stand up in a crowd and advocate assassination of the president.

The Democratic gubernatorial aspirant was angered by a black panther leader's statement, "We'll kill President Nixon. We'll kill anybody that stands in the way of our freedom."

David Hilliard, panther chief of staff, shouted that threat at an antiwar demonstration Saturday in San Francisco. Many protesters booed.

"That's carrying freedom of speech too far," said Alioto. "I think the black people are embarrassed by David Hilliard."

Alioto roundly criticized the panthers during a luncheon speech to the business-oriented Comstock Club and later at a news conference.

"It seems to me," the mayor said, "that if there isn't already, there should be a federal and state law prohibiting the exhortation of assassination of a public figure. It is illegal, however, to conspire to commit a crime."

There is a federal law prohibiting threats against the president, but this has been interpreted to mean only those which are written.

A Reagan aide said Hilliard made a similar threat against both the president and the governor during a rally at Sacramento State College.

A turnaway crowd of 600 also heard Alioto declare that state government should tell the automobile industry either to come up with a smogless engine or "we'll take matters into our own hands."

Diamonds Floating In Space? University Of California Scientist Says It's True

By DUSTON HARVEY

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Huge dust clouds found throughout the universe may be made of tiny diamonds, a University of California radioastronomer said Monday.

Dr. David D. Cudaback told a science writers seminar there was evidence the dark clouds could be made of diamonds about a quarter-millionth of an inch in diameter.

Their surfaces, he said, would be big enough to act as "factories" in the making of molecules from individual atoms floating through space.

Cudaback said the diamond theory would account for the reddish hue of starlight which passes through the clouds.

"This interpretation is open to question," he said. "But it is the best we can make."

Another theory suggests the reddish hue may be due to ice or ice-covered graphite in the dust clouds. But Cudaback said astronomers haven't been able to find the amount of ice needed to produce the color change.

He said graphite, a form of carbon which has been suggested for some time as a component of the dust clouds, is no more probable than diamonds.

"In fact, chemists have told me diamonds may be more likely than graphite in the condition of interstellar space," he said.

Cudaback said diamonds could form under the low temperatures and pressures found in the atmospheres of dying stars, where the dust clouds are believed to originate.

He told a seminar for the council for the advancement of science writing that radio astronomers have found water, ammonia, carbon monoxide and formaldehyde in dust clouds.

"The clouds are clearly factories for making these molecules," he said.

Cudaback predicted the list of molecules found in dust clouds will be expanded with more refined radioastronomy techniques.

Victim In Pentagon Is Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A. Ernest Fitzgerald, the civil servant who first disclosed mammoth cost overruns on the CSA cargo plane, told Congress Monday he spent the past year at the Pentagon in virtual isolation before he finally was fired last week.

Fitzgerald, testified before a House-Senate subcommittee on economy in government, said his superiors had ostracized him and gradually stripped away his duties until he was reduced to menial tasks like supervising a bowling alley in Thailand.

The Pentagon announced Nov. 4 that Fitzgerald's job was one of those being abolished as an economy move. It insisted that economy was the only reason and that Fitzgerald's past actions had nothing to do with it.

Now that his job as deputy for management systems has been abolished, he testified, he is worried about finding work because of "unfounded accusations" that he had violated security by giving secret information to Congress.

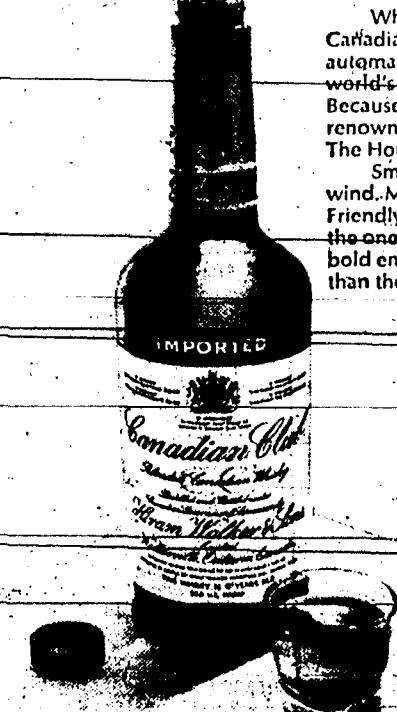

Fitzgerald testified one year after he disclosed to the subcommittee on Nov. 13, 1968, that the CSA, world's biggest airplane, would cost the government more than $5 billion to build—rather than the $3.4 billion estimated by the Air Force.

Differences In Spending Per Pupil Is Difficult To Justify

By FREDERICK H. FRESH, United Press International.

In this era when national policy dictates that all school children should have equal educational opportunity, it is hard to justify gross differences in spending per pupil among cities and their suburbs.

This inequity results in the richness of a child's schooling being dependent in large measure on how much taxable industry is located in his school district and the nature of formulas for state aid to local districts. Too often, aid formulas are based on tax assessment and therefore only compound existing inequities.

Dr. James E. Allen Jr., the U.S. commissioner of education, says what is needed is state financing of education combined with "metropolitanization"—combining big city school districts with those in their surrounding suburbs.

State financing would reduce the burden on the homeowner, who now pays a disproportionate share, and distribute it more evenly through broad-based statewide taxes. It also would equalize tax rates among the various districts. Michigan is now prepared to adopt such a system, if voters approve the necessary constitutional amendments.

Metropolitanization now exists in two American urban-suburban complexes: Nashville-Davidson County, Tenn., and Jacksonville, Fla.

Dr. John Harris, director (superintendent) of Nashville's metropolitan schools, says that in four years the tax benefits of a metropolitan government have enabled his district to raise per pupil spending on education from $285 a year to about $600—a phenomenal increase in that short a time.

In Nashville's case, it was the suburbs—not the city—that derived the most benefit from the redistribution of the tax burden. Before the metro government around Nashville had placed a crushing burden on taxpayers and municipal services of all sorts—just schools—began to deteriorate.

The metro plan also has lifted many school problems at least partially out of politics because the metropolitan school board is appointed by the mayor, not elected.

Harris, former superintendent at Des Moines, Iowa, is so enthusiastic about metropolitanization that he believes in many places it would go beyond county lines.

8 People Declare Responsibility For Destruction Of Selective Service Files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight people publicly declared themselves Sunday night responsible for the destruction of Selective Service files in Indianapolis, Ind., and of technical records of the Dow Chemical Co., at Midland, Mich.

They did so at a meeting of what amounted to a family reunion of persons who had destroyed records in a long series of antiwar protests. Reporters were invited and about 150 persons attended.

The eight persons, who called themselves the "Beaver 55," said they took the action as "an alternative to violence and responds to the urgency of the situation in America."

Sen. Fulbright Unleashes New Anti-Vietnam Attack

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., unleashed a new anti-Vietnam broadside Monday, saying that if American foreign policy is not changed, the country could become committed to more unnecessary military actions.

Fulbright made the comment in an article in the current issue of Look magazine.

"We have been practicing a kind of indiscriminate internationalism and have taken it upon ourselves almost single-handedly to preserve order and stability in much of the world," Fulbright said.

He said American presidents have assumed too much power to enter into and continue foreign military actions, moving the country "a long way toward becoming an elective dictatorship."

Fulbright said one immediate danger, aside from Vietnam, is Franco regime in Spain. The senator charged that American forces have rehearsed with Spanish units "the support they might provide in the event of civil war or rebellion in Spain."

"Now," Fulbright said, "there is no time to lose in solving the immediate problem of American overcommitment abroad."

Fulbright said he does not feel "that any country in Southeast Asia poses or is remotely capable of posing a threat to the safety of the United States."

He said that it is necessary to bring a swift conclusion to the war, the U.S. should allow "100,000... or more" South Vietnamese to immigrate to this country "if they feel threatened by an American withdrawal."

Fulbright said the U.S. currently has treaty commitments with 43 countries, all of which could call on America to provide military assistance.

"It is my belief," he said, "that in several areas of the world, but primarily in southeast Asia, we have contracted obligations that not only exceed but positively detract from the requirements of American national security."

Abandoned Girl's Mother Breaks Down

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — A Bell Gardens woman charged with abandoning her 5-year-old daughter beside a freeway broke into tears Monday when the child said loudly, "I like mom!"

at the opening of a preliminary hearing in municipal court here. The little girl, Jody Lansdown Fouquet, spotted her mother, Betty Lansdown Fouquet, 26, as she was brought into the courtroom from the Kern County Jail.

"That's my mom," Jody said to a social service worker, beside her.

"I want to go see mom. I like mom," she said in a voice heard throughout the courtroom.

Tears streamed down the mother's face as she waved at her daughter across the courtroom.

When the woman's common-law husband, Ronald F. Fouquet, 31, also charged with abandonment of the girl, was brought into the courtroom, Jody stared as his handcuffs were removed and then told one of the social service workers, "I want to go home."

Last week Jody was made a ward of the court pending placement in a foster home.

A man who says he is Jody's real father, Bill Lansdown, Camas Valley, Ore., and his wife, Shirley, were present at the juvenile hearing Thursday and requested custody of the child. Lansdown is Mrs. Fouquet's former husband. However, the Lansdowns were turned down pending further investigation of their background.

The Fouquets were arrested Oct. 29 in Bell Gardens, five days after a highway patrolman spotted Jody clinging to a fence beside U.S. Highway 99 about 25 miles south of Bakersfield.

She said her parents had let her out of the car during the night and told her to wait by the fence.

There were three other children found at the Fouquet home when the couple was arrested. Investigation revealed that a fifth child, Jeffrey Lansdown, 8, was missing.

The Fouquets, upon advice of their court-appointed attorneys, so far have refused to talk about the whereabouts of Jeffrey.

NEW YORK (UPI)—While the others get the bowl bids, the mighty Ohio State simply gets all the votes. The powerful Buckeyes, who put on an awesome performance in demolishing Purdue 42-14 Saturday, were named the nation's No. 1 college football team for the ninth consecutive week Monday.

SIC Meeting Marked By Protests

Members of the Southern Idaho Conference sailed smoothly through its fall meeting with a mention of protests and approval of a 1970 football schedule. The matter of protests was posed by a letter from "parents" of Caldwell who asked action on a call made in the final minutes of the Caldwell-Pocatello game at Pocatello this fall. The conference voted to send a rule interpretation to the group and then set up a pilot committee to see whether or not the conference should set it up to receive or judge future protests. The committee will report back at the spring meeting, traditionally held in conjunction with the state basketball tournament.

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

KEEN INTUITION—HELEN'S LONG SUIT

(Oswald Jacoby is writing to-day's article by himself. It is about the late Helen Sobel Smith, the world's greatest woman-bridge player.)

Helen's bridge career started in 1932 when someone taught her the game. Her first tournament appearance was in 1934, when she won the woman's pairs. In a few more years, she had established herself as the best player of her sex and commenced her partnership with Charles Goren. The success of this partnership had a lot to do with Charles establishing himself as the leading bridge authority of the '40s and '50s. Charles and I have been very

Helen never played much of a system with Charles and, after 15 minutes' consultation, we played a system, which might be described as Standard American catch-as-catch-can style. On the very first hand, I tried it out. My five no-trump was the grand-slam force designed to ask Helen to bid seven hearts if she held two of the three top honors. The bid is an old one, although it was moribund for many years.

Helen thought awhile then said, "I think his bid means something," and bid the heart grand-slam.

With the queen of spades dropping doubleton in front of the ace-king, seven no-trump also makes but seven hearts was the right contract.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1	Pass	2
Pass	3	Pass	4NT
Pass	5	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
AK876 WA2 3 AK754

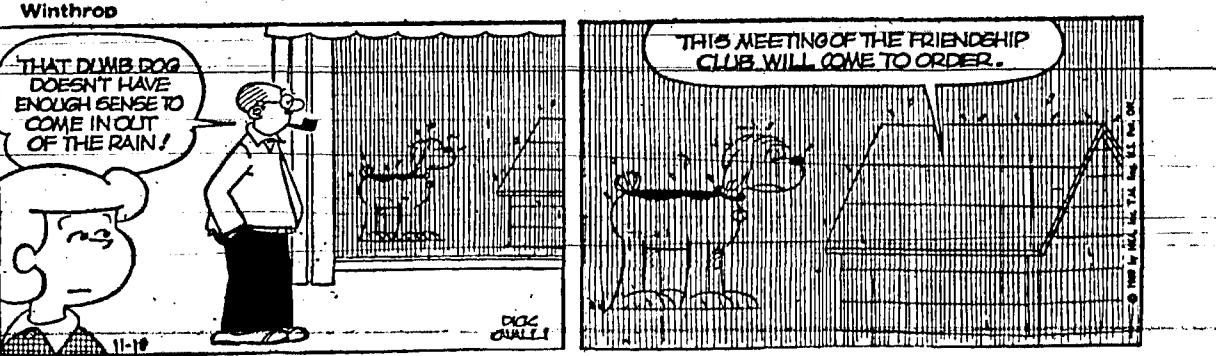

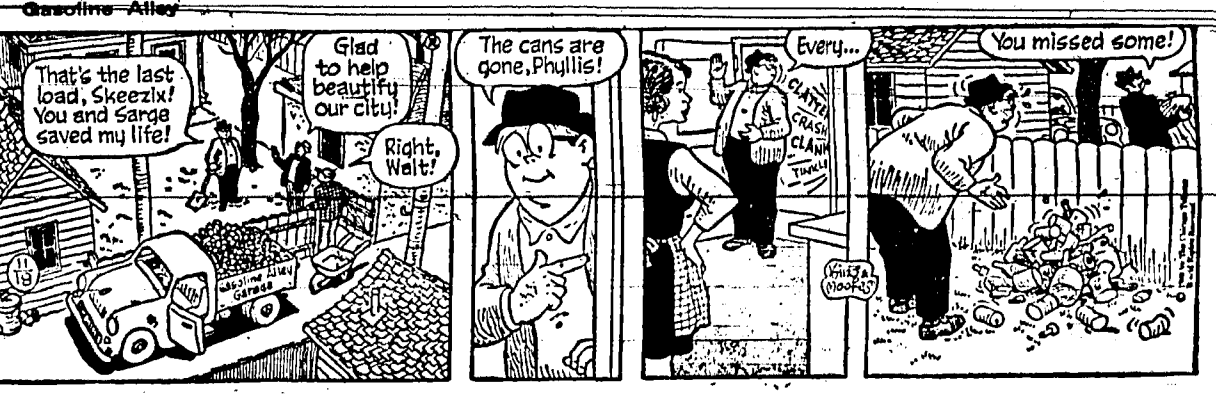

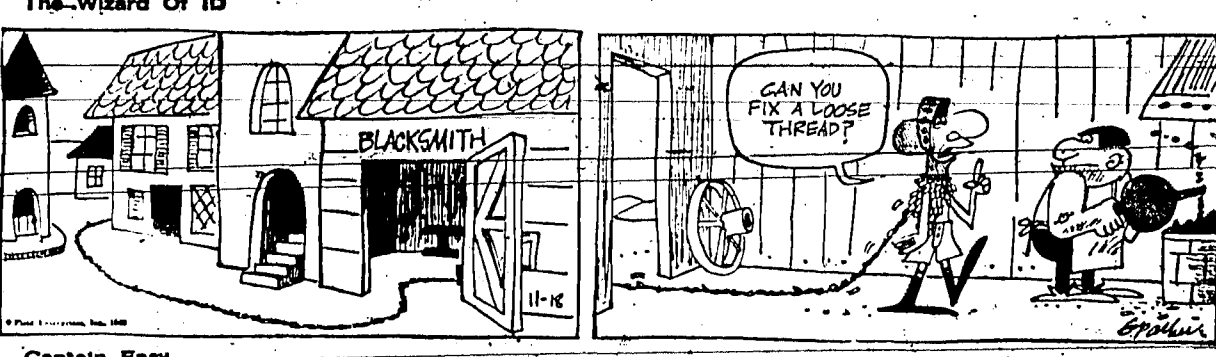

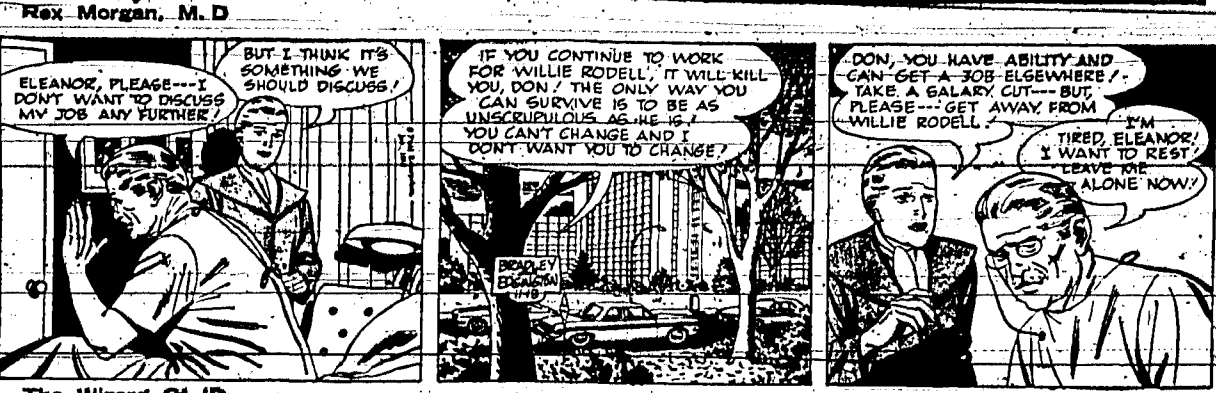

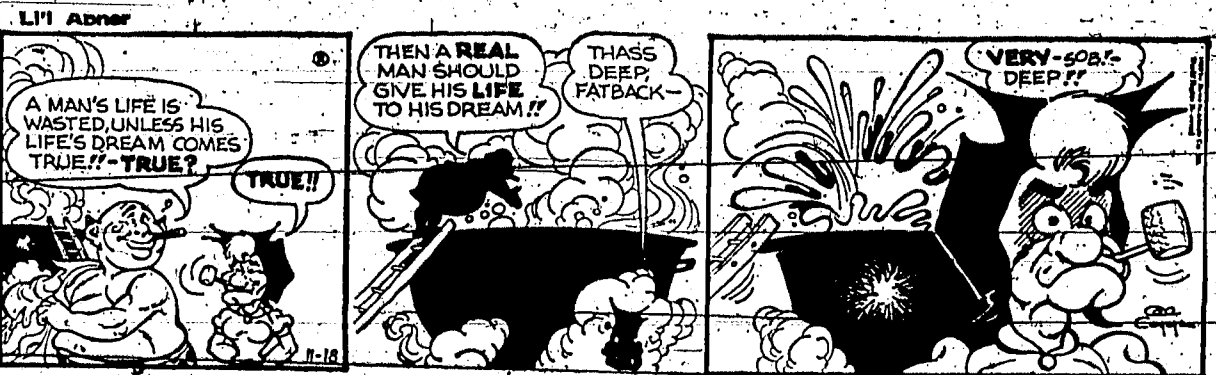

What do you do now?
A—Bid six spades. You don't bid Blackwood unless you are going to six with three aces. You may go down but your chance of success is too good to give up.

friendly enemies for a long time, and, as Charles's partner, Helen was always my opponent at the table. She was a mighty tough opponent but it was always a great pleasure to play against her, win, lose or draw.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five clubs, your partner has bid five diamonds to show one ace. What do you do now?

Searchers-Aver Watermelon Is A 'Real Dreamy' Foodstuff

DID YOU EVER tip an usherette in a motion picture theater? In France, it's customary. THE RESEARCHERS at Ohio State University not only contend certain foods make you dream, but they insist watermelon makes you dream the most. IT IS A PECULIAR revelation, I think, that more women than men want to go to the moon—far more. AMONG SALARIED PEOPLE, the sick-leave story goes like this: Bachelors take more time off the job than single girls, but married women take more time off than husbands. Top ROGET'S THESAURUS gives 17 words for an honest man—and 193 for a thief. Most inequitable. Third most popular kind of pie served in restaurants is pecan. Fourth is custard. Don't understand that. Pecan pie is too rich. How could anybody prefer it to custard pie? As always, the first and second most popular, respectively, are apple and cherry. That's a-1 right.

PLANET MAN—After a Gemini girl is married three years, says our Planet man, you can expect her to spend at least one evening a month away from the house. With her girlfriends, presumably. But not necessarily. Now wait, he's not trying to imply Gemini girls are untrustworthy. Just independent.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "How heavy is a bullet-proof vest?" A. A vest against hand-guns runs 13½ pounds, about. A knife-proof vest only weighs eight pounds. But the vests that stop rifle bullets are specially made articles that variously weigh a lot more.

Q. "WHAT'S THE MOST popular hobby?" A. Can only tell you the most money is spent on photography.

THE LONG LUNCH—How would you like to punch in your day's work in two shifts—first from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., then from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.? You'll note that would give you a three-hour break for lunch. In Spain, such a workday is traditional. Both the government there and the unions are fighting it, but the pattern persists among excellent laborers. In the United States, as you know, the one-hour lunch is the rule among excellent laborers. Top executives may habitually enjoy the two-hour lunch, but the three-hour lunch is common only to alcoholics and commission salesmen.

MIGHTY INDEPENDENT fellow farmer. The politicians figure his vote is the least predictable. He is more apt to switch parties than anybody, they say.

THE UNIVERSE of New Mexico football team painted its home locker room bright red to stir up its own, the visitors' locker room pastel blue to pacify the opposition. Is that ethical?

APPLES—Will an apple a day keep the doctor away? Maybe not, but two a day might. Or so it's indicated by the findings of Dr. Ancel Keys of Minneapolis. His studies show 15 grams of pectin daily lowers blood cholesterol. You get about that much pectin out of a couple of apples.

Cruises Will Be Popular This Season

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—More Americans are expected to go down to the ships — on cruises, that is — this season than at any time since the jet planes began flying 10 years ago and captured the bulk of the travel market.

Industry surveys indicate an upward trend in cruise passengers this year and predictions are the boom will continue.

As a result, steamship companies are offering a record number of cruises during the 1969-70 season, ranging from overnight rafting to round-the-world voyages.

New York remains the major port of embarkation but more departures are scheduled from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami, Fort Lauderdale and the warm water ports in the West Indies. Destinations include the Caribbean, Bermuda, the Bahamas, South America, Mexico, Hawaii, the Far East, Australia and the South Pacific Islands.

Two of the newest luxury liners, Cunard's Queen Elizabeth 2 and German Atlantic Line's Hamburg, will make their debuts in Caribbean cruise service this year.

The 65,863-ton QE2 has 10 cruises scheduled from New York, ranging from an eight-day voyage to two ports (minimum rate $295) to a 13-day Christmas-New Year sailing with six ports of call (from $595).

The 25,000-ton Hamburg and its sister ship the 25,300-ton Hanseatic (formerly the Shalom) have 17 cruises scheduled to the West Indies from Fort Lauderdale. They range from seven days from $270 to 16 days (from $730).

Ship Pieces In Finland

Rotting Away

By KALEVI J. SAAUR
HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — In a country once famed for maintaining the largest fleet of sailing ships in the world, the last remnants of its glorious square-riggers are slowly rotting away.

In the 1930s full-sailed Finnish barques were the unquestioned masters of the trade winds. But this September when the four-master barque Pommen reached Turku from her home port of Maarianhamina her appearance was embarrassing to blue water sailors.

On the trip to the shipyard for repairs she was crewed by men who had never set foot on a square-rigger except as tourists. And the proud old lady was towed all the way like a wreck.

Another sailing ship, the schooner Sign in Turku, is rotting and is expected to sink into the muddy waters of the river Aura in a few year's time if money for repairs cannot be raised.

Yet another ocean-going vessel, the former naval cadet training frigate Suomen Joutsen, still has some practical use. Future seamen are trained aboard her. But she has not cast off from the Aura bank except in tow for trips to the nearest dockyard.

That may be the reason why cameras on yachts snap madly away when Amphion, a privately owned two-master with a teen-age crew sails in the cramped coastal channels.

Amphion is one the last wind-powered units in the Finnish merchant navy register. For two summers she has been chartered by the Finnish Navy League in an effort to give youngsters a chance to taste what a seaman's job was like in the days of "wooden ships and iron men."

Ousted Teacher Sets Challenge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dr. Nathan Hare, ousted head of the black studies program at San Francisco State College, Monday challenged President S. I. Hayakawa to a debate.

He said the college was like a man with leukemia and "cannot be cured by patching up a random sore, or cutting off a conspicuously deteriorating appendage."

In an emotional, six-page letter addressed to "the bay area community," Hare charged Hayakawa and other San Francisco State Administrators were "ruthless people" who had sacrificed black studies to further their own images as hard-liners on student disorder.

He said he had been kind last year between this kind of attitude and the increasingly militant viewpoint of black students. He was forced into a position, he said, where he would have been branded a traitor to his people if he went along with the administration viewpoint any further.

CENSUS PLANNED
WASHINGTON—The 1969 Census of Agriculture will be taken during January and for the first time the survey will be by mail.

Help Needed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The head of the state's new division of consumer protection told a state senate committee here Monday citizens need a stepped-up consumer education program to help them cope with an increasingly complex economics system.

"Thirty years ago it was easy for a moderately intelligent person to make decisions to avoid disastrous consequences," Don Livingston told the state senate business and professions committee.

Minimum Security Honor Prison Farm Promoted By Director Of Idaho's Prison System

CEDAR FLATS, Idaho (UPI)

A minimum security honor prison farm would help put Idaho in the vanguard of states establishing progressive penal systems, according to Raymond May, director of Idaho's prison system.

May was here Saturday to discuss with residents his proposal to turn the abandoned Job Corps center into an honor camp for carefully screened prisoners.

The proposal has met opposition from some residents who contend the facility would detract from the area's recreational and tourism industries and that prisoners would find it easy to escape and hide in the mountainous country.

May, long a leading proponent of a prisoner rehabilitation through vocational training, said a prison facility in northern Idaho was urgently needed.

The $1.5 million Job Corps camp must be used by next May or else it will be dismantled by the government and the estimated cost of $280,000 it would cost to build one from the ground up, he said.

May said honor farms were advocated by most progressive penologists as the best system to rehabilitate first time offenders and others who might become hardened criminals in a regular state penitentiary.

This argument was also taken up by District Judge Watt Prather, Coeur d'Alene, who said judges wanted someplace to send borderline probationers who need rehabilitation.

An honor farm was a good middle ground between the state penitentiary and probation, he said.

The group opposed to creation of the facility was led by Sen. Nels Solberg, D-Grangeville, and Rep. Harold Reid, D-Mohler.

They said that prisoners who would be reluctant to attempt an escape from the state's other institution, would find the Cedar Flats area mountainous country inviting.

The argument also was expressed that to use the job corps center in the Nezperce National Forest for a prison facility violated the Wild Rivers bill which opponents said prohibits use of the area for purposes other than recreation.

The U. S. Forest Service refuted the argument and May pointed out that prisoners would be employed building picnic tables, clearing trails and cleaning up.

William Dee, Grangeville attorney and former state senator and Democratic candidate for governor, said that approval must be obtained from the government to use the Job Corps facility for an honor camp.

Also, prior to construction, funds must be approved by the state legislature, he said.
