8,800 GIs Leave Vietnam In Addition To 60,000

By BERT W. OKULEY
SAIGON (UPI) — U. S. headquarters said today 8,800 GIs have left Vietnam in addition to the 60,000 involved in President Nixon's pullout program, reducing American troop strength to its lowest level in 25 months. This coincided with reports of nine clashes along the Cambodian border Saturday, Sunday and today with U. S. troops counting 158 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed against three Americans slain and 16 wounded. The troops strength report said 4,300 U. S. servicemen left the war zone last week to drop the number of GIs in Vietnam to 475,200, fewest since November of 1967. It meant the number of war zone GIs is 8,800 lower than the 484,000 ceiling authorized by President Nixon once his two-phase withdrawal of 60,000 men is completed by Dec. 15. A spokesman for the U. S. Command issued this statement in answer to speculation that withdrawal of American troops was continuing past the 60,000 mark without an announcement from the White House. "This decline in strength below the authorized 484,000 results from a temporary slowdown in the replacement flow and does not represent an additional redeployment increment." President Nixon was to hold a nationally televised news conference tonight amid reports he might be ready to announce a further troop cutback from Vietnam. As part of the "Vietnamization" program, headquarters announced that the Saigon government would assure command Tuesday of a U. S. Coast Guard cutter, the sixth turned over to the South Vietnamese for patrolling the South-China Sea Coast. On the battlefield, headquarters reported 44 overnight killings against Allied targets, killing two Americans and wounding six. Official sources said there were 25 attacks in the provinces surrounding Saigon, the most in two months. Troopers of the U. S. 1st Air Cavalry Division fought all nine of the clashes reported from the Cambodian frontier north and northwest of Saigon, including a two-hour fight this morning that left 33 North Vietnamese dead against no American losses. Headquarters sent eight waves of B52 bombers on raids along the frontier during the night in an attempt to head off an expected "high point" of Communist activity around Christmas. Biggest of the weekend battles was a clash 60 miles northwest of Saigon Saturday in which American troops accompanied by some South Vietnamese called in air strikes on guerrillas who attacked them. After 20 minutes of attacks by U. S. F100 Supersabres and helicopter gunships, the Allied troops counted 45 Communist soldiers slain. A while later, they reported killing six more in a brief firefight. U. S. troopers fought six smaller skirmishes along the border Sunday, 60 to 84 miles north of Saigon. Much of the fighting centered around the Green Beret camp at Bu Dop, 90 miles north of the capital.

Tons Of Debris Remain After Record One-Day Musical Bash

LIVERMORE, Calif. (UPI) — Tons of debris and a few hundred cleanup volunteers remained today from the biggest one-day musical bash ever held. Dick Carter, manager of the motorcycle-race track where the free concert was given Saturday by The Rolling Stones and 20 other rock groups, figure it would take at least a week to clean up the mess made by 300,000 young rock fans. Four deaths, two births, hundreds of "bad trips" on drugs and trouble by "Hell's Angels" motorcycle toughs marred the concert. "I have about 200 youngsters staying to help me clean up but I could use thousands," Carter said. Tons of empty wine bottles and garbage were strewn on the hills around the Altamont Speedway, 50 miles southeast of San Francisco, by the huge crowd which also heard such groups as The Jefferson Airplane, Grateful Dead and Santana. John Haymes, president of Young American Enterprises which promoted the Stones American tour, said the musicians were also "very happy and pleased in the way things went. Particularly how everybody left orderly." It was doubtful law enforcement officers would agree. Sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen investigated a fatal stabbing, a drowning and two traffic deaths. Detective Sgt. Bill Foster of the sheriff's office said Meredith Hunter, 18, Berkeley, was stabbed to death in a scuffle near the stage while The Rolling Stones performed. The policeman said Hunter pulled a revolver after five or six "Hell's Angels" types knocked him down. Witnesses said Hunter was flung to the ground again and when his attackers climbed off he had been stabbed. However, Foster said the witnesses didn't see the knife and couldn't identify the assailants. An unidentified young man drowned in an irrigation ditch near the racetrack.

Poverty War Backers Ask Cards, Letters

Backers of President Nixon's request to continue the war on poverty unchanged for another two years are hopeful cards and letters from home will win over recalcitrant House members. But the target of the hopeful mail campaign—a coalition of Republicans and Democrats backing a substitute bill—claimed the pressure drive has not materialized. The substitute, expected to be voted on by the House later this week, would give governors a share of administrative control over federal poverty programs in their states if they wished. Backers of the substitute measure kept its provisions secret until minutes before debate was to open last week on the poverty issue. When the effort was discovered managers of the administration bill won House Democratic leadership backing for a week's delay. Democrats backing Nixon said for the record they needed time to study the substitute, but they conceded privately they wanted the delay to mount a mail campaign from individuals and national groups favoring an unchanged Office of Economic Opportunity. A flood of letters helped defeat a similar Republican effort to reorganize OEO in 1967.

Spud Growers Arriving For Burley Meet

BURLEY — Potato growers from all parts of Idaho are arriving in Burley for the annual meeting of Potato Growers of Idaho, Inc., to be held Tuesday and Wednesday in the Ponderosa Inn. Monday the organization's state board of directors held committee meetings and were scheduled to elect new officers during the afternoon. Tuesday morning general sessions will open with several potato experts speaking. Speakers Tuesday include Dr. Ron Esig, University of Idaho; William Bergesson, Potato Processors of Idaho; J. R. Simplot, Boise; Richard Kerbs, Blackfoot, state president; Clarence Parr, Burley, vice president, and Don Johnson, Potato Growers of California official. Speaking Wednesday will be Don McKay, Idaho Falls, Idaho First National Bank; Jay Sherlock, administrator of the Idaho Potato Commission; Doyle Burns, executive director of the National Potato Council; Dan Turner, vice president of the Maine Potato Council, and Dr. Robert Kunkel, Washington State University. Several activities also are planned for the wives of the potato growers. These include style shows, breakfast, luncheons and banquets.

New Parking Areas Readied For Shoppers

Holiday shoppers are in for something of a Christmas bonus in Twin Falls in the way of free parking. City Manager Jean Milar said Monday the city is now in the process of marking parking areas on three major urban renewal lots in the downtown area. Gravel has been hauled to the three areas where old buildings were removed and these will be available to shoppers to alleviate the critical downtown parking shortage during the Christmas shopping period. Mr. Milar said the lots are not metered and parking will be free on a first come first served basis. The lots are located behind the Bank of Idaho building, near the fire station and on the property on Second Avenue North, across from the police department.

New Lottery Won't Affect Recruiting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Departments' manpower experts are convinced the draft lottery will have little effect on armed forces recruiting or the reserve officers program. They concede it may take some time to prove their point. Because Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has already scheduled a 220,000-man reduction in the armed forces by July 1, the result is that the draft, after being discontinued altogether in November and December, will take only 12,500 men in January. That is less than half of the monthly average for the first 10 months of this year. With or without a lottery, the manpower experts say, a letup in the draft invariably brings a reduction in volunteering. So if recruiting shows a big reduction at the start of the year it may take some time to sort out the reasons for it. The theory is that a man who drew a high number in the lottery is going to be motivated to enlist, and that his additional motivation will just about offset the man who can forget military service altogether because his lottery number was low. The same will apply to men in college, who will carry their draft lottery numbers with them throughout their four years of study. If their number is high, they will be motivated to remain in the Reserve Officers Training Corps ROTC. Laird's economy reductions were scheduled at a time when the nation had a combined troop strength of 3,415,000 men. It is now thought that within 1970 the total may be brought down to 3,120,000, a reduction of almost 300,000. This depends on whether additional withdrawals from Vietnam prove possible. For planning purposes, Laird is still assuming the total draft for 1970 will be about 220,000 men, or about 25,000 fewer than this year.

Water Shortage

BOISE (UPI) — H. Tom Davis, environmental engineer for the water resources board, has told the governor's Blue Ribbon Water Resource Board that Idaho faces a potential water shortage for recreation in the next century. Davis said a special survey showed 88 per cent of Idahoans feel that recreation, fish and wildlife should be enumerated in the state's constitution as beneficial to users of water.

U.S., Soviets Winding Up SALT Talks

HELSINKI (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union are preparing to wind up their preliminary Strategic Arms Limitation Talks SALT, conference sources said today. Experts from both sides already are working on a joint communiqué, it was understood. The final meeting is generally expected either Friday or next Monday, the sources said. The cancellation of today's working session between chief negotiators represented no kind of setback in the talks, they said. Chief U. S. negotiator Gerard C. Smith requested the postponement because he required further guidance and directives from Washington. Both sides are now in the process of "winding things up," with the present round of talks expected to end either Friday or Monday, conference sources said. The delegations will then return to their capitals to prepare for full scale negotiations on how to curb the arms race next year. The purpose of the Helsinki talks was to lay the groundwork for the main conference. Each side believes it now has a fairly clear picture of what the other wants to discuss, the sources said. Positions apparently have coalesced on the issue of linking any limitation of long range rockets to controlling further development and deployment of antimissile systems.

Police Catch Suspect In T.F. Break-In

A Twin Falls man remains in custody at Twin Falls City jail, charged with first degree burglary in connection with a breaking late Sunday. Ronald Ray Rytting, 27, was arrested about 11 p.m. at McVey's, Inc., 161 Third Ave. W., by Twin Falls City officers. Policemen converged on the scene when it was discovered a window had been broken in the building and another window unfastened. Officers entered the firm through the open window and also discovered that a window leading to the center office of the sales department had been broken. A search of the building revealed the suspect hiding in a loft over the new parts department, officers said.

Sen. Stennis Wants Independent Unit To Probe Alleged Massacre

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Service Committee, wants President Nixon to appoint an independent nonmilitary commission to investigate the alleged American massacre of South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. The powerful Mississippi Democrat said Sunday the President should "have a competent group of outside individuals — people outside the government, outside the military — make a survey of the situation, determine what the facts are" and then report back to him. Stennis, interviewed on television Issues and Answers—ABC, made no mention of the Pentagon Board of Inquiry, which resumed its efforts today to determine whether field officers who made a low level investigation of the March 16, 1968 assault on My Lai attempted to cover up evidence of a massacre. But he said he felt a presidentially appointed fact-finding board offered "the most effective way to get at this whole matter" and that it was far better than any congressional hearing, which would tend "to go off in a half-dozen or a dozen directions." The Pentagon investigation headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, began last week with secret testimony by Capt. Ernest L. Medina, commander of the company that entered My Lai, and Lt. William L. Calley Jr., a platoon leader accused of murdering at least 109 civilians in the village. On Saturday the board questioned Capt. Eugene M. Kousser, an intelligence officer for the task force that carried out the sweep at My Lai, and Lt. Col. David C. Gavin, an adviser to the South Vietnamese district government at the time of the incident. The so-called Peers board got a strong endorsement Sunday from Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, who said he was "completely confident" it would pursue a "no-holds barred" investigation of the incident and reach an impartial conclusion. Resor, interviewed on television Meet the Press—NBC with Navy Secretary John H. Chaffee and Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans, said he hoped the news media would "exercise restraint" in further reports on My Lai and on Calley, who has been ordered court-martialed at Ft. Benning, Ga. Resor said "there's a serious problem" as to whether Calley can get a fair trial after all the publicity on his case.

Israeli Jets Hit Egyptain Targets

By United Press International
Israeli air force jets struck twice today at Egyptian military targets in the central sector of the Suez Canal. Artillery duels broke out in the Golan Heights between Israeli and Syrian troops and Syria reported 10 to 15 Israelis killed or wounded. The raids against Egypt were the 17th and 18th air strikes in 16 days and followed an Egyptian report that 250 Egyptian commandos seized an Israeli position in the Sinai Desert and held it for 24 hours this weekend. Israel said Egypt invented the report. A spokesman in Tel Aviv said two Israeli civilian tractors were hit by Syrian tank and artillery fire today at Rafid in the occupied Golan Heights when the Syrians began firing at five civilian tractors in a field. The spokesman reported no casualties. The firing triggered an artillery duel. The Syrian spokesman said an Israeli army engineering unit advanced to the frontier at 10 a.m. EST and attempted to carry out some construction work. Syrian tank crews opened fire, he said, destroying four Israeli bulldozers and an antitank gun. He put Israeli casualties at 10 to 15 persons killed or wounded. He said there were no Syrian casualties. In Cairo, a military spokesman said its men met no resistance from Israeli ground troops during their longest and most daring raid since the 1967 war — a weekend drive across the Suez Canal that overran a series of Israeli forts and held them for 24 hours.

Waiting Car Shoved Into Passing Train

CURRY — No serious injuries were reported Sunday morning when a car and a Union Pacific Railroad train collided at the Curry Crossing, according to Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers. Deputies said a 1962 Ford driven by Gene R. Hartung, 20, Filer, was stopped at the crossing waiting for the train to pass. Another west-bound vehicle, a 1966 Ford driven by Charles R. Stoddard, 55, was unable to stop because of slick pavement and ran into the rear of the Hartung car, pushing it into the train. Mr. Hartung's car was demolished and he was taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released. Mr. Stoddard was not injured. The train, which was about half-way through the crossing when the accident occurred, was not damaged, officers said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time since the nationwide strike began Oct. 27, the General Electric Co. and unions exchanged new contract proposals during the weekend.

THE MORAL OF THIS STORY is, don't leave the girls at home while you go skiing. That's what happened Sunday at 418 North Ave. N. Two Twin Falls High School girls built this snowman, then put him on top of this car. Why? The boys went skiing and wouldn't tell us why. They returned to be identified in the boys' room. They were then taken to the city in search of their white snowman.

Wilson Talks On Alleged

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG. LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson told Parliament today that if the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam is proved true Britain would dissociate itself from the alleged American actions and condemn them. He still supports basic U.S. policy in Vietnam.

It is not for us to carry out our investigations or prejudice, he declared. "It is the Americans' duty and that duty I believe will be fearlessly carried out. But if the massacre and associated actions are proved, it would be Britain's duty not only to dissociate ourselves from them but to condemn."

Wilson touched off angry shouts of "No!" from listening laborites when he added, "It is not the right reaction to jump to premature conclusions about a friend and ally. There is nothing to justify any change in the government's policy as a result of the Pinkville (My Lai) allegations."

Robson Says Idahoans Not Interested In Constitution

JEROME — At the annual meeting of the Idaho Tax Equality Association at Woods Cafe, Jerome, Saturday evening, Robert Robson, Idaho attorney general, scored the citizens of Idaho for their lack of interest in the Idaho Constitution which he said is the supreme law of the state. There were a capacity crowd at the meeting. Mr. Robson said during the constitutional revision hearings held this past summer throughout the state, the largest group in attendance numbered 300, and in many instances, there were less than 30 present. He also told the group that under present constitutional provisions, a governor of Idaho has practically no administrative power and that he might just as well "be in a straight jacket." During the discussion period, many in the audience expressed the opinion that in some instances, a governor placed in a "straight jacket" might well solve the problem. Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, was master of ceremonies. During the business meeting, Ted M. Mason, Kimberly, and Floyd Silva, Shoshone, were elected directors. Holdover directors are Rep. Wayne Tibbets, Lorenzo; John Lloyd, Welser; Don Row, Boise; and Don Ramsey, Twin Falls; and Hop E. win, Hagerman. Officers named were Mr. Rowe, chairman; Mr. Mason, vice chairman; and Mr. Silva, secretary-treasurer. Sotolosa was Jay Fowler, Shoshone, and accompanying him was Mrs. Fowler. Winter Play Area Ready, Snow Needed

All that's needed is a bit more snow and the new Diamond Field Jack winter play area will be in use in the South Hills, Forest Ranger Lewis Monson reported Monday. The new area is adjacent to the snowmobile parking and will provide adequate parking for the winter play crowds. About 75 vehicles can be accommodated here. The ranger said in addition to the play area, the road to the snowmobile area has been improved and additional parking provided for this popular sport. In addition there will be a machine renting permit issued at the snowmobile course this year to provide machines at the site.

Indictment Is Expected In Tate Murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Seven members of the mystic hippie "family" linked with the savage Sharon Tate killing and seven other slayings were expected to be indicted today at the conclusion of county grand jury deliberations. Deputy District Attorneys Aaron H. Stovitz and Vincent T. Bugliosi reported they will seek an eight-count indictment charging seven members of the pseudo-religious cult led by Charles Manson with conspiracy and murder. A dozen witnesses were to testify at today's secret hearing but it was believed most of the evidence against the suspects already had been supplied by attractive Susan Atkins, 21, a member of "The Manson Family."

Picking Up

Sales at the Twin Falls County license plate bureau are beginning to pick up, reports Mrs. Creath Wilkinson, chief deputy assessor. A steady stream of customers lined the hallway at the courthouse Monday as deadline for buying 1970 tags approached. Mrs. Wilkinson said there were 963 plates sold Friday at the Twin Falls bureau and about 400 at Buhl, the busiest day thus far. She said the Dec. 31 deadline is absolute and the state has promised there will be no extension made this year.

The C & O Railroad once rejected surveyor George Washington's bill for $300 with instructions that it be returned itemized. Washington re-submitted the follow itemized bill — nails and stakes $5.00; knowing where to put nails and stakes $295.00. It is true that all mortuaries sell caskets. Here the similarity between them ends. The casket in a funeral service can be purchased from any mortuary, but it is the professional skill of the funeral home personnel and their knowledge of your needs that makes the big difference.

Two Burley Men Charged In Drug Sale

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Law enforcement officials netted four arrests over the weekend on charges of the unlawful sale of a narcotic drug. An undercover agent for the state said an unknown quantity of suspected LSD, marijuana and hashish, were seized in the raids which included agents from the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, State Liquor Law Enforcement Agency and Salt Lake City police.

2 Hurt Slightly In Auto Mishap

BUHL — Two area residents were treated and released at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Sunday afternoon for injuries they received in a one-car accident on a county road south of Buhl. Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers said a 1963 Plymouth driven by David E. Frazier, 18, Buhl, collided with a bridge about 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon as the vehicle skidded on the snow-slicked road. The vehicle was traveling north, officers said, and young Frazier had apparently applied his brake to slow down. Both he and his passenger, Sue Johnson, 21, Castleford, received minor injuries.

'Chicago Seven' Plan Unique Defense In Chicago Trial

CHICAGO (UPI)—The defense case in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial promises to be another unorthodox event in an unprecedented trial. The jury will be invited to "commit civil disobedience against the judge's instructions," Chicago—1968—will be recreated" and the "hidden issues" behind the "persecu-

Hayden, 29, was a founder of the Students for a Democratic Society. He is perhaps, more intellectually inclined and articulate than the other defendants. His latest book, "Representation and Rebellion," was published two weeks ago. Hayden said the defense hopes to suggest that "these are the hidden issues behind our persecution." Hayden said the defense would prove the seven acted legally and that they: "Came to Chicago as participants in the creation of a new society in the streets...which continues its growth with its own natural laws, structures, language and symbols."

WASHINGTON—New evidence in President Nixon's hands hints strongly that his "Vietnamization" policy, coupled with the slow phasing out of U.S. troops, is creating a more severe problem for Hanoi than foreseen six months ago.
Now deeply worrying the Communist government in North Vietnam is the fact that the U. S. may so strengthen the South Vietnamese army that even after the U. S. pull-out and the probable installation of a coalition government, anti-Communist political and military forces will be powerful enough to stand off and perhaps defeat Hanoi-backed forces in South Vietnam.
The most definitive intelligence on this comes from the long (75 pages in translation) policy statement known as Resolution Nine, issued by the Communist party's clandestine headquarters in the South.

It was Resolution Nine and subsequent enemy directives this fall that led Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird to make his prediction to Congress, in testimony made public this week, that a "military victory" of the South over the North was by no means impossible.
To avoid this possibility, Resolution Nine states that the Americans "must be forced to end the war quickly by withdrawing all their troops. Since the puppet (Saigon) troops and puppet government are weak, they will be incapable of carrying out the task assigned them by the U. S."
It continues: "Therefore, we must force them to accept a political solution; that is, establish a coalition... and then reunify the country" under Hanoi's rule.
To deny this Communist hope of a timetable tailored to their needs, President Nixon flatly refuses to set a rigid schedule of U. S. troop withdrawals running into the future.
But already, according to Resolution Nine, the Communists have suffered severe setbacks from the program of Vietnamizing the war, along with the accelerated pacification program, and the "Phoenix" police operation designed to kill, arrest, or subvert local Communist cadres in the villages—the backbone of the guerrilla war.
The fact that local recruitment of Vietcong guerrillas has not come close to meeting the demand is implicit, for example, in new directives to military commanders of large, main force units—presumably including those infiltrated from North Vietnam.
These main force units must now be prepared to "disperse" to small sapper units, and to act as the part of local guerrilla forces, when the occasion requires. Three main targets are outlined: U. S. command posts to inflict casualties on American troops and thus increase de-

COMMENT

"What Are They Trying To Do? Give War A Bad Name?"

Water Warning

Denver (Colo.) Post
A few days ago about 1,000 men gathered to try to adjust to a way of life they've never known or will know.
From 18 Western states they convened in Spokane, Wash., to form the National Water Resources Assn. because the problems of the people-pressed cities have reached into the essentially rural lives they've always known.
Their topic was one that every person on earth requires to live and requires management to live well—water.
Uncomfortable after years in the open, they sat in stuffy, smoky rooms, ate bland meals and for the most part stayed clear of the frivolities associated with conventions.
Their foremost concern was getting urban people, the big-city folks, the Eastern politicians, President Nixon's budget advisers to take a close look at what they believe is an "Out-West" country solution to the woes of the nation's metropolitan areas polluted in air, water, congestion and split.
As they labored, the U.S. House of Representatives passed 433 to 9 a bill providing $4.9 billion for housing.
They seek a fraction of that amount now and promise to pay 90 per cent of it back in cash and billions more in other benefits.
They want the money to develop water resources for the future of all America's people.
They see that five-letter word WATER, the simple molecule of two parts hydrogen and one of oxygen upon which life depends as providing a quality life, not just an existence.
How?
Catching the water nature provides from rain and snow and in streams and lakes makes it possible to grow crops on lands too dry to grow them to maturity.
Growing crops for food or fiber takes men; machines—that, in turn, take men to supply and service. Men have families and families require schools and hospitals, stores, doctors that are paid for with the money from selling the crops.
The food and fiber require processing and transportation and brokers and insurance and chemicals—all of this development following the control of water.
Water is turned into electricity, an ordinary thing to Americans today, but not when the conventioners were young.
Electricity supplies power for industries that can then be established because the water has also brought labor and also provides recreation needs the workers demand.
The water is available all year long and the dam behind which it is saved provides flood protection, something which factories along the giant rivers of the water-rich East can't always count upon. Security is one of the side benefits of water development.
This is the sort of story the veterans of the Depression and the dust bowl are trying to tell.
The prosperity of eastern Colorado is from water development. California and Arizona are monuments to it. The glitter of Las Vegas would vanish without water.
So would the orange and almond and walnut groves, the lettuce and carrot fields from which more than $27 billion in food and fiber were harvested from federally financed water development between 1902 and 1968.
Sale of power amounted to more than $145 million alone in 1967 with the money going to pay for the projects. The irrigation water is also sold although boaters and fishermen use it free.

How does this affect the big cities?
Besides simply providing the means for function—water for drinking, sanitary facilities, electric power, fire fighting, industrial cooling—water resource development is also the means for recreation.
It sustains golf courses, provides fishing, boating, swimming, upland game hunting, and water fowl hunting for those who flee the urban confines in increasing numbers with increasing leisure time.
But with water development funds now cut back 29 per cent as other social programs have public favor, these facilities become inadequate and too over-crowded to cope with the hordes of people.
If they aren't planned and built now—and it can take 20 years for a major development to be completed—urban problems will be worse instead of being solved by massive injections of money.
Water development with the $5 billion in projects already approved by Congress—but unfunded, and other works for which appropriations are being held back by the Bureau of the Budget—can provide new jobs, communities, tax base, recreation and places outside the metropolitan areas where people can find a good life.
Opponents to development contend the nation doesn't need more cropland, although commodity surpluses have dwindled in many cases. The cities, highways and huge airfields are gobbling up fertile fields in multi-thousand acre bites as there become more and more people to house, employ, transport—and feed.
Power generation should be provided by private investment, not government backed operations, it is argued. But the government backed operations built up by the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation are multiple use, not just power. They're also agricultural, recreational and municipal industrial.
Conservation groups were damned at the sessions for allegedly wanting to maintain the "status quo" in areas potent for water development works. But even the old-time reclamationists had to admit they now have the say in the halls of Congress, not them.
For them it's all so evident—the dynamic growth of the West proves it.
It's not "their story." It's America's story. It worked before, this water development, and everyone benefited, not just the developers who undertook the job and the obligations for repayment, some $2 billion worth so far.
So what's wrong with it now, now when water demands of the future must be met?
Nationally power demands were up 7.5 per cent this summer over 1968. But in the West, the demands were as high as 19.8 per cent greater in one season.
Water shortages, power shortages and power failures must be recognized as at hand, a correlation of past history and current statistics reveals.
Some of the big money must be siphoned off—and it would amount to less than 1 per cent of the national budget—to get water development in gear again.
But the men who met in Spokane aren't part of the new, sophisticated fast-moving society.
Their wisdom and warning go unheeded in the cities, in much of the Congress and the administration.

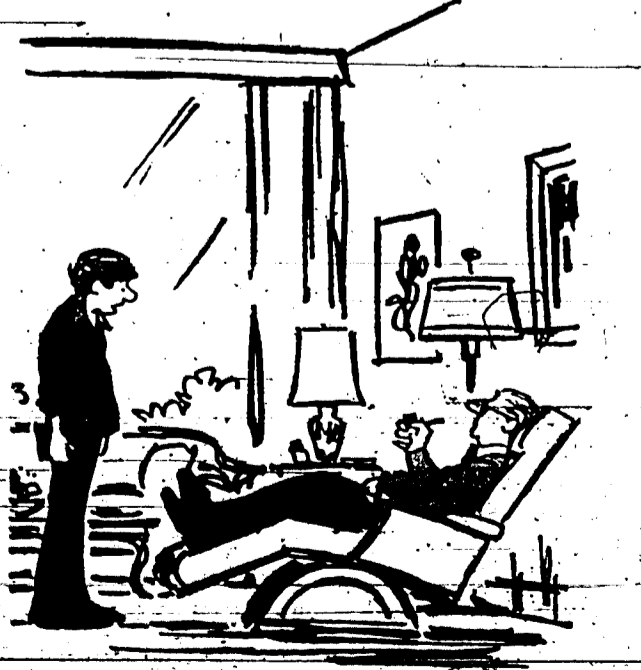

mands at home for faster troop withdrawals, South Vietnamese army units newly brought into the field to replace U. S. units, and all areas involved in pacification, particularly the populated delta.
The most interesting reading in Resolution Nine is its reiteration of rising Communist problems in the field. Exhortation to do better—"criticism and self-criticism"—is standard Communist rhetoric, but in Resolution Nine this criticism is abnormally blunt, as follows:
"Efforts to destroy the enemy are still poor" and the three types of Communist military units—local forces, guerrilla forces, and main forces—are all far understrength and out of correct proportion to one another.
Supply problems are critical, partly due to destruction of vast underground supply depots and arms caches, partly to disappearing sources of rice as the pacification program wins over more and more rice-producing areas.
But worse still, Resolution Nine lists serious "weaknesses" that go to the heart of the morale and will-to-win of Communist cadres in the South.
This list includes such grave sins as "fear of the rigors of war, fear of death, distrust in people's revolutionary capabilities, peace illusions, poor sense of organization and discipline."
"In addition," states Resolution Nine, "a number of party members have even gone so far as to surrender to the enemy and betray the nation, causing a disastrous effect on the party and people."
It would, of course, be the worst kind of error for President Nixon's Vietnam advisers to read too much into this catalogue of enemy weaknesses, an error repeatedly committed in the Lyndon Johnson White House. But they do seem to reveal one hard fact—that the U. S. bargaining position is neither hopeless nor deteriorating at this particular moment in the endless war.

RAY CROMLEY

Cholesterol

(First in a series of three articles)
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hear so much about cholesterol. I'm wondering how many people know what it is, what it does to the body, good or bad. It seems to have become a taboo on the eating list because of the effects of cholesterol.
Please tell us what cholesterol is.—D.M.V.
I agree that a great many people are confused about cholesterol to the extent that a lot of them think it is a dirty word, that they must do everything to avoid cholesterol.
That is not true. Cholesterol is a useful—in fact, absolutely necessary—material. It is an ingredient of the body's hormones. It protects nerve trunks. It is in the brain. Much of it is used up in producing one of the vital digestive juices. It constantly circulates in the blood stream.
If we ate food that contained no cholesterol, our body (the liver and many other cells) would manufacture it from other foods. We couldn't survive without cholesterol. Nor could any animal—and even plants have a similar material, vital to them.
Chemically, cholesterol is a very intricate compound of the alcohol family, although it has nothing to do with ordinary "drinking alcohol." It is found in company with fatty and oily materials in the blood, the so-called "blood lipids" or blood fats, and therefore is regarded as one of the blood lipids even though, itself, it is not a fat.
The bad part of its reputation comes from the fact that cholesterol, along with other lipids, is found in the deposits which form in the walls of our arteries, causing hardening of the arteries.
And hardening of the arteries, of course, is closely bound up with heart attacks, strokes, and circulatory troubles of many types.
Does this mean that cholesterol causes hardening of the arteries?
Not necessarily. Presence of a certain material in a trouble spot doesn't automatically make it the cause.
This question, therefore, is the basis of considerable dispute among technical experts. Perhaps the fats, or perhaps some other element, may be the cause. Eventually, the real answer will be discovered. I feel sure.
There is evidence, however, that too much cholesterol in the blood probably has some relationship to hardening of the arteries. Not the mere presence of cholesterol, but of too much. A good many victims of heart attacks are found to have a high cholesterol level—but not all. There are other examples of similar evidence.
It seems only sensible, in view of this, to take some reasonable precautions against letting the cholesterol level become excessive.
That, however, is a far cry from becoming a cholesterol fanatic and trying to avoid any food containing cholesterol.
I agree that this is not a simple matter. It takes some understanding of the picture to know when you are being reasonable and when you are going overboard in cholesterol-phobia.
I've made it the subject of my new booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly," which is now off the press. If you want a copy, send 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson care of this newspaper.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Responsibility For Accuracy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One big trouble with press and television in their news coverage today is that neither has in its midst enough guardians of perspective—people who either "remember it like it was" or care enough to find out.
Much of the error and insufficiency which creeps into the honest endeavors of hard-working, conscientious media people is a consequence of this lack.
It makes the media far more vulnerable than it ought to be to blunder buss assaults like those of Vice President Agnew. Indeed, even as television and press rose in high dudgeon against the excesses of his attack, new errors were being committed in the name of balanced reporting.
One of the new big stories of the year is that dealing with an alleged U. S. Army atrocity against hundreds of South Vietnamese villagers in March of 1968.
Much energetic, imaginative, dedicated labor is going into the digging out of this story by newspapers, magazines, and television. But gross shortcomings in this effort have already appeared.
A Newsweek magazine story illustrates in at least three instances how this can happen. Its atrocity story speaks of the 20th-century evolution of mass warfare aimed at civilians. There it adds:
"At Dresden and Hiroshima, the United States helped polish the technique to chilling perfection."
Anyone reading that sentence who did not know better would assume that the U. S. had primarily if not sole responsibility for the Feb. 13-14, 1945, mass bombing of Dresden, Germany.
If David Irving, author of a book on that raid, is even roughly correct in his estimate, then the Dresden assault was the most devastating in human history. He guesses that 135,000 persons, mostly German civilians but some foreign slave laborers, were killed in an indescribably destructive firestorm. The city's normal 630,000 population was swollen to 1,300,000 by refugees streaming westward away from the advancing Russian front. Our fire-bombing of Tokyo a month later, costing nearly 400,000 Japanese lives, was probably the next worst.
But the Dresden attack was Great Britain's idea, and British bombers, numbering some 775 and dropping 650,000 incendiaries, executed the world's worst blow against a civilian population.
Our bomber participation, by daylight the following day (14th), was aimed at precision targets in Dresden like railroad marshaling yards. If Dresden was a massive atrocity, as many understandably argue, we took part only to the extent that some U. S. pilots, unable to find their prescribed targets in the smoke and fire, seized "targets of opportunity" and gunned down some of the fleeing Dresden civilians.
The basic facts are that U.S. air leaders opposed as unwise the British plan for mass night raids late in the war to break German morale, that Gen. H.H. Arnold, our Air Force chief, was against such bombing on principle, and that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's psychological warfare advisers flatly called it terrorist.
How much of this is known or cared about by British Laborites now pressing Prime Minister Harold Wilson to delay his proposed January visit here because of the American "atrocity story"? And were did Newsweek get the idea that Dresden was "our show"?
Newsweek also suggests bluntly that Americans at mid-century may be more brutalized than other peoples, and that the Vietnam war has been peculiarly apart from other wars in its brutalizing effects.
The most charitable thing to say about the individual who set down those ideas is that he is indifferent to history.
A precocious child of six can read endless tales of atrocities in other wars, against which backdrop any known or alleged brutalities in Vietnam seem neither unusual nor especially extreme. War is the great crime. All war brutalizes and breeds atrocity.
Moreover, anyone who brands Americans with special censure must not have been reading what Asians have been doing to Asians, Africans to Africans, and Europeans to each other in this cruel century.

PAUL HARVEY

South Africa

Let's look at South Africa. As the eyes of the news characteristically do—the worst first.
In South Africa, the black man is not allowed to vote. His position and condition are very similar to that of the American Indians whom we annihilated or pushed back onto reservations, except in South Africa there were no massacres.
But because the apartheid (segregation) policy of South Africa contradicts our recently rightous respect for human rights, the United States has tried to stomp the life out of white South Africa. We have condemned that government in the United Nations, we have applied economic and political boycotts, we have placed a total embargo on arms sales to the Republic of South Africa.
It is obvious that the United States is entirely willing to feed South Africa to the Communist wolves now at her door, howling for blood.
Before we throw this white government to the Reds, let's weigh what they'd win and what we'd lose.
Golfer Gary Player, a genuine Christian gentleman, caused many Americans to take a second look at his homeland. Then, when the human heart transplant technique was pioneered by a South African doctor, Christian Barnard, such progress appeared incongruous with South Africa's "backward image." It was not incongruous.
South Africa is a modern, developed country with up-to-date harbors, airfields, roads and railroads.
In natural resources, South Africa, per square foot, is the richest country in the world. Almost every mineral of value, except oil, is there in abundance.
South Africa's defense force is small, but it is disciplined, efficient and potentially more effective than the armed forces of all other African nations combined.
Some of the most brilliant and resourceful scientists, physicists and engineers in the world are South African. South Africa could produce atomic weapons in quantity any time its government desires.
There is no stronger economy in the modern world than that of South Africa. Its money is backed by 85 per cent gold. Unemployment is less than one-half of one percent.
And South Africans, staunchly pro-American despite our official rejection, represent the only country in Africa which we could really depend upon in an international conflict.
Former Prime Minister Dr. H. F. Verwoerd was vigorously anti-Communist. He believed that Afro-Asian Communists wished to destroy white civilization in Africa, grab the natural riches and enslave the blacks.
He believed Western nations do not understand his nation only because they do not try to understand.
So South Africa continues to be the only country in the world that gives the United States more in friendship, co-operation, goods, services and support than we return.

Boys And Noise

Christian Science Monitor
"Fifty schoolboys kept quiet for eight hours during a 'hush-in' and raised $247 for charity." So recounts a news story from Bath, England.
Although we, like many another, have wondered whether the various "in" activities have not multiplied to the point of boredom, there is something both inviting and redeeming about a schoolboys' hush-in. It is the kind of rose, which, by whatever name it might be called, would smell just as sweet in this noisy world.
A hush-in shows, we think, boys' genius for knowing just what it is that most quickly gets on their elder's nerves and to the latter's pocketbook. For the hush-in is no more than 1969's equivalent of the Victorian lad's promise to stop beating his drum around the house if given a penny.
Parents early learn that the fittest rime in the English tongue is "not moon" and "June," but "boys" and "noise," and that they are much likelier to be made of puppy-dogs' barks than of puppy-dogs' tails. And it is a slow lad, indeed, who does not also early learn that his inborn din-making gifts have a high black-mail and bribery value, if shrewdly applied.
At whatever the price, millions of elders will welcome the advent of the hush-in.

Job Training Program Is Explained

RUPERT — On the job training for the low income and public assistance workers was described by Ken Baumgartner, Twin Falls, for Rupert Chamber of Commerce members Thursday.

A job developer and contract specialist for the State Office of Economic Opportunity, Mr. Baumgartner said at present some 30 individuals are being trained under this program in Twin Falls area. An employer picks potential employees from the prospects who show a need and desire to be trained, trains the individual who consequently develops a sellable skill or trade which hopefully leads to fulltime employment.

The only thing asked of the employer, the speaker said, is that the wage must be the usual entry rate for the position, or no less than $1.60 per hour. In return, the employer would receive the service of the contract specialist and maintains the right to hire and fire the individuals under the program as he sees fit.

The employer is reimbursed for a portion of the training costs incurred through the program at a rate of from $15 to $25 per week, which will be paid on the termination or completion of the contract. The contracts are released for periods ranging from four to 26 weeks.

Santa Claus

Santa Claus now has a telephone in Twin Falls, according to K. G. Mann, district manager for Mountain Bell.

Mountain Bell installed a phone for the jolly old gent so that all his little friends could call him before Christmas. Just call 734-2294 any time of the day or night — but be sure you remember the number correctly, and remember that it's in the "734" series, not the more familiar "733" number.

Santa said:

With Christmas fast approaching and presents piling up, Santa wants to be sure he has the right present for each boy and girl. So call him at 734-2294 well before Christmas.

Hagerman To Host Wendell Lions Club

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman Lions Club will host the Wendell Lions and their partners at a Christmas party to be held at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 15 at the Oxbow Cafe dining room, Bliss.

At the monthly business meeting held at the Hagerman Hotel, members decided not to put a lighted Christmas tree in the downtown area this year as they have done in the past. With the completion and erection of the Christmas decorations and street lights in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, city and other organizations who have donated to the project, members felt the added costs would not be justified at this time.

The organization will continue to furnish treats for the pre-school and grade school children with the school district taking care of the expense of the treats for the high school students.

Members voted to donate two cases of orange for the patients at the Magic Valley Manor, Wendell.

Chamber At Shoshone To Elect Aides

SHOSHONE — Five directors for next year will be elected at the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting to be held at 7 p.m. Monday at the Manhattan cafe.

Zoo Watcher Finds His Job A Bit Violent

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I'd just be minding my own business," says George Kenaston, a zookeeper, as he leads the way to the story none of his checkers-playing cronies will believe.

Baler is a seasoned sidewalk superintendent at the Central Park Zoo. Friday he was on hand as usual, supervising the loading of a couple of bears which had been sold to another zoo, when a 500-pound male got rambunctious.

A keeper zeroed in on the big, angry bear with tranquilizer-loaded darts. When the bear began to slough down and it was clear the drug was taking effect, Baler noticed something a dart stuck in the sleeve of his coat.

The next thing he knew he was in an ambulance on the way to the hospital. But when the doctors looked him over, they found out the dart had lodged in his coat sleeve without breaking the skin.

Meanwhile, back at the zoo, the keepers had new problems. The drugged male bear had fallen asleep in his wading pool, and keepers had to hold his head out of water to keep him from drowning until the pool could be drained and he could be hauled out with ropes.

After all that, it was a kind of a comedown for Baier to join his comrades for their regular afternoon checkers game.

"I told them what had happened," he said. "They didn't believe me."

Warsaw Report Says Waiters Answer Critics Vigorously

WARSAW (UPI)—In Polish restaurants the service is often as bad as the food but only the foolhardy would complain, Warsaw newspapers report.

For instance: Two waiters attacked a diner who refused to pay his check, which he said was too high for what he got to eat. The waiters were jailed for five years.

In Wroclaw, a diner at the Home of the Farmer Restaurant argued over his check. Waiters Mieczyslaw Mazga, 23, and Mieczyslaw Raczowski, 32, dragged him behind the bar and worked him over.

"They also took money from his wallet to pay the check plus a worthless tip," the newspapers said.

Customers have been beaten in two other Warsaw restaurants, including the plush Budapest Crystal Cafe, and such incidents become a topic of conversation.

The newspaper Ultra ran a cartoon the other day. It showed a customer asking a waiter, "What can you dish me up in a hurry?"

"A punch in the nose," said the waiter.

Columnist Krzysztof Teodor Topczewski saw a hopeful note: "The relatively low number of customers who are beaten by waiters indicates that inhibitions of a humanitarian or materialistic nature still have a strong influence among waiters," he said.

Idaho Power Drafts Plans For New Plant

BOISE (UPI)—Idaho Power Co. has announced that negotiations are under way on a contract for design of a 1.5-million-kilowatt coal-fired steam generating complex to be built jointly with Pacific Power & Light Co. near Rockfords Springs, Wyo.

Idaho Power President Albert Carlsen said details of the design agreement are being worked out with Bechtel Corp. of San Francisco. This is the same firm that engineered and supervised construction of Idaho Power's Hells Canyon Dam, completed last year.

Initial construction of the steam plant is slated to begin in 1971 with the first of three 500,000 kilowatt generating units to produce electricity for Idaho Power customers in 1974.

Carlsen described Idaho Power's source of energy at the lowest possible cost.

President, Mrs. Nixon Will Send 40,000 Christmas Cards

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President and Mrs. Nixon are starting a busy Yuletide season by sending out 40,000 Christmas cards to friends.

"It's nice to have that many," said the First Lady.

Their first Christmas in the White House will be a time of many parties, worship services, entertaining friends and clinging to old traditions.

However, the Nixons' younger daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, will spend Christmas in Brussels, where David's father, Col. John Eisenhower, is ambassador to Belgium.

David and Julie wind up their classes at Smith and Amherst Colleges respectively and will fly to Europe Dec. 19 on tickets provided by his parents as a wedding gift. The young Eisenhowers will celebrate their first wedding anniversary Dec. 22 and will remain in Europe through the holidays.

Mrs. Nixon, who loves Christmas, is busy supervising decorations in the state rooms and the family trimmings and mementos that will go on the tree in the west sitting room of the living quarters.

"We have a whole new thing going on the tree," Mrs. Nixon said in an interview, referring to the 19-foot fir tree, a gift of the Ohio Christmas tree growers, that will be placed in the center of grand hallway of the White House.

She said Saks Fifth Avenue of New York will decorate the tree with ornaments the store commissioned to be created and handpainted by hand-capped persons. "Saks is paying them so they will have a little money and pride," Mrs. Nixon said.

She said the holiday decor will be green and white with yellow domes of the company's dozen cars and the drivers have long hair.

Bryan Peterson, one of the organizers of the company, said his drivers have been "hassed" by other taxi drivers, but that there have been no big problems.

"Some of the straight drivers feel we're infringing on their territory," Peterson said.

He said the company has been in operation less than two weeks and already has expansion plans.

"This is one of the few businesses breaks have been able to break into," Peterson said.

Allies Veto Conference With Soviets

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The United States, Canada and their European allies have virtually vetoed any big European security conference with the Soviets in 1970, allied diplomatic sources said Saturday.

But they gave their blessings to efforts by West Germany's new Socialist-led government to warm up its own relations with the Communist East, the sources said.

Other NATO member countries also will seek to step up their own contacts with the Soviet Union in many fields, the sources said, particularly in trade, scientific and cultural relations.

Poetic Affair

HOUGHTON, Mich. (UPI)—By the shores of Gitchie Gumme, on the farm of Evert Larson, grew there once a mighty tree stand, now reduced to twigs and logs; grew there once before the glacier trees that vanished moons ago.

Mister Larson found the tree hunks, found them round and long and strong, found them buried in a peat bed, hard along the Otter River as he dug down for a well.

Called he then the learned wise men, called them to his farm at Houghton, from the halls of Michigan Tech. Into the solid peat they shoveled, botanist and geologist too, six feet down to find the tree hunks and send them to the East for testing.

Radio-carbon tests completed, the learned men the story told: The mighty trees of Mister Larson, trees destroyed in the last ice flow, are now 800 centuries old.

How To Diet Happily Without Cyclamates!

The news is out in dietland — we're going to have to get along without cyclamates. But it may be a lot easier to diet without them than most people realize. Let's face it — one of the smartest ways to diet is to use the foods that are naturally low in calories.

And, you know it yourself. To stay slimmer, you just have to change your way of eating — period. Fortunately, there is one remarkable food that helps you accomplish this without drugs or starvation — with a minimum of will power and fortitude and with a maximum of enjoyment.

That food is your sparkling old friend, Knox Unflavored Gelatine, more beautiful than ever in new food fashions. Beautifully low in calories, too: only 28 to an envelope. But the important fact that this unflavored gelatine is all-protein (adding nutrition and bulk to an incredible variety of dishes), with not a grain of sugar or sweetener in sight, makes it the greatest ally a dieter can ever have. That's why it's included in many specialized diets.

Low-calorie gelatine helps you use other naturally low calorie, nourishing foods in creative ways that appeal to the eye, as well as the palate — and help avoid the boredom of dull-dull "reducing" dishes.

By the way, drinks made with Knox Unflavored Gelatine, taken three times daily before meals — or any time you want a "sneak snack" — provide a protein supplement and cut down mealtimes' appetites. Just sprinkle an envelope of unflavored gelatine into a six-ounce glass of grapefruit juice, tomato juice or other liquid, stir briskly and drink at once.

Here are tempting slim-line recipes for Tomato Aspic; and Chicken Buttermilk Loaf to get you started on a positive approach to dieting. The chiffon dessert, deliciously satisfying, calls for only a small amount of sugar. However, if you are on a diabetic regimen you can, of course, substitute whatever artificial sweetener your doctor recommends.

TOMATO ASPIC
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
3 1/2 cups tomato juice, divided
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1 cup lemon or lime juice

Sprinkle gelatine over one cup of the tomato juice in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatine dissolves, four or five minutes. Remove from heat; stir in remaining ingredients. Pour into four-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold; garnish with salad greens.

YIELD: eight servings, 28 calories per serving.

CHICKEN BUTTERMILK LOAF

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold chicken bouillon
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 to 3 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Sprinkle gelatine over bouillon in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir until gelatine dissolves, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in buttermilk, lemon juice, rind, salt and Tabasco. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in chicken, celery and parsley. Turn into a two and one-half-cup mold or small loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold.

YIELD: eight servings, 28 calories per serving.

At the bazaar will be offered handmade articles and such goodies as home baked bread, and both it and the dinner are public affairs.

Planned also was the Christmas party for 8 p.m. Dec. 17 with, as Mrs. Johnson phrased it, "everybody on every committee." Every OES member will bring an article of table decoration, each her own lunch, and an exchange gift.

The first president to marry a divorced woman was Andrew Jackson.

ABBY FOR TODAY
DEAR ABBY: My husband is in a profession which caters to women. (It's a personal service, but please don't say what kind.)

He is of Italian descent and speaks the language very well, altho he was born and raised in the U.S.A.

One of his clients recently returned from a vacation in Rome. She is fiftyish and married to a rich man. She's very attractive and obviously a swinger because while in Rome she met and had an affair with an Italian. (Don't ask me how an American woman who can't speak Italian, and an Italian man, who can't speak English ever got to this point, but they did.) Well, this woman got a love letter from this Italian man, and since it was written in Italian she asked my husband to translate it for her. He did. Then she dictated a letter to her lover in English, and my husband wrote it for her in Italian.

At first I thought this was funny, but I don't think it's funny anymore. (The Italian is also married.)

I told my husband I didn't think he should be doing this. He thinks I'm "square." What do you think?

"SQUARE"

DEAR "SQUARE": If you're "square", I want to be in all four of your corners.

DEAR ABBY: Lately my husband just loves to go to these discount stores to buy groceries for me. Abby, my kitchen cupboards are filled with things I have no use for. I would prefer to buy my own groceries as no one knows better than I what I need in my kitchen.

Also, lately, he won't allow me to wash his socks and underwear. He washes them out himself every night. I tell him I can do it like I always did, once a week, but he says I "lose" them for him! Now, Abby, I've been married to this man for nearly 40 years and I haven't lost any of his laundry yet.

We raised four nice children who are all married and gone now, and there are just the two of us home. He retired last year and this should be the happiest time of our lives, but his strange ways are making me nervous. What should I do? Don't tell me to send him to the doctor. If he wasn't sick, you'd know he wasn't sick.

NERVOUS IN MAINE

DEAR NERVOUS: A "healthy appetite" doesn't necessarily indicate good mental health. Your husband's sudden "strange ways" could be a signal that there is something "wrong" with him. By all means, get him to a doctor for a thorough examination from the neck both ways.

DEAR ABBY: I usually agree with your advice, but not when you told the woman whose husband beat her up a lot, "Any woman who sticks around to let her husband beat her up whenever he feels like it is sicker than he is."

I ought to know because I was a prisoner of such a husband for 12 years. He was crazy jealous over nothing and put me in the hospital more times than I care to remember. I couldn't take it any more, and I finally got up the nerve to leave him.

He found me, put one bullet in my hip, one in my leg, and then he killed himself. I survived, and hope to raise my three wonderful children.

But I just want you to know, Abby, that there are some men you CAN'T leave. And a peace warrant is no use to a dead woman.

THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE IN ALABAMA

DEAR VOICE: It's better to seek protection for yourself and your children than to live in fear of your life and to be continually abused by such a man. True, a peace warrant is no use to a dead woman, but being the president of a maniac is no life either.

CONFIDENTIAL TO EARLY MONEY IS IMPORTANT. BUT ONLY BECAUSE IT ENABLES YOU TO BUY THE THINGS THAT ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN MONEY.

Miss Dodson, Herbert Say Nuptial Vows

Fall-colored greenery and baskets of white gladioli, red roses and spiral candelabra for the background setting for the double ring evening ceremony uniting in marriage Devota D. Dodson, daughter of Mrs. Verla Dodson, Twin Falls, and Theodore Dodson, Salt Lake City, and Dale L. Herbert, son of Mrs. Mary Ellen Herbert Bend, Ore., and the late Mr. Mark Herbert.

Rev. Bill Burch performed the ceremony in the First Church of the Nazarene, Eugene, Ore., with Jan Johnson, Portland, and Raymond Aduddell, Eugene, as soloists. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, W. P. Hills, Twin Falls.

The bride wore a gown designed and created by her mother. It was fashioned from candlelight Luteson crepe. The bodice was overlaid with Chantilly lace which also formed a long rounded train, sweeping from the back of the empire waistline. The neckline of the gown was Juliette, accented with Victorian puffed sleeves. Her head-dress was fashioned from Luteson crepe and silk illusion, full-length at the back and tapering in front to elbow-length. She carried a cascade bouquet of red garnet roses and white stephanotis with leather leaf greenery.

The gift table was in the foyer and the gifts were opened later by the bride and bridegroom in their apartment.

The couple took a wedding trip to the coast. They reside in Eugene, where the bride is teaching and the bridegroom is employed with an office equipment company.

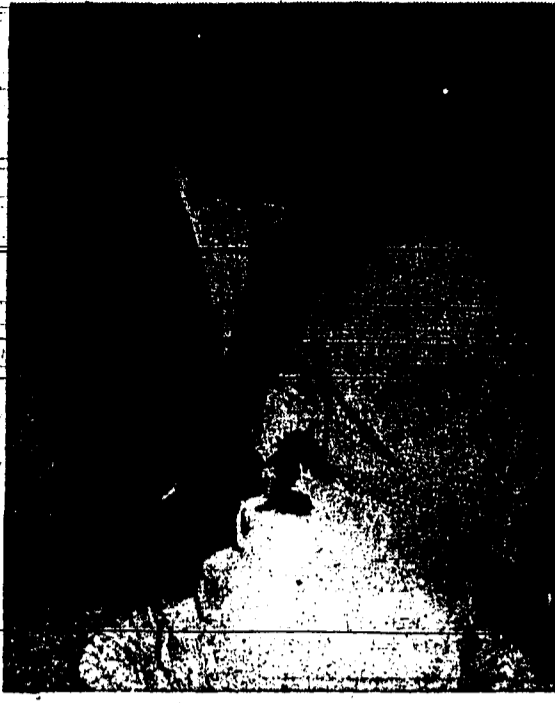

Special out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hills, Mrs. Del Butterfield, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conrad, Murtaugh.

A bridal shower was given for the bride by Mrs. Lewis Dean and Dora Wolff for friends and relatives of the bride at the home of Mrs. Bill Harmaning, Kimberly. Personal and miscellaneous showers were given for the bride in Eugene.

Dallas Scrambles Past Pittsburgh To Clinch Capitol Division Title

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Mike Clark kicked a 32-yard field goal and Craig Morton scrambled 12 yards for a touchdown to give Dallas a 10-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday at muddy Pitt Stadium. The win enabled the Cowboys to clinch their third consecutive Capitol Division title in the National Football League. The Cowboys earned a shot to meet the Cleveland Browns for the Eastern Conference title in the Dec. 28 at Dallas. Last season the Browns whipped Dallas 31-20 for the conference crown.

The Steelers, unable to penetrate into Dallas territory in the first three periods, appeared rejuvenated when Dick Shiner replaced Terry Hanratty at quarterback in the final period. The third quarter ended with rookie Calvin Hill fumbling on the Steeler nine and Chuck Hinton recovered for Pittsburgh.

Irish Not Looking For Easy Time Against Texas

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Notre-Dame's Ara Parseghian got his first look at his Cotton Bowl opponent, Texas, on television Saturday and he came away impressed. "Any team that can overcome six turnovers and win has got to be good," he said. Parseghian said that he saw the entire game in which Texas defeated Arkansas 15-14 to become the Irish foe in the Cotton Bowl, and he found the Longhorns to be "quick, strong and with great skills."

Parseghian declared that his Irish would have to play their best game of the season to beat the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl, but he added that it was entirely possible that they could put together such a game. "We're not giving up," he said. "They may have to play their game too. Its going to be tough for us and we're not looking for any easy contest."

Ricks Dumps CSI Matmen By 41-5

The powerful Ricks College wrestling squad handed the College of Southern Idaho wrestlers a 41-5 defeat Friday night in the wrestling opener for both squads.

Ricks, the ICAC favorite this season, took advantage of three forfeits and recorded four pins during the course of the match. Dan Allen was the lone winner for the Golden Eagles, getting CSI's five points by pinning Ricks' Vard Jenkins in the 167-pound class.

Wood River Cops Pair Of Victories

ABERDEEN - ARCO — Lanky Daryl James poured through 57 points over the weekend as the Wood River Wolverines took their first two games of the season, 62-61 over Aberdeen Friday night, and 52-48 over Butte Saturday night.

Friday's contest was airtight all the way, with Wood River trailing by two or three for the better part of three quarters. James hit for 26 points, while Denny Patterson added 18 for the Wolverines.

Pacers Stay Hot In Road Games

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Roger Brown and Fred Lewis combined for 55 points as the Indiana Pacers defeated the Los Angeles Stars 108-99 Sunday night to continue their hot road streak.

The Pacers are now 8-1 on the road with their only loss being to the New York Nets. Brown, who finished with 30 points, and Lewis, with 25, got the bulk of their scoring with some timely outside shooting at the end of the third quarter and the beginning of the fourth.

The Steelers then rolled 91 yards in six plays. With Shiner completing four straight passes. His 29 yard to John Henderson gave the Steelers their touchdown with 3:27 gone in the first period.

Pittsburgh drove to the Dallas 37 with 1:50 remaining in the game but lost the ball on downs.

A 31-yard pass from Shiner to Roy Jefferson put Pittsburgh at the Dallas 20 as the final gun sounded.

A day-long rain turned Pitt Stadium into a quagmire and snow began falling in the final period just when the Steelers began their scoring drive.

The registering their ninth victory of the season against two defeats and one tie, the Cowboys sent Pittsburgh down to its 11th straight loss. It marked the Steelers' longest one-season losing streak since they entered the league in 1933. Their only victory came against Detroit in the opener.

Norton And Dolphins Tip Denver 27-24

MIAMI (UPI)—Quarterback Rick Norton threw two touchdowns passes to Larry Seiple Sunday to lead the Miami Dolphins to a 27-24 win over the Denver Broncos.

Norton and Seiple, a potent combination in their college days at Kentucky, teamed up for a nine-yard scoring pass with 23 seconds left in the first quarter, and on a four-yard score with 1:12 left in the first half that put the Dolphins ahead.

Last-Second Jumper Sinks Lakers 104-103

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Jim Davis' turnaround jumper with 38 seconds left provided Atlanta with a 104-103 win over the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday night after the Hawks had blown an 48-point advantage.

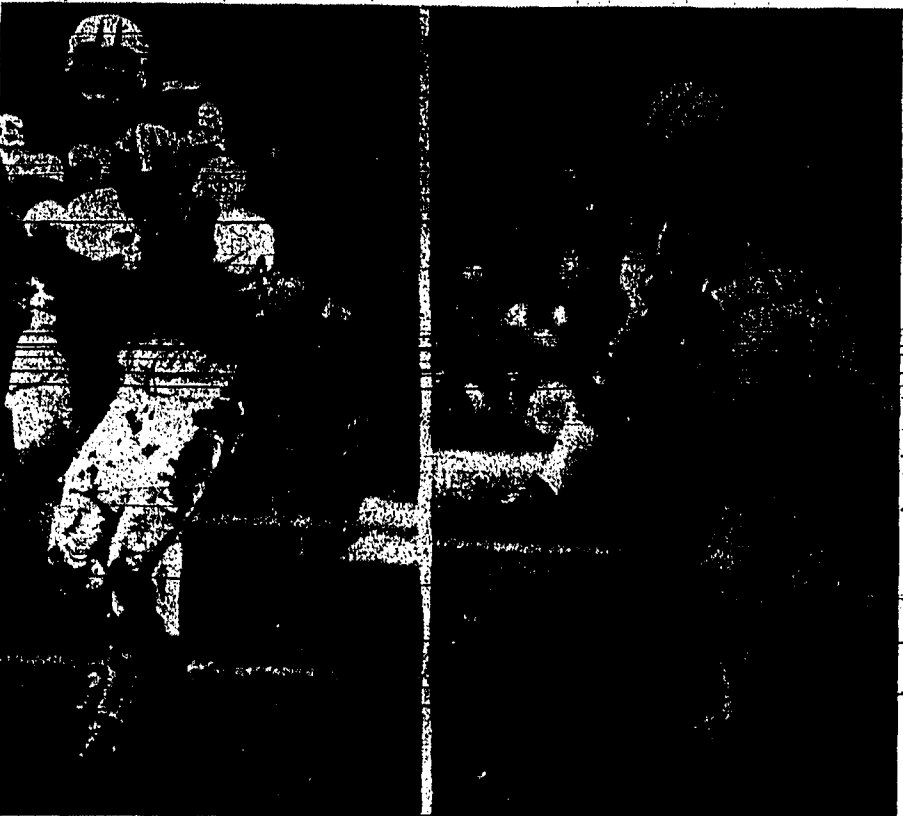

The Lakers, trailing 83-65 with two minutes to go in the third period, cut Atlanta's lead to one point at 102-101 on a basket by Jerry West with 1:17 remaining.

Atlanta missed one shot but got the rebound and Davis capped an 18-point effort with his five-foot shot from inside the key.

West scored the final basket with five seconds left after Elgin Baylor stole the ball for Los Angeles.

Baylor led all scorers with 36 points while Walt Hazzard paced the Western Division-leading Hawks with 27. Supporting Hazzard and Davis for the Hawks were Joe Caldwell with 19, Gary Gregor with 16 and Bill Bridges with 13.

A cold-shooting West, who made only seven of 19 shots, and Happy Hairston each had 19 for the losers, who now have dropped seven of their last nine starts.

Kelly Rushes For 151 Yards, Browns Dump Green Bay 20-7

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Leroy Kelly gained 151 yards in 22 carries on a muddy field to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 20-7 victory over the Green Bay Packers Sunday.

The victory by the Browns reversed a decade of humiliation at the hands of Green Bay. Counting exhibitions and the 1965 championship game, the Browns had lost eight straight games to the Packers. Cleveland had only a pre-season victory in 1964 against 10 defeats to the Packers during the decade.

The acrobatic Warfield made a leaping catch to snatch the touchdown pass away from Bob Jeter on the two and held onto it despite a savage double tackle in the end zone. The play came with 1:52 left in the half. Kelly sparked the 74-yard six-play drive with gains of 13 and 11 yards, and his 31-yard run set up the first Cleveland field goal. It was the 20th time in his career that he gained more than 100 yards in a game—although only the second time this season. The other game, against the New York Giants two weeks ago, also was played on a muddy field.

Bill Nelson fired a 30-yard touchdown pass to Paul Warfield in the second period and safety Ernie Kellerman sprinted 40 yards with an intercepted pass in the third period for the Cleveland touchdowns. Don Cockroft, broke out of a place-kicking slump with a second period field goal of 20 and 45 yards.

The Packers, held outside the Cleveland 40 for the first three periods of the game, scored with 1:46 remaining on a 29-yard pass from quarterback Don Horn to Dave Hampton, rookie halfback.

Giants Blast Cardinals; San Diego Tops Patriots

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fran Tarkenton threw four touchdowns passes, including two to Joe Morrison, as the New York Giants snapped a losing streak at seven Sunday by blasting the St. Louis Cardinals, 49-6.

The Giants, who lost to the Cards 42-17 in St. Louis on Nov. 9, gained their fourth win of the season and first since Oct. 12. St. Louis dropped to 4-7-1.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons, hitting 64 percent from the field in the third quarter, came from behind to defeat Phoenix 118-113 in a National Basketball Association game Sunday night.

The Giants, who lost to the Cards 42-17 in St. Louis on Nov. 9, gained their fourth win of the season and first since Oct. 12. St. Louis dropped to 4-7-1.

A Boston win would have set up an Eastern Division second place showdown with Houston next week, but the Patriots were never in the game.

The Pistons' third period effort was led by Jimmy Walker, who had 19 points in the quarter and finished as the game's high scorer with 30. The teams exchanged leads through the first quarter with Detroit holding a 27-26 edge at the buzzer. Phoenix went ahead three minutes into the second quarter and led by 10 points with 1:33 remaining in the half. Detroit took the intermission margin to 51-46.

EXTEND STREAK SHOSHONE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim Neilson and Jean Ratelle scored goals within a 48-second span early in the third period Sunday night to give New York a 6-3 victory over the Montreal Canadiens and extend the Rangers' unbeaten streak to 13 games.

Had replaced Domres at quarterback with San Diego ahead 14-3 at halftime and threw scoring passes of 17 yards to Gary Garrison, and 76 yards to Lance Alworth. Domres had quarterbacked an eight minute scoring drive in the first quarter and ran for a touchdown in the second.

Chargers defenders picked off four Boston passes and allowed the Patriots only seven first downs in the first three quarters until the game was out of reach.

Lions Use Colt Errors To Grab 17-17 Deadlock

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Detroit Lions converted two fumbles into a touchdown and a field goal Sunday to tie the Baltimore Colts, 17-17, in a 32-yarder to rookie Eddie Hinton.

Earl Morrall had sent the Colts into a 17-14 lead in the fourth quarter with his second touchdown pass of the day—a 32-yarder to rookie Eddie Hinton.

Baseball Great Lefty O'Doul Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Frank 'Lefty' O'Doul, one of baseball's all-time great hitters, died Sunday of a heart attack while hospitalized. He was 72. O'Doul was admitted to French-Hospital in San Francisco on Nov. 12th when he complained of a loss of feeling in his left arm. Doctors said he had suffered a mild stroke.

Detroit's Dan Golch recovered a Baltimore fumble on the Colt three-yard line a few minutes later, but quarterback Bill Munson couldn't push the ball across for the score. With 3:30 remaining, Erol Mann kicked a 12-yard field goal.

O'Doul had been in and out of hospitals the last few years because of a painful arthritic condition, which had curtailed his activities. He also had a history of heart trouble.

Baltimore's Lou Michael, who kicked a 12-yard field goal for a quick 3-0 lead in the first period, missed a 53-yard attempt after Detroit's final score.

O'Doul won National League batting titles with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1929 with a .398 average and with Brooklyn in 1932 at .368.

Detroit took a 14-3 halftime lead on a 22-yard run by Bill Triplett and a 22-yard run by John Wright with a ball Baltimore's Tim Duncan fumbled.

He finished with a lifetime batting average of .349, one of the highest in the major leagues. He later became an outstanding instructor in the art of hitting. One of his prize pupils was Joe DiMaggio.

Tom Matte, a halfback, set up Baltimore's other touchdown by passing 46 yards to Hinton, taking the ball to the Detroit 34. Morrall then threw to Hinton at the 18 and then to Terry Coles, a fullback, for the score.

Munson hit receivers twice in the end zone, only to have the passes dropped in the final attempt for a winning touchdown, before setting for the tying three points.

Palmer Stages Famous Charge For Come-From-Behind Tour Victory

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer reached into the past for one of his famous charges Sunday, overcame a six-stroke lead by Texan Gay Brewer and won the $125,000 Danny Thomas Golf Classic by two strokes.

Palmer birdied four of the last five holes—including a 12-foot putt on the 18th—for a final round 65 to finish the tournament at 18-under-par 270. Brewer, who held the lead for the first three rounds, bogeyed three successive holes as he collapsed under the pressure applied by golfer's most dynamic personality. He logged a 73 and ended the tourney at 272. Palmer, who won last week's Heritage Golf Classic, removed any doubt that he is fading as a top golfer. Lee Trevino fired a 66 to finish at 274 in third place and rookies Hal Underwood and former polo victim Larry Hinson shared the fourth-place money at 275.

George Archer lifted a record-breaking 6-to-one bet in fifth place, and Fred Martz was sixth with a 277. Old pro Sammy Sneed and rookie Jim Jamieson ended at 10 under with 288s. Palmer said his fifth, sixth and seventh holes, where he went birdie-birdie-par and gained five strokes as Brewer went par, double bogey-bogey, were the "key holes" in his victory.

"So far, so good. I'm feeling fine," said the 40-year-old Latrobe, Pa., star about his sudden return to winning ways. "It was very important to me to get playing well again. I admit there was a doubt in my mind whether I was ever going to play well again."

Brewer admitted sadly, "I just didn't have it today. I birdied the first hole to go seven strokes ahead and I guess I relaxed. I missed a 21-2 foot putt on the fifth hole and that started me on the way to my poor round. Arnold shot a fantastic round." Trevino said he was "very happy to finish at 14-under, especially since I didn't arrive here until Wednesday night and hadn't seen the course."

The El Paso native had a 66 despite missing a three-foot putt on the third hole and hitting two bunkers on the fourth. He sank a 15-footer on the 13th.

Archer, who birdied five of the first six holes for a 33-64, asked himself, "how can you shoot a 64 when you were out of bounds on one hole?"

"I had hooked that hole three straight times and I vowed I didn't care what would happen, but I wasn't going to hook again," he said. "So my first tee shot I got pairs in my tennis elbow and the ball was out of bounds from the second hole left the club. Then I got on in two and sank a 40-foot putt, so, in effect, I birdied the hole for a bogey, and actually I took only 63 shots in the round."

Hinson started Sunday's round at 10 under along with Underwood and Jamieson, who was in danger of losing his PGA card before he started finding the mark in the Thomas Classic. "You're never safe with Arnie on your tail," Brewer had prophesied before the start of Sunday's round.

Stenerud Sets Pro Kicking Mark

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Norwegian Jan Stenerud kicked five field goals, including the winning 25-yarder with 1:59 to play, and broke a 16-year-old professional football record Sunday as the Kansas City Chiefs defeated the Buffalo Bills, 22-19.

Stenerud's winning three-pointer came after Buffalo had tied the game, 19-19, on O. J. Simpson's 32-yard run. The Bills missed a chance to go ahead when the snap from center was high and Marlin Briscoe, holding for kicker Bruce Alford, scrambled away and threw an incomplete pass.

Passing yardage	144
Return yardage	118

Stenerud, a three-year veteran from Montana State, broke the record of 12 straight field goals without a miss, which was set by Cleveland's Lou Groza in 1953.

Stenerud tied the record with a 52-yarder in the second quarter and broke it with an eight-yarder minutes later when the Chiefs stalled on the Buffalo one.

He added a 47-yarder in the third quarter and a 20-yarder in the fourth period before being called on to deliver the winning kick.

Falcons Rip New Orleans By 45-17

ATLANTA (UPI)—Harmon Wages set records for a touchdown run and a touchdown pass Sunday while leading the fired-up Atlanta Falcons to a 45-17 victory over the injured New Orleans Saints.

Wages, a former third-string University of Florida quarterback who is now a running back, exploded up the middle on a 66-yard touchdown run in the final period, caught an 18-yard touchdown pass from Bob Berry in the second, and even threw for a score when he hit Paul Flatley with a 16-yarder on a halfback play in the first period.

The victory, the most lopsided ever posted by the Falcons, was the fourth of the season for Atlanta—the first time they have won that many in four NFL seasons.

Kickoff Run Sets Stage For Vikings To Snap Rams' 11-Game Streak

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Charles West's 78-yard return of the opening kickoff set the stage Sunday for a 20-13 Minnesota Vikings victory over Los Angeles that ended the Rams' 11-game winning streak in a preview of the NFL's Western Conference championship later this month.

With Joe Kapp guiding the Vikings behind a powerful offensive line, the Central Division champions tallied twice in the first half. Minnesota held the Coastal Division titleholders without a touchdown until Roman Gabriel finally got the Rams rolling in the final period.

The capacity crowd of 80,430 in the Coliseum that included Vice President Spiro Agnew saw the Vikings demonstrate why they had run up a 10-game winning streak after losing their opener by one point. The strains of the National Anthem had hardly died down before West took the opening kickoff on his 78-yard run to the Rams' 22. Five plays later, Dave Osborn slanted four yards into the end zone.

Washington Downs Eagles By 34-29

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Sonny Jurgensen, shrugging off a knee bruise and the ice-covered Astro-Turf, tossed a 27-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Smith in the third period Sunday and it was the difference which gave the Washington Redskins a 34-29 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

Jurgensen, who limped off the field with a knee sprain two plays before the first half ended, came back in the second half and guided Washington 59 yards, in 10 plays, four of them successful passes, for the score.

Minnesota actually won the game early in the second period with a 69-yard drive for its second touchdown. The march was highlighted by Kapp's 29-yard pass to John Henderson on the Rams' one and Bill Brown plunged over.

Philadelphia trailed 10-13 at halftime with two of the Eagles' points coming when he was snothered in the end zone on a pass attempt followed by Washington's taking the lead for the first time on a recovered fumble in the end zone in the third quarter.

The Redskins trailed 10-13 at halftime with two of the Eagles' points coming when he was snothered in the end zone on a pass attempt followed by Washington's taking the lead for the first time on a recovered fumble in the end zone in the third quarter.

Midway through the final period, Gabriel took to the air effectively for the first time as he marched the Rams 77 yards on 10 plays, completing seven passes including a four-yard throw to Larry Smith for the only Los Angeles touchdown.

Then for good measure, after the Eagles cut the Redskins lead to 28-22 on Sam Baker's 47-yard field goal with 10 minutes left, Sonny led Washington 70 yards to paydirt in 12 plays, climaxed by rookie Larry Brown's one yard dash for a score.

Lamonica Runs Season TD Pass Mark To Near-Record

OAKLAND (UPI)—Daryle Lamonica, closing in on one of pro football's most enviable records, threw three touchdown passes to run his season total to 33 Sunday while pacing the Oakland Raiders to a 37-17 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals.

The victory was the favored Raiders' 11th of the season against a loss and a tie and reversed their only defeat of the year. The Bengals, 15-point underdogs, didn't give up without a fight, as they went down to their eighth loss compared to four victories and a tie.

Lamonica, now only three short of the single season TD record set by Dan Conners, threw a fumble by Cincinnati's rookie quarterback Greg Cook at 2:17. Two plays later Lamonica connected with Biletnikoff for a 21-7 halftime edge.

TRUMP SUIT PLAY CALLS FOR SKILL

Oswald: "Some years back, I conceived the idea of a bridge team with specialists to cover all situations. One man for opening leads, another to play no-trump contracts, maybe a specialist for penalty doubles, etc."

Jim: "We might even have a specialist for the ace of spades. If South could have called in a specialist in playing four-card suits, he wouldn't have gone down at his four-spade contract."

Oswald: "He wouldn't need a great specialist. Just a man who would know how and when to play the trump suit."

Jim: "South certainly did not know when. He played dummy's ace of trumps at trick two and my was out of trumps." "Later on, the king of hearts became the third trick for the defense and he set the contract with a diamond trick."

Jim: "The correct play would be to lead a low trump at trick two. If the defense returned a trump, he could establish the hearts while he still held a trump in dummy. If they forced dummy with a diamond, he would establish the hearts before playing out the ace of trumps. Either way, he would wind up discarding two clubs and a diamond on dummy's long hearts."

Oswald Jacoby shares his bridge tips and techniques in his booklet, "Win At Bridge." You'll be a winner, too, if you send for your personal copy. Send your name, address with zip code and 50 cents to: Times-News, Box 488, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10018.

What do you do now?
A—Pass and suffer. It is too dangerous to try to get out at a higher level. Also, you should have a couple of tricks for your partner.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding three hearts, your partner and East both passed at two spades. What do you do?

Persian Lamb Is Reportedly Favorite Fur Of Americans

THE GARMENT MAKERS — of one bartender, and probably the average woman buys about three bras a year, evidently. This intimate deduction is drawn from a report by the Corset and Bra Council, which says that Nation's grown ladies altogether purchased about 250 million bras last year. Watch this space for further illuminating disclosures from the garment makers. You can learn a lot from those old boys, actually. Did I tell you, for instance, the man's belt that sells best is size 36? Most popular hat size for men is 7 1/8ths. Largest volume of men's shoes is in size 9 1/2-B. As for men's shirts, the 15 1/2-inch collar is in the lead.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Woody Hayes of Ohio State is the highest paid coach in college football, I claim." A. You ought not, Mr. Hayes is the fourth highest paid. Q. "HOW LONG would it take to read the Bible out loud?" A. Little more than seven days, it can be assumed. That's how long it takes to listen to the biblical phonograph records for the blind. Q. "DOES PRESIDENT NIXON smoke?" A. No, sir, nor does he chew.

TATTOOS — Point out a retired gentleman with an anchor tattooed on his chest, and you can bet a simple sum that man once sailed the Atlantic. If his tattoo is a full-rigged ship, bet instead he rounded Cape Horn. And if it's a dragon, bet he served on the China seas. So signified sailors' tattoos years ago. Out of the mod gaudy traffic, they hide away now, what's left of these elderly seamen, in the wallpapered rooms of dead-end houses, where nobody, not even a can-wasser knob, and nothing turns up in the mall but pension checks. Silent souls, they sit on the edges of beds, waiting for breath, socks in hand, maybe, their anchors and dragons and ships indistinct as old bruises. Still, they are solitary men in strange places as ever they were in the ports of call. But that's all that's changed, only the loneliness.

THE LATE DR. LEWIS TERMAN of Stanford claimed the happiest women are those wives who are four to eight years older than their husbands. SEASONS' FIRST Christmas card came in today. Most thoughtful, this old friend. The cards are the best part, they are not? IT'S NOW REPORTED the favorite fur of American women is Persian lamb. Remember that, sir. Next preferred in order are mink, muskrat, Alaska seal skin, beaver, squirrel and mouton. DID I SAY nobody was allergic to rice? Shirley Jean of New Iberia, La., says that's wrong, she's allergic to rice. Sad. Indescribably sad. To be allergic to rice in Cajun country. What is a girl to do with her gravy? MARTINI DRINKERS come in three categories: olive, onion and twist. The olive man goes for brunettes. The onion man prefers blondes. And the twist-of-lemon man likes redheads. That has been the whimsical observation continued with a second trump. As he pointed out later, he was afraid that East and West might make their trumps separately."

Oswald: "This stopped that all right but, unfortunately for South, East won the second trump with his queen and was unkind enough to cash his king of trumps. Then he forced dummy to ruff a diamond and dum-

Yellowstone Park Rangers Mull Air Removal of Bears

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — Improved garbage removal and air transport of troublesome bears are but two plans rangers are considering to control some 250 grizzly bears living in the Yellowstone National Park.

Balloons Help Open Secrets Of Flight

By PATRICK LAMB
ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UPI) — Man, whose first sustained trip off the ground was in a balloon, still uses the comparatively uncomplicated craft as a major tool in gathering information for space flights.

The Air Force, through its Cambridge Research Laboratories, now launches an average of 130 balloons each year to unlock secrets of the upper atmosphere needed for space flights and manned space stations.

The huge, high-altitude balloons the Air Force shifted to in 1965 were considerably cheaper and much easier to launch than satellites used previously for near-space exploration.

The Air Force also has found that much more information could be received from the huge balloons which drift up to altitudes of 160,000 feet.

"Balloon is much cheaper than sending up rockets with satellites," said Henry Novak, Cambridge Research Laboratories information director. "But one major reason for the use of balloons today is their capability to carry a payload to a precise altitude and keep it there. Satellite's can't do this. If they come too close to the earth, they will burn up. They also can't be maneuvered in the way balloons can."

Novak, noting that a satellite shot could soar into the millions of dollars, said balloon launchings cost in the hundreds of thousands of dollars and less.

Another major consideration in switching to balloons was their ability to carry more delicate instruments, he said.

Some of the instruments we need to send aloft can't take the jar of a rocket launching," Novak said. "Balloons can carry payloads up to 3,500 pounds with extremely delicate instruments."

Instruments carried by the balloons can measure cosmic radiation, temperatures, atmosphere density, other forms of radiation, and upper wind movements. The high-altitude balloons also can carry telescopes and special cameras for observations of other solar system bodies.

Tommy Sands Finds Fame Easy To Find

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD
HONOLULU (UPI) — Singer Tommy Sands, who slipped from teenage adoration to obscurity, has found it easier going up the second time.

He left the fast pace of Hollywood to find himself "in the serenity of the islands, and has emerged in the forefront of the competitive Waikiki entertainment scene."

Sands, the second highest paid entertainer here—Don Ho is top—just completed a year with the Outrigger Hotel, earning $600,000, and will have a network television special shown in January, with more to come.

He finds, "life is good," living in a 19-room home on Oahu, with a beach house on Kauai Island 102 miles away.

The teen-age idol of a decade ago, when girls screamed at the mere sight of him, came to Hawaii in 1967 because, "I wasn't happy with myself."

Sands' five-year marriage to Nancy Sinatra had ended in divorce. "I was successful, but unhappy," he said.

In 1957, "as the 17-year-old star of 'The Singing Idol,'" a television special, Sands burst upon the entertainment scene. "I've had the million sellers. I've done the movies, the television shows, the whole bit," Sands reminisced.

But looking back on his career, Sands frankly admitted, "I wasn't as good as I wanted to be. I wasn't an artist. "Even then I was searching, searching for what I've found here."

several bear attacks on park visitors and the growing number of visitors to Yellowstone. Five persons, including a five-year-old girl, were attacked in the park last summer, climaxing a rash dating to 1921.

The youngster, Daphne Jax, of St. Paul, Minn., suffered internal injuries, including a broken rib that punctured one lung.

A park superintendent said the youngster apparently was leaving a campground restroom when the grizzly attacked her.

One month later, David Lou, 22, of Los Angeles, and Michael Rock, 23, of Carnegie, Pa., suffered minor head wounds in separate attacks by the same bear.

A third incident during the summer season occurred when a park employee and his wife were attacked while in their car. Neither the man nor his wife was seriously injured.

Dr. A. Starker Leopold, of the University of California, and chairman of the committee, said in his report to Park Service Director George B. Hartzog Jr., that most of the problems stem from "bears who abandon their natural feeding habits to eat man's garbage."

Leopold said the "ultimate objective agreed upon by all participants is the incineration or sanitary disposal of trash and garbage in a manner that will completely isolate this food source from bears."

Other committee members included Dr. Stanley A. Cain, of the University of Michigan; Dr. Charles E. Olmsted, of the University of Chicago, and Sigurd Olson, a conservationist, and writer.

Experts on the grizzly bear who served as consultants to the committee included: Dr. Frank C. Craighead Jr., of Moose, Wyo.; Dr. John J. Craighead, of the University of Montana; Dr. Frederick C. Dean, of the University of Alaska, and Dr. Albert Erickson, of the University of Minnesota.

The report said there was disagreement among the scientists, however, on whether the garbage supply should be immediately withdrawn or gradually phased out. "The issue hinges on which of these procedures will result in the least number of bears going into the campgrounds."

"Much is known about the habits of garbage bears and wild-living bears, but little is known about the process of transition," the committee said. "In any event, the transition must be made, and everything possible done to protect both park visitors and the population of bears during the process."

Transplanting troublesome bears by helicopter was suggested as one method of getting the animals out of areas heavily populated with campers, but the committee noted, however, that in the past the bears have been quick to return to campgrounds.

The air transport method, the committee said, might succeed if the bears could be taken to the "wilder and more inaccessible regions of the park."

Jack Anderson, Yellowstone superintendent, said members of his staff were "already doing many of the things the committee recommends."

The superintendent said the committee "suggests a possible sequence of management steps to return the bears to a wild natural existence, and we are going to try as many of these things as possible."

Park visitors will be asked to cooperate in the management program, the committee said, and "every known procedure and device should be employed to eliminate all smells of materials, that might attract bears."

The committee pointed out that "campers require repeated admonitions to store food in plastic containers, locked in their automobiles."

The committee also recommended that campground patrollers be stepped up, that devices be tested which could scare the animals away from campgrounds and experiments be used which would keep the bears separated from the campers.

They received the awards during the state Grange's annual convention last week in Twin Falls.

Nevada Financier Kirk Kerkorian Envisions Las Vegas As Home Of Giant Supersonic Airliners Of 20th Century

By JACK V. FOX

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Guess who? — Has so many millions he doesn't know what he's worth? — Used to be a crack flyer? — Owns an airline? — Likes to dabble in making movies? — Is buying up hotels in Las Vegas? — Lives in the sin capital but doesn't gamble, drink or go to nudie shows? — Howard Hughes—right? — Well, yes... but also Kirk Kerkorian.

Kirk who? Kerkorian! Kerkorian! Now, another question. If you had about $720 million assets and didn't like to play dice and had a British wife and a $980,000 yacht and your own private DC9 jet, would you make your home out here in the middle of no place where the heat gets so infernal in the summer that auto tires burst?

That is what Kerkorian has decided to do, and the answer to why he has may lie in another similarity between Hughes and Kerkorian. Both men, although they have involved themselves in a wide variety of enterprises, have a deep and life-long central interest in aviation.

You don't have to be in Las Vegas more than a day before a bartender or cab driver or bellhop will unfold for you the grand design of these two sheikhs of the desert.

It goes like this: The age of the supersonic transport is upon us. Giant planes will whisk hundreds of passengers from continent to continent faster than the stewardesses can clear away the gourmet dinners. It will be a fact in the middle 1970s.

But two major problems loom. The first is the sonic boom. Alarms already are sounding about the ear pollution that will accompany the SST monsters as they climb and descend over populated areas.

The second is that not a city in the United States really is prepared to handle a fleet of supersonic jets, either in size of the airports or the facilities necessary for what will be an aerial docking of the equivalent of ocean liners.

And therein, say the people with answers, lies the vision of Hughes and Kerkorian. Las Vegas—the SST capital of America.

The great jets—from the Orient, South America, over the Pole from Europe and perhaps from a similar center in the east—will land at a mammoth airport outside Las Vegas. From here, smaller shuttle jets will take over, ferrying passengers to and from Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dallas, Denver, Kansas City and Chicago.

If such a grandiose scheme really lies in the plans of Hughes and Kerkorian, they have a good start.

Both have controlling interests in regional airlines, Hughes in Air West and Kerkorian in Western Airlines which recently was granted a lucrative Hawaiian extension. American Airlines is reported to have approached Western on a merger plan.

Hughes owns a great patch of desert west of Las Vegas with the potential for runways and terminals to make New York's Kennedy International look like a toy airport. The pair now are the two major hotel-casino owners in Las Vegas. Kerkorian's new International Hotel is the resort's biggest with 1,512 rooms.

Kerkorian deprecates comparisons of him to Hughes. "He's a mountain and I'm a molehill," he says.

He also laughs off any suggestion that he and Hughes might be in cahoots. "I was flying 30 years ago, so was he," Kerkorian says. "I'm in the hotel business, so is he. And so on."

"I know people naturally assume that Hughes and I are involved. I know about the talk. There is nothing to it. I've met him but that was years ago. I respect him. But he is an introvert and I'm an extrovert. I don't like to hide. I like to play tennis and I like to go out with my friends."

The 52-year-old Kerkorian is an extrovert only in comparison to Hughes whose fetish for privacy is so great that although he is reputed to have been living here for the past several years in a penthouse of the Desert Inn and at a ranch formerly owned by the Krupp family, it is impossible to find an ordinary Las Vegas who has ever seen him or even knows someone who says he has seen him. One theory is that Hughes isn't here at all.

Kerkorian is often visible and occasionally available to the press. He has declared a moratorium on newsmen pending settlement of his latest financial venture into the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer movie company which had been steadily losing money.

He has bought 40 per cent "working control" of MGM and installed James Aubrey, late of CBS, as president. He also has nine seats on the 21-member board of directors of Western Airlines.

He is a shrewd and tough businessman. In the days when he did venture a few chips at the gaming spas, he was known as the "Perry Como of the crap tables" because of his cool.

One business associate makes the point that the big difference between Hughes and Kerkorian is not that Hughes is worth about six times as much but that Hughes started with a major fortune inherited from his father and Kerkorian started from zero.

His father was an Armenian immigrant who came to the United States shortly after the turn of the century. He developed a substantial fruit ranch business but lost everything in the depression of 1921 and wound up running little fruit stands.

Kirk, the youngest of four children, was born in Fresno, Calif., in 1917 and grew up in Los Angeles. He dropped out of school in the eighth grade and went to a trade school for automobile mechanics which concluded his formal education.

Army Officer Says Reds Create 'Scene'

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI)—A U.S. Army officer complained Saturday that North Korean officials created a "mob scene" last Wednesday when they released three American helicopter crewmen who had been held captive for 108 days.

The officer, Col. Maurice E. Jessup, specifically referred to "looting" by North Korean press representatives at the turnover of the three men to the United Nations Command and the lack of planning and coordination.
