TEN CENTS

THIS CLEAN AND freshly starched camouflage jacket is one John Larson, 536 Lincoln St., wore in Vietnam. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Larson, he arrived home earlier this week after spending a year with a combat division at Tay Ninh city, about 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

Futility Of War Recounted By Returned T.F. GI

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

Twenty-two-year-old John Larson of 536 Lincoln St. is one of the lucky veterans. He spent a year in Vietnam and came home without a scratch.

Wednesday, in an interview at his parents' home, he said, "It's real good to be home." His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Larson.

"Would you go back?" he was asked.

He would not have thought, then said, "I probably would, but I wouldn't want to go."

John spent a year at Tay

Ninh, a city of 50,000 located within walking distance of the Cambodia border and about 70 miles northwest of Saigon. The city is an American military stronghold. Four brigades surround the jungle area, meaning about 20,000 allied troops live and work to keep Tay Ninh secure and to prevent Viet Cong movement along the highway linking Cambodia with Saigon.

Many times men serving at Tay Ninh go on patrols to such places as Kompong, Katum, Dau Ha and Cu Chio. Places no one has ever heard about. Places where men have fought and died. Places where a man has lost an arm or a leg, possibly an eye or part of his jaw.

"We saw action there," John said. But he said it quietly. "We didn't see as much action there as some troops have seen in other parts of Vietnam. But I saw enough."

John said he believes 15 percent of the people living in Tay Ninh are Viet Cong sympathizers. But he added the Viet Cong are not active at Tay Ninh now and he did not see any sign of VC atrocities committed there.

"I heard of the trouble at Hue and My Lai, where they say that massacre was," but he added, "I didn't see any massacres where I was."

Allied troops are still uncovering bodies near Hue, where in early 1968 the Viet Cong launched an offensive throughout Vietnam and killed civilians who wouldn't cooperate.

"What about My Lai? What about that massacre everyone is talking about?"

A frown came across John's face. He flipped an article from the "Stars and Stripes" across the room and "I read it. The article explored the feelings of American men in Vietnam, and tried to explain how a massacre can happen."

"Does this explain how you feel?" he was asked.

He shrugged his shoulders. "It tells the story of what it's like there."

"What about My Lai?"

"I don't know. I think the whole story is blown up out of proportion to what happened. You have to understand the men near My Lai were being killed by people from that village. I don't know what I would have done if I had been in the same situation."

John arrived in Vietnam long after the alleged incident at My Lai. He said he heard rumors. See LOCAL GI, pg. 2 col. 4

Keep Kimberly Road Name, Board Advises

The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission recommended Wednesday night that Kimberly Road's name remain unchanged.

This was the first time the commission has considered the matter since last February.

Several people in the area had petitioned the City Council last year, asking the road be named Main Avenue East. After some discussion, the council sent it to the commission for study.

The commission, after a long study, tabled the matter.

As a result of Wednesday's action, the matter will now be presented to the City Council for action. If the City Council decides to accept the Planning and Zoning Commission's recommendation, the name of Kimberly Road will remain the same.

In other business, the commission voted to withhold a recommendation on a zoning change to allow the sale of sporting goods items in commercial-local zones.

A public hearing was held on the matter.

A proposed ordinance was read. If approved, the ordinance would have allowed campers, trailers not more than eight feet wide or 20 feet long, boats, snowmobiles, trail cycles and other sporting goods items to be sold in commercial-local zones.

The commission members said this ordinance was not specific enough, and recommended each item be clarified.

Members said boats could mean anything from an outboard 16 foot long to the "Queen Mary." There was also considerable discussion on trailers, and what is the difference between a camping trailer and a mobile home.

The commission also is recommending that the City Council take no action on the zoning change until the matter can be studied further.

South Korean Plane Hijacked

Ley Ousted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Herbert L. Ley Jr. was removed as head of the Food and Drug Administration Wednesday in an agency shakeup prompted in part by criticism of its performance in protecting the public from unsafe foods and drugs.

Secretary Robert H. Finch announced that Ley was named to a new position in the Health, Education and Welfare Department carrying responsibility for coordinating HEW's health research, development and delivery services.

Ley will be succeeded by Dr. Charles C. Edwards, now a special assistant to Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, assistant HEW secretary for health and scientific affairs.

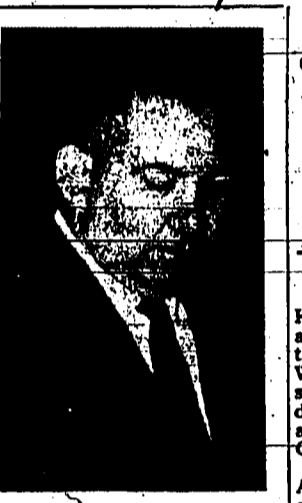

Israeli Jets Pound Syria; U.S. Peace Offer Refused

By United Press International

Israeli planes including recently delivered U.S.-built Phantom jets battled Syrian MIGs southeast of Damascus today and destroyed three of them, an Israeli spokesman reported in Tel Aviv. Cairo said it sent up its planes to drive off Israeli attack planes and that ground forces shot down one.

Israeli aircraft returned to base after a mission over but short-range flights at lower altitude were cancelled. The Israeli spokesman said flying at extremely high altitudes were allowed to fly safely.

A Syrian military spokesman admitted the loss of three Syrian aircraft.

50 Men Taken North

SEOUL (UPI) — A South Korean airliner with 50 persons aboard was hijacked today to the North Korean port of Wonsan, site of the Pueblo seizure. The Seoul government denounced the hijacking as an act of piracy and asked the Red Cross to try to free the victims.

Duane R. Kinas of the U.S. Air Mission in Seoul was listed as a passenger but he arrived aboard a U.S. military aircraft on which he had hitched a ride from Kanguin. Kinas, of Downers Grove, Ill., learned of the hijacking and said, "A big man upstairs was looking after me."

Airlines President Cho Joong-hoon said there were 46 passengers and four crewmen aboard the plane, most of them Korean. A Dr. Dickens was on the passenger list but he was not immediately identified and it was not known if he was an American.

The hijacking was the second of a South Korean airliner to North Korea. On Feb. 16, 1968, a Korean National Airlines DC3 was hijacked to North Korea. Twenty-six of the 34 passengers aboard that plane were returned; North Korea kept the other eight and the plane.

Airline officials said the Japanese-built YU11 turboprop was nearing Seoul on a 105-mile domestic flight from Kanguin on the east coast when it veered toward the border.

Radio contact had been lost with the airliner shortly after takeoff and no details were available on what went on inside the plane.

Military authorities said radar tracked the plane until it was over the North Korean city of Wonsan, 140 miles up the coast from Kanguin and 60 miles above the border. Dong-A Radio said it landed there.

President Park Chung-hee called cabinet ministers into emergency session to discuss the incident. Military sources said South Korea had asked for a meeting with North Korean officials at Panmunjom to demand the release of the airliner and passengers.

Californian Wins Crown In Rodeo Fete

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Christine Vincent, 21, Clovis, Calif., was crowned miss Rodeo America Wednesday night following five days of competition for horsemanship, personality and appearance.

Miss Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Vincent, was crowned on the main showroom stage of the Frontier Hotel by last year's queen, Patricia Eazes of Santa Fe, N.M.

Ruth Ann Marty, 21, Prairie City, S.D., was the first runner up.

Miss Vincent won the horsemanship award; Susan Summers, 19, Oklahoma City, was named Miss Appearance; Ann Parker, 19, Ogden, Utah, won the award for personality, and Cristy O'Brien, 18, Moore, Mont., was the congeniality award winner.

Prior to the crowning, all 23 contestants, including one from Canada, appeared onstage as it rose to the audience level following the main show at the Frontier.

Senate Votes On Tax Bill; Okay Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate votes today on its massive tax reform, tax cut, Social Security bill which in a three-week debate earned President Nixon's threat of a veto. Approval was expected.

At the last moment, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., declared "I'm opposed to reducing taxes if we have to borrow money to do it" and offered a proposal to delay the tax cuts in the bill until after the administration had certified that the government budget showed a surplus. His attempt was squelched, 56 to 28.

One final attempt to trim the bill back to its original size was expected from economy-minded Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. He contended the Senate's amendments—generous to rich and poor alike in their impact—had turned the legislation into "a cruel hoax" because it aroused hopes that could not be fulfilled.

"This bill would bankrupt the country," he said.

A violent storm over the Pacific lashed the West Coast today. Wind gusts up to 85 miles per hour hurled snow and rain on Northern California, Oregon and Washington.

Rain and locally high winds lingered over the Eastern Seaboard in the Ohio Valley. Gale warnings were in effect along the Eastern Coast.

Storm Lashes Coast; Wind Slams Florida

Eastern storm touched off turbulent thunderstorms in Southeast Florida Wednesday night.

At least 12 persons were injured, nine of them hospitalized, as a tornado hit the Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood Airport in Florida. The twister did an estimated $1 million damage as planes were demolished and 60 homes were battered.

Locally heavy rains in Southeastern Pennsylvania and Central New Jersey were expected to bring some flash-flooding today. The Eastern storm spread rain over an 18-state area.

Storm warnings were posted for Northwestern California with 60-mile-an-hour winds forecast from Point Arena to Point St. George, Cape Blanco, Ore., reported 85 m.p.h. gusts Wednesday night.

Some light snow was forecast for the Central and Northern Midlands and snow but tranquil winds prevailed over most of the central states. A mixture of snow and rain swept over the Ozarks.

Reduction Of Staff Ordered By Air West

Ronald B. (Hep) Masoner, sales and service manager for Air West, received word this week of a cutback in Air West personnel and that his position will be filled by Larry Ecklund, formerly of Ontario, Calif.

Mr. Masoner, who has been with West Coast and Air West for the past 16 1/2 years, said he has no immediate plans but will take a short vacation. He spent his last day at the Twin Falls terminal Wednesday and Mr. Ecklund assumed the position Thursday.

Air West, Inc., publicly announced Tuesday staff cutbacks which will eliminate about 400 jobs at 82 airports in the western United States, Canada and Mexico.

An airline spokesman said the 10 per cent staff reduction is an effort to reduce costs and prevent the company's net worth from falling further below $18 million. This is the minimum net value at which Hughes Tool Co. agreed last December to purchase Air West. The completion date for the sale is now set as March 31, 1970. Air West plans to acquire up to $30 million through a last-minute stock sale to bring the net worth up to the required figure.

Wayne Kennedy, manager at the Boise station, also has been replaced.

2 Travelers In Idaho Die As Cars Flip

By United Press International

Montana and Colorado men became the latest Idaho traffic victims—today, raising the state's record death toll to 316 for the year to date.

The fatality rate compares with 283 at this time a year ago and with 300 for all of 1968 in which the former record was established.

Latest victims were Larry Eldred Taylor, 39, Missoula, Mont., and Earl Reynolds, 53, Littleton, Colo.

Taylor died early today in a one-car rollover one-quarter mile east of Coeur d'Alene on Interstate 90, State Police reported.

Reynolds was killed Wednesday night when the car in which he was riding failed to negotiate a curve at a detour sign, jumped the road bank and went off into a canyon from U.S. 95, nine miles south of Whitebird.

Viet 'Massacre' Deemed 'Possible'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Capt. Ernest L. Medina, commander of the Army company involved in the alleged My Lai massacre, said in an interview with the New York Times it was possible the slaughter "could have taken place."

Medina, interviewed in Washington Wednesday, repeated statements he made at an earlier news conference that "I did not see any massacre take place and I did not order any massacre."

Body Found By Divers In Reservoir

GLENN'S FERRY — Diver from Ada County Wednesday afternoon recovered the body of Walter Holgate, 41, Mountain Home, who drowned Tuesday evening when his snowmobile broke through the ice at Little Camas Reservoir northeast of Mountain Home.

Sheriff's officers said the body was recovered about 3 p.m. in some eight feet of water. Both the snowmobile of the victim and the one ridden by Mrs. Maxine Rossow, also Mountain Home, who was rescued from the water, have been recovered, officers said.

Mr. Holgate, his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Rossow left Mountain Home about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday for an outing to the site, which is a popular snowmobiling area. Mr. Holgate, who was in the lead, was farther from the shore than Mrs. Rossow, who was helped out of the water by her husband and Mrs. Holgate, whose machines were not on the ice.

The three walked some three miles to their pickup trucks so they could drive for help.

Indictments Planned In Mafia Drive

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell said in Florida Wednesday "massive" indictments will be brought against public officials in a federal crackdown on Mafia-controlled gambling and corruption in New Jersey.

In another development, New Jersey Attorney General Arthur J. Sills announced he was considering using a state law to remove Newark Mayor Hugh Addonizio from office for refusing to testify before a grand jury investigating corruption in the municipal government here.

Coup Leader Vows Regime For Dahomey

COTONOU, Dahomey (UPI)—The man who led the latest military overthrow of the Dahomey government has promised a new government will be formed as soon as possible.

The coup Wednesday put the West African nation under military control for the fourth time in less than 10 years.

Gone is President Emile Zinsou, the country's head of state since a military revolutionary committee installed him on July 17, 1968. Reports conflicted as to whether he was injured in a brief gun battle during the coup Wednesday.

In his place is Lt. Col. Maurice Kouandete, 37, the army chief of staff, who told the nation in a radio broadcast he had removed the 51-year-old Zinsou because his regime had created a situation of "total insecurity."

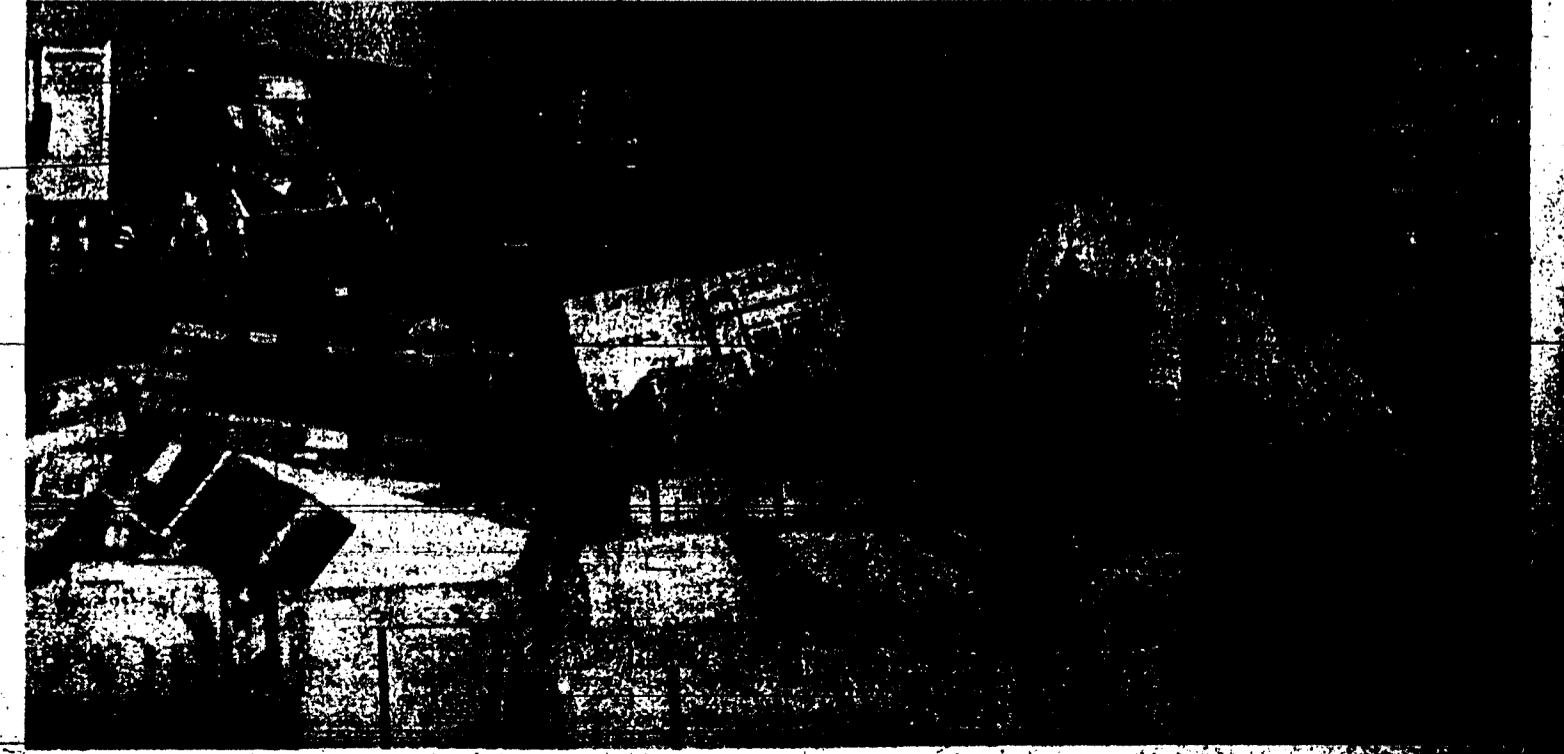

Dahomey, once ruled by kings and the birthplace of a type of voodoo now practiced in Haiti and other Caribbean areas, gained its independence from France in 1960. Since then it has had seven presidents and only four years of relative political stability.

Life was normal today throughout the nation of 2.5 million persons sandwiched between Togo on the west and Nigeria on the east. Dahomey is the size of Tennessee.

South Viet Guns Silence Reds In Cambodian Lair

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese gunners on Tuesday fought their first artillery duel with North Vietnamese gunners without U.S. aid and silenced the Communist batteries inside Cambodia, delayed military reports said today.

The report of further Vietnamization of the war came as the last of 60,000 GIs scheduled for withdrawal from Vietnam under President Nixon's pullout plan left for home today.

It's Not Only The New Math, There's A Strange Alphabet

By FREDERICK H. TRESH

About 10 per cent of America's school systems are teaching children to read by using a 44-character alphabet.

Many adults who have heard of this or whose children being taught by the Initial Teaching Alphabet (ITA) become hostile and defensive of the traditional 26-letter approach that they learned by.

Their principal hangup is that they believe 6-year-olds will be hopelessly confused when they learn a 44-character alphabet and then, in a year or less, have to unlearn it, reverting back to conventional English spelling.

"This is absolute nonsense," says Sir James Pitman, the Briton who devised ITA. "What people don't realize," he said, "is that without ITA schools are teaching three alphabets at once (printed capital letters, lower case printed letters and script).

Further, he points out, children learning to read the conventional way must learn that individual letters may represent several different sounds. Examples: A as in as, A as in cake, A as in awful and A as in about—four sounds for the same letter. That, he believes, really confuses children.

The principle of ITA is that it has separate characters for 44 different basic sounds of English. Twenty-four are borrowed directly from English.

There is no Q or X. 14 resemble combinations of familiar letters and 6 are peculiar to ITA. Children learn to write and spell in this strange alphabet at first.

"What we do is to supply a child with something visual to represent his sounds," Pitman said.

The result is that youngsters learn to read faster in the new alphabet and then apparently have little difficulty making the conversion to the traditional alphabet.

"More than half make the transition by the end of the first grade," said Pitman, whose grandfather, the inventor of the Pitman shorthand method, first tinkered with a new teaching alphabet in 1843.

Some make the conversion by mid-year—January or February. The speed of conversion relates to a child's "linguistic adequacy"—his ability to express himself—not his innate intelligence, the British scholar said.

Pitman said he is "very sincere" when he says he intends ITA only as a medium for learning to read—not something to eventually replace conventional English.

63 People Arraigned In New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 63 persons were arraigned Wednesday on charges ranging from resisting arrest to inciting a riot during an antiwar demonstration in connection with President Nixon's visit here Tuesday.

The demonstrators were arrested in the vicinity of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where Nixon spoke at a National Football Foundation dinner. David Fallek, a police inspector who led the initial charge into the ranks of demonstrators, who were wielding bricks, rocks, lead pipes and sticks, blamed the violence on the radical Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

CLOVIS, N. M. (UPI)—A five-man court martial board Wednesday found a Cannon Air Force Base Negro airman guilty of refusing an order to trim his Afro-style hair and sentenced him to three months of hard labor, a $180 fine and reduction in rank to basic Airman.

'Mousetrap' Play At YMCA Is Realistic, Mouse Located

Chet Bartlett, executive director of the Twin Falls YM-YWCA, says members of the cast of "The Mousetrap," which opened in the Y building Wednesday night, are getting a bit too realistic about it all.

Wednesday afternoon he went into the nursery area where the cast has been doing all of its make up. Feeling it was cold in the room he turned on the heat register.

It made an unusual noise so Mr. Bartlett took it apart to see what was causing the problem. First he removed some toys which the children who also use the room as a nursery had dropped into the register. The noise remained and again he removed the cover.

Inside was a dead mouse—the first one ever found in the Y building since it was put in use several years ago.

Mr. Bartlett says he plans to ask the players to take their mice with them when they end the show Saturday night.

63 People Arraigned In New York

"In all fairness to the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee (sponsors of the demonstration) this disturbance was caused by only a small segment of the demonstrators last night," Fallek said.

Fallek said police officials had advance information that the SDS planned disturbances no matter how hard they tried to keep the event peaceful. He said that when the demonstrators ran a red flag up a pole on Park Avenue, "I saw red and led the first wedge of police in to try to lower it."

Mayor Acquitted On Viet Cong Flag Ripping

Richard Werner, the 74-year-old mayor, flushed when he was approached in the courthouse hall by the youth garbed in the enemy emblem. But he said nothing and made no hostile move towards the youth, who refuses to give his identity.

However, with a crowd of about 30 persons watching, a scuffle broke out when three men in business suits challenged a photographer who was taking pictures. The bailiff ordered everybody out of the courthouse immediately.

Mayor Acquitted On Viet Cong Flag Ripping

The jury had deliberated only 45 minutes to find Werner innocent of the malicious mischief charge resulting from a Veterans Day incident involving the Viet Cong flag on a resident's front porch.

Guilty

The court martial board deliberated just 32 minutes before reaching the verdict.

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—The former executive director of the Santa Monica Redevelopment Agency was named Wednesday in a 13-count felony complaint charging her with the grand theft of public money, making false entries and forgery.

The complaint was filed by the district attorney's office against Mrs. Grace Q. Thomas, who was fired from her $14,856-a-year SMRA post last Aug. 19 after an audit disclosed that $4,666 in agency funds was missing.

The complaint charges one count of grand theft, two of making false entries and 10 forgery counts, deputy district attorney Jack Ambrose said.

Trans World Airlines Adopts System To Prevent Hijackings — Joins Eastern

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's anti-hijacking system, still to catch its first hijacker, was adopted Wednesday by Trans World Airlines, the second airline to join the program.

Under the program, the government uses two weapons against the hijacker, a psychological profile and a device to screen boarding passengers for possible weapons. Exact details of both systems have been kept secret.

"We have not caught any hijackers with the system, but there is no telling how many potential hijackers may have been scared off," Federal Aviation Administrator John Shaffer said.

He pointed out that U. S. hijackings have dropped off drastically in recent months while foreign hijackings have skyrocketed.

Last month, Trans World was the target of one of the most dramatic hijackings when a U.S. Marine hijacked a plane over California and forced the pilot to fly to Rome, Italy.

Eastern, the first airline to join the program, has had the most number of planes hijacked—15. The total number of U.S. airliners hijacked this year is 46.

63 People Arraigned In New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 63 persons were arraigned Wednesday on charges ranging from resisting arrest to inciting a riot during an antiwar demonstration in connection with President Nixon's visit here Tuesday.

The demonstrators were arrested in the vicinity of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel where Nixon spoke at a National Football Foundation dinner.

David Fallick, a police inspector who led the initial charge into the ranks of demonstrators, who were wielding bricks, rocks, lead pipes and sticks, blamed the violence on the radical Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

"In all fairness to the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee (sponsors of the demonstration) this disturbance was caused by only a small segment of the demonstrators last night," Fallick said.

Fallick said police officials had advance information that the SDS planned disturbances no matter how hard the organizers of the demonstration tried to keep the event peaceful. He said that when the demonstrators ran a red flag up a pole on Park Avenue, "I saw red and led the first wedge of police in to try to lower it."

It was at that point violence broke out. An undetermined number of protestors and eight police were injured, apparently none of them seriously.

Guilty

CLOVIS, N. M. (UPI)—A five-man court martial board Wednesday found a Cannon Air Force Base Negro airman guilty of refusing an order to trim his Afro-style hair and sentenced him to three months of hard labor, a $180 fine and reduction in rank to basic airman.

The punishment for the charge carried a maximum sentence of a year of hard labor and a bad conduct discharge.

Airman I.C. August Doyle, 21, of Dallas, who stood impassive as the verdict was read, said he had expected a tougher sentence. He had claimed the order to trim his hair was unlawful and violated his civil rights.

The court martial board deliberated just 32 minutes before reaching the verdict.

Mayor Acquitted On Viet Cong Flag Ripping

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—The mayor of Santa Cruz, who personally ripped down a citizen's Viet Cong flag, was acquitted of malicious mischief Wednesday and immediately confronted by a young man wearing a Viet Cong emblem as a cape.

Richard Werner, the 74-year-old mayor, flushed when he was approached in the courthouse hall by the youth garbed in the enemy emblem. But he said nothing and made no hostile move towards the youth, who refuses to give his identity.

However, with a crowd of about 30 persons watching, a scuffle broke out when three men in business suits challenged a photographer who was taking pictures. The bailiff ordered everybody out of the courthouse immediately.

The jury had deliberated only 45 minutes to find Werner innocent of the malicious mischief charge resulting from a Veterans Day incident involving the Viet Cong flag on a resident's front porch.

Hughes

CARSON, Nev. (UPI)—Billionaire Howard Hughes, who owns six casinos on the Las Vegas "strip," gained preliminary approval Thursday for four slot machines at the North Las Vegas air terminal.

The state Gaming Control Board recommended approval and the final decision will be made Dec. 16 by the parent Nevada Gaming Commission in Las Vegas.

Loyola Students Vote For Football

CHICAGO (UPI)—Students at Loyola University, which has not fielded a football team since 1930, voted overwhelmingly Wednesday for a return to the gridiron.

In a referendum asking students whether they would be willing to tax themselves $2 a person per semester toward the cost of building a football squad, the vote was 3,632 yes and 240 no.

Nader Hits FAA During News Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Safety crusader Ralph Nader called Wednesday for a congressional investigation of the Federal Aviation Administration, saying it had failed to see that airliners are properly inspected and maintained.

Nader said the FAA had allowed airline maintenance to deteriorate to a point where it was jeopardizing both airline passengers and people on the ground.

Nader told a news conference the FAA simply "abdicated" its inspection authority to the airlines at a time when many of the carriers "have seriously undermanned and undertrained maintenance and inspection crews."

He did not specifically list any threatened incidents where a faulty maintenance might have led to an airliner accident; however.

In reply, the FAA said there "is no evidence of maintenance deterioration" in the nation's airline fleet. On the contrary, a spokesman said, FAA statistics show a decreasing percentage of accidents relating to maintenance problems.

'Mousetrap' Play At YMCA Is Realistic, Mouse Located

Chet Bartlett, executive director of the Twin Falls YM-YWCA, says members of the cast of "The Mousetrap," which opened in the Y building Wednesday night, are getting a bit too realistic about it all.

Wednesday afternoon he went into the nursery area where the cast has been doing all of its make up. Feeling it was cold in the room he turned on the heat register.

"It made an unusual noise so Mr. Bartlett took it apart to see what was causing the problem. First he removed some toys which the children who also use the room as a nursery had dropped into the register. The noise remained and again he removed the cover.

Inside was a dead mouse—the first one ever found in the Y building since it was put in use several years ago.

Mr. Bartlett says he plans to ask the players to take their mice with them when they end the show Saturday night.

Psychiatrist Says American Soldiers Feel 'Anything Goes' In War—Even Murder

By JACK WILKINSON
 ATLANTA (UPI)—A young psychiatrist who spent a year studying fighting men in Vietnam says the American soldier often gets the feeling anything he does is all right—including murder.

permeates the men in the field stems largely, Bourne said, from the fact that the war is not progressing as the United States had hoped, that a mighty nation such as this could not root out the Viet Cong. This frustration adds to the normal stress of war, the day-to-day

The alleged massacre of 109 civilians at Song My has stunned many Americans, but Dr. Peter G. Bourne, former head of the neuropsychiatric section of the Army Medical Research Team in Vietnam, says this is partly because we refuse to admit that "there is a real thrill in killing."
 "Most people find this difficult to believe," he said. "They say this couldn't happen to a nice American boy or this couldn't happen to me. But the potential for violence is not far below the surface for most of us. It's not as exceptional a phenomenon as most believe."
 "We grow up with a certain value system—not to kill, to treat women and children a certain way. But in a war our rules say it is all right to shoot men, but not women and children. But it's all right to burn their homes, to herd them off. It is very hard to alter certain values without altering others. Under the stress of combat, the passions of the moment, the old rules don't count."

Bourne, a 30-year-old native of England who now divides his time between Atlanta's black ghetto and Emory University, where he is assistant professor of psychiatry, said the alleged Song My massacre is "quantitatively very different, but qualitatively it wasn't different at all."

"People are upset because one lieutenant is supposed to have killed 109 people. If three GIs kill three Vietnamese civilians, that would go unnoticed. It's the number that makes it important."

Bourne said the forthcoming court martial at Ft. Benning of Lt. William Calley Jr., accused of murder in the alleged massacre, could have great effect on the future of America's fighting men and must be handled delicately.
 "I think the Army will try to show Calley is some kind of an exceptional nut. Why else did they file the new murder charge against him, accusing him of the murder of one civilian when they already had charged him with murdering 109? There probably will be some psychiatric testimony showing it would take an aberrant guy to do the atrocities—not the usual soldier."
 "I would guess the Army would lay the blame on him and try to show no one else is responsible. That way they can preserve the existing value system."

The frustration that first drenches the officers and then

Sneezing Europeans Battle Flu With Liquor, Medicines

LONDON (UPI)—Europeans turned to everything from medical clinics to liquor cabinets Wednesday in quest of relief from a wave of influenza sweeping along an erratic path across the continent.
 Medical experts classified it as a comparatively mild form of the disease known variously as Asian flu, Mao flu and Hong Kong gripe.
 Millions of Europeans were miserable with coughs, fever and chills—one fourth of the populations of France and Italy, one third in Spain, fever in Portugal, West Germany and Britain.

 In Rome, where 800,000 of the city's 2.5 million inhabitants were ill, Italians were trying a variety of cures, including one newspaper's recommendation that two aspirin in hot water would do the trick.

A favorite medicine in Portugal was brandy. The Common Cold Unit at Salisbury came up with a vaccine it said would offer better protection against the current variety but that it likely would be impossible to produce enough of it in time.
 Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina set the record for the longest filibuster Aug. 28-29, 1957. It lasted 24 hours and 18 minutes.

Witness Is Forbidden To Testify

CHICAGO (UPI)—A second witness for the defense has been forbidden to testify at the trial of seven men charged with conspiring to incite riots at a 1968 Democratic National Convention.

U.S. District Court Judge Jullius J. Hoffman dismissed Chicago Daily News reporter Henry DeZutter Wednesday because DeZutter had covered the trial "in the neighborhood of 10 days."

In another development in the trial of the "Chicago Seven," artists said to come "from all over the world" were to picket the Federal Building today in an "Art is Life" protest.

Hoffman told DeZutter Wednesday "You may step down, sir," after the prosecution protested the reporter had been in the courtroom before.

Hoffman dismissed the first defense witness Monday. That witness had been the chairman of a committee which reported on allegedly rough police handling of antiwar demonstrators at the Civic Center Plaza in April, 1968, five months before the convention.

In testimony Wednesday, Mrs. Sarah Diamant said she was gassed four times, sprayed with Mace and knocked to the street by police while filming antiwar demonstrations during the August, 1968, convention.

Mrs. Diamant said she and her husband were filming the demonstrations for a dissertation she was doing for a doctorate at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. She said her dissertation was a comparison between modern student activists and Civil War-era Abolitionists.

Some of the jurors jaws dropped as the attractive, red-haired Mrs. Diamant made her way to the witness stand and began her testimony in which she also said she saw police beat other demonstrators indiscriminately, watched National Guardsmen gas a youth kneeling before them with his head between his arms.

Mrs. Diamant testified about the Aug. 28, 1968, events that began on the Congress Street Bridge, where demonstrators walking out of Grant Park after an earlier clash with police met guardsmen who stopped them from marching to the International Amphitheatre, site of the convention.

She said she and her husband ran with the crowd trying to escape police. "The police were beating people as we ran," she said. "Demonstrators were being beaten in doorways." She said a policeman knocked her down and a man who tried to help her up was beaten by police.

Agnew Urges Changes In College Plan

PIKESVILLE, Md. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew suggested Wednesday night curtailment of the lengthy college education process which he largely blamed for today's student frustration and unrest.

Picketed in a steady downpour outside, Agnew told a Greek-American dinner in his native Baltimore County that the alienation of many young people was caused "not by our hypocrisy or racism or the war in Vietnam but by our best intentions and inappropriate institutions."

The frustration of many American youngsters stems from "being held apart from responsibility" by an increasingly long educational cycle which limits them to academic communities, Agnew said.

Educational systems today have stretched youthful dependency a full 10 years past adolescence, he said, and inadvertently delayed the student generation's right to take part in society as adults.

Agnew, who stirred considerable controversy in earlier speeches criticizing student protesters, expressed some sympathy for the frustrations of those on campuses.

"While the age of physical maturity has declined, we have confined a generation on campuses at a point in life when their fathers and grandfathers were supporting households," he said.

While calling for a "revolutionary look at our institutions of education," Agnew said there was little point in attempting change as long as businessmen continue to regard academic degrees as the key to better jobs and parents consider them "symbols of their parental success."

Little Theater's 'Mousetrap' Deemed 'Enthusiastic' Effort

Most mice approach a trap unsuspecting; they smell the bit of cheese of the sprinkle of flour, and then start their dinner before the fatal snap.

In contrast, this viewer approached the Magic Valley Little Theatre's production of "The Mousetrap" with trepidation, wary of the possibility of an ugly clamping contraption awaiting to ensnare the spectator.

An initial production of a new amateur theatre group is always a traumatic experience for both company and audience. The actors, wanting to impress, often overplay, or else completely freeze into wooden responses. The audience, anxious to see neighborhood friends perform, easily laugh but usually resist empathizing with the total show.

But such was not the case this time. The Little Theatre's production of "Mousetrap" was an "enthusiastic burst for a first" — a burst of enjoyable theatre for any devotee of mysteries.

That a run-time in a store is evidenced to each who walks into the theatre created by this group at the YM-YWCA. With clever use of corner flats, platform, and drapes, the rather gymnastic quality of the large Y room has undergone a much welcomed transformation. The spectator is pleasantly surprised at the intimate arena.

The play involves a group of strangers stranded in an English boarding house during a snow storm. One of them is murdered. Into their midst comes Sergeant Trotter who, in trying to solve the murder, probes into the dark background of everyone. While watching the play, each audience member becomes his own detective, to be surprised, perhaps, at the end.

Praise should go to director Neal Barth who has quite carefully provided varied stage movements so necessary in circular theatre. Each audience section sees enough faces to prevent the actor's backs from becoming a distraction. Unfortunately the rows of chairs are not all elevated, so spectators on the floor level have to do occasional head-dodging.

Barth has also ignited his cast members into a responsive group who know their text well. At times, spontaneity is lacking, but there are enough sincere intense moments to afford audience belief in the action.

One of the greatest assets to the show that this reviewer watched is the apparent enthusiasm that emanates from cast members.

Of special interest to the audience is Buzz Langdon as Christopher Wren, who immediately catches attention with his impetuousness and his gleaming eyes as he discusses French cuisine. Esther Nicholson's portrayal

Learns A Lot

LONDON (UPI) — Yong Llei Tan, a 17-year-old student from Singapore, said she only wanted to see "the practical side of the law to support my studies."

She did. That's why she was in court Wednesday, pleading guilty to shoplifting a skirt, a jumper and a pair of slacks from a West End store.

"Did you find it an agreeable experience?" asked Magistrate St. John Harmsworth.

"Oh, yes — and I have learned a lot," she replied. "I'm inclined to accept what you say," he said — and fined her $12 with a warning. "No more practical lessons like this."

Airline Fares Are Lowered

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—New airline passenger fares, described as "some of the lowest ever offered the public," were issued Wednesday by the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

The announcement came at the close of a 22-day meeting of representatives of major airlines covering North and Mid-Atlantic, Middle Eastern, African and Indian routes.

The new fares, scheduled to go into effect March 1, 1970, represented substantial reductions on previously accorded fares by IATA which were challenged when Alitalia decided last September to unilaterally reduce New York-Rome fares.

Besides reducing passenger fares the airlines agreed to extend the 14-21 day excursion fare to 28 days in most areas, with no change in price. A new 29-45 day excursion fare was also introduced as well as a new lower fare for groups of 80 persons.

Willie Sutton Fails To Gain Jail Release

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI)—Willie "The Actor" Sutton, aging bank robber and jailbreak artist, has failed in a bid for parole that would have fulfilled his wish "to die a free man."

The state Parole Board, rejecting Wednesday the 69-year-old convict's plea for freedom, said he can apply again in August, 1971.

Sutton, who has spent more than half of his life in prison, is serving 30 years to life in Attica State Prison for robbing a New York City bank of $64,000 in 1950.

Sutton is in poor health and needs a serious operation. If he had been paroled, he would have lived in New York with a sister while undergoing medical treatment.

Astronauts Greet 'Non-Man-Made' Air With Joy On Release From Quarantine

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Charles "Pete" Conrad, who guided a tiny spaceship to mankind's second lunar landing last month, stepped from quarantine Wednesday and told an applauding crowd "how good that sun feels."

Conrad and his Apollo 12 colleagues Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean, emerged from quarantine at 3:01 p.m. EST, 18 hours ahead of schedule.

"You don't know how good that sun feels," Conrad said. "It's been 28 days now since we've seen the sun from down here. It's real fine to be back and out and I want to stand out here in the sunshine and thank everybody."

Gordon, taking a deep breath, told the 300 persons gathered to catch a glimpse of America's latest space heroes: "Ah, it's good to breathe the pure of that non-man-made air."

"It was a real pleasure to participate in Apollo 12," he said. "I think we did a fair job and I'm glad to be home."

"We had pretty much of a ball on Apollo 12," Bean said. He hugged his wife, handed her a barrel-shaped package wrapped in plain brown paper and told her, "Thank you for coming."

The other two wives waited for their husbands at home.

All three astronauts gained weight during the flight of Apollo 12 and the subsequent quarantine but they had lost even more during their pre-launch training.

Conrad gained two pounds during his flight and one more during quarantine; Gordon gained four pounds during the flight and two in quarantine, and Bean gained three in flight and six more in quarantine.

However, during the pre-launch phases, Conrad lost 4.25 pounds, Gordon 7.25 pounds and Bean 12.5 pounds.

Dr. Charles Berry, the astronauts' chief physician, said the rash Conrad complained of during the flight was caused by an allergy to the "particular batch" of paste used to attach some sensors to his body.

Berry said doctors would continue to "evaluate" the health of the crew for one year, go to their offices at the Space Center Thursday to look over the same procedure as followed for the astronauts of Apollo 11. Some films they shot during the historic moon landing flight of Apollo 12.

Cooperation Brings First Yule Lights For Hagerman

By WILMA LARSON
Times-News Correspondent
HAGERMAN — Christmas lights are all aglow from one end of Hagerman to the other, culminating the joint efforts of the city, civic organizations and interested citizens.

This project proves that things can get done if enough people pitch in and help, not only with ideas and suggestions but with a little cash and lots of "backbone and elbow grease."

Hagerman, for the first time in many years, now proudly displays beautiful street decorations and lights for the holiday season.

Perhaps many of the local citizens wondered to themselves and amongst their friends why Hagerman didn't display some type of Christmas decorations like most of the other towns in Magic Valley.

But like most ideas which are unexpressed, nothing was done about it; until Merle Owsley,

"Tom Paine" Opens CSI Run Tonight

The College of Southern Idaho's drama departments second production of the year, "Tom Paine," will open tonight at the Fine Arts Center.

The play is set in the Revolutionary War period and is actually a play within a play to portray Tom Paine, writer of freedom pamphlets. The production was written by Paul Foster in 1887 and was first performed by the Lamana Experimental Theatre Club Troupe and directed by Tom O'Horgan, director of "Hair."

The play was selected by Phillip Rayher who will also serve as director. He also designed the scenery and costumes and Mary Justesen is in charge of the lighting. The construction of the scenery was done by members of the college drama classes.

The costumes are being made in the new CSI costume shop by Mrs. Melvin Van Noy, Mrs. Joyce Halladay and Paula Parker. Rose Scrudland is student costume mistress.

The play will be presented at 8:15 p.m. tonight through Saturday and Dec. 17 through Dec. 20. Tickets can be purchased at the director of student activities office or at the door.

Cross Country Snowmobile Race Set For Feb. 7

STANLEY — The Salmon River Snowmobile Club voted during a recent meeting to have a 100-mile cross country race Feb. 7.

The course will run from the Smiley Creek area, north past Stanley and ending in Stanley. The race will be run by three-man teams and cash and trophies will be awarded to the winners.

During its third regular meeting of the season, the club also voted to begin purchasing equipment for the search and rescue committee, which will be added to some equipment which already has been donated.

local businessman, voiced his opinion about it at a meeting of the then recently formed Chamber of Commerce. That was a year ago.

Mr. Owsley found that many others in the community felt the same way as he did about "our town" not having street decorations for the holiday season.

Upon finding the cost of such items, the "new" organization felt they would need help in undertaking such a project, so they contacted the city and the local Lions club with their idea.

And thus, it became a joint project. The city officials agreed to pay for the wiring and the light bill if the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club purchased the decorations and furnished the labor.

During the past year, the Lions Club sponsored trap shoots, "stashing away" the proceeds along with those from the barbeque banquet, while the chamber directed its efforts in sponsoring a trout dinner and a production of "The Life and Death of Sneaky Finch" by the Antique Festival Theatre.

Others in the community asked to help, including the local American Legion who is sponsoring a chili supper Dec. 12 to raise funds and individual citizens who have dug into their pockets to add to the fund.

And many have also added their time and "know-how" in the erection and installation, such as several Idaho Power Co. employees.

At a cost of just over $1800, Hagerman is all "aglow" this holiday season, proving what cooperation, caring and giving can do.

CHECKING OVER DECORATIONS which have made Hagerman aglow for the first time in many years are, from left, G. P. Russell, Bob Anderson, Rex McAnulty, Alvin Hill, R. M. Watkins, Frank Glauner and Merle Owsley. Also assisting with the installation were Frank Glauner and Charles (Swede) Cary. The project is the result of the cooperation of many citizens and organizations.

STANDING IN FRONT of his company supply room in Vietnam is Sgt. Bill Brower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fountain Brower, 178 Wiseman St. Sgt. Brower wrote to his parents asking for second-hand clothing to be distributed to children in Vietnam, and they, with the assistance of the International Typographical Union Auxillary in Twin Falls, complied.

Twin-Falls GI Gets His Christmas Wish— Second-Hand Clothes For Vietnam Orphans

It took the cooperation of several people, including the United States Post Office, but the Christmas wishes of a weary sergeant from Twin Falls are being carried out.

"I just thought of a beautiful Christmas present you could send to me," Sgt. Bill Brower wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fountain Brower, last month. "Check with the Red Cross and find an address to one of the orphanages over here that they support. These kids would appreciate some old clothes, or food. If you will send them something like clothes for children between the ages of 1 to 6 it would make my Christmas over here happier."

Since there aren't any small Brower children around, the house anymore, Mrs. Brower took the problem to the Auxillary of the International Typographical Union. A box labeled "Vietnam Orphans" was placed in the back shop of the Times-News, and scores of small-fry wearables, including underwear, dresses, pants, pajamas, etc., were contributed.

After consultation with postal employees as to size and weight limitations, a box was carefully packed. An address was obtained and the box wrapped for mailing.

"Ah, let's see," said the man at the third window when he received the package for mailing. "It would be a lot simpler if you could send it through the military, with an APO number. But we'll see what we can do."

So he dug through regulations, came up with a couple of forms which had to be filled out, contents of the box listed, and everything signed a time or two. And the package was on its way.

Sgt. Brower, stationed at Bien Hoa Tactical Operations Center, is due for discharge in March and plans to return to Idaho State University where he was a senior majoring in psychology when he enlisted. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

Grants Awarded

WASHINGTON, D. C. — U.S. Sen. Len B. Jordan (R-Idaho) Tuesday announced two grants to agencies of the Magic Valley area.

He said the city of Eden has been awarded $12,540 by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration. Sen. Jordan said the money will be used for the construction of interceptor sewer and sewage lagoon system.

At the same time, the Idaho senator said $96,974 has been granted by the Office of Economic Opportunity to the South-Central Community Action Agency. Funds will go for programed administration of two neighborhood community centers serving Cassia, Twin Falls and Jerome counties, Sen. Jordan advised.

Lincoln County Termed Critical

RICHFIELD—Lincoln county is one of 10 counties in the state termed in a critical area regard-

He said this does not necessarily mean that consolidation will be proposed, or would be practical. He reported on meetings he has attended on the subject at Pocatello and Jerome. A driver rehabilitation program which could possibly be carried out through the school driver's training program was discussed at these meetings, Mr. Anderson said. This would be for persons with driving violation records. Richfield—Christmas vacation begins at 2 p.m. Dec. 23 and students will return Jan. 1.

U. S. Gambling Favorites Will Join French Casinos

By BEATA LEVY
LONDON Financial Times—UPI

PARIS—A thought to cheer all those who stand on their inalienable right to pursue happiness at the gaming table is the decision by French legislators to add craps, black jack, American roulette and twenty-three to French casino facilities.

New gaming tables, complete with their English vocabulary, are being prepared for the new season and will, it is hoped, attract American visitors who had never felt at home among French games of chance.

This latest move is very much in the French tradition of linking development of tourism to state-controlled gambling. The French Home Office has responded to insistent appeals from some French overseas territories in the Caribbean which, receiving numerous United States tourists, deplored the lack of these gaming facilities which cut them off from an extra source of tourist revenue.

In the case of one of the Leeward Islands, St. Martin, half-owned by Holland and France, the Dutch territory successfully lured the bulk of American holiday makers to its craps and black jack palaces, while the French side was powerless to fight back.

But better times are now ahead, and not only for St. Martin. The new legislation also applies to metropolitan France where casino operators wait for the new season to jump on the American bandwagon. At this early stage, however, opinion seems to be divided about the earning potential from these new games; only a few members of the profession show much faith in the rapid flowering of a French Las Vegas.

The legal history of French gambling is based on the amiable fiction that although all games of chance are prohibited by law, an exception is made for visitors to resorts and watering places. In the interest of the nation's health, so the 80-year-old argument runs, an forced sojourn in a spa deserved to be rendered more pleasant by the proximity of a gaming table.

If the introduction of American games to French casinos is seen as a measure to keep in step with a changing tourism clientele, gaming club operators also clamor for reform. Clubs feel depressed about their future; they have always been a strictly male preserve, and are becoming an increasingly aging one at that. The road to salvation, as seen by the profession, is a change in the law which bars women from admission.

Idaho Solons Back Measure On Rail Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. Lon Jordan, R-Idaho, joined other western senators Tuesday to co-sponsor legislation designed to ease the current freight car shortage.

The bill directs the interstate commerce commission to formulate a compensation system for freight car owners based solely upon the time a car is held or used rather than a time-mileage factor.

Supporters of the bill said that a straight-time basis would make it less profitable for Eastern and Southern railroads to hold up Western freight cars.

The Idaho senators expressed hope that the bill would provide the necessary inducement for the railroads to make available the freight cars which, particularly during times of harvest, are so sorely needed in the West.

Integration Applauded By Haynsworth

NEW YORK (UPI)—In his first interview since his nomination to the Supreme Court was rejected, Judge Clement Haynsworth said Tuesday he would have agreed with the court's recent 8-0 decision ordering immediate desegregation in Mississippi schools.

Haynsworth said on the CBS show "60 Minutes" he was surprised at the controversy which raged around his nomination by President Nixon but that he was not bitter because of the Senate's ultimate rejection.

The Greenville, S.C. jurist said however, that even if he had known in advance about the fight in the Senate about his nomination he would not have backed down once Nixon had named him.

Haynsworth rejected the possibility of his running for political office such as governor of South Carolina. He also could not foresee any circumstances under which he might be renominated for the Supreme Court.

"I think it's all over," Haynsworth summed up.

Judge Vetoes

Autopsy In Kennedy Case

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) — After wrestling with the problem for seven weeks, a judge Wednesday refused a Massachusetts request to have the body of Mary Jo Kopechne exhumed from a Pennsylvania cemetery for an autopsy.

The ruling was a victory for the parents of the 28-year-old secretary and only child in their legal battle to close the books on her death. The judge ruled all the facts showed that Miss Kopechne had drowned.

She died last July 18 when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile in which she was riding plunged off a bridge into a tidal pond at Chappaquiddick Island, Mass.

Kennedy, who was driving the car, said in Washington he was "grateful" for the ruling, because of what it meant to the girl's parents, Joseph and Gwen Kopechne of Berkeley Heights, N.J.

The parents appeared at a news conference after Judge Bernard J. Brominski announced his decision and said they were "very pleased" with the ruling.

They had strenuously opposed having their daughter's body exhumed, saying it would be "just like another funeral."

Miss Kopechne was buried in a cemetery at nearby Larksville July 22.

Massachusetts District Attorney Edmund S. Dinis, who filed the request for exhumation and an autopsy, said at his home in New Bedford, Mass., he had "nothing to say" regarding Brominski's ruling. Dinis previously said he would accept any ruling here as final.

A spokesman for Judge James A. Boyle of Edgartown, Mass., who had been awaiting Brominski's ruling, said no immediate decision would be made on Massachusetts' plan for an inquest in the girl's death.

Sen. Kennedy said he hoped Massachusetts authorities "will move forward so that the entire matter can be concluded as soon as possible."

The Kopechne's attorney, Joseph Flanagan, said he was considering the possibility of filing a "wrongful death action civil suit." Under Massachusetts law, $58,000 represented the maximum damages which could be sought in the girl's death.

continue through Dec. 24, in Boise.

In the display are designs of everything from buildings and bridges to dart boards. Most of the buildings represented in the display are intended for location in various parts of ISU campus and are the designs of the students who are familiar with the campus and its needs.

Among those displaying their work is Phil R. Busmann Jr., Buhl, architectural student.

There also are models of buildings ranging from summer homes to libraries, said Robert Boyte, Pocatello, chairman of the display committee and in charge of the ISU art gallery in the student union building.

Site of the display is in the Boise Gallery of Art operated by the Boise Art Association. It will be open daily except Monday from noon until 5 p.m.

Henry J. Hulvey, chairman of the architecture department at ISU said the display will probably go on state-wide tour following the Boise exhibition.

PUC Director Asks Study Of 'Phone Usage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ralph Wickberg of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission has urged the Senate Commerce Committee to help establish some forum to evaluate total service requirements of all telephone users.

In a two-page letter to Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, Wickberg said the recent action of the Federal Communications Commission in negotiating interstate toll reduction with American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has "fanned a smoldering controversy into a raging conflagration."

He charged that the FCC and the AT&T are "performing a ritualistic economic dance while the state commissions deal with the actual American consumer."

"This is the consumer who is on an eight or ten party line and who is demanding better service," Wickberg said. "This is also the individual who receives no services and wonders why."

He said that this individual also can be described as one who would like to call his doctor, his school or his local government officials without a toll charge.

"Succinctly he would like to share in the communications revolution," Wickberg wrote. "He could care less about the data processing transmission, 10-cent toll calls after midnight or any other exotic offer."

Wickberg said the present controversy should bring into focus the entire needs of the telephone users in the United States.

VERSATILITY IS SHOWN by Buhl architect student Phil R. Busmann Jr. In addition to the model design of a proposed new engineering building for ISU campus, he will also exhibit a modern design dart board in the coming ISU exhibit. The exhibit will feature building models, abstract three-dimensional exercises, drawings and other renderings.

'Copter Pilot Testifies On Attack; 'Massacre' Doubted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The helicopter pilot who last year radioed that civilians were being killed in an American attack on My Lai testified Wednesday before a House subcommittee. But Chairman L. Mendel Rivers reported he said nothing to indicate there had been a massacre.

"He didn't give us any information to lead us to believe that anyone committed a massacre at My Lai," Rivers told reporters after the closed hearing of his House armed services investigating subcommittee.

But another congressman, who asked not to be named, disagreed with Rivers and implied that the pilot, Chief Warrant Officer Hugh Thompson Jr., did indeed give evidence there was unnecessary killing at My Lai.

When told of Rivers' statement, the lawmaker said: "Nonsense. The kid was great and they did everything they could to discredit him."

The 26-year-old aviator, who spent more than two hours before the subcommittee, flew a helicopter in support of the rifle company which swept through My Lai hamlet when the alleged massacre occurred March 16, 1968. His radio report was credited with starting an Army investigation of the incident.

7 Senators Ask Immediate Potato Diversion Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — Spearheaded by Sens. Frank Church and Len B. Jordan, a group of seven senators from four potato producing states have urged Sec. of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin to institute an immediate potato diversion program.

The seven lawmakers pointed out to Sen. Hardin in a joint letter that the potato market has experienced a serious price decline in recent weeks because weather damage has forced growers to move their crops to market without delay.

A potato diversion program, the senators said, would be of great help in halting the decline and in stabilizing prices.

"Broad powers have been placed in the hands of the Department of Agriculture to meet market problems caused by surpluses of this nature," the letter said. "It is our belief that a legitimate cause for concern and action exists. To partially alleviate the hardship which many growers are suffering under current conditions, we request that a diversification program be granted providing for the highest possible base price to growers."

So far, the Agriculture Department has declined to act on a diversion program on grounds that weather damage is not cause for such a program. The department's own regulations, however, include such damage as reason for instituting a diversion program.

In addition to Sens. Church and Jordan, others signing the joint letter to Sec. Hardin are Sens. Mark Hatfield and Robert Packwood, Oregon; Edmund Muskie and Margaret Chase Smith, Maine; and Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania.

'Whitewash' In Killings Eliminated

By United Press International
A special Pentagon panel has found no evidence of any low-level cover-up in the original Army investigation of the alleged massacre at My Lai, the board's top civilian lawyer said.

Attorney Robert MacCrate of New York, who was appointed last week to share with Lt. Gen. William R. Peers the authority in conducting the inquiry, made the statement at a news conference at the Defense Department in Washington.

In reply to a question, MacCrate said he sees "no evidence of a whitewash now" and had been told there would be none. He stressed that he was referring only to the special board's investigation of whether a field-level investigation of South Vietnamese civilian deaths at My Lai hamlet 4 on March 16, 1968, was adequate.

MacCrate said, however, he and other members of the panel, including Peers, would go to Vietnam for further investigation of just what happened at My Lai.

The mission of the Peers group is only to determine whether facts were suppressed—the Army's criminal investigation division is looking for any evidence of war crimes—but MacCrate said his group just first determine just what the facts were.

Idahoan Files $137,000 Suit In Death Case

SPOKANE (UPI)—A suit for $137,000 was filed in Superior Court here Tuesday by a Bonners Ferry, Idaho, woman charging negligence on the part of the Washington Water Power Co. for the death of her husband nearly two years ago.

Mrs. Shirley Franta Stark filed the suit in the death of her husband, Robert R. Franta, 43, Bonners Ferry. She has since remarried.

Franta was piloting a light plane on a Fish and Game Department survey over Lake Coeur d'Alene in January, 1968, when the plane struck Washington Water Power Co. powerlines over the lake and crashed. Two Fish and Game Department officials in the craft swam to safety but Franta died.

Mrs. Stark contends in her suit the powerlines constitute a hazard to flying.

Greek King Treks To England For Funeral Rites
WINDSOR, England (UPI)—King Constantino of Greece and other royalty from throughout Europe gathered Wednesday for private funeral services at Windsor Castle for Prince Philip's mother.

Princess Andrew, 84, died in her sleep last Friday. The royal family declared a week of mourning.

Burial was in the royal vaults beneath St. Andrew's Chapel of the castle. The chapel where the funeral was held is the home of the oldest order of Christian chivalry in Europe, The Knights of the Garter.

Princess Andrew, who was also known as Princess Alice, had lived in Buckingham Palace since the Greek army took over the government of her homeland in April, 1967.

FHA Awards Idaho Funds For Law Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Highway Administration has awarded the state of Idaho a $34,510 grant for support of state and local law enforcement agency laboratories. Sen. L. Jordan said Wednesday. Jordan said the funds will be used to acquire a testing facility in Pocatello and equipment for the Boise and Coeur d'Alene laboratories.

Meantime, Jordan announced award of a $79,975 grant to the Nez Perce Indian Tribe at Lip-wai for a year continuation of their Headstart program serving 90 children in Nez Perce, Lewis and Clearwater counties.

Congressmen Ask Extension For Violence Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine Democratic congressmen asked President Nixon Tuesday to extend the life of the national violence commission so it could investigate the slaying of two Black Panthers in a raid by Chicago police last week.

The congressmen sent Nixon a letter seeking a "modest" extension of the commission beyond the Wednesday expiration date. A letter requesting an investigation of the shootout last Thursday was sent to Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, commission chairman.

"The incident threatens to add to the suspicions and distrust which already characterize the relations of blacks and whites in many communities," the letter said.

In the 10-minute early morning raid on a Chicago apartment, Panthers Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed.

Sibbett has stopped for a car in front of him which was turning right and was struck in the rear by Mrs. Smith who was unable to stop on the slick roads. Damage was estimated at $300 to the 1968 Buick driven by Mrs. Smith, and at $25 to Sibbett's 1956 Ford pickup truck.

Marvin Soderquist, 59, Sunnyside, Calif., was cited for making an improper lane change Saturday night following a two-car accident on Highway 24-25 near Rupert.

40,000 Youths To Face Needle

MIAMI (UPI) — More than 40,000 Dade County school children are to be inoculated with diphtheria vaccine in an effort to head off an outbreak of the disease.

Dr. Malcolm J. Ford said eight cases have been reported in Dade in the past four months. The outbreak is centered in Miami's northwest section. Emergency medical teams were scheduled to begin the inoculations today, in a campaign involving about 40 schools.

Both the dead children were under 13 and all those stricken were from "the lower socioeconomic strata," the health division said.

State Police Blotter
Early Sunday morning, two miles west of Burley on Interstate-80, a 1969 White Truck and trailer slid out of control on slick roads.

The vehicle, owned by Tri-State Motor Transport, Missouri, and driven by Herbert Clark, 43, Columbia, Tenn., jackknifed when Clark attempted to slow for a 1966 Ford driven by Carol Hill, 26, Eden, who was traveling ahead of him.

The trailer hit the car, causing about $100 damage to the car and $150 to the trailer. A passenger in the truck, David Crandall, Nashville, was slightly injured.

No citations were issued.

Educator Forwards Apology On BYU Controversy

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — President Kenneth Pitzer of Stanford University has written David O. McKay, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, to apologize for the handling of Stanford's announcement that it was severing relations with Brigham Young University.

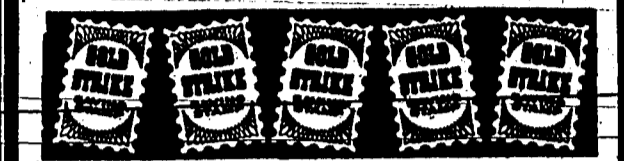

Pitzer said on Nov. 12 Stanford would not schedule any further meetings, debates or other competition with BYU because of alleged racial discrimination practiced by the Mormon Church.

Dr. Howard Brooke, vice provost of Stanford, said Monday, "We had hoped to keep this purely an athletic matter, and we were naive in that. The foresight was not there. We failed to take adequate and responsible measures to be sure the policy was expressed in as articulate and precise manner as possible."

Britain May Back Both Sides In War

LONDON (UPI)—Britain today found itself faced with the possibility of supporting both sides in the Nigerian civil war—shipping weapons to the federal government, medical supplies and food to rebel Biafrans.

The Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson Tuesday night won parliamentary approval of its policy of ending arms shipment to federal Nigeria. The vote was 254 to 84.

Conservative members again abstained as they had done on a similar vote Monday night on the government's Vietnam policies. Parliament approved continued support of U.S. war policy by a 196-57 margin.

An estimated 100 lawmakers of all parties have signed a motion opposing British arms shipments to federal Nigeria and calling for a total worldwide embargo on arms to both sides.

The idea of airlifting food and medical supplies into Biafra was suggested by Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the Conservative former prime minister.

He said Britain could use a combination of little-used ships, aircraft carriers and helicopters to ferry up to 500 tons of relief supplies into Biafra every week.

"If there is suspicion of Britain in the introduction of this plan," Douglas-Home said, "the task could be undertaken by either America or Canada." Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the Conservative spokesman he did not think his estimate of what helicopters could do "is quite accurate" but promised Britain "would do anything within reason" if it was agreeable to both sides.

Stewart said any British embargo on arms shipments to federal Nigeria would merely prolong the war.

"This would be done, he said, 'first by the encouragement it would give to the secessionists to continue the struggle and second by making the Nigerian government increasingly dependent upon the Soviet Union for its supplies.'"

Stewart said such an embargo also "would make it clear to the Nigerian government that Britain was hostile and any possibility of mediation would disappear."

The British government said Tuesday it had received assurances the Nigerian government would not attack Red Cross planes flying mercy missions into Biafra's Ibi airstrip during certain daylight hours.

Pocatellan Is Rescued From Ocean

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Eight persons, including a man from Pocatello, Idaho, whose sport fishing boat broke up and sank in rough seas early today were rescued without injury in a Coast Guard and Navy operation.

All eight were reported in excellent condition when they were brought here aboard the destroyer John A. Bole.

Their boat, the 53-foot High Count, and its contents were lost.

A Coast Guard helicopter piloted by Lt. Cmdr Pat Murray was on the scene 25 miles northwest of San Diego minutes after receiving a May Day distress call from the High Count, Murray said.

At the same time the Bole, which saw the High Count's distress flare, arrived at the scene, Murray said. A plan to hoist the eight persons aboard the helicopter was abandoned because of rough seas with eight- to 10-foot swells and strong winds, the pilot said.

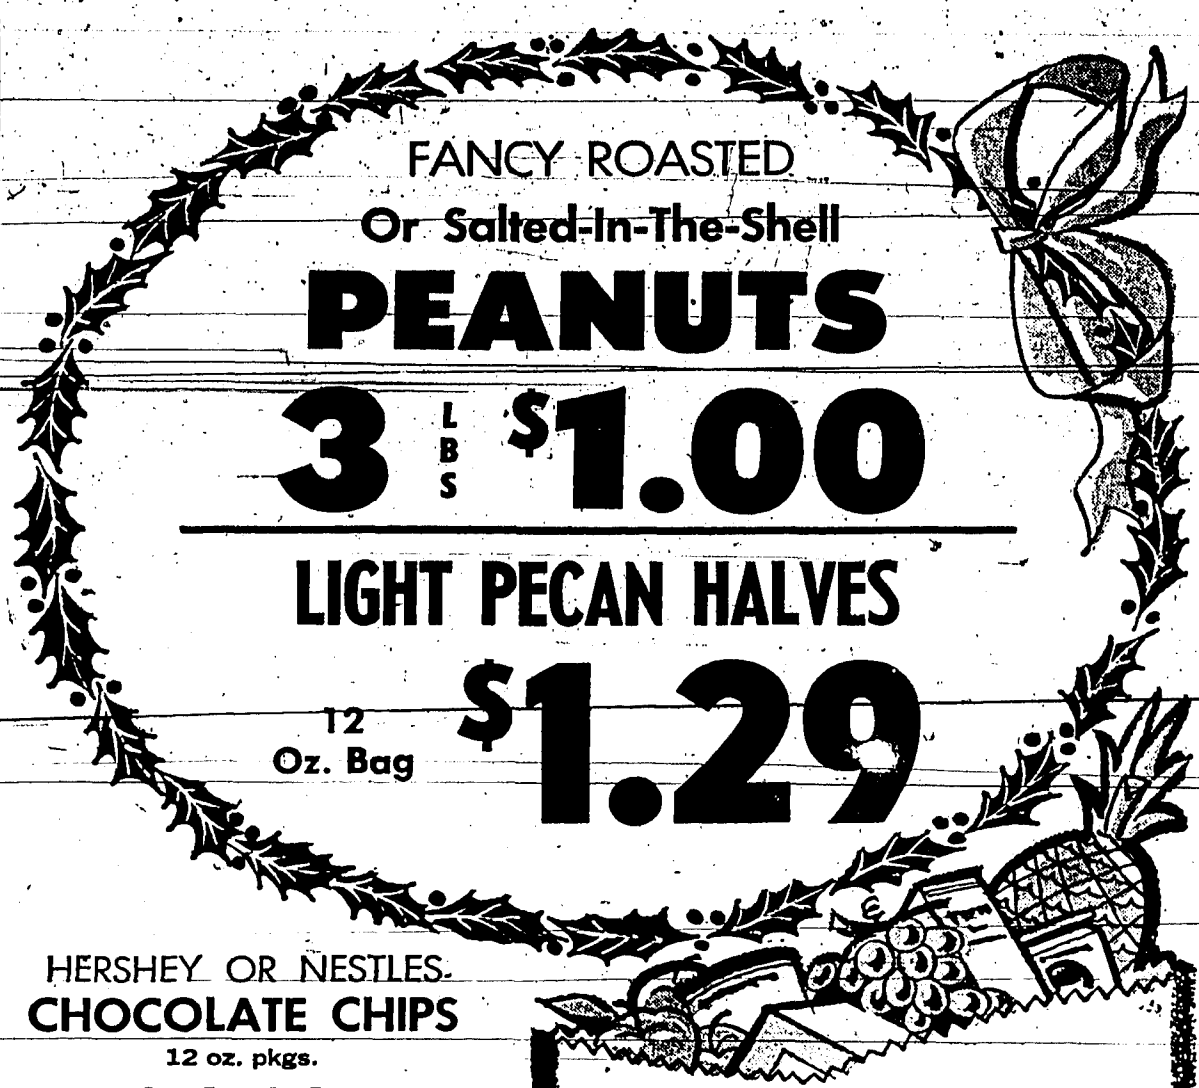

A small boat from the Bole was used to pluck the eight from a whaleboat and a rubber raft as the sport fisher broke up and went down, Murray said. He said his crew used a floodlight to light the area during the rescue.

The pilot identified the eight as Thomas Newman, San Francisco; Larry Twombly, David Wayne and boat operator Lou Terrell of Surfside, M.D.; Anderson of Santa Fe, N.M.; Ben and Michelle Shapiro of Los Angeles and Terry Gaver of Pocatello, Idaho.

Solons Give Nixon Power Over Imports

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate voted Wednesday to give the President broad authority to bar imports—power President Nixon did not seek or want.

Senators from southern and New England states which have been hit by competition from foreign textiles, shoes and electronic equipment, joined forces to tack onto the Senate's tax return bill the proposal of Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H.

The amendment would permit the White House to impose quotas on all categories of imported goods where he finds a disruption of a domestic industry.

The Cotton amendment was adopted by a vote of 65 to 30 after senators first rejected, 73 to 22, a motion to kill it.

The amendment would give the President power to impose restrictions when he found that imports "disrupt the domestic industry" or cause "injury to industries, firms or workers in the United States" when the foreign country producing those goods restricted imports through licenses, tariffs or taxes.

On another front in the long tax battle, Sen. Albert E. Gore, D-Tenn., challenged Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to a public debate on Gore's successful amendment to boost the personal income tax exemption from its present $600 to $800.

Gore, replying to a sharp attack on him by Agnew Tuesday night in a speech to the American Farm Bureau Federation, said that Agnew and the Nixon administration were backing "a rich man's tax bill."

The Senate is in the final stages of consideration of the tax bill but it appeared doubtful final action could be achieved today.

Cotton's proposal was aimed at Japan and Western European countries which have agreed to lower their tariffs but still restrict imports from the United States through a number of nontariff barriers, including border taxes, quota systems, license requirements and other practices.

"All we're saying is tilt for fat," Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said in support of Cotton.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., objected, saying "the whole world would retaliate against us overnight" if the Cotton proposal became law.

Moscow Reds Declare U. S. Has 'Zig-Zag' Foreign Policy

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign News Analyst
A publication that out in Moscow declares that in the field of foreign relations the United States follows "a very zigzag policy."
To this, some of the United States' allies in NATO echo a fervent "amen."
The new Moscow publication bears the title "The Modern Diplomacy of Imperialism" and comments on the policies of the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Japan.

The author of the American section bears the well-known name of Gromyko. He is Anatoli Gromyko, son of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The younger Gromyko served in the Soviet Embassy in Washington and is regarded as an authority on U.S. affairs.
Presumably by coincidence, the book came out just before the start of the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation (SALT) talks in Helsinki.

It is Gromyko's contention that the United States still is far from committed to a policy of disarmament, although sentiment is moving in that direction.

He sees a confrontation in Washington between forces "who are not interested, at least at the present moment, in a radical easing of international tension," and "those who want to see American diplomacy break away from the heritage of John Foster Dulles."

"This confrontation," he said, "is reflected in the activities of the Nixon government, which practices a very zigzag policy in the international arena."

The echo of agreement comes from NATO nations who find themselves unsure of U.S. intent but nonetheless find by necessity their own foreign policy bound to it.

Increasingly worrying the Europeans is what is termed American "neo-isolationism by slow stages."

For publication, they favor the U.S.-Soviet Helsinki talks but privately fear that any agreement between the two would mean a corresponding decline in American interest in the security of Western Europe.

Minidoka Aides Don't Like Tax Bill

RUPERT — Representatives of the six taxing units in Minidoka county have expressed disfavor with House Bill 304 which limits increasing tax levies to more than four per cent.
State Rep. Steve Antone and State Rep. John Peavey, both Rupert, conducted a meeting of some 15 representatives of all cities and county taxing districts. Amendments have been proposed for the controversial bill. Rep. Antone said to place ad valorem tax revenue from newly annexed and newly constructed property outside the four per cent limitation.
Other proposals are to allow the taxing units to select from any one of the five preceding years for their tax base, exclude emergency school levies and equalization levies from the limitation, clarify the appeals provision and direct the attorney general to enforce the provisions of the bill.

The meeting was one of several being held throughout the state to explain the legislation to officials of the taxing units. Representatives attended from Minidoka, Paul, Heyburn, Rupert, Acequia and Minidoka county commission.

Watered-Down Foreign Aid Bill Finally Clears House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's emasculated $1.6 billion foreign aid appropriation has cleared the House. Passage required two secret documents, a private phone call and some last minute vote switches.

By the time the smoke cleared from the House floor Tuesday, members had passed to the Senate a bill carrying more than $1 billion less than Nixon had sought for overseas assistance during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970.

Even though the Appropriations Committee had cut deeply into the request, the House approved it only by the narrowest of margins—200 to 189.

At the bottom of both developments was $100.4 million inserted into the bill to provide extra military assistance for Nationalist China and South Korea. The administration had not sought the funds but after discovering the bill might lose without the votes of conservative sponsors, it changed positions.

During the often raucous debate Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., floor manager of the bill (and supporter of it for the first time) waved a yellow-bordered sheath of papers stamped "Top Secret." It contained a complete justification from the Pentagon, said Passman, on why Taiwan needed a squadron of 18 F4D jet fighters.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan disclosed that contrary to the administration's official opposition to the jets, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird was now in favor of them. Ford cited a private phone call he had recently received from Laird.

It was easier to persuade members to vote the $50 million to modernize South Korea's armed forces. The House Foreign Affairs Committee had at least studied the question, something it had not done for the Formosan jets.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma rose to display to his colleagues a "secret" red-bordered letter from Laird in which he said the secretary had come around to the belief the South Koreans indeed could use the $50 million.
The bill must still get through the Senate where an equally

Cleric Complains Of 'Gruel' From Pulpit, Ask For Action

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer
It's not what churches are doing, but what they're failing to do, that is causing many of their members to take a walk, says a prominent Protestant clergyman.

The Rev. Dr. John W. Meister can't swallow the idea, cherished by many of his brethren of the cloth, that churches are suffering defections because they've taken bold stands for human rights and social reforms.
Frankly, he says, "we have not done enough" in the social action field "to earn either the criticism of men or the commendation of God."

Dr. Meister served for 20 years as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ft. Wayne, Ind. He is now executive secretary of the Council on Theological Education of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

The main thing that's bugging the man in the pew these days, he writes in Presbyterian Life magazine, is the thin diet being dished out from the pulpit. In Jesus' vivid metaphor, men are asking for bread—and getting stones.

Despite all the fat talk about God's "death" in the consciousness of modern man, Meister says, "human nature has not radically changed in the recent past."

"The typical man in the pew still has a native intuition that God is real and at work in the world, and he longs for the intimation to take on flesh and blood in the person of Jesus of Nazareth."

The typical churchgoer still prays, especially when he's at his wit's end, and he wants to learn how to pray more deeply and honestly. His desire is to become adequate for daily life.

It is incorrect and insulting for clergymen to envision the average layman as a self-centered character who resists social progress, the veteran Presbyterian pastor says.

In short, the laity are walking out in droves, because they are fed up with being subjected to "shock treatments" by preachers who are more concerned with keeping up with every wind of theological fashion than with guiding parishioners toward a faith firm enough and big enough to make their hectic lives endurable.

Tiny Tim Gets Marriage Tag With Fiancee

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tiny Tim tiptoed through the red tape for a marriage license Tuesday, despite the fact that his 17-year-old fiancee "Miss Vicki" did not have the personal consent of both her parents.

Tiny, who listed himself as "Herbert Buckingham Khauria, 37," his bride-to-be Victoria "Miss Vicki" Budinger, and mother-in-law-to-be Mrs. Emma Budinger, arrived in the Municipal Building on anything but tiptoes.

An entourage of reporters and photographers accompanied the spaghetti-haired falsetto singer who toted along his ever-faithful ukulele.

Noisy Drumming Shatters Nerves

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) — Paul Walker, 72, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court today on a charge of tossing a brick through a plate glass window at the home next door.

Walker said he took the action because the rock music drums of his neighbor, William Fernandez, 19, offended his "noise tolerance."

A PHEASANT ISLAND of sagebrush in this aerial photographically shows how modern and economical farming practices leave nothing for the birds to use during the critical wintering period. By holding plots this size and enhancing the habitat, all of Idaho's newly reclaimed land could become consistent top-quality pheasant producers.

FRINGE EFFECT of this patch of sagebrush illustrates maximum benefit of habitat cover hard by agricultural land. Studies have shown that more available edge, and more irregular boundaries would be preferable to the one pictured, means more pheasants, which biologists call "a product of the fringe." Retention of this land plus improving the cover through hedge rows and other devices would let the pheasants using the surrounding two or three miles of agricultural land winter here handily. This would either stabilize or improve the bird population.

IDAHO CAN BE PHEASANT CAPITAL BY SAVING SAGEBRUSH

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

"We were too late in the midwest and we don't want to blow the chance we still have in Idaho," says Larry Wilson, wildlife specialist for the Bureau of Land Management in the Burley district.

Wilson, standing in contrasting and ever-changing Golden Valley between Oakley and Burley, was speaking of pheasants and the hope of keeping the wild ringer in a good hunting supply.

Backed by the new multiple-use concept now accepted as policy by the BLM, Wilson is a dedicated sportsman who takes part of his annual leave during the hunting season, is pressing as hard as one individual can to keep his area in the wildlife corner. Unfortunately, Wilson's ardor for such perpetuation is not shared by very many in the BLM, which, after all, is just getting used to the idea that public land can be used for more than livestock grazing after many years of total grazing orientation.

Basically, Wilson is striving to withdraw from desert entry certain rather small but well-placed sagebrush areas for wildlife purposes. His task is difficult at best since there are so many interests pulling in different directions. Unfortunately, he represents a bunch of the most individualistic and fractious segments of society—the sportsmen. Their support is flimsy at best and their apathetic "let George do it" attitude is maddening their interests in all but the specially dedicated districts.

Wilson has been studying the habits of pheasants and farmers and inventing Golden Valley's physical habitat for the past three years. Briefly, this is what his work is all about.

Under the desert entry law, a person who can prove capability of providing water can claim BLM ground, very similar to the old homestead act, and obtain legal possession after meeting certain improvement and time requirements. Under this law, the BLM has the task of inventorying each specific parcel and judging its greatest beneficial use—in most cases agricultural.

Desert entry in Golden Valley in the past three years has been rapid, particularly since portions of it were removed from the critical underground water list. In the past several years the sagebrush perimeter has been pushed further back and now only a few relatively small portions remain. Much of the unclaimed was denuded of sagebrush, probably by fire many years ago, and cheat grass invaded and took full control.

As the new farmland took over, the modern concepts of clean farming have been introduced. With water a problem, such irrigation ditches that exist are cement lined, an ideal farming condition that precludes the usual ditchbank vegetation cover that upland birds can use. Sprinkler irrigation cuts heavy use and, of course, this entails no ditching at all. Burning and herbicides control weed patches and with late fall's like this one the farmers are making up some time by getting in fall plowing and turning under stubble and other habitat that might provide some winter protection.

The precepts of modern farming and upland bird facts are diametrically opposed. As a result, the slicked up, almost immaculate fields of today are, from a wildlife standpoint, biological deserts. Still they represent the best farming practices, most economical, etc., to the individual.

The idea of saving natural habitat, in Magic Valley's case sagebrush, has been knocked about for sometime. But about 18 months ago J. R. (Dick) Woodworth, head of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, came up with a specific plan which called on the federal land agencies to adopt a policy: reserving 40 acres out of every section. But Woodworth went further. Explaining that pheasants are a product of the fringes and edges, he suggested the 40 acres be spread in 10 or 15-foot strips around and through the section, thus multiplying fringe mileage. The pheasants use agricultural land for practically their total diet and about 90 per cent of their nesting cover. What they need is escapement and winter cover areas — to get out of sight and reach.

"When you have conditions like you have around here," Wilson said as he drove his pickup through and around fields and sagebrush plots, "it becomes impossible to overshoot pheasants. They get in the sagebrush and can run and hide for days. Even with drives and real heavy pressure from hunters, you couldn't harvest as many as will die of natural causes."

Wilson's idea differs from that of Woodworth. "Multiplying the fringe line would be great" but it isn't really workable," Wilson explains. "When hunters see a patch of sagebrush or natural habitat in the middle of farm ground, he sees hunting and hunter success. A farmer looks at the same thing and sees a source of weed seed that will spread onto his land."

"I think we would have to stick with the idea of the larger patches, like 40 acres here, 80 over there and maybe 120 or 140 in another spot. During the hunting season and in the winter the birds use the sagebrush most and go out from it for feed maybe a mile at most. But during the other times of the year one sagebrush plot of 80 acres might be able to provide sufficient escapement to put birds in a five-mile radius. When the farming season ends, that population will always come back to the sagebrush."

"You watch," he said. "When the birds are flushed out of the fields they head immediately for the safety of the sagebrush. The hens don't always but the roosters invariably do."

Wilson already has his plots picked out for Golden Valley and is pressing for withdrawal from his superiors in the Interior Department. "We can keep the birds here in good huntable amounts and provide public hunting on these patches at the same time," he notes. "But in order to be fair to the landowners, each of the plots we set aside must include plans for habitat improvement."

"We can go in with projects that would include planting Russian Olive, and hedge rows that provide escapement, food and some nesting cover. We can use vegetation that will complete the weeds out and the plots wouldn't be a weed source threatening surrounding farmland. On some of the larger plots I think it would be great to try some of that edge effect idea. We could cut an irregular swath of 20 to 50 feet through the brush and plant it in desert alfalfa or other things that don't require much moisture but still would provide open areas and food sources for the birds. Rabbit control is another thing we'd have to include in the plan."

"We are in a position to see what has happened to such great pheasant areas like South Dakota and Nebraska. The natural habitat disappeared long ago and clean farming practices have sharply reduced other habitat. The number of pheasants has dropped to almost nothing in comparison. Right in this valley you can see a change. Three years ago the land behind us (we were near the sage perimeter) was new, weedy and providing habitat. Now the farmers have slicked it up. My studies (by crow count sightings and brood trend) show the pheasant population has dropped 39 per cent in those three years."

Of course, Golden Valley is only a small piece of the total picture. Across the river in north Paul-Rupert area, pheasant populations are great, providing phenomenal success and drawing hunters by the thousands.

It is a bonanza that must end because historically each tract in Magic Valley has had its early pheasant boom and its later years fizzle. That area falls under the Shoshone BLM district and to our knowledge there is no press for wildlife withdrawal plots in strategic spots as in Golden Valley and the Salmon Tract in Twin Falls County. Similarly, the Burley BLM is pushing hard to save big game wintering areas in eastern Idaho — its jurisdiction stretching to the Wyoming line.

Wilson's biggest apparent victory so far has been preserving of a fairly large tract on the southside of Milner Reservoir. The only parcel still available and out of desert entry withdrawal, Wilson compiled a solid study in support of saving it for wildlife use, which also will benefit ducks and shoreline birds. Complete with pictures, flushing counts, etc., Wilson got the Washington, D. C., boys to go along with him. However, the victory is still only apparent because even after withdrawal each parcel is open to the usual number of appeals.

Pressure is extremely heavy from private interests wanting the land and the best is the "letter to your senator" who react to such things and can threaten the decision making boys with reminders of budget voting, etc. Such pressure can only be fought with equal vigor by the sporting interests but the sportsman basically is short sighted, setting or fighting for "right now" and forgetting the long haul.

The only way Idaho and Magic Valley will stay in the pheasant business is through Wilson-type action now. Populations will be at worst stabilized and probably increased somewhat through the plan. His flushing count on that 300-acre site near Milner showed a wintering density of 1.7 birds per acre and in its heyday South Dakota was boasting one bird on six acres. Wilson believes that density, with solid habitat improvement, could be raised to 2.5 birds per acre at critical wintering times.

Duck nesting could be expected to quadruple.

Once the sagebrushed sections of land are gone, it is the end. It becomes impossible for any governmental agency or loose knit sportsman club to financially bear the cost of re-acquiring the land and returning it to a wildlife habitat state.

One of the key sections in Golden Valley is owned by the state which already has sold off 160 acres and can be expected to peddle the rest as buyers become available. The state currently works under that policy. One must also remember that about a million-acre reclamation project is being pushed for the Mountain Home area. Woodworth says with this plan of retaining parcels for wildlife use that project could produce birds that would put Nebraska and South Dakota, at their peaks, to shame.

This is one very vital area in which the individual sportsman can be very instrumental — if only by writing a couple of letters every so often. But if they don't, it won't be long they will be blaming the farmer for his competent farming practices and the Fish and Game Department for letting it get away.

Opposition Arises And Suit Threatened Over Proposed Bout

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Final arrangements were being ironed out here Wednesday for Cassius Clay and Joe Frazier to meet Feb. 16 in a heavyweight fight which is opposed by the city council and which is threatened with possible legal action.

Clay's attorney Bob Arum met with promoter Ron Gorton and Mike Malitz of Sports Action, Inc., which would handle the closed circuit television of the fight.

Arum said it was expected final terms would be settled later Wednesday and final contracts should be signed by the end of the week.

But South Miami promoter Murry Woroner said Wednesday he has a "handshake agreement" with attorneys for both Clay and Frazier that the fight would be at South Miami and said it is held anywhere else he will take the matter to court.

Arum said Wednesday he believed Woroner will have "second thoughts" about the threat of legal action and denied any agreement had been reached with the South Miami promoter.

"They were still making offers yesterday trying to make changes in their offers," Arum said.

The bout won the endorsement Tuesday of Gov. Claude Kirk and by the unanimous vote of the Tampa Boxing Commission, which has sole power to grant or deny the license here.

The Tampa City Council, which has no legal power to halt the fight, came out unanimously in opposition to it Tuesday night.

Councilman Vince Melloy urged a boycott of the fight and said he would attempt to get organizations and people to write to Kirk and Mayor Dick Greco voicing their opposition.

When the announcement broke Tuesday, it was indicated the fight would be staged in the 46,000-seat Tampa Stadium.

But Wednesday there was an indication an effort might be made to stage it in Curtis Hixon Hall, the convention center in downtown Tampa, where the seating capacity for the fight would be 6,500.

Use of the indoor facility would eliminate any possibility of having to postpone the fight because of weather.

Woroner had planned to have the fight in a studio with only 2,000 seats. His plan was to have all proceeds from ticket sales go to charity with TV receipts going to the fighters and promoter.

Woroner said he had promised $75,000 to each fighter when contracts were signed, with a guaranteed to each fighter of $300,000 and a provision for 25 per cent of the gross gate each over that amount.

Indications were that each fighter would receive a guarantee of $300,000 for the fight.

Arum said Clay would begin training Wednesday in Chicago.

"I talked with him last night and told him what was in the works and he said 'praise be to God,'" Arum said.

"He became very emotional about the chance to fight," Arum said. "He wants to fight, even if it's for nothing."

Cage Star Caught In Wrong Draft

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jack Ajzner, a 6-foot 9-inch senior center with the University of Cincinnati basketball squad, hopes to be drafted by a pro team next year.

In the meantime, he has been drafted by the Israeli army.

Here, Suzanne McDonnell demonstrates how one goes about "retreating" temporarily in the tranquilizer, which along with other Kaplan fur-furniture creations, are on display at his gallery in New York City. Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: It's easy to understand why a married man of 42 would leave his wife for a younger woman, but how about a man that age who would leave a beautiful 36-year-old wife for an old, wrinkled grandmother of 50?

That is exactly what my brother Gordy did. He must be out of his mind. Don't tell me he is looking for "mother love." Our mother is still living and if ever a man got his share of mother love, Brother Gordy did. He was the "baby" of the family, and the only boy—after five girls.

So please tell me what an intelligent, good-looking, professional man can see in a divorced 50-year-old re-read? It's not money. She doesn't have any, and he has plenty. Thank you. DISGUSTED SISTER

DEAR DISGUSTED: There is something obviously more powerful in Brother Gordy's book than youth and beauty. One of the biggest mysteries in the world is what two people see in one another, but I suspect your brother's reasons are younger than springtime and older than the hills.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this on behalf of my fellow workers. There is an older woman in our office who has the habit of humming one low-pitched, monotonous note constantly from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

We who work with her have approached her kindly, asking her to please stop. All she says is, "I can't promise anything."

I have a sign on my desk reading, "Marion, will you PLEASE stop humming"—just in case she glances over.

Several of us have imitated her to remind her that she is humming, but that hasn't helped. We have spoken to her supervisor, but to no avail.

For seven months I've endured this constant maddening distraction, and now I even hear it when it's not there. Please, PLEASE, help us.

GOING CRAZY IN HARTFORD

DEAR GOING: Poor Marion has probably developed the humming habit over the years and now she hums unconsciously. But habits are "learned" and can be "unlearned." So UNITE! Tell her gently but emphatically that her humming is driving you bananas. And tell the boss that he'd better install background music to drown out the humming bird, or you'll all go south.

DEAR ABBY: I have been pounding it into the heads of my two sons, ages 4 and 6, that they are NEVER to accept any kind of gift from a stranger.

My problems is that many times when we are on a bus, or shopping in some public place, some well-meaning person will admire my children and offer them candy, gum, and even money!

I just hate to hurt their feelings, but Abby, it makes it so hard for mothers to train children. NOT to accept anything from strangers when strangers keep offering them goodies and money.

Can you please say something to help our cause?

ONLY ONE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'll try: Perhaps it hasn't occurred to all you generous, well-meaning people who "love children" and can't resist offering them goodies or money, that this is the technique used by child molesters who hope to gain a child's confidence in order to get him to "go for a ride," or "not to tell" after improper advances have been made.

Parents should continue to train their children to refuse ALL gifts from strangers, and should attempt to countermand the parents' order, he should be set straight in no uncertain terms.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 68700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.
