Halloween Death Story Unfolds At Hearing Here

The state wound up its case Tuesday against Thomas Joseph Huff, 26, Twin Falls, accused of the Halloween night slaying of Harry Agee, 28, Eden, and Wednesday the defense began laying groundwork to establish a self-defense motive.

The preliminary hearing, expected to take three days, opened Tuesday, in Twin Falls Police Court. Mr. Huff is charged with second degree murder in connection with the shooting death shortly after 1 a.m. Nov. 1. Police Judge Harry Turner is presiding at the hearing, being held to determine if there is probable cause to bind Mr. Huff over to stand trial in district court.

The prosecution called seven witnesses, including two city officers, two of the victim's friends, two of the defendant's neighbors and Dr. Robert Maier, pathologist who performed the post-mortem examination on Mr. Agee's body several hours after the shooting.

Myron Huettig, Hazelton, was called to testify last month before he entered military service. He and two of Tuesday's witnesses, Ron Buschhorn and Gary Kincaid, both Hazelton, were with Mr. Agee the night the shooting took place at Towncrest Manor in Twin Falls.

All three men testified as to events leading up to the shooting. They said they and several others were having a bachelor party for a friend who was to be married the following night. The bridegroom-to-be, Ron Jarvis, was believed to have returned to Towncrest Manor after the party, the witnesses said, to visit his fiancée, Vickie Webb.

The three witnesses and Mr. Agee returned to the apartment house to look for Mr. Jarvis. Part of the group—Mr. Kincaid and Mr. Huettig—went from the rear parking lot to the front entrance of the apartment building and Mr. Agee and Mr. Buschhorn entered a rear door.

They believed they were at Miss Webb's apartment, Mr. Buschhorn said, but the door was answered by Mr. Huff. Upon the door being opened, Mr. Buschhorn said, he and Mr. Agee observed both Mr. and Mrs. Huff standing in the room. A fight ensued and the two men left and went to the correct apartment, Mr. Buschhorn testified.

At the Webb apartment, Mr. Kincaid, Mr. Buschhorn, Mr. Huettig and Mr. Agee all decided to leave the building, Mr. Buschhorn stated. As they were leaving, via the rear parking lot, Mr. Kincaid said, he observed Mr. Huff standing in the hallway with a gun. The four men then went to Mr. Buschhorn's car and had either entered it or were starting to enter it when Mr. Huff appeared at the back entrance with the weapon, according to the testimony.

Mr. Agee then started up the sidewalk and told Mr. Huff that if he "was going to shoot, he'd better make it the first shot straight and true," witnesses said. It was at this point that Mr. Huff allegedly fired the .22 caliber semi-automatic rifle and Mr. Agee fell to the ground.

Mr. Buschhorn said he then asked that Mr. Huff allow a hearing. He said he would testify. See HEARING, Page 2, Col. 4.

Jerome OK's Dog Leash Ordinance

JEROME—The city of Jerome now has a dog leash law and it will go into effect on March 1, 1970.

The City Council adopted an ordinance on leashing dogs after the third and final reading of the ordinance Tuesday evening. Only one councilman abstained from voting. He was Ed Baer.

The council also adopted an amended ordinance that defines various terms in the dog leash ordinance.

An ordinance on making Third Avenue a one-way street, with closing during unloading and loading of school buses, received its second reading Tuesday by the council.

Mel Morris, city engineer, told the councilmen that the only way, at this time, to control the thistle infestation on North Fillmore was by controlled burning. He added the county weed bureau and county commissioners have said they will cooperate in the future in controlling the infestation.

'Shadow War' Continues In Laos Area

BANGKOK (UPI)—The Senate action vote to bar the use of U.S. combat troops in Thailand and Laos would limit but in no way scale down what is known as America's "shadow war" in Southeast Asia.

The "shadow war" being fought in the landlocked kingdom of Laos already involves a major U.S. commitment. Fear that it would continue to escalate led to the Senate's vote Monday.

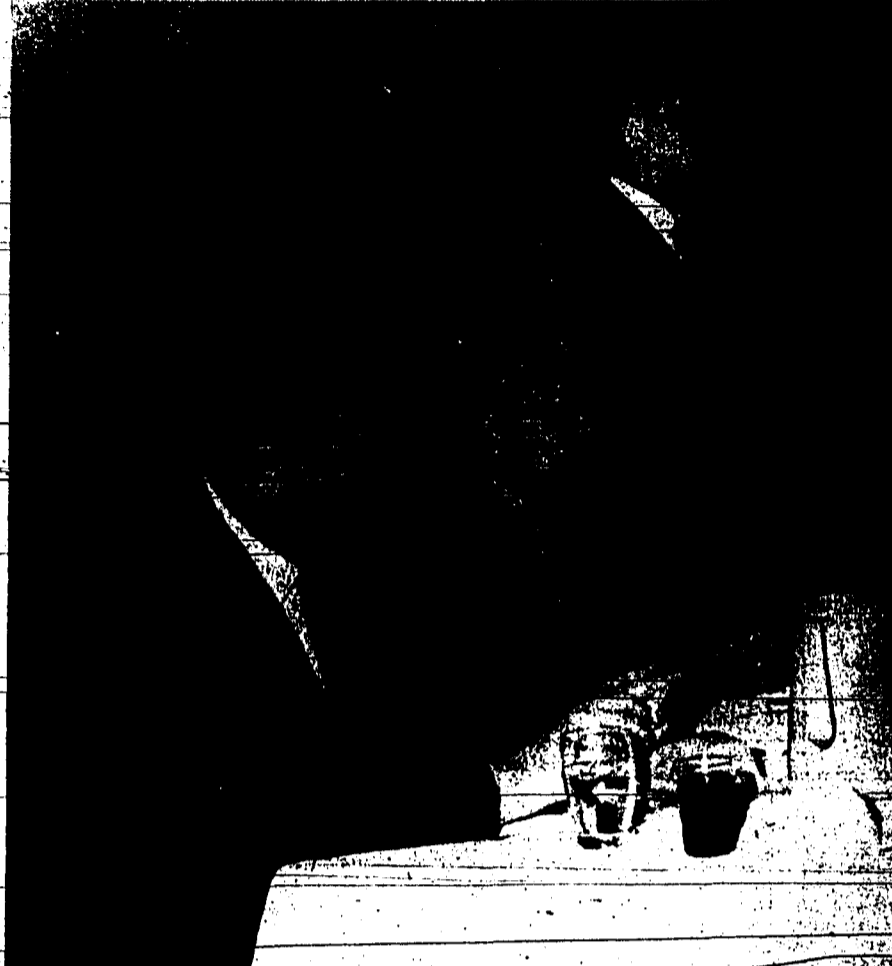

The ban, approved by a 78 to 11 vote in secret debate, was written into a $69.3 billion defense appropriations bill that was approved 85-4.

For at least five years, the United States has been involved in a war in Laos against Communist Pathet Lao forces and, recently an estimated 50,000 North Vietnamese troops. But U.S. presence has been covert and overshadowed by the Vietnam conflict. Thus the name "shadow war."

In 1969 there was a major increase in fighting and for the first time the U.S. government officially acknowledged it was engaged in activities such as bombing and giving logistics support to Laotian troops.

SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

ALMOST EVERYTHING BAD that could be said about House Bill 304 was said Tuesday night at a meeting at the Holiday Inn. Officials of taxing units in Twin Falls County met to talk about the controversial measure which limits taxing units to four per cent increases over budgets of the previous year. Sitting at the head table here are Dr. James Taylor, in the foreground, president of the College of Southern Idaho, and Ed Zimmerman, Boise, executive secretary of the Association of Idaho Cities. In the background, Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll gives his opening remarks to the gathering.

Officials Rap Ceiling On Taxes, Say Home Rule Concept Needed

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

It was home rule night at the Holiday Inn Tuesday. Representatives of taxing units in Twin Falls County gathered to air their opinions of House Bill No. 304. Few of the opinions were favorable.

House Bill No. 304, passed by the last Legislature, limits taxing units to four per cent increases over their previous budgets. In Twin Falls' case, special permission had to be granted to go beyond this four per cent increase because the levies had already been set before the law went into effect.

Other taxing units faced similar problems. Attending to hear the opinions were Sen. John Barker and Sen. Richard High, and Rep. Jack Claiborn, Rep. Ray Lincoln and Rep. William Lanting, Speaker of the House, Rep. William Roberts could not attend.

Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll said, "There is a lot of confusion about this bill and there are a lot of problems and as time goes on I feel the problems will increase."

He said the bill destroys the concept of home rule. In reading comments made to him by others, Mayor Kroll said it felt "this bill restricts the authority of local officials to carry out their duties."

"There is no history of officials abusing their authority," "There is no justification for this legislation. It is punitive action by the Legislature."

The mayor emphasized these were comments made to him by others. "If Idaho is to progress, the cities must be vital."

Dr. James Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho, said, "Our college is growing. We increased our size 24 per cent this year. House Bill 304 limited us to a $28,000 increase. This means our budget is $162,000 off—I recommend we take another look at the bill and see if we can't administer every thing better through home rule."

Home rule means letting taxing unit officials set their budgets, within limits of the law prior to House Bill 304, and have the officials answer to local taxpayers on increases.

Ed Zimmerman, executive secretary of the Association of Idaho Cities, said, "If a city grows, its assessed valuation grows. This would mean more services would have to be provided by the city. But if House Bill 304 restrictions remain, the city budgets cannot grow with growth."

Revised Budget For Minico Schools OK'd

RUPERT — Minidoka School District Board of Trustees this week adopted a revised school budget for the present school year. The new budget shows an increase of $1,739.22 in expenditures over the budget approved in April.

Superintendent Camden Meyer said the increase was due mainly to additional state apportionments and local school tax revenues. The total anticipated revenue for the 1969-70 year in April's budget figure was $2,221,057, while the new revenue figure stands at $2,222,796.22.

The state apportionment foundation program figure increased from the anticipated $1,271,025 in April to an actual $1,458,047.14 and an ancillary personal allowance of $15,730.56 was added.

Agnew Shuns Reporter On Asian Trip

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Sun reported today that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has refused to allow one of its reporters to accompany him on his trip to Asia later this month because, among other reasons, Agnew does not like the newspaper's editorial policy.

Although it has sent a reporter on most recent trips abroad by vice presidents, the Sun reported it has been denied one of the 10 press seats on the plane for the vice president's 25-day trip to Asia which begins Dec. 26.

Triple Amputee Praises Medics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Retired Capt. Max Cleland, one of the few triple amputees to survive the Vietnam War, says that he had suffered the same wounds in World War II or the Korean conflict, he probably would not be alive.

Cleland, of Atlanta, Ga., told a Senate veterans affairs subcommittee Tuesday that medical advances for saving lives on the battlefield are outstripping rehabilitation techniques. Cleland, who lost both legs and his right arm in a grenade explosion in 1968, also said the Vietnam veteran who is wounded faces delayed psychological symptoms because of subsequent doubts about the war itself.

Winter Offensive Anticipated As Red Troops Move

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong shelled Saigon for the first time in four months today and official sources reported an increase in North Vietnamese infiltration that could portend a winter offensive.

The sources said they expected any new Communist drive to catch a South Vietnamese unit unaware Tuesday and deal the government troops heavy losses. At least 17 South Vietnamese were killed and 61 wounded in the shelling.

County To Clean Up Grandstand Debris

Clean up work, the first step toward reconstruction of grandstands destroyed last month in a fire at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds in Filer, has begun by the green light, county officials said Tuesday.

In a meeting with insurance representatives, county commissioners and fair board members were advised adjustments have been made and debris can now be cleared.

Heber Loughmiller, board chairman, said Tom Shouse, manager of the fair grounds, will arrange for the clean up. Meeting with fair board members and county commissioners were representatives of the county insurance company. Mr. Loughmiller said it appears the settlement will be coming in the near future, after which the county will know where it can go.

Mr. Loughmiller said estimates on replacement costs run about 50 per cent and with a capacity of at least 5,000, the stand will cost around $250,000. He said the old stand would handle about 5,500 persons.

Fair board members and county commissioners will inspect several new grandstand structures in the state and surrounding areas as the opportunities arise and will attempt to determine the most suitable type of structure for the local fairgrounds.

Commissioner Morris W. Carlson said the county is thinking only in terms of concrete and steel structure because of insurance rates.

School Board Delays Action On Principal

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone School District trustees have postponed action in charges against Jack Bowlin, elementary school principal, until an investigation of criticism against his administration is complete.

Nearly 150 persons attended the meeting Monday evening in the school recreation room, most of whom supported Bowlin's administration and teaching methods.

Bowlin took the post in Shoshone this fall replacing George McClun, a well-known teacher and administrator who had held the post for more than 20 years.

Bowlin's critics said his administration lacked discipline and physical education while not placing enough on academic studies and used "progressive education methods" to which the critics objected.

Bowlin said any parents were welcome to visit any classes at any time and added that he was willing to cooperate with parents, teachers and staff in working toward solution of problems. In other action, the board: — Postponed the retirement of Frank Lane, high school custodian, for 11 months. — Planned to study the present transportation contract.

Weapons Are Taken From CSI Display

Several weapons from a display at the police academy section of the College of Southern Idaho Vocational-Technical School on Kimberly Road were taken during an early Wednesday morning break-in.

City police officers were notified of the theft about 2:30 a.m. by a security officer from the college. The display board, with a sawed off shotgun and a broken night stick still attached, was found near a rear door of the building. Officers said entry to the school was gained by forcing a latch on a rear door with a piece of metal.

Six doors, including four office doors and the one leading to the police section, were kicked in. Taken from the display board were three sets of brass knuckles, two shotgun pistols and eight or nine knives, mostly of the switchblade type.

City Employees Seek Incentive Program

The City of Twin Falls Employees' Organization has submitted a request to Jean Millar, city manager, for an incentive program which would mean additional pay and vacation for longtime employees.

Dave Johnson, chairman of the organization, said they did not ask for a pay increase this year. He said they felt the council and administration would give a raise if it is possible. Last year the city employees received a 12 per cent salary increase.

Mr. Johnson said a longevity program, such as the one they proposed, would increase the total wages paid by a small 2.97 per cent, which is well below the 4.0 per cent increase allowed by state law.

Hearing

him to pick up Mr. Agee and take him to the hospital. Mr. Huff, Mr. Buschhorn stated, refused and Mr. Buschhorn and his companions went to the police station to notify officers. Joe Oliver, who lives directly across the hall from Mr. and Mrs. Huff, and Joanne Sizemore, who lives in an upstairs apartment, also testified Tuesday. They, too, recounted incidents leading up to the shooting. Mr. Oliver and his wife went to the door when the commotion started in the hallway and he then went to his door where Mr. Huff told him "get these guys out of here." Mr. Oliver said he later observed Mrs. Huff handing the rifle to her husband and that he later saw Mr. Agee on the ground, groping at Mr. Buschhorn's car, attempting to get up. He said that following the fight in the hallway, he was fearful for his family and went back into his apartment and closed the door. He also stated the believed Mr. Huff was frightened and over the objection of prosecuting attorney Robert Galley, was allowed to testify he felt Mr. Huff's reaction was "reasonable" because of the circumstances. Mr. Buschhorn and Mrs. Sizemore both testified Mr. Huff yelled that if he (Buschhorn) and Mr. Agee did not leave he would kill them. There was conflicting testimony presented about the number of shots fired. All in Mr. Buschhorn's party heard only one shot and Chief Barnett testified Mr. Huff told him in his statement that only one shot was fired. Mrs. Sizemore, however testified she heard two shots. Chief Barnett said two empty casings were found in the parking lot. He also said Mr. Huff told him he was frightened and that the two men (Mr. Agee and Mr. Buschhorn) had attempted to force their way into his apartment. It also was testified that both the members of the bachelor party and Mr. Huff, who had attended a Halloween party at Mr. Oliver's apartment had been drinking prior to the shooting incident. Officer Victor Cummings, one of the first to arrive at the shooting scene, described what took place there in the moments following the shooting. He also testified that the police dispatcher sent city cars to the wrong address because of what he believed to be "Halloween night confusion." Dr. Maler stated Mr. Agee died from a single bullet, which caused two perforating wounds, one in the lung, and one in a vital vessel. He said death probably would have occurred within a matter of minutes. The defense is expected to call about five or six witnesses Wednesday. Neither the defendant nor his wife is expected to be called. Mr. Huff is free on $5,000 bond.

Tax Bill

(Continued From Page One) the city and this is where the city is really hurt. The bill puts a damper on growth in the community. Heber Loughmiller, chairman of the Twin Falls County commission, spoke out against the bill but said abolishing it is not the answer. "What we need is tax reform, not just property tax adjustment which is the purpose of this bill," he said. "We face a tax revolt in this county and in this state." He said if 30 per cent of the county's taxpayers decided not to pay their taxes, but just pay the interest and penalty payments on the taxes, "Our taxing units—the school district, highway district and cities—would just have to shut down." Rep. Lanting said the bill was designed to give relief to taxpayers in Idaho because of changes in assessment ratios between now and 1982, when assessments will go up to 20 per cent of true value. He said it appeared from past experience that local officials often took advantage of a situation and levied more taxes than needed and this is where the state had to step in. Sen. High and Rep. Claiborn agreed with him, Rep. Lincoln disagreed. All the Legislators said further study of the bill would be made when the Legislature meets in January. AEC PLANS TESTS LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said Wednesday it would run tests sometime after the first of the year to determine the amount of radioactivity in gases contained in the underground chamber created by Project Rullison.

SUN VALLEY — (UPI) — A $1,549,820 check to Boise Cascade Corporation's Kingsberry West Division Tuesday completed payment on 1969 construction of 80 luxury-condominium units near the foot of Dollar Mountain near the foot of Dollar Mountain. Adrian Godfrey, Boise Cascade's special projects manager throughout the building program, accepted the check from Sun Valley Company, Inc. Godfrey said the 1969 construction, which took place at Boise Cascade's Karcher Mill plant, "was part of a continuing Sun Valley program" which has seen approximately $10 million dollars spent since 1961. William Jans purchased the resort from Union Pacific Railroad. Scott Lee, director of land development and sales for the Sun Valley Company, said the project was a "cooperative effort" in designing and engineering by the two companies.

Deserter To Be Returned To Marines

Charges of forgery will not be pressed by Twin Falls City Police against a 19-year-old man arrested here for desertion from the Marine Corps. Detective Lt. Tim Qualls said local charges against Scott Johnson will not be made and he will be turned over to military authorities. Johnson was arrested about 9 a.m. Monday at a local motel by city and county officers. Several policemen and deputies surrounded the motel while Chief Frank Barnett and Detective Ron Strolberg went to the unit where Johnson was believed to be staying. When the officers knocked on the door, Johnson attempted to exit through a bathroom window. A city police officer, however, was posted before the window and stopped Johnson's escape. Officers said Johnson, who also is wanted on three felony counts by California authorities, gave up without a fight, although local police had been informed that he could be armed and was considered dangerous.

What Are Problems, Aims, Status Of Police Force In Twin Falls — Police Commissioner Gives His Thoughts

(Editor's note: In an attempt to inform its readers about the Twin Falls Police Department, its aims, problems and efficiency, the Times-News asked City Councilman George Bennett, police commissioner, several questions about the force. Following are the questions and his answers.)

Q—What do you think is the biggest job the Twin Falls police force faces in the coming year?

A—In 1970, as usual, the biggest job facing our police force will be the control and investigation of traffic violations and of narcotics violations. Seventy-five per cent of the time of our uniformed men is spent in traffic law enforcement and investigation of accidents. Monetary loss from traffic accidents probably is the greatest single expense that the public carries.

Q—Do you have the personnel, materiel and financing to do the job? If not, what is needed?

A—At present, police coverage is spread too thin. We definitely need five additional men and will try for four additional policemen at budget time. This would be about a 13 per cent increase in manpower. We may be able to find the money, and again we may not. House Bill No. 304 limits taxing agencies to a four per cent increase. Our problem is to justify this 13 per cent manpower increase, in light of the four per cent monetary limitation.

Q—How would you categorize the attitude of Twin Falls citizens towards their police department?

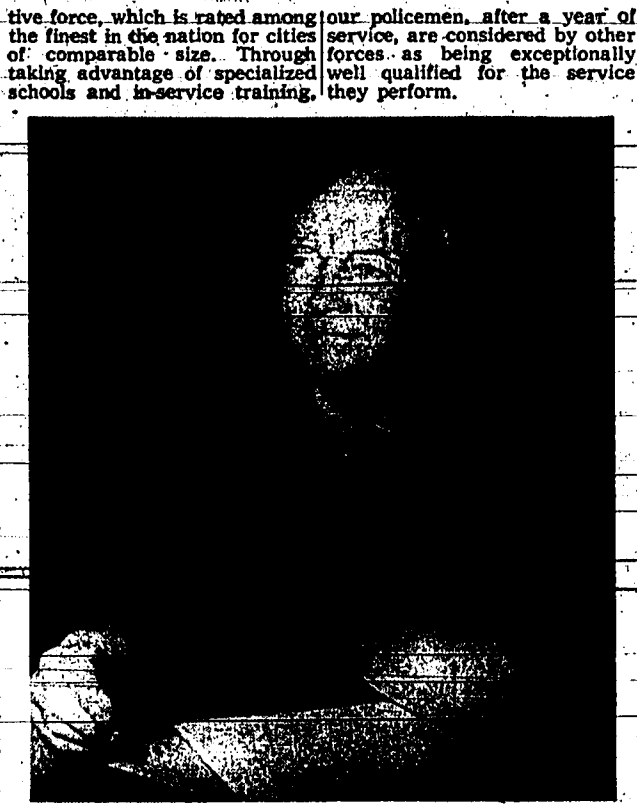

A—In general, the attitude of the average citizen of Twin Falls towards our police department is very good. There are some who are antagonistic towards the force in general, or some individual officers. In almost every instance this is prejudice founded on past performance of the individual doing the complaining. There is always some criticism of police forces in general, and constructive criticism is always welcomed from outside sources.

Q—Do you know of any particular problems that complicate the job of the police here?

A—One thing we all know, but sometimes are not fully aware of the implication, is that Twin Falls is a travelers' crossroads. There is Interstate 80 just north of here and U.S. Highways 30 and 93 crossing in the city. These coast-to-coast and border-to-border routes bring criminals of all types through our city. Inevitably, some of them will commit a burglary, robbery or some other crime, then travel onward. Many of our unsolved larcenies are the result of this situation.

Q—How do you evaluate the police department here in comparison with similar cities; with larger cities; with smaller cities?

A—Government agencies rate the Twin Falls Police Department as the most efficient in both Idaho and Montana. This is especially true of our detec-

Chances Are One In Five It'll Be White Christmas

Think there'll be a white Christmas in Twin Falls this year? There's a one-in-five chance — 20 per cent statistically — of one inch or more of snow Christmas morning, according to the Weather Bureau.

The Weather Bureau's "parent" organization, the Environmental Science Services Administration, has calculated the chance of a white Christmas in major cities of the nation. The figures are based on past weather records of the Weather Bureau, and can be altered by many factors, including the distance of the Weather Bureau recording station from the city, as in Boise, where the station is located at the airport several miles from the downtown area. A figure of 70 per cent, weathermen said, means that there would normally be snow on the ground Christmas morning seven out of 10 years. These are not forecasts, just probabilities.

In the Boise area, only a 10 per cent chance is reported — one year out of 10 would see a white Christmas. Idaho Falls, on the other hand, has a 31 per cent probability; Pocatello, 30 per cent; Salt Lake City, 37 per cent, and Burns, Ore., a husky 47 per cent.

Not so likely to see snow on the ground at Christmas are Lewiston, with only 3 per cent; Seattle, Wash., and Reno, Nev., each with 7 per cent, and Pendleton, Portland, San Francisco, and Las Vegas, each with no chance at all of snow.

But in Twin Falls, we should have at least an inch of snow on the ground one year out of five, according to the busy computers of the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Secretary Resor To Get The Boot

WASHINGTON — The My Lai incident is sealing the fate of Army Secretary Stanley Resor...

Both Republicans and Democrats have been irately sputtering about him since the sorry Green Beret boggle a few months ago...

what they consider the same kind of panic and muddle-headedness and bungling in dealing with My Lai...

soon as the dust settles a little. Big mystery is how and why Resor has stayed on so long in the Nixon regime...

Other officers and men are required to serve there only one year. Chesarek is an outstanding logistician and diplomat...

Young Leaders

What Mrs. Shirley Temple Black advocated in her recent appearance on TV's Meet The Press — namely that youth should participate in decisions in the modern world...

Mrs. Black, the former child movie star who is now the United States representative to United Nations, said she had in mind that citizens under 25 years of age...

In Magic Valley there are many spots where a bright, knowledgeable "youngster" of 25 years or so could fit in and do a good job...

Places where these young people could serve are many and mixing the thoughts of their generation with the thoughts of the generation usually serving in such positions might just be the best thing that ever happened.

Mrs. Black's suggestion caught the panel members and the moderator napping. The moderator just couldn't believe his ears...

When he became deeply concerned because he thought she was advocating turning over the "whole bucket" to the youthful crowd...

mind was "not to turn it over to them" but "I want to have them share its direction with us."

We are sure Mrs. Black did not have in mind the few "creeps" now making all the noise around the country. Rather, she had in mind serious minded and talented individuals who would make a future workable world.

In Twin Falls, at every city election, a "committee" goes up and down the street urging certain individuals to run for the vacant posts...

Perhaps this situation is good (there are two ways to look at it, of course) but we might suggest that next time election year in Twin Falls rolls around, why not "solicit" a young team to oppose the older team?

To our knowledge, no person between 21 and 25 has held a city or county elective office in Twin Falls county. Perhaps it is the same all over the valley...

Who knows — if they are elected we might get a lot of our troubles settled.

Personally, we know a lot of people in that age group who could do a real good job in any elective or appointive post you could throw at them!

So, humbly, we second Mrs. Black's motion.

"Sit Up And Beg—Until Next July!"

Compounding the mystery is the fact that Resor is the only Democratic holdover in the Pentagon hierarchy...

The 52-year-old New York lawyer was appointed by President Johnson a few months after his 1964 landslide victory. He is a decorated veteran of World War II and a graduate of Groton and Yale Law School.

That long-rumored change in the top U.S. command in Vietnam is now definitely set for soon after the first of the year.

Gen. Creighton Abrams, the Army's stellar offensive battle commander, will be replaced by Gen. Ferdinand Chesarek, head of the Army's Materiel Command and the Army's representative on the U.S. delegation to the United Nations.

Their specialties and notable talents explain the reason for the impending shift.

Abrams is an expert in aggressive warfare who as a tank commander fought across Europe under famed General Patton.

And the same is largely true of Somalia, directly across the Gulf of Aden on the African side. As a consequence of a coup, Somalia is now ruled by pro-Egypt and Soviet Marxists.

There is far more sinister import behind the little-reported warring between Saudi Arabia and Yemen than is publicly realized.

This remote conflict may touch off the next round of general fighting in the super-charged Middle East. Pentagon, State Department and intelligence authorities are uneasily watching this highly explosive tinderbox with gravest concern.

Reason is the Israelis strongly suspect that Egypt's President-dictator Nasser, prompted by Russia, is the motivating source of Yemen's aggressive truculence.

Nasser and the Soviet — supplying the arms — dominate the Yemen regime. In effect, it's an Egypt-Russian satellite.

And the same is largely true of Somalia, directly across the Gulf of Aden on the African side. As a consequence of a coup, Somalia is now ruled by pro-Egypt and Soviet Marxists.

ART BUCHWALD

In Hollywood

It is no secret that the major film companies are in a great deal of difficulty. The big, colorful films that cost $20 million are grossing $600,000...

One of the problems is that many of the motion picture companies are now owned by conglomerates who haven't had too much experience in the business.

Typical of the companies under fire is Blockbuster Films, which for years produced one-third of all the movies made in Hollywood. Unfortunately, five years ago Blockbuster Films was sold to a Zenith Garbage Disposal Inc., which merged with Hallucination Oil Refiners, which became part of the Riptide Fire Hydrant conglomerate.

The president of Riptide fired Sam Blockbuster and put his own man, Arnold Meacham, in charge of the studios. Meacham previously had been treasurer of the Riptide Baking Division of "Mother Goose's Tasty Bread." He was selected for the job after Riptide's president had spent an evening looking at Meacham's home movies of his trip to Acapulco.

The first thing Meacham did, when he took over the studio, was fire all the producers, directors and writers and technicians. He replaced them with executives from the bread company, who had been so successful in making "Mother Goose Bread," one of the best-selling grocery items in the United States.

At his first press conference, Meacham said that he had every intention of making Blockbuster Films the great movie company it once was, and he planned on producing 350 films the first year.

There was great excitement at the first sneak preview in Pasadena. Riptide executives from all over the world flew in to see Meacham's first effort. They took over the Rose Bowl for an after-theater party.

The preview cards the audience filled out were ecstatic. Some patrons wrote it was the best picture they had ever seen. It was a great evening. Unfortunately a lawyer from MGM happened to be in the audience that night, and the next morning he called Blockbuster Films and told them that their picture had already been filmed and MGM had all the rights to it.

Having worked in the bakery business all his life, poor Arnold Meacham had no inkling that someone else had already made "Gone With the Wind."

Value Of ROTC

Students for a Democratic Society, unmasked as a radical rabble with communist influences in it, has been losing ground on campuses across the country and the Reserve Officers Training Corps, long an SDS target, has been coming on strong.

After a demonstration and window-breaking spree at the University of Washington recently, the university withdrew its recognition of the SDS. The destruction followed an SDS-sponsored rally against the ROTC. Two persons — not students — were arrested.

Subsequently, the university faculty senate recommended the school continue reserve officers academic training and bar strictly military training.

This could benefit everybody. Busy college students can better employ their time by hitting the books than by parade ground drills, activity readily concentrated into summer training camps away from the university and its distractions and the competition for students' time.

Prof. George Buck, U.W. committee chairman, defended the recommended action as a "national trend," noting that 67 per cent of Cornell's undergraduates now support retention of an upgraded ROTC. Cornell students rioted against military drill last spring.

Students have supported ROTC at other colleges and universities, such as Stanford, despite protests from some professors, some student dissenters, and some non-student troublemakers.

New Mexico State University has made ROTC voluntary, not mandatory, following the example of the majority of land grant colleges, where for years a minimum of two years in ROTC was required of male students for the privilege of attending.

It is evident that real students who have honest objections to old ways and sincere interests in improvements are being heard. They were heard on the draft. They were heard on ROTC. And they will continue to be heard, so long as they give up sophomoric violence, and throw out those who want nothing less than to pull down the government.

PAUL HARVEY

How About A Foreign Policy?

Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee has deferred reopening its public investigation of our Vietnam policy, but the committee will try to keep its teeth in the President's trousers until Democrats can claim credit for next year's almost inevitable phase-out.

That's politics, as they say. But for the man in that big, lonely house down at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue this first year has been haunted by no decision more agonizing than this.

There is a school of thought which says Americans must go anywhere in the world to prevent Communist takeover of helpless independent states. Mr. Nixon was tutored, personally, by the "dean" of that school, Dwight Eisenhower.

Recently, as on his deathbed, Gen. Eisenhower sought from Mr. Nixon a promise that he would never "turn tail and run" from the Vietnam commitment.

Previous to President Nixon's Nov. 3 address to the world, he closeted himself at Camp David in the Maryland Mountains to spend a rainy weekend in prayer and contemplation and preparation for that policy speech.

The President remains convinced that if we run from Vietnam we will next be challenged in Berlin or in the Middle East and eventually in our own hemisphere.

Contradicting this theory is evidence worth considering that Communists, trying to extend their reach, have altogether as much trouble as we have trying to hold Humpty Dumpty together.

In one after another country in Africa, for example, the Communists have been thrown out. Even in Eastern Europe, Russia has a perpetual problem of fence mending.

If, indeed, the Communists should seek control of all Southeast Asia—which I doubt—that mission impossible could keep them broke and busy for the next 200 years.

And better they wouldn't say that. Also, those we are asking to do the dying are in this instance confronted by an inescapable inconsistency which tends to cancel out any anxiety about Berlin, the Middle East and those other places.

Because they see Latin-American governments continue to alternate red and green—and we shrug it off.

So if the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has an urgent mission, it's bigger than Vietnam.

Instead of needling the President on a single issue, that committee could well address itself to a total re-evaluation of our nation's foreign relations.

Let us have a foreign policy.

We can remain reasonably flexible in our responses, but our youngsters will no longer let us get away with hypocrisy.

And they are right. We are wrong.

If we stagger home drunk and tell them not to smoke pot—we are wrong.

And we are wrong if we send them to the other side of the world to die to try to intercept communism.

While we tolerate it 90 miles from Florida.

MR. SPECTATOR

Elementary Capitalists

Allan Harrison is one of thousands of sixth-grade school teachers in the United States, but the pupils in his Riverside, Calif., class are learning a lesson believed to be unique. They are being taught the capitalist system in a practical way.

Instead of grades Harrison awards them money — all on paper. Each pupil begins the term with $500 in his "bank." Pupils are paid when they perform well and fined when they don't. The idea is to appeal to their acquisitive instinct.

Although Harrison admits some parents and educators "shudder at the idea of bringing capitalism in the schools," he is convinced his system works.

"I'm teaching the American way of life," he says. "This is the way society will treat students when they are out of school. Why not teach children about American society the way it really is?"

There is no reason why not. If the pupils are better able to master their subjects under this technique than with conventional grading systems, they have learned a double lesson which can only benefit them once they leave the academic world.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Raynaud's Disease

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for Raynaud's disease to go away like it came, since there is no cure for it?—Mrs. F.

Dear Doctor: In severe cases of Raynaud's disease, when it is necessary to sever the nerves which control blood vessel tone, how do the fingers and toes appear, and do they have sensitivity to feelings of hot and cold? I have been told that the hands and feet remain a purplish red in color, and stay swollen after the nerves are severed. I have had this condition for 20 years and it is gradually worsening.—Mrs. J. H.

Raynaud's disease, which is much more common in women than men, involves vasospasm. That is, blood vessels go into spasm, or become constricted, so that circulation is appreciably reduced in the extremities.

This is particularly annoying when fingers or toes become chilled. Circulation then is sufficiently reduced so the extremities become blanched—lose color. They feel cold, too, and it doesn't take much chilling for the extremities to become quite uncomfortable.

If you can avoid chilling, or live in a consistently warm locality, that can make you much more comfortable—but not everyone can do that.

Keep in mind that this is a constriction, or spasm, of the blood vessels, and patients are individuals who are chronically tense. To answer Mrs. F.'s question, yes, it is possible for Raynaud's disease to correct itself, but that is not common. It can happen if there is a general lessening of nervous tension which, in turn, can reduce vasospasm. Possible, but not very common.

Therefore, in severe cases a nerve operation is employed, sympathectomy, which cuts nerves that govern the constriction of peripheral blood vessels. This causes a permanent relaxation of these vessels. When relaxed, they permit freer flow of blood in the extremities.

Because of this, fingers and toes will have a livid color, but they are not necessarily swollen. That cannot be predicted. They are more comfortable and not so sensitive to cold.

As to sensation, keep in mind that the sensory nerves (those which transmit a sense of touch) are not severed. The patient may have some feeling of numbness, but with actual testing of sensory response, the ability to feel pain, or even a light touch, is usually normal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 36 and had a partial hysterectomy (just the uterus removed) four years ago.

My doctor told me to have a Pap smear test once a year for safety's sake. Now we have moved to another state, and the new doctor says that because I had a hysterectomy I no longer need a Pap smear. Is this right?—Mrs. C. R.

That's a frequent question, and there's a considerable difference of opinion, so the best I can do is tell you what I think is the proper answer. (I find plenty of professional agreement with my view among gynecologists and other physicians.)

It isn't a simple yes or no answer.

The cervix, or neck of the womb (uterus), is the most frequent site of cancer in the genital area of women. The Pap test (taking a sample of the cells at the cervix) has proved to be an extremely useful test to determine whether abnormal cells are present — being a matter of cells becoming abnormal to an uncontrolled degree.

In your case, Mrs. R., you say only the uterus was removed, which implies that the cervix is still there—and remains a potentially vulnerable spot.

If it had been a complete hysterectomy, with the cervix removed, then I would say that a Pap smear would be of scant value. But with the cervix still there, and especially if your ovaries were not removed, then I say yes, a Pap smear is a wise precaution.

(I mention the presence of the ovaries since their activity in hormone production appears to have a bearing on the appearance and progress of cancer of the cervix, although I do not mean that that is the cause. The cause of cancer remains a question that has not been solved.)

Highway Department Plans To Rebuild Nine Bridges, Including Perrine Structure

Although its sturdy legs withstood the test of a half-century, the pressure of hundreds of tons of weight daily for 42 years finally had a telling effect on the Perrine Memorial Bridge.

This historic landmark is one of nine bridges which are nearing completion or are in the planning stages for replacement, according to Robert Jarvis, bridge engineer for the state Highway Department.

Even in its weakened condition the bridge, which is also known as the Rim-to-Rim Bridge, is still strong enough to accept traffic at reduced loads.

Spanning the deep chasm of Highway 33 north of Twin Falls at a height of 476 feet, the Perrine Bridge was built in 1927 as a toll facility. In 1940 it was purchased by the state and made a toll-free bridge.

The engineering firm of Howard, Needles, Tamman and Bergendoff, who gave it an exhaustive "physical" almost to the last rivet, determined that its load-carrying capabilities had been dangerously reduced over the years and virtually sealed its fate.

Acting on the firm's diagnosis, the Idaho Highway Department in the interest of public safety decided to reduce the load limit on commercial trucks from 79,000 pounds gross weight to 44,000 pounds and eventually to replace the old structure with a modern bridge designed for today's traffic needs.

According to Mr. Jarvis preliminary plans are under way to build a new bridge. Just recently the consulting firm was contacted and asked if it wanted the job of researching and designing a new structure which would meet the heavy demands of the traffic.

In the design stage now is the new Whitebird Canyon Bridge similar to the recently completed 340 foot Falls River Bridge near Ashton but much longer — 830 feet, making it perhaps the longest bridge of its type in the country.

Three bridges in conjunction with the McKenzie Creek-Slate Creek Project along U.S. 95 north of Riggins are nearing completion. Two bridges will cross the Salmon River; the other will span Slate Creek to become an integral part of the four-and-one-half-mile realignment of that portion of U.S. 95.

An entirely different type of structural design will be featured in the new Skokumchuck Creek Bridge soon to be built.

Two-Foot Snowfall Covers Magic Mountain; Opening Set

Magic Mountain Ski Resort will officially open the 1969-70 season Saturday with approximately two feet of snow covering ski runs.

All facilities at the area will be operating including the day lodge cafeteria, the Poma lift on Pike Mountain and the T-bar on Magic Mountain.

Claude Jones, area owner, said all runs on Pike are in good condition and have been machine-packed and rolled. On Magic, skiers will be able to ski the upper face and gulch runs which are also packed but the lower face will not open until additional snow falls.

A new parking system will be in use this year with former roadside parking area no longer in use. Instead a new parking lot at the base of Pike Mountain and the enlarged circle parking area near the lodge will be used. Approximately 250 vehicles can be accommodated on the new lots, U. S. Forest Service officials report.

Buses will leave Jerome and Twin Falls each Saturday at 8:30 and 9 a.m. and will be available on a daily basis during the holiday period.

Buses will load at Lynwood Shopping Center in Twin Falls. Plans have also been announced for the annual junior ski instruction program beginning Jan. 10 for three consecutive Saturdays. A second three-week session will follow on Jan. 31.

Many improvements have been made during the summer on ski runs including clearing and extending of Nosedive. A new final drive unit has also been added on the Magic lift. A rope tow will be operated for ski schools, and to alleviate peak crowds on the Poma lift.

Vandals Damage Nativity Scene

Employees of the city parks department worked several hours Monday on the nativity scene in the city park bandshell after vandals damaged it sometime Sunday night.

Howard Johnson, city parks superintendent, said the vandals cut the wire fence to get to the scene. He said the flood light bulbs were stolen, an angel was knocked over and the figures had been rearranged. Mr. Johnson said it cost $9 to replace the light bulbs and several hours labor.

Jury Hears Defense Need Emphasized

CHICAGO (UPI)—A slim, blonde, blue-eyed young woman told the "Chicago Seven" trial Tuesday the 1968 Democratic National Convention convinced her "the democratic process had fallen apart and that we had to defend ourselves or be wiped out."

Since the convention, she said, she has taken up karate and target shooting with an M1 rifle to defend herself.

Linda Morse, 26, Berkeley, Calif., testified as a defense witness. Under cross-examination by Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard G. Schultz she presented the trial's first detailed examination of radical political theory.

She said she had known five of the defendants, charged with conspiring to incite riots during the convention, for more than two years.

Before the convention, she said, she was a pacifist and felt "we could reach the government by nonviolent means."

But, she said, "What I saw going on at the convention convinced me the political process in this country was falling apart." She cited police beating demonstrators, the refusal of the city to grant permits to demonstrators and the actions of the convention itself.

"This country is going to have to be changed radically, through a revolution, and the revolution will entail the use of violence, both to defend ourselves and tear down the establishment," Miss Morse said.

'Tiny Tim' Will Take Marital Vow

NEW YORK (UPI)—Herbert Buckingham Khaury, commonly known as Tiny Tim, is getting married tonight. God bless us every one.

The marriage ceremony will be brought into the American home by television. The groom will wear a high beaver hat, an Inverness cape, a generally Victorian air, and a new hairdo. It will be combed.

The bride will wear a Victorian-style gown of off white peau de sole (French, "skin of silk") with an empire waist and three-foot train. Victoria May Budinger, commonly known as Vicki—and to the groom as "Miss Vicki"—will be given away by her father, Allan.

Asked if he thought getting married would hurt his public image, Tiny Tim replied: "No, I'm not a sex symbol like Tom Jones."

Was he nervous? "Not as nervous as I'll be tonight. I hope I'm worthy of her. I've got the regular bridegroom nervous feeling."

How about children? "I want a big family, as large as heaven will allow. Even 30 will not be too many."

The best man will be the singer's manager, Joseph Cappelluzzo. It was a previous manager, one of several Khaury had in 1963 who thought up the name of Tiny Tim. Before that he sang under the names of Emmet Swink, Vernon Castle, Larry Love, Darry Dove, and Judah K. Foxglove.

Tiny, after the way of show folk, does not disclose his age. The bride is 17.

"His age is a secret—he's around 42," said one man who said his educated guess was based on hearing the singer years ago in Greenwich Village. Tiny put his age as 37 on the marriage license application.

Nixon Administration Maps Drive To Develop 'Quiet, Clean' Motor For Cars

By CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration has drafted a five-year plan for an alternative to the dirty, noisy standard car motor. The possibilities include steam engines, gas turbines, electric cars—and even "exotic energy conversion techniques."

The plan calls for making "unconventional" new cars commercially available by the mid-1970s if everything works right—or at least by the 1980s.

"Although progress is being made in control of pollutant emissions from the internal combustion engine, it is becoming increasingly attractive and imperative that alternative control concepts be developed," the plan said.

The plan was developed by the Health, Education and Welfare Department and was recommended to President Nixon last week by his air quality advisory board.

The standard automobile engine is too dirty and too noisy, says the HEW plan. "The availability of alternatives to the internal combustion engine will influence environmental control in at least three areas: Air pollution control, indoor and occupational health and control of community noise," it says.

The plan refers to "significant problems" in parking garages and other indoor settings from automobile exhausts of carbon monoxide, lead and other irritants. A copy of the plan, obtained by UPI, says the auto industry does not have enough "motivation" to come up with its own new power sources.

"Therefore, it seems clear that some government encouragement of non-auto companies and additional stimulation of vehicle manufacturers is necessary," it said.

Industry itself has considered some visionary ideas. In one proposed for testing in Milwaukee, motorists would use conventional power to drive to the city, and would then hook on to automatically controlled guideways.

HEW said the cost of the five-year plan to the government would be $45 million, excluding the cost of test cars.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said in a letter Dec. 4 to consumer crusader Ralph Nader the government sees a need for better low pollution engines.

HEW's plan calls for eventual government fleet use of low pollution models that pass certain tests. "When a vehicle has passed the fleet testing stage, the government would enter a true procurement program," it said.

Congressman Accuses Bankers Of Making Undue Profit From 'Christmas Clubs'

By DANIEL RAPOPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of a congressional consumers subcommittee accused banks today of making millions of dollars from poor people and others who use Christmas clubs to save money for presents.

Not only do the banks generally not pay interests, said Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., sometimes they penalize the customer for missing a payment—even though the banks have had free use of the rest of his payments.

Rosenthal said his House Subcommittee was considering an investigation to determine whether banks are complying with the truth-in-lending law, specifically whether they clearly point out that unlike other savings accounts, Christmas and the relatively new vacation clubs pay no interest.

Rosenthal estimated that as of June 30, about $4 billion was tied up in clubs accounts that pay no interest (between 10 and 12 1/2 per cent reportedly do).

Deducting something to cover administrative costs, Rosenthal figured the members were missing out on about $144 million a year in interest at current rates of between 4 1/2 per cent and 4 3/4 per cent.

Financial institutions, meanwhile, may loan the money and receive anywhere from 8 per cent to 10 per cent for it. "It's the biggest windfall I have ever seen," Rosenthal said in an interview.

Some clubs if a payment is missed penalize depositors by deducting a small fee when the money is returned.

Douglas R. Smith, chairman of the National Savings and Trust Co. in Washington, said in a letter to Rosenthal Christmas clubs were aimed at persons of "modest means" and those "who need the opportunity for enforced savings."

Rosenthal, however, said children, the elderly and those just above the poverty line—those who least understood about the availability of interest payments from regular accounts—could least afford missing the interest.

Rosenthal met last week with government officials from agencies who are responsible for regulating financial institutions. Rosenthal said the representative from the Federal Reserve Board acknowledged the possibility that legally banks should be spelling out clearly that they do not pay interest on club accounts and said his agency, responsible for enforcing the truth-in-lending law, would study the question.

Congressman's Survey Shows Constituents Feel Vietnam War Is No. 1 U. S. Problem

The Vietnam War is the major problem facing America, an opinion poll among people in Idaho's Second Congressional District revealed recently.

The poll was conducted by Rep. Orval Hansen. He circulated questionnaires among citizens in his district, then released the information in a Christmas message from Washington, D.C.

In his announcement, Rep. Hansen said he plans to visit most counties in his district next month to meet with people at informal gatherings.

ORVAL HANSEN

"Because of the long session of Congress, my trips to Idaho have been limited. Before the second session starts I want to visit most of the counties and learn the views of citizens on some of the issues we face in the coming months."

He said a schedule of his activities next month would be released later.

In response to questionnaires he mailed out, he said citizens indicated inflation is the number two problem in America. Others, in the order they were listed, are crime, tax reform, campus disorders, poverty, education, farm problems and urban problems.

Rep. Hansen posed nine specific questions to citizens in the district, and got varied opinions on each.

They are: Do you favor or oppose the Safeguard Limited Anti-Ballistic Missile Defense system proposed by the president? In favor, 57 per cent; opposed, 28 per cent, and no opinion, 15 per cent.

Do you believe that the amount of money being spent by the federal government on education is too much, 28 per cent; too little, 27 per cent; about right, 36 per cent, and no opinion, 9 per cent.

Do you think college students who break laws while participating in campus demonstrations should be expelled? Should be, 94 per cent; should not, 5 per cent, and no opinion, 1 per cent.

Would you favor or oppose having federal financial assistance taken away from students who break laws while participating in campus demonstrations? Favor, 94 per cent; opposed, 4 per cent, and no opinion, 2 per cent.

Do you think college students should or should not have greater say in the running of colleges? Should, 31 per cent; should not, 63 per cent, and no opinion, 6 per cent.

Do you believe that the laws and regulations relating to firearms that were adopted last year are too restrictive, 62 per cent; not restrictive enough, 9 per cent; about right, 20 per cent, and no opinion, 9 per cent.

On methods of electing the president, which do you prefer: make no change in the present system, 12 per cent; abolish the electoral college and elect the president by popular vote, 72 per cent; elect presidential electors within state and congressional districts in the same manner as senators and representatives, 8 per cent, and divide the state's electoral vote among the candidates in proportion to the popular vote, 8 per cent.

Do you favor or oppose a change in the tax laws that would limit to $15,000 the amount of farm losses that could be offset against non-farm income? Favor, 73 per cent; opposed, 9 per cent, and no opinion, 18 per cent.

Finally, should tax laws be changed to require all taxpayers in high income brackets to pay a minimum tax, favor, 84 per cent; opposed, 6 per cent, and no opinion, 10 per cent.

In his message, Rep. Hansen told of the bills he has sponsored since taking office earlier this year. They include:

Provide special programs for children with specific learning disabilities; make more readily available student loans to finance higher education; provide members of the National Guard and Reserve Forces who are called to active duty for serving during the war in Vietnam the same GI educational benefits as members of the regular armed forces are entitled to receive; provide for sharing of federal tax revenues with state and local governments, and allow income tax credit for certain higher education expenses.

Also, provide educational programs on environmental quality; limit the period of daylight savings time to the three summer months, and support President Nixon's efforts to achieve a just peace in Vietnam.

Power Outage

Approximately 1,000 Idaho Power customers in the Twin Falls area experienced a nine-minute interruption at about 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Jim Johnstone, an Idaho Power spokesman, said the interruption was caused by a fuse failure on the power transformer at the east gate substation. He said it may have been due to trouble which occurred last week.

Customers effected were at Kimberly and southeast of Twin Falls and one area in the south part of the city.

Three New Patrolmen Join Twin Falls Police Force

Three new men have joined the Twin Falls City Police Department this week, according to Chief Frank Barnett, who said the department still is one man short.

BIRTH REPORTED

MURTAUGH—Word has been received here of the birth Tuesday of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Terry Cummins, Grotton, Conn. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Cummins-Hansen, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swenson, Twin Falls, L. J. Jensen, Eden, is paternal great-grandfather.

Reporting for duty are John R. Willard, Pocatello, a graduate of the Idaho State University Police Science School; Gary Motzner, Twin Falls, who previously was employed by Magic Valley Ambulance Service, and Robert L. Hyde, Twin Falls, who spent three years as a guard at the State of Washington Correction Center.

Chief Barnett said he still has one more position to be filled and another vacancy will be created Dec. 22 when officer Dick Haynes reports for work at the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office.

The three new men are replacing Jerry Packer and Harold Jensen, who earlier joined the sheriff's staff, and Jerry Englebert, who has taken a job as a policeman with the City of Ketchum.

KEY MEMBERS OF A WORK TEAM hoping to solve some of the common problems of Idaho communities are currently working in the ISU Government Research Institute and Computer Center to collect and process data from 17 towns. Some of the output of 42 hours of computer analysis is shown here with Dr. Herbert G. Lingren, assistant professor of sociology; Dr. Victor S. Hjelm, assistant professor of government; Dr. R. John Eyre, director of the Institute and William Shields, instructor in sociology, all from left.

Computer Research At Idaho State University Is Aimed At Solving Common Problems In Various Idaho Cities

Machines and keyboards are punching out information these days in one of the largest research projects ever undertaken by Idaho State University's Government Research Institute and Computer Center.

The project is aimed at coming up with some realistic answers to common problems in Idaho's communities.

Under the direction of the Government Research Institute, the project is now about 50 per cent completed and will culminate in the spring with workshops throughout the state in which the information will be presented. Among these will be sessions in Gooding, Burley, Twin Falls and Mountain Home.

In the program, 17 Idaho cities, ranging in size from Boise and Twin Falls to Hailey, Malad City and Potlatch, were taken as sample communities.

Major problems in each community, which turned out to follow a general trend, were determined and then conferences held to explore each. The 11 major problem areas of all communities included housing, poverty, local government, youth problems, recreation, business growth and development, health, education, agriculture, social problems and employment.

Dr. R. John Eyre, director of the ISU Government Research Institute, said the next step was to identify people in each community with the various problems.

"This gave us a pattern of community needs in the state based on the community's size and location.

"The second part of the project involves identification of programs, grants and services available to communities to as-ist them in solving problems. Surveys were conducted covering state, federal and local agencies, educational institutions, business and profit organizations to determine all services available to the cities.

The program began in December, 1968, and has covered nearly all of the problem areas. Profiles made as part of the project show which communities have unique problems they must solve themselves and which have problems common to most of the state where statewide operation can be used in meeting these.

Community leaders will be asked to attend the workshop sessions and each will receive a profile of his own community. Where a problem encompasses a large number of communities it should be dealt with on a collective statewide basis, Dr. Eyre said.

Others who are working on the project at ISU include Dr. Herbert G. Lingren, assistant professor of sociology; Dr. Victor S. Hjelm, assistant professor of government and William Shields sociology instructor.

In addition, a number of students are assisting with the surveys and studies. The governor's office and other state agencies have also been cooperating, Dr. Eyre said.

The ISU computer center, under direction of Paul Kratzke has undertaken the job of data reduction problems. The center will be using an IBM 1130 computer and the program being used to analyze the data has taken four months of continuous programming. Doing this was Daren Davis, a junior from Shelley majoring in electrical engineering.

On a recently completed analysis, the program ran for 95 hours creating output measurable only in feet, said Ron Green, a programmer analyst in the center.

Faith Talks Slated Here On Sundays

"Search For A Meaningful Faith" is the subject of a new adult discussion group being offered by the Twin Falls United Methodist Church.

Chet Bartlett, executive director of the Magic Valley Young Men's Christian Association, will serve as the discussion leader.

The discussion group will meet at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Coffee is available at 9:30 a.m.

The group will utilize the text, "Man's Search For A Meaningful Faith" by Robert C. Lewis, Professor of Pastoral Psychology and Counseling, Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, Calif. A companion volume of selected readings on the subject will also be used.

Mr. Bartlett pointed out that the encounter group approach will be used. "We are not so concerned with what people learn in this group, as we are with what people become as a result of having been a group participant. Our purpose will be to meet the needs of the participants with relation to their search rather than to focus upon the subject in the abstract."

Anyone interested in joining the group is welcome. "The only thing we ask is that participants will be willing to admit they are searching and be willing to devote some time each week to reading and contemplation of their own faith so that they might share their questions and convictions with the group," Mr. Bartlett said.

High School Concert Set For Tonight

The Twin Falls High School Music Department will present a Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Fine Arts Auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho under the direction of Del Slaughter, instrumental, and Richard Smack, choral.

The Symphony orchestra will play "In Dulci Jubilo Overture," Tjaek; "Suite of Carols for String Orchestra," Anderson; "Carol of the Drum," Davis, and "Symphony of Bells," Beckman.

The Concert choir will sing "For Unto Us a Child is Born," Handel; "The Hunter," Brahms; "Carol-Noel," Wilhousky; "Did Mary Know?" Avere; "Infant Holy," Rubbra, and "O Holy Night," Adams, with Joyce Guyer, soprano and Paule Sharral, tenor soloist.

Accompanists are Terry Becker and Jeannine Berry.

The Symphony band will play "Concerto Grosso in D Minor," Vivaldi; "Two Nativity Carols," Gordon; "Three Noels," Grundman; "Adeste Fidelis," Ployhar, and "Russian Christmas Music," Red Reed.

Final Meeting On Family Life Slated Tonight

The last session in a series of five on the subject, "Changes in Family Life" will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Rhea Auditorium of the Twin Falls Episcopal Church.

"The Person in a Changing World" is the topic for this final session. Rev. John Steppert, pastor of the Wendell Presbyterian Church, will be the discussion leader.

The entire series has been sponsored in memory of Wayne Hankins, former law enforcement official in Twin Falls who died in September.

The public is invited and there is no charge.

Visits Up

CRATERS OF THE MOON — Visitors to Craters of the Moon National Monument during November were up 77 per cent compared to the same time a year ago, reports Paul Fritz, superintendent.

Some 4,804 people visited the National Park Service area during November, 1969, compared to 2,705 in November, 1968. Total visitors for the year now stands at 197,295 compared to 189,644 for the same 11-month period last year.

Mr. Fritz noted the Craters of the Moon's November visitor count of 4,804 people exceeds Yellowstone National Park's November, 1969 visitor count of 3,240.

Solid Waste Problems To Be Studied

Solid waste problems in Twin Falls County including the disposal of material at the county dump grounds will be discussed Thursday in a meeting at the office of the local Soil Conservation Service.

Dr. R. P. Fasolino, Idaho State University, who is directing the Twin Falls County planning study, will meet with planning committee members and county officials to discuss the problem.

Heber Loughmiller, county commission chairman, said the meeting is expected to begin about 11:30 a.m.

'Seeding' Of Fog Said Successful

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Fog-seeding operations at International Airport were described as successful Tuesday after heavy fog closed the airport to commercial flights Monday.

The thick fog dropped ground visibility to zero and was blamed for a crash of a jet early Tuesday morning in which two men were killed.

Key Aviation, responsible for the seeding operations, has been making continuous runs since Monday morning.

The plane stays up two hours and drops dry ice into the fog, converting the moisture into snow and temporarily clearing the air.

Sen. Fulbright Reports On Appeal To Ho Chi Minh For Release Of U. S. POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., appealed unsuccessfully to Ho Chi Minh last summer for release of the names of Americans held as prisoners of war by North Vietnam, it was learned Tuesday.

Fulbright's office confirmed the exchange of letters which the Senator said he initiated with the knowledge and support of the State Department in a brief "personal appeal" sent in late June, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked that the "purely humanitarian" question of the identity of American prisoners be separated from political and military issues.

But in a seven-paragraph reply in English dated July 25—less than six weeks before his death on Sept. 3—Ho refused to separate the prisoner issue from others in dispute between his country and the United States.

"It cannot be taken as a separate issue, and the Nixon Administration must bear full responsibility for the delay in the settlement of this question as well as that of the Vietnam problem as a whole," Ho wrote.

Little, Barker Win Pencils At Toastmasters

Elmer Little won the blue pencil at the regular meeting of the I. B. Perrine Toastmasters Club Monday at Kay's Supper Club.

The blue pencil for table topics went to Ed Barker. Other speakers were Chet Bartlett and John Morris.

Ken Reir was toastmaster for the evening with Kent Kirk as timer and Frank Robinson as table topic chairman. Homer Roberts was the general evaluator and Bob Kohl was the grammarian. Byrd Goley and W. S. Sutherland were guests. The club will not meet Dec. 22. The next regular meeting will be Dec. 29.

Buhl Woman's Painting Tops YMCA Display

An oil entitled "Mountain Sunset" painted by Irene Koci of Buhl has won the first place ribbon in the current "Y" art gallery showing. Twenty-eight paintings will be on display through Jan. 30 at the YMCA-YWCA Service Center, 1751 Elizabeth Blvd.

Persons interested in a Christmas gift of an original painting are urged to see the display daily Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is variety including landscapes, still life, portraits and animal subjects in the current show.

Contract Let

WENDELL — The Wendell City Council awarded a contract to Ambrose Distributing Co. for fuel oil during a recent council meeting.

Ambrose Distributing submitted the lowest bid of 1,409 per gallon. The fuel oil will be used at the Wendell fire house. Other bids submitted were Grange Supply, 1,565 per gallon, and Continental Oil, 1,550 per gallon.

It was announced that the dog licenses expire on Dec. 31 and can be renewed at the City Hall.

"It cannot be taken as a separate issue, and the Nixon Administration must bear full responsibility for the delay in the settlement of this question as well as that of the Vietnam problem as a whole," Ho wrote.

The North Vietnamese president said the matter of American military prisoners "will be solved at the same time as the whole of the 10-point solution" advance by the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong.

Fulbright a persistent critic of U.S. involvement in Vietnam wrote Ho. "I am sure that you know how much I would like to see an end of the war in Vietnam, which has brought such sorrow to the people of your country as well as to the people of mine."

Ho urged Fulbright to "use your influence to help bring the U.S. government's aggressive war in Vietnam to an early end."

Magic Valley Water Pumpers Set Annual Meet In Burley

BURLEY — Magic Valley Water Pumpers Association, Inc., will hold its annual meeting at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley. All irrigation pumpers are urged to attend, states Howard Conrad, president.

Idaho Power's application for rate increase will be discussed and the effect it will have on pumpers. Louis Racine, an attorney from Pocatello, will speak on legal ways of opposing the rate increase, and will be available to answer questions.

Presently Idaho Power has an application on file to the Public Utility Commission for power rate increase, with the highest rate increase to be charged to the irrigation pumpers, a request of 20 per cent rate increase.

The average power cost increase, if approved, would be $3 to $4 per acre. The increase alone would be equal to the total amount that some canal companies charge for irrigation water, Mr. Conrad said.

This increase, if allowed, will definitely place a heavy financial burden on the irrigation pumper, and will have an effect on future ground water development, Conrad reported.

Some of the individual pumpers, as well as the Magic Valley Water Pumpers Association, Inc., submitted testimony opposing the rate increase at the P.U.C. field hearing held recently in Twin Falls and Pocatello.

The Magic Valley Water Pumpers Association, Inc., is made up of irrigation pump land owners in Gooding, Lincoln, Twin Falls, Cassia, Minidoka and Jerome Counties. This group is a member of the Idaho Irrigation Pumpers Association and the State of Idaho Reclamation Association.

The organization was formed in 1950 when it was evident that pumping irrigation water from deep wells was a successful way of developing irrigation water for desert lands in southern Idaho, as well as throughout the state.

Mr. Conrad urges any landowner who pumps water for irrigation to attend the annual meeting. A complete program has been arranged in the interest of irrigation pumping.

Laws Sought To Protect Consumers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's adviser for consumer affairs, asked Congress Tuesday for new laws to protect Americans in the marketplace. She said consumer fraud "is an insidious economic cancer which eats at the vitals of our society."

The leadoff witness at a Senate Commerce Committee hearing on consumer protection bills, Mrs. Knauer urged approval of administration proposals giving her office statutory authority, making it a presidential agency, creating a new division of consumer protection in the Justice Department, and strengthening the power of the Federal Trade Commission.

"Consumer fraud is an insidious economic cancer which eats at the vitals of our society," she said. "The fact that it continues to the extent it does erodes the respect of the individual, especially the poor, for law enforcement."

"It rots their faith in the equal application of the law to the white collar fraud-robber and to the family who cannot pay for shoddy merchandise they were tricked into buying by that self-same operator. It misdirects our economic resources. It saps the strength of our free enterprise system."

Currently, Mrs. Knauer said, her office in the White House receives about 2,000 complaints a month from consumers. Under the administration's plan, such complaints worthy of prosecution would be referred to the Justice Department. Others would go to the Federal Trade Commission, which would be given new authority to seek court injunctions against deceptive practices.

Under one of the bills, 11 specific areas of fraud and deception would give the Justice Department authority to prosecute. It also would give the department the right to screen law suits proposed by entire classes of consumers to recover damages from deceivers.

Smokers Quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 2.5 million cigarette smokers kicked the habit between 1966 and 1968, according to a new government survey.

Cigarette smokers of every age and both sexes are quitting, it said. And the number of young people aged 17 to 24 who have never smoked at all is increasing.

The survey was released by the National Center for Health Statistics, which used Census Bureau reports to reach its conclusions.

Nearly 38 per cent of the population smoked cigarettes in 1968, a decline of 5 per cent from 1966, it said.

RAMSEY CLARK, former U. S. attorney general, chairman of a "Freedom to Vote" task force of the Democratic National Committee, told newsmen Tuesday that the task force is seeking elimination of residency requirements for voting in Presidential elections. A new system of universal voter enrollment similar to the national census would replace the residency laws, Mr. Clark said. This would "shift responsibility from the individual to the government." # U.S. Professors Teach Skills Of Management To Romanian Student

By ALINE MOSBY

OTOPENI, Romania (UPI) — The American "professor" looked over the Romania pupil's report and said, "That means your factory will have 8,700 work tickets to read. Too big a clerical job."

The pupil, dark-haired Elena Draghic, looking dejected, returned to her seat to jot figures in a notebook.

The teacher, Ray Robenold, late of the North American Rockwell space capsule firm in Downey, Calif., is one of 14 foreign experts dispatched by the United Nations to help teach at a unique "school for executives" in this town near Bucharest.

Miss Draghic, from the Red Flame shoe factory in Bucharest, is training to be a management analyst. She is one of 3,000 sorely needed managers the school turns out annually to run businesses in this rapidly industrializing nation.

The school was opened Sept. 4, 1967, under an agreement between the Romanian government which supplies the Romanian instructors, permanent staff, and school grounds, and the U.N. development program which supplies experts for up to three years from the United States, France, Sweden, Norway, Austria, Italy and England.

"At this stage in Romania's economic development it's absolutely necessary to use more efficient managerial techniques explained school director John Niculescu.

The school can handle 300 pupils at a time. The average age is 35 to 45 and many are women. They are selected by aptitude tests and kept on salaries by their enterprises during the studies which range from one week to 18 months. No formal grades are given, but those who show no promise are weeded out.

The free school offers 26 courses centered around running factories. Some involve returning to the factory to test what the student has learned. Miss Draghic, for example, was sent by her shoe factory for a 14 week course during which she is working on a project to make the shoe assembly line more efficient. She must return to the shoe factory to work out her ideas with the management and then report to the school. This school is said by Niculescu to be the largest of 65 such management training centers opened with U.N. help in various countries.

Pupils and some foreign teachers live in school dormitories. American children play in the school's spacious gardens and shout "Hi, daddy" when one of the "professors" walks by. In addition to training bosses, about 6,400 of the school also is educating Romanians on the computer age. Clerical workers learn to feed data cards into the computer to figure out production costs, salaries and other problems.

The foreign expert teaching the computer classes, David Livingston of Trenton, N.J., says the foreign staff applies western methods adapted to "their Communist system." One problem of some pupils is convincing conservative bosses back in the factory that what they learned was worthwhile.

A third function of the school is to give three-month crash courses to Romanians who then go back to factories and teach modern managerial techniques. The country needs 5,000 managers a year, and the school can turn out only 3,000.

Business Today

By LEROY POPE. NEW YORK (UPI)—Public and industry concern over the dangers of environmental pollution appears to be peaking.

Under legal, legislative and moral pressures, the business community has been responding to the big job of protecting ecological balance and public health.

On Dec. 11, Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Company, promised to spend $1 million next year on pollution control. He thinks such pollution is the biggest single job facing the auto industry today.

Steel and chemical companies, which use and foul water and air, have budgeted hundreds of millions of dollars for similar campaigns. So, while the war on pollution is far from over, it is being joined and some battles have been won by industrial experts.

In a recent Boston speech, Ford said the auto industry already has engines that eliminate 80 per cent of gasoline emissions and half the carbon monoxide. But Ford said he felt auto engines must be completely emission free.

Detroit doesn't want to try steam or electric cars—which can be emission free—because Detroit engineers think neither can be as efficient as the gasoline engine. Detroit has experimented with substituting propane or natural gas for gasoline as engine fuel, but so far the cost and efficiency penalties outweigh the gains in reducing pollution.

Ford said he believes the gas engine ultimately will be virtually emission free at an increased cost to the car buyer of something over $100.

The U.S. Coast Guard and Unroyal Corp. are testing a system of removing oil from disabled tankers at sea so it won't cause pollution over a large area if the tanker sprigs a leak. It employs collapsible nylon rubber tanks dropped alongside the disabled ship by a Coast Guard helicopter. Each tank can hold 140,000 gallons of oil, and the oil-filled "rubber whales" then can be towed ashore or to some other safe place of disposal.

An example of the costliness of winning any kind of battle against pollution is afforded by a study of what Bethlehem Steel accomplished by spending $84 million on water pollution control at its works on Lake Erie at Lackawanna, N.Y.

Two Underworld Men Are Indicted After Probe Into DePaula-Tiger Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Light heavyweight Frankie DePaula and two underworld figures—James "Jimmy Nap" Napoli and Joseph "Joe Carlo" Calabro—were indicted Tuesday in boxing's first major scandal in a decade.

The indictments followed months of testimony before a grand jury which sought to ascertain whether certain persons had conspired to pay sums of money to certain prize fighters in order to influence them not to give their best efforts in certain prize fights.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Alfred Scott said the grand jury investigation will continue, but he refused to say if more indictments will be returned. The investigation allegedly has turned up close links between middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy and underworld figures as well as DePaula's alleged connections with the underworld. Testimony adduced before the grand jury disclosed that the defendant (Calabro) has been associated with Nino Benvenuti, the middleweight champion of the world, and Bruno Amaduzzi, his manager, since 1967, the indictment alleged.

No charges were brought that any "fixes" or any bribery occurred but only that the defendants perjured themselves before the grand jury. In addition, Napoli and Calabro were charged with criminal contempt for their answers during the investigation.

Two fights which came under scrutiny in the indictments against DePaula, Calabro and Napoli—Benvenuti's upset loss to Dick Tiger in Madison Square Garden on May 28, 1969 and DePaula's one-round TKO loss to light heavyweight champion Bob Foster in a title bout on Jan. 22, 1969 in the garden.

After his loss to Tiger, Benvenuti, a 21-2-1 favorite, disclosed a broken knuckle on his right hand and said he hurt it during the bout.

Testimony revealed that Calabro had been the guest of Benvenuti and Amaduzzi for extended periods on several occasions, with the lighter and his manager paying Calabro's travel and living expenses.

The indictment stated: "It was also testified that the defendant had been a guest of Benvenuti and Amaduzzi at Grossinger's Country Club while Benvenuti was training for his fight with Dick Tiger on May 26, 1969, at Madison Square Garden.

"On the night of May 12, 1969, during the intermission between the Jimmy Dupree-Johnny Persol and Emile Griffith-Stanley Hayward fights at Madison Square Garden according to the testimony, the defendant (Calabro) and Bruno Amaduzzi met and conferred with James Napoli, also known as Jimmy Nap."

One count of the four counts of perjury against Calabro resulted from his denial that he met with Napoli and Amaduzzi in the Garden.

Gary Garafola, who was indicted with DePaula earlier in the year for the theft of $80,000 worth of copper, also had at least two meetings with Napoli, reputedly the underworld king of boxing, Tuesday's indictment said.

"It was also testified that on Jan. 17, 1969, five days prior to said fight (with Foster), Gary Garafola had met and conferred with James Napoli, also known as Jimmy Nap, at Grossinger's Country Club where Frankie DePaula was training. According to the testimony, Napoli asked Garafola "How does everything look?" and Garafola had replied, "Everything looks good. The kid will listen."

Castelford, still seeking its first win, appeared headed for victory when Lynn Easterday hit a field goal with 12 seconds left for a one-point Wolf lead. But Crowther was fouled and dropped through the first of a one-and-one free throw situation.

In the overtime he and Brush hit field goals—Easterday by Castelford's D. Easterday and then rode out the clock. Castelford led throughout the first half until the final seconds when Crowther's field goal and a Brush free throw gave the Tigers a three-point edge. The lead changed hands often through the second half.

Castelford's press managed to keep Richfield off stride much of the night but also resulted in 36 fouls. Even then Richfield managed only two more free throws.

Castelford won the preliminary. RICHFIELD 54, CASTLEFORD 48 (overtime).

Labor Board Enters Fight For Umpires

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has ordered an election to let the 24 American League Baseball umpires decide whether they want to join a union.

In a 4-1 ruling, the board said that baseball is an interstate business and therefore subject to federal labor laws.

The American League has long resisted any organizing attempt by its umpires. Last year, two AL umpires, Al Salerno and Bill Valentine, were fired, for what they said were their union activities.

The National League umpires belong to a union called the Independent Association of National Baseball League Umpires.

It was the NL union which filed unfair labor charges with the NLRB after the two AL umpires were sacked. The NLRB, in ordering an election within the next 30 days, did not specify a bargaining agent for the AL umpires, but it was presumed they would join the same union as their NL counterparts, if they vote to organize.

100-Year-Old 'Army Signal Service's Division' Plans To Celebrate Centennial Of Gathering U.S. Weather

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Weather Services will be 100 years old Feb. 9, and here's a forecast — they'll spend a good part of 1970 celebrating their birthday.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said Wednesday that weathermen in several government agencies, universities, and private industries are planning a series of observances during the centennial year.

Today the federal weather services function in nearly a dozen departments and agencies, not to mention a host of subsidiary offices.

They were born when President Ulysses S. Grant on Feb. 9, 1870, signed a joint resolution of Congress authorizing establishment of a national weather service.

The first systematic simultaneous weather observations ever taken in the United States were made by an agency which operated under this name: The Army Signal Service's Division of Telegrams and Reports for the Benefit of Commerce.

In those days government agencies didn't go in much for condensing names into capital letters. So the citizens of 100 years ago weren't afflicted by seeing Tassdotariboc in newspaper type.

The weather services eventually, in 1890, were transferred from the Signal Corps to the Agriculture Department and in 1940 were moved to the Commerce Department which now operates the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) that includes the weather bureau.

The reduction of Tassdotariboc to ESSA or even WB, has been accompanied by an expansion of the number of agencies involved in weather. They range from agriculture to transportation with a lot in between.

The first big event of the centennial year will be a three-day symposium, Feb. 12-14 in Washington, on future trends by meteorologists from here and abroad. There will be a "centennial banquet" here Feb. 3 for hundreds of weathermen.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I have had so much advice that I am dizzy and confused. And now I am asking you for some MORE advice, which shows you how mixed up I really am.

Three weeks ago my husband was only 57 and had just had a complete check up. The doctor told him he could live to be 100, so you can imagine the shock I got when they called from in the middle of a castrata game and gave me the news.

I am now getting advice from all sides. Some say, "Sell the house and move into an apartment. What you need is a complete change of scenery." Others say, "Take a trip." Still others, "You will be miserable traveling alone. You can't run away from yourself. Stay home. You need to be with friends." I also get business advice.

Some say, "Sell the business while it's a seller's market." Others say, "Hang on to the business and run it yourself." My two children are married and independent so I will have to make these decisions myself. How does a widow know who to listen to? Please tell me what to do.

DEAR CONFUSED: The best advice I can give you is to take NO advice right now. You've suffered a tremendous shock, and are undoubtedly still under a great deal of strain. You need more time to "adjust" before making any decisions. What you want to do about the house and the business can wait until you have had more time to think. Your judgments will be less emotional and more rational then.

In the meantime, don't SELL anything, don't BUY anything, and don't SIGN anything. And good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I would appreciate it if you would print your opinion of fellows who say to girls, "I'll call you," but they never do. Thank you.

STILL WAITING FOR THAT CALL

DEAR STILL: Girls shouldn't believe everything they're told. When a fellow says, "I'll call you," he thinks that's what a girl expects to hear. (And he's right.) But it has about as much meaning as, "See you around," or "Let's get together — sometime." It's a friendly, but insincere, remark.

The next time a fellow says, "I'll call you," if you really want to shake him up, say, "WHEN?"

DEAR ABBY: I get a real blast out of the woman who asked, "Should I give my husband a night out with the boys?" In the last four months, my husband has been IN a total of 17 nights. We've been married for 25 years and it's always been this way, so I suppose I should be used to it by now.

Don't tell me not to nag him. You betcher life I nag him. Every chance I get. The house is clean and I'm a good cook, but I am sick and tired of making dinners for the garbage disposal. Get the idea?

I'm no beauty, but then, I never WAS. I just want to say that I'd be delighted if my husband had "A" night out. What I'd like is for him to have a few more nights "IN."

N.B.C.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "WONDERING IN ATLANTA." She was concerned about how it would look at her son's wedding with all the bridesmaids obviously pregnant. (They were married.) I should have been so lucky. At my son's wedding, the BRIDE was seven months pregnant, and interestingly enough, the groom was not the father.

Woman "General" Contends Men Diet Better Than Women

You just don't expect a Brigadier General, even an attractive, blonde one, to be so knowledgeable about food. However, Dorothy Larson, the first woman to be awarded temporary rank of Brigadier General by the Air Force (1964) and who feeds about 3,000 people a day in the 5 plants at The Cincinnati Milling Machine Company has made some interesting observations about people and the food they eat.

"Weight control is a major concern," says this lady who presides over the cuisine at the largest machine tool company in the world, "but one thing strikes you deep . . . men watch their weight much more conscientiously than women. The girls talk about dieting, but the men actually follow the diet routines."

The "General" fluffed her blonde hair as she pondered a question. "Yes, there is a definite trend toward lighter lunches among blue-collar workers, office personnel and executives," she says. "We introduced a light-lunch line for girls originally, but men are the biggest patrons of it. Even foundry workers and others who do heavy manual labor used to go for hot lunches featuring meat and potatoes, but sandwiches, soups and salads get a good deal more attention from them now. Everyone is more diet conscious, and people are constantly asking questions about cholesterol, which seems to be of greater concern to them than vegetables.

"We have found that people want food that's easy to eat at lunch, things they can pick up with their fingers. I don't know whether that's due to the drive-in influence or the pressure of time but, I believe, one reason is concern over weight control. People are eyeing nutrition, and they definitely are eating less in quantity, although the calorie intake has not been reduced too much.

"Tastes in food are a lot more sophisticated than they were 20 years ago. Once people get over their suspicions or inhibitions about foreign food they seem to prefer it as a change of pace. Occasionally we have an international-type lunch to lend a festive air to the cafeteria and serve Chinese, Mexican and Italian food and specialties such as fish and chips. They go over very well, with only the most die-hard conservatives refusing to try them at least once."

As Dorothy Larson has seen a strong trend away from meat and potato lunches among blue-collar workers and middle-aged female personnel she notes that because most company cafeterias, such as her own which is subsidized by management, have low prices, many people tend to eat their heaviest meal of the day at noon. Working parents, men and women who have small children, understandably prefer to eat with the small fry after work. The older employees who have no young children might be inclined to save on that awesome thing, the food bill, and eat in the company cafeteria but even they prefer the lighter lunches these days.

Housewives will be surprised to learn their husbands snatch a hamburger or a sandwich for lunch rather than loading up on rich food. Executives seem to follow the rules for the blue-collar workers. Cincinnati Milling has a very attractive dining room that offers, buffet style, three hot dishes, two soups, cooked vegetables and a choice of four or five tempting desserts. A soup and sandwich is the preference of many executives . . . or a salad substituted for either the soup or the sandwich. The calorie laden desserts are spurned in favor of fresh fruit.

What accounts for this extraordinary accuracy? Instead of the usual wheels and springs, Accutron has a tiny, electronically-driven tuning fork whose vibrations split each second into 360 precise little intervals. Ordinary watches have balance wheels. The balance wheel splits the second, too, into 5 or 10 intervals. And not so precisely. That's why balance wheel watches can't compete with tuning-fork time.

Hess To Get Yule Feast At Hospital

BERLIN (UPI) — Rudolph Hess will get a Christmas turkey dinner this year but it probably will be served with British trimmings rather than American.

The 75-year-old Nazi deputy fuhrer is expected to get his Christmas meal in the British Military Hospital to which he was taken from Spandau Prison Nov. 24 for treatment of a stomach ulcer.

It is considered unlikely that he will be sent back before the rest of his life term in the Spandau district of the British sector of Berlin. Some officials think he might never go back. They consider it possible that he will be allowed to serve out the rest of his life term in the hospital or some similar place. They also speculate that the Russians might finally agree to the old Western Allied proposal to grant an amnesty to the aged, ailing, eccentric Nazi.

That would end the ridiculous situation of an entire prison being maintained for only one inmate at a cost of $217,933 a year. If Hess is returned to the red brick fortress-like prison for Christmas, he'll get a regular American GI turkey dinner.

The Americans hold the rotating chairmanship of the prison every December and every Christmas since 1947. Hess has been given American turkey.

Hess looks forward to the American month because it always follows the Russian month and the Russians interpret the prison rules more strictly than the Americans, British and French.

In the hospital he will get turkey with such British trimmings as brussel sprouts, cauliflower with white sauce, and Christmas pudding.

Hess has been put on a diet because of his ulcer but it was expected he would be able by Christmas to sit down and eat most foods on a regular dinner.

A NUCLEAR-POWERED submarine oil tanker 900 feet long, designed by General Dynamics, is depicted in this artist's drawing. The vessel, largest submarine ever built, would displace more than a quarter-million tons when fully loaded.

Traversing the Northwest Passage on the Arctic Ocean under the ice, the tanker would carry up to 170,000 tons of Alaskan crude oil from the North Slope to the East Coast of the United States. (UPI telephoto)

Idaho Legislature Faces New Problems With Budget As Fund Pleas Are Heard

By PAUL M. QUINN

BOISE (UPI) — The second half of the 40th Idaho Legislature, much to its chagrin and displeasure, will have to re-open the biennial budget this January — and there will be pressure once again to spend everything in sight.

The state prison, higher education and the State Board of Health are the major seekers of funds. Flood control, water development and educational television also need money.

The stage has been set for the renewal of the battle of the budget. And, the 105 players for the stage have mixed feelings about the whole thing. Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Madlad, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, has expressed concern about re-opening the budget at all.

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said it is a certainty that the pressing needs, such as the penitentiary, will have to be taken care of.

High said, "We will be okay if we limit ourselves to the emergency problems."

High said that most agencies can support themselves on the appropriations doled out by the first half of the session.

Acting Budget Director Edward Sawyer has stated there will be a surplus available this biennium of between $3.5 million and $4 million. Sawyer already has received requests for supplemental funding that total in the neighborhood of $5 million.

taken to task in recent weeks, notably by Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy.

Serving recently as acting governor, Murphy said he is convinced that even though there will be another surplus this biennium there is a constitutional question about continuing to raise more revenue than needed.

Surpluses in recent years have exceeded $20 million.

Coming in for supplemental appropriations in the higher education field will be Boise State College, Idaho State University, the University of Idaho and Lewis-Clark Normal School.

Educational television will be looking for some $2 million additional while the association of Idaho Cities is seeking an appropriation of $1,200,000 to help

Texas Boy May Regain Use Of Right Arm. Loses Left After Accident Severs Both

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Doctors decided Tuesday to remove Brent Gray's left arm, which they had sewed back on his body Monday, but said the 12-year-old Texas boy may regain use of his right arm some day.

He lost both arms Sunday when he slipped and became entangled in the conveyor belt of a feed-grinding machine on his father's Henrietta, Tex., farm.

Brent's left arm was wrenched from his body between the elbow and shoulder. The right one was severed a bit higher.

his job. The Board of Health's request for additional monies will probably cause the most static.

Board of Health Director Dr. F. O. Carver assured members of the Fiscal Budget Committee last session that if health was granted a "lump sum" appropriation of more than $18 million they definitely would not be back for more.

The board is seeking an additional $1 million.

Doctors said they would watch Brent's recovery before trying to realign the nerves in the right arm. The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gray, praised the surgeons "for a miracle."

Pope Plans Traditional Yule Fete

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI is spending a traditional Christmas at the Vatican this year.

There had been speculation he would visit Sardinia or some other poor region of Italy on Christmas Eve, as in years past. But the Vatican put an end to it by announcing the Pope would stay home.

He will celebrate a midnight mass Christmas Eve in the Sistine Chapel for members of the diplomatic corps to the Vatican, followed by two masses Christmas Day—an early morning mass in a Rome church and a mass in St. Peter's Basilica. This will be followed by the papal blessing "urbi et orbi"—to the city and to the world—from the main balcony of St. Peter's. The ceremony is expected to be telecast live throughout Europe.

There were precedents for Christmas trips outside the Vatican. The Pope said midnight mass in Florence in 1968 less than two months after a flood disaster in that city. Last year he flew to Taranto in the south of Italy, where he offered mass before thousands of overall-clad workers in a steel mill.

Christmas with the Pope is a time for gesture in favor of the poor or the young. This year he visits the humble Paris Church at St. Agapito in Rome for 8 a.m. mass on Christmas Day. On the Sunday before Christmas he plans to mingle with children in St. Peter's Square around a large nativity scene built by Vatican workmen. The Pope is expected to deliver his annual Christmas address to the world over Vatican Radio about five days before Christmas. Traditionally he stresses the seasonal themes of peace and brotherhood.

Apart from celebrating three masses, the 72-year-old Pope will spend a quiet Christmas day. A Vatican source said he would spend at least part of it at his work desk.

Normally, he shares Christmas dinner with his two secretaries who live in the papal apartments and sometimes he invites a cardinal or other friend to join them.

At Christmas, as on every day, the Pope eats frugally—some soup, meat, salad or vegetables and a glass of wine. On the day after Christmas, the Pope's two brothers and their families call on him and he distributes presents to the children.

Physicians Take Six Organs From Donor For Series Of Transplants

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Doctors at the University of Minnesota have taken six organs from the body of a 30-year-old housewife for transplant into four other patients.

The case was the first under a 1969 Minnesota law which permits persons to carry signed, wallet-size "donor cards." The cards allow doctors to remove organs upon death for transplant without prior consent.

Hijacks Mount

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos said Monday that a "high incidence" of hijacking of food trucks is partly responsible for increasing food prices.
 Marcos said he was ordering a policy study of the hijacking and measures to protect the food trucks.

Short Skirts Stir Complaints Of Clerks

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Seventy female postal clerks complained to President Nixon today about "discriminating" rules concerning their apparel.
 The women said they were subjected to "constant harassment and torment" unless they wore long skirts.
 Mrs. Myra I. Burton, a postal clerk, said she and her co-workers wrote President Nixon asking him to order Nashville Postmaster Lewis Moore to relax his rules on skirts.
 "The men walk around with their shirts unbuttoned and no undershirts on, but some of the women are singled out just for harassment because of the dress length," Mrs. Burton said.
 She said Moore told her that office only three years "and the men aren't used to them."
 "PREVENT ACCIDENTS" With all the holiday parties and festivities about the house, keep a special watch on the children. Accident prevention experts say at such time, cautions are thrown to the winds and it is more likely that accidents will occur.

Brief Parole

CHICAGO (UPI) — James "The Monk" Alagretti, a former boss of crime syndicate operations in gambling and vice, was paroled for health reasons from the federal prison at Springfield, Mo., Monday and took a plane to Chicago.
 He died en route.

The first pure nickel coin was issued by Switzerland in 1861. Since then, 63 countries have used the same metal for 159 denominations.

DECEPTIVE BID BOMBS DECEIVER

We have placed an exclamation point in back of West's four diamond bid. The game was duplicate and West was one of those players who just have to do something unusual anytime they have a chance.

West felt that his opponents were surely on their way to a slam. He knew that he could bid six spades and not go down more than five tricks at that contract. West had some sort of defense against this potential slam. He expected to take a spade trick and perhaps his queen of clubs would score also.

His four diamond bid was an attempt to give South an incorrect count of the hand so that South would surely play East for the club queen.

The idea was good except for one thing. West could simply have rebid his spades to either four or five and most declarers would play him for being short in clubs anyway. As a matter of fact, that happened at several tables where the declarer did play East for three clubs to the queen but at his table we are pleased to report that the deception bomb exploded in West's own face.

After holding the first trick with the king of spades West shifted to a trump. South cashed two trumps and continued by playing out his ace and king of diamonds. A trump to dummy and a ruff of a third diamond came next and West showed out.

Now declarer realized that the diamond bid smoke screen could only be for the purpose of protecting the queen of clubs. He played the ace of clubs, continued with the jack. West's queen dropped, declarer covered with dummy's king and made the slam.

Magnavox TOTAL AUTOMATIC COLOR TV

Since the dawn of Color TV, man has been plagued by green and purple people. Night after night, they haunt millions of TV viewers—transforming warm human beings into ghoulish creatures. Now a major miracle has happened. Magnavox developed a truly remarkable innovation called Total Automatic Color. TAC keeps the color right all the time—automatically. Even when you switch channels or the scene changes (headache time on other makes, because that's when color usually turns bad). TAC eliminates the nuisance of jumping up and down to fix the color. TAC also keeps all pictures perfectly tuned—automatically. Just set it and forget it. And, the new Magnavox Bright Tube makes pictures a lot brighter. So green and purple people needn't haunt millions of viewers any longer—only other TV makers!

Nixons Send Yule Cards To 37,000

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More than 37,000 officials, diplomats, campaign contributors and friends of the Nixon family can expect a special Christmas card this week.

The White House today mailed the official yuletide cards. More than 25 women volunteers worked for a month to address them.

Pat Nixon and daughter Tricia, 23, picked the design for the cards from several possible designs submitted. The President approved their selection.

The cards, designed by Hallmark, depict the south portico of the White House—white embossed on white—with a red border. In red ink on the inside the card says, "With our best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a Happy New Year."

It is signed in print "The President and Mrs. Nixon" and bears the presidential seal.

President and Mrs. Nixon will attend the Pageant of Peace Tuesday night near the Washington Monument grounds and Nixon will officially light the national Christmas tree in a nationally broadcast ceremony.

Hansen Sets Yule Concert On Thursday

HANSEN — Richard Youres, Hansen School music department director, announces the Christmas Concert will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the school gymnasium. There will be five groups.

The fifth grade will perform in the first grouping by playing two numbers, "Choral" and "Easy Steps March."

The Junior high girls' chorus will sing, "I Gave My Love a Pretty Little Ring," by Davis; "At the Gates of Heaven," Kjelson; "Boom Fa-da-ra-la," Krone; "My Lord, What a Mornin'," Stewart; "Twelve Days of Christmas," Old English Song. Carolyn Cameron is the accompanist.

The Junior high band will play, "Whistle While You Work," march by Herfurth; "Little English Suite," Jackson; "Symphonette for Band," Erickson; "Carol of the Drum," Davis, with Carrie Stelmets as soloist, and "Coronation March," Meyerbeer.

The high school mixed choir will sing, "Come, Now Let Us Be Joyful," Vecchi; "Song of Praise," Sifton; "Choose Something Like a Star," Thompson; "Do You Hear What I Hear," Simeone, and "Carol of the Friendly Beasts," Twelfth Century Traditional. Holly Johnson is the accompanist.
