Minuteman Testing--On And Then Off

WASHINGTON — The Air Force proposal for flight testing of Minuteman missiles in the country from their operational bases, has apparently become engulfed in Pentagon paper shuffling.

cause of the tide of sentiment running against all things military was announced last week that the Air Force would have to make a final decision on the plan, Air Force spokesmen intimated as much in congressional testimony.

Road Safety

Most states require tests when drivers licenses are issued, but only several, according to the National Safety Council, require periodic re-testing.

drinking drivers were involved in half the fatal accidents last year. Such traits as impatience and carelessness on the part of other-wise normal drivers also are contributing factors.

thired persons possess skills and experience in demand in a labor-short economy, but they are placed in the unenviable position of giving up their rights to a retirement system in which they may have contributed all their working years if they elect to capitalize on their talents.

Charge Of Perjury Is Levelled

A complaint charging three men with perjury has been filed in Twin Falls County Probate Court.

Ernest L. (Smoky) Folsom, 31, 318 Third Ave. N., has been arrested on the charge and is being held in the county jail in lieu of posting $2,500 bond.

The other two men accused in the same complaint are Delbert Crawford and Jimmy O. Dell.

The complaint was signed by Robert Galley, prosecutor of Twin Falls County. It is alleged the three men lied while on the witness stand during a trial for Crawford last Dec. 11. The trial was held before Fifth District Court Judge Theron Ward.

Crawford was accused of exhibiting a deadly weapon, and was appealing a conviction in a lower court. He was later found guilty of the charge and sentenced to six months in jail and ordered to pay a $300 fine. He is in jail at the present time.

Mr. Galley, in his complaint, alleges the three men lied when they said under oath that Crawford did not have a gun in his hands during an incident in Twin Falls on July 25.

It was because of that incident and of testimony by Mike Janson, a defense witness in the case, that Crawford was convicted.

Arrangement of the three men on the charge is pending.

JACK RUSSELL, Jerome mayor, has been selected for an honorary award certificate from the National Register of Prominent Americans. The National Register is an international information center listing prominent men and women for outstanding achievements in business, professional, community activities. Mr. Russell was installed last week as new mayor of Jerome, succeeding Earl Greenawald, who did not seek re-election.

Jerome County Budget Is $7,233 More Than In 1969

JEROME — Jerome County Commissioners this week announced a tentative county budget of $20,310 for 1970 with a public hearing set for Feb. 3 at the courthouse.

The proposed budget is about $7,233 more than the 1969 total of $13,077 and is well within the four per cent increase limitation specified in House Bill 334, reports Chairman Cleo Ambrose.

Mr. Ambrose said there will be no salary increases this year for personnel in the courthouse. Instead, the county is participating in a retirement program for about 25 county employees.

An item of $10,000 for this year's general election is included in the proposed budget.

Mr. Ambrose said that the county anticipates spending about $2,000 on airport improvements. This would include a seal coat on the runway. The improvements have been put in the budget and indications are that at long last the county will be able to finance this aspect of county government.

Money not spent will accumulate for future improvements, as a dedicated fund.

Ambrose said that with a few exceptions, most of the budget categories are approximately the same as last year.

Exceptions are the assessor's office which reflects a decrease. The budget of the charity and judicial account—and the fair board also indicate decreases comparing 1969 with the proposed 1970 appropriations.

The tentative budget also includes a provision concerning the court reform law which goes into effect in 1970.

Postponed

SHOSHONE — The public meeting on the proposed sewer bond election has been postponed to 8 p.m. Feb. 5 at the Lincoln County Courthouse.

It was originally set for Thursday but Mayor Ellwood R. Worrey said Saturday legal details have necessitated the delay. The election is set for Feb. 24.

Report Outlines Results Of Survey On Manpower, Employment Picture In Area

The plan for Area VI Co-operative Area Manpower Planning System has been submitted to the Boise office by J. P. H. Johnson, area coordinator.

The comprehensive plan gives a description of the eight-county CAMPS area; a description of manpower problems; a projected development; population; an inventory of current manpower programs, and suggested priorities and programs.

The area CAMPS group consists of personnel from the Department of Employment, the College of Southern Idaho, Department of Public Assistance and the Vocational Rehabilitation Service. Consulting members are from the Youth Center, Community Action Agency, Fair Housing Administration and the University of Idaho Extension Service, as well as the Department of Employment and College of Southern Idaho.

The report estimates the labor force in the eight-county area as 47,384 workers with 45,232 workers employed. Unemployment was estimated at 2,152 on an average annual basis which produced an overall unemployment rate of 4.6 per cent. Agricultural workers amounted to 27.2 per cent of the total employment. Jobs in the non-agricultural category accounted for 72.8 per cent of area employment.

The committee explains employment trends would include a general economic expansion.

Forest Service Again Calls For Bids On Development Of Butterfield Ski Resort

Development of a ski resort at Butterfield Creek in the Sawtooth National Forest about 15 miles north of Sun Valley, is being called for again by forest officials.

Demonstrators March In Erie

DUBLIN (UPI)—About 150 demonstrators in a march through Dublin's streets with placards and banners calling for a boycott to protest British and federal Nigerian policies regarding relief for defeated Biafra.

A spokesman for the demonstrators said they wanted the British government to allow the Royal Air Force to airlift aid to Biafra—with or without permission from Nigeria.

The two children's coffins were placed on the doorsteps of the British Embassy.

The demonstrators observed a minute of silence for the estimated two million dead in the Nigerian civil war.

They also carried the coffins to the doorsteps of the Shell and British Petroleum companies, both of which have oil interests in Nigeria.

Additional phases would add several ski lifts and cleared runs to higher elevations and generally expand ski terrain.

Three study bids are recommended for the full development. Parking space for 500 automobiles is recommended.

The proposed resort is adjacent to U. S. Highway 93 north of Sun Valley and features a predominance of intermediate ski runs. The mountain has a vertical drop of 2,800 feet with reliable snow conditions.

The original prospectus for development of Butterfield was issued in June, 1965, and another in January, 1967. Successful bidders have been unable to meet the development schedule for various reasons but several additional groups have expressed new interest in the area.

The first phase of ski area development calls for construction of a series of ski lifts to Elk Flat about two-thirds of the way to the top of 9,600-ft. Vergreen Peak. It also calls for roads, ski runs, parking lot and day lodge construction.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE Child Development Center on Harrison Street is progressing on schedule, according to director Paul Burnett. The building, under contract to Otis Hall Construction Co., will be completed in May or June. The center office is now located in the old gynecologist's office at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. In the meantime, activities of the center are continuing, with students of varying ages enrolled in a number of self-help programs designed to increase coordination, develop maturity and inspire self-confidence.

center are continuing, with students of varying ages enrolled in a number of self-help programs designed to increase coordination, develop maturity and inspire self-confidence.

Child Development Center's Activities

Take Shape While New Building Under Way

The Child Development Center's activities are taking shape while its new building is being constructed on Harrison Street. Paul Burnett, center director, said 15 children, ages 4 through 7, are registered in a pre-school group. These classes are held in the old nurses home next to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. He said some of these children will be able to enter regular public schools, while others will be enrolled in special education or the Happy Days school.

The children are taught self-help skills and eye-hand coordination. Mr. Burnett said special emphasis is put on following instructions. They also receive speech therapy and help with body coordination. The classes are conducted by LuDema Davis, center nurse, and Carol Kimball, and aide. Darrell Bourner, state special education consultant, visits the classes two days a week, and makes recommendations.

Parents of these children also meet as a group once a week and discuss their children's problems and progress with the social worker.

Mr. Burnett said there is also a class in Minidoka County of 14 people ranging in age from 5 to 20. Two days a week the local staff goes to Minidoka and works with these students. He said they are taught self-help skills, following directions, working with their hands and proper eating skills. Emphasis is put on speech and use of language.

Mr. Burnett said the parent group in the Minidoka area had helped start the class and there has been a good turnout of volunteer workers there.

Center personnel are presently screening for a class of people 16 years of age and older. Mr. Burnett said most of these people lacked to date are in their 20s. He said in about a week they will start an adult training program.

Future plans may include a sheltered workshop, Mr. Burnett said. But first these adults must be taught to follow directions in a sheltered workshop. The handicapped people usually work in an assembly line type of production.

Mr. Burnett said it is impossible for his staff to reach all the people in the eight-county area, so they will be setting up meeting places in Shoshone, Twin Falls and in the Minidoka-Cassia County area. Members of his staff will travel several times a week to each location. He said they have now located 365 cases in the area.

The director said he is currently working with the county officials in hopes of making the top floor of the nurses home into quarters for boarding handicapped adults. These people would be supervised by people from outlying areas.

Mr. Burnett said the construction of the center on Harrison Street near Falls Avenue is progressing on schedule. The walls are now up and he said he thought the building will be completed in May or June. Otis Hall Construction Co. is the contractor.

Fair Board

Members Plan Summer Event

Two members of the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo Board and Tom Shous, secretary-manager, were back in Twin Falls after meeting in Denver to line out plans for this summer's show at Filer.

Warren Darry and Don Motern returned to Twin Falls Thursday evening and board chairman Harold Howe will be returning early next week.

Mr. Barry said Reg Kessler, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, will gain so stock producer at the county rodeo. He said the Kessler string had more stock performing at the National Finals Rodeo than any other producer in the RCA.

The Flying Griffins, a family trick riding act, will be performing at Filer during the fair and rodeo Sept. 8-17, and Bunky Inger, with several new innovations in his act, will be back to clown. A bull fighter has not yet been chosen.

Charmack Carnival on the midway will return to Filer this year. Mr. Barry said, and noted the carnival, now to Twin Falls

SNOW REMOVAL WORK occupies a major share of the time of the maintenance crew at the Shoshone district office of the State Highway Department. Leonard Kennison, left, foreman of the maintenance shop, and Fred Bragg, kneeling, are inspecting a motor of a rotary snow plow. The machine has a 330-horsepower diesel engine and will move 750 tons of snow per hour. Emergency repairs are made on snowplows during the winter, but major shop work is an summer operation while the situation is reversed in summer when winter equipment is worked over.

Snow Removal Work Is Average So Far This Winter, Highway Officials Say

SHOSHONE — Snow removal for the Shoshone district office of the State Highway Department so far this year has been about average, according to Leonard Johnson, highway engineer. "Although activity has been below that of a year ago at this time," he said, "all the storms seem to come either on a holiday, Friday or weekend, so the crews have to put in extra time," he pointed out. The total number of sanders have been increased in the district to 16 and they are also equipped with snowblowers. No roads in the district have been closed so far this season. "Heaviest snow area is from Timpanian Hill north on Highway 93. The district goes north to the Laramie-Custer county line," Mr. Johnson noted there is some break-up appearing in other areas of the district's road system, but only temporary repair can be made at this time. "Weather has failed to continue the stretch between King Hill and Bliss where the Grant Construction Co. and the Alpha Co., Spokane, crews are working jointly in crushing and stockpiling plant mix material. As part of the state rotation plan for keeping highway department vehicles in good service, the Shoshone district received a new fleet of maintenance trucks last summer. Department men worked from May, when they arrived, until November preparing the new trucks with a "harness" for conversion to snow removal equipment for winter. The vehicles are used for both summer maintenance and winter snow removal. "All of the old trucks replaced by the new vehicles, had more than 100,000 miles on them," Mr. Johnson said. There are 119 men employed in the maintenance department of the Shoshone district. Their summer activity centers on minor construction projects and repair work on the district's highways. A good share of their time during the winter is spent on snow removal work and some times the department men provide 24 hour service. Mr. Johnson added the 119 men include actual maintenance mechanics, site foremen with supervisors and shop personnel making up the remainder.

New grading system will be discussed and cattle will be weighed. At 10:30 a.m. Jan. 24 a return meeting will be held when there will be a re-grade of cattle and discussion on yield grades and packers effective yield grade. After a no-host luncheon Wednesday at the Gooding Grange hall there will be a meeting where topics on "What is Modern Beef" and "Livestock Diseases" will be discussed. A veterinarian will be present. Official graders will attend the meetings.

Two Teen Challenge Center Aides Set Castelford Talk

CASTLEFORD — Two assemblies featuring a group from the Teen Challenge Center in Phoenix, Ariz., will be held in the auditorium at the Castelford high school Monday. Teen Challenge is primarily a center for the rehabilitation of drug and alcohol users. Its founder was the Rev. Dave Wilson and the author of the book "The Cross and the Switchblade." This book dramatically tells of his work with the gangs on the streets of New York. Heading the group appearing at the Castelford school will be the Rev. John Swank, director of the Phoenix Center, accompanied by John Sanchez, former heroin addict and presently the men's supervisor at the Phoenix Center. The Teen Challenge Centers have proved to be exceptionally effective in rehabilitating drug and alcohol users. Their work centers on the concept that Jesus Christ can and will deliver man and women from drugs and alcohol and can change their life.

There are nine Teen Challenge Centers in the United States at this time. The assemblies are free but there will be a small donation made to the group to aid them in their four expenses. Exercise On Defense Set At Shoshone

Right Of Way Problems Are Outlined

SHOSHONE — Methods used to obtain rights of way for new highways were explained to members of the Rotary club Wednesday noon. Stan Fritzer, state highway agent, was the speaker. Appraisals are made of the value of land or reconstruction of similar types of buildings. Just compensation must be made under the government's right of eminent domain. In addition to value, a relocation service is now used and other factors must be determined before a fair offer is made. Condemnation proceedings are necessary in about 20 per cent of cases, he said. Values of land before and after a highway is built are averaged by qualified appraisers. The system is uniform in all states. Howard Johnson, district highway engineer here, introduced the speaker. Cassius Jones, high school principal, and Gene Parkman, Susan Newby, Katherine, Margaret

Personal OPINION

QUESTION

To what extent do you think schools should be allowed to dictate dress and hair styles for high school students?

LOCATION

Interviews were taken on Main Street in Shoshone.

ANSWERS

Evelyn Silva: "I have always thought that no one should dictate what another person wears. It isn't what a person wears, what is inside of the that counts, in my opinion."

Mrs. Daryl Bennett: "I feel the school needs to have some policy or standard. Otherwise, I am afraid some of the students would go in school looking terrible."

Bruce Eggleston: "I feel the school should be allowed to dictate the dress and hair policy to an extent. Hair shouldn't be too long. Dresses shouldn't be too short. There is a limit that should be set in each case."

Ferry C. Haddock: "I would like to see the students handle this themselves. Perhaps the Student Council should govern the dress and hair style. I have enough faith in the youth of today that I feel they would do what is right and proper. Of course they should have their usual supervision by the advisor to the Student Council; to act as a guide, but not a dictator, however."

Silva Bennett Eggleston Haddock

Blackburn Pennington Williams Dozzuto

Kenneth Blackburn: "I feel the school officials should be allowed to decide what is proper, to an extent of moderation at least. There should be no extremes in either dress or hair styles. I feel, as far as slacks are concerned, I like the way Shoshone schools have done over the years, with one-day-a-week-for-slack-day. In cold weather even this should be made an exception, in my opinion."

Mrs. Alvin Pennington: "I really don't feel that school should dictate a policy except in extreme cases in cold weather I feel girls should be allowed to wear slacks."

Harold Williams: "I do feel that the schools should have some rules to control extreme cases."

Victor J. Dozzuto: "I feel the students should be allowed to dress as they want as long as it is decent. They should certainly check on how they look, though. Some girls are built for slacker dresses than others and, in my opinion, when girls wear slacks it takes away something."

Hockey Team Owner Talks At Burley

BURLEY — Guest speaker during the Burley Rotary Club noon luncheon was Dan Meyer, president, owner and founder of the Salt Lake Golden Eagles, professional hockey team.

Mr. Meyer, who is a Salt Lake attorney, and one of hockey's greatest enthusiasts, predicts junior hockey leagues will be as prevalent in the winter time as Little League Baseball is now in the country during the summer.

"Without a question, hockey is the fastest sport in the world of athletics," stated Mr. Meyer. "It combines all the action of baseball, football, basketball and boxing and packs it into a single hour," he added.

Hockey fans are a new breed of individuals who, just as apt to be the lady of the house as the man or youngster of the family, he said.

It requires tremendous courage on the part of the players of whom only six can be on the ice at a time. Hockey was entirely new in Salt Lake City until the Salt Palace ice pavilion made it possible. Now it is gaining "rage" proportions among spectators, the speaker said.

Meyer reported he would personally assist in establishing a youth program in Burley if some substantial support can be found for it as youngsters are wanting the sport.

Where only three rinks were available in Salt Lake City last year, there are a dozen this winter, mostly for juniors.

Mr. Meyer predicts similar impetus in this country and particularly in the western states. Several Idaho communities have chartered buses to the Salt Palace to see the Eagles play and the people are returning again and again, he added.

Wayne Konrad introduced Mr. Meyer.

Women Score In Man's World

By NORMA HERZINGER

It's amazing to note the number of developments that have taken place in the last few years as far as women's occupations. To appreciate this fact, one has only to meet a few of the outstanding women in our own community. Even though their professions are varied, they compete and very well in what is referred to as a "man's world."

Underlining the importance of women in the professional world is their enthusiasm to learn and the respect and esteem given them by their male constituents. Down through the years, women forerunners in politics, science, business, business education, etc., have paved the way, so today, women can be found in almost all vocations.

Former President Lyndon Johnson once said, in traditional salute while proclaiming National Business Women's Week, "It is a fitting tribute to our working women that we set aside this special week to applaud their vital share in a prospering America. And it is a continuing compliment to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs that this traditional observance gains in meaning and momentum with every passing year."

Another very fitting tribute came from Wilton M. Hoami, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, "Without the contribution which the business and professional women make to the economy of this country, the economy would not last very long. Businessmen know that better than anyone."

Representative of the many business women in Twin Falls are Mrs. Clarence (Liz) Remer, Sally Gulick, Shirley Hoama, Mrs. Susan Shaw and Mrs. Jenny Dougherty.

Mrs. Remer, employed by the State Department of Agriculture and supervised and licensed by the Federal Government, is the only woman bean and pea inspector in the state. She services all of Magic Valley, taking samples of all export beans, grading them and issuing certificates if beans are in grade. She is presently working on a license for peas and lentils. Large quantities of the export beans graded by Mrs. Remer go to Spain, Japan, Israel, Puerto Rico, Belgium, Holland, England and Panama.

A LABORATORY TECHNICIAN for the Snake River Research Center, Shirley Hoama works directly with soil for illity in sugar beets and potatoes and plant tissue analysis. She received her masters degree in general science from the State University of Iowa, Iowa City. She works with Dr. J. N. Carter and has been employed at the center almost five years.

A WOMAN IN THE real estate business is becoming more and more popular these past few years. Mrs. Susan Shaw is one of these realtors, having been in the real estate game for eight years. Her office is in her home at 1226 Adilana Ave. E. She is a licensed real estate broker and deals in rented and for-sale properties.

A LADY BARBER? You don't see these much in our area — but Sally Gulick is ranked one of the very best. Here she cuts the hair of her employer, Earl Carter, owner and operator of Speed's Barber Shop. Water cutting is Sally's specialty and she has built quite a clientele for herself during the past two years. She resides southwest of Twin Falls and drives back and forth each day.

A "CUSTOMER'S MAN" is what Jenny Dougherty is for McRoberts and Co. She is a registered representative for the company and sells stocks and bonds. Being a jack-of-all-trades, Jenny's job brings many prizes in the company. She is licensed by the state and definitely works in a man's world.

MR. AND MRS. VERNON AUGUSTUS (Davis photo)

Anita Garrard, Augustus Marry In Holiday Setting

Anita Jeanne Garrard became the bride of Vernon Wayne Augustus in an evening ceremony Dec. 29 at the Carillon in Twin Falls, with Rev. Harold N. Nye of the First Methodist Church, Twin Falls, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Garrard, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mason, Hansen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin floor-length gown with lace appliques and seed pearl trim. Her veil was held by a white velvet bow entwined with white rosebuds and gold-petal berries. She wore a tiny blue velvet bow from her mother's wedding gown and a diamond lavallere worn by both her mother and grandmother. She carried a bouquet of holly and white roses accented with white velvet streamers.

The ceremony was performed before a setting of evergreens and white chrysanthemums with a Christmas tree and large white bells in the background.

Cheryl Garrard served as maid of honor for her sister, with Lois Taplin as bridesmaid. Cousins of the bride, as bridesmaids, they are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Taplin, Covina, Calif.

Flower girl was Sheri Mauldin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Mauldin.

Dallas Sherrill served as best man, with Melvin Tipton, Hansen, as usher.

Mrs. Marjorie Chandler, Filer, was organist.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with white accented with white satin ribbons and holly along the edge. The Oregon holly also encircled the ceremony candle which was made by the bride's mother. The 12-inch green candle was frosted and was ornamented with white rosebuds and bells. She also made white rose candles which were featured on the guest tables.

The three-tiered white cake, decorated with tiny white bells and hearts, was topped with three large white satin bells. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Marjorie Chandler, and the bride, Nade Okelberry, Burley, served punch and coffee.

Guests were registered by Lenale Lynn Schmucker. Out-of-state guests attended from Covina, Calif., and Walla Walla, Mrs. Billie West opened and displayed by Sarah Sinbaugh and PRESIDENT OF THE Twentieth Century Club, Mrs. E. E. Jolliffe, presents Gary Donnelly, 18, son of Mrs. Gayle Ehrenman and Paul Donnelly, Twin Falls, a scholarship to assist in furthering his college education. Gary was born with congenital cataracts. Surgery corrected his sight to 20-20 with glasses, in one eye, but no sight out of the other. His handicap has not slowed him down as for his education, though, as he plans to go to Moscow or Boulder, Colo., to get his B.A. degree. He started school at the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind, Gooding, and decided to transfer to a public school during his fifth grade. He was graduated from Gooding High School and at present is in his second year at the College of Southern Idaho in managerial training. Gary did cafe work all through high school, and worked at the local M.H.King Co. store. At present he is employed at Kain's Cafe. Jim has a busy schedule with work and school and still managed to stay on the dean's honor roll last year. One can see him walking to and from school, in all kinds of weather, which is a two-mile trek. The scholarship was presented on behalf of the Twentieth-Century Club under its education program.

DEAR ABBY: We hear so much about the disgusting behavior of our nation's youth. We never seem to hear about the "silent majority" who are not troublemakers. I would like to relate our experience. A month ago, our 17-year-old son died of leukemia. While the response of our friends was overwhelming, it came nowhere near that of the teenagers in our community. These youngsters took it upon themselves to make two collections. One for a blanket of flowers for the casket — in their school colors, and another ($400) to be given to leukemia research in our son's name. As if that were not enough, every day, since the funeral, some of the schoolmates have stopped by to visit us and act if they can be helpful. The high school has virtually adopted our 17-year-old son as their "master cot." They have secured special permission for him to ride the hand bus, play in the band, and to participate in half-time activities. Our experience has convinced me that if the youth of our country is an example of the younger generation, we have nothing to fear in leaving the world in their capable hands. Sincerely,

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who signed herself "GOING CRAZY," because her husband was a "back rat." First, ask yourself, "Do I want a neat, tidy home ALONE, or is it worth a little clutter to have him there?" I assume you want him there or you wouldn't have written to Abby. For 12 years I have served meals "buffer style" directly from the pots on the stove because even our table is too cluttered to serve "family style." I would not know how to act in a neat, well-ordered home, but given 15 minutes notice, I could entertain the President, and I'd have a cute story about how we came to have a drill press in the bedroom and an oil drum in the living room. (I'd give the oil drum a psychedelic paint job with wild flowers on it and I'd dare him to touch my "masterpiece.") I would also throw away a few things at a time from the back of the shelves. (He'll never miss them.) Make a game of it. It's fun. If you can't live with him, I say, maybe I'm crazy, too, but I'm happy. And think of all the work I save not having to get the table three times a day.

LOVES HER PACT RAT: DENISON, TEX.

DEAR NORMA: I agree. There are many young people of whom we can be very proud. And judging from the way these teenagers rallied 'round you and your family, I would say that your son was surely one of them.

LYNN SIGNS HOLLYWOOD (UPD) — Lynn Redgrave signed with Warner Bros. to star with James Coburn in "Hired Kin."

DEAR ABBY: What does a mother do when strangers stop in a supermarket to admire her baby, and they have the audacity to touch the baby's face? Mom will put their finger out for my daughter to grab it. I don't know how clean some of these men are, and you know babies will put their own fingers right into their mouths. I enjoy having people admire my child, but I don't want them spreading germs all over her. "Contaminating" fingers in the infant seat in the shopping cart, and it is so easy for someone to get to her. One lady actually bent down and kissed her on the forehead. I have tried carrying the baby but I have a back — in the supermarket I've had people ask, "MAY I HOLD HER?" and take her from me without waiting for an answer! Please put this in your column, before Thursday, as I marveled, and Friday in my laundry day. Thank you.

ARKANSAS MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: Since most strangers who befriend overly affectionate toward children in supermarkets do so hesitantly, this probably won't help much, but it's worth a try.

Mart Sinks As Caution Marks Action In Week Of Waiting

By RICHARD ROSS
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Caution was the watchword on Wall Street this week as many investors retreated to the sidelines and watched the stock market fall of its own weight. Volume slumped just under 10.5 billion shares, and most of that was generated by institutions which swung into action in a big way about midweek.

Most analysts said investors were waiting for President Nixon's state of the Union and budget messages before committing themselves to the market. There is hope a budget surplus will enable the Federal Reserve Board to ease its credit restraints, which have been widely blamed for the market's poor performance in 1969 and the early part of this year.

Administration spokesmen this week said the budget will contain a surplus and announced that Nixon has ordered further drastic cuts in fiscal 1970 spending as a means of deflating inflation. But investors apparently want to see the budget for themselves before acting.

One analyst noted investors also probably will want to see just what Congressional reaction is to any budget announced by the President.

"There's a whole of a difference between an announced surplus in a budget statement and one actually occurring," said Robert Allen of Shearson, Hammit & Bricker.

The President will tell to Congress to go along with his programs and any new taxes he may propose to achieve the surplus.

Monte Gordon, vice president of Dache & Co. brokerage, said in face of these two messages, one is going to commit dollars to the stock market.

Among the fire hazards in the home Mr. Williams listed piles of old magazines, books and newspapers which could begin to heat and break into flames.

Buhl Woman Questions Code On School Dress In T. F.

Editor, Times-News:

Since the Buhl school system has adopted a policy very similar to that of the Twin Falls school system, I have some questions about the school dress code.

Why isn't the school dress code left to the decision of the individual parents, and not the school officials? What does the school dress code have to do with the purpose of classroom education? Why do the school officials feel they have the right to dictate to the parents how to dress their children?

Is this a public school system, or is it a private school system where a certain type of dress is enforced? Is this public school dress code, that is being enforced, denying parents their personal and constitutional rights?

Isn't the school dress code, as it stands, invite rebellion that shows up in harem legs and short skirts?

What change does a student have to make a protest, if the parents are denied the right to defend them? Is the denial of parental rights causing the rising problems of student rebellion, school drop-outs and their want to escape with drugs and alcohol?

Bronze Star Awarded To Burley Man

BURLEY — Spec. A. Stanley Gloom Kosman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kosman, Burley, was returned to his home in Wash. after spending a 10-day leave with his parents here.

Kosman has received the Bronze Star medal with V device for heroism during action in Vietnam, while serving as an armored personnel carrier driver with the 1st Cavalry, Fourth Infantry Division.

On March 15, 1969, Specialist Kosman's unit was involved on a mission to drive a suspected enemy force out of the village of Kon Hiong, northwest of Kontum. As he drove his vehicle into the village it was hit by two enemy M-16 rockets, one of which penetrated the hull of the vehicle.

It struck Kosman, almost severing his arm and causing heavy fragmentation wounds on his head. Unconscious by the seriousness of his wounds, without regard for his own safety, he distinguished from the vehicle, assisted and fired on the enemy with his rifle until the rifle was blown from his hands by enemy fire.

"Specialist Kosman's exceptional courage, fortitude and exemplary devotion to duty reflected credit on himself, his unit and the U.S. Army," the citation reads.

He attended Ratt River High School in Malin and entered the service in February, 1967, going to Vietnam in July, 1968. Kosman also has received the Purple Heart.

Miami Squeezes Past Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The Miami Floridians noosed out the Kentucky Colonels 110-118 in the final seconds of an American Basketball Association game Saturday night.

forced to leave late in the contest but not before combining with Davis to shift off the pesky Badgers—who had come back from a 44-point deficit to close within 49-48 with seven minutes left in the game.

Hitting extremely well and waiting for the good shot, Snow put the pressure on most of the first half. Dig-Dave Burp, a husky 6-8 pivotaunt, gave the Eagles trouble underneath and fired some good passes to display when he was on the floor. He ended with 10 points in the first 20 minutes. Snow meanwhile jumped in front of 12 before Hegens hit two straight, and Ron Behagen and Lufry Reitz added dunks to shove CSI in front 12-4.

After that the Eagles never trailed and began to hit well inside but Dorup nullified four close-in shots and had Snow within 22-20 after a crippo.

Oakley Races Past Murtaugh Devils 80-62

MURTAUGH—Oakley's streaking horns made it seem in a row Friday night by blowing away in the final four minutes to rout Murtaugh 80-62.

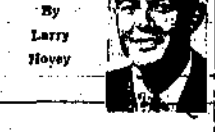

The taller horns, working the boards well, got an early 10-point inside punch from Steve McLaw but had to be content to match baskets with the Red Devils. John Flynn and Gary Stranger kept Murtaugh close over the first eight minutes. Oakley edged ahead by a pair at

Signs of the time? This week a basketball player says when a basketball player says "I want to play" because he "wasn't getting to play enough!"

This, of course, has happened before—but of mention here is the fact the boy was a starter, had played every minute in four of his team's first eight games, and sat out no more than six minutes in the other four.

a knee ailment that has slowed him to 100 per cent of his usual self. Coach Ed Marshall feels the youngster may have to sit out quite a bit during the next few games and only hopes the problem will clear up by tournament time. Ramsey had the same ailment, and the freshman and sophomore but last year got through the season without much pain.

The basketball scene could be changing in the area with Rockliffe's Athletic Association to be moved into the A-4 seventh district. If that is allowed, the Bulldogs will withdraw from the Magic Valley Conference effective at the end of the track season.

With the A-4 state tournament in Burley, the magic Valley A-4 schools will have three berth open. Two will go to the district winners, which basically will be the Northside Conference, excluding Rimrock, and the Magic Valley Conference. The third will be decided in a pre-tournament playoff between the north and south side runners-up. Around the state there are three names being mentioned in the A-4 power class, Olathe and Murtaugh from what will be the stretch district and Clark Fork.

University of Idaho lost a fine offensive end when it lost Griffith last week. Griffith is regarded as one of the best offensive coaches around and has been connected with some high powered, point-plugging teams. Many have been surprised he hasn't become a head coach before now.

On the junior college scene, College of Southern Idaho appears about a cinch to be placed in the regional, which will be held in the Twin Falls area. But of interest is the fact the Ricks College, which will be in Twin Falls to meet CSI Wednesday night, appears to have moved ahead of North Idaho, JC in a battle for the other slot in the North side regional.

Also, there seems to be the popular idea that the winner of the regional will have to go to an inter-regional playoff against the Arizona champions. Not so. This year the regional champ goes directly to national playoffs. The inter-regional will apply to this area for another nine years.

Clay Reverts To Previous Stand, Will Fight No More

CHICAGO (UPI)—Cassius Clay, defrocked heavyweight champion of the world, says he has had his last fight. Clay, who prefers his Black Muslim name, Muhammad Ali, made the statement during taping for a television show for WMAQ-TV.

In town to promote a computerized version of a fight between himself and the late Rocky Marciano, Clay first confirmed his retirement from the ring at a press luncheon.

He said, his decision was prompted by persistent fight promoters who after him chances to get back in the ring. Clay said he wants the promoters "to stop calling me now. I won't even answer the phone. I'm not angry. I just want them to leave me alone."

Known for his loud, poetic predictions of victory, Clay first took the heavyweight crown Feb. 25, 1967, from Sonny Liston.

He kept the title until Spring of 1967 when he was defrocked by the World Boxing Association and other commissions after he was convicted of draft evasion.

Clay said there is only one man he would have liked to fight before hanging up his gloves—Joe Frazier. However, he said he is convinced such a match can never be arranged the way he wants it.

"I'd have done the fight," he explained, "if they could have got the fight legit."

He said the reason he wanted to take on Frazier was "only to show who was the real champion."

Frazier fights Jimmy Ellis next month for the heavyweight crown.

Wyoming Has Narrow 79-77 WAC Victory

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming's guard Willie Righerson sank two free throws with three seconds remaining to push the Cowboys past Colorado State University 79-77 Saturday night in a Western Athletic Conference basketball thriller.

The Cowboys trailed 40-30 at the half but came out to start the second half by outscoring CSU 35-16 to take a 65-58 lead with 9:20 left to play.

The Rams quickly came back, though, and outscored the opponents 35-16 in the second half to win with only 3:22 left to play, led 75-69.

Wyoming won the game from the free-throw line, as they scored only two field goals in the last nine minutes of the game. During the same time they hit 12 of 14 free throws, including six for Roy Wilson and three of four by Slim Dodds.

Roberson sank the two winning shots at the game's end. The win put the Cowboys with a 11-1 WAC record and 12 for the season, while CSU dropped to 1-3 in league play and 6-5 for the season.

MISSOURI TRIMS HAWKEYES 65-63 — Columbia, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri used late clutch shooting by Pete Hombeck and a first half technical foul to gain a 65-63 Big Eight basketball victory over Iowa State here Saturday night.

With the Cyclones holding a 58-53 edge in the final three minutes, and delaying for one shot, Hombeck stole the ball and scored the winning point. Tiger lead, two minutes later, Hombeck hit both sides of a one-and-one to ice the victory.

Iowa State watched a nine-point lead all but disappear late in the first half, but of it in a 10-second span. Trailing 35-28 with 14 seconds left, Missouri's Barry Maurer was fouled. Rick Engel protested and was hit with a technical foul. Maurer hit his shot and bonus. Theo Frank added the technical, then Don Thompson hit a field goal to narrow the gap to 33-33 at intermission.

K-STATE TOPS ST FRANCIS — Manhattan, Kan. (UPI) — After a nip-and-tuck first half battle, a 15-point scoring spurt in the second stanza enabled Kansas State University to defeat St. Francis of Pennsylvania, 75-71 Saturday night despite the 25-point scoring effort of Kevin Porter.

The Wildcats, led by Jerry Venable and David Hall, who combined for 32 points, trailed by seven in the early going but managed to capture a 33-34 halftime advantage. A four-minute drought by St. Francis coupled with fourth K-State shooting, propelled the Wildcats in front 50-35—a lead which they never relinquished.

ST. JOSEPH'S UPSETS DAVIDSON — Philadelphia (UPI) — Dan Kelly and Mike Inzer combined for 60 points Saturday night to lead St. Joseph's to an upset 90-81 victory over ninth-ranked Davidson in the night cap of a doubleheader at the Patuxent.

Idaho State Tops Montana For Split In Big Sky Loop Series

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — The wizardry of Willie Humes and Bill Simmons turned the tables on the Montana Grizzlies Saturday night, and gave Idaho State a split in its two-night visit to Missoula.

The Grizzlies started the game just where they left off Friday night and jumped to a 27-18 lead midway through the first half. It looked like Gustafson, who collected 16 points in the first half, would lead the Grizzlies to a rout of the Bengals.

The Bengals came from behind early in the second half and went on to a 66-60 Big Sky Conference victory.

The close checking upset the Montana game plan and the Bengals went ahead 55-54 with 11:20 left in the game. Then the lead changed hands three times until a lay-up by center Ray Howard put Montana in front 60-59 with 1:10 left.

Grizzlies never relinquished the lead from then on in a four-minute win.

From then on the Grizzlies were playing catch-up ball against the control tactics of Humes and Simmons.

Although only John Harrell left on personals, the Grizzlies were in foul trouble early in the second half and Idaho State collected a basket of 1-11.

Dietrich led only by one point in the eighth minute but 60-60 score from all five starters.

After that Oakley amplified the bench in the late stages of the second quarter and coasted home. The Hornets took the preliminary.

Boatwright's 35 Points Trigger Spartan Victory

RUBEN — Lanky Jim Boatwright hit 15 of 20 field goals Saturday night to lead the Minico Spartans to a 50-46 victory over Idaho Falls in the fourth quarter to register a 10-50 Southern Idaho Conference victory.

In a game similar to one they won in Idaho Falls, Minico had its hands full in the first three quarters with Terry Kettering coming out to help Boatwright keep the Spartans slightly ahead.

Idaho Falls took a 15-14 lead in the first quarter but Minico held in front 31-27 by halftime. The third quarter remained tight throughout but signs of the time started showing up when Idaho Falls went to a narrow-way defensive situation on Boatwright's 35-point performance.

Boatwright made them pay. He hit eight of eight from the field in the second half, helping the Spartans into a 50-46 lead at the end of three periods. The fourth quarter was all Minico as the Spartans pushed through 10 points and Idaho Falls helped the situation by scoring only four points.

Minico won the preliminary 65-47.

SENATORS EASE PAST WOOD RIVER — Big F F A B K Krahn pulled down 21 rebounds and hit for 10 points Saturday night to lead the Gooding Senators past Wood River 63-56.

Gooding meanwhile got solid scoring from three men—Digger—wounded from the outside to keep the Wolverines close in the second period.

Gary Gorrell's six pick points in the third frame helped the Senators take a 48-point edge, and a Wolverine press in the fourth period was turned into several easy baskets for Gooding. The Senators pulled away for keeps, Gooding took the preliminary.

RIMROCK TOPS REDSKINS BY 62-41 MARGIN — BRUNEAU — Rimrock took a 15-point lead behind Doug Woodley and Holly Magers in the first half Saturday night and took a 62-41 lead over the Gooding State Redskins.

Magers, who hit 17 points, and Woodley, who ended with 14, hit well in the first eight minutes. As Rimrock raced to a 25-7 lead, the Redskins could only hit for five in the second quarter, but by then it didn't matter.

Could Programmed Reading Offer Much Needed Key?

By BONNIE HAIRD JONES
Times-News Feature Editor

What is the right approach to beginner reading programs? This question is being asked and even debated by school administrators, teachers, parents and educational analysts across the country.

Many experts think they have found the answer, but most are willing to admit they have found probably only a part of the answer, and experimental programs are continuing in nearly every district and state.

One such experiment is underway in four first and one second grade classes at a Morningside School in Twin Falls. While it may not be the whole answer, it has teachers and first grade students alike eager for each day's program to get underway. In an experiment that has already been going on for six years.

They are working at Morningside in the McGraw-Hill Programmed Reading method, used in use in several other Idaho schools. Although it is now in its sixth year the program has undergone numerous revisions during that time and just last year some major changes were made. Teachers working with the program are enthusiastic to say the least and anxious to continue experimental work for another year or two with these latest revisions.

Dennis Messenger, Morningside principal, was instrumental in adopting the program as a pilot study six years ago.

Under revisions now applied to the program, there is greater emphasis on comprehension and individual progress.

Each child is able to work ahead as rapidly or slowly as he is able to absorb new words and sounds. There are no rote devices in the five classroom Morningside schools. The programmed reading is used. Instead there is an unusual amount of individual participation and activity.

One of the keys to the program, say teachers, is the use of phonics with the children starting their reading process by learning the alphabet and learning one single sound for each letter.

In this way much of the confusion of other programs has been eliminated.

The young children are told as he learns to talk — with sounds — and the program indicates it is a good total language arts study complete with reading, spelling, punctuation and vocabulary in the first grade," Mr. Messenger says.

Should a parent or reporter enter a first grade classroom at Morningside and observe a newly written complete sentence, proper spelling, quick reading response and even proper punctuation he would find it hard to believe these youngsters have been in school only four months.

As yet the program has not been adopted by the state board of education and unless it is in the next meeting, teachers at Morningside might be giving up their much favored system next year.

All agree they feel the revised system needs another year or two for a complete test and hope this can be accomplished. Teachers say it has proven to them it contains many of the answers to the all important problem of teaching the child to be a good, intelligent reader.

"These children not only read words, sentences and stories, but through methods employed, prove to us they understand what they are reading," said one first grade teacher.

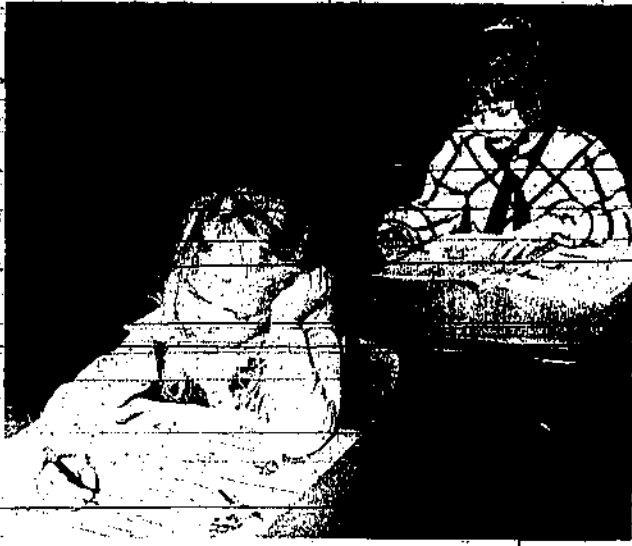

Many ideas and methods are combined in the program. They range from reading charts that may line an entire wall and be used for group reading to card games in which the children build their words by asking each other questions and finding letters or groups of letters on a card to combine and form the needed word.

Comprehension in reading is vital, teachers say. First graders can pick out a word a teacher describes, pronounce it, spell it and write it showing they are familiar with the word in all of these ways.

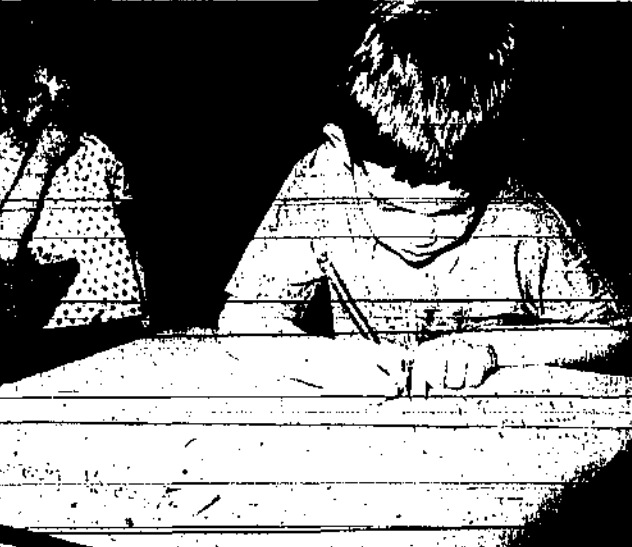

In one class a teacher asked a question about a certain series of sentences written on the board. "Find the word that shows what time is doing," the teacher requested.

The word in the sentence was "swam" and the child selected the word after considerable study. He wrote it beside the sentence, but called it "swim".

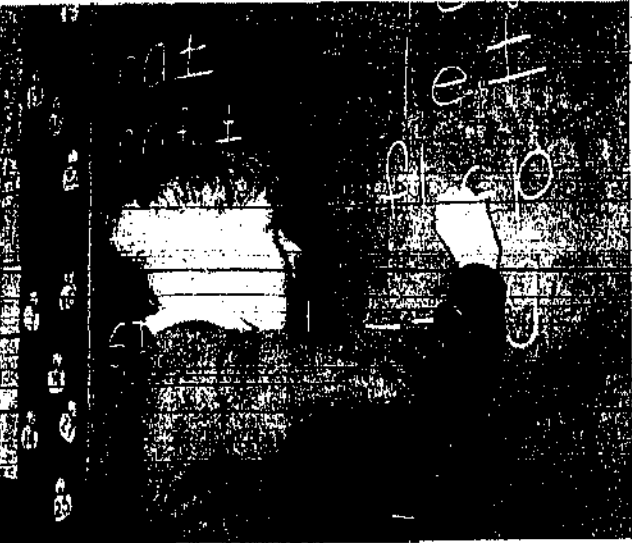

"You have to be careful," the teacher added. "I asked for the word in the present tense and

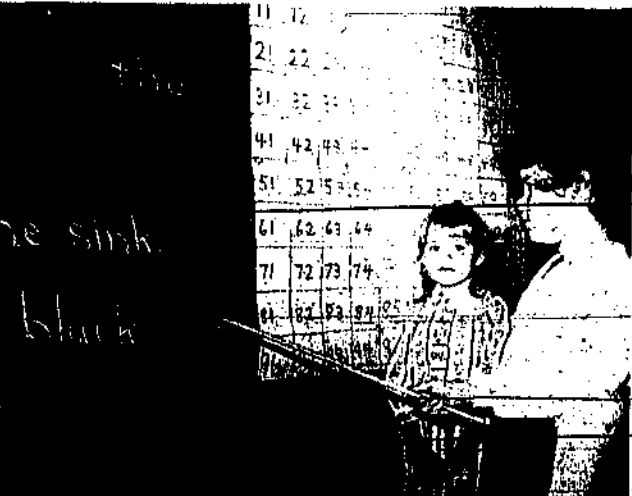

THEY READ IT. Coby Stralberg and Julio Hator, from left, are in different books but are in the same class. Each child is given an opportunity to progress as rapidly as he is able to absorb words and sounds.

THEY WRITE IT. Gregory Moreland builds a sentence from a list of vocabulary words he is working with on a specific day. His sentences are complete, spelling correct and his punctuations proper, but his own imagination makes his work different from all others.

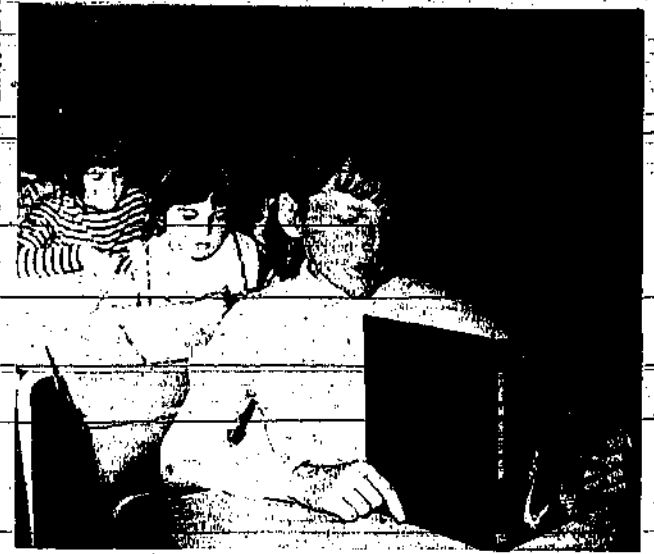

THEY SPELL IT. First grader John Edwards fills in the missing letter of a word. He will then pronounce it and spell it aloud.

THEY UNDERSTAND what they read. Picking out the word "sink" that tells where, is Mita Tadlock. At left, Jenny Oyer has just finished reading the sentence.

INDIVIDUAL-READING HABITS of these second graders begin to show results of programmed reading. Here Julie White, Kayleen Hitt and Ann Marie Brockway, from left, read books for their own choosing from the school library. During free reading time the children advance to books of much higher grade level.

BUILDING WORDS FROM cards, each containing a letter or several letters, is one of the exercises used by the first graders in increasing their reading ability and vocabulary.

Area Woman Finds Relaxing Hobby In Old Clothing, Donates Many Hours To Needy

Les Moore is a genuine miracle worker.

Most women who sew can find enjoyment and even relaxation in taking a bright new piece of fabric and making it into a party frock, play suit or new blouse.

But Les Moore, wife of James Moore, 1347 Sixth Ave. E., relaxes with a different kind of hobby. Several months ago she called the American Red Cross office in Twin Falls with an offer the chapter officials found hard to believe.

She asked if she might take donated clothing that was not suitable for wear and remodel it into useable items.

Since then she has been ripping up old, wide-legged trousers, knit suits, coats, house coats and even knit dresses. From these she has salvaged pieces of material large enough to make children's trousers, coats, caps, sweaters, and dresses. Even old underwear, slips and nightgowns are salvaged as they make excellent children's pants and slips.

Like the Chinese who made good use of everything but the squeal of the pig, she uses old buttons, lace, zippers, hooks and even cuts out a bit of the print for creation of a fancy pocket or applique where a bear would otherwise ruin a piece of cloth or frock.

Julia Campese who directs the clothing center for the local PTA groups and Red Cross, said Mrs. Moore's services just can't be estimated.

Many of the children attending Head Start programs are able to go to school only because of the many pairs of small children's trousers she has made from worn and discarded men's suits and pants.

FRUSTRATION FOR SOME is relaxation for Les Moore. She spends her spare time ripping up old clothes, salvaging bits of lace, buttons, zippers and faded material. From these discarded and unusable items she makes attractive children's outfits, many of which enable the Head Start Program children to continue attending class.

In the case of pennants!

National Ski Week Observances Planned In Intermountain Region

National ski week observances will be held in the Intermountain region from Jan. 18 through Jan. 25. The observances will be marked by the local areas by a variety of events, including the season's best skiing conditions and a number of special events.

New snow has been falling almost daily in most areas and conditions are exceptionally good everywhere. U.S. Forest Service reports indicate there are now about 300 ski resorts on U.S. Forest Service land and these are visited by several million skiers a year.

Some special events in local region include a visit from French Olympic skier Jean Claude Kelly at Sun Valley, where he will be completing a number of ski runs. Kelly is making his western ski resort. During the last two days of his visit, Jan. 21 and 22, he will be skiing in competition against two local skiers, Stefan Knecht and Christian Prand.

Another event at Sun Valley during National Ski Week will include the annual "old timers" reunion.

Gov. Averell W. Harriman, founder of Sun Valley, who has been unable to attend previous reunions, is expected to arrive for the fifth annual Sun Valley Ski Club old timers reunion Jan. 18 through 24.

He will be the guest of honor with many other skiing notables expected to attend. A special luncheon will be held at the Sun Valley Hotel and others attending will include Austrian skier, Kurt Thathammer, Dick Durance and Gretchen Fraser. Miss Fraser was the first American to win an Olympic medal, while Thathammer is remembered for his many racing victories in the Harriman Cup event at Sun Valley. Mr. Thathammer was one of the first Austrian instructors to begin teaching controlled skiing in America.

A full week of festivities is planned at Sun Valley, including Family day this Sunday with special rates on the chair lift, rope tow and platter lift. Tuesday will see the start of a National instruction program at Sun Valley. The program will include the opening of Men's Day for the season will be held Wednesday with special rates and door prizes. Thursday features opening of Ladies Day for the season, with a style show, special rates and door prizes.

On Friday, all restaurants at Sun Valley's ski shops will be offered at half price. For the week-end, ski school sessions continue for junior skiers with a National Ski Week race for junior skiers to follow Jan. 21.

Sunday the ski patrol members will hold a fun race against the instructors of the ski school with the losers to buy refreshments. The public is invited to watch the various events.

National Ski week also will see the opening of mid-week skiing at Meigs Mountain, with Thursday ski instruction and Friday featuring the opening of the CSI ski instruction program and also skiing for the general public.

OLD PHOTOGRAPH shows giant prehistoric fish, Idaho sturgeon, in the "good old days" when they could be caught in such sizes as 1,500 pounds and sold by the wagon load. Now they are strictly for sport with all catches going back into the water. Fishermen are cautioned they cannot take the fish from the water to photograph it as this could mean its death.

Sturgeon—Catch One If You Can, But Remember You Must Throw 'Em All Back

By JIM HUMBRID
Idaho Fish and Game Department

More than three-quarters of a century ago, a wagon load of white sturgeon sold on the Boise market at six cents a pound, and the boy who hooked the monstrous prehistoric fish was hailed as a hero. The Snake River used a set line and perhaps a team of horses to help drag it ashore.

Those were "the good old days" when sea-run salmon and steelhead could be fished by set line and the word "conservation" was not a part of every angler's vocabulary.

Over two decades have passed since the last sturgeon was taken in the Snake River. The species is now listed as "endangered" in the Snake River watershed. The regulation outlawing the use of set lines in any part of the Snake River was ordered by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission in 1950, though unattended lines in these waters had been banned for a number of years from Shoshone Falls to Bliss.

As anglers learned to catch sturgeon with conventional rod and reel, big harvests and growing scarcity of adult fish, old enough to spawn, gradually resulted in the general Idaho prohibition of set lines. Set line lengths no less than three feet nor more than six feet.

Effective January 1, 1970, protective measures prohibited removal from the water of any sturgeon. The regulation was looked in the Snake River, and requires it be released immediately. However, set lines still are legal in northern Idaho on the Kootenai River for the purpose of trapping sturgeon. Outside legal lengths must not be less than three feet or more than six feet.

James C. Simpson, chief of the fisheries division of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, does not expect a slowdown of sportman interest in sturgeon fishing because of the latest protective measures. "The real thrill and test comes when a man tries to land a sturgeon weighing a few hundred pounds using only a reasonably light rod and reel," he commented.

"In the past, sportmen complained how never have complained much when forced to give up a big fish because it was more worms are favorite baits. If waters are found above Johnson there are not at least, think that some 1000 miles upstream from Pittsburgh Landing. Beyond this point the white waters roaring through Hell's Canyon are tricky, even dangerous to navigate, with proper equipment. It is here the River Queen, the most beautiful of Lewis and Clark boats, makes its way through the rapids. Beyond Hell's Canyon, the waters are calm and the fishing is good. The Oregon Hole just below Granite Creek usually is the most productive sturgeon waters in the river. Best fishing months are April, May, June and July. The season ends in September and October.

Good fishing. But remember to throw 'em all back in the water. No sturgeon, regardless of size.

than six feet and not a keeper, or when a 1,500 lb. fish after a three to four hour battle with a monster — or when obliged to give up the fight from sheer exhaustion," Simpson noted.

He cautioned photographers that all sturgeon, irrespective of size, may not be removed from the water and must be released immediately. This provision is spelled out to keep anglers from dragging out a nice sturgeon and hanging it up, suspended either by the head or tail, long enough to take pictures. Mr. Simpson noted, the fish will slowly suffocate during such process and can also be easily injured resulting in his death when released. Body abrasions during such handling can also result in fungi forming on the skin of the fish.

Sturgeon show sturgeon grow about two inches a year in length, and the age of the first spawning may come between 10 and 22 years for males, and 11 to 24 years for females. Subsequent spawning intervals may vary from four to nine years apart. Studies in all three states of the Snake River indicate the number of "legals" within maximum and minimum lengths vary from one to two. The regulations were being developed because of the many years needed to outgrow the catchable stage.

Sturgeon spawn in the spring of the year or early summer. Females lay up to one-half million eggs in a season. Weights up to 1,500 pounds have been recorded for sturgeon. The head is flattened, with long fleshy snout and underlying retracting mouth. Sharp when young, the snout is short and blunt in adult fish.

The mouth has thick lips but no teeth. There are four barbels or whiskers in front of the mouth. The head and back are covered with bony plates. Five rows of shields cover the body, much like the thorns on a rose hollar.

Sturgeon are bottom feeders. They move slowly, extending their flexible tubular mouth, sucking up small fish, worms, snails and other foods. Stomachs have been caught with stomachs filled with potatoes or onions. Anglers use enough lead to fish the bottom with all manner of bait. Lamprey eel, smelt, herring, crayfish or big gobs of

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

From W. D. E. Wendell, Idaho: I have a copper coin which has a hole in the middle of it. On one side, around the hole are four groups of two letters which look like this: a capital "H" with another hooked up to it, and a crown above each one. Around the hole are the words "Roi Des Belges Souv. De L'Etat Indep. Du Congo." The back of the coin has a large star in the center and above it the word "Ces." and below the date "1888." What can you tell me about this? Is it valuable?

Answer: You have a coin of the Belgian Congo, struck under the rule of Leopold II who reigned from 1835 until 1909. The value of the coin is about 75 cents if in brand new condition. The inscription "Roi Des Belges Souv. De L'Etat Indep. Du Congo" stands for 10 centimes and equals about 1/100th of a cent in United States exchange.

From D. L. Twin Falls, Idaho: The coin I want to know about is shiny, like our nickel. On one side is a shield and the words "Republique De Costa Rica" and the date "1915." The other side says "American Centennial" and "25 Cents" in U. S. R. with the initials "D. L. C. R." Does this coin have any value other than face?

Answer: Your coin is from Costa Rica, a republic in southern Central America. The initials "D.L.C.R." on the reverse stand for "Diplo Internacional de Costa Rica" and this 1915 centimo was struck at the United States Mint in Philadelphia. The value in United States exchange is about one 1/100th of a cent. Collector value about 25 cents.

From H. D. Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a couple of coins I want to find out about. One has three lions in a shield on it, and the name "Guernsey." The other side has the following inscription, "4 DOUBLES 1929." The second coin has a woman's head and the words "Victoria Del Gran Brit. A titanic tug-of-war for possession of a child is the story "Michel, Michel," by Robert Lewis. A battle in which the child, caught between conflicting ideologies, becomes the focal point of a Catholic-Jewish conflict, Michel, a Jewish son of a doctor, is orphaned in France when his father is arrested by the Gestapo and his mother takes poison. Placed in the care of a motherly director or an orphanage, Michel becomes her favorite as the vehicle of the realization of her dreams, a feeling shared by a Mother Superior in a local convent. When the family wants the child at the close of the war "Maman Rose" refuses to relinquish him, is backed by the church officers who frustrate legal attempts to gain custody.

The conflict rages around him because Michel's own complicated further by guilt and tears buried deep inside, hidden from his conscious self, even as he is hidden in various schools and monasteries from his relatives and officers of the law.

What starts as a personal quarrel in a small French village burgeons into a national conflict of ethics and religion, both sides motivated by an idealism that calls for great physical and mental sacrifice.

The reader entering the heart of Michel, is choosing now for the family, now for the Catholic church, whose nuns, priests, and laymen conspire to keep Michel from danger of apostasy.

lies, deceit and machinations are tools used with the philosophy that the end justifies the means.

Not a book to be read in one sitting, it walks with you through the day, enlarging its already more than ample bulk. There is much witter extraneous to the plot that could have been eliminated. However, the delightful slightness, especially of the Basque people who helped in hiding Michel, give a sense of reality to the story.

There are, for instance, the "mamank," not pikies, brownies, dinks, or any other of the race of mischievous spirits that plague other nations, but well-mentioned clumsy creatures who weep with fire when their efforts fail.

And the prayer said when the fire is put out at night with the hymn or the cross:

Si viene Dios
Que vea la luz
Si viene el diablo,
Que vea la cruz.
If God comes,
May he see the light
If the devil comes,
May he see the cross (made over it and go away).

The author served as interpreter in Europe with the U.S. Seventh Army, where he acquired the background for many of the short stories. His first novel is "Michel, Michel." This book, huge in both volume and concept is a sad commentary on the world's anomalous differences in attaining a common goal of a nation.

Prohibition Anniversary Stirs Nostalgic Memories

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Memories of Prohibition:

I wasn't even born when the 18th Amendment became effective 50 years ago this week. Yet I have very vivid memories of the Prohibition era that followed.

I remember there was much unrest and discontent in the land accompanied by "angry mutterings." When President Calvin Coolidge was apprised of the situation, he required an end to the cause of the grumblings.

"Sir, the people have no beer," he was told.

"Well, then, let them drink sarsaparilla," Coolidge is reputed to have replied.

"That story may be apocryphal, but it illustrates how far out of touch Coolidge was with the masses, which were known in those days as "the great thirsty majority."

There may indeed have been a rebellion leading to the overthrow of Coolidge except for the interdiction of a benevolent Chicagoan named Al Capone.

Capone sympathized with the people's longing for beer and took steps to provide it, thus preventing the uprising. But these matters are dim in my memory, I being only about 3 years old at the time.

What I recall more palpably was my oldest brother making home brew and storing it in the pantry, insisting to my parents, who were tentatively and a bit naive, that the beverage was root beer.

"You're in the wine or the right one or more bottles of the stuff would explode with a sound boom not unlike a thunderclap. Whereupon my father would spring from the bed and pull down all of the windows in the house."

"I still swear I heard it thunder but there ain't a cloud in the sky," my father would muse, a note of wonder in his voice.

"Put the windows back up, you fool!" my mother would exclaim. "Thunder wouldn't have made that much noise. That must have been a train wreck."

I also remember very clearly what it was like when the Prohibition era ended in 1933. Not long afterwards, there was a slight improvement in the economy and, as folks don't hand in hand.

We may have gone about as far as we can go on booze and it remains to be seen what effect pro smoking will have on the economy. But one thing is definite: If your father smokes marijuana, burning, he won't think it's gonna rain.

ORPHANED PUPPIES consume much of the time of members of the Donnis Leaf family even when they visit out of town. When they arrived in Murtaugh this week to visit Mrs. Con Devaney, Mrs. Leaf's mother, they arrived with four puppies, feeding equipment and a set of books in which they record the day's activities of each little dog. Here Jennifer, Mr. Leaf, Katrina and Mrs. Leaf, from left, pitch in to mother the infant puppies.

Visit From Relatives Includes Four Tiny Puppies, Special Work Schedule

MURTAUGH — When Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Leaf, Idaho Falls, visit relatives in Magic Valley they bring a small cardboard box, four tiny puppies, baby bottles in complete set of books and other sundry paraphernalia.

They have unintentionally become the parents of the four infant puppies and Mrs. Leaf says it's much more of a chore than caring for their two small daughters.

The "party puddles" were orphaned when only a few days old. Their mother ran into the street at night and was hit by a car and killed. With the advice of their veterinarian, the family obtained nursing bottles, formula, an electric heating pad for the babies and a special schedule of feeding and care.

Visiting Mrs. Leaf's mother, Mrs. Con Devaney, Murtaugh, this week, the family complete with the four infant puppies arrived and immediately began their "puppy" schedule.

Because each puppy must eat a certain amount at a certain time, a complete set of books has been worked out by Mr. and Mrs. Leaf to record feeding time, amount and even bathroom habits for each little dog.

Each puppy eats five times per day which makes a total of 20 feedings and leaves little time for much else, says Mrs. Leaf.

At first small pet feeding bottles were used but the puppies were getting very little milk and were too weak to feed. Later, regular small size baby bottles are now used and the pups seem to be thriving as they are fat and happy.

Within a few more days they will have their eyes open and the family is looking forward to the time they will be able to drink their milk from a pan and eat dog food.

Party puddles, Mr. Leaf explains, are not suitable for showing but make excellent family pets. Their markings are a mixture of colors as they are cross bred between black, brown or white solid color puddles. Those in the Leaf family range from a white with large black spots to one that is all black except for the tip of his paws and nose.

Mrs. Leaf says they plan to keep one of the puppies and place the mother and will probably sell the others but their investment in time and effort will probably never be repaid.

SUBSTITUTING FOR MOTHER isn't an easy chore but Katrina Leaf, Idaho Falls, does a bit of baby sitting with infant puppy while visiting grandparents in Murtaugh.

Old Clothing Project Keeps Woman Busy

press garments, she cuts the pattern so the creases will be carried over in the proper place in the legs of the child's trousers.

Old knit shirts are made into new ones for children, utilizing the neck openings and pockets and often the collars, as well as ribbing from the bottom of the sleeves and cuffs, simply by using just a pair of the needle, large-needle and shirt front or back.

Knit dresses make several sweaters for children and many times the collars can be used by cutting them down.

Many of the donated used clothing items are suitable with just a bit of shortening or a new zipper.

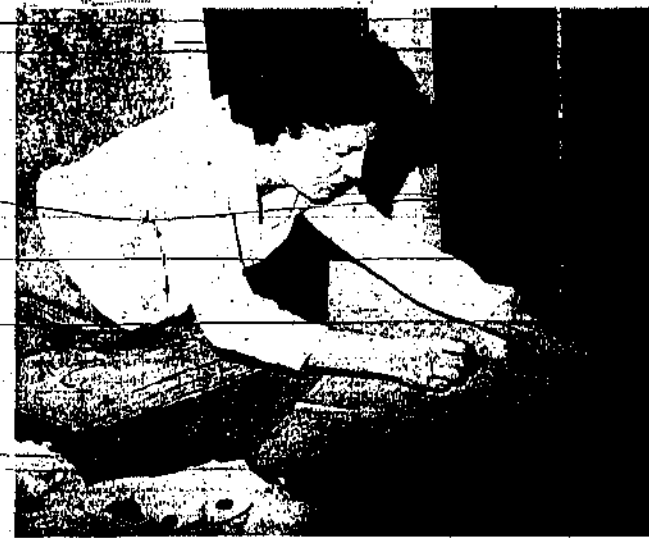

Many others are worn, faded and even extremely dirty.

"When I first started on this project," Mrs. Moore says, "my washer and dryer were running about 10 hours a day to clean the cloths and give me something to start working with."

Now she has a sufficient supply of clean items, the zippers are changed, buttons and tucks removed. One of the most desirable items she has been making is a cape. One pattern which she stretches or reduces to various sizes, depending on how much material she has, makes a lined cape that a child can wear for several years or that can be adapted to first, second or even third graders without worry about short or long sleeves. These are warm and yet very flexible in size, Mrs. Moore says.

In sweaters, coats and jackets, she uses raglan sleeves with a good sized cuff, which also makes the size less of a problem. Many of the old fashioned trousers she can usually make a small pair of trousers for a boy, with a matching jacket. For the Head-Start children, Mrs. Moore says she makes the trousers and undersweaters without front zippers because the children are so young and this saves a lot of sewing time.

Some of her creations with tailored inset pockets or patch pockets look as though they had just been taken from a rack in a clothing store. These pleated skirts provide a wealth of material, she notes. These can be ripped up and reused to hide the faded material and then used for lining capes, making skirts for children or jackets.

PATTERNS ARE USED and reused by Lea Moore and are adjusted to suit the available material. Here a cape is to be lined with material salvaged from an old pleated skirt. Pleats are removed and the faded lines turned inside. Capes, Mrs. Moore says, are good because of their versatility in size and the speed with which they can be made. In the foreground is a little boy's jacket made from an old sweat shirt.

Mrs. Moore says his wife has one room in the basement of their home which nobody ever sees.

It is filled with boxes of old clothing in various stages of repair. Some are children's clothes, some old coats, material scraps, and some are clean while others haven't yet been washed or dry cleaned.

She also has out down four women's sweaters into little girls' and boys' sweaters.

Head Start teachers in grateful for her help in dressing many of their students, presented her a pair of electric scissors just before Christmas.

These, she said, made cutting out pieces much easier as she often spends out several pieces of cloth under a child's dress or pants pattern and cuts them out at the same time.

Even many of the patterns Mrs. Moore uses are those donated to the clothing center, although she makes or buys many of her own.

Now anyone can find enjoyment in "working with old worn and even dirty clothing" is answered by Mrs. Moore when she says she finds it a challenge.

"To me this kind of work is relaxing and I can get lost in trying to salvage an old dress or sweater. When I can turn out a cute little shirt, dress, slip or cape from a worthless old garment I feel I have achieved something, but when I know it will be helping a child by allowing him to attend school or just keeping him warm on a cold day, the feeling of accomplishment is complete.

Wild, Scenic River Plan Now Effective On Middle Fork Of Idaho's Salmon River

The Forest Service "River Plan" for the Middle Fork of the Salmon River in central Idaho, under the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act, has become effective.

This plan is designed to protect the wild, scenic and other values of the Middle Fork, but allows for continuance of many existing uses and facilities.

Under the plan, some 105 miles of the Middle Fork have Wild River status and about 2 miles in the vicinity of Duffer Falls have Scenic River status. The plan took effect Jan. 2, 1970, following the submission to Congress and publication in the "Federal Register." This announcement was made this week by Regional Forester Floyd Iverson, Ogden, Utah.

The Middle Fork of the Salmon River, from its origin to the mouth, was designated as 1 of 8 initial components of the National Wild and Scenic River System. This "instant" designation was made by the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. The Middle Fork is one of America's finest standing, free-flowing streams, and is nationally famous among recreationists and others for its unique wild and scenic environment. It traverses portions of the Ossa, Challis, Payette and Teton National Forests within the Wild River area are a few isolated tracts of State and private land.

Pursuant to the Act, the Forest Service was charged with the responsibility of determining boundaries, classifying the Middle Fork or segments of it as Wild, Scenic, or Recreational, and preparing a "River Plan" for protection, management, and development of the area. This plan was presented to Congress on October 2, 1969. "Some concern has been expressed," Mr. Iverson said, "regarding the legal jurisdiction of the riverbed. The chief matter of concern involves the navigability of the river. It was suggested by some people that the date of the 'River Plan' be deferred, and this proposal was carefully considered by the Forest Service.

"If the Middle Fork is determined to be navigable, control of the riverbed would rest with the State of Idaho," Mr. Iverson explained. "If it is not a navigable stream, control is with the Forest Service, as the Federal agency designated to administer the Middle Fork of the Salmon Wild and Scenic River. A court determination as to navigability may be necessary.

"We can understand the concern over the question of ownership of the riverbed," Mr. Iverson continued. "But the provisions of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act are quite clear. This Act, which became effective October 2, 1968, allowed the Forest Service one year in which to complete the area's classification and prepare the necessary management plan. This time also makes it clear the rights of the State are fully protected. For example, if the courts should determine at a later date the stream is navigable, the rights to the riverbed will belong to the State. In the meantime, the Forest Service classification and management of the river under the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act will not be prejudicial to such rights in any way.

Mr. Iverson pointed out the rights and interest in State and private lands within the Wild and Scenic River area are protected in other ways. The "River Plan" provides the Forest Service will work closely with the concerned State officials and individual landowners to determine how future development and use of State and private lands can be compatible with Wild River values. The "River Plan" makes clear that, under the Act, the present uses and facilities, such as landing strips, access roads, ranches, and commercial resorts will continue, subject to the owners' desires. The "River Plan" also allows the installation of necessary sanitary facilities. However, some potential future uses of private lands—such as additional permanent lodgings—may not be compatible with Wild River management objectives.

Within the boundaries of the Middle Fork Salmon Wild and Scenic River area are some 32,000 acres. The main objectives of the Forest Service in managing this area will be to maintain the natural, free-flowing conditions of the stream, safeguard water quality, and protect scenic, recreational, geologic, fish and wildlife historic archeological and other similar resource values. The "River Plan" assures the present primitive conditions of the shoreline will be maintained and the recreation opportunities provided will be in harmony with the plan.

MIDDLE FORK OF SALMON RIVER in Idaho, one of the country's best known white water areas, is now under jurisdiction of the Wild and Scenic Rivers system and will be protected and preserved for future enjoyment of river-runners and other outdoor sportsmen. Through this method, Forest Service officials say it can best be protected from pollution and encroachment of commercialism.

Nixon's Pledge To Reduce Crime In Nation's Capital Is Proved Wrong As Violence Continues To Skyrocket

By LOUIS CASSELL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the biggest disappointments of President Nixon's first year in office was his inability to curb crime in the nation's capital.

Instead of the reduction in crime which Nixon had pledged in his campaign speeches, the District of Columbia experienced a rise in murders, robberies, rapes and other violent crimes during 1969.

Nixon blamed the Democratic-controlled Congress for what he called "this disgraceful situation." He said that failure to act on anticrime legislation proposed by the administration was "the most serious shortfall" of the 100th session.

D.S.C. chairman of the House District of Columbia Committee, has assured Nixon the crime bills will be brought up for House action early in the 1970 session.

Meanwhile, crime in Washington has reached what Nixon calls "crisis proportions."

In 1968, the District of Columbia had ranked fifth among major American cities in the incidence of serious crimes: armed police patrolmen, in 1969, police figures showed a jump of 40 per cent in schools and junior high, and in many elementary schools.

In addition, the administration has been embarrassed by the rise in crimes against foreign embassy personnel. "I am authorized in December to authorize a 900-man increase in the 350-member White House police force. The extra officers would be assigned to protect foreigners, thereby relieving the hard-pressed metropolitan police force of that extra duty.

Democratic leaders retorted that the administration was too slow docking what measures it wanted. The D. C. anticrime requests included a reorganized court system, more police, writout authority, denial of immediate bail for suspects with previous records and adult trials for juvenile offenders over 18 charged with crimes of violence.

The proposals were sent to Congress in July, half way through the session.

The Senate passed the entire package except for a less restrictive bail provision, but no action has yet been taken in the House. Rep. John J. McMillen

Idahoan Sought In Utah Holdup

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The FBI has identified an Idaho native and a Utah woman as prime suspects in the $5,200 armed robbery of the Industrial Center Branch Bank of the First Security Bank of Utah.

Russell E. Culmsee, special agent in charge of the Salt Lake City FBI office, said authorities have been seeking Melvin Dowain Lloyd, 29, and Judy M. Lloyd, 21. He said they were armed and considered dangerous.

Lloyd, a 6-foot-11-inch, 220-pound man with a mustache, was born in the southwest side of the Salt Lake Valley.

Melvin Lloyd is a native of Newdale, Idaho. FBI records said he lived in southern California for several years in the early 1960s, and has resided in the Salt Lake City area for the past several years.

Former Resident Plays With Recording Group

BURLEY—A former Burley resident is making a name for himself in the field of entertainment.

James Bigelow, 22, Warren, R. I., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bigelow, Burley, Idaho, and four associates have formed the "Dandelion Army," a blues and rock music group and have just completed their first major recording called "Colors of a Nightmare."

Mr. Bigelow attended the Burley schools and resided four years in the U. S. Navy. He handles rhythm guitar with the musical group and, like most others the Dandelion Army began playing locally for their own enjoyment, then special groups and finally came the break, they were looking for when they received an engagement to play in a discotheque in Newport, R. I. This led to more engagements in New York and Boston discotheques.

Presently the group has engagements three nights a week in New York, Boston or Newport.

To give them an opportunity to hear their own "sound," they recorded several numbers at Clinch Recording Co. in November. They made a final at Columbia and the result was their new record "Color of a Nightmare" with "Season of

The "Night" on the second album. The musical group is planning an album for release this year and plans to appear in February on the "Tonight" show with Johnny Carson. In April they will appear in concert, Calif., and next summer have engagements in Brooklyn, N.Y.

One factor, says Mr. Bigelow, in the group's success has been the fact they have no leader and everyone is equal.

Van Anker Slaying Deemed Still Mystery In Siler City

SILER CITY, N.C. (UPI)—The case of a winding Idaho slaying, with details still open but it's "the same mystery," it was "according to Sheriff C.A. Simmons.

"We are still hopeful we can solve this crime," the sheriff said, "however, at the moment, we have no sufficient leads."

No motive for the slaying has ever been established.

R.W. Van Anker, 61, of Caldwell was found shot to death outside his home at a long distance telephone call at 12:45 a.m., and thus it appeared he was killed early in the morning of April 2.

Simmons said it appeared the bullet which killed Van Anker was fired from a .38 caliber pistol. The weapon has never been found.

but wore no shoes. It had been shot in the chest.

Simmons said there were no signs of robbery.

William R. Collier, of Columbia, S.C., a salesman staying at the same motel, found Van Anker's body when he was checking out at 8 a.m. Simmons said Van Anker had placed a long distance telephone call at 12:45 a.m., and thus it appeared he was killed early in the morning of April 2.

Simmons said it appeared the bullet which killed Van Anker was fired from a .38 caliber pistol. The weapon has never been found.

BRIDGE

OLD BRIDGE SAYS, SHOULD FADE AWAY

West had been brought up on all the old clichés that date back to the days of whist. As a boy he had heard his grandfather tell his father, "Never lead away from a king" and "When in doubt, lead trumps." This West had no problem with his opening lead. He couldn't lead from the king of spades; he was in doubt about the efficacy of a minor suit lead and there was that impregnable trump holding staring him in the face.

He placed the queen of trumps on the table. South was grateful for small favors. He won with the ace and knocked out the ace of diamonds with his jack. A second trump was won in dummy and South proceeded to run three diamonds in order to discard two losing spades. West could take his last trump then or after an honor suit lead and there was that impregnable trump holding staring him in the face.

He placed the queen of trumps on the table. South was grateful for small favors. He won with the ace and knocked out the ace of diamonds with his jack. A second trump was won in dummy and South proceeded to run three diamonds in order to discard two losing spades. West could take his last trump then or after an honor suit lead and there was that impregnable trump holding staring him in the face.

We would like to throw out "Never lead away from a king" in its entirety and to change the other expressions, when a king is lead trumps. Thus today's West hand really cried out for a spade lead. North and South had bid all the other suits. West had so much high card strength that he could be sure his partner would hold very little to help him. If that little included either the ace or queen of spades, it was imperative that spades be led immediately. The hand might conceivably cost a trick but this time it would be in two spade tricks before South had a chance to set-up discards and would have beaten the contract.

A—Did six diamonds. Your partner should have a good diamond suit and he able to set up your spades for discards of any side suits except the one club.

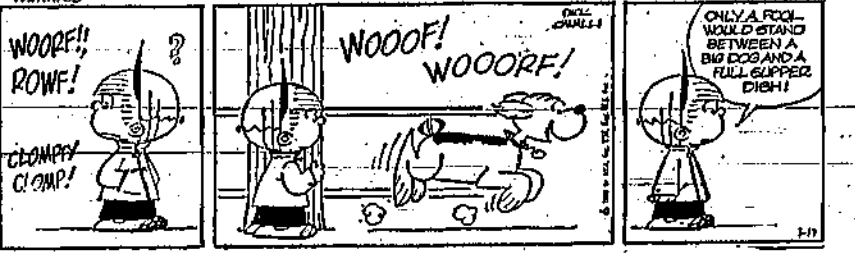

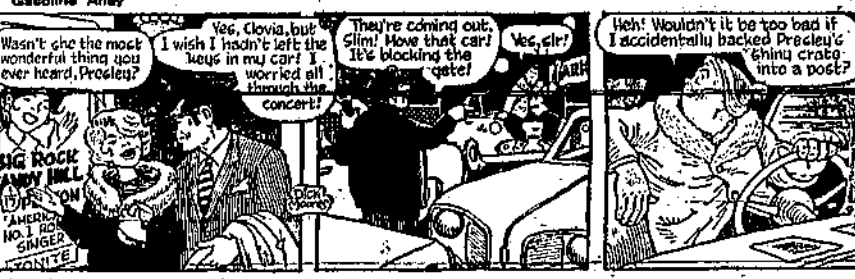

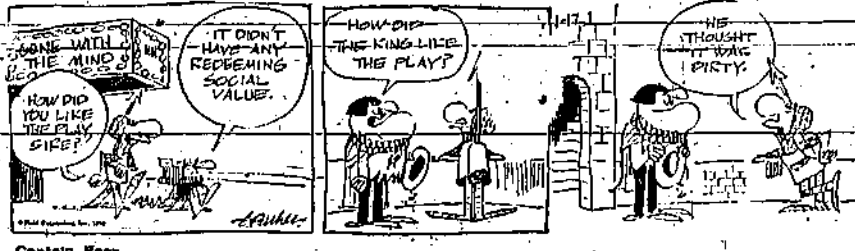

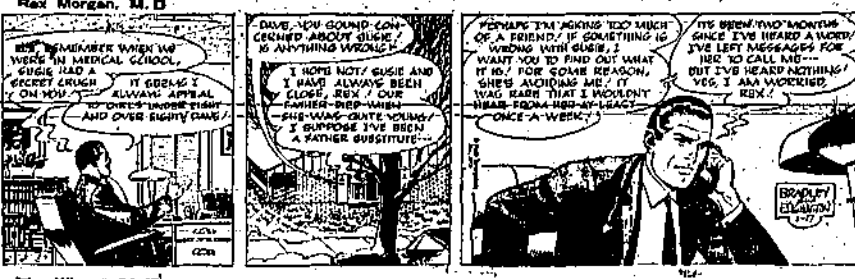

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five clubs, he has bid five diamonds to about one see. What do you do now?

Churchgoers Believed To Have Lower Accident Rates

IDEAL MATE—Young lady, goes, how does Paris compare if you stand 5-foot-8 and weigh 100 pounds? You are the college man's dream girl. Or so say a number of first class hotel rooms the pollsters who asked a sizeable sampling of young men in school to describe in feet and inches the ideal date. Why 5-foot-8? Turns up to 40-60-40 as the golden rule. Not only that, but women are tall, but survey after survey reveals, such to be the case.

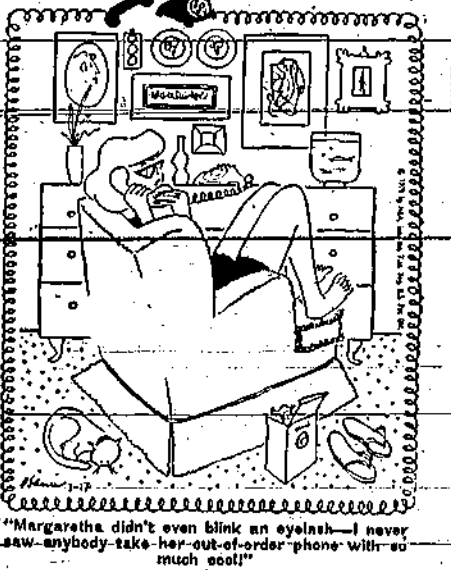

OPEN QUESTION—Do sleep apnea?

THE INSURANCEMEN have been toiling with the notion to offer lower rates to churchgoers inasmuch as they have far fewer traffic accidents. POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—To prevent milk bottles from rattling against each other in the refrigerator, place a wide elastic band around the widest part of each bottle. —DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—Save that leftover piece of chain link fence. It will be great for wrapping around the shrubs to keep them out of the way the next time the house is painted. —JENNA

I NEVER DID LIKE CHAIN LINK FENCES

DEAR POLLY—Instead of making a soap lather when I shave my legs I use a liquid detergent. Just squirt a small amount on the legs, spread it around and then shave. This is so easy. —K. S. G.

DEAR POLLY—When my sister finds her children's belongings scattered around the house she puts them in a special box that is marked "Dog House." The owner of any items must do an extra chore to get an object out of the box. This is an easy way to teach youngsters to put away their possessions. —MELANIE

THERE'S NO ROOM FOR ME

DEAR POLLY—Our brother made a bed to remove scuff marks on the floor every time he walked across it while wearing his new rubber soled shoes. We applied clear nail polish on the corners of the shoes. This worked so well we have no scuff marks on the floor. —GAIL and TERRY

DEAR POLLY—When making seams, darts and so on, I keep a small piece of cloth (3x1 inches) handy. First I sew over the narrow end and then go on with the seam. After sewing the seam slip off the cloth and reuse it again when completing the end of the seam. This keeps the thread from slipping out of the needle when starting and also saves thread that is ordinarily pulled out when stitching is completed. —MARY

DEAR POLLY—I make liners out of old sheets and put them in sleeping bags to keep them clean. Cut the material to fit in the bag and attach with ties. When the liner gets dirty just remove it and put in the washer. You've saved the cost of having the entire bag cleaned. —VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY—Campers will find that a handy container for holding utensils and food is one of those metal cans in which bakeware got shortening. They usually can be bought for a small amount. The lids fit tightly, making them waterproof and ant proof. We find ours large enough to hold frying pans and dishes, yet fit in our car trunk. —ZITTELLA

"PLAYING INDIAN WITH HONEYBEES WAS THE MOST RIDICULOUS THING I EVER DID!" "SHE ONLY WANTED YOU TO LEARN ABOUT INDIANS!"

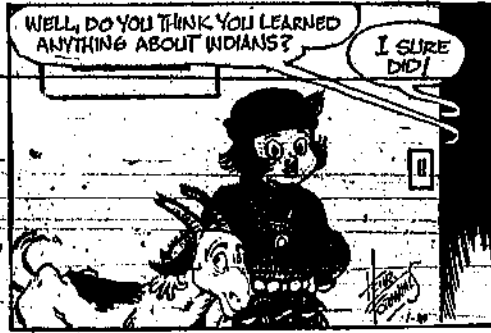

"I HAD A ROCK FOR A PILLOW, AND I THINK MY BED WAS MADE OF PORCUPINE QUILLS!"

"COULD YOU SLEEP?" "NO, IT RAINED, AND THE TEEPEE I LEAKED. THE RAIN PUT OUT THE FIRE, AND IT STARTED TO SMOKE!"

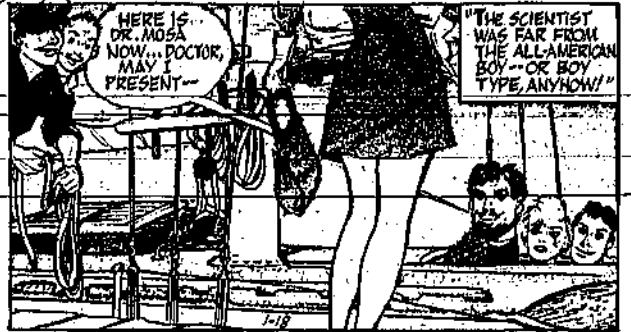

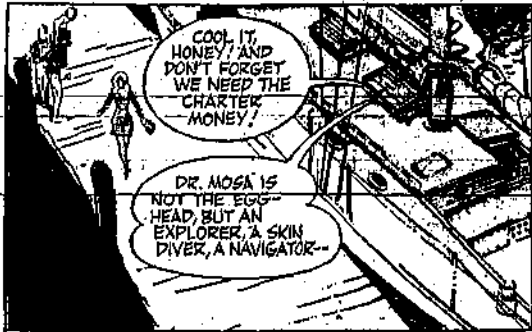

"THEN THIS CONFOUNDED FEATHER STARTED TO DROOP, AND TICKLE MY NOSE ALL NIGHT!"

"WELL, DO YOU THINK YOU LEARNED ANYTHING ABOUT INDIANS?" "I SURE DID!"

"NOW I KNOW WHY THEY WENT ON THE WARPATH!"

What's in a Vane? The use of weather-vanes goes back centuries and has always indicated the way the wind blows—in more ways than one: Many early Americans designed their to depict farm animals—while churches had more ecclesiastical ones—ever pointed toward the Promised Land, Indian-shaped vanes were very popular in Pennsylvania and New York State. In pioneer days, locomotives displayed the Indian figure prominently atop the train when traveling through hostile Indian territory. Some vanes were shot at by hunters or stoned by small Blue soup, blue trout, blue chicken, and blue ice cream." Did the guests feel pinked or, worse, they dismayed? "It was very successful. If I may say, the idea came out of the blue."

Starry-Eyed Students British astrologer Katina Theodosiou, director of research for the Time Pattern Institute, says college students are turning to astrology as part of their "revolt against traditional materialism and an advanced technological society." As an indication, she points to computerized horoscopes, now a hot item in 2,000 college bookstores. "Alienated, spiritually restless young people find a meaningful anchor and guide in astrology," Miss Theodosiou says. It gives youth a security it currently lacks, she adds—and also a chance to thumb noses at the Establishment, which scoffs at horoscopes.

The Most Inspiring

This Pulitzer Prize-winning author describes a 100-year-old minister

ILLUSTRATIONS BY JOSEPH PAPP

HIS HOUSE stands on a high hill north of Sumner, Washington. Far in the southeast, the apex of Mount Rainier clings above clouds in its floating beauty—lilac, marsh-mallow, ice.

The Rev. W. A. Moore, pastor of the Roosevelt Heights Church in Tacoma, has just driven home with his wife from a luncheon with friends. Normally he takes a nap at this hour, but today the quiet glory of roadsides tinted with pale purple of wild sweet peas has engendered an excitement in him.

The world is so filled with charm that he can't bear to lie down. Instead, he goes into his library and sits behind a wide desk rimmed with bookcases. Yes, he'll take that nap later, but right now he shall jot down notes for the sermon next day.

He gazes out of the window at the marvel of Mount Rainier suspended in color and cream, then turns to his work. Picture of a preacher in a rural area adjacent to Tacoma, preparing his sermon for the morrow.

You ask, "Anything unusual about it? Wain't this perhaps happening to thousands of ministers all over the United States?"

No, nothing unusual about it. Except that the Rev. W. A. Moore was 100 years old last July 24.

He is believed to be the oldest minister occupying a regular pulpit in the United States or anywhere else in the world. It is quite possible that he is the oldest representative of any religion, anywhere on the face of the globe, actively exhorting his people in their embracement of a Faith.

When exactly was that year in which Reverend Moore first saw, not the light of Conversion—but the light of day? The Chicago fire had not yet burned. The Custer massacre at the Little Bighorn was years ahead. Ulysses S. Grant had been President only a few months.

Reverend Moore has lived in this nation under 19 different Presidents.

Come to think of it—Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce, and Andrew Johnson were still alive at the time of his birth.

"When I was eight years old," said Reverend Moore, "I became convinced that you could trust God."

He'd been having some very bad dreams, the way small children do. The unmitigated evil which whirled in those nightmares made him fearful of the very act of going to bed, of yielding to sleep.

"I was next to the eldest in a family which in time grew to include eight children. Of course, they hadn't all come yet, since I was only eight myself. But even so small, I worked. All of us worked. It was a very happy family. We had utter trust in our parents," he recalled.

"Just a meager farmhouse on the Iowa prairie, but there was a lot of love exchanged. I think back now, and I cannot recall ever having heard a quarrel in that household. Oh, we kids fussed in normal fashion from time to time, of course, but I mean a real quarrel. Never heard a word of such stuff."

He had been christened William Atwell Moore; thus his boyhood nickname was "Attie." Little Attie considered what "happen" to him if he didn't get any sleep. How would he have strength to do his chores? Chores were a necessary way of life.

"Suddenly it came over me: why not ask God for help? Our mother told us enchanting stories about a Good Man, and the stars—the wondrous works of the heavens—the Father and the Son. Our own father read to us daily from what we called 'the Picture Bible.' It was a huge volume with entrancing illustrations. We'd crowd around his knee to look at those remarkable pictures and have Pa explain them.

"So if I ~~was~~ asked like a logical thing to do, I prayed very hard, as hard as any eight-year-old ever could."

"And don't tell me that God doesn't hear little boys pray! Ninety-two years have gone by since that night, and I've not had a frightful dream in all that time."

When Attie was 11, the Moores moved to another farm near the town of Panora. During high-school years the boy held his first job away from the farm. He served as janitor at the local school and proudly carried home his wage of $10 per month.

At 16 he was baptized into the faith of the Disciples of Christ. "We were called Campbellites, but nowadays it's generally termed the Christian Church.

"As for myself, I am by no means a sectarian. I think that's one of the great mistakes which religionists make: hundreds of different sects, all trying to attain the same goal. What matters it what avenue people are urged to travel? They all want to get to the same place!"

Actually it was a Methodist who gave Will Moore (he was bigger, now, and the name Attie had fallen by the wayside) his motivation toward the ministry. The man's name was G. W. E. Hill; he came from Des Moines with a vigorous reputation as a temperance lecturer. Will's father invited the stranger out to the Moore place to spend the night. It fell to the youth to drive G. W. E. Hill to the railroad station next day in a light farm wagon.

"I had heard his discourse the night before and was deeply affected. As we joggled along toward town, Hill turned to me and asked, 'What is your ambition, my boy? What do you plan to be?'"

"For this first time I held the thought and spoke the words, 'I'm going to be a preacher.'"

He says, "Reverend Hill was silent for a time, although I could feel him looking at me. Finally he leaned over and touched my cheek with his hand. 'God bless you. Now, when you come to Des Moines to the ministerial school at Drake, you shall stay in our home. Won't cost you a cent.'"

"They were bountiful people, those Hills. They took me into their home,

Nightmares made him fear sleep.

Man I Ever Met

who has lived as well as preached the message of God

By MacKINLAY KANTOR

Author of "Andersonville," "Spirit Cakes," "The Voice of Noble Ann," and the recently published "Missouri Bitterroot" knowing that I had no money. I tended furnace, gardened, cut the grass—did everything that I could think of to help out around the house. And make myself worthy unto them."

Not everyone approved so highly of the would-be parson's ambition. Once, during a visit back home, Will Moore was invited to substitute in the local pulpit when the minister was called out of town.

The high-school principal approached, glowing. "Can it be true, what I hear? That you are planning to preach?"

Will, recalling certain boyish drolleries during school years, wriggled uncomfortably but had to admit that that was the plan.

The principal glared. "If I were going around shooting preachers, I wouldn't waste an ounce of powder on the likes of you," he roared and marched away in dudgeon.

After he was ordained, Reverend Moore received a call from the village of Lewis in Cass County. Actually no congregation had yet been organized: it was merely that a number of Campbellites longed to have their own church, if they could secure a capable minister.

It was January, 1893. There wasn't any place for me to preach when I reached Lewis except in the Masonic hall. Well, they invited me to come to them. Get a congregation together and—Heaven willing—build a church.

They said that they could manage to pay me $500 per annum. I almost fainted. I couldn't believe that it was really right in the sight of the Lord to accept such an enormous sum of money for my ministry. But, bless their hearts, they persuaded me to accept, and I stayed four years. Then I went on to Webster City, then to St. Louis. I've served 10 churches in five States, every one a joy."

Nowadays, people address him as "Reverend Bill," and he likes that. Having attained contentment status he is by no means a quaking reeve. He's still all man, even though he must use a cane to assist in walking. His face is stout and full; it lies in solid planes; hairline has receded a bit, as compared with pictures taken 25 years ago. But the mop of iron-gray hair would be envied by many persons—or parsons—two-half or one-third his venerable age.

He used to worry about the Roosevelt Heights congregation. Were they just keeping him on to be nice to a patriarch? Again and again he offered to resign his pastorate. Surely they must need a younger man!

Finally in solemn conclave a mandatory retirement date was set: the year 1991. By then, W.A. Moore will be 122 and will have rounded out a full century as a minister!

In 1895 he wedded his first wife, Kitty Nance. They had hoped to equal the jollity of that household in which Will grew up, with an abounding brood of their own.

But their only child was a baby boy who died at birth. Kitty died in the summer of 1936, and the minister was alone for five years until Eva Heslop came into his life. She is a former secretary—a sturdy woman with high-piled hair, dedicated in great eagerness to sustaining her husband.

"I've had the best there is," He beams. "Not perfect preachers' wives—but perfect wives for a humble preacher."

On Sunday morning the Moores drive over from Sumner to Roosevelt Heights, a distance of 15 miles. The Heights is a hilly area on the southeast side of Tacoma. The region is dotted with homes of rolled persons, with some younger families.

Reverend Bill prefers to arrive by 10 a.m. There isn't any Sunday school, but it pleases him to be available to youths of the community whenever they drop in for advice.

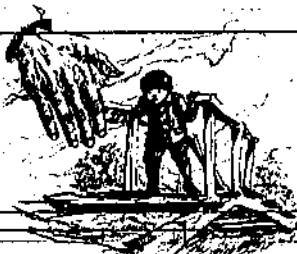

The ministers' building has dignity and a gray-green innocence of its own. Groaning of harbor whistles and mutter from the Tacoma Freeway reach it but faintly. The interior is plain, decorated in tan and white. There are eight rows of pews which will accommodate nine people on each side of the center aisle. The national colors and the Christian banner stand on opposite sides of the platform, and a choir loft is filled with singers.

Promptly at 10:45 W. A. Moore comes through a door leading from the vestry room and takes his place behind the pulpit. He announces the first hymn, to be followed by a responsive reading; another hymn and then the first prayer.

Many years ago, Reverend Moore may recall, he and a friend, one G. D. Edwards, were taking a walk on the Edwards farm, and the host's only son, a boy named Corwin, accompanied them. They followed a winding path across fields and came to a wooden bridge.

This bridge had fallen apart in places. They reached the first gap where one wide plank was missing. Edwards signaled to Reverend Moore not to assist the child. He wanted to see just what his son would do.

The child reached for a helping hand.

Corwin observed first his father, then Reverend Moore, as they stopped carefully over the gap. The little boy took a deep breath, nerved himself for the effort, and leaped across.

They came to a larger branch, wider and more frightening than the other had been. Nevertheless the two men crossed with comparative ease. What about Corwin?

The child examined the situation. He did not whine or cry, he merely reached out his little hand with confidence. "Pa," he said, "you'll have to help me this time."

Reverend Bill tells his listeners, "I like that story, and that's just the way it happened. The lesson to me is this: some difficult places in life you can get over easily, alone. But there are other places where you've got to have help.

"How wonderful it is to have a Father we can trust, when we reach one of those situations! Let us never forget: put up your hand, as high as you can, and that Big Hand will come down to help you."

The Moores go often to their shack in the Crooked Creek region, half-an-hour's drive from home. The homestead comprises only seven acres, but there are 70 up there in the forest. They find excitement in everything from a fresh-grown vine to the enormous mossy stumps of ancient fir trees, which were logged off long ago and are now replaced by thick grove.

"Reverend Bill and Eva are planning a porch at the rear of their little cabin. "Just the place," he says pleasantly, "for me to sit and play chess with friends."

As with the best of the old hymns, his is a philosophy which never negates or mourns Religion to Reverend Bill is an optimist, a hearty rapture.

This belief is reflected in the unusual birthday cards he sends out daily. They begin as ordinary printed cards one buys at the post office, but when they are carried into the Moore home, they blossom and brighten under the hands of W.A. and Eva, they are transformed.

"Happy Birthdays," you read at the top. Then, "My hobby: A Birthday Friend for Each Day of the Year. How good to live, love, laugh, and lift! Congratulations!" reads the message, and usually a personal note is written beneath. There is recourse to crayons . . . the little message fairly tangles with its coloring and underlining. In the four corners are noted favorite Scriptural texts . . . the birthday boy or girl, man or woman, who receives such a card may have the pleasure of looking up the text.

Whatever manner or service this minister performs, it is not lip service. On Sunday afternoons there is no going-home-for-a-nap. Instead, he travels among the nursing homes of Tacoma and its suburbs, calling on bedridden inmates.

At the age of 100 years? "Oh, you know. So many of those poor, sickly old folks haven't got anybody to come and see them. So I like to go around, and cheer them up."

I said to Reverend Bill, "Please tell me. My mother has been dead for 38 years. But—tell me. What was she like as a girl, when you united her in marriage with my father—back in Iowa, in 1893?"

His face lighted up. "How well I remember Emel! She was beautiful. You were so fortunate, to have had such a mother!" Ah, yes. e

Winter— A Great Time for Hunters!

SOME OF THE best hunting occurs across America—after most hunters have put their guns away for the season.

The winter weather must be to blame—certainly there's no lack of opportunity! In a number of northern states from New England across country to Puget Sound the season on cottontail rabbits and snowshoe hares remains open. These animals are great to hunt—and great on the table any time. But the hunting is never better than when snow covers the ground and with a beagle to chase the bunnies across the white landscape.

The ruffed grouse, a native of much of North America, is one of the greatest game birds on earth, and in recent years the species has been abundant.

As a result, open seasons have been extended, and in many places the bird can be hunted through most of the winter. Ohio's season, for example, runs until the end of February. Grouse hunting is also better with snow on the ground and with all foliage of the trees because then it is easier to find and see the wily birds.

All over America coon hunting is traditionally an after-dark sport, best on mild autumn nights. But sportsmen along the Atlantic seaboard from the Carolinas southward, and all along the Gulf Coast, hunt the tidal flats in daylight.

If any wintertime hunting can be classed as the most exciting of all, it would have to be for red foxes. This is a game in which the hunted most often is the winner. That's true even if there is snow on the ground, which helps the hunter.

Foxes are hunted in three ways. First is with hounds which trail the quarry, hopefully past hunters waiting on stand. Any fox is so cunning and long-winded that a single chase may last all day, and the hunters have little more than brief glimpses of the animal vanishing in the distance. A second method is to tempt the fox into shooting range with a call which imitates the squeal of a rabbit in distress. At times this works very well, especially in the western half of the United States. The most challenging way to hunt foxes is to wait for a fresh snow and then track the animal on foot. This isn't a method recommended for all outdoorsmen. But it could be a stimulating sport for a very rugged and determined hunter.

Mountains lion hunting in the Rockies from Arizona to Montana is at its best in winter, and this also can be a challenging way to spend a holiday, usually in a saddle following hounds over formidable landscapes. However lions are becoming rare, and it is the true sportsman who only shoots lions of his trophy.

More than 2,000 commercial shooting preserves scattered all over the country have special facilities for sportsmen throughout the winter. Shooting on southern preserves is mostly for bobwhite quail. In the north, ringneck pheasants are the main attraction. Many preserves also offer shooting for mallard ducks. Most provide guides, trained dogs, a clubhouse, and facilities for dressing and processing game. Fees range from $25 to $75 per day of guaranteed gunning.

(A directory of all these bird-shooting preserves can be obtained free from Shooting Sports Foundation—1075 Post Road, Riverside, Conn. 06878.)

The newest thing in shooting preserves is the opportunity to hunt exotic big game. A number of places in the Southeast and East—from Vermont to Alabama—offer wild-bear hunting.

Best known of the big-game preserves, however, is in the Southwest—the YO Ranch at Mountain Home, Texas. Here it is possible to hunt European fallow deer, sika and axis deer from Asia, blackbucks from India, Corsican rams and saandals or Barbary sheep from Africa. Shooting is possible the year around and is best in midwinter.

But no matter whether the target is a native bunny or a blackbuck, winter is a good time for the sportsman. Just dress a little warmer, and you may enjoy the best shooting of the year.

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk on your part.

By E. A. Carey

My new pipe is not a new model, not a new style, not a new gadget, not an improvement on old style pipes. It is the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadorned pleasure to pipe smokers.

I've been pipe smoker for 20 years, always looking for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite, or sludge.

With considerable doubt, I decided to work out something for myself. After months of experimenting and scores of disappointments, suddenly, almost by accident, I discovered how to harness four great natural laws to give me everything I wanted in a pipe. It didn't require any "breaking in." From the first puff it smoked cool—it smoked mild. It smoked right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be "ratted." AND it never has to be cleaned! Yet it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because my invention dissipates the goo as it forms!

You might expect all this to require a complicated mechanical gadget, but when you see it, the most surprising thing will be that I've done all this in a pipe that looks like any of the finest conventional pipes. The claim I could make for this principle in tobacco enjoyment are so spectacular that no pipe smoker would believe them. So, since "seeing is believing," I also say "smoking is convincing" and I want to send you one Carey Pipe to smoke 30 days at my risk. At the end of that time, if you are willing to give up your Carey Pipe, simply break it to bits—and return it to me—the trial has cost you nothing.

Please send me your name today. The coupon or a postal card will do. I'll send you absolutely free my complete trial offer so you can decide for yourself whether or not my pipe-smoking friends are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented. Send your name and mailing address to me today. As one pipe smoker to another, I'll guarantee you the surprise of your life. Free. Write:

E. A. CAREY, 1820 Simeydale Ave., Dept. 285-A Chicago, Ill. 60648

Please mail facts about the Carey Pipe postage prepaid. After reading I will decide if I want to try it for 30 Days at YOUR RISK. Every penny you send is free. No salesman is to call.

Dream Rooms

By ROSALYN ABBEVAYA

WHAT IS THE STUFF of which dreams are made? In-home decorating it could be a room to express your dearest wish.

Do you opt for stark modern, a mix of furniture styles and fabrics, or pure French? You're in luck: Good modern is available in greater variety, while easy-care fibers let you have that white rug and chocolate-vinyl walls you may be longing for. Want a pattern mix? Easy. Decorators, two of whose own living rooms you see here, reveal that the trick is to keep pattern scale and color compatible. Don't necessarily mix two florals, for example, but balance one with a check or plaid. Bent on nothing but French? That style is undergoing one of its periodic revivals. Still, a modest budget decrees that finely styled French furniture may have to be acquired a piece or two at a time.

So spin your dream but stick to it! ♦

A mélange of small-scale prints, in compatible colors, helps achieve an air of spaciousness in the charming narrow sitting room of interior designer John Hayden. He utilizes a room-widening trick with a wall-to-wall bookcase which is filled with a striking laminated fabric shade, hung reverse roll, inside its window frame. Below: the mannered elegance of fine French furniture by Globe is dramatized in this very pastel room in Louis-XV style, with a touch of early Regency in the desk chair.

Ready-to-Eat Cereals

in Everyday Dishes

Ready-to-eat bran cereal and whole kernel corn add flavor and texture enhancement to these attractive sausage squares.

MELANIE DE PROFT
Food Editor

■ The crisp texture, characteristic flavor, and nutritive value of each of the many ready-to-eat cereals available makes them a perfect foil for other foods. Here are just a few examples of their wonderful versatility in family meal preparation.

Chill about 2 hrs. Decorate with whipped dessert topping. One 9-in. pie

Note: If desired, cover the pie filling with a crunchy topping; a mixture of crushed Rice Krispies, flaked coconut, sugar, and ground cinnamon tossed lightly with melted butter or margarine.

Chocolate Cereal Crust

Melt 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine over hot, not boiling, water. Mix in 2 cups pre-sweetened corn flakes. Press into a buttered 9-in. pie pan. Cool until firm. Fill as desired. One 9-in. crust

Puffed Rice-Nut Clusters

1 cup lightly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon light molasses
1/2 cup light cream
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 cups puffed rice
1 cup salted water (Spanish peanuts, pecans, or mixed nuts)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract or imitation maple flavoring
1 cup miniature marshmallows

1. Combine the first 6 ingredients in a deep, heavy saucepan. Stir to blend thoroughly. Place over medium heat; cook to simmering and insert candy thermometer. Continue cooking until the thermometer registers 220° F., stirring several times to prevent scorching.

2. Meanwhile, spread rice cereal and nuts in a shallow pan and set in a 300° F. oven about 15 min. Just before syrup is ready, transfer the cereal and nuts to a large lightly buttered bowl; toss to mix well.

3. When syrup is ready, remove from heat and quickly stir in flavoring and marshmallows; stir only until blended. Quickly pour over warm cereal mixture and toss gently to coat evenly.

4. Grease hands lightly and form mixture into small clusters; place on waxed paper to cool. Store in tightly covered container in a cool place. About 30 clusters

Supper Sausage Squares

1 1/2 lbs. small pork sausage links (about 24)
1 1/2 cups all-fort-purpose flour
1 1/2-2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained; reserve liquid
1/2 cup whole bran cereal or bran buds
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
3 eggs

1. Put sausage links into a large, cold skillet. Add a small amount of water; cover and cook over low heat 5 min. Remove cover and pour off fat. Continue cooking, turning to brown on all sides. Drain on paper toweling. Reserve 1/4 cup drippings.

2. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt together; set aside.

3. Add enough milk to reserved corn liquid to measure 1 1/2 cups. Combine with drippings, whole bran cereal, onion, corn, and eggs; beat well. Add dry ingredients and beat until batter is smooth.

4. Turn batter into a greased 15x10x1-in. jolly-roll pan. Arrange sausage links in batter in a uniform pattern.

5. Bake at 450° F. about 20 min. or until golden brown. Cut into squares and serve warm with maple-blended syrup. 2 servings

Peanut Butter-Cereal Crust Pie

1/2 cup peanut butter
1/2 cup corn syrup
2 cups rice Krispies

Your favorite ready-to-serve canned or refrigerated pudding

1. Blend peanut butter and corn syrup in a bowl. Add the cereal and mix until well coated. Turn mixture into a buttered 9-in. pie pan and press firmly and evenly on bottom and sides. Chill until firm.

2. Fill chilled pie shell with pudding.

The Drug That Saved Me from

A sufferer of "incurable" Parkinson's disease tells restored him

By WILLIAM B. JANOVER

FOR TEN YEARS I suffered from "shaking palsy," the crippling Parkinson's disease that afflicts over a million Americans. Today, thanks to a remarkable experimental drug, I feel as if I'm reborn, rescued from a wheel chair

OR WORSE. This new drug, called levodopa (or L-dopa), has been hailed as "one of the most important contributions to medical therapy of a neurologic disease in the past 50 years." I am lucky to be one of those who has benefited dramatically from it.

I first noticed the symptoms one evening at home while reading a book. Suddenly my face flushed and my heart raced wildly. I was afraid it was a heart attack. After our family doctor gave me a shot of morphine, I fell better. But there was a tremor on my right side, and my hands and legs trembled. For a week I stayed home from my job as a guidance counselor at Northport (N.Y.) High School.

As the tremors continued, I saw a neurologist, a nerve specialist. His diagnosis: Parkinson's disease. As he explained it, the disease usually gets progressively worse; until most victims are badly disabled or paralyzed. At that time, 10 years ago, there was no effective treatment.

I did not fall into a depression. My philosophy was not to broom the fact that I'd been stricken. I was determined to be realistic and fight back in every conceivable way. I don't believe in escapism or sitting at home brooding. I continued to work. The future (I'm only 44 now) did not look black to me, though I was well aware it would change. If I had surrendered to the awful disease, I would probably have become virtually helpless.

My wife Mildred, who later had to drive me to work, was always cheerful in front of me. In private, I know that she had moments when she broke up.

Some five years ago, I heard about Dr. Irving S. Cooper, of New York's St. Barnabas Hospital, who had perfected new surgical techniques for Parkinson's by using a freezing probe. His method destroys certain areas in the brain center involved in the disease. Only about one out of 10 are good candidates for this surgery.

The operation was performed on me. The shaking on my right side did stop. But in the months that followed my left side began to shake.

Year after year, I gradually went downhill. The signs were typical of the disease. I was shuffling along, dragging my feet. My facial muscles tightened, causing my face to appear somewhat like a mask. With my throat muscles constricted, it was difficult to swallow, and sometimes I choked on my food. My voice softened, so that speaking to someone across a room became a real effort. I had great difficulty even in cutting my food. It was impossible to turn over in bed.

Doctor Cooper's staff was willing to do a second operation, but there loomed the possibility of serious side effects, so I decided to wait.

Meanwhile, I no longer mowed our lawn or went bowling and gave up driving our car. At work, preparing reports, my speech was slurred when I used a tape recorder and writing came very slowly and illegibly.

Then, two years ago, I read that Dr. George C. Cotzias and associates at Brookhaven National Laboratory in Upton, N.Y., had developed a research drug that might decrease tremors and rigidity. It

Shaking Palsy

Model of L-dopa molecule

How levodopa
gives a normal, productive life was L-dopa, a potent amino acid. Many symptoms of Parkinson's are caused by lack of a body chemical called dopamine, which is necessary for transmitting impulses to and from the brain. Levodopa crosses the blood-brain barrier and is converted to the needed dopamine.

Through Doctor Cotzias' secretary, I was told that Cornell University-New York Hospital was trying out the drug on selected patients. On an unforgettable day in September, 1968, I was granted an appointment. That day I could hardly propa mild twitching, and there may be involuntary movements of my neck or foot. Once, sitting in my office with students, my arm suddenly shot up. I pulled it down but it shot up again. I had to lock my hands behind my head. But when the levodopa dosage was adjusted, such symptoms faded away. I understand that on the drug is purified more, there will be fewer side effects.

The other day Doctor MacDowell said I didn't have to see him for 14 weeks. That must mean I'm getting along fine. Now I can even play volleyball. I go swimming (my favorite sport) for no less an hour at a time.

Recently, when relatives came visiting, my aunt stared at me as I strode over to meet her. "I can't believe it," she burst out. "What a difference!"

As for other patients on levodopa, medical reports show that improvement is evidenced in three out of four cases. Results vary from "modest" to "moderate," "marked" and "impressive."

I guess mine is impressive. Maybe it's because I was treated before the condition became far more devastating. Still, according to the latest study at Cornell University Medical College, patients with all degrees of severity tend to improve.

As I write this, the drug is still officially regarded as "experimental." It's now being tested at 24 medical centers across the nation and is not generally available. Perhaps the Food and Drug Administration will approve it for prescription within the year.

My immediate prognosis, I'm told, is excellent. Doctor MacDowell says I'm "pretty close to normal." That is, at times if I were examined by a neurologist who didn't know my case, he couldn't tell I had Parkinson's. Five or 10 years from now? No one knows. It's still too early to predict; thus far, only a few patients have been on the drug for as long as three years.

I'm happy living for now. To Doctors MacDowell, Cotzias, and all the other medical investigators striving to rescue the million of us from the ravages and anguish of "shaking palsy," I can only say, I'm profoundly grateful—and bless you.

For further information or to help the levodopa program, write to American Parkinson's Disease Assn., 117 East 50th St., New York, N.Y. 10022; or Parkinson's Disease Foundation, 640 West 164th St., New York, N.Y. 10032.

William H. Janover: L-dopa gave him a new life myself and figured that in a month, I'd be in a wheel chair.

At the hospital I was impressed by the very personal way in which patients were handled: doctors themselves came out to the waiting room to greet us by name. Dr. Fischer H. MacDowell, my physician, has that calm warmth and empathy which is so comforting.

After the most comprehensive examination I ever had, and some nine hours of tests, I was considered qualified for the levodopa program. Of course, I was elated. My wife and two-year-old daughter Helen, who had reached the point where they didn't dare to hope, at first felt wary of any new pills. I was the one who exuded great optimism.

I'd been cautioned about the drug's possible side effects: nausea, sweating, stomach upsets and, in some instances, hallucinations. But during my first week on the pills, I wasn't even nauseated.

As the dosage increased, miraculously my face muscles began to loosen up. My shuffle changed to a limp, and then, gradually, my stride lengthened. Stretching muscles in physiotherapy suddenly seemed easier. I could take deeper breaths.

Now, after more than a year on levodopa, remaining symptoms are few and only occasional. Now and then, my left leg gives me a little trouble. Sometimes I experience

Heartburn's finished, by gum!

And the gum is Chooz antacid. Fast relief for heartburn, gas, and upset stomach due to acid indigestion. Bonus: after the medication has done its job, you're still munching a delicious chewing gum. Yum. Chooz. The only chewing gum antacid.

Parting of the Waves

Among the pleasures that women treasure,
To which their hearts respond,
How few the delights that can compare
To spotting the dark at the roots of the hair
Of a honey blonde!

—Georgia Starbuck Galbraith

QUIPS AND QUOTES

Generation Gap?

You think my generation, child,
Were lulas on our hair?
Were free of instincts
daff and wild?

In short, were square?
My generation wasn't meek—
Heavens to Betsy, no!
Whenever we danced check to check

We did it head to toe.

—Clarie Bior

The movie producer was determined to produce the greatest screen epic ever presented to movie audiences.

For the book, he chose the New Testament. For the cast, every notable actor in the Western world. He spared no expense—and the movie gave every indication of being truly supercolossal.

The director then described to the producer one of the final scenes—the Last Supper. "It will be beautiful," he said. "Jesus surrounded by the 12 Apostles."

The producer blanched. "You're fired! I hired you to make the greatest picture in the world. And what do you do? Use only 12 Apostles in the biggest scene!"

—James Shurtuck

A meat-market owner tells about a society matron who swoop up to the counter and ordered 18 pounds of ground sirloin. His labors completed and the meat piled on the scale, the butcher told her that the tab was $14.40.

"Oh, I don't want to buy it," she said. "I lost 18 pounds in the last 10 weeks, and I wanted to see what it looks like in one lump."

—William Lodge

A kid down the street is so hip he dropped out of school rather than study the square root.

—Bill Copeland

"What are you going to tell your parents about your grades?" one little boy asked another as they wended their way home, each with a report card tucked between his books.

"I'll just say the teacher has a grudge against me," said the second lad. "It always works."

The first boy sighed. "I'm afraid that won't work in my case. My parents will never believe my inferior teachers have the same grudge."

—Lane Olinghouse

Nothing makes your wedding presents so useful as having friends who get married.

—Franklin P. Jones

A tough lieutenant was inspecting his men, who were to go on dress parade, looking for the slightest flaw. He came to one GI whose tie was askew.

Leaning over, so that their faces were very close, he bellowed, "Straighten that tie!"

Obligingly, the new recruit reached out and straightened the lieutenant's tie.

My Wife's Checking Account

What does she advise me?
She thinks it's always much more fun

COLOR TV

Before: Tired, old-looking, wrinkled

After: Younger, fresher, more alive

If COUVERT can hide every line and wrinkle of this 46-year-old Indian grandmother... imagine what it can do for you!

Before

After

Invented to fool the super-critical eye of color TV, a totally new kind of make-up... almost invisible, easy as lipstick to apply, more effective in keeping aging stars young looking than the efforts of the best make-up artists in Hollywood.

Forget everything you've ever heard about make-up. Suddenly there's a totally new kind of make-up. A make-up as new as color TV... and just as exciting. A make-up from the world of make-believe in Television City, Hollywood, that can make every woman's dream come true, banish lines and wrinkles from sight, dark circles, any and every flaw.

A make-up so feathery-light in tone and texture, so perfectly matched to your own complexion, that nobody will ever know you're using it. A make-up designed to be used under blinding color TV lights, so it stays beautiful hour after hour, for as long as 16 hours.

Cameras don't lie... but the eye can be fooled.

Better than words express, you can see for yourself in the dramatic unretouched photos what this wonderful new make-up can do. Those aren't just lines and wrinkles, they're furrows deeply etched by years of outdoor living. Now look at the after picture. It proves beyond a shadow of doubt that cameras don't lie, but the eye can be fooled. And now you, too, can create this remarkable illusion... as simply as you put on lipstick.

Two Simple Steps, Three Little Minutes

Couvert comes to you in two small tubes. Each performs its own share of the magic. Together they take no more than three minutes to apply... together they take 3, 10, even 20 years off your appearance.

Couvert No. 1. A feather-light, skin-tone liquid make-up base that comes in 4 shades, one to exactly match your complexion...

Couvert No. 2. There is nothing else like this. It doesn't mask, coat or cover up. It hides! That's right, like a magic cloak, it makes every single flaw—invisible to the eye. Lines, wrinkles, circles, enlarged pores, crow's feet.

There is, of course, a sound scientific reason why this miracle takes place. It's called light refraction. Nobody knows you have lines or wrinkles because nobody can see them, that all the explaining in the world won't mean as much to you as the results you see with your own eyes. Therefore, you must see the results spelled out below, or we will return your money with no questions asked.

Three-Way Money Back Guarantee

First, wrinkles, mouth lines, crow's feet, complexion flaws must disappear from sight completely...

Second, you must see an immediate glow, a smooth flawless skin, an alluring young radiance that you didn't dare dream you'd ever see again...

Third, this magical illustration must last all day, all night—even under the harshest lights—for as long as 16 hours at a time... or Elan Corp. International will return your money—no questions asked.

Inexpensive Because The Man Who Invented Couvert Wanted It That Way

The man who invented Couvert is a famous make-up artist. He is also a rich man. Up until now he's only been able to help the wealthy or the already beautiful. That's why he wanted his discovery to help as many women as possible. The way he put it was, "I'd like to get rid of every ugly line and wrinkle in the whole world."

That's why we got the exclusive rights to Couvert. Instead of the $10, $15, even $50 other people were suggesting as the selling price, we recommended selling Couvert for only $3.00. (With the unconditional money back guarantee.) We figured that at this price every woman could afford to try it... and go on using it year after year.

So, behold an amazing transformation in just three minutes. See your face unlined, unlined, visibly smoother, younger-looking than it has been in years—just like the stars you see on colored TV who look so young though you know they're over 33. Return the coupon below right now.

... but just look at her now!

When Su May first came to our Home in Hong Kong, the other children called her "Giel-who-will-not-laugh."

And there was a reason for her sadness. Her parents were dead, her relatives didn't want her. It seemed that no one in the world loved her.

So why the big smile now? Well, Su May has discovered that someone does love her! She lives in a pretty cottage along with her new "brothers and sisters"—and has loving care from a house-mother, especially trained for the difficult task of being a mother to youngsters like Su May.

And just look at her now. She doesn't have a worry in the world—but we do. Because, you see, we must find a sponsor for Su May. A sponsor who will help provide food, clothing, education—love.

And Su May is only one heartbreaking case out of thousands... boys and girls who are neglected, unwanted, starving, unloved. Our workers overseas have a staggering number of children desperately waiting for help—over 15,000 youngsters, that will just have to survive the best they can until we find sponsors for them.

How about you? Will you sponsor a child like Su May? The cost is only $12 a month.

Please fill out the sponsor application below—you can indicate your preference, or let us assign you a child from our emergency list.

Then, in about two weeks, you will receive a photograph of your child, and a personal history. Your child will write to you, and a housemother will send you the original and an English translation, direct from overseas.

Won't you share your blessings—and your love—with a needy child?

Countries of greatest need this month: India, Hong Kong, Taiwan (Formosa), Brazil, Thailand and Philippines.
