Inventor Of Brassiere Dies At 77

ROME (UPI) — Mary "Carrose" Crosby, who published the early works of Hemingway and Joyce and invented the brassiere but sold its patent for $50 to buy a painting, died of double pneumonia, her friends announced Saturday. She was 77.

The friends said she had entered a Rome clinic with double pneumonia on Tuesday and died Saturday. A memorial service was planned for Monday at the home of photographer Robert Beny, a protégé.

Mrs. Crosby was active and in good health last Monday when she attended a fashion show and ordered a dress to wear to a meeting with Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus to discuss her plans for a world peace center on that Mediterranean island.

Mrs. Crosby literally freed women to take a more active part in the world when she invented the brassiere.

Born Mary Phelps Jacob of New York, her first husband was Richard Rodgers Peabody of Boston, a daughter, by that marriage, Pauline Drysdale of Ifiza, Spain, survives.

She and her second husband, poet Harry Crosby, founded the Black Sun Press in Paris in the '20s and she published the early works of such writers and poets as Ernest Hemingway, D.H. Lawrence, James Joyce, Archibald MacLeish and Ezra Pound.

Man Hospitalized

When they got out on the Pleasant Street road, the young man grabbed Davidson from behind after he stopped the cab.

Davidson managed to wriggle loose and get out of the cab. The young man followed him, he said, and hit him, took his money and left him beside the road — "driving off" in the Checker cab.

Davidson said his assailant was between the ages of 22 and 25, about five feet, 10 inches tall and weighed about 105 pounds. He said the young man appeared to be of Spanish or Mexican descent, had a dark complexion and medium-length dark hair which he combed straight back.

The cab driver was taken to St. Alphonsus hospital for treatment of head and facial injuries.

Davidson said his assailant was between the ages of 22 and 25, about five feet, 10 inches tall and weighed about 105 pounds. He said the young man appeared to be of Spanish or Mexican descent, had a dark complexion and medium-length dark hair which he combed straight back.

The cab driver was taken to St. Alphonsus hospital for treatment of head and facial injuries.

SEVERAL ART MEDIA will be explored by young dabblers enrolling in two 10-week art classes for young children. Here Michael Green, College of Southern Idaho art instructor, shows his young son, Curtis, block printing, one of the art forms which will be taught. Classes start Saturday at the art cottage at Falls Avenue and Washington Street North. The 10, 11 and 12 year olds will meet from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and the 7, 8 and 9 year olds will meet from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Anyone interested should call the College of Southern Idaho, 735-9354 before the first class meeting. Cost of the class is $15 per child, which includes cost of all materials to be used.

Navy Lieutenant Lives In North Vietnamese Prison More Than Five Years As Endless Conflict Drags On

By WARREN L. NELSON — WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sunday was the 2,000th day Navy Lt. Everett Alvarez Jr. has spent in captivity in North Vietnam. In all American history no man has ever been held a prisoner of war so long.

On Aug. 5, 1964, Alvarez was among the first pilots attacking North Vietnam in retaliation for reported torpedo boat attacks on American ships in the Gulf of Tonkin. He never made it back to his ship.

Alvarez had been married only two months when he was captured.

His wife, Tangee, 29, lives — and waits — in an apartment in Lafayette, Calif. "Five years," she said recently, gazing solemnly at a photograph of a young naval officer receiving his wings. "Five years — how much can a man take?"

Shortly after their marriage, Alvarez, now 32, was assigned to the aircraft carrier Constellation.

"I never crossed my mind that something like this could happen," Tangee said. "If only I had thought of it before — maybe we could have said something to each other, talked it over before in case something happened."

"But it never entered my mind — and I don't think it did his either."

Alvarez is one of 430 men identified by the Defense Department as prisoners in South-

Passage Predicted For Bill Lessening Penalties For Using And Selling Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate bill that offers no cure for America's "freaked out drug culture," Senate leaders predicted passage today or Tuesday of a bill lessening penalties for using or selling marijuana, heroin and other drugs.

The bill would eliminate mandatory jail sentences for all drug offenders except pushers found by a court to be "professional criminals." They would face mandatory five-year prison terms for the first conviction and 10 years for the second.

The Nixon administration supports the measure. Democratic and Republican leaders predicted an overwhelming passage of its main features, including the lessened penalties. House consideration would follow.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., urged approval today of an amendment which would eliminate a provision designed to facilitate arrest of narcotics wholesalers and pushers.

The controversial proposal would give law enforcement officers "no knock" authority to suddenly enter an apartment or business, provided they had a search warrant.

It was written at least partly in response to narcotics agents' complaints that criminals frequently flush their narcotics down the toilet when an agent knocks first.

"This section would allow law enforcement agents to consult burglars and enter houses either by stealth or by force," Ervin complained. He said it violated a citizen's right to privacy in his own home.

Can't Win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A United Air Lines DC8 circled International Airport for 40 minutes Friday waiting for visibility to improve so it could land.

But the combination of what a weather forecaster called "hazy, smog, industrial smoke and marine air" did not lift and the jet was diverted to Palmdale Airport.

Flight controllers refused to let the jet land at International Airport because the pilot, R. R. Cassidy of New York, had a rating which precluded him from flying with visibility of less than 3,000 feet.

The 20 passengers waited in the plane at Palmdale while the aircraft was refueled. But before it could take off, darkness closed in and the airport was shut down for the night.

The passengers were brought to Los Angeles by bus.

Kelsey Wins Blue Pencil For Speech

BURLEY — Ted Kelsey was the winner of the blue pencil for the best speech during the Burley Toastmasters Club dinner meeting at Bryan's Cafe.

A report was given on the Toastmasters Educational Training Session at Pocatello.

Toastmaster of the evening was Tom Grunwell. Speakers were Mr. Kelsey using the topic of "Attitude" and Mr. Henschel spoke on "Welcome to Burley." Kelsey received the blue pencil.

Evaluators were Jack R. Holland and Norval Wildman. Chief evaluator was Paul Reid.

Table topics chairman, Duane Broadhead, led a discussion on helpful ideas to be presented to the newly elected mayor and city council. Bob Ellsworth, a new resident of Burley, was awarded the red pencil for his participation in table topics.

L. V. Morgan served as grammarian for the evening. A panel is planned for next week's program and Mr. Grunwell, Dalen Elquist and Mr. Holland were selected to participate.

'Cycle Daredevil Evil Kneivel Tangles With Outlaw 'Angels,' Hospitalizes Two

DAIN CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Motorcycle daredevil Evel Kneivel was harassed by members of the Hell's Angels motorcycle club Friday night. Two of the Angels wound up in the hospital as a result.

The flamboyant Kneivel has been a frequent critic of the Angels, whom he feels bring a poor image to motorcycling.

Shortly before he sought what he claimed was an indoor-jumping record at the Cow Palace, an unidentified member of the Angels punched him. Kneivel was not hurt.

Kneivel did not let the incident interrupt his concentration, as he smoothly performed his jump over 11 cars after a short run that started just outside of the big arena. A full house of 11,000 roared its approval for Kneivel, who nearly died in a missed jump over a Las Vegas fountain but nonetheless says he will go over part of the Grand Canyon soon.

Immediately after the completion of Friday's jump, an object was hurled at Kneivel.

He put down his motorcycle and ran over to battle a group of Angels. Members of the crowd quickly joined in.

Police, who have fought many battles with the Angels in the past, this time had to wade in to protect them. Two Angels were taken to the hospital by ambulance and officers escorted a dozen others out while the crowd angrily boned.

The only person arrested was one of the Angels' female companions, who was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

The injured Angels, identified as Tom Sanchez and Robert Smith, were treated for cuts and bruises and released. After being escorted out of the Cow Palace by police, the other Angels went to the hospital to see their injured comrades.

Mexico Plane Crash Claims 14 Newsmen

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz sent condolences today to families of 14 nationally known newsmen killed in a plane crash Sunday while covering the presidential election campaign.

Ordaz said in a statement he was "terribly grieved" over the tragedy and noted that he had known most of the victims.

Funeral services were scheduled for them in Mexico City today.

Nineteen of the 20 persons aboard the twin-engine Convair 300 died when the craft slammed into a mountainside in heavy fog near the Vera Cruz city of Poza Rica, 150 miles northwest of Mexico City.

The newsmen were accompanying presidential candidate Luis Cheeverria of the governing party of Revolutionary Institutions, who flew to the oil city in a separate plane for a rally.

The only survivor was identified as Jesus Krinsky, a reporter for Mexico City's El Heraldo. In addition to the 14 newsmen, the victims included four crew members and a physician.

Cause of the crash was under investigation. Witnesses said the plane was circling for a landing when it struck some tree tops and fell to the ground, bursting into flames. Wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Cheeverria went ahead with a planned rally in Poza Rica but cut his appearance short to go to the crash scene. He later returned to Mexico City where he went into seclusion. A spokesman said he would resume his campaign after a short break.

Cheeverria is the leading candidate to succeed Ordaz whose six-year term expires Dec. 1. The election will be held July 5.

David To Enlist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's son-in-law, David Eisenhower, is expected to sign up for a Navy officer's training course after his graduation from Amherst in June.

The 21-year-old grandson of President Dwight D. Eisenhower said last week he would make a formal announcement on the service he has chosen; but his friends say his decision to attend Navy Officers' Candidate School, a three-year commitment, already has been made.

Uncle Pete

Idaho State Journal

When Union Pacific was asking permission to cut back service on the Portland Rose, we were told that this time the line was going to try making passenger service pay.

As soon as the new schedule and elimination of the baggage cars and dropping of the sleeping cars was approved, a new day would dawn. The new service would be promoted in an effort to show how sincerely U.P. wanted to retain what is left of passenger trains.

Now, two weeks after the new schedule went into effect, it is almost a secret. The new time tables haven't been received at the local ticket office. As for promoting the service, we haven't noticed it.

People probably think we are hinting that the Portland Rose service should be advertised. Admittedly, an ad for a passenger train would be a collector's item, yet we are not hinting for one. In fact, to prove it, we have drafted up the following free ad.

GOING TO BOISE ON BUSINESS? SHOPPING? TEA WITH THE GOVERNOR?

Maybe you should ride the train. After all, you can fly nonstop to Boise, but all the planes coming back stop at Idaho Falls or Twin Falls first. You can't say that about the Union Pacific Railroad.

The new Portland Rose schedules are convenient. You leave Pocatello at a brisk 6:45 a.m., arriving in the metropolis at 11:20 a.m. Then you have a full day before you—lobbying at the capitol, ice skating on the Boise River, checking enrollment at Boise State. You leave Boise at 7:15 p.m. and are back in Pocatello at 11:25 p.m., just in time for a hot cocoa and so to bed.

Next time try the train! Same rails, the speedy freights run on.

A Bad Deal

Lewiston Tribune

The Judiciary & Rules Committee of the Idaho House of Representatives approved a bill yesterday which would have the effect of putting Lewiston on a different time from Clarkston and Coeur d'Alene in a different time from Spokane for half the year.

The bill was drawn by Rep. William L. Crookham, R-Caldwell, who sponsored two recent bills on Idaho's attitude toward daylight saving time. The first, a newspaper mail-in poll, showed an overwhelming majority opposed to daylight saving time and only a few in favor of it. Crookham himself seriously doubted the accuracy of this poll, so he sponsored another survey, this one a scientific sampling by professionals. It showed 47 per cent in favor of daylight saving, 43 per cent opposed and the rest holding no opinion.

Despite the results of his second, scientific sampling of opinion, Crookham's bill would eliminate daylight saving time in Idaho and put the whole state on Mountain Standard time. Since Idaho lies between the time zones, and since the neighboring states have daylight saving time every spring and summer, Idaho would be "in phase" with eastern Washington and Oregon in the spring and summer and with Montana, Wyoming and Nevada in the fall and winter.

It is hard to imagine many things more disruptive to the Lewiston area's economic and social life than to find ourselves in different time zones from our nearest neighbors for half the year. This region belongs on Pacific Standard time not only because our commerce is adjusted to it but because it is closer to "sun time" here than Mountain Standard time would be.

The system we're operating on now admittedly has its faults; Kellogg, where many Coeur d'Alene people are employed, is on a different time zone from Coeur d'Alene; much of the state is in a different time zone from the state capital; and residents of southwestern Idaho are in a different time zone from their neighbors in eastern Oregon. But nowhere is the present system creating as many problems as would be created in northern Idaho if Representative Crookham's bill should pass. — L. H.

Use The Cristobal

Santa Maria (Ca.) Times

It seems the Panama Canal Company, according to a recent article in Armed Forces Management, one of the oldest government-owned corporations, operates a freighter called the SS Cristobal, which plies its restricted trade between New Orleans and the Panama Canal Zone.

In April of 1965, the Government Accounting Office recommended that the military forces in Panama utilize the Cristobal for shipping and cut off the services of two Military Sea Transport ships that were plying the same route. GAO estimated $700,000 could be saved.

The two MSTs were taken off the route, but military shippers, instead of using the Cristobal, began shipping commercial. Army shippers, who manage the dry goods shipping in the Canal Zone, complained that goods sent on the Cristobal arrived in Balboa damaged. The Cristobal unloaded them on the Atlantic side of the Isthmus and they were shipped to the Pacific side by rail. The damage seemed to have occurred enroute. So the Army went to the commercial shippers whose ships went through the canal and unloaded at Balboa.

Three years later, GAO conducted an investigation and with trial shipments found the Cristobal and its railroad could give adequate service.

So now, four years later, GAO has again recommended the Cristobal be used to the maximum for shipping of defense dry goods.

Certainly the savings now, due to increased costs everywhere, would be even more. Let's hope the GAO recommendations are this time taken to heart.

Risky Meddling

Portland Oregonian

There ought to be more public concern than we have seen that the well-intentioned efforts of politicians and private citizens to make deals with the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong insurgents are more likely than not to hamper President Nixon's moves to extricate America from the war.

The persistent attempts by Y. Ross Perot to bribe the North Vietnamese to release American prisoners constitute more than a blatant flashing of a Texas billionaire's bankroll. Perot spent about $400,000 in a futile effort to fly plane loads of gifts, medicines and foodstuffs for American prisoners to Hanoi. Now he is offering to pay North Vietnam about $100 million to ransom the prisoners. The Communists have shown him nothing but contempt.

And in Paris, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., has interviewed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese delegates to the peace talks. His goal seems to be to find a formula for replacing South Vietnam's elected officials with an imposed, coalition government in the name of peace. The Viet Cong want that, if they can run the show and prevent an open election in the Communist tradition of dictatorship.

Congress, meanwhile, has made the mistake of placing dollar limits on American military aid to South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand. This comes, on the Senate's initiative, at a time when the Nixon Administration and the U.S. military command are making every effort to strengthen the Asian defenders against armed Communist aggression. Withdrawal of U.S. troops on an orderly basis depends upon American aid to the South Vietnamese forces, primarily and on continued support of Thai and Laotian government forces in those theaters.

There are too many meddlers in this grim business of ending one war and preventing others in Southeast Asia. The grandstanders are out of order.

(First of Two Articles) WASHINGTON (NEA)—As he begins his second year, President Richard M. Nixon thinks his key people may be getting a bit giddy over his present high estate in the country. So, with what his aides label his characteristic foresight, he is going about counseling them against euphoria and forecasting harder times in 1970 and beyond. Fresh polls which indicate continuing big support, especially for his staged combat troop withdrawal from Vietnam, help sustain the spell. It is, not even broken when a seasoned old Democrat says: "It's hard not to have a good first year."

Certainly it is even less imperiled by the new left, the arch liberal intellectuals, the young kind of the black who trumpet that Nixon is a kind of "isolationist" both Lyndon Johnson who has not done a single new thing. The hard-nosed types do not buy this line at all. They argue, indeed, that at least for a time he has thoroughly routed his more militant opponents and has them badly confused. Says a veteran Washington political expert: "The intellectuals' efforts to overturn the 1968 election results have been met and defeated."

ANDREW TULLY

Demarche Of The Year

WASHINGTON — As a working newspaperman, I am not surprised but merely bemused by the attack on Vice President Agnew uttered in a speech here by Billy Don Moyers, quondam news manager for Lyndon Johnson. Still, I will not take exception should some observer who takes Billy Don more seriously than I do as the demarche of the year.

Moyers, who left his patron Johnson to become publisher of the newspaper, Newsday, on Long Island, declared that Agnew's "sleazy political attacks" on the news media are "a greater threat to the nation than the grumblings of an unfriendly press." Such a warning might send me scurrying for cover were it not for Moyers' own record as a White House Boswell.

Billy Don spent a large part of the time as Johnson's press secretary criticizing the news media for getting only a "keyhole view" of what went on in his master's private principalities. He complained that newsmen covering the White House weren't well-informed to comment on the President's grand doings. One of his periodic lectures to the press declared that the media was making a "circus" out of Presidential press conferences and that many of the questions asked the great man were "stupid." (At the time, I wracked my memory to recall what press conferences Moyers referred to. His lectures were delivered in January, 1960, and at the time Johnson had stepped only one scheduled meeting with the press since the preceding August.)

Anyway, times obviously have changed, and in the matter of White House press management the temptation is strong to suggest that Moyers' charge for the better. Moyers was not exactly a fund of information when he was in the White House. In condemning the press for being "poorly informed," Moyers was including himself. If he found only a "keyhole" view of White House goings-on inadequate, he had only to open the door so we could see better. As press secretary, it was Moyers' job to make sure the press was apprised of his boss' activities.

In his own mind, Moyers must always find a way to get the answer to a simple question from a White House inmate. Moyers and some of Johnson's other "pressmen" were derelict at returning phone calls. In fact, a "keyhole" view of the Gessenro type was discovered to be checking the names of all persons phoning Lyndon Johnson's Winter Palace, a subtle means of intimidating those aides who might have been af-fricted with inquisitiveness. Publisher Moyers, during his tenure as White House press secretary, also was wont to deliver himself of remarks straight out of the park hall. Newspapermen, he once deplored, were much like politicians: "When they're bought, they stay bought."

I never minded being compared to a politician. Not all of them are self-serving loafers and many of them practice a kind of true honesty. But Moyers had to be kidding about buying newsmen, because the average Washington reporter could have retired to Acapulco years ago had he possessed the morals of some political types who hang their hats in the towers of our national government.

At the time, of course, Moyers was very young and still trying to recover from the discovery that he was a celebrity. Probably he could be forgiven for at times assuming the role of nagging wife. Now he is older. Apparently he has arranged, as he once put it, to "invest my talents in the broadest possible river." Unfortunately, his Agnew speech opens to question whether he is also wiser.

Yet, as indicated at the outset, no one knows better than Nixon what most veterans of the presidential scene are bound to conclude: That the real traps on the war, the racial struggle, inflation, crime—and the other problems of the cities, all lie ahead. A long-time friend and aide to presidents says: "I'd describe the President's first year as an exceedingly skillful and adroit exercise in the modern science of public relations. He's not a young but veteran Nixon hand."

Agnew has more rapport than Nixon with the middle-range people the President is trying to reach. "Yet, as indicated at the outset, no one knows better than Nixon what most veterans of the presidential scene are bound to conclude: That the real traps on the war, the racial struggle, inflation, crime—and the other problems of the cities, all lie ahead."

What worries Nixon and company is that people will also be demanding the roost beef at reasonable prices. Inflation is the least controllable element in the shifting mosaic of his problems. Moreover, even as Nixon has de-fanged some of the old personal animosities left toward him here and in Europe and won back some of the credibility Johnson stripped from the office, he has aroused new doubts centering on the oddities of his self-insulating style. By now everybody knows how he harricades himself in his various offices with yellow pad and pencil or dictating machine. His favorite nighttime hideout is a replica of his old Fifth Avenue apartment study in the Executive Office Building next to the White House. There, surrounded by family pictures, mementos of his foreign trips and some of his favorite cartoons, he does some of his hardest work.

The excuse for this isolation is that he buys thinking time that most previous presidents never managed. When he calls a cabinet member and says, "I've been thinking," it is believable. But it may not be the entire story. Says a man who studies the President closely: "He's not a tough guy; he's a very soft guy. He gains protection by walling himself off so he isn't exposed to people who might take advantage of him. He'd rather get their judgments through memos or reports or filtered through other whom he trusts."

Even friendly skeptics think this counseling by the very few and this working behind the mont, gets Nixon into trouble. His links with Congress have been dimly weak. Charitable defenders lay it on the lawmakers. Yet one analyst blames Nixon. "I just doesn't understand the importance of personal relationships with senators and congressmen. He's not inclined to sit down and jolly the boys from the Hill."

There is some feeling, too, that Nixon's life in part isolation leads him to dwell overlong on the trivia of issues he likes, while neglecting what really are presidential decisions on other matters. These, it is said, fall to men he may seldom see.

His many days in isolation booth most comfortable. But he does come out of it. And the record so far shows that, wherever he works from, he is capable of making quite a dent on the country's consciousness. (NEXT: Can Nixon Stir the Nation?)

protests was not a careless throwaway line but calculated. The same can be said of the absence of warm appeals to his groups in his Nov. 3 speech. "He chose not take any of the 25 or more varieties of olive branch we suggested to him," says one helper. "He knew anything he did for them would be the end of that story and he did not want that."

The October-November assault on the President, the first and only really major opposition offensive of 1969, failed for many reasons. To begin with, his troop withdrawal-a-real-and-so-on-the prospects for more in 1970. Disengagement from the war is a fact. And Vietnam is far from the whole of it.

To be sure, on both parties, detached observers, and at least a few scholars, all have some conviction that he has made the nation seem a little more governable, that in spite of rising crime and much school violence, he has quieted the scene. Though his critics detest Vice President Spiro Agnew for his attacks on the media and on dissenters, the realists agree Nixon has found a way to use his controversial back-up man effectively.

Says a young but veteran Nixon hand: "Agnew has more rapport than Nixon with the middle-range people the President is trying to reach. "Yet, as indicated at the outset, no one knows better than Nixon what most veterans of the presidential scene are bound to conclude: That the real traps on the war, the racial struggle, inflation, crime—and the other problems of the cities, all lie ahead."

His favorite nighttime hideout is a replica of his old Fifth Avenue apartment study in the Executive Office Building next to the White House. There, surrounded by family pictures, mementos of his foreign trips and some of his favorite cartoons, he does some of his hardest work.

The excuse for this isolation is that he buys thinking time that most previous presidents never managed. When he calls a cabinet member and says, "I've been thinking," it is believable. But it may not be the entire story. Says a man who studies the President closely: "He's not a tough guy; he's a very soft guy. He gains protection by walling himself off so he isn't exposed to people who might take advantage of him. He'd rather get their judgments through memos or reports or filtered through other whom he trusts."

Even friendly skeptics think this counseling by the very few and this working behind the mont, gets Nixon into trouble. His links with Congress have been dimly weak. Charitable defenders lay it on the lawmakers. Yet one analyst blames Nixon. "I just doesn't understand the importance of personal relationships with senators and congressmen. He's not inclined to sit down and jolly the boys from the Hill."

There is some feeling, too, that Nixon's life in part isolation leads him to dwell overlong on the trivia of issues he likes, while neglecting what really are presidential decisions on other matters. These, it is said, fall to men he may seldom see. His many days in isolation booth most comfortable. But he does come out of it. And the record so far shows that, wherever he works from, he is capable of making quite a dent on the country's consciousness. (NEXT: Can Nixon Stir the Nation?)

George C. Thosteson, M.D. On Buerger's

Dr. Thosteson, a vascular surgeon, explains Buerger's disease and how it reacts. Only a few know it is that it occurs between the ages of 40 and 45 and it is a shrinkage of the artery. What are you supposed to eat and drink? I mean the do's and don'ts. After a period of years will the disease react in hardening of the arteries and how it affects the heart? A.L.K. Well, the disease occurs earlier than that, too — usually among men, and in the 20s, 30s and 40s.

Rather than a "shrinkage" of arteries, call it a chronic inflammation of arteries, with the risk of clots and ultimately shutting off of blood vessels. That leads to its technical name thromboangiitis obliterans.

It occurs in the extremities, most commonly in the legs, but can involve the arms. Coldness and itching are the first symptoms. Over a period of years if the condition is not treated, gangrene is the usual result, with the loss of toes or more. Proper treatment will prevent this, but may not prevent all of the other symptoms. The cause is not known, but one factor stands out like a sore thumb: the vast majority of patients are heavy smokers.

Diet has no effect on the disease. The absolute "do" is to quit tobacco. Quite a few patients show prompt and considerable improvement within a few weeks after they stop smoking.

Buerger's exercise (alternately raising and lowering an affected leg or arm in position horizontal to vertical, and holding each position a minute or two) helps promote circulation which, of course, is what you need. In addition, sometimes physiotherapy is required, also to help circulation. If spasm of the blood vessels is a part of the picture, drugs can be helpful. Sympathectomy — cutting of certain nerves in the lower back — also is sometimes used, if necessary, the purpose being to let the blood vessels relax and carry more blood.

Buerger's disease doesn't necessarily lead to hardening of the arteries, but that isn't saying that such trouble won't develop, or may not already be present. The heart and other organs can be affected by Buerger's disease in some cases, although not to the extent one expects with generalized hardening of the arteries.

Those were the dangerous and unsafe times, but at least they didn't have to worry about their taxis on escalators!

Payments To Veterans In Idaho Listed

The Veterans Administration will pay $863,000 in G.I. insurance dividends this year to 13,577 veterans in the state, according to Louis E. Kopan, director of the Boise center.

Mr. Kopan said these dividends are part of the $264 million in dividends the VA began mailing Jan. 1 to 4,101,200 veterans with World War I era United States Government Life Insurance and World War II era National Service Life Insurance. He added that 12,978 veterans in Idaho with NSLI policies will receive $805,200 in dividends averaging about $62 each.

The 500 holders of USGLI may look forward to $3,500 in dividend checks, the average amount of which will be $98, according to Mr. Kopan.

Since the dividend on each policy depends on the plan of insurance, age of the insured, age of the policyowner and face value, individual payments will vary.

The VA recently announced that nationally this year's dividends on the two policies will be $28 million more than last year and will be distributed throughout the year on policy anniversary dates.

Grant To Allow Prison Courses For 50 Weeks

BOISE — A $108,602 grant to conduct a 50-week program giving vocational courses at the Idaho State Prison has been received, according to Charles R. Rostron, director of the Boise State Vocational-Technical Division.

The grant is from the Manpower Development Training Act (MDTA) through the Idaho State Department of Vocational Education. Roy Irons, director of the penitentiary program will begin Monday at the new site south of Gowen Field.

The program is an extension and expansion of a pilot project conducted by ISEC at the prison last year. Mr. Rostron said courses to be taught are major electrical appliance service, and refrigeration mechanics, farm machinery and power mechanics and chef-baker for the local hotel and restaurant trade.

Each of the programs will be geared for 15-20 men. Mr. Rostron said, and that who successfully complete the course should be eligible for consideration for parole.

Activities At College Here Are Reported

Most of the activities at the College of Southern Idaho will center around homecoming which will climax Saturday evening with a dance following the CSI-North Idaho Junior-College basketball game.

On Monday the Veterans Club money hunt begins, as well as the "Ugly Man" contest.

The homecoming concert will be held Tuesday featuring Diane Hopperstad, Mike Idaho, Becky Sullivan, Miss Twin Falls, and Verne Swain, a folk singer. This will be held at 8 p.m. at the Fine Arts Center.

Homecoming queens will be elected Wednesday and on Thursday the homecoming car bash and tricycle race will be held.

A semi-formal homecoming dance will be held Friday night featuring Thomas Pace and The Turning Point.

Attempts To Control Marijuana Use Stir Kettle Of Speculation About Narcotics

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Which came first, the chicken or the egg? This venerable conversational gambit, modified and pressed frequently in the current forensics about marijuana, otherwise known as marijuana, tea, weed, pot, grass, hay, blang, charas, ganja or in a stronger form, hashish.

Marijuana, depending on how it is prepared, may be smoked (as in reefer, joints, sticks or a pipe), sniffed, eaten, or drunk.

Whatever else you call it, marijuana is hemp, or cannabis, a plant that grows almost everywhere except in really cold climates. Human beings have been trying it on for one reason or another for about 5,000 years.

A chicken-egg question of the sort often heard nowadays is: Does marijuana turn users into psychotics, or does psychosis turn people into marijuana users? The question is too simple. But it illustrates the extremes of viewpoint with which serious warriors about marijuana must contend.

The law generally says marijuana is evil — as evil as the "hard narcotics" such as heroin — and that those who possess, sell, use or even live in a place where it is possessed, sold, or used must be severely punished by fine and imprisonment.

Congress next year may approve legislation reducing the punishments for possession of marijuana. There are those, among them anthropologist Margaret Mead, who would legalize the drug.

According to the National Violence Study Commission, harsh penalties for possession and use of marijuana have become "a principal source of frustration and alienation among the young."

Marijuana, according to the American Medical News, "poses the most perplexing and pressing problem both to Congress and the administration."

The news is published by the American Medical Association which considers marijuana a dangerous drug and a public health concern. The AMA opposes legalization of possession and sale of marijuana.

In a recent policy statement, reported by the Medical News, "The AMA pointed out that marijuana is a psychoactive substance which can have a marked deleterious effect on individual performance and social productivity. A significant number of exposed persons become chronic users with concomitant medical and interpersonal problems."

Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, chairman of the AMA Council on Mental Health which prepared the AMA's policy statement, says sale and possession of marijuana should not be treated more harshly than offenses involving amphetamines and barbiturates. He also said, however, that separate and more lenient treatment is not desirable.

Dr. Lester Grinspoon, associate clinical professor psychiatry at the Harvard University Medical School, undertook in the December issue of Scientific American to sort out and answer some questions that have been raised about marijuana.

According to Grinspoon, marijuana is a relatively mild intoxicant that tends to calm the user and is neither organically destructive nor addictive.

Does marijuana, as some say, lead its users to the use of narcotics?

"There is no evidence," according to Grinspoon, "that marijuana is more likely than alcohol or tobacco to lead to the use of narcotics."

Does marijuana incite and violent to aggression and violent criminal behavior?

"No cases of murder or of sexual crime due to marijuana have been established."

Indeed, Grinspoon said, marijuana "intoxication induces a lethargy that is not conducive to any physical activity, let alone the committing of crimes."

Does marijuana induce sexual debauchery?

"There is no evidence that marijuana stimulates sexual desire or power." There are those, in fact, who say it "weakens sexual desire."

Does marijuana lead to physical and mental degeneracy?

"It is possible that chronic use of the drug may have debilitating effects, as prolonged heavy drinking does."

Why do users turn to marijuana?

"For many, the drug is evidently an escape from feelings of inadequacy, personal frustrations, anxiety and (or) depression. The anxiety and sense of helplessness generated by the dangers of our time may be focused in some degree of marijuana."

GOP Precinct Work Noted At Jerome

JEROME — The intricacies of precinct work were explained to the Jerome County Republican Women's Club by Jerome Mayor Jack Russell.

Speaking at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Jones Edin, he outlined the duties of the precinct committeemen and procedures and dates of committee meetings.

Clair Ricketts, Jerome county central committee chairman, asked the help of the women in precinct work, noting the necessity for making each precinct aware of the procedure of political party work.

Mrs. Eugene Judd, literature chairman, explained the joint resolution of the late Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the school prayer amendment and an anti-obscenity resolution S. 1077, dealing with pornography.

Mrs. Dorothy Detweiler presented gold cards to Mrs. Gertrude Detweiler and Mrs. Richard Sooley for 15 years' service to the GOP Women's Club.

Hostesses were Mrs. Don McFarland, Mrs. Dan Rogerson, Mrs. Lena Martens and Mrs. Henry Jones.

2 Deaf Mutes Killed In Chicago Fire

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two deaf mute boys were killed and 38 other persons injured Sunday when a fire swept through a floor of the Conrad Hilton, one of the world's largest hotels.

The two boys, seniors at the Jacksonville, Ill. School for the Deaf on a weekend outing, might have lived had they remained in their rooms, authorities said.

The bodies of Donald Sanger, 17, and Bruce Kennedy, 18, were found in the hallway of the ninth floor. They apparently died of smoke inhalation. They and 29 other handicapped students were in Chicago to attend a Chicago Bulls professional basketball game and to tour the Museum of Science and Industry.

The fire struck about 6:30 a.m. Sunday in a furniture storage area on the ninth floor and spread quickly through the hallways.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said damage to the 3,000-room, 38-story hotel was about $150,000, but could go higher. Quinn said it was "miraculous" that there was not more loss of life.

Eighteen persons, including 10 of the deaf mute boys, were taken to hospitals for treatment of smoke inhalation or burns. All but six were treated and released. About 20 other guests and firemen were treated at the hotel.

Psychic Says Zodiac Shot Cab Driver

CHICAGO (UPI)—A Chicago area psychic, who claims to be credited with providing crucial information leading to the arrest of suspects in the Sharon Tate murder case, said Sunday night that the "Zodiac" killer was "just him enough" to have committed the latest shooting in San Francisco.

Charles Jarman, 28, a Yellow Cab driver from Daly City, was critically wounded in the back of the head Sunday in a holdup similar to the last known slaying thought to have been committed by the Zodiac.

Joseph DeLouise, 43, a hair stylist, who claims he is Jarman's brother, was arrested in Vallejo, Calif., last Friday following three days of begging with the Zodiac to give himself up over local radio and television stations.

He said he was asked to make the trip to California by Vallejo police and newspaper reporters because he was able to provide needed clues in the Tate murders.

"I believe the Zodiac could be either a former newspaper man or policeman," DeLouise said. "I've read the papers and he knows much about both fields."

DeLouise said he visioned a horse and dog while in Vallejo and told police he thinks the Zodiac now works with horses, possibly at nearby race tracks.

DeLouise said he had the impression the Zodiac was working in Fairfield, Calif., and was from five-foot seven to five-foot eight, and 130-140 pounds.

Financier To Aid Change In Prisons

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Millionaire financier Louis E. Wolfson, vowing to become a crusader for a "completely revamped" penal system, leaves a federal honor prison today after a nine months term.

Good behavior by Wolfson shortened the original sentence he received in April 25, 1969, for selling unregistered stock in a Florida firm he controlled.

Wolfson, in a telegram purportedly sent through his son to UPI in New York, said he would hold a news conference today in Jacksonville, Fla.

"I am convinced that our penal system must be completely revamped because our nation's crime rate is increasing at such a pace that every American family could have a member either killed or maimed within the next 100 years," he said.

Billie Wolfson, a former professional boxer and University of Georgia football player, is an "honorary" term given him on a second conviction for conspiring to obstruct justice and filing false reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission in connection with stock transactions. His second conviction is under appeal.

New Jersey Governor Decries Drug Problem Before Son Arrested On Marijuana Count

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Gov. William T. Cahill of New Jersey decried the "awesome" problem of drug use last Tuesday in his inaugural address. Saturday night his son, John, 19, was arrested for possession of marijuana.

"I share the alarm of all thinking citizens and awe some concern in the use of narcotics by our youth in all areas of the state, in city and suburb, by rich and poor, black and white," Cahill said in his inaugural address.

His son was released here on $200 bond Sunday. He must answer felony charges of possession of marijuana in court on Feb. 4.

Cahill issued a statement Sunday saying his son "must be treated the same as any other young man under similar circumstances."

The Republican governor, 57, an ex-congressman, and former FBI agent, said, "We feel the same distress and sorrow that any other parents would feel. In the same situation and naturally plan to do everything we can to help John."

Despite the governor's request for no preferential treatment, the handling of his arrangement was unusual, said newsmen accustomed to police procedure in Philadelphia.

Instead of the customary arraignment in a courtroom at the Police Administration Building, bail was set during a hearing early Sunday at Cahill's basement cell. The $200 bond was posted by Secretary of State Paul Sherwin, of New Jersey, a close friend of the Cahill family.

Young Cahill returned after his release to Collingswood, N.J., where the family is living in their home until the state's executive mansion can be renovated. He had been scheduled for a Selective Service pre-induction physical examination today, but it was postponed indefinitely after his arrest, a spokesman for the governor's office said.

Thomas Flynn, the spokesman, said the postponement was requested because John Cahill was emotionally upset.

Washington (UPI)—Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., Sunday warned the Food and Drug Administration against approval of standards for "fake milk" which could injure children while satisfying the profit motives of wealthy corporations.

The ranking Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee said in a letter to Secretary Robert H. Finch of Health, Education and Welfare that the FDA proposal would seem to permit sale of imitation milk containing cyclamates, the artificial sweeteners banned by HEW from soft drinks.

Aiken said that "if inferior milk products are placed on the market at this time, at prices below those necessary for the sale of genuine cow milk, incalculable damage can be done to our young people."

The senator told Finch that "under no conditions should the FDA approve standards for fake milk which have not been thoroughly tested. We cannot afford to gamble with the health of young Americans to satisfy the profit motives of wealthy corporations."

UNRUI REPORTS POLL. SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Assembly democratic leader Jesse Unruh, who is challenging Gov. Ronald Reagan for the state's top job, says he is encouraged by a private poll showing him trailing Reagan by only 10 points.

Earlier pollsters had shown Reagan ahead by as much as 56-34.

Belgrade (UPI)—President Tito left Sunday on a month's tour of seven African nations. In airport remarks prior to departing, the 77-year-old Yugoslav leader said, "The world issues may only be dealt with 'correctly' provided all countries participate on an equal footing."

Witness Says He Predicted Chicago Riot

CHICAGO (UPI)—Rennie Davis Saturday said he warned Chicago officials three days before the Democratic National Convention there would be trouble if the city refused to allow demonstrators the use of its parks past the 11 p.m. curfew.

Davis' testimony came at the first Saturday session of the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial since the trial opened four months ago. U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman ordered the Saturday session to speed the conclusion of the trial, which began Sept. 24.

Davis said he told Chicago Corporation Counsel Raymond F. Simon "the kids are going to go into the parks. The police are going to clear the parks. The kids are going to fight back. The police are going to use gas and mace."

The meetings between Davis and Simon took place Aug. 22, Davis said.

"I just couldn't understand why the city was being so inflexible on the matter of allowing the people to stay in the parks past the curfew hours so they would have a place to stay," Davis testified.

Davis said he told Simon that an "emergency situation existed, but Simon told him that the mayor (Richard J. Daley) did not think there was "an emergency situation yet."

"If the mayor did not think there was an emergency situation," Davis said he told Simon, "then why had the mayor placed the police department on 12 hour shifts and arranged to have 40,000 National Guard troops in the city?"

MUD HAS PLAGUED workers at beet dumps throughout the Rupert area this season. Despite adverse weather conditions Monday was tentatively set as the first day for cutting beets, and workers at the Hynes beet dump, about six miles west of Baul, shown above, completed loading of beets from outlying dumps into Amalgamated Sugar Co. cars Thursday.

Workers have been plagued by rain and snow since beginning work at the Schow dump southwest of Rupert Jan. 2. The huge, eight-ton scoop used by the company to load the beets into railroad cars was in danger of overturning at one time while working at the Elcock dump east of Unley when the wheels on one side slid into a mudhole with a load of beets piled in the air over the waiting cars. Bulldozers were called in earlier last week to scrape the mud back from the railroad track at the Hynes dump and gravel was hauled in by the truckloads to facilitate completion of the work.

Aircraft Hijacker Finds No Welcome In Cuba; Spends 103 Days As Prisoner In Squalid Dungeon In Havana

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—As they closed the door, I felt like I was being buried alive... in a tomb. I explored the cell, but there wasn't much exploring to do. It was about the size of a small bathroom.

So begins the diary of Robert M. Helme, 36, a Savannah lumber dealer.

On Jan. 11, 1969, Helme hijacked a United Air Lines Jet and forced its pilot to fly to Havana, Cuba. After 103 days of virtual solitary confinement by Cuban authorities, he was released April 23 and sent to Canada where he arranged to surrender himself to U.S. authorities.

Charged with air piracy and kidnapping, Helme went on trial in federal court here last Nov. 17. After less than 30 minutes of jury deliberation, he was acquitted, judged innocent by reason of temporary insanity.

At the time of the hijacking, Helme testified, he imagined he was part of a CIA-FBI plot to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Alone in his tiny cell in Cuba, Helme first kept track of things by scratching symbols into the white-washed walls, he said. He called this record his "diary." Later, he said, he transferred his record-keeping to a notebook which also served as his only blanket.

Describing his cell, Helme said: "I could lie down in the middle of the floor and touch every wall with my hands and feet. There were no windows in the cell, only vents near the 10-foot-high ceiling."

The only sanitary facility, he said, was a hole in the floor, into a pipe. Light was provided, his account said, by two bulbs: one in the ceiling and other set behind a metal grate in the wall and with both lights controlled from an outside switch.

On his first day in jail, Jan. 12, Helme said, he was given two pieces of hard bread for breakfast and later in the day received a tray of rice and black beans. He said this was his basic diet for 101 more days.

"I didn't have a spoon, I didn't have a cup," he said. "I didn't have toilet paper."

Once, he said, he became ill from the stench in the cell because a water spigot designed to flush the pipe didn't work for the first 13 days.

He was questioned intermittently by two officers who wanted to know why he had come to Cuba. He always, he said, demanded to see Castro—a demand apparently not taken seriously or ever granted.

There were other Americans in the prison, Helme said. "Underneath my cell," he said, "was this other guy. I couldn't see him but I could hear him. They beat on him every four or five days. While they were beating on him, he'd sing the Marines' Hymn. Then he'd pray and say crazy things like he wanted to get back in the womb."

Helme said that through a slip in security he got glimpses of "a young hippie with real long hair" in one of the cells. Helme said he discovered he could communicate with another prisoner by talking through an unused conduit shaft. He said the man was a plane hijacker from Bogota, Colombia.

"We'd talk until we hear the guards coming," Helme said. "You could hear their boots squeaking in the hall. Man, you sure can tell a Cuban boot, the way they squeak."

Ten days after his jailing, Helme said, he was taken from his cell for the first time and fingerprinted, photographed and weighed. He'd already dropped in weight from 250 to 212 pounds, he said. During the entire time, he said, he lost at least 100 pounds.

On Jan. 20, Helme said, and for reasons he couldn't explain, two Cuban officers took him for a drive into Havana pointing out various buildings and landmarks. At one point, he said, he saw "25 or 30 Russian-made helicopters and one MIG21," a late model Soviet fighter plane.

On Feb. 3, after an interrogation session during which his questioner said Cuba made "the best ice cream in the world," Helme said he was driven to a Havana ice cream emporium called Copela. "I guess that was for propaganda," he said. "They probably had cameras all over the place."

Helme told of no abuse other than the confined quarters and poor daily fare, but said his questioners did warn him there were "ways we can make you talk."

On Feb. 10 Helme said he began suffering severe head aches and asked for a doctor, Miami. I could see it. I cried."

but none came. Five days later he was interrogated again and then sent to a doctor who told him he'd send some medicine, which he never got.

On March 19, Helme said, he became violently ill and this time was taken to a hospital. "they X-rayed my skull," he said. He was at the hospital 10 days, then returned to his cell.

From then on he remained in his cell until April 23. Without any explanation except the announcement that "you travel today," Helme said he was driven to a Cuban sugar freighter in the harbor and put aboard. There were several other released prisoners on the ship, he found. The ship sailed for Montreal the next day.

"The first time I saw my country," he said, "was the morning we passed near Miami. I could see it. I cried."

Legislative Luncheon Set On Tuesday In T.F.

Legislative luncheons sponsored by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce will begin Tuesday, according to Mike Gray, chairman.

He said the subject of the letter was the need for "better" postal facilities.

Wendell Lists Deadline For Licenses On Dogs In City

WENDELL — All dog owners in Wendell must purchase licenses for their animals by Feb. 1 or they will receive a citation, Mayor Gene Soares reports.

City cleanup was discussed at the council meeting last week and property owners will be urged to comply with existing rules. Councilmen voted to retain Bill Bun as director of summer recreation again.

Councilmen also:

- Heard the annual report of Police Chief G. D. Pierce.
- Instructed the clerk to write the State Highway Department at Shoshone and request installation of a blanking caution light north of town.
- Took under advisement a plan for accident insurance for city employees as presented by Jim Benson.
- Decided to leave irrigation water assessments the same as last year.

Mayor Soares announced Ben Morgan and other ongoing commission members will report at the Feb. 2 meeting which will start at 7 p.m. and include a hearing on the city budget.

Cadillac '70

Own a Cadillac?

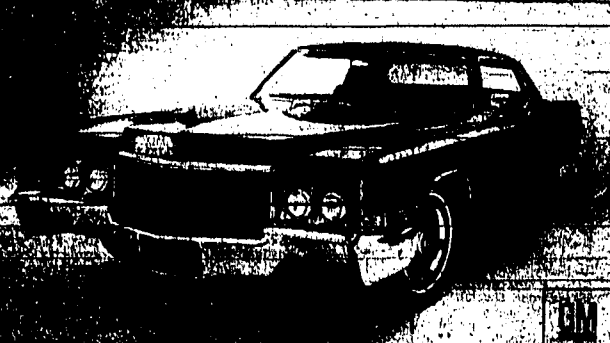

Of course you can!

1966 Four years old, but its classic beauty and tasteful elegance still give it a distinction that only Cadillac offers. And because it's endowed with Cadillac engineering and craftsmanship, plus so many desirable comfort and convenience features (you'll even enjoy variable-ratio power steering with a 1966 Cadillac) it's likely to offer more driving pleasure and owner satisfaction than most new cars in its price range.

1968 A previously owned 1968 Cadillac offers so much more than many new, fully equipped, medium-price cars. Of course there's Cadillac luxury, elegance, comfort and craftsmanship for you to enjoy. But you'll also be impressed with Cadillac's big 472 V-8 engine and the precision of its standard power steering and power braking. All this plus the pride of ownership a Cadillac provides.

1970 Even the newest model of the world's finest luxury car—a car of uncompromising elegance, comfort and performance—competes in price and economy of operation with cars of far less stature. Thousands of loyal Cadillac owners will testify to this fact, and also to the fact that a Cadillac will traditionally return, on resale, a larger proportion of its original cost than any other car built in the land.

Leading Idaho Women Attend Banquet

By NORMA HERZINGER

BURLEY — It took Idaho's first lady to get the program under way — and with a flip of a button she did just that. Dr. William E. (Bud) Davis, president of Idaho State University, was having difficulty turning on the microphone to welcome the capacity crowd to the Friday evening banquet honoring Congressman Orval Hansen at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley. With three or four microphones in front of you, it is difficult to tell just which switch controls the power. But, seeing Dr. Davis' problem and without a moment's hesitation, Mrs. R. U. by Samuelson left her place at the head table and adjusted the proper button. It brought a laugh from the crowd and in her usual charming way, she smiled real big and walked back to her seat.

More than 350 persons attended the $30 per plate affair to honor Congressman Hansen and to meet and hear two of the nation's leading politicians, the Honorable Walter J. Hickel, secretary of interior, and the Honorable John Anderson, member of Congress, Illinois' 16th District. Secretary Hickel was featured speaker.

Although Rep. Hansen, Idaho's freshman congressman, was the man in the spotlight at the head table, many eyes were on his witty and vivacious wife, June.

A most gracious and sincere woman, she truly sat with tears in her eyes as Idaho's senior senator, Len B. Jordan, gave his remarks of introduction for Congressman Hansen. Mrs. Hansen, who carries a full load as wife of a congressman and mother of seven children, has a delightful sense of humor and makes friends wherever she goes. Congressman Hansen, in his talk, noted his lovely wife works much harder than he does — with much less credit.

Another very notable woman at the head table who makes more money than any other woman in the nation — but can't keep any of it, was Mrs. Mary Brooks, Director of the U.S. Mint. Mrs. Brooks is from Burley and is a former member of the Idaho Legislature and co-chairman of the Republican National Committee. When asked prior to the banquet about her new position, she stated she is the third woman to hold the national job. And it was interesting to note that the United States is the only country who entrusts its money to a woman.

Special presentations were made during the banquet by Mrs. John (Angela) Butterfield, vice chairman of the Shoshone-Bannock Business Council, Fort Hall. She presented beautiful hand-headed neckties to Congressman Hansen, Congressman Anderson and Secretary Hickel for their wives. For Dr. Davis she had something of a little different, two pairs of hand-headed Indian moccasins for his new twin daughters who were born last week.

Along with her gifts to the two leading officials in the Nixon administration, Mrs. Butterfield extended an open invitation to visit Idaho and Fort Hall at any time.

Special introduction was given to all persons seated at the head table which was filled with other leading women of Idaho including Mrs. Gwen Barneby, long-time political figure in Idaho and the Republican party's national committeewoman; Mrs. Ruby Samuelson, Mrs. John Breckenridge, Mrs. Robert Smylie, Mrs. Curtis Eaton, Mrs. Jack Murphy and Mrs. Ron Ellsworth.

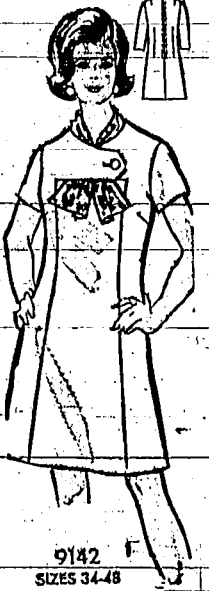

Mrs. Breckenridge, chairman of the dinner, noted it was one of the largest Republican events held in Idaho's Second District for years and the head table itself was one of the biggest events Idaho has seen for some time. Honorary co-chairmen of the dinner were Mrs. Brooks and Sen. Jordan.

Prelude music was provided by Mrs. Paul Wood, Burley, and the presentation of colors by Nancy Kunat and Gene Barneby, Burley; Camp Fire Girls, and Wayne Blauer and Brad Williams, Burley; Eagle Scouts, Rev. John W. Pickrell, Burley Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

The dinner was held to raise funds for the 1970 GOP congressional race in Eastern Idaho. It was originally set for Saturday night, but was changed to Friday when President Nixon set Saturday for a meeting with his Cabinet.

Magie Valley Favorites

BARBARA LUTHER
233 Warm Springs, Apt. 5, Boise

Hot Cheese-Chicken Sandwich Casserole
6 slices white bread
6 tablespoons butter
Thin slices of cooked chicken
1/2 cup crumbled blue or Roquefort cheese
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup heavy cream
1 1/2 cups milk
1 1/2 teaspoon instant minced onion
2 egg yolks, beaten
1/2 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Cut crusts from bread and spread with two-tablespoons butter. Arrange flat in shallow baking dish. Top with chicken and sprinkle with crumbled cheese. Melt remaining butter and blend in flour and seasonings. Add liquids and onions and cook, stirring until thickened. Stir small amount into egg yolks. Beat mixture to scalding and cook two to three minutes, stirring. Pour over ingredients in baking dish. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Makes six servings.

Ashe Makes Final Of Aussie Meet

SYDNEY (UPI) — Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., entered the finals of the Australian Open tennis championships Sunday when U.S. Davis Cup coach Nick Boltenz defeated him in the third set.

Ashe was leading 6-3, 8-10, 6-3, 2-1, when Boltenz, suffering from a badly sprained back, was forced to retire.

The second semi-final ended in a twilight confusion when referee Cliff Sproule stopped the match between Australian Dick Crealy and Englishman Roger Taylor.

Crealy, the tournament giant killer, was leading Taylor 6-3, 9-11, 6-6, 2-4 when Sproule walked onto the court and called off play.

In the locker room after the match, Boltenz said a doctor, who gave him a brief examination during the 10-minute break at the end of the third set, told him he may have a pinched nerve.

"I felt it go in Friday night's match against John Newcombe but I thought I had just pulled a muscle," Boltenz said. "But it went again in the opening set today and I could not move to the right—and Ashe soon woke up to that. The pain was in my back on the left side."

Boltenz said he would undergo a thorough examination in Sydney this morning and will pull out of the New Zealand Open tennis championships in Auckland which begin Tuesday. This will be Ashe's third appearance in the Australian singles final.

Cincinnati Tips

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Oscar Robertson pumped in 41 points and the Cincinnati Royals made a 21-point first-period lead stand up for a 129-122 victory Sunday over the Baltimore Bullets.

Robertson collected 17 of his total in the final quarter, including the last 11 Cincinnati points which kept the Royals ahead after Baltimore three times closed to within seven points.

The Royals jumped on top, 39-22, at the end of the first period but Baltimore ran off the last seven points in the second quarter to close the gap to 69-58 at intermission. It was the first time the Royals had been ahead at halftime since Dec. 28.

The Royals stayed on top, 103-91, after three periods despite Ray Scott's 19 points in that season for the Bullets. Scott wound up the Royals' season with 23 points.

76ers Crush San Diego By 159-131

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Archie Clark, Wally Jones, and Billy Cunningham combined for 60 points Sunday night as the Philadelphia 76ers set a Spectrum-floor record by crushing San Diego 159-131 in a National Basketball Association game.

The old record was 143 points by the 76ers in 1968. It was also the most points ever scored by a Philadelphia team.

The 76ers had scored 158 points at Convention Hall before moving into the Spectrum.

Philadelphia opened up a 14-point lead at the end of the first period and built up a 32-point margin, 61-30, with six minutes remaining in the second quarter. The half ended with the 76ers in front, 77-52.

San Diego made one attempt at a comeback, cutting its deficit to 96-88, but then Philadelphia built its lead back up to 111-94 entering the final quarter. The 76ers led by as much as 29 points midway in the last period.

Clark finished with 36 points to lead the 76ers, who got 20 from Jones and 21 from Cunningham. Elvin Hayes led the losers with 27.

Hunt Backs Dallas Bid For Pilots

DALLAS (UPI) — Millionaire sports owner Lamar Hunt said Sunday he is not seriously contemplating buying the Dallas-Fort Worth area landing the American League's Seattle Pilots franchise.

Hunt, who with Tommy Mercer of Fort Worth, operates a minor league baseball franchise midway between the two cities, said, "I can't really say anything other than we just plan to be there" at an American League meeting in Oakland Tuesday.

At a meeting Sunday, Hunt and Mercer told Seattle Pilot majority stock holder William Daley sell the club to interests in Milwaukee or Dallas-Fort Worth.

"Tommy Mercer and I and some others plan to go there to represent our interests and our area and see if we can't get the thing worked out," Hunt said from his Dallas home.

"We've been there so often we really have no tactics," Hunt said in reference to at least two past failures to get a franchise.

"I'd say I'm just cautiously more optimistic than before because they made the announcement that they're leaving Seattle."

"I've seen the people in this area get carried away before and I'll wait until we get it before celebrating."

"Besides Mercer, Hunt said plans were to take an attorney to look into a couple of others in the area, including Tommy Vandergriff, the mayor of the Arlington suburb in which the stadium that would house the new franchise is located, might go along, but Hunt said he was still deciding who would go.

Hunt and Mercer have refrained from asking for help from the civic "wheels" in the Dallas-Fort Worth area in all of their previous major league dealings but the Dallas Sports Commission has offered its full cooperation.

Commission chairman Field Scovell said, "We're behind them 100 per cent and have offered to help in any way possible. But so far we haven't been asked for help."

Hunt said the Arlington-based Turnpike Stadium could be expanded from 10,000 seats to 22,000 to 25,000 by opening day 1970, then enlarged to 30,000 by the 1971 season.

Hunt said his group has not talked about the name of the new club but said it would be called "Dallas-Fort Worth." He said it definitely would not be called the "Texans," the name of one of the American Football League clubs that later was moved to Kansas City after losing an attendance struggle with the National Football League Dallas Cowboys. The club became the Chiefs, now Super Bowl champions.

Niekro Has Emergency Operation

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Braves' knuckleballer Phil Niekro, a 23-game winner last season, underwent an emergency appendectomy here Sunday afternoon.

Niekro came through the operation "OK," reported team physician Dr. Harry Rogers.

"It was serious but everything turned out fine," Rogers continued. "He'll stay in the hospital four or five days but probably will be up and walking by tonight."

Rogers said Niekro may be a week or two late getting started on spring training. The Braves' pitchers and catchers are scheduled to report to their spring camp in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., on Feb. 17 and the rest of the squad a week later, on Feb. 24.

Rogers said the 30-year-old Niekro telephoned him Sunday morning complaining of stomach pain. He said he had Niekro meet him at Crawford W. Long Hospital and rushed him immediately into surgery.

Boston Dumps Penguins 3-1

BOSTON (UPI) — Fred Stanfield's 27th goal Sunday night helped Boston comeback 3-1 win over Pittsburgh and expanded Bruins domination of expansion teams through 21 games.

Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's leading scorer, got his 14th goal of the season with just 14 seconds remaining when he hit the Pittsburgh net after the Penguins had pulled their goalie in a desperate catchup try.

Stanfield's tally, his 17th cracked a 1-1 tie that had existed from the first period on a goal by 21 seconds by the Penguins. Bryan Hextall and an equalizer came 16 minutes later by Bruins defenseman Don Awrey.

Pittsburgh's Bryan Watson was off on a holding penalty when Stanfield converted Phil Esposito's pass to beat goalie Joe Daley with the winner. It was Boston's 4th power play goal and the 8th this season by Stanfield.

Maravich Can Become All-Time Leader In Scoring This Week

ATLANTA (UPI) — This could be the week that Louisiana State's Pete Maravich becomes No. 1 on college basketball's all-time career scoring list.

The unbeaten Kentucky Wildcats whipped LSU 109-98 Saturday but "Pistol Pete" poured in 65 points to raise his 1-2-year career total to 2,003 and vault over Elvin Hayes (2,000) into the No. 2 spot.

Now only the "Big O," Oscar Robertson (2,973), stands between Maravich and his goal. LSU will be host to defensively-minded Tennessee; the one team which has consistently curtailed "Pistol Pete." Monday and then hosts Ole Miss next Saturday.

Tennessee, which beat Alabama 103-67 Saturday, has allowed Maravich only 21, 17, 21 and 20 points in the four times he's played against the Volunteers last half his career average (44.7 ppg) each time.

But Pete scored 49 points in his last outing against Ole Miss last March 1 and the way he's been going this season should be able to get the 69 points he needs in the two games to pass Robertson.

In addition to Maravich's scoring bid, attention this week is focused on Tuesday night's game at Tallahassee, Fla., where Florida State will be host to 6th-ranked Jacksonville (Fla.) University (13-0). That's the game which should show whether the towering Dolphins, whose front three men average seven feet in height, are really as good as their ranking.

Maravich, who now has 619 points in 13 games, is well ahead of both his record-setting sophomore (43.8 ppg) and junior (44.2 ppg) pace with a current scoring average of 47.6 ppg.

Buhl Indians Take Skein To Burley Gym Tuesday

The Buhl Indians, getting stronger by the game, take the unpredictable Burley Tuesday night in the feature of a five-game Magic Valley schedule which will also see Oakley take on Hansen at Hansen.

In the other games, Valley is at Declo, Hagerman treks to Carey to meet the overtimed Laredo Panthers, and the Murtough Red Devils journey to Castletford.

Buhl, in winning its fourth straight SCIC game Saturday night, did it in impressive fashion against always-tough Wood River. That 65-61 victory in overtime — wasn't as close as it looked because Buhl had enjoyed the lead for virtually the entire ballgame.

Burley meanwhile, in its only contest of the weekend, fell to a strong Blackfoot Bronco squad in Blackfoot 70-69. In that tilt Mike Kloepper connected for 24 points.

The last time Hansen and Oakley got together it ended 87-50 for the Hornets. Oakley tramped Rater River 76-50 in its only weekend outing, while Hansen put on an impressive offensive performance in dumping arch-rival Kimberly for the third straight time, 83-67. Hansen must get the same all-around scoring from the entire starting five to challenge the hour-crashing Hornets, who now own a 10-1 record.

Valley and Declo appear headed for an offensive battle on the Hornets floor. Friday night the Hornets came back strong in the final quarter but counted overhaul Murtough and fell 62-50.

Valley defeated the scrappy Shoshone Indians 63-54 Saturday night as Larry Richman broke loose in the last couple of minutes.

Carey's Panthers, after playing six on-ice games in the first two games, got a much-needed rest Saturday. Friday night the Northside loop pace-setters edged by Dietrich in four overtimes, 57-52. Hagerman's Pirates bent Richfield 69-33 in their last game.

Murtough goes into its tilt with Castelford with a fine 10-2 record, including in that the narrow win over Declo. Castelford fell to Rockland Friday night.

Aubrey Will Replace Iba At O-State

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Sam E. Aubrey, in his 16th season at Oklahoma State University, will be named to replace Henry Iba as Cowboy basketball coach, United Press International learned Sunday.

The formal announcement will be made at the regular meeting of the regents for Oklahoma A&M colleges in the first week of February.

Aubrey, who played college ball for the Oklahoma A&M Aggies before the name was changed to OSU and helped them win their second NCAA championship in the 1956-57 season, does the major part of OSU's recruiting.

The sharp shooter came to OSU from Tulsa Central in 1941 and was an all-Missouri Valley selection.

During World War II he saw service in Europe as a lieutenant and was wounded in Italy when a rifle bullet shattered his left hip. He was hospitalized one year and told he could never play basketball again.

Within a few weeks after discharge, he was on the court at Stillwater and was a big contributor to the NCAA championship.

Aubrey has been the personal choice of Iba since he began thinking of retirement.

He was both freshman coach and an IBA assistant until 1964 when the Cowboys hired Doyle Perrack as freshman coach.

Pro Football Draft Will Start Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Representatives of pro football's 26 teams began to gather in New York Sunday for the annual player draft of college players scheduled for Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Pittsburgh will have first choice in the draft, the order of which was determined by inversion of the final standings. The Steelers, who finished third with Chicago at 1-13 for the worst record in the pros, won a coin toss to choose first.

Green Bay swapped three players for Chicago's choice and will draft second, followed by Miami, Boston, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Francisco, New Orleans, Denver, Atlanta and the New York Giants. Houston has the No. 14 choice, followed by San Diego, Green Bay, San Francisco (using a choice obtained from Washington), Baltimore, Detroit, the New York Jets, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Dallas, Oakland, Minnesota and the World Champion Kansas City Chiefs.

Minnesota and Kansas City, the Super Bowl teams, are the only exceptions to the inverse order of the draft.

The annual two-day affair will consist of 17 rounds. A 15-minute time limit will be in effect for the first two rounds and five minutes per choice will be allowed thereafter.

Yancey Holds Off Charging Jack Nicklaus For Crosby Golf Title

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Bo Yancey, who led from the start, held off charging Jack Nicklaus in a near head-to-head fight Sunday to win the $150,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament with a closing three-under-par 68.

Caddy Doesn't Show Up With Clubs—Casper Disqualified

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Casper, who was having his troubles as things were, was disqualified from playing in the final round of the $150,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament Sunday when his caddy failed to show up in time with his equipment.

Barry Leads Caps Past Miami

MIAMI (UPI)—Washington's Rick Barry led the Capitals to a 13-10 victory over the Miami Flyers in the first game of the National Hockey League association game Sunday night.

National Pro-Am Golf Tournament with a closing three-under-par 68. Nicklaus, playing in his first month layoff, shot a final round of 72 to finish at 378.

Yancey credited two good days of fine weather and playing conditions as well as luck for his victory. "I made some good shots and a lot of my bad shots turned out good, too," said Yancey in describing his third and fourth rounds over Pebble Beach.

It was a fine round but could have been even better had long holes not fallen in. Bobby Nichols and Howie Johnson had closing round 70: to tie for third at 283. The 284 group was made up of four players—defending Crosby champion George Athey (73), Paul Hurney (71), Don Massengale (74) and John Jacobs (80).

Palmer blew a final round 70 on the way up far back in the field at 202. Casper, who joined Palmer in the millionaires bracket two weeks ago by winning the Los Angeles Open, was disqualified before play even started Sunday. He was due to teoff at 11:30 a.m. but failed to appear because his caddy missed the teoff time.

U.S. Open Champ—Orville Moody wound up at 203, three strokes behind PGA champ Ray Floyd. The victory was the 31-year-old Yancey's second. On the other hand, Nicklaus has won two championships and his earnings now stand at $1,010,824 which puts Jack in second place behind Palmer and Casper.

West Shoots Lakers Past Suns 118-106

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry West started slowly, but scored 20 of his 35 points in the last half, to pace the strapping Los Angeles Lakers to a 118-106 triumph Sunday night over the Phoenix Suns.

Gov. Kirk's Efforts Are Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court rejected today efforts of Florida Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. to delay the Feb. 1 deadline for school desegregation ordered in the South.

The 5-4 majority opinion, written by Chief Justice Warren, said the deadline on Jan. 14 for 14 southern school districts, including Bay and Alachua counties, Fla.

Kirk said his state is unable, physically or financially, to cope with the changes necessary to keep the court's schedule.

Kirk, in a petition he personally filed, said Florida has been planning to achieve total desegregation by next fall and has never tried to block progress towards this goal as long as possible.

The state itself was not a party to the series of cases decided on Jan. 14. They were brought by Negro parents or by the Justice Department against 11 state school boards in five states: Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida.

Five days after the ruling, Kirk asked for permission to become a party to the case and he asked the court to reconsider.

In addition to turning down Kirk's requests, the court also denied petitions for reconsideration filed by the school boards of Bay and Alachua counties.

The brief order, as its customary practice, gave no explanation of the court's actions.

No action was announced on a separate lawsuit filed Friday by Kirk directly in the high court urging equal standards all over the country for school desegregation in the Florida government named all 40 other states as defendants in that action.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Common stocks, unsatisfactory as they have been over the past year, are the only sensible refuge for long-term investment desiring a degree of liquidity, Hoppin Bros. & Co. believes. With the exception of the high-flying glamour stocks of late 1969, most issues "have had their blood-bath during the past few months so that present estimates of their long-term risks and rewards are probably reflected in their price levels with fair accuracy," the firm says.

When the long-awaited economic downturn finally makes its appearance it will undoubtedly prove constructive for investors, Argus Research Corp. says. Though any strong rebound of equities probably will be delayed until monetary policy eases and the bond market rallies, the stock market is not likely to decline much further. The firm recommends active accumulation in areas of the market where outlays are going to be well sustained or where share prices have been knocked down to bargain levels.

A stock that is down is not necessarily a bargain, Flor. Bullard & Smyth points out. The "real bargain" are those companies that will be able to achieve earnings growth of 10 to 30 per cent or more in a tough economic climate. The firm cautions against "following the crowd" into the so-called "hot groups" or stocks with high price-earnings ratios, as these can create quick, substantial losses.

The market's action suggests that investors already have largely discounted the slow-down now beginning to show up in retail markets, personal income gains, factory orders, and industrial production, Goodbody & Co. says. Monetary policy is likely to remain substantially unchanged over the next few weeks and the market will probably be confronted with a number of earnings disappointments. The firm expects the market to remain in a trading range between 770 and 820 on the Dow Industrial index.

Red Cross Chapter Sets Buhl Meeting

BUIH—Mike Moriarty, Boise, field representative for the American National Red Cross, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Buih Chapter Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Buih City Hall civic room.

Moriarty will discuss Red Cross activities and plans for the Buih Chapter in the coming year.

A native of Denver, the newly assigned field representative is a graduate of the University of Colorado which he attended on a baseball scholarship. He was a full-time employee at Public Service Utilities Corporation while a student in school.

While a resident of Colorado, he was active in "Operation Breadbasket" and other sportsman clubs and groups. For the past year he has been assigned to the Red Cross staff of Fort Ord, Calif.

Moriarty is active in the Buih Chapter and a member of the board of the Cystic Fibrosis Chapter.

Don Kohntopp, present chapter chairman, will conduct the meeting. A nominating committee report will be made and the annual report of the chapter on the board will be announced. There are six holdover directors on the board.

A finance report by Jerry Wray on the recent fund campaign will be given along with an annual report of the chapter. Meeting is open to the entire membership of the Buih Red Cross Chapter and any interested persons are invited to attend.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—Brown Company has paid no preferred dividend since 1968. When dividends accumulate a year, they ever paid? Should these shares be held?—M.K.

A—After a series of quarterly losses Brown Company negotiated the sale of its Canadian subsidiary and several other operations. Proceeds from these sales were used in part to meet debt and interest obligations. Under terms of these loans, annual loan repayment of $3.75 million must be earned in the preceding fiscal year before preferred dividends are distributed. On this basis it will be some time before the dividends resumed and the $2.1 million in arrears is repaid.

Preferred stockholders voting as a class can, upon default of six quarterly dividends (five have already been passed), elect two company directors. This puts Gulf & Western in a position to elect two of the five members of the board and the $2.1 million in arrears is repaid.

Hold only if you can afford risk.

Q—I have held Stauffer Chemical through the recent decline and seen my investment lose about one third of its value. Many reports on the industry are negative, but I feel the low price has already discounted this. Should I sell?—J.R.

A—You have actually answered your own question but apparently don't trust your judgment. Now trading near the bottom of both its cyclic swings and earnings multiple, Stauffer's shares have discounted much of the uncertainty surrounding the chemical industry.

Long a leading industrial and agricultural chemical producer, Stauffer is placing increasing emphasis on higher margin specialty chemicals and plastics. To this end two firms were acquired and jointly owned company formed in recent years. While 1969 results will probably closely duplicate those of 1968, prospects for the 1970s are expanded.

Shooting Investigated

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI)—Police Lt. Larry Hultz said investigators into the apparent murder-suicide of a Blackfoot family of five will be completed today and turned over to County Coroner Carl Staley.

Hultz identified the victims as Gary Powell, 36, his wife, Verla Ann, 33, and three children, Lisa, 8, Christina, 3, and Stephen, 1. Blingham County Prosecuting Attorney Tom Moss said Sunday he plans to hold an inquest into the shooting.

Hultz said they were shot with high powered rifle by their father, who moments later turned the firearm on himself.

The two girls, Christina and Lisa, were found sprawled in the bathroom of their home in downtown Blackfoot. Gary Powell lay dead in the hall adjacent to the bathroom, clutching the apparent murder weapon.

—ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI)—Former Czechoslovak Communist leader Alexander Dubcek arrived in Istanbul Sunday to take up the post as his country's ambassador to Turkey.

WOMEN SERVING IN THE AIR Force now have a new hat and Sherry S. Ballard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Ballard, Bull, is seen here wearing one. Inspecting the hat is Twin Falls Air Force Recruiter S. Sgt. Bill Donnelly. The hat is a blue beret. There was some controversy about issuing such hats to women but in the end, Sgt. Donnelly said with a smile, "The women won." Airman Ballard is home on leave at the present time and will go to Plattsburgh Air Force Base in New York for duty. She graduated from recruit training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas recently.

Q—Brown Company has paid no preferred dividend since 1968. When dividends accumulate a year, they ever paid? Should these shares be held?—M.K.

A—After a series of quarterly losses Brown Company negotiated the sale of its Canadian subsidiary and several other operations. Proceeds from these sales were used in part to meet debt and interest obligations. Under terms of these loans, annual loan repayment of $3.75 million must be earned in the preceding fiscal year before preferred dividends are distributed. On this basis it will be some time before the dividends resumed and the $2.1 million in arrears is repaid.

Preferred stockholders voting as a class can, upon default of six quarterly dividends (five have already been passed), elect two company directors. This puts Gulf & Western in a position to elect two of the five members of the board and the $2.1 million in arrears is repaid.

Hold only if you can afford risk.

Q—I have held Stauffer Chemical through the recent decline and seen my investment lose about one third of its value. Many reports on the industry are negative, but I feel the low price has already discounted this. Should I sell?—J.R.

A—You have actually answered your own question but apparently don't trust your judgment. Now trading near the bottom of both its cyclic swings and earnings multiple, Stauffer's shares have discounted much of the uncertainty surrounding the chemical industry.

Long a leading industrial and agricultural chemical producer, Stauffer is placing increasing emphasis on higher margin specialty chemicals and plastics. To this end two firms were acquired and jointly owned company formed in recent years. While 1969 results will probably closely duplicate those of 1968, prospects for the 1970s are expanded.

Wanted several trucks owned by the Island Empire Show signs reported to Twin Falls City Police over the week-end.

Windscreens from four trucks were broken by BB guns and signs were taken. A directional sign and a control for an electric brake also were taken. The trucks are parked at DeLoan Street and Blake Street.

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

SOUTH SHOT DOWN ON TRUMP DRAW

Oswald: "It is remarkable that so few bridge players really know the correct technical play with ordinary card combinations. South, ruffed the third heart, cashed his ace of spades, king and finally paused to do some thinking when West was unkind enough to fall to produce a second trump."

Jim: "I can see that this late thought couldn't help him."

Oswald: "It did help him a trifle. He decided to play the rest of the trumps in the hope that East would not hold a fourth heart. East did hold that fourth heart, so South was down one. Other lines of play would have left him down two."

Jim: "I suppose he complained about his bad luck."

Northward: "Why not? Suits break 3-2 some 68 per cent of the time. On the other hand, it is too bad he didn't know the correct way to play this type of hand."

Jim: "If he had played out his ace and queen of spades first, he would have been able to handle the 4-1 spade break. He could then proceed to lead clubs and East could trump in whenever he wished to do so. The king of spades would then be an entry to dummy for the rest of the club suit."

Oswald: "Assuming that spades broke 3-2, this way of playing spades would be no different from any other."

Jim: "In rubber bridge, if spades did break 3-2, a careful declarer should find ten insurance ducking one club. In duplicate, he would ignore this final safety play and go after the overtrick, but in any form of game, he should have played trumps the way we pointed out."

Gossipy People Are Believed To Be Well-Balanced Types

A TV LIGHTING TECHNICIAN insists blonde hair makes a woman on camera look slimmer. IF THE SMELL of cigarettes turns you off, young lady, you might get out a saucer of vinegar. That cuts the smoke odor. A FEMINE SUBSCRIBER, who asks not to be fully identified, says her true first name is Maria. A Somebody SAN FRANCISCO psychiatrist contends people who like to gossip are the most well-balanced of individuals, and if you'll lean close I'll whisper the fellow's name. AVERAGE AGE of married men nationwide is 43, of married women 39.

TO SERVE THE PUBLIC — So you're thinking about opening a store of your own, are you? Excellent. But do you know how many potential customers you'll need to make it pay? Neither I nor two home experts have come up with estimates in that matter. A grocery store, they say, can make it even in a town of only 550 people, but a toy store needs about 75,000 people. Otherwise: A restaurant 750. Pharmacy, 1,250. Bakery, 2,500. Hardware, 2,750. Shoes, 3,500. Women's clothing 4,500. Jewelry, 6,000. Florist, 8,000. Appliances, 9,000. Sporting goods, 50,000. Photo supplies 65,000.

WHY AREN'T I'd e walk painted with dividing lines for window shoppers, strollers and fast walkers? That's what asked. Am now informed the sidewalks of Sydney, Australia, are marked off in this manner. MY FATHER-IN-LAW, E. E. Strange, now vacationing on the Texas Gulf Coast, writes:

"Down here we catch a lot of fish we don't want, throw them out on the beach, and the cows eat them up." Think of that! Fish-eating cows.

CUSTOMER SERVICE — "Who eats the most potatoes, the Irish?" A. The Poles do.

Q. "WHO FIRST SAID, 'To keep you happy, keep their harefoot'?" A. Somebody called Dr. Herzler, that's all you know. Q. "I'M AWARE most Americans drink, but how many of them drink regularly?" A. About two out of five.

ROYALTY — A client asks if Queen Isabella, the lady who financed Mr. Christopher Columbus, was thought to be particularly attractive. Maybe she had a certain aromatic appeal, who knows? In her later years Isabella made a public pronouncement of the fact she only had one or two teeth in her life — on the day she was born and on the day she got married. However, at the time a good clean queen was a rarity.

WITH A LITTLE experience, Aquarians tend to develop into remarkable smooth operators, says our Planet man. Both Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt were Aquarians, incidentally.
