Nixon Proposal To Boost Safeguard Missile Plans Draws Stiff Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's proposal to expand the Safeguard antiballistic missile system to protect against Chinese nuclear attack drew stiff criticism on Capitol Hill Saturday, along with vows to renew the fight against it.

Mansfield told newsmen he expected "another great debate" in the Senate comparable to last year's, after which the initial two-site phase of the ABM was approved on a tie vote, 50 to 50.

Feelings were mixed as to whether ABM opponents would be stronger or weaker this year. The beginning of arms control talks with the Soviet Union and a feeling of party loyalty in an election year could increase backing for Nixon's proposal.

Church Group Told Of Racism In Idaho

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News Valley Editor

There is just as much racism in Idaho, including Twin Falls, as there is in any big city.

with whom you would have to work would treat you unkindly?"

Marcos Cites Red 'Rebels' For Violence

MANILA (UPI)—President Ferdinand E. Marcos, warning of a Communist attempt to seize the government, blamed Maoist revolutionaries Saturday for leading riots outside the presidential palace in which five persons were killed and 150 others injured.

Marcos ordered federal troops into the capital to patrol the streets. Soldiers armed with machine guns guarded the presidential palace, where Friday night a mob tried to smash into the building and burn it.

Strike Halts All Flights Of Airline

MIAMI (UPI)—National Airlines cancelled 450 flights serving 43 U.S. cities Saturday after a Communist-inspired plot in a special radio and television broadcast.

The strike directly involved reservationists, clerks, ramp attendants and equipment operators, but other employees were honoring the picket lines.

Clear Trail

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—A mysterious trail of 30,000 red waxed arrows and capsules led from a farm near Arcadia to a gravel dump recently.

The trail was left when the bed of a rubbish truck carrying the pills was ripped open by a large heavy object which had been compressed by the truck's machinery.

African King Deposed By Top Minister

MASERU, Lesotho (UPI)—The black prime minister of Lesotho, who approves South African aid, deposed the king from power Saturday and began arresting political opponents and ruling by decree.

The prime minister, Chief Leabua Jonathan, earlier had ordered the king to leave the country after the king's former British African colony and also canceled the results of last Tuesday's congressional elections that the opposition apparently had won.

Hot-Line Helps Avert Mideast War

LONDON (UPI)—The London Sunday Telegraph said Saturday night the telephone "hot line" between Moscow and Washington was used last week to avert a "now war" in the Middle East.

In a front page dispatch from Beirut, the Telegraph's early Sunday edition said President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt notified the Russian ambassador in Cairo after the Israeli occupation of the Sinai Peninsula on Jan. 22 that Egypt planned a "major counter-attack."

Triicia Stricken By Measles 'Bug'

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—Triicia Nixon, 4-year-old daughter of the president and her mother, was confined to the Florida White House Saturday suffering from measles.

The President's daughter flew to the family's Key Biscayne home a week ago in an attempt to shake a lingering case of the flu.

Court Bans Rail Strike

Magic Valley Railroad Men Still On Job

No trains were running through Magic Valley Saturday, but employees were working as usual in depots in Shoshone, Twin Falls, Rupert, Burley, Minidoka and Glenns Ferry.

In Twin Falls, the Saturday a.m. beet train from Filer to the Amtrak Sugar Co. factory did not arrive. Bob Day, plant manager, said the non-arrival of the train did "spoil the schedule," but did not prevent any great problems since the company also ships beets by motor carrier and continued to do so Saturday.

Employees at the Shoshone depot, who number about 25, were working as usual Saturday morning. He pointed out that the stoppage of trains will create real passenger problems in big cities, such as Chicago.

No trains were running on the U.P. line through Rupert and Minidoka as a result of the strike called at 11 p.m. Friday by the Machinists Union, according to the ticket agent at Minidoka.

Federal Action Sought

By United Press International
A federal court ordered unions and management Saturday night to keep the trains running for 10 more days to give Congress a chance to take whatever action it felt necessary to avert a threatened nationwide rail shutdown.

Management had ordered a full lockout of railroad workers — first in the industry's history — by 10 p.m. EST Saturday.

Each side had filed suit seeking restraining orders against the other. The unions' chief spokesman indicated he would order his men back to work on the Union Pacific line, where pickets were posted late Friday night.

The railroads had said previously they would lift the lockout threat at least temporarily if the unions removed their Union Pacific pickets.

During Nixon's hearing, President Nixon was reported to have been preparing to ask Congress to step in, and transportation Secretary John A. Volpe announced plans to arrange alternative forms of shipment of vital defense and public health goods.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount furthermore had urged against mailing of parcel post, newspapers and third class mail more than 150 miles until the dispute was settled.

Sirica said his orders to both sides did not represent a judgment of the merits of the case for either side.

$11 Million Lawsuit Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An $11 million lawsuit was filed Friday against operators of a mammoth speedway who had cancelled a free concert by the Rolling Stones.

The concert was cancelled on the day it was scheduled to start. The concert was switched to a small speedway east of Oakland and drew 300,000 rock fans. The concert was marred by four deaths, including the fatal stabbing of Meredith Hunter, 21, of Oakland.

Trial Of Suit To Halt City's Annexation Of Area Scheduled To Start Here Monday

The city is prepared to do battle starting Monday but only if it is not a "struck" will be "varied."

The case will be the Fifth District Court in the Twin Falls judicial annex and the issue at hand is the annexation of two parcels of land by the Twin Falls City Council last December.

$296,734; One Life Lost In Twin Falls Fires During '69

Twin Falls recorded the heaviest fire loss this past year since 1965 and a fireman lost his life while on duty, which was a first in the history of the department.

The losses were tallied in a year-end report submitted by I. Z. (Zeke) Bartlett, fire chief. The estimated loss of buildings, contents and miscellaneous articles to fire in 1969 amounted to $296,734. Chief Bartlett points out $170,000 of this total was due to the Penny-Wise Drug fire in the spring in which Fireman Roy Parker lost his life. The total loss in 1965 was $403,682, most of which was incurred during the Rogerson Hotel fire.

Estimated total losses in other recent years were: 1968, $130,620; 1967, $113,004, and 1966, $39,200.

The fire department used 27,473 feet of hose in fighting the fires and 872 feet of ladder. There were 1,422 on-shift firemen responding to fires and 99 off-shift. A total of 3.3 miles were traveled by the four engines.

Company A attended 329 hours of fire school; Company B, 332 hours, and Company C, 332 hours.

There were 878 regular fire inspections and 83 inspections. Eighty-seven complaints were checked. There were 164 verbal recommendations made for extinguishing equipment and 143 recommendations for corrections or improvements. Some 245 gas permits were issued and a total of $1,000 in fees collected.

Accused In Drug Case Stands Mute

Dennis Tubbs, charged with the illegal sale of LSD, was arraigned in Fifth District Court Friday.

He remained mute when asked to enter a plea to the charges, and Judge Theron Ward entered a plea of innocent for the defendant. A trial will be scheduled in the future, it was reported.

Mr. Tubbs is free on $3,000 bond at the present time.

In other court action Friday, Ronald Massie, charged with issuing an insufficient funds check for $10, entered a guilty plea. Judge Ward ordered a presentence investigation.

Mr. Massie is free on his own recognizance pending the report.

Navy Recruiter Tells Of Push On Enlistments

The local Navy recruiting station still has "lots of openings left" in its enlistment program, according to Chief Ron Jennings.

Those enlisting now do not have to be 18 years of age if they have parental consent, he said and there is no waiting list for enlistments from this area.

Previous ranks also can be reinstated for Navy men who have been out of the service for less than four years.

Advanced pay grades also are available in the Sea Bees, Chief Jennings said, and there is a need for mechanics, welders, builders and utilitymen.

Radio Team President Is Named

Walt Milda was elected president of the Citizens Band Alert Team during a recent meeting.

He will succeed Sgt. Clarence Fulton, who is reporting for duty in Vietnam Feb. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Mitchell and Terry Williams were accepted as new members of the unit.

The next regular monthly meeting will be at 8 p.m. Feb. 24 at the National Guard Armory. There were 19 members and guests present at the meeting. The group recently gave a C. B. Coffee Break for Sgt. and Mrs. Fulton. Mrs. Fulton will live in Othello, Wash., after her husband reports for overseas assignment.

Contractors' Installation Set Monday

The Building Contractors Association of Magic Valley will hold its first installation banquet Monday at the Turf Club.

O. J. Smith, managing editor of the Times-News, will be an honored guest. Officials of the builders group said the Times-News is being thanked for its coverage of the Parade of Homes in fall.

The association was formed last March and the Parade of Homes was held in September. More than 10,000 people viewed the new homes, built by members of the association.

To be installed at Monday's meeting will be Carl Schuler, president; Bob Wills, first vice president; Alex Brehm, second vice president, and Lyle Frazier, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the board of directors are Jack Reddick, Charles Perry, Bill Cooper, Elmer Little, Bob Brehm, Paul Shetler and Robert-Ulman. Warren Barry will be master of ceremonies.

Purchase Of Dried Goods Announced

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special to the Times-News) — Sen. Len Jordan said the Department of Agriculture has purchased 800,000 cases of dried mashed potatoes from firms in Idaho and Washington.

The potatoes are to be given to the needy in the United States, he reported.

Idaho firms from which the government purchased goods were Rogers Brothers Co. of Rexburg; Idaho Fresh Packing Inc., of Lewisville, and Rogers Brothers of Idaho Falls.

Defendant Is Bound Over

Dan J. Stoddard, 34, Idaho Falls, arrested by Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies two weeks ago, was ordered bound over to Fifth District Court Friday to face a charge of illegal possession of marijuana.

He appeared in a preliminary hearing Friday before Probate Court Judge Eugene McCoy. Mr. Stoddard is being held in the Twin Falls County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Court Clogging

One contributor to the congestion of court calendars is an interminable appellate procedure in criminal matters. Convicts are permitted as many appeals as they or their lawyers can construct on what is often frivolous reasoning. One such case recently found its way to the U. S. Supreme Court, though it's difficult to figure out how it ever got there. The sole issue was whether the defendant in a California murder case has been denied due process and equal protection of the laws because the state had furnished to him and a co-defendant only one copy of the trial transcript, instead of one each. This bit of casuistry occurred to the defendant some seven years after he had been convicted and the conviction upheld on merits. A U. S. Supreme Court majority refused to reach the question whether the defendant had a constitutional right to his own copy of the transcript. But then instead of throwing the case out, it sent it back to the District Court to see if a copy can't be found for him. Justice Black dissented and it is in his words that a sane assessment of the unending appellate process can be found. To Justice Black, the defendant had not raised "any claims which indicate in the slightest that he had been convicted of a crime of which he is innocent." He scored the appeal as just "another of the multitudinous instances in which courts are asked interminably to hash and rehash points that have already been determined after full deliberation and review." "Few laymen would quarrel with Justice Black's assertion that 'one considered appeal is enough, in the absence of factors which show a possibility that a substantial injustice has been inflicted on the defendant.'" If the courts adopted such a policy, justice for every litigant, both civil and criminal, would be speeded up, and the public would be assured that questions of substance, not trivia, occupied the attention and talents of the nation's judges.

Environment

Another old saying stands in need of revision. It is becoming increasingly evident that "everybody" is not merely talking about the weather. Wittingly or unwittingly, we ARE doing something about it—and what we are doing is for the most part alarming. According to the Wall Street Journal, meteorologists have established a definite correlation between production in the big steel mills in Gary, Ind., with rainfall in LaPorte, 30 miles downwind. The correlation is so precise that when steel output goes up in Gary, rain, triggered by smoke from the mills, comes down in LaPorte. Between 1946 and 1967, LaPorte averaged 19 inches more precipitation than did stations upwind of the mills. A similar effect has been noted in Belleville, Ill., 10 miles downwind of St. Louis. The National Pollution Control Administration predicts eventual death for 750,000 trees on six nurseries near Oakland, Md., because of sulphur dioxide fumes from nearby power plants and a paper mill. On the West Coast, the U.S. Forest Service reports that automobile exhaust pollution from Los Angeles is slowly killing 1.2 million trees in the San Bernardino National Forest. The death of so many trees could have profound and unpredictable effects on climate. It was not by chance that President Nixon's first official act in the new decade was to establish a three-member White House Council on Environmental Quality. "It is literally now or never" for the nation to reclaim the purity of its air, its waters and its living environment, said the President as he signed the legislation. The accumulating evidence suggests he was not guilty of exaggeration.

MR. SPECTATOR

Through The Windshield

People — people drivers, that is — still seem to like the thrill of putting their head through the windshield or into the dash board in case of an accident. Statistics based on 207 fatal accidents involving drivers or passengers in Idaho during 1969 indicate that 94 per cent of the victims did not use seat belts. It is estimated that better than 50 per cent of those killed would be alive today if they had used their seat belts. By this, we mean, that after the initial crash is the second collision. In other words, after the initial impact, unless a person is anchored to his seat, it is highly probable that his body will collide with the windshield and other interior areas of the car or he will be ejected from the vehicle. The members of the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission found that in the initial 207 fatalities in Idaho last year, 59 per cent of those involved were ejected from their car because they did not use the seat belts. In no instance — at least in the last two years — do the records show that in a fatal accident, has an individual been ejected from his vehicle when wearing a seat belt. Actually, there were 331 people killed in auto accidents in Idaho during 1969 but the study made by the Commission involved the initial 207 because of the time element. Really, no one is assured just how many lives in Idaho would have been saved during 1969 out of the 331 — but if you consider the many small communities in Idaho, you will be able to visualize just how many towns would have been wiped from the map if a disaster had struck all the residents at one time. And there are a lot of towns in Idaho with a population smaller than the number killed in car accidents. If you think, as a driver or passenger, you can beat the law of averages then just continue to drive without your seat belt. The belt is there for use on short trips and long trips. Most accidents, remember, happen within 25 miles of where the victim lives. FREE-FLIGHT JACKET Mr. Spectator does not save stamps or first flight jackets but he received a good one which he would like to give to someone who really wants it. It is from the first commercial flight from New York to London on the Pan-American big Jumbo 747 Jet. The jacket is stamped on front from Jamaica, New York on January 21, 1970 and on the back received at London, England on January 22, 1970. Mr. Spectator will give it to the first person — serious person — asking for it. You can call the Times-News and ask for Mr. Spectator anytime after Monday at 8 a.m. WHO PAYS THE BILL? When Interior Secretary Walter Hickel says "the polluters will have to pay" the cost of cleaning up their pollution, what he really is saying is the consumers who buy the polluters' goods and services will pay the cost. That is as it should be. Either directly through their manufacturing processes, or indirectly through their products, some of the giant industries are responsible for much of the contaminants. The cost of clean-up will be shared by millions of consumers. DAY IN HISTORY In the year 1790 Chief Justice John Jay presided over the first session of the supreme court. And come to think of it, Mr. Spectator's father — whose given names were John Jay — was named after that justice — a few years after that time, of course! GIVEAWAY DEPT: We have a five months old pup, small, female and part Pekingese to give away. WASHINGTON — More macabre violence is being plotted by the berserk Weatherman faction of the revolutionary students for a Democratic Society (SDS). Two characteristic run-amuck outbreaks are contemplated for February. One is aimed at a big university that has been wrecked by SDS-instigated destructive disorders on several occasions. Negro participation is being sought. Particularly wanted are black extremists, especially the gun-toting and shooting-prone Black Panthers. The groundwork for these new outbreaks was laid at the recent four-day meeting of the Weatherman's national council at Flint, Mich. — from which the press and photographers were forcibly excluded. "Violence" was the theme from the beginning to the end of this recurrently guarded gathering. It began on that incendiary note with an obscenity-littered harangue by Bernardine Dohrn, former SDS secretary and equally furious diatribe by John Jacobs, a leading Weatherman agitator. Virtually all the speeches and most of the discussions were replete with the kind of disgusting obscenities favored by extremists — white and black. They seem to consider the frequent and loud use of these putrid expressions as evidence of revolutionary fervor and defiance. This applies to the sloppy women as well as the bushy-haired and unkempt males. In fact, the squallid-females appear to take special delight in the loathsome obscenities. Dohrn's " keynote address" was full of them. The hall was decorated in keeping with the "violence" theme and the revolting obscenities. Hanging from the ceiling were larger portraits of revolutionary rulers and leaders — Ho Chi Minh, Fidel Castro, Che Guevara, Malcolm X, Eldridge Cleaver, the ball-jumping Black Panther official now a fugitive in Algeria. Also hanging from the ceiling was a huge cardboard machine gun, with a placard reading "Learn How To Use It." One wall was covered with alternating black and red posters of another Black Panther leader, Fred Hampton, killed in a shoot-out with police. On another wall was a 20-ft. poster with big drawings of different caliber bullets, with a full description of each. Also on this poster were pictures of Weatherman "enemies" — foremost among them Chicago's Mayor Daley. In the opening fulmination, Bernardine Dohrn clamored for more violence. Derisively she berated her fellow Weatherman for having "(obscurity-obediently) a lot and being 'motivated by a white guilt trip.'" "We didn't fight around Bobby Seale when he was shackled at the conspiracy (Chicago seven) trial," she screeched through the loudspeaker. "We should have torn that (obscen-

ity) courtroom apart. We didn't smash them when the (obscenity) Mobe peace creeps bessed David Hillard on Moratorium Day in San Francisco. We didn't burn Chicago down when (Black Panther) Fred Hillard was killed (in a shoot-out with police)." "We have been (obscenity) wimpy on armed struggle. We talk about being a fighting force alongside the blacks, but a lot of us are still (obscenity) honks and we're still scared of fighting. We have to get into the armed struggle. Violence is our aim and motto." This edict was strictly echoed by Mark Rudd, top Weatherman leader and veteran of numerous disorders and demonstrations. "We look for pitched battles between militant groups and the pigs (police)," he bellowed, "on a scale and with a violence that will make those in the past look like Sunday school picnic. Violence is the way to the revolution." How to go about "making the American revolution" was discussed and argued at great length. More time was devoted to this topic than anything else. Teal Gold, a prominent Weatherman, asserted that "an agency of the people of the world would be set up to run U. S. society and economy after the defeat of U. S. imperialism abroad." This brought a rejoinder from the floor, "Does that mean that if the people of the world succeed in liberating themselves before American radicals make the American revolution, then Chinese, Africans and others will take over here and run things for white America?" "Well," replied Gold, "if it takes fascism to bring about the American revolution, I guess we will have to have fascism." In addition to the violence-lancing harangues and preambles, karate instructions were given by Bill Ayers, another top Weatherman. These lessons were accompanied with such encouraging remarks as, "It is necessary to take up arms and resort to violence in order to fight and destroy the pigs (police)." One whole session was devoted to talks supporting Arab guerrillas and their terrorist attacks on Israel. The latter was denounced as a jockey of U.S. imperialism and war-mongering colonialism. Particularly singled out for acclaim were the Pales-tinian liberation and El Fatah organizations. One panel discussion was on women's liberation. The model woman was portrayed as the type who "will carry bombs under her dress like they did in Algeria." Resorting to a practice com-

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Our Pollution

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Nixon's sharp focus on "environmental control" in his State of the Union address is unprecedented. Never before has a president given such attention to the rising dilemma of air and water pollution. Already some of his critics are branding this as little more than the empty commitment of words. Since many young people are developing high interest in the pollution problem, the President is also said to be seizing this chance to divert them from their long preoccupation with the Vietnam war. No one can say he does not have this partly in mind: But Nixon's associates insist that his concern for the deteriorating American environment is very real. Because of the difficulty of controlling inflation, he must hold back on the money side for awhile. He may not spend all of the $800 million Congress voted this fiscal year to fight pollution. Yet he is pictured as a man who wants to have members tackling the tough new issues of the 1970s — not just getting rid of old ones like the war.

In an interview given to T. George Harris in the magazine, "Psychology Today," Mayer says: "Rich people occupy much more space, consume more of each natural resource, disturb the ecology more, litter the landscape with bottles and paper, and pollute more land, air and water with chemical, thermal and radioactive waste." Maybe his argument is inconceivable up to a point. Yet, until the poisonous wastes of the internal combustion engine and some factory processes began to engulf us, most of the "environment-wrecking" was done to the land. And, while prospering civilizations like ours and those of the ancient Greeks and Romans can be gravely faulted for exploiting the land with too little thought for the future, no serious conservationist stops his indictment there. Ancient Greece ruined itself by ripping off its thick forest cover and exposing the bare land to destructive sleep and landslides. The Romans went down the same road. Spain's land is one great scar. In relatively impoverished 15th-century Italy, however, the forests were still so large and dense they could conceal whole armies. The ravaging of the land has gone on — and still does — in the poor Mediterranean countries. One naturalist says these denuded lands are doomed to exhaustion unless radical change takes place. This specialist says reviving the dead landscape could take thousands of years. In poverty-ridden Africa, the vast Sahara grows wider under land misuse by farmers. China and India, never nations of affluent capitalism, have a terrible history of land waste. So blame belongs not just on governments and corporations and the affluent few in the world. Misuse-of-life-supporting environment is everybody's burden. If we Americans, for starters, are ready to reverse course and pay the incredible costs of restoration, it will be one tremendous miracle. The President is asking.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

About Hanoi's Scenario

WASHINGTON — Behind the stalled Vietnam "peace" talks at Paris, top U.S. diplomats now believe Hanoi is plotting an intricate fight-and-talk strategy designed to put President Nixon under maximum political embarrassment in the 1970 U.S. election campaign. The key ingredient of this Communist effort to exploit political election-year pressure in the U.S. is a peace offensive. Some of President Nixon's strategists now think the Communists will probe in two highly sensitive political spots with these offers: to release all U.S. prisoners of war and to join a standstill ceasefire. No single aspect of the Vietnam war has disturbed the average American so much as the hopeless plight of families who, after months of waiting, still don't know whether the husband or son listed officially as "missing in action" is really dead or a prisoner of war. The total missing-in-action figure is now close to 1,500, and the best estimates available here are that probably two-thirds of them are dead. But the North Vietnamese government has resisted all efforts to identify who is alive and who is in prison camps. Accordingly, a sudden Communist offer not only to identify but to release all prisoners would have a powerful emotional appeal in the U.S. Such an offer could be linked to a ceasefire, the outlines of which can only be dimly perceived here. It might, of course, carry unacceptable conditions — Communist participation in the Saigon government, for instance.

Nevertheless, the mere offer of a ceasefire under almost any conditions would predictably have two immediate consequences here: first, it would provoke a high-volume political reaction in the currently dormant peace bloc; second, it would put Mr. Nixon on the defensive for the first time since his Nov. 3 speech on Vietnam, which has proved so immen-sely successful. The conviction among some of Mr. Nixon's Vietnam experts that the politiburo in Hanoi is plotting just such an election-year embarrassment for Mr. Nixon is strengthened by new evidence that there will be no watchers now believe, will be broken up into small units and trained for guerrilla warfare before they are committed. To attempt a serious Tet offensive at the end of January patterned on the bloody Communist onslaught of 1968 would be to ignore the political possibilities of late spring and summer, when the U.S. Congressional campaign starts to unfold. Other facts also argue against any major offensive during the Tet holidays. For example, the South Vietnamese army is primed to expect an attack there because of the experience of the past two years. That eliminates the vital element of surprise so important in 1968. More important, the U.S. is now withdrawing an additional 30,000 troops from combat with expectations of still more troop-pullouts before summer. That fewer U.S. combat troops left in South Vietnam the better will have to capture targets such as bridges, waterways, and serious Tet offensive this year. Hanoi is now increasing infiltration of troops into South Vietnam, concentrating on the vulnerable Mekong Delta in the far South. But these fresh regulars from the North, Hanoi military outposts and to overrun hamlets and villages. Accordingly, the prospect for Tet is heavy shelling and perhaps one or two showcase attacks, but not a serious offensive that would impede the U.S. withdrawal. The serious Communist offensive will be saved for much later and may be timed to follow a highly attractive ceasefire offer at the Paris negotiations. According to government analysts here, this is the probable scenario by Hanoi: Hanoi would propose a genuine ceasefire taking effect on a certain date. President Nixon, given the congressional elections, would accept. In the intervening time between Hanoi's offer and Washington's acceptance (perhaps three weeks), the Communists would mount their major offensive and take military control of strategic areas. When the standstill ceasefire took effect, they would then hold these areas as bargaining counters in the political struggle to follow. That the strategists in Hanoi think this strategy can work is only because of the 1970 elections in the U.S. In 1968, the Communists exploited the Presidential election to get President Johnson to stop the bombing of the North at minimum cost to Hanoi. In 1970, they are hoping for much more.

Survey Set In Gooding To Determine Area Needs

GOODING — A survey will be conducted in Gooding County to determine in what areas, if any, residents feel economic development is needed.

Concern for needs in many fields of community life was expressed at a meeting this week at the Gooding Courthouse called by the Wood River Resources Area Steering committee, and attended by a cross section of citizens in Gooding County.

Details of how the survey will be conducted have not yet been completed, according to Dorothy Grievie, Gooding County home extension agent, but plans are to give some 200 families opportunity to list possible areas which need improvement through a questionnaire.

Among the subjects discussed at the Gooding meeting were public services, health and safety, employment, natural resources, housing, education, government and recreation.

The survey is the first step toward formation of a pilot project in Gooding County which could be funded by federal grant, providing the survey shows the need and support for an economic community development.

The Wood River Resources Area includes four North Side counties affected by the Wood River watershed, but Gooding County has been selected for a possible pilot project, if community support is indicated, Miss Grievie said.

The planning conference was arranged by the Gooding County extension staff, Ed Knoster, Graham Hooper and Miss Grievie.

Jerome County Budget Stays Within 4 Per Cent Raise

JEROME — The Jerome county budget for 1970 is $427,022, an increase of $7,945 over the 1969 budget which was $419,077, but is well within the four percent increase limitation specified in House Bill 304.

One increase is a $10,000 appropriation for elections, not needed in 1969, which is $2,500 over the $500 appropriated in 1969. A tentative budget for District Court Magistrate for $5,000 is included in this year's budget for the court reform law, which goes into effect in 1971, of this appropriation $1,000 will be used for wages and $4,000 for other expenses.

The proposed budget also includes $5,000 for Refuse Disposal on a cooperative program with the city of Hazelton, concerning improvement of the dumps.

The Assessor's office budget is $20,538, a decrease of $2,600 from 1969's budget of $23,138. The decrease is due to completion of the reappraisal program. A total of $4,456 has been set in the commissioner's budget for 1970, while $8,045 was approved last year and $8,000.15 was actually spent.

The County Extension Agent's budget is set at $11,205, the same as last year. The approved $7,200 is in salaries and $4,005 for other expenses.

A sum of $1885 has been set in the county coroner's budget, with $315 for salaries and $1,570 for other expenses. Last year $1,885 was also budgeted with only $459 spent.

The building and grounds budget is set for $15,150 with $3,650 for wages, $11,500 for other expenses. Last year the budget was $15,910 while $10,847.66 was spent.

The Prosecuting Attorney's budget is proposed at $9,040. This includes $7,040 for wages and $2,000 other expenses. Last year $6,973.03 was spent for wages and $1,785.41 for other expenses.

The Probate Judge's budget is set at $10,977 compared to $10,802 last year. This includes $8,177 for wages and $2,800 for other expenses.

The County Treasurer's budget is set for $14,498 compared to $14,844 last year. Spent last year was $10,687.25 for wages and $3,535.11 for other expenses. This year it calls for $11,448 wages and $3,050 for other expenses.

The County Clerk's budget is proposed at $24,792 compared to $23,842 for last year. Of the amount proposed, $18,232 is for salaries and $3,510 for other expenses. Last year $17,957.88 was spent on wages and $4,895.78 for other expenses.

The proposed budget for the Sheriff is set at $28,482 for 1970 while last year it was approved at $27,426. This includes $16,532 for wages and $11,950 for other expenses. In 1969 $15,086.53 was spent for wages and $7,441.94 for other expenses.

The zoning budget for 1970 is proposed for $2,200, a decrease of $600 from last year's budget of $2,800.

The decrease is because of

Invite you to join Operation Identification

To discourage the theft of personal items of value from homes and other locations, Magic Valley Bonded Police have a program of identification of valuables and notifying potential thieves this action has been taken.

Don't wait till you are burglarized.

We'll give you a sticker for your front window or door which states you have joined OPERATION IDENTIFICATION and your items of value have been marked for ready identification. A thief will hesitate when he sees this because if caught with the goods, he's sunk.

HAS THIS PROGRAM REALLY WORKED TO PREVENT CRIMES? YES, in Southern California, where this was first started, results have been a big success. With nearly 3000 participating homeowners in Monterey Park, Calif., since 1963, only three have been victims of burglaries, and in only one instance identified items were taken. Home burglaries as reported in the Twin Falls paper, Jan. 11, 1970, have doubled in the last year.

WHO ARE THE OWNERS OF MAGIC VALLEY BONDED POLICE? One is a burglar alarm company, a local business for the last one and a half years, one other partner is a man who was a sergeant on the Oakland police force, has taught crime prevention to the Oakland police force, has taught crime prevention to the Oakland police force, with expertise in crime prevention.

Defense Ends Long Ordeal In Chicago Conspiracy Trial

CHICAGO (UPI)—The un-technicality, the defense was unprecedented, sometimes dizzy and often dramatic defense case of the "Chicago Seven" has ended.

'Senseless' Murder Takes Doctor's Life

DETROIT (UPI)—A single shot—and a doctor who had brought life to thousands left it, sprawled on a sidewalk in the black neighborhood he loved and served.

Police called the killing of 49-year-old Dr. Arthur Drayton Harris "wanton and senseless." That did not lessen the shock Friday for Detroit's medical community. Nor did the fact that a 15-year-old Negro youth was being held for his murder ease the fears of Detroit's other black doctors.

"There is this continual feeling of fear," said Dr. Leon Dickinson. "And now—Dr. Harris... nobody had anything but love for him and now he's shot down for no reason at all. Why does it happen?"

Harris, an obstetrician, was cut down from ambush Thursday night as he left a west side drug store, carrying a bottle of soda pop.

Legislative Leaders Plan Conference

BOISE (UPI)—Four Idaho legislative leaders will discuss pollution problems Feb. 7 at an all-day seminar sponsored by the Ada County Democratic Central Committee.

Ernest Day of Boise, a conservation leader and former chairman of the State Parks Board will present a concluding address. The opening speaker will be Burt Trueblood of Homedale, a farmer active in soil conservation work.

'Atom' Camera Peers Inside Containers

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI)—An atomic camera that can detect narcotics in metal containers or in body cavities can peer into bombs or other weapons instruments. A booby trap has been developed by a research scientist.

Announcement of success with the 100-pound portable camera was made by John L. Cannon, a scientist with the Battelle-Northwest Research Agency. He said the device can reveal many things hidden from conventional X-rays.

Bids Asked

SHOSHONE — Bids will be received until 10 a.m. Feb. 9 at the office of Lincoln County Commissioners here for a new 300 six-cylinder three-fourths ton pickup truck.

On Friday, after more than a month and a half of testimony and 113 witnesses chief defense counsel William M. Kunstler announced that, except for a technicality, the defense was finished.

In the more than four months since the trial began that jury has watched some of the most tempestuous events ever to occur in a courtroom, and since the defense case began, one of the most variegated procession of witnesses ever presented in a criminal action.

There were poets, politicians, cultural prophets, folksingers, Now Left ideologues and a member of the British Parliament.

Author Norman Mailer spun metaphors for the jury. Arlo Guthrie sang "Alice's Restaurant," the anthem of the alienated, and an attempt was made to introduce a guitar and antipersonnel bomb into evidence.

The sometimes almost schizophrenic quality of the defense survived personalities and beliefs of the defendants and the defense attorneys' unique conception of courtroom tactics.

Witnesses at the store didn't have to call police. An off-duty officer, Atwood C. Stevenson, was driving by and saw Harris crumple. He also saw four black teenagers fleeing down the drunken street. Stevenson caught two youths after chasing them for several blocks.

Two others were sought Friday.

School Hikes Graduation Requirements

GLENN'S FERRY — Students graduating from the Glenns Ferry High School will have to work harder and earn more credits to receive their diplomas beginning with the class of 1971, according to trustees of School District 102.

Students who are in the junior class this school year must plan to earn 18 credits instead of the present 17 to graduate, and the total will be raised to 20 by 1974, the trustees have ordered.

The action was taken to stimulate students whom the trustees feel have not been "extending themselves academically," and to give additional incentive.

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Penelope, a gorilla at the Cincinnati Zoo, gave birth to a five-pound female baby gorilla born at the zoo in the past eight days.

The newborn gorilla was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital after it was rejected by its mother. Penelope sufficed her first baby two years ago.

Shoshone Coed Is Named CSI Homecoming Queen

A dark-haired College of Southern Idaho coed won Shoshone was named homecoming queen of 1969-70, highlighting homecoming activities on the CSI campus.

Vicky Guenechea, a freshman sponsored by the Circle K Club, received the honor after topping the list of candidates in balloting by her fellow students. Members of her court are Sheri Rieger, Twin Falls, first runner-up; and Doree McDonald, Shoshone, second runner-up.

The queen and her court were named during a semi-formal dance Friday night at the National Guard Armory. Also announced was the winner of the "Ugly Man" contest, Randy Pleiz of Twin Falls.

Small Fine

DETROIT (UPI)—Giant Ford Motor Co.—employer of thousands and maker of millions—was officially charged Friday with a crime punishable by a $100 fine.

The crime is air pollution. Wayne County, which encompasses Detroit and several suburbs, has charged Ford and five other firms with violating state anti-pollution laws.

According to Leon Cope, social activities chairman, interest in CSI homecoming activities ran high this year and most events were well attended.

Convicted Murderers Win Stay Of Execution In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—An indefinite stay of execution was granted convicted murderers Walter B. Kelbach and Myron D. Lance Saturday as officials await the U. S. Supreme Court's decision as to whether or not it will review the men's case.

The two young service station attendants had been robbed, kidnapped and brutally murdered. Their bodies were found in separate areas near Salt Lake. Each had been stabbed three times.

Agnew Declares 'Armistice' In His Dispute With TV News

ESSEX, Md. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has declared an armistice in his war on television newscasters, but apparently the truce does not include newspapers.

Agnew told a Republican gathering Friday night in this Baltimore suburb that his critical comments on television news broadcasts had achieved "some modicum of success."

"I acted only in the best interests of what I thought should be said at that moment," Agnew told 1,200 persons at the $100-a-plate testimonial.

"Gentlemen," he announced, "I'm calling off the war."

But Agnew, former Maryland governor, then delivered a scathing attack on two Baltimore newspapers currently on strike.

Utility Chief Cites Reason For New Plant

BOISE (UPI)—Idaho Power Company can build its 600,000-kilowatt steam generator as part of a three-unit complex in Wyoming at "substantially less" cost than a single unit on its own system in eastern Idaho, the utility's president said Friday.

Albert Carlsen made the statement in a speech to a regular luncheon meeting of the Boise Lions Club.

Carlsen cited the "cost-saving factor" as one of the reasons for Idaho Power's decision to build the coal-fired complex near Rock Springs, Wyo., jointly with Pacific Power & Light Co.

Carlsen said Idaho Power will use the output of one of its three units, with Pacific Power taking the energy produced by the other two.

New Chairman Of Federal Reserve

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Arthur H. Burns was sworn in as the tenth chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Saturday and pledged to "protect the integrity of the dollar and help foster a stable prosperity for our nation."

President Nixon, who presided over the ceremony in the East Room of the White House, jokingly told Burns when the new chairman was sworn in.

Burns succeeds William McChesney Martin as head of the independent agency charged with managing monetary policy.

OIL FIELD DISCOVERED

CALGARY (UPI)—Asamera Oil Corp. said a group of which it is a member has discovered a new oil field in the Duhon-Rouleau area of North Sumatra in Indonesia. The oil sand, encountered at a depth of 6,280 feet, produced 48 degrees gravity oil at a rate of 2,400 barrels daily.

COMPLETED AND READY FOR occupancy is the newly constructed Halley Post Office. Postmaster Grant Patterson said the building was inspected by a Seattle building inspector Thursday and the moving from the old building on the Highway 93 to the new one depends on the go-ahead from the head office. Dedication of the facilities is scheduled for April 11. The new structure provides more modern facilities, as well as more room for operation, increasing the postal box capacity from 600 to about 800.

T.F. Engineering Department Schedules Busy Summer Of City Street Maintenance

The Twin Falls city engineering department has announced plans to repair a number of city streets this year.

The city will sealcoat 48,830 feet of city streets plus the parking lots at Cascade Park, Jaycee Ball Park and the municipal golf course and 2,050 feet of alleys. Some 14,200 feet of streets will receive seal and mat repairs and 300 crack work will be done on 13,000 feet of streets. A dust oil surface will be put on 21,200 feet of streets and they will excavate and replace base and mat on 4,700 feet of streets.

Seal crack repairs will be done on parts of Filter Avenue East, Addison Avenue East, Maurice Street and Sherry Drive.

Dust oil surface will be applied to portions of Floral Avenue, Second Avenue East and Grden. Acres Drive.

City street curbs will excavate and replace base and mat on portions of Railroad Avenue, Falls Avenue and Highland Avenue.

Jean Millar, city manager, said the city has not planned any major improvements such as the Falls Avenue project of 1969. He said the crews will concentrate on repair work this summer. Whether or not it is all accomplished will depend on the weather, he said.

Millionaire's Animal-Welfare Bequest Creates Havoc

By WILEY MALONEY
REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—"Captain" George M. Whittell Jr., was a millionaire who loved beautiful women, beautiful scenery, and animals of every description. He lived a full life, during which he did well by all of them.

But because he tried to do well by all of them in death, 23 American animal welfare societies are fighting in court like cats and dogs.

A court decision March 10 may determine which of the societies qualifies for $3 million left by Whittell to "The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (local or national)." And those three words in parentheses may wind up in the lawbooks.

Whittell, who died in 1969 at the age of 87, at one time owned almost the entire Nevada east shore of Lake Tahoe in the Sierra Nevada—approximately 25,000 to 30,000 acres.

He had two vast estates at Lake Tahoe and Woodside on the San Francisco Peninsula, where he maintained wives, mistresses, elephants, lions and dogs.

He had inherited an estate estimated at $9 million. When he died it was several times that. After a number of bequests were taken care of, there was still about $25 million left. The will left clear enough instructions about what to do with most of it, according to Givran Peck of San Francisco, who represents the executors.

"The first quarter of the residue is to go to the cats and dogs—hospitals, pet cemeteries and such," said Peck. "The second quarter goes to the defenders of wildlife—there's no trouble about that—and the third quarter goes to the Audubon Society, no trouble there, either."

So what must he settled by a court decision in the last quarter, the estimated $3 million.

San Mateo County Judge James T. O'Keefe ruled there was no "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (local or national)" in his county. As for the national organization, he said, "There is no such animal."

Peck, trying to get the estate settled, proposed a compromise. He said 45 per cent of the money should go to California humane societies, 20 per cent to those in Nevada, 30 per cent to others throughout the nation and 5 per cent to be set aside for groups which might subsequently file claims and qualify for benefits.

Not so, said attorney Raymond B. Hinzlip, speaking for the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. This group, Hinzlip said, should get the entire 25 per cent.

More claims popped up, from groups including: The Humane Society of Bolson County, Pa.; the Associated Humane Society of New Jersey; the Peninsula Humane Society; the Palo Alto Humane Society; the American Humane Association; Pets Unlimited; the Humane Society of Marin County; the Monterey County Humane Society; the Washington Humane Society; and a kindly lady named Aldina Stevens who protects "deer and raccoons and birds" on a 20-acre parcel of land at Placerville, Calif.

The old man had been no stranger to courts. During his lifetime he was characterized as a "wealthy socialite," "playboy," and a "well-known animal lover." He plowed a wide furrow and his romances and troubles started early.

In 1904, he married Josephine Cunningham, a girl from Broadway's "Floradora Sextet." Three years later, they were divorced and in 1910 he married Miss Ella Pascal, a girl he had met on the Italian border while he was a captain in an American ambulance unit in World War I.

Late in Whittell's life, there was long litigation in Nevada over the value of parkland Whittell wanted to sell the state. In 1950, he gave the 3,500-acre Little Valley free of cost to the University of Nevada, St. Mary's Hospital in Reno and the Sisters of Charity of Carson City.

Karen Allen Honored By Burley Club

BURLEY — Karen Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen, Burley, was honored as the Citizenship winner during a luncheon meeting of the Burley Soroptimist Club at Bryan's Cafe.

Mrs. Wayne Konrad, club president, presented Miss Allen with a $50 bond. Judges for the club-sponsored contest were Bill Howard, loan officer at Cassia National Bank; Mrs. Herman King, American Association of University Women, and Richard Noble, Rupert, owner of Rupert Iron Works.

Miss Allen will compete with winners from the 32 clubs composing the Rocky Mountain Region for the regional title to be announced during the conference scheduled for Caldwell in April.

Miss Allen outlined her school activities. Also speaking briefly were Karen Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Lyons, and Karen Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Anderson. They were the December and January Girl of the Month selections. Both are seniors at Burley High School.

Guests included the girls mothers and Mrs. Lakus Cheney, Rupert, and Mrs. Darrell Butcher, Burley.

Bill Lets Youths Give Own Blood

BOISE (UPI) — The House Health and Welfare Committee Thursday introduced a bill to allow any person under 18 years of age to donate blood.

Present law provides that before anyone under 18 years old can donate blood he or she must have parental consent.

Another bill would require all funeral directors in the state to obtain blood samples from all pedestrians and drivers who have died as a result of an accident involving a motor vehicle.

Currently only county coroners are required to obtain the samples.

DRILLING BEGUN SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Natcoms Co. announced that its subsidiary oil company has begun exploratory drilling in a new area offshore of Southeast Sumatra.

THIS DUMMY IS looking for a new home. The mannequin is one of the fixtures at the Salvation Army Thrift Store on Main Avenue. According to Maj. George Driver, who is adjusting the hat on the dummy's head, the store must find a new location, probably within 90 days, because the present building will be demolished under the Urban Renewal program. The store sells all types of used items, mostly clothing, and profits from the business account for a large portion of the Salvation Army's operating budget for local programs.

Salvation Army Thrift Store Is Victim Of Urban Renewal, Needs New Location

Most of its merchandise has been tossed out once, and it would be a shame for the same thing to happen again. So thinks Major George Driver, head of the local Salvation Army Corps. The Thrift Store on Main Avenue East operated by the corps is going to be evicted from its quarters in the wake of Urban Renewal demolition. The store probably will have to be moved within 90 days, and according to Maj. Driver, prospects for another location are not too bright.

The store, which sells cast-off items contributed by a large cross-section of the people of Magic Valley, grosses about $30,000 a year. About $6,000 of this is profit and goes into the corps' yearly budget of between $27,000 and $28,000.

"If we lose the income from the store," Maj. Driver said, "it would make it very difficult for the Army to continue its programs in Twin Falls."

The store has been in its present rented location for about five years. The building is about 50 by 80 feet and has a full basement. It is centrally located which makes it easily accessible to the people of Twin Falls.

Maj. Driver said a building about the same size is needed to house all the items stocked by the Salvation Army.

He said the store carries mostly used clothing, which takes up a large amount of space. Household items and other "odd-end" items also are sold in the store.

Maj. Driver also said there is a "tremendous number of low income families which depend on the Salvation Army for this kind of service" and that purchase of the lowest cost clothing is one way these people can stretch their clothing dollars.

Many a bargain is to be found in the store — from antiques to name brand clothing originally purchased by some of the area's leading families.

The hippie cult of the area also would be disappointed, Maj. Driver said, if the store is forced into closure for lack of a location. He said many items for which there previously would have been no market are now among the most popular selling items. The mod generation, he said, is purchasing old eye glass frames, fur coats,

Chamber At Rupert Talks With Solons

RUPERT—The Rupert Chamber of Commerce conducted its second weekly telephone interview with State Sen. John Kenney and State Rep. Steve Antone at the luncheon meeting Thursday.

A number of proposals were discussed in connection with House Bill 304 concerning the tax limitation of cities.

HB 437, dealing with state aid for sewage disposal plants in helping control water pollution, was discussed as well as the pheasant hunting problem in this section of the state.

Another bill the legislators felt was of equal importance to the county is SB 1403 concerning the state licensing of shelter homes. They felt it would create a hardship on such homes in the county.

A question was raised on SB 1452 which would lower the voting age to 18, yet would obviously retain age 21 as legal age as far as criminal law was concerned.

Guests at the meeting were Tony Horn, horticulturist with the Extension service at University of Idaho; Dick Armstrong, Kelly-Sprinfleld the representative, and Bud Bowman.

A directors meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday. A breakfast meeting was held PMH day morning for the Safety and Health, Youth Activities and Education committees. The membership committee will meet Tuesday at the Chamber offices and the membership committee will meet at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Boundaries Of Precincts Are Changed

SHOSHONE — A change in boundaries of the Shoshone Precinct No. 2 and North Shoshone Precinct No. 3 was made by Lincoln County Commissioners this week, reports Pros. Arty Rowland, T. Adkins.

The change was considered necessary to even the work of election judges. There have been about 540 registered voters in Precinct No. 2 while only 185 in No. 3.

The change will mean that Shoshone Precinct No. 2 will include only the residents living on the south and Big Wood river on the north, with both town and rural residents included. The precinct will stretch west to the county line.

The area straight north of Shoshone, formerly in No. 3 which was added to No. 2 which will include the area north of Big Wood river to the Gooding and Blaine county lines, with the eastern boundary touching that of Blaine Precinct No. 4.

There are six precincts in the county.

Trip Described

SHOSHONE—Rev. John Sears, Jerome, furnished the Wednesday noon Rotary club luncheon program, telling of a 24-day trip he took to Australia and New Zealand, with stops at various Pacific Islands en route.

Other guests were Cindy Trammell, Judy Peck and Dee Swan, high school seniors. Herb Love was program chairman.

GIRL LISTED

SHOSHONE—Kathleen Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Ross, North Shoshone, is on the honor roll at Carroll college in Helena, Mont.

THIS NEW RADIAL headgate in the Dietrich Canal, near Richfield, will allow water to run into the desert during flood threats and provide control of the Big Wood river which has often flooded Lincoln and Gooding county land. Cost of the project, which was initiated by Leon Grievé, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., has been jointly shared by Lincoln and Gooding counties, the cities of Shoshone and Gooding, and the Army Engineers.

Flood Control Structure Completed Near Richfield

SHOSHONE — A new radial headgate in the Dietrich Canal will provide flood control in the Shoshone-Gooding areas.

Located about 16 miles from Shoshone, the gate is 17 feet high and heavy enough to withstand ice pressure, reports Leon Grievé, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., who first initiated the idea of this type of gate diversion to cut excess water from the river channel and thus decrease flood danger.

Installation costs have been cooperatively shared by the cities of Shoshone and Gooding and Lincoln and Gooding counties, as well as more than $32,000 spent by the Army Engineers last spring.

The engineers cut out the lava, diverting water from the Dietrich Canal into the desert. The city and county joint contributions needed to complete the project totals more than $2,000, Mr. Grievé said.

All the work is finished except checking on the diversion on the lower end of the project. Considerable blasting was required last spring to make the cut into the lava rocks.

Heating elements have been put in around the cement on the lower part of the gate, so that by turning it on in a few hours the gates can be opened even in freezing weather.

Mr. Grievé said the cut will handle three days of water flow, though in future pressure in the flood threat time.

This will divert the water before it reaches the river channels and causes overflow there. A cleanup week.

Filer Man Named To Attend Parley

MORRIS W. CARLSON, Filer, a member of the local board of county commissioners and president of the Idaho Association of County Commissioners, has been invited to participate in an April 1 Conservation Congress in Winatchee, Wash.

The congress is sponsored by the Wenatchee Daily World to bring conservationists together with those interested in use of resources for reclamation, navigation and power development.

An evaluation committee made up of regional leaders will open the discussion and attempt to reach a decision as to where the balance should be established between conservation and utilization of natural resources.

Resource Report Given At Shoshone

SHOSHONE — A report on agriculture resources within Lincoln County was given by Leo Sentfen, Soil Conservationist, at the County Planning Commission meeting held Thursday afternoon at the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office.

Mr. Sentfen belongs to a committee headed by Mont Johnson, Richfield.

He displayed and explained maps of the county and cooperative county area, which takes in Camas, Gooding, Lincoln and Blaine. Each of the counties is preparing a book in the cooperative effort to outline and prepare for the resource and development work.

Ward Rawson, chairman, reported that retiring chairman, Clifford Ward, Richfield, is recovering from an illness, and unable to serve on the committee.

Mr. Johnson is the vice-chairman and Mrs. Arthur Gerly is secretary.

The next meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 12 at the ASCS office.

Children's Dental Health Week Starts Today

Why is it everyone hates to go to the dentist? They really aren't such bad guys once you get to know them. It's the "getting there" that's usually the difficult part.

Regular dental health habits in children and adults are always promoted by the dentists and once each year a special week is set aside to put even greater emphasis on this.

National Children's Dental Health Week is set for Feb.

1 through 7, this year, stressing the theme, "Smile Power," with Dr. Eddie R. Allison serving as chairman of Twin Falls Dental Health Week.

Dr. Allison urges parents and children to adopt the four basic rules of oral hygiene to assure continued good dental health.

No. 1 Brush your teeth regularly — even after eating snacks.

No. 2 Cut down on sweets. Sugar is an important factor in decay.

No. 3 Drink fluoridated water.

No. 4 Have regular dental check-ups.

This week will mark the 22nd annual observance of the national week and as part of the observance, the Times-News, in cooperation with the South Central Dental Society, will publish several articles on facts you should know about dental health.

The first article centers around a commonly asked question: "Can you recommend a good toothpaste? I am confused as to whether I should buy a toothpaste for my family that will whiten teeth, prevent decay or kill germs."

A dentrist's role in oral hygiene is to act as an aid to the toothbrush in cleaning teeth.

In addition, certain dentifrices have proven decay-preventive qualities. These toothpastes are recommended for use — especially by children, by the American Dental Association.

The ADA classifies and evaluates therapeutic dentifrices; that is, those toothpastes which claim to improve oral health. Since 1968, when the association first recognized one dentifrice as "an effective decay-preventive," only a handful of toothpastes have been approved. All of them contain some type of fluoride. All approved dentifrices carry the ADA statement, so check to see if your toothpaste has that statement.

These dentifrices are effective, but the extent of their effectiveness depends upon the user. To obtain maximum protection against decay, you should brush your teeth as soon as possible after eating; even after snacks. The reason for this is that the decay-causing bacteria work on the food — especially sugars — within a short time after it has entered the mouth. The longer toothbrushing is postponed, the longer the bacteria have a chance to work.

However, even approved dentifrices are not cure-alls. They are designed only as aides in combating decay and will not substitute for fluoridation of community water supplies and regular visits to the dentist.

Some of the new additions to the dentifrice market are the so-called tooth whiteners. The ADA has commented on these toothpastes as follows: "There has been a recent tendency to promote dentifrices on the basis of their ability to whiten or brighten teeth. Such claims appear to relate almost exclusively to the incorporation in the dentifrices of harsher abrasive agents. Depending on the abrasive present, dentifrices can be prepared which may be excessively harsh for regular use by the general public."

The ADA especially warns against use of such dentifrices by dental patients with exposed dentin or cementum or by patients who have tooth restorations constructed of soft synthetic materials. Dentin is the calcified tissue beneath the enamel of the tooth, and cementum is the relatively thin tissue covering the roots of the tooth.

Before using the tooth whitening pastes, the ADA suggests you ask the advice of your family dentist.

One other comment on types of dentifrices: The so-called "bacteria killing" dentifrices have not been found effective either in reducing the number of decay-causing bacteria in the mouth or in combating decay.

It is advisable to provide an approved fluoride dentifrice, especially for your children. All members of your family should remember to brush immediately after eating and to see your family dentist for regular check-ups.

If you follow these rules, you and your family will be started on the road to good dental health throughout your lives.

REGULAR DENTAL CHECK-UPS are urged by dentists, not only during National Children's Dental Health Week, but throughout the year. Here Dr. Eddie Allison, chairman of Twin Falls Dental Health Week, checks Jerry O. Seamons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olean Seamons, Twin Falls.

REACHING FOR CANDY is a "no no" when promoting regular dental health habits. The American Dental Association urges youngsters to cut down on sweets as sugar is an important factor in decay. This week marks the 22nd annual observance of National Children's Dental Health Week.

PRETTY LITTLE DARLA THOMPSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Thompson, shows the proper way to brush your teeth as she plans to participate in Twin Falls Dental Health Week. Her dentist recommends to brush teeth regularly, even after eating snacks.

Ceramic Hobby Leads To Teaching Classes

By NORMA HERZINGER

It started as a hobby 16 years ago and now she is sharing her hobby with others.

Mrs. Ray (Iva) Porter, a well-known local ceramist, shares her knowledge in many classes, most recently in classes sponsored by the Neighborhood Center, one of the operations of the South Central Community Action Agency, funded through the office of OEO. Mrs. Porter assists her daughter, Mrs. Peggy Laley, with the teaching twice each month on Fridays. She also has various other classes—all in the art of ceramic making, a craft more and more people are exploring.

What used to be her husband, Ray's, workshop at their home at 181 Maurice St. N., is now Mrs. Porter's workshop and classroom. She has him into ceramic making, as he usually pours all the molds for her. They start with a powdered clay — add water and chemicals to form slip, a liquid clay, that is mixed in an old conventional-type washer. The slip is then poured into plaster-of-paris molds. The plaster in the molds draws the water from the slip. When the partially dry slip is about the thickness of a nickel, the excess slip is poured from the mold.

The mold is left until the two or more parts of the mold can be removed. The clay then holds its shape and can be removed completely from the mold. It is then allowed to dry — which takes about 24 hours. The item is then referred to as greenware — being very fragile until it is fired in the kiln.

Before the piece is fired, it must be cleaned up — seams must be smoothed over and rough spots removed. The first firing is called bisque firing — with the kiln heat reaching some 1,800 degrees. Each kiln load takes, from start to finish, approximately 17 hours for the kiln to reach that high a degree and then to cool down so the pieces can be handled. After the first firing the item is then referred to as bisque.

Some ceramists bisque fire before an item is glazed, but some — on some pieces — use a glaze in the greenware stage, according to Mrs. Laley. "You may use a glaze that looks pink when applied and after the firing it turns green due to chemical reaction," she noted. These things you must learn from experience. The glaze must be put on evenly and exactly to prevent pitting and discoloring.

The piece can be glazed and fired or just bisque fired. After it is glazed fired you can use a fired gold, copper, silver, etc. for extra decorative effects. Fired underglazes are also used — these for free hand decorations. There is no gloss to the underglaze, it is covered with a glaze to form a finished surface.

Also used are unfired stains. These stains are applied to the bisque and form a sealcoat the same as a fired glaze. However, usually a clear plastic spray is used to insure a good seal. Stained pieces can not be soaked in water and therefore are not used for serving dishes or ashtrays.

Rebekah Lodge Plans Dinner In Twin Falls

GOODING—A dinner in honor of Donald Smith, Linden, Calif., sovereign grand master, will be held at the Rebekah Lodge in Twin Falls on Feb. 10. The dinner was announced during a recent meeting of the Marguerite Rebekah Lodge No. 88.
 All Rebekahs and Odd Fellows were urged to attend and make advance reservations.
 Florence Dedrick, noble grand, was in charge of the business meeting. Correspondence was read from Mr. Smith stating February has been set aside as education month. Rebekah Lodges are being asked to sponsor fund-raising programs.
 Norma Johnson was installed as right support to the junior past noble grand.
 It was suggested a memorial fund be set up to raise money for chairs needed. Twenty-five dollars was sent to the Kookki Lodge to help with their building fund.
 Mae Consey read an article on Thomas Wiley and Alta Thompson read the president's letter. Hostesses were Vera I. Bolte, Helene Loper and Lois Jenkins.
 Members are asked to bring an unsigned Valentine and a handkerchief to the Wednesday meeting.

Poem Read To Friendship Club

HANSEN — A poem on Friendship was read as part of the opening exercises at the Friendship Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Britton Harmon.
 A thank you note was read from Mrs. Olga Hall for cards and flowers sent her during an illness and hospitalization.
 Mrs. Ernest Thaele has resigned since the Thaele's have moved to a farm between Filer and Buhl. Two new members will be voted on at the next meeting.
 Mrs. William Allen, program chairman, presented contest games with all present winning prizes. Mrs. Kenneth Naylor received a special gift.
 A birthday cake honoring Mrs. Vernon Ball was served. Mrs. Ball's birthday occurred on club day.
 The Thursday meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lanny Wooten with Mrs. Doug Geas as program chairman.

Union Rebekah Lodge Is Told About Founder

HAGERMAN — An article about Thomas Wiley, founder of Odd Fellowship in the United States, was read by Mrs. Cleo Marsh in observance of his anniversary at a meeting of the Union Rebekah Lodge No. 45.
 Members voted to participate in the United Nations pilgrimage for District No. 8. It was agreed to send one delegate from the district with each lodge paying a share of the expenses. Delegates will be chosen by rotation of lodges rather than having each lodge's candidate compete with those of other lodges.
 Each lodge will choose its own method of selecting its delegate. The Fairview lodge will send a delegate for 1970.
 Preliminary plans were made for the visit of Mrs. Mable Frazier, Pierce, Idaho, state assembly president, March 11.
 Mrs. Charles Kiser, noble grand, read her committees for the coming year.

Story Read To Martha Circle

FILER — Mrs. J. M. Jamerson read "The Old Settlers' Story" at a meeting of the Martha Circle at the home of Mrs. L. Larson. The selection is by Thomas Carlyle.
 Mrs. Jacob Tolk asked each member to read a current event or interesting item for roll call.
 Rev. Elmer Anderson, noble grand, read her committees for the coming year.
 Mrs. William Rude will host the next meeting. Mrs. Larson and Mrs. Alda Orbel will be in charge of the program.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD W. YOUREE (Shig Morita photo)

Miss Johnson, Youree Recite Nuptial Vows

HANSEN — Joy Lynette Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Johnson, became the bride of Richard William Youree Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Youree, Pocatello, in evening rites Dec. 27 at the Kimberly Christian Church.
 Rev. Howard Larsen, Boise First Christian Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony before a bevy of bridesmaids and groomsmen. The bride wore a gown of candelabra of lighted cranberry red tapers tied with bows and greenery.
 The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line Chantilly lace and satin floor-length gown featuring an empire waistline, high rounded neckline and elbow-length modified bell sleeves. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil was held by a seed pearl encrusted flower tiara. She carried a cascading bouquet of white gladiol and carnations tucked with greenery and tied with ribbon.
 Holly Johnson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.
 Mrs. Dennis Butler and Penny Shropshire were bridesmaids.
 Tom Kunkle was best man and Leon Youree, brother of the bridegroom, Pocatello, and Ben Laughlin, Shoshone, were ushers.
 Anita Woodruff, Buhl, cousin of the bride, and Vanita Youree, sister of the bridegroom, were candlelighters.
 Cindy a girl, Mizil Strolberg, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. Dan Woodruff and Doris were ringbearers.
 Sylvia Freestone played traditional wedding music on the organ, and accompanied Mrs. Robert Triplett and Ernest Jacobson, a cousin of the bride, who each sang solos. She also accompanied Dennis Hansen, who played a trumpet solo at the close of the service.
 The three-tiered white cake, trimmed in pink and topped with silver bells, centered the reception table which was covered with a hand-crocheted white lace cloth over red. Mrs. Vernon Strolberg, Hanson, and Mrs. Earl Woodruff, Castleford, aunts of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Jack Shropshire served punch and Mrs. Harold Moore poured coffee. Women of the C. W. F. assisted in serving.
 Mrs. Raymond Strolberg registered guests.
 Kim and Kevan Woodruff, cousins of the bride, were gift-bearers, and Valerie Brown and Mrs. Joe Cooper arranged the gift tables.
 Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Messly, Buhl, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson, Buhl grandparents of the bride.
 After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple returned to

Golden Age Members Host Sorooptimists

Members of the Golden Age Club hosted members of the Sorooptimist Club and Dorothy Bryson and some of her "old time" friends at a turkey dinner recently at the DAV Hall. This marked the annual dinner meeting for the club.
 Pete Ehlers, vice president, was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Bill Armgan and Ed Culer.
 Tables were decorated by Mrs. Emma Stone, Mrs. Louise Harral and Mrs. Frank Horejs with red, white and blue crepe paper and candles. Artificial flower arrangements were used.
 Turkeys were roasted by Mrs. Lena Wahl and Mrs. Armgan. The remainder of the dinner was potluck.
 The Bryson group played old time music for dancing after dinner. Cards and games were also played.
 Mr. and Mrs. Homer Huddleston, newlyweds, were honored with a special song and dance.
 Mrs. Lora Doss and Mrs. Edna Bell Oslund, lifetime honorary members of the club, spoke briefly.
 The club is sponsored by the Sorooptimist Club and City Recreation Department.

Area Pinochle Club Convenes

CASTLEFORD — Members of the Castleford Pinochle Club met at the West End Gun Club for their regular party and buffet dinner. Twelve tables were in play.

WCS Speaker Set Thursday In Burley

BURLEY — Mrs. Earl Heide, Buhl, Oregon-Idaho vice president of the Women's Society of Christian Service, will be the guest speaker at 1 p.m. Thursday during the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Burley United Methodist Church in the church social hall.

The meeting will be a covered dish luncheon hosted by Circle 11 and all members are asked to bring a main dish or salad. Dessert will be furnished.

Mrs. Heide will speak and show slides of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Heath, who are Methodist missionaries in Taiwan, Formosa.

The Heaths are supported by the Idaho Conference of the Missions of the United Methodist Church. The couple left Castleford in 1968 and after considerable study which included a stay in Hawaii to study rice culture, learning the Chinese language and a stop in Hong Kong, they arrived in Taiwan in 1969. The Heaths first child was born Jan. 6, 1970, in Taiwan.

All women of the community are invited to attend the meeting and hear first hand the happenings in Taiwan.

Slim And Trim Losers Named

HANSEN — Mrs. J. O. Cox and Mrs. V. L. Wilson were best losers, with Mrs. Gene Walker a close runner-up, at the Slim and Trim TOPS Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith.

Mrs. Marie Harding, Twin Falls, was a guest.

State Recognition day will be April 24-25 in Idaho Falls. Program features were read and more information will be received later.

The yearly queen and yearly division winners will be named at the next meeting, and since this will be recognition night of the winners, will be dress-up night. Mrs. Edith Glenn and Mrs. Fred Howard were named to a committee to purchase gifts for the queens.

The orange team, with Mrs. Cox as captain, was ahead in the "Trip to Hawaii" contest. Songs were sung at the program feature. Those gaining weight sang one penalty song.

FHA Slumber Party Held

GOODING — The officers of FHA District No. 4 held a slumber party at the home of JoAnn B. W. Hagerman, president, with an executive council meeting to start out the evening.

Outfits to be worn to the state convention in Boise in April will be made by each girl and must be finished by April 7.

After a spaghetti dinner the girls went to Twin Falls with their advisers to a show.

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what came over me, but I did a terrible thing. When it was my turn to have my bridge club for lunch, I served a casserole and it made a big hit.

One of the ladies asked me for the recipe and I was ashamed to tell her that all I did was to add an egg to a package of this and a can of that, so I said it was a recipe that had been in my family for years and I promised my grandmother I'd never give it out.

My conscience has been bothering me ever since, but I'm afraid if I tell this woman the truth now, it will spread all over the club that I lied, and I just couldn't face them. What shall I do?

DEAR GUILTY: Fess up. It beats having it on your conscience. Besides, it's a small cooking world and one of your friends is sure to get the recipe sooner or later, and you'll wind up with "a can of this and a package of that, and egg on your face."

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who gets mad when his wife sends pictures of her children from a former marriage to her ex-husband's parents? I have three children under 5 who have been very close to their grandparents all their lives. (My parents aren't living, so they are the only grandparents my kids will ever know.)

Now that I have recently remarried, my husband doesn't want me to have anything to do with my ex-husband's family. These people were wonderful to me while I was married.

Unit Secretary Is Installed

JEROME — Mrs. R. H. Blue was installed financial secretary for the Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 110 by Mrs. N. A. Spofford, lodge deputy, during a recent meeting. Mrs. Ed T. Adams was in charge of the business session.

Plans for the district meeting were discussed and it was decided initiation of new members will be Feb. 7, with a practice set for 7 p.m. Sunday and one at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. William Hopkins read a tribute to Thomas Wilder and the officers read their duties. Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Easton, Wanda Easton and Mrs. Mary Keith.

Miss Nussbaum, Capt. Oates Exchange Nuptial Promise

A candlelight ceremony Dec. 19 at Lynwood Chapel Union in marriage Laura Lucille Nussbaum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Nussbaum, Twin Falls, and Samuel George Oates Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Oates, Sebring, Fla. Rev. D. Mikel solemnized the wedding vows. Organ music was provided by Harold Nussbaum, brother of the bride, and Karen Nussbaum, sister of the bride, was soloist. Karen Nussbaum and Melva Nussbaum, sister of the bride, lit the candles before an altar enhanced with deep red roses and white chrysanthemums. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of white peau de soie, styled with empire lines accented with a heavy lace yoke, long bell sleeves and a cathe-

JoAnn Roundy Is Bride Of Gerald Hill

HANSEN—Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh Hill, Hansen, announce the marriage of their son, Gerald R. (Jerry) Hill and JoAnn Roundy, Klamath Falls, Ore., Dec. 22 in Reno, Nev. Miss Roundy made her home with her sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. and Mr. Glenn Hilliard, Klamath Falls. The bride wore a winter white suit with a red rose corsage. They were attended by friends in Reno.

A reception was held Christmas Day at the home of his parents. A white cake, topped with red roses, centered the white cloth covered table. The scene was a family reunion with all the children home, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hill, Poncellito; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hill, Salt Lake City; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mueller, Mr. and Mrs. Todd Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Franc's True and Kenneth Hill, Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, Jerome, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, Kimberly, and their families, Mrs. W. K. Hill, Hansen, grandmother of the bridegroom, was a special guest.

Jerry Hill left for his second tour of duty with the Air Force and is stationed in Madrid, Spain. His first tour of duty was in Thailand, where he remained for four years, with three of them in Soan.

Mrs. Hill plans to join him in March, as soon as arrangements can be made. She is presently staying at her sister's home in Klamath Falls, Ore.

Operatic Selections Are Given At Burley Club Meet

BURLEY — "I Like Opera" was the title of the program of the Burley Music Club meeting at the Ramada Inn with Mrs. David Mead, Twin Falls, as guest soloist. Mrs. Mead, Fifth District Music Club president, sang three arias, "Suzanna's Aria" from "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, whom Mrs. Mead called the genius of opera; Mimmi's aria from "La Boheme" by Puccini; and the coloratura aria made famous by Lily Pons, "The Bell Song" from L'Elisir. Mrs. Donald Youtz, Twin Falls, accompanied Mrs. Mead at the piano. Mrs. Youtz is also a member of the board of the National Federation of Music Clubs with which the Burley Music Club is affiliated. The scholarship and Junior Music Club programs of the National Federation of Music Clubs were discussed by Mrs. Youtz.

Mrs. Andersen Is Chairman Of Pollyannas

The club met at the home of Mrs. William Sweet, with Mrs. Keith Strom as co-hostess. Mrs. Carroll Vanskike demonstrated making rugs. Mrs. Jack Frosten demonstrated making ice candles and Mrs. Earl Wilson showed a novelty candle.

The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. Doran Cluer and Mrs. Glenn Gill will demonstrate making doughnuts and Mrs. Harold Stroud and Mrs. Kelly Thomason will demonstrate making maple bars.

Jane Watson Reveals Troth

GLENN'S FERRY — Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Watson, King Hill, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jane Lanore, to Randall Lynn Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey F. Gray, Nampa. The bride-elect is employed by Smith and Howland CPA's. Both Mr. Gray and his brother, William A. Kendall, president of the Twin Falls Music Club.

ALL THE WORLD MAY now spin on technology, but it still loves a lover! In keeping with what really makes our old globe go-round, FTD florists created the charming Valentine arrangement above which they appropriately call LoveBundlle. Although Feb. 14 is the only holiday dedicated to love and lovers, there's no need to squeeze a lot of love into just one day. LoveBundlle is planned to stretch the deadline on romance, and will be available to say "I Love You" for one week preceding Valentine's Day.

Book Review, Harpsichord Concert Highlight Meeting

JEROME — A book review on the life of Wolfgang Mozart and a harpsichord tape recording concert highlighted the recent meeting of the Northside Music Club at the home of Mrs. C. VanOrman, with Mrs. R.J. Reichard as program chairman. Mrs. Terry Woodhead led the club collect and Mrs. Donald Jacobson, president, was in charge of the business session. Mrs. John Garbrandt, hymn-of-the-month chairman, selected "Love Divine," written by Charles Wesley in 1742. She gave some reflections on his life and the inspirations that "Love Divine" was written. Mrs. LaVeer Gooch and Mrs. Ronald Lancaster, accompanied by Mrs. Faith Eaton, sang the hymn.

Mrs. J. D. Nolan gave the book report on the life of Wolfgang Mozart, an Austrian composer, who wrote masterpieces in every branch of music and is now regarded as one of music's greatest geniuses. He composed three great operas. After Mrs. Nolan's report on his life, excerpts from his great opera, "The Marriage of Figaro," written in 1788, which was a comic opera. Mrs. David Mead, Twin Falls, played the part of Susanna and sang "Veni, Ingenuciateli."

Mrs. Jacobson played the part of the Countess, Almaviva and sang "Porgi, Amor," and Joyce Guyer, Twin Falls, played the part of the page, Cherubino, and sang "Vol, che sapete." They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Donald Parker, Twin Falls.

Mrs. William Duggan introduced her talented daughter with a tape recording concert on the harpsichord, Ito Faerstel Bliss. Miss Bliss was born in Leipzig, Germany. As a child she came to America with her parents and settled in Los Angeles, Calif. At age of 7 she won a city-wide contest in piano and at 18 gave her first harpsichord recital with the members of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. She received her bachelor of music degree from the Manhattan School of Music in New York where she studied with Dora Zaslavsky, and her masters degree from Columbia University. She gave her New York debut recital at Town Hall. She recently toured Europe in a solo recital series, playing Berlin, Amsterdam and London.

On her return she was engaged to play on the Community Concert series. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Duggan, reside in Wendell.

CHICKEN PECAN SALAD IN CRANBERRY RING

- 3 c. cubed, cooked Bertie's chicken (cold)
- c. diced celery
- 1/2 c. mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 2 tbsp. salad oil
- 1/2 tsp. vinegar
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 c. sliced peaches (about 3 peaches)
- 1/4 c. coarsely broken pecans, toasted

Get aside a few peach-slices for garnish. In a large bowl, combine remaining peach slices, the Bertie's chicken and celery. In small bowl, combine mayonnaise, salad oil, vinegar, and salt. Pour over Bertie's chicken mixture, toss together. Chill. Just before serving, stir in pecans, toss again. Serve in center of cranberry ring, garnish with reserved peach slices and parsley.

We have a complete cook book of better chicken recipes. These are tried recipes from Magic Valley households. To obtain your free cook book write to: Paula's Pastry Room, 2099 4th Avenue, Twin Falls, ID.

Book Review, Harpsichord Concert Highlight Meeting

Members of the Northside Music Club are invited to attend a luncheon at the Turf Club in Twin Falls at noon Feb. 9. After the luncheon the group will go to the Fine Arts Building at the College of Southern Idaho where Denis Fonte will present a program. All reservations for the luncheon must be in to Mrs. Jacobson by Tuesday. The regular February meeting will be held Feb. 24 at a dinner meeting at a local restaurant.

District Jay-C-Ette Meet Is Conducted In Burley

BURLEY — Valentines and hearts provided the setting for the recent District No. 8 Jay-C-Ette meeting held at Burley, with Mrs. Dixie Meeker, Blinn, district vice president, conducting the business session. Jay-C-Ettes attended from Gooding, Rupert, Burley, and Twin Falls—Mrs. Colleen Utley led the Jay-C-Ette prayer and Mrs. Charlene Vollmer led the flag salute. The invocation was given by Mrs. Meeker. Pro tem officers were Mrs. Kay Sutton, Burley, secretary, and Mrs. Utley, secretary.

The speak-up presentation, "Hope," was presented by Mrs. Judith Porch, Burley. It was announced a district meeting to complete state reports will be held Wednesday in Bliss, and March 4 the Twin Falls Jay-C-Ettes will host the district meeting at which time a district speak-up winner will be selected. It competes at the state finals in April.

The Rupert Jay-C-Ettes won the travel trophy and it was received by Mrs. Edith Maler. Mrs. Mary Adams, Gooding, won the special prize, presented by the Burley unit.

Program on membership, orientation, treasurer's books, scrapbooks, project report forms and narcotic education were conducted by Mrs. Meeker.

A parade of American music will be presented. This meeting is usually scheduled to be a White Breakfast but the group preferred a night meeting for a larger attendance. The treasurer, Mrs. Dale Thomas, reported the membership has reached 50. Guests present were Mrs. Bill Hudlock, Mrs. Joan Van Orman and Mrs. Arthur Mosely. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Van Orman were Mrs. E. C. Vaudroy, Mrs. Leo Hendrickson and Mrs. Clyde Hansen. Mrs. Robert Bruce poured coffee and Mrs. Hendrickson poured punch.

Big Game Laws In Idaho Are Blasted By Wood River Man

Editor, Times-News:
It seems a crying shame that somebody can do something about the terrible condition of our big game herds here in Idaho. I came to Idaho six years ago from Colorado. I grew up on a farm in the Green Mountains of New England. All my life I have loved the outdoors and I love to hunt and fish.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all 30 stocks, traded, plunging 3.40 to 111.1. Among 1,729 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances, 1,411 to 105. There were 438 new 100-70 lots set, 14 new highs.

The New York Stock Exchange index mirrored a drop of $2.39 in the average common share price to $17.54. Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks fell 1.05 to 85.02.

Turkey expanded sales of 52,311,000 shares the previous week. But it was below the 59,600,000 shares which changed hands during this year ago period.

Monte Gordon, a vice president of Bache & Co. brokerage, said "you don't know the dimension of the business slowdown and as a result you have no basis for a sustained move on the upside."

Commenting on these remarks, Newton Zinder, analyst for E.P. Hutton & Co. brokerage, said he believed such talk was "falling on deaf ears" and "causing more confusion than enlightenment."

Editor, Times-News:
In addition to starting the Drive-In Church, Rev. Hoffman also started the original Christmas Parade, and was in charge of it the first year it was held in Twin Falls, with the cooperation of the other churches and religious organizations.

Additional issues in sharp retreat included University Computing down 10%, C.R. Bard 9%, Becont, Dickson 9%, Holiday Inns "A-9" Corning 8%, Minnesota Mining 8%, Chrysler General Motors and Ford fell 2 more.

General Motors reported a profit decline in the fourth quarter, and also planned a major cutback in employees as a result of reduced production plans in February.

In the chemical group, DuPont and Dow lost 3 each. Airlines off 3 or more were American, TWA, and KLM.

Among the 100, Florida East Coast, Penn Central and Chesapeake & Ohio ranged about 2 to 3 lower.

RUTH GUYER
 ... operator of a greeting service in Twin Falls has been honored by the Department of Commerce and Development as an "Idaho promoter."

State Development Board Honors Twin Falls Woman

A new Magic Valley business and its operator, Mrs. Ruth Guyer, 2118 Sherry Drive, have been given special recognition by the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development as an "Idaho promoter."
 Mrs. Guyer has organized a new greeting service for the local area to include Twin Falls, Kimberly and Piler. She is not affiliated with any national organization or agency but develops her own sources of material and sponsors.
 Since she began in October, she has welcomed many new families to the three communities.
 Al Minton, director of the Idaho Commerce and Development, has presented her a certificate of appreciation for her work as an "Idaho Promoter."
 "We appreciate your wonderful comments in 'Colorful Idaho,' our new brochure. You are doing a great job of promoting Idaho and we would like to express our appreciation in the form of the enclosed Idaho Promoter certificate, the director advised.

 The mother of a former "Miss Twin Falls," Velma Guyer, she is accustomed to promoting her local area. Mrs. Guyer says she obtains much of the Idaho literature she provides area newcomers from the Department of Commerce and Development.
 In writing for additional literature she has passed on comments of new residents to the department and advised them of the extent to which she distributes Idaho information.
 In her greeting service she advises residents of such facilities as recreational areas, churches, schools and other community facilities and reminds them of requirements for automobile and driver's licenses, even tells them where to find the Post Office, City Hall and County Offices.

Personal OPINION

QUESTION
 Do you think parking should be eliminated along Shoshone Street in the downtown area when the improvement program is put into effect?

LOCATION
 Interviews in this case were taken in downtown Twin Falls.

ANSWERS
JERRY SHANE — "Hell no! They would be defeating their own purpose."
HOWARD (OZ) NELSON — "No. The businessmen in the area need the parking."
MARION TANNER — "No, I don't think the parking should be eliminated. The street isn't wide enough to put in another two lanes of traffic even if they took out the parking. Maybe they should speed up the traffic signals and get the cars through this street faster to curb their problem."
W. W. PRESSEY — "Yes, it would make for a better flow of traffic."

HOWARD GERRISH — "I think the absence of automobiles on Shoshone Street would certainly add to the esthetic aspects of the area. I am also of the opinion that with wanton destruction of so-called unsafe and condemned buildings in the urban renewal area there will not be a lack of land for use as parking. Honestly and without prejudice, my feelings are that it will be many years before the downtown section recovers from the removal of many of its small one and two-man businesses, and the people of Twin Falls will soon realize they have been grossly misled about the new buildings springing up whenever an old one is torn down."
LYLE USCOLA — "Yes, I think there will be too much traffic and the parking should be eliminated."
REV. KEITH MAXWELL — "Personally, I feel this would be best, but I believe the advantages and disadvantages should be weighed before a decision is made. I think they should be certain there will be adequate parking before they eliminate this."
JOHN ETTER — "Yes, I think so because they have picked up some additional parking space in the back of some buildings and the room is needed more on the streets."

ONE OF THE FIRST to work for organization of the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers was Mannie Shaw, Corral. He will assist in conducting the sixth annual convention and jamboree in Twin Falls Friday and Saturday.

ACCOMPANISTS SHARE THE SPOTLIGHT at jamboree time. Most can play the fiddle as well as the piano, guitar or other instrument. Hattie Craig is usually at the piano when her husband, Fred Craig, who makes and plays fiddles, is on the program.

HEADING UP LOCAL arrangements for the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers two-day jam session in Twin Falls is Dorothy Bryson. Her talents include piano, accordion and other instruments but her fiddle is her favorite. The fiddlers will perform for the public Friday night in the American Legion Hall and will conduct convention business in the YM-YWCA building on Saturday.

OLDTIME TUNES WILL RING through Twin Falls Friday and Saturday as fanelors of this brand of music get together for their annual jamboree. Some of the local participants include Russell Dille, Fred Craig and John Perfect, from left. It is estimated that 150 to 200 musicians and their guests will participate in the two-day hoedown and convention.

Oldtime Fiddlers Tuning Up For Hoedown Time In Twin Falls

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Feature Editor

Plenty of the tapping is guaranteed in Twin Falls Friday night as the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers stage their annual jamboree here.

As part of the sixth annual convention of the organization Feb. 6 and 7, the jamboree will be held in the American Legion Hall at 8 p.m. with a dance following the one-hour program. Tickets will be available at the door and those who wish to stay only for the program may do so, but the dancing is expected to continue through the night.

Between 150 and 200 delegates and musicians are expected from all parts of Idaho and some surrounding states and Canada. Connoisseurs of old time tunes are guaranteed a treat Friday night whether they dance or listen.

Convention sessions will be held in the YM-YWCA building beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday with a business meeting welcome by Mayor Frank Fildman of Twin Falls and response by Mannie Shaw, Corral.

Officers will be elected and other business transacted in the brief business sessions. By and large the fiddlers are getting together because they love old time music and they want to play it.

Hassell Vargason, Aberdeen, is president of the association and Rudy Ruder, Cambridge, vice president.

Secretary of the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers is Kathryn O'Connor, Moscow. Dorothy Bryson, Twin Falls, and Mr. Shaw, are sharing honors as convention and jamboree chairman. A banquet will be held Saturday night followed by a program and dance for Oldtime Fiddlers and their special guests.

The public is invited to attend the Friday night jamboree and old time music fanelors are expected from a wide area.

Others working on local arrangements include Larry Wolf, Burley; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Craig, John Perfect, Russell Dille, Ben Lozier, all Twin Falls.

Holly Houtburg will be master of ceremonies for the jamboree and a number of national and state champions will be participating. Loyd Wanzer, Caldwell, twice national champion and many times state champion will play, and state champions from Nebraska, Oregon, South Dakota and Montana have indicated plans to attend.

Mr. Craig will be master of ceremonies for the Saturday night banquet and Ray Rostron, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce manager, will be speaker.

When Idaho Old Time Fiddlers first gathered for an annual meeting in 1961 there were 13 members. Now more than 250 persons including men and women from six to 80 hold membership in the association.

NOT ALL OLDTIME fiddlers play fiddles. There are always some banjos, guitars, accordions, a few washboards and an occasional musical saw at the oldtime jamborees. Two of the leading banjo players in the local organization are Harold Waggoner, left, and Ben Lozier. Both will be on hand for the Friday night public jamboree and the Saturday night program for members and guests. They are also assisting with local convention and jamboree plans.

Judo Instructor Awarded Evangeline White Trophy For Outstanding Service

Several hundred young men and a few young women have learned the finer points of the art of judo during the past eight years, thanks to the volunteer efforts of Guy Matsuoka, Twin Falls.

A blackbelt champion at the age of 17, Mr. Matsuoka has been involved in either learning or teaching judo since he was 9 years old.

Now, with the assistance of such other instructors as Wesley Dobbs and Al Benkula and his own son, Bobby, Mr. Matsuoka directs an extensive judo program for the YMCA of Twin Falls.

At least one weekend and sometimes two each month there are tournaments held in various parts of the Northwest or Intermountain areas.

Mr. Matsuoka's extensive volunteer services have not gone unnoticed. He has been awarded the Evangeline M. White trophy for outstanding contribution in services and time to the community and the YM-YWCA programs. He is the sixth person to be honored by the award since it was first given shortly after the present "Y" building was completed.

Other recipients have been Ernest Mandy, Louis Thorson, William Pressley, Rev. Ernest Hasselblad and Gordon Cox.

In addition to his judo work, Mr. Matsuoka and his family find time to devote to their church and for many years Mr. Matsuoka has been active in Boy Scout work.

He began judo training when 9 years of age in the town of Kent, Wash., near Seattle. When World War II broke out, he, like many others of Japanese descent, was evacuated to a relocation center, going to California and later to Montana.

Some 25 years ago he came to Twin Falls to attend the wedding of a relative and decided it was a good place to stay. He took a job with Detweiler Bros. and moved here. Released from the relocation center, Mr. Matsuoka had retained his patriotic beliefs and entered the U. S. armed forces to serve several years, returning to Twin Falls on completion of that service.

Judo is the longest continuous program sponsored by the "Y". It began before the present building was completed with Mr. Matsuoka and a friend, Gene Humphrey, were approached by Richard Conner, then director of the "Y", and asked to conduct their judo activities under "Y" sponsorship. Until that time they were practicing for their own enjoyment and training a few of their friends.

RECOGNITION FOR SERVICE in conducting the longest continuous program of the YMCA in Twin Falls was given Guy Matsuoka during an awards dinner last week. Mr. Matsuoka directs the Twin Falls Judo Club and has been instructing in judo programs in Twin Falls and Castletown since the YMCA became an official organization here in 1962. Plaque displayed was awarded for his permanent possession and his name appears with five other winners on the large Evangeline M. White trophy at the YMCA building.

various of Idaho's territorial Government in 1963.

This has grown and continued as the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers Association. Their first chores of an official nature were to provide music for various community events around the state in 1963. Seldom is there any sheet music at an oldtime jamboree. One fiddler passes on a tune or a technique to another.

The tunes are older than the fiddlers and they are played by memory or possibly by instinct. Since officially organized, the old fiddlers have played for hospital, rodeos, county fairs, mountain picnics and social functions of their own enjoyment. Many will drive across the state for a jamboree or contest, play all night long and still be home in time for work the next day.

Manie Shaw, first chairman of the state's oldtime fiddlers organization, said the leaders have worked to encourage interest in old time music among younger people and many who have had an opportunity to learn "fiddlin'" and banjo "strummin'" from their parents or grandparents.

"The only way we can keep this fine tradition alive," he said, "is to encourage youngsters to take up the study and performing of oldtime music."

Much of the oldtime music is self taught and it isn't something to be learned in music classes. It must be passed on from generation to generation and present day oldtime musicians are hoping to do this through organizations such as the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers, their jamboree programs.

Like many other members, Mannie Shaw has conducted his own oldtime music activities in years past. Mannie's Jamboree which was held the first Sunday in August for many years at Corral ranch outgrew his home, his front yard and finally the ranch.

Before it was discontinued it drew international recognition including a story published in a Russian magazine which he has, but can't read.

Fiddlers' Program Will Feature Personalities

Among those who enjoy and help preserve the oldtime tunes are two fiddlers who also make their own fiddles and many of their fellow fiddlers.

Fred Craig, Twin Falls, who has made some 80 instruments since he began building violins after his retirement will be on hand to participate in the convention and jamboree. He has won a number of national awards for outstanding fiddle making.

Sam Daniels, Gooding, is also known among oldtime fiddlers throughout the country as an outstanding fiddle maker and will be participating in the convention and jamboree of the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers Feb. 6 and 7.

VISUALIZING PARK FACILITY Instead of a storage area for wrecked and abandoned car bodies, Don Zuck, chairman, County Parks and Recreation Commission, left, and Joseph LaVallee, County Zoning Administrator, discuss proposed county project. They estimate the 6.3-acre site along Rock Creek at the west entrance of Twin Falls could be developed with $25,000 in local funds to provide a recreational site for local residents and overnight facilities for tourists in campers and travel trailers. County officials are asking for an expression of public opinion before deciding if the site should be purchased.

Magic Valley Symphony Will Present All-Orchestra Concert On Thursday

For the first concert under its new title, the Magic Valley Symphony will present an all-orchestra program at 8 p.m. Thursday in the CSI Fine Arts Center. This is only the second such concert since the organization of the orchestra in September, 1969.

A varied selection of numbers of unusual interest to music lovers throughout the area will be performed. "Sinfonia Piccola" by Keckeli Suolahti will open the program. This young Finnish composer was only 16 years of age when he wrote this number, and he died when he was just 17.

The ever popular "Emperor Waltzes" by Johann Strauss, Jr. conclude the program.

Again patron tickets will admit entire families. Single admission tickets — both adult and student — are now on sale in downtown Twin Falls at the Warner Music Co. and the Mason Music Center, and in the Lywood Shopping area at the Sullivan Music Company. These

Taxpayers Asked: Do You Want New Park?

An estimated $25,000 in local money with matching federal funds could convert an unsightly rat-infested area now used for storage of old car bodies into an attractive and useable park.

The proposed development bordering Rock Creek just west of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is currently one of a number of wrecking lots the county hopes to have cleaned up and cleared of the discarded shells of wrecked automobiles.

The question being asked by county officials is: "Do the taxpayers of Twin Falls County feel it would be a worthwhile expenditure?"

Joseph LaVallee, county zoning administrator, and Don Zuck, chairman of the County Parks and Recreation Commission, inspected the site last week noting it would be ideal for use by both local residents and tourists entering the area via U. S. Highways 83 and 30.

Mr. LaVallee said the site includes 6.3 acres bordering Rock Creek and is now available for purchase by the county but the transaction should be made immediately if the county is to acquire the property.

Heber Loughmiller, county commission chairman, said this is the only way he knows to clean up the situation; but if taxpayers of the county object to the improvement the county does not plan to go ahead with it.

Mr. LaVallee said the county has been assured the cooperation of Jay Huddleston, who operates a baling machine for old car bodies. "We probably take 30 to 60 days to clean up the estimated 1,000 discarded car bodies."

Preliminary plans for the park include development of picnic areas, small playgrounds and facilities for campers and small travel trailers.

An access road now leads to the area and with some improvement could adequately provide two-way traffic for the park area. County and city officials have long been looking at Rock Creek Canyon as a potential recreation and beautification project.

"Mr. Zuck said this could be the first step toward this goal and the beginning of a major asset for this area. He said unless steps are taken now to preserve the area's resources and to curb pollution the future of Idaho could well follow that of other states where such problems are now insurmountable."

Mr. LaVallee said some type of screening or fencing would be necessary along the canyon rim because of another wrecking lot above. Landscaping would also include screening, probably plantings, along the opposite side of the creek to separate the property from a camper and travel trailers. The park could fill both needs and at the same time eliminate an unsightly condition and health hazard. He said a number of rats have been found in the abandoned car storage and steps should be taken to correct the condition.

Taxpayers are invited to voice their opinion on the proposed project, preferably in writing to the county zoning administrator's office.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Concern for others was expressed by Miss Duell McGhee, JEROME, who has been an invalid since she was 8 years old.

A childhood accident resulted in the loss of the use of her legs. She was playing with her brothers and jumped off a farm wagon onto a rusty nail. It did not appear to be serious at the time but approximately a month later, her knee swelled and eventually she lost the use of her legs. She used crutches until she was 17 and since that time she has been confined to a wheel chair.

She was born in Arkansas into a family of 11 and came to Idaho in 1938. Incidentally, all of the 11 brothers and sisters are still living.

Miss McGhee has lived alone since 1968 and does most of her own housework and cooking. A woman comes in twice a week to help her with what she cannot do and do her shopping. She has had a ramp built so she can go outside in her chair.

Miss McGhee's hobbies are reading and crossword puzzles. She has done knitting, crocheting and all kinds of needlework for sale. She designs and makes her own clothes by hand because she cannot operate a sewing machine. She says that ready made clothes have to be altered to fit so it is nearly as easy to make them. She has operated a telephone answering service and has worked on newspaper subscription campaigns.

She has been a member of the National Shut-In Society for 10 years and is the official representative for Idaho. She has had several articles published in the society's official publication. She is a member of the "Shut-In Day" Association which observes shut-in day the first Sunday in June, and is the routing reporter of this group.

Miss McGhee has been active in the Magic Valley Friendship Club for Handicapped Adults since its organization in 1968 at the home of Karlena Hillis. She has been president of the group several years and is presently president and reporter.

The club, which has about 26 members, meets once a month and is open to any interested person. There are several members who are not handicapped that help with transportation

Gooding To Host Clinic Thursday For Corn Growers

GOODING — All corn growers are invited to a corn production clinic at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Gooding Grange Hall, reports County Agent Ed Koester.

Specialists from the University of Idaho and corn seed companies will participate, with speakers including Robert Stowell, Sacramento, Calif.; Don Roemer, Twin Falls, Northrup King Co., and Dave Cusock, Dekalb Co.

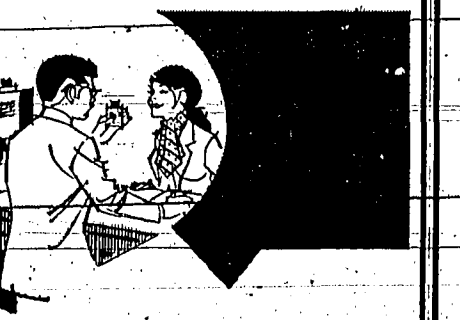

In the afternoon Dorrell Larsen, extension irrigator, Boise, will discuss irrigating corn, and Harry Fenwick, extension plant pathologist, Moscow, will talk on corn diseases.

Factors affecting stands and selection of seed for proper maturity will be described by a representative of the Crookham Seed Co., while Wayne Thiessen, extension soils specialist, will discuss corn fertilization.

Weed control in corn will be outlined by Robert Higgins, extension agronomist. Mr. Koester will close the clinic with a discussion of comparative value of feeding corn.

Assisting him in planning for the event are Don Simla, Lloyd Anderson, Ed Schutte, Ray McCall and pathologist, Moscow, will

CHAMPION JUNIOR LIGHTWEIGHT of the recent University of Utah Invitational Judo tournament in Salt Lake City, is Greg Dobbs, Twin Falls. The young champion is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dobbs, Twin Falls. The Utah match was his first major tournament, although he has been participating in judo activities the past two years.

Judo Champ At 10, Twin Falls Boy Follows Family Tradition

Ten-year-old Greg Dobbs has joined the rest of his family in the ranks of judo champions. One of 15 Twin Falls judo artists who participated in the University of Utah Invitational tournament earlier this month, he was the only one to bring home a championship trophy. He won honors as champion of the junior lightweight division of the event, which attracted more than 200 participants from throughout surrounding states. A year ago his older brother, Wiley, won a title in similar competition and his father-in-law, Mr. Tom M. Hill, won a title in a similar competition at the Paris zoo. In time, the pets become part of the family. It is at Christmas time the boy is supposed to die, on Christmas eve he dies, alone with the wolves.

This is a story full of heroism and bravery, coupled with an exciting wild animal adventure, suspense and a deep sustaining love.

Michel Bataille was born in Paris in 1926 and the winner of several literary awards. The book was translated by Harold J. Satemson. The original French edition was published under the title, 'L'Abre de Noel.'

Book Review

By THELMA BALLEISEN
Twin Falls Public Library

Bittersweet, yet deeply angry describes this unusual novel, beautifully written by young French author. The book has been made into a movie, which had a world premiere showing in October.

"Christmas Tree" by Michel Bataille is a very moving story of the relationship between a father and his ten-year-old son, who has only three months to live. The boy, Pascal, has been exposed to radiation from an exploded nuclear bomb that accidentally falls near him while they are vacationing.

After examinations and having heard the great doctor's prophecy, the father decided to take the boy, who he thinks is unaware of this fatal destiny, away to the country. The two of them leave Paris and retire to their fabulous family chateau in the Auvergne (French President George Pompidou has a chateau here).

There, they live out the child's waning days; free to enjoy, as much as possible, Pascal's still healthy life. While Laurent, the father, was confiding with a friend about the boy's condition, Pascal unexpectedly appeared and disclosed the fact that he had overheard the prognosis of his illness while in the hospital in Paris. Pascal wanted to keep this from his father because he knew it would make him unhappy. The two of them ride through the surrounding woods in the newly acquired blue tractor the boy had always wanted.

The boy had a passion for wolves and the father satisfies this obsession in a most ingenious way. He steals a pair of wolves from a Paris zoo. In time, the pets become part of the family. It is at Christmas time the boy is supposed to die, on Christmas eve he dies, alone with the wolves.

This is a story full of heroism and bravery, coupled with an exciting wild animal adventure, suspense and a deep sustaining love.

Michel Bataille was born in Paris in 1926 and the winner of several literary awards. The book was translated by Harold J. Satemson. The original French edition was published under the title, 'L'Abre de Noel.'

Windows Broken

The breakage of several windows in two businesses and a school in Twin Falls has been reported to city police officers.

Three holes in windows on the east side of the Addison Avenue Arctic Circle were made with a BB gun. Three windows at the Tobacco Service Station on Shoshone Street West also were broken with a BB gun. It was reported.

At St. Edwards' Catholic school about eight windows were broken by rocks, spreading glass and rocks on the floor of the eighth-grade room.

ONE WAY TO TOP TWO LOSING LINES

As the poet might have said, "There are nine and 40 ways of making losing plays and every single one of them is tried." Not that today's hand includes that many. As a matter of fact, the various South players we watched found only two losing lines.

All declarers ducked the first heart on general principles. Then one set of losers played a spade at trick three and finished dummy's jack. The other set of losers attacked the diamonds. The spade finessers lost to East's queen and wound up down one or two, while the diamond players wound up losing a minimum of two hearts, two diamonds and a club.

We didn't see anyone find the correct play until quite late in the evening.

The correct play is to lead the king of clubs after winning the second heart. It won't matter what the defense does. South will just keep on playing clubs and will wind up with three clubs and two top tricks in each other suit.

Of course, this line of play isn't likely to bring in any overtricks but, when you are in a 26-point game, you shouldn't really look for overtricks.

In addition, it isn't a 100 per cent play. If West holds both the ace and queen of clubs, as well as five hearts, you will go down. But the play is safe enough to last until you find an absolute certainty.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♣	Pass	1♠
Pass	3♣	Pass	4♣
Pass	4♣	Pass	5♣

You, South, hold:

♠AK98 ♣43 ♠752 ♠AJ73

What do you do now?

A—Bid five diamonds. Your partner is making some sort of slam try but you aren't interested.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three diamonds, your partner has bid two hearts over your one spade. What do you do now?

Americans Drinking Less Whisky; Wine Sales Rise

IF YOU'RE AVERAGE, 25 of your original 32 teeth will be bad, fixed or gone by the time you're 65. ... HALF the suicidal gunners who try to shoot themselves in the heart, miss. ... MAN FOR MAN, in the last 100 years, U.S. citizens are drinking less whiskey and more wine. Why? ... CERTAINLY, IT'S true your brain starts to shrink at about the age of 30, but that doesn't mean you get dumber. ... OH, BEFORE I FORGET, the only nesting population of skylarks left in North America is near Victoria on Vancouver Island.

CONSIDER THIS — How can a fellow with arthritis predict a change in the weather? Simple, writes an Omaha doctor. "Henry's Law states: 'The volume of a liquid or a gas in a closed container varies inversely with the barometric pressure.' In other words, when the barometric pressure falls, fluids in closed containers expand. This happens to the synovial fluids in sensitive joints, creating pain, which signals the drop in the barometric pressure and foretells a change in the weather."

CUSTOMER SERVICE — Q. "Do inhibitors in the skin-downy Hko crabs?" A. No, they walk forwards. But swim backwards. ... Q. "IS THERE ANY one year of our lives when we're supposed to be able to learn things faster?" A. Age 22 is said to be the best time for this. ... Q. "WHAT'S THE VALUE of a Stradivarius violin?" A. Cost: New York, N.Y. 10017.

most of them all — the "Mossie" in the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford? Englund — is said to be worth about $84,000. ... Q. "IN A FIGHT between an alligator and a python, which would win?" A. But as the snake wins. ... "TAPS" — "In which state was that haunting huge call known as 'Taps' first heard?" inquires a customer. Virginia was the place. Specifically, on the old Berkeley Plantation by the James River near Tidewater, Va. It was there, between Civil War battles, that Gen. Butterfield wrote those notes.

RAPID REPLY — Yes, Miss Y., your friend, that Los Angeles abolitionist named Dr. Stork, also deserves admittance in the Proper Job Club, certainly. ... "VODKA" — So you thought vodka was invented by the Russians, did you? Likewise, however, it's now reported the Peruvian Indians were making vodka in the year 88 A.D. And said to be the synovial fluids in closed in capsular-joints in sensitive joints, creating pain, which signals the drop in the barometric pressure and foretells a change in the weather. ... and on into Russia. No, I can't do inhibitors in the skin-downy Hko crabs? A. No, they walk forwards. But swim backwards. ... Q. "IS THERE ANY one year of our lives when we're supposed to be able to learn things faster?" A. Age 22 is said to be the best time for this. ... Q. "WHAT'S THE VALUE of a Stradivarius violin?" A. Fiddlers

Continued From Page A-1 with the Oldtime Fiddlers since he was nine years old and is considered by many members as a leading back-up player. "When he joined the organization," says Dorothy Bryson, convention chairman, "He had a guitar fiddle that he was and could only play the chords, but now he is one of our most faithful and talented members." Young Larry will be leaving next year and it may be some time before he is again playing with the Oldtime Fiddlers.

He has just received an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, where he will go immediately after High School.

Lloyd Wanzor, Caldwell, many times a national champion fiddle player, is a member of the state convention and jamboree. His experience as a "fiddler" have reached from road shows in Oklahoma to an appearance on the Lawrence Walk show.

In this time of economic uncertainty here are the facts you can count on.

Your money in a First Federal Savings account is completely SAFE. Your principal is absolutely insulated against fluctuation.

Your money in a First Federal Savings account is always 100% AVAILABLE. No Restrictions — No Delay!

Your money in a First Federal Savings account earns a solid rate of return. A full 5.25% on certificate deposit savings ($1,000 minimum-6 month basis) or 5% on passbook deposit savings — compounded semi-annually.

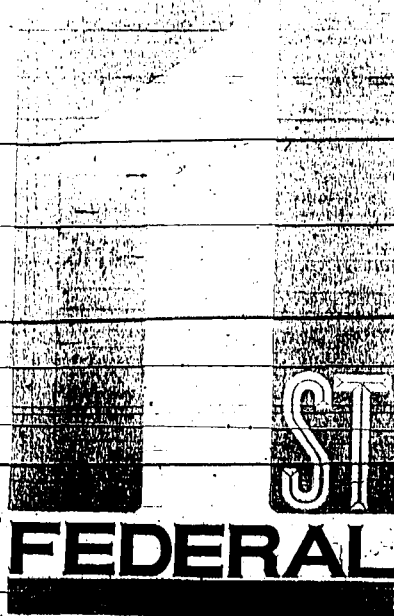

Your money may be deposited at the Twin Falls office or the Burley branch in any amount from $5 to $100,000. You can make any number of deposits or withdrawals as often as you wish without EVER paying a fee of any kind.

There always have been and no doubt always will be various ways of earning a higher rate of return on your funds. But to get that higher return you usually sacrifice some degree of availability or safety — or both! And in this time of economic uncertainty, that's something to think about.

POLLYE POINTERS

It's Knitted

Easy knitting in afghan-square style makes fast work of this pretty carriage cover! If you desire, knit another large enough for an afghan in left-over wools for that grumpy affect. No. 5426 has knit directions for both.

POLLYE POINTERS

DEAR POLLY

My matel trash can used to rust out too quickly until I discovered that its life can be increased by drilling a dozen or so holes in the bottom. Drill holes from the inside out so burrs do not form and paint with a rust preventative.—DENNIS K.

DEAR POLLY

Instead of spraying paint on old picture frames it is much easier to spray the paint on some waxed paper and then apply it to the frame with a small brush. Also saves a lot of paint.—ALAN

DEAR POLLY

Even the very sound sleepers in our house who customarily sleep through the ringing of an alarm clock will wake up if the clock is placed on a tin plate.—DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY

When painting and you do not want to bother with cleaning a palette, secure a piece of waxed paper to the palette or just lay it all down on a flat surface. When you have finished roll the paper up and throw it away.—CAROLYN

DEAR POLLY

Last summer when my sister-in-law was visiting us I noticed they had a night light plugged in in their room. She said they always carry one whenever traveling and find this saves groping around in a strange room at night. This is especially good in motels.—MARILYN

DEAR POLLY

Who ever heard of a person wearing a white cotton-glove while shredding carrots, cabbage, etc.? Well, I did because the last time I shredded part of my thumb along with the vegetables. This is the way to keep my thumb intact. If you have an old pair of gloves around slip one on and shred away.—MRS. C.M.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR DR. JAMES A. BRUSSEL,

author of "Casebook of a Crime Psychiatrist"

You had some pertinent comments about the Boston Strangler and Mad Bomber cases and many others. Do you have an opinion about the Sharon Tate murder in Hollywood? — Charles Wright, Utica, N.Y.

● The group charged with the Tate and other murders constitutes what psychiatry calls "sociopathic behavior," which comprises character disorders including criminality, sexual deviation, drug addiction, etc. These individuals are from birth or early development lacking in emotional stability. They have no use for social mores, and are disdainful of sentiment such as the Golden Rule, patriotism, and the rights of others.

FOR PEG BRACKEN,

author of "I Hate to Cook Cookbook"

If you hate to cook, what do you love to do? — D. Deutsch, Jamaica, N.Y.

● I love to read, snorkel, play tennis, write, walk, travel, hang wallpaper, make fudge (I don't consider that cooking), bird-watch, drink, talk to people who interest me, and learn things.

FOR JOHN C. METZLER,

superintendent, Arlington National Cemetery

Is President Franklin Roosevelt buried in Arlington? — Leo Smith, Chicago, Ill.

● President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt are interred side by side on the grounds of the late President's ancestral home, located at Hyde Park, New York.

FOR JOHN SPRINGER,

author of "All Talking, All Singing, All Dancing"

Has Charlie Chan ever been played on the screen by a Chinese? — Conrad Florello, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● No. Warner Oland was a Swede. Such other Chans as Sidney Toler, Roland Winters, and radio's Ed Bradley were very Occidental, too. A Japanese actor, Sojini, played him as a very minor, pre-Oland supporting role. But no Chinese.

FOR TULLAH HANLEY,

art collector

Is it true that a large part of the T. Edward Hanley Collection will be given to museums? If so, where are the museums? — John Martin, Dallas, Texas

● Yes—it is true. The paintings are going to the Denver Museum in Colorado and the DeYoung Museum in San Francisco. The books are going to the University of Texas Library in Austin.

FOR NINO LO BELLO, author of

"The Vatican Empire"

How much does the Pope receive in salary? — Mrs. Bertha Smyth, Winsted, Conn.

● When he was Cardinal Montini of Milan, Pope Paul VI received about $900 a month. But as Supreme Pontiff, he receives no salary.

FOR MICHAEL PARKS

of "Then Came Bronson"

Who makes the motorcycle you ride on your television show? — Carmine F. Vava, Jr., K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Marquette, Mich.

● It is a Harley-Davidson 900cc Sportster (modified).

FOR KATE SMITH

Recently on the "Dean Martin Show" you looked so young and beautiful that the next day at work some girls and I started discussing your age. Would you mind telling how old you are? — Mrs. George Brown, Lancaster, Pa.

● Many thanks for your very kind and flattering comment. It really buoy's the spirits of somebody who was 60 years old on May 1, 1969. I am very thankful to God that I feel so great and active, especially after my recent major surgery.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

What in the World!

NASA's Texas Rose After each successful splashdown of an Apollo moonflight, it has become a tradition for everyone involved to light up a cigar—and that includes pretty, blonde Poppy Northcutt. As a member of the computer staff for TRW Systems Group at NASA's Mission Control Center in Houston, Poppy is a mathematician responsible for computer information for maneuvers which bring Apollo spacecraft and crew out of moon gravity and home from the moon. The 25-year-old native Texan is the only distaff member of the crew of engineers and technicians. A graduate of the University of Texas with a math degree, Frances "Poppy" Northcutt works in the Flight Dynamics Support Room for the electronics firm which built the Lunar Module descent engine. Though Poppy is on equal status with the men, one retro officer in Mission Control commented: "Having Poppy on the team has sure cleaned up our language!"

Frances "Poppy" Northcutt

Hiccups Cure? At Boston City Hospital, an aide, with the physicians' approval, experimented with a new hiccups "cure." He seats the sufferer upright, then tilts the head back while applying one drop of ammonia in each nostril. This is followed by a few minutes of oxygen inhalation, which produced 100-percent success in the 57 patients who tried it. If you're hiccupping, get your own physician's opinion first before trying this!

Choices on the House When a family goes house-hunting, a multitude of personality traits comes into play. A survey made by a New Jersey development firm, Hovnanian Enterprises, showed that there are certain psychological differences between men and women in the way they regard a house. For example, women expressed greater concern in a home as a place in which to raise children. Also, a woman is more interested in the home's convenience factor since she spends more time in it than probably any member of the family. (The home has to reflect her feminine personality, yet be practical, economical, and comfortable.)

summer vacations together. One of my favorites was when I was seven, and we went to see the Indians. The greatest thrill was getting to know a real Cheyenne. He let me take his picture in full dress. But it also became my worst disillusionment: my 'friend' charged me 25¢ for posing!"

Discover the secrets of gift decorating!

Before you know it, creating a decorative and useful canister like this "just comes naturally!"

Folk may begin bidding for a beautiful one-of-a-kind wall plaque like this even before the paint is dry.

A few dabs of paint and a rusty weather-beaten mailbox becomes this charming bread box.

A "no-talent" housewife brought this wooden truck back to "life"—with gift decorating.

Gift decorating turned this old coffee pot into a $50.00 keepsake.

Once a rusty frying pan—gift decorating turned it into a collector's treasure.

You can create beautiful gifts like these even if you've never painted before.

(—and make up to $50 a week selling your gifts, if you choose.)

IMAGINE! Just a little paint... 3 simple brush strokes... and you can turn trash into treasures, junk-pile discards into glamorous gifts—even if you've never held a brush before. In your hands a battered old coffee pot now becomes a work of art... a rusted tea kettle changes into a charming gift planter... a forgotten camel-back trunk becomes a beautiful hand-painted hope chest.

It's easy—no special talent needed! Today the Decorative Arts Institute is helping thousands of men and women create beautiful decorator pieces at home. You, too, will be thrilled to discover you can create lovely treasures—even if you can't draw a straight line. Mrs. Ruth Miner of Lubbock, Texas writes: "I never had a brush in my hand before but after the first 2 lessons I have sold to our largest department store!"

What's the secret? The discovery that with 3 simple brush strokes (the same strokes used to apply lipstick), you can decorate for fun or profit, as you choose. Quickly and easily you'll see exquisite ROSES and FLAVERS, FRUIT, CUPIDS and BOWS, BIRDS and BUTTERFLIES... come alive under your brush as if by magic!

Earn while you learn at home

Even as a beginner you may find friends, decorators, even gift shops eagerly bidding for your unusual one-of-a-kind creations—some these offering $10, $15, even $20 for one. Soon after starting, Mrs. Eileen Haer of Hot Springs, Arkansas writes: "I know my work is the real great yet, but my things are being grabbed before they're dry!"

Go an antique treasure hunt!

Everywhere you look—attics, basements, barns, sheds, junk-shops, second-hand stores—you'll find "treasures-in-the-rough"—awaiting only a few strokes to turn them into stunning objects of art. Friends may beg you to create lovely hand-painted decorator pieces for their homes, too. "My friends and neighbors," says Mrs. Marilyn Belford of Tulsa, Oklahoma, "have kept me busy painting milk cans and recipe boxes, and I've done two trunks. What a happy whirl I'm in!" And within days from now you, too, can be in a happy whirl enjoying the fun, the excitement, and if you wish, the profits of decorating gifts at home.

Enjoy 15-day Examination

The complete Course is shipped to you at once. Yes, you get everything in one big shipment... 42-piece decorator's kit—87 patterns—24 lessons—all the "hints," "tricks," and "decorating" supplies you need—and much, much more! Yet the entire Course is yours for only $49.50 complete, plus shipping, if delighted with 15 day trial first. And even this small amount may be paid in easy monthly installments. This has to be the biggest value of its kind in America which you consider that you're getting many of the basic materials offered in the nationally advertised Advanced Course which sold for $142.50.

Students create beautiful gifts, then send letters praising the joys and profits of gift decorating.

"I cleared $250.00 last month—and I didn't even leave the house!"

—Lois Pullio, Louisiana

"I have acquired 30 school desks... which I am refinishing... I have them practically all sold."

—ROBERT WITTMANN, New York

"Wanted you to know how very pleased I have been with your course. And I didn't know how to hold a brush—the beginning!"

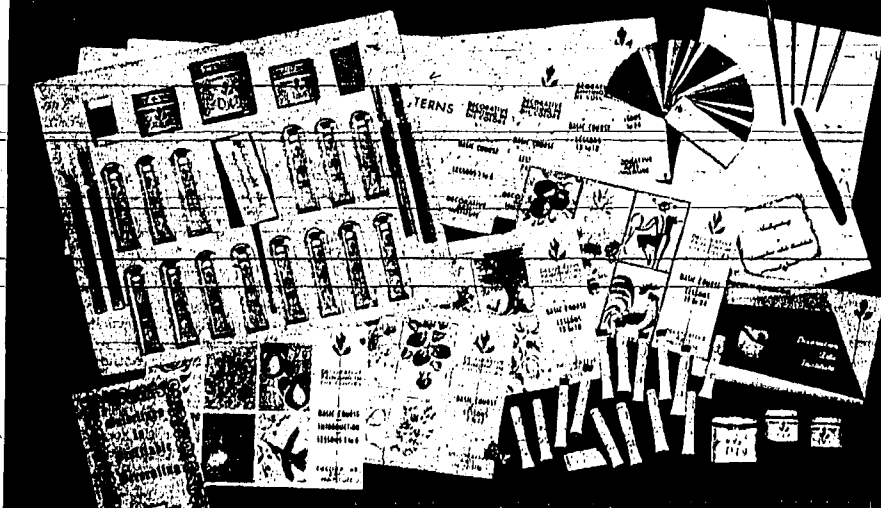

—LOUISE DITZ, California

"Nothing I can think of now could give me more pleasure than recommending Decorative Arts Institute. My objective in taking their course was to supplement social security and a small monthly pension. This I am doing."

—Joan F. Wilson, Pennsylvania

Should Mom Get a Salary?

A proposal that the Government

ATENTION ALL mothers, present and future: how would you like to receive a salary for staying home and raising your children?

A bombshell proposal to put all mothers on the Government payroll was recently advanced by a leading university professor. He calls it "social security for motherhood" and argues it's high time America began compensating women in cold hard cash for investing so much time, energy, and work in keeping house and rearing the next generation of citizens.

Author of the idea is Dr. David G. Gil, a social scientist at Brandeis University. Since 1965, he had been in charge of the U.S. Children's Bureau's nationwide study of the child-abuse epidemic—the "battered child" phenomenon. He was also a consultant to the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence.

Dr. Gil's plan, formulated over a period of years as he studied the plight of America's mothers, carries a jolting price tag—about $40 billion a year, he estimates. However, it would substitute for all of the present welfare programs involving mothers and children.

The proposal published in Children, a professional journal of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, has already triggered hot controversy among experts in and out of Government, including some mothers themselves.

Here is how it would work: As soon as a woman learns she is about to have a baby, she would register a claim for wages at her local Social Security office.

Each month thereafter, she would receive by mail a check for $300, or a total annual pay for $3,600, the current minimum wage authorized by law. If this is eventually increased, mother, too, will get a raise.

The number of children or the family's social or income level won't affect payments, however. At the beginning of each month, the mailman would deliver checks in the same amount to the wife of a barber in central Alabama, to Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis in New York, and to mothers in ghetto tenements and suburban split-levels. As long as they are not working and earning money, motherhood pay would come in regularly.

To help larger families, Dr. Gil says the plan could be tied in with some sort of family allowance system for "all legal minors."

Payment would continue until the mother's care is no longer needed for her children, an age to be specified by law after evaluation by experts.

Being married would not necessarily be a requirement. Any mother would collect.

If a mother wants to take an outside job, she must forfeit her "mom pay," but arrangements could be worked out to permit her to work part time and get reduced mother's wages. Dr. Gil believes, however, that even mothers with full-time jobs should receive some compensation "because motherhood is a 24-hour proposition. When she comes home from work, there is still a great deal she must do for her children."

The reaction? Explosive on both sides, as you might expect:

Mrs. Robert Wacker, Jr. of Westwood, N.J., who has five boys under 16, asks: "What could be better than being paid for something you love to do? The idea is tremendous. Let's make Dr. Gil President!"

Mrs. Mary Chollin of East Rockaway, N.Y., who has two grown children but three others 13 and younger, agrees: "Mothers are practically at the mercy of the breadwinner. Actually, many of us must ask for hand-outs every time we need more money for the house or any extras. And who likes that?"

But another mother in Niles, Ill., snaps tartly: "That professor must have a computer for a brain and some other kind of machinery for a heart. I rear my three babies out of love for them and their father. Being offered money for what I am doing would be like being paid for sleeping with my husband! I'd feel like hired help or far worse."

Caroline Bird, author of "Born Female—the High Cost of Keeping Women Down," says, "This will add immeasurably to woman's self-esteem. We live in a money society where everything has its value. And yet the most important thing in it is outside the payment system. Anything done just for love, even raising children, is bound to lose in practice."

Betty Friedman, the famed feminist, thinks the idea is great—but doesn't go far enough. The author of "The Feminine Mystique," who is president of the National Organization for Women, would like mothers to be paid whether they work or not. "Otherwise," she claims, "the money becomes a bonus to keep them out of the labor force and in the kitchen."

Miss Friedman would also allow mothers income-tax deductions for

A $40 Billion Question!

By LESTER DAVID

pay monthly wages for all mothers-at-home has stirred a hot controversy child-care expenses, such as housekeeping and baby sitters.

On the other hand, the former director of the U.S. Women's Bureau in Washington under President Lyndon Johnson is hardly enthusiastic. Mrs. Mary Dublin Keyserling agrees that no family should be deprived of a minimum annual income, but "I don't want to see payment made for rearing children, which I think is the greatest pleasure in the world."

She adds: "Both parents have equal responsibility in the home. Both rear the children. I do not believe that emphasis should be placed solely on a woman's contribution. It would be like paying one half of a team for a job accomplished by both."

Clark W. Blackburn, general director of the Family Service Association of America, also casts a negative vote for the same reason. "To me," he says, "the plan puts too much emphasis upon the woman and too little on the needs of the family. In some minority groups the male is the one who needs to be built up in terms of job training and job opportunities. Any plan that omits this over-all consideration would tend to further weaken family life."

Several economists interviewed winced at the expense of the program. "Where will the money come from?" asks Dr. Martin R. Gainsburgh, chief economist and senior vice-president of the National Industrial Conference Board. "The tax burden is bound to be oppressive and, besides, we will still have with us plenty of other problems such as inadequate housing and education, juvenile delinquency, broken families."

Dr. Gil is aware that his proposal raises many complex issues, one of which is that when a husband is working and his wife stays at home, she'll collect mother's pay, but when a wife is working and husband stays home because of joblessness or illness, he won't collect "father's pay." Another problem is the program's $40 billion-a-year cost.

However, an out-of-work or ill husband does collect various welfare benefits, and even the $40 billion estimates may be on the high side. For example, Dr. Gil points out, husbands will no longer be able to claim wives as dependents, meaning more income-tax dollars for Uncle Sam. In addition, some mother's pay will be returned to the Government in taxes, and the more affluent families will return a larger share proportionally because of their high tax bracket.

Finally, Dr. Gil would enrich the tax coffers by plugging up the loopholes through which the Government loses vast sums annually. Joseph W. Barr, Secretary of the Treasury in President Johnson's cabinet, said just before he left office that the total revenue loss from these loopholes tops $50 billion yearly.

Society, Dr. Gil believes, has a vital stake in and a deep responsibility for the rearing of children.

"We rely upon them for nothing less than the continuity and survival of our way of life," he declares. "The least we can do is pay the people who bring them into the world and prepare them for a place in it." *

She is one of thousands of American women who live in a limbo, not knowing the fate of their husbands missing in Vietnam; she has only this plea to Hanoi:

Is My Husband Dead

By MRS. CANDACE PARISH

It was only natural for "Candy" Egan to marry a pilot. Her father was a Navy flier, and as soon as she was old enough to be accepted, at 20, she began flying as an airline stewardess. That was in November, 1965. A few months later, she met Charles Parish, a young pilot who had just won his wings in the Navy, and they were married the following November. This is her story:

THE ORDEAL doesn't begin very differently for any of the women, the more than 1,335 wives and mothers whose husbands or sons are missing in Vietnam.

Mine began that hot Thursday afternoon of July 26, 1968. My husband, Lt. Charles C. Parish, U.S.N., was flying an F-4 Phantom Jet off the carrier America in the Tonkin Gulf. I had spent our honeymoon at Virginia Beach and come home to be with my parents in Alexandria, Va., while our baby was born.

Hunter was a beautiful baby with golden hair and blue eyes. He was not yet three weeks old the day that our telephone began ringing.

My parents had gone out, and I was alone in the house. The calls were from Navy officers, asking for my father. He's also in the Navy, so I didn't attach any significance to it, though there were a number of calls.

I didn't know that the callers were trying to reach my father so he could break the news to me, or that one of our friends was driving around the local shopping center looking for my parents to tell them that Chuck had been shot down over North Vietnam.

My parents returned at about 4 p.m. and immediately there was another telephone call. I was feeding the baby. After I placed Hunter in his crib, Daddy came into the living room and said there was bad news.

Quietly, he told me all that was known. Chuck's plane had been hit over North Vietnam. Another flier had seen his plane going down at 6,000 feet and tried to make radio contact, but received no answer; he assumed both crewmen already had ejected. Chuck's plane was seen to crash—"impact" was the Navy word—in Communist territory. If Chuck were able to hide and make radio contact, a rescue mission might still pick him up. We would be informed.

I always knew it was possible that my husband might be shot down. It had happened to others and could happen to him. But I never really believed it. Even in peacetime the wife of any man who flies realizes that on any flight something may go wrong. But she puts the thought out of her mind, or buries it so deeply that it rarely surfaces for more than an instant.

Chuck and I knew that one day his ship would be sent to Vietnam. We knew this early in 1967, when we had been married for less than three months and the America sailed to join the fleet in the Mediterranean.

I flew over that February along with many of the officers' wives, and we had a wonderful time, meeting our husbands at every port the ship visited, then going swimming, sight-seeing, and shopping together. But there was a general belief among us that after this cruise, the America's next duty station would be Vietnam.

In August, we wives returned from Europe on a plane we had chartered. When Chuck's ship sailed into Hampton Roads, I was waiting for him, and we rented a house at Virginia Beach. Again, it was a wonderful time. The house was right on the beach, and other fliers and their wives would come over in the evenings.

We knew it was transitory. That's part of service life, and you accept it. So was Vietnam, and we accepted without words that Chuck's squadron would take its turn at combat flying.

We knew this when I became pregnant, but we didn't talk about it. And I wouldn't change anything. Those were glorious months. We were incredibly happy.

When I was five-months pregnant, Chuck sailed for Vietnam. When Hunter was born on July 5 in DeWitt Army Hospital at Ft. Belvoir, Va., the fact that I was the only woman in the maternity ward whose husband was not with her didn't worry me. I had Chuck's letters and tapes to read and listen to—and I just knew I had the handsomest baby ever.

Chuck was informed by cable, and his taped reply was ecstatic. When I got home, I sent him a tape of the baby crying and told him: "Set your alarm for 2 a.m., then get up and play this. This is what it sounds like at that hour every morning in this house." Chuck never had a chance to answer.

When Daddy told me that Chuck was down, that it actually had happened, I couldn't believe it. I heard it, I knew it was true, but I couldn't accept it.

Chuck is six-foot-one, 180 pounds, alert, resourceful, and full of life. People like that don't just disappear. That first day, I kept thinking they would hear from him, pick up a radio signal to home in on, and winch him up to a helicopter and safety. It had happened before and it would happen this time. Only it never did.

That evening at about 9 o'clock a chaplain and another officer came to call. The officer was assigned to keep me posted on any information the Navy received and to help me with the financial affairs regarding Chuck's pay and allotments. An officer is assigned to every woman in my situation, and they do everything they can to help.

In spite of their best efforts and the efforts of many kind people, it's a very personal nightmare. Mine began that summer afternoon and is still going on.

I took our baby and went back to Virginia Beach, where Chuck and I had been together. We lived in a townhouse apartment. Hunter, our daughter Sasha, and I. Two months later, the bundle containing Chuck's belongings was delivered. That was a particularly difficult time, unpacking and putting away his clothes, his toilet articles, his camera. Those first months were the worst. Sometimes a few wives of fliers would get together for dinner or a movie, but it was hard to feign cheerfulness in our position.

A news report that Christmas said arrangements were being made to release American fliers held by Hanoi. Later, we were told it had been an error in translation. In the beginning, I hung on every word, every story that mentioned the prisoners in North Vietnam. But there would always be that awful letdown, the realization that there wasn't going to be any list of names or free exchange of mail, at least not this time.

Some of the wives still go through this at every scrap of news or rumor that comes from the Paris talks or from pacifist groups here or abroad. I don't, not any more. I won't let myself get excited. I wait to be notified. I think I'm storing it all up inside me, and it will spill out all over some officer who one day brings me news of Chuck. That poor officer is going to have a scene on his hands.

Last September I came to Washington, D.C., with a number of wives whose husbands were missing or known to be prisoners in Vietnam. We visited the House of Representatives, and the House passed a resolution condemning North Vietnam for its refusal to abide by the Geneva Convention on treatment of prisoners by not furnishing a list of prisoners.

Afterward, there was a reception for the families, and we discussed what else we could do. We had formed the National League of Families of American Prisoners to exchange information, work together, and try to help one another. It's one organization that nobody wants to join, and new members are never welcome.

or Alive?

After trying so long to be patient and unobtrusive, it felt good to be making ourselves heard, to know that voices were being raised on our behalf. I had thought for some time about going to Paris to ask the Communist delegates to the peace talks whether they couldn't please give me some word of my husband. I watched the Paris trip of four women from Texas—the first of 22 relatives who would visit the North Vietnamese delegation—and when I read that they were assured by the Communists that they would receive word of their husbands, my mind was made up.

I moved home from Virginia Beach, and on Sept. 28 I flew from New York to Paris in the company of four other wives and the father-in-law of one of the missing men. We arrived on a Sunday night.

On Monday we obtained the number of the North Vietnamese delegation's headquarters and telephoned them. They promised to call back and let us know when we might be received. At 10:30 Saturday morning, Oct. 4, we were told we had a 4:30 appointment. We were there at 4:20. Four men received us and began taking information: pictures for identification, birth dates, service number, rank and branch, date shot down, and so on.

We sat in a large room that I vaguely recall was decorated with some Oriental art and were served several cups of Oriental tea accompanied by North Vietnamese candy and French cakes. I was told that Ho Chi Minh's picture was hanging just above where I sat, but I was so nervous I never saw it.

All I could think of was that these men could tell me about Chuck and deliver to him the letters and pictures of me and of the baby that I had brought all this distance.

This is the closest I've been to him since he vanished, I thought, and I was terrified that I might do or say something to ruin our chances—his and mine. Everyone was being very polite and formal during the two hours and 15 minutes we were there. The North Vietnamese spokesman was Xuan Oanh.

Candace Parish packs items into gift box for her Navy husband she thinks is held captive in North Vietnam. She never knows if packages get to him. Their son Hunter joins in.

We were asked what instructions the Pentagon had given us, but we explained that we were acting entirely on our own, with no guidance from the Defense Department. Xuan Oanh suggested that the Pentagon was intercepting our mail and that was why we hadn't heard from our husbands.

But one woman refuted this by saying she had received eight letters and four postcards from her husband in North Vietnam in the four years since he was taken prisoner. They were addressed to her home and were delivered. We said we felt certain that if more letters were mailed from the prison camps, they would be delivered.

We sat through two films, one showing damage from napalm bombing and the other showing the release of three American prisoners in August, 1968. We had brought with us letters and pictures from relatives of other missing servicemen, which we gave to our hosts. We asked if it would be necessary for each of these women to come to Paris to learn of their men's fate, and the North Vietnamese said it would not be necessary, that relatives could just write.

When we asked whether we could do anything to help our husbands, we were told we should join Dr. Spock and Women Strike for Peace and demonstrate against the war. But I don't know of a single wife or parent of a man who is missing or captured in Vietnam who has done this.

On returning from Paris, I really thought that I would get word of Chuck. When someone makes such a direct promise, on a matter that is so important, I tend to believe him. Perhaps I believed because it meant so much to me. But with each week, I'm less confident. North Vietnam said in 1968 and again in 1969 that we could send packages to our husbands. Both times I sent Chuck medication—ointment for ringworm, body lice, infections—and vitamins, candy, letters, pictures, books, cards. But I don't know whether he received them.

I keep active, for busy days pass quicker. I went to the United Nations when Mrs. Rita Houser, America's representative to the Human Rights Commission, raised the issue of the prisoners in November. I've been interviewed on television, and I speak to church groups, women's clubs, civic groups, any assembly that is interested in hearing about the plight of the captives in North Vietnam: how they are awakened at 5:30 a.m., listen to 30 minutes of "Hanoi Hannah's" version of the news, are fed pumpkin soup at 10:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., the only meals of the day, and are kept isolated and idle in order to break their spirit.

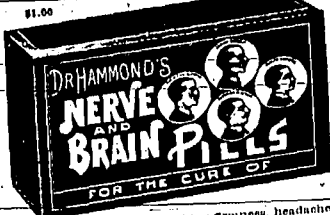

To interested groups, I suggest that they write to the President of North Vietnam and ask for humane treatment for our men. We make no demands on Hanoi. We are just asking, really we are begging, for word of our husbands and sons.

Even were I to hear from Chuck before this is published, this nightmare will have lasted far too long.

Sweets for Valentine's Day

MELANIE DE PROFT

Food Editor

What better way to express your love for family and friends on Valentine's Day than by surprising them with tempting food—beautiful and sumptuous.

Cherry Bavarian Valentine

- 2 env. unflavored gelatin
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 jar (8 oz.) red maraschino cherries, drained and chopped
- Syrup from maraschino cherries plus water to make ¼ cup
- 6 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 drops red food coloring
- 6 egg whites
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 cups heavy cream, whipped to soft peaks
- Maraschino cherries for garnish

1. Combine gelatin, ginger, and salt in top of double boiler. Add cherry syrup, egg yolks, and milk; blend thoroughly. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved and mixture is slightly thickened.

2. Remove from heat and chill until mixture mounds when dropped from spoon. Stir in the chopped maraschino cherries and the red food coloring.

3. Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually add sugar, beating constantly until stiff peaks are formed. Fold in cherry mixture. Reserve ¼ cup whipped cream and fold remaining whipped cream into cherry mixture. Turn the mixture into a 10-cup heart-shaped mold (see note) and chill at least 4 hrs. or overnight.

4. Unmold onto a serving plate and outline heart shape with cherries on top of mold (see photo). Force reserved whipped cream through star tube in cake decorator to make fluting around cherry heart.

About 19 servings

Note: If you do not have a large heart-shaped mold, one can easily be made from aluminum foil. Cut a heart from heavy cardboard, making it 10 inches across at the widest part and 9½ inches from the tip of the heart to the depres-

Declare your affection for those you love with Cherry Bavarian Valentine, delicate pink-and-white heart-shaped dessert, accented with red maraschino cherries.

tion. Slip the heart shape between two sheets of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Turn up the foil to form a 2-inch deep mold. Smooth and trim.

Cinnamon Hearts

- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- Curran jelly
- Cinnamon Candy Frosting (see recipe)

1. Sift the flour, sugar, cinnamon, and salt together into a bowl. Cut in the butter or margarine with a pastry blender or two knives until particles are the size of rice kernels. Gather into a ball and knead lightly with fingertips until mixture holds together.

2. Working with a portion of the dough at a time, roll dough ¼ in. thick on a lightly floured surface. Cut out with a lightly floured 2-in. heart-shaped cookie cutter. Transfer hearts to ungreased cookie sheets.

3. Bake at 350°F. 8 to 10 min., or until very lightly browned. Cool on wire racks.

4. Whip curran jelly with a fork and sandwich cooled cookies together with a small amount of jelly. Decorate with Cinnamon Candy Frosting.

About 3 doz. filled cookies

Note: On a busy day remember the cookie mixer and refrigerated doughs available in the market. Sandwich the cooled baked cookies together with pink-tinted commercial frosting also prepared from a mix.

Cinnamon Candy Frosting

Combine 1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies and 1 tablespoon water in a small saucepan; heat until candies are melted. Gradually add ¼ cup confectioners' sugar, sifted, to hot mixture; blend until smooth. Mix in cream (about 1 tablespoon) until frosting is of spreading consistency.

Pope Paul's Encyclical on Birth Control!

You've read about it in the press, of course, and heard it discussed on radio and TV.

And you've heard it challenged, debated and criticized as unrealistic, behind the times, not in keeping with modern man's social needs. You are asked by some to consider birth control not as a moral question, but as a matter of economics, over-population, and sophisticated family planning.

But the Holy Father... as the Vicar of Christ on earth... has the divine command and consequent obligation to instruct the faithful on matters of faith and morals. And birth control... for all its social and material aspects... involves a most basic question of Christian morality!

So that you may read exactly what the Holy Father did say, we have put the complete text of Pope Paul's Encyclical on Birth Control into a handy pocket-size pamphlet which we'll be glad to send you free upon request. Just ask for Pamphlet PM-69. No obligation... no cost... and nobody will call on you.

Tomorrow's Weather?

Ask the Famous
ROYAL CRYSTAL SWAN
... tonight ...

What a beautiful and delightful way to tell the weather! Set up this sparkling Royal Crystal Swan. Place it on your TV, table, shelf, mantle-piece, near a window, etc. Then be prepared for a pleasant surprise! As you watch, the ruby-red liquid creeps up or down in a strange, almost eerie sort of way. If it surges up into the graceful swan's neck, you are forewarned: stormy weather is in the offing. But when the liquid drops, be of good cheer! A beautiful, fair day beckons. Young and old are entranced by the uncanny-like actions. Soon everyone's asking:

"WHAT MAKES IT WORK?"

The truth is, this Royal Crystal Swan is really a clever Rudimentary Barometer in disguise. The shimmering ruby liquid surges up or falls in direct response to atmospheric pressure. Exactly like weather bureau barometers in Washington, San Francisco, New York, Chicago, etc.

HOW - OUTGUES THE WEATHERMAN!
It's such fun to be your own weatherman. Put this Royal Crystal Swan to work for you. Then see how you score against that faraway weatherman. See if you can't beat him in divining local weather conditions - within a radius of 25 miles of your home!

SO EASY TO OPERATE!

So easy to use! No complicated readings to interpret. No difficult adjustments. Yet this simple little invention really works. . . It always reacts to changes in atmospheric pressure in the same manner as a $1000.00 instrument.

A MASTERPIECE OF CRYSTAL ART

Our picture gives only a faint idea of the true beauty of this statuette. Note the finely detailed body - the long, majestic neck . . . the pure, gleaming crystal! Not stamped or mass produced from cheap, brittle plastic! Each and every one is individually blown and hand shaped by a clever, deft artisan. So exquisite! So truly aristocratic! But you must see it to really appreciate it. You will be delighted to see how it adds new beauty and drama to any room!

QUIZ

The Truth About Home Safety

By TERRY GALANOY

SAFETY, like charity, should begin at home, where we all spend so much time in so many potentially dangerous situations. Yet many people still have false conceptions about simple home-safety rules.

This quiz may throw some light on how much you really know about safety in the home. But be careful! Some of the true and false statements are intentionally made tricky.

1. With the development of new and powerful insecticides, you don't have to put screens in the windows any more.

2. If your clothing catches fire, you should run outside and roll on the ground.

3. You should not use old iodine on cuts because age makes it much weaker.

4. Babies should have very small toys to play with so that they can handle them safely.

5. Phosphorous or glow-in-dark paper can be used to mark poisons in the medicine chest.

6. Long electric cords should be run under rugs and carpets so that playing children won't trip over them and fall.

7. Electric blankets should be pinned straight and flat on the bed so they won't fold over and create a shock hazard.

8. Sharp knives are less dangerous than dull knives.

9. You should always wear rubber-soled shoes when you use your washer and dryer because you could slip on the wet floor.

ANSWERS

1. False. Screens are also needed to keep babies and small children from falling out.

2. False. Running fans flames. Lie down on the nearest rug, blanket, or coat and roll in it or douse yourself with water.

3. False. Age makes iodine stronger, dangerously stronger. Old iodine can actually burn the skin and tissue because it's concentrated.

4. False. Toys smaller than baby's fist and parts like eyes, buttons, etc., can be put in the mouth and choke the child.

5. False. Poisons should not be kept in the medicine chest. If a dangerous substance must be kept there, it should be taped over the top twice so that it can't be opened without some concentration and thought. Another trick is to tape a piece of sandpaper to dangerous bottles so that you can feel those in the dark.

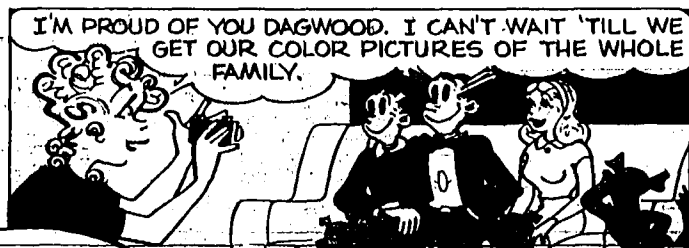

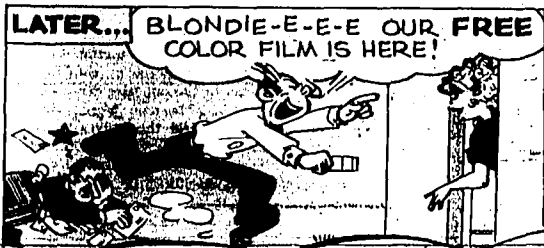

6. False. Electric cords placed under carpets can wear and fray down to the bare wires and start a fire.

7. False. The most positive way to set up a shock hazard is to start sticking pins into an electric blanket. Folded-over blankets set up no such hazard.

8. True. The sharper the knife, the less pressure you have to use for cutting. The less pressure, the less chance of slippage, which is the prime cause of most knife cuts at home.

9. False. You could slip on the wet floor, but that's not the main reason for wearing rubber-soled shoes. The real protection you get from them is electric-shock insulation that could travel from your electric laundry appliances across the wet floor to you.

SPEED LISTENING—

A New Way to Learn Faster

By ALAN D. HAAS

IF TIME IS money, as it has often been said, then we may all be in for a raise, thanks to language researchers studying superspeed speaking.

Anyone who has ever listened to a speeded-up tape recorder giving out with those shrill and squeaky comical sounds, knows that speech occurs at a standard fixed rate.

Now language experts are beginning to tell us that it is definitely possible to compress speech into half or even a third of its normal time, with increased comprehension.

In fact, these experts say, compressing speech into fractions of its normal time can command more attention than normal talking rates. Conventionally, we operate in "low gear" in speech, but along with speed writing and speed reading, there is really no reason we cannot have speed listening.

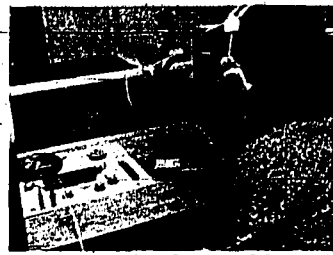

Various machines are being developed at the present time which toss out unneeded sounds with discrimination, enabling the listener to learn more in less time. These devices, however, are all designed to improve the rate at which we can learn and comprehend; they are not presently aimed at making us speak any faster.

Compressed speech would have a host of applications in education, communications in the Armed Forces, instruction for the blind, industrial training, library research, and language study, just to name a few.

Pioneering research in compressed speech techniques has been fruitful at the American Institute for Research in Silver Spring, Md., where Herbert L. Friedman and Roy O. Freedle have exposed college students to taped passages from normal listening speed of 175 words per minute to just 475 words per minute. According to Friedman, "With little or no practice, students got 80- to 100-percent comprehension at double their normal speed."

According to Dr. David B. Orr of AIR, normal speech allows the fast thinker's mind to wander. Speed-speech would not, however, be confined to the very bright. It can also help the poorly educated to learn to read because, according to Doctor Orr, studies have shown that significant reading improvement takes place when printed words were accompanied by speech.

Compressed speech is being used more and more today to speed up teaching of the blind by concentrating information in spoken form. Since the average blind person cannot read much beyond 90 words per minute in Braille, his learning pace is correspondingly slow.

Speed listening in a language laboratory.

Machines currently being developed to compress speech are designed to remove tiny segments of sound at equal intervals while restoring normal pitch. This is achieved by rotating the playback head in the direction the tape is moving. Conversely, speech can be slowed by rotating the playback head in the opposite direction.

As the devices become more sophisticated, they will lend themselves to being programmed to slice away vowels, consonants, silences between words, etc., so that the maximum intelligibility is achieved.

Denver, Colo., radio station is reported to be compressing its output by some 17 percent in order to cram more music and news into each broadcast hour.

Perhaps the most fantastic suggestion with respect to the possible uses of accelerated language is the idea put forth by some research scientists that would make possible a "dialogue" with animals. Research with birds, dolphins, and other members of the animal kingdom has established that their speech patterns are more efficient than man's. Sounds made by such creatures have been recorded, then broken-down and slowed, and found to contain traces much like human words. Speech compression, therefore, could lend to some form of communication between man and animals.

So far, there is some question as to just what is the optimal speed for humans. An average high-school student reads about 225 words per minute, an entering Harvard freshman around 400. Average speeds: 125 to 200 words per minute.

Researchers are fairly certain that most individuals could easily digest compressed speech at a rate of 600-words per minute with their usual comprehension.

But whatever the pace, it appears that science may be on the verge of another breakthrough in the area of faster communications that is well suited to the jet age and its needs. ♦

Skiing: More Fun Than Acting!

The star of the acclaimed film "Downhill Racer"—and an expert skier himself—describes how he got hooked on this fascinating sport

By ROBERT REDFORD

I WAS 12 when I put on my first pair of skis and hated it. Some friends from my junior high school in Los Angeles were talking about going skiing the following Sunday.

"Come along," they suggested.

"I don't know how to ski," I said. "I've never even seen snow."

"C'mon, Redford," they said, "there's nothin' to it."

They neglected to mention that all the other guys who were going had skied before and not just once. I didn't know how to even put skis on or stand up or turn around.

I rented a pair of heavy, wooden skis that looked more like driftwood. The rented boots were ill-fitting and crackling at the seams. Standing up was, I found, a major achievement. Walking around on skis was something else, too.

I can't remember how I got on the chair lift, but it took a lift operator to get me off. My friends were waiting, poised for take-off.

"If you want to stop, snowplow," one said. "You just point your lips inward."

I started to inquire about the second stop involved, but they were gone. I was alone. I had two choices. Get back on the lift and go down and be crumpled with embarrassment or ski down and have a go at it.

Not knowing any better, and loaded with the confidence that some magic "snow god" would take care of it all, I took off.

I don't know how many times I fell and how many trees and other skiers I missed by the time I hit bottom: I just know it was like being on Telegraph Hill in a runaway truck. I was glad I was down, didn't know how I got there, didn't want to go again.

Nevertheless, I had another couple of go's at it while attending the University of Colorado at Boulder. I liked mountain climbing, and skiing would have been a natural progression—except for one thing: It was about every student did it. It was the "in" thing. That put me off.

In 1963 I finally got hooked. I had built a house in Utah, near Alta, one of the foremost powder-snow areas in the world. I listened to the natives talk with glowing reverence about the area and the sport.

This was without pressure or salesmanism. I finally became interested in skiing on my own terms. Once I had been taught how to ski, instead of pointing the skis downhill and yelling a lot, it became wholly different.

I had always loved speed. Here was a scene that, to me, was using speed in the purest form; nature's own gravity—very little between you and the mountain, just two boards and some straps. You weren't bound to the dependence of a mechanic or a piece of machinery or an asphalt strip.

I began to go after it. It was raw fun. Everybody began to take a hand in seeing that I learned the sport—friends and strangers. The motivation was simple. They wanted to see someone else enjoy the sport. Also, everybody loves a good crash.

At first, I went too fast. I was anxious to attain a supersonic boom. But there was no technique to support the desire. I fell a lot. I swore a lot. I raged against everybody from lift operators to lift towers.

But things eventually came together (though I still swear a lot).

Robert Redford and Camilla Sparo star in "Downhill Racer"—a film about skiers and one man's obsessive fight for a coveted Olympic award.

It has now become, for me, a high personal experience. One in which, while doing it, nothing else matters—no personal problems, no career decisions, no newspapers, tv, or phones to disturb me. A relaxing form of physical freedom.

Skiers seem to be a breed of their own, with a common interest that transcends political or racial beliefs, class, income gaps and social boundaries, and makes a community of good fellowship instead of the friction that is hanging up our society these days.

In a way, it was inevitable that I became interested in competition. I had been in competitive sports most of my life as a kid, and while I had never ski-raced, I was convinced that the drama of racing was worthy of a film. Unfortunately, it was an uphill fight for "Downhill Racer."

In spite of the four million skiers in the U.S. alone, none of the studios shared my enthusiasm. The argument that a film about skiing could also make a comment about sport, and would intrigue non-skiing audiences as well, also fell on a lot of deaf ears. Thus, the project, filmed eventually for Paramount Pictures, became an obsession with me.

There were key figures along the way. Bob Bentine, the U.S. ski-team coach, was helpful in allowing myself and the writer, James Saltor, to travel with the team up to and during the Olympics and making available his technical knowledge of the sport.

I also was fortunate in having a partner, Richard Gregson, who shared my enthusiasm and volunteered to produce it. But to get it financed, I wouldn't get a salary.

While we were shooting the film all over the place in Austria, Switzerland, and France, there was only one man at Paramount who had any faith in us or the project. Luckily, this was Charles Bluhdorn, chairman of Gulf and Western, of which the studio is a subsidiary.

We were hampered by the additional misfortune of my having crashed on a snowmobile in Utah 10 days before shooting was to start in Europe. It was a dumb move: I had thought I could maneuver the vehicle off a small cliff. Instead, I manoeuered my knee into the motor. It was bad—seven stitches and a lot of pain.

The doctor did a good job on sewing me up, but I walked with a limp through the first part of the film. A cheap way to get close-ups. All the while, of course, was the hovering suspicion that the gods were trying to tell us something.

The filming itself was not without hazards. Because the effort was made to capture the feeling of high-speed races, with expert skier-cameramen filming downhill runs at breakneck speeds, a number of them got hurt. There were some broken bones, cases of frontbite with some crew members, and a lot of discomfort.

We worked, at one point, for seven weeks straight, without a day off. A lot of mumbling and remarks like, "I didn't know there was snow on Devil's Island?" And so it went.

And so it goes. I don't have any interest in making another ski film, but because of the total experience, my life will, no-doubt, continue to be involved with the sport.

It seems to me Americans are finally getting ski fever that has become a way of life in so many European countries. I'm sure that before long, psychologists will be digging out of the sport all kinds of meaningful behavior patterns. There aren't any.

It's just now that when you move down through the snow at high speed, your mind is clear, there are no complications, you're free, and it's fun! +

The most expensive paper in the world is found in supermarkets. It's called register tape, and it averages about $11.75 an inch.

—Angie Papadakis

The young man went to his father one day and said, "Dad, I'm going to leave home. I'm going to find fame, fortune, and beautiful women. Don't try and stop me, Dad, I've made up my mind."

Jumping up from his chair, the old man replied, "Who's trying to stop you? I want to go with you!"

—Lucille S. Harper

Just as the golfer's ball was about to hit the pond, a large fish leaped from the water hazard and caught the ball in its mouth.

Shaking his head, the golfer turned to his companion, "Harry," he whispered hoarsely, "tell me quick. Did we start at the first hole or the 19th?"

CEREBRAL PALSY:

The Child Crippler Can Be Beaten

By GEORGE MITCHELL, M.D.

Director of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation,
Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center, Brooklyn, New York

CATHY HAD COMES running into my hospital office, a pretty little girl of five. Her hair is yellow, and she laughs a lot.

Only a trained physician could see that she has something physically wrong—the way she runs favoring one leg, the way one arm involuntarily shoots up as she runs.

Cathy is a victim of cerebral palsy, one of the estimated 25,000 children who are born with CP in this country every year. Cathy is one of the lucky ones. The affliction didn't cripple her. She was able to fight it. By the time she reaches her teens, there will be almost no sign of it left.

But Cathy had to fight every step to get where she is. Every year we learn more about what causes cerebral palsy. We are making important strides to combat this crippler. But there are no miracle cures.

We know that cerebral palsy is the result of an injury to the brain's motor-control centers. The damage could occur sometime during the pregnancy or while the mother is in labor or shortly after birth. Fortunately, we now know many things we didn't know a decade ago.

This past year, for example, a vaccine finally was released which we hope will eradicate German measles (rubella), a major cause of cerebral palsy.

We know, too, that the practice of holding back a birth until the mother's doctor gets to the delivery room can be dangerous. Excessive uterine contractions can reduce the flow of blood going through the placenta and cut down the oxygen supply. The result can be serious brain damage.

But the best weapon we have in combating CP once it hits is the child's family. Children are born with an intense desire to move. It's extraordinary what a child—even a CP child—can accomplish during those first years of life. But he will do this only if he has love and support.

I think of small, bright-eyed Robert who is eight and learning how to use a spoon. For Robert, the commonest things—swallowing food, talking so he can be understood, drawing a recognizable figure on a piece of paper—require enormous concentration. He must think carefully about relaxing and easing the tension that convulses his muscles; at the same time, he must develop strength to perform the physical act.

Many parents, faced with such a CP baby, go to pieces. They should remember that most children are quite durable. They can learn to adjust and overcome a handicap like CP—provided they are not destroyed by inadequate parental handling.

Robert's parents made it clear that they expected him to work at the business of getting better. They knew that as a CP child he would need both love and discipline.

By the time he was two, Robert was enrolled in classes for orthopedically handicapped children. Technicians worked with him on simple things like speaking and controlling his spastic muscles. This is hard, frustrating work. There are medicines that may help, and later, when he is older, there may be delicate operations that will straighten his twisted limbs.

The other day, Robert's father, a bus driver, was visiting, and he gave the boy a small toy bus. He put it on the bed, and Robert took it and began to roll it up and down the gullies of his bed blanket. His hand moved slowly and carefully without convulsing. A year ago Robert could not have done that.

"Look, Papa, I'm a bus driver just like you," he said.

Some day, with a bit of luck, he might just be that bus driver. ♦

See Wrinkles* Actually Reduced

With Medically Proven Hormone Application.

Now you can see your skin become clearer and younger-looking as "dry-skin wrinkles diminish in only 70 to 12 days." A laboratory test conducted by skin specialists proves conclusively that estrogenic hormones, applied to the skin, actually reduce dry-skin lines and wrinkles to a marked-visible-degree.

A preparation containing female hormones was applied to one-side of the face and neck of 50 middle-aged women. A similar formula—but without hormone—was applied to the other side.

The results of this "half-woman" test showed that skin lines on the hormone side were clearly, visibly reduced. Many fine lines had disappeared altogether, while even deep wrinkles showed dramatic improvement.

How? Why? Doctors say the hormone cause skin cells to increase their natural moisture. As millions of cells become plumper, they smooth out lines much as you plump up a pillow. Results are often visible in 10 to 12 days.

This anti-wrinkle formula is produced by the trustworthy 50-year-old Miltchum laboratories under the name HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It acts so rapidly because pure hormones are quickly carried into the skin in a penetrating liquid formula.

Note this: Only 7 drops of a day. HORMONEX Beauty Serum are the full recommended treatment for face and neck. Just seven drops a day.

The regular 100-day supply comes in a convenient dropper bottle at $3.50—less than 4 cents a day. Look younger quickly. See those dry-skin wrinkles visibly reduced.

You may obtain HORMONEX Beauty Serum at your favorite drug or toiletry counter.

PIN-WORMS CAN MAKE YOUR CHILD ITCHY, FIDGETY

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. Infest parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's I-T-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's mild, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, really. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. When one member is infected, health authorities strongly advise that the entire family be treated at the same time. Jayne's I-T-W Vermifuge, a small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

POSTMARKED MOON! A First Day Cover absolutely unprecedented in all stamp history!

This valuable commemorative envelope is cancelled with a United States Landing Postmark. Both stamp and postmark were created from Apollo 11's return to the Moon and back by our special artist. The cover features a 3-cent American Century-old woodcut from Jules Verne's best-selling novel of 1865, "Around the World in Eighty Days," which depicts the flight of the "Deuss." We are not taking orders for this special cover—the use of blank-it-is-possible!—until you get the 1968 3-cent stamp in the post office. The cover includes a stamp collecting kit and our famous stamp-novel and service—your 100 other stamps including spectacular Space Issues plus an illustrated album—leave in as a bonus should you buy 1¢ worth from our approval service. Or you can return stamp and album with selection and buy nothing. Cancel service available. Or you can return "Postmarked Moon" Cover in the mail. Send the postage and mailing today while supplies last! Kessner Co., Hillard Mc-478, M. Hamp, 03055

...the works of Plato, Aristotle, Marcus Aurelius, and Ben Jonson, the Vindictae, the Meditations, and the On Man in the Universe. All these books (regularly $11.67) can be yours for only $1.00 as your introduction to the Classics Club.

The Classics Club is quite unlike any other book club.

The Club doesn't offer best sellers that come and go. Instead, it offers its members a chance to stay young through great books that will never grow old. These books include Utopia by Thomas More; the works of Shakespeare; Benjamin Franklin's Autobiography; the works that stretch from the dawn of time to the dawn of the 20th century; and away: the essential cobwebs that hold back modern men.

You never have to buy any of these books. (To force you to buy a classic would be barbaric.) As a member, take only those books you really want to own. And, at any time, you may cancel your membership, without penalty or hurt feelings.

The selections themselves are remarkable values. They're carefully printed on expensive paper stock. They're hard-bound in matched wheat-colored buckram, worked and stamped in crimson, black, and 23-karat gold. And through direct-to-the-public distribution, we are able to offer our members the best prices in the business—$3.89 each for three selections.

three selections: Plato, Aristotle, and Marcus Aurelius—all three for only $3.89 plus 70 cents for shipping.

We know what you're thinking. You're wise men are. We're betting that you'll get taken by them that you'll want to join the club and meet some of their friends. They are the greatest story tellers, philosophers, poets, and historians the world has ever known.

Don't send any money now. We'll bill you later. Just fill in and mail the coupon below, now, while you're thinking about it and while the invitation still stands. The Classics Club, Roslyn, New York 11576.

LET THESE 3 WISE MEN INTO YOUR HOME. LATER, YOU MIGHT LIKE TO INVITE THEIR FRIENDS.

THE CLASSICS CLUB

ROSLYN, NEW YORK 11576

Please enroll me as a trial member and send me the three deluxe editions of Plato, Aristotle and Marcus Aurelius. I enclose no money in advance. Within a week of receiving them, I will either return them and owe nothing, or keep them and pay the introductory price of $1.00, plus mailing.

As a Classics Club Member, I'll get word in advance of all future selections. For each volume I decide to keep, I will pay only $3.89 plus mailing. I may reject any volume before or after I receive it, and I may cancel my membership at any time. (Books shipped in U.S.A. only.)
