Teachers Return After Walkout

SHOSHONE — All of the shoshone grade school teachers were back in their classrooms Tuesday morning, with the exception of two who are ill, Principal Jack Bowlin reports.

Nine of the 12 teachers in the school took personal leave Monday to protest the rehiring of Mr. Bowlin. The two teachers who are ill are Mrs. Dorothy Clayton and Mrs. Blanche Williams.

One of the nine teachers, Mrs. Elsie Anderson, submitted her resignation Friday. She has been with the school district for more than 23 years.

Waldo Jones, school board chairman, took the teachers back to work Tuesday. The board has no immediate plans to call a special board meeting and they are going to leave the matter up to the school administration.

Trustees have expressed satisfaction with the commendable job done by both Principal Bowlin and Supt. Kenneth Crothers Monday in recruiting teachers and for the harmony in which the school day was carried out under the new pressure.

One of the women who substituted commented, "I just cannot believe things could go so smoothly in a situation like this."

"I have more admiration now for Mr. Bowlin than I did before," another said.

Last week school board members voted to retain Mr. Bowlin for another year. The vote was taken after several complaints had been lodged against Mr. Bowlin.

School Superintendent Kenneth Crothers said Monday classes continued Monday on schedule with substitute teachers filling the vacancies.

Utah Copper Workers Set Picket Lines

BINGHAM CANYON (UPI)—Haulage workers at Kennecott Copper Corp.'s Bingham Mine staged a wildcat strike at 5:45 a.m. today. A company spokesman termed the work stoppage illegal.

The spokesman said the workers, represented by United Steelworkers Local 485, set up picket lines at the entrance to the mine-truck shot on the Lark access road about 6 a.m.

Workers on the day shift were honoring the pickets, but others who entered the mine area on access roads reported to work.

The strikers are employed primarily to facilitate the removal of waste materials of the mine. The strike reportedly was precipitated by the discharge of two truck drivers within the past 24 hours.

A KCC spokesman termed the work stoppage illegal because it violates the "no strike" clause in the union's contract with the company. "Until the workers return to work there will be no discussion of the issues leading to the strike," he said.

FLORIDA PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE canceled classes Monday to allow 800 students to help clean oil-covered birds. Biology laboratories were converted to assembly-line cleaning stations and girls' portable hair dryers were pressed into action to hasten the drying process. (UPI telephoto)

Southern School Problems Gain Nixon Backing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon promised southern states Monday the federal government would stress minimum disruption and maintenance of the neighborhood school concept to help them draft a school desegregation plan.

"Desegregation plans should involve minimum possible disruption—whether by busing or otherwise—of the educational routines of children," Nixon stated in a White House statement. "To the extent possible, the neighborhood school concept should be the rule."

The President also said that "within the framework of law, school desegregation problems should be dealt with uniformly throughout the nation."

Nixon issued the statement in an apparent attempt to clarify a White House memo that became public Thursday, but it seemed to add little to the earlier policy declaration.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has for some time sent personnel into southern states to help them implement federal court orders to eliminate dual school systems.

Nixon said that "as a matter of general policy this administration will respond affirmatively to requests for assistance in the formulation and presentation to the courts of desegregation plans designed to comply with the law."

At the same time, Nixon named an eight-member cabinet level committee, headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to examine and develop ways in which the federal government can help local districts desegregate their schools.

Governors of four states—Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi—charged earlier that "integrate now" orders by federal courts were creating havoc in school systems. As the result of Feb. 11 deadlines for total desegregation, some southern schools were turned into all-black schools when white students switched over to hastily established private schools.

Fate Of Albion Campus Up To Land Officials

ALBION — The fate of the 40-acre college campus here, vacant for a year now, will be determined by the State Land Board later this week.

This was announced by members of the board at the conclusion of a day-long hearing in the Grange Hall here Monday.

The hearing was held to discuss the sale of the college campus to the City of Albion.

Albion residents and officials want the campus as a gift, with a small annual fee to be charged, but nothing in the way of price has been determined yet.

More than 100 Albion residents attended the Monday meeting. Idaho Attorney General Robert Robson asked those attending if there were any objections to the sale of the college to the city.

He repeated his question several times.

There were no objections, and in fact more than 20 people testified that the college is needed and wanted.

Albion councilmen have indicated they will lease the site to Robert Briggs, Pocatello, who has been negotiating for the property to operate the Inter-Mountain Trade and Technical Schools Inc. This is if the transfer to the city is approved by the State Land Board.

It was mentioned at the meeting that if the campus site is not used for educational purposes, the deed will revert back to the heirs of the Miller family, the original owners of the land.

The campus has a long 78 year history. It was once the Albion State Teachers College, Southern Idaho College of Education, closed by the state in 1951, and last on the list, the Magic Valley Christian College, which closed last year to move to Baker, Ore.

Gov. Vad Rasmussen, an Albion resident and a state representative from Cassia County, introduced the members of the Land Board to those attending.

Board members are Joe Williams, state auditor; Mr. Robson; Pete Cenarrusa, secretary of state; and Ralph Samson, George Detweiler, Twin Falls, attended to represent the attorney general's office.

Odeen Redman, mayor of Albion, was the first to speak.

Movie Greats To Vie In Oscar Event

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Newcomers Dustin Hoffman and Faye Dunaway, along with Richard Burton, John Wayne and Peter O'Toole for best actor award in the 42nd annual Oscar race.

Hoffman and Voltz were nominated for their performance in "The Graduate" and "The Sandlot" respectively.

During the 42-year history of the academy several actors and actresses have been nominated for their performances in the same film including Burton and O'Toole for "Becket" in 1964.

Best actress nominees all are making their first bids for academy awards: Genevieve Hufeld (Anne of the Thousand Days), Jane Fonda (They Shoot Horses, Don't They?), Liza Minnelli (The Sterile Cuckoo), Shirley Maclaine (The Hourglass Endings) and Maggie Smith (The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie).

Nominated for best picture of the year were "Anne of the Thousand Days," "Sundance Kid," "Hello, Dolly!," "Midnight Cowboy" and "22."

Drinkers In New Mexico Plague Police

GALLUP, N. M. (UPI)—The City of Gallup appeared headed for another weekend of that police-termed a "catastrophe" without a solution in sight to the city's jail problem.

City Manager James Fleming said Monday police—now limited in the number of drunk arrests they can make—would not pick up any more drunks after they filled their small drink tank.

"We are actually violating the law by picking up these people and taking them to the sleepers," said Fleming. "We could be violating their civil rights by picking them up and not arresting them and we are not going to leave ourselves open to a lawsuit. In a sense we are sending them to the jail and want to go with us but are not aware of what is going on."

Fleming's decision came after Ted Mitchell, an attorney for the DNA—a Navajo legal aid society—charged Gallup officials with "trying to purposely create a crisis situation."

The DNA filed suit last week which resulted in the freeing of 183 prisoners from the city's detention center after a federal court order ruled unsanitary and overcrowded conditions at the jail constituted "cruel and unusual punishment." The court order limited the number of prisoners which often ran high as 400 — to only 40 — in the 50-by-60-foot room.

Mitchell also charged most of the jail's inmates last weekend were removed by volunteers, rather than police.

Islands In Gulf Resort Section Washed By Oil

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—A smelly blanket of crude oil washed into a cove of Gulf Coast resort islands off this retirement haven Monday. Businessmen took steps to "blunt the damage" to the tourist trade.

The oil, which smudged beaches on the western shore of St. Petersburg after a Greek tanker ruptured Friday, floated from Tampa Bay out into the Gulf Monday. Southwesterly winds then pushed it into a 20-mile strip of exclusive residential islands and hotel resorts from Indian Rocks Beach south to Fort de Soto Park.

The thick, tarlike "bunker C" crude oil left beaches fringed with black borders, blighted birds and ducks, and clung to the hulls of thousands of pleasure boats.

The tanker, leased by the Humble Oil Co., sprang a leak when it ran aground in a heavy fog while delivering the oil to a Florida Power and Light Co. plant. An estimated 6,000 gallons of oil were dumped into the bay. At one point it had splattered an area of about 100 square miles.

While few tourists appeared to be abandoning the area, the St. Petersburg Chamber of Commerce expressed alarm others might stay away because of the publicity. A spokesman said he was sending out a news release "to blunt the damage caused by unfavorable or factual publicity."

Coast Guard workers and others have been unable to contain the oil slick. They have tried to protect some of the beaches by dumping straw and foam onto the oil, or by using boom-like rigs called "floating fences."

The Audubon Society set up classes on how to clean oily birds and 800 students from Florida Presbyterian College were let out of class to help rescue the waterfowl.

State Attorney General Earl Faircloth filed a $2 million damage suit in federal court Monday against the shipping firm and the tanker, the Delos Apollon. The suit, filed against the Shipping Development Corp., a foreign corporation, charged that the ship was "unseaworthy and was likely to discharge or deposit oil into and upon the waters of Tampa Bay."

Children

BOISE (UPI)—Commissioner Bill Childs of public assistance says child care costs will be disallowed as a work expense for welfare mothers.

Formally upholding a n earlier decision to disallow Robert asked those attending if there were any objections to the sale of the college to the city.

He repeated his question several times.

Deficit Still Plagues Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. balance of payments showed a $2.98 billion deficit, the worst on record, last year despite a year-end recovery that produced a $1.14 billion surplus in the fourth quarter, the Commerce Department reported Monday.

The year's deficit on the key "liquidity" basis of accounting—indicating U.S. public and private expenditures abroad were far in excess of foreign spending in this country—followed a $168 million surplus in 1968 and almost doubled the $3.54 billion deficit for 1967.

Rupert Youth Charged In Traffic Death

Eighteen-year-old Charles H. Raney, Rupert, has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Thursday traffic death of Michael Glen Cochran in Twin Falls.

The defendant was arrested Monday and bond was set at $1,000. Arraignment in Twin Falls Police Court is pending.

The fatality, the first in the city since 1965, occurred when vehicles driven by Mr. Cochran and Mr. Raney collided at the intersection of Fifth and Tenth North and Fourth Avenue North.

Mr. Cochran was pinned between the car and a tree. He died at the scene, officials ruled at the time.

The charge against Mr. Raney is an indictable misdemeanor, which means on conviction he could get a year in jail and be fined $1,000.

In the complaint, Mr. Raney is accused of negligence in failing to yield the right of way at the intersection on the night in question.

Hansen Says Program Aids Postal Setup

WASHINGTON — Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen announced a major new postal service program today that will expand home deliveries to small communities in 18 Southern Idaho counties.

Under the program initiated by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, persons living more than a quarter-mile but less than half a mile from Post Offices that do not have city delivery are now eligible to receive home delivery. Previously, they have been compelled to go to the Post Office for their mail, since they did not qualify for either city or rural delivery service.

Rep. Hansen said the new program will make delivery a service available to 1.2 million families throughout the nation.

The only requirement is that delivery service must be requested from the Postmaster, Rep. Hansen said.

In the Magic Valley, communities qualifying for the new delivery service, by county, include: Cassia County, Albion, Declo, Malta and Oakley; Gooding County, Bliss, Hagerman and Wendell; Jerome County, Eden and Hazelton; Lincoln County, Dietrich, Richfield and Shoshone; Minidoka County, Heyburn and Paul; and Twin Falls County, Castelford, Filer, Hansen, Kimberly and Murtaugh.

Four-Alarm Fire Strikes Coast School

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A four-alarm fire broke out in the physical education building at the University of Oregon Monday night and destroyed the ROTC offices and other facilities, including irreplaceable records.

It took nearly three hours to control the blaze because students climbed on fire-fighting equipment and clogged the area in an effort to hammer the flames. Police finally cleared the area.

The flames did not reach McArthur court, the 10,500-seat basketball court at the other end of the block-long complex.

A fund-raising rally is scheduled for Sunday for John F. Kennedy High School in the "Chicago Seven" case.

Balalation Chief David Boggs, who suffered cuts on his hand during the blaze, said he did not know how the fire started but "possibility of arson would be investigated."

The fire was first noticed at the ROTC offices on the first floor of the two-story building, where 22 caliber rifles for drilling, about 200 uniforms and other equipment was kept.

Also damaged were six or seven classrooms, a number of physical education department offices and records of students going back many years. Acting Athletic Director Norv Ritchey said they cannot be replaced.

Aides Discuss Fire Policy

BLISS — Fred Locke, Gooding insurance representative, met with School District No. 234 trustees at the monthly board meeting to discuss changes in the fire insurance policy with the school because of the increase in property value and rising costs.

A representation of the Bliss Athletic Association suggested having a fund for all for high school students. The association offered to raise money for uniforms if the idea is approved.

Supt. John Grove was instructed to send questionnaires to the parents with sons in junior high to get their opinions.

All teachers were recommended for rehiring for the coming school year, but contracts were not offered at this time. It was decided to wait until after the Legislature adjourns before offering the contracts, so the district will know what changes in school operations will be necessary, if any.

Muskie Says He Will Run For Own Seat

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, warning that the decisions of the 1970s "may determine whether man survives on this earth," announced Monday he would seek reelection to the Senate.

Muskie neatly sidestepped any direct comment to seek the White House in 1972, although he broadly hinted in that direction.

The lanky 55-year-old Democrat, who was a wide following as his party's vice presidential nominee in 1968, is expected to win without difficulty.

The Republicans have not yet come up with an opponent in this once solidly GOP state.

"Our decisions for the 1970s," Muskie said, "will determine what kind of state, nation, and world our children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren will inherit."

"Our decisions may determine whether man will survive on this earth."

City Council Schedules Extra Meets

City council members have scheduled an informal meeting for Tuesday night and an official adjourned session Wednesday morning to consider business items pending following the regular Monday night meeting.

Tuesday at 5 p.m. the group will inspect five pieces of property on Third Avenue East behind the present city hall and parking lot. City Manager Jean Miller requested permission for future construction of a city fire and police complex.

Council members also will discuss a request from the Downtown Coordinating Committee concerning Phase I of the development and architectural plans for this phase of the program.

At 11:30 a.m. Wednesday council members will meet in the city hall to act on the Downtown Coordinating Committee proposal. This will be followed by a luncheon meeting at the Holiday Inn with members of the Twin Falls County Highway District board.

Mr. Miller said the city council's new members will get acquainted with county highway officials and will discuss joint programs in which the two agencies participate. This involves boundary streets around the city of Twin Falls.

Jersey Teacher Strike Spreads

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Striking teachers picketed schools in the state's two largest cities Monday but dispersed quickly when sheriff's deputies arrived. There were no arrests.

Strikes in Newark and Jersey City have affected 118 schools and forced suspension of classes for about 116,000 students. Negotiations were scheduled in either walkout.

In Newark, Judge Nelson K. Mintz heard six strike leaders accused of contempt of court enter innocent pleas and promptly set a trial date for Wednesday.

CAA Meet Is Slated Thursday

The public is invited to attend the annual meeting of the South-Central Community Action Agency Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Twin Falls courthouse annex, according to Larry Mack, CAA director.

Board members will be elected and officers of the CAA will be named at the meeting. The views of the public are sought toward determining operation of the various programs of the agency, Mr. Mack said.

The South-Central Community Action Agency serves Twin Falls, Jerome and Cassia Counties with a variety of programs, including Head Start, neighborhood day-care centers and day-care centers.

A senior citizens' program for the three county area will also be provided, according to Mack.

Politicians Are Skipped For White Tie Event

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Politicians have been passed over in the coveted invitations to the White House dinner Thursday for American artist Andrew J. Wyeth.

Mrs. Constance Stuart, staff director to Mrs. Richard Nixon, said the guest list of 100 would include members of the art community, patrons of the arts, collectors and those who have loaned art works to the White House.

"We have no political types," Mrs. Stuart said. "No Congressmen, no Senators. We're honoring the professionals in the art world."

By United Press International
Israel today carried out its first deep penetration raids of Egypt since Israeli warplanes killed 70 Egyptians five days ago in an attack on a factory outside Cairo. Today's targets were missile bases—39 miles south of Cairo.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the targets were two surface-to-air (Sam) missile sites supplied by Russia to protect the Soviet built and financed Helwan heavy industry complex south of the Egyptian capital.

Mrs. Bruce Cluff is den mother with Mrs. Hafen, assistant den mother.

A dramatization of "knights of the round table" was presented by the Cub Scouts, assisted by the Scouts. Each Cub Scout dressed in "armor" and with shield and "mounted" on their "horse" was knighted by Queen Cluff.

When the 14-foot dragon appeared, the knights quickly surrounded it and with much enthusiasm slew it. The dragon was portrayed by the Boy Scouts.

Arwyn Thornton, scoutmaster, was master of ceremonies. The colors were presented by scouts Doug Butler, Nathan Cline, Steven Misseldine, Matt Dalton, Gerhard Luttmer, Kirk Thornton and Gilbert Hafen. The pledge of allegiance was led by Scout Misseldine.

Special introductions were extended to the ward historian, Bishop C. W. Choules, and counselors, Floyd Marsh and Max E. Larson. Mr. Larson is also the scout institutional representative.

Others introduced were scout committee men and John Hill, Twin Falls, district scout executive, who spoke briefly on "sixty years of Scouting in Idaho," scouting opportunities, and scout camp. He stressed that "scouting helps to put our boys together right to help our world, our communities and our homes of tomorrow."

Each Cub Scout, Boy Scout and his father furnished a cake which they baked themselves. Special prizes were presented for each cake.

A special "Valentine" was presented to Floyd Marsh for his contribution to the pack and troop.

The invocation was given by Bishop Choules and Mr. Larson pronounced the benediction.

Deputies Charged In Berkeley Riot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Twelve Alameda County deputy sheriffs, two of them no longer employed by the department, were arraigned Monday on charges of civil rights violations during and after the people's park riot in Berkeley last May 15.

The arraignment, complicated by multiple charges against some defendants and a large number of others, more resembled a roll call than a court procedure. The cases have been continued to March 10.

Really Finished

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A Portland woman got more than she bargained for when she hired a cement finisher to do a garage floor. What she got was a drunken cement finisher who locked a wild racoon in the garage right after the cement was poured. "Needless to say," the woman complained, "it did not do the wet cement any good."

The Moscow-Damascus Axis

DAMASCUS, Syria—Although Soviet influence has reached a new peak in this strategic center of the Middle East, that influence rests on an increasingly shaky foundation...

for the Russians are our friends," one such leader told us. But he quickly added: "We draw a very firm line when it comes to political interference by outsiders."

keep every Russian under constant surveillance, began in earnest after the debacle of the 1967 six-day war. It valuably continues today as, with ever-increasing Soviet spending to build a modern society, the Russians pour millions of rubles into Syria and enlarge their influence...

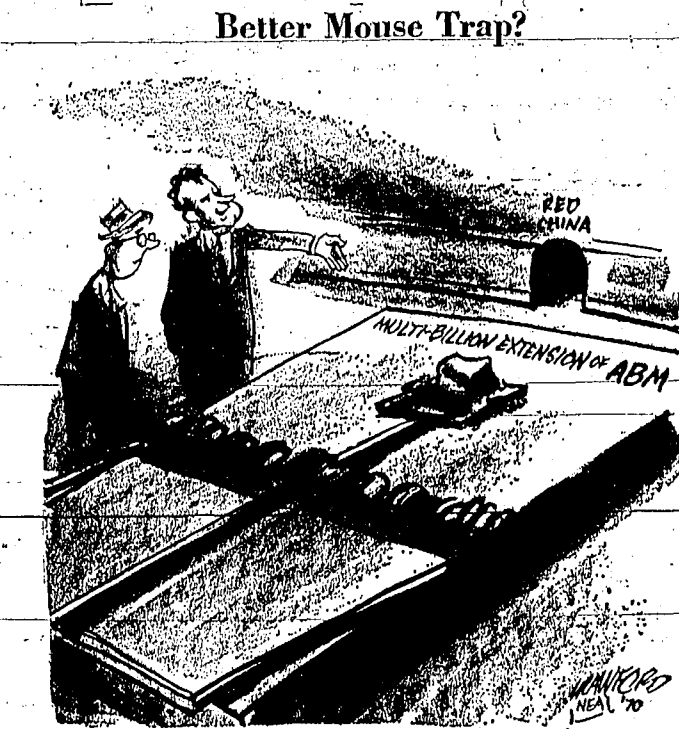

senses is that enormous investment will never be recovered—a concern comparable to the "money down the rathole" syndrome that continues to whittle away at U.S. foreign aid spending.

Moreover, Russian influence within the Syrian economy is more than matched by its control over the Syrian army and air force. Soviet technicians swarm at major military camps and Soviet experts control Syrian pilots from ground-control centers.

War Flames

Sporadic fighting in the Middle East has continued despite the cease-fire that ended the Six Day War of 1967 and now is flaring higher at a new level of violence and aerial bombardment. In the background, Russia, France and the United States un-essentially keep adding fuel to the fire...

France's prejudicial treatment and Russian enmity. Israel's position is scarcely less than desperate. She is surrounded by Arab foes and has a ready-made fifth column of more than a quarter of a million Arabs within her borders. Guerrilla attacks violated the cease-fire, forcing Israel to retaliate, because Israel cannot afford a war of attrition against a much more numerous foe.

Better Mouse Trap?

The German-led spent six years trying to negotiate a contract to build the dam, but they never could get the government to agree to responsible financial terms. Not only have the Russians been cutting the West out of Syria (except for France, which has traditional ties here), but they have also tried to bar the Chinese, not always successfully.

Shopping

There is only one way the housewife is ever going to know where the bargains lie, as she rummages through shelves of jumbo, giant, economy, family and assorted other sizes of the same product. And that is by a listing on shelf or package of the actual cost per recognizable unit, such as pound or quart.

called upon Congress for some of this truth-in-pricing. The truth-in-packaging law is a not dissuaded the manufacturers or processors from continuing to confuse the buyer by an assortment of odd sizes.

A Priority For Nixon

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is not generally realized just how very extended President Nixon is that the economy shall begin to recover by election day this fall.

per cent of his manpower budget to meet the needs of men and women without jobs and to care for their families. No one knows, of course, whether Nixon's economic strategy will work as planned. But there's no doubt about his determination. Nixon is convinced that in 1971 he must have a Senate and House of Representatives at least a little closer to his point of view if he is to get the laws he wants to carry out his objectives. He knows that historically the odds are very high indeed against a president increasing his congressional strength in off-year elections.

Some Bleak Talk

WASHINGTON — President Nixon heard some bleak talk the other day at a White House meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Dr. Henry A. Kissinger and intelligence advisers. The subject was the Israeli-Arab tussle and the danger it poses to world peace.

this stand might be considered ludicrous, since Israel has cleared its superiority over the Arab alliance. Israel also probably has superiority on the ground because of the admitted lack of military skill within the Arab confederation. Intelligence reports claim that Cairo already has lost more than 75 of the 300 new Russian planes supplied since 1967 and "probably all" of 309 Soviet ground-to-air missile installations.

On Batteries

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a pacemaker embedded in his chest two years ago. It is now time to go back to have new batteries put in. Just what does this involve?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am recovering from hepatitis. While I was in the hospital I discovered that I was six months pregnant. What effect does this disease have on the baby? — Mrs. G.M.

One doctor says this is a relatively new device, yet other people have told me they have been in use for 17 years, and that some are worn on the outside of the body and can be regulated as needed. — Mrs. H. R.

Greatest danger to the fetus from virus diseases (of which hepatitis is one) is in the first six to eight weeks of pregnancy. The incubation period for infectious hepatitis is two to six weeks, therefore, you must have become infected well after the third month of pregnancy, and I would not expect there to be any ill effects on the baby.

Changing the batteries is a quick and simple chore compared to the original surgery. When the pacemaker (to regulate the rate of heart beat) is installed in the chest, electrodes are connected to the heart muscle itself. This is not a dangerous operation, but it is still major surgery.

Not a great deal, but a little. One drooping lid (as opposed to both) usually implies a defect in the nerve supply to the lid or in the muscles of the lid. You could have been born with it, or it may have resulted from injury or infection.

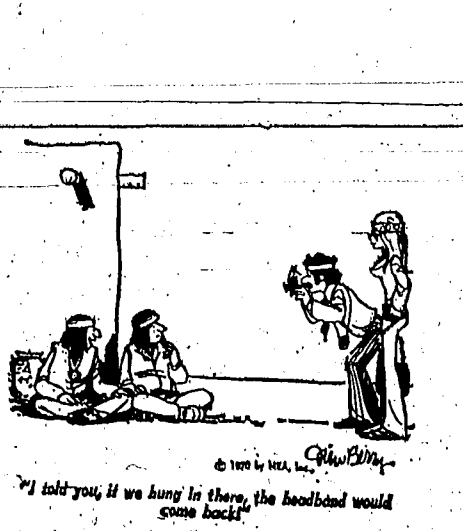

Finally, the devices were miniaturized and actually placed inside a patient's chest, and small batteries are sufficient for years of use.

I think your only wise course is to see an eye specialist, mainly to find out whether the vision in the right eye can be corrected. Perhaps something can be done about the drooping lid, but that can be decided only after careful examination.

Stronger electric impulses are used by hospital pacemakers applied outside the body. To my knowledge, there are no small portable ones which can do that. The question arises as to why the pacemaker can't be inserted inside, and the batteries outside. Well, this requires running wires through the skin. No matter how carefully this is done, sooner or later infection is getting into the point at which the wires enter. So the batteries are placed under the skin.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

YOUNG COSTUME DESIGNER for "Mama," Kirk Ramsey, 13, and wardrobe mistress Mrs. Edward Chupa, admire some of their handwork during final preparations for the musical comedy. The 13-year-old student from Filer is working in his second Dilettante production and his first as costume designer. Mrs. Chupa has been wardrobe mistress for Antique Festival Theatre for four years. "Mama" opens Friday at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

Filer Boy, 13, Designs Costumes For Dilettantes

The youngest department head working on "Mama," the Dilettante Group of Maple Valley's annual production, is Kirk Ramsey, Filer, who has designed the costumes for the show.

Kirk, a 13-year-old Filer school student, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ramsey. He says he has always been interested in costume design. He played in the Dilettante's 1968 show, "Sound of Music," as a dancer, and was in the 1967 Antique Festival production of "Rip Van Winkle."

He has taken piano lessons for four years from Mrs. Robert Blastock Jr., who plays the title role of "Mama." Besides having an avid interest in the theater, the young boy is a horseback rider and skier. He is an active member of the Filer Junior Riding Club for which Mrs. Blastock acts as drillmaster.

Building of the costumes for "Mama" began with Kirk making sketches for all the costumes. After researching the play and consulting costume books gathered from drama teachers in the area, he made sketches and checked his ideas with H. Paul Kliss, the show's director.

Mrs. Edward Chupa, costume mistress, was then called into the act to figure the yardage needed. Fred Van Engelen, year-round custodian of the Dilettante's wardrobe, also was called on to see what costumes already on hand might be used.

Mrs. Chupa then distributed sketches and material to cast members who are responsible for making their own costumes. There also are seamstresses, among them Nina Pitts and Ruth Hanson, Filer, who make costumes for the leading players who have several costume changes during the show. Kirk's mother also has assisted in putting the costumes together.

The women's, girls' and children's hosiery group has been named the Glendale Group, headed by R. B. McKinley, president. The Glendale Group, with headquarters in Siler City, N.C., has plants in Siler City and Liberty, N.C., and Twin Falls.

Mayor May Face Contempt Charge In Louisiana

MONROE, La. (UPI)—The U.S. attorney for the western district of Louisiana says he has enough evidence to charge Mayor W. L. Howard with contempt of court for urging blacks to ignore federal school desegregation orders.

Attorney Donald Walters of Shreveport inspected television news-films of Howard's speech in which he urged 1,000 students at predominantly Negro Carroll High School to defy a federal order and report back to their school. The students cheered the speech.

Promotions announced within the Glendale Group are John L. White, vice-president and assistant to the president; Gene Slagel, director of manufacturing; F. L. Fox, employe relations director; Ralph B. Newman, controller; Max D. Sears, systems director; J. Will Lawson, quality control director; Russell H. Lawson, purchasing director; M. Scott Stringer, engineering director; Charles L. Spivey, production planning director; and Therrill A. Brown, eastern division accounting manager.

Mr. McKinley said Mr. White, formerly vice president and general manager of the Siler City plant, has consented to stay on with the Glendale group past his normal retirement date. Mr. White will be responsible for special projects and programs and function as assistant to the president.

Deadline For Magistrates Is Extended

BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge J. Ray Durtschi said today the district magistrates commission has agreed to extend the deadline for filing applications for magistrate's positions from March 1 to April 1, 1970.

Durtschi said the reason for the extension was the fact that applications are now being accepted by Idaho's judicial council for the position now held by Judge Merlin S. Young, who has been appointed as the referee in bankruptcy for Idaho.

Judge Durtschi said commission members felt it would be preferable to allow time for Judge Young's replacement to be appointed before the magistrates were selected.

The proposed magistrate's positions have been provided through court reorganization plan which will become effective Jan. 11, 1971. Counties comprising the Fourth Judicial District are Ada, Boise, Elmore, and Valley. Under the proposed reorganization plan, there will be magistrate positions open in each county.

Judge Durtschi will succeed Judge Young as the senior district judge of the Fourth Judicial District and has been designated by Judge Young as a member of the District Magistrate's Commission, the agency comprised of the senior district judge, the chairman of the county commissioners from each county and Mayor Donald Boos of McCall.

Anti-Ski Litter Campaign Noted

NEW YORK (UPI)—Litter on the slopes can transform graceful skiers into a sprawling sitzmark, according to Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

The national anti-litter organization warns that careless and thoughtless skiers endanger others when they drop cartons, lunch sacks or other litter along the trails or from the lifts.

Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president of KAB, also points out that litter planted in winter and covered by snow reappears in the spring to mar the natural beauty of ski areas.

Downtown Problem Will Feature Wednesday Meet

The question of downtown improvement came up at the Twin Falls City Council meeting Monday night but nothing was resolved and it will be at least another day until something happens.

It is hoped, by members of the Downtown Coordinating Committee, that city approval can be obtained as soon as possible on construction on Main Avenue between Third Street East and South and Second Streets North and West can start by the end of June or the first of July.

The total cost of the project is placed at $717,000, but a breakdown has not been released yet.

Councilmen will meet in adjourned session at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday at City Hall and wade through the problem.

Curtis Eaton, speaking as chairman of the Downtown Coordinating Committee, said financing of the project has been approved by the downtown businessmen, officials of the Off-Street Parking Corp., and Urban Renewal. The Design Committee has given its approval to the downtown plan.

The City is working on its financial share of the downtown program, and this is what will be discussed at the Wednesday meeting. It is hoped that Main Avenue will be torn up a block at a time and new pavement will be placed, along with new sidewalks, curbs and gutters.

During this period of construction, to end by November, shoppers will have access to stores through the rear.

The council will also discuss, at its Wednesday meeting, the lease arrangement for the golf course in this community.

The council in other business, that he hopes the city can call for bids to remove three homes near city hall. The homes, fronting on Third Avenue East, are owned by the city and at some time will be replaced by a fire station and police station might be built on the property.

It is not known when the city will call for demolition or removal bids.

The council authorized a bid opening date of November 10 for the lease of 401.85 shares of Salmon River Canal Co. water stock for this season.

Fees, the same as last year.

Probe Slated Of Fish-Game Department

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Senate President Jack Murphy Monday appointed a special five member committee to determine "if the Fish and Game Department is needed."

Appointed to head the special senate committee was Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall. Other senators names were Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise; W. Fisher, D-Everett; J. L. Falls; Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene; and John Mix, D-Moscow.

Brown, chairman of the Senate's Fish and Game Commission, asked for the special investigation.

He told the Senate that at an open hearing of the Joint House and Senate committee Jan. 28 "Crises of the Fish and Game Department made serious accusations of mismanagement."

Brown said the integrity and professional qualifications of the personnel were questioned as well as the validity of information furnished by the Fish and Game Department and the soundness of the present programs.

The special committee has been ordered to report back to the Senate.

A letter to Brown from the commission said, "We have met with many of these people (critics) on a number of occasions and tried to answer their questions and explain our program. We have seen our data distorted, our statements twisted and our personnel insulted."

It was stated in the letter, made public by Brown, that a number of accusations are baseless, false and malicious.

"They were made in public before a joint committee of the Legislature and before the Idaho Fish and Game Commission; it is not fair or reasonable to expect the men of the Idaho Fish and Game Department to continue to work effectively under this cloud."

The commission requested the joint committee to continue the hearing point by point, require substantiation of the testimony and include a complete and thorough substantiation of the testimony.

"We do not believe the Idaho Fish and Game Department to be faultless," the commission said in their letter, "and we appreciate and encourage constructive criticism. But we are confident that an unbiased appraisal will expose the department of unjustified accusations and make concrete recommendations where improvements should be made."

"The charges made in public should be investigated and the results and conclusions in the form of the record," the letter said.

were adopted for the golf course this season.

The council also authorized a bid opening date of March 12 for the City Hall for the furnishing of gravel for 1970.

Dick Kirkman, Dick Dehart and Paul Jones were appointed to the City's Highway and Safety Commission.

The Council voted to authorize an expenditure of $200 to buy a film for a film library at the College of Southern Idaho.

A film library on drug education is being built there and it was pointed out the city will have access to all films in the library.

Miller was given permission to attend a convention of city managers in British Columbia next March 4, 5 and 6.

Revised Tax Measure Gets Nod Of House

BOISE (UPI) — On a nearly party line vote Monday, the House approved 30-30 and sent to the Senate a tax-limitation bill that its Revenue and Taxation Committee altered to please the governor.

The "go home" bill, a "share" measure is believed to have the support of Republican Gov. Don Samuelson who just a week ago Monday vetoed an earlier bill repealing the current four percent revenue increase limit on local property taxes.

This new approach raises the limitation to 3.5 per cent and excludes new property and three mill levies from the revenue base on which the percentage limitation is figured.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, of the House Tax Committee, conceded in debate the measure was a compromise which was drafted after Samuelson vetoed the repealer.

"As with any compromise, I don't support any one who voted either side of the repealer will be satisfied with it," Larsen said.

But he said if the lawmakers want to liberalize the four percent ceiling on local taxing units' revenue increases "this is your opportunity to do so."

In response to a question from Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, Larsen said the 3.5 per cent limit was chosen because that was the average consumer price index increase for 1969.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, suggested the House try a different approach than the percentage ceiling and consider another bill which would substitute a referendum. He said that the one he carried to defeat 10 days ago.

For Rep. William J. Murphy, D-Wallace, the question before the House was a philosophical one.

"Do we pay lip service to local government or do we make local government a viable servant to the people?" Murphy asked.

He called the four per cent limitation enacted last year a "corpse" and said it should remain a corpse.

Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, said the House was a philosophical one.

Haight-Ashbury Station Rocked By Bomb Blast

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A powerful bomb packed with metal staples rocked a Haight-Ashbury district police station Monday night, injuring six policemen, one of them critically.

Police Chief Al Nelder said the fused explosive was placed on the rear window sill of the sergeant's office at Park Station, in Golden Gate Park.

The thunderous blast, which jarred residents for blocks around, sprayed staples like bullets through the office. Sgt. Brian McDonald fell gravely wounded with multiple head injuries.

Patrolmen Robert Fogarty, 43, and Frank Eath, 27, were hospitalized with multiple puncture wounds. Officers: Alfred Arnaud, 24, Robert O'Sullivan, 26, and Ronald Martin, 28, were treated for lesser injuries.

"All I remember was a bomb exploded," said an officer who escaped with only scratches. "I saw Sergeant McDonald lying in the rubble, bleeding from an artery wound in his neck."

Police immediately sealed off the area and rerouted traffic. Five reports indicated the building had been demolished. The blast did knock out all power in the station and shattered every window.

There were reports that a man was seen running from the station, and police later said a white and pink van was sighted leaving the area. However, there were no immediate suspects.

Four days ago, three cars were blown up and two reserve policemen were injured by two bombs which exploded in a parking lot adjacent to the Berkeley police station, across the bay from San Francisco.

The explosive used in the Berkeley bombing was a metal pipe filled with powder and set off by a lighted fuse.

Gov. Don Samuelson, who originally proposed spending only $4.2-million on supplemental appropriations this year, raised his sights to $5,100,000, according to Chairman Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, of the House Appropriations Committee.

Palmer noted to reporters that the joint committee was approximately $150,000 below the governor on the "must" requests for the same items and added, "I think the committee is as conservative as the governor in every way, shape and form."

There was no immediate expression politically from either of the parties after the caucuses in the house.

Palmer said the supplemental requests of the governor which were passed down by the joint committee were "emergency items."

The $934,000 (in additional proposed spending) are for needed programs in Idaho and in the eyes of the joint committee are essential," he said.

"However, it is not the intent of the joint committee to direct the Legislature on these budgets."

General Fund Credit Union Proposals Seek Raises

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee unveiled for party caucuses Monday proposed supplemental general fund appropriations totaling $5,076,869.

Listing $5,042,438 as "must" items to be financed with an anticipated surplus of approximately $36 million, the committee left the new programs to the individual legislator's discretion.

Gov. Don Samuelson, who originally proposed spending only $4.2-million on supplemental appropriations this year, raised his sights to $5,100,000, according to Chairman Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, of the House Appropriations Committee.

"However, it is not the intent of the joint committee to direct the Legislature on these budgets."

Gov. Don Samuelson, who originally proposed spending only $4.2-million on supplemental appropriations this year, raised his sights to $5,100,000, according to Chairman Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, of the House Appropriations Committee.

Palmer noted to reporters that the joint committee was approximately $150,000 below the governor on the "must" requests for the same items and added, "I think the committee is as conservative as the governor in every way, shape and form."

Sewage Bill Backed By Governor Is Voted Down

By RICHARD CIARROCK

BOISE (UPI) — Five Republicans teamed up with a nearly solid bloc of Democrats Monday to kill with a 34-34 tie vote Gov. Don Samuelson's proposal to help finance sewage treatment projects with inheritance taxes.

Reps. Ernest Allen, R-Nampa, John Reardon, R-Boise, Jay Webb, R-Boise, Willard Lattimer, R-Edon, and George Danielson, R-Cambridge, cast their lot with the Democrats on this measure.

But Reps. Lester Hartvigsen, D-Malad, Neil Miller, D-Blackfoot, and Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, voted with the Republicans in favor of the plan.

Rep. William Onweller, R-Boise, the floor sponsor of the measure, said the bill would bring back to the local level of government 5 1/2 times what it would take away.

Under a law passed by the legislature at its last session, the state gets 50 per cent of inheritance taxes and the county gets 50 per cent. This bill would have given the state 90 per cent and the county 10 per cent and would have put the water pollution control fund of help finance local water pollution control projects of cities.

Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, led off opposition debate against the bill.

Gleason To Quit Network Before Fall

NEW YORK (UPI)—Comedian Jackie Gleason, a mainstay on the Columbia Broadcasting System for 20 years, will not be back on the network in fall at least not in a regular capacity, CBS said Monday.

Mike Dapp, vice president in charge of network television programming, said negotiations were still in progress between CBS and Gleason but "I'm not optimistic about the outlook."

Dapp said the differences between the network and the performer concerned what kind of show Gleason would do. He has had a Saturday night variety show. CBS would like to limit his show to the "Honey-mooners" segment, a regular feature on the program, while Gleason would like to do strictly variety work.

"CBS is anxious for him to do his Honey-mooners," Dapp said. "He can not assure us that. He'd rather do variety shows and the chances of him returning are not optimistic."

Dapp said Gleason probably would remain associated with CBS by doing specials.

State Auditor Joe Williams and State Treasurer Margie Ruth Moon brought an original action in supreme court seeking a decree to compel Ada County to turn over all monies received from motor vehicle registrations.

The state contends that the Idaho code says all money collected will be turned over to the state treasurer.

The case will be heard Feb. 18.

Epilepsy-Afflicted Student Turns To Prayer For Help

By MARGARET CRIDER
Harbor Creek, Pennsylvania

Several months after my family moved to Harbor Creek in July, 1967, I found myself in the midst of cold strangers at the high school. The students did nothing to accept me, and their rumors were soon all over the school. "She's a queer."

Margaret Crider

Such malicious tales and remarks made it impossible for my brother, who was a senior, even to get a date. When I walked down the hall, the kids would move away from me. I cried out to God asking Him the reason for, and the solution to, this problem.

Friday night, January 12, 1968, was very cold and snowy, not the kind of night you would dream of being the key to your problem or the answer to your prayer. I had invited my only girl friend, Melody, home for supper; and after the dishes were done, we sat and talked.

The previous week my Advanced English teacher, Mr. Sanfilippo, had called me out of the room to ask me if I thought Melody being the only Negro in class, would be hurt if we read and discussed "To Kill a Mockingbird." I had offered to find out how she felt about it.

After stumbling around, I managed to ask her, and she felt we should definitely read it.

Now it was her turn to hesitate about something. Finally, as we were walking back to her house, she told me the kids at school thought I was queer because I stared.

That was the key. I have had psychomotor epilepsy for over eight years. My seizures are generally very slight, but during them I appear to be staring. Some of the kids had seen me during a seizure; and holding the belief that "queers" stare, they deduced that I must be one.

When I returned home, I broke down. Through many tears, I told my father and mother what Melody had disclosed.

My next move was to call my guidance counselor, Mrs. Arnold, who had been desperately trying to solve the problem. Mother and I were to be in her office at 8:15 the following Monday morning.

Through much prayer and a schoolteacher friend, a plan was worked out. Monday morning, January 15, 1968, I would talk to my Advanced English class where most of the trouble was originating.

We were studying the novel "Silas Marner," as many high school sophomores have, and our teacher, Mr. Sanfilippo, had been pointing out the problem of ignorance and superstition can create.

Silas Marner had cataleptic fits very similar to my epileptic seizures. Because of them, he had been accused of being demon possessed and was not accepted by the people of the town into which he had just moved.

I was to talk to the class about epilepsy, trying my own predicament in with Silas Marner's.

Monday morning dawned crisp and clear. Mother and I went to school together, where we went over the plan with Mrs. Arnold; then my mother returned home.

The first period bell rang, and off I went to my English class armed with a few pamphlets, clippings, and diagrams. Mrs. Arnold also came in and sat down. Mr. Sanfilippo started off the class by refreshing our memories about superstition and Silas Marner. Then he proceeded to say:

"Last week I called Margaret out into the hall, and after beating her over the head a few times, she consented to do some work for me. She is going to tell us about epilepsy."

I arose and prayed: "Holy Spirit, You take over and speak through me." Any plans I had flew out the window as the Holy Spirit took over.

We spoke to the class for about 20 minutes and answered as many of their questions as time permitted. I found myself saying such things as: "Medication helps, but I find prayer and God help the most." "When I feel a seizure coming on, I often pray and God helps me."

Before I knew it, the period was almost over. Mrs. Arnold arose and thanked me, and the class applauded. After Mr. Sanfilippo and I left the room, he remarked that for some time now he had wanted me to speak to the class about epilepsy, but feared it would upset me.

Mrs. Arnold talked to the students a bit more about the situation after we had left and said, "I think we had better all get down on our knees tonight and thank God for the good health He has given us."

Since that day, things have changed. There are many friendly smiles and greetings, as well as new friendships. And I have learned that my best and wisest Friend can use anything, even epilepsy, to glorify Himself. I can truly agree with the statement my mother made that evening: "Today is one day I thanked God that He hasn't yet healed you."

Next — Spenser W. Haylick, Ann Arbor, Michigan, relates the inspiring story of the "Gillnet Gang" — youths who do things that need to be done.

A PREDOMINANTLY YOUNG audience listened to testimony Monday before a Senate subcommittee considering a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age. Theodore C. Sorenson, former top aide to the late President John F.

Kennedy, told the subcommittee the voting age should be lowered to 18 to give young people "a piece of the action" in democracy. (UPI telephoto)

Senate Group Urged To Lower Voting Age To 18

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whatever in the process former top aide to the late which determines whether they President John F. Kennedy told live or die, conscription a Senate subcommittee today without rerepresentation is delaying the voting age should be lowered to 18 to give young people "a piece of the action" in democracy.

Theodore C. Sorenson said that youths who are drafted to fight in Vietnam "have no voice" has 67 co-sponsors, five other "certain votes" and from five to ten other possible supporters.

But he acknowledged the road in the House will be tougher. Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee is said to oppose the measure as now drawn up.

Randolph said an 18-year-old can marry in most states without his parents' consent, can make wills in most states can drive a car, must pay income tax in many cases, and can be tried as an adult in criminal courts. Yet only two states, Kentucky and Georgia, give an 18-year-old the vote. Randolph said, and two others — Hawaii and Alaska — give the vote to 19-year-olds.

Safe Place

TOEENBERG, Norway (UPI) — There have been no accidents of any kind at the ESso oil refinery near here in four years, according to a company announcement. Norwegian industry in general loses 3.5 million working days a year because of accidents.

House Acts To Cut Number Of Amendments On Ballot

BOISE (UPI) — House members crushed Monday an attempt by Rep. Paul Worthen, R-Boise, to force printing of a proposed constitutional amendment.

One of five amendments Worthen introduced early in this session to "clean up" Idaho's 80-year-old constitution, this one would require children to attend school for 12 years instead of just three.

Rep. Aden Hyde, R - Idaho Falls, chairman of the printing committee, argued that placing Worthen's amendments and more than 25 others now circulating legislative halls on the ballot with a proposed new constitution next fall simply would confuse the electorate.

He said there were two "must" amendments which probably would be submitted along with the new constitution but that should be all placed on the ballot.

When it came to a vote, only Reps. Ed Hedges, R-Boise, John Reardon, R-Boise, and Wayne Tibbitts, D-Loranzo, sided with Worthen. To force printing of a bill the printing committee does not want printed takes an affirmative vote of 37 members of the House.

Worthen said the reason for his amendments was to make the legislature aware of the number of changes which should be made in the state's basic document and which have been neglected for a long period of time.

"Our constitution can be cleaned up without taking the whole kit and kaboodle and throwing it out," Worthen said.

YANKS IN HOLLAND — THE HAGUE (UPI) — Each day, about 3,000 Dutch dentists pull approximately 10,000 teeth, according to dental statistics. The number of owners of an artificial set of teeth grows in Holland by about 200,000 annually.

ISU Students Lauded For Aid In Survey

FOCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State University President Warren E. Davis and student body president Scott McClure have commended ISU students for their voluntary help in determining the extent of the drug and marijuana problem on the ISU campus.

The commendation for the help-and-for-taking-the-steps to attack the problem came following a poll conducted by the ISU Student Senate which showed 69 per cent of ISU students have never tried drugs or hallucinogens in any form.

Besides voluntarily supplying the information on the survey in which 4,096 students participated, the student body has taken additional steps:

The Student Senate has published a booklet on "Drugs And Their Effects" which is available on request.

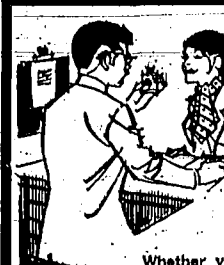

Two-thirds of the students answering the survey have expressed opposition to the legalizing of marijuana.

Students in the College of Pharmacy are preparing a live presentation on drug-abuse which is to be shown before the State Board of Education this month.

And student leaders throughout the university are addressing themselves to the drug problem in a variety of ways.

The on-campus survey revealed that in most cases students living in dormitories on the campus are less likely to be frequent or habitual users of drugs and students who have been at ISU several years are less likely than newly arriving freshmen to be frequent users of drugs and hallucinogen.

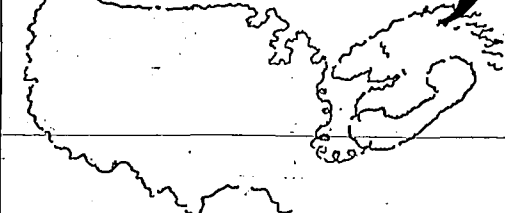

The survey also showed a direct correlation between grades and the frequent use of drugs and students studying to become teachers are less likely than students in any other major study category to be frequent users of drugs and marijuana. However, natural science majors are less likely than even education majors to use amphetamines and barbiturates.

Everybody's Failure—American Penology: 3— Prisons Are Long Past Days Of Brutal Treatment, But They're Still No Picnic

By ROBERT BETTS
Copley News Service

"Prison is no picnic," said the warden, sticking his fork into a hamburger cooked by an inmate.

It was lunchtime at the Federal Correctional Institution on Terminal Island, Calif., near Los Angeles.

In the prisoners' mess hall next door to the staff dining room the inmates were eating basically the same food.

"I want to know what the warden was talking about, but life for prisoners generally.

Everybody knows how tough it is, even if they've never been inside: all those bars, hard beds, stern guards, no privacy and, worst of all no freedom.

But outright brutality? "We're long past those days," said the warden, Greig Richardson, who is chief administrative officer at Terminal Island.

Prison officers generally think the average American has a distorted view of prison—a popular picture of muzzling inmates rattling tin cups on cell bars or shooting their way out in a big break.

All was quiet in the cell block today as the inmates looked in at the prisoners reclined on their bunks, reading or snoozing. Some stared stonily through the bars. A few nodded "hi." But most didn't bother even to look up.

These were the "clean custody" inmates—new arrivals undergoing a 30-day admission process, transferees from other federal prisons finishing the last few years of a long term sentence, and a few difficult ones who don't quite fit to mingle with the general prison population.

Most of the 700 men sleep in open dormitories with an average of 62 men to a unit. Their beds are neatly made beds and lockers, the dormitories could have been sleeping quarters in any Army barracks. Each has an adjoining recreation room where the inmates can watch television till 11:30 p.m.

Two units of 78 single rooms, which once were cells, have been converted to honor dormitories for trustees and others considered to have made outstanding adjustments.

Terminal Island is a "medium security" institution. It may not be the "ideal" prison, if such a place could ever exist. At least it presents the modern example of what the Federal Bureau of Prisons is trying to achieve—total protection from and prisoner rehabilitation of the men and women in its custody.

"The harsh abuses of punishment, which have characterized many prisons in the past and which have served only to degrade and brutalize the prisoner have never been part of the program at Terminal Island," said Richardson. "In fact, for many years, corporal punishment of any kind has been totally outlawed in all institutions of the federal prison system. So far as possible, Terminal Island is individualized, more are few written rules. Rather, an attempt is made to formulate a wholesome and flexible structure of communal living."

In the main mess hall—no drearier, even brighter than some service and work centers—prisoners lined up at the service counters and seated themselves with their food at tables for four. One or two guards stood, armed with no more than a bunch of keys. Only the guards in the two watchtowers are armed.

Outside in the large central square, men strolled in the lunchtime sunshine or sat around laughing and chatting. Others were playing handball, badminton, horseshoes or lifting weights. There are also basketball and softball games.

"One of the greatest problems faced by most penal and corrections institutions is that of providing constructive work for the inmates," said Richardson.

At Terminal Island the work program takes precedence over all other demands upon the inmates' time. They work in the furniture refinishing shop, upholstery department or metal equipment factory turning out products for other federal departments. Training is also given in plumbing, carpentry, masonry, electrical work and other skills. In the women's section vocational training is given in dressmaking, cookery, cosmetology, hospital and office work.

The 1965 Prisoner Rehabilitation Act sparked a minor revolution in federal penology by authorizing the daytime release of prisoners for work or study in their communities.

Currently some 35 Terminal Island inmates—the figure varies as men become eligible—are traveling to jobs outside and returning to prison after work. They walk to a nearby bus stop to begin their half-way journey into society. Each is provided with a prison lunch—two sandwiches, fruit and a slice of pie.

Eligibility requirements for work release are high. The prisoner must be within six months of completing his sentence. His offense and adjustment-to-prison life are taken into account.

"We have had very few failures," said Richardson. "One or two failed to return, but were picked up again. One was brought back by his parents. They had persuaded him it was in his best interest in the long run."

"Another had a drinking problem one night—but at least he came back."

"The support from everyone—the police, civic groups, employers—has been great. Many men have carried on in their jobs after release and turned out to be good workers, well thought of by their employers. The old reluctance to employ ex-prisoners is dying."

Money earned by prisoners working inside or outside the institution goes to support their families, for transportation and clothing. Savings go into a trust fund established by prison officials. At the community in-

Administration Aides, Conservationists Join In Urging Ban On Snake River Dams

By ELMER W. LAMMI
WASHINGTON (UPI)

Spokesmen for two federal agencies and a former cabinet member joined conservationists today in urging a ban on building dams on the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon.

The pleas to bar construction of the proposed $265 million High Mountain Sheep Dam or any other project on the 16-mile stretch of the White Water River were voiced before the Senate water and power resources subcommittee.

The subcommittee is holding hearings on legislation sponsored by Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, and Frank Church, D-Idaho, to give time for study of alternative uses of the river.

Those recommending passage of the legislation included Assistant Interior Secretary James R. Smith and Deputy Chief M. M. Nelson of the Forest Service.

Former Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, appearing as an individual and not as a spokesman for any group, gave his "emphatic, unqualified support" to the proposed moratorium.

Udall, who as secretary had backed a now abandoned proposal for a federal project, defended that plan on grounds the federal power commission would undoubtedly license a proposed private power project.

The High Canyon area of the Snake River, Udall said, was worthy of preservation because of its "superlative scenic beauty."

"It is the deepest gorge on the face of the entire planet," he said.

Smith, speaking for the Interior Department, said the Bonneville Power Administration's electric power projections for the Pacific Northwest indicated that a hydroelectric project on the Middle Snake would not be needed before 1986.

Nelson expressed hope other sources would be found for needed electric power and said, "The creation of wildlife and fishery values of the Snake river" far outweigh any presently demonstrated need for a hydroelectric project."

Witnesses backing the Jordan-Church bill met generally with a favorable reaction from committee members. However, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., warned several times power needs would grow rapidly and more attention should be paid to alternative sources if dams are not built.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., urged approval of his own bill to establish a Hell's Canyon-Snake National River. Udall, in his testimony, went even further—suggesting the area might be worthy of national park status.

The electric utility companies came from the electricity utility industry. Ken Billington, executive director of the Washington Public Utility Districts' Association, said passage of the bill would "rob the people of the Pacific Northwest of a valuable energy resource."

"Locking this stretch of river up in the concept of 'Wild Rivers' means you limit the participation in the use of this water resource as a recreational asset to a small vocal, but wealthy minority, Billington declared.

An application for joint construction of the High Mountain Sheep Dam or an alternative project by the Pacific Northwest Power Co. and the Washington Public Power Supply System is currently pending before the FPC.

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Everyone has a problem, and now all of a sudden I have one. I am in my sixties and have been widowed for several years. Now there is a widower who lives in a town near here. He is in my age bracket. Ever since his wife died a year ago he has showered me with expensive presents.

His sister is a good friend of mine and she lives near me. I have asked her on several occasions to please write to her brother and tell him to quit sending me presents, but either she has not done it, or her brother doesn't mind her, because the presents continue to come.

I am not considering remarriage—at least not to HIM. What shall I do?

DEAR ABBY: We live very close to my husband's family, which includes his widowed mother and several brothers and sisters. They are one of those "all-for-one and one-for-all" type families; altho there is always a lot of fighting and arguing among them.

My mother-in-law is always crying about something. She al- so has a habit of "dropping in" all the time, and no matter what we are doing, she stays. She is still a young woman and she could get married again, but she won't join any groups or try to make a life for herself. She says she will be happy to spend the rest of her life just visiting her children.

I have pleaded with my husband to move just a few miles away so I can be closer to my own mother, but he won't budge. Abby, a girl needs to be near her own mother, especially when she has small children (and I have) and besides it's a toll call to my mother's house so I can't even call her very often.

Please, Abby, explain to my husband that it wouldn't harm our husband-wife relationship if he moved away from his mother and nearer to mine. I can't feel close to his mother because she is so wrapped up in self-pity and she could care less about me and my problems. What can I do to get closer to my mother?

DEAR STUCK: The way I have your husband and his family poked, the only way you'll get closer to your mother is to get her to move closer to you.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter sent to you by a woman whose husband treats their 10- and 12-year-old sons like "nats." That family is headed for trouble. When those boys end up in juvenile court the father will say he can't understand it. We always had such a good relationship.

In my eight years as a probation officer, almost every case had a background of either no father in the home, or a very weak father figure from whom the child received very little or no discipline.

Youngsters need love. But they also need consistent discipline. They need to know what their limits are. This is security!

Joe Frazier Is Undisputed Champion

Ellis Doesn't Come Out For Fifth Round After 2 Knockdowns In Fourth

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unbeaten Joe Frazier, scoring two knockdowns with his thundering left hook, became the first undisputed world heavyweight champion in nearly three years Monday when he hammered Jimmy Ellis into a technical knockout in five rounds at Madison Square Garden.

Frazier Retires For 30 Seconds

By WILLIAM VERGIAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier announced his retirement 15 minutes after winning the undisputed world heavyweight title Monday night but then had second thoughts and made a comeback 30 seconds later.

Key To Bout Was Awesome Left Hook

By CHARLES RICHARDS
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jimmy Ellis said Monday night he disagreed with manager Angelo Dundee's decision to throw in the towel in his heavyweight championship fight with Joe Frazier.

But battered Jimmy didn't even remember one of the times he was knocked down in the fourth round. Frazier decked him twice in the fourth and Ellis just got off his knees both times before the count. After the fight when he was asked when he picked up the count, he said, "about 5 or 6."

"Both times?" he was asked. "I only went down once," the tired Ellis said.

"Gentlemen, that's why I stopped the fight," Angelo Dundee, Ellis' manager, said just after the bout.

Dundee refused to let Ellis come out for the fifth round and Frazier was awarded a fifth-round technical knockout. Ellis agreed to come out but Dundee wouldn't let him.

"I asked him why he got hit with that left hook," Dundee said. "I was banging him on his knee. I was slipping him with cold water. I didn't think that his reflexes were as good as they should be, so I stopped it."

After Frazier was announced the winner, Ellis walked over, put his arms around him and said something to him in a friendly way. "I'm a man," Ellis said. "When a man beats me, he beats me. I hugged his neck and said 'congratulations.'"

Ellis went into the fight after a long period of inactivity, but he said he didn't think things would have been different even if he had fought some tuncup fights.

"Tuncup's wouldn't have helped. The way he hit me with that left hook, it wouldn't have mattered how many tuncups I'd have had. If I had caught him with a clean left hook like he caught me, the fight would have been over the same way for me," Ellis said.

Ellis wouldn't compare his fight with Cassius Clay with whom he used to spar when Clay was champion. But Dundee said Frazier, "tonight, would have licked anybody in sight, because he was just great. The next fight, I don't know, but tonight he was great."

Ellis said the obvious, next. "Sure, I'm a little bit disappointed. Some you win, and some you have to lose. I just had to lose this time. Maybe the next time I'll do better."

Utah State Has 112-102 Win
LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—Post-season tournament favorite Utah State defeated Arizona State 112-102 Monday night in a conference basketball game.

The fast-paced ball game was tied five times, but Utah State led by 6-8 all-American candidate Marv Roberts, put forth a team effort to allow coach Ladd Johnson to use nearly his entire bench.

The win puts the Aggies' season record at 16-4 and drops Arizona State to a dismal 4-17. Seaborn Hill, key man for ASU, poured in 31 points to take game honors. Roberts hit 20 points for the Aggies to run a close second.

rounds at Madison Square Garden. Frazier, fighting like a berserk buzzsaw with relentless, boring-in frenzy, floored Ellis twice in a stunning fourth round. And the end came for Ellis, who had been recognized as world champion by the World Boxing Association, when Angelo Dundee, his manager, refused to permit him to come out for the fifth round. Under New York State rules it was a technical knockout in the fifth round.

A crowd of 18,000, paying a gate of $600,000 at Madison Square Garden, saw Frazier spill Ellis midway in the fourth round with a two-handed barrage when he pinned Ellis in his own corner.

Ellis, who had tried in vain to appear the onrushing Philadelphia with long pot shots, pitched forward onto his face and seemed unlikely to beat the count. However, the Louisville, Ky., battler struggled to his feet but under New York State rules the count continues when a fighter is on the floor at the end of a round. Ellis, turning over and pushing himself up with his gloves, just barely got onto his feet at the count of nine.

The Kentuckian moved on legs of rubber into his corner and his handlers furiously attempted to bring him around for the next round. But it was no use and Dundee, turning to referee Tony Perez, signalled that his man could not continue.

Frazier, scaling 205 pounds to Ellis' 201, entered the ring a 4-1 favorite and scored his 25th professional victory and 22nd knockout. It was Ellis' sixth loss in 33 professional fights, and the first time he had lost as a heavyweight.

"He caught me with a helluva shot," Ellis said after his head had cleared. "I just couldn't do it. Angie stopped it because he thought I was hurt."

The two heavyweights battled on even terms only in the first round. In that session, Frazier, according to the attack with his arms pumping like non-stop pistons. But Ellis, relying on long head punches, managed to keep Philadelphia Joe about a yard away from him during most of the first session.

In the opening minute and a half of the second round, Frazier was twice warned for busting, catching Ellis on the chest and jaw with the top of his head as he came driving relentlessly in, seeking to land heavy body shots.

But right after the victorious pattern for Frazier began to take shape as he succeeded in getting inside and out-punching Ellis by about three to one.

Frazier had a solid gain in that second round and then took charge in the third round when he staggered Ellis twice with that trademark left hook.

At the one-minute mark of the third round, Frazier started Ellis on the way to "dream street" with a left hook against the ropes. Ellis was stunned, but managed to tie up Frazier by pinning his arms to his sides.

But then Frazier broke loose and staggered Ellis again at the two-minute mark with another left hook in the center of the ring that spun Ellis halfway around.

Ellis boxed his way out of that trouble and made it to the end of the third round. And for one minute of the fourth round he was able to hold Frazier a little further away with those straight punches.

But Frazier, just as he had been 24 previous times, was not to be denied and he pinned Ellis into his own corner for the thundering barrage that scored the first knockdown.

Frazier thus became the first undisputed heavyweight champion since Cassius Clay was stripped of his various titles 22 months ago after running about of U.S. military draft laws. Until Monday night, Frazier had been recognized as champion in New York and other areas while Ellis ruled the WBA areas.

Breakfast
JEROME — Members of the Jerome Boosters Club will host a breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m. Wednesday at Wood's Cafe for members of the Jerome High School Wrestling team. The team will leave later that day for the state match in Moscow.

BRUTAL JOE FRAZIER knocks Jimmy Ellis to the canvas for the second time Monday night in the fourth round of the heavyweight title fight at Madison Square Garden. Using a deadly left hook, Frazier was declared the winner by way of a fifth-round TKO when Ellis failed to answer the bell on orders from manager Angelo Dundee. (UPI telephoto)

Bruins Are One Game Away From Clinching Pac-8 Title

By JAMES F. COUR
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—UCLA, the nation's No. 1 ranked college basketball team, is one victory away from clinching a tie for the Pacific-8 title but John Wooden still sounded worried Monday.

"It's nice to have a three-game lead with six to go but a lot of things could still happen," he told the Southern California basketball writers at their weekly luncheon.

"Of course," Wooden added with a broad smile, "we wouldn't trade positions with any team in our league."

The Bruins, 8-0 in league play and 18-0 overall, are at Oregon State Friday night and Oregon Saturday night.

"We're very pleased we are still undefeated," the UCLA coach continued. "I thought we played exceptionally well last weekend (a 95-61 win over Washington State and a 101-85 victory over Washington.) We played well as a team both nights."

"I'm very concerned about our games next weekend. Oregon State is always tough at Corvallis. When you're on top they're all after you. And that's the way it should be."

Wooden had praise for Rowe's replacement, John Eckler. Eckler had 10 points and 14 rebounds in the Washington game.

"John really played fine ball," the veteran mentor commented. After the Oregon trip, UCLA is at home against Stanford and California. There comes a two-game series with University of Southern California here to end the regular season.

Miss Wagner Is First Black Belt
Emotions were highly charged Saturday afternoon during a Karate review at O'Leary Junior High as Miss Rosalynn Wagner, Twin Falls, became the first woman in the world to attain the rank of Sho-Dan (first degree Black belt) in Kaij-Kumi Karate.

The coveted Black Belt was presented to Miss Wagner by Kajale Master Toby Tokosa who had flown here from Honolulu, Hawaii, especially for the review.

Syracuse Suspends Top Scorer

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Syracuse University suspended leading scorer William Smith from its basketball squad Monday "as a result of his conduct" in Saturday's game against West Virginia University.

Smith's future playing status will be the subject of a later review, James H. Decker, Syracuse Athletic director, said in announcing the suspension.

Such a 61-center from Rochester, N.Y., has been Syracuse's leading scorer and rebounder as a junior. He also was the second highest scoring sophomore in the University's history, behind Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons.

West Virginia beat Syracuse 94-84 at Morgantown, W.Va. in a game called with 1:01 remaining after a number of fights broke out.

The fracas began when Smith threw a punch at referee Herb Young after Young charged Smith with a fifth personal foul that put the player out of the game.

Another Syracuse player, Bob McDaniel of Plainfield, N.J., dashed off the bench and swatted at the referee with a warm-up jersey. A fan then tackled Smith and, as police restrained him, a few fights broke out among the fans on the sidelines.

No action was taken against McDaniel.

Oklahoma Hands Colorado Loss
NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Oklahoma kept defending champion Colorado at a seven-point deficit during the final minutes of play Monday to hand the Buffaloes an 84-77 defeat that virtually eliminated them from contention in the Big Eight.

Colorado's Gordon Topp led the scoring with 23 points. Sooner Bobby Jack trailed him with 22.

Montana Defeats Idaho 68-64 In Ragged Contest

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI)—Montana outlasted Idaho, 68-64, in a ragged, Big Sky Conference basketball game between two obviously weary teams at Missoula Monday night.

The foul-plagued contest showed the affects of the rugged weekend the two teams had played against conference foes.

Montana won the game on a pair of free throws by its 6-8 center Ray Howard with 56 seconds left in the contest.

The Vandals threw away a chance to tie the score when forward Adrian Prince missed his first try at a one-and-one charity situation.

Grizzly forward Howard Clark grabbed the rebound and Montana worked the ball until guard Don Wetzel scored on a pivot shot at the buzzer.

Howard paced the winners with 15 points while Big Sky Conference scoring leader Dave Gustafson of Montana was held to 11.

Vandal guard Tim Cummings put the handoffs on Gustafson with a beautiful defensive performance.

Gustafson was free only when Cummings was setting on the bench carrying four personal fouls.

Montana used the rebounding of Clark, who grabbed 13, and Howard, who had 10, to good advantage.

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI)—Montana outlasted Idaho, 68-64, in a ragged, Big Sky Conference basketball game between two obviously weary teams at Missoula Monday night.

The foul-plagued contest showed the affects of the rugged weekend the two teams had played against conference foes.

Montana won the game on a pair of free throws by its 6-8 center Ray Howard with 56 seconds left in the contest.

The Vandals threw away a chance to tie the score when forward Adrian Prince missed his first try at a one-and-one charity situation.

Grizzly forward Howard Clark grabbed the rebound and Montana worked the ball until guard Don Wetzel scored on a pivot shot at the buzzer.

Howard paced the winners with 15 points while Big Sky Conference scoring leader Dave Gustafson of Montana was held to 11.

Vandal guard Tim Cummings put the handoffs on Gustafson with a beautiful defensive performance.

Key To Bout Was Awesome Left Hook

By CHARLES RICHARDS
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jimmy Ellis said Monday night he disagreed with manager Angelo Dundee's decision to throw in the towel in his heavyweight championship fight with Joe Frazier.

But battered Jimmy didn't even remember one of the times he was knocked down in the fourth round. Frazier decked him twice in the fourth and Ellis just got off his knees both times before the count. After the fight when he was asked when he picked up the count, he said, "about 5 or 6."

"Both times?" he was asked. "I only went down once," the tired Ellis said.

"Gentlemen, that's why I stopped the fight," Angelo Dundee, Ellis' manager, said just after the bout.

Dundee refused to let Ellis come out for the fifth round and Frazier was awarded a fifth-round technical knockout. Ellis agreed to come out but Dundee wouldn't let him.

"I asked him why he got hit with that left hook," Dundee said. "I was banging him on his knee. I was slipping him with cold water. I didn't think that his reflexes were as good as they should be, so I stopped it."

After Frazier was announced the winner, Ellis walked over, put his arms around him and said something to him in a friendly way. "I'm a man," Ellis said. "When a man beats me, he beats me. I hugged his neck and said 'congratulations.'"

Ellis went into the fight after a long period of inactivity, but he said he didn't think things would have been different even if he had fought some tuncup fights.

"Tuncup's wouldn't have helped. The way he hit me with that left hook, it wouldn't have mattered how many tuncups I'd have had. If I had caught him with a clean left hook like he caught me, the fight would have been over the same way for me," Ellis said.

Ellis wouldn't compare his fight with Cassius Clay with whom he used to spar when Clay was champion. But Dundee said Frazier, "tonight, would have licked anybody in sight, because he was just great. The next fight, I don't know, but tonight he was great."

Ellis said the obvious, next. "Sure, I'm a little bit disappointed. Some you win, and some you have to lose. I just had to lose this time. Maybe the next time I'll do better."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Tuesday, February 17, 1970

Q — We bought shares of Pacific Lighting in 1966 at 24. Today they are selling at 28. We like the dividends but are tired of selling and buying a stock with a better chance of growth. What do you suggest? — V.S.

A — Pacific Lighting, under a new management team, has begun to broaden its activities into several new and highly dynamic areas. Acquisitions of one Hawaiian and two Californian real-estate development companies are in various stages of completion. The company is also participating through a subsidiary in a joint gas and oil exploration and development program in Canada and Alaska.

But it is Pacific Lighting's newly developed dual-fuel system for vehicles that may capture the imagination of investors. The natural gas-gasoline fuel system was successfully tested on four of Pacific's vehicles during 1968 and 1969. Pollutants emitted while operating vehicles on natural gas were reduced by 90 per cent according to these tests. A conversion kit which is being built by Norris Industries will be marketed by Pacific. The device is designed for use on commercial fleet vehicles and is expected to cost around $300 per vehicle. It is understood that federal, state and local agencies are planning to equip some vehicles with this dual system.

Pacific has applied for an increase in allowable rate of return to 7 1/2 per cent — 8 1/2 per cent from 6 1/2 per cent now in force. If granted, earnings could show an appreciable improvement over the $2.01 a share reported in 1969.

Q — You give me the names of some top-rated, long-call bonds yielding 8 per cent and 9 per cent? How and where can I purchase them? — C.S.

A — Your broker will handle this transaction for you. Recently issued AAA Ford Motor Debentures of 1990 are non-callable before 1975 and are selling to yield about 8 1/2 per cent. Another high-grade deferred call bond is Ohio Bell Telephone 8 1/2 of 2010 yielding 8 1/2 per cent. Pacific Tel. & Tel. 8 1/2 of 2000 protection and are selling to yield 8 1/2 per cent.

Mr. Spear welcomes questions for use in his column but regrets he cannot answer all mail personally.

Wall Street Chatter

The stock market is discounting the less favorable corporate earnings showing for the first half of the year, but it seems probable that the recent severe decline will result in the usual spring rally being moved forward, Spear & Staff says.

Investors are justified in adopting a reasonably aggressive buying policy in carefully selected stocks, the firm says.

In view of the brevity of the base-forming process that has been traced thus far in the market, a sustained rally in milked. Stocks do not regard possible short-term rewards "as sufficiently attractive to warrant aggressive buying."

Some bargain-hunting may be undertaken, but not at the expense of depleting reserve buying power, the firm says.

Each slide in stock prices adds to the fears of the weak hand shares, the Neill Letter of Contrary Opinion — observes. Perhaps, people just haven't been scared enough yet to mark the end of a major bear market, the firm says, adding that when this happens the market will either undergo a spasm of selling or will level out until accumulation takes hold.

Now is the time to move Pauline, Webber, Jackson & Curtis says. Institutional investors should commence a planned program of committing a substantial part of the funds which they've been accumulating, it adds. The Administration has no alternative to easing monetary restraint soon, and when this happens, a dramatic upturn will occur in the market, the firm says.

FINDLAY, Ohio (UPI)—A new split second air pollution control system, which will enable industry to predict the level of gaseous contaminants around plants and adjust operations accordingly, has been developed by Marathon Oil Company. A company spokesman said MAPS can definitely make a difference in industry's battle against air pollution, "with the proper modifications, the program can be used by any company in any industry," he said.

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

GETTING THE MOST ON DIAMONDS

Here is another problem in play from the December, 1969, issue of the Bridge World magazine. You are declarer at a five-club contract and West makes the friendly opening lead of the queen of spades. You promptly discard two hearts on the ace and king of spades and note that your problem is to avoid the loss of two diamond tricks. If diamonds will just break 3-3, all plays will work. What line of play will guard against the maximum number of other diamond breaks?

You can draw trumps, cash one top diamond and lead a second diamond toward dummy's jack. That will work against the actual East-West holdings but it would fail miserably any time East held either doubleton queen of diamonds or four diamonds to the queen-10 or queen-nine.

The correct line of play is to lead a diamond to your ace at trick three and to play out the queen of hearts from your hand at trick four. Later on, you will plan to enter dummy with a high trump and lead a second diamond toward your hand.

The way the cards lie, it won't do East any good to trump that second diamond, so trump that second diamond, so he will discard. Now you lead a third diamond and, eventually, trump your last diamond with dummy's other high trump.

Note that this line of play will work against all 3-3 and 4-2 diamond breaks as well as against the actual 5-1 break.

Why did you lead the queen of hearts at trick four? Otherwise, when you led the second diamond from dummy, East could trump in and put his partner in with a heart to get another diamond ruff.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been West—North—East—South
1♠ 1♥ 2♦ 1♠
Pass 3♥ 4♦ ?

You, South, hold:
♠AK98 ♥10 752 ♣A773

What do you do now?
A—Double. You have three defensive tricks of your own.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding three hearts, your partner has bid two no-trump. What do you do now?

Checking Up

By L. M. BOYD
Southwest Basement Corner Deemed Safest In Tornado

THAT MONTH wherein the most nutritional engagements are broken is March, reports our Love and War man... IN TORNADO COUNTRY, usually the safest place in the house is said to be the southwest corner of the basement... ASSUMING YOU'RE NOT IN LOVE, you can expect to fight about once every three minutes, I'm told.

"KISS" — President of the Kentucky Fried Chicken Corporation is 35-year-old John Y. Brown Jr. He contends none of his 2,600 franchised dealers has failed as yet. His motto, he says, is "KISS," which stands for "Keep it simple, stupid."

"OPEN QUESTION" — What kind of tree loses its branches as well as its leaves in the autumn? — That was Charles E. Con Fishing — If you dump the collected stubble from an electric shaver into a stream, the fish down current will start to bite. Such is the claim of a Fresno friend named Martin Nilsen. Hard to believe, isn't it? Exceedingly hard to believe. Still, I suppose you could come to accept it, finally, if you and your wife were to say it over and over again together, like a sort of litany, every night just before dozing off.

CUSTOMER SERVICE — Q. Haven't you found out the identity of the Gerber baby yet? A. Not yet. Can tell you, though, the Arrow collar man is Neil Hamilton, late of the Batman TV series, and the girl on the Sunkist raisin box is Mrs. Earl Whitehill, wife of the onetime star pitcher of the Detroit Tigers... Q. YOU SAY THE HORSE is the only animal that will not itself to death. Why will a horse do that while others won't? Can't you explain it? A. Certainly can explain it. Just didn't want to be uncouth that's all. Because horses can't throw up, that's why.

HISTORICAL NOTE — That the ice cream cone originated at the St. Louis Exposition of 1904 is widely known. But did you know ice tea got started there, too? An Englishman ran an establishment called "The Far East Tea House." Hot weather. His business was dismal until he laced his tea. As for the originator of the ice cream cone, that was Charles E. Con FISHING — If you dump the collected stubble from an electric shaver into a stream, the fish down current will start to bite. Such is the claim of a Fresno friend named Martin Nilsen. Hard to believe, isn't it? Exceedingly hard to believe. Still, I suppose you could come to accept it, finally, if you and your wife were to say it over and over again together, like a sort of litany, every night just before dozing off.

WHO KNOWS? — "What became of that town in Japan named USA?" inquires a client. Don't know, will check. As I recall, the Japanese so named one of their municipalities years ago to permit goods therefrom to be stamped "Made in USA."
