Defense Cutbacks To Hit Shipyards On West Coast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has announced cutbacks totaling 93,900 military and civilian jobs at 371 military bases in a move to save $915 million.

Details of the reduction order—which does away with 35,300 military and 58,600 civilian jobs—will be released Friday at 4 p.m. EST, Laird said. Overseas reductions will be announced after "consultations with most countries have been completed," he said.

But congressional sources have already disclosed some of the targets of the economy measure.

Among the hardest areas hit will be the Northeast and West Coast naval installations, with 10,000 civilian jobs nationally slated for extinction. These included naval yard reductions of 1,400 workers at Boston, 1,500 at Portsmouth, N.H. and 1,800 at Philadelphia.

More than 4,000 civilian jobs will be eliminated at three West Coast shipyards by mid-1971 including 1,230 layoffs at Mare Island, Calif. with an additional loss of 500 through attrition; 400 layoffs at Long Beach, Calif. with additional loss through attrition and 338 at Bremerton, Wash.

Major Army base reductions included more than 2,000 military and civilian jobs at Ft. Polk, La.; 1,117 civilian and 16 military jobs at the Army command project offices at Huntsville, Ala.; 1,064 military personnel at Ft. Benning, Ga., at a saving of $7.4 million and 689 at Ft. Gordon, Ga. to save $4.8 million; 11823 military and 117 civilian jobs at Ft. T. Bragg, N.C. at an estimated savings of $13.4 million; and 1,123 military jobs at Ft. Sill, Okla.

The regional headquarters of the ground electronics engineering installation agency at Westover Air Force Base, Mass., will be merged with the Griffiss Air Force Base, N.Y. Air Force communications services, resulting in transfer of 333 military and 81 civilian personnel from Westover to Griffiss. The transfer is part of an effort to save $17 million and eliminate 2,000 jobs in the merger by mid-1971, congressional sources said.

In another major air force consolidation, the Air Force communications service headquarters will be moved from Schott Air Force Base near Belleville, Ill., to Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base at Kansas City, Mo., involving the transfer of 1,100 military and 400 civilian jobs.

30 Members Of White Mob Jailed

LAMAR, S.C. (UPI)—State and local authorities, under the prodding of Gov. Robert E. McNair and White House publicity, today rounded up suspected members of a white mob that attacked school buses carrying Negro students.

Warrants were issued for 30 men on riot charges in Tuesday's violence and by early today 15 have been booked in the Darlington County Jail. One was hauled in still wearing pajamas.

Arrestment was scheduled later today.

The riot charges grew out of mob action Tuesday morning when some 200 whites near Lamar High School attacked three school buses with ax handles, clubs and chains. Windows were broken and two buses were overturned before police with tear gas and nightsticks beat back the crowd.

The 39 Negro students on the buses were rescued.

Chest Pains Give Former President "A Bad Night"

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Pains near the heart of Lyndon B. Johnson gave the former President a "bad night," his doctor said today.

Lt. Col. Robert L. North, chief cardiologist at Brooke General Hospital, said Johnson was awakened several times by pains in the chest and left arm.

"The pain is not associated with any change with the President's heart sounds, vital signs or electrocardiogram," Tom Johnson, executive assistant to the former President, told a medical briefing.

"It is nevertheless an unpleasant factor because this pain interferes with the President's rest."

Most Rail Workers Are On The Job

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Most railroad workers obeyed a congressional order today not to strike the nation's rail system, but wildcat walkouts threatened disruption of freight service in parts of the Midwest, the Far West and the South.

A spokesman for the National Railway Labor Conference, representing management, said affected lines would go to court seeking legal action against strikers if picket lines were not withdrawn.

Congress passed and President Nixon signed stop-gap legislation Wednesday declaring a 37-day moratorium on any strike by four shopcraft unions or a lockout by the 128 railroads.

Nixon's signature came just 3 1/2 hours before the 48,000 union members were set to go on strike. However, as the mid-night strike deadline passed, pickets appeared at a number of key rail terminals. Some stayed only briefly, apparently as a token display of defiance. But pickets were still reported at terminals of at least nine lines by mid morning.

State Sends Investigator To Shoshone

SHOSHONE — School officials here received word from the State Department of Education that their request for assistance in solving the Lincoln school administration-teacher problem will be acknowledged with someone from the department here next week.

The School Board asked the State Department to make an evaluation, and recommendations in solving the problems after having thoroughly considered all aspects of the case and feeling that the outside help would provide a more objective view of the matter.

The evaluation cannot be done, however, in time for the School Board to consider the recommendations at their regular March School Board meeting which will be Monday night, March 16, before the State Department officials can be here.

At the School Board meeting, however, bids will be opened for transportation, operation of school buses, and a day set for the budget hearing.

The spring trustee election will also be set.

Bake

HEYBURN — NFO members from throughout Magic Valley, plus Power county, plan a "baked potato" rally Friday afternoon at the Lester Dozier farm, 370 north and 400 west of Paul. The "bake" is expected to start about 1 p.m.

George Brandon, NFO official, said farmers today are loading potatoes out of their storage cellars and will form a caravan to the Dozier place.

"We are doing this because the processors tell us there is too much surplus," he said. NFO members will carry signs on their trucks saying "Farmers Know How to Handle Their Surplus."

Spud Holding Plans Lauded At NFO Meet

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The National Farmers Organization potato-holding action in Idaho and elsewhere has been very successful, national NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Croning, Iowa, told an estimated 1,000 persons here Wednesday night.

What the NFO is really battling for, said Staley, is preservation of the family type farm structure and "we have to do it together."

Staley said: "You can't stop the potatoes after they leave the farm. So the key to the situation is keep the potatoes on the farm and the processor will have to pay your price."

Noting alleged threats and reports of near violence in Eastern Idaho as a result of the NFO holding action, Staley admonished the members always to abide by the law. He said NFO members are businessmen and should conduct themselves in a businesslike manner.

Hope Abandoned For French Sub

TOULON, France (UPI)—The French navy today confirmed reports of an explosion aboard the lost submarine Eurydice, ending any hope still held by relatives waiting in Toulon for its return from a test dive in the Mediterranean Wednesday.

Among those waiting in Toulon was Sabine Sala, 19, fiancée of Jean-Pierre Godfrey, one of the Eurydice crew of 57 that died in the disaster.

"He was going to introduce me to his parents in a few days," she said. "We were going to be married in October. We'd just bought the ring before he left on this voyage. Her speech dissolved in tears."

Pat Nixon's Tour Being Made Under Tight Security; Report Life Was Threatened

DENVER (UPI)—To many of the children she visited, Pat Nixon was just "a nice lady in a red coat."

But to others, including some adults, she was truly the First Lady of the land. Carmea Razo, whose almost Indian-like features wrinkled as tears rolled down her cheeks, described her by saying: "I love her so, she's First so sweet."

There's Only One Right Way To See The Eclipse

If you can't resist the temptation to stare at the partial eclipse that is due over Twin Falls Saturday, you may pay for it with some "solar damage."

This is the warning from Dr. John McNeess, officer in the Idaho Association of Optometrists, in view of the approaching eclipse.

Many still believe viewing the eclipse can be done comfortably, he said, by using dark glasses, a smoked glass or old photo negatives among other methods.

"This is not true," says the local optometrist and his colleagues. "There are many persons today who suffer eye damage from such processes in years past."

The retina has no sensitivity to pain and thus the individual does not realize the small area at the rear of the eye is being burned by the invisible infra-red rays of the partially hidden sun. Retina burns, however, are incurable and produce a blind spot in the victim's field of vision which affects the eyesight of the individual throughout the remainder of his life.

Local eye experts say there is a proper way to view the

Rupert Sets Hearing On City Budget

RUPERT—City budget public hearing for the City of Rupert is scheduled for 8 p.m. March 17 at the city office. The 1970 budget has been set for $841,000.

During a meeting Tuesday night, councilmen decided to purchase a pump for the 9th Street sewer line lift station costing $2,433.50 and contracts and piping for $1,230. Hamilton and Voeller, consulting engineers, will order this material.

Councilmen adopted two resolutions concerning JLD 12 and JLD 14, which will authorize the city to issue interim warrants to pay construction costs of irrigation, sewer and water until the bonds can be sold for these areas.

It was decided that the spray program will operate under the street department.

Richard Bohle and Ed Hartman, representing the civic relations committee of the Chamber of Commerce, requested the city make a complete study of parking and traffic problems within the city.

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson signed into law Wednesday legislation creating two new agencies, establishing a water pollution control fund and seven public health districts in Idaho.

Silent Majority Is Very Much Alive

The silent majority is not dead. In fact it is very much alive and simmering somewhere out there.

It reacted so violently and quickly Wednesday to a piece of legislation introduced into the Idaho House of Representatives that the bill won't even come out of the printing committee. This in effect means the bill is dead.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Bill Onweiler of Ada County, asked a two and a half percent excise tax on all motor vehicles in the state under 16,000 pounds.

Money raised from this legislation, if approved, would have been sent to the state treasury then apportioned back to the cities and counties for street and county road improvements. The apportionment, however, would not have been on a 100 per cent basis. About 90 per cent of the money collected in a county would have been returned to that county.

If passed, it is estimated the additional cost to motor vehicle owners in Twin Falls County alone would have been $1 million.

Owners would have been required to register their vehicle and pay the required registration fee. Then owners would have been required to pay two and a half per cent more for the estimated worth of the vehicle.

Rep. Jack Claiborn of Twin Falls co-sponsored the Time-News bill Wednesday and said, "The Legislative delegation from Twin Falls County received more telegrams on this issue than on any other issue facing the Legislature to date."

He said a count of the telegrams was not made, but "response from the silent majority was overwhelming."

He said he was assured by Rep. Agen Hyde of Idaho Falls, chairman of the House Printing Committee, that the bill would not be printed. This in effect kills a bill.

The bill, it was learned, was introduced in the first place to draw attention to the road repair needs in Idaho.

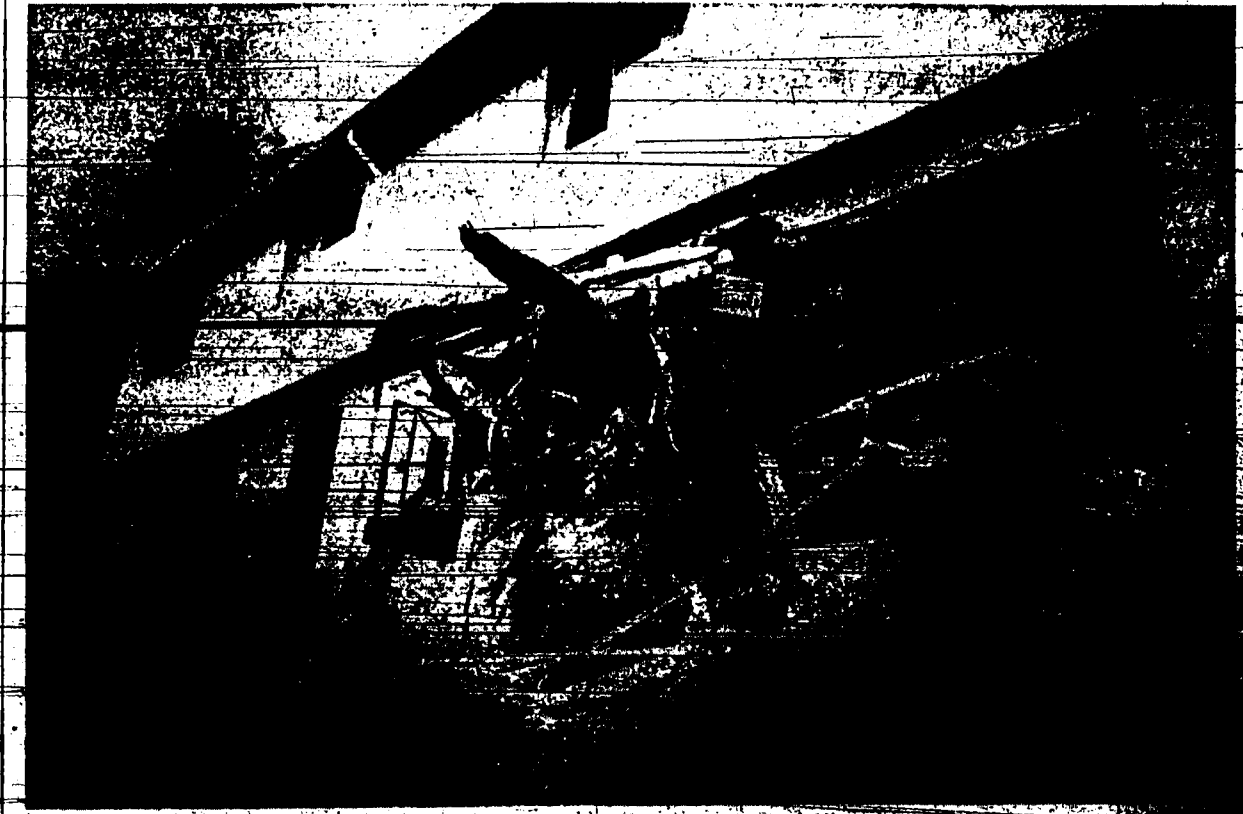

John Christoffersen, a Twin Falls City Councilman and a member of the city's Highway and Safety Commission, said, "As far as I know, response against this bill came by word of mouth. People just heard about it and spread the word."

He said, "I agree something has to be done about road conditions and I also agree the streets in Twin Falls are not the best, but I feel a better way can be found to make these needed repairs."

So, for the present at least, he said, people will not have to pay an additional $25, 500 or $75 for their vehicles when they go to the county assessor's office to register a vehicle.

"I think this might indicate people in Idaho are just about fed-up with taxes, taxes and more taxes," Mr. Christoffersen said.

The reaction from the silent majority in Twin Falls was in the span of about two days, Mr. Christoffersen said. Most of the telegrams were sent to the state house in Boise Wednesday morning.

Sun Valley Airlines Gets T. F. Route

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has amended an earlier order to authorize Sun Valley Airlines, Inc., to provide air service between Twin Falls and Hailey-Sun Valley.

At the same time, the commission prohibited Trans Magic Airlines from offering single-plane service between Boise and Hailey-Sun Valley.

The PUC said Sun Valley Airlines asked for a rehearing after the Civil Aeronautics Board allowed Air West to discontinue direct service from Twin Falls to Hailey-Sun Valley for three years.

Sun Valley, the PUC said, pointed out that Trans Magic had been given route authority between Hailey-Sun Valley, Burley and Twin Falls. Because of Trans Magic's earlier authority from Boise to Hailey-Sun Valley, the Sun Valley Airline maintained Trans Magic would be able to fly directly from Boise to Hailey-Sun Valley and thus eliminate Sun Valley Airlines' protection on its Hailey-Sun Valley-Boise schedule.

The commission said that to restrict Sun Valley Airlines to a Boise-Hailey-Sun Valley flight would not be in the public interest because it would have the effect of allowing no service by the airline to Twin Falls.

The commission also noted that its jurisdiction over intrastate airlines was only recently innovated and said "we do not believe it is in the public interest to severely restrict the operation of either airline in the first years of operation under the jurisdiction of this commission."

State Police Patrolman Is Named

Thomas C. Thompson, 24, now serving at Beachers Corner Port of Entry, Idaho Falls, has been named to replace John Brewer, State Police officer from Rupert, who recently resigned.

Mr. Thompson, who will be promoted to patrolman and assigned to the Rupert area of District 4 effective April 1, has been with the State Police since May, 1969.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chad Thompson, former Twin Falls residents. The elder Mr. Thompson was a member of the Twin Falls Police force for several years and later served as sanitation inspector for the city.

He is now a member of the Ada County Sheriff's department.

Johnny Cash Has Boy Named John

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The country music star who sings a song about naming his son "George or Bill or anything but Sue" has settled on John Carter Cash.

Johnny Cash's wife, singer June Carter, gave birth shortly after noon Tuesday to a seven-pound, 18-ounce boy at suburban Madison Hospital.

"The father is elated, and mother, father and son are doing just fine," said Cash's sister, Mrs. Rita Hancock.

Cash has four children by a previous marriage and Miss Carter two by previous marriages.

It is the couple's first child. They were wed March 1, 1968.

Pollution Control

President Nixon has set an example for every American in his acceptance of the principle that pollution control begins at home by directing that the federal government forthwith halt any of its practices that pollute the environment. An immediate improvement in the cleanliness of our surroundings can be accomplished almost immediately if everyone makes it his business to refrain from adding to the litter that unfortunately mars the streets, roadsides, beaches and parks throughout most of the United States.

problems of pollution. It's chief importance, however, is as a measure of the psychological involvement and interest of the people at large in really coming to grips with the problems of clean air, pure water, and the ecology. Until individual Americans care enough to keep their streets and alleys clean, they are not likely to insist upon smog-free automobiles, sewage in streams, and industrial pollution of the air and water. As a matter of fact, most industries are striving harder, than the average American to protect the environment. The ordinary taxpayer who is most of us — feels, and rightly, that taxes are as high as they should go. President Nixon has said that taxes should not rise much higher and could not, without handicapping the whole nation in its efforts to right many social ills.

Learning Guaranteed

Teaching gimmicks are a dime a dozen, except that they can entail the outlay of many thousands of dollars by school boards, with no certainty of success in raising students' reading levels or mathematical skills or whatever. But when private companies start putting their own money where their sales pitch is, it is a persuasive testimonial to their confidence in their product. More and more merchants of packaged teaching programs are doing just that — guaranteeing to teach a student what they say they can teach him and in the time they say it will take to do it, or your money back.

Bronx began taking the program two years ago. It has also been introduced on a smaller scale in 50 other cities. Developed by noted linguist Dr. M. Sullivan and Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto, Calif., "Project Read" is a new approach to reading in which the English language is broken down to its simplest forms and then put back together by the individual student working at his own pace with a programmed text. So effective has "Project Read" been that BRL has announced that it is now offering it to school districts around the country on a guaranteed performance basis. Here's hoping all such educational entrepreneurs make a bundle, for the nation's school children would be the real winners.

MR. SPECTATOR Something For Nothing

Very few people will give you something for nothing — but the State of Georgia isn't one of those "people." The competition among the various states — and a clear-cut example that Idaho must be alert at all times to compete — is shown in an advertisement the southern state inserted in one of the national magazines while looking for industry. "And it's free." So there you have it. Competition for industry. Can Idaho stand up to such organized competition and attract new industry? Mr. Spectator thinks Idaho is on the way — but we have a long way to go to be so matter of fact about finding a "home" for a new industry in the Gem State.

WASHINGTON — These United States, and especially Washington, are teeming with female oracles these days who go about warning that man had better behave or the women will take over and, possibly, declare males illegal. Although always with us, this movement has gained momentum in recent months through the activities of something called the Women's Liberation Front, which views men dimly through a haze of genital paranoia. Even the sainted Atlantic Monthly, which used to be a sensible sort of organ, devoted a special section of its March issue to assorted female diatribes under the title, "Women Against Men."

I do not now what else women can be liberated from, but perhaps it is man's duty to save them from themselves. For instance, there is behind the current nagging the supposedly shrewd reminder that there are more women in the country than men, and that dames might elect one of their club President. This is supposed to give males pause and perhaps make them stop being late for dinner, and in some of the more unliving precincts it has succeeded. But, high-type men — which is to say, the majority — are going right on living their merry and principled lives, and a touch more gin in that martini. They are not scared because they realize that no matter how many women there are they will still be women and therefore, bless their more-or-less feminine fluffiness, congenitally incapable of taking over. Mathematically, the time would seem imminent for this nation to commit national suicide and elect a woman President. The dolls seem to have the votes and undoubtedly there are plenty of shiftless wenches with ambition. But it won't ever come off. Women are too catty to vote one of their sex into the White House. They talk a lot about equal rights and giving the girls a voice in the council chambers, but no woman in her right, feminine mind could stand the thought of another woman lording it over a whole country of females. That is to say, the basic obstacle is that every woman thinks the other woman is the wrong one for the job. Mrs. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell might consider herself eligible, but I do not see her casting a vote for Mrs. Bobby Kennedy. Would Sophia Loren mark an X opposite the name of Mia Farrow? Or Mrs. George Romney campaign for Shirley Temple Black? The common characteristic of female politicians is a strong-mindedness, and a convention dominated by dames would be still deadlocked at the last Trump. But the really compelling reason why men have nothing to fear is that girls are too smart to want a female President. Women are much more coldly practical than men and they recognize that, with the world in such awful shape, it would be sheer idiocy to assume responsibility for it. (There is, of course, the distinct possibility that a woman President, out of sheer habit, would manage to blame the country's woes on some male, preferably her husband, but I'll think about that tomorrow.) At any rate, although women are always accusing men of making a mess of things, they don't really mean they desire to run the joint. It's merely a means of keeping men loose up there at the plate. They seek to convey, ominously, that if they were not engaged in more important duties, like reading French novels and wolfing bones they'd show us a thing or two about running a government. Besides, women got what they wanted a long time ago, courtesy of a girl named Eve. His name is Man.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a friend, aged 60, who is bothered with acid indigestion, heartburn, gas, etc., and takes bicarbonate of soda every day, sometimes as much as three teaspoonsful. I have heard that soda tends to cause hardening of the arteries and other side effects. I would appreciate your thinking. — J.F.S. I'm not impressed with the "hardening of the arteries" notion, and doubt if there's anything to it. But I'm against the "bicarb" habit. The bicarbonate counteracts acids in the stomach (the stomach needs some acid to digest food) but after a time a "rebound effect" produces more acid than before. Then more bicarb, more soda, and an uncomfortable acid-alkali merry-go-round. If your friend really needs something to reduce the acid a little, his doctor can suggest some milder antacid such as one of the aluminum preparations. If your friend has high blood pressure, the soda should not be used.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I plan to marry a man, 32, who has an enlarged liver and gout. At one time he drank a lot but now only four or five an evening. Everyone tells me he will be a sick man the rest of his life because of the damage to his liver, and that is why he has gout. He looks very healthy and holds a good job, but if he is going to be sick I wonder what he will be like when he is 50. Do you advise me to risk a lifetime with this man? Please answer as I have a lot of friends who are interested. — B.P. Never mind the friends. It's you and the young man who are important. Your friends are mostly right, though. Anyone with a damaged liver who consumes any alcohol at all is running a very grave risk, and "four or five" beers a day is a lot of alcohol under the circumstances. Damaged livers have considerable powers of recovery, but not when they have to cope with alcohol. That has virtually nothing to do with his gout, though. By the way, you make no mention of his having treatment for his gout. Such treatment is available these days, and is very effective. Sounds to me as though your gentleman friend just doesn't pay much attention to his health, and if he did, I am sure your lifetime risk would be much less.

Congenital syphilis (if you are born with it) is not transmitted as acquired syphilis is. You had suitable care when your children were born, and you now know they are all right. Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK Nixon's Welfare Trap

WASHINGTON — The stunningly sudden emergence of President Nixon's welfare reform bill from the House Ways and Means Committee was explained in bare-knuckle political terms by an offhand remark last week during a closed-door session of the committee. Rep. John Watts of Kentucky, the committee's No. 3 Democrat, turned to Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the committee's No. 2 Democrat and whispered: "We're going to pass the bill just the way Nixon wants it — and then cram it down his throat."

That is precisely the calculated strategy of the committee's Democratic majority in this week's approval without major changes of Mr. Nixon's welfare reform — including a revolutionary plan for $1,600 in support payments for a family of four. Rather than give the Republicans a 1970 campaign issue by blocking the President's major domestic innovation, the Democrats are gambling that the package, once passed, will be a liability for Republican candidates. "I think that once the people of the country see how much this is going to cost and how outrageous it is," one Democratic committee member told us, "they are going to raise hell about it." Agreeing, some Republican Congressmen, uneasy over the sudden cooperation by the Democrats, fear they may have been lured into a trap on the sensitive welfare issue. Indeed, with House passage of the welfare bill assured, it is likely that the freer-spending Senate will sit on its benefits. The President then may end up not with an unpassed reform but, instead, legislation considerably more costly than his middle-class white constituency can tolerate. None of this seemed remotely possible just two weeks ago. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and one of the true powers in Congress, appeared to be digging his heels in against family assistance payments. Although he had no public position, he was known to be concocting his own more modest version. His relations with Secretary Robert Finch of the Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Department, administration sponsor of the bill, were frigid. What changed this mood was some deep contemplation by Mills during the Lincoln's Birthday recess of Congress. He could almost surely bloc passage this year. But without cooperation from the Administration, passing an alternative would be difficult — if, in fact, an alternative could be devised.

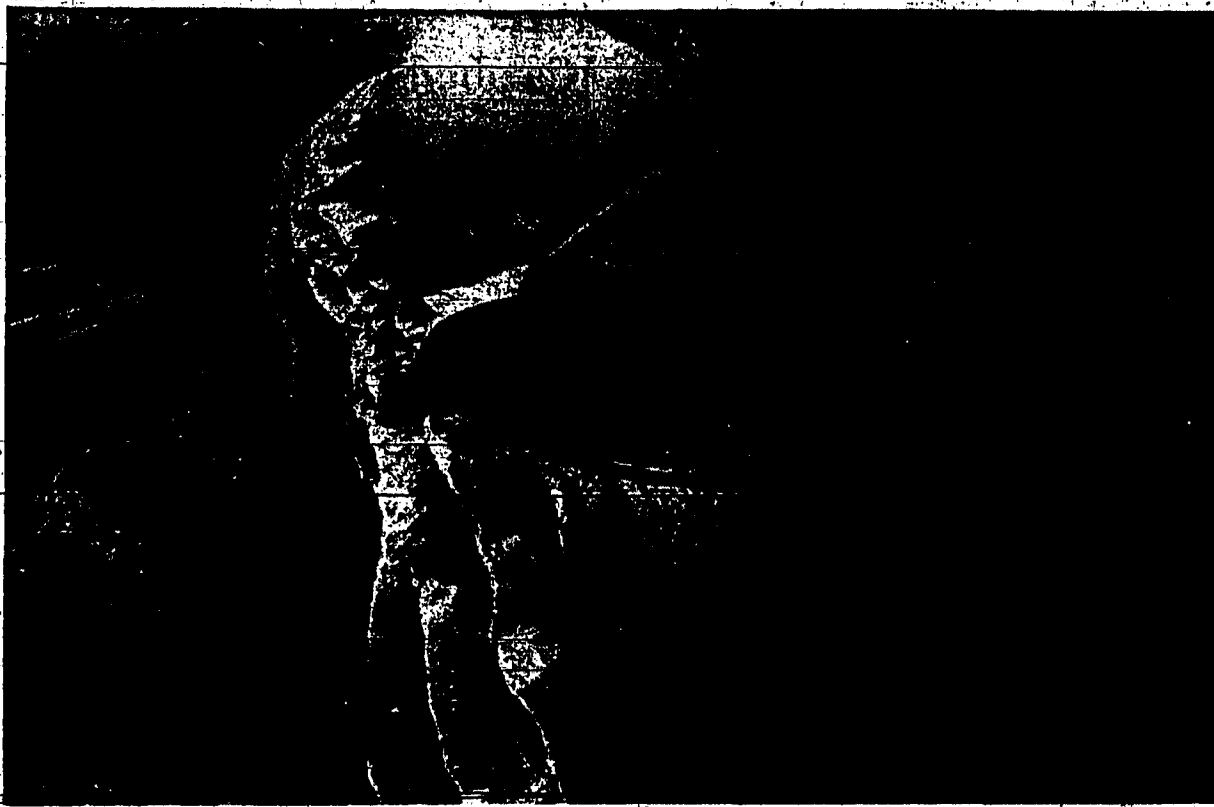

Besides, he might be providing Republican Congressmen a whipping boy in the fall elections. Thus, when the Ways and Means Committee resumed closed-door sessions Feb. 16, Republican committee members were astounded by the sweetness and light. All at once, the committee was fairly racing toward quick approval of the President's plan. The new Democratic cooperation began to verge on the ridiculous. Democratic Rep. James Burke of Massachusetts, who earlier had sniped at the program, now insisted that no amendments be adopted and that this be Mr. Nixon's package and his alone. Republican Rep. Barber Conable of New York chided Burke that he was becoming a Nixon rubberstamp. The degree to which the Democrats want Mr. Nixon fully responsible for his reform is shown in the disavowal of it by the committee's senior Democrat, Mills, who probably will vote against the bill on the floor, will not be its floor manager. Burke, the committee's fifth-ranking Democrat, may end up managing it.

PAUL HARVEY Color Blind

If you were to misbehave in a courtroom — shout obscenities at a judge, profane the judicial process with vehemence, violence and vitriol — you'd be thrown out and locked up for contempt within minutes. How come some accused professional disturbers of the peace are able to get away with it day after day after day? Page two. Maybe it was once true that there were two standards of justice in the United States, one for the rich who could afford highfaluting lawyers, and another for the poor wretch who just took his lumps and went summarily to jail. Then came a series of Earl Warren Court decisions intended to protect the rights of the poor wretch but the court overran its headlamps and now we find our courts protecting the rights of wrongdoers at the expense of society generally. Today crime is increasing 12 times faster than our population is increasing. In Washington, D.C., crimes of violence increased 26 per cent in just the past year. Chicago courts are so hamstrung and/or indifferent that its locked-up juries are now serving more time than are its criminals. Similarly, in our race to erase racial wrongs in the area of school segregation, we've gone so far in the opposite direction that we are hurting the blacks we'd meant to help. In Monroe, La., Carroll High School is an all-black neighborhood has an all-black faculty and student body. Carroll High is academically excellent and a theologically superlative: its teams have clobbered everybody. So there is much race and school pride in Carroll High.

But the new law says "Integrate," mix up the races however necessary. And Carroll students were court-ordered to transfer to other schools. The mayor of Monroe, W. L. Howard, much respected by both races, went to Carroll High and told an assembly of 600 students that they did not have to leave their school if they did not want to. He promised that no policemen would arrest anybody for attending Carroll High if he or she wanted to attend Carroll High and the mayor got a standing, cheering ovation. And a court order from a federal court in Shreveport to "show cause" why he should not be cited for "willful interference with a court order." What is it we're seeking, Americans? Are we demanding homogenized integration with blacks sprinkled among whites, at a ratio of one to 100 wherever, and by coercion if necessary? Or are we seeking, in the American tradition which allowed us to assimilate and absorb all other ethnic groups, legal equality and cultural pluralism? The law should be color blind. In New York State, school students, quite properly, are allowed to choose which school they wish to attend. Presumably they usually choose the one nearest home. The law says, they may. But the law which our federal government is seeking to enforce on the citizens of four Southern states says "If you are black you have to move over there; if you're white you have to move over there." The courts are, in effect, discriminating. The law should be color-blind.

AT THOUGH MAN'S FIRST glider flights were made in San Diego, the girls are now very big in this sport form of aviation which grows rapidly throughout the nation. Most newcomers to soaring enter through glider clubs, which offer instruction for moderate fees, coupled with considerable "volunteer" labor in maintaining the craft and other tasks. Sheffield Worboys, a member of the University of California San Diego Soaring Club, left, makes a pilot's check of the club's 2-22 training ship before a flight at Torrey Pines. At right Sheffield "runs the wing" for a fellow club member. With just one main wheel, "running the wing" is necessary until there is enough airspeed for the pilot to balance the craft. "Direct Mail" Business Is Potent Force In Politics

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—What do Sens. Eugene McCarthy, George McGovern, former Alabama Gov. George Wallace and Soviet life have in common? All of them have been turned down by Richard A. Viguerie.

If you're trying to identify Viguerie, chances are you may have received a letter asking for money from this political direct mail expert, or, rather, from one of his clients.

Among the dozen or so "full service" direct mail firms in the country that create, package and mail an entire campaign, Viguerie's Washington-based firm is considered one of the best in the political field, even

Bone Age

KIMBERLY — Burglars have been known to ply their trade with some unusual tools, but Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers this week investigated a case involving one of the strangest. A television and a stereo, each valued at about $200, were stolen this week from the Charles Newberry farm near Kimberly. The residence was entered through a broken window.

And the tool used to break the window? A foot-long dog bone!

Suit Asks $150,000 In Damages

A lawsuit asking $150,000 in damages has been filed against the Buhl School District, Fifth District court records showed Wednesday.

Larry Allen, through his father Earl A. Allen, filed the suit alleging that Larry fell into an open fire pit June 5 and burned himself. It is alleged the burns have scarred Larry's body permanently. The complaint states the pit was on the school district's property and the district was in neglect in letting the accident happen. The plaintiff also asks medical costs and courts costs.

though he refuses to do business with Democratic or liberal Republican candidates. In a recent visit here, Viguerie, 35, a conservative Republican, told how he got into the business five years ago in a one-room, $100-a-month office on Capitol Hill. The transplanted Texan has since parlayed his direct mail genius into a multi-million dollar computer operation.

Beginning as a political fund solicitor through the mails, Viguerie combined his knowledge of direct mail with his passion for promoting "the conservative cause." And he has a number of impressive campaign victories for which company takes most if not all of the credit. Among his clients, he cites the 1968 primary win by conservative Max Rafferty, California's superintendent of public instruction, over former Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, a strong liberal Republican and GOP whip in the Senate, and the election of Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla.

More recently, Viguerie handled the direct mail vote and fund appeals of the successful congressional campaign of Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., in a special election held last year.

He also had had his defeats. The election of New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., over Viguerie-backed candidates are not recalled with much glee.

Still, armed with his IBM 360 IBM computer and a fully programmed list of 1.5 million names, Viguerie is confident he can elect Republicans with "enough money and good candidates."

"We insist on two things," Viguerie said. "That the client approve all copy and that he receive, count and bank all money. We never see any money that comes in." For all this, Viguerie's firm receives a percentage of the return.

His company made headlines last year when it was learned he handled a White House mailing to the news media to promote support for the nomination of Warren Burger to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Although he expects his firm "to be involved in a number of Senate and House races this year," he is moving aggressively into the non-political field, opening a branch in Houston. "District mail is a growing business," he said. The direct mail industry spent about $2.8 billion last year, with Post Office, almost 80 per cent about 23 billion pieces of mail of its total volume. Computer technology has revolutionized direct mail's application to political campaigning, making it possible to zero in on almost any conceivable voter bloc. The potential use of direct mail in politics has not been fully tested," Viguerie said, "Used to its fullest with computer programming, it may have as great an impact on politics as television."

Another Change In Revenue Limitation Law In Senate

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate passed and sent to the House Wednesday the latest version of a measure to change the controversial four per cent property tax revenue limitation.

Only Monday the House approved without debate its version of a repeal of the limitation and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate version passed Wednesday provides for a five per cent limitation and has three escape valves for taxing units.

Under the Senate version, taxing units could exceed the five per cent limitation by appealing to the state tax commission, but a vote of the people or upon unanimous written agreement by county commissioners.

Floor sponsor Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said, "This is a good compromise and will afford the relief if it is necessary."

He said, "This is a compromise bill, but the name of the game is politics."

Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, said that the measure is "just per cent limitation, failed to others, mainly because the county commissioners could grant relief when necessary."

Gov. Don Samuelson earlier in the session vetoed a Senate bill that would have lifted the limitation altogether.

A house-passed bill with a 5.5 per cent limitation is a little more palatable than pass the legislature.

Dredge Law Gets Heavy House Vote

BOISE (UPI)—House members approved 50-1 Wednesday a bill to prohibit dredge mining of Idaho's "wild and scenic" rivers.

Earlier the bill passed the Senate by a 18-15 vote. In the House, only Rep. Paul Worthen, R-Boise, voted against it.

Bringing the bill to the floor for debate and then approving it by such a large margin marked a departure from previous House action on the bill. Earlier, Republicans prevented the measure from being dragged from committee for action.

Chairman J. Vard Chatburn, R-Albion, of the Resources and Conservation Committee, floor sponsored the bill. He said the legislature later could decide to permit dredging "if in the future we feel it is necessary to obtain minerals from the beds of these rivers."

In his closing remarks on the bill, he added that "we do think the beds of these rivers belong to the state of Idaho and we want to protect them."

Elsewhere in his debate, Chatburn noted that Attorney General Robert Robson is claiming that Idaho holds title to the beds of the rivers, even though they are in the federal wild and scenic rivers system.

Romance

LANGOLLEN, Wales (UPI)—The rural council here has turned down the town's civic society request for more lighting along Riverside Gardens.

Councilor William Saunders explained "it is a romantic setting and couples like to do their courting discreetly. It has just the right amount of lighting for a romantic atmosphere."

Demos Told Party Win Is Possible

BOISE (UPI)—A legislator from eastern Idaho told the Ada County Democratic Club Wednesday the Democratic Party can win the governorship next November if unity prevails.

Rep. Melvin Hammond, D-Rexburg, told the regular luncheon meeting of the club that the party has what he termed "a great contingent of charismatic leaders seeking the gubernatorial nomination."

He urged his listeners to "help make the state functionable and the only way to do this is to get rid of you know who." For those who did not refer to Republican Gov. Don Samuelson.

Hammond called for an occasional change in leadership and contended that the Republican Party in Ada County had "stagnated" the political process.

Money Given For Two Job Centers

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate approved 28-7 Wednesday an appropriations bill which would give the state board of education $50,000 to maintain and operate two abandoned job corps centers.

Sen. Vern Brassey, R-Boise, floor sponsor for the measure said the buildings could be used by the education system at a "real savings" and added "I'm a little fearful this may not be enough money, but it's been cut from $100,000 in the interests of conservatism, so that's the bill."

The Mountain Home center would be used by Boise State College and the Cedar Flats center by Lewis-Clark Normal School, but final plans would have to be approved by the federal government.

Sen. Robert Rowett, R-Mountain Home, said the use would be for "more than just an educational facility" and said the highway department would be able to use three buildings at the Mountain Home center "at a savings to them of $60,000."

Tires

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Transportation Department proposed Wednesday that recapped passenger car tires be required to meet the same safety and performance standards as new ones.

In a notice of proposed rule-making, Federal Highway Administrator F. C. Turner noted that retreaded tires are exposed to the same road conditions as new tires and should "meet the same federal standards."

He called for data and comments from the rubber industry and said they would be considered in drawing up a final rule which would become effective Aug. 1, 1971.

Kennedy

BOSTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy returned here Wednesday from a three-day visit to Ireland, saying he was "extraordinarily well received" and that the disturbances which marred his visit were to be expected by any public figure.

Arriving at Logan International Airport, Kennedy said, "A visit to Ireland is always a thing of joy and sadness for any Kennedy. It brings back so many memories of John Kennedy and his visits there."

Referring to the demonstrations in Ireland at which students waved copies of Mao Tse Tung's writings, Kennedy said, "All of us in public life can expect that kind of thing from time to time."

"They said I was an imperialist—that was about as far as it went."

State Legislature Back In Turmoil When Senate Rejects Education Budget Figure

By PAUL M. QUINN

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Senate Wednesday night threw the state legislature back into turmoil by rejecting a compromise figure of $1.5 million for higher education and moving again into direct conflict with the House.

The surprise action came when the upper chamber voted 26-8 in favor of the "economy bloc" figure of $1.29 million instead of following through as agreed to in at least Republican caucus, to go ahead with a compromise figure accepted by the House of $1.35 million.

The action by the upper chamber was in amending downward the original higher education figure of $1.47 million as set by the joint Finance-Appropriation Committee.

An effort was made first to pass the Finance-Appropriations Committee measure unscathed, but this failed by a vote of 11-23.

A short time earlier, the House Appropriations Committee informed House leaders it intends to submit a letter to be read to the House Thursday disavowing any percentage of appropriations bills.

In this letter, the committee said it will point out that it reached what it considered to be the proper figures and that these were rejected by the leadership and for "political" reasons others were inserted.

The committee members said they will floor sponsor the appropriations bills to expedite action of the legislature, but they want it made clear they were taking no responsibility for them.

Earlier in the day, the House and Senate Republican majority had agreed to the "compromise figure" and it appeared that the session was moving closer to final adjournment.

House Democrats continued to remain aloof in the battle of the budget, and Senate Democrats had announced they would hold firm with the $1.29 million figure.

Higher education supplemental funding is considered the key to adjournment.

In debating for the full $1.47 million, Sen. Fred Budgey, R-Boise, said not funding higher education in this amount would be "one of the most damaging actions taken by any legislature."

He said students are revolting on some campuses because they do not feel that the people are upgrading education enough.

Sen. Cecil Andrus, D-Lewiston, said, "We've known for a long time that emergencies have existed in higher education. Adequate funding of this is a true emergency."

He urged the upper chamber "forget this petty bickering over dollars and come down and face this issue, take out your wrath on some of the other appropriations that might not be true emergencies."

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, argued that the $1.47 million did not contain adequate priorities under recent information put out by the state department of education.

"Legislative intent should be put into this," he said.

Sen. Richard Egbert, D-Tetonia, said that "somewhere along the line we are going to have to tighten our belts and it might as well be at higher education."

"Every appropriation we make is in direct competition with every other appropriation," he said.

A 10-24 vote killed the amendment to the bill to put the figure at $1.35 million.

In debating against the $1.47 million bill as such, Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, referring to that it will do with all appropriations bills as it pleases.

The action in the Senate in amending the higher education bill at $1.29 million left Thursday action up in the air. The House has taken the attitude that it will do with all appropriations bills as it pleases.

that were being argued, said that if Boise State College has such a bad problem supporting its increased enrollment "it would be best for BSC to cut out recruiting."

U.S. Bombers Streak Into Cambodia In New Attacks

By BARNEY SEIBERT

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. fighter-bombers streaked into Cambodia to pound communist mortar positions which had fired on a South Vietnamese district town in the Mekong Delta, American military spokesmen revealed Thursday.

The U.S. command said that the South Vietnamese town of Ha Tien, 155 miles southwest of Saigon, received about 30 mortar rounds Tuesday afternoon from inside Cambodia. Shortly afterwards American jets were ordered to fly a series of strikes against the mortars to "suppress" the fire, spokesmen said.

"The U.S. command has previously stated that if fired upon from enemy positions outside the Republic of Vietnam, U.S. forces are authorized to return fire," a spokesman for Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said. "This is an inherent right of self defense against an attack."

It was the first major incident reported inside Cambodia since Feb. 11 when communist groundfire from inside the nation brought down a U.S. Army light observation helicopter about 100 miles west of Saigon in the Plain of Reeds sector.

American A37 jet fighters knocked out at least six anti-aircraft guns and killed an estimated 15 communist troops in retaliatory strikes in that incident. At least six of the attacking U.S. aircraft were damaged but managed to make it back to base.

Early Thursday morning communist units attacked an outpost of the 11th Armored Cavalry about 80 miles north of Saigon and only three miles from the Cambodian border.

The one-hour battle cost two Americans one killed and two wounded, spokesmen said, while six of the attackers were confirmed killed.

The battle occurred in the same general area where other U.S. Army troops killed 48 communist soldiers Wednesday.

Role Of U.S. Adviser In Secret War Of Laos Noted

EDITORS NOTE: Robert Kaylor, a paratroop veteran, has covered both the Vietnam War and the "secret war" in Laos. In the following dispatch he examines in detail the role of the U.S. adviser in Laos.

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—It was early morning. A sandy-haired young man in faded blue jeans and a sports shirt sat on a bench in the Air America terminal, waiting for his flight. He looked almost like the guy next door back in the United States. The only giveaway were his short haircut and his green and black jungle boots like the ones worn by U.S. combat troops in Vietnam.

He said he was headed for the airfield at Long Cheng, forward headquarters of the "reluctant army" of Maj. Gen. Vang Pao, and from there back to his job in the hills of north Laos.

The American declined to say just what that job was. When his plane was ready to leave he said goodbye, picked up a military B4 suitcase, and left.

That encounter took place some months back, before the current Communist offensive in Laos. Lao military sources say that nothing has changed in the intervening months, and that there are other Americans like the one at the terminal.

They are part of a complicated infrastructure that has been built to prop up a Laotian defense establishment that Lao and American officials agree would long ago have collapsed without their help.

Part of the infrastructure is visible on the surface in the capital of Vientiane. Part of it, like the American in blue jeans and jungle boots, normally is not visible in a country that is technically neutral and where U.S. military involvement is not openly admitted.

Of a total of about 830 persons that the U.S. mission acknowledges as employed by the U.S. government in Laos, about 80 or so are military personnel, working for the U.S. army and Air Force attaché offices at the American Embassy here.

But military sources in the

Guatemalan Election Gains Tenuous Grip On Democracy

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Guatemalan voters cast their ballots on Sunday, March 1, they were participating in what was heralded as a test for Guatemalan democracy.

An army colonel won the presidential race, although by not a large enough margin to take office automatically. The Guatemalan Congress now must select the eventual winner from among the two top candidates.

And whether Guatemala will retain its tenuous grip on democracy remains a question. Incumbent President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro is to turn his office over to his successor on July 1.

If he does so, he will become

Who Thinks Up Political Type Labels?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After writing the other day about the profusion of new political labels in America, I got to wondering where our statesmen acquire the epithets that they apply to various groups.

So I sent my fingers tippy-toeing through the yellow pages and pretty soon they stumbled upon an entry which read:

The Tiffany Epithet Co.
Fine Political Labels Since 1805
Stanley Y. Clept, Prop.

"We are indeed the nation's largest supplier of political labels," Clept confirmed when I called at his place of business. "While our client list is confidential, I can assure you that it includes many of the most important figures in Washington. Here, let me show you around."

He directed me to a stately, paneled chamber lined with glass cases.

"This is our showroom," he said. "As you can see, we have on exhibit a number of the more interesting labels that have been fabricated in our plant over the years."

In the cases were displayed such labels as "lococos," "bucktails," "barnburners," "hunkers," "know-nothings," "greenbackers" and "mugwumps."

"I'm here at Tiffany Epithet like to think that our labeling machines have played an indispensable role in American political history," Clept said.

I said, "What have been your most popular labels?"

"Our all-time best sellers were the 'hawk' and 'dove' labels that were first ordered during the Kennedy administration. They were in big demand all during the Johnson administration."

"Pseudo-intellectual" labels sold well in 1968 and this year a few calls for "effete snob" labels have come in."

The next room I inspected was cluttered with yardsticks, pulse-taking instruments and other measuring devices. The floor was littered with snippets of old Gallup Polls.

"This is our fitting room," Clept explained. "Since all of our labels are custom-made, fitting is a vital part of the process."

"What is the biggest job you

Oakley Clinches State Tourney Berth

Hornets Drop Murtaugh To Stay Undefeated As Hansen Ousts Rockland

MURTAUGH — The Oakley Hornets, exploding in the third quarter, dropped the Murtaugh Red Devils 82-56 Wednesday night to clinch one of two berths in the state A-4 basketball tournament. Earlier in the sixth district A-4 tourney, the Hansen Huskies eliminated the Rockland Bulldogs 76-59.

Hansen and Murtaugh will meet in the loser bracket semifinals at 8 p.m. Thursday night with the winner of that one going against Oakley Friday. However, Oakley now is the driver's seat as it must be defeated twice in a row to lose the title and it hardly can be counted a loser now with the state tournament trip assured. Oakley, which hasn't lost since the second game of the regular season, got help from its walking wounded to get past the Red Devils. Crafton, a junior, injured a knee in last week's opening rounds and was listed as a doubtful player. But with only a two-point lead, Crafton entered the game in the second half and scored 10 of Oakley's points in the break-out.

ISU Has Winning Season, Eagerly Awaits Next Year

POCATELLO — Dan Miller took a last-place conference team and took it to second place, and now he's looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to the 1970-71 campaign. Miller's Bengals achieved the first ISU winning season (13-11) since 1962, and the first winning conference record (11-4) since the inception of the conference in 1953-54. In addition Idaho State took the season's series from every conference opponent including champion Weber State, who they beat in Ogden 87-85 Saturday.

es, but saddening Miller. Besides being the sickest ball-handler and thief outside of prison Simmons also is only the sixth man from ISU to ever score over 400 points in back-to-back seasons. With Simmons gone the second guard spot will be up for grabs. Now fewer than three frosh and two-year letterman Treat Wagner have a shot at it. 6-5 Terry Carodine averaged 26.7 for the frosh and is the obvious choice unless he is moved forward. Greg Hawkins is a hot shooter, and Terry Adolfin is an inspirational leader. Wagner has the obvious asset of experience and is a fine playmaker.

In the first six years of conference play Idaho State won only one game away from home and lost 35. The record in 1969-70 was 5-38 after ISU took four of seven road tilts. The Bengals won their first conference game ever at Missoula, Moscow and Ogden.

Center Charley Barber, forward Mike Burnel and reserve guard forward Fred Trenkle leave and they will be tough to replace. Miller contemplates spending most of his JC recruiting time looking for a 6-8 or 6-9 horse capable of playing Weber's Willie Sojourner one on one. He is well-stocked in forwards with returnees 6-9 Abe Gibbons, 6-6 DeWitt Wilton, 6-5 John Cullum, 8-1 Jim Bonner, 6-4 1/2 Bob Dickson, and 6-4 1/2 Jim Jackson. 6-5 frosh Bill Minor is available.

Running mate O'Neil Simmons graduates, gladdening the hearts of five other BSC coaches.

Miller thinks Walton is the player of the future, after his 16-point, 11 rebound performance in Saturday's win over Weber. Walton was looking down at the rim most of the evening and even managed a block of a Sojourner jump shot. Cullum had a hot first half of the season, and then played back to that level against Weber. Gibbons is awfully thin but is a fine defensive player and jumper. Bonner started early in the year, Dickson has two years experience, and Jackson can get very physical.

Higgs Named Fish Boss At Hagerman

HAGERMAN — Kenneth Higgs will be assuming charge of the Hagerman National Fish Hatchery in June, upon completion of his attendance at a year-long managerial training program with the Department of the Interior in Washington, D.C., John D. Findlay, Portland, Regional Director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, announced today.

Higgs was born in New York State and moved to the West in his early teens. After graduating from high school at Ukiah, Calif., he served four years with the U.S. Navy including duty on a mine-sweeper patrolling the coasts of Japan and Korea in 1953 and 1954. In 1956, he enrolled at Humboldt State College in Arcata, Calif., where he received a B.A. in Biology in 1960. During his college years, Higgs performed summer work with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in both Anchorage and Kodiak, Alaska. After graduating from Humboldt, he began his federal fish hatchery career at Hagerman National Fish Hatchery where he is now returning as manager.

Lakers And West Defeat Bullets

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Jerry West saved 13 of his game-high 32 points for the final period to spark the Los Angeles Lakers to a 94-91 National Basketball Association victory over the Baltimore Bullets Wednesday night.

The Lakers led 74-66 after three quarters but the Bullets rallied behind Gene Johnson to tie it 84-84 with 2:52 left. A free throw by West and two Mel Counts' jump shots pushed Los Angeles ahead 86-84 with 1:30 remaining. West scored nine points in the last five minutes.

UOP Coach Quits After Three Months

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — For the second time within a month the University of Pacific is in search of a head football coach.

Doug Scovill quit the job after three years last month to take a position as an assistant with the San Francisco Forty Niners. Shortly after Scovill's resignation, Ken Blue, his chief assistant, was named as UOP's head coach.

Blue, who is 48, never even got used to the head coach's chair in the athletic department before he announced Wednesday he was quitting to take a job as a defensive coaching specialist with the St. Louis Cardinals.

So, today, UOP is looking for a head coach. Athletic Director Dr. Cedric Dempsey said he will accept applications for the job.

He emphasized, though, that current assistants Chester Cadas and Doug Smith will be considered for the vacancy. "This (the Cardinal job) is something I wanted to try for some time and when the opportunity arose I felt now was the time," Blue said.

Blue was Scovill's defensive assistant for three years in UOP. Blue gained a lot of respect for the kind of defensive unit he built. His boys gave up only three touchdowns rushing last year and an average of only 84.5 yards per game.

"This was a hard decision for me to make," Blue said, "mostly because of my acceptance by the community, faculty and most of all the players."

New Mexico Surprises UTEP

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — New Mexico's Ron Decker scored 25 points as the Lobos salvaged a bit of respectability in its final game of the season Tuesday beating Western Athletic Conference champs Texas-El Paso 78-70. Decker's performance pushed him over the 1,000-point mark in his three year career at New Mexico. He became the fourth Lobo player to reach that plateau.

Wendell Outlasts Valley 65-61 To Stay Undefeated In A-3 Tourney; Glenns Ferry Eliminates Shoshone

SHOSHONE — The Wendell Trojans fought back a fourth quarter rally to nip inspired Valley 65-61 and remain undefeated in the fourth district A-3 basketball tournament Wednesday night while the Glenns Ferry Pilots pulled away in the third quarter and eliminated Shoshone's Indians 65-52. In the wrap-up of the junior varsity tournament, the Valley sophomores came from behind in the fourth quarter to top Glenns Ferry 58-48.

Wendell now advances to the varsity finals while Glenns Ferry and Valley meet Thursday night to see which challenger for the title. The Trojans must be defeated twice to lose the title and the coveted one berth in the state tournament in Lewiston next week.

Dowler Quits As Player To Coach

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Veteran Green Bay Packers receiver Boyd Dowler unexpectedly announced Wednesday he was retiring as a player to accept an assistant coaching job with the Los Angeles Rams.

Utah State Defeats BYU 86-73

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Utah State warmed up for the NCAA tournament by defeating Brigham Young University 86-73 here Wednesday to win its 20th game of the season.

Wendell quickly righted itself, however, and the period ended up with basket matching, both teams hitting 10 points. Shoshone gave Glenns Ferry a battle through the first half but in the third period Glenns Ferry warmed up on its outside shooting and pushed a four-point advantage to 12.

Dowler, who has spent 11 seasons with Green Bay after being drafted third in 1959, is the Packers' second all-time leading receiver behind the famed Don Hutson.

The Aggies, now 20-6, face Western Athletic Conference winner Texas-El Paso in Provo Saturday night, with the winner advancing to the Far West regionals in Seattle March 12.

Both teams shot well in the first 16 minutes, with Shoshone having the better of it 29-25 at intermission. But Tom Little hit three quick buckets for Glenns Ferry to open the third quarter and that seemed to pick up the entire team. While Shoshone struggled through an eight-point third period, Glenns Ferry enjoyed a 24-point binge and that led it.

"I feel my future is in coaching," Dowler said in making the announcement. "Once the opportunity to join the Ram organization presented itself, I felt I had to seize it."

A disappointed crowd of 11,020 saw the Cougars cut the lead to within six points several times, only to have the Aggies build up the lead to 10 points, which they maintained throughout the second half.

Both teams had five players in double figures, with Mary Roberts of the Aggies and BYU's Doug Howard tying for game-high honors with 21 points each.

CSI Earns First Trip To JC Nationals

Hegens, Behagen Help Eagles Slip Flood Is Denied Injunction On Reserve Clause

The beleaguered College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles, meeting challenge after challenge, nipped the determined Ricks College Vikings on free throws 83-79 Wednesday night to claim the Region 18 junior college championship, but more importantly, their first trip to the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kan. Blue Mountain nipped Mount Hood 77-76 for the consolation prize.

The Eagles, ranked ninth in the nation, will be making their second appearance in a national tournament, having set a precedent by becoming the first junior college team to participate in the national AAU tournament four years ago. Since then, the Eagles have gone into the regional finals three times but until Wednesday night had been denied what Dr. James L. Taylor, college president, had set for a goal when he announced establishment of the basketball program.

It was a bitter defeat for Ricks, which had the Eagles' hard pressed throughout the night. Although CSI never trailed and thrice posted nine-point leads, it boiled down to a layup by Tim Bassett with 1:17 remaining in the game plus a pair of free throws by Ron Behagen with 30 seconds left.

The Eagles could point to two pivotal plays. The first was a swisher from the deep corner by Morris Moe that had left his hand when the halftime horn sounded.

But in focusing on the game, the big play had to come with about two minutes left and CSI trying to protect a 79-78 lead. Ricks' Gary Norman stole the ball and was driving on CSI's Steve Hegens. He tried a move that could have put him in for a crumple when his feet slipped and he sprawled to the floor. Hegens scooped up the ball and threw it full court to Bassett who went in for the crumple.

It was the shooting of Hegens and Behagen that carried CSI through this one as Ricks did better than break even on the backboards, particularly behind the all-around play of Steve Wallace. The Vikings also harried defensively and shot well from the outside.

It was a matter of veteran sophomores against freshmen but in the end CSI's frosh won it.

Over the first six minutes there wasn't more than a three-point difference until Hegens and Al Davis opened up a five-point lead. CSI held that five-point margin for three minutes before Wallace brought Ricks back to within one at 28-27 and it stayed close until the final 95 seconds of the half. Then Behagen hit four six points and Moe hit his last-second jumper to fashion the halftime count at 41-34 — the biggest to that time.

Larry Reitz opened the second half with a CSI crumple but two minutes later Ricks was back to within 10-9. Ricks' first chance for the lead came on that was expected, Miller said. "I don't consider it the slightest setback to the overall case. This was a request for a preliminary injunction before the trial. It was one of the few possibilities to make it possible for Curt to play while the case was underway. We are still quite confident in terms of the overall case."

"As I see the original injunction, it would have allowed him to negotiate with the clubs," Miller added. "He was denied."

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal judge Wednesday denied outfielder Curt Flood his request he be allowed to negotiate with any team he chooses on a playing contract for the 1970 season.

U.S. District Judge Irving Ben Cooper said if he prohibited baseball from imposing its reserve clause by allowing an injunction against it, "it would work the type of unfair surprise and carry the same sort of sudden effect" that the U.S. Supreme Court took great pains to prevent in its earlier decisions.

The ruling does not shut the door on Flood's attempt to negotiate the deal that sent him from the St. Louis Cardinals, where he has played for the past 12 seasons, to the Philadelphia Phillies. Cooper said Flood should choose another method to attack the reserve clause, which binds a player to one club or to any club to whom he is traded or sold by that club.

"We believe that such a determination (preliminary injunction) on a matter of vital importance to organized baseball and with such potential floodgates to litigation must at least be the result of a full trial and not on the basis of a motion for a preliminary relief," Cooper said in his 55-page decision.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said in Miami, "We are still quite confident in terms of the overall case."

The 32-year-old Flood, whose salary amounts to $90,000 a year, argued that being traded from one club to another without his consent made him a "slave."

While his case is pending in the courts, Flood sought injunctive relief that would have allowed him to become a free agent. That step would have allowed him to play for some team besides Philadelphia, but it was rejected by Cooper.

Miller, who has given Flood the support of the Players' Association, was not surprised that the preliminary injunction would in effect have been a free agent. He would have been like a human being in America who has a skill and wants to be paid for it.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he plans to look over the judge's bulky ruling thoroughly with his attorneys, but "beyond this, I cannot make any comment at this time," Kuhn said.

Cooper listened to arguments from both sides on Feb. 3 but withheld an immediate decision.

Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg represented Flood in arguments before the court. Goldberg said the baseball reserve clause violates the 13th amendment of the Constitution and state and federal anti-trust laws. "The court's decision today held only that an injunction is not appropriate at this juncture in the litigation," Goldberg said.

All-Tourney

Regional champion College of Southern Idaho placed three men on the all-tournament team selected by sportswriters, casters and coaches at the two-day tournament.

Freshmen Steve Hegens and Tim Bassett, both from Washington, D.C., and sophomore Albert Davis, Chicago, were selected by the voters. Joining them were 6-5 Gary Norman of Ricks, Spanish Fork, Utah, and Mel Farris, Mount Hood, Portland, Ore.

five straight Wallace points that cut the deficit to 53-52 but Davis, Behagen and Hegens reeled off CSI buckets to put that challenge down.

With 10 minutes left in the game, Hegens stole the ball and went for a crumple to give CSI another nine-point bulge but that evaporated as in the next two minutes and 15 seconds, Steve Larson and Wallace hit two pointers and Berrett got four.

It stayed tight as Ricks came to within one three times, the last time a 79-78. Then came Bassett's crumple and CSI went into a deep delay to claim its third win of the year over the Vikings.

The first game pitted the one-two teams from Oregon with champion Blue Mountain just staying ahead. Mount Hood, headed by Oregon's MVP Mel Farris, took the lead at the outset and led throughout the first half. But Blue Mountain caught up two minutes into the second half and after 14 minutes of bickering finally put it away when hulking Dave Sandles pumped through six straight points. That shoved Blue Mountain ahead by five with 13 seconds left and Mount Hood got the final four points to make it close.

Oxygen Content Rebuilding In Mormon Reservoir; Extent Of Kill Is Unknown

Oxygen conditions are improving on Mormon Reservoir and the winter kill of fish appears over, according to a survey made Wednesday by Bob Bell, regional fish biologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Bell and Conservation Officer Don Saxman, Fairfield, revisited the reservoir Wednesday and found that the oxygen content is improving but there is no way of finding the extent of the kill until the reservoir opens up and gill net censusing can be conducted. Bell estimated the number of dead perch and suckers found in the spring area at 140,000. The men saw no live fish.

Bell said the ice-free area is considerably larger than a week ago but the bulk of the reservoir is still hidden beneath 30 inches of ice and snow.

The five oxygen readings were taken at the same spots as a week ago. The readings ranged from 1.4 part per million to 5.5 part through the ice. The highest reading of 4.5 was found in the open water at the springs. This build up would be attributable to wind-wave interchange over the past few days.

A sample taken 20 feet deep in front of the dam turned up with no oxygen content at all but another at the same site only two feet deep was .5 parts per million.

Bell reiterated that the kill was not a major factor in management plans since the department has planned for a chemical eradication of trash fish for the past few years. The department has been waiting for minimum irrigation drawdown for economical reasons.

Bell said the reservoir would receive heavy plantings for catchable-sized and fingerling trout as soon as snow and weather conditions will allow.

In other fish news, Rex Spackman, superintendent of the Twin Falls hatchery, reports planting over three hundred thousand Coho fingerlings in Southside reservoirs.

Spackman said 250,000 were placed in Salmon Falls Reservoir Tuesday and 73,000 went into Oakley reservoir. The fish, hatched and raised at the Hagerman state hatchery, ran from two to three inches in length.

Seaver Looks Sharp In First Stint

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Two innings don't make a successful season but they did establish Wednesday two points the world champion New York Mets wanted to know about 25-game winner Tom Seaver.

1. Seaver seems to have lost none of his competitive sharpness on the winter banquet circuit.

2. He is very close to being in shape for the new season's opener.

The National League's Cy Young Award winner in 1969, Seaver pitched two hitless innings Wednesday when the Yogi Berra's beat the Joe Pignatano's, 3-2, in an extra-squad game. Seaver gave up one walk, erased in a double play, and left the mound bubbling with enthusiasm.

"I felt good and was getting the ball where I wanted to," he said. "I'm in good physical and mental shape because I attended only five banquets during the winter. Everything looks good for another good year."

On other fronts: Hank Aaron hit two run-producing singles as the Atlanta Braves regulars beat the reserves, 3-0. Steve Garvey drove in two runs with three hits and Bob Valentine went 2-for-4 as the Roy Hallfields downed the Danny Ozarks, 9-1, in the Los Angeles Dodgers' intrasquad game. Tom Haller's signing for an estimated $50,000 left Jeff Torborg only unsigned Dodger.

Don Lock hit two homers and George Thomas and Russ Gibson one each in the Boston Red Sox' intra-squad game. Ed Kirkpatrick and Dennis Paenke drove in two runs each to lead the Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Schützes in the Tigers' workout.

Boise State Will Play Sans Coach

BOISE (UPI) — Boise State College Athletic Director Lyle Smith reported Thursday the Bronco basketball team will enter Thursday night's NCAA college division playoffs without the services of head coach Murray Satterfield.

Satterfield has been hospitalized with a blood-clotting ailment. Smith said he said Satterfield would miss both the opening game and the second game on Saturday afternoon.

Satterfield's physician said release of the patient before that time would not permit adequate treatment of that ailment. Satterfield is hospitalized in Boise.

Russians Keep Ice Skate Award

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (UPI)—Irina Rodina and Alexei Ulanov of Russia successfully defended their world pairs figure skating championship Wednesday night.

Ludmila Smeynova and Andrei Suraykin, also of Russia, were second and East Germany's Heidi Marie Steiner and Hans Ulrich Walther finished third.

Rodina and Ulanov won the first minute of their five-minute free skating program when he was performing a double salkov.

Melissa and Mark Militano of New York finished eighth among the 17 entries for the best performance by the Militanos in their career.

The American couple also won warm applause from the audience because Melissa had to skate with part of her face covered with a bandage after she fell in the warmup practice and injured her face.

In the Thursday competition, there will be three compulsory figures for the ladies and a free skating program for men.

Smeynova's Andrej Nepcha led Tim Wood of Detroit by a slim margin after the compulsory figures in the men's individual event.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 51 years old but nobody believes it. Everyone says I could pass for 30. I guess I'm one of the lucky ones because I don't exercise or do anything special to keep in shape, and I still have the figure of a high school girl. Also I don't touch up my hair and it's flaming red without any grey.

Last winter my husband and I were at a resort hotel, and a perfect stranger came up and asked if he could take my picture. I posed for him in my bikini, and his hand shook so bad he could hardly hold the camera. (I'm not telling you this to brag on myself, I just want you to know I am no slouch.)

My problem is my husband. He likes to get drunk every night and he's not good for anything when he drinks, so I have been living without physical love for nearly a year. Last night I put on my heels and a black chiffon see-through negligee and I did a little dance for him. And he didn't even look up from his newspaper. What can I do! Can you help me?

SEXY BUT LONELY

armed forces, after two years of fines, jail, and I am sure many other experiences. He had many other experiences he will remember a lifetime, including draft evasion for three months.

The very fact that your son returned home once — regardless of what shape he was in — means that home and his family meant something to him in his confused mind and heart. He'll come back.

So when someone asks you where your son is, just say, "He's in New York working."

Take it from a mother in New York who said her son was "in California—working." Sign me this to brag on myself, I just want you to know I am no slouch.)

Col. Sanders Starts New Life With Prayer, Faith

By COL. HARLAND SANDERS, Shelbyville, Kentucky

Some people spend a good share of their lives planning for retirement, but the idea has never appealed to me.

I guess I'm from the old school. I believe that God expects us to be productive in some way — all of our days. It has long been my philosophy that a man will rust out a lot sooner than he will wear out.

Oh I'm not as tough as I was a few years ago. My feet and legs bother me sometimes and my mind isn't as strong but I have no complaint. Teddy Roosevelt I believe it was said that 90 per cent of the work in this country is done by people who don't feel well so I've got company.

I had a good chance to retire at 65 but I couldn't see any percentage in loafing. At the time, I was located in Corbin, Kentucky where my wife and I had settled in 1929.

We went there from Kentucky's Bluegrass country and opened a service station after the Depression hit. The station evolved into a restaurant and motel which by 1954 had grown quite successful. That was about the time a man offered me $165,000 for the business.

Now, if I'd been planning to spend the rest of my life sunbathing this would have been the time to jump. But my wife and I decided against selling because it brought us into contact with people — and we love people.

Then the blow fell. The state repossessed the place that ran in front of our road, Sanders Court and Cafe; and when the highway was rerouted, we were cut off from the traffic. Business fell off and by 1956, we were lucky to get out with enough to pay the bills.

Was I finished at age 65? It seemed so. My wife and I were completely discouraged.

We were talking about our next move when my first Social Security check arrived. It was for $105.

"That won't go very far," I remember telling her. Then I had a wild idea. The restaurant business was my line, and fried chicken our specialty. Why couldn't I take our recipe for fried chicken on the road and try to franchise it?

At always when on strange footing, I said a prayer in which I asked God to direct my steps and bless this new idea if it was right. All my life I have given Him 10 per cent of everything I made in my work.

Cashing the $105 check, I loaded into my 1946 Ford the following items: a pressure cooker, a 50-pound tin of flour (containing a mixture made from 11 herbs and spices) and a blanket to sleep under.

My offer to restaurateurs was a simple one: I would show them how to fry chicken in exchange for their promise to pay me 5 cents for every chicken they sold. It would be on the honor system; I had no intention of auditing anyone's books, because I figured it would take a rather cheap thief to fudge on that arrangement.

I drove all over the country, sleeping many nights in the car to save money. Quite often I got a free meal from restaurant friends. One of them, Pete Harmon of Salt Lake City, bought the first Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise. The second sale was made in Indianapolis and the third in Kokomo, Indiana.

By 1964, in just eight years I had 600 franchises operating on the honor system, and more bookkeeping work than I knew what to do with.

When I was offered two million dollars for the business I sold out, but agreed to continue working in a public-relations capacity. If I have learned anything in life, it can be summed up this way: Hard work beats all the tonics and vitamins in the world.

The therapy of work is good for you whatever your age. Will Rogers years ago said life begins at 40. Times have changed. People are living longer, fuller, more creative lives. So I say "Life can begin at 65." It sure did for me.

Placement Of Stop Signs Is Studied By Burley Council

BURLEY — The Burley city council, Bill Rarsons, is drawing an ordinance regulating traffic, prior to the placement of stop signs on Hilland Avenue, Parke avenue and other points in the city.

Mayor Garis Robertson reported at the city council Monday night that George Warrell, former police chief, started Feb. 16 working as city safety director. After discussion the council set his salary at $540 per month. Mr. Warrell will report to the mayor in his position as safety director.

Other business transacted at the council, not reported in Wednesday's Times-News, includes: Approval of building permits and granting of a trailer park renewal license to William Roberts. Renewal licenses were granted for plumber, journeyman and gas contractors.

Approved an amended ordinance regarding sewage lines under suspension of rules. The council also passed an ordinance under suspension of the rules stipulating that vehicles left parked on city streets more than 48 hours will be impounded.

Interest In Idaho Moon Spot Shown

CRATERS OF THE MOON — Moon flights by the Apollo spacemen have captured the imaginations of many and now it seems the next best thing is seeing the moon on vacation in being its counterpart on earth.

Paul Fritz, superintendent of the park here, said the monument is being considered by many as a vacation spot this summer. His office has received inquiries from 14 states and one Latin American country during the past week.

Questions asked range from campground facilities, volcanic activity, wildlife and geology to plants.

Many plan to include side trips to Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons, Mr. Fritz said. He added that the open winter season at the monument has had an impact on visitation to date, with registration nearly seven times larger than the same period in 1969. A total of 2,600 visited the park in February, compared to 380 for the same period last year.

To date, 4,269 visitors have been counted, compared to 715 for the same period last year.

Decided to advertise for sale, through bids, the 1968 Ford which has been used by the chief of police, and the three-wheeled motorcycle. Bids have been received on the motorcycle.

Heard Ken Barry, acting chief of police, report receipt of $2,875 during February. Last year $1,800 was reported.

New rules for the Municipal Golf Course which were adopted by the councilmen stipulate all persons using a powered golf cart on the course shall pay the city a use fee of $20 per year or $2 each 18 holes and locker-use fee of $4 per season shall be paid to the City of Burley. The course closed to all play on Mondays and violators shall be prosecuted. It was pointed out by the city attorney that according to city ordinance persons could receive up to $100 fine for this violation.

Off-season players must play temporary holes as provided by the course maintenance crew. It was pointed out that even with the fee raise the Burley Municipal Golf Course is still lower in fees than other municipal courses.

January Total On Sales Told

The sale of savings bonds and notes in Idaho during January totaled $764,765, making it the highest monthly total in the past 11 months, James S. Kinney, district savings bond chairman, said.

District sales for the month amounted to $11,260, he added. Mr. Kinney also said the increased interest rate of five per cent on E and H bonds, when held to maturity, has helped to boost sales.

GOODING — Preliminary hearing for Carroll Tester, 40, Gooding, charged with forgery, has been set for 10 a.m. March 12.

Tester was brought back to Gooding from Anchorage, Alaska, for court action in Gooding. Whereabouts of his estranged wife, Marge, 40, still is not known. She and Tester both disappeared Feb. 17 from the Gooding area.

PROF SHOWS PUPIL DOUBLE SQUEEZE
The new pupil had learned enough about bidding so that her jump to four hearts was made quickly and firmly. West cashed the ace and king of spades and gave his partner a spade ruff while she followed suit helplessly.

East returned the king of diamonds. She won with the ace, turned to the Professor and said, "I guess I have to go down one. The seven of spades isn't good, is it?"

"No, it isn't," replied the Professor. "Run off your trumps though and see what happens. Just be sure to discard diamonds from dummy at first."

The pupil did as ordered. When she led the last trump, dummy was out of diamonds and she discarded the seven of spades.

"Now lead a club," said the Professor.

She proceeded to take dummy's ace and king of clubs and to her complete surprise the deuce of clubs won the last trick.

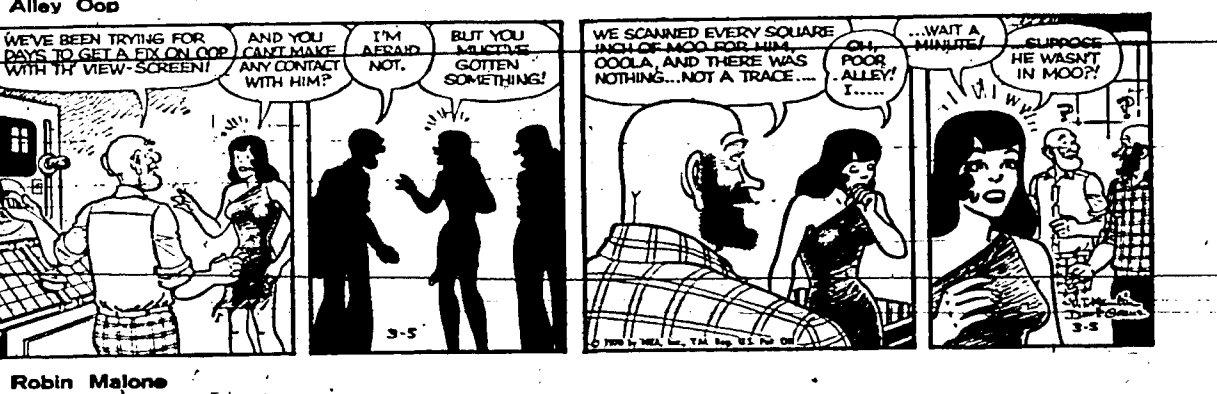

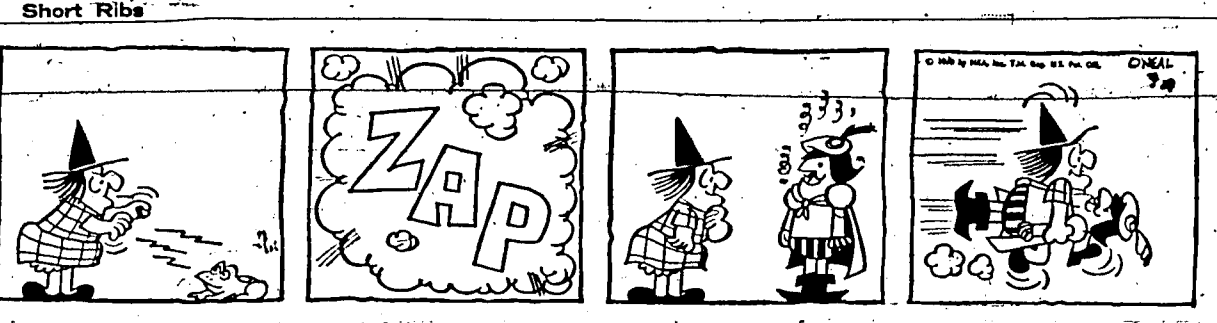

"How nice of East and West," she beamed. "They threw their clubs away."

"Not at all. You have just executed a perfect double squeeze."

South certainly had done exactly that. Furthermore, it hadn't required any skill. As long as she played out all her trumps West had to discard down to two clubs in order to hang on to the high spade, whereupon she was able to discard dummy's last spade.

Put this pressure on East. He had to keep the queen of diamonds. Otherwise South's jack would have been good. Thus he also had to discard down to two clubs.

All of which goes to show that there is nothing to be lost by playing out all your winning tricks and hoping that something favorable will happen.

Few Home-Buyers Ever Pay 25-Year Mortgages In Full

THE TWO MAJOR CITIES in after a lengthy study of wherein a single girl is most apt to find a matrimonial mate are said to be San Francisco and Detroit.

OUR NAME GAME MAN reports Connecticut birth records show a couple there named their daughter Encyclopedia Britannica Dewey.

TAKE THOSE FAMILIES who buy a new house with a 25-year mortgage. Only about one in 10 goes on living in the place that long.

THE RAZOR'S EDGE - Am asked how long men have been shaving with safety razors. Just 67 years, I think. Wasn't King Gillette's device the first such on the market? That came out in 1903. At $5 apiece, incidentally. By 1914, however, the price had gone down to 10 cents a razor. The blades came wrapped in white paper. A lot of men gave up the razors in this blast without trying to use the blades after removing the wrappers. There were hicks then.

HAIR - Generally, women's hair tends to be darker than men's. Odds run nine to one a man will be bald by his sixtieth birthday. If a fellow's entire beard growth went into one whisker, it would get to be 50 feet long in a day. That's not all that's on file here about hair, but it's enough for the moment, certainly.

OPEN QUESTION - Where did we get the expression "well-heeled"?

LOVE AND WAR - Before a young man and his ladyfriend marry, they ought to be engaged for nine months. Such was the conclusion of sociologists Ernest Burgess and Paul Walin after a lengthy study of young married couples. The vital statistics they found, indicate couples engaged nine months are least apt to get divorced.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q "On whose show do the commercials cost more, Walter Cronkite's or Dean Martin's?" A. All I know is the dinner-time stuff doesn't cost as much as the bedtime stuff. . . . Q. "ARE THERE as many people living in the United States today as were living in the entire world at the time of Christ?" A. Not quite.

Q. "SO AMONG the African animals it's the crocodile that kills the most people, is it? What animal comes next?" A. The hippo. Mostly because he tips over a lot of boats and steps on the contents thereof.

CLOSE SCRUTINY of those studies about the romantic misbehavior of American husbands indicates southern men tend to be a little more faithful than northern husbands. . . . THE SCIENCE BOYS say those raindrops falling on your head had been moisture up in the sky for about three weeks, average.

ONE GOURMET - and only one, I'll warrant - recommends we try a mushroom in our martini instead of an olive or onion. Not today.

RAPID REPLY - No, sir, professional acrobats never get seasick.

Japan; Communist China To Begin Talks On Trade Pact

By ROBERT CRABBE TOKYO (UPI)—Trade talks between Japan and Communist China begin this week, with strain between the two governments at its worst in a dozen years.

Yoshimi Furui, a member of the Japanese parliament, is due in Peking today at the head of a trade mission. Awaiting him is a chilly reception from Chinese officials incensed at Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato's "partnership" policy with the United States.

Furui will seek a one-year renewal of the so-called "Japan-China memorandum trade agreement." It is an unofficial pact between the Chinese Communists and a private federation of Japanese businessmen interested in trade with Communist China. The two countries do not have diplomatic relations.

First negotiated in 1962, the agreement is Japan's chief source of contact with Mainland China. It allows Japan to maintain a trade office in Peking and a Chinese business representative to live in Tokyo. It also provides for mutual exchanges of newsmen and travel in and out of China by Japanese businessmen.

The pact expired Dec. 31, after China rebuffed Japanese efforts to have renewal negotiations started in November.

The Peking Chinese were upset over the results of Sato's visit to President Nixon in Washington that month. Sato was promised the return of U.S.-ruled Okinawa to Japan, in return he declared that "the maintenance of peace and the security in the Taiwan (Formosa) area was a most important factor for the security of Japan."

This endorsement of U.S. efforts to protect Formosa, base of the Nationalist Chinese government, headed by President Chiang Kai-shek, was a new departure by Japan. Previously, Japanese diplomats

Lilly Grade Wreck Spares Two Youths

CASTLEFORD — Although a 1958 foreign car smashed into a stone wall and rolled out of control for more than 300 feet on the Lilly Grade south of here, both occupants of the car managed to walk away with only minor injuries.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's Deputy T. M. Kendrick said, "I don't know how they got out of it like they did."

Michael A. Parrott, 16, 604 Third Ave. N., was driving the car when it hit some gravel, slid into a stone wall, then rolled. He and his passenger, Bito Cantrell, 16, 295 Lois St., managed to crawl from the wreckage and summon help. They did not require hospitalization. The mishap happened late Tuesday.

New T. F. Officer

Frank Lara, Twin Falls resident for about a year, was sworn in Wednesday as a Twin Falls City Police officer.

Officer Lara will be assigned as a patrolman, Chief Frank Barnett said.

He is originally from California. He and his wife have four children.

Safety Rules Given For Kite Flying

Kite flying can be fun if youngsters — and their parents — heed eight simple rules, Idaho Power Company's safety director pointed out Wednesday.

A. G. Blair listed the safety rules, which he called "every kite flyer's commandments," as follows:

1. Always use dry string—not wire or anything metallic.
2. Always use wood and paper in your kite—not wire or metal.
3. Always fly your kite on days when there is no rain.
4. Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite.
5. Always fly your kite away from TV and radio aerials.
6. Always keep away from fallen wires.
7. Always fly your kite far from power lines.
8. Always call your power company if your kite gets snagged in power lines. Don't pull the string or climb power poles.

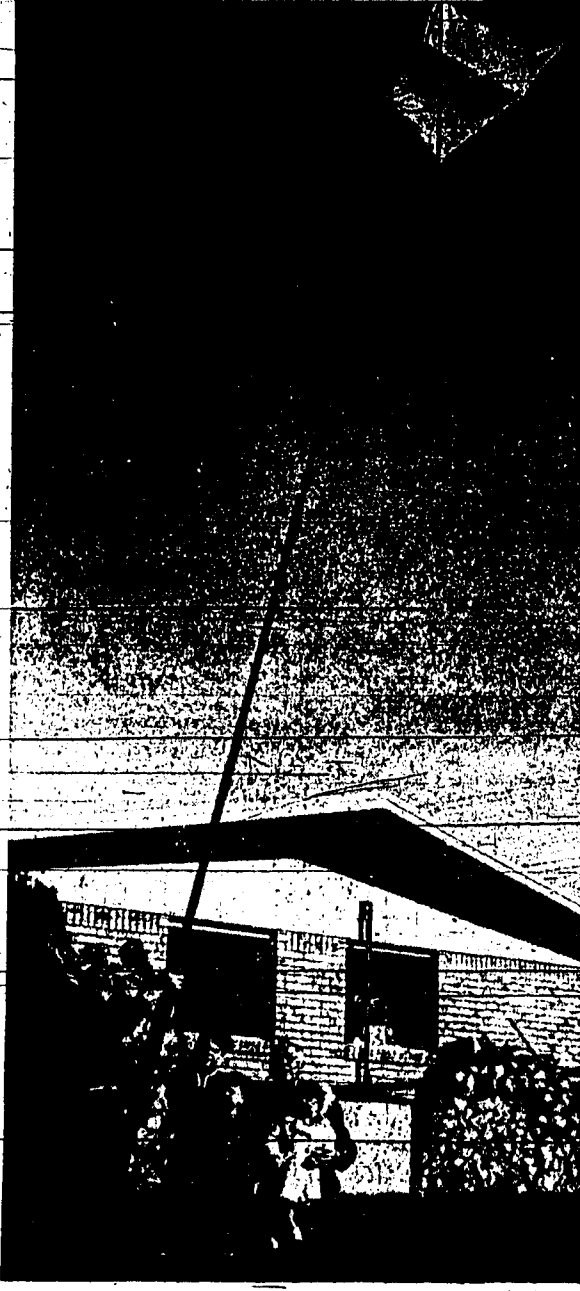

"Observance of these rules will help make kite flying enjoyable and prevent needless accidents," Blair said.

REV. WILLIS HUNKING ... a missionary to Nigeria in West Africa will be the featured speaker at 7:45 p.m. Friday at the Lynwood Chapel. Part of the World Day of Prayer, the Rev. Mr. Hunking is a co-organizer of the 1968 West Africa Congress on Evangelism. There will also be a prayer participation meeting at 2 p.m. Friday at the chapel.

TWO OF THE rules for safe kite flying are demonstrated for three young "pilots" by A. G. Blair, kneeling, Idaho Power Company safety director, with the help of M. P. Olson, company serviceman. The rules: (1) "Always fly your kite far from power lines," and (2) "Always call your power company if your kite gets snagged in power lines." Olson uses an insulated "hot stick" to free a kite snagged in a line.
