NFO: Governor Is Against Growers

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — A delegation from the National Farmers Organization met with Gov. Don Samuelson today and afterward accused him of siding with potato processors in a price dispute.

Samuelson flatly denied the charge during a brief news conference that followed his closed-door discussions with the seven-member delegation.

"I don't think I've ever been with a man who knew less about the agricultural problem," said De Von Woodland, Blackfoot, a member of the NFO's national board of directors.

"He, I'm sure, understands the plight of the processor,"

Del Ray Holm, Roberts, chairman of the national potato committee of the NFO, agreed with Woodland. He said Samuelson was "completely oriented to the processor" and that the governor has taken sides with the processor.

"We didn't get to him at all," Holm said.

Members of the delegation, which included attorney James Annett of Declo, asked Samuelson to issue a public statement in which he said he recognized the financial plight of Idaho's potato and other farmers.

But the governor refused to do so. Samuelson also refused to go out and meet this afternoon with a delegation of farmers coming to Boise from eastern Idaho in a 600-vehicle caravan and a huge load of potatoes.

"This wasn't in the bargain," Samuelson later told reporters. "I have a real busy schedule today."

Saying he allowed seven persons to meet with him when the original deal was for a meeting with fewer persons he said he had no intention of speaking with some 300 persons about the potato price problem.

"I think that was a breach of etiquette on their part," he said.

The governor said he would be willing to sit down with representatives of all parts of the potato industry — growers, shippers and processors — but not with just one segment.

"I'm interested in Idaho," Samuelson said. "My responsibility is to see that the laws of the state of Idaho are upheld and do everything I can to improve the economic conditions of the state of Idaho — not take one side against another."

He said some processors at the start of the dispute expressed concern about trucks blocking their driveways and about alleged "bomb threats."

Church Vetoes Carswell Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced their opposition today to the nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court, increasing the number of opponents to 32.

Symington said Carswell had served "without any discernible distinction" on lower federal courts and should not be entrusted with the responsibility of deciding the constitutionality of laws.

Church said Carswell's record as a jurist was "utterly pedestrian" and charged he had not handed down a single decision "that reveals any exceptional qualities of learning, any flash of brilliance or any special insight."

A United Press International count gave supporters of the nomination 49 votes and opponents 32, with 18 undecided. Sen. Fred T. Farris, D-Okla., said the nomination should be sent back to the Judiciary Committee to die.

H said it was not too long ago that Idahoans were concerned about cattle prices and he noted that the "cattle industry worked out that itself."

Woodland said he hoped the governor was sincere enough to look into the agricultural problem but said he felt the delegation failed to accomplish anything in its meeting with the governor.

Liberty Party Not On Ballot

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Leaders of the Liberty Party failed to meet the March 16 deadline for getting the party on the Utah ballot, but spokesmen say they will continue efforts to get candidates and "principles" before the people.

Greg W. Killips, president of the party, said the party's platform of "liberty, justice and peace" was the basis for its formation.

"It has been decided that we will nominate a slate of candidates by means of petition," the statement said. "We are still searching for honest and wise men who understand and defend the principles of freedom and justice contained in the U. S. Constitution. As we locate these men, petitions will be prepared and put into circulation to have them put onto the ballot in the name of the 'Liberty Party'."

The first of these petitions should begin circulating after the first of April. Other projects, Killips said, will be the formation of "Liberty Clubs" throughout the state, along with a "Veterans for Victory Committee."

Plea For Jet Planes Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the United States has rejected Israel's request for more planes and plans now to make "a very vigorous" effort to get an agreement with Russia to limit arms shipment to the Middle East.

Rogers said that while turning down for the time being an Israeli request for 25 additional Phantom and 100 more Skyhawks, the United States has "no intention of jeopardizing the security of Israel."

He added that if Russia takes steps "which might upset the current balance of if, in our judgment, political developments warrant, the President will not hesitate to reconsider this matter."

Rogers rejected Israel's argument that it needed a deal now on grounds it would take some time for it to receive more U.S. planes under a new arrangement. The United States, the secretary said, is in a position to meet immediately any legitimate requests the Israelis are likely to have for replacement planes or additional aircraft within the foreseeable future.

In advance of his news conference, Rogers told congressional leaders about turning down the jetplane request but said $100 million in economic aid would be provided.

Meeting

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the southern Idaho section of the American Society of Civil Engineers will meet in a seminar on resource development and management Thursday and Friday in Boise.

Wendell A. Higgins, Boise president of the group, said James L. Agee of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration in Portland, will be a main speaker.

Nixon Plans Move To Halt Strike

President Nixon arranged to make a nationwide radio and television broadcast today to explain to the public how he proposes to deal with the not negotiate while the strike was still going on.

Use of federal troops for any emergency has been rare and they had never been used in the past to take the places of civil servants paid by the federal government.

The president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, whose chapters in New York started the wildcat walkouts last Wednesday, said he hoped Nixon would use only his imagination to resolve the dispute.

James H. Rademacher has urged consistently that his people return to work and give the government five days to come up with satisfactory movement on pay raise proposals.

In response to the administration's request and that of Rademacher, according to post office surveys, 51,116 strikers returned to their jobs this morning in Boston, Minneapolis, San Francisco, Cincinnati, New York State, Philadelphia and in the Chicago area.

In the New York region, 53,667 employees were reported still out. However, 3,396 had returned in Buffalo, N.Y.

Approximately 25,000 employees were still out in Philadelphia and surrounding towns while some 12,000 had returned to work in Pittsburgh and 14 area offices.

Bulletin

President Nixon today declared a state of national emergency because of the five-day postal strike. He immediately ordered military troops to help restore service in the New York City area where the wildcat walkouts began.

In a nationwide television and radio broadcast, the President said he would deploy troops to crippled post offices in other cities if a back-to-work movement does not restore service.

Nixon issued an order authorizing Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to call National Guard units into service as needed. He said he had determined that he could not carry out the postal task "solely with the regular (military) forces."

The President also announced he had instructed Attorney General John N. Mitchell to take whatever actions are necessary to enforce court back-to-work orders and to prevent any illegal picketing.

wildcat postal strike.

The administration had offered to begin negotiations on a pay raise and other strikers' grievances this afternoon provided that an operable postal system was restored.

However, as of 11 a.m. EST, the Post Office Department said 168,403 postal employees were still on strike. These included carriers and others in New York and Chicago who spurned the administration proposal.

Nixon invited top congressional leaders of both parties to the White House for a discussion of the growing crisis in advance of his broadcast statement to the nation.

Shultz arranged to pass the word to postal union officials at a meeting in his office about the same time. The Pentagon had been working several days in preparation for the possibility of helping move the mail. Nixon had said Saturday at a news conference that he would carry out his responsibility to see that the mails go through.

Two Planes Down Over Laos Area

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command today reported the loss of two more American warplanes over Laos and said two of the crewmen are missing — the first air war personnel casualties announced since the command took the wraps of the Laotian bombing.

Guerrilla ground fire proved just as deadly in Vietnam Sunday, downing four U.S. helicopters. Three Americans were killed and two wounded, the announcement said.

In a series of terrorist attacks that produced the worst civilian loss of life in more than six months, 18 South Vietnamese civilians were killed and 40 wounded, many of them in the bombing of a pagoda outside Saigon.

A separate communique said 6,300 U.S. troops left the war zone last week to cut the level of GIs in Vietnam to 454,500 men, fewest since Aug. 12, 1967.

The command said ground fire in the upper part of Laos downed an F4 Phantom jet and a propeller-driven Skyraider, the F4 last Thursday and the Skyraider on Saturday.

One of the Phantom's two crewmen was rescued. The second Phantom crewman and the Skyraider pilot are missing.

The worst terrorist incident occurred at Hoc Mo district town seven miles northwest of Saigon. A woman threw a grenade into a Buddhist pagoda crowded with worshippers, killing 14 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 20 others, all women and children.

Robert Culp To Pay Alimony

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Robert Culp was ordered to pay his estranged wife, actress France Nuyen, $1,400 a month support for the next six months.

Culp, 39, must also pay Miss Nuyen's attorney $500 a month until their divorce is settled. The couple separated last Nov. 22 after two years of marriage. They have no children.

Loyalists In Congo Win Early Battle

KINSHASA, Congo (UPI) — Loyalist troops in the neighboring Congo Republic today crushed a coup attempt by a group of 30 rebel soldiers who seized Brazzaville Radio and announced the ouster of President Marien Nguabi, an avowed Marxist.

Reports from Brazzaville, across the Congo River from Kinshasa, said the leader of the abortive coup, identified as Lt. Kikanga, was killed by loyalist troops with tanks who recaptured the station.

"We control the entire situation," a man identifying himself as Nguabi told a Paris radio station by telephone.

The rebel soldiers took Brazzaville radio at 5 a.m. (11 p.m. Sunday EST) and announced the replacement of Nguabi's Marxist government with a provisional regime. They said the president had been arrested but was safe.

Appeals for military help from such neighboring nations as Gabon, Chad, the Congo and the Central African Republic went out over Brazzaville Radio under the rebel soldiers before the station went dead at 7:45 a.m.

(A man who said he was the republic's foreign minister, Oxence Ikonga, told a newsmen in Paris by telephone that loyalist troops had ringed the station with tanks and had captured it in a brief fight.)

The rebel leader, Lt. Kikanga, was said to have fled the republic after being condemned to death for subversion in 1969. But he returned to engineer the abortive takeover attempt.

From Point-Noire, 220 miles east of Brazzaville on the Atlantic Coast, an official loyal to Nguabi went on the radio and accused the soldiers of distributing "imperialist propaganda" and warned them to give up by 9:15 a.m. or be crushed.

The loyalist troops moved in before that deadline and retook the station from the so-called "Military Committee of National Liberation."

Shoshone Postoffice Dedicated

SHOSHONE — A large crowd turned out for dedication of the new postoffice here Saturday at which Richard Thompson, Pocatello, postal service officer, gave the dedicatory speech. He also explained the workings of zip codes.

Postmasters from Hailey, Ketchum, Bellevue, Richfield, Jerome, Twin Falls, Bliss, Wendell and Gooding attended as well as Jerry Alber, Twin Falls, superintendent of mails; Dale Vining, Western regional representative of National Postmasters Association, and William Foster, Twin Falls, special regional representative for the United Federation of Postal Clerks.

Letters and telegrams were read from Legislators Sen. Frank Church, Sen. Len Jordan and Cong. Orval Hansen were read.

Mayor Ellwood R. Werry, and recent past postmaster here, was master of ceremonies.

The color guard from Scout Troop 57 presented the colors on the flag pole, a flag that had been flown over the Nation's Capitol. Phyllis Fought, high school student, read a poem, "Ode to American Flag."

Postmaster William Haux gave a history of the postoffice in Shoshone, stating the town was known as Naples, established Oct. 17, 1882, then changed to Shoshone on March 26, 1883. Originally, with the first arrival of the railroad, Shoshone was, however, known for a brief time as Junction City. The local Odd Fellows lodge continues to carry that name.

The new brick building is 56 feet wide and 71 feet long on West A Street. There are 3,668 square feet of floor space. Heat is by gas and at the side is an 11-car parking lot. There are 612 boxes in the new building.

Youth Session Is Busy

Bills dealing with ecology, information between student and school counselors, increasing the sales tax and testing of law enforcement officers were passed by both the house and senate and signed by the governor during the annual Youth Legislature Saturday in Twin Falls.

The 1970 session of the mock legislature, sponsored by the Magic Valley YM-YWCA, saw more than a dozen acts and resolutions presented for consideration by the youth delegates.

House Bill 1, making it unlawful for anyone to dispose of or store any radioactive materials within an area in which any escaping radioactive contaminants could pollute water resources and providing penalties thereof, received approval of the delegates and youth governor Mark Fisher, Kimberly.

The legislature also voted to amend the Idaho Sales Tax Act to increase the tax one per cent, keeping said one per cent within the county in which it was collected, to be used for education and highway purposes. Also passed and approved by the governor was Senate Bill 3, which would make communication between student and school counselor or psychologist privileged information.

Senate Bill 5, which would provide mandatory examination of law enforcement officers also received the approval of the delegates and governor.

The governor chose to veto House Joint Memorial 7 which would have established comparative government classes in the state's public school system. "I am not basically opposed to the idea of a comparative government class, but the memorial is poorly drafted," Gov. Fisher said.

Other youth officers were Dennis Pettygrove, Hansen, Lt. Governor, Ethan Bickelhaupt, Buhl Speaker of the House; Stan Preston, Declo, Senate Chaplain; Jan Hoffbuhr, Burley, House Chaplain; Nancy Koke, Buhl Secretary of State; Karen Kuman, Burley, chief clerk of the house; Steve Blaye, Twin Falls senate floor leader; Helen Fleener, Filer, House floor leader; Carl Crockett, Hansen, chairman of committee A; Jim DeGlee, Twin Falls, chairman of committee B; Chad Wilkinson, Burley, chairman of committee C; and Gordon Graff, Murtaugh, chairman of committee D.

Former State Sen. George Blick, Castleford, served as advisor to the youth governor. Former Twin Falls County Probate Judge Zoe Ann Shaub is chairman of the valley youth and government committee.

About 120 youthful members of the house and senate and a dozen pages participated in the session at the county judicial building.

Students came from Buhl, Burley, Declo, Filer, Hansen, Kimberly, Murtaugh and Twin Falls.

Occupants Of Vehicle Are Not Located

HANSEN — Idaho State Police say they still have not located the driver or occupants of a vehicle which wrecked early Saturday morning about five miles south of Hansen on the Rock Creek Road.

Officers were called to the scene shortly before 2 a.m., but when they arrived the vehicle had been abandoned. They said it appeared the car was traveling at a high rate of speed and struck a culvert and slid down the highway. One report received by officers was that some of the occupants were pinned in the car.

An ambulance also was dispatched to the scene. Indications inside the car were that someone had been injured in the accident, but checks with the hospital also have failed to locate anyone in the accident.

Injuries Minor In Crash Here

A Jerome man was treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital early Monday morning after he was injured in a two-car collision on Kimberly Road.

Twin Falls City Police said Ronald D. Clark, 20, was driver of a vehicle which collided with a 1970 Thunderbird driven by Joseph Gasser, 46, 580 Sunrise Boulevard N.

Mr. Gasser was attempting to turn into Brandley's cafe parking lot and pulled in front of the Clark vehicle, officers said. Neither Mr. Gasser nor Karen Poindexter, 20, Filer, a passenger in the Clark vehicle, was injured. Mr. Gasser was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way. The accident occurred about 12:45 a.m.

New Soviet Novel Is Best Seller In Russia

MOSCOW (UPI)—A new Soviet novel that describes Pablo Picasso as a pornographer and Leon Trotsky as a Zionist agent has become a best-selling sensation overnight in Moscow.

Ivan Shevtsov's "In the Name of Father and Son," a novel of life in a Moscow metallurgical plant, came out a few days ago and is already a near sellout. It is rife with anti-Zionism.

One of the characters in the plotless novel, a Jew named Aaron Herzovich, says of Trotsky, the first Soviet foreign minister:

"Like the Fascists, the Zionists fiercely hate Marxism-Leninism, especially internationalism."

"Sometimes the Zionist agents manage to infiltrate the leadership of the Communist party, as did Judas-Trotsky or Bronstein (Trotsky's original Jewish name), one of the typical agents of Zionism, internationalism, provocateur No. 1."

A Moscow exhibition by Picasso, the French painter, was described as "pornographic."

Shevtsov, up to now an obscure writer, lashed out at poets Yevgeny Yevtushenko and his former wife, Bella Akhmadullina; at realist painter Ilya Glazunov, sculptor Ernest Niezvestny and several abstract painters. The author reversed the official Soviet view that Zionists are "stooges of American imperialism" and said "On the contrary, American imperialism constitutes the military and economic base of Zionism and serves the goals of Zionism."

Legislation involving the well drilling industry will be discussed during a series of meetings scheduled by the Idaho Department of Reclamation throughout Idaho.

A meeting will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Idaho Power Co. meeting room for the Magic Valley area.

Loy Johnson, well construction supervisor for the Reclamation Department said there were 1,222 wells drilled in 1969 and 80 percent of these were for domestic use. Another 15 per cent were for irrigation and the remaining 5 per cent for stock, industrial or other uses.

Because of the increasing number of wells being drilled throughout the state more consideration is being given to proper construction to prevent contamination and wasting of the state's ground water resource.

Specific matters to be discussed in the meetings include House Bill 551 involving the licensing of all well drillers and construction of domestic and drainage wells, and the introduction of "Notice of beginning of well construction" cards. All well drillers are urged to attend the meeting in their areas. Other meetings are scheduled March 24 in Coeur d'Alene; March 25, Lewiston; March 27 in Pocatello, and a meeting in the Boise area was held Monday.

Breakin Loot Hits At $600

About $600 worth of items have been reported stolen in a break-in at a Twin Falls residence, according to city police.

Officers said the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keener, 640 Sunrise Blvd. N., was entered between 8 p.m. Saturday and 1 a.m. Sunday.

A lock on a gate was broken, allowing entry to the property. A lock on a sliding glass door into the house also was broken, officers said. Asuede coat with a milk collar and two rolls of change were taken from the house. A television, adding machine and camera were taken from an office in the garage and a power saw was taken from a tool room in the garage.

Violation

A Twin Falls man, 18-year-old James Hawes, has been arrested by Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers and charged with a violation of the county's refuse ordinance.

He is in custody at the county jail in lieu of posting $300 bond. He is charged with dumping his 1956 Ford over the Washington Street North viewpoint into the Snake River Canyon Tuesday night. The car was set afire before it was pushed over the rim, officers said.

He was taken into custody about 7:45 p.m. Friday.

Delivery Route Hearing Is Set

A Public Utilities Commission hearing has been scheduled for April 13 at 1 p.m. in the Industrial Administration Building, 317 Main St., Boise, on an application for transfer of the PUC permit of William Nungesser, trustee for Ruby Louise Matson to Donald K. Leedom.

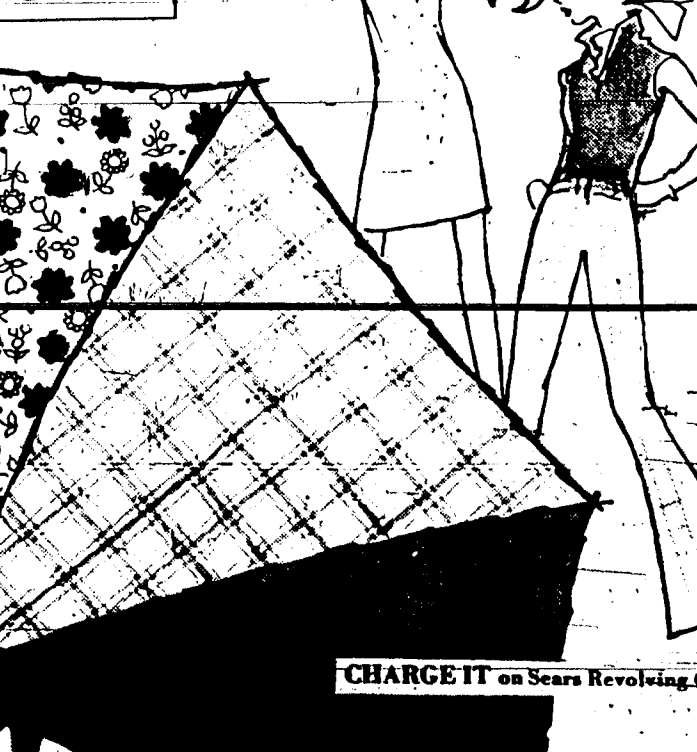

The permit involves the operation of Larry's Delivery service. The delivery service carries small parcels under 100 lbs., on a route over state and federal highways in the Magic Valley between Twin Falls and some dozen surrounding communities.

Lose 10 lbs. in 10 days on Grapefruit Diet

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (Special) — This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Literally thousands upon thousands of copies have been passed hand to hand in factories, schools and offices throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Word of its success has spread like wildfire. Because this is the diet that really works. We have testimonials in our files reporting on the success of this diet. If you follow it exactly, you should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. There will be no weight loss in the first four days. But you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter you will lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1 1/2 pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight.

Best of all, there will be no hunger pangs. Now revised and enlarged, this new diet plan lets you stuff your face with foods that were formerly "forbidden," such as big steaks trimmed with fat; roast or fried chicken, rich gravies, mayonnaise, lobster, swimming pool, butter, bacon, fats, sausages and scrambled eggs. You can eat until you are full, until you cannot possibly eat any more. And still lose 10 pounds in the first ten days plus 1 1/2 pounds every two days thereafter until your weight is down to normal. The secret behind this new "quick weight loss" diet is simple. Fat does not form fat. And the grapefruit juice in this new diet acts as a catalyst (the "trigger") to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted food listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. When the fat and blood are gone you will cease to lose weight and your weight will remain constant. A copy of this new and startling successful diet plan can be obtained by sending $2 to GRAPEFRUIT DIET, Dept. —, 7046 Hollywood Blvd., Suite 802, Hollywood, Calif. 90028. Money-back guarantee. If after trying the diet plan you have not lost 7 pounds in the first seven days, and 1 1/2 pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Order now and we will rush your diet plan via first class mail. Decide now to regain the trim, attractive figure of your youth, while enjoying hearty breakfasts, lunches and dinners. (165-23)

Nation's Older People Ask For Break

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A vast group of disenfranchised people in the land are (1) frustrated by lack of communications with government, (2) angered by the apathetic cold shoulder of the population bulk and (3) increasingly prone to, somehow, strike back.

No, they're not the young kids. They're the old adults. Call them what you will. Senior Citizens. The Aged. Retirees. They make up 20 million people 65 years or older, they have problems that rival even the most deprived of minority groups, and they are beginning to realize that they have to shout if they are ever to be heard.

Says one of their representatives:

"Old people are becoming more and more militant because their problems are becoming more and more severe and because less and less effort is being made to find solutions. They have gotten a raw deal traditionally. Now they are at the end of patience. They are beginning to group together to demand justice from a position of numerical strength."

The speaker is William Hutton, executive director of the National Council of Senior Citizens—with 2.5 million members and 2,500 clubs, the largest and strongest of the nation's many older organizations.

Hutton doesn't imply that the aged of the nation are about to start tossing Molotov cocktails to protest their plight, but he does insist they are beginning to use muscle. And with good reason.

"You talk about poverty and starvation. Well, who is poor and who's starving? The old people, that's who. I travel around the country and I see them—shriveling up men and women, living with nothing, weak from malnutrition, waiting to die. Just one statistic tells their story: three out of every 10 older people in this nation live in poverty, and many of them became poor only when they became old."

Hutton, whose National Council was formed in 1961—with 41 senior citizens—believes the treatment of the old is shameful, particularly in four areas:

• Retirement income. Hutton says the average social security income for a single retiree is $108 a month. The average for a retired couple, $190 a month. Both fall woefully below the national poverty level guideline.

• Health care. Hutton says Medicare, blessing that it is to the aged, still only provides an average of 40 per cent of total health care. And money spent toward 100 per cent is food out of an older's mouth.

• Housing. Hutton says one-third of the dwellings for older people are in need of major repair. Uncounted others are being forced to move by ever-increasing rents and property taxation.

• Meaningful retirement. Hutton says there is a small pilot program now which employs oldersters in 20 cities as part-time community social workers. "Mostly, however, the nation is resigned to letting its aged waste idly to the grave."

Deploable as conditions are, Hutton says some light is beginning to shine. A new bill in Congress would increase minimal social security benefits by 50 per cent over four years, lessen the financial burden of Medicare, and make it easier for a retiree to earn outside money, without being penalized with an equal reduction in social security benefits.

Officials say there is a reasonable chance some of the bill might make it. Oldersters feel Congress (which is 65 itself) is beginning to soften—and the nation is beginning to shame.

But, says Hutton, one bill

Hard Core Jobless Unemployed Again

DETROIT (UPI)—John Marshall is one of the invisible men again.

He spends a lot of time at home and a lot of time pounding the streets, filling out applications, looking for a job. No one pays much attention to him.

But there was a brief period in John Marshall's life when he—and thousands like him—burst into the light of publicity. That was the time in April, 1968, when, with the encouragement of the federal government, the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) was formed to provide jobs and hope for those who had neither—the hard core unemployed.

Most of the hard core unemployed were Negroes like Marshall. The racial riots that swept the cities in 1967 prompted government and business to open up a program aimed at one of the roots of black dissatisfaction—providing steady work and its attendant dignity to those who had been brushed aside as unemployable.

Auto Industry in Front
The auto industry enthusiastically strode to the front of that widely publicized movement.

John Marshall strode with it. For five years or so, he had been invisible. He had worked at odd jobs, in scrap yards, "just doing anything that came to hand."

Marshall went to Chrysler Corp. in January, 1969, and was accepted for the company's hard core training program, carried out under contract with the federal government. For seven weeks, Marshall was paid $2 an hour while he learned the job on the dummy assembly lines in a renovated warehouse. The government paid Chrysler about $2,800 to train him.

On his 53rd birthday—March 3, 1969—he reported for work at Chrysler's Lynch Road assembly plant. For nine months—except for a few brief layoffs—Marshall welded parts onto auto frames.

Begin Laying Off
Then the money market tightened and auto sales slipped. Chrysler, General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. began laying off workers.

High among the first to go were the men most recently hired—John Marshall and the other "hard core."

Since the NAB program started, the big three have hired 76,000 persons they say were among the hard core. Since the layoffs began, 9,600 have found themselves out of work again.

Marshall says he bears no grudges for being laid off. He accepts it as a part of the life he had grown used to.

But in a vague way, "I kind of feel it's the administration to blame," he says. "That's the way I feel. If it wasn't for that, I'd still be working."

Makes It Worse
"Something had to be done, but I believe maybe it could have been done in a different way. Control prices, maybe stop prices from going up."

"You don't have to get all the poor people laid off and make it worse than it is, seems to me. But that's the way it is."

"The people put him (Nixon) in there."

Chrysler was given the names of five persons recently laid off but said it could not check to see if they had been hired under the hard core program unless it had Social Security numbers. When those were provided, Chrysler said none were hard core men.

Backstairs At White House: Nixon Administration Has 3 Folk Figures

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

Backstairs at the White House
The Nixon Administration, of course, never planned it this way, but events and personality have created three genuine folk figures, if not heroes, within the frequently starchy precincts of Republican rule.

They are Dr. Daniel P. Moynihan, Mrs. Martha Mitchell and the super-star, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Moynihan is one of the counselors to the President. He appears to be in something of a continuing stew because his colorful, skillfully worded memoranda to Nixon frequently are short-circuited into the hands of reporters.

Mrs. Mitchell, wife of Attorney General John P. Mitchell, is a magnet wherever she goes because of her sparkling talent for describing dissent and demonstration in terms that conjure up shades of violent revolution. She is one of this town's most sought-after social figures because of the forceful manner in which she calls a shade a shade.

And Agnew is a class apart, speaking several times a week and seeming to top himself repeatedly in thundering denunciation of the intellectual-hippie-a naïf racist-commentator-picket sort of person. In his own mind, Agnew is much too smart to lump all grouches under one black banner. When faced with an oratorical assignment, however, the vice president has an enormous tar bucket with brush to match. He paints in broad strokes.

The common denominator possibly linking Moynihan, Mrs. Mitchell and the vice president might be a studied pattern of blunt rhetoric. Obviously there is no coordination of their statements, but it is interesting to see how often Moynihan, the liberal ends up on the same side of rhetoric road with two avowed tell-it-like-it-is conservatives such as the vice president and the attorney general's wife.

New Frontiersmen and Camelot people from the early sixties would shudder at the mere thought, but there is an interesting parallel to be drawn between the attention-grabbing attitude of Dr. Moynihan, Mrs. Mitchell and Agnew, and what once was thought to be distinctively Kennedy.

When John F. Kennedy was president—and his brother, Robert, was attorney general, it was said with some foundation that the country consisted of "them and us." The Kennedy people could not conceive of middle ground or neutrality. One was either for or against them.

This same attitude seems to come through in increasingly colorful statements of at least three glamour figures of the Nixon Administration.

The headline people of this administration are the hard-liners. If a bizarre collection of long-haired and bearded persons disrupts law, order and stability of a city or community, the hard line is that such people are irresponsible pests, bent on tearing down the establishment and thus posing a serious threat to national welfare.

Inside the administration and somewhat surprisingly, inside the Democratic party, there is no question that such tough talk is being warmly received on many levels of the American population. Meanwhile, both political camps are watching for a break-point at which a spectator sport becomes a participant activity. The signal could come in the fall congressional elections.

Market Drain

Denver Post
The lagging stock market is one force, an uncomfortable one for many investors, in the struggle against inflation. Millions of consumers, most of them in the middle and upper income brackets, have less ready cash to spend as a result of the low state of the market.

Illustrative is the announcement by the Ford Foundation that its assets declined 20 per cent in fiscal 1969, largely because of the downturn in the market. The foundation's gross income fell off from $155 million to $149.8 million.

Directors were forced to dip into capital to meet commitments, up to $219.3 million in 1969 from $183 million in 1968.

The bear market of calendar year 1969 will also certainly be reflected in revenues from income taxes due next month. Income tax receipts estimates of more than a year ago could not have fully anticipated losses in stock investments. However, governments, including Oregon's, do not have a store of capital on which to draw in lean years as do the foundations and some individuals.

The Approach

St. Louis Post-Dispatch
With many a step forward, backward and sideways, West and East Germany are approaching a summit meeting. Low-level officials of the two Germanys have been conferring on details of the proposed talks between Chancellor Willy Brandt and Premier Willi Stoph, even to the way Mr. Brandt will travel to East Berlin across the 20-year-old dividing line.

The curbstone opinion is that the conference will take place later this month, as planned, and we hope this proves to be the case. Some sort of accommodation with East Germany has been a major objective of Mr. Brandt. He proposed it in his first policy statement as Chancellor last October and brought it up again in a major speech in January. Presumably East Germany's Communist leader, Walter Ulbricht, was urged to respond favorably by the Soviet Union, which has its own reasons for wanting to improve relations with West Germany.

Mr. Brandt conceded two months ago that "unfortunately there can be no thought of an early fundamental change" in the German division. But Mr. Brandt correctly believes that the remote chance of basic change should not discourage West Germany from seeking "regular neighborly relations" with the other Germany.

It probably will be up to the East Germans to set the tone of the conference. Shortly before Christmas Mr. Ulbricht sent Mr. Brandt a "draft treaty" on the establishment of equal relations between the two Germanys, and if East Germany insists on discussing nothing but this proposition the talks are likely to founder. Mr. Brandt thinks an agreement to be the final outcome, not the starting point.

Mr. Brandt is correct in his opinion that, for the present at least, the relationship between East and West Germany must be of "a special nature." He seeks reconciliation rather than reunification, though it seems to us that reunification is desirable and inevitable eventually. The division of Germany represents the East and West split generally, and as long as it exists it poses a danger to peace.

Lack Of Candor

New York Times
Perhaps the most damning statement against G. Harrold Carswell's nomination for the Supreme Court comes from four distinguished New York lawyers who do not believe Judge Carswell has "the legal or mental qualifications essential for service on the Supreme Court or any high court in the land, including the one where he now sits."

This statement is by Bruce Bromley, former New York appeals court judge, Francis T. P. Plimpton, president of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, and two former association presidents, Samuel I. Rosenman and Bethuel M. Webster. Each has a far more distinguished legal reputation than Judge Carswell.

They are "most deeply concerned" about Judge Carswell's connections in 1956 with the incorporation of a private golf club in Tallahassee, Florida, where he was then the United States Attorney. The city's own golf course, built with a WPA grant of public funds, was leased to this private club for 99 years at one dollar a year.

The purpose of this transaction clearly was to avoid the results of any future suit — five of which were already before Florida courts — forcing desegregation of the city's public golf course. The private course would be segregated. United States Attorney Carswell became an incorporator and director of the segregated private club with a subscription of $100.

In testimony before a Senate committee, Judge Carswell said that despite his official position, and despite his knowledge of suits under way to compel equal treatment of blacks and whites at public golf courses, he did not know that the purpose of establishing the private club was to avoid the results of such suits and, in effect, to circumvent the Constitution which he was sworn to uphold.

In fact, Judge Carswell testified that he thought the papers he signed and his $100 subscription were to "fix up" the old club house — and that he at no time discussed with anyone the idea that the endeavor was discriminatory. "It was never mentioned to me," he insisted. "I didn't have it in my mind."

But was the objective of racial discrimination so mysteriously hidden from public view in Tallahassee? Not at all. Testimony and affidavits before the Senate committee show that this was common knowledge, being hidden, apparently, only from Judge Carswell. The wife of the chairman of Florida's oldest bank, a white woman who refused to join the new club, testified in an affidavit:

"I would have been surprised if there was any knowledgeable member of the community who was unaware of the racial aspect of the golf course transaction."

In substance, it is immensely difficult to believe that the principal federal prosecutor in the area — the man specifically charged with enforcing such constitutional matters as equal rights — could be so totally ignorant of a patent effort to evade them. Consequently the four New York lawyers charge Judge Carswell with "lack of candor" and say further that "his explanation, if true, shows him to be lacking the intelligence of a reasonable man and to be utterly callous to the implications of the scheme to which he was lending himself."

Lack of candor is enough to raise the most serious doubts about any Supreme Court nominee. When it concerns such constitutional issues it should lead to rejection of the appointment.

WASHINGTON — As a red-blooded American, I am disturbed by revelations of heavy-handed hanky-panky by big-time gamblers involving professional sports events, and the suggestion that some of our sweaty athletes may be involved therein.

I do not like Atty. Gen. John Mitchell showing an official interest in our various gymkhana. I desire that Denny McLain, the pitcher, occupy himself with strikeouts rather than writs of habeas corpus. It all smacks of the possibility that Stover of Yale was not averse to shaving points against perfidious Harvard.

Yet I do not intend to go into a winsome decline. This is, after all, a wicked world. Big money is involved, and where there is big money some of us discover a streak of larceny in our hearts, or at least a tendency to overlook the finer points of ethics. Even the man who brings an icy rectitude to his other pursuits is not too fastidious about how his team wins so long as there is a proper return for his $2 bet. After all, J. Edgar Hoover plays the horses, a recreation not usually placed on a moral par with psalm singing. Moreover, things could be worse. Corruption may spring up here and there on the American sports scene but it is not a way of life, yet. There is general indignation when it is exposed. In too many other parts of the world, on the other hand, the crooked contest is taken for granted.

For a case in point, memory harks back to a steamy afternoon at Bangkok's Royal Sports Club racetrack. The seventh race was a prime example of how far America's sports world has to go to approach the blatancy, the candid scurrilousness of the Mysterious East.

Perusing the soothsaying of the handicapper for the Bangkok World, I was convinced that a horse named Blue Heaven was a live one. "Very fast and in fine condition," deplored Mr. Waytoong, "should like the distance."

In a profession that shuns the unequivocal, Mr. Waytoong's comment had the ring of a man who had been let in on a sure thing. Swiftly calculating the exchange rate, I repaired to the nearest betting window and put 100 bahts ($5) on Blue Heaven's nose.

Blue Heaven, ridden by one Boon Choo, had an air of confidence. Also, he was carrying only six stone, ten pounds, whereas both favorites were totting seven stone. As everybody knows, a stone is 14 pounds. The race was at seven furlongs, and Blue Heaven came out of the gate as if he'd read Mr. Waytoong. After an eighth of a mile, he was four lengths in front. At the far turn, he increased his lead to six lengths, and I wondered where the cashiers' windows were located.

Into the stretch went Blue Heaven, avoiding the other horses like they were equine Typhoid Marys. And then it happened. Boon Choo suddenly seemed lonesome. He half stood in the stirrups and looked back at the other horses. Blue Heaven shortened his stride.

Both Boon Choo and Blue Heaven seemed to be waiting for somebody. But the other horses seemed loath to catch up. They dawdled, their strides perfunctory. At this, Boon Choo apparently lost patience with the sluggards. He stood up straight in the saddle and Blue Heaven's pace was reduced to a lazy jog.

With seeming reluctance, a horse named Por Soo caught up with Blue Heaven and passed him. So did four other goats. Por Soo ambled under the wire like he'd suddenly come down with the gout to win and pay 3 to 10. Blue Heaven finished 11th in a field of 13.

I whirled on the Englishman at my side. "Did you see that?" I cried. "That jock on Blue Heaven threw it!"

John Bull eyed me coldly. "See what?" he asked. "I had Por Soo."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Baby Surgery

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, six months old, is scheduled for surgery for a "thyroglossal duct cyst." The surgeon said it should be removed before the age of one year.

He also says it's rather common. I never heard of it before. What causes this type of cyst? What happens if it is not removed?

It doesn't seem to bother my son now, and I am hesitant because surgery at so young an age seems so risky. — Mrs. A.J.

This is a quirk of development rather than a birth defect.

In the embryonic stage of a baby's development, there is a duct (the thyroglossal) above the thyroid gland. Ordinarily this duct closes off and is gone by the time of birth.

If the duct does not disappear, secretions in it form a cyst such as your son has.

If it is not removed, it can enlarge and become a noticeable lump in the neck. Pressure in the cyst may force an opening to the surface, creating what is known as a draining fistula. Such drainage is, of course, a nuisance, and furthermore it presents the continuing risk of infection.

Such a duct can be removed readily and safely, because the surrounding tissues are fully developed by the time of birth.

I can understand your worry over an operation on a baby so young, but actually you are subjecting yourself to needless worry. The condition is not uncommon; the method of removal has been worked out thoroughly; it is not a risky procedure.

Incidentally, pediatric surgery has been so skillfully developed that, when necessary, operations are now performed on babies only a day or two old. Of course, if it is possible and safe to wait, a baby is stronger and larger after a year of growth.

Let your surgeon specify the ideal time for the surgery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was interested in your article on bee stings and I must say you know your subject. But there's one thing you missed. Honey bees also sting when they have baby bees, and without warning.

I have three hives of uninvited bees between the walls of, and under, my house. We get along fine except when the baby bees hatch, and for a few days thereafter. I usually get stung, never any other time.

One more bit for your file. When "buzzed," I blow on the bee and he usually (not always) goes away. It's as though he's saying, "Are you friend or foe?" and that small jet of air seems to satisfy him — unless you're too near his home and he's worried. I've been run off a few times by a single bee who seemed to be the self-appointed guardian of the nest. — L.H.

Many thanks for the tips.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that mosquitoes transmit cancer? — D.H.M.

Malaria, yellow fever, and such diseases, yes; cancer, no.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what types of trouble to look for send for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You And Your Gall Bladder." Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH

Congress In No Hurry

WASHINGTON — Prospects are dim and they appear to be getting dimmer, for President Nixon's proposal aimed at curbing national emergency strikes in the transportation industry.

Oddly, the prospects for the President's long-term bill do not appear to have been enhanced, for the time being at least, by the emergence of a threatened national emergency strike against the nation's railroads. In the past, such a strike threat has often served to highlight the fact that the federal government is ill-equipped to deal with strikes which imperil the nation's health and safety. This time however, the threatened strike has highlighted the fact that Congress does not want to legislate a solution — impose final settlement terms — on a union work force.

To meet the threat of a railroad strike by the four shopcraft unions, Mr. Nixon asked Congress to impose, as a binding settlement of the current dispute, a negotiated agreement which "was acceptable to three of the unions last December. It had been vetoed by a vote of the fourth union — the Sheet Metal Workers International Assn."

Congress rejected the President's formula. Instead the House and Senate rushed through a moratorium bill which will put a 32-day "freeze" on the dispute in the hope (discounted by the unions and the railroads) that additional time will open the way for a voluntary strike settlement.

The month-long "freeze" was a compromise between House sentiment for a 60-day moratorium and support in the Senate for a 15-day pause. The odd, 37-day, duration will put the issue back in the lap of Congress right after Senate and House have completed their Easter recesses, if no settlement has been reached by that time.

If Congress does face the issue again, it may have to take a closer look at the President's proposal for imposing the settlement reached by negotiators late last year. Even if Congress has to choke down the President's short-term medicine, however, that will not make the long-term bill more palatable.

The long-term, emergency strike, proposal submitted by the President late last month would provide three weapons against a threatened transportation strike. Two of them have not been particularly controversial, so far.

In the first place, the President would have the option of applying an extended, 110-day cooling off period to such a dispute under the Taft-Hartley Act which does not now apply to most transportation controversies. The President could also require partial operation of the idled facilities in the national interest.

The third presidential option raises the same question as the recent settlement bill for the railroads. It would let a special, neutral, "final offer selector group" impose, as a binding no-strike settlement, one of the final offers proposed in free negotiating by management or by the unions.

In both instances, union spokesmen have sharply criticized the President's initiatives. In both, they contend that the imposition of settlement terms by Congress, or by a panel created by Congress amounts to compulsory arbitration in a thin legislative disguise.

"Anti-democratic" is the term used by AFL-CIO President George Meany to describe the President's short-term bill for a railroad settlement. Clearly, the unions are not about to relax their stand against compulsion as an end point for supposedly free collective bargaining.

In an election year, opposition to the President's strike emergency bill by AFL-CIO and other unions could be an important factor. Labor's political affiliates have never been slow to condition financial support for lawmakers on the lawmakers' support, or opposition, in labor's legislative battles.

PAUL HARVEY

Lowering Voices

Conservatives and liberals have this in common: both are usually utterly impractical.

We must accept as a basic premise in human relations the need of individuals — and groups of individuals — for recognition.

The conservative has too little patience with this need; the liberal is overconcerned with it. Conservatives are characteristically more farsighted. They see and recognize and accept such fundamental success formulae as "work hard," "pay your bills," "obey the law."

Conservatives know that, in the long view, the laws of Moses provide the best blueprint for orderly existence.

But when confronted by immediate, right-now problems deriving from the individual need for an individual identity, the conservative gets disturbed, flustered, frightened.

The conservative thinks he's an "individualist," but whenever individuals get out of line, fail to march in step the conservative's response is likely to contradict his own philosophy of individual freedom: "Throw the dissident in jail!" "Cut that boy's hair!" "Work or starve!"

The conservative foresees the outcome of a lawless, loafing society but his solutions are unworkable because he ignores emotional considerations.

The liberal, on the other hand, is likely to ignore the long-term sequence of events and concentrate on the present problem.

"Feed the hungry" "Yield to the demands of the dissidents," "Pay the unemployed" "Let the marchers march," "Restrain police."

Of course, wherever liberalism allows each individual to do his own uninhibited thing, murders, arson and larceny merge inevitably into anarchy and the landscape is littered with dead Sharon Tates.

In the extremes of right and left, similar excesses are brought into even sharper focus.

The most violent radicals are those "out of power."

During new Deal and Fair Deal days of comparatively liberal national administrations, vehemence and violence came from the right: the Ku Klux Klan, the Minutemen.

Today, with a more moderate Administration in Washington, the out-of-power left has spawned such hate-and-hurt outfits as the Panthers, the SDS Weathermen.

Between the extremes of right and left is a middle ground more responsible than either. President Nixon is making an earnest effort to represent that so-called Silent Majority.

JEROME—Leslie Sullivan, 17, a junior at Jerome High School, is the only Senior Girl Scout in this area.

Leslie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sullivan, became a Senior Scout two years ago. She started scouting in 1964 in a Junior Troop led by Dolores Silvers, and in her third year as a Cadette her troop was disbanded. She has continued in scouting by helping with the Day Camp program.

When she became a Senior Scout there was no active troop. She was asked to be the assistant leader of Junior troop 41, and in this way she could still participate in scout activities.

Leslie applied for a Senior Scouting opportunity through Silver Sage Girl Scout Council in March, 1969. She was chosen one of six girls from Idaho and Eastern Oregon to attend the Senior Opportunity (PAVE), a Program of Arts for Vocation and Enjoyment, sponsored by the Girl Scout Council of Orange County in Santa Ana, Calif. Girls will experience dormitory living at Chapman College in Orange County along with the opportunity to see the surrounding area.

She will also have the chance to see the Laguna Beach Pageant of the Masters and other places of interest in the field of arts.

To be able to attend Leslie must raise $135 and the cost of her transportation.

To help with her expenses she has received a grant from the Silver Sage Council for $25. Her first installment was paid by the

Weight Loss.

Article Read

AT TOPS Meet

HANSEN—Mrs. Ralph Simmons read an article, "Spring Is Here," from the newspaper, stressing that weight loss is one of the ways to be ready for a nice looking appearance at springtime, at the Slim and Trim TOPS Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith.

Mrs. Lynn Kraus, a new member, was the best loser and queen for the week.

As penalties for gainers, besides the pig's march, was a five minute production on a slim and trim line. An Easter parade of hats, fashioned from any articles found in the kitchen, was planned and held. Last week's gainers had to prepare various items for this week's demonstration. Those who did not complete the week's tasks will be checked on at next week's meeting.

Mrs. Simmons stressed that registration for attending State Recognition Day must be in by March 30. Those planning to attend should have their money available at the next meeting.

Mrs. James Wright is chapter queen and will attend the meetings which are being held April 24 and 25 at Idaho Falls.

It was noted election of officers will be held next week.

Mrs. Bob Niven modeled a dress made from material purchased with her TOPS gift money.

Mrs. Bryan Harris Jr. was program chairman. She presented "Design, Color and Style-Versus Fashion" and gave charts on weights and sizes according to bone structure.

At last week's meeting Bonnie Ryan introduced girls from Parker's in Twin Falls, who demonstrated wigs.

Dinner Held

Members of the Union-Pacific Boosters Club made plans for a potluck dinner and card party when they met recently at the home of Mrs. LaVonne Patterson.

The social is slated for 7 p.m. April 11 at the home of Mrs. H. R. Allred.

New yearbooks were distributed and the thought for the day was given by Mrs. Vinnie Boatright. Mrs. Kay Bartlett was a guest and received the club favor.

Games were played and refreshments served by the hostess.

Zodiac Topic Given At Meet

Short paragraphs on the zodiac were given by members of the Scribblers Club during a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Uarda King.

It was noted that as long ago as 3000 B.C. Egyptians were studying the pseudo science of astrology and its effects on human affairs. Today, astrology is becoming quite popular everywhere.

Mrs. Goldie Stansell presented the program, "The Ides of March." Mrs. Noma Walker read a "Writer's Digest" article on short-story writing. Manuscripts were read by each member on the subject, "More Light for Living."

Program Slated By Specialist

GLENNIS FERRY — "Sewing and Caring for the New Fabrics" is a program to be presented by Mary Lee Wood, extension clothing specialist, March 25. Elmore county women are invited to the Koffee Kup Cafe, Hammett, at 10 a.m. to the special meeting which will end at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Wood will discuss the new fabrics on the market this spring, what to look for when buying them, as well as how to sew and care for them. She will give some of the basic principles of sewing on knits, says Marilyn E. Jordan, Elmore County extension home economics agent.

Use Colors Effectively This Season

JEROME — Effective use of colors you like can be a joy to you and those who look at you. This is the season you can dress to be different, says Mary Wood, clothing specialist of the University of Idaho Extension Service.

"You are free to be your own artist in selecting and wearing colors to produce an outfit that you enjoy. Some traditional limitations on color are going by the wayside. You react to color as an individual. This is the time to make the most of your freedom."

Choices are almost endless, Mrs. Wood reports. "If a shade of red doesn't please you, search for others and select the very one that gives you a lift. If yellow-green seems objectionable, go ahead and choose a blue-green. You will still be in fashion."

Newlyweds Will Reside In Pocatello

BLISS—Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nelson Jr. are residing in Pocatello where he is continuing his studies at the Idaho State University.

Mrs. Nelson is the former Susan Grubbs, Pocatello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grubbs, Bliss. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nelson Sr., Twin Falls, formerly of Dietrich.

The Nelson home was the scene for the marriage performed by Rev. Leslie Brown, minister of the First Christian Church, Twin Falls. The nuptial vows were exchanged before the fireplace setting flanked by beauty baskets of white pompon chrysanthemums and baby chrysanthemums tied with large blue bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the wedding gown worn by her mother on her wedding day. The gown was fashioned of white bridal satin, featuring a long chapel train, fitted bodice with a rounded yoke of tulle accented with a satin drape over a lace ruffle. The bodice dipped to a deep "V" at the front waist. The lily-point sleeves closed with tiny buttons at the wrist.

The tiara of seed pearls which held her veil of silk bridal illusion belonged to the bridegroom's mother. She carried a nosegay bouquet of a single white pompon chrysanthemum surrounded by blue feathered carnations, tied with white satin ribbon streamers.

Her only jewelry was a pendant necklace belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Iram Sheldon, Coalinga, Calif., formerly of Buhl.

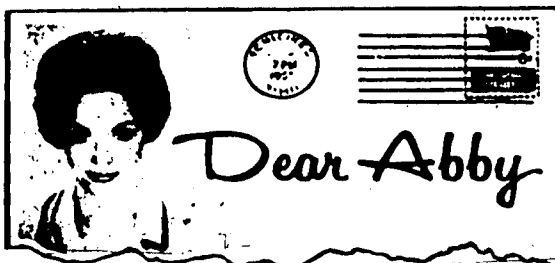

The bride's sister, Donna Grubbs, Bliss, was maid of honor. Mike Nelson, Twin Falls, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A dinner was held after the wedding ceremony for the wedding guests, all close relatives of the newly married couple.

A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table, which was covered with lace over blue. Three round cakes formed the bottom tier. The cake, prepared by the bridegroom's mother, was decorated with blue roses, lattice hearts and swans and was topped with the traditional bride and bridegroom. Blue tapers in crystal holders flanked the cake and carried out the bride's colors.

A reception was held in their honor at the Dietrich Grange Hall, hosted by the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Willard Nelson, Dietrich, and an open house by Mrs. JoAnn Grubbs, Twin Falls, aunt of the bride.

SPEAKER NOTED
Members of the Twin Falls Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a 1 p.m. luncheon in the Rogerson Hotel-Colonial Room. Mrs. George Detweiler read the president general's message.

DEAR ABBY: The women in our small club were having a frank discussion about husbands stepping out, and I made the statement that I could forgive my husband if I caught him stepping out on me (I mean a one-night stand, not a serious affair of any duration), but I wouldn't put up with his spending money on another woman when there were things his family needed.

They all thought I was some kind of nut. Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, but as long as I get my share of affection at home, I don't see why I should throw him out if he has a little extra fun at no expense to his family. But with money, it's a different story. Just let him deprive me or the children of anything money can buy because he spent it on another woman, and I'd lock him out. How do you feel about this, Abby?

MARGE:
DEAR MARGE: For the first 50 years I'd demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have some close friends. We have agreed to be the guardians for their children in case something happens to them, and they shall do the same for ours.

These people are dedicated to a religious movement in which teams of lay people spend the week-end in a church, leading prayer groups and church services.

We have a lot of respect and admiration for their devotion to their religion, but do not wish to participate.

So far, we have always been able to come up with a valid excuse for not accepting their invitations to go to these church meetings, but we fear the day when we've run out of excuses, and there will be a showdown.

How can we get out of going and still maintain our friendship with these people?

KENTUCKIANS

DEAR KENTUCKIANS: Don't wait for a showdown. Tell your friends that you do not care to participate in their religious activities. If you are sufficiently "close" for a reciprocal guardianship agreement, it seems to me you should be able to speak candidly without fear of damaging your friendship.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, two other girls and I were caught taking a few cheap items from the cosmetic counter of a department store. They took us to the manager's office and we had to give them our names and addresses. We were told that they were going to call our parents, but fortunately, they never did.

Of course we gave back everything we had taken, and we promised that we would never set foot in that store again, and I know, I never did. We also promised we'd never steal another thing. I kept that promise.

Now I am 22 years old and in filling out a job application, I understand the question "Have you ever been arrested?" is asked. If I come across it, how should I answer?

SANTA ANA
DEAR SANTA ANA: Say NO. You were only caught and warned. That is not the same as being "arrested."

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE FOURTH ESTATERS IN JOHNSTOWN, PA.: Okay, you win. B. Y. O. B. (bring your own bottle) parties are in the same category as box socials, covered-dish suppers and the like to a bunch of hard-drinking folks. Get the noodle out, soak it in Scotch and sock it to me!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles Cal. 90069.

Tax Man's Problem: The Cheating Minority

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Come clean now.

You're filling out income tax forms for 1969. You earned a flat $8,000 and had normal deduction allowances. But there is a small rub. You also had some great hands at your regular Saturday evening poker parties. And, in fact, you earned an extra $500 from them over the year.

So, question: (a) Do you lawfully list the $500 and pay taxes on it, or (b) do you ignore the money and figure no one in government will ever know?

If your answer is (a), you fall into the category the Internal Revenue Service calls "the average taxpayer." You are part of the overwhelming number of citizens who are honest and above-board.

However, if your answer is (b), you're not exactly alone either. Nobody knows how many "average" people make small-time manipulations on tax returns. Most of the thousands of persons convicted each year of criminal tax fraud are "large-money operators." But the probability is the "average" taxpayer is not so honest as the IRS has traditionally maintained.

In fact, the probability is the IRS doesn't really believe the "average taxpayer" bit either. A number of working agents hold conflicting private views.

Says one IRS investigator in the national headquarters:

"There is no way of telling how many average people cheat on their returns. You can only guess on your experience. But, personally, I think a whole lot of them are doing it to some degree. And I don't know how true it is, but I've been told by some of our people here that all this (average taxpayer) cheating adds up to many billions of dollars every year."

Any student of human nature, certainly, might agree. The ways of manipulating figures on tax returns are many, the chances of being caught are few. And so, in the words of one long-time IRS man, "For every cheater we catch, thousands more get by free."

Not that it's all so easy for the cheaters. Hardly. IRS computers now scan the nation's 77 million annual returns with programmed memories that can spot many irregularities. Thousands of tax experts are stationed to determine if such irregularities are honest or deliberate errors. And some 1,900 IRS special investigators (of the Elliot Ness "Untouchables" ilk) are ready to investigate any indications of criminal tax fraud.

This network can grab the big and the small.

Last year, as an example, the IRS web investigated 117,000 allegations of tax fraud—and among many, many others uncovered a clergyman in Chicago who lied on his forms, a city attorney in New York State who was fined $10,000 for delinquency and an ex-IRS agent who falsely filed for $30,000 in refund claims.

There was also the housewife in California. She was nabbed for failing to file on her husband's income. Ever. She explained that she was going to file once, in 1953, but she forgot to mail the forms. So discouraged was she with this oversight, she just didn't bother with taxes again for the next 15 years.

But even though the IRS does often unmask the tax cheat, it is, in truth, seldom the "average taxpayer." Mostly, it's the big fellows—the Mafia enforcer who fails to report $350,000 income, the Army officer whose forms never mention the $60,000 he makes in Saigon's black market, the lumber company executive who diverts over $1 million from company to private funds.

Now and then, a federal agent will investigate a mechanic who paints houses on the side and doesn't report the earnings. But very, very seldom.

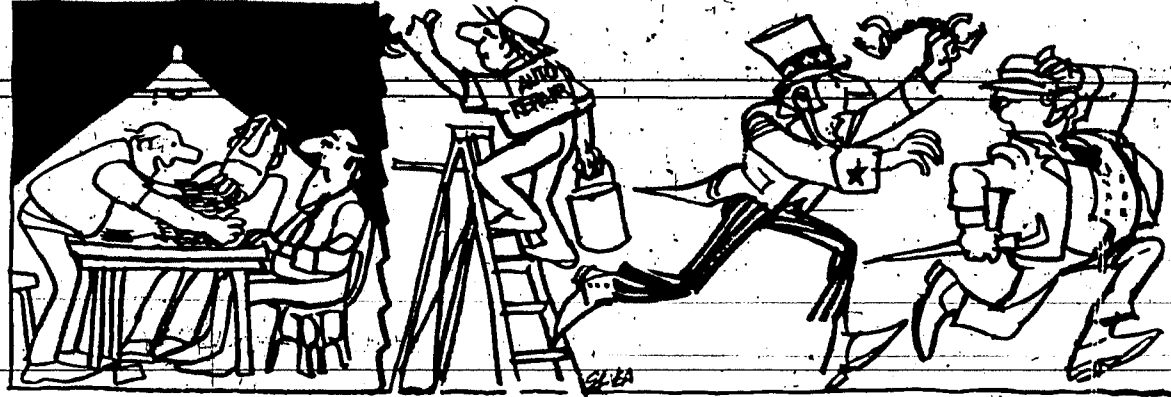

"We just don't have enough men to bother with the small stuff," says a top field agent. "We've got 1,900 in the investigation division, but only 1,600 are field agents. Twenty-two per cent of our energy is spent on racketeers; we are now having a big push in the area of corporations. There is endless paperwork and long hours involved. We can't spread out any thinner."

If the cheat number is large, it will probably continue to be so. The entire tax collection structure is built on the principle of voluntary self assessment. And besides, according to tax men, there just isn't any great clamor in the nation to crack down on small tax cheaters.

Sighs an IRS man: "You've got to remember that there is no stigma attached to tax evasion in this country. It's illegal, but people don't look on it as being like stealing or the like. Almost the opposite, in fact. I'll send a company vice-president to prison this year for tax fraud. Next year he'll get out, go back to his company—and be president, probably. There's just no stigma. People don't condemn tax cheating. I don't know why. Maybe the reason is because so many people are guilty themselves."

England's Envoy Is Frustration Expert

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—I speak as one of the world's leading authorities on international frustration.

I have been working in and for the United Nations for nearly 10 years. No one need tell me of the delays, the limitations, the timidities, the shortcomings of the nations. I know them very well. I live amongst them all day, and often part of the night.

In the new world of parliamentary diplomacy I can claim to have listened to as many depressing platitudes and read as many dreary documents as any other living man.

And yet, from the testimony of my own experience and my own conviction, I am bold enough to say these four things:

—First, the U.N. system created in San Francisco 25 years ago when the charter was signed has stood up well to the strains of 2½ decades of dispute and conflict.

—Second, as a forum for world opinion, as a center for international diplomacy, as a machine for international development, as an instrument for peace, the U.N. organization has become not only invaluable but indispensable.

—Third, the surprising thing is not how little has been done in a quarter of a century but how much; a start has been made in international understanding and international cooperation.

—Fourth, there is nothing wrong with the United Nations except its members.

As Adlai Stevenson used to say: "Do not mock the weakness of the United Nations lest you mock yourselves."

The instrument is keen and sharp: We, the members, can use the instrument to decisive effect whenever we can agree together.

East-West Talks Set In Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The long-awaited East-West ambassadorial talks on the future of divided Berlin will begin March 26 in the city's western sector, U.S. officials said Friday.

The talks will involve the ambassadors to Bonn of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

The western allies have no plans to broach the issue of the Berlin Wall erected by the East Germans, feeling this would be fruitless at a time when not even minor differences have been worked out.

After months of East-West negotiation, it was announced in February that the Big Four had agreed to open the Berlin talks. Announcement of the opening date came just a day after the landmark meeting between West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and his East German counterpart, Willi Stoph, at Erfurt, East Germany.

In the upcoming discussions, the Western powers are expected to seek improved communications between East and West Berlin, and freer Western access to the city, deep within East Germany.

T. F. Debaters Set For State Tourney

Four Twin Falls High School debaters will represent the school in the state debate tournament in Boise April 24—the first team from Twin Falls to reach state level in many years.

The team placed second in the district debate competition at Burley, and went on to capture third place in the regional contest at Minico on March 16-17.

The winning debaters are James Baugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baugh; Jim Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Flynn; Brian Katz, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ben Katz; and John Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kinney.

Also debating in the district competition were Vicki

Holloway, Carolyn Rhodes, Becky Wadsworth and Julia Westendorf.

Their teacher and debate coach is Mrs. Irene Link, who will accompany the team to the Boise competition.

Veterans Told To Check Insurance

BOISE — Veterans are being urged to look at their term life insurance policies when they are due for renewal this year, it was reported.

Lorin E. Kopan, director of the Boise VA Center, said veterans with five-year level premium term policies should check to determine if they should convert to a permanent policy plan.

He said in many cases conversion could save in premium costs, and he added term insurance has no cash or loan value.

All veterans seeking information should contact the VA office in Boise.

Senate Support For Arms Freeze Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A sweeping resolution giving advance Senate support for an immediate U.S.-Soviet freeze on nuclear arms deployment will be rushed to the Senate floor within the next three weeks, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said today.

Mansfield said he wanted action before the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) begin in Vienna April 16.

The resolution, branded by President Nixon as "irrelevant," cleared the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday. It urges Nixon propose "an immediate suspension by the United States and the U.S.S.R. of the further deployment of all offensive and defensive nuclear strategic weapons, subject to national verification or such other measures of observation and inspection as may be appropriate."

Gerard D. Smith, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, was expected to detail the administration's objections to the measure in a hearing before the Senate disarmament subcommittee today.

Nixon told a news conference Saturday he felt the resolution was an oversimplification of the most complex weapons control negotiations ever undertaken.

He noted the Soviet Union, rather than generalizing, has come up with a precise, weapon-by-weapon analysis of the arms race.

Whether the administration would choose to work for the measure's defeat, however, was uncertain. Some Republican backers, including Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., feel it will help Nixon to know the Senate will stand behind him if he has an opportunity to negotiate a freeze.

There is precedent for the action. The Senate passed a resolution urging a treaty to bar the spread of nuclear weapons prior to negotiations that led to the nuclear nonproliferation pact, now in effect.

14 Killed As Grenade Explodes In Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—A woman terrorist threw a grenade into a Buddhist pagoda outside Saigon Sunday night, killing 14 Vietnamese civilians and wounding 20 others, all women and children, military spokesmen said today.

Another terrorist grenade blew up in a shop near a U.S. military enlisted quarters in Saigon. One American soldier and one Vietnamese civilian were wounded.

Military spokesmen said the first grenade went off in a pagoda at Hoc Mon district town seven miles northwest of Saigon. Some of the wounded were carried to Saigon hospitals by helicopter.

The second was thrown into a shop near the American Austin bachelor enlisted men's quarters in Saigon. The terrorist escaped as did the one at Hoc Mon.

Guerrillas killed two South Vietnamese civilians and three government militiamen Sunday night in shelling Tri Ton district town with four rounds of 82mm mortar fire. The town is 110 miles west-southwest of Saigon. Eleven civilians were wounded.

Another guerrilla attack sent 10 rounds of 82mm mortar fire into a police station a half mile southwest of the provincial capital of Xuan Loc, 37 miles east-northeast of Saigon. One policeman and 12 jail inmates were wounded.

Battlefield communiques said U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troops guarding the Cambodian border killed 37 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese "in two engagements Sunday."

A helicopter gunship killed 30 guerrillas 76 miles northwest of Saigon and a mile from the Cambodian border. Troops of the 1st Cavalry Division a few hours earlier killed 17 guerrillas in a clash 93 miles northwest of Saigon and 15 miles from the border, military spokesmen said.

One American soldier was killed.

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers dropped 150 tons of bombs on what were described as guerrilla base camps, weapons positions and storage areas Sunday in the Seven Sisters Mountains 122 miles west-southwest of Saigon.

Deep Snow Plagues East Area

Up to four inches of slushy rain and snow greeted New Yorkers today as an out-of-season storm clung to the Eastern Seaboard.

Snow fell from Michigan to Ohio and New York to Pennsylvania, dispelling any rumors that spring is actually here. Boonville, N.Y., had five inches of wet, heavy snow Sunday night, and other areas reported up to five-inch accumulations.

Travelers warnings were posted for parts of Pennsylvania, New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine as a storm over the Atlantic hurled itself against the coast and inland.

Warm and dry conditions enveloped the Plains and the Far West. Some rain fell on Western Washington but most areas were dry and tranquil.

A high pressure system over the Gulf of Mexico kept skies clear in the South but temperatures dropped slightly from the Midwest to the Southeast as a cold front trailed from the Atlantic storm.

National temperature extremes Sunday ranged from six at Laramie, Wyo., and Alamosa, Colo., to 88 at South Miami, Fla.

The Almanac
By United Press International
Today is Monday, March 23, the 82nd day of 1970 with 283 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1786 Patrick Henry told the Virginia Convention, "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."

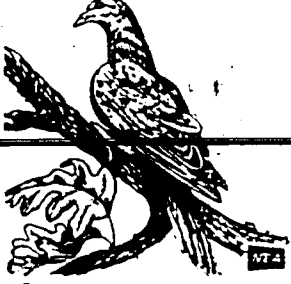

In 1933 the German Reichstag gave Adolf Hitler "blanket power" for the next four years.

In 1942 Japanese-Americans were moved from their Pacific Coast homes to relocation centers as a wartime precaution.

In 1966 a blizzard swept through the Midwest, killing 32 persons.

A thought for the day: Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "A friend is a person with whom I may be sincere. Before him, I may think aloud."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Passenger pigeons once were regarded as America's most numerous birds, flying in flocks estimated at between one and two billion. The World Almanac notes that the species became extinct in 1914, when the last specimen died at the Cincinnati Zoo. The passenger pigeon's swift decline is attributed to disease, destruction of its food supply and its ruthless, unrestricted slaughter by man.

More Fighting Flares In Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A bomb exploded in Belfast and fighting broke out between police and Roman Catholic youths in Londonderry today following a ceremony marking the disbandment of an all-Protestant B-special police force.

No serious injuries were reported and only one arrest was announced.

The 8,000-member B-special police long have been regarded by Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority as a symbol of suppression and brutality.

The volunteer group will be dissolved formally April 4.

The bomb that went off in Belfast early today blasted the corrugated iron window covers off a closed pub 20 yards from a British army post.

In Londonderry, British troops clashed with rival gangs of Catholic and Protestant youths late Sunday and early today. The troops used riot shields for protection against molotov cocktails, rocks and bottles. They herded the Catholics back into their Bogside housing district and kept the Protestants out of the area.

An estimated 200 teen-age youths sacked several shops as they fled from troops, police said.

Educators End Contract Is Boise Meeting Refused By Workers

BOISE (UPI)—The Delegates Assembly of the Idaho Education Association ended its two-day meeting here Saturday by voting support for current discussions between the Boise Education Association and the Boise School Trustees Association.

And, the assembly authorized a statewide censure sanction against the Boise trustees if the IEA finds the talks unproductive and if the Boise Education Association asks for the sanction.

A spokesman for the IEA said a "censure sanction" would tell the people throughout the state what the IEA thinks of conditions in the Boise Independent School District.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Striking ironworkers Sunday rejected a new contract offer by eight shops in Salt Lake City and Provo.

The strikers are members of Local 562, International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers. They walked off their jobs March 13 in a dispute over higher pay and increased fringe benefits.

Keith R. Pilling, local vice president, said the latest management offer was submitted in negotiations Friday and he did not know when further meetings would be held.

Hard Core Job Hopes Show Gain

DETROIT (UPI)—The automobile industry has been responsible for much of the success of the National Alliance of Businessmen in providing jobs and hope for the "hard core" unemployed.

Since the NAB program was launched in April, 1968, the "big three" automakers have hired 76,000 they say were among the hard core.

But with the recent tightening of the money market and subsequent drop in auto sales, 9,600 have found themselves out of work again because of layoffs.

"It's the story of their lives," says Ken Bannon, chairman of the United Auto Workers' Ford Department. "Once again they're destitute, once again they're without hope."

Bannon and UAW President Walter P. Reuther promise to make "a big issue" of security for the hard core workers when the union negotiates for a new contract with the big three this summer.

Bannon last year approached Ford with a proposal to let high seniority workers take layoffs instead of those most recently hired. But Malcolm Denise, Ford's vice president for labor relations, told him Ford had not found "a practical approach" to the "inverse seniority" plan.

The companies not only are laying off significant numbers of hard core workers, but are hiring fewer.

"Even if they're going back on the street, they're going back with skills they never had before," points out a Chrysler spokesman who sees a brighter side to the problem.

Tornadoes

No place is more favorable for tornado formation than the relatively flat region lying east of the Rockies in the United States. The zone of maximum occurrence is in the central plains region.

BEN J. WARD has been promoted to assistant to the district manager of American Oil Co. in Twin Falls, according to an announcement by H. G. Woodall, district manager. He has been with American Oil since 1954 and for the past three years has served as a traveling auditor for the firm. Mr. Ward and his wife, Alice, and three children, Karl, Lenn and Sue Ann, live at 1158 Locust St. N.

Expensive Tours

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says the nation's military services spent more than $697,000 last year flying 6,810 civilian business and community leaders on free guided tours.

Proxmire demanded an end to the practice. He said the Pentagon has been using taxpayers' money to "build up a group of influential citizens to back its huge budget and to lobby for its weapons systems."

COURT MEETS

Green Unit Wins Rifle Contest

HANSEN — The Green team, with nine members present, received a score of 415 points to win over the Red team, with eight members present, which shot a score of 342 points at the Modern Woodmen Rifle contest at the Woodman Hall.

Joe Hill was high individual man with a score of 56 points; Norville Reynolds, second, with a score of 50, and Dick Truscott and Clayton Guner tied for third place with scores each of 48 points.

Sharon Truscott was high for the women with a score of 52 points; Ruth Hill, second score, 48, and Lydia May Pyron, third, with a score of 46 points.

This was the end of the six months contest with the Red team winning with a total score of 2206 points. The Green team received a total score of 2,078. The Green team will host the winning Red teams members at a supper at the April meeting where individual high man and lady will be announced.

Jerome Names Census Chief

JEROME — Mrs. L. V. Ruebel, Jerome, has been appointed as crew leader for the 1970 census of population and housing in this area.

Mrs. Ruebel attended a two-day training session in Boise. She will supervise 15 to 20 enumerators. Her job will also include preparing and submitting reports and checking on field personnel to insure a complete and accurate count.

The nationwide census will begin April 1.

Education On Cancer Is Started

BURLEY — A Public Education Committee on Cancer has been organized in Cassia County.

Mrs. William Morgan is chairman of the group. Assisting her are Mrs. Mary Curli, principal at Southwest School; Paul Wood, manager for Del Monte; Mrs. Jay W. Young, a registered nurse; and Mrs. Gladys Esquibel, supervisor of the Opportunity Center which works mainly with Spanish American people.

The public education program will continue throughout the year, according to the officials. The committee have available films, pamphlets, and books on the types, causes and danger signals of cancer and the importance of early diagnosis to cure the disease. The material will be supplied to schools, churches, civic groups and others upon request.

The annual crusade will be held in April for the Cancer Society.

Glens Ferry Budget Is Lower Than 1969

GLENN'S FERRY — Glens Ferry's proposed budget is slightly lower than last year's, a decrease of .78 mills. The Glens Ferry City Council has set the budget hearing for 7:30 p.m. April 7 in the City Hall.

Mill levy anticipated is 44.386, and last year it was 45.166 mills.

"We are trying to hold our own," reported Mayor E. Dayle Messerly. He cited last year's expenditures as totalling $108,000, going some $10 thousand "in the hole." This year, by strict attention to all phases of expense and some reorganization, he hopes the total expenditures will be about eight per cent less than last year, and hopes to retire a portion of the $10,000 indebtedness.

Ralph Egusquiza was hired as relief patrolman, and Myron Bliss as caretaker at Hull Memorial Park and Glenn Rest Cemetery. The Union Pacific Railroad Co. approved the city's request for the ties which will be available in the yards when the trackage is reduced soon. The Elmore County Fair Board and the School District 192 have requested part of these ties.

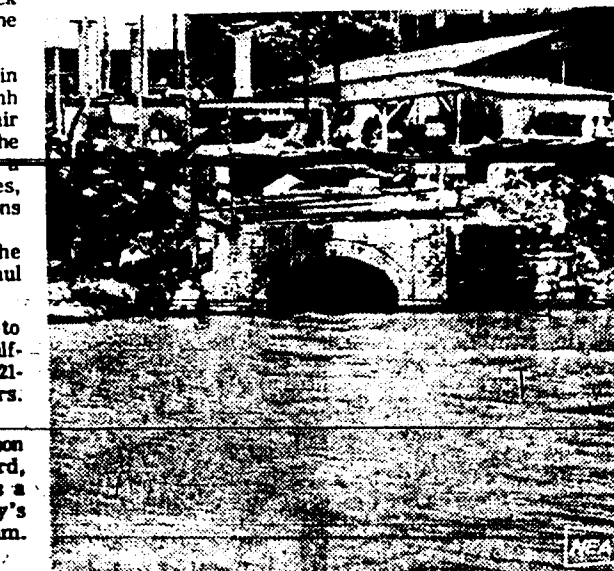

Approved was Dave Ickes' building permit application for $800 remodeling on residence. An application from John Swenson, Twin Falls, to install self-service gas pumps at the corner of Kansas Street and Marshall Everheart told the city council at their last meeting that the people working on the clean up will be given maps of the area they are to clean up so it will be well organized and every part of town should get a going over.

Business men in town will help furnish some of the equipment needed in the clean up. Those who are going to help are asked to bring rakes and shovels with them.

Fifth and sixth graders will work in the Jefferson area and third and fourth graders around the Washington school. The older students will work with crew leaders.

Property owners are asked to clean up their own yards and place rubbish in boxes in the alleys where they will be picked up by the clean-up crew.

Residents of the 23 Magic Valley cities which hold memberships in the area chamber are expected to attend the annual event.

South Idaho Chamber Will Select Officers

Four new members of the board of directors of the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce will be elected Thursday when the inter-city unit holds its annual meeting and membership banquet at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls.

The directors will be elected at an afternoon session which begins at 2:30 p.m. They will be announced at the annual banquet at 7 p.m. that night.

Gary Blick, Castleford, will submit the names of nominees for officers and directors of the executive board. Board members whose terms are expiring are Paul Pickett, Bliss; Valdo Gray, Gooding; Don Taylor, Kimberly; and Joe Bauer, Paul. Holdover board members are Clayton Stewart, Ketchum; Forest Blake, Heyburn; Dr. James L. Taylor, Twin Falls; Charles Hoeman, Jerome, and Mr. Blick.

Also during the afternoon session general business will be conducted with some committee reports slated. Discussion of accomplishments of the last session of the state legislature also will be held.

Tours of either the College of Southern Idaho campus or the new Kellwood plant will be arranged for members' wives or others who do not attend afternoon business meetings.

Scott McClure, Jerome, student body president at Idaho State University, and Jim Willms, University of Idaho student body president, will be guest speakers at the banquet.

Bob Keegan, president of the CSI student body and a graduate of Twin Falls High School, will be master of ceremonies.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the College of Southern Idaho.

Mousetrap Is Cause Of 4-Car Burley Smashup

BURLEY — A mousetrap not only can cause people to beat the proverbial path to one's door, but can create an accident — when it goes off at the wrong time.

Laurie A. Stoddard, 15, 2011 Burton Ave., Burley, told police a mouse trap in the seat beside her went off as she was turning from Hansen Avenue onto 15th Street Thursday afternoon. The distraction caused her to lose control of the 1969 GMC three-quarter ton pickup truck she was driving and resulted in a four-car smashup.

The truck, owned by Max Banner, collided with a 1964 parked Chevrolet owned by Betty Virgin, 1241 Grandview, Burley. The Chevrolet struck a parked 1968 Dodge, owned by Vernie R. Gallher, Malta, pushing it into a fourth vehicle, a parked 1960 GMC pickup truck owned by Eva Lou Bowen, Route 3, Burley.

Mark L. Banner, 16, Route 3, Burley, was a passenger in the pickup driven by Miss Stoddard, who was cited for violation of the basic rule. Damage was estimated at $200 to the Gallher Dodge, $400 to the Bowen truck, $150 to the Banner pickup while the Virgin Chevrolet was demolished.

Sentencing Slated For 6 Youths

RUPERT — Sentencing for six area youth on drug charges has been set for Wednesday morning by Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood.

Claude (Bucky) Bronson, 18, Paul, is charged with illegal possession of enumerated drugs with intent to sell, and also for illegal possession of narcotic drugs with intent to sell.

Roman Garza, 16, and Daryl Renz, 17, both Paul, are charged with illegal possession of narcotics with intent to sell.

Roy D. Hull, 18, Burley, was originally charged with three counts of illegal possession of narcotics with intent to sell. He will be sentenced on the first count and part of the second.

Anna Lee Bronson, 16, Paul, is charged with illegal possession of an enumerated drug, with intent to sell. Garth Bean, 18, Rupert, is charged with illegal possession of marijuana with intent to sell.

Participating will be the girls' and boys' glee clubs, small ensembles and soloists, who will sing the songs so popular with his now generation.

Guidance Unit Backs Programs

The Magic Valley Guidance Association went on record in support of programs of the Child Development Center and the Mental Health Association at a recent meeting in Twin Falls.

Meeting at the Catholic Priory on Falls Avenue, the association heard talks by Paul Burnett, director of the Child Development Center, and Roger Abernathy, vice president of the Idaho Mental Health Association.

The next meeting of the association will be held in Burley about May first. Notices will be sent to members of the time and place, according to Royal Slotten, president.

Banquet Is Given By Paul Group

PAUL — New officers were introduced at the second annual Paul Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Paul American Legion Hall.

Bob Greer is president; Benny Evans, vice president; Irvine Moore, secretary; Gene Haynes, Mike Broadhead, Larry Winn and Art Ulrich all directors.

Outgoing officers introduced were Gene Haynes, president; and Larry Winn, vice president. Loyd Merrill and Gene Haynes are local delegates to the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce.

George McDonald, Rupert, was guest speaker, and Loyd Merrill was master of ceremonies.

Boise Man Injured In Accident

BELLEVUE — A Boise man is listed in fair condition at the Sun Valley Hospital of injuries he received in a one-car mishap south of here on State Highway 68 Saturday evening.

According to State Patrolman Gene Bolton, investigating officer, Philip Bernhardt, was driving a 1956 Pontiac west on Highway 68 about 7 p.m. and the car struck a bridge abutment, tearing the auto in half. The bridge crosses Wood River.

The car then went across the road and slid backwards for about 250 feet before came to a rest.

Mr. Bernhardt was found near the wreckage.

Investigation is continuing.

Don January And Douglass Set Up 18-Hole Playoff

UPI Sports Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Don January, a leathery, 40-year-old Texan who hasn't had a victory since the 1967 PGA championship, shot a record-breaking 6-under-par 66 Sunday to catch Dale Douglass and throw the Greater Jacksonville Open into an 18-hole playoff Monday.

Bruins Split In Twin Bill

The Twin Falls Bruins split a doubleheader with a strong Mountain Home squad Friday, dropping the first game 2-0 in extra innings before coming back in a three-inning nightcap for a 7-3 win.

In the opener Wayne Graham, a curvballing lefthander, held the Tigers in check until the eighth inning. Mountain Home shoved a pair of runs across and Twin Falls went down in order.

Bruce Delemont's RBI single and a throwing error accounted for the two decisive runs. Before that the Bruins had threatened twice, putting two men in the sixth and seventh innings.

With runners on first and second in the sixth, Kidd struck out Twin Falls' cleanup hitter to end the threat. In the seventh, with two on, a runner was trapped in a run-down after an unsuccessful suicide squeeze attempt.

In the nightcap, after a scoreless first inning, Haynes led off for the Bruins with a double and came in on a Larry Blackwood hit. Blackwood scored moments later on a pair of sacrifice flies.

Leading 2-0, the Bruins put it away with a five-run third. Ron Blackwood singled, Eric Day singled, and Haynes walked to load the bases. Larry Blackwood drew a walk to force in the third run and the Tigers fell apart at the seams after that.

Mountain Home scored in the second three times on a two-base throwing error and Kidd's double.

The Bruins play capital and Borah Thursday afternoon, taking to the Eagles at 11 a.m. and the Lions at 1:30. Pick up line scores.

Pacers Rap New York By 114-97 Count

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Fred Hetzel came off the bench to score a season-high of 25 points and lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 132-112 victory over the San Francisco Warriors in National Basketball Association game Sunday.

San Francisco led 26-25 with 1:22 left in the first period. But from that point, Philadelphia pulled away for its sixth straight victory over the season over the Warriors.

The 76ers made 10 of their first 11 shots in the second quarter, which ended with the winners in front 63-50. The Warriors were exceptionally cold at the beginning of the third period, missing their first 13 shots, and falling behind by as much as 28 points.

Hal Greer finished with 24 points for Philadelphia while Bob Portman scored 22 points in a reserve role for the Warriors.

Hetzel And 76ers Down S.F. 132-112

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Coach Bobby Leonard's Indiana Pacers had another success with their two platoon system Sunday, defeating the New York Nets 114-97 in an American Basketball Association game.

The Nets led 14-10 with three minutes to play in the first quarter, but the Pacers flashed ahead with 13 straight baskets to make it 23-14 at the end of the quarter.

January and Douglass, who had a final-round 69, finished regulation play at 9-under-par 279 and now must wait another 24 hours to find out which gets the $20,000 first prize in the $100,000 golf tournament and which settles for the $11,400 runnerup money.

January started Sunday's play three strokes back of Douglass, a 34-year-old Oklahoma man who is gunning for his fourth victory in 11 months. He recovered from a bad drive on the very first hole for a birdie, added another to turn at 33 and then matched that coming home with birdie putts of 12, 4 and 8 feet on the back nine.

In the end, Douglass, playing three twosomes behind January, was the one who had to catch up.

The 6-foot-2, 155-pound "thin man of the PGA" birdied four of five holes, from Nos. 6-10, and held a two-stroke lead at that point but a bogey at No. 12 and two later birdies by January dropped him a stroke off the lead.

A great pitch shot on the 548-yard, par-5 17th hole left Douglass only 3 1/2 feet from the cup and he rammed it home for the birdie that forced the playoff.

England's Tony Jacklin shot a 5-under-par 67 Sunday to take third place money of $7,100 with his 7-under-par 281. Dave Stockton, with a closing 69, was fourth at 282.

Douglass, who held a two-stroke lead going into the final round, almost threw it away on the 72nd hole when he hooked his drive far to the right into a parking area. His second shot on the 415-yard, par-4 hole was on the green but still 45 feet away.

He left himself a tricky four-foot putt for the tying par—but sank it.

The playoff, which begins at 1:45 p.m. EST Monday, will be nationally televised (ABC) starting at 4 p.m. EST. The playoff is a bit unique in that the PGA usually holds a sudden-death playoff, when needed, the same day as the final, the same day as the final round.

But play began late Sunday because of television commitments and officials feared a sudden-death might run into darkness.

Celtics Nip New York In 115-112 Tilt

BOSTON (UPI)—Center Rich Johnson scored the two crucial baskets Sunday to lead the Boston Celtics to a 115-112 victory over the New York Knickerbockers in the teams' last National Basketball Association game of the season.

The Knicks finished with the Eastern Division title and the Celtics well out of playoff range in 6th place.

The Knicks trailed 64-55 at halftime but rallied behind Mike Riordan, who had 18 points, for the game, and Bill Bradley to a 74-74 deadlock with 6:20 to go in the third period.

Hazzard Has Clincher For Hawks Squad

DETROIT (UPI)—Walt Hazzard scored the winning basket with 28 seconds remaining and Jim Davis added the clincher as the Atlanta Hawks defeated the Detroit Pistons 130-126 Sunday afternoon to close out the National Basketball Association season for both teams.

Atlanta finished the season with 48 victories and first place in the Western Division of the NBA. Detroit placed last in the Eastern Division and will be eligible to pick first in Monday's college draft.

Seven Hawks hit in double figures. Joe Caldwell led with 25 and Butch Beard and Gary Geyer with 19 apiece followed. Detroit was paced by Dave Bing with 29 points and McCoy with 28.

HOLE IN ONE

Hank Powers, using a seven wood of all things, collected $180 in merchandise Sunday after getting the first hole-in-one of the year at the Municipal Golf Course.

Powers, playing with Fred and Dick Harder, got his ace on the fourth hole and with it the prizes of the club's hole-in-one contest.

Davis Cup Nations Hold Meet

LONDON (UPI)—A special meeting of the world's Davis Cup nations begins Monday to decide whether South Africa will be excluded from the prestigious tennis competition.

The meeting was convened at the request of the United States. Rhodesia's continued presence is similarly doubtful.

The U.S. Lawn Tennis Federation (LTA), angered recently at South Africa's refusal to grant American Negro star Arthur Ashe a visa to allow him to play in the South African National Tennis Championships, leads the opposition.

The U.S. has put forward a proposal which, if accepted, will result in the Republic's exclusion. All the signs are that it will receive the necessary two-thirds majority from the 40 nations expected to attend the meeting at London's Savoy Hotel.

Support for the motion was expected from the entire eastern European bloc, most of the Scandinavian countries and various other nations violently opposed to South Africa's racial policies.

Wise Dumps In 31, Stars Top Carolina

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Rookie Willie Williams equalled his career high of 31 points and added 19 rebounds as the Los Angeles Stars strengthened their claim on an ABA playoff berth with a 106-92 victory over the Carolina Cougars Sunday.

The Stars climbed two games above the 500 mark to go two contests ahead of fifth-place New Orleans in the Western Division.

Miami Edges Chaparrals By 160-155

MIAMI (UPI)—Team scoring records tumbled as Don Freeman and George Lehmann led the Miami Floridians to a 160-155 victory over the Dallas Chaparrals in the American Basketball Association Sunday night.

In winning their 20th game against 53 losses this season, the Floridians sacked 82 points in the first half to grab an 18-point lead and then had to sweat out a Dallas charge in the second half.

The recently-acquired Lehmann sacked 17 of his 42 points in the decisive fourth period to keep Miami's victory march going. Freeman turned in 43 points.

GETTING THE CHECKERED FLAG, World Champion Jackie Stewart grabs a last minute victory over Jack Brabham in the Race of Champions in Brands Hatch, England Sunday.

Opening lead—♥K

Oswald: "The hand is interesting for something else. You ruffed the second heart and played out your ace of spades. West followed and you called for the 10 of spades from dummy. Right then and there I knew that you had already become a good bridge player."

Jim: "The play was essential but it was also automatic."

Oswald: "That's the point exactly. It is automatic for you now, as it would be for any careful top player, but most players simply play the lowest card when following suit."

Jim: "My reason wasn't hard to find. I knew that if anyone held four trumps it would be East. When I continued with a trump to the king, West showed out. Now I was able to lead the six-spot and pick up East's jack-eight."

Oswald: "If you had left the 10 in dummy, it would have held the third trump trick. You would have had to attack clubs while East still held a trump. He would ruff the second club and you would have chucked the slam."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Oswald: "You started playing bridge while I was in Korea in 1950 and 1951 and had become a pretty good player when I got back."

Jim: "I still had a lot to learn then. In fact, I still do."

Oswald: "So do I, but I have probably reached the age where I can't improve my game. You and the game will keep on getting better for a long time. Do you remember this hand?"

Jim: "I certainly do. I was South and we were playing together for just about the first time. When you passed to West's six-heart bid, I realized that you wanted me to bid six if I could handle the second round of hearts."

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ 1 ♠
3 ♥ Pass Pass ?

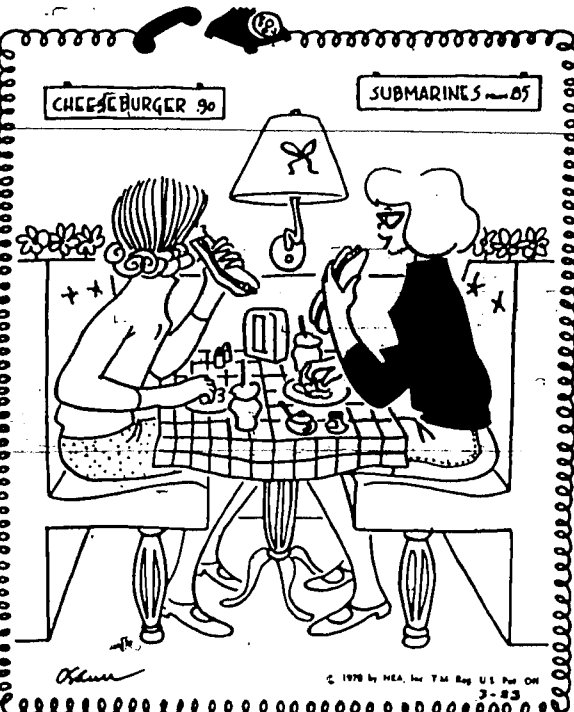

You, South, hold:
♠ A K 9 8 ♥ 4 3 ♦ A 5 2 ♣ A J 7 3

What do you do now?
A—Pass. You will hope to beat three hearts but a further double may lead to a big loss for your fine hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of overcalling with one heart, West has bid one diamond over your club. Your partner and East pass. What do you do now?

DR. R. W. STARK

DR. C. M. MOORE

DR. F. P. McCREARY

have been named to positions at the University of Idaho. Dr. Ronald Stark is a well-known entomologist and has been named dean of the graduate school at the university. The appointment becomes effective July 1. President Ernest Hartung announced the appointments. Dr. Campbell Moore has been director of the center for environmental biology at the University of Utah and will become professor and head of the Department of Bacteriology at Moscow. He succeeds Dr. V. A. Cherrington in the post. Dr. Frank McCreary, who has been serving with the national fund of the American City Bureau Associates, will be the new coordinator of University public relations.

Program Outlined at Craters

CRATERS OF THE MOON — The 1970 program for the Craters of the Moon National Monument and its Natural History Association has been approved by the board of directors, which met in Arco recently.

According to Paul Fritz, superintendent of the monument, the purpose of the non-profit history group is to provide visitors with publications and other information which will help them during their stay in Idaho's version of the lunar surface. Proceeds from sales of the publications are used to improve facilities for visitors to the site and to help the National Park Service learn more about the volcanic region.

One of the major projects this year will be to sponsor a geological research effort under the direction of Dr. Fred Bullard of the University of Texas. Dr. Bullard, a well-known volcanologist, will spend his second summer in the area investigating the Idaho great rift.

The rift runs through the region. Through the work of Dr. Bullard, Mr. Fritz said, the history of "this outstanding area is being explored."

He said in order to encourage students interested in conservation and the environment, the association awards a $500 scholarship every spring. High school seniors in the Blaine and Butte County areas are eligible to receive this award.

The association plans for a future publication on technical material of the Craters of the Moon, also, it was reported. A booklet on the wildflowers of the area and a collection of color photographs is being prepared for publication this year.

"Geology of Craters of the Moon" by Dr. Harold Stearns will be reprinted also, it was reported. Nearly 3,000 copies of this booklet on the area were sold last year.

Mr. Fritz said the Craters of the Moon National History Association continues to cooperate with the National Park Service to upgrade visitors services at the Craters of the Moon.

He added all the interior paved roads at the Craters of the Moon will be open for traffic March 20. A low snowpack this year will allow for a greater period of visitor use and "enjoyment of this great geological phenomena," he said.

4 Students Are Named Winners In Elks Test

Four students have won in the Twin Falls Elks Lodge's annual "Most Valuable Student" contest.

Two of the winners, both of them from Twin Falls, got $100 for their efforts, and the two runners up got $50 each for their efforts.

The scholarship awards were presented to the four students at an Elks Lodge meeting recently. Norman Wiseman was in charge of the scholarship program.

Winners of the $100 awards were Stephen Blay and Bonnie Jeanne Allee, while winners of the $50 awards were Shirley Melzer and Lee Griffith, both of Buhl.

The contest is based 500 points on scholarship alone, with other points being earned on civic activities and school activities.

Mr. Wiseman said a large number of applications for the scholarships were received from throughout Magic Valley. The students, who were presented their awards by check, are allowed to use the money at the college of their choice on graduation from high school. All are honor students at their high schools.
