

Coloradans Claim Rail Link Honor

DENVER (UPI) — For those who think the first continuous coast-to-coast railroad in the United States was linked up at Promontory, Utah, a group of Coloradans are readying plans to set the record straight.

The group, called the Comanche Crossing Historical Society of Strasburg, Colo., said Wednesday it will sponsor a centennial celebration in August commemorating the event which it says gave the nation its first transcontinental railroad.

Although a spike was driven at Promontory, Utah, in 1869 to connect the Western Pacific and Northern Pacific railroads, the Colorado group said it was not truly transcontinental because a railroad bridge spanning the Missouri River at Omaha was not built until 1872.

Instead, they say, the first truly transcontinental railroad was linked up at Comanche Crossing, Colo., Aug. 15, 1870, by the Kansas Pacific Railroad, which bridged the Missouri River at Kansas City.

Gunnar Hershkind of Strasburg, chairman of a president of the Comanche Crossing Historical Society, said the importance of Comanche Crossing has never been realized.

"We aren't challenging the importance of the Golden Spike ceremony (at Promontory). It represented the establishment of coast-to-coast rail service and as such was one of our nation's great milestones," he said.

"However, Comanche Crossing somehow was ignored by the history books almost entirely. This is an injustice to the men and women whose genius and labors pushed the Kansas Pacific across the plains."

Celebrate 'Earth Day', Take A Bee To Lunch

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — I devoted a lot of time and thought this week to deciding what would be the most appropriate way to celebrate "Earth Day."

What I finally did was take a honeybee to lunch.

The thing that steered me toward that type of Earth Day observance was a dispatch from the National Geographic Society reminding us how much we owe the honeybees. And that is true even if you dislike honey.

"Without them, many flowers, farm crops and orchards would disappear," the Geographic pointed out.

As I read this, a rather disturbing thought buzzed into my brain and pollinated my cerebrum.

"How Tenuous The Threads" "How volatile are the forces that sustain life on this planet!" I mused. "How tenuous the threads of our survival!"

I mean, we have built up this modern, complex, industrial society that is supposed to be the wonder of the ages. Our technology has advanced to the point where we can make and do almost anything, up to and including flights to the moon and self-sharpening eyebrow pencils.

But beneath this highly developed electronic and mechanized civilization, the only thing standing between us and starvation is a flying insect.

Take away the honeybee, which is responsible for the procreation of at least 50 cultivated plants in this country, and you likely would bring about the decline and fall of the Western world, plus parts of the Malay Peninsula.

Now I'm not suggesting there is any cause for immediate panic.

Still On Job

The last time anyone checked, honeybees were still on the job, some transporting as many as 47 loads of pollen in a single day.

Chances are they will continue to perform efficiently into the foreseeable future.

The point is, however, that if something should happen to the honeybee, we have absolutely no backup system to throw into the breach.

In sum, mankind probably is more dependent on honeybees than on head waiters. Yet almost nothing is being done to protect this vital lifeline.

And besides that, honeybees have taught us almost everything we know about sex.

Vivien Kellems

A milestone in taxpayers' disputes with the Internal Revenue Service seems to have been achieved by Vivien Kellems, the retired New England manufacturer who has been waging various tax battles since 1948. Most recently Miss Kellems has taken up the cause of the single taxpayer, who she claims is discriminated against in the nation's tax laws.

Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination as to her personal records. The court then issued a brief order dismissing the government's suit. The point involved in this decision is the long-held premise that it is up to the taxpayer to disprove a claim levied against him by the IRS. In brief, this practice has been a reversal of the standing premise in other court actions that a defendant is innocent until proved guilty.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Slower Pullback Is The Aim

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some knowledgeable sources here believe that possibly by mid-autumn President Nixon's military high command may persuade him to either slow our Vietnam combat troop withdrawals to a mere trickle or halt them altogether for an unstated interval.

Those who hold to this view think the Pentagon would like to see a lower-than-average withdrawal pace begin. But they doubt that the military yet has the "leverage" to be convincing on this score.

In the judgment of these sources, however, that leverage is increasing. The new fluidity in Laos and Cambodia is considered a large contributing factor. The freshly demonstrated ability of the Red enemy to strike at U.S. and South Vietnamese bases and inflict fairly substantial casualties adds further weight.

However, else North Vietnamese regulars (and Viet Cong) may be engaged in Laos and Cambodia, Hanoi clearly does not intend to yield its credibility as a fighting force in South Vietnam.

Whether the enemy's sporadic sharp thrusts are intended only for this purpose as Hanoi watches us withdraw is the key question. My skeptical sources think the attacks may well be the harbinger of a fully, more broadly damaging assault later this year.

It is the flat expectation of some sources that leads them to predict a sterner confrontation between the President and his military leaders. At that time, my informants say, the generals and admirals could well put the question to Nixon this way: "Mr. President, do you wish to continue withdrawals at a steady pace now that it is plain the enemy is taking advantage of these pullouts? We would remind you that you warned, Hanoi and told the American people last Nov. 3 that we would respond with some sort of action if such advantage were taken of us."

"We cannot maintain the capacity to respond, to prevent the quick subjugation of South Vietnam by Hanoi, if at this stage you countenance further combat troop withdrawals."

The skeptics' argument goes even further and embraces what the high command might say if the President should plead that "political necessity" compels him to keep going inexorably down the pullout road. The military could retort: It is suggested, like this: "But, Mr. President, the political damage to you may be much greater if you do stick to the withdrawal timetable and, as a consequence South Vietnam goes down the drain."

Obviously, this entire line of reasoning by certain Washington specialists is predicated not only upon the assumption that Hanoi has the strength for a damaging offensive (few if any qualified Vietnam experts here seriously question that), but upon the conviction that this power will be used in the months just ahead.

Yet on this point, the probability of a real offensive, there is wide disagreement here. Many specialists think it will not happen, that Hanoi — while hacking away enough to keep fighting credibility — will keep a basically low profile in South Vietnam so as not to discourage our continued pullout of troops.

But my knowledgeable skeptics see Nixon's tough talk as the real line. They believe it has, in effect, made him captive of the generals, and that at some great crunching point in mid-1970 he will have to bow to an expected demand to stop withdrawals. Other sources insist nothing will dissuade the President from his pullout course.

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH The Ethnic Votes

WASHINGTON — An exhaustive study of ethnic voting patterns advises, the Democratic National Committee that traditionally Democratic minority voters did, indeed, desert Hubert H. Humphrey in the 1968 presidential election.

However, the study rejects the thesis of GOP strategist Kevin Phillips that those defections would have gone to the GOP had third party candidate George C. Wallace not been a candidate. The survey compares 1960 and 1968 voting results in precincts and wards dominated by minority voters.

Prepared by the National Committee's nationalities division, the study examines wards which are predominantly Irish, Italian, Polish and Spanish-American. Districts in Boston, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Houston, Cincinnati and Chicago are included. The previously unpublished study stresses statistics from Providence, R.I., where Wallace was not on the ballot. There, according to the survey, the Democrats maintained, and even strengthened, their hold on ethnic voting groups.

approximately the same from 1960 to 1968, while there was an average loss for the Democrats of 15 per cent. At the same time, Wallace happened to pick up an average of 12.7 per cent of the vote in the same wards. "In the Irish wards, Nixon lost an average of 6.5 per cent from 1960 to 1968... while the Democrats (Humphrey) lost an average of 6 per cent. In these same wards Wallace gained 7 per cent."

Providence where Wallace was not running showed substantial increases in Democratic support. "In the Italian wards, Nixon-Republican support lost an average of two per cent (which is relatively negligible with all the variables considered), while the Democrats (Humphrey) lost an average of 6 per cent. In these same wards Wallace gained 7 per cent."

ANDREW TULLY The Real Problem

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's speech on Vietnamization overlooked a serious and continuing problem in his palisade-worthy campaign to turn the war and the country back to the South Vietnamese people. It is the wholesale theft of American dollars by the politicians, bureaucrats and military of President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon regime. A high-bush report by a United States investigative team — with some undercover aid from the FBI in this country — discloses that in the past 18 months more than $1.5 billion has "disappeared" into Vietnamese pockets and foreign bank accounts.

Land reform in South Vietnam not only is long overdue, but scheduled at a snail's pace. It took two years for the South Vietnamese legislature to pass the reform bill, and Thieu signed the bill March 28. The new law is designed to distribute almost half of the rice land in Vietnam — more than 2.25 million acres — to 500,000 tenant farmers who now work it. But the distribution will not be accomplished until mid-1974, four long years from now. By that time, there may no longer be a government in Saigon friendly to the United States, or at least of a non-Communist nature.

Admittedly, there is a financial problem. The tenants would pay nothing to the 60,000 landlords to whom they now pay rent. The Saigon government would reimburse the expropriated landlords 20 per cent in cash and 80 per cent in government bonds. Thus, time is needed to get up the necessary money. But if passed, the Muscle Bill presumably would provide the funds for an accelerated land transfer.

There, too, is the rub: American proponents of the land reform program, including the National Committee for a Political Settlement in Vietnam, have said that with "intensive" U.S. and South Vietnamese surveillance, large-scale fakery will be difficult. That would sound reassuring if it were not for the fact that the Vietnamese grafters — as emphasized in the American investigative report — are still finding ways to profiteer despite Thieu's assurances over the years that he has ended corruption.

Moreover, there is the charge by two private American advisers to the South Vietnamese government that Thieu had to be pressured into accepting the land reform bill. Only by emphasizing the continuing withdrawal of American troops were the advisers able to persuade Thieu to accept the bill.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Doesn't Care

"Dear Dr. Thosteson: About a month ago I was told by a doctor (not my own) that I had sugar. I went to my family doctor and asked him what I should do about it. He put me on a 2,500-calorie diet and told me to come back in two weeks. I never went back. He acted as if he couldn't care less about my condition. I tried to diet but somehow I didn't — for long because of lack of will power. I was also worried about my doctor's lack of interest in taking care of me. I am anxious to know more about diabetes. I am 18. If I don't stick to the diet, would that mean I have only a few years of life left? — C.D.M."

"Sounds to me as though he was taking more interest than you are. If you don't want to go back to him, go back to the doctor who you had sugar. Or to some doctor. Find out, first, whether you have diabetes or don't. If you do have it, there's no reason why you shouldn't still lead a virtually normal life if you follow instructions."

"But if you have diabetes and don't follow directions, you are in for real trouble. Diabetes that develops at your age has to be kept under control; otherwise there is risk of a complete upset of metabolism resulting in acidosis or coma. So stop being stubborn and get to the doctor. If you want detailed information on diabetes, send 35 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for my booklet, 'Diabetes, The Sneaky Disease.'"

"Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband recently started jogging every afternoon. He is 24 and in good shape physically, but his legs have been hurting along the side and top of the shin bone. Would you comment? — Mrs. G.W." "From your description it could be 'shin splints' — an irritation of the lining of the shin bone from activity involving sudden impacts on the leg bones. It is wearing adequate supportive footwear? Is he jogging on a fairly soft surface or on concrete? Real and some aspirin should make his legs feel better."

BERRY'S WORLD

"No, dear! Being late for dinner again does NOT mean I have begun a policy toward you of 'benign neglect!'"

Protests

This is the season for the annual meetings of stockholders, affairs which usually produce about as much excitement as a meeting of morticians. In a number of cases, however, this year could be quite different.

Protesters, of one variety or another, are readying their ammunition for the annual meetings. Some of them will try to get the company to go on record as advocating immediate withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam. Dissidents at AT&T's session tried in vain to promote a call for a student strike and a resolution condemning the company's "complicity with the war machine."

A major electronics firm is the planned target of another group which will demand the company stop producing hardware for the military and concentrate on solving problems of ecology and the environment. A campaign of sorts is underway against the General Motors Corp., with the avowed aim of electing dissidents to the board.

And so it will be going this year at the annual meetings. None of the protesters is likely to win anything, but some may succeed in turning decorum into confusion, at least temporarily. It will be a trying period for businessmen who know the only way to meet a payroll is to produce a profitable product, but they will survive. As a whole, they are a much harder group than the gadflies who delight in trying to dismantle the nuts and bolts of the society which gives them so much license.

MR. SPECTATOR

When Life Is Free

The Evergreen Review, a magazine which monthly salutes the United States by exercising the First Amendment guarantee of a free press to tell how repressive life is in said United States, reports glowingly on social progress in Cuba.

Rents in Cuba have been steadily lowered until today no one, by law, can pay more than 10 per cent of his salary as rent. By the end of this year even this minimum will be eliminated and rent will be entirely free.

Bus transportation has been lowered to five cents and in the near future fares will be eliminated entirely. Telephone service is already free.

The editors contrast all this with the soaring rents plaguing urban Americans, spiraling bus and subway fares and a phone system which, they say, is "both costly and increasingly erratic."

Yet strangely, 80,000 Cubans a year continue to flow to the United States — high living costs notwithstanding.

The figure is supplied by the International Rescue Committee, an organization which for nearly four decades has been aiding the victims of war and political persecution. The figure would be even higher, but 50,000 emigrants a year is all the Cuban government per-

RECONCILED TO DEATH

In spite of all the efforts of safety organizations and enforcement officials, nearly 80,000 persons meet death in traffic accidents on the nation's streets and highways each year. This is not to discount past efforts, but if an effective method cannot be found to safeguard the lives of those who travel the nation's streets and highways, then there is no alternative but to become reconciled to paying the price.

The low voter turn-out of 1968 is also noted as a qualification for the survey. The study notes that a high percentage of non-voters in a given ethnic precinct may or may not have been from the predominant minority group. With all these caveats, the study says it can still be inferred from the precinct statistics that "a significant number of defections did occur in 1968 in the Polish, Italian, and Irish voting blocks which are traditionally Democratic strongholds."

With the qualifications already noted, here are some of the findings of the study with respect to "specific ethnic groups": In the Polish wards, Nixon-Republican support remained

Assessor Will Seek Re-Election

Clifford Thompson, Twin Falls County Assessor for the past 22 years, Thursday announced he will seek re-election on the Republican ticket in the August primary election.

Mr. Thompson was elected in 1948 and has been returned to office in 10 consecutive elections since that time. Before becoming county assessor he was affiliated with the Diamond Hardware Store.

He is a member of the International Association of Assessors and has been active for a number of years in the Idaho Association of County Assessors, being a veteran member of the organization. He also is a member of Kayler Lodge 84, A. F. & A. M.

Mr. Thompson, who resides at 167 Park St., has lived in Twin Falls since 1932, coming from Montana where he was engaged in ranching.

The incumbent said he feels the office of assessor is one of great importance in any county, as revenue for the operation of all taxing units and other county departments must originate in that office.

Many appraisers, including State Highway Department and private concerns, have praised the local office appraisal records as among the best in the state.

In making his announcement, Mr. Thompson said he will, if re-elected, continue to operate the office as efficiently as possible, and to treat all taxpayers on a fair and equal basis.

Former Scouts Haven't Forgotten Good Deeds

Good deeds from three former Burley Boy Scouts have resulted in one of the largest contributions ever received by the Snake River Boy Scout Council.

Three checks, totaling $12,500, have been received by the local council from Darius, Ellsworth and Austin Davis, three former Burley brothers—who have founded and own the Winn-Dixie Food Store chain in the southern states. The three brothers lived in Burley as boys and were members of Boy Scout Troop 20, sponsored by the Burley Methodist Church.

Dr. Charles Terhune, Burley, presented the checks to the council during the annual Eagle Scout Recognition banquet in Burley. He and Gerry Gierke, Wendell, long time friends of the Davis family, were instrumental in arranging for the gift to the local Boy Scout organization.

Dr. Paul Heuston, council president, said the money will be used as part of the development program of the council in order to benefit boys in the present program and in years to come.

The Winn-Dixie Chain of food stores is now the seventh largest food store operation in the nation and was founded by the former Burley residents shortly after they left Idaho.

South Vietnam President Signs Sweeping Land Reform Program

By PHIL NEWSON UPI Foreign News Analyst In Can Tho, in the Mekong Delta rice bowl, South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu stood next to a pile of cucumbers airlifted from his own farm in the Central Highlands and signed into law a sweeping land reform program effecting one million peasant families.

The pen stroke was to wipe out what U.S. rural development experts had called "the worst farm tenancy pattern in the world" and to institute what these same experts called "one of the great non-Communist land reforms of the 20th Century."

But there also was another

"it" and this was even more important. If the peasant could be convinced that the hectare of land (about 2.5 acres) truly was his to till and to defend, and that it was a gift to him from his government, then the Thieu government might have bought more security for the countryside than a million Vietnamese and more than a half million American soldiers had been able to provide in years of fighting.

Three times under previous administrations, land reform programs had been undertaken in South Vietnam. The first to try it was the Emperor Bao Dai in the early 1950's.

The Eisenhower administration had told President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1954 that continued U.S. support for South Vietnam depended upon a meaningful land reform program.

Yet as of this year, about 60 per cent of the 7.5 million acres of land under cultivation in South Vietnam still was being farmed by tenants. The new program upon which so many hopes for the future of South Vietnam are being based is estimated to cost about $400 million.

President Thieu told Nixon about it—at their Midway meeting and received a promise of American support. The United States has pledged $60 million toward the final cost and probably will go considerably deeper.

Youths Meet WENDELL. Bill Eaton presented the lesson at the meeting of the Youth group of the United Methodist Church. He chose his title "College." A short discussion period followed with Bob Bitterill conducting worship services. During the business meeting the group voted to set Sunday aside for a fun time.

The Moldenhauers left last weekend for Ames, Iowa, where they will make their home. Mr. Moldenhauer will be administrative assistant to the general manager of the Agronomics Section of Asgrow in Ames. He was formerly manager of the Filer Asgrow Center and the family has lived in Filer for 20 years.

Mrs. Moldenhauer has been a Sunday School teacher for 17 years where she had charge of the nursery and kindergarten classes. She has been secretary to the church executive board several years and has been a member of the church choir.

Error

FILER — An error has been found in the figures of a recent Sunday School attendance drive conducted in the Filer community by five churches.

The increase in attendance at the United Methodist Church should have been listed as 18 per cent rather than the 12.4 per cent increase formerly listed, according to Rev. Edm. Anderson, pastor.

The contest had run from Feb. 15 through Easter Sunday.

Religion Today

By Rev. Lester Kinsolving

ST. LOUIS — "Heads will not roll," promised the ultraconservative President-elect of the three million-member Missouri Synod Lutheran Church last July, regarding the less conservative denominational headquarters staffers. But less than one year after the election of the Rev. Jacob A. O. Preus (the rhymes with voice), the headquarters of the Missouri Synod looks like a Parisian guillotine basket, circa 1793.

The first victim was a brilliant (but non-Fundamentalist) young theologian, the Rev. Richard Jungkuntz, who was fired from the directorship of the denomination's Commission on Theology and Church Relations. Dr. Jungkuntz is teaching at Concordia Seminary here, but Preus has been able to block any appointment with tenure — without providing any public explanation.

Further, the denomination's public information officer, the Rev. Kenneth Lindsay, as well as the editor of its official publication, The Lutheran Witness Reporter, the Rev. Omar Steunkel, have both resigned their posts.

The pressure leveled upon the two men is apparent in Steunkel's being ordered to review only those movies with a "G" rating. Says he: "Walt Disney just isn't making enough movies!"

Last September, an attempt was made to fire the denomination's executive director, the Rev. Walter Wolbrecht. The blade was abruptly lifted, however, after Wolbrecht reportedly produced a written contract and spoke in a tone of voice that left little doubt of his intention, if necessary, to defend its validity in the civil courts.

At the same time, Wolbrecht was ordered to "speak in public media, or otherwise, on matters of policy in which the board is concerned, only when the board and the President shall so direct."

President Preus is an old hand when it comes to lowering booms on Missouri Synod Lutherans. He has not only previously purged Professor Jungkuntz (from the faculty of Concordia Seminary in Springfield, Ill.) but in 1954, while he was still a member of the archconservative Norwegian Synod, he called for severance of relations with the Missouri Synod — which the Norwegians held as unorthodox.

President Preus now appears to be launching a major inquisition. When 100 Missouri Synod clergy, led by Pastor Warren Gritze of suburban Webster Groves, issued an eminently sensible, and by any reasonable standard orthodox and charitable, statement entitled "A Call to Openness and Trust," President Preus exploded in print.

Charging these clergy with "doctrinal indifference and factionalism" and labeling them "troublers of Israel" (as King Ahaz once described the prophet Elijah), he invited them to "leave our fellowship."

Furthermore, President Preus has ordered "all members to desist from circularizing, from meeting, from organization to exert pressures on others."

This ecclesiastical martial law includes even a reputation of "The Christian News," a usually frothing, super-Fundamentalist, right wing hate sheet privately published in New Haven, Missouri. Yet it was this periodical which, by constantly pillorying Preus' predecessor, the Rev. Oliver Harms, fooled enough people to be a factor in bringing about Preus' election.

The Rev. Wayne Saffren, Missouri Synod Lutheran Campus Pastor at the University of Chicago, writes that "Christian News, used as a pre-convention vehicle to victory, was no longer needed, now that what it stood for was enshrined in official power."

Chaplain Saffren has also written a detailed and blistering comparison of President Preus with Caiaphas as well as the elder brother of the Prodigal Son. "How many Christians must Caiaphas dispose of in the Missouri Synod before there is ecclesiastical peace?"

The general atmosphere of fear and conformity has also been protested by Alfred Fuerbringer, brother of the famed editor of Time magazine, and former President of Concordia Seminary here.

Pastor Richard Neuhaus of Brooklyn contends that the present denominational leadership "manifests institutional paranoia" and that Preus has been "evading honest exchange about theological differences and using his office in a covert reshuffling of the syndical power structure."

Yet even as the Missouri (sometimes pronounced "Missory") Synod boils over, there is still a sense of humor retained by many of the younger clergy and seminarians who are conscientiously unable to tailor their brains to accommodate the Gospel according to J. A. O. Preus.

So, noting his first three initials, they have fashioned the wry slogan:

"Freedom now — with Chairman Joe!"

Banquet Planned

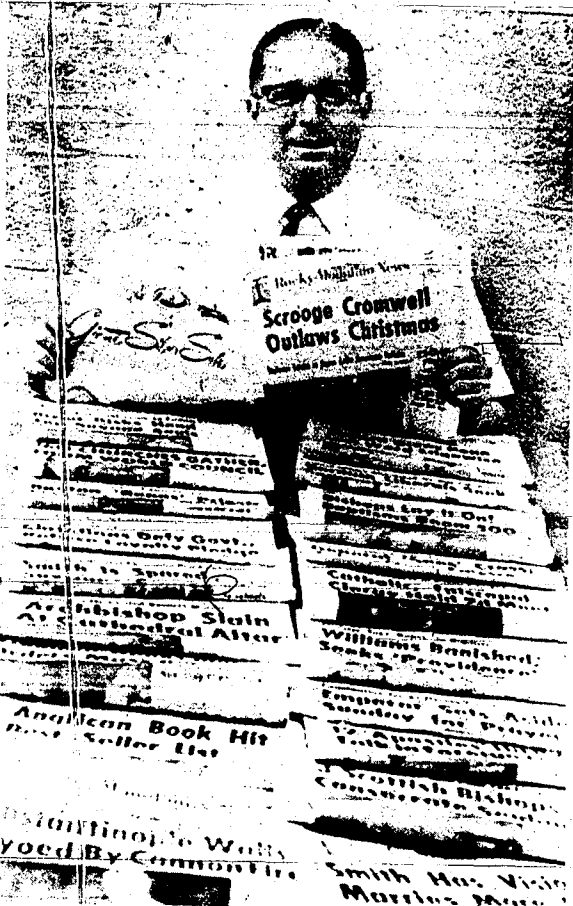

Plans for the Mother-Daughter Banquet were made recently by members of the Mother's Club of the Twin Falls First Christian Church at the home of Mrs. James Bolton.

Mrs. Ralph Bogar displayed several antique dishes and other items she has purchased during trips to New England. She also gave highlights of her recent trip east and showed slides and souvenirs.

Navajo Indian Named Bishop In LDS Church

PROVO — An articulate young Navajo Indian from Arizona has been ordained a bishop in LDS Church.

Kenneth Nabaha, 27, who has his sights set on a doctorate in psychology at Brigham Young University in Provo, was chosen by Church officials to preside over a congregation on the BYU campus.

Nabaha did his undergraduate work at BYU, taking a degree in zoology. He was ordained a bishop by Elder LeGrand Richards, a member of the Church's Council of Twelve Apostles, and chairman of the Indian Committee of the Church.

Bishop Nabaha is a remarkable example of the fruits of the Mormon program for Indians. He has advanced through the ranks of the Church's Indian Student Placement Program, wherein youngsters from eight to 18 are given an opportunity to spend the school year in the home of white Mormon families. Nabaha spent six years as a foster member of the Don W. Pace family of Torrey, Utah. He then "graduated" into the in-

Criticism Fuels World's Progress

By DAVID POLING

We live in a critical culture. From the very beginning we have thrived on criticism. Without it the country never constituted. Our political campaigns would be nothing without it. The world of education, sports, religion, business, arts and letters—all must have comment and constructive criticism or they will overnight.

I have just finished reading a copy of Rolling Stone, a newspaper aimed at teenagers with a primary interest in rock music. But after an hour's reading you discover that mixed in with the record reviews and new album advertisements are forceful articles about law and order, the decline in "old-time" patriotism, the decay of the movies, and the attorney general's no-knock operation. The letters to the editor column was just this side of being savage. This type of publication is popular among the kids because it is critical—often constructive but just as often turns to acid.

Underground newspapers flourish in high schools around the land. Why? They are free and candid about local or national gripes that students feel have been put down or ignored by politicians, school administrators and teachers. Write on young lady who was distressed by high school education today:

"Everything that can be tested and marked is tested and marked. We have intelligence tests, aptitude tests, physical fitness tests, regents' tests, college boards and a myriad of other examinations. It really does not seem to matter whether a subject is understood or not, just so long as the grade is right. All through one science course I was bewildered, but because I received a high mark on the final, many people assumed that I had a thorough understanding of the subject."

A substantial amount of criticism, constructive and otherwise, is coming from the younger generation. They are vocal and visible. But has this not always been true? Aristotle is believed to have said in 350 B.C.:

"They (the young) have exalted notions, because they have not yet been humbled by life or learned its necessary limitations; moreover, their hopeful disposition makes them think themselves equal to great things, and that do noble deeds than useful ones. Their lives are regulated more by moral feeling than by reasoning. All their mistakes are in the direction of doing things excessively and vehemently—they love too much and hate too much—and the same with everything else."

(From March 15, 1970, Presbyterian Life)

If we had to make a choice, we would say too much criticism is preferred to none at all. It is essential to all human growth and development. It is the root of the creative process. Without religion turns to form, the spirit sighs and our hearts are filled with heaviness. Biblical criticism is the major course at every seminary in the world. Out of this field has come The New English Bible.

Like other major efforts developed through biblical scholarship, it is the product of thoughtful criticism. The cycle of change and comment is eternal—but to know the right amount has never been a human quality.

Seattle Unit Seeks End To BYU Rivalry

SEATTLE (UPI) — Seattle University student body officers today recommended the legal school terminate relations with Brigham Young University after the three scheduled basketball games between the two schools are completed.

The last game contracted between the two schools is set for Dec. 14, 1974.

The student body officers also recommended that SU basketball players be given the right to refuse to participate in any game with BYU.

Flood's Suit Trial Date Is Delayed

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Curt Flood law suit against the reserve clause is continuing its furling, tortuous route through federal court.

Flood, seeking to overthrow the reserve clause, had the start of his trial set back one day Thursday from May 18 to May 19 by the request of attorneys.

The judge did rule against Flood on two of his minor contentions: that CBS' ownership of the Yankees kept the network from bidding on the TV package and the fact that only owner August Busch's beer is sold in the St. Louis Stadium cuts down on possible revenue.

CBS claimed it had bid on the TV package and the judge ruled the arrangements for the sale of beer wasn't hurting the players.

However, the key point remains Flood's fight against the reserve clause and Judge Cooper's decision that "exploration of the operation and effect of the reserve system is vital to any determination" means that Flood will get a full hearing in court.

A Word For It—State Officials Get Stuck

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI)—A spot check of state fiscal policies indicated Thursday that Idaho's Legislature apparently expects state officials and employees to subsidize their own travels on official business.

Interest in state expense accounts was refocused this week by the case against Dryden Hiller, Boise, a former secretary of the State Athletic Commission.

Hiller was accused of obtaining $134 by false pretenses of a travel voucher for an official trip to Pittsburgh, Pa. Justice of the Peace Frank Chalfant Jr. acquitted Hiller after a 5-1/2 hour trial.

Testimony at the trial indicated, however, that some employees feel strapped unnecessarily by restrictions placed on reimbursement for their expenses while they travel on official business.

By law, regulation and practice they received 10 cents per mile for travel by private car or airplane, actual costs by public transportation, actual lodging and $6 per day for meals in-state and $7.50 per day for meals when out of state.

Most officials and employees questioned by United Press International indicated they felt the meal allowances too low—particularly for travel outside the state. Some also felt the mileage allowance "was unrealistic."

Car Ruled Out
During the court trial, Charles L. Holley Jr., present state budget director and former director of the Bureau of Public Accounts, testified that private car travel usually is ruled out on long trips.

Yet one department, realizing sometimes its employees may want to take their spouses with them to conventions, will permit employees to travel by car—and reimburse them for airline travel costs for one person.

This, in itself, one official admitted, is not exactly "honest" expense accounting in the true sense of the word. But the agency which does this considers it to be fair—not only to the employee but to the taxpayer.

Supreme Court Justices and their clerks are exempt from the travel restrictions and receive actual out-of-pocket expenses for meals and lodging. But district judges and other court employees are restricted by the regulations limiting reimbursement for meals to $6 per day in-state and $7.50 per day out of state.

State Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley frequently must travel in the course of his official duties—both in and out of state. He said he does not believe the expense allowance for meals is adequate in light of today's costs.

In Washington, D.C., for instance, Trombley said, it costs considerably more than $7.50 per day allowed by the state.

An official who travels frequently to the nation's capital—Federal state Coordinator Dick Hughes agrees with this statement.

"I travel to Washington, D.C.," Hughes said, "and anyone who is familiar with that city knows you can't eat on $7.50 per day...I generally go in the hole."

"I'm not saying they ought to be raised but they don't cover expenses."

"Legislative Policy"
"The policy is up to the legislature to set, however," he added.

Attorney General Robert M. Robson put it another way. "For example, when I went to Washington in February for the national association meeting," he said, "the allowance didn't cover my costs."

"You can't get dinner for less than $5 and the company you keep you can't go to a greasy spoon. Often, you spend the full allowance just for dinner."

Robson sometimes travels by his own aircraft, a plane he calls "old and slow." He said he just about breaks even on the 10 cents per road mile allowed him for use of his own plane. But he said others probably cannot fly that cheap. One who can't is Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa.

"It cost me twice as much as I get," Cenarrusa said. "I can't do it on private business but on state business you've got to do it but you take a loss."

Abortion Bill Is Given To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A bill that would allow a woman to have a legal abortion anywhere in the United States if a licensed doctor performed the operation was introduced Thursday by Sen. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore.

"The decision to terminate a pregnancy must properly be left to the woman and her private conscience," Packwood told the Senate.

While conceding his proposal stood little chance of passage in this, a congressional election year, the senator said he introduced the legislation in "an attempt to bring some order and logic into an area of law which in its confusion, vagueness and inequality of enforcement has been cruel and discriminatory."

More liberal than abortion reform laws approved recently in various states, it would make a woman solely responsible for the decision, at any point in her pregnancy, and her only trouble would be in finding a physician willing to perform the operation.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a Roman Catholic, immediately opposed Packwood's proposal.

"I wonder how far you can stretch the interstate clause, even if it's considered in its broadest sense," Kennedy said.

House economists tried vainly for substantial cuts to bring the program nearer the $3.33 billion President Nixon sought, but succeeded in winning only a token $30 million reduction from $3.630 billion recommended by the House Committee.

The final passage roll call vote sending the bill to the Senate was 229 to 105. An unusual coalition of economy-minded conservatives and big city liberals urged sharp reductions in the space authorization for fiscal 1971, that begins July 1. One group argued inflation required it and the other claimed domestic needs deserved priority.

But the closest they could come was a losing 53 to 53 tie on a non-record vote to chop $240 million. At the urging of space committee leaders and House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, the House accepted a $30 million reduction under a parliamentary move that handed off any more attempts at deep cuts.

During debate, the bill's managers noted the authorization recommendation was the lowest since 1962 and said it represented the minimum program that would keep the United States ahead in space. But Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who was badly beaten on an attempt to cut it by $1.5 billion,

Robber Kills Two Officers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A security guard and an off duty policeman were killed Thursday by a bank robber who was shot to death himself after an 80 mile per hour chase by motorcycle officers.

Police said the holdup man, carrying a black satchel, entered the Security Pacific Bank branch in south central Los Angeles shortly before noon and demanded money at the point of a .38-caliber revolver.

The bank guard was fatally wounded when he tried to stop the robbery. The robber ran into the bank parking lot where he was sighted by the off duty patrolman, Earl Riddick, 30, who was passing by.

There was an exchange of shots and Riddick was killed. The bandit drove off in a 1968 Pontiac and its bullet-shattered rear window drew the attention of motorcycle officers C. E. Teague and F. T. Albert.

The officers took up chase. The holdup man made a screaming turn, bounced off a curb, jumped from his car and fled on foot.

The suspect was finally located hiding beneath a trailer under a cabin cruiser in a yard about half a mile from the bank. He was shot and died on the scene.

Moon Momentum Is Kept Alive In House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House, heeding pleas to keep the momentum that put the first man on the moon, Thursday approved a $3.6 billion space program authorization that included an extra Apollo flight and research into manned flights into deep space.

House economists tried vainly for substantial cuts to bring the program nearer the $3.33 billion President Nixon sought, but succeeded in winning only a token $30 million reduction from $3.630 billion recommended by the House Committee.

Two Approaches Are Set For Property Tax

BOISE (UPI)—Deputy Attorney General Thomas C. Frost said Wednesday two different approaches to property tax exemptions for charitable and fraternal organizations are valid even though the bills amend the same section of the Idaho code.

While both clarify the separate sphere of influence, he said the House bill relates strictly to a charitable organization, while the Senate bill covers all of the institutions coming under the statute.

Both bills were meant to ease the impact of recent property taxes imposed on YMCAs and Deseret Industries.

Shaken Pilot Back After Cuba Flight

MIAMI (UPI)—A shaken pilot flew back from Cuba Thursday and reported the Black Panther ex-convict and girlfriend who hijacked him got a chilly reception by the FBI's Castro regime.

Boyce Stradley, 56, of Gastonia, N.C., said a Cuban military official told him the Castro regime "did not want that type of people in Cuba," and that the hijacker and the young girl probably "would be shipped out of the country within two weeks."

Stradley, a strapping 200-pounder, flew the Cessna 172 single-engine aircraft here from Havana and was greeted by a super-security FBI reception at Miami International Airport. Agents ordered Stradley to taxi his plane to a fire station in the middle of the gift-limits complex of runways, and then escorted him in a car to the customs and immigration facility.

Hijacker Identified
Stradley was hijacked at Gastonia Wednesday night by a Negro identified as Ira David "Orrie" Meeks, 26, recently released from a New York prison where he had served time for armed robbery. North Carolina records show he earlier was convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his brother-in-law. With him was a girl identified as Diane McKinney, 18. Both are from Gastonia.

Stradley flew to Havana from Gastonia, making refueling stops at Rock Hill, S.C., Jacksonville, Fla., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He landed in Havana at 5:40 a.m. EST and was back in this country at 1:20 p.m.

The Cubans treated me very well. I have never been treated any better," said Stradley.

He said the hijacker and the girl were taken off by military officials as soon as the plane landed at Havana and he didn't see them again. He said the Cubans gave him no indication where the hijacker and girl might be sent from Cuba.

Stradley said the man and girl chartered his plane in Gastonia for $200 for what was supposed to be a sight-seeing hop over the town—but they wound up getting a ride to Cuba for $8. He said shortly after he took off, the hijacker stuck a 22-caliber pistol to the pilot's head and said he wanted to go to Cuba.

Students Consent On Stay

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Militant students at Pennsylvania State University consented Thursday to a compromise court injunction which barred them from seizing control of any building on campus.

Attorneys for the university and the students hammered out the wording of the court order at a 5-1/2-hour meeting with Judge R. Paul Campbell of Centre County Court in nearby Bellefonte, Pa.

Campbell then rescinded an earlier preliminary injunction which barred demonstrations inside campus buildings, and replaced it with the compromise injunction. He set a hearing for 8 a.m. Friday to make the new injunction permanent.

More than 300 Penn State students jammed the courtroom while the attorneys for both sides met with Campbell. A hearing on the original injunction had been set for 10 a.m. but the agreement was not announced until about 3 p.m.

Campbell's original injunction was issued when violence broke out on the university campus during a demonstration April 15.

Fire Burns Castleford Farm Site

CASTLEFORD—An early morning fire of undetermined cause Friday destroyed all buildings but the house on Mrs. Juanita Guerry's farm near Castleford. No estimate of damage was available but the place is considered one of the show places in the area.

Rural fire departments from both Castleford and Buhl answered the call turned in by a passer-by at about 5 a.m. today. Destroyed were a shed, granary, machine shed, barn and some hay and corral.

Firemen were able to keep the blaze from spreading to the farmhouse which is some distance from the other buildings. They reported the wind was favorable.

Expanded training for 4-H club leaders in livestock is being planned by University of Idaho extension service and College of Southern Idaho's Area Vocational School.

Olan Genn, Twin Falls county 4-H club agent, said this training will be by lecture and demonstrational classes on subjects such as selection, feeding, health and fitting for showings of 4-H beef, dairy swine, sheep and horse projects.

During an organizational meeting earlier this week at CSI vocational school, Orval Bradley, director of the school, said the college was ready to make available facilities and subject matter and personnel together with county 4-H club leaders in making it possible for leaders, junior leaders, parents and members be able to lead any kind of 4-H club livestock project.

Mr. Genn says under this kind of plan, home economics club leaders might be able to include livestock projects also and make room for more 4-H members without increasing the number of leaders.

However, he said, the need for such a plan clearly demonstrates the urgent need for more 4-H leaders.

The schedule of meetings is planned so parents may assist their own child with, for example, a fat lamb project after receiving the training, even though the child belongs to a 4-H club where there are no other sheep projects.

Mr. Bradley said there is a demand and need for expanded education in all phases of agriculture and the college is in the position to meet these demands.

The first of these meetings will be conducted Thursday in CSI's vocation school building, Kimberly Road, beginning with beef from 7:30 to 9 p.m. (followed by a lecture on dairy at 9 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.)

On May 4 in the vocational school building, the first meeting on sheep and swine will be held. Other classes will be announced later.

Committee chairmen are Jim Olson, sheep; Bill Loughmiller, swine; Bob Holloway, dairy; Leroy (Andy) Anderson; horses, and Herschel Boydston, CSI agriculture department head, beef. Boydston also will be coordinator in all phases of the program along with Mr. Genn.

All area 4-H leaders, parents and anyone else interested in livestock are welcome.

Carey Girl Attending National 4-H Confab

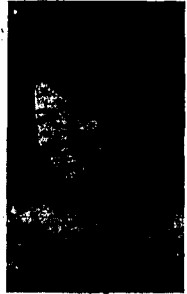

CAREY — Barbara Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Baird, Carey, is one of the Idaho's five delegates to the National 4-H Conference at Washington D.C., which is now under way.

Miss Baird is currently a freshman at Idaho State University, majoring in home economics.

The National 4-H Conference is the meeting place of some 250 young men and women who have demonstrated extra, outstanding talents in their 4-H work and leadership abilities. The action caps the highlights of Miss Baird's 4-H career.

"Barb," as she is known to her friends, has had a long career in 4-H in Blaine County and the state, stemming from 1961. Her projects have included art, feeds and nutrition, health, home improvement, child care, food preservation, personal development, child care, personal development, junior leadership and room improvement.

She was listed as a state winner with an expense paid trip by the S & H Foundation to National 4-H Congress at Chicago in 1967 for her work in room improvement.

BARBARA BAIRD

Growers Association sponsored the program.

Miss Baird has served as historian for the Gem State 4-H Club representing all of Idaho in 1968. She was elected by those in attendance at the state 4-H congress in 1967.

During her Blaine County 4-H career, Miss Baird has served in all 4-H offices of her clubs and has received many recognitions for her achievements through the locally sponsored trophies and achievement pins from national 4-H supporters.

Leaders who have worked with Miss Baird include Mrs. Baird, Mrs. Gene Sweat, Mrs. Leon Peck, Mrs. Larry Peterson and Mrs. Boyd Barton. Miss Baird's brother, Rusty, is currently enrolled in the 4-H forestry and range development program.

In recognizing Miss Baird's achievements, county agent Jim Eskin said, "Barbara typifies a like image of the strength of 4-H across the nation. She is the reason that 4-H is the fastest growing youth program in the United States with over 3 1/2 million boys and girls enrolled. Her ambitions, personal goals, and strong character make her the encouragement of tomorrow."

Timing Of Corn Important

SHOSHONE — "Time of planting is important in growing corn," Lincoln County Extension Agent, Ivan Hopkins, states.

He explains that in western Idaho where the season is generally longest, planting will be active the latter part of April in the intermediate zones and district of short seasons, the job comes later.

Corn does well of most soils if fertility is high. It can be planted earlier in sandy soil than in clay or silt. Many areas that grow good corn in spite of relatively short seasons are able to do so because of light soil that warms quickly in the spring and stays warm during the growing season.

Any corn crop should have 100 to 160 pounds of available nitrogen per acre, and this can be put on during preparation of the land or by side dressing. In areas where stalk rot is a problem, side dressing can be detrimental. Use of fertilizer should be based on soil tests and recommendations from the county agent.

Irrigation before plowing will assure adequate moisture in the top three feet of soil, agricultural scientists say. Such moisture will enable the corn to grow well before the first irrigation after planting. The seedbed should be mellow and free of weeds. Corn seeds are more likely to decay in a tight seedbed than in a soft one.

Plant from two weeks to a month before the last killing frost. Corn can be frosted when it is two to eight inches high and still recover a substantial crop. More fields are lost by late planting than by planting too early. However, early planting loses its advantage if soil is wet and air temperature is below 50 degrees.

Planting rate is largely determined by the productive ability of the soil. If it is highly fertile, a rate of 22,000 to 25,000 plants per acre is desirable. There are hybrids in each maturity range that will respond to high planting rates.

Planter speed should be no faster than two and one-half miles per hour. Greater speed causes skips and poor stands.

Wendell 4-H Club Elects

WENDELL — Cynthia McCloud was elected president of the Mighty Millers and Pins and Pans 4-H Club recently at a meeting in the Wendell Grange Hall.

Other officers are Karrie Rose Gockner, vice president; Jeanie Benson, secretary; Carol Hobbler, reporter; Cheryl McCloud, song leader, and Vicki and Teresa Miller, recreation leaders.

Mrs. Dorothy Grive, home demonstration agent, was guest and helped with the organizational part of the club. Mrs. Ivan Miller, leader, was hostess for the social hour that followed the business meeting.

USDA Has New Egg System

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has adopted a new dating system for egg cartons packed under its voluntary federal egg-grading system.

Under the new plan, effective July 1, all cartons packed under federal grading will have to carry a stamp showing the packing date.

The marking will be done under a "successive day" numbering system with a separate number for each day of the year. Cartons packed on April 1, for example, would be stamped "01" because that was the 91st day of the year.

Some supermarket chains currently stamp their egg cartons with an "expiration date" and regrade any eggs unsold by that date, officials said. A spokesman said stores would be free to continue the old dating practice on federally-graded eggs as a supplement to the packing date code required by the new regulation.

The new "number code" dating regulation replaces a rule which gave egg plants several optional methods of dating egg packed under federal grading. Something less than half of all shell eggs sold to consumers are packed under the federal grading program, experts estimated.

Workshop Set

Plans for a workshop were made by members of the Dozen Dudes 4-H Club recently.

The workshop will be held May 2. Members at the workshop will prepare their horses for the 4-H horse show on May 10.

Beet Leafhopper Conditions In Southern Idaho Outlined

Beet leafhopper conditions in Southern Idaho are, outlined today by Roland Portman, University of Idaho extension entomologist.

The leafhopper conditions are a result of a survey by USDA, ARS, Plant Protection Division personnel of overwintered beet leafhoppers. The data was compiled by Keith R. Evans, Twin Falls, supervisor of the division.

The survey shows that host plant conditions in western Idaho in cultivated areas are fairly normal and some hot spots will occur.

Farmers in all areas should clean up pepper weed, flax and mustard in the cultivated areas to help reduce the chance of curly top invasion, notes Mr. Evans.

The first viruliferous tests by the Entomology Research Division personnel show 4.3 of viruliferous beet leafhoppers in Owyhee orchard areas, 8.3 in Glenns Ferry area, 12.6 in Saylor Creek area and 21.6 in Rattlesnake Gulch area.

Host plants are far below normal in desert areas in Saylor Creek, Indian Cover and most of the Mountain Home area. There may be 3,000 acres in Rattlesnake Gulch area and 3,500 acres in Owyhee in orchard areas that would justify control. Nymphal surveys will be made to check these areas.

Mr. Evans noted that adverse weather conditions are affecting the leafhopper development and if these conditions continue, chances of control are slim as there may not be enough leafhoppers to justify control.

The survey shows that in the Glenns Ferry area beet leafhoppers averaged 11 per 100 samples (each sample is equal to one square foot) as compared to 52 in 1969, 7 in 1968, 22 in 1967, 20 in 1966, 20 in 1965 and 8 in 1964.

In the Jerome-Gooding area, leafhoppers averaged 16 per 100 samples as compared to 21 in 1969, 136 in 1968, 18 in 1967, 90 in 1966, 6 in 1965 and 2 in 1964.

In the Mountain Home area, they averaged 44 per 100 samples as compared to 78 in 1969, 11 in 1968, 11 in 1967, 74 in 1966, 26 in 1965 and 6 in 1964.

Leafhoppers in the Saylor Creek area averaged 31 per 100 samples as compared to 87 in 1969, 54 in 1968, 37 in 1967, 19 in 1966, 30 in 1965 and 37 in 1964.

In the Bruneau-Murphy areas they averaged 24 per 100 samples as compared to 19 in 1969, 34 in 1968, 27 in 1967, 42 in 1966, 100 in 1965 and 37 in 1964. No surveys were conducted in the Twin Falls area because of limited time.

The leafhopper populations in the combined range breeding areas averaged 28 per 100 samples as compared to 60 in 1969, 31 in 1968, 22 in 1967, 90 in 1966, 18 in 1965, 22 in 1964, 16 in 1963, 72 in 1962, 44 in 1961, 19 in 1960, 17 in 1959, 16 in 1958 and 65 in 1957.

Wheat Unit Aide Raps Measure

BOISE — "A giant step backward" was the description applied today to an amended Farm Bill passed last week by the House Livestock and Grains Subcommittee.

Wynne Henderson, Neperce, president of the Idaho State Wheat Growers Association, said the amended bill was proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"This bill destroys the parity concept of present farm programs and removes any chance of a fair return for the nation's wheat producers," Henderson asserted. "In a time of rising costs, this proposed legislation guarantees the farmer a comparatively lower income."

The revised legislation provides for a three-year program and requires the secretary of agriculture to set the loan price for wheat at between 80 per cent and 100 per cent of the estimated world price. Compliers would be guaranteed $2.77 on wheat for domestic use; payment would reflect the difference between the average market price for the first five months of the marketing year and $2.77.

The Secretary is required to make payment after July 1 to program participants of 75 per cent of their total estimated payment. The balance due wheat compliers would be received following the first five months of the marketing year which begins July 1.

The subcommittee vote passed the amendments by a narrow nine-to-eight margin.

"Doing away with the parity concept will consistently lower farmers' incomes relative to the rapidly rising cost of production," Henderson said. "Pegging agricultural producers' incomes at a specific level while every other segment of the economy is going up makes this a giant step backward for the farmer."

Henderson claimed the subcommittee move would depress the price of wheat 10 cents per bushel over the long run. He added that since the prices of commodities produced in Idaho are in effect geared to the price of basic commodity, wheat, a downturn in income for all farmers would be the eventual result.

Livestock Projects Discussed

FILER — Each member of the Filer Livestock 4-H Club told what type of animal they will be showing at the Twin Falls County Fair and what work they have done with the animal when the group met at the home of Jerry Kruse.

Plans were made for a picnic and swimming party. At the April 30 meeting at the Kruse home, Bill Blass and Buddy Fuller will talk on the proper fitting and showing of beef and dairy cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruse, leaders, plan to visit the home of each member, to meet their parents and see the member's animal project for the fair.

Refreshments were served by Bobby Noh.

4th Degree Is Given To Couple

WENDELL — Mr. and Mrs. Luther Thomas were given the fourth degree at the recent meeting of the West Point Grange by Joe Sullivan.

Mrs. Anna Kurtz, lecturer, reported on the lecturers conference which was held recently at Bliss.

A report was heard on the dump ground in the West Point area.

The program consisted of numbers by Mrs. Donald McCLOUD, Mrs. George HUDSON, Mrs. John CONNOR, and Mrs. Elmer HANSON. "Bits of Wisdom" were given by Ervin Rast, John Connor, and Chris Kurtz. Mrs. John Newbrough gave a reading. Joe Sullivan told of his recent visit to Texas and Arizona.

SHOWING a pamphlet on Soil Stewardship Week, May 3-10, to Gov. Don Samuelson is Mrs. Glenn Nelson, Twin Falls, Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts auxiliary official. Looking on is Rev. Eugene Tjarks, left, pastor of the Our Savior Lutheran Church, Twin Falls. Mrs. Nelson explained to the Governor that all Idaho churches are being asked to participate in Soil Stewardship Week by stressing soil stewardship to their congregations. Mrs. Nelson says Idahoans need to work together to preserve the natural resources we have.

Idahoans Testify At Rail Rates Hearings

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Members of the Idaho grain industry have completed testimony here before the Interstate Commerce Commission in opposition to a Santa Fe Railroad proposal to sharply reduce freight rates on midwest flour and wheat being moved to California cities.

Harold West, Boise, administrator of the Idaho Wheat Commission, and Dexter David, Blackfoot, president of the Idaho Feed and Grain Association, were cross examined by Santa Fe attorneys on statements and evidence Idaho interests had entered in opposition to the midwest rate maneuver.

West, who was the only representative of wheat growers in western states subpoenaed for the hearing, summarized his position on the issue with this statement: "Idaho and other western wheat producing states already serving the California market grow enough wheat to supply existing California demand and take care of any expanded consumption which might follow the population growth of that state.

"Our growers have had to reduce crop production in recent years because, in fact, we do not have enough markets at this time. If the proposed rates were to be approved, the addition of the vast over-supplies of midwestern flour and wheat could only result in a most dramatic decline in demand and price for our own wheat."

David, an independent grain elevator operator in Blackfoot, assessed the potential injury to Idaho grain industry interests if the proposal was approved by the ICC. He pointed out that the midwest claim of a "catastrophe" because of flour mill closures in recent years was not unique.

"Idaho had 34 flour mills operating in 1942," David said. "In 1951, only 22 mills were operating, and there are only three mills in production now. If the midwest interests claim their situation is a catastrophe, Idaho is left without a suitable word to describe the situation here."

Robert L. Henry, Boise, traffic consultant and administrator of the Idaho Transportation Council, represented Idaho interests at the ICC hearing which lasted a full week and will be continued at a later date not yet determined.

This case has attracted wide attention in grain circles because of the direct confrontation between western and midwestern flour mills, Henry explained. Union Pacific and Northern railroads are also adamantly opposing the Santa Fe rate plan, which would cut midwest rates on shipping from

$1.52 to $1.18 per hundred gives an indication of how hotly contested the issues are."

"All but one of the 37 witnesses in the case have been at the hearing directed that called for cross-examination," Henry said. "This proportion is rather unusual and in itself appears.

Bean Commission Reviews Research

MOSCOW — Bean research projects currently in progress and problems that need attention were reviewed recently at the annual Idaho Bean Commission meeting with the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, Gerard Baker, Hazelton, as chairman of the commission, presided at the meeting.

Dr. A. M. Pinley, head of the Plant Science Department, reviewed bean research under way at Idaho. Dr. James W. Guthrie, plant pathologist, presented a final report on the Halo Blight research work he has been conducting for several years.

Of special interest to the commission members was the discussion concerning control of the western bean cutworm. The Idaho bean industry may have a serious problem in controlling this insect in light of restrictions on use of some chemical Patoran takes care with potatoes while it takes care of weeds.

Now you can stop a wide range of grasses and weeds without subjecting your crop to undue risk of herbicide injury. CIBA's Patoran 50 WP Herbicide gives control of annual grasses and broadleaf weeds such as crabgrass, goosegrass, barnyardgrass, pigweeds, lambsquarters, smartweeds, ragweeds, wild mustard, and many others. And, using according to directions, Patoran offers a high margin of safety with no adverse effect on tuber qualities.

Patoran needs no incorporation. Rainfall sufficient to permit weed germination or crop growth will activate Patoran. Just apply it preemergence, broadcast or band, to the soil surface at planting, or preemergence to potatoes at drag-off.

This season, get the kind of weed control you want with the margin of safety you need. See your CIBA dealer for Patoran. The herbicide that takes care with potatoes while it takes care of weeds.

might well make the same play but he would be playing bad bridge. He should be interested in scoring 1440 points for a six no-trump bid and made with both sides vulnerable and shouldn't try for the extra 30 points for the overtrick.

With all this in mind, South would proceed to give away a trick very early in the play by leading a low spade. This is called a submarine squeeze or recifying the count and is designed to ensure his contract with both minor suits breaking badly provided the same opponent is long in both of them.

Once that low spade is conceded, South cashes the high spades and hearts and East has to discard a club or diamond on the last one played. This sets up a 12th trick for South and he makes the slam.

REACH FOR THE WANT AD WAY TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

© MCS 4-70

There is no better way to solve some problems than by putting an inexpensive, quick-acting Want Ad to work. Sure there are some problems that even a Want Ad can't solve, but if you have something you want to sell, or something you need but can't locate, or a room or apartment to rent, or if you need a better job, or part-time work, you just can't beat an inexpensive little ad to come to your rescue.

And all it takes is a phone call to put one of these hefty little problem solvers on the job. And if you have a phone listed in your name, you can say "charge it".

When you call the Journal to place your ad, a helpful, well-trained Ad-visor will help you word your ad, and tell you just how much it will cost. Placing the ad is truly a pleasant experience, and you will be surprised how little it will cost.

Reach for your phone now, and dial the Want Ad number 733-0931
