Haitian Assails 'Plot'

PORTAU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI)—President Francois Duvalier charged Sunday night that last weekend's revolt in which three Haitian coast guard vessels shelled the presidential palace was part of a Communist plot to oust him from office.

Duvalier said 15 percent of the guardsmen aboard the three ships had pirated them just as aircraft were hijacked by air pirates. Speaking in a forceful tone, the president said those responsible were traitors and Communists.

He said Col. Octave Caillard was at the head of the attempted coup.

The effort to oust him, Duvalier said, was an attempt to put a Marxist-Leninist regime into power. He said papers found in the home of Caillard clearly revealed that he was involved in a Communist plot.

Duvalier is in his 13th year as president and his authority is apparently undiminished and his government seemingly unshaken by the latest attempt to oust him.

A FORMER U.S. AIR FORCE COLONEL, who graduated from the aeronautical engineering school at the California Institute of Technology, Chien Hsu-Shen, was listed by Communist China as one of their prime scientists in the development and launching of their first satellite. The 346-pound "singing satellite," broadcasting Red Chinese political anthems, was launched Sunday. Chien is shown in a 1967 photograph taken in Communist China. (UPI telephoto)

Court Will Study D.C. Abortion Law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court, in a case that could produce a landmark decision, agreed today to examine the constitutionality of the District of Columbia's abortion law.

The court will schedule arguments next fall on an appeal by the Justice Department from a ruling last Nov. 10 by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell striking down the district's 69-year-old criminal statute against illegal abortion. The case will be decided by written opinion of the high court.

Gesell dismissed an indictment of Dr. Milan Vutich, a Yugoslav immigrant who has been crusading for more liberal abortion policies.

Many states have laws similar to the district's, which bars an abortion except when "necessary for the preservation of the mother's life or health."

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and other abortion law activists have participated in recent stepped-up efforts to liberalize abortion laws. The most liberal one went into effect March 11 in Hawaii.

Sorensen Condemns Mitchell

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former presidential aide Theodore C. Sorensen charged Sunday an attempt to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is "another indication of the attempt to clamp down on dissent" in the nation. He said Attorney General John N. Mitchell "may well be behind this whole (impeachment) procedure."

Sorensen said Mitchell "likes to read other people's mail... listen to their telephone calls" and could be setting a precedent for the impeachment of others besides Douglas—specifically, Mitchell himself.

"This is another indication of the attempt to clamp down on dissent and other unorthodoxy," Sorensen said of the impeachment drive. "But there may be others who might be impeached. For example, the man who may well be behind this whole procedure. Someone might say let's impeach Mitchell."

Release Of Kopechne Data Sought By Court Assistant

By PHILIP BALBONI
BOSTON (UPI)—The attorney for a court stenographer who is fighting to win distribution rights to the Mary Jo Kopechne inquest transcript has made two proposals to the state attorney general, which would result in release of the document within 72 hours, UPI learned Sunday.

Jerome P. Pachter revealed the substance of the proposals in response to questions during an interview.

He said "one of the suggestions would completely terminate the entire controversy on a fair basis to parties and the public."

Pachter said he would not give details of the proposals because they remained open for action by Massachusetts Attorney General Robert H. Quinn.

The transcript containing the secret testimony of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and 26 other witnesses at the inquest into Miss Kopechne's death. The 28-year-old Rhode Island secretary died last summer when a car driven by the surviving Kennedy son went off a bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island.

Pachter represents Sidney H. Lipman, one of two court stenographers who transcribed the inquest. Lipman claims he has the exclusive right to reproduce and sell copies of the 704 page transcript.

Suffolk Superior Court Clerk Edward V. Keating, who has been custodian of the document since it was impounded two months ago, maintains the court's authority to handle distribution. The attorney general stepped into the controversy last Friday and announced he may file a bill Monday to remove the danger of a damage suit against

Smashup Kills 6 Soldiers

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. military headquarters today reported a crash Sunday in the most costly single incident of the six-year-old air war over Laos. Six Americans were killed and four are missing.

The AC130 gunship crashed last Wednesday after it was hit by groundfire over the Laotian borderpanhandle. The announcement of the loss was delayed during a search for the missing crewmen.

One injured crewman was rescued with minor injuries, spokesmen said. Military sources said it was costliest single aircraft loss since the United States began flying combat missions over Laos in 1964.

The Air Force said B52s and fighter-bombers flew new raids today against North Vietnamese troops who encircle the Green Beret camp at Dak Seang, 290 miles northeast of Saigon.

Guerrilla troops around the camp shot down a U.S. helicopter near Dak Seang Sunday, killing all four crewmen. It was the 13th U.S. aircraft lost since the siege of Dak Seang began April 1.

Military sources predicted a new high point in the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese spring offensive this weekend to coincide with the worldwide Communist May Day. They suggested the attacks would be concentrated in cities.

Field reports said six Americans were killed and 27 wounded in two battles Sunday north-northwest of Saigon.

'Jackie' Arrives On U.S. Visit

BOSTON (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis flew into Boston Sunday night on the first leg of a journey that will keep her in this country until July.

Mrs. Onassis, who flew into Boston from Rome, would not comment on reports she was attempting to dissuade her stepdaughter, Christina, 18, from calling off her engagement to Greek shipping heir Petros Goulandris.

She said she would meet with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and take part in a meeting of the John F. Kennedy Library Foundation in Cambridge today.

Reports from Greece said Christina had intended to announce her engagement to Goulandris, 23, at a family party on Onassis' island of Skorpios, but instead she flew to New York.

Hijacked Jet Lands In Havana

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—A Brazilian airliner hijacked over the Amazon jungle Saturday by two men has landed in Havana, a spokesman for the VASP airline said Sunday.

The spokesman said the 35 passengers allowed to debark from the plane when it made a fuel stop in Georgetown, Guyana, were flown to Manaus, Brazil, Sunday.

The Boeing 737 was en route from Brasilia to Manaus, 925 miles up the Amazon, with 45 persons aboard when one of the hijackers put a 38-caliber pistol to the head of the pilot, Joao Jeronimo Fontoura, and ordered him to fly to Cuba, the spokesman said.

He said Fontoura described the hijacking in radio conversation with a company ground station. Fontoura identified the gunman as a Brazilian, about 50 years of age.

Talks Charted

TOKYO (UPI)—Peking radio said today the next U.S.-Communist China ambassadorial talks will be held in Warsaw May 20.

Guarded

LONDON (UPI)—London newspapers reported Sunday that Scotland Yard has posted an extra guard on the eight-year-old son of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon because of a suspected kidnap plot.

The Times of London said in early editions of its Monday issue that the Yard was tipped that Lord Linley would be held for ransom in exchange for the release of two unidentified criminals now in prison.

Official Of Taiwan Ends Trip

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Chiang Ching Kuo, vice premier of nationalist China, toured a nuclear electric power generating station Sunday in the windup of his visit to the United States marked by an assassination attempt in New York.

Chiang, son and heir apparent of Chiang Kai-shek, flew from Denver, Colo., in an Air Force C-130 plane into El Toro Marine Air Station, southwest of Los Angeles Sunday afternoon.

Under heavy security guard, Chiang then went by motorcycle to the Atomic Energy Commission plant at San Oflore, Calif., just south of President Nixon's Western White House at San Clemente.

Chiang's movements were so guarded that it took an hour to verify that he had arrived in California from Colorado.

Chiang and his party spent about 45 minutes inspecting the nuclear power plant. Nationalist China has plans to build such a plant of its own on Formosa and the vice premier asked a number of questions about the economics of its operation.

Soviets Orbit 8 Satellites

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets announced today they launched eight unmanned satellites into earth orbit with one rocket space feat.

The official news agency Tass said all eight satellites "are moving along close to calculated orbits."

ABM Argument, Court Post Slated For Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The two issues that have kept members of Congress on the edge of their seats for the past year—the ABM and the Supreme Court vacancy—come to the surface on Capitol Hill again this week.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, for the third time in eight months, begins Wednesday to dig into the life and public record of a nominee for the Supreme Court.

President Nixon's first two choices for the court vacancy, Southerners Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell, were rejected by close, traumatic Senate votes. His latest choice, Federal Appeals Judge Harry Blackmun of Minnesota, was, initially at least, noncontroversial.

On the same day, the House begins debate on President Nixon's $20.2 billion military procurement bill that contains funds for an expansion of the always-controversial Safeguard antiballistic missile system. Nine months ago the ABM was saved from Senate defeat by one vote in a 60-50 tie and this year it has lost most support.

Blackmun's nomination has not inspired the intense opposition that led to the downfall of Nixon's other nominees. Civil rights advocates regard him as an ally.

But Southerners are disgruntled after losing a chance for representation on the court.

Arab Policy Stirs Israeli Concern

By United Press International
The Israeli government is gravely concerned at a reported Jordanian statement it no longer recognizes the cease-fire. That a note drawing his attention to the grave significance Israel places on the report. The note will ask Thant to obtain clarification from Amman.

The sources said that as far as the Israeli government is concerned Jordan never has honored the cease-fire to the letter. There has been sporadic fighting across the river but the cease-fire has been patched up, largely through the good offices of the United States.

Israeli concern over the Jordanian front arose from a reported statement on Jordanian television Friday night by Jordanian Foreign Minister Abdul Monem Hifal that the Israel-Jordan cease-fire agreement no longer exists.

But Southerners are disgruntled after losing a chance for representation on the court.

Nixon Will Oppose Law On Voting Age

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House said Sunday President Nixon would ask House leaders this week to reject a Senate move to lower the voting age to 18 by legislation. Instead, he will ask that the minimum age be lowered through a constitutional amendment.

Nixon, a spokesman said, favors the lower minimum age but is doubtful that it can be legally accomplished by a Senate rider on the Voting Rights Act.

The President, according to the White House, will urge the House to separate the rider and the bill, then join the Senate in preparing a constitutional amendment that would have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states.

Already in the Senate there are 71 sponsors of a resolution calling for such an agreement. And there were indications that an amendment would be favorably accepted in the House.

Nixon is expected to tell House leaders, in a letter early this week, that he fears the 1972 elections might be jeopardized if 18 year olds vote under authority of the Senate rider.

Victim Of Kidnapers Is Freed

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI)—Kidnaped Guatemalan businessman Rudy Welsenberg Martinez was ransomed Sunday for $250,000, police said. Welsenberg's family was so sure of his release, that his son's wedding was held as scheduled Saturday night.

Police said Welsenberg was released Sunday morning in Coatepeque, on the Guatemalan side of the Mexican border, 175 miles northwest of Guatemala City. He was kidnaped Thursday by four terrorists armed with machine guns in a residential area of the Guatemalan capital.

The wedding of Welsenberg's son was arranged months before and the family did not think it would be worthwhile postponing it, even though the father was being held prisoner by terrorists.

U2 Pilot Would Do It Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ten years after his U2 spy plane was shot down over Russia, Francis Gary Powers figures his case may have started the "credibility gap" issue between the American people and their government.

He also wants the Kremlin to know that he is neither sorry nor repentant for having been a spy pilot and that he would do it again "if the job were necessary."

The CIA pilot's survival of the May 1, 1960 crash, the U.S. government's denial of his plane's mission and Nikita Khrushchev's triumphant disclosure that he had caught the United States in a lie was a blow that burned up the Cold War, chilled U.S. prestige abroad and embarrassed American citizens.

Powers has been waiting years for official permission to tell his side of the story. And now his book "Operation Overflight," coauthored by writer Curt Gentry, is ready for 10th anniversary publication.

The book, viewed through the experiences of the tumultuous 1960s, has few surprises about government snafus that haven't been repeated in the Bay of Pigs invasion or the Pueblo crisis. It does, however, tell the story of one person, neither a military man nor a James Bond type spy, who got caught in the world political grid mill and brought home to Americans the fact that Cold War games aren't played with Boy Scout rules.

Powers, now 40, hasn't changed much in appearance since the days of his spectacular show trial in Moscow where he pleaded guilty to spying and told the Russian people he was "repentant." At an interview this week he appeared fit and relaxed. His face is still boyish under slightly greying hair. He answered questions with a soft Southern accent, and with the quiet confidence of a man who believes he did the best he could.

"I feel exactly about the U2 flights as when I first found out about them," he said. "I think intelligence is necessary for survival against this type of enemy. This program was a great service to this country and the world. When I found out that the U.S. government would conduct a program like this I felt like a 10-foot-tall American."

"I still think that the people of the United States were proud of the fact of the U.S. flights. I am not proud of the fact that I was shot down and went through this very bad period of time. I'll bet you the majority of people of this country felt the same way. I did—that we weren't just sitting, stiff and getting pushed around."

In his book Powers claims that when he asked his intelligence officer before the ill-fated flight what he should do if shot down, the answer was:—"You may as well tell them everything," because they're going to get it out of you anyway."

However, he said he never disclosed anything that he didn't think the Russians knew already, keeping secret the altitude of his plane and details of other U2 flights.

"If I hadn't answered their questions I think that I would have been shot the first week. They kept saying that I was military, that I had performed an act of aggression against the Soviet Union. I had to keep saying, No, I am not military. I work for the CIA. I had a great fear that they could retaliate against military aggression, but that they only shoot spies."

The people in the agency (CIA) should have briefed us more and better. If I had known that they didn't have information that I thought they had I probably could have told them less. I thought they knew things they didn't know, because I was led to believe this in our organization."

At his trial, Powers' Soviet attorney told him that the only chance he had was to plead guilty and say he was repentant.

"My attorney said 'You've got to do this; it's the only defense you can have in this country.' This really backfired on me back here in the States. I thought at least the people in this country would realize that these were not normal circumstances and this was not an ordinary trial."

I could have got up and just made a big patriotic speech and not told them a thing—don't think I didn't think about it. But I don't think it would have served any purpose. It might have made a hero out of me. I have no desire to be a hero. I've never had any delusions of grandeur or whatever. I'm just an average American and like to be that."

"Sorry! I was sorry that the flight was stopped. When I said I was sorry for the flight, I was—Lord, I was... I was sorry to be there in Moscow and I had no qualms in saying that. My biggest sorrow now is that we didn't do the amount of work that we were capable of doing when we were invulnerable."

Powers suggest that Lee Harvey Oswald may have given the Russians information on U2 performance, as well as specifications on Marine Corps night-

WITH A WILD STOMP, a fully garbed Indian, followed by a troop of Indian "cubs," whoops his way through the Twin Falls High School auditorium during the annual Scout-O-Rama, celebrating Scouting's many advantages for the youth of the nation. The Scout-O-Rama, presented Friday and Saturday night, took the form of a drama centering around the "Manufacturing Machine," operated by a "mad scientist," portrayed by Robert Plumb of the CSI faculty, who sought to manufacture the "perfect man" with a bizarre machine. The device misfires and a horde of Indians pours through the portals when the Scout quality "bravery" is added to the makeup of the perfect man.

News Stories Take Odd Twists In "Crazy World Of Washington"

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Odds and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd:

At 25 bucks a throw, the Southwest Towing Co. hauls away cars parked in reserved or restricted spaces around new luxury apartments in Southwest Washington.

The firm, which operates under an agreement with building owners and managers, made a rather prominent enemy when it impounded the vehicle of Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.

Then it towed off the car of an inspector for the D.C. Department of Licenses and Inspections. The city government reprimanded the company, saying it was breaking the law by soliciting business and "cruising" for victims.

When Margaret S. Taylor emerged from a visit with a friend and found her car gone, she hurried to Southwest Towing, paid her $25—and arrested Andrew McDonald, the tow truck driver, for attempted grand larceny.

She's a policeman.

The city dropped the charge. But McDonald found out what it's like to spend a night in jail.

Secretary Robert H. Finch of Health, Education and Welfare told his audience the government had been trying to come up with a contraceptive for men, but that the only effective method discovered so far was "televising sports 24 hours a day."

Finch also confided that he was so naive when he first came to Washington that "I thought cyclamates rode around with the Hell's Angels."

The Interior Department observed Earth Day by eliminating pollution from a title.

It changed the name of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration to the Federal Water Quality Administration.

The Department of Transportation added to the confusion in the nation's capital by mailing out a single-sheet release that was blank on the front but had Page 2 printed on the back.

Soviet Backpedals On Geneva Confab

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The Soviet Union held out promise of a new Geneva Conference on Southeast Asia recently and, after letting the idea incubate for 92 hours, deftly but definitely backpedaled.

Diplomatic sources at the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation Talks in Vienna here that Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik was talking not to the United States and the West but to Communist China when he told a news conference last Thursday:

"The real situation appears to be that only a new Geneva Conference could bring about a fresh situation and relax tensions in the Indochina Peninsula.

Vienna reports said the Soviet Union backed off the suggestion because of negative reaction from Communist China and North Vietnam, both of which would be represented at new talks on the Vietnam-Laos-Cambodia situation.

Some correspondents felt Malik had made a diplomatic blunder in saying more than he intended. But Malik is a Soviet deputy foreign minister. In addition to being ambassador to the United Nations, former deputy chief of his Foreign Office press section and a veteran of 33 years in the diplomatic service, Kromlik spokesman with that experience do not make such mistakes.

Soviet diplomats sought to convey the impression Monday that Malik was misquoted. Assured that correspondents had reported what they heard in the English translation of his remarks, they observed knowingly that they had listened in the original Russian. The inference was that the translation provided by a U.N. interpreter was faulty. But the Soviet spokesman said there would be no complaint.

A UPI dispatch based on the quotation as heard in the English translation was in Malik's hands within a half-hour after his conference ended. But he did not choose to issue a denial of the purported misquotation.

Later, in a recorded interview, Malik added qualifications.

"Only a new Geneva Conference alone can decide the problem of activity of the (International Control) Commission (for Indochina)," he said. "However, convening such a conference is unrealistic at the present time."

The International Control Commission—now all but defunct—was set up by the 1954 Geneva Conference to police agreements ending the French Indochina War. The Soviet Union and Britain are co-chairmen of that conference and could convene a new meeting for the purpose of giving the control commission a bigger role in keeping peace.

Onassis' Daughter Breaks Tie

ATHENS (UPI)—Aristotle Onassis' daughter Christina has postponed and possibly cancelled her engagement to shipping heir Petros Goulandris over the objections of her stepmother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, the Athens Daily Simerina reported.

Sources close to Onassis confirmed Christina's engagement to Goulandris, 23, was to have been announced following a family reunion at the islands of Skorpios Sunday, which is Greek Easter.

The Simerina said a new man has appeared in Christina's life—it did not name him—and said she telephoned her father from Switzerland to cancel the engagement announcement and say she would spend the weekend in New York.

The newspaper said Mrs. Onassis, a friend of Goulandris' mother, was flying to New York in a last-ditch effort to try to persuade her 18-year-old stepdaughter to change her mind.

Third Graders Proud Of Flag

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Anti protests, sit-ins and civil disobedience, a third grade class in western New York has begun a campaign to show allegiance to the American flag.

The members of Mrs. Irene Priore's class at Cleveland Hill primary school in suburban Cheektowaga undertook the project for the flag and the Pledge of allegiance nearly three months ago because they were disturbed at what they considered disrespect being shown toward the flag by demonstrators.

Expensive Lesson

Idaho Falls Post-Register The Santa Barbara oil spill of January, 1969, was in the light of drilling experience in the channel up to that time, an unforeseeable accident, a fluke response by Mother Earth to man's intrusions into her thin skin that took even government geologists by surprise.

head of the U.S. Geological Survey, the choke, evidently was removed because it was reducing production on the well. Talk about the kingdom lost for want of a nail. For want of a $1,000 choke, Chevron began losing $1 million a day in lost production and clean-up costs.

Spring Of Earth

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Tomorrow is Earth Day. And across America — at its more than 2,000 campuses, at more than twice that number of high schools, at the entrances of auto tunnels and busy intersections, wading in the waters of rubble-filled streams, at the edge of once proud and pure mighty rivers — citizens will be saying their say about what is happening to the quality of physical life in their country.

Already, as in the Nader-led attempt to get environment and consumer representation on General Motors Corporation's board of directors, the commercial world is facing a new kind of demand to look out for the public weal. Government, too, is stirring in this spring of environmental awareness. From oil slicks to the dumping of dredge wastes in the nation's waters, from the effects of jet noise to the allowable limit of pollutants from smokestacks, the government is weighing or taking action. Two years ago vice-presidential hopeful Edmund Muskie seemed almost alone in national politics to have taken up the environmental cause. And now a President has elevated ecology to the first rank of his administration's crusades.

Passport Demand

PORTLAND OREGONIAN The federal government has on occasion attempted to discourage foreign travel, as a means of improving the balance of exchange. Millions of dollars are carried out of the country by travelers who pay their way with what amounts to a debit on Uncle Sam's foreign exchange account. But one doesn't hear much on the subject nowadays, and travel abroad is booming this year as never before.

As recently as 1950 U. S. passports issued totaled only about 300,000. The total has increased steadily, reaching about 2 million last year. The experience so far this year indicates that the 1970 total will be 3 million or more. If one considers $1,000 as the expenditure abroad by the average American traveler, which is not extravagant, the annual outflow for new passport-owners alone would be $3 billion.

SVAY RIENG PROVINCE, Cambodia — The perilous situation of Cambodian troops in this southern border province last week reflected how much the immediate fate of Cambodia rests with the North Vietnamese politburo. A Cambodian brigade was dug in on a mile-long line east of the city facing the Communist-held town of Prasat, after having retreated from the borders. PAUL HARVEY Chinatown?

With our nation's crime rate pyramiding, I'd heard that no American of Chinese extraction had ever turned "delinquent." To try to figure out why I went first to San Francisco's Chinatown in 1956. I found it true.

I went back in 1965. It was still true. No Chinese-American ever convicted for rape, burglary, bank robbery, desertion — not even juvenile delinquency.

Airline Pioneer Honored Here

Commercial aviation was something new to Twin Falls nearly 26 years ago when a Zimmericly Airline four-passenger plane touched down at the old airport south of the city, Saturday, a man who brought that plane to the area was honored.

Tom F. Croson is now director of community affairs for Air West and is stationed in Seattle. Twenty-six years ago he was vice president in charge of sales for Zimmericly Airlines and brought the small four-passenger plane safely to earth. It opened the door to flights in and out of Twin Falls, and soon.

Mr. Croson said Saturday, "The Air West DC-9 jets will be landing and taking off at Twin Falls' airport and aviation will have come a long way in 26 years."

Warren Barry, chairman of the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission, praised Mr. Croson for his efforts in Idaho aviation and presented the Air West official with a plaque.

Mr. Croson said, "Thank you. I once got a plaque from a guy and it read 'landing a plane is making a controlled crash, and in Croson's case there is little control.'"

He built and flew a glider in 1924, became a pilot shortly afterward and said he crashed only once, in the glider.

Mr. Croson said, "I did make some spare parts out of one plane, but that wasn't much." Then he smiled.

His visit to Twin Falls was part of a three-city inauguration of DC-9 jet service. But Twin Falls will not have the service until its airport runway extension is finished. A date for inauguration of the service will be announced.

But service did open at Yuma, Ariz. and El Centro, Calif. Sunday and Air West officials

THE MEDIUM THAT FITS FOOTWEAR.

The fashion revolution has worked down to the ground. Shoes are news. Everyone's buying more shoes—because of style. Not just women. Men, boys, girls, and toddlers, too. The footwear business is on the march. "Because," Boot & Shoe Recorder says, "basic shoes are no longer enough—for any wardrobe."

During 1968, the average American family spent $100 plus on footwear—up from $68 just six years ago.

Count the families who live in your area. Multiply by $100. If you want your share of that footwear money, you've got to tell the fashion footwear story. Out where people will see it. In your local paper.

Eight out of ten over-21's read the paper each day. Seven out of ten teenagers do too. Even more to the point: a recent survey showed that seven out of ten Americans look forward to the ads in the papers—while only one in four feels that way about ads on TV. No wonder retailers invested more than $3 billion on newspaper advertising last year. No wonder the country's top shoe stores spend more than two percent of net sales on their ads in the papers. Your competitors know the power of that seven-syllable sales force: Newspaperability.

The footwear business has changed. And newspapers have changed, too. With economical neighborhood ads, superb color reproduction, and new printing techniques. This change has brought a substantial increase in local papers' ad volume. During June '69, dailies' retail ad revenue jumped 11.3 percent over June '68. Newspapers are working for retail.

To paraphrase an old saying: If the medium fits, buy it. And no medium fits the local retailer better than his own local paper. That's Newspaperability.

McCracken Avers Inflation Will Be Controlled 'Soon'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chief architect of President Nixon's campaign against inflation asserted Sunday that critics who contend it is a failure are showing their "ignorance" of basic economic theory.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, insisted in an interview with UPI that the battle against the nation's worst inflation in 20 years is being won and that the public will see "major progress on the price front" by the end of the year.

Dismissing growing concern that a mid-winter slowdown already has ended without producing any relief, McCracken said:

"As an economy starts to cool off, you are inevitably going to have a period when the price level continues to sail along as basic economic conditions seem to become less inflationary."

The nation's output of goods and services declined at an annual rate of 1.5 per cent in the first quarter of this year, the sharpest economic downturn in a decade. But despite the slowdown the cost of living continued to rise at an annual rate of about 6 per cent.

Dismissing growing concern that a mid-winter slowdown already has ended without producing any relief, McCracken said:

Famed Fuss On Biology Assailed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—John T. Scopes, who as a young biology teacher in Dayton, Tenn., in 1925 stirred a controversy about the teaching of evolution, now says accounts of the "Monkey Trial" case were greatly exaggerated.

Scopes, now 69 and living in Shreveport, La., said Saturday two groups were behind the famous case—The American Civil Liberties Union, which wanted to get a test case on Tennessee's anti-evolution law, and a group of local merchants "who wanted to put Dayton on the map."

The resulting trial, participated in by Clarence Darrow, William Jennings Bryan and H.L. Menckens, was the basis for the play and film "Inherit the Wind."

"None of them were in any position to let themselves be used in a test case," he recalled. "Me, I was going back to school, had no obligations, I was free and available."

He was found guilty in the trial and fined $100.

Chinese Disperse Atomic Sites

By K. C. THALER
VIENNA (UPI)—Communist China has dispersed its key nuclear installations over a wide area as a precaution against any possible attack by the Soviet Union, according to diplomatic reports here Sunday.

At the same time, the reports said Peking has been pushing ahead with its rocket development program.

The placing into orbit of a satellite Saturday testified to the progress which Peking has been making in developing powerful rockets which could be used for delivering nuclear warheads, the reports said.

Diplomatic sources said the dispersal by China of its nuclear installations had apparently been carried out on a wide scale. They said Peking apparently considered its previous high concentration in Singkiang province, bordering on the Soviet Union, too risky in view of the festering Sino-Soviet dispute. The sources said that while exact details were hard to come by, available reconnaissance has confirmed that large and important sections have been shifted to remote areas, including the mountains of Tibet.

The sources said that with the dispersal at least partially completed, Peking now appears to be going all-out-for-rocket development and the harnessing of nuclear power in smaller, more manageable warheads. They said that while Red China is expected to have effective medium range missiles in operation in the next two to three years, intercontinental ballistic rockets may not be ready for deployment until the late 1970s, at least.

But by 1990, the Chinese are expected to have sufficient land-based long range nuclear weapons to pose a threat to both the United States and the Soviet Union. According to the sources, the possibility is being taken into account at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) now underway in Vienna between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Russian Writer Warns Of Pesticide Hazards

MOSCOW (UPI)—"Silent Spring" menaces the Soviet Union; a prize-winning Russian nature writer warned Sunday.

The rare bustard and doves of other wild fowl are being decimated by pesticides, Vasily Peskov wrote in the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

In a documented echo of Rachel Carson's nightmare prediction of the death of nature, Peskov asked, "Where have all the birds gone. Our forests, fields and gardens are growing quieter and quieter."

Peskov's article was accompanied by a photograph of a collective farmer standing in a field with dead geese and cranes piled around him. The birds, migrating northward up the Don Valley, died of zinc phosphate poison dusted on grain fields to kill gophers.

"We don't know what happened to the gophers. They probably survived without significant loss," Peskov wrote. "But the fall of birds included 50 cranes and 11 grey geese, and probably more because in nature animals usually die quietly and alone."

"Meanwhile," he said, "the crop-dusters are flying over the steppes and the poison is drifting down."

Surprise!

TAYLORSVILLE (UPI)—David Buccumbuso got a bit of shock Saturday night when answered a ring at his door. On the porch was an abandoned newborn baby girl.

The infant was reported in good condition at Valley West Hospital where she was taken by authorities. Deputy Sheriff Kenneth R. Miles said the baby will remain at the hospital for the present.

Israelis In Russia May Leave

MOSCOW (UPI)—Several Soviet Jews who publicly declared last month they were ready to "abandon everything we have to go to Israel even if we have to walk" have been given exit visas by Soviet authorities, reliable sources said Sunday.

There was no official confirmation. According to the sources, those who received permission to immigrate to Israel were given 10 days to leave the Soviet Union. The number of prospective emigrants was not known.

Red Satellite Given Name

COLORADO SPRINGS (UPI)—Communist China's orbiting satellite gained a name and a number Sunday as the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) labeled the space package Chiocom 1.

It was assigned the number 4,302, the number of satellites surveyed by Norad since Russia launched Sputnik 1 in 1957.

Holders of 35 shares have the right to purchase at par this $100 principal amount debenture together with a warrant to purchase two shares of common. The debenture offers generous return with a high degree of safety. The warrants, whether exercised or sold, offer the potential of a capital appreciation. All told, this is a highly attractive package that shareholders should accept if possible.

This is true of any investment but is vital in a speculative situation. ANTIQUE FAIR HEADQUARTERS will be in the old Albertson building on Pifer Avenue with members of the Twin Falls Shrine Club staging one of Idaho's largest exhibits of antiques May 15, 16 and 17. Here C. R. Higgins; Harold (Bud) Miller, Albertson's manager; Morris Roth, Shrine president; John Bertie, vice president; Floyd E. White, secretary, and Lee Hunter, honorary president, from left, participate in a key presenting ceremony. Shriners have already begun preparing the building for the fair. Antiques from throughout Idaho and many surrounding states will be exhibited and outside commercial displays of cars, campers, trailers, snowmachines and tricycles are planned.

Gold Mine, Buried Half-Century, Uncovered In Georgia Clay Hills

DAHLONEGA, Ga. (UPI)—E. E. Crisson's headache was a gleaming yellow dream that was always an untapped, untouchable reality.

He dreamed of a rich vein of gold, 50 feet down in soft, sandy clay in the Georgia mountains—a rolling rocky country cut through by the Midsas touch.

Crisson, who owned 40 acres of this country 50 years ago, tunneled several hundred feet on an angle from the side of a ridge and sliced into the vein, only to have the earth collapse on top of his strike and bury his dream under tons of dirt.

Less than a week ago, the ill-kept secret became a cry that has launched more than a dozen gold rushes here alone in the past 150 years.

"Gold! The Crisson's struck it rich."

Whether they actually struck it rich depends on the final verdict from the assayer, who recently took samples from throughout the Crisson property.

"There is some gold there," acknowledged Jesse Auvil, head of the Georgia Department of Mines, Mining and Geology, "but we won't know how valuable it is until our reports are complete" in about 10 days.

Mrs. Amy Trammell, who with her husband panned a nearby mine for 35 years until her husband's death several years ago and say they made a comfortable living, is as excited as anyone about the prospect of the Crisson's opening a commercial mining operation. There are believed to be only two commercial mines currently in operation in the United States.

"If it's possible for this vein to go on, it will be a great thing," says Mrs. Trammell. "But I've seen pockets like this before. You'll be panning along and all of a sudden, it'll be gone."

For more than half a century, Crisson dreamed of this land and passed his dreams onto his son Reese, and Reese's sons, Leroy, R. L. and Johnny.

The fever finally caught up the sons of Reese Crisson. The brothers pooled their resources, abandoned for the most part their jobs, and sank their lives and futures in their grandfather's flooded mine shaft.

But the Crissons, aged 42, 39 and 29, are buoyed up by their find.

"We've had no one who knows anything about it who has said anything but we've hit it," yelled sively, 39-year-old R.L. Crisson.

Run Autos On Champagne? Sounds Worth A Try!

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If we are really serious about a nationwide commitment to cleaning up the environment, the automobile internal combustion engine may have to be the first to go.

—Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

About the time Nelson was making that statement in Atlantic City at the United Auto Workers Convention, I was deep in conference with Joseph Dargent, information director for French Champagne producers.

I contacted Dargent, who was in Washington on a business trip, to discuss with him my plan for harnessing the energy of champagne and using it to propel automobiles.

The conversation went swimmingly at first. Dargent informed me that champagne builds up a pressure of five kilos per square centimeter inside the bottle. He also confided that the French now have 330 million bottles of champagne on hand.

That obviously adds up to a tremendous potential source of energy. But Dargent seemed reluctant for some reason to tap it.

"Now let me see if I have this straight," he said. "You have in mind replacing the automobile internal combustion engine with an internal carbonation engine. Is that correct?"

"Exactly," I said. "I have in mind a new kind of car called a fizzmobile. Instead of gasoline tank, it would have a wine cellar. And instead of a carburetor, it would have a carbonator.

The carbonator would mix yeast and sugar with the wine to produce carbonic acid gas, such as is found in champagne bottles. Instead of a throttle, the car would have a corkscrew that would release enough of the gas to propel the car.

"Mon Dieu!" Dargent exclaimed, rolling his eyes.

"There would still be exhaust fumes, of course," I continued, "but nobody would mind inhaling these fumes. In fact, many motorists probably would go out of their way to get caught in traffic jams.

"And instead of carbon monoxide, these fumes would contain carbon dioxide, which is what plants breathe. So rather than pollute the air, the fizzmobile would promote the growth of vegetation."

"Sacre bleu!" Dargent said, edging toward the door.

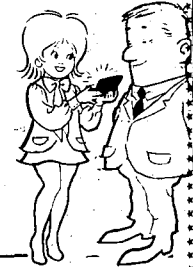

Oh, well, I still believe the concept is theoretically sound. Apparently it loses something in translation.
