Nixon Administration Divided On Free Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $6 far, backers of the nation's 35-year-old policy of free trade seem to have the advantage. But the dispute could go either way.

All sides agree that it is in the nation's interest to break down foreign barriers to U.S. goods. The dispute centers on the question of whether the United States should retaliate against nations which do not reciprocate fully or continue to be a champion of freer world trade.

President Nixon employs the rhetoric of free trade but he has given no clear signal of how he will resolve the argument. "Economic barriers block more than the free flow of goods and capital across national borders; they obstruct a more open world in which ideas and people, as well as goods and machinery, move among nations with maximum freedom," the President said in his recent "State of the World" message.

But in the same paper he added: "In today's world, all major countries must pursue freer trade if each country is to do so. The principle of trade reciprocity must lie at the heart of trade policy."

In this connection, the administration has had nothing to say about a bill by committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., to limit imports of textiles, clothing and shoes to the average level of 1965-66.

The Mills measure, or one like it, is receiving growing support from administration trade hawks, mostly in the Commerce Department. The concept is opposed by officials in the State Department at least one member of the President's Council of Economic Advisors and special trade negotiator Carl Gilbert.

The argument goes far beyond shirts and shoes. The basic question is how far the government should go in helping U.S. business over international rough spots through export subsidies, import restrictions or both.

Import restrictions, it is generally agreed, would result in higher consumer prices. They also might protect the jobs of American workers in industries which are finding it difficult to meet foreign competition.

Regulation Of Mining Is Studied

BOISE (UPI) — The Legislative Council's committee on state lands voted Saturday to ask the attorney general for an opinion on the state's authority to regulate surface mining in the state.

Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, said the request should ask for state authority to regulate mining in private, state and federal land.

Summers said he wanted the opinion "because the opinions I got from two private attorneys — both in the business — say we're operating with our hands tied behind our back."

Rep. Larry Looney, D-Coeur d'Alene, added it would be "awfully helpful to know just what we could do before we do anything."

Sen. John V. Evans, D-Malad, asked that the attorney general be requested to return the opinion as soon as possible.

Samuelson gave master of ceremonies Art Linkletter and gave former Green Bay Packer Jerry Kramer, honorary chairman of the "Tribute to our Governor" dinner Friday silver bars and a set of star-garnet cufflinks, made by the governor.

Kramer stood up to show the audience the cufflinks were peeded.

State Troopers Are Assigned Duty Stations

BOISE — Twelve new state troopers who completed a two-week training course at Idaho State University, Pocatello, have been assigned to duty stations, said State Police Sgt. L. Clark Hand, Boise.

Kenneth Poe, Burley, who has been assigned to District 6 at Idaho Falls, was the class president and also won the firearms proficiency award. Lealie Simpson, Kimberly, who has been assigned to District 4 at Twin Falls, was the class honor student.

The addition of 10 troopers as authorized by the last session of the legislature increases the trooper strength to 111.

Over 169 million Americans were protected by one or more forms of private health insurance at the end of 1969.

Quarterly Parole Meet Set At Training Center

ST. ANTHONY (UPI) — The regular quarterly parole meeting is scheduled May 11-13 at the Idaho Youth Training Center to discuss eligible students for release.

Center personnel and 10 youth rehabilitation counselors of the Idaho Department of Health will consult more than 200 cases to determine whether the student's institutional adjustments and suitable home or community resources are available to make parole feasible.

Ray W. Woolton, director of the Youth Rehabilitation Division of the Idaho Department of Health, said rehabilitation counselors stationed in 10 different areas of the state have been talking with the families of each of the students since the child was admitted to the training school.

Woolton added those released on parole will remain under a structured program of supervision directed by the Youth Rehabilitation Counselor throughout the Parole Period.

COMMENT
Really Bad?

St. Louis Post-Dispatch
Just to keep things in some kind of perspective, it is interesting to note that one of America's most politically liberal columnists strongly refutes the many gloom-seers, including Massachusetts's Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who are now going about saying that a repressive wave threatens the United States. We mention Senator Kennedy because he has just enumerated a "shocking and terrifying" list of symptoms which he says threatens America's heritage of freedom. The columnist, Clayton Fritchey, writing in the equally liberal New York Post, enumerates an even longer list of major events and trends which he believes proves that repression and constitutional regression are a "myth"

Legislation in Congress, the action of the courts, most off-year congressional elections, these and other developments indicate the continuation of a liberal trend in the country, he writes. And while granting that a threat to civil liberties may exist, he seems convinced that it will be contained. Frankly, we believe that Mr. Fritchey is both more knowledgeable and harder-headed than those who, like Senator Kennedy, paint their homeland in such black colors. True, there are many Americans today who welcome tough talk about lawlessness. But it is even truer that the great basic momentum in America has long been towards broader and safer rights for everyone. We see no persuasive evidence of any real change in this.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some members of the young and adult New Left who seem more or less open-minded about developing a fairly consistent link with the Democratic party need to shed some serious misconceptions they have with regard to new National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien. Largely in the smelter at the time O'Brien resumed the chairmanship a month ago was a statement issued by 30 New Left members. Basically, it assailed the choice of O'Brien as a "backroom" process. While the document itself specifically exempted O'Brien from criticism, at least one among the 30 signers indicated a principal concern was whether he would give full support to the McGovern and O'Hara Reform Commissions mandated by the 1968 Democratic convention to reform "procedures" both for delegate selection and for the convention itself. Whoever these doubters are, they are poor readers of the print media and poor interrogators at the most elemental level. In late 1968 I reported, and I could hardly have been alone in this, that O'Brien was laboring doggedly to put together the best-balanced and most-qualified membership he could muster for the two reform commissions. The talks consumed a high proportion of his time in the chaotic months after Hubert Humphrey's defeat by President Nixon. To anyone who troubled to talk to O'Brien and find out what kind of man he is, he would then have proved (as he would today) utterly convincing on the reform issue. As a matter of fact, he said it was O'Brien's full account — that he did not believe the reform commissions could do more than scratch the surface in the remaking of the riddled Democratic party. It was O'Brien's own view, and it still is; that his party's councils at all levels need to be opened wide to participation by the young. He believes large numbers are qualified by knowledge and developing maturity to play significant roles in party decisions now. He makes the point that when a qualified young individual with an intense interest in politics can be denied such a role until he has climbed the old political ladder and "earned his way" by grubby, even menial, service. Inescapably, this view embraces the quest of young people for elective office. O'Brien unqualifiedly favors widening their opportunities to help give his struggling party the leavening of intelligent, creative, ambitious youth. Obviously, not all those of the New Left who are prepared to associate with the Democratic party in one degree or another are ready to see the new chairman in this light. Few men in modern American politics have as small a number of political enemies as O'Brien has acquired in his long, active career. A "mainstream" document. There appears to be hard evidence that one such is Adam Walinsky, former aide to the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, preselect candidate for the Democratic nomination as New York state attorney general, and one of the 30 signers of the March 4 New Left document. Informed world reaching here is that Walinsky, a firebrand reformer, has been consistently slashing at O'Brien for weeks. It may not be incidental that they developed serious differences as contrary advisers to Kennedy in his losing Oregon presidential primary fight in 1968. Beyond all this, it is perhaps inevitable that a man with O'Brien's proven capacity to win the confidence of Democratic figures across most of the left-to-right spectrum should have at least a little trouble with some of the people near the fringes.

PAUL HARVEY

Dangerous Diversion

Christian Science Monitor
President Nixon gave his desegregation message six weeks ago. Since then, many have wondered where the $1.5-billion he promised would come from. The money was to be spent over the next two years to help pay for bussing where required, or to finance better teaching in racially imbalanced schools which won't be integrated unless the Supreme Court decides they must. The President said he wouldn't ask for new funds and unbalance his budget. So the money would have to come from other projects already on the books. His men are thinking of taking $500 million — the first year's outlay — from Model Cities funds. This proposal, however, should be approached with the utmost caution. True, the half-billion dollar diversion would not wipe out Model Cities altogether. It would leave $75 million for expansion of existing projects. But it would in effect stunt the Model Cities concept when it is still much needed as a symbol of hope for the nation's racially impacted, underfinanced, and decaying cities. To the black and Spanish-speaking minorities, the diversion would seem like robbing Peter to pay Paul. The minorities (a majority in some cities) already are the chief beneficiaries of Model Cities help. The money goes for a variety of projects — from rat-riddance to housing innovations.

But pilot preschool and education projects also use up a good deal of Model Cities money. Thus, while the administration may say it wants to better educational opportunities for the minorities, it would do so at the price of worthwhile projects already in the works. Further, if the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare were directly to govern the payout of diverted funds, this would wipe out the valuable experiences in local, decentralized governance which Model Cities programs foster. A recent review of the Model Cities effort for the administration, in fact, prompted the recommendation that more, not less, local say in running such programs be given. The best argument the administration has in diverting Model Cities funds is that the payout could be extended to more than the present 150 Model communities. But such an argument could be used, as well, to propose the expansion, not contraction, of Model Cities itself. On two grounds then — that minorities would gain in total, not a bit by the diversion of funds, and that the valuable self-governance experiment would be stalled — the Model Cities funds should not be raided. Many city watchers are worried about violence in the summer ahead. Unemployment already is high among the volatile young. The administration would not want to provoke the minorities further into violent despair.

Russians Are Coming!

Americans have plenty to worry about these days, but worry about "the Russians" is at least 10 years out of date. There was a time when the most terrifying menace to our physical health was thought to be TB. Tuberculosis is still deadly, but it's not our number-one killer. There was a time when the most ominous threat to our national security was the Soviet. Russia remains a threat, but it's no longer our major menace. What professional and amateur anti-Communists must remember is that if a cause for that disease were discovered, tonight, we'd still be sucking grass and shooting dope and wrecking our lungs and rotting our livers. Don't blame the Communists for our own laziness, for mushrooming armies of welfare recipients, for misuse of our air and land and water. Before we approve another top-heavy budget for fighting an imaginary enemy, let's do something about those real ones.

The generals and admirals are riding through every Middlesex village and town crying, "The Russians are coming! The Russians are coming!" It's that time of year again when the Pentagon wants more money and the generals and admirals have discovered that the best way to boost their budget is to collar members of Congress and scare 'em a little. Sen. J. W. Fulbright says, "At appropriation time the Russians suddenly grow from two inches tall to a height of almost 10 feet. I'm not making fun of the Pentagon. Probably the most military, generally, has had no more respectful civilian discipline than Paul Harvey. I've wished that we might have unleashed our military men in Korea and Vietnam so that they could have realized those confrontations 'bromely' and decisively. But it's too late for that now. A military decision now would cost more than it would be worth. Even as it is too late for Americans to continue shadowboxing with Russians while more sinister enemies attack from the back. Ignore the big, urgent, right-now problems and any outside menace won't matter because what's left they won't want. The Pentagon, defending a $71.8 billion "defense budget" request, presents evidence of new, sophisticated Soviet weaponry. While the United States has been spending itself weak in Vietnam, Russia has been spending herself strong. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird uses that excuse for asking more money; that should be a very good excuse for less war.

One Term?

WASHINGTON — A week after President Nixon went for weeks and sent American ground troops into Cambodia, the most significant developments in the capital's corridors of power have been political. Democrats, while publicly deploring Nixon's action, can hardly conceal their glee over a gamble that could make him a one-term President. As one political columnist put it: "This could make up for 'Chappaquiddick.' If we've lost Teddy Kennedy because of the death of May Jo Kopechne, the Republicans could lose Richard Nixon because of longer casualty lists in Southeast Asia." However the Cambodian plan comes out, Nixon may not seek a second term in the White House. A man who helps put the President's ideas into appropriate prose insists Nixon is not determined to run again. He quotes the President as telling aides that he "probably could get more done" in both foreign and domestic fields as a President who "relinquishes" the idea of playing it cozy to protect his chances of reelection in 1972. "When the President said he'd rather be a one-term President and do what he believes is right" he meant it, says this aide. "He doesn't want the job if it's cluttered up with expedient politics." That's as may be, of course. Once a man gets accustomed to the power of the White House he hates to relinquish it. And Nixon is a politician who believes he can persuade the electorate that doing what he thinks is "right" is good for the country. But it is possible to accept the proposition that a man who has promised to end a war and now has escalated it has decided to forego further political ambitions. For the Democratic Party, the Cambodian action is the first real break since Nixon took office. It is now not only "Nixon's War"; he has made it bigger — at least temporarily. The President must win big. That is to say, his new strategy must succeed quickly — within the time limit of six weeks or two months set by his military advisers for cleaning out major enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia. If the "new war" drags on, political history will repeat itself in that Nixon will be placed in the identical position separately occupied — by Lyndon Johnson in 1968. Democrats are not so un-patriotic as to hope Nixon won't win. Except for an occasional creep, they reluctantly hope he will. But as political reality, they don't believe he can make it. They see the North-Viet names and Viet Cong pinning down U.S. forces indefinitely to a new conflict on ground of their own choosing, with the resulting loss of more American lives halfway around the world. Thus they figure — again pragmatically, that the Cambodian adventure has given Democratic Presidential prospects a big nudge. There is new life to the campaigns of Sens. Ed Muskie and George McGovern and even former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, although the latter still bears the taint of having sold, at Johnson's side in Johnson's prosecution of the war.

Kent State

Idaho State Journal
Mightily as it might be wished, the death of four students shot by National Guardsmen Monday at an anti-war rally at Kent State University cannot be dismissed as an isolated, tragic incident. There may be disagreement over whether the Guardsmen were fired upon first, or whether they themselves were in danger from the mob of students they were seeking to disperse. But when angry men with loaded weapons, and tear gas confront other angry people, the result is likely to be exactly what happened Monday. It is symptomatic of the times that this tragedy is not recognized for what it is by some. Even the President said, in effect, that the victims got about what they had coming. "This should remind us all once again that when dissent turns to violence it invites tragedy," Mr. Nixon said. But what spawned this violence? Dissatisfaction with the President's war policies no doubt played a great part — and we share the hatred for the war in Southeast Asia, even while supporting Mr. Nixon's efforts to extricate us in the only reasonable way.

THE RHETORIC of the Nixon Administration, voiced principally by Vice President Spiro Agnew, has further alienated millions of young people. Mr. Agnew's barbs, while serving to raise millions for the Republican war chest, have certainly done little to "bring us together," as Mr. Nixon hoped at the beginning of his term. We trust that even Mr. Agnew will sense that now is not the time for further divisive assaults when he speaks in Boise Friday. Our worst fear is that young people will turn away from America's leadership — and turn away at the same time from her ideals. What do liberty and freedom — once so easily understood and cherished — mean to the students at Kent State who saw the National Guardsmen open fire? What will they mean if Kent State is but the prelude to greater violence on our campuses? We pray that college terms will end — before any more violence occurs, and that the president will be exonerated in Southeast Asia in the course of coming weeks. For there is a sickness abroad in the land that badly needs attention.

GEORGE C. HOSTESON, M.D. Old-Timer

Here's a letter that ought to give a lift, not only to diabetics, but folks with more serious diseases: Dear Dr. Hosteson: I am writing this note regarding the 18-year-old with diabetes who wanted to know about a pancreas transplant. This note may give him a little hope. Dear "Diabetic": I have had diabetes for 45 years and been taking insulin that long, starting with 145 units of the old Toronto insulin four times a day. Today I take 45 units of Lenta insulin and still am quite active in the real estate business. In the past 45 years I have not let diabetes interfere with my work and have worked in several occupations, mostly traveling and living in hotels. There are many things more serious than diabetes which I have had, such as a bad stroke, a heart attack, and lastly a cancer operation, and now I have a colostomy to take care of.

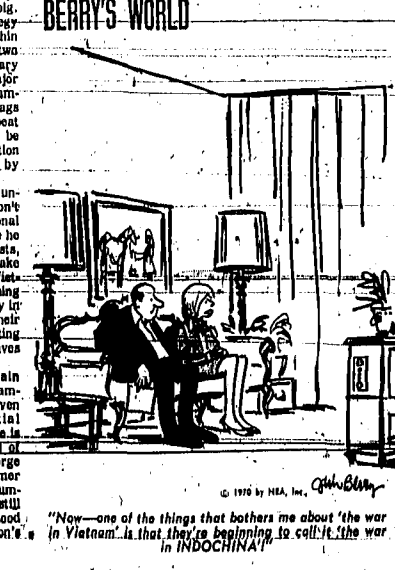

Items properly. What is your opinion? — Mrs. G. W. The little filler might get them into pieces small enough to swallow and digest — but I wouldn't give them to him for the simple reason that sometimes a peanut or a chunk of popcorn gets caught in the windpipe instead. It's hard; it won't soften or dissolve. Sobering — babies — die strangling on such things. Dear Dr. Hosteson: We have no water softener. Would this cause more lime deposits around the heart and other organs of the body? — Mrs. L. W. No. Many people with softeners use softened water for drinking because they prefer it. Some with certain heart (or other) conditions are not allowed to drink softened water because of its sodium content.

I have recovered from my stroke and enjoy 18 holes of golf as often as the opportunity arises. My summer address is in Ontario where I carry on my business, but I have a home in Florida and spend much of the winter there, and fly back when necessary. As far as transplanting the pancreas is concerned, they still don't know whether that is the trouble. It could actually be in your pituitary gland. It is not known for sure what the cause of diabetes really is. They tried some transplants in New York several years ago without success. Take care of yourself, and I am sure you can lead quite a normal life and enjoy every day. One of the largest helps I can suggest is to work at something you enjoy, as nervous conditions will tend to make you run sugar. From a senior diabetic — W. J. G.

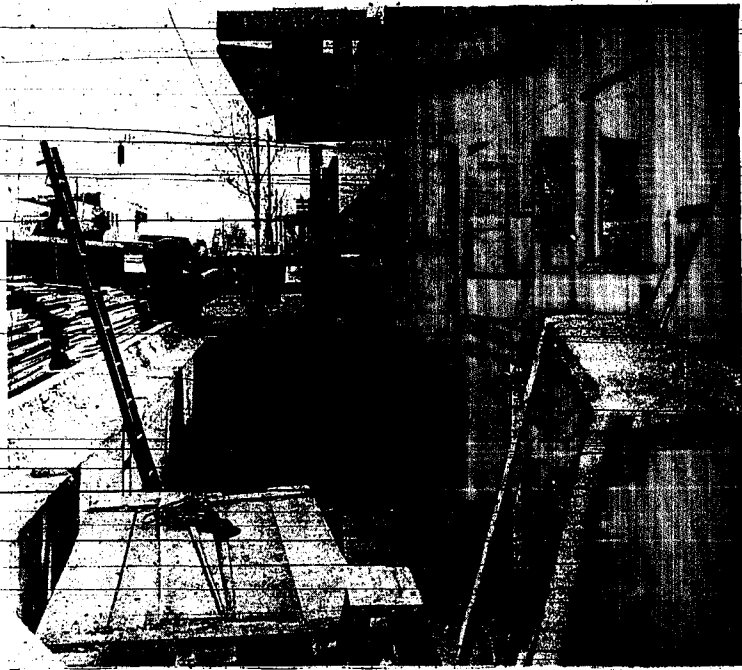

Never take a chance of diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Hosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and six cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Hosteson regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' suggestions in his column.

Dear Dr. Hosteson: My husband thinks our 15-month-old son should be able to eat popcorn and peanuts. I feel that he is too young and doesn't have enough teeth to chew these

Dear Dr. Hosteson: I get so tired of eggs and meat on my diet. Is there a high-protein tablet I could take? — Mrs. C. B. How about getting more variety from different kinds of fish, fowl, cheese, and nuts; all high in protein? Note to R. F. B.: Parkinson's disease is not contagious. There are various treatments — different types of medication, sometimes surgery. Research on a still newer drug, L-dopa, looks very promising but is not in general use yet except in certain centers.

"Now — one of the things that bothers me about the war in Vietnam is that they're beginning to call it the war in INDOCHINA!"

DESTRUCTION MUST PRECEDE construction; and downtown Twin Falls is feeling the beginnings of the urban renewal project which will ultimately result in a modernistic pedestrian mall. Crowley Pharmacy, on left, and Sterling Jewelry, on right, have lost their sidewalks temporarily, due to a requirement that any firms wishing to retain use of base-areas underneath sidewalks must rebuild and reinforce the area under the sidewalk. Twin Falls Bank and Trust will rebuild the sidewalk completely around the bank, from Sterling Jewelry on Shoeshoe around the corner on Main. The reconstruction projects are to be completed by June 1.

More U.S. Students Go To Colleges Overseas

United Press International Study in a foreign country is an increasingly common experience for American college students. Thousands go overseas each year.

At most colleges only a small percentage of students goes abroad to study and the majority choose Western Europe as the locale for their semester or academic year overseas.

However, Kalamazoo College in Michigan places unusual stress on foreign study, sending 90 per cent of its undergraduates to another country for six months during the junior year in recent years. Kalamazoo students have studied in 14 countries, some of them in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Some of the adventuresome students find living and studying in a non-Western country an exhilarating experience. Typical of them are Deborah Achor and Gail Hohen, who spent the fall and winter quarters of this academic year in Sierra Leone, a former British colony in Africa.

Results Of Tire Safety Test Termed Amazing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I wonder if other motorists were as amazed as I was by the findings of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

The council, as you may know, has been doing some research on the causes of tire troubles, and its recent report was a real eye-opener. Among other things, it discovered that tires with the treads worn off "are up to 50 times more likely to have flats than new tires."

me. "I know it's hard to believe, but the Tire Industry Safety Council has the figures to prove it."

Whereupon I closed my eyes and tried to visualize how this revelation might have come about. The scene is one of those test tracks like you see in television commercials. A group of engineers wearing identical white coveralls are standing around a couple of identical automobiles—identical, that is, except for one thing. Car "A" has been outfitted with a new set of superdymed epoxy tires with polygrip randomized treads and 10-ply double-crossed knitted belts.

At the drop of a checkered flag by the chief engineer, two drivers wearing crash helmets leap into the cars and speed off down the test track, which is strewn with railroad crossties, swizzle sticks, crochet needles and other obstacles.

Car "B" goes a total of 10 feet before the right rear tire blows out. Car "A," however, continues to circle the track for 40 days and 40 nights. The engineers all have clipboards upon which they are recording this data. At the end of the test period, the raw figures are fed into a computer which makes a statistical correlation.

The girls attended regular classes at Fourah Bay but, as Deborah put it, "what we learned in the classroom was secondary." They agreed that learning about the customs and life styles of Africa from Africans was more meaningful to them.

"I felt we were accepted," said Gail, a native of Minnesota whose family now lives in Caracas, Venezuela, where her father is assigned with the U.S. Foreign Service. "It depends on an individual's attitude," says neither girl experienced any racial hostility. On the contrary, both enjoyed an active social life.

William Chancey, co-chairman of the clean-up and beautification day, said lunch will be served about 2:30 p.m. and organizations and individuals who assist during the day in the final phase of the campaign are invited to attend.

Mr. Chancey said assistance in the clean-up drive is increasing daily and assistance includes those for radio manager and equipment has been offered. Members of the Army Reserve and National Guard here will donate their trucks and other equipment to haul debris collected by workers. They will be directing their own clean-up move Saturday because they will be at camp on June 13, and Mr. Chancey said the county will serve refreshments on that day.

Entries Coming In For Shrine's Antique Fair

More than 50 entries have been received for the May 15 opening of the Shrine Club-sponsored Antique Fair to be held at the old Albartson's building in the Okay Shopping Center.

Morris Roth, Shrine member, said Monday the exhibits will be coming from Boise, Pocatello, Bliss, Twin Falls, Gooding, Ruhl, Filer and other Magic Valley areas. Exhibitors will be assigned display areas and will have items for show, trade or sale. The show will open May 15 at 8 a.m. and run through 8 p.m.

Hoover Going Strong After 46 Years

ELMER J. HAGERTY, left, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve Corps, and he was honored at a ceremony recently in the Army Reserve Center here. Col. Ivan G. Johnson, right, pinned the new insignia on the shoulders of Col. Hagerty's uniform.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover celebrated his 46th anniversary on the job Sunday with "no intention whatsoever" of retiring.

Now serving his eighth year, Hoover turned 75 years of age last Jan. 1, five years past the mandatory retirement age waived for him in 1964 by an admiring President Lyndon B. Johnson. He is even more highly regarded by President Nixon and Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Hoover, who has not granted a personal interview since late 1968, declined even to answer written questions on this anniversary, citing "the very heavy responsibilities facing me at this time."

He told UPI in a letter, however, "that I have no intention whatsoever of retiring."

Pressures of his 17,000-member bureau were at a peak as Hoover celebrated the anniversary of his appointment May 10, 1924, by Attorney General Harlan Fiske Stone.

President Nixon and Attorney General John N. Mitchell range from the Black Panther party investigations of campus disorders, crime in the streets, national internal security, aircraft piracy and the Mafia, to trium as he demands of his agents.

Rarely seen by the public, he speaks only through the monthly FBI bulletin, which is distributed to local law enforcement agencies, and in his annual testimony to Congress.

Despite his firm disavowal of any retirement plans, close observers believe Hoover might step down within the next year.

His second-in-command, Associate Director Clyde A. Tolson, will be 70 years old May 22. He is Hoover's closest personal friend and it was expected he would stay on the job even if his mandatory retirement is not waived.

Tolson would continue without pay, which was not considered an unlikely prospect.

If and when Hoover does retire, he had made clear he will neither write any memoirs nor allow any "official" version of his extraordinary career to be written.

He will leave untold his inside story of the presidents he has served since Calvin Coolidge.

New French Law Would Make All Demonstrators Pay For Damages

PARIS (UPI)—Faced with a problem similar to the one confronted by proponents of law and order in the United States, the French government thinks it has found a way to cut down on-campus and street violence.

In essence, the French government wants to make all of the demonstrators and their leaders pay for the injuries or damages that result from disorderly demonstrations, even if some of them did not join in the violence.

Despite the opposition of Socialist and Communist deputies in the National Assembly, the government-sponsored "anti-breakers" bill has passed the lower house by a majority of 368 to 94 votes.

It will become the law of the land in less than six months, unless the largely powerless French Senate unexpectedly forces modification of the bill.

The new draft law was inspired by France's "law and order" Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas, who revealed the new bill in a tough speech in which he said "the breakers must be the payers."

From the day the draft law was presented until it was voted upon in the National Assembly, it was the object of more public controversy than any piece of legislation since which were submitted to a nationwide vote last year, and which resulted in the fall of former President Charles de Gaulle from power.

In a rowdy, night-long session of the National Assembly, critics of the bill said that under the terms of the draft law, union leaders could be arrested or jailed for disorders that occurred during demonstrations by their union members.

The new legislation was as warmly welcomed by French police, as it was heatedly denounced by letting parliamentarians.

Under current law, the police are largely powerless to deal with unruly student demonstrators, especially when the students barricade themselves inside university buildings.

If the new bill becomes law, any student who voluntarily remains at the scene will be responsible for damage that his fellow students inflict on government property, and any claim that he was forcibly

Hearing Slated On Pollution

BOISE (UPI)—The State Board of Health has scheduled a public hearing June 1 in Boise to discuss procedural changes which would allow suspected water-polluters a 90-day period in which to comply with abatement orders or ask for a hearing.

Mal Alseger, chief of the Water Pollution Control Section, said the abatement order would become effective at the end of 30 days if the suspected source did not ask for a hearing within the time limit.

Under present procedures, no uniform time for compliance with an abatement order has been established and each case is handled individually.

The proposed procedure would also provide that a notice accompany each abatement order and that it spot out the right to ask for a hearing within the time limit.

Alseger added provisions would also be made under the suggested amendments to provide for emergency abatement orders when circumstances arise which pose an immediate threat to public health.

Gem Women Invited To Join

Announcement of an alliance of Idaho women already numbering its membership in the hundreds was made today by Mrs. L. L. Faller, former State PTA president of Pocatello, Mrs. Carl Brown, YVCA board president, and Mrs. Clarke Erellich, a vice president of the Idaho Division of AAUW, both of Boise.

The women are calling themselves the "Vote Rockers" and describe their organization as a "non-organization."

"Vote Rockers stems from our shared interest in a number of social problems in Idaho and our concern at the lack of progress in dealing with these problems," explained Mrs. Amy Brown. "But even we are amazed at the response from our word-of-mouth membership effort. Housewives, businesswomen and many who are already active in organizations are signing on without hesitation."

Citing the failure of the proposed public school kindergarten legislation, the Vote Rockers announcement states that a number of women who watched the proceedings felt their concerns needed the kind of continued effort currently found only in business and special interest lobbying activities.

"We decided to marshal our forces," said Mrs. Pat Ehrlich. "We feel that Vote Rockers reflects a new interest in public affairs by women everywhere, and a new willingness to work together to multiply our impact on the decisions that affect our daily lives and the lives of our families."

Membership in Vote Rockers is open to all women.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I really enjoy your column. I cut out interesting articles and keep them pasted on my refrigerator. One article stated that for over a year.

For Mother's day will you please reprint it in honor of all mothers? Here it is:

"Woman was created from the rib of man. She was not made from his head to top him, Nor out of his feet to be trampled upon, nor out of his arm to be protected, AND near his heart, to be loved!"

Sign me, "A LOVED WIFE"

DEAR WIFE: And here it is—a day late. [Like many of the cards and gifts.]

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh, but my problem is a generous husband. On every gift-giving occasion (my birthday, anniversary, Mother's day, Christmas, etc.), he buys me wearing apparel. The thought is very much appreciated, but Abby, his "taste" is terrible and nothing he selects looks good on me. The salespeople must see him coming, and unload their hard-to-sell merchandise on my husband because everything he brings home is just too ugly for words. Each attempt to tell him or take back what he has bought always ends in a fight.

Abby, I haven't bought a thing to wear in 4 years. He spends a lot more on my clothing than I would, and we can't afford to buy things and not wear them.

He's really a good man, but how I wish he'd quit buying me things! Can you help me? DRESSED ALL WRONG

DEAR DRESSED: Tell your husband that you appreciate his "generosity," but since you have to wear the clothes, you'd like a voice in selecting them. If he insists on buying you wearing apparel after that, take it back. Your husband's stubborn insistence that you shall wear what HE selects shows more selfishness and immaturity than "generosity."

DEAR ABBY: I am all for abolishing MOTHER'S DAY. You break your neck from the time they're born, trying to make your children happy, and they grow up and break your heart with every day.

Come next May I'm going to throw my gummy Mother's day card into the wastebasket as fast as I can get it out of the mailman's hand. DISILLUSIONED MOM

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: The mistake most parents make is in striving to make their children "happy." Happiness is a product of other things which must come first. If a child is taught honesty, integrity, unselfishness, humility and respect for the feelings of others, he will then be "happy."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Scented Candles Are Easy to Make

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—R. S. wanted to know how to add a nice scent to homemade candles. This is very simple. One can buy the desired fragrance at a hobby shop, add it while the candle wax is in liquid form and set them in molds. This comes in pine and many other scents.—MINA

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell R.S. that there are several methods for adding a scent to homemade candles but she must realize that regular perfume only works if it has an oil base. Any other type is consumed by the flame and gives off no aroma. The perfume oil may be added when the wick is inserted, when filling the pit of the candle or in the whipped wax used to frost some candles. Perfume oil may be added to the pool of wax—before the wick after the candle has been made and burned. The latter also could be done to candles bought at the store.—MRS. D. M.

DEAR POLLY—Oh! round straw purses with hard sides make very attractive planners. Plant your flower or vine in a cut-off bleach jug and slip the jug down into the purse from underneath. If the purse has a stiff, upright handle, this makes a good support for a vine.—ALICE

DEAR POLLY—Cover a long cardboard tube, such as gift wrap paper comes in, with pretty adhesive-backed paper and have a lovely tin cover for an umbrella. Just slip the bottom of the umbrella into the tube and the handle is left free to hang it up. Keeps the closet neater and the umbrella from soiling and fading.—MRS. M. S. S.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My son, 2, scribbled on a very important photo with a black crayon. I tried using toothpaste on a corner but it seemed to remove the finish so I am afraid to use it on the picture itself. I wonder if toothpaste is safe to use or if anything will remove these marks. I would hate to lose this picture and hope someone can help me.—SARA R.

OVER THE MORTARBOARDS of graduates, dignitaries can be seen seated on stage during the 1976 College of Southern Idaho commencement exercises. The nearly 300 students received Associate of Applied Sciences, Associate of Arts and Technology degrees. Many people were turned away from the 1,000 seat auditorium. A reception for graduates and families and friends was held immediately following the ceremony.

The rain stopped Sunday just in time for 284 graduates, faculty members and trustees to march from Shields' Academic Building into the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center for the junior college's fourth commencement exercises. The weather also didn't dampen the enthusiasm of families and friends of graduates, as many had to be turned away from the 1,000 seat auditorium. Dr. Merle F. Ogle, director of Higher Education and acting Regional Commissioner, Region VIII Office of Education, Denver, was guest speaker at the ceremony. He spoke on changes in education and received enthusiastic applause from the audience when he said "students who are rioting are demonstrating they are not mature enough to carry the very responsibilities they are fighting for." Dr. Ogle also praised the progress of CSI during the past five years and congratulated the leadership of Dr. James L. Taylor, president of the institution. Others robed and seated on stage with Dr. Ogle were Dr. Taylor, Jerry Meyerhoeffer, director of admissions and records; Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women; Dr. Terry Smith, academic dean; Orval Bradley, director, vocational school; Neil Cross, vocational counselor; board members John R. Coleman, Rev. John Garabrandt, Robert Blastock Jr., James H. Shields and Eldon Evans, and Rev. Robert Harvey, who delivered the invocation and benediction. Mr. Bradley presented students who received Associate of Applied Science degree; Dr. Smith presented students who received a Bachelor of Arts Degree and Dr. Taylor conferred the degrees. Steve Johnson, accompanied by Richard Shobe, sang the national anthem and Mr. Shobe played the processional and recessional. The only change made in the day's itinerary because of the weather was a switch in location of a reception following the ceremony. It had been scheduled to be on the east portico of the Fine Arts Center, but because of cool temperatures, it was moved inside to a drama room at the Fine Arts Center.

Lincoln Has 3-Way Race For Gem Post

SHOSHONE — Other than in the legislative district office of Representative, there will be but one contest in the Lincoln county Primary election Aug. 4, according to Mrs. Luella L. Kinsey. C. F. Chatfield, Shoshone, present county commissioner for the county, has filed for re-election. He has three opponents: Stephen W. Boller, Halley, and Ellis V. McLean, Ketchum. Incumbent State Sen. John Peavey, also Republican, is unopposed in the primary. The other contest will be on the Democratic ticket for office of county assessor, where two newcomers, R. B. Kelley and Sanford Connell, will oppose each other. On the Republican ticket William Drummel has filed for the assessor's office. He, too, is new to the political field, a local businessman and veteran of World War II. He will meet the voters of the Democratic primary election in November. Both Mr. Kelley and Mr. Connell are farmers in the North Shoshone area and have been active in community work. Others filing on the Democratic ticket are Howard E. Adkins, prosecuting attorney, and Mrs. Kinsey, clerk of the district court and county auditor. Both are incumbents, having served the county many years. Other filings on the Republican ticket, besides Mr. Drummel, include incumbents, Burrell Williams and Glenn L. Sorenson, for county commissioners; Myron D. Johnson, treasurer; R. G. Neher, M. D., coroner; with newcomers, G. F. Chatfield, for state representative; C. W. Ward, legislative district chairman; and Mrs. Helen Gilles, county auditor and clerk.

Family Escapes Injury

RUPERT — A Longview, Wash. family escaped injury Saturday afternoon during a rather spectacular one vehicle accident which caused $1,000 estimated damage to their car. State policeman Tom Thompson said George Stanley Kovalek, 26, driving a 1970 Mercury east on Interstate 80 near the Ridgeway Road in Jerome County, apparently went to sleep and lost control. The vehicle went off the left hand side of the road traveling 256 feet, then went across the roadway for 158 feet and swerved to the left skidding broadside 222 feet and striking the guard rail of a canal bridge in two places. The vehicle then spun around striking the guard rail on the canal bridge again. Patrolman Thompson said the vehicle came to rest about 773 feet from the point where it first left the road. Passengers were Mrs. Kovalek and their 2-year-old son, Daniel. No citations were issued.

Gibby Gilbert Takes Houston Tourney In Sudden-Death Finish

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rookie Gibby Gilbert, capitalizing on misfortune by both Bruce Greene and luckless Bruce Crampton, defeated Crampton on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to capture the $115,000 Houston Champions International as his first victory.

They had tied at two-under-par 282 for 72 holes.

Crampton, who seemingly had the tournament won going into the 18th before blowing a two-stroke lead, handed Gilbert an easy victory when he knocked his tee shot on the 17th hole — the third playoff hole — into a creek.

The two had gone into the sudden death after Crampton suffered a bogey on the 72nd hole and Gilbert ran in a four-foot birdie putt to wipe out a two-stroke deficit.

Only a few holes before, Greene appeared headed for his first triumph on the tour, but he three-putted the 18th and knocked his approach on 17 into a creek for a double bogey and went from two shots ahead to out of the running.

Gilbert's victory over the 71,666-yard, par-35-71 Champions Golf Club course, earned him $23,000, and an all-important exemption from qualifying for next year's while Crampton had to settle for second place money of $13,100.

Two hours before the sudden death play-off, Don Hogan closed out his first tournament in three years with a one-under-70 and announced he would retire after next week's Colonial Invitational in his home town of Fort Worth.

Hogan wound up at three-over-par 287, tied for seventh place.

Crampton and Gilbert both moved past Greene when he knocked it into the water at 17, but Gilbert also found his bogey there put him two shots behind Crampton as they went to the 18th tee.

Gilbert, a comparatively unknown golfer who joined the tour last year, had a record of 11 wins and 11 losses and stunned two regulars by almost winning, said he played it cozy during the playoff.

"I just played conservative, and tried not to make any mistakes," he said.

It paid off in the ninth sudden-death playoff in the 21 four-year-old event.

The sudden-death playoff began on the 15th hole, an easy par-4 that played downwind in a strong breeze. Crampton missed a 15-foot birdie putt and Gilbert a 20-footer on that hole.

At the par-3, both golfers again hit good shots, but Crampton missed from 30 feet and Gilbert from 20, and it was on to the fatal 17th.

Crampton, who appeared headed for a huge lead Saturday before a disastrous triple-bogey seven caught him at the unlucky seventh, was philosophical about his loss.

"If after we get through Gibby has shot a better score than I have, then he deserves to win," Crampton said.

Rindt And Lotus Win At Monaco

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — Austrian Jochen Rindt driving a Lotus 49C Grand Prix won the 28th Monaco Grand Prix after Australian Jack Brabham crashed on the last corner while in the lead.

The 44-year-old Brabham was not injured as he car slid straight through the hairpin bend and finished up with its nose stuck into the protective banking.

He restarted to finish second ahead of Henri Pescarolo in an All France Matra, and take the lead in this year's world drivers championship from current title holder Jackie Stewart, the early pacemaker.

It was a sensational climax to the 80-lap 156-mile classic over the famed twisting 1.9-mile round-the-house circuit.

Brabham slipped into the lead on the 27th lap as Stewart's March developed distributor trouble and held off a tremendous challenge from first New Zealand Chris Amon (March) and then Rindt until the finish line was in sight.

"It seems nothing could prevent me from winning this season's open in South Africa, from taking his second victory from the three Grand Prix staged so far this season."

12 Mounts Tabbed For Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — A field of 12 3-year-old thoroughbreds is expected for the 95th running of the Preakness Stakes Saturday at historic Pimlico Race Course.

Kentucky Derby winner Dust Commander heads the field for the one and three-sixteenth mile of the middle and richest jewel of the Triple Crown, which will be worth $189,300 with a dozen starters.

There are two or three other horses which might contest the Preakness, but their status is doubtful.

Considered definite starters are the first five horses which trailed Dust Commander across the wire in the derby, plus the eighth-, ninth and tenth place finishers. They are, in the order of their Derby finish: Raymond M. Curtis' My Dad George, the Derby favorite; Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' High Eshelon, Her-Jac Stable's Naskra, Silent Screen from Davy A. (Sonny) Werblin's Elbert Farm, Doc Robinson and Admiral's Shield, Mrs. Jacobs' Personality, Happy Valley Farm's Native Royalty and Robin's Bug, owned by W.J. Hicky and R.F. Kuhn.

Joining them will be Rex Ellsworth's Plenty-Old, Mrs. Merle Weisman's Oh Fudge and Skip-a-long from Tony Imbess's Birdland Farm.

Delaware Chief, like Dust Commander, would need to be made a supplementary entry at the cost of $400.

Three winners lost one starter — Wages-Calumet Farm's Sonny Tim pulled up lame after winning the Preakness Prep on Friday.

Dust Commander, who developed some heat in his left front ankle following his derby victory, was in fine fettle Sunday morning as he galloped about 1 1/2 miles.

33 Players To Be Chosen In NBA Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — A total of 33 players will be plucked from established teams Monday in a National Basketball Association draft designed to stock expansion teams in Buffalo, Portland and Cleveland with experience.

Each of the established clubs were allowed to protect seven players from roster's roster just Feb. 6. They may pull back an eligible player from the list of available talent after losing their first man to the draft.

The three expansion clubs will gain two players from each of the 14 teams and then pick a total of five more players from the draft pool.

Such names as Dave Stallworth of New York, Mel Counts of Los Angeles, Boston's Larry Siegfried and Rod Thorn of Seattle have been mentioned as possibly being on the unprotected list.

Buffalo will pick first, then Portland and finally Cleveland. In succeeding rounds, Cleveland and Buffalo will alternate in picking first, with Portland always choosing second.

Okker Whips Ralsman For Atlanta Win

ATLANTA (UPI) — Holland's Tom Okker whipped Dennis Ralsman 6-4, 10-6, 6-2 Sunday to win the second annual Atlanta Tennis Classic, victory was worth $5,000.

Okker then teamed with Marty Riessen of Eindhoven, Ill., to capture the doubles title with a 6-4, 6-2 defeat over Roy Emerson of Australia and Pancho Segura of Ecuador.

Okker made his move in the second set, Ralsman led 5-4 midway in the set when, Okker serving, he gained a double set point advantage. But the Dastardly, Call, also could not hold it and Okker fought back to win the game and the set.

Ralsman's game deteriorated after that as Okker ran off 11 straight points in one stretch and cooled home.

In a consolation singles match, second-seeded John Newcombe beat fellow Australian and top-seeded Rod Rosewall 6-1, 6-0 in a pro set for third place.

Trautmann Wrecks World Cup Entry

LONDON (UPI) — Frenchman Rene Trautmann, favorite to win the World Cup Auto Rally, crashed his Citroen during the Uruguay time trial stage Sunday night at the event, the organizers said.

Trautmann's car overturned three times and was badly damaged, the organizing daily mirror newspaper announced.

Trautmann, 42, and his co-driver Jean-Pierre Harouff, 33, were unhurt.

British ace Roger Clark, driving a Ford Escort, also is out of the 16,000 mile event after a crash. The car, while being driven by co-pilot Alec Poole, rammed the back of a Volkswagen and Clark was catapulted from the windscreen. The two were not seriously hurt.

Expos Have Hex On Bob Barton

MONTREAL (UPI) — San Diego catcher Bob Barton is beginning to think the Montreal Expos have cast a spell on him.

Barton, who scored the winning run Sunday on an error as the Padres beat the Expos, 5-4, was hit on the side of the face and knocked out 18 days ago by a pitch tossed by Montreal hurler Joe Sparrs on the West Coast.

He missed six games and was forced to spend time in hospital after an operation for a broken cheekbone. Sunday he was struck by foul pitch just under the Adams apple on the sixth inning.

BOBBY ORR of the Bruins whoops it up after clinching the winning goal in overtime against St. Louis to give Boston its first Stanley Cup title in 29 years. It took Orr just 40 seconds to put in the clincher after the two squads battled to a 3-3 tie at the end of the regulation 60 minutes. Orr beat Blues' goalie Glenn Hall. (UPI telephoto)

Cards Rally Past Atlanta 6-5, Snap Braves' Streak

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jose Cardenal's two-run single in the ninth inning drove across the winning tally for St. Louis Sunday and spoiled 46-year-old Hoyt Wilhelm's 1,000th mound appearance as the Cardinals edged Atlanta 6-5, to halt the Braves' 11-game winning streak.

Cardenal's safety capped a four-run ninth inning started by Richie Allen's ninth homer of the year that made the score 5-3. Consecutive singles by Joe Torre, Julian Javier and pinch-hitter Yevy Davillio loaded the bases with none out and brought in Wilhelm.

The veteran knuckleballer, in relief of Bob Friendly, allowed one run to score when pinch-hitter Joe Hague grounded out and then gave up the winning hit to Cardenal. Carl Taylor hit into a double play to end the inning, but the damage was done.

Starter On AFL Raiders Turns Hippie

OAKLAND (UPI) — Linebacker Chip Oliver of the Oakland Raiders, now bearded and with long hair, has dropped out of pro football and into a hippie commune.

Down from 230 to 180 pounds as a result of a vegetarian diet, he gave up his $25,000 a year job with the Raiders and joined a commune in Larkspur to search for inner peace.

"Pro football is a silly game. I don't need it anymore. I'll find the Oakland Tribe."

"Football dehumanizes people. They've taken the players and made them into slabs of beef that can charge around and hit each other, but where is their aesthetic soul, the feeling they can accomplish through their play?"

Oliver said he has told Raiders boss Al Davis and head coach John Madden of his decision. Oliver, 28, a former star with a championship team from Southern California, said he suggested to Madden that Duane Benson fill his spot as linebacker for the Raiders.

Oliver's new home is an old Victorian mansion run by the One World Family of the Messiah's World Crusade. All possessions are held in common and all incomes pooled.

"Material things just hold you back," explained the 11th round draft choice of Oakland. "They need upkeep. Just five or six couples of pairs of Levi's and a good pair of boots. That's all I need."

McCovey Slams 2; S.F. 11, Mets 7

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie McCovey drove in six runs with a pair of homers, including the 12th grand slam of his career, to help the San Francisco Giants to an 11-7 triumph over the New York Mets Sunday and to provide Juan Marichal with his first victory of the season.

McCovey, who entered the game batting only .210, belted his eighth homer of the season, with Bobby Bonds aboard in the second to give the Giants a 4-3 lead and capped a five-run fourth-inning with his second grand slammer of the season to put the Giants ahead for good.

Dodgers Coast By Philadelphia 7-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Don Sutton scattered four hits and contributed a run-scoring double Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-0.

Was Parker hit his third home run of the season off loser Grant Jackson to break up a scoreless duel in the sixth. The Dodgers added a second run in the seventh when Gary Moore tripled with Garry and scored on Jeff Torborg's single.

Los Angeles knuckled out Grant Jackson and reliever BRILLIANT Wilson with a two-run rally in the eighth that included Sutton's double and four stolen bases.

Sutton picked up his fourth victory in eight decisions and was in trouble only in the first inning when he gave up an infield single to Ron Stone, who stole second and moved to third when Sutton threw wild trying for a pick-off.

Reds Edge Cubs 7-6 On Rose HR

CHICAGO (UPI) — Pete Rose clubbed a two-run homer in the top of the ninth, the teams 50th circuit smash in 31 games this year, to give the Cincinnati Reds a 7-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs Sunday.

Rose's homer was one of four off Ferguson Jenkins, who went down to his fifth defeat against two victories. The game may have been costly to key players of each team because of injuries.

Chicago's Ron Santo, who belted a two-run homer in the third inning, re aggravated an old injury in the fourth inning by a play at third base. With runners at first and second, pitcher Wayne Simpson attempted to sacrifice. Jenkins threw to Santo at third base to force Bernie Carbo but Santo in twisting out of the way, injured a tendon in his right knee and had to go to the hospital for x-rays.

Bruins Top Blues 4-3 On Orr Goal For Stanley Cup

BOSTON (UPI) — Ace defenseman Bobby Orr slugged in a one-goal overtime blast after only 40 seconds of overtime Sunday to give the Boston Bruins a 4-3 win over the St. Louis Blues and their first Stanley Cup in 29 years.

Wild Fans Celebrate Bruin Win

BOSTON (UPI) — Staid old Boston erupted in wild celebration Sunday for the city's first Stanley Cup in three decades.

Scores of police vainly fought to clear an overflow crowd from Boston Garden only to be faced with an impromptu parade in the traffic-jammed streets of the city's north end after the Boston Bruins beat St. Louis.

Bars filled and overflowed into the streets as the city staged its wildest celebration since the Red Sox' pennant victory of 1967.

"We're number one," the roaring chant that broke out in the hockey arena during the wild overtime period, spread through the neighborhood as fans staged a celebration almost as wild as that going on in a champagne and beer-soaked Bruin dressing room.

"We'll never get this area cleared," a veteran policeman said but didn't appear too worried since his Irish face was spiced with a gold-toothed grin.

"Stanley Cup souvenirs" had been relatively slow before the final victory did such a rushing business that most of the stands in the Garden area were stripped clean within minutes after the victory.

Bruins Get Word That Suspension On Green Lifted

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins said Sunday they had been officially notified by National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell that Ted Green's suspension had been lifted.

Campbell notified Bruin general manager Milt Schmidt that he accepted the advice of two doctors who ruled Green was physically fit to play late in March.

Since the Bruins have played three regular-season games and 14 playoff games since that time, Green has completed his suspension, Campbell said.

The veteran Boston defenseman was suspended for his part in a stick fight with Wayne Mak of St. Louis last Sept. 21. Green suffered a fractured skull and has been inactive since that time.

Brundage Said Incompetent By Sports Federation Leader

Raw
Civi
Chan

AMSTERDAM (UPI)—Thomas Keller, president of the International Sports Federations, Sunday charged the International Olympic Committee (IOC) with incompetent leadership and a lack of foresight for the present situation within the movement.

Keller, who is also president of the International Rowing Federation, was answering charges made Saturday by IOC President Avery Brundage in his address to the federations. Brundage, in delivering his "atomic bomb," said the Alpine skiing, ice hockey, soccer and basketball "should gracefully withdraw" from the games because all were guilty of breaking the amateur code. Keller, in his reply, said: "This situation has developed because the IOC did not provide the type of competent leadership and foresight."

The tall Keller, who represented Switzerland as a sculler in major competition, answered Brundage's attack on the four federations concerned by saying: "This state of affairs has generally been known for a long time, yet it has been tolerated by the IOC. Why now suddenly such drastic action?"

Brundage sought the help of the federations to put the IOC's house in order. Keller's reply was to the point. "Time and again we have expressed our willingness to co-operate but got very little response and understanding from the IOC."

Keller also produced figures to show Brundage's claim "that cities no longer are interested in staging the games" to be false. The IOC president claimed at one time 17 cities applied to stage the summer gathering and as many as eight had bid for the winter games.

In 1936 there were 11 candidates, four of them German. In 1940 the figure was 13, in 1956 there were five American cities in the 10, while seven U.S. cities were among the 16 bidding in 1960.

Orioles Top Sox By 4-2 And 7-2

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox Sunday, winning the opener, 7-2, on homers by Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Merv Rettenmund, and taking the nightcap, 4-2, with the help of Brooks Robinson's tie-breaking eighth-inning single.

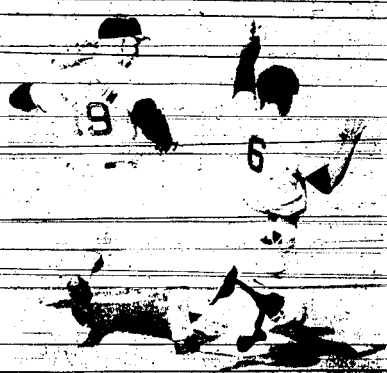

Since that time the IOC has restricted the bid to one city per country, with eliminations taking place locally if more than one city showed interest. Brundage attacked the choice of Grenoble as the host city for the 1968 games because they were spread all over the alps.

The victories extended the Orioles' winning streak to seven games and stretched their lead in the American League's Eastern Division to five games.

Keller replied, "It was the IOC who chose Grenoble." Marc Hodler's ski federation, however, took the brunt of Brundage's anger. The 32-year-old president demanded, "This poisonous cancer must be eliminated without further delay. Alpine Skiing does not belong in the Olympic Games."

GASOLINE ALLEY

STENOS - Mister, the next time your secretary complains about overwork, tell her about the stenographers in the Lus, India. They take their dictation while running alongside of moving-coasters. Their notes they scratch on palm leaves. They are paid by the mile.

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS - Argument continues over that question of which of the world's women are the most beautiful. A widely traveled airline pilot insists the girls of Cambodia win that title. Maybe so, maybe so. However, the blondes of Northeastern Italy usually get a higher number of votes in surveys of the experts. In the United States proper, of course, it is the women of Seattle and San Francisco who are generally regarded as the most attractive.

THE RECORD INDICATES no wild animal hunter has ever captured a baby gorilla without first shooting its mother to death. OUR PLANET MAN says Capricorn girls are known to be ambitious. They go to great lengths to shine socially. IT TAKES only 14 seconds for a chicken-punching machine to remove all the feathers. THE TECHNICAL WORD for brainwashing, or Language Man points out, is menticide. CALIFORNIA LAW prohibits a husband from spanking his wife, but it does not prohibit a wife from beating up her husband.

NUDISTS - Am asked the whereabouts in this world of the largest number of nudists per capita. You wouldn't believe it: The British are thought to be so conservative. But Great Britain is the place where live the highest percentage of nudists.

THE ACTORS outnumber the actresses in this country. Considerably; in fact, just about twice as many men as women claim professional theatrical status. HOW MANY MILES do you figure the five men on a basketball team run during the course of a single game? I mean altogether. The slide rule boys say it's about 24 miles.

MEMORY - What's your earliest memory? Believe my earliest memory was wading in Chincum Creek on the Olympic Peninsula in the State of Washington. Don't recall the age, however. Three or four, maybe. At any rate, a doctor says he has documented instances wherein a few persons recall events that occurred when they were six-months-old. Incredible.

CONSIDER THIS - If you drink too much upon occasion, you wake up feeling stiff. At least that is what the experienced researchers report. But why is this? Because, says a medical fellow, you do not shift position frequently enough while sleeping when under the influence.

RAPID REPLY - No, sir, that year in which the most inventions were patented was 1914.

Sachs, a holdover from the Johnson administration, announced Saturday he will resign at the end of May to return to private law practice. The 36-year-old Sachs, who has served since June 1967, has indicated the government may ask him to help in the prosecutions later this year of former Sen. Daniel Brewster, D-Md., and Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., on the bribery indictments he obtained against them.
