Lewiston and Seattle on the first flight west. The plane had arrived at Twin Falls after a flight from Los Angeles and Salt Lake City. More than 1,000 people were at the field when the plane, piloted by Air West veteran Capt. Joe Bankirk, made a flyover and then circled for a straight-in approach and a perfect touchdown on Runway 25. As it took off for the initial time the powerful engines permitted the 100-passenger jet to be airborne before it had used two-thirds of the available runway. Gos

TWO BROTHERS, Larry, 10, and Jack Lowell, were arrested on burglary charges by Boise, Tex. police. Jack told officers that he and his brother have taken $3 million worth of goods in 200 burglaries during the past five years. In a tape

Social Security Gains Will Raise Payroll Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has approved a 5 per cent increase in Social Security benefits for 26.2 million elderly Americans and higher payroll taxes for the nation's wage earners.

The bill also includes some controls on the rising costs of the Medicare program of hospitalization and doctors' services for people over 65. There would be limits placed on doctors' fees to keep them in line with the fees in the community.

It also approved a revolutionary plan to automatically fatten benefit checks, and hike taxes when the cost of living goes up. The bill now goes to the Senate, where the benefit increase has strong support but where the cost of living plan faces an uncertain fate.

Subdued Crowd In Opposition To War

NEW YORK (UPI)—A relatively subdued crowd of about 1,000 demonstrators gathered Wednesday for a "hard hat" demonstration in opposition to the Vietnam War.

The payroll tax on both employees and employers would be extended to cover the first $9,000 earned during each year, compared with the present $7,800. A person earning $9,000 or more would pay a total of $468 during the year, compared with the present $374.40.

Curfew

RAHWAY, N.J. (UPI)—Mayor John C. Marsh ordered a night curfew and beefed up police patrols Thursday night in Rahway, N.J., to prevent street violence and disturbances that already have resulted in 41 arrests.

In addition, retirees could earn $2,000 instead of the present $1,680 during a single year before their benefits would be reduced.

Marsh ordered an 11 p.m. curfew and a beefed-up force of policemen from 15 neighboring towns to maintain law and order.

Approval for the surprise cost of living feature came on a 233 to 144 vote. Under the proposal, there would be an automatic increase in benefits if the cost of living rises 3 per cent from the third quarter of one year to the third quarter of the next.

Laird Does Not Favor Timetable

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today he is not holding South Vietnamese forces to any "firm timetable" for leaving Cambodia and also favors later raids by Saigon troops if the Communists conduct a new building of the so-called sanctuaries.

The payroll taxes also would automatically be increased, by whatever amount needed to

Israel Asks For More Jets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban sought today to persuade President Nixon the United States should provide Israel with more jet war planes because a new role by Soviet pilots and technicians in the Middle East has threatened his nation's security.

Wounded Get Potomac Cruise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—David and Julia Eisenhower took 37 wounded servicemen aboard the presidential yacht Sequoia for a cruise down the Potomac Thursday.

Eban's 11:15 a.m. EDT meeting with Nixon was 20 minutes long after predictions by Senate Republican Leader Hugh D. Scott Jr. that the Israeli request would be granted. Scott said the U.S. decision on the aircraft was linked to Strategic Arms Limitation Talks now under way between the Soviet Union and the United States in Vienna.

At least 10 persons were injured, none seriously, in a stampede among students. A hospitalized student was injured in a stampede among students. A hospitalized student was injured in a stampede among students.

Eban, whose government is asking for 20 Phantom jets and 10-15 Skyhawks, contends the Congressional mission from the Soviet Union to grant the request has shifted the balance of power against the Jewish state.

Marchers Guarded By State Police

FORSYTH, Ga. (UPI)—A beefed-up force of state police guarded several hundred protest marchers today on orders of Gov. Lester Maddox who said he had "intelligence reports" of a deliberate plot to promote violence.

Modify U.S. Truck Convoy Ambushed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Thursday he and Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., have agreed to modify their amendment prohibiting retention of troops in Cambodia.

Church said he and Cooper have joined to modify the preamble of the pending amendment to express agreement with the President on his publicly declared timetable of withdrawal of American forces from Cambodia by June 30.

NY Strike May Close The Times

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unless a contract agreement is reached with the printers' union this weekend, The New York Times temporarily will suspend publication after its Sunday edition because of a prolonged work slowdown.

Church said the modifications do not change the substance of the amendment, "it gives legislative backup to the President and upholds the constitutional authority of the Congress," he said.

Famed Trio On River Journey

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, actor and folk singer Burl Ives and radio personality Arthur Godfrey were expected to arrive here late today for a three-day boat trip up the Snake River to Hells Canyon.

Tropical Storm Is Moving

MIAMI (UPI)—Tropical storm Alma, its strength sapped by flicking spring winds, moved north today carrying 60-mile-an-hour gales toward the Central-Cuban Coast.

The trio was expected to fly in by private plane, according to Floyd Harvey, river guide who is heading the trip.

The storm hurled its winds and shreds of rain at Jamaica and Southeast Cuba, where there were no reports of heavy transport helicopter was shot down; it was not known what effect it was having on Cuba's sugar crop, which already had fallen short of Premier Fidel Castro's announced goal of 10 million tons.

The group is scheduled to leave Lewiston Saturday morning for the nearly 100-mile trip up the Snake River and is not expected to return until Monday.

At midnight EDT, the storm was 100 miles north of the tip of Cuba and was moving north at 10 mph. It was 100 miles north of the tip of Cuba and was moving north at 10 mph.

Lewiston Elks Reject Temple

LEWISTON (UPI)—The new Elks Temple proposed for a site overlooking the Snake River here failed by 18 votes Thursday night to get enough support for approval.

The group is scheduled to leave Lewiston Saturday morning for the nearly 100-mile trip up the Snake River and is not expected to return until Monday.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet writer Andrei Amalric, who is credited in his writings that the Soviet Union would disintegrate by 1964, was arrested Thursday night by Soviet security police, informed sources said.

Amalric, 57, is the author of "Anatolic: An Unheard Journey to Siberia" and "Will the USSR Survive Until 1964?" both published in the West.

Amalric's wife, Giselle, who is a painter, said her husband was arrested at their villa outside Moscow.

She said agents of the Soviet security police (KGB) whisked him in a black police car from Moscow where he was interrogated.

The formal charges against Amalric were not known.

Horse Is Winner In Bar Brawl

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Somebody led a horse into a bar as a practical joke Wednesday night. The horse was frightened by a band playing "Along Came Mary" and nine persons were injured in the tumult that followed.

The animal, a retired thoroughbred racer, charged across the dimly lit room filled with patrons drinking and dancing about 10 p. m. It charged from wall to wall, looking for an exit. Tables were smashed. Glasses and bottles were broken.

"Everybody was completely hysterical, including me," said Judy Shanka, a 22-year-old White House secretary.

In his panic, the horse slipped and fell on its side toward the front of the supper club and its owner, Ron Furman, finally calmed it down and led it out the front door.

Nine of the bar's customers were treated at George Washington University Hospital for cuts and bruises, including one young woman who will require plastic surgery on an ear injured by the horse's hoof.

Furman, who operates a riding academy in suburban Maryland, rode the horse to Fran O'Brien's Anthony House and tied it to a rail in an adjacent parking lot. It was not clear whose idea it was, but someone led the horse into the club from the rear of the building and the animal immediately bolted in fright.

O'Brien, the club's owner and a 25-year-old former tackle for the Washington Redskins, tried to subdue the horse, but was no match for it.

Although the patrons were terrorized, they quickly recovered.

"The whole thing wasn't too bad," said one. "If you went in and said you lost a drink, they gave you a free one."

20 Food Stamp Counties Added

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government added 20 more counties in four states to its food stamp program Thursday as Agriculture Department sources confirmed that federal spending for food for the needy could jump 80 per cent in the next fiscal year.

Executives Are Cool To Pay Cut

NEW YORK (UPI) — A survey of top executives in 20 major industrial, utility, banking and insurance firms indicated Thursday that there is no rush to follow George Romney's example in taking a 25 per cent pay cut as an anti-inflationary measure.

"In the handling back any of his millions?" asked one executive who demanded that his name be withheld.

Romney, millionaire secretary of Housing and Urban Development, told 500 business leaders in New York Monday that he was turning back $15,000 of his $60,000 annual Cabinet salary to the government and urged them to do the same.

The weak applause drawn by his suggestion was a tip off to executive reaction.

"As a symbol it would be appropriate if President Nixon and the whole Cabinet had reduced their salaries this year rather than increased them," said Howard Stein, president of the Dreyfus Fund, a major market fund. "I think people in the administration would be better off taking action instead of making with words."

Most executives queried by their opinion of a voluntary pay cut replied "no comment." One asked, "You don't think we're going to say anything about that, do you?" A spokesman for E. I. du Pont de Nemours Inc. said there was no indication of its top echelon executives following Romney's lead.

M. C. Wharmore, president and chief executive officer of Cowles Communications Inc. said executives of his firm had gone without a pay increase for four years when other corporate officials were getting increases averaging 8 to 9 per cent annually.

A thought for the day: American poet Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Happy is the house that shelters a friend."

Generous T. F. Officer Aids Stranded Youths

Twin Falls Police Department has made at least two fans in Nampa, thanks to the generosity of one of its officers.

Last week Sgt. Cliff Sharp was called to a local service station on a trouble call. When he arrived he found two youths from Nampa had driven into the station, ordered some gasoline, and when they went to present a credit card to pay for the purchase, they had no credit card. They offered to send the station attendant the money as soon as they reached home, but this offer was not accepted and the gasoline was siphoned from the car.

Sgt. Sharp took the boys to the station where one of the boys admitted he was found-the youths' story was legitimate and Sgt. Sharp took $10 from his own pocket and gave it to the boys to get home on.

In Thursday's mail, he received a check for $10 and a note from a grateful parent.

The boys were in Twin Falls for the state track meet and while here had spent their cash on stereo equipment, planning to rely on the credit card for their trip back to Nampa.

Lions To Host Beauty Pageant

The first public appearance by 10 contestants entered in the forthcoming Miss Twin Falls pageant will be at noon Wednesday at a meeting of the Twin Falls Lions Club, sponsor of the annual pageant.

Some of the contestants will perform at the meeting, which will be at the Rogerson-Hotel-Roundup Room.

Pageant officials also will attend the banquet meeting. Chairman of the contest, set for June 20, is Dr. Gayland M. Erikson, member of the Lions Club.

Letters To Aid POW's Are Urged

WASHINGTON — Idaho residents have been urged by Congressman Orval Hansen to write to North Vietnamese officials urging humane treatment of American prisoners.

The Idaho congressman said hundreds of American servicemen, including many from Idaho, are being held without proper food or medical care in violation of the Geneva Convention.

Recent action in Congress called on the U. S. government, the United Nations and people of the world to appeal to the North Vietnam government and National Liberation Front to abide by the terms of the Geneva convention by giving humane treatment to prisoners of war and to release all members of the U. S. armed forces now held prisoner.

"Letters from the people of the nation may have greater influence to win better treatment of prisoners," the Idaho congressman said.

Such letters, which should be brief and not abusive, may be addressed to Office of the President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam or to Minister Xuan Thuy, Representative of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, c/o Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Paris, France. Airmail is 25 cents via Hong Kong and 20 cents to France.

Also fined by Judge Wilson were Royce Asher, Ketchum, $10, failure to register; and Petrus Morrison, Ketchum, $10 bond forfeiture for improper passing.

NEW RED CROSS chapter officers in Twin Falls are planning an active service program during the coming year. Elected Monday night in the annual chapter dinner meeting were Charles Charlton, vice chairman (standing) and David Nelson, new chairman; Thelma Tucker, secretary and Ludell Waldron, treasurer, from left. Mr. Nelson is also chairman of the chapter's blood program.

Harsh Options

Kent 1970 was Chicago 1968 all over again, it is charged, only far worse this time. It was bad enough when policemen in Chicago answered taunts and defiance with nightsticks, but now we have given the world the terrifying spectacle of Ohio National Guard troops at Kent State University responding to sticks and stones with bayonets and gun butts and live ammunition.

do as we have done — attempt to restrain and isolate lawlessness with measured force, while encouraging the expression of dissent through legitimate and constructive channels.

Few would accept the first alternative, with its obvious consequences. Yet when once we move to quell civil disturbance, we open the door to the always-present possibility of the kind of thing which happened at Kent State.

Yes, the guardsmen overreacted at Kent, but what good does it do to say that, as if it were the explanation for everything, or to take the opposite view — that the students brought it on themselves? Unless both sides are willing to accept equal responsibility for the Kent tragedy, we are doomed to see that tragedy repeated in another place at another time.

There is a third alternative, of course: We could take steps to ensure that riots never break out at all.

There are no riots in Russia, for a good example, except phony ones engineered against foreign embassies. We need not look too deeply to understand how that country manages to preserve its particular version of domestic tranquility.

First and foremost, we would have to abolish all free speech and press and right to assembly. No criticism of the government could be tolerated for an instant.

A network of spies and informers and all the machinery of a secret police would have to be constructed and dossiers compiled on every suspect citizen — and that means every citizen.

Disidents like the Able-Hoffmans and Jerry Rubins would have to be liquidated without open trials — certainly not given publicity and allowed to wander about on bail.

In short, to prevent popular violence, official violence, both physical and psychological, would have to be elevated into a consummate art.

But now we are talking about nightmares, and night has descended on America... yet.

MR. SPECTATOR

Lo, The Poor Nickel

For five cents, in days gone by, it was possible to do a lot of things — to purchase a lot of things. But, lo, Mr. Spectator hastens to point out that those days are now gone forever.

In fact, so far as purchasing power is concerned, they could stop minting the nickel right now and few would miss it.

But there is still one thing that is available for five cents and that is the 20-minute ferry ride between the Battery and Staten Island in the New York City area. Mr. Spectator took the ride years ago — and it cost five cents. It still costs five cents but that fact may be on the way to being eliminated.

We suppose that it is inevitable that the five-cent fare, which provides without doubt the world's best transportation bargain, must someday be revised upward. Mayor Lindsay thinks this may be the time and his proposal for a 400 per cent increase — to 25 cents — is being offered to the city council.

As economically justified as it would be, many would hate to see the nickel fare go, especially since the additional $5 million the increase would generate would still leave a huge deficit.

But economic good sense may prevail over romantic notions for there may not be room left, in these days of ever-growing budgets, for a reminder of the good old days when not only ferry rides but also good cigars, mugs of beer and moving pictures cost only five cents.

In New York it was wonderful for five cents, to have the in-vigorating sea breeze and all spray, an unparalleled view of the harbor and the Manhattan skyline, and the chance (if you are young) to hold your girl's hand and dream of making your fortune in the big town.

Now it looks like the end is at hand!

ACHING BACK!

There was a time when hard labor caused backs to ache. And for while, drafts were blamed. But now, in this air-conditioned automated age, there are more sore backs than ever.

Our muscles have become so soft that a hearty sneeze tears a ligament or pops a spinal disc. The result is agonizing pain in the lower back. Mr. Spectator would hasten to point out that remedial suggestions would be walking, climbing stairs, pushups, situps, even liftups.

But, come to think of it, Mr. Spectator might back up on those suggestions. All of that stuff sounds like hard work and that's what started giving people backaches in the first place.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — While the nation's young destroyers in high school and college are busy smashing buildings, burning books and some scholars' lifetimes' researches, and screaming their lungs out, I am going to talk about a lad of 16 who makes them all look like the mindless fools they are.

This boy also puts to shame the countless soft-headed liberals, especially in what is generously termed the "academic community," who either openly sympathize with the violence of the young marauders or do not have the guts to speak up and assert standards of discipline, of law, of genuine morality and regard for human rights.

The young man I have in mind is, supremely, an individual. And he did not become that by retreating from the overorganized world he finds himself in but by plunging into it.

Level Headed Student

For at least the last seven years he has been a champion athlete. He is an honor scholar and more than four years ago was reading books at the rate of about 100 a year.

With two years to go before moving into college, he is presently studying Latin, a marvelous discipline largely shunned by today's allegedly "best-educated" generation of students, and wants to dig into Greek, another tough one.

Not content with the studies at his own school, he goes twice a week to night classes at a city university to study Spanish along with students generally two or three years older than he. He is more than holding his own.

He has understood for a long time the wonder of having a mind and developing it to the fullest. He sees no value in traveling in packs down the street, even if they are peaceful. He sees nothing "activist" about the shouted slogan or the waving placard. Talk alone, however loud and insistent, is not for him.

Properly aroused like many another American by the nagging problem of pollution, he recently called his city's department concerned with the problem and offered his services. One day a week, after school, he goes down to that office and helps out. He does not think what he is doing there has much real bite to it, but you can bet he will find a way to do more something somewhere.

Population control is another of his big personal concerns. Again, he wants to act. He has not yet figured out how to contribute something on this score, but he is busy looking.

When he looks, he looks everywhere. He erects no senseless barriers that cut him off from the accumulated wisdom of living persons "over 30," or the wisdom of the ages gone before. He has no patience with the "irrelevant" nonsense which defines the "relevant" as only that which is happening now or limits history to the events of merely the past few years.

Recently he spent an evening with his 85-year-old grandmother a thousand miles from his own home. She remarks upon his intense curiosity about her and her ideas.

When he was 12, he questioned me one evening for an hour or more about the nature and working of my business. His inquiries were keen — and more perceptive than any I have ever had either from any young people or from 90 per cent of the adults who have showed any interest at all.

He is a hard day-long worker in an age when thousands of young alibi artists try to generate the "work ethic" to excuse their love of loafing — which they interrupt only periodically with ceremonies of violence they fraudulently characterize as "activism" and "dissent." They have tried, in vain, to transform worklessness into an idealistic faith, into a kind of magic that will make over the world in a flashing instant.

ART BUCHWALD

Dick And Dow

WASHINGTON — "If I had any money, I'd be buying stocks now," President Nixon said on April 28, 1970.

Since the President uttered those immortal words, the Dow Jones Industrial average has nose-dived well below 700 points. The opinion of most experts on Wall Street is that if Mr. Nixon had invested in the market on April 28, he would be jumping out of the window of his White House bedroom this morning.

A haggard investment analyst told me, "The only thing the President could have made money on since April 28 is Cambodian railroad bonds."

"Why do you think the President went out on a limb like that?" "He was trying to restore faith in the stock market."

"Why did he fail?" "Any time the President of the United States takes time out to buck up the market, Wall Street panics. After his statement, everyone said, 'Why would he say something like that unless the country was really in bad shape?'"

"Then you think the President would have done more if he'd said, 'If I had any money I would sell all my stocks?'" "If he had said that, I believe Dow Jones would have gone through the roof."

"Surely the President must have known that by making his statement of April 28, he would have caused the market to go down."

"Not true. Since the President has been in the White House, there has been a communications gap between himself and Wall Street. The President is so protected by his White House staff that he has no idea what is happening in the financial world. He believes the people who are doing all the selling on the street are a small minority of malcontents, troublemakers and bums. He has no idea that it's really Middle America that's causing the stock market to go down."

"Why in heaven's name doesn't someone tell him?" "I tried. Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans tried to see the President to tell him but he wasn't successful, so he wrote his now famous letter."

Memorial where they saw several brokers from Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith sleeping on the steps. He woke them up and told them he understood their problems, and he tried to explain to them why he made his decision to announce that if he had any money he would buy stocks.

"Did they understand?" I asked. "Let's say they listened, but they didn't promise him a ticker tape parade in New York this year."

PAUL HARVEY The Prologue

On the facade of the stately Archives Building in Washington, D.C., are inscribed the words: "What's past is prologue."

A District cab driver is said to have said, "What that means is, you ain't seen nothin' yet!"

If coming events cast shadows, if we can anticipate our own fate by analytical hindsight — let's preview by review.

Older parts of the world are beginning to feel sorry for the people of the United States. Like a mother or father or elder brother, they can see what we are going through and what we are headed into; they have passed this way before.

Recently in London's New Statesman, J.B. Priestley wrote, "I have been feeling genuinely and deeply sorry for the American people — the ordinary decent Americans as distinct from the bloodthirsty half-balmly riffraff. I am sorry for them because, bewildered, saddened or maddened, they are trying to grope their way out of a long dangerous dream."

He went on to describe how our "great country, based on a noble idea, is now tearing itself apart."

The United States until 15 years ago was an example for the world of how a "melting pot" of assorted ethnic strains and diverse views could prosper without colliding. Today's "wreckage" of that "long dangerous dream" is disillusioning to us but really no surprise to older nations where overpopulation has amplified and ultimately inflamed "differences."

It's tiresome to most Americans for anyone to retrace the lessons of history, but several historians — Spengler, DeBenedictis, Ferraro, Gibbon — concur so precisely in their interpretation of our present situation that one can almost hear them demise that, one more instant replay might be useful. Rome had a pioneering beginning not unlike our own, enjoyed two centuries of greatness then went into decline, decay and collapse.

In Rome the second-century symptoms of decay were vast increases in the number of idle rich and idle poor. The latter were put on a permanent dole, a welfare system similar to our own.

As the welfare system became permanent, the recipients organized themselves, became a political bloc with considerable power.

Rome's government bowed to pressure from this welfare army; would-be emperors catered to them.

The great, solid middle class was taxed more and more. Then there was an income surtax. Then the denarius, a silver coin similar to our half-dollar, had its silver content reduced, became copper colored. Then silver coins disappeared altogether.

Military service had been an honored tradition in Rome, but young men began avoiding service, took to using conscripts, wearing feminine hairdos and garments.

Among teachers and scholars many let their hair and beards grow, wore slovenly clothes, professed indifference to worldly goods.

Minerals declined. It became unsafe to walk countryside or city streets. Flooding became commonplace; sometimes whole sections of towns and cities were burned.

And finally, when confatory taxation and creeping inflation overcame energy and ambition, the result was stagnation and decline and Rome passed into that history had recorded as the Dark Ages, lasting a thousand years.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Tonsils

Dear Dr. Thosteson: One of the children I take care of has tonsils to the point of affecting his hearing. He is 8, and his parents were told by someone to let the trouble go and he may grow out of it.

He doesn't sleep peacefully as it is terribly hard for him to breathe. Would you advise taking his tonsils out or is it possible he will "outgrow the trouble"? Will his hearing be affected for life? I'm so worried watching him tossing and drawing breath with all the strength he has. — Mrs. L. T.

I wonder who the "someone" could be who advised letting this trouble go.

I'm a "well-yanker." I don't believe in "taking out tonsils just on general principles, or even if they are mildly inflamed."

But I certainly do recommend doing something about it when the tonsils are causing trouble. By your description — the youngster's trouble breathing and is going deaf — this child is in very severe trouble.

He should be taken to a specialist. Whether the tonsils should come out can be decided after examination. Obviously, however, there is infection spreading into the ears, and that is dangerous. It defers a lot of children, but I'm afraid, already ruined this child's hearing. I hope he gets immediate attention so there will be some chance of preventing lifelong damage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send booklet, "How to control Emphysema," for which I enclosed 20 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Last winter, breathing cold air gave me chest pains. I have been told there is a gadget to wear over your mouth and nose for that. Is there such a thing? — L.C.

Yes, small masks of fibrous material are made for this purpose, and if your druggist can't get one for you, you can get it through a medical supply house.

Colitis can include a variety of intestinal ailments from serious to merely uncomfortable. For a better understanding of its causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this paper for his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a pre-paid, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend advised me about a new process for removing scars from the face which is widely used in Europe. It involves removing the layer of skin and waiting six weeks until a new layer replaces it. I have several conspicuous chickenpox scars. Do you think this process would benefit me? — Mrs. A. L. B.

Sounds like "skin-planing," which isn't confined to Europe, but has been in use for years here. It is fine for relatively superficial scarring. Its limitation is that it can't correct pitting. See a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon, but don't be disappointed if he says this process won't do much for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read in your column about clomiphene, the new fertility drug. I would desperately like more information. We've been married for years but after all sorts of tests my husband has been found to be sterile. — B.M.

I'm sorry but clomiphene isn't your solution. It works only in women, and in your case, it's your husband who is sterile.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: One of the children I take care of has tonsils to the point of affecting his hearing. He is 8, and his parents were told by someone to let the trouble go and he may grow out of it.

He doesn't sleep peacefully as it is terribly hard for him to breathe. Would you advise taking his tonsils out or is it possible he will "outgrow the trouble"? Will his hearing be affected for life? I'm so worried watching him tossing and drawing breath with all the strength he has. — Mrs. L. T.

I wonder who the "someone" could be who advised letting this trouble go.

I'm a "well-yanker." I don't believe in "taking out tonsils just on general principles, or even if they are mildly inflamed."

But I certainly do recommend doing something about it when the tonsils are causing trouble. By your description — the youngster's trouble breathing and is going deaf — this child is in very severe trouble.

He should be taken to a specialist. Whether the tonsils should come out can be decided after examination. Obviously, however, there is infection spreading into the ears, and that is dangerous. It defers a lot of children, but I'm afraid, already ruined this child's hearing. I hope he gets immediate attention so there will be some chance of preventing lifelong damage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send booklet, "How to control Emphysema," for which I enclosed 20 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Last winter, breathing cold air gave me chest pains. I have been told there is a gadget to wear over your mouth and nose for that. Is there such a thing? — L.C.

Yes, small masks of fibrous material are made for this purpose, and if your druggist can't get one for you, you can get it through a medical supply house.

Colitis can include a variety of intestinal ailments from serious to merely uncomfortable. For a better understanding of its causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this paper for his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a pre-paid, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Confucius Say 'Woman's Place In Home,' But Asians Changing

By ROBERT CRABBE
TOKYO (UPI)—An old Confucian proverb put Asia's traditional view of women in a nutshell: "The woman obeys her father before marriage, her husband after marriage, and her son when widowed."

But "as Confucius say" doesn't always hold any more. World War II saw the budding of a revolution in the Asian woman's way of life that has only begun.

In non-Communist and Communist Asia alike, women are branching out from their traditional roles as humble wives and mothers and reaching boldly for freedom and self-identity.

Ceylon gave the world its first woman prime minister, Mrs. Solomon Bandaranaike, India, one of the largest nations, now has a woman prime minister—Indira Gandhi.

An all-woman team of Japanese mountain climbers is toiling up Mount Annapurna III, one of the most dangerous peaks in the Himalayas.

Such events would have been unthinkable 30 years ago. In old Asia, most famous women were queens or royal mistresses. Achievers such as Japan's classic novelist, Shikibu Murasaki, got to do their great work only by lucky accident. Murasaki's husband died when she was 22, leaving her in comfortable circumstances with plenty of time to write.

In the progress of women, it is hard to compare countries. Japan's high standard of living and its constitution gives women legal equality with men, and an appearance of progress, yet women in the economically backward Philippines are far more active in law and medicine. And Japanese women never have scaled the political peaks reached by their sisters in India, Pakistan and Ceylon. In all Asian countries, material life has changed faster than social attitudes. Television and autos are adopted more quickly than new viewpoints on marriage and careers.

Theorists of the American feminist movement like Roxanne Dunbar might well consider Asia a continuing disaster area.

Many Asian women still think small when confronting the new opportunities. For these, emancipation means little more than an education lightly pursued, and a chance for a sexual fling or two before settling down in a conventional marriage.

China. Since the Communist takeover, many women have gone to work in fields and factories. Others serve in government—and the armed forces. However, women's resistance to communal living frustrated, Mao's efforts to deemphasize family life. The sexes look is in. One glamorous Chinese woman now shun makeup and hairstyling. —Phillips. One-third of the doctors are female. The same recently to Tokyo University. Women comprise 9.5 per cent of the doctors and 11 per cent of the dentists.

Burma allows divorce by mutual consent. Husbands and wives hold property in common. Polygamy is legal but frowned on by moderns.

Indonesia. Legally, men may take up to four wives. Increasingly young women are unwilling to enter such marriages. Since independence they have had equal access to the universities. There are hundreds of women doctors, lawyers, university teachers.

South Korea. Legal equality for women came in 1948. Thirty thousand females graduate from college each year.

for one-sixth of the nation's lawyers. The country's top taxpayer in 1967 was Mrs. Mercedes McMicking, a real-estate tycoon. The Madrigal sisters, daughters of industrialist Vincent Madrigal, have vast holdings in construction, banking and real estate. The foreign service has seven female ambassadors or career ministers. Benefits of emancipation, mostly have gone to upper class women.

Burma. Here the feminist movement is weak. No women are cabinet ministers but women staff government offi-

Charles A. Daw, Hansch, and Phyllis Petersen, Filer, have been chosen to take part in a computer programming summer school project of the University's college of engineering and Idaho Chapter of Junior Engineering Technical Society.

The school will be held June 8-19 on the campus here. A total of 39 juniors will be participating. All those selected have a 3.00 or better grade average.

Parents' Help Credited In Clearing Drug Case

Capt. Tim Qualls of the Twin Falls Police Department detective division has cited parental cooperation as the key factor in quickly clearing up a case of drug abuse this week in the city.

He said about 11:40 a. m. Wednesday two juveniles came in contact with a 38-year-old man. The conversation got around to drugs, and in the course of the meeting the man gave one of the boys, a 14-year-old, two pills of a prescription tranquilizer drug. Capt. Qualls said the tranquilizer is the strongest of its type produced and is not to be prescribed for anyone under 12 years of age. The boy immediately took the pills to his father, who in turn called the police department.

The 38-year-old man was contacted, and through investigation it was found he is retarded and is a mental patient. Because of these circumstances, drug charges have not been filed against him. A sanity hearing is pending. A petition has been filed.

Realtors Plan Pollution Fight

Fighting pollution — air, water and noise — is the newest area in which the National Association of Real Estate Boards is becoming involved in its "Make America Better" program, according to Beth Wickham, president of the Twin Falls Board of Realtors.

Lou Thorson, vice president of the Twin Falls board, will head the program on the local level. He said the local board will have a project designed to coincide with the national program, which will be beneficial to the community.

Car Crash Victim Still In Hospital

ROGERSON — Jim Jewell, 27, Twin Falls, remains hospitalized at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in fair condition with injuries received in an accident early Sunday near Rogerson.

Idaho State Police said Mr. Jewell was alone in his 1960 Chevrolet when the accident occurred. The accident was believed to have been caused by a retread coming off a tire. The car rolled several times and came to rest on its side against an embankment.

State Police were notified of the mishap about 3 a. m. Sunday, but said the accident probably occurred some time before that.

Mr. Jewell was thrown from his car and crawled to the edge of the road in an attempt to flag down passing cars, officers said.

The accident occurred 10.8 miles north of the Nevada-Idaho state line on U.S. Highway 63.

Vandalism At Rest Areas Is Problem For Idaho State Highway Department

Annually motorists traveling through Idaho, and even those residing in the state, write thousands of cards and letters to the Idaho Department of Highways expressing appreciation for the many beautiful, well equipped and maintained rest areas along Gem State highways.

Each year, a minute minority of vandals, who apparently have no conscience, pride or courage, take out their "sick" frustrations on these beautiful rest areas built with highway user funds and paid for by all Idaho motorists.

This is the summation of Idaho Department of Highways Maintenance Engineer Roy W. Jump in reviewing one of the department's major problems. Although damage to these rest areas is not great in terms of dollars, the inconvenience to the public and the man-hours spent by the department in rebuilding is a wasteful and unnecessary burden, he said.

An example of this type of vicious destruction of public property was noted recently in the westbound rest area near Jerome. Here vandals kicked out the legs supporting lavatories causing flooding and water damage. Nuts and bolts holding partitions in washrooms together also were removed.

Greater damage occurred near Montpelier where misguided vandals tore off doors, shot holes in the mirror and even started a fire and demolished picnic tables, Mr. Jump said. Rest areas near Blackfoot and many in Northern Idaho also have been severely damaged.

In Southeastern Idaho, one specific area was torn apart by vandals five times in a three-month period.

Department engineers are constantly reviewing rest area designs to make facilities as indestructible as possible, but, Mr. Jump said, vandals seem to find a way.

Such facilities, he said, are built for everyone's enjoyment and convenience and the vandals not only destroy the property of other Idaho taxpayers but their own as well.

State Highway Department and State Police personnel check the areas frequently, but often miss the brief intervals needed by the vandals to cause hundreds of dollars of damage.

The public is urged to report any incidents of vandalism immediately and vandals must be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law when apprehended, highway officials say.

Complaint Is Filed In Stabbing

A complaint charging David Friel, 26, Twin Falls, with assault with a deadly weapon has been issued from Twin Falls Police Court.

The charge stems from a stabbing incident in the western part of Twin Falls about midnight Tuesday. D. A. Garlinghouse received a minor stab wound in the lower right back as he was picking up a baby which had been taken from the house where he and two women were playing cards.

It is alleged Friel entered the house, took the baby, and as Garlinghouse gave chase, Friel laid the baby on a lawn.

Friel pleaded guilty about a month ago to assault with a deadly weapon. That complaint charged he stabbed Mrs. Bonnie Cox, mother of the baby who was taken from the house Tuesday night.

Ford Says Action Of Nixon Changed Course

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—House minority leader Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., warned Thursday of an "irrational wave of neo-isolationism in this country—not only among our college campuses but in the U.S. Senate."

that erupts into bloodshed and killing—will not become part of the American way of life.

Ford, who spoke to the New Jersey Bankers Association on the same program with two Soviet bankers, said President Nixon's action to send troops into Cambodia has reversed the course of the Vietnam War.

Big Cattle Drive Is Continuing

"There are strange parallels—but I think unmistakable parallels—between the anti-militarists and the neo-isolationists of today the pacifists and isolationists of the 1920s," he said.

COUNSELORS, N.M. (UPI)—Seven cowboys, overcoming an Indian blockade, 90-degree temperatures and raw hides, Friday reached the halfway point in a 200-mile cattle drive across northern New Mexico.

The minority leader eliminated a reference to the Soviet Union, which had been in his prepared text, apparently in deference to the Russian bankers. It said:

The cowboys and their 600 head of chatochals cattle were to spend Thursday night in Counselors, the halfway spot of the drive which started in Grants, N.M., and will end at Pagosa Springs, Colo.

"Today, the Soviet Union feeds the Communist war effort in Vietnam, fuels the Arab military force in the Middle East, even to the point of sending Soviet pilots there, and continues amassing the most horrible and threatening array of armaments."

The cattle are being driven to the Colorado Rockies by cowboys of the Great Western Land and Cattle Co. for summer pastures.

Ford characterized the anti-war movement in the country as "a tragedy of immense proportions because it has produced some of the most irrational attitudes ever expressed in America."

The company was forced to truck the cattle across the Navajo lands before heading north for the friendlier confines of the Jicarilla Apache reservation.

"I am convinced the kind of dissent we have seen at Kent State University and Jackson, Miss., State College—dissent

Attorney Asks For New Probe

BOISE (UPI) — W. Anthony (Tony) Park, Boise, candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, called Thursday for an investigation into charges that employees of the state highway department were involved in misappropriation of state funds.

"We're going into friendly territory from here on out," said Great Western spokesman Grant Loftin. Loftin said the "A" pass planned to hold a celebration for the cattlemen on their reservation next week.

Park called on Attorney General Robert Robson to look into statements made by Oliver Turner, former road auditor for the highway department, who pled guilty Wednesday to 19 counts of obtaining money by false pretenses from the department. Turner claimed other employees, as well as employees in the bureau of public accounts, were also involved in misappropriation of the state funds.

Loftin indicated this year's dispute with the Navajos may also mean this will be the last year the drive is held. He said if the Navajos opposed the drive again next year, "We'll just truck them (the cattle) up the highway."

Although he (Robson) quite properly refused to talk to Mr. Turner while his trial was in progress, he was quoted in the press as stating he was satisfied there were no irregularities in either the state highway department or the bureau of public accounts." Park told the Ada County Democratic Women's Club.

Bank And File Earnings Down

"Apparently he leaped to this conclusion without so much as a conversation with the man who, with nothing to gain, made these very serious allegations." Park said if the charges were true, the result "would obviously be a scandal unparalleled in the history of the state and the political consequences to the Samuelson administration would no doubt be severe."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The purchasing power of the nation's rank and file workers declined slightly in April because of higher prices, the Labor Department said Thursday.

Marine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Thursday passed and sent to the Senate the Nixon administration's proposal to beef up the nation's merchant marine fleet by building 30 new ships a year for the next decade.

Gross weekly earnings of production and nonsupervisory workers remained virtually unchanged at $117.98, but as reported Wednesday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) the cost of living went up 0.8 per cent last month.

Rock Creek Overflowing Its Banks To Flood Farm Land Near Hansen

WALKING ACROSS a flooded bridge over Jack Butler ranch along Rock Creek is Bill Pierson, Rock Creek ditch rider. Looking on is Jack Claiborn, Jr., Kimbly, president of the Rock Creek Water Users Association. Warm weather and record snowpack have caused Rock Creek to overflow its banks. (Soll Conservation Service photo)

HANSEN — Rock Creek is overflowing its banks and several acres of farm land along the creek are inundated. The heavy snowpack in the Magic Mountain and Deadline Ridge area, combined with warm temperatures and rain, has caused the creek to overflow its banks in several areas. Clarence Hedrick, SCS work unit conservationist at Twin Falls, who visited the area with other SCS officials Thursday, said about 20 acres of grain owned by Mrs. Flora Larson was flooded several days ago, but the water has receded somewhat. A small bridge near the Jack Butler ranch is still covered by the flooding creek.

Mr. Hedrick notes this spring flooding would be controlled if a dam were built farther up the canyon as is proposed in the watershed project that area ranchers, farmers, the city of Twin Falls and SCS officials are discussing. The proposal is currently under study by the SCS Watershed Planning Party.

Burley Man Dies In Starch Plant Mishap

HEYBURN — A coroner's inquest is pending into the death of a Simplot Co. employee who apparently went into a potato hopper Thursday night and became caught in a conveyor belt in the starch plant at the Heyburn operation. Rock Jones, Simplot area manager, said Lawrence Handy, 23, Burley, was trying to dislodge sprouts and vines inside the hopper, which is a giant shaped funnel which carries cull potatoes to the conveyor belt beneath. The official said workers are instructed to never enter the hopper and are told to use long steel poles when potatoes become clogged in the mechanism. There were no witnesses to the accident, according to Sheriff Theo Johnson and Heyburn policeman Art McGill who said Friday investigation still is under way.

Insurance Men Open Idaho Convention At Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY — The insurance industry is big and continues to grow because of public confidence, Herbert F. Mischke, vice president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, told a gathering of Charter Life Underwriters during preliminary meetings Thursday in conjunction with the Idaho Association of Life Underwriters meeting here. The convention officially got under way Friday with election and installation of new state officers, followed by a management training session conducted by Mr. Mischke. Some 300 underwriters, wives and guests are attending the convention.

Thursday afternoon, Frank Satt, Seattle, discussed "Power Is Our Business," declaring that leadership must be confidence in the people it directs. "A manager must know his job's purpose in life, his job, and his mission, then set goals and intensify the agent's idea to achieve those goals." Today, ladies accompanying their husbands to the convention were entertained by a management training session featuring an address by Mr. Mischke, whose topic will be "Let Us Fish or Cut Bait."

On the agenda for Saturday's concluding session is the annual Dave Jensen Breakfast during which John Barovich, Billings, Mont., will be featured speaker. Harry Gutmann, New York City, will conduct the sales conference following the breakfast, and Mr. Satt will be featured speaker during the concluding luncheon. His topic will be "S.T.P."

Department heads and plant superintendent explained the operation of the pumping station which lifts the city's water supply several hundred feet up the canyon wall was accompanied by council members. All operation in the canyon is automatic with telemetering equipment posting department workers at all times on the pumping situation. About once a day the plant is visited by a department representative and radio communication is available for any necessary information.

Primary sewage facilities now in use by the city were explained by plant Superintendent Earl Pullmer. City Manager Jean Milar noted all existing equipment will be utilized in the new secondary treatment designed to serve as a primary unit and to be a basis for higher standards at the time they were required by Health Department regulations.

In the conversion to secondary treatment, high rate filters and secondary clarifiers will be added to present equipment, he explained. In the fifth and final tour to acquaint new council members with various city facilities and problems, officials will visit city parks and recreation facilities next Thursday.

A Nation in Crisis Yale Attuned to Human Heartache

America is in a time of unrelieved crises. The raging controversy over the tactics in Southeast Asia, the rise of student sympathy for the Black Panthers, and the growing instability directed at the President and Vice-President are studied in events and speeches. This is the first of three columns in which Rev. Poling will look at the ferment within Yale University, the increasing antagonism toward the White House and the clergy, and the political alliance being formed between the members of the Church—both in a state of dishevelment and alarm.

By DAVID POLING
In less than a month's time, Stewart Alsop told his Newsweek audience that Yale Divinity School was a hotbed of discreditable and unpopularity directed at the President and Vice-President are studied in events and speeches. This is the first of three columns in which Rev. Poling will look at the ferment within Yale University, the increasing antagonism toward the White House and the clergy, and the political alliance being formed between the members of the Church—both in a state of dishevelment and alarm.

For centuries the Divinity School at Yale has been a community of free inquiry, discussion and, at times, radical action. In almost any decade some professor or dean is under fire for his unpopular lectures or opinions of some unpopular cause. Being nondenominational and non-Yale, Divinity has attracted the nonconformists from every branch of Christian faith. But the broad center of the school's life has been both solid and distinguished. Its scholarship is well-earned, and its history indicates that it will take more than a couple of draft-dodgers and a Newsweek columnist to derail its destiny.

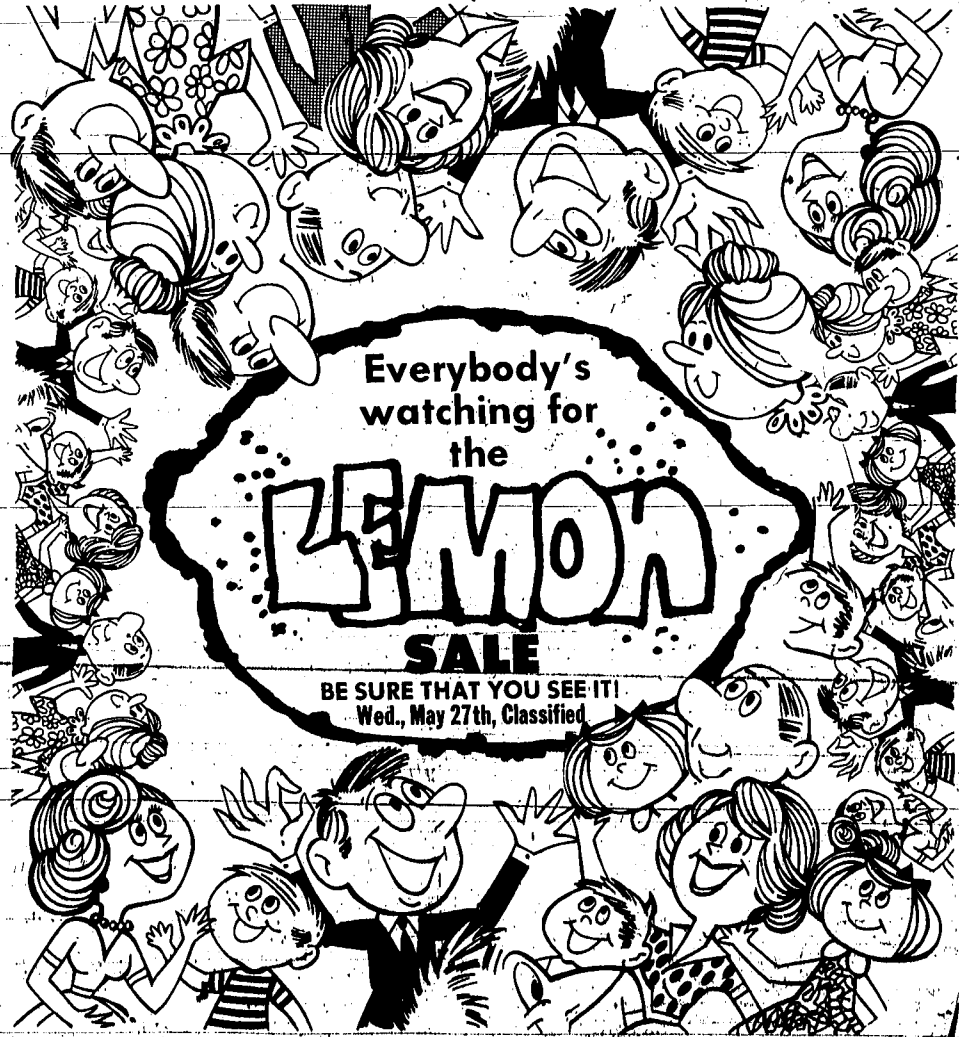

When Kingman Brewster said that he was "skepical" about the Black Panthers getting a fair trial anywhere in the United States, he offered a personal opinion shared by many in his university. On that, he may be all wet. On the other hand, he was prepared to allow the discussion and rally to take top priority in the New Haven community, backed all the more by faculty, administration and students after the Vice-President's suggestion that the be fired.

What must be clearly understood by those outside New Haven and the Yale corporation is that this place has always been tuned to the human heartbeat. Yale fought successfully for the rights of African slaves marooned in their post-revolutionary harbor. Yale Divinity students supported Indian missionaries on the American frontier and sent graduates to China and India. During the Civil War, slaves were hunted north by courier and cash from New Haven.

In their own back yard they have had continuing dialogue with the poor, the black and the broken. The Yale Hope Mission was staffed entirely by students and faculty to give assistance and comfort to alcoholics and derelicts. The Haven-people worked for more than a decade in the New Haven slum for their families. The fantastic advances and providing counsel in New Haven would never have been accomplished without the co-operation of town and gown. Brewster understands the climate of Yale and New Haven. He is not put off by the intimidating statements of the Vice-President or the threatening slogans of the Black Panthers.

This may be too much freedom for a free society. It surely seems to be too much freedom of speech and assembly for those who see New Haven through the eyes of Spiro T. Agnew. But Yale is not in Greenwich Village. And it has 200 years of Berkeley, and 100 years on West Point. When freedom is exercised thoughtfully and regularly, the walls do not come tumbling down and, in the end, only the critics are burned up.

Religion Today

By Rev. Lester Kinsolving

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In introducing senate resolution 89, pertaining to the office of chaplain of the senate, New Jersey's Sen. Harrison Williams reminded his colleagues of James Madison's strong objection when the post was created in 1789.

Sen. Williams mentioned that the fourth president had warned that such a chaplaincy would violate the First Amendment's prohibition of an establishment of religion. He also noted the modern fulfillment of another of Madison's warnings; that there would inevitably be discrimination in the appointment of such a chaplain against the (then) smaller denominations, such as Catholics and Jews.

This was an accurate prediction, as is seen in the fact that although Catholics have for some time comprised the largest religious affiliation in both the Senate and the population as a whole, there has been only one Catholic senate chaplain since 1793, and not a single rabbi.

"Only eight denominations have been represented in the office," Williams told the Senate. (16 Methodist, 15 Episcopalians, 12 Presbyterians, 8 Baptists, two Unitarians, one Lutheran, one Congregationalist and one Roman Catholic.)

The New Jersey Senator's resolution has since resulted in the senate's decision to appoint a new chaplain annually, rather than let the incumbent serve for life. The appointment will also rotate among the nation's three major religious groups.

During an interview with this writer, Williams said that he had experienced no opposition to his resolution, but rather "A favorable reaction—that the various faiths should be represented."

But how about James Madison's contention that any chaplain for the senate would be a violation of the Constitution? "If this were tested, I would say that it could go either way. It could be declared unconstitutional," he replied. "Any taxpayer could question this, but no one ever has."

Senator Williams conceded that chaplains are probably constitutional whenever they serve people who have been isolated by the government—such as those in the armed forces, hospitals or prisons. (The First Amendment guarantees the "free exercise" of religion, which in many denominations requires clergy for such functions as administering the sacraments.)

"But," said Sen. Williams, "I don't know of anybody less isolated than members of congress. I cannot think of any group more visible than congress."

He also conceded that the metropolitan area of Washington contains a great many churches, synagogues and clergy. Would many of these local clergy be willing to serve as chaplain at no cost to the federal government?

"The salary is not extraordinary," he answered. "I know it is overpaid. The chaplain's job is not a burden, but a joy—but it is time consuming."

The present senate chaplain is the Rev. Dr. Edward Lee Roy Elson, who is also senior minister of Washington's National Presbyterian Church. Until last fall, he was receiving the regular senate chaplain's salary of $19,768.84. Then the senate decided to cut the amount to $10,000, because it was for Dr. Elson a part-time job. (But the chaplain of the House of Representatives who does no outside work, receives the full amount.)

The Rev. Dr. Elson told this writer that he works "20 to 30 hours per week" at the chaplain's job, in such functions as:

— Opening prayers at sessions of the senate (a two-minute limit).

— Greeting ecclesiastical guests of the government, dedicating monuments and giving invocations at state banquets and upon historical occasions.

— Counseling senators when asked to do so—on such special requests as one senator who asked me to give him a memo on 'God is dead,' and (with the assistance of a full-time senate chaplain's secretary) answering 30 to 50 letters per week.

When asked just what kind of letters he answered, the Rev. Dr. Elson replied: "Oh, well, I get letters from the chaplains of state legislatures asking just what a legislative chaplain should do."

At least the senate chaplain has always been a clergyman—in contrast to another congressional post: the capitol architect, who need not even be an architect.

Religious Writer Says Church Is Under Attack

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

There was a time, not so long ago, when the church was in almost universal favor. Even those who didn't attend felt constrained to put in a good word for it.

Today, the situation is reversed. The "institutional church," as it usually is designated by its detractors, is under attack from all sides. Even those who continue to serve and support it feel called upon to apologize for it.

This reversal of fortunes can be attributed in part to the propensity of Americans for being governed by fads. In what they think as well as in what they wear, eat and read. It is fashionable currently to scorn institutions, particularly institutions such as the church and the university which previously enjoyed great prestige.

But to acknowledge that the church has many shortcomings is not the same as saying that it is an evil or expendable institution, as some of its harsher critics seem to be suggesting these days.

Christians Most Scathing
The most savage attacks on the church seem to come from people who profess to stand within the Christian tradition and to judge the church by Christian standards.

To such persons, if not to outsiders, it should be germane to understand the church's modern invention which man may feel free to dismantle at will. It is a fellowship called into being by Jesus Christ Himself, and the New Testament clearly indicates it is an integral part of God's continuing effort to achieve reconciliation with an alienated world.

The New Testament employs some 30 different images, or figures of speech, in attempting to define the role and significance of the church. The most meaningful for our time, perhaps, is St. Paul's metaphor of the church as "the body of Christ."

History Proves Endurance
Paul meant, the context makes clear, that the church is a physical extension in time and space of the resurrected Christ. It is the "body"—the hands, feet, eyes, ears and brains—through which the work

Robinson, Greenberg Back Flood's Attack Against Reserve Clause

NEWYORK (UPI)—Baseball Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson and Hank Greenberg testified in behalf of Curt Flood Thursday that they support a reserve clause is unfair to players and should be abolished.

Robinson, the first Negro to break the color barrier in organized baseball, predicted a strike by players unless there is a change in the reserve system and Greenberg, one time a part owner of the Chicago White Sox, said the "reserve clause should be eliminated entirely, thereby creating a new image for baseball."

Jets Bring New Life To Valley

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor
Sixty-four years ago the age of steam came to Twin Falls when the first "Iron Horse" came puffing into town. It marked the transformation of a "tent town" into a community. Yesterday — that was May 21, 1970 — the first Air West jet flights arrived at the Twin Falls City-County Airport, Justin Field. Another transformation took place when the initial plane touched the brand new runway extension which made the jet service possible. This time the thriving and bustling Twin Falls — as well as all Magic Valley — was, in effect, put into direct touch with the rest of the world. Now through Air West connections at Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, Boise or Seattle, Twin Falls was no more than a day away from most any point on Earth. Although no particular welcoming ceremony was planned for the first day because an extensive ceremony was cancelled some time ago when weather postponed completion of the runway, more than 1,000 people came out to the field and watched as Capt. Joe Buskirk put his big bird through a flyover maneuver before squaring away and making a perfect landing on Runway 25. And, when the wheels of the 100-passenger DC-9 Super Jet touched the runway, there was spontaneous applause. It was a great day for Capt. Buskirk, whose home is in Seattle. It was back in July of 1969 that he flew the first F-27 Fairchild prop-jet into Twin Falls. Yesterday, almost 11 years to the day, he was back again to bring in the first commercial jet ever to land here. The first plane landed shortly before 2 p. m. It left just a little late for Boise and the Northwest because of picture taking, well wishing and the insistence of onlookers that they wanted to take another look. But after passengers boarded — including a group of local officials and one local woman who were going to Boise for a special city-airport welcome, there — it took only 20 minutes from the time the wheels left the ground here until they were rolling down the runway at Boise. Making the inaugural flight to Boise, and returning to Twin Falls on the first flight West to the Southeast a couple of hours later, were Mayor Frank Feldman, Warren Barry, chairman of the Twin Falls Airport Commission; Bob Harvey, first vice-president of the Twin Falls Chamber; Ray Rostron, Chamber secretary-manager; Phil Wenstrand, public relations director for KMYT-TV; Herb Hollinger, publisher of the South Baho Press at Burley; Gus Kelker, editor of the Times-News; Mrs. Betty Kelker; L. W. (Rusty) Rostad, Seattle, regional sales manager for Air West; Don Cooper, Boise, the company's district sales manager; Dick Neal, San Francisco, director of sales for the airline, and Terry Grim, director of cargo from San Francisco. At the Boise "Welcome Magic Valley To The Jet Age" observance at the Kitty Hawk Lounge in the terminal building, state and Boise officials joined in. Among them were Sherm Terry, president of the Boise City Council; Don Duvall, airport manager; Pete Cenarussa, Secretary of State, and Jack Murphy, Lieutenant Governor of Idaho. There were brief speeches, a light lunch and then the jet from Seattle came in and the Magic Valley group came back home in a full plane and stayed at the Twin Falls field to see the giant jet leave for Salt Lake City and Los Angeles with all seats taken. Mr. Rostad said in Boise that Twin Falls now ranked ninth in air freight shipments among all the cities served by Air West including Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Las Vegas. Passenger boardings in Twin Falls now put the city in 20th place but with advent of the jets this ranking is expected to climb to 15th in the near future. Convenient schedules of F-27 prop-jets are still maintained through Twin Falls, gateway to Sun Valley, Burley, Jerome and other area communities, but it is the jet service that has caught the imagination. Air West plans more pure jet schedules through here in the not-too-distant future but right now the flight from Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Salt Lake City arrives in Twin Falls at 1:45 p. m. and leaves at 2 p. m. for Boise, Spokane, Lewiston and Seattle. Then the flight from Seattle, Lewiston, Spokane and Boise comes in at 4:42 p. m. and leaves at 4:55 p. m. for Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Los Angeles. And through connections at the various points, Magic Valley people, like we said, are little more than a day away from any spot on Earth.

JOE BUSKIRK flew the first Prop-Jet F-27 into Twin Falls back in July, 1969. Wednesday he flew the first pure jet DC-9 into Twin Falls. Air West started jet service to the Valley.

MORE THAN 1,000 came out to the Twin Falls Airport to watch the initial Air West DC-9 from Los Angeles and Salt Lake City land. Weather was perfect for the inaugural flight from Twin Falls to Boise and Seattle and the next flight from Seattle and Boise to Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

MRS. BETTY KELKER shows Boise officials her ticket for the initial Jet flight out of Twin Falls. It was the first jet ticket sold by Air West at the Twin Falls office. From the left are L. W. (Rusty) Rostad, Air West regional sales manager, Seattle; Secretary of State Pete Cenarussa and Lieutenant Governor Jack Murphy.

SUN VALLEY buses meet the first DC-9 jet at the Twin Falls City-County Airport. The first plane south, early in the evening, was full of Sun Valley guests.

AIR WEST contends their jets have more leg room than any jet flying today. Bob Harvey, six foot, seven inch Twin Falls civic leader, proves it as he "fits" on the first flight.

KEY TO BOISE is given to Bob Harvey, first vice-president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce by Sherm Terry, president of the Boise City Council. Behind Mr. Harvey is Mayor Frank Feldman and Warren Barry, chairman of the City-County Airport Commission.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: How do I get rid of a guy I love very much but can't marry?

I am 27, single, and a Roman Catholic. The man I love is 34, Lutheran, divorced, and has two children. There is no way I can marry this man, but he won't leave me alone.

We have broken up at least a dozen times, but we always go back together again. The last time we broke up I told him to please leave me alone because I had to get him out of my system. Well, he moved into my apartment building, so now we see each other more than ever. I love him, but I won't give up my religion for him and I can't marry him. What should I do?

HELEN

DEAR HELEN: YOU KNOW what to do, what you need is the strength to DO it. A hopeless "love" should be treated as any other addiction. Quit "cold turkey." And talk therapy to that fussy Romeo who's not making it any easier for you.

DEAR ABBY: Three of us ride to work and back every day with a fellow worker I'll call "Muriel." Muriel is a widow and she proposed the arrangement to help pay for her car. It seemed a good deal for all of us, so we agreed. We pay her promptly every week. And very well!

Our problem is Muriel shops all the way home! At the end of the day we all want to get home to start supper, but she delays us daily from half an hour to an hour while she leisurely shops for this and that. If she would pick up an item or two once in a while, we wouldn't mind, but she takes her sweet time, pinching, poking, and studying each item while we all outside in the car fuming.

We don't like to find other means of transportation, but if Muriel doesn't act this in your column and wise up—that's exactly what we intend to do.

ULCERS IN MEMPHIS

DEAR ULCERS: Since the driver in well paid, you have a legitimate price, no quit, fuming and left Muriel who's eating you.

DEAR ABBY: My family rents an apartment in the same building where an unmarried girl resides. This girl has male callers at all hours of the night, every night. The resident manager says he cannot take any action unless he receives a letter stating the activities of this single young thing.

I am hesitant to write such a letter because it could be legally sticky. Why should our family have to move? Please guide me as to how this female can be evicted sans expense to us.

INDY

DEAR INDY: In order to "evict" her, you will have to state your reasons (which, in this case, would be a reflection on her moral character). If she is a pregnant woman with lots of friends, she has an unenviable right to live in that building as your family. And if she's a "professional" for you, you yourself, you'd better be prepared to prove it, or you could have a lawsuit on YOUR hands.

However, when East shows out on the second trump, South would abandon this play, draw trumps and finally fall back on the club finesse.

For every expert there are 10 self-appointed experts. This second group think they are experts. They know a lot of things experts do but they get them just a trifle wrong and wind up losing contracts that a real expert or an average player would have no trouble with.

South's bidding is typical of this group of masterminds. Once his partner jumped in hearts he was off to a grand slam by way of Blackwood. Still, the contract was a good one.

Mr. John Average Player would count 12 top tricks only and would draw trumps and eventually finesse successfully for the queen of clubs to score his 13th trick.

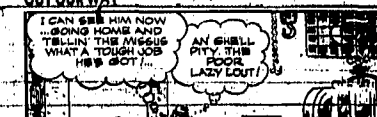

An expert would see a chance for a dummy reversal play. He would cash dummy's ace of trumps at trick two to make sure that all five trumps wouldn't tizzy.

Three fat lambs are about to be shipped to Ogden by John Clay and Co., Ogden, and then on to a packing plant for slaughtering. The lambs were sold by the Twin Falls County Livestock Marketing Association this week in a lamb pool to Joe Sparlock, on the left, buyer for the John Clay firm. Posing with Mr. Sparlock are Marvin Lohr, FFA, second from left; Luis Alastro, Hazzlet, president of the marketing association, and Lee Venable, Kimberly.

The marketing association sold 638 lambs, averaging 104 pounds, through the pool at the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. yards.

The association's next pool will be June 2.

First Part Of Steers On Test Slaughtered

The first bunch of steers in the Magic Valley Cattleman's Association Beef Evaluation Test have been slaughtered and more to be slaughtered next month.

Producers and consigners of steers in the feedlot test viewed the 45 carcasses at Independent Meat Co. recently. According to USDA grade and yield specifications, 43 head graded choice and two graded good on quality grade.

The yield grades of the 43 choice carcasses ranged from 1.7 to 5.0, with most of them in the 2.4 to 2.9 yield grade bracket. One of the good-grade carcasses had a yield grade of 1.05, but because of no marbling, did not make choice grade. The other good carcasses had a yield grade of 3.4.

The top carcasses of the 45 was one of the steers consigned by the Mule Shoe Ranch, Hammett. This carcass graded choice, had modest amount of marbling, .3 of an inch of fat over the rib eye, 13.5 square inches of rib eye and a yield grade of 2.15.

The chilled dressing percentage of this carcass was 62.6 and the retail cut percentage was 52.0. Most of the consignors and producers were pleased with the carcasses so far and are seeing results of improved beef cattle in this area.

Aides Named

Members of the Classic Lassies 4-H Club have elected new officers.

They are Kathleen O'Keefe, president; Donna Downing, vice president; Luanne Platt, secretary, and Maria Wokresien, reporter.

Final Plans For Gymkhana Made At G.F.

LOOKING AT THE top carcass in the Magic Valley Cattleman's Association beef evaluation program is Carl Zornberg, manager of the Mule Shoe Ranch, Hammett. This carcass happens to be one of the Mule Shoe's steers in the test program. Forty-five of the 177 steers in the test were slaughtered recently and producers and consignors viewed them on the hoof at Independent Meat Co.

Field Trips Are Planned

Field trips and a food booth at the upcoming 4-H Horse Gymkhana were planned by members of the Western Wranglers 4-H Club recently. The food booth will be set up at Frontier Field on May 31 when the Gymkhana for Twin Falls County 4-H horse clubs will be held.

Larry Sabotka, leader, demonstrated how to card, trim and lead a lamb.

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. May 29 at the home of Cindy Davis.

Center At Boise Is Dedicated

BOISE — Idaho's new $100,000 Metrology Center was officially dedicated during ceremonies held at the site here recently.

Gov. Don Samuelson dedicated the new building, stating that "the improved quality of facilities, procedures and program will be of great benefit to every citizen in this state."

Gov. Samuelson pointed out that Idaho's investment in the building qualified the state to be equipped with the new issue of primary state standards, furnished by the federal government at a cost of nearly $100,000. The center will aid the federal government which "has elevated our state to top rank among Western states in Weights and Measures excellence with regard to equipment, procedures and programs."

"Because this is another example of Idaho's leadership role, the dedication of this new center today carries extra significance."

Quoting statistics supplied by Lyman Holloway, supervisor, Idaho Weights and Measures

Division, Gov. Samuelson stated that the division's team of six inspectors made a total of 18,488 inspections and tests on commercial weighing and measuring devices in the state last year.

"The total was a 3.5 per cent increase over 1967, but because of improved facilities, equipment and techniques, there was a gain of 25 to 30 per cent in accuracy and completeness in the testing procedures," he said, referring to the fact that the new lab has actually been in use for several months, using the new mass weight standards and equipment which were installed last fall in order to acquaint the Idaho inspectors with their use. Linear and volumetric measuring equipment, were installed last month and further increases in the testing procedures through their use will be forthcoming.

Holloway's statistics revealed that during January of this year, Idaho inspectors sampled over 3,000 food package items in supermarkets and processing plants throughout the state. Work in this vital Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 3 area of consumer protection will continue to increase in the coming years," the Governor stated.

FILM SHOWN
KING HILL — A film on conservation was shown to members of the Pasadena Valley 4-H Club recently by Larry Smith, area game warden.

BLM Hit For Loss Of Cattle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., has accused the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) of "negligence" in the deaths of hundreds of cattle in Malheur County.

Packwood made the charge in introducing legislation providing for compensation to ranchers who lost cattle as a result of a water shortage on grazing lands managed by the BLM.

He told the senate that the loss of the cattle last August "proper attention" to management of the area.

"As the result of negligence on the part of BLM personnel, a pump failed, tanks were not filled, and troughs emptied," Packwood said. "Hundreds of cattle died."

Packwood said cattle maddened by thirst had even jumped off cliffs because they could hear water running in the Owyhee River below.

"Packwood, who said he had flown over the area, said "Everything possible" had been done by the ranchers to help save the cattle.

"Even the children of the ranchers assisted," he said. "But in spite of all efforts, the cattle died, and graves had to be dug to bury the bloated animals."

Packwood said even the FBI had been called in to investigate the loss but that he knew of no negligence on the part of the ranchers.

"But there was great apathy and negligence on the part of BLM personnel," he said.

Wheat Crop Is Estimated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has predicted the 1970 winter wheat crop would total 1,064,655,000 bushels.

The predicted winter crop, added to a possible spring wheat crop of about 894 million bushels indicated in a report last month, could bring total wheat production this year to 1,958,555,000 bushels — a sizeable step toward the government's goal of cutting wheat surpluses.

The potential 1970 crop compared with production of 1,459 billion bushels in 1969 and a record 1968 crops of 1.876 billion bushels.

Following is estimated winter wheat production in bushels for some leading states compared with 1969:

State	April 1	Estimated 1969
Wash.	96,871,000	89,257,000
Montana	40,350,000	60,008,000
Idaho	33,180,000	56,990,000

WATCHING his two registered English Large Black hogs is James Jones, Route 1, Filer. Both hogs measure about seven feet long from tip to nose to tail and weigh about 700 pounds each.

These two are the only registered English Large Blacks in the West and will be on display at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo this fall.

New Swine Breed Introduced

FILER — A new breed of swine will be on display this year at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, Route 1, Filer, plan to show their newly-acquired English Large Black hogs at the fair this fall. Because this is a new breed in this area, there will not be a class for them at the fair, but Mr. and Mrs. Jones felt that area residents interested in swine might see these Large Blacks at the fair.

The Jones acquired a boar and sow, both weigh about 700 pounds each, and two feeder gilts about a month ago in Oregon. The boar and sow are the only registered Large Blacks in the West.

Mr. Jones said the only other registered Large Blacks nearest to Filer are in Nebraska. Mr. Jones hopes to get another registered boar so he can build up the breed. The boar and sow originally came from Canada and Mr. Jones said he may have to go to Canada to get another

4-H Training Benefits Noted

RICHFIELD — Gary Freeman promoted the benefits of 4-H training in operation of a tractor when the Richfield Dairy 4-H Club met at his home recently.

Gary has won a number of special trips and awards for tractor operation since taking the 4-H instruction.

David-Ross demonstrated photography, his special field of 4-H training. Roger Golcochec, earning a reputation as a horse breaker—told of training methods and experiences.

Mrs. Rupert Golcochec and Mrs. Charles Buttcane are club leaders.

The May 23 meeting will be at the Jack Hubsmith residence.

registered boar that is not related to the two he now has if there isn't any in Nebraska available.

Mr. Jones said after he builds up his herd of Large Blacks, he may then go into cross-breeding, which most swine people do in the United States with Large Blacks.

He said Large Blacks produce large litters, gain rapidly and are usually ready for market between 4½- to 5 months old.

Receives Duck

DIETRICH — The Dietrich Grange received the traveling duck recently from the Wendell Grange.

Letters on subsidy payments and agriculture were read to members. Two readings also were given.

The census of Agriculture will count about 2,979,000 farms this year according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is nearly 28 per cent less than in 1959 and the lowest number since 1870.

Richfield Grange Gets Duck

RICHFIELD — The traveling duck was taken to Richfield Grange by three members of the Wood River Center Grange at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Johnson.

The circulating duck is used as a means of raising funds for National Grange at Boise this year. The duck changed hands many times during the evening by means of bids. To get rid of the duck each person receiving it had to pay the amount of the bid to the next purchaser. Eugene Alexander finally took it home to plan a new scheme for passing it on.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Kelly and Mrs. Clifton Dayley were the visiting Grangers with each giving short talks concerning the duck, with three being circulated in areas of Twin Falls, Bull, Halsey, Shoshone, Dietrich and Richfield.

Alexander reported for the agriculture committee on the feed grain program, and Mrs. Ray Hubenikh, youth chairman, on the Grange Youth Camp at Donnelly in June.

Past Master's pins were presented by Mrs. Eugene Alexander, lecturer, by Glen Ross, Eugene Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Odell Craftfield, Bull.

Floral gifts were presented each Mother and an article read by Mrs. Alexander.

Lori Sill Wins Event

CASTLEFORD — Mrs. Jake Stahlecker announces that Lori Sill, the Castleford Granges' entry in the Grange cotton sewing contest, was the Castleford winner and also the winner at the Twin Falls County Palomona Grange.

This announcement was made at the regular meeting of the Castleford Grange recently. Miss Sill was present and modeled her dress, a white cotton lace. Mrs. Stahlecker is the womens' activity chairman.

The resolution submitted from the Deep Creek Grange was read and accepted that all congressmen retire at the age of 75 years. The Grange also voted to honor the graduates of the Grange members with a gift.

Mrs. Stahlecker announced that the needlework and cooking contests will be held in the fall.

Handbook On Roses Available

The so-called "Golden" edition of the popular "Handbook for Selecting Roses," is again available from the American Rose Society, 4048 Roosevelt Place, Columbus, Ohio, 43214.

This is the revised edition which will be in effect until Sept. 1, 1970 and has been called the "golden" handbook because of its rich-looking, yellow-gold cover.

Mail orders will be filled by the Society if 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope is sent.

More than 1,000 roses are listed and the latest information given about the height, color, and National Rating of each.

The National Rating is obtained through an annual survey supplied by the 18,000 members of the Society.

The convenient size (3 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches) of the handbook fits neatly into pocket or purse. Members of the American Rose Society make it a practice to carry this handy reference piece with them at all times.

Here in compact, easy-to-read form, is a listing of horticultural and color classifications of all the most popular and wanted roses, as well as the official changes of the American Rose Society Classification Committee since the previous booklet.

Rose fanciers have found this handbook invaluable in the past as a handy buying guide. The new edition is available for immediate delivery upon request.

NOW! Simple replacement of damaged riser valves with the SHUR-RANE

4-Inch Threaded Riser Valve

The Shur-Rane Threaded-Riser Valve offers inexpensive removal of water from under ground, substation, on-street main lines—and quick replacement of broken riser valves!

Instead of requiring farmers to dig down to remove a section of the mainline when a steel riser has been damaged by an implement, the Threaded Riser Valve allows farmers to simply unscrew a broken plastic riser from the surface, and replace it with a new riser.

Manufactured of cast aluminum heat-treated—for added strength and durability—the Threaded Riser Valve allows direct connection of 3-inch female IPS plastic riser pipes, rather than connectors presently used to attach steel riser pipes.

Extension Supervisor Is Named

MOSCOW — Appointment of Robert E. Black, Moscow, as northern Idaho district supervisor was announced recently by James L. Graves, associate director of the University of Idaho cooperative extension service. He will have headquarters at Moscow. The assignment is effective June 1. Graves also announced the appointment of Elaine Linford, Caldwell, as supervisor for a new district with headquarters at Twin Falls, effective June 15. Several subject-matter specialists now in the Boise office will be transferred to Twin Falls, July 1. Black has been extension poultry specialist. Linford has been county agent chairman in Canyon County. In assuming his new duties, Black succeeds Graves who was district supervisor before accepting the position of acting associate director last November on the retirement of C. O. Youngstrom, Boise. Graves was recently appointed associate director.

Cultivation Best For Quackgrass

JEROME — Wilmer G. Priest, Jerome County extension agricultural agent, offers suggestions for quackgrass control through cultivation. He said clean cultivation is "one of our best ways to control and eradicate quack grass." This method works on the principle that the first three to six inches of growth on a perennial plant is made from the reserves stored in the root system.

By cultivation and cutting the growth off, then letting a small amount of growth to occur before the next cultivation, you'll deplete the stored supply of plant food in the root system and starve the plant to death.

To be effective the cultivation needs to be started early in the season and carried out for the full season. Laying the ground out for the season and cultivating each time you get three to six inches of new growth will do the best job.

A practical job can be done by cultivating before and after a short season bean crop. He said "the county weed department has equipment to do this for you and on a cost basis and would be glad to work with you on your quack grass cultivation."

Field Day Planned At Kimberly

Some of the magic that agricultural research has brought about in Magic Valley will be reviewed July 30 at a public field day at the Twin Falls branch experiment station of the University of Idaho.

Marshall LeBaron, superintendent, said work that has been done for 20 years and is continuing will be explained by scientists of the experiment station, the extension service and the research service of USDA.

Mr. LeBaron said he expects to have a tractor-trailer tour of various plots on the station near Kimberly, followed by a more formal program at which Dr. James E. Kraus, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Idaho, will be a speaker.

The field day will provide information about tests with various crops, fertilization, irrigation and weed control.

Research Is Under Way To Halt Threat On Idaho's Potato Industry

POCATELLO (ISU) — A serious potato disease outbreak in Idaho that presents a potential threat to the potato industry has spurred an intense cooperative university research effort aimed at halting the disease, known to be a virus.

Idaho State University and the Aberdeen Branch Experiment Station of the University of Idaho are jointly fighting the problem with the help of a new piece of equipment at ISU — an $11,000 liquid scintillation counter for radiolabels.

Dr. J. R. Davis, assistant research professor of plant pathology at the Aberdeen station, and Dr. Gyaneshwar P. Khare, assistant professor of microbiology at ISU, are the men of the cooperative research team.

Dr. Davis indicated he is confident the potato disease problem can be solved in time to prevent its spread from the Egin Bench area of Idaho north of Rexburg and west to St. Anthony.

The new scintillation counter at ISU "is one of the most handy tools" for this type of research, Dr. Khare said.

Dr. Davis presented the following statement on the situation to date, which includes general and technical terms allowing the general reader to grasp the significance of the problem and at the same time giving the scientist and the potato grower enough technical information to know exactly what is involved. It is clear that the problem has not yet been solved and that more study is needed.

"In Idaho a serious disease outbreak on potato has been observed," Dr. Davis said. "To date this problem has been observed in the Egin Bench area. The disease is characterized by the appearance of internal necrosis (localized death of living tissue) of potato tubers making the crop unsuitable. This problem is important to the Egin Bench area, but more importantly it presents a potential threat to the potato industry.

Scientists have demonstrated that a soil-borne virus is associated with this problem. "Symptoms of this disorder resemble symptoms of a disease called corky ring spot which is caused by the soil-borne, tobacco ring-spot virus. Examinations via electron microscope also suggest that this disease may be caused by the tobacco-rattle virus."

"However, to date serological examination of tubers utilizing several technical techniques (Ouchterlony gel diffusion, microprecipitin, and fluorescent antibody technique) have yielded negative results for the positive identification of this virus. Therefore, a more exhaustive study is necessary. In this study, Dr. Khare of the microbiology department at ISU has demonstrated a cooperative spirit which has been outstanding. The facilities for virus research at ISU are impressive. The recent addition of a scintillation counter for virus research provides one example of the progressive outlook and facilities of the ISU microbiology department.

"I am confident that we will not only successfully identify this unknown virus disorder with the help of Dr. Khare and his excellent research facilities, but we will additionally develop diagnostic procedures that will serve as a preventive measure for the spread of this serious disease throughout the potato industry."

Ranch In Arizona Is Sold

OAKLAND (UPI) — Kaiser Aetna announces it has purchased the 4,200-acre McCormick Ranch in Scottsdale, Ariz., for more than $12 million.

Kaiser Aetna, an Oakland-based real estate and land development partnership, said it acquired the property in competitive bidding from Fowler, McCormick and McCormick estates, trustees of the estate of Mrs. Fowler McCormick.

Kaiser Aetna president Fred W. Groelaw, said his firm bought the ranch because "the growth of the Scottsdale area... provides a strong market for residential and commercial property."

He said further engineering and economic studies would be conducted and "a master use plan will then be submitted to local planning officials."

Acreage Retirement Is Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Feed grain growers have agreed to idle 39,482,512 acres of corn, grain sorghum and barley this year, the agriculture department reported today.

That is an area larger than the State of Georgia.

In a final summary of farm enrollment in the 1970 feed grain program, officials said more than 1.6 million individual farms registered.

The acreage signed for retirement was four per cent below the record 41.3 million acres enrolled last year, officials reported, but was apparently close to the government's reduced retirement goal for 1970.

Federal farm officials had said they hoped to get about 38 million acres retired this year. The amount enrolled is nearly 1.5 million higher, but there is normally a drop of several million acres between enrollment and actual retirement.

In a companion report, the agriculture department said final sign-up returns for the 1970 wheat program showed 349,151.

The number of farms enrolled was down from last year. But allotment compared with 88.7 per cent last year. Officials said growers agreed to idle about 4.2 million acres of their regular 1970 planting allotments in comparison with 4.9 million acres retired last year.

Officers Named

New officers of the Curry Cattle 4-H Club were named at the recent meeting in the home of Lee Eldredge.

President of the club is Wayne Ingram with Greg Hull, vice president; Dixie Eldredge, secretary, and Debra Eldredge, reporter.

Ban On Imports Praised

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Commenting on the May 15th ban on imports of frozen Australian mutton by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, James L. Powell, Fort McKavett, Tex. President, National Wool Growers Association, said, "This is certainly a step in the direction of protecting American consumers from imported meat processed under a system obviously not equal to the rigid inspection standards which must be met by processors in the United States."

Upon questioning, a USDA official stated that the Australian system of high-speed sheep killing did not lend itself to proper inspection and that the system would have to be changed before Australian mutton imports to the United States would be resumed. The official also stated that the ban involved only those plants processing frozen mutton and that frozen Australian lamb was not included in the ban.

Both Powell and Roy A. Hanson, Miles City, Mont. president, National Lamb Feeders Association, joined in commending Congressmen John Malcher (D-Mont.) for his investigation.

Hazelton Youth Gets Scholarship

Hazelton — Sidney Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks, Route 1, Hazelton, has been named a winner of an Idaho Angus Auxiliary scholarship. Sidney and Patricia Mooney, Welsch, each received a $100 scholarship from the auxiliary and are now eligible to compete for the National Angus Auxiliary scholarship for $600.

The Idaho scholarships are made possible by the sale of a heifer which is donated by an Idaho Angus breeder. This year's scholarships came from the sale of a heifer donated by Mr. and Mrs. Rosell Mills, Maled, at the Filler sale in February. Next year's heifer will be donated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morley, Eagle.

Members of the auxiliary voted at a recent meeting to give pens to all the blue winners at the fairs in the state this fall. They also plan to give trophies for the best Angus projects at major fairs.

Dutch Elm Disease Studied

BURLEY — Don't give up on those elms. Help is at hand. More encouragement for tree lovers in areas of Idaho where Dutch Elm disease threatens the species came this week in a report from Ohio. A research project begun there may control the elm bark beetle.

The U. S. Forest Service has high hopes for the research project. The study is a follow-up of work on the disease that is killing about 400,000 of the cherished shade trees every year. Dutch Elm disease is carried by a small beetle that attacks the circulatory system.

The earlier study identified two stimulants that whet the appetite of the "smaller European elm bark beetle" to feed on elm bark. This suggested a means of control. Scientists expect to develop chemically a variety of the feeding stimulants. The results could lead to an effective feeding repellent.

Research will also involve a search for factors in the elm extract that step up feeding responses of the beetle. Extracts will be obtained from other members of the elm family and from a resistant tree called hackberry to determine presence of the two elm bark-feeding stimulants and their distribution in the elm family.

Several areas of Idaho have the hackberry, usually growing wild.

Patoran takes care with potatoes while it takes care of weeds.

Now you can stop a wide range of grasses and weeds without subjecting your crop to undue risk of herbicide injury. CIBA's Patoran 50 WP Herbicide gives control of annual grasses and broadleaf weeds such as crabgrass, goosegrass, barnyardgrass, pigweeds, lambsquarters, smartweeds, ragweeds, wild mustard, and many others. And, used according to directions, Patoran offers a high margin of safety with no adverse effect on tuber qualities.

Patoran needs no incorporation. Rainfall sufficient to permit weed germination or crop growth will activate Patoran. Just apply it preemergence, broadcast or band, to the soil surface at planting, or preemergence to potatoes at drag-off.

This season, get the kind of weed control you want with the margin of safety you need. See your CIBA dealer for Patoran. The herbicide that takes care with potatoes while it takes care of weeds.

Land In T.F. Area Classified

A block of public land in eastern Twin Falls County has been classified by the Bureau of Land Management in accordance with the Classification and Multiple Use Act passed by Congress in 1964.

The land, administered by the Bureau's district office in Burley, consists of 5,000 acres classified for exchange, 80 acres for public sale and 230,000 acres for multiple use management. Joe Fallini, BLM state director for Idaho, in announcing the classification, said that this classification, in addition to segregating specific areas for exchange and public sale, provides for substantial leverage for continued public use by livestock operators, miners, sportsmen, outdoor recreation enthusiasts and other public land users.

The lands under the classification for multiple use will not be available for homestead, desert land entry, or certain types of public sales. Reclassification of the lands, however, will be made when conditions warrant through new developments or technology and private development outweighs public values. The lands remain available for state and private exchanges and for selection by the State.

The 5,000 acres classified for exchange will be traded for non-federal lands that will aid in management of other public lands.

Also, nearly 30 recreation sites, totalling 3,900 acres, are further segregated from entry under the general mining laws, but will remain open to mineral leasing and material sales.

The Classification and Multiple Use Act authorizes the secretary of the interior to classify lands for retention under multiple use management or for disposal under existing land laws.

This classification becomes effective upon publication in the federal register. Any comments may be submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for a period of 30 days after publication.

2, 4, 5-T Placed On Blacklist

The weed killer, 2,4,5-T, is on the blacklist for some uses according to Twin Falls County agent, Donald Youts.

Departments of agriculture, interior and health, education and welfare have announced immediate suspension of registrations of liquid formulations for use around the home and on lakes, ponds and ditch banks.

The action was taken April 15. The department announced at the same time that USDA intends to cancel registered uses of non-liquid forms of 2,4,5-T around the home and on all food crops intended for human consumption.

The announcement said the action was based on opinion of the department of health, education and welfare that contamination resulting from uses of the agricultural chemical could constitute a hazard to human health.

The report said information obtained by HEW indicates that 2,4,5-T may produce abnormal development in unborn animals. Nearly pure 2,4,5-T was reported to cause birth defects when injected at high doses into pregnant mice but not in rats. No facts about effect on humans are available.

Earlier in the spring, DDT, an insecticide, was prohibited for many uses.

Action on 2,4,5-T, the announcement said, does not eliminate registered use of the material for control of weeds on brush or range, pasture, forests, or on rights-of-way and other non-agricultural land. Users are cautioned, however, that 2,4,5-T should not be applied near homes or recreation areas.

Registered uses are being reviewed by the three departments to make sure that they include precautions against grazing treated areas so soon after treatment that meat or milk is contaminated.

Residues are rare but they are unlawful and contaminated products may be seized. There is no tolerance for 2,4,5-T on meat, milk or any other human food or animal feed.

The department of agriculture will issue guidelines for disposal of household products containing 2,4,5-T. The chemical is biologically decomposed in a moist environment.

Pre-Plant Herbicides Explained

JEROME — Wilmer G. Priest, Jerome County extension agricultural agent, reminds Magic Valley residents to use pre-plant herbicides correctly.

He said the proper use of pre-plant herbicides can be "one of our best labor saving production tools." In using a herbicide you need to follow main steps. First use the right chemical and the right amount for your soil and for your crop. A good many of our herbicides are approved for the use on one crop but not for the other crops in the rotation. Using the wrong chemical often damages other crops and it also can create residues which are above the tolerances set by the Food and Drug Administration. In general less chemical is used on a sandy soil than is used on a silt or clay soil.

Apply the chemical properly. A lot of the herbicides require complete and thorough incorporation immediately after application. These are volatile and a half-hour after application and before incorporation can mean a complete failure.

The crop treated needs to be in a vigorous, rapid growing condition while the chemical is working. These are selective herbicides and will let one plant grow while another is killed. However, they are not completely selective and some irritation occurs to the plants being protected. Give your crop every chance possible to get up out of the ground and growing rapidly.

Apply the chemical correctly. A lot of the herbicides are used at the rate of one pint per acre actual material or less. This is in the neighborhood of one part in three to four million. If your equipment isn't capable of doing this precisely a job, "you would be ahead to hire someone who is equipped to do so," Priest noted.

TALL vs. SHORT TOMATOES: Home gardeners have asked me which grow better—tall tomato plants or short ones.

It really doesn't make much difference. Often when grow your own plants, they get a bit tall because home gardeners don't have the same growing conditions—greenhouse operations have.

If your plants are tall at transplanting time do not worry about it. Set them in deeper. We've seen many old time gardeners take tall leggy plants and set them in with a crow bar. A better method is to dig a shallow ditch and lay the stems in it, water them well and cover with soil. Roots form up and down the stem.

If tomato plants are short and stocky at transplanting time, don't let its size fool you. It will catch up with the taller plant and you'll find they'll both bear about the same time. Potted tomatoes—those started indoors in individual pots will usually bear earlier because they have blossoms, buds and even small fruits on at setting out time.

Remember, varieties make the difference in time of fruiting. For example, Valiant or Fireball will bear a lot earlier than Rutgers or some other later type.

Incidentally, if you had tomato horn worm last year, try this trick sent me: "I place moth balls in the soil around our newly set tomato plants and it does a great job in preventing the tomato horn worms."

Mountain Ash MADE TO BEAR: Got a Mountain Ash tree which won't bear? Try this trick from a reader:

"I had a Mountain ash tree 15 years and it never had a blossom on it. An old time nurseryman told me of a trick mentioned in your newest book on fruits and vegetables. He said to take a real sharp knife and cut around the trunk of the tree in spring. After that the tree was so loaded with berries we had to brace the branches up. I made the cut around the tree where the branches start and I cut real deep. I even made jelly from the berries!"

Note: Ringing is a trick many use to induce a tree to bear. About June 15, a slash is made around the trunk, cutting through the bark. Some growers make a 1/2 inch cut and remove this section from the trunk of a tree. After the 1/2 inch ring of bark is removed, the wound is covered with tape to prevent drying. The removal of this ring of bark prevents the food materials made by the leaves from traveling to the roots. Simply scoring the bark around the trunk with a knife is as effective as removing a section of bark, and it's a lot safer.

Age of tree is a factor in bearing. Takes anywhere from 8 to 10 years for a mountain ash tree to bear. Only one tree is needed as each has male and female flowers on same plant.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: R. F. of Twin Falls: "I'm enclosing an article from a leading U. S. publication describing a process perfected by England which will cure elm trees afflicted with the Dutch Elm disease. The British has a patent on the process and we wonder why it hasn't been made available to us?"

It hasn't been made available to us mainly because there's no such thing as a cure or control for Dutch Elm disease. Every year new "cures" pop up, but none of them work. The one you mention that's used in England to combat the disease is crazier than some suggestions dreamed up in this country.

The tree is sprayed with hydrated volcanic ash, dehydrated live sea kelp is applied to the ground between the trunk and the drip line, and then the soil is saturated with water. The tree is then "polarized" by coiling around it copper tubing to create a magnetic field stronger than the earth's normal magnetic field. Add this "cure" to your list of items that won't cure or stop the dutch elm disease.

F. G. of Burley: "Last year we had a fine crop of strawberries but many of the fruits were deformed or seedy. A neighbor says this was due to spring frosts. Is this true?"

No, we used to think so, but seedy, "mubbed" fruit is the work of the tarnished plant bug an insect with a sucking type mouth parts. It feeds on the tip of the blossom, causing the fruit to be "buttoned," honey, seedy or "mubbed," terms used by home gardeners and growers. The insect spends the winter as an adult in protected wooded areas, in litter, and beneath the strawberry mulch. Damage results from feeding shortly after the blossoms open.

CONTROL: Cover your patch with cheese cloth during blossom period. Or, if you wish to spray, use Sevin, doing the job in the evening when no bees are present. Sevin is death on bees.

Incidentally, the tarnished plant bug is the same villain which causes "daisy-type" flowers such as zinnias, mums, dahlias, etc. open only part way. It causes not only imperfect berries, some completely sterile, but also distorted blossoms.

Weevil threat seen bigger in '70.

Unfortunately, it's been a good winter for alfalfa weevils. And serious weevil infestations are expected. So even though you've got a lot of jobs to do, don't overlook your alfalfa. Don't let weevils slip in undetected and ruin it.

It will pay you to check your fields carefully. Go out often and look for signs of larvae feeding. When you find three to five out of ten plants that show weevil damage, get in there fast with a spray of Alfa-tox® insecticide.

Why Alfa-tox? Because it was designed for the job. We combined Diazinon® and methoxychlor to provide effective killing power that lasts 2 to 3 weeks from a single spray. To give you more days of control for your insecticide dollar.

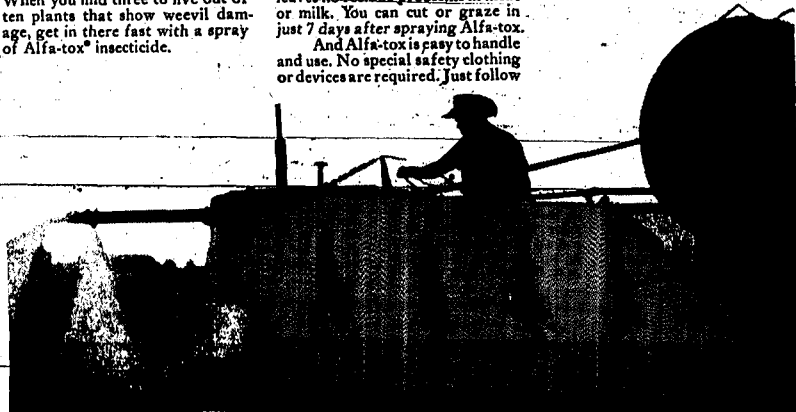

The combination controls a wide range of damaging insects in addition to weevil larvae. Yet it leaves no residue problems in meat or milk. You can cut or graze in just 7 days after spraying Alfa-tox.

And Alfa-tox is easy to handle and use. No special safety clothing or devices are required. Just follow the label. You'll get consistent, dependable control and a hay crop that will be worth it.
