

Canadian Dollar Is Rising

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian dollar was freed from its peg of 92.5 U.S. cents Sunday and allowed to float upward to a value closer to par with the American dollar.

Finance Minister Edgar J. Benson announced the Canadian currency was being freed from a fixed exchange rate for the second time since World War II. He set no time limit or upper ceiling for the floating dollar.

The move followed rapid increases in Canadian exports and the flow of foreign capital into Canada. To compensate for this, the government has had to buy more and more U.S. dollars and foreign reserves reached a record high.

The expected upward floatation would make foreign goods cheaper in Canada. Canadian products more expensive abroad, foreign travel cheaper for Canadians and visits to Canada more costly.

Nixon Plans Cambodia Talk Wednesday Night

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Richard Nixon will deliver a televised interim progress statement Wednesday night, winding up a five-day Memorial Day sojourn at his vacation villa, planned to fly back to Washington this evening (6 p.m. EDT).

White House sources indicated the address has been in the works for some time. There was strong speculation Nixon timed it to blunt a Senate drive to curb his powers.

Starting Wednesday, the Senate will begin voting on a series of amendments sponsored by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and other lawmakers who seek to bar future U.S. military operations in Cambodia after July 1 without approval of Congress.

The White House Sunday restated the administration's pledge to withdraw all American forces from Cambodia by June 30. It left open the question of air and logistical support for South Vietnamese troops who plan to remain longer.

"The President received a full military briefing on the situation in Cambodia and Vietnam from the commanders," Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said. "General Abrams also reported on the progress of the Vietnamization program and the schedule of troop withdrawals announced April 20."

"The President was encouraged by this briefing," the press spokesman added. "At the end of the month, Nixon plans to deliver another speech to signal the proposed winding up of American combat operations in Cambodia."

Others who flew in for the meeting were Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Adm. John S. McCain, Jr., Pacific commander-in-chief, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, outgoing chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs, and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser.

The pressures of the past few weeks while Nixon was beset with heavy criticism and domestic strife, plainly showed on his face. He stayed close to his compound most of the time, except for a ride along the San Diego Freeway and a stop at a drug store in San Clemente to buy a box of candy for his wife Pat.

Contests Will Mark 7 Primary Elections

By United Press International

There are primary elections Tuesday in seven states, including California and New Mexico with important contests. But most national attention will be centered on an eighth state, Alabama, where George C. Wallace is attempting a comeback.

"If the black bloc vote wins this election it will have control of this state for the next 60 years," Wallace said Saturday in one of his final appearances in Alabama's gubernatorial runoff campaign.

Wallace, a former governor and 1968 presidential candidate, trailed incumbent Gov. Albert P. Brewer by about 11,000 votes in the seven-man May 5 Democratic primary election.

Brewer said during the runoff Wallace's bloc vote charge was "an effort to scare you into voting for or against a candidate... the black vote issue is the same old issue that's been knocking around for years in Alabama."

Tunney Leads Brown

The California poll released Saturday showed that Rep. John V. Tunney led Rep. George Brown, 31-27, in a race between two liberal congressmen for the Democratic nomination for the seat held by Sen. George Murphy. Murphy was rated 57-23 over Norton Simon for the GOP nomination.

In California's governor's race, Assemblyman Jess Unruh was rated 47-24 over Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty for the Democratic nomination to run against GOP incumbent Ronald Reagan.

In New Mexico, Gov. David Cargo and conservative Anderson Carter were rated a tossup in the Republican battle for the right to oppose Democratic Sen. Joseph M. Montoya. Six Republicans and three Democrats were seeking their party's nomination to succeed Carzo. Here is a rundown on other states:

Iowa — Former Lt. Gov. Robert Fulton and House Minority Leader William Gannon were the leaders in the Democratic race for the right to oppose GOP Gov. Robert D. Ray. Republican Rep. Fred Schwengel faced the serious challenge of state legislator David Stanley.

Griffin's Seat Contested

Mississippi — Two Republicans are seeking the nomination to run against Rep. Charles H. Griffin. Other congressmen, including Sen. John C. Stennis, are unopposed. Montana — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is certain to win renomination over two opponents. There are Republican contests for both representative nominations.

New Jersey — Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. is expected to win Democratic renomination over state Sen. Frank J. Guarina. Former state GOP Chairman Nelson G. Gross has only token opposition for the Republican nomination for senator. Democratic Rep. Edward J. Patten faces a serious challenge for renomination from Lewis B. Kaden, who is backed by the peace movement.

South Dakota — The state's two representatives, E. V. Berry and Ben Reifel, are retiring and a total of 11 persons are battling for the four nominations. Republican Gov. Frank L. Frazier is expected to win renomination over state Sen. Frank E. Henderson.

NEW TWIST in protest demonstrations came when "Students For Peace in the Middle East" protested Russian involvement in the Arab-Israeli situation. They burned a model of a MIG fighter plane in front of a building housing a Soviet photo exhibit in San Francisco. (UPI telephoto)

Disastrous Earthquake Strikes Peru, 200 Dead

LIMA (UPI)—A disastrous earthquake inflicted heavy damage Sunday in cities and towns from Peru's desert coast to the Andes Mountains and the Amazon jungle. First estimates said as many as 200 persons were killed.

Huaraz, a mountain city 180 miles northeast of Lima, and the fishing port city of Chimbote, north of Huaraz, were among the worst hit. Peruvian President Juan Velasco Alvarado said he would go to Chimbote to view the damage.

A radio report from Huaraz to the newspaper El Comercio in Lima said there were 100 dead. The Panamerican telegraph station estimated the death toll there at 200.

The government's National Disaster Council said it was sending four trucks loaded with emergency supplies to Chimbote but said it had little hope of getting aid quickly to Huaraz because of various reports the highway had been blocked in several places by landslides and damage.

Several Policemen Killed

An amateur radio operator reporting to government agencies through the national emergency frequency said several policemen were killed when the police station collapsed.

"Maybe 95 per cent of the houses have been destroyed," the radio operator said. Rod Cross officials estimated 60 per cent of the buildings in Chimbote were damaged.

Wrong Fuel Cause Of Airplane Crash

ATLANTA (UPI)—Investigators say jet fuel instead of the normal aviation fuel was placed in both wing tanks of the private plane that crashed into a car on an expressway near Atlanta Saturday. Six persons were killed and 34 injured.

In addition, says John H. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, a power plant specialist Sunday found a "tricky white emulsified substance" in the plane's right tank.

Reed, former governor of Maine, said Sunday samples of gasoline taken from the wreckage, along with the white milky liquid, had been sent for chemical analysis.

The private plane was bound for Fort Myers, Fla. The 32 passengers were all expense-paid guests of the Lehigh Acres, Inc., a land development company. The passengers were going to inspect a large tract of land to see if they might be interested in buying.

Investigators found a "signed sales slip," signed by J. Canin, "showing 200 gallons of jet-A fuel had been pumped into the plane shortly before it took off from the DeKalb-Forest County Airport Saturday morning," Reed said. James Canin was listed as the pilot.

Half the gasoline was put in each tank, along with some 350 to 400 gallons already present, Reed said. He said jet-A fuel would react in the twin-engine propeller-driven plane like kerosene might act in the engine of a car—causing a loss of power. But Reed cautioned the investigation was continuing and this evidence was by no means conclusive. Board members still must talk to Canin.

Holiday Toll Climbing

By United Press International

The nation's Memorial Day holiday weekend traffic toll had passed the National Safety Council's lower estimate of 350 dead today.

The council had estimated that between 350 and 450 persons would die in traffic on the nation's roads during the 64-hour holiday period.

A United Press International count at 4 a.m. EDT showed at least 384 persons had been killed in traffic accidents since the holiday began 6 p.m. local time Friday.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic 384 Drowning 68 Plane 10 Miscellaneous 42
Total 484

Ohio led the states with 36 traffic deaths. California had 23, Texas 21, and Michigan, Pennsylvania and Virginia 18 each.

Across the nation, accidental deaths occurred as families traveled or gathered to mark the Memorial Day holiday.

Four persons were killed and three injured Sunday in a two-car crash near Fort Ann, N.Y. Five persons riding in a convertible near Allentown, Pa., Saturday were killed when their auto left a rural road and hit a barn.

When Leslie Buegeler, 38, began to drown in the Gulf of Mexico Saturday his wife and three children tried to save him. They threw life preservers and lines to him, but failed.

Kennedy Critical Of Leadership Of Nation

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (UPI)—Citing a "vacuum in the leadership of America," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Sunday the "bizarre and irrational" invasion of Cambodia has sparked a crisis of confidence that has permeated every aspect of American life.

"Today our nation is enduring a crisis of confidence because our leaders do not have the courage to lead," Kennedy told 400 graduating seniors and their guests at Mount Holyoke College.

"There is a vacuum in the leadership of America," he said. "Instead of leading all the people, our elected leaders seek to follow the opinions of some silent majority."

"From Wall Street to Main Street the alarm is the same," he continued. "Millions of ordinary Americans no longer believe our leaders are really trying to solve the overriding problems of our day—the problems of war and peace and race, inflation and recession, health and education, poverty and crime."

Kennedy said one of the reasons for the economic problems was the recent invasion of Cambodia. "The most obvious lesson of the stock market fall is that the crisis of confidence provoked by the invasion of Cambodia has now permeated every aspect of American life," he said.

"The decision to invade Cambodia was so bizarre, so unjustifiable, so irrationally explained that it calls into question the very process by which the decision was made."

Request For Unarmed Officers "Half-Baked"

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says proposals that only specially trained, unarmed police should be used in civil demonstrations are "half-baked."

Hoover devoted much of an article in the June 1970 issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin to an attack on the concept of civilian police review boards.

But he also commented on proposals whose authors he did not identify. "The college youth should not be subjected to contacts by police officers, and that only specially trained, highly paid, unarmed police forces should be used to handle civil demonstrations."

"If these ideas and techniques seem half-baked," Hoover said, "it is because they are."

Hoover said the real objective of civilian groups that want community control over police departments "is to intimidate and harass police."

"Police watchdogs" and well-styled law enforcement reformers "have no place in our society," he said. "Their altruistic mouthings are a front

Execution Planned In Argentina

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—Gov. Don Samuelson Sunday told the 1970 graduating class at the University of Idaho he hoped graduates would heed the words of a famed Idaho senator.

He said Sen. William E. Borah told the first graduating class of 1898 at U of I, "Duties of citizenship include a sense of responsibility among other essentials. I ask you to give consideration for independence of thought and action as against the tendency toward socialism and paternalism of today."

In his brief remarks, Idaho's chief executive said, "My best wishes include a great amount of pride in each of you and much affection."

Jets Hit Canal Line

By United Press International

Israeli jets concluded 10 hours of strikes against Egypt's Suez Canal line early today, retaliating for two cross-canal commando raids that pushed Tel Aviv's casualties for May to the highest monthly level since 1967.

Even more, losses were reported in the escalating conflict this morning as Israel said nine of its civilians were wounded in a rocket attack against the town of Beisan on the Jordanian border. Six of the victims were said to have been children.

Oil Spill Plans Are Underway

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House makes public today its blueprint for operating a coast-to-coast system of strike forces to avert oil spills or "clean" them up.

Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., forged the plan into an anti-pollution bill in conference committee this year after differing versions of the bill passed the House and Senate.

An oil spill in Florida's Tampa Bay Feb. 12 touched off the idea of inserting the "national oil contingency plan" into the 1970 Water Quality Act. Cramer got his action amendment adopted by a House-Senate conference committee which had been negotiating differences in the bills since October.

The amendment gave the White House two months to draw up a blueprint for coordinating resources of four federal departments and a handful of lesser agencies.

Lewiston Blaze Is Probed

LEWISTON (UPI)—Fire crews alighted through the ruins of three businesses here Sunday to determine the cause of the blaze that resulted in more than $1 million damage Saturday.

The exact spot where the fire started has not been pinpointed but it was believed to have taken out in the basement of the Hughes Dress Shop, according to Lewiston fire chief Leonard Ellis.

The flames quickly spread through the plywood walls to the smoke shop restaurant and Kings Stationery Store.

In addition to destroying the three businesses, the fire also resulted in heavy smoke and water damage to two other businesses on the periphery of the blaze, Ellis said.

The fire was directly across the street from the Old Elks Club, which was destroyed by fire just months ago. It was the third major fire to strike the city in the past year.

About 40 feet and all available equipment from the Lewiston, Oregon, Fire Department and Clatsop County Fire Department were used to fight the blaze, which started shortly after 10 p.m. Saturday.

Students At Kent Plan Drive

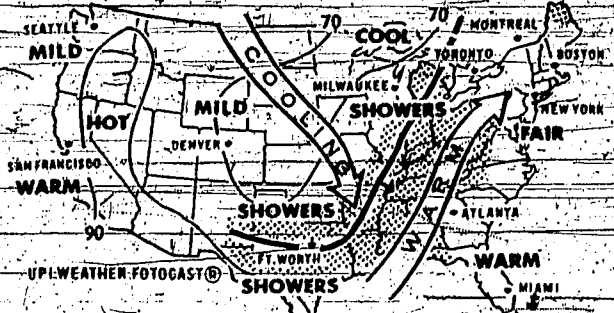

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—Three Kent State University graduate students, wanting "to get involved," have begun a drive to raise at least $1,000 to help pay for damages rampaging students inflicted on stores in the downtown area one month ago.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hamilton, along with two fellow psychology students, started the drive to reimburse the merchants for expenses they incurred by looting.

About 60 Kent State students were arrested in the downtown area one month ago.

Weather Synopsis

A warm dry high-pressure system is becoming established over the Intermountain Region. This should dominate our weather for several days.

Sunny skies and much warmer temperatures will prevail today and Tuesday over all the valleys of Southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon.

High temperatures will range through the 70s and lower 80s in Eastern Idaho today; and from the lower 80s to the lower 90s through the Magic Valley, Lower Idaho and Malheur valleys.

Another 5 to 10 degrees warming can be expected Tuesday. Tonight will also be warmer with lows generally in the 40s and 50s.

All outside farm construction and recreational activities will enjoy very favorable weather today and Tuesday. One exception is that spraying and dusting activities will be interrupted during the afternoon hours by winds occasionally reaching 15 to 25 miles per hour. Irrigation requirements will increase rapidly because of full sunshine and much warmer temperatures and low humidities.

The extended outlook for Wednesday and Thursday is for continued warm and dry weather. Temperatures will average about 10 degrees above the seasonal normals. Some representative normal high and low temperatures for early June are: Boise, 74 and 47; Twin Falls, 76 and 47; Pocatello, 72 and 44 and Idaho Falls, 72 and 43.

The Memorial Day weekend began rather cool and wet in some spots on Friday, but skies cleared Saturday and Sunday and temperatures rose to more comfortable levels. Highs yesterday ranged from the upper 60s in Eastern Idaho to the upper 70s in the west.

Overnight lows were still cool in Eastern Idaho and in Magic Valley, where Idaho Falls reported a low of 35; Pocatello, 30, and Burley, 37. It was warmer in Western Idaho where Boise had an early-morning low of 53.

No precipitation was reported during the past 24 hours.

Big Tortoise Gallops To Race Victory

CHICAGO (UPI)—George, a 300-pound Alabara tortoise, won the turtle race at Brookfield Zoo Sunday when he completed the 16,000-foot track in about two hours—an average speed of a little better than 1-6 mile an hour.

George had come in last when the same race was run in the opposite direction last fall. Weaver, a Galapagos tortoise who won the sprint last year, brought up the rear Sunday about an hour behind George.

Peter, also an Alabara, finished second in both events.

'Prison' Indians Dance

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Indians on Alcatraz celebrated "Liberation Day" Sunday with grunting and groaning dances, a feast of fried bread and porch, and a sheepskin proclamation.

The proclamation, read to newsmen after a council meeting by Bear Forgots, 47, a Sioux in full regalia, said:

"We affirm that on behalf of all the Indian people or tribes from this day forward we shall exercise dominion and all rights of use and possession of Alcatraz Island."

For the ceremonies, more than 500 people were taken by boat to the former federal prison site in San Francisco Bay.

May 31 Deadline

Indians said the event marked the final step in the island's "liberation" since a band slipped through the night last November to claim possession—soon after, the Indians said the government had until May 31 to decide the island's future in their favor.

But during the festivities, Bear Forgots found it necessary to appeal to "all men" to condemn the government's action last week which made life difficult for the Indians, regarded by officials as trespassers.

A FAST-MOVING FIRE at Heritage Manor Saturday afternoon destroyed a large storage shed at the back of the major property. Twin Falls firemen worked fast to reduce any hazard to manor residents, who were not evacuated.

Official Sees Hope Of Peace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the World Jewish Congress, expressed belief Sunday that the Soviet Union would prefer a political settlement of the Middle East crisis to a continued state of tension and the buildup of arms.

Goldmann said "despite Soviet armaments (shipped to Arab nations), I have reason, and this may be wishful thinking, to believe that the Russians, if they could get a reasonable satisfactory agreement for the Arabs, would prefer it to perhaps continued war and increased armaments, and always with the great danger of some confrontation, maybe even with the United States."

Ann-Margret Gets Big Boot from Joe

By DICK KLEINER

TUCSON, Ariz. (NEA)—Those about 150 many Rolls-Royces pulling up to Mama Louisa's, an Italian restaurant on the outskirts of town. We piled out — Roger, Sam, Ann-Margret (his wife) and I — and went in for the surprise birthday party Roger had arranged for his wife. Roger and Allan Carr are producing a movie called "C. C. Ryder and Company," starring Ann-Margret and Joe Namath, and they are shooting all of it in Tucson.

It's a relatively small film and a small company and everybody was invited to the birthday party. We sat around a U-shaped table, with the guest of honor at the base of the U. She looked very surprised; Mama Louisa brought out a big Italian dinner and everybody ate a lot and drank a lot and laughed a lot.

Then it came time for speeches. Joe Namath held up his glass and said, "To a great lady to work with," and gave her a pair of old-fashioned shoes. He had spent the afternoon scouring Tucson to find the worst-looking pair of shoes in town. Ann-Margret and Joe have a running thing about how they hate each other's shoes.

Joe gets into these things with people, running eggs. He'll be a movie going with Bob Martin the movie's soundman who looks and talks like Jack Leonard. "Here's to you," Martin said, lifting his glass across the room.

"It's Mr. Namath," Joe corrected.

"Mr. Namath? For what? Any kid can throw a football."

Mike Battle and another New York Jet and one of Joe's buddies, is also in the film. He got up and said how he has enjoyed working on the movie.

"This movie business isn't so bad," Battle said. "It doesn't make you a bad person."

There were more gag gifs. Then Roger gave her a box and it wasn't so gaudy — a big, fat, soft, cuddly baby coat.

"I'm very happy to be married," he said, and she kissed him.

"Well, to each his own," Namath said, and she made like to go going to throw the shoes at his head.

Fun for all, but underneath there was a serious feeling the movie is important to them. It goes to sell. Allan Carr wanted the producer, and Ann-Margret wants to work with them. Namath is trying a major acting role for the first time. It's important to him, too, to see how he'll be able to handle it.

The picture is a motorcycle gang thing. It's rough and violent and sexy. Ann-Margret says some naughty words, which coming out of her beautifully sweet face is like a Roman fountain spraying acid.

"But it's time I grow up," Ann-Margret says. "It was Roger's idea and he's right. Too many girls try to stay young — too long — have to grow up and be adult about things I do."

She has gone blonde again. Roger likes her blonde. She was blonde when he first met her, back when she was doing a film called "Once a Thief," with Alain Delon.

"I fell in love with her blonde," he says, "and I like her that way."

"It doesn't feel right," she says. "I'm really a dark brunette."

Ann-Margret has long been a motorcycle enthusiast, but Roger has clamped down — no riding for her during the filming, lest she get hurt and hold up production.

"Since he became my producer," she says, "he's no fun."

Then she looked at the baby coat. And she smiled and looked like a teen-ager again.

GEORGIA GOV. LESTER MADDOX, center, gets some help from bystanders in loading a newstand on a state truck Saturday after he ordered the racks banned from the state

Maddox Declares War On Press

ATLANTA (UPI)—Gov. Lester Maddox escalated a long-standing war with the state's two largest newspapers Saturday by ridding newspaper vending machines at the Georgia state Capitol.

The governor and the newspapers have been at odds for many years. But Maddox, who has been content in the past to attack his enemy verbally, decided several days ago to ban the afternoon Atlanta Journal and the morning Atlanta Constitution "from all state property" in the Capitol area.

True to his threat to remove the machines personally if they were not removed by the newspaper themselves by 4 p.m. Saturday, Maddox, riding in a blue pickup truck and accompanied by a state trooper, a driver and hordes of photographers and spectators, circled the Capitol grounds picking up the stanzas.

The governor said it was an "outright lie" that he had taken his latest action because of the newspapers' opposition to his call for a special session of the Georgia legislature, but the two events coincided.

The governor, who lifted the stands into the truck with the help of his aides, said his ban against the newspapers being sold on state property would remain into effect until "the leftist management of these papers apologizes to the people of Georgia."

"It's time they started taking the side of the people instead of always being against them," "I picked today (Memorial Day) for this step because it is a holiday honoring the men who have fought for what this country stands for," the governor said. "It's a good day to remove the Atlanta newspaper because the Atlanta couple of months and hope to eventually get this up to 100,000."

Isn't this an abridgement of the freedom of the press? Maddox was asked.

"Absolutely not," the governor retorted. "When a newspaper leads people into riot and other forms of actions that are contrary to what we should believe in, they shouldn't have this type of freedom of the press."

New Thimble Sets 2,000-Year Mark

NEW YORK (UPI)—In the era of "a new model every year," it's hard to believe that a product could remain basically unchanged for nearly 20 centuries.

Yet, according to Dr. Dr. Scoville, there had been no real change in thimbles since 79 A.D., the first recorded date of their use, until the debut of its adjustable fit-all thimble. The 1970 A.D. model can be custom-fitted permanently to any size finger, and has a "top," actually, an open side, that permits the finger to "breathe" and leaves the nail-uncovered to prevent its breaking.

BYU Students Back War Move

PROVO (UPI)—Petitions containing over 3,000 signatures of Brigham Young University students have been sent to President Nixon and members of the U.S. Congress expressing support of the Cambodia offensive.

Sponsor of the movement was the BYU chapter of Young Americans for Freedom. The petitions were gathered during finals week at the university and were forwarded to the office of Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, with the request that he present them to the President and congress. Joan Hendricks, chapter president of the YAF, said that if the petitions had been circulated prior to finals week many more signatures would have been obtained.

But she added, "this is the largest number of signatures obtained in support of the President's actions on any of the nation's campuses."

Rome Sellers

ROME (UPI)—Furniture merchants protesting Sunday-closing regulations in the city blacked out in downtown Rome Friday by parking their trucks across Piazza Venezia and adjoining streets.

Nuclear 'Weapon' May Point To Cancer Cure

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—A nuclear weapon in the war against cancer is being developed in the laboratories of the University of Wisconsin.

The device, a variety of neutron beam generator, could prove valuable in treating cancer patients, but researchers cautioned it will cause no miracles, serving instead as just another cancer treatment technique.

The university said Friday that Dr. Max Boone, head of the school's radiotherapy department, and Dr. Charles Kelsey, associate professor of radiology, have been working on a neutron device millions of times smaller and less powerful than those used in atomic research. Medical authorities have felt for some time that neutron treatment of cancer would be promising, but the enormous size and astronomical cost of existing neutron beam generators made their use unfeasible.

The Wisconsin machine produces neutrons — subatomic particles without an electrical charge — through a nuclear fusion process, essentially the same process used in a hydrogen bomb. Research has shown that neutrons can kill many cancers resistant to X-rays, electrons and gamma radiation, the types of radiation treatment now in use.

Boone was among the pioneers in neutron cancer treatment in 1967 at Hammeramlin Hospital, London. Some patients whose cancers were unmanageable by other therapy showed remarkable improvement with the neutron treatment.

Boone warned neutron is no cure-all, however: "If it proves as useful as our preliminary evidence indicates, it will occupy a place with the many other valuable cancer treatments, including drugs, surgery, X-rays and gamma rays," he said.

NO PLANS FOR RECALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Despite continuing personal attacks on him by antiwar demonstrators, the State Department says it has no plans to recall Ambassador Jerome H. Holland from Sweden.

The State Department said Monday that Swedish press reports that recall of Holland, a black educator, is imminent "are speculative." There is no basis for them, Sweden long has opposed U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

Eggs were thrown at Holland's limousine Sunday.

COMMENT

For Protest Sake

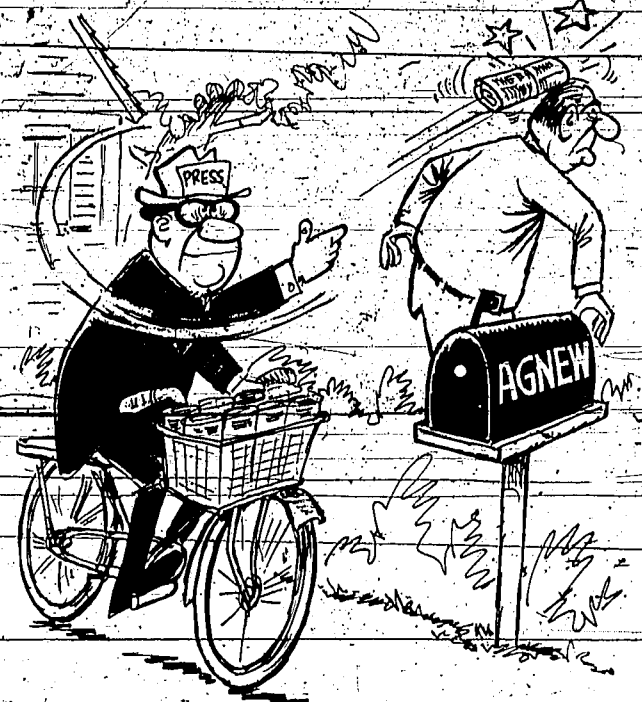

Santa Maria Times... An incident in Los Angeles leads one to cast doubt on the idealism expressed by some students in the demonstrations against American troops being sent into Cambodia.

But these 200 students apparently decided that here was another place that needed additional dissent. The pickets disagreed and it is just as well for there has been enough violence connected with the trucking strike without getting people who have nothing to do with it involved.

SACRAMENTO... Only threat of devastating possibilities could have made Gov. Ronald Reagan act as he did last week, breaking his accustomed legal serenity to lobby Democratic legislators for their votes.

Proposition Eight... primary election ballot... Proposition Eight... as providing property tax relief and extra school funds in one blow.

has been only partially successful. He did convince enough Democrats in the Assembly to pass his tax reform package last week but not in time for Senate enactment before Tuesday's primary. Besides, voters about to swallow Proposition Eight are unlikely to be dissuaded by anything so rational as tax reform... including property tax relief and the promise of more school money in the legislature.

Packaging played an important part in the 1970 Democratic senatorial primaries in Ohio and Texas. In Ohio, a politically unknown millionaire named Hoard M. Metzbaum defeated Col. John H. Glenn, the former astronaut, in a campaign in which a drum-fire of TV spots, costing an estimated $400,000, was the deciding factor.

The high cost of such media-oriented campaigns is causing considerable unhappiness among candidates. Arthur J. Goldberg, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor of New York, has called multimillion-dollar campaigns "outrageous."

Charles Guggenheim, the man who created the spots that put Metzbaum across, agrees that unequal TV exposure is unfair. To remedy it, he suggests: "Equalize what a candidate may spend on TV time and lower what the stations charge."

Special consultants such as pollsters, advertising agencies, television advisors and computer firms are appearing in the entourages of candidates for important offices. Some charge as much as $500 a day. One management firm promises to arrange everything from the candidate's announcement of availability to — hopefully — his victory party.

Eugene (Ore.) Register... The killing of four white Kent State College students May 4 touched off tumultuous nationwide protest.

four Kent State victims black instead of white. The troubles in Augusta and at Jackson State were not directly related to the war. Particularly in Augusta did the news reports sound like another city riot, sparked by another racial incident. We've had lots bigger riots with lots more people killed.

Michigan Prof. John Aldridge says, "Such students, when confronted with complex ideas or stringent academic requirements, tend to sink into a protective lethargy — or to become resentful and rebellious because demands are being made on them which they are not equipped to meet."

My source, who claimed to be so close to the Vice President that he had once been hit in the head by a volley ball Agnew was trying to serve, told me "The Vice President is as upset as anybody about having to take after the Eastern Establishment press in every speech."

"Then why does he do it?" I asked. "They make him do it." "Who does?" "The Republican fund-raisers. It's money in the bank."

Reflections of a Hard-Hat Man

By LEE MUELLER
NEW YORK (NEA)

You may not believe this. By many standards of cruelty, the deeds are too cruel, the intentions too mean. But it is true.

There are people in the United States who actually get a grim satisfaction from seeing photographs of hippie-type youths in handcuffs, slings and other conditions of discomfort.

Dan M. is such a person. No pity wells in his heart at the sight of a television clash between police and students. The Kent State incident was unfortunate, he says, and it's too bad some apparently innocent kids got killed, but I think it goes to show you can't keep fooling around with fire and not expect to get burned.

Dan, 39, is a construction worker helping build a city scraper near Wall Street in lower Manhattan. He wears denim overalls, a green work shirt with the sleeves rolled up and a blue plastic helmet with welder's glasses strapped around it. Dan lives in nearby Brooklyn, where he has a wife and three children, one of them almost as big as I am.

Dan was one of the men who attacked a group of peace demonstrators here recently. "I didn't hit anybody," he said. "I just pushed them out of the way a little, you know."

"The feeling? It's like... well, you know when you get a bug bite and it gets sore. Showing those crummy kids was like rubbing the bite. It felt good."

There are other men in America who feel like Dan M. of course—men who would never strike a long-haired demonstrator but men who nevertheless derive some satisfaction from seeing other men do it.

"It's got to be done," he said, quietly. "Can't you see that? These punks will keep running the streets, breaking windows, burning buildings, sleeping things, until somebody shows them they can't get away with it."

"The police won't do it because they're afraid of their jobs and the mayor's afraid of his. So the way I look at it, I'm helping keep the country the way it is, which is the way I think most people like it."

"These kids don't do a thing. Nothing? They don't give nothing. All they do is sit around and grow hair and raise hell. Then they figure they've got a right to tell the country it's wrong—but the country don't listen they figure they've got a right to burn it up."

"Who gave them this right? (Dan rose from his seat on a stack of concrete blocks, warning to the oratory which if nothing was filled with sincere emotion. He held out his hands palms up.) "I'll tell you who gave it to them. We did it work and pay taxes for schools so that these kids can come around and tell me I'm some kind of schlemiel."

"These kids, these ungrateful punks, they take advantage of the rights given to them just so they can knock hell out of the country. I'm tired of it. I know a lot of people who are tired of it."

"Sure they're worried about the war. I was in the Korean war and I was worried about it, too. I didn't like it a bit, but I went because I like this country and I felt I had an obligation to it."

Dan M. does not approve of shooting dissenters. "That's a little too much," he said. "I just think that somebody has to show them they don't run the world because they're young."

"That's the whole problem, you know. There are some nice kids around—responsible, you know—but these greasy punks don't think they're ever going to get old. They don't think about what it's going to be like to make a living in the world. They want things given to them, always, like they were babies."

"They'll find out, though. They'll get bald and have double chins and big bellies and families. Then maybe they'll understand what the real world is all about."

Perhaps, it remains doubtful, however, that reality can be taught with broken arms and bopped skulls. The monkey wrench is not adequate replacement for the hickory stick. Neither, for that matter, is a rifle.

Woman Faces New Cruelty Charges

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—A woman with a criminal record of cruelty to animals was held in jail Saturday, charged in a kennel case involving 46 dogs, including 14 puppies that had to be destroyed.

Mrs. Roxanne Barry, operator of the Tioffhaus Kennels at Hopewell, said she "did not know" she was in custody Friday at the kennel where 39 dogs and seven cats were found in advanced states of malnutrition Thursday.

One of the dogs was a prize-winning German Shepherd valued at $2,000.

Hopewell Police Chief Matthew Maloney said a number of the dogs were starved beyond hope of recovery.

The warrant against Mrs. Barry, 28, was sworn out by Hopewell area ASPCA officials.

About 20 dogs were found outside in small pens or fastened by chains to the barn and other buildings. One dog had a 15-pound weight around its neck. A puppy was found dead.

Inside the house, the constables found more animals, including a Siamese cat locked in a closed closet.

None of the animals had been provided with food or water, they said.

The five-foot-three-inch, 200-pound kennel operator was held on $250 bond at Mercer County jail. If convicted she could receive six months in jail and a $250 fine for each animal.

Mrs. Barry's arrest record for cruelty to animals dates to 1962 when she was brought into court at Elmira, N.Y.

In 1963, she served six months in prison after being convicted of cruelty to 19 dogs in Barrington, N.Y.

In 1966, at Mansfield Township in Burlington County she was arrested for selling a sick dog to a pregnant woman whose baby eventually became infected, and in Langhorne, Pa.

for cruelty to animals. ASPCA officials who visited her Langhorne kennel in Bucks County found several dogs dead, some of them partially eaten by rats.

Pope Raises Salaries In Vatican

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI raised Vatican salaries by 10 per cent Saturday and financed the increases by ordering the sale of more than $1 million worth of Vatican-owned real estate and stocks.

He also pegged the pay increases to the Italian cost of living and created a labor ministry to deal with employees' grievances.

The pay raise, the third in 11 years and the second granted by Pope Paul in 18 months, covers everyone working at the Vatican, from gardeners to cardinals—but not the Pope himself. He has no fixed salary.

At the same time, the 72-year-old pontiff granted $180 bonuses to more than 1,000 Vatican employees as a gesture marking the 50th year of his priesthood.

A Vatican official said the pay increases were financed by the sale of stocks and real estate estimated at a value of $1.1 million.

The location of the real estate and the type of stocks were not disclosed.

Cure For Cancer Is Envisioned

HOUSTON (UPI)—An Oxford University professor who pioneered research linking cigarette smoking and cancer said in the closing session of the 10th International Cancer Congress Friday he thinks it will take a new medical breakthrough to find a cancer cure.

"My guess is that none of the main leads at the present will provide the answer to how cancer is produced," Dr. Richard Doll said.

He said a big step in making cancer preventable in the future will be identification of all cancer causes, such as radiation, pesticides, cigarettes, chemicals and drugs, and then ridding the environment of them.

Earlier Friday Dr. T. P. Hayflick said the most important new front against cancer is the growing concern to remove cancer-causing pollutants from the environment.

The Houston researcher said this has begun to replace the emphasis on early detection of the disease, which "has not been as effective as was hoped."

Hayflick said in an interview that this new emphasis was the most important development of the week-long, worldwide meeting of more than 5,000 cancer experts.

Hayflick mentioned such pollutants as cigarettes and such industrial pollutants as asbestos fibers and radiation in uranium mines.

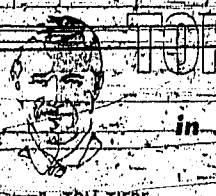

Doll said industrial pollution is most deadly to smokers. He said cigarettes and industrial pollution seem to combine to increase the threat of cancer.

Wheat Rates Stir Alarm

BOISE (UPI)—Harold West, administrator of the Idaho Wheat Commission, said he views the recent railroad freight shipment hike with alarm.

West said the hike would place an excessive burden on Idaho whose farmers are forced to ship their products long distances before reaching good markets.

He said each time the railroad hikes its prices the Idaho farmers slip farther behind the competition.

BY TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA) It has long been a common knowledge that much of the drug habits taking place among younger people is caused by peer influence.

But in some, perhaps many, instances it is probably not so much peer influence as peer pressure which brings increasing numbers of kids into the scene.

"I've got a good, grubby example."

The other evening I managed my way into what is known as the adult community as an adult party, but here at the lower East Side of New York is merely a nightly ritual of various youngsters seeking what they call "chemical vacations."

As you should know, LSD, or lysergic acid diethylamide, the prototype of all synthetic hallucinogens. It is among the most powerful drugs in the world. One hundred micrograms will send any human being out of his head, and one ounce of the stuff will supply about 200,000 doses of 100 mg each.

As users say: "It stings pretty good."

Anyway, the acid ritual I attended was in a small, third-floor apartment in East Greenwich Village. Somebody who was there said the place was a "commune" but the apartment owner said it's just that he lets anybody sleep here who wants."

The apartment owner, by the way, is 41. Very big on top, if shaggy behind the ears. Most of the people who frequent his place seem to be the kids, 15 to 25.

Yeah, I know. But that's another story.

There were five people in the flat the night I attended. The owner and four uh "chicks" as he called them.

They were, however, anything but chicks. They were very—very plain—even homely, youngsters, old lady, this as no insult, just a statement of fact which I feel has nothing on what happened that evening.

One of the girls was new to the apartment. And she was the focus of the ritual. She was no more than 17, with an accent that identified her as Brooklyn. She was dressed in "the uniform"—straight black hair, no make-up, bell-bottom jeans, old lady shoes, skimpy blouse and bra. It means anything, no bra.

I never got her name. No matter.

When she arrived she seemed little different from the others. Same language, same sleepy eyes. But while the others were ready for their LSD, she admitted she had never taken that trip before and so, "Maybe I better just use pot."

"Oh, hell, the apartment owner said: he'd not hear of such a thing."

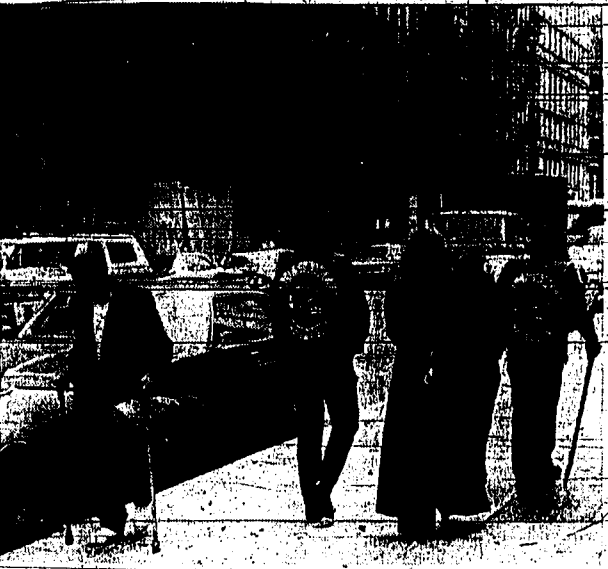

And then, if not viciously at least urgently, her peers began to wear the girl down. Pot's a drag, man. Live it, you gotta live it. A small dose to start with, Sunshine maybe. A bit of heaven spread on a vitamin pill. Dig?

Eventually, the outnumbered girl dug.

I don't know if she wanted to. I like to think she didn't. I believe she got into a trap experienced by too many these days. Out for marijuana, she was caught up loud at anything anybody said. She said she wanted to kiss President Nixon. She said she couldn't feel anything below her eyes. She wanted and raved and carried on, too much, too fast. "I love it, I love it, I love it, I love it."

Then, knowingly, the bald apartment owner sat down beside her, to do his thing before his own trip started. They were, I'm afraid, father and daughter, the both of them. And as they gasped and gurgled and exchanged their awkward promises of love and peace and happiness, I made a silent escape to the street.

I don't know. Call me straight. I was not impressed. They will argue here on Manhattan's East Village that individualism is the noble pursuit of the young. That the thing is for every man to do his own thing. But

So for whatever reason, the girl took the pill. And again for whatever reason, she liked about its effects. Immediately after swallowing she feigned surprise: "God, I can see streaks of red on the wall." LSD experts say this is impossible—normally, acid effects don't begin for 20 to 120 minutes after induction.

But this little girl insisted. She began to walk around the room, as she probably imagined trippers would walk, weaving and freaky. She blew her breath on a mirror and wrote words with her finger. She giggled and chuckled and laughed out

Embassy Exchange Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cambodia and the United States are going to exchange ambassadors, according to Asian diplomatic sources. The move would tighten relations between the two nations.

The Asian sources said Friday that Cambodia took the initiative in an effort to upgrade relations with the United States. A State Department spokesman, however, would not comment on the reports.

It was believed the United States had been reluctant to exchange ambassadors because it would indicate to the world increasing U.S. involvement in Cambodia.

The Asian sources said Sonn Vorachet, former Cambodian ambassador to France, would arrive in Washington next week to head the Cambodian embassy, which is being considerably enlarged in staff.

These sources said the United States agreed reluctantly to send an ambassador to the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh to take over for Lloyd M. Fives, who holds the rank of U.S. charge d'affaires.

Cambodia broke off diplomatic relations with the United States in May, 1965, after a border incident and charges that the United States was plotting against the survival of the then-neutralist nation.

Finance Company Notes Name Has Been Altered

Seaboard Finance Company, 1341 Piler Ave. E., has changed its name to Avco Financial Services, according to an announcement by Seaboard's Twin Falls Branch Manager, Ron Spearing.

The name change is the result of combining two consumer finance subsidiaries of Avco Corporation — Seaboard and Avco Delta Finance — into a single financial services organization.

"Our corporate name has been changed to reflect the variety of financial services which we are now able to offer residents of Magic Valley," said Mr. Spearing. "As part of Avco's international network of branch offices we can provide professional, personalized solutions to nearly every financial need."

With the combining of Seaboard and Avco Delta into Avco Financial Services, the firm will be operating more than 1,500 branch offices in 47 states, all provinces of Canada and in Australia. Assets of the new company exceed $1.4 billion.

Avco Financial Services is a division of Avco Corporation, a highly diversified company with interests in aircraft, space, insurance, land development, motion pictures and broadcasting.

Filibuster Could Curb Attempt To Tie Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty to 40 senators are prepared to filibuster a curb on President Nixon's military intervention in Cambodia until U.S. troops are pulled out, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., said Sunday.

In a 10 1/2 hour Washington window interview, Dole said he hoped some compromise could be reached and added, "Hopefully this week, next week, we can work out some kind of accommodation."

Otherwise, Dole said, "There are probably 30 or 40 of us who are willing to talk at length, at least until the troops are removed from Cambodia."

The Cooper-Church amendment, which cuts off funds for retaining U.S. troops in Cambodia, is set to be voted on Tuesday. Dole's proposal would allow re-entry of U.S. forces into Cambodia if American prisoners are held there. After the vote, the Senate will resume debate with another vote during the week unlikely.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Sunday that after the Dole amendment vote he expects Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., to "introduce a resolution which may contain language protective of the power of the commander-in-chief to protect the armed forces abroad."

The proposal declares nothing in the Cooper-Church amendment would prevent Nixon from taking action to protect American troops.

Scott made his remarks in a broadcast interview, Profile-Metromedia.

He indicated an attempt was being made to get White House backing for the Byrd legislation. The administration has opposed any Senate action—even favorable compromises—involving its Indochina activity. Dole, a staunch administration backer, said the Byrd

Exchange President Sees Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the New York Stock Exchange, Robert W. Haack, said Sunday there are strong indications the nation's economy "might be significantly better in the next six months."

Haack also said recent losses on the stock exchange are "very, very serious," but not as bad "as the rumor mongers would have it."

He indicated the Vietnam War has been a major factor in the losses, and attributed the sudden improvement in the market toward the end of last week to President Nixon's promise to get out of Cambodia by the June 30 deadline "and also possibly to get out of Vietnam ahead of schedule."

Haack was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation."

The stock market, after the longest and steepest decline since the 1929-32 crash, moved upward for three straight days at the end of last week to gain a total of 99.25 points, or nearly 11 per cent.

BIG market analysts are uncertain the rally will continue.

Haack declined to say if he thought the market has hit bottom. "That is an answer I never give on Sunday," he said. "Somebody might credit me with more knowledge than I actually possess."

After describing the recent losses as "very, very serious," he said: "But I don't think that the Wall Street situation, from a financial point of view, though serious, is as serious as the rumor mongers would have it."

Haack said the stock market may give indications of economic growth in four to eight months in advance.

Bad Breath Cause Is Identified

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Spurred by the finding a sign reading "Bad breath better than no breath at all" in a medical professor's laboratory at the University of British Columbia, researchers have identified two chemicals which cause bad breath.

Dr. Joseph Tonzes, the university's department of pathology, said the two chemicals, hydrogen sulfide and methyl mercaptan, are produced in the mouth. His work can lead to control of bad breath and to early detection of certain diseases of the human body.

Nixon Is Briefed On War Plans

By EUGENE V. RISHER
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon assembled his top military commanders from Washington and Saigon Sunday for a high-level planning session on the South-east Asian war.

The afternoon conference brought together for the first time in six months the top U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, and Washington's strategic planners.

The President wanted a firsthand report from the South Vietnamese and Cambodian battlefields before making his address to the nation sometime in June on what has been accomplished by his controversial decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia.

He is expected at that time to outline more detail the U.S. policy toward Cambodia. Nixon promised at his news conference May 6 that all U.S. troops would be out of Cambodia by the end of June but left unanswered the question of how far the United States will go in supporting South Vietnamese operations inside Cambodia and providing arms to the Cambodian army of Premier Lon Nol.

The White House said the conference was to discuss the Cambodian operations and the progress of Vietnamization in South Vietnam.

Abrams flew in from Saigon Saturday night, accompanied by his immediate boss, Adm. John S. McCain Jr., the commander of the U.S. Pacific forces whose headquarters is in Hawaii.

From Washington came Defense Secretary Melvin B. Laird, with the incoming and outgoing chairmen of the Joint Chiefs, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler and Adm. Thomas H. Moorer.

Thousands Of South Vietnamese Hit Cambodia In New Mekong River Raid

SAIGON (UPI) — Thousands of South Vietnamese infantrymen opened a new campaign in Cambodia Sunday, sweeping through jungles along the Mekong River in search of a North Vietnamese force battered in fighting around the province capital of Prey Veng.

The Phnom Penh government announced the imposition of martial law effective at midnight in a move that decreed the death penalty for troublemakers.

In South Vietnam, North Vietnamese troops who had occupied part of the resort city of Dalat slipped away under the cover of darkness and abandoned three places they had held for more than 24 hours.

Military sources said local commanders in Dalat had allowed the Communists to withdraw to avoid a major battle that could have destroyed parts of the scenic city on the cool highlands 245 miles north of Saigon. It has been a tourist magnet for years.

There was some criticism by high-ranking American and South Vietnamese generals for the failure of Dalat commanders and U.S. advisers to order pursuit of the North Vietnamese invaders. But this was tempered with praise and relief that the city of 70,000 persons had been saved.

UPI correspondent Robert E. Sullivan, reporting from Dalat, said the invasion was carried out by 200 North Vietnamese regulars wearing khaki uniforms. At least 47 were reported killed in fighting that

Wallace Runs For His Life

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — George C. Wallace and Gov. Albert P. Brewer took a day off in their heated runoff campaign for governor Sunday and let the electorate pull their latest charges over the "black bloc vote."

Wallace, fighting for his political life in Tuesday's election after trailing Brewer by some 11,000 votes in the seven-man May 5 Democratic primary, has centered his campaign on a charge that Brewer received a 250,000 bloc vote from blacks.

Wilson Takes Off On Whistle-Stop Jaunts

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson, along with a large entourage, took the offensive Sunday in the first of a series of American-style, meet-the-people whistle-stop tours.

"This is more whistle than stop," Wilson said as he and his wife Mary swung into a half-day of rapid-fire handshaking, street-corner chatting, and meeting local labor party candidates in his native York-shire.

The two latest opinion polls indicated a marked swing in favor of the opposition Conservative party.

The Sunday Telegraph's call up poll showed Labor's lead cut from 7 to 5 per cent in the past 10 days. The Sunday Times Opinion Research Center poll gave the Conservatives a 2 per cent edge for the first time since April. The Sunday Telegraph, averaging out the results of five national polls, gave Labor an overall 2.6 per cent lead.

Wilson showed no sign of discouragement.

"Wonderful time of year to have an election," he remarked to supporters in Yorkshire, where the weather was balmy and sprightly. "Open air meetings, factory gate meetings—you can do everything."

Wilson had a virtual monopoly on Sunday vote-catching.

Conservative leader Edward Heath worked at his father's seaside home at Broadstairs, making speeches for a two-week barnstorming tour by

Judy Trail, Lt. Battles Wed

KING HILL — Judy Rebecca Trail, Spokane, Wash., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Trail, King Hill, became the bride of Lt. Robert S. Battles, Tacoma, Wash., son of Mrs. N. H. Battles, Idaho Falls, April 11, in rites at the Methodist Church in Glenny Ferry.

Rev. Dwight E. Whitford of the King Hill United Presbyterian Church, the Methodist Church and chaplain at the Idaho Youth Ranch, performed the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and pink carnations.

The bride wore a white organza and Chantilly lace gown, fashioned with a mandarin collar and full Juliet sleeves. The bouffant skirt was trimmed with two panels of lace. The matching chapel-length veil was framed with lace and attached to a Camelot headpiece. She had a corsage of white carnations and pink rosebuds.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Marie Wright, Spokane, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Joan Trail, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jerry Larsen, Spokane, were bridesmaids.

Thomas Battles, Idaho Falls, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ronald Cole, Portland, Ore. and Walter Trail, brother of the bride, King Hill, were ushers.

Warren Clark, Brownlee, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. Janet Pruett was flower girl and Sheri and Peggy Pruett were candlelighters. All are nieces of the bride.

Lorraine Carnahan, was in charge of the punch bowl and Mrs. William Trail, Mountain Home, aunt of the bride, poured coffee. Mrs. Thomas Battles served the cake. Mrs. William Pruett, King Hill, and Mrs. Max Clark, Cambridge, sisters of the bride, were in charge of the gift table.

The young couple honeymooned at the Shore Lodge in McCall, before going to their home in Tacoma, Wash.

The bride attended the University of Idaho and had been employed at the Holy Family hospital, Spokane. The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Idaho and then went into the Army.

Guests attended from Salt Lake City, St. Louis, Miss; Portland, Ore.; Spokane, Washington; Weiser, Meridian, Boise, Idaho Falls, Mountain Home and Glenny Ferry. Mrs. C. H. Shamburger, Weiser, grandmother of the bride, was among those attending.

Mrs. Newton, retiring president, was installing officer.

Hagerman OES Chapter Has Installation

HAGERMAN — Installation of the new officers was held at the recent meeting of the Order of Eastern Star, Chapter No. 78.

Those installed include Mrs. Martin Slane, worthy matron; Virgil Norwood, worthy patron; Mrs. Claude Allen, associate matron; Claude Allen, associate patron; Mrs. Virgil Norwood, secretary; Mrs. Alan Erwin, treasurer; Mrs. Rollin Phillips, conductress; Mrs. Walker Minard, associate conductress; Mrs. Robert Lawason, chaplain; Charles Robinson, marshal; Mrs. Warren Berry, organist; Mrs. Charles (Chuck) Minard, Ada; Mrs. Kenneth Hulme, Ruth; Mrs. Arpa Hogue, Tosa; Mrs. Charles Robinson; Martha; Mrs. George Lenker; Electa; Kenneth Hulme, warder; and Ray Clawson, sentinel.

Installing officers were Mrs. R. E. Neyman, installing matron; Mrs. Arthur Daniels, chaplain; Mrs. Berry, organist; and R. E. Neyman, marshal.

Gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Neyman, outgoing worthy patron and worthy matron, from her officers by Mrs. Slane and to Mrs. Slane from her new officers and presented by Mrs. Allen.

Mrs. Slane was also presented a gavel from the Past Matrons Club by Mrs. Lenker.

Committees for the coming year were announced by the new worthy matron. They include Mrs. Hulme, Virgil Norwood and Mrs. Morje Owsley, finance; Mrs. Alfred Sandy, Mrs. Jim Bennett and Albert Gregg, relief; Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Rollin Phillips and Mrs. Daniels, sick and visiting; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clawson, central.

MR. AND MRS. DUANE MARTIN

Vicki Knight Is Bride Of Duane Martin

Vicki Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Knight, Twin Falls, was married to Duane Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Martin, Nampa, in rites at the First Methodist Church Fireside Lounge.

Rev. Herald Nye performed the double ring ceremony.

Jill Adams, Spokane, sorority sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Steve Gaines, Nampa, served as best man.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Nye played the traditional wedding music.

Guests were registered by Carolyn Lawrence and gifts were displayed by Mary Knight, sister of the bride, and Cindy Gablica. A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Hoffman, Mrs. Elton Capps and Mrs. Dudley Stroud, aunts of the bride.

Guests attended from Boise, Nampa, Buhl, Jerome and Hansen.

The couple returned to the University of Idaho to complete the school term. They will reside in Nampa this summer.

HAVE A PROBLEM PROPERTY?

Real estate counseling and appraisals. Call Mrs. Thorsen, 733-3336, for appointment.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a letter nearly 3 years ago because my wife and I were having marital problems. I described my wife's actions, and you said she needed to see a psychiatrist. Well, there wasn't any in our town, so she saw a marriage counselor instead. Would you believe that after six visits to this marriage counselor, she quit her regular job and went to work for him at half her former pay? On the advice of this counselor (she claims) she started treating me like a stranger and would have nothing to do with me as a wife. I spoke to my lawyer about it and he advised me to move out, which I did. Well, that must have been the wrong move because she charged me with desertion. The next thing I know I was on my way to being a divorced man. (All this after 14 years of marriage and 3 children.) Now I hear that she is marrying her marriage counselor, whose wife of 10 years started divorce proceedings shortly after my wife went to work for him. Now, my problem: Do you know a nice woman between 35 and 40 who is willing to take a chance with an idiot?

"LONESOME" IN KANSAS

DEAR LONESOME: Not off hand. But I'll inquire.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my son, Jeffrey, was married. His mother and I have been divorced for 8 years. Three years ago I married again. My first wife is still single, and considering the alimony check she gets, I am sure she will die single.

My question: Don't you think that since engraved invitations were sent out, my present wife and I should have received one? We did not. My son simply asked me if I would come, and I said I would. Had we received an invitation, my wife would have had the good sense to decline knowing my first wife would be there. However, my present wife wasn't even given the chance to gracefully decline. I think this was very poor taste, and want your opinion.

JEFFREY'S FATHER

DEAR FATHER: It may have been "poor taste" but it was good sense. It's risky business to send an invitation on the assumption that it will be refused. What if your wife decided to accept?

DEAR ABBY: My husband smokes three packs of cigarettes a day, and has a hacking cough which drives me up a wall.

I stopped smoking in hopes that he would, but it didn't work. He coughs so bad at night that it interferes with my sleep—I have threatened to sleep in the spare room. What would you do in my case?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I'd quit "threatening," and appeal to his sense of logic. Tell him that the person who quits cigarettes for five years has the same chance of escaping lung cancer as the nonsmoker. Also the person who is 25 and does not smoke can expect eight extra years of life expectancy. And if that doesn't do it, sleep in the spare room.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL WHO WROTE TO PROTEST A RECENT ITEM: A writer asked, "In your opinion, is homosexuality a disease?"

I replied, "NO! It is the INABILITY TO LOVE AT ALL, which I consider an emotional illness." Meaning that I do not regard the homosexual as "abnormal." Rather, the person who is incapable of loving AT ALL is, in my opinion, the "sick" one.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69766, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

BROADJUMP RESULTS were calculated by TORCH members holding measuring tapes. Each youngster made three jumps and this young lady scored high despite some hard landings on bare feet. Special Olympics were held at the Robert Stuart Junior High School last week.

OLYMPIC TALENT is demonstrated by young athletes who throw the softball for a record distance for the day. Other competitors and TORCH members who coached the youngsters and officiated at the events look on.

Enthusiasm High For First Special Olympics

Enthusiasm and the competitive spirit couldn't run any higher in the International Olympics than it did in Twin Falls last week for the regional division of a Special Olympics. Nearly 100 children from the special education program, Happy Day School, Child Development Center and High School, Special Education classes had been in training for the past several months, sharpening their running, broad and high jumping and softball throwing abilities for the regional contests.

During the training session, the youngsters were coached by volunteer TORCH members, a group of teen agers organized for the specific benefit of retarded children in the area. A total of 35 TORCH members also assisted with the Olympics organizing the youngsters for each event, serving as timers, starters and directors.

Robert Donnelley, athletic director for the local school district, and city recreation director, Chad Browning, also assisted as did Robert Stuart school staff members.

MRS. ARVA OLSON
Mrs. Olson Is Officer Of Bank

The top two winners in each event are eligible to go to the Idaho Special Olympics in Pocatello June 26 and 27. Winners from there will take part in national competition.

BURLEY—Mrs. Arva Olson, Burley, has been named an officer of the Idaho Bank and Trust Co.

Mrs. Olson was promoted recently from note and escrow customer service to assistant cashier at the bank's central division in Burley. She is the bank's third woman officer.

Break-Ins, Vandalism Probed

Several cases of vandalism and several break-ins or attempted break-ins which occurred over the weekend in Twin Falls are being investigated by city police.

A native of Smithfield, Utah, Mrs. Olson moved to Rupert with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Seaman, in 1936. She graduated from Rupert High School and began working as a bookkeeper for a local variety store.

Starting her banking career during World War II, she resigned when her husband, Lawrence K. Olson, was discharged from the Navy. They then moved to a farm south of Rupert, which Mr. Olson still operates.

Hosted
BURLEY—Officials of the Adolph Coors Co., Golden Colo., hosted Magic Valley county officials Monday at a luncheon meeting in the Ponderosa Inn.

Discussions on regulations for mobile homes, trailer courts and junk cars will also be discussed. A special meeting will be held for airport city representatives and banquet speaker will be Dr. Lynn B. Rodney, University of Oregon, Department of Parks and Recreation.

Jerome Man Hurt In Mishap

JEROME—A Jerome man sustained a fractured leg, bone lacerations and possible back injuries early Monday in a two-vehicle collision on Interstate 80N about three miles east of the 93-80 interchange.

Idaho State Police said Gurden B. Williams, 61, Jerome, is hospitalized at the Twin Falls Clinic. He was driving a 1951 Dodge truck which was struck in the rear by a 1969 White tractor-semi unit. The Dodge traveled about 250 feet after impact and went off the south side of the freeway.

The driver of the semi-truck, James O. McDaniel, 36, Caldwell, was not injured, but was charged with violation of the basic rule.

An estimated $800 damage was reported to the semi-truck and the Dodge was demolished. The bed of the Dodge was ripped from the frame.

DR. ALLEZ ASHMEAD
Ex-Area Woman To Get Degree

Council Agenda Is Listed

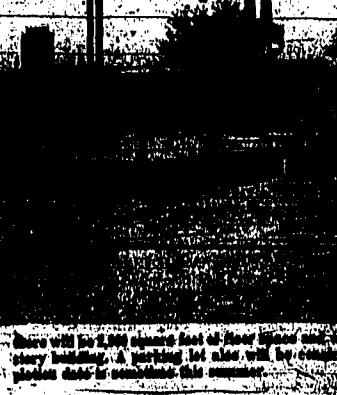

Secondary sewage treatment facilities for Twin Falls city and industries of the area will be discussed by Twin Falls city council members Monday night with action expected to be taken on proposed additional engineering studies for the project.

Dr. Ashmead is married to Dr. Harvey H. Ashmead, formerly of Corral and received her B.S. degree in speech and English at Utah State College in 1965; and her M.S. degree in 1962 from the University of Utah. She has also completed post graduate work at Denver University, University of Idaho and Oregon State College and BYU.

Food Stamps

SHOSHONE—Families and individuals who have low incomes may apply for food stamps at the Department of Public Assistance office in Gooding.

The Food Stamp program begins today in Lincoln County. The First Security Bank, Shoshone, has been selected as the only place in the county where the food stamps can be purchased, according to Robert Schelsky, Gooding, public assistance administrator for the four area counties.

There will be 2,000 square feet of floor space and a parking lot also will be constructed in connection with the building.

NEW 2207 business in Burley will be the Dairy Queen, now under construction in the 2200 block of Overland Avenue. Here similar blocks are being put in place by a workman. When completed

All-Star NHL Goalie Terry Sawchuk Dies

NEW YORK (UPI)—Terry Sawchuk, who set the all-time National Hockey League record of 103 regular-season shutouts and won four Vezina Trophies as the outstanding goalie in professional hockey despite an injury-plagued career, died Sunday in New York hospital of cardiac arrest following extensive abdominal surgery.

The former goaltender for the Detroit Red Wings, Boston Bruins, Toronto Maple Leafs and Los Angeles Kings, who was playing out the string with the New York Rangers, had been hospitalized since April 20.

Police said at the time of his hospitalization he suffered injuries during a "horseplay" with teammate Ron Stewart.

Sawchuk and Stewart, roommates on the road, were said by a Ranger spokesman to have argued after returning from a long week. A police official said that Sawchuk and Stewart engaged in a wrestling match and that Sawchuk suffered the injury during it.

The 40-year-old Sawchuk was a veteran of 21 years in the National Hockey league and a seven-time all-star.

He was transferred to New York Hospital Friday after being hospitalized at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Sawchuk, born in Winnipeg, Manitoba, played for five NHL league clubs and had already completed 10 seasons of NHL competition when the Rangers acquired him from the Detroit Red Wings in June, 1969. He was used sparingly by New York, behind first-string goaltender Ed Giacomin.

The name Sawchuk was emblazoned across hockey scoreboards in Detroit for 13 seasons, in Toronto for three years, in Boston for two campaigns and one year in Long Beach, Los Angeles.

His greatest triumphs were with Detroit, where he was NHL rookie of the year in 1951 and Vezina Trophy winner as the best goalie in the league three times. Sawchuk was named to the first team NHL All-Star team three times and to the second squad on four occasions.

Sawchuk turned an incredible 103 career shutouts, a record that may never be matched.

Ron Pope, adding a 66-66 Memorial Day medal play to his unbeatable 65-65 Saturday, won the net championship, carrying a 17-stroke handicap, was way in front after Saturday's round and Verli-Mercham and Keith Fullmer tied with 100 for the end Sunday came out on top by nine strokes, ahead of W. Hawkins—who had a net total of 25 Saturday and came in with 72 Sunday.

G. Roland took third with a 64-128 in the net division and Fullmer tied with 100 for the fourth spot.

Saturday, who shot a 70 in the gross division, added a steady 72 in the final 18 to a more realistic 85 Sunday and ended fourth.

Del Rupert, finishing with steady gross rounds of 76 and 74, took third with a 150-stroke total.

Top 16 finishers in the net division were: Pope, 62-66-118; W. Hawkins, 65-72-127; G. Roland, 64-64-128; V. Mecham, 62-68-130; K. Fullmer, 62-68-130; Del Rupert, 67-68-132; G. Jenkins, 64-68-132; G. Crockett, 65-68-133; D. Lawley, 66-74-133; G. Hendrix, 63-71-134; J. Blandford, 66-68-134; D. Wubker, 70-64-134; Duard Lawley, 66-66-134; G. Williams, 64-70-134, and George Merritt, 66-67-135.

round was six back of Blandford with a 78. Pope led in the gross division with his 69, but asked to a more realistic 85 Sunday and ended fourth.

Del Rupert, finishing with steady gross rounds of 76 and 74, took third with a 150-stroke total.

Top 16 finishers in the net division were: Pope, 62-66-118; W. Hawkins, 65-72-127; G. Roland, 64-64-128; V. Mecham, 62-68-130; K. Fullmer, 62-68-130; Del Rupert, 67-68-132; G. Jenkins, 64-68-132; G. Crockett, 65-68-133; D. Lawley, 66-74-133; G. Hendrix, 63-71-134; J. Blandford, 66-68-134; D. Wubker, 70-64-134; Duard Lawley, 66-66-134; G. Williams, 64-70-134, and George Merritt, 66-67-135.

ADENAU, Germany (UPI)—A Porsche 908 driven by Englishman's Vic Elford and West German Kurt Ahrens won the 1,000 kilometers of the Nuerburgring Sunday and clinched the world manufacturers' title for the West German car manufacturer.

The winning 70-hp Elford Porsche was followed home by a similar 908-Spidee driven by another English-German duo, Dick Attwood and Hans Herrmann.

Both autos were entered by the Salzburg racing team of Austria.

The race over the scenic 14.2 mile circuit was only the seventh of 11 contests counting toward the prototype and sports cars manufacturers world championships.

But Porsche's victory did not win five races and finished second in the sixth this year and since the best of eight races are counted the Stuttgart firm wrapped up the title.

The Italian Ferrari firm, whose racers are currently in second place in the series, have no chance of overtaking Porsche's lead.

WINNERS IN THE Memorial Day medal play tournament with Twin Falls Men's Golf Association President George Merritt (third from left) after Sunday's final round. From left, Duane Wubker, second in gross; Jim Blandford, gross winner with a two-day total of 142; Merritt; Ron Pope, net winner with a 118, and Weldon Hawkins, who finished second in the net division with a 127 total.

DAVE DRISCOLL holds up the clubs that gave him an unbelievable two holes-in-one during the same round at Blue Lakes Country Club Sunday. Driscoll tied the sixth hole with a nine in his first time around, then holed his tee shot on the third hole of his second nine with a wedge. "After 24 years of playing, I was due" laughed Driscoll.

2 Aces In 1 Round—Driscoll Did It!

Dave Driscoll, who in his own words "was due after playing golf 25 years" had a nothing less than spectacular round at Blue Lakes Country Club Sunday afternoon. Driscoll, son of Dudley Driscoll, 556 Pierce in Twin Falls, carded his first two holes-in-one within six holes of each other in the same 18!

Playing with pal Dick Snyder, Dick Sr., and his dad, Dave aced the sixth hole on his front nine, then teed off on his front three the second time around and to his amazement plunked it in there too.

Russians And Mexico Tie In Cup Tilt

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mexico and the Soviet Union battled to a scoreless tie Sunday in the opening match of the ninth World Cup soccer championships.

There was too much tension about the play of both teams and neither was able to impose its will in mid-field. Generally, defenses were on top.

The result was the same as the 1966 series opener in London when England and Uruguay played 90 minutes of fruitless football.

The Mexicans had sufficient chances to have wrapped the game in the opening half. Horacio Lopez missed three great chances in the first half and another in the second. When the Mexicans were on target they found Russian goalkeeper Anzor Kavazashvili razor sharp on defense.

A capacity crowd of 107,000 fans, including President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, watched the game under a blazing sun.

Mexico goalkeeper Ignacio Calderon did what was asked of him, while Gustavo Penn was a rock in defense.

In mid-field Mario Perez and Guillermo Hernandez performed a vast amount of work without achieving anything concrete.

The forwards were ineffective, and were guilty of hurried and wild shooting and inaccurate passing.

For Russia Kakhi Azatiani was a non-stop punter, while Albert Shastrelava played a captain's role in bolstering a slow and frayed defense.

Chicago Drops Boston 22-13, Gets 24 Hits

BOSTON (UPI)—Luis Aparicio and Walt Williams each had five of Chicago's 24 hits Sunday, while leading the White Sox to a 22-13 romp over the Boston Red Sox as the two teams set a flock of seasonal highs for American League teams and narrowly missed an all-time scoring record.

The two-team run and hit total of 35 and 40 were seasonal highs as were Chicago's scoring and batting totals off six Boston pitchers. The clubs fell one short of an all-time American League scoring total in a game of 38.

White Sox melon in four Bill Skilton with a single, double and homer while Carl Yastrzemski, whose two first-inning errors contributed to a six-run White Sox rally, hit a two-run homer and Mike Anderson a solo for the Red Sox.

Brewers 7, Tigers 6

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—A double by Ted Savage with one out in the ninth inning scored two runs and gave the Milwaukee Brewers a 7-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers Sunday.

The blow cleaned a Brewer rally in which they scored five runs in the final two innings to win.

Indians 3, A's 2

OAKLAND (UPI)—Ted Uhlendorf's ninth inning single Sunday scored Graig Nettles from second with the run that gave the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

Dick Ellsworth, who came out of the bullpen to squash an eighth inning threat by the A's, gained credit for the victory, his first decision of the year. Jim Hunter went 8 1/3 innings and took the loss, his fifth compared to seven victories.

Ellsworth was the fourth of five pitchers the Indians used and he came on in the eighth with the bases loaded and one out. He faced just one batter, pinchhitter Tito Francona, and induced him to hit into an inning-ending double play.

Kaline Released From Hospital After Collision

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Detroit outfielder Al Kaline was released from Lutheran Hospital Sunday after suffering minor injuries Saturday night in a collision with teammate Jim Northrup.

Manager Mayo Smith said Kaline would be available to play but withheld him from the lineup in the Sunday game against the Milwaukee Brewers.

He suffered a sore jaw and a small bruise on the inside of his left knee.

The collision occurred in the first inning of Saturday night's game and it also caught the eye of Robert Penn to fall in for an inside-the-park grand slam home run. Northrup was dazed after the collision but stayed in the game. Kaline was carried from the field on a stretcher.

Miss Englehorn parred the first playoff hole Sunday to beat Margie Masters by a stroke in the $15,000 O'Sullivan Ladies Open golf tournament.

The two women finished the 18 holes deadlocked at 210, six under par, to face the playoff.

Miss Englehorn, twice a runner-up in this tournament, won her first O'Sullivan crown with a three on the first sudden-death hole. Miss Masters, after making up a stroke on the back nine to force the tie, took a birdie behind a tree on the hole and ended up in a sand-trap on her second shot.

Her third shot barely made the green and she picked up after Miss Englehorn parred the hole.

Washington 6, Royals 5

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Luis Alcaraz and pinch-hitter Bob Taylor belted run-scoring eighth-inning doubles Sunday that brought the Kansas City Royals a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators.

With the Royals trailing, 5-4, Joe Knepp opened the winning at-bat with a single and scored all the way from first on Alcaraz's double into the right field corner. A single by Ellis Rodriguez moved Alcaraz to third and he scored easily on Taylor's two-bagger.

Frank Howard snapped a 4-4 tie in the seventh with his 15th homer of the year, a smacker over the fence in dead center field more than 410 feet from the plate off Tom Bergemeier.

The Senators had taken a 4-2 lead with a three-run fourth inning which featured pinch-hitter Casey Cox's two-run, bases-loaded single. Kansas City pulled even with two sixth-inning runs on singles by Jackie Hernandez, Amos Otis and Ed Kirkpatrick and a two-bagger by Alcaraz.

The Senators picked up an earned run in the first inning when Ed Stroud walked, took third on Hernandez' error.

Couch Shocked At Sawchuk's Death

NEW YORK (UPI)—Emilio Francis, coach and general manager of the New York Rangers, Sunday termed the death of Terry Sawchuk "a tragic and shocking loss to hockey in general and the Rangers in particular."

Francis said "Terry's playing record speaks for itself. He was one of the greatest goalies of all time. The entire Ranger family extends its sincerest condolences to Terry's family."

Sawchuk died at New York Hospital of cardiac arrest following extensive abdominal surgery.

Baptists Honor Church Founding

DENVER (UPI)—The Southern Baptist Convention, the nation's largest Protestant denomination, celebrates its 125th anniversary this week facing a possible demand that it ensure church agency for inviting a Playboy representative to a seminar.

More than 12,000 delegates representing 11.4 million church members are expected to attend a four-day annual meeting in the Denver convention center.

The official agenda includes adoption of a record $29.1 million budget, election of a new president, consideration of the denomination's two hospitals and several recommendations to improve church work with college students.

Several Baptist state newspapers have predicted some effort might be made from the floor to "slap the hands of the denomination's social action agency, the Christian Life Commission, for inviting a spokesman of Playboy magazine and an advocate of 'situation' ethics to speak at an April seminar in Atlanta, Ga.

Other Baptist publications have speculated that a resolution or motion might be introduced censoring the convention's Sunday School board for publishing a Bible commentary considered too liberal by some Southern Baptists.

There are six scheduled hours of miscellaneous business sessions during which any matter could be brought up from the floor.

The Rev. Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the 15,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas and current president of the convention, said recently he did not think the convention would even consider dissolving the Christian Life Commission because of the Atlanta seminar.

Air Force Increases Job Offers

The Air Force has increased openings in the mechanical, administrative, and electronics fields. It was announced today by Sgt. Bill Donnelly, local Air Force recruiter.

For the past year, he said, the Air Force has reduced its job openings by 50 per cent but they are now back to normal and there is no waiting list. He also said there were some vacancies in the 120-day enlistment program, which allows a person to enlist and not be called until a later date and in the job he chooses.

For further information about these programs, Sgt. Donnelly can be contacted at 733-1661 or at the recruiting station at 130 Second St. E., Twin Falls.

Nixon Aide Resigns Position

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon accepted "with regret" Saturday the resignation of Clark R. Mollenhoff, who has conducted controversial governmental investigations as a special White House counsel. The resignation is effective in mid-July.

The White House released an exchange of letters between the President and Mollenhoff, who said he was leaving with "some regret" his post as "presidential ombudsman" to become Washington bureau chief of the Des Moines Register and Tribune. He, succeeds the retiring Richard L. Wilson.

Both the White House and Mollenhoff said there was "absolutely no pressure" on the former newspaperman to resign.

He was appointed to the job on Aug. 18, 1969, as deputy counsel and elevated to the title of special counsel in December. Mollenhoff had access to FBI records and Internal Revenue Service tax records for his investigative work in the White House.

Mollenhoff aroused anger among senators in his staunch support to the nominations of federal judges Clement F. Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court. Both were defeated.

Mollenhoff conceded some time ago that he may have been "overly involved" in defending Haynsworth on his business dealings.

Some critics referred to his tactics as a "Mollenhoff cocktail." Mollenhoff once described his job as finding possible scandals in government before they become embarrassing.

Last April 14 he said he had been reviewing income tax returns and planned to review the returns of government people and private individuals with whom they were in contact.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said he learned that Mollenhoff had checked into the tax returns of nine persons.

"The work you have done has alerted us to many potential problem areas and has been important in demonstrating that good government can be good politics for any administration," Nixon wrote.

"I am sure that this experience has demonstrated to you that we are trying to come to grips to the great issues of our time, in an honest and forthright manner," the President continued.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that Mollenhoff's work "had just begun and will be carried on." He said it had not yet been decided whether a successor would be appointed or whether Mollenhoff's duties would be reassigned to another White House aide.
