Change

Twin Falls' Main Avenue turns back to a two-way street Monday after about 10 years of being a "one way only."

The change is another step in the city's new traffic pattern plan, but still leaves the city with two major one-way streets.

Second Avenue—North and East, which runs northward, and Second Avenue—South, and West, which runs southward.

BURLEY — State Republican Chairman Roland Wilbur, Lewiston, was retained in his post and Gov. Don Samuelson and Dick Smith, Rexburg, endorsed as gubernatorial candidates Saturday at closing sessions of the state Republican delegate assembly here.

The fight for the state chairman's post, which Mr. Wilbur retained by a vote of 104 to 146 over former state senator William C. Roden, Boise, provided the only real battle in the two-day meet.

Support had been indicated for Mr. Roden among Magic Valley delegates, and the outcome of the race appeared in doubt almost until the balloting began after lunch Saturday.

Any contest for endorsement of gubernatorial candidates faded Saturday afternoon when the potential third candidate, Edward T. Whittaker, Marsing, failed to get a single delegate vote.

The political newcomer, who is a teacher at Marsing, did not receive even a nominating speech after his name was put before the assembly by William J. Lanling, Hollister, chairman.

Gov. Samuelson received 29 delegates votes while Mr. Smith got 87, just 15 more than the 72 required for 20 per cent approval to place a name on the primary ballot.

There had been considerable attempt to endorse the gubernatorial candidates by acclamation and avoid a roll-call vote.

The 358 delegates heard Rep. James A. McClure Saturday morning and conducted voting on party officials and state candidates during the afternoon.

Candidates whose names will appear on the Aug. 4 primary ballot include Jack Murphy, Shoshone, lieutenant governor; Pete Canarrusa, Carey, secretary of state, and Robert Robson, attorney general.

There are no candidates for auditor and treasurer.

Only contest on the primary ballot other than for governor, will be for the superintendent of public instruction with Gilbert T. McKinley, Madison county clerk, and H. Louis Hooban both endorsed by the assembly.

Also endorsed routinely were Rep. McClure from the first district and Orval Hansen of the second district.

Mrs. Lauren McReynolds, Kellogg, was re-elected first vice chairman of the state committee, with Mrs. Canarrusa retained as secretary and Del Peters, Boise, named treasurer.

After the assembly concluded about 5 p.m. Saturday, the state central committee convened and re-elected Mrs. James Sinclair, Twin Falls, as second vice chairman.

Many of the GOP delegates then traveled to Oakley for the scheduled barbecue which had to be held in the Rainbow hall at Oakley instead of the City of Rocks. Rain and snow in the higher elevations Friday night made the route to the historic City of Rocks impassable, it was reported.

Republicans were urged by Cong. McClure during his address Saturday morning to take time and effort to communicate with youth and try to understand their problems.

He noted that while it may be the minority of young people talking, "Nevertheless they are being heard, beyond their numbers and are pointing out weaknesses in our society which we should note."

Three Democratic candidates for governor got the nod Saturday from delegates voting at the state convention in Twin Falls, meaning the names of Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuffin; Cecil Andrus, Boise, and Lloyd J. Walker, Twin Falls, all will be on the primary ballot.

Ravenscroft, now serving as state representative, polled the largest number of delegate votes, getting a total of 137. He received 107 in county polling and 30 in district voting.

Andrus, an unsuccessful candidate against Republican Gov. Don Samuelson in 1968, received 108 votes overall, with 53 of those votes cast by county delegates and 51 by district.

Walker, former state party chairman, received 66 votes, 50 by county and 16 by district. There were 309 votes cast in all, with a total of 61.8 needed to get a spot on the primary ballot.

The voting, which fell late in the day, was held in the convention center, the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

Following nomination of the three candidates supporters demonstrated at hand, balloons, banners and signs for their favorites. Bands of young people turned out to back their candidates.

Also nominated without opposition were candidates for other state offices: William J. Brauner, Caldwell, First District Congressman; Martin Everett Wells, Roberts, Second District Congressman; Paul Boyd, lieutenant governor; incumbent Joe R. Williams, state auditor; incumbent Marjorie Ruth Moon, state treasurer, and incumbent D.F. Engelsing, state superintendent of public instruction.

The State Democratic Assembly gave E.T. Walters another term as state party chairman Saturday, even though Walters has pledged he will resign the post the third Saturday in August.

Waters, who announced his decision to resign last month, said he feared anyone selected as state chairman at the state assembly "might well bear the label of one of our candidates."

Howard Humphrey, Boise, Ada County Central Committee chairman, also ran for the chairmanship and said he believed the election law called for selection of the chairman by the more than 300 persons at the assembly "rather than this much smaller attendance at the State Central Committee meeting in Boise."

Waters will present his resignation to the State Central Committee when it meets following the Aug. 4 primary to reorganize itself.

Humphrey told the delegates, "We aren't talking about a man who is going to be serving two years from now. We are talking about a shorter term."

But, he said, his candidacy was "in no way whatsoever an attack on Mr. Walters," and urged delegates not to vote for him if they believed it would have a divisive effect on the assembly.

Politics

He praised the work of Senator Church, saying that he (Church) made his decisions when the going was tough and when it would have been easy to jump on the bandwagon.

Returning to his discussion of President Nixon he charged him with shortchanging the American people in the field of education, producing no program for environment and having a faulty foreign policy.

"He (Mr. Nixon) has started to withdraw American troops very slowly but he has confused the people by his action in Southeast Asia. Congress must set a definite limit on our involvement in Southeast Asia," Rep. Foley said.

He said that Democrats must unify their party on the general outlines of where we want to go and "with all of our efforts we can achieve the wonderful ambitions our founding fathers dreamed of."

Entertainment was provided by the Twin Falls Percussion Group. Holly Houburg was master of ceremonies and Vincent Smazal, Twin Falls County Chairman, assisted.

In other nominations Joel Anderson, Pocatello, was nominated as the party candidate for the second congressional seat now held by Republican Orval Hansen.

A St. Anthony school teacher, A. Layne Blanchard was nominated to run as the candidate for superintendent of public instruction. The office is now held by Democratic incumbent D. F. Engelsing.

Fourth Of July Is First At Jarbidge

It'll be a hot time in Jarbidge, Nev., again this Fourth of July — in more ways than one.

"It's warm enough then nobody worries about a place to stay — they just crawl off into the willows and when they wake up, they crawl back out again," says Frank (Smitty) Smith, self-appointed booster of the annual summertime celebration.

The celebration begins on Friday the 3rd and continues "until everybody gets tired."

"Jarbidge Booms Again" is the theme of this year's celebration in the "liveliest ghost town in the world." The small Nevada town was once the scene of a big gold boom, 60 years ago, and for the past several summers, the town's population on the Fourth of July weekend has risen by the hundreds.

Last year "Smitty" and his wife, June, who also is chief cook and bottle washer for the celebration, reported about 400 people jammed into the community on the Fourth.

There are no hotels there, but lots of campgrounds and two saloons — "and Moe the bartender at the Outdoor Inn and the Hunter's Lodge, formerly the Jarbidge Club."

There also is the Jarbidge Cafe operated by Smitty and June. A big barbecue, at a "break-even price that is so low it scares people," will be served on the Fourth at the Jarbidge Cafe.

Last year June prepared a wash tub full of macaroni salad, a copper boiler full of beans, stacks of her famous sourdough rolls and Smitty did the honors on a myth. When everyone's got done, Smitty said there wasn't enough food left to fill both hands.

People who lived in Jarbidge 40 years ago came back last year for the celebration — people who remember the real Jarbidge boom days, a school teacher at an early-day school, among others. There were people of all ages among the 400 — little kids to pioneers of the area.

Jarbidge can be reached by going to Rogerson and turning west. "Just follow the road and you can't miss it," says Smitty.

The fishing will be good and as an added attraction there will be a dance, with live music, in the Jarbidge Community Hall on Saturday night. The barbecue will be served from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

JARBIDGE, NEV., is the place where the day after the Fourth of July used to be July 10. This little Northern Nevada mountain town used to be famous for its rip-snorting July 4 celebrations that used to last until nobody had the energy to go any longer. The celebrations, or at least a modified version, have been revived in the last couple of years, and the "liveliest ghost town in the West" is preparing for another big whing-ding this July 4. The scene above is a photograph taken in Jarbidge on July 4, 1917. The Nevada boom, at last, no longer stands in the town. Current residents say a bootlegger used to have a still next door to it, and the still exploded and burned down the hotel.

Soviets Vote Today, But Ballot Is Restricted

MOSCOW (UPI)—About 160 million Soviet citizens will vote Sunday to elect representatives to the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Union's highest legislative body.

Elections to the bicameral body are held every four years with the makeup of one house determined by population and the other based on nationalities.

This year 750 representatives will be elected to the Union Council, or one per 300,000 persons, and 703 will be sent to the Nationalities Council, representing the more than 100 nationalities living in the Union.

Each chamber has equal rights. There is only one candidate for each spot so that the voters, men and women who have reached their 16th birthday, have the simple choice of either approving the one candidate or scratching the ballot to express objection.

It is impossible to vote for anyone who has not been officially nominated and approved by the state-appointed electoral commission.

The elections are preceded by an intensive propaganda campaign involving grassroots contacts between the candidates and the voters.

Everyone who is anybody in the Soviet Union—from the 11 members of the ruling party Politburo to milkmaids and coal miners—is a candidate and makes at least one speech to his constituency.

Since the party controls the nominations and elections and the result is a foregone conclusion, why go the trouble and expense of having an elaborate pre-election campaign which superficially somewhat resembles those of the West?

The campaign actually serves two purposes:

—To give the population a sense of participation in government by means of publicizing current issues and personal contact with the candidate.

—To serve as a kind of referendum on the party's policies. Any serious discontent could be expressed by spilling the ballot which could be done since the voting is secret.

Population Has Real Explosion

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Population experts concerned about the population explosion would have had the jitters if they were watching St. Joseph hospital in suburban Kirkwood this week.

Three sets of twins were born in a seven-hour period at the hospital. A hospital spokesman said the rate of twins is usually about 10 sets a year.

Flag Day

The Flag of the United States means something different to each of us. It often evokes some special memory, something which touched us deeply, perhaps fleetingly or in a still, solemn moment never to be forgotten.

But, although it means a lot to most, there are still some who knowingly fail to display the Flag as it should be displayed. This situation was noted right here in Twin Falls on Memorial Day.

In some cases the Flag was displayed at full-staff the entire day. It is supposed to fly at half-staff until noon and then full-staff the balance of the day. In other cases it was displayed at half-staff all day. Again, it should have been there until noon and then should have been at the top of the pole.

This situation, of course, cannot be followed with small "home" type flags or those which are put along downtown streets.

But the lack of knowledge in how to display — and show respect — for the Flag was noticeable on several business buildings and on at least two Government buildings on Memorial Day.

Officials of the local post of the American Legion and local Boy Scouts were quick in observing that the Flag was not being displayed as it should have been. After talking with the American Legion heads and the Boy Scouts we can say that anyone not familiar with display of the Flag can get full particulars of just what to do and when to do it by contacting someone in either of the organizations mentioned.

So much for pointing out that in some instances, even in Twin Falls, proper respect is not being shown the Flag.

Today is Flag Day and we point out that the Flag of the United States represents the greatest cause ever undertaken by mortal man, a cause to which mankind must continue to rally if the lofty concept of individual dignity is to be universally attained and preserved.

Display of the Flag is a privilege. It is an act which reaffirms our basic freedom of choice. Today marks the 133rd anniversary of the adoption of the first Flag of our country.

Fly the Flag with pride and gratitude. Fly it to affirm your desire that our Nation shall remain strong and true to her lofty purpose. Fly it in memory of victories won.

But, above all, fly it to mark the point to which men shall rally to fight on, whether with blades and shot to meet a godless aggressor or with minds and hearts to meet the spiritual and physical challenges which also threaten our very existence.

Today is Flag Day. Let Old Glory Wave!

WASHINGTON — With the George Wallace primary out of the way, Nixon administration lawyers now in charge of Deep South school desegregation are finally primed — perhaps too late — for a fast all-out drive with a statewide court suit almost certain to be filed against Mississippi.

for governor before moving in the courts. And the cost of such reasoning may be an autumn turmoil in the public schools of the Deep South.

Assistant Att. Gen. Jerris Leonard and Robert Mardian, staff chief of Vice President Spiro Agnew's Cabinet-level committee on school desegregation, on leave as HEW general counsel, have been hoping against hope that voluntary compliance would obviate the threatened statewide suits.

is impossible to claim that segregation is de facto — based on housing patterns and thereby legally permissible. The performance of Leonard and Mardian has been creditable, helped tremendously by local Republican leaders who have argued with school officials that a voluntary compliance desegregation plan acceptable to the Nixon administration won't be nearly so harsh as a court-ordered plan.

have taken a dangerous gamble in waiting this long to bring legal action. That's because in September, when the schools open, some holdout districts may still not have final court approval of their desegregation plans.

ANDREW TULLY Margaret Speaks

WASHINGTON — The importance of being Sen. Margaret Chase Smith is considerable. She speaks for the communal grace which is called civilization.

the campus has been made a rendezvous for obscenity, for trespass, for violence, for arson and for killing.

Mrs. Smith is only incidentally a Republican and a State-of-Mainer. She is a citizen of the world of good manners. She has always been both dainty and genteel, but she keeps reminding us that the possession of class need not proscribe toughness.

But perhaps most important of all, Mrs. Smith reminded us that this is still a nation of laws, not of men. Not of men, whether they represent anarchy or repression.

While the wild-eyed exhibitionists of the Women's Liberation Movement endorse prostitution, and other silly women bleed publicly and uncohesively for the foul-mouthed wreckers of the under-

And, in plain, simple English, she stated the hard fact of American historical life. For those growup rabbits who insist on "understanding" the excesses of militant youth, she issued the warning that the extremism of the "anti-democratic" political extreme left — Margaret Chase Smith, thank heaven, is a throwback to Margaret Chase Smith. In her speech, as all through her life, she refused to accept the fashionable premise that dirty words, arson and intimidation are the answer to the untidy house in which we live.

democratic political extreme left" confronted the country with a choice between "anarchy and repression." Given such a choice, she said, "the American people, even with reluctance and misgiving, will choose repression — because repression is preferable to anarchy and nihilism to most Americans."

— A New York brokerage house was convicted of violating Federal Reserve margin regulations for stock purchases by arranging for employees and customers to trade $20 million worth of securities through numbered Swiss accounts.

Then, because Mrs. Smith is her own woman, she rapped the knuckles of the Nixon administration. While praising the "candid and justified defense of our government" by administration spokesmen, she added that "some of the defense has been too extreme and unfair and too repetitive." Spiro Agnew, no fool, can add to his education by heeding the words of this former school teacher.

— Proceeds from the sale of $950,000 worth of heroin, shipped into the United States by two convicted narcotics traffickers, were shown to have been transmitted through New York to numbered bank accounts in Switzerland.

Partners

Americans of the past struggled long and hard to earn the place in the sun this country now enjoys.

Too many Americans of today regard their high standard of living, their cars, their fine homes and their stocks and bonds as inalienable rights. They forget that Americans of the past did not always have luxuries, that they got them through thrift, hard work and good common sense.

Americans of today have inherited their good times. They are deluded into believing that prosperity feeds on itself, that it spawns ease and contentment and all the other good things of life. The truth is that hard work, self-discipline, and feet planted solidly on the ground are the accompaniments of the good life.

discipline, and feet planted solidly on the ground are the accompaniments of the good life.

Our fathers and our fathers' fathers knew this, but the trouble is that they passed along the fruits of their labors and not always the spirit which made this country great. Americans expect too much for nothing.

It's about time they quit expecting shorter hours of work, higher wages, and all the luxuries of life to be served to them on an endless row of silver platters.

Laziness and prosperity have always been uneasy partners, but hard work and prosperity have looked good together from the beginning of time.

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH

The Swiss Accounts

WASHINGTON — Anonymously numbered Swiss bank accounts, financial key to a thousand mystery novels and spy thrillers, are coming under intense congressional scrutiny as a real-life adjunct to organized crime.

court action, two St. Louis businessmen were convicted in a $1 million fraud involving a U.S.- Navy rocket-launcher contract. With the help of Swiss bank employees, payments to dummy subcontractors were paid into Swiss bank accounts.

shipped into the United States by two convicted narcotics traffickers, were shown to have been transmitted through New York to numbered bank accounts in Switzerland.

Unlike many of the crime inquiries, widely publicized in the House and Senate, this one may produce quick legislative action. A Senate Banking subcommittee is beginning hearings this week on a bill, already passed by the House, which would curb use in the United States of secret bank accounts in Switzerland and other nations which shelter them.

The action may be militarily suicidal. It may result in a great sacrifice of junior leaders and agents Hanoi cannot afford to lose.

The Tet attacks failed in Vietnam. The Communists lost so many of their leadership cadre they have not yet recovered in wide areas of the south. In these attacks, too, the Communists lost their reputation for invincibility. Both militarily and politically in Vietnam, Tet was a disaster for Hanoi.

The House-approved bill is being touted as a blow against white-collar crime. That means not only illegal financial dealings by unscrupulous businessmen but also the financing of such on-the-street criminal operations as narcotics traffic by maintained and scented crime syndicate bosses.

But it will be designed to convince men and women in the United States and South Vietnam that continuing the war is purposeless.

The Tet attacks of early 1968 were an example of this strategy.

Law enforcement agents, in the course of an investigation, could get access to those records by subpoena, warrant, or other appropriate due-process procedure.

They followed (after the normal Hanoi hiatus for planning) a series of U.S.-South Vietnamese attacks similar to those now being made in Cambodia.

The Tet attacks succeeded only in the United States — psychologically. Leading American newspapers still refer to the Communist Tet "victories" and look with some contempt on those who call Tet a Communist defeat.

Robert Morgenthau, the former U.S. Attorney in New York, who testified in the current Senate hearings, has estimated that the United States is losing hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes which go unpaid because of secret accounts in Switzerland.

These allied attacks were aimed at the supply headquarter complexes the North Vietnamese and VC had built up in the Iron Triangle and adjacent South-Vietnamese areas.

Their American victory, of course, was not lost on the Communists. It led to an end of the bombing of North Vietnam, to an American president deciding not to run, to American troop withdrawals, to dissonance in the United States.

The measure is designed to illuminate the use of secret accounts by Americans through record keeping.

In that day, these were the equivalent of the Cambodian bases. Out of these havens the Communists staged repeated forays in the areas north and south of Saigon.

What then will Hanoi attempt?

Some Pollution!

SOME POLLUTION! What with all the yelling about pollution, Mr. Spectator would like to make a suggestion.

Why permit people to light campfires in National forests, in wilderness areas or in National parks?

There must be millions of them lit each camping season and the smoke from them must be a big thing in air pollution. So how about making it unlawful to start a fire when out in the woods?

Of course, there's the habit of burning leaves and stuff every autumn but that's a few months off and we just don't want to be against too much at one time.

You know, now that we have thought it over, our suggestion about campfires is sort of silly, isn't it? But perhaps not as silly as some other suggestions since everyone and his dog has jumped on the pollution bandwagon!

system went off. A secret service agent said, "Someone's wearing a gun!" But there was no gun.

Only a weight-reducing belt worn by a red-faced man, who just happened to be the one being sworn in.

WAR NEWS COST

One of the unexpected developments of the Cambodian campaign has been the loss, through capture and possibly death, in such a short time of so many newsmen.

The struggle in Indochina has drawn comment, and some criticism, as the most thoroughly reported war in history.

The recent incidents are a reminder that the cost of bringing conflict so vividly into home-front living rooms can be tragically high.

Recreation Plans Outlined At Buhl

BUHL: Councilman Dick Thornetz and Bob Bailey of the Buhl Recreation Association have outlined the proposed plans of the recreation committee which include year round recreational activities. The members met with Dr. R. P. Fasinolo, associate professor of architecture at Idaho State University, to discuss the possibility of a recreation planning study being done for Buhl. Each year the architecture department picks two planning projects in order to put fifth year students into an actual planning situation.

Bailey also requested permission to install two additional horseshoe courts in Eastman park near the present pits. He said a Sagebrush days tournament would be held during the July fourth holiday and the second annual Buhl Open tournament in singles and doubles would also be held at Eastman park in July.

In other business the council: — Announced the strict enforcement of city ordinances regarding weed control on private property within the city limits. The revised city code places full responsibility in the control of weeds on the owner of the property. Mayor Myron Thompson noted that written notices will be sent to property owners in violation and they will be given a 10 day time limit to comply with the ordinance.

Heard a request for city water and sewer service on six and six-tenths acres of land recently purchased by Paul Alexander. The property located between Paysee and Condensary roads is now outside the city limits and Alexander asked for incorporation into the city limits as a part of his plan to develop a new mobile park in the area. The park will include a recreation center and laundry building in addition to the mobile home units. He advised the permanent installation of electric power and telephone lines will be underground. The council assured him that the area could be annexed and zoned for a mobile park.

— Took under advisement a request from Judge John Pearce, Buhl police judge and justice of peace, for additional clerical help to handle the present load of citations.

— Initiated plans to fly the American flag regularly on the flagpole at Eastman park. Dale Christensen, former council member and American Legion member, noted that some criticism had been leveled for failure to provide the flag in the city's park.

Visited to mark Main and Broadway intersection lanes on Broadway for right turn only on the far right side. A request to widen the turn at the intersection of Eighth Ave. No. and Sawtooth Boulevard was turned down.

Connie Carson, Kala Martens and Debra Hutchinson, Buhl high school Girl's State representatives, were guests at the meeting.

"Sheltered Workshop" Program To Be Operated By Child Development Center In Twin Falls

The Child Development Center of Twin Falls soon will enter an entirely new phase of help for the needy, with creation of a "sheltered workshop" for persons of all ages who are mentally or physically handicapped.

A $6,000 grant from the Vocational Rehabilitation Service, an agency of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has been received by the Child Development Center. Paul Burnett, director, said he had applied for the grant some time ago.

The initial grant will be used to conduct preliminary studies into the need for the sheltered workshop. Including the number of people needing the assistance and the type of help most needed.

The Child Development Center is in the throes of moving into its new building on Harrison Street, near the College of Southern Idaho, and will be operating in the new quarters within a week or two, Mr. Burnett said. The new building still has no windows — vandals smashed all the glass, both that which had been installed and glass yet to be put in place, and new glass has not yet arrived, he said.

The Child Development Center serves eight Myrtle Valley counties — Twin Falls, Cassia, Minidoka, Blaine, Lincoln, Jerome, Gooding and Camas.

The sheltered workshop program should be in operation within a year, after initial studies are completed, Mr. Burnett said.

RAY ROSTRON, MANAGER of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, inspects the Carolina Paper Box Co. plant, now under construction in the industrial park off of Eastland Drive South, east of Twin Falls. The Carolina Paper Box Co. will manufacture high-quality point-of-sale packaging cartons for a wide variety of customers.

Twin Falls Industrial Park Is Busy Location These Days

There's plenty of action these days in the Twin Falls industrial development corporation "park" east of town near the sugar plant.

A recent tour of the site with Harold Hove, corporation president, and Ray Rostron, secretary, pointed to a continuing growth of the area, indicating that Twin Falls as a whole is growing steadily.

The Gallatin Valley Seed Co., with general offices at 167 Eastland Dr. S., is constructing a 14,400 square foot addition for processing and storage of bean and pea seed, and adding a dust-control facility to eliminate air pollution.

And the Carolina Paper Box Co. plant is well under way, with much of the steel work erected and the cement floor poured. The Carolina Paper Box plant is located off of Eastland Drive to the east of Gallatin Valley Seed.

There's no road as such built to the box plant yet, but Mr. Hove said the development corporation will "have to build one soon."

The corporation originally had 70 acres for industrial expansion, and has about 43 acres left. They have had some nibbles from other industrial concerns, but nothing definite enough to talk about, Mr. Hove said.

Gallatin Valley Seed is a deceptively small-appearing company from the outside, with a relatively tiny office backed by a warehouse. But their business stretches almost around the world, according to Bill Albers, assistant manager.

Gallatin Valley Seed, one of the newer industries, located in the Twin Falls area about two and one-half years ago, serves as a type of middleman for the food-processing industry, in providing seed for their crops. Gallatin Valley contracts with area growers to produce crops of the desired type of peas and beans for seed. The crops are processed at the firm's facility, with dirt and weeds separated from the seed, and the seed is treated with insecticide.

The seed is stored in a warehouse capable of holding "several million pounds," Mr. Albers said. He declined for business reasons to reveal the exact capacity of their warehouse, or their total annual volume of production.

When needed by a food processor, the seed is transported by truck or ocean-going ship to the buyer, who plants the seed to grow his own crop for food processing.

"Our beans aren't the edible kind; they're what you might call vegetable seeds, meant for planting only," Mr. Albers said in clarifying the business.

The firm sells seed all over the United States, and ships seed to firms in Australia, New Zealand, Great Britain and Western Europe. The dry summers of the Twin Falls area are ideal for growing the particular type of bean seed needed by many food processors, Mr. Albers explained.

The firm's president, H.B. Schlagenhauf, is traveling in Western Europe at the present time, attending a convention of seedsmen and contacting buyers, Mr. Albers said.

The new expansion at Gallatin Valley Seed is required by the recent consolidation of their Filer processing facility with the Twin Falls concern. The Filer processing station was phased out and combined so that all processing is done in one area.

The firm is also constructing a dust-control facility, which will serve to collect dirt and dust formerly exhausted into the air. The debris will be collected, compacted, and trucked to a disposal site, Mr. Albers said.

Gallatin Valley's processing is largely automated, with a seasonal peak of 28 to 30 persons handling all the work of processing the large volume of seed required by their buyers.

In another phase of the firm's expansion, their processing equipment is being overhauled to allow simultaneous treatment of bean and pea seed, and to expand the daily volume, Mr. Albers said.

Who Wants To Collect Air Travel Insurance?

WASHINGTON (UPI) Being a downtrodden consumer, I commend Sen. Philip A. Hart for the many battles he has waged for consumer causes.

But as an occasional air traveler, I can only conclude that Hart's latest pro-consumer crusade will spark some opposition within the very group he seeks to protect.

In calling for an antitrust investigation of the air travel insurance industry, the Michigan Democrat reported that these companies pay out in benefits only 26 cents of each dollar collected.

That was the wrong thing to say if he was trying to rally public support for his proposal. Although Hart apparently intended his statement to be critical of the industry, to me it sounded like wonderful news. The less those companies pay out in benefits, the better I like it.

Anytime I take out an air trip insurance policy, I want the company to keep 100 cents out of each dollar collected.

There are, as I see it, only two ways to increase the payout percentage: 1) The insurance companies reducing their premiums, and 2) The airlines having more crashes.

That really is not a very wide range of choice.

I fully realize that the companies are socking it to me each time I buy a policy. But I like it that way. When I step aboard an airliner, I get some comfort out of knowing that their payout rate is so low.

Hart seems not to realize that we downtrodden consumers look upon air travel insurance as different from other types of insurance.

Other types of insurance we buy out of prudence. But air travel insurance we buy out of panic. And there's a feeling of security in being a long-shot.

In other words, when I buy air trip insurance, I don't want my policy to be a good investment for me or my beneficiaries. I want it to be a good deal for the insurance company.

As for the antitrust aspect, let us suppose that some company began selling cut-rate insurance. Under ordinary circumstances, that might give it a competitive advantage. In this situation, however, it probably would lose business.

Suppose word got out that the company was paying out 76 cents of each dollar collected. You wouldn't catch me bucking odds like that and I'd guess that many other airline passengers would feel the same way.

Police Report Details About "Tarring" Incident In T.F.

Tim Qualls, captain of detectives of the Twin Falls Police Department, has released information which detectives of the force have gathered this week on the James W. Lucas case.

Mr. Lucas, 28, was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital early Monday after he wandered into a farm home near the scene of a minor automobile accident. His body was partially covered with roofing tar and he was clad only in shorts. He remains hospitalized and is in fair condition, suffering from a skull fracture.

Capt. Qualls said the detective division has evidence that Mr. Lucas, in a state of intoxication, went through his second story hotel window onto the roof of an adjoining building.

He then traveled to the roof of the next building, where his trousers and boots were found. A five gallon bucket partially filled with tar used to patch roofs also was found. The bucket, Capt. Qualls said, had been left on the roof by workmen.

He said tar was found inside the boots and pants. Partial latent finger and palm prints belonging to Mr. Lucas were found on the hotel room curtains. These, Capt. Qualls said, were left as Mr. Lucas reentered his room.

Capt. Qualls interviewed Mr. Lucas Thursday afternoon in his room at the hospital. From this interview it was learned Mr. Lucas went to the roof to get some fresh air and that he was alone. He then left the hotel by a rear stairway.

Partial latent prints, identified as belonging to Mr. Lucas, also were found in the wrecked car. There also was a considerable amount of tar in the front seat of the car on the driver's side.

Investigation showed there was no other person present in the vehicle. Contrary to previous reports and rumors,

Capt. Qualls said, there is no evidence to indicate Mr. Lucas was the victim of a beating. He also said the tar which was on Mr. Lucas' body covered his feet up past his ankles, his hands up past his wrists and a strip around his midsection.

Elmore Farmer To Seek County Post

GLENN FERRY — R. Ray Fisher, Mountain Home farmer and stockman, announced his candidacy for county commissioner from District No. 3 on the Republican ticket this week.

Mr. Fisher is well known in the county having lived there since 1927. He attended the Mountain Home schools and has been active in conservation work.

He has been a member of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee for 10 years and has been elected chairman for the past eight. His work in this area has received statewide attention.

He says that high property taxes are one of his major concerns. He feels the answer lies in either broadening the tax base available to the counties, or some type of county and school participation in the state income or sales tax which would in turn give relief to the overburdened property owner.

In Vietnam

GLENN FERRY — U.S. Air Force Sgt. Edward R. Clements, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Larsen, is presently on duty at Ban Me Thout AFB in Vietnam.

Clements, an air traffic controller, is assigned to a unit of the Air Force Communications Service which provides global communications and air traffic control for the Air Force. He previously served at Hamilton AFB, Calif., and was a '68 graduate of Idaho Falls High School.

Area Girl Takes Job In Rupert

GLENN FERRY — Karen Anderson, daughter of the D. D. Andersons, has a summer job at the Rupert, Minidoka County Probate Court as probation officer where she will counsel youthful offenders.

A sister, Lenora Anderson, is working at the 4-H Club Congress in Moscow and will be here for a home visit before going to Carmel, Calif., as counselor at a Ranch Camp.

Another Glenns Ferry girl, Shawn Uhl, daughter of the R. W. Uhl, is home now from the College of Idaho at Caldwell, waiting for July 6 when she flies from New York City to London for her summer job as a secretary. The "Eurojob" program arranges for jobs for the students, living accommodations, and two weeks of tours in Western European countries. The group will return Sept. 8.

She has been working this week at the migrant children's summer school in Glenns Ferry as an assistant to Mrs. Evelyn Ullman, teacher.

Feasibility Report On Salmon Falls Project Is Okayed, Congress May Schedule Hearings

BURLEY — Sen. Len B. Jordan and Rep. Orval Hansen said Saturday they have been advised the Bureau of the Budget has cleared the feasibility report for the Salmon Falls Division Reclamation development south of Twin Falls.

Administration clearance of the report for transmission to Congress makes it possible for congressional Interior committees to schedule public hearings on the $47.2 million reclamation project, said the Idaho delegates.

Bills to authorize the Salmon Falls Division project were introduced last month by the combined Idaho delegation and Sen. Jordan and Cong. Hansen wrote administration officials, urging clearance of the feasibility report then under review by the Department of the Interior.

They said today's action makes it possible to hold hearings on the legislation this year. They expressed hope that the authorizing bill can be enacted this session because the people in that water-short area have waited long for development.

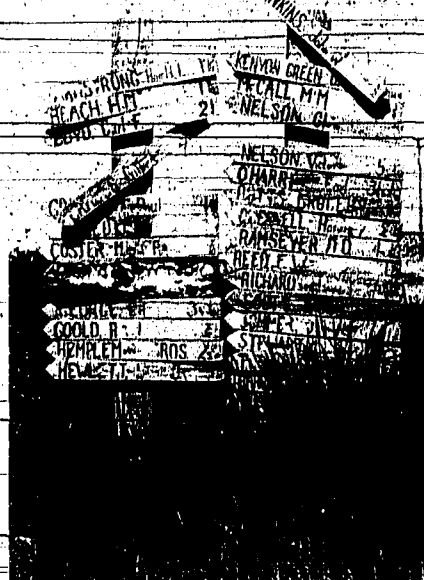

However, much depends on how long congress remains in session, the two said.

The Idaho congressional delegation is united behind this legislation and will do all possible to expedite it, they said.

The Salmon Falls Division project will supply additional water to nearly 50,000 acres of irrigated land and 14,000 acres of dry land in a fertile area south of Twin Falls. The present supplies of the Salmon River Canal Co. would be augmented by additional surface supply from the Snake River and a tributary.

During extremely low river flow, irrigation needs will be filled through exchange agreements involving the development of ground water sources.

Major engineering features include a pumping plant on the existing Miller Dam on the Snake River and water carriage distribution facilities.

WITH THE TOURIST season under way rural signs in the South park area south of Twin Falls may cause some confusion. If one believes the signs literally, John W. Jenkins may have moved to higher altitude, while Mr. Gilbert's whereabouts may have sunk to a lower level. This system of directional signs for rural residents was a Grange project several years ago.

Workshop Set Soon In Burley

BURLEY — A two-day workshop to discuss municipal problems in the Burley area is scheduled for July 20-21, sponsored by the Community Action Program.

A report of the study made by a team from the Idaho State University of 17 Idaho communities will be major topic of discussion at the local meeting. Education and law enforcement were pinpointed in the report as the two largest problems in the Burley area.

Officials said both city and county planning committee members will be attending the workshop and citizens will have an opportunity to study the problems, compare them with other communities of similar size and try to find methods of solving them.

Paul Kelly, community development specialist, reported on the findings of the study, made last summer, to a meeting this week at the Idaho Bank and Trust Conference room.

The study was made by a team of university psychologists, economists and sociologists with the objective of developing an action program for the 17 communities involved.

Members of the survey team were William Shields, instructor of sociology; Herbert Lingren, assistant professor of sociology; and Victor Hjelm, professor of government. They conferred with members of the local county commissioners, city council, planning and zoning commission and other citizens.

Snake River Trout Co. Sold To New York Firm

BUHL — Sale of the Snake River Trout Farm for three-quarters of a million dollars to the Inmont Corp., New York has been disclosed.

Robert Erkins, who had controlling interest in the firm, announced the $750,000 sale to the New York firm in a letter to the 14 stockholders, it was learned here Friday.

He said he and Mrs. Erkins have sold all their interests in the Snake River Trout Co., as well as most of their interests in trout farming ventures at Idaho Springs near Hagerman; Pappoose Springs, Pocatello, and the Two Bees Feed-Co., Wendell.

The cash contract was finalized May 25, the letter disclosed. Sale of the other trout companies will be by similar agreement, but payment will be deferred and part of it will be in Inmont stock instead of cash.

Inmont firm is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and is a manufacturer of industrial paints, printing inks, textile colors and related products. In recent years it has entered the business of growing oysters and has a broad interest in the aquaculture field.

Trout farming is a natural extension of these interests, Mr. Erkins has informed the stockholders, some of whom live out of state.

The Snake River Trout farm, which has received national publicity as the largest trout farm in the world, ships fresh frozen trout throughout the country as well as abroad.

About 50 persons are employed there and it was indicated that no change in management is anticipated, at least for several years. Mr. Erkins was in New York City, it was reported Saturday.

Car Turnover Is Fatal For Rupert Youth, 18

RUPERT — A Rupert youth, Joe Dale Weston, was pronounced dead on arrival at Minidoka Memorial Hospital here Friday night after a one-car accident on Highway 24 at 800 North.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Jarvis said three other youths riding in the car were injured, one seriously. Allen Homer, 19, Rupert, was listed in critical condition Saturday at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Treated for minor injuries were Debra Crosby, 15, and Jerry Emry, 19, both Rupert.

Deputy Jarvis said the Weston youth lost control of his 1955 Chevrolet during an extremely heavy rainstorm and the vehicle slid off the road, and rolled several times.

All the occupants were thrown out except the Homer boy.

Officers were notified of the accident at 8:15 p. m. by Warren King who lives in the vicinity, 14 miles northeast of Rupert.

This is the 27th traffic fatality this year in Magic Valley and the eighth for Minidoka county.

The last auto death in the county occurred May 16 when Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hill, Heyburn, were fatally injured in a two-car collision on a canal bridge on State Highway 24 miles northeast of Rupert.

Cold, Rain Bring Problems To Farm

The unusually long spell of rainy and cold weather not only annoys city dwellers and spoils plans for outings, but is posing economic loss for farmers.

Marshall LeBaron of the Branch Experiment station at Kimberly noted Saturday that bean growers must expect some problems with bean stands and plant vigor because of the inclement weather. Because air and soil temperatures are below normal for mid-June, and stress is put on the plants and this will produce yellow or light colored plants which may lose leaves or show necrotic areas within the leaves which will brown and die.

Add to this the problems associated with the rain and wet soils and one can easily understand how the bean plant must struggle to exist, the official said.

He said the rain has settled the soil around the plants and interferes with the emergence in many cases. Delayed emergence increases the possibility of stem rot due to rotting of the seeds in the soil, he explained.

Warm weather and cultivation to open the soil will make the bean plants look normal again. There is little farmers can do at this time to assist his crop, but he must be ready to irrigate and cultivate if necessary when the weather improves, Mr. LeBaron said.

City gardeners, who also have noted slow emergence of seeds and bulbs this spring, also might take note of these problems.

Burley Man Not Hurt In Mishap

BURLEY — Bill Estes, 31, Burley, escaped injury when his 1969 Chevrolet pickup truck overturned and was demolished Thursday night one and one-half miles north of Declo on a county road.

Cassia county sheriff's officers reported Mr. Estes was traveling south and told them he hit his brakes to avoid hitting the rear of a vehicle in front of him. He turned his wheels toward the side of the road, and lost control of the truck which traveled into the borrowpit and overturned, coming to rest on its side.

Bellevue Rejects State Claim

BELLEVUE — Bellevue city officials have rejected the state tax commission's contention that the original city charter of 1882 was amended in 1889, changing the corporate limits of the city.

The tax commission contends that an amendment was made in 1889 which greatly reduced the area within the city limits from the original limits: six blocks description of an area measuring one mile wide and two miles long, bordered by the Big Wood River on the west and the LookOut Mountain on the east.

A map is included in the original charter. Mrs. Anna Eays O'Donnell, city clerk told the Times-News Friday she has been unable to find any old city records that verify the amendment contention made by the tax commission. Research, however, has disclosed that no part of the city limits was ever recorded when Bellevue was the county seat of Blaine county, and none is recorded showing the 1882 corporate limits in the present Blaine county courthouse in Hailey.

Bellevue is the only remaining charter city in the state.

The problem is being researched by a state level by attorney Steve Boller.

The council also acted on a recommendation by Mayor Charles Wright to raise city employee wages from $1.65 per hour to $1.75. The raise covers those employees in the city maintenance department. Bids for gravel were also discussed, with Mike Tels Construction Co. being awarded the contract to supply the city 1,200 tons of gravel, delivered and piled at $1.75 a ton.

Mr. Boller was requested to prepare a junk auto ordinance for the community and have watering days every other week. Residents living on 1st Street will have to pay for those watered streets.

Cowboys Begin Spring Drills Monday

Manager, Coaches Are Scheduled To Arrive On Sunday

By LARRY HOVEY

Times-News Sports Editor
A clinic in the effort to revamp the Idaho Fish and Game Department through dismissal of commissioners and department hierarchy has appeared with recent attacks on Governor Don Samuelson for failure to fulfill campaign promises of doing just that.

For the matter of argument, one could say the opposition has fractionalized into a radical and moderate group, although each is seeking the same basic conclusion.

What the more radical group, which wants the "torpedoes be damned" approach, doesn't understand is that Governor Samuelson has found the department and commission has more friends than they ever dreamed of. This is not an unlikely circumstance, particularly in such an emotional and opinionated field. Those of common feelings are drawn together so much the false impression they are a majority in a "New" controversy arises. There is not enough communication or recognition of feelings on the other side. An example would be the baseball fan who associates totally with other baseballers to the point that football can't be considered a sport.

There is no doubt that Governor Samuelson did promise much in the area of the commission and department dismissal, and true to those promises, did make a very early attack. It was premature, before he had truly tested the wind. The response showed him quickly that he was on thin ice. He withdrew to a prudent, behind-the-scenes attack that has been of great nuisance value to the dissidents and has severely curbed the overall working of the department.

But, recently, the radicals, perhaps knowing that the Governor is up for re-election, have demanded that he fulfill two of his promises now. That would be dismissing Glenn Stanger of Idaho Falls and Ray J. Holmes of Twin Falls from the commission. In fact, the Governor has been charged with putting three men on the commission who aren't ardent sportsmen. This could be construed to blast the new men for not canning the director and assistant director, another of the group's hopes.

Here again the group forgot a couple of important things. One, the fourth district wasn't unhappy with Holmes and, two, the Idaho Falls area wasn't unhappy with Stanger. When the power play arose in Boise at the two public hearings, both of those districts came out in full support of their men and the representation they have given. It is assumed the public power display was backed after that because the most recent commission hearing was back to the usual two or three complaints and suggestions.

The Governor now is quoted as saying both Stanger and Holmes will serve on the commission until after the election or until their terms expire and then discussion will start. The impartial investigation of the department will be completed after the primary but before the November election.

Politically, the play that once was a great weapon against the commission has, during this election year, become a political trap.

It is said that lumbering and mining interests are bringing out the big dollars in support of Governor Samuelson and his recent mining speech at the Western Governor's Convention would tend to support that. In fact, the tenor of the talk would give the impression it was written by the president of ASARCO.

If the money talk is true, it will become indeed difficult for the rank and file to have much to say about who is elected, if indeed they want the change. It will have to be an interesting matter of semantics to what campaign promises of complete natural resource exploitation with complete rebounding of Idaho's wildlife resources. That is a paradox we'd like to see compromised.

The Magic Valley Cowboys will begin the training camp prelude to the 1970 Pioneer League season at Jayco Park Monday with the vanguard of an estimated 35 players arriving in Twin Falls.

The hierarchy of the club will precede the players by a day with manager Paul Snyder, pitching coach Walter "Boom Boom" Beck, and coach Ed Roebuck slated to arrive Sunday afternoon.

The club will work out daily at Jayco Park until June 25 when the Cowboys open at home against Billings.

Business Manager H. H. Burkhardt reports details for the opener are finalizing. The interior of the park will get a new coat of paint with ground crews working this past week in scraping some of the multi-contents that have piled up in the reserved seat section for the past 30 years.

The club will have two big early season games that will provide an idea of how the attendance may go this year. Burkhardt said the opening night, first season opener the club has had in several seasons, will be the first indication. The second will be the Fourth of July when the annual fireworks display is presented in addition to the ball game.

Prior to the season, the Cowboy board stated attendance similar to last year—around 10,000—could be the death knell for the local franchise.

"With two good big nights, we could get a good start toward breaking 15,000" mark," Burkhardt said. "One problem will be that the dates come so close together."

Part of the turnstile headache could be alleviated if the Cowboys could get off to a good start. The local clubs have been opening poorly and finishing well over the past few years. But by the time the club is playing well enough to be enjoyable to watch, the crowds already have become disenchanted and left.

Burkhart said admission prices will remain the same this year making baseball the most inexpensive spectator sport in the area, including high school contests.

T. F. Legion Smothers Burley 23-1

Twin Falls scored six runs before an out was made in the first inning Friday night and stormed past Burley 22-1, run its record to 9-1. Twin Falls stole bases almost at will and pounded out 15 hits during the lopsided affair. Meanwhile, Rick Wentworth and Jerry Barbour combined for a one-hitter that came within a strike of being a no-hitter. Burley's Southworth spoiled that with two out and two strikes in the top of the ninth inning when he lined a double into rightfield.

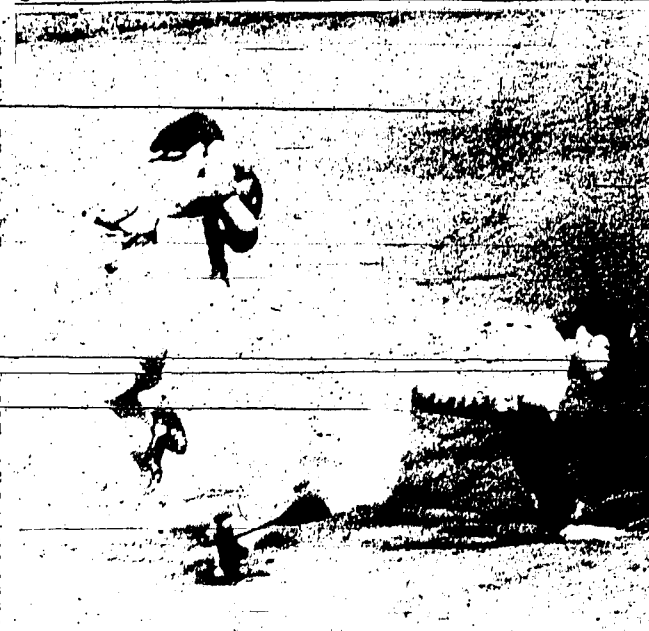

Burley scored its lone run off Wentworth, who worked the first seven innings. A walk, fielder's choice that retired no one and an overthrow on the back end of a double play situation plated the run.

Twin Falls started off instantly, Ron Blackwood opening with a single, taking second on a passed ball and scoring on a single by Rick Semba. Paul Clark lived on an error before Will Ward cracked a three-run homer. Vic Wells' bounce was erred and Steve McClain singled him to third. Wells scored on a wild pitch and a double steal got the sixth run of the inning.

Twin Falls added four more in the second before being stopped for the next three frames. Burley 000 100 000 - 11 7. Twin Falls 040 003 04X - 23 15 2.

Washington Stops Penn's Bid To Win 4th Rowing Crown

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Washington, pulling into the lead at the three-quarter mark, won the Intercollegiate Rowing Association championship Saturday, denying favored Penn a fourth consecutive victory.

In one of rowing's upsets of the season, the Huskies finished more than two boat lengths ahead of the field.

Second was Wisconsin and third was Dartmouth as Penn dropped off badly at the end and could do no better than fifth, just behind fourth-place Cornell. Brown finished sixth.

Vaughan Nips Greene For 100-Meter Win

VIAREGGIO, Italy (UPI)—Ben Vaughan, a former Georgia Tech sprinter, nipped American teammate Charlie Greene Saturday to win the 100-meter event in the international military track and field championships.

Vaughan and Greene were both clocked in 10.1 seconds with the Atlanta, Ga. athlete the winner.

John Hartfield of Houston, Texas won the high jump, followed by Lew Hoyt of Pasadena, Calif., and Gerard Lamy of France. Giovanni Schivo of Italy and Jean Jacques Foucaut of France were fourth and fifth.

The three winners all topped 6 ft. 10 3/4 in.

The decathlon was won by Jorma Lappamaine of Finland with 6,988 points. West Germany's Engelbert Poesch with 6,785 points was second.

Winner of the 3,000 meter steeplechase was Italy's Francesco Valentini in 8:05.04, followed by William Norris of Beverly, Mass. in 8:05.00 and Tunisia's Labidi Ayachi with 8:05.34.

In the 800 meters, John Porry of Muskege, Okla., was first with 1:50.0 and West Germany's Heinrich Himstedt with a time of 1:51.0 was second.

Penn had been highly favored to take its fourth IRA in a row, and tie the record set twice before by Cornell. But at the halfway mark, when Penn had a lead of nearly a full length, it was apparent that Washington was pulling up strong.

By the 1000 meter mark, the Huskies had cut the lead in half and at three-quarter mark they were neck and neck. Then surprisingly the Huskies eight pulled out from the whole field.

Never missing a beat, the Huskies, rowing at better than 40 strokes a minute, came across the line with a full boat of open water ahead of the field. It was the first time that any college crew, except Harvard, has been able to beat Penn.

Second was Wisconsin and third was Dartmouth as Penn dropped off badly at the end and could do no better than fifth, just behind fourth-place Cornell. Brown finished sixth.

The winning time for Washington was a fast six minutes.

Thomsen Hits 61 To Win His Own 'Beat The Pro'

Professional Clyde Thomsen pulled off a first when he won his own "beat the pro" contest against the Twin Falls Women's Golf Association.

Thomsen sets a 18-hole standard, then allows the women their full handicaps plus seven strokes. "I've taken a bath for seven years, but this year I get my name on the trophy," Thomsen smiled.

He shot a solid 32-32-64 despite a strong wind Thursday morning and none of the 30 participants could beat him. Five tied him, however. They were Dot McElhin, Marge Hurlburt, Lorena Marshall, Maxine Royston and Maxine Meadows.

Miss Whitworth Has Lead In LPGA Meet

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth, who has won everything but the Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship during a spectacular four career, took a two-stroke lead after 54 holes Saturday in the 16th annual LPGA title chase.

The veteran Miss Whitworth took charge at Pleasant Valley Country Club when fellow proctee Shirley Englehorn, who had been tied for the top after 36 holes, lost three strokes on the last two holes to fall back.

Miss Whitworth carded an even par 73 for a 54-hole total of 213 while Miss Englehorn's two-over 75 and a 215 total left her alone in second place.

Tied at 216, three strokes off Miss Whitworth's pace, were Murl Landstrom, who shot a 70, and Marilyn Smith, who had a 73, while Joanne Gunderson Carner and Sandra Haynie were deadlocked at 217 after Mrs. Carner fired a three-under 70 and Miss Haynie checked in with a 72.

Also among the leaders were Sandra Palmer with a 73 and a 218 total while three players, Pam Barnett, Sharon Moran and Gorda Whalen, had 219 totals going into Sunday's final 18-hole round.

Miss Whitworth, trying to break a slump of seven straight losing tournaments, went out in one over but offset one bogey on the 12th with birdies on two previous holes and came home even for the day as she shot regulation over the last six holes.

Fort Marcy Sets Record For Belmont

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rokoby Stable's Fort Marcy, carrying top weight of 127 pounds, set a track record at Belmont Park Saturday in capturing the 13th renewal of the $37,400 Bowling Green Handicap on grass.

The 6-year-old gelding by Amerigo-Key-Brige was timed for the 1 1/2 mile run over a firm course in 2:28 3/5, shaving three-fifths of a second off the 2:27 1/5 mark set by Hawaii last October.

Ridden by Jorge Velasquez, Fort Marcy finished a half length in front of James B. Moseley's Drumtop, the only filly in the field of seven turf specialists.

Velasquez had the winner reserved in second place during the early stages of the race. At the head of the stretch Fort Marcy took a long lead, then had little trouble holding off Drumtop during the stretch run.

Sent off at 3-2, Fort Marcy returned $5.00, $3.00 and $2.20. Drumtop paid $4.20 and $2.60, with Hitchcock showing at $2.60.

Ashe Tops Hewitt To Win Tourney

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI)—Arthur Ashe of Gum Spring, Va., recovered from a slow start to beat Bob Hewitt of South Africa 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 Saturday to win the $240,000 round-robin competition at the John Players Tennis Tournament.

Ashe finished the four-cornered ladder style event unbeaten. Hewitt, suffered his second defeat but received $120,000 for placing third.

Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, Calif., took the $180,000 second prize and Charlie Pasarell, Santee, P.R., got $60,000 for fourth and last place.

Ashe was strangely indecisive at the start but came into his own in the second set—Hewitt was always struggling to hold his service as Ashe showed his class with fierce drives and backhand passing shots.

The final set was completely dominated by the tall American with Hewitt winning only one game, the fifth.

Americans Cop Two Sculling Crowns

RATZBURG, Germany (UPI)—American sculling champions Larry Kleckaty and Tom Quinn scored two easy victories Saturday at the annual Ratzburg International rowing regatta.

Kleckaty, a Navy dower from Queens, N.Y. who holds four U.S. and four Canadian sculling titles, won the elite lightweight race in 7:51.82 minutes on a 2,800-meter course.

The best German racer, Klaus Carom, of Neumuenster, was second with 7:56.33.

In the lightweight elite double Kleckaty paired with Quinn, of Elizabeth, N.J., and literally ran away from the field.

Ski-Hall Of Fame

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Snow-Shoe Thompson, skiing pioneer who carried mail through the Sierra Nevada in the 19th century, was named Saturday to the National Ski Hall of Fame, Ishpeming, Mich.

Sno-Shoe, who was born John Albert Thompson in the Telemarken District of Norway, skied the mail for 20 years from Placerville, Calif., then called Hangtown, to Nevada.

Thompson used 8-foot skis not greatly different from the modern version and wrote articles defining contests such as downhill racing and the slalom. He died in 1878 at the age of 45.

Royer, ten under par after 36 holes for a four stroke lead, had a chance to stay in a first place tie until his last hole when he bunkered his second shot and two putted for a bogey. But he held second place with a 204 total, while Dale Douglass, also shooting 67 Saturday, grabbed third with 205.

Arnold Palmer, starting the third round in a tie with Nichols, gained three strokes on Royer and played Nichols even on the first nine, but he couldn't keep up the pace and wound up with par 71 for a 207 total.

This tied Palmer with Jim Jamieson, Bobby Bruce and Tom Weiskopf for fourth place while Rives McBee and Bert Yancey were tied for eighth with 208. Thus nine players were separated by five strokes.

Nichols, 34, and a former PGA champion, pulled even with Royer, who never has won a tournament, with a string of three straight birdies on the back nine Saturday. Nichols birdied the 11th with a four foot putt, the 12th with a 10-footer and the 13th with a six-footer.

On the front nine he sank a 55-foot putt for a birdie two on the 24-yard third hole and stiffed his approach a foot from the pin to birdie the fifth. But he three-putted the par three six for his only bogey of the day.

"Maybe the course putted a little longer," he said of his round over the wet links.

Royer had an erratic tour and though he was two over par on the front nine, he got a stroke back with three birdies on putts of seven, 10 and 12 feet and two bogeys on the back nine.

"I didn't putt as good," he said, comparing his round to that of the 60 he shot Friday.

"But I didn't feel too bad. I may have been a little tight playing with Arnold (Palmer), but the crowd didn't bother me and there wasn't any excuse to play bad."

Douglass rated himself in good position for the final round in pursuit of the $20,000 first place money at stake Sunday. He was over par on only one hole Saturday and his birdie putts ranged from three to 20 feet.

"The greens held a little better," he said "and they were not a lot slower."

Twenty-four of the 81 players in the field were under par on the round and 10 matched par. Jack Nicklaus was one of three shooting 67s and moved into a five-way tie for 10th place with Julius Boros and Bob Charles, each shooting 69, and Gibby Gilbert and Tom Shaw.

Death Mars Qualifying For Auto Race

MOSSPORT, Ont. (UPI)—The McLaren racing team, competing for the first time since its founder Bruce McLaren was killed in a crash, appeared ready to continue its iron hard grip on the Canadian-American series, taking both front row spots in the tragedy-marred qualifications Saturday for the season opener Sunday.

Dick Brown, 40, of Birmingham, Mich. was killed Saturday when his car crashed at high speed during qualification runs.

Witnesses said Brown's Avocet, "just seemed to leave the ground," nearing a turn.

Brown was travelling over 100 miles per hour, and race officials believed Brown's car may have hit an oily patch.

Brown left a wife and a 14-year old daughter.

Denis Hulme of New Zealand and Dan Gurney of the United States, driving for the McLaren team, won the two front row positions of the starting parade Saturday.

Gurney, took the pole position with the fastest lap of 1:16.8 and average speed of 116.72 mph. Hulme, who teamed with McLaren to win all races on the Canadian-American series, was timed at 1:17.8 and an average speed of 115.52 mph.

McLaren a New Zealander whose cars and team have dominated the Canadian-American team for the past two years, died in England last month while testing the car that was to be driven last Sunday by Hulme.

The drivers of Sunday's race will observe a minute silence before they take the flag on Sunday.

In the second row on Sunday's starting grid are Jackie Oliver of London in Autocast (1:18.1-114.78 mph), and Peter Revson, of New York City in a Lola 220 (1:18.6-114.05 mph).

The qualifying fifth was Lother Mutschbacher of Beverly Hills, Calif. in a McLaren-Chevy (1:19.2-113.18 mph).

Sixth was George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif. in the AVS Shadow-Chevrolet (1:19.2-112.17 mph).

Toronto's George Eaton qualified seventh in his BRM-Castrol-Chevrolet (1:22.8-108.26 mph).

Only one break was needed in the long second set and it came when Maud, winner at Hurlingham, Lee-on-Solent and Surbiton last month, dropped service in the 17th game.

Miss Hogan also won the women's doubles in partnership with Peggy Michel, Pacific Palisades, Calif., they beat Evelyn Goolagong and Pat Edwards of Australia 6-3, 6-4 in the final.

Miss Hogan had no trouble winning the singles title.

U.S. Netters Sweep Kent Tourney Singles

BECKENHAM, England (UPI)—Top-seeded Clark Graebner of New York outlasted Bob Maud of South Africa and Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., easily beat Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union Saturday to give the U.S. a sweep in the Kent Lawn tennis championships.

Graebner captured the men's singles crown by downing Maud, 6-4, 10-6 and Miss Hogan beat her Russian rival, 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Hogan later teamed with Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., to take the women's doubles title. The Americans downed Evelyn Goolagong and Pat Edwards of Australia, 6-3, 6-4.

Graebner's fine volleying at the net was the key to his victory and after losing the first game on his own service, Maud was always struggling.

The player, has been in tremendous form this season and this was his fourth singles final in five weeks.

The only moment of danger for the New Yorker came in the eighth game when he trailed 0-10 on his own serve, but the U.S. player saved three game points and went on to win it.

Only one break was needed in the long second set and it came when Maud, winner at Hurlingham, Lee-on-Solent and Surbiton last month, dropped service in the 17th game.

Miss Hogan also won the women's doubles in partnership with Peggy Michel, Pacific Palisades, Calif., they beat Evelyn Goolagong and Pat Edwards of Australia 6-3, 6-4 in the final.

Miss Hogan had no trouble winning the singles title.

The American was never put under any pressure by the 21-year-old Russian student who was playing her first singles final in Britain.

Miss Hogan broke serve in the third game of the first set and never looked back. Helped by uncertain back-hand volleys by the Russian, she completely dominated at the net and was accurate with her shots down the flanks.

Miss Morozova staged a brief comeback at 0-3 in the second set, after the American had won nine successive games, but Miss Hogan very quickly regained control.

The swift son of Vertex was making only his fourth start but indicated he was a top performer by racing the 1.18 miles in 1:47.2-5.

The fast closing Top-The Market was second but finished better than a length behind the winner as Hanel-Bay held on for third and Faithful Leader was fourth in the field of 11.

Telago, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, faded out of the money in the final quarter.

Mrs. King Leads U.S. Women To Tennis Win Over English

By ALEX FRERE
WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Consistent Billie Jean King defeated Wimbledon champion Ann Jones in a key singles test and then partnered Poaches Bartkowicz to a doubles triumph Saturday that rallied the United States to a 4-3 Wightman Cup victory over Great Britain.

Mrs. King of Long Beach, Calif. (10:0)353$ 34 1stst appearance in a Wightman series since

Mrs. King of Long Beach, Calif. completed her first appearance in a Wightman series since turning pro in 1967 and tied the best-of-seven matches at three-all by beating Mrs. Jones, 6-4, 6-2 in singles. She then teamed with Miss Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., to defeat Virginia Wade and Winnie Shaw, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2 in the deciding doubles match.

Britain, bidding for its eighth win in 41 years of competition took a 2-1 lead Friday, and held a 2-2 advantage Saturday after splitting the day's first two singles matches.

Jillie Holdman of New York, the No. 2 ranked player in the U.S., tied the series at two-all with a 6-3, 6-2, victory over Joyce Williams. But Miss Wade put Britain in front again with a 6-3, 6-2, decision over Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., American's top-ranked woman player.

The bespectacled Mrs. King and Miss Bartkowicz, subsing for Miss Richey who wrenched her knee while playing Miss Wade never played previously as a team and captured the first set on sheer power. But the British girls returned with "strut volleying" in the second set to "double" the match.

"This was a very difficult stage of the match," Mrs. King explained. "However, when we went off for the 10-minute break after the second set, we thought if we could play like the first set we could win. We managed to change the pace and think that's what threw them."

Before the Americans could alter the tempo in the third set, the statuesque Miss Wade won her service at love and then broke Mrs. King's delivery for the first time Saturday to put Britain in front, 2-0.

But Mrs. King broke Miss Shaw's service and her younger American partner retained her delivery to even the score.

When Miss Shaw dropped her service after some erratic volleying the Americans went in front for the first time.

The chunky Mrs. King, a former Wimbledon champion, held service for 4-2 and then in the seventh game performed some net mastery that put the U.S. on the brink of victory.

Chi Cheng Breaks 100, 220-Yard Records And Ties Hurdle Standard

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Haven-halted Chi Cheng of Nationalist China streaked to women's records in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and tied an American mark in the 100-meter hurdles Saturday at the inaugural Rose Festival track meet.

Detroit Drops Angels In Wild Pitch In 8th

DETROIT (UPI)—Reliever Ken Tatum uncorked a wild pitch with the bases loaded and none out Saturday to bring in the tie-breaking run as the Detroit Tigers scored three runs in the eighth inning to grab a 6-5 decision from the California Angels.

The Tigers trailed 5-3 when Mickey Stanley and Al Kaline led off the bottom of the eighth with singles off starter Tom Murphy. Tatum then came on and yielded run-scoring singles to Willie Horton and Jim Northrup to tie the game and hit Bill Freehan with a pitch to reload the bases before making his wild pitch with a 1-2 count on rookie El Maddox.

Four of the five California runs were uncared, Sandy Alomar led off the third by reaching base on an error and scoring from second one out later on a single by Alex Johnson. Billy Cowan brought in the next two runs with two out when he snacked this third home run of the season.

Tribe 10, Brewers 6

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Ray Fosse's ninth homer of the season triggered a seven-run second inning in which Ted Uhlander and Vada Pinson drove in two runs each Saturday in the Cleveland Indians routed the Milwaukee Brewers 10-6.

Colons 12, Sox 7

CHICAGO (UPI)—Frank Howard slammed his 17th home run to lead a Washington, barrage-of-five-homers Saturday as the Senators outslugged the Chicago White Sox, 12-7.

The Senators collected 14 hits off four pitchers including Jerry Janeski, who lost his fourth game against five wins. Aurelio Rodriguez, Jim French, Del Unser and Mike Epstein, also homered for Washington. Walt Williams hit the only homer for the White Sox when he led off the third inning and helped give the Sox a brief 5-4 lead.

Hill Ties World High Hurdle Mark At 13.2

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Thomas Hill, a junior from Arkansas A & M, tied the world record in the 120-yard high hurdles Saturday night, gliding over the barriers in 13.2 seconds in the eighth annual U.S. Track and Field Federation meet.

Hill broke the USTFF record, one of three that fell Saturday. The meet record in the high hurdles was 13.6. Texas A&M's Carla Mills, another world record holder, won the 440-yard dash in 45.5 seconds, half a second below the meet mark, and Kansas' Jan Johnson won the pole vault in 16-4, four inches over the old record.

Kansas copped a team title with 58 points, 29 more than runnerup Bowling Green. Then came Western Kentucky, Brigham Young and Penn State, all with 28 points.

The Jayhawks were led by Johnson and Doug Knopf who won the discus in 188-10, and their 440-yard relay team, which finished second behind Arizona State.

Too much wind disallowed two more records. Milton Tiff of the Cleveland Sliders called 52 feet, 11 1/2 inches in the triple jump, nine inches more than the record, but had a 7 to 10 mile an hour wind behind him.

Kentucky's Jim Greene sped away from the field in 100-yard dash, winning in 0.1 seconds over Herb Washington of Michigan State, who was clocked in 0.2. But the wind was above the allowable and Greene's time won't break the 9.3 record he set last summer.

Two records fell in the women's division. Francie Johnson of the Michiganams won the 800-yard run in 2:12.7, which was nearly five seconds under the old record, and the Texas Tech-Glub won the 800-yard medley in 1:44.0, one second under the old mark.

John Carlos, who won the men's 100 in 9.4 and the 220 in 20.4 was asked if he thought the cinder track at Portland's Madison High School was "fast."

"Chi proved it was fast today," he replied. Australia's Kerry O'Brien ran the fastest three-mile race of the year in beating fellow Aussie Ron Clarke to the tape. O'Brien's time of 13:10.9 was 8.2 seconds faster than Clarke's time.

Three runners were under four minutes in the mile with Chuck LaBenz of Arizona State, running for the Pacific Coast Club, the winner at 3:59.1. Francisco Arose of Italy was timed in 3:50.4 and Tom Von Rudon of the Pacific CC in 3:59.8.

World record holder Randy Matson threw the shot 66-3 1/4 while Jay Silverstein claimed the discus with a toss of 202-10. Willie Davenport of the Texas Striders took the 120 yard hurdles in the fine time of 13.5. Doris Brown of Seattle won the women's mile in 4:45.4 and the half-mile in 2:06.5.

Johnson Collects 5 RBIs, Phils Cool Off Reds 6-3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Don Johnson drove in five runs with a pair of home runs off Gary Nolan Saturday night to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Johnson made it 3-0 in the first inning when he connected for his 12th home run of the season after Larry Brown had singled, and Oscar Gamble singled, Johnson belted another home run in the sixth following a walk to Gamble.

The Phillies added another run in the inning when pitcher Jim Bunning singled after a two-out double by Terry Harrmon and an intentional walk to Doc Edwards.

The victory was the fourth straight for Bunning, who is now 5-0 for the season. The loss was the third against seven victories for Nolan.

Dartmouth, Florida State Get NCAA Wins

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Bruce Saylor clubbed a two-run homer in the top of the ninth to boost the Dartmouth Indians past Iowa State's Cyclones, 7-6, Saturday night in the final round game of the 24th annual College World Series.

Florida State's victory was its 46th against 7 losses, and the defeat was the 17th for the Wildcats against 41 wins.

The Seminoles scored once in the fifth, twice in the sixth and once again in the eighth. Leon Hooten, who pitched the first eight innings for Arizona, suffered the loss. It was his fifth against 12 wins.

Dartmouth took a 5-2 lead in the top-of-the-third when they sent nine men to the plate and scored four times on twohits and five walks, four off starting Cyclone pitcher Larry Corrigan.

Corrigan was relieved during the third and caught the rest of the game.

The Cyclones scored twice in the bottom of the third and tied the contest in the eighth. They scored once in the ninth and had the tying run on second when the final out was made.

The winning pitcher was John Prado, who relieved starter Chuck Seelbach in the eighth. The loss went to Mike Gillespie, the third of four Iowa State hurlers. He gave up the Saylor-homer after coming in to pitch during the ninth.

The win was Dartmouth's 21st in a row and gave them a 24-8 record. Iowa State is now 18-10.

Pirates 7, S.D. 2

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Bob Robertson hit the first grand slam home run of his career and Steve Bliss scattered eight hits Saturday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the San Diego Padres 7-2.

The Pirates led 3-0 in the fourth when Matty Alou and Al Oliver singled, Willie Stargell walked, and Robertson greeted reliever Tom Dukes with his 10th home run of the season.

Stargell hit his 13th homer of the season and fourth in five games against the Padres in the first inning to give Pittsburgh a 1-0 lead and the Pirates added two more in the second on Jose Pagan's double, John Jeter's single and Bill Mazeroski's two-base hit.

Official Dies In Accident At Le Mans

LE MANS, France (UPI)—The Le Mans Endurance Classic dived on into its midpoint Saturday, with tragedy and horror, overshadowing the event itself.

Jackie Ickx, the great Belgian driver, crashed in his five-liter Ferrari and as his car skidded wildly it struck and killed a racing official.

Ickx, wrapped in battle for the lead with Swiss contender Jo Siffert, brushed into Siffert's Porsche on a turn. Ickx hit the brakes, a wheel jammed and the car careened into 35-year-old Jacques Argoud before bursting into flames. Ickx leaped from the car and escaped injury.

Siffert was forced out of the race several laps later, and after eleven hours of the 24-hour test only 29 of the original 51 cars were still in competition.

To Catch

LONDON (UPI)—Set a thief to catch a thief, the old saying goes. Britain is applying the same theory to sharpers of the roulette and card tables.

In a suite of unglamorous rooms above an electrical showroom in London's tough East End district, the government has been giving 28 men intensive training in how to cheat at gambling—and paying the bill for it.

The men, mostly ex-police officers, have been on a three-months crash course, organized by the British Gaming Board which administers the country's gambling laws. The course ends July 1, the day stiff new gambling regulations go into effect. Then the cheating-wise students will disperse around the country as official inspectors to keep players and operators alike on the level in gambling casinos.

At the "Black Casino," as the East End school in cheating has been dubbed, the inspectors have been learning the psychology of gambling and gamblers, the history of gambling, how to gamble, the inside lore of various gambling games, and the machinery of slot machines and other gambling devices. The school looks like any gambling house, complete with roulette and card tables and lined with slot machines.

Basic French has been part of the course. Roulette, Baccarat and other games of French origin often are "called" in the French language at British casinos.

Professional magicians as well as professional gamblers have been on the teaching staff. Magicians have taught the men the tricks of shuffling cards without, in fact, shuffling them at all, and such niceties as palming cards or dice and various other dodges of the professional cheater.

Basics of the various gambling forms have been taught by croupiers' experts from bingo companies, card manufacturers, and the makers of gambling machines, including slots.

The inspectors will serve primarily as observers—their existence along presumably acting as an effective deterrent to would-be cheats. They will not, under their instructions, be permitted to gamble themselves—if they could afford to, which is unlikely. Their maximum pay will be $10,880 a year.

Their job will be to spot cheating and report it to local police or, as the case may be, to casino operators who are being cheated. The idea is that as cheating experts themselves, they are going to be hard to fool.

Nixon Asks For Grief Expression
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—President Nixon appealed to Americans Saturday to "express our concern and grief" for earthquake victims in Peru by contributing money, supplies and volunteer help.

"The country of Peru, a neighbor nation in this hemisphere, has undergone the worst catastrophe ever suffered by a people in the Americas," Nixon said in a statement issued by the Florida White House.

House Is

"Tragic"

CHICAGO (UPI)—House Republican leader Gerald Ford said Saturday it is "tragic" that the Democratic-controlled House has "not acted on President Nixon's anti-crime legislation."

The President "properly condemned the Democratic controlled House in his request for anti-crime and housing legislation," Ford said.

He said the House has done "virtually nothing" in the area of anti-crime legislation. "It's tragic," he said. "It's really unbelievable."

Nixon Friday criticized the House for delaying action on an emergency housing bill. He also had criticized Congress for failure to pass anti-crime legislation.

Ford spoke at a news conference before addressing the American Lithuanian Council.

The Michigan Republican told dinner guests the United States is at war with the Soviet Union in Indochina "by proxy."

"Who do I say we are at war with the Soviet Union by proxy in Vietnam?" he said. "Because the Soviet Union is supplying the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong with 80 per cent of their weapons. Because the war in Vietnam could stop if the Soviet Union would stop supplying arms to Hanoi."

"The Communists today are committing the same sin of genocide in Vietnam that they committed in Lithuania 30 years ago," Ford said. "What a bloodbath we would see in Vietnam if the United States were to precipitously withdraw all its troops there. And yet this is what the self-righteous moralists who yell 'stop the war' are demanding."

Armored Force In Battle
By United Press International
A Jordanian armored battalion moved toward the capital of Amman Saturday but was halted by a joint force of army troops and Arab guerrillas, Arab news reports from Jordan said.

Jordan's King Hussein issued a message to the armed forces calling for obedience and warning of punishment for anyone starting new clashes.

To Seek

Office

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Hubert H. Humphrey, saying he would not again actively seek the presidency, announced Saturday he is a candidate for the U.S. Senate from Minnesota.

"I am running for the Senate with every hope of being elected and every intention of serving out a full term of six years," the former vice president said in a statement.

"I have made no plans and have no intention of seeking the presidency," he said. "But, he added:

"I would be less than candid if I tried to pretend that I would turn away from the nomination if it came my way."

He said "service in the Senate is a great honor and I expect to spend the next six years serving the people of Minnesota and our country in that office."

Humphrey was the Democratic candidate for president in 1968, losing in a close election to President Nixon.

He was first elected to the Senate in 1948 and served there until he was elected vice president in 1964.

Not So Smart
CLIFFWOOD BEACH, N.J. (UPI)—Richard Walsh thought it was a good idea when he used 12 tons of scrap rubber tires, boots and other rubber products to build a 219-foot artificial bluff to control beach erosion at his home here.

But it caught fire May 27 and it took 150 firemen from seven companies to control the blaze.

Madison Township Municipal Court records showed Monday Walsh has now paid a $50 fine for dumping without a permit and contaminating the beach.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—First Lady Pat Nixon attempted Saturday at a White House reception to soothe the feelings of about 600 women who were irate because President Nixon had not made a personal appearance at their convention.

Many of the delegates to the 50th anniversary convention of the Women's Bureau of the Labor Department voiced their disappointment personally, as they shook hands with Mrs. Nixon on the White House lawn.

Although Mrs. Nixon faced a scattering of insults and was handed a large number of "NOW" (National Organization of Women) buttons and brochures from militants demanding equal rights for women, she never lost her composure.

"He's a busy man," the First Lady told the delegates. "He works 18 hours a day. Both of us have always supported equal rights."

It will now be possible for congressional interior committees to arrange public hearings on the $47.2 million reclamation project.

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI)—President Nixon Saturday named a nine-member commission headed by former Gov. William W. Scrantom of Pennsylvania to recommend ways to control campus violence and prevent future tragedies like the killings at Kent State and Jackson State.

As the President spent a relaxing weekend at his Florida retreat, the traveling White House denied persistent reports that Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel will be replaced soon as a member of the cabinet.

Named to the Commission on Campus Unrest along with Scrantom were four whites and four blacks, including two police officials, three college faculty members, one student, one attorney and one newspaper editor.

"There is nothing that any of us can do to restore the lives that have been lost or to undo the other effects of past campus violence," Nixon said in a formal statement. "But the commission can help us to avoid future incidents of the sort which occurred this past spring."

The administration announced plans to appoint the commission following the killing last month of four students at Kent State University in Ohio and two students at predominantly black Jackson State College in Mississippi.

Pressure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The pressure of bottled up legislation may spring the Senate from its month-old talkathon into a vote on the Cambodian issue within a week, senators on both sides said privately Saturday.

The debate, already in its fifth week, has stalled action on a growing pile of legislation including two items on which both administration and congressional leaders want action this month—an $18 billion increase in the federal debt limit and a renewed authorization for arms sales to foreign countries.

The 1970 fiscal year ends June 30.

BURLEY (UPI)—Sen. Len B. Jordan and Rep. Orval H. Hansen said Friday Burley that they had been advised the Bureau of the Budget has cleared the feasibility report for the Salmon Falls Division reclamation development south of Twin Falls.

It will now be possible for congressional interior committees to arrange public hearings on the $47.2 million reclamation project.

Probate Judges Meet At Burley

BURLEY — With the current changes in legal procedures the number of persons coming before probate courts will be reduced, Idaho Probate Judges were told at their annual meeting here Thursday at the Ramada Inn.

Dr. J. Hublin, Denver juvenile court judge, speaking on "New Ideas and Procedures for Preventing Delinquency and Adjudicating Delinquents in the 1970's," said that in some parts of the United States a runaway juvenile is handled by other agencies and not in the probate court.

Another speaker at the Idaho Probate Judges Association meeting, Dr. Arthur Stern, assistant professor of government, Idaho State University, discussed constitutional rights of juveniles.

He said in the absence of a formal judicial process, application of the fundamental rules of the process of law is left to the discretion of the juvenile judge on the assumption that an occasional violation of a child's constitutional rights would be amply compensated for by the friendly atmosphere of the courtroom and the court's solicitude for his welfare.

"Specific provisions of the Bill of Rights need not be rigidly adhered to when all premises of the juvenile court combine to assure the child a sympathetic hearing and even-handed justice," Dr. Stern said.

Dr. Herbert G. Lingren, assistant professor of sociology, Idaho State University, discussed "Understanding the Determinants of Human Behavior." The human being is a product of two basic forces, biological and social, he asserted. He discussed behavior, self development, human needs and personality.

"Understanding Juvenile Delinquency" was discussed by Dr. Dallas J. Reed, associate professor of sociology at ISU.

"Becoming a delinquent is basically an education and a developmental process in a community setting. It is not primarily a matter of personality deviancy, although in delinquency, as in other adolescence problems, personal abnormalities and psychological peculiarities may complicate ordinary adjustments," he said.

Other speakers were Dyke McMillin, correctional specialist, Law Enforcement Planning Commission; Mr. McMillin spoke on "Services, Rehabilitation Possibilities and Other Resources Available for Probate Judges in Idaho."

Dr. Lingen served as moderator for a panel discussion. Panel members were Dr. Reed, Dr. Stern and Mr. McMillin.

A hypothetical juvenile court case was presented followed by a group discussion on the case.

Sam Smith, juvenile specialist, Law Enforcement Planning Commission, spoke on the "Need for State-wide System of Data Gathering."

The group held the annual banquet Thursday evening and dinner with Robert Robson, attorney general, as speaker.

C. Kelly Pearce, President of Idaho Probate Judges Association, Pocatello, conducted the business meeting Friday morning.

Pastor Is Speaker At Burley

BURLEY — Guest speaker at the Burley Rotary Club luncheon meeting was Rev. John Pickrell who discussed social problems of today's youth.

He warned against the national malady of polarization on social problems where emotionalism prevails rather than reason or logic. The Arab-Israeli conflict is an international instance of polarization which can lead to catastrophe just as incidents involving youth, campus riots and protests can where peaceable objectives fail.

"The struggle for equality is great and the underprivileged people are determined to achieve a more equitable share of life's benefits," stated Rev. Pickrell.

Guests at the luncheon were Dave Garth and Boyd Hammond, both Salt Lake City, Phil Felt, Pocatello and Rev. Pickrell.

The program and speaker was introduced by Kent Church.

VISITING DURING the Idaho Probate Judges Association meeting at the Ramada Inn, Burley, are Ted Rubin, Jeff, juvenile court judge, Denver, and C. Kelly Pearce, Pocatello, president of the Idaho Probate Judges Association. The session was co-sponsored by the Idaho Magistrates Association and the Idaho State University's Government Research Institute.

An old burned out building has been faced with plywood, and now it's been painted a gleaming white. The three panels are destined to bear emblems of various city clubs who donated money to the project.

The center panel is reserved for the Pilot emblem from the Glenns Ferry High School, and this painting will be done artistically by the Glenns Ferry High School Art Club.

Tourist Booth Set For T.F. No Classes Slated For ISU Here

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a tourist booth at the Perrine Bridge, again this year, Manager Ray Rastron states.

Opening Monday, the booth will be run by Walt Betcke and Bill Arma. Information on the points of interest in the Twin Falls area, fishing regulations, state maps and maps of bordering states with scenic areas will be given to tourists to acquaint them with the areas.

Several thousand travelers from 47 different states, including Washington D. C. and 14 foreign countries visited the booth last summer.

There will be no Idaho State University continuing education classes at the College of Southern Idaho this summer, Marvin Glascock, adult education director, announced Friday.

He said classes will resume in the fall, however, and it is hoped there will be 35 courses available at that time.

Other adult education programs will be underway throughout the summer at CSI with enrollment increasing continuously. Mr. Glascock said there were 369 enrollments in the program last spring, the largest number on record and more than all earlier enrollments combined.

Mr. Glascock said the president has signed the bill providing funds for high school education programs and it is hoped high school courses can be offered in the coming school year.

Magic Valley High School Girls Combine Sunbathing With Work

Women's Section

This isn't the easiest way to make a living, but there is a need in the Magic Valley area, for field workers, and high school girls are "filling the bill" in many instances. The young women in these pictures, representing the many in this area, work under the direction of Cathy Reed, crew chief. They do field work in the summer to help provide additional funds for schooling in the fall. As is obvious, however, a suntan is in order, and the girls hoe in their swimsuits during the early part of the day, but, put on protective clothing when the sun gets high. So that it's not "all work and no play," — several of the girls strapped radios to their backs to keep up with the latest tunes. This way the rows don't seem quite as long.

British Authoress Assists With CSI Drama Workshop

British director and authoress, Frances Mackenzie, is the guest professor for the drama workshop at the College of Southern Idaho.

Dressed in a blue palsy dress with matching shoes and earrings, the small grey-haired woman spoke about her first impressions of Idaho, in a deep British accent.

"I've been here for less than a week, and already I've been impressed with the wide open spaces, the evasive traffic, and the newer homes," said Miss Mackenzie.

Miss Mackenzie is pleased that her first visit to America has been to Idaho. On her voyage, she was astounded when Alabama tourists pointed her out as "the woman who's going to Idaho."

Miss Mackenzie is the authoress of several drama books. She has had professional stage experience, tutored professional actors in London; represented the United Kingdom on the Council of International Amateur Theatre Association at The Hague, Paris and Monaco. She was honored by Queen Elizabeth II in her New Year's Honor List in 1964.

During the workshop, Miss Mackenzie will lecture students on directing techniques and acting skills, along with Fran Tanner, associate professor of speech and drama at CSI.

The two women met at the British Drama League in London when Mrs. Tanner was a student there. Miss Mackenzie helped Mrs. Tanner plan research and studies during her stay there.

When questioned about her future plans, Miss Mackenzie gazed upward, paused, then frowned. "Alas," she said, "I'll return to England as a free lance teacher judge and examiner."

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING the recent Magic Valley Military Wives picnic at Harmon Park were Mrs. Kathy Wilkins and her son, Marlan.

READING A LETTER from her husband is Mrs. Jane Westfall as she waits for the others to gather for the recent picnic.

STUDYING STAGE SETTING for the College of Southern Idaho's summer drama workshop are Fran Tanner, right, associate professor of speech and drama, and Frances Mackenzie, visiting British director and lecturer.

Military Wives Share Ideas

By NORMA HERZINGER

Having something in common with others is one of the best reasons in the world for meeting, sharing ideas and spending a relaxing day or evening.

This is what members of the Magic Valley Military Wives had in mind when they formed several years ago — and this common affiliation has made lasting friends for many. But, they come — and they go — depending on the length of their husbands' tour of duty, and new members are always important to set the pace for future members.

The families of many of the members reside in the Magic Valley area, or those of their husbands, but to some, the countryside is relatively new. The primary qualification for membership is that the husband is serving a tour of duty with the Armed Forces and is stationed elsewhere.

"Sharing tidbits of information concerning military procedure can be of vital importance to the women, to say nothing of interesting facts exchanged about other countries where the husbands are stationed," one member noted. "Among our members, we have husbands who are serving in Greenland, Iceland, Germany, Korea, Vietnam and Thailand, to name just a few," she said.

Scheduled during the summer are various socials including dinner gatherings and picnics with the youngsters, and June 20, members will meet in Jensen for a handicraft idea workshop.

The family service office at Mountain Home Air Force Base encourages the women to register with them, so current bulletins and publications from the post can be sent listing commissary and PX hours, doctors, post activities, etc.

Members have tried several different ways of contacting military wives new to the community, and are presently having a "meet and greet" meeting with the new arrivals.

LOOKING OVER FINISHED articles of knit sewing made by Mrs. Lawrence Sturgeon, center, and Mrs. Larry Keeney, right, is Mrs. Jay Fowles, home economics agent, at the close of the knit workshops held in Shoshone. Mrs. Kinney holds her daughter, Tami, who wears one of the T-shirts Mrs. Kinney made during the course. The workshops were held in Lincoln, Blaine and Camas Counties.

Grand Chapter Meet Discussed

FILER — Plans for the Grand Chapter meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star were discussed at the recent meeting of the group at the Masonic Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Rex Reed, worthy patron and worthy matron, presided. Reports of standing and special committees were presented. Initiation and affiliation were held for new members. Star Social Club will meet June 24 at the home of Mrs. Roy Grubb. The Masonic and Eastern Star picnic has been set for July 25 at the Twin Falls County fairgrounds. Girls' State Begins Today

EDEN-HAZELTON — When the Valley High School girls selected to attend the Idaho Girls' State this year go to the session next Sunday, they will be a part of a group of over 18,000 girls practicing democratic leadership under the guidance of the American Legion Auxiliary in the nation. Girls' State sessions are being held during June and July and in 1969 there were 51 — one in each state and the District of Columbia/Alaska held its first Girls' State session in 1968. The privilege of "citizenship" was given to 18,572 high school juniors.

The sessions are conducted on the campuses of colleges or universities in most states and vary in length of time from five days to 10 days, with the majority of the departments having seven-day sessions.

Political parties are formed, conventions conducted, candidates for office are nominated and campaigns carried out and elections held. Victorious candidates take office and operate the administrative legislative and judicial branches of government. With an average enrollment fee of $42, the 10,000 units who annually pay the bill invested approximately $742,000 that youth would have the opportunity to better understand the American way of life, and that government is a direct and individual responsibility.

Girls are selected from high school juniors on the basis of leadership potential. From each Girls' State, two girls are named to attend Girls' Nation, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary in Washington, D. C.

The Auxiliary believes that the Girls' State program is helping train capable leaders for the future of our communities, states and nation. It feels that the changing conditions will demand the best possible leadership in order that America may maintain its free way of life. The Girls' States and Girls' Nation are making an important contribution to America's future.

From the Eden area, two girls will attend this 1970 Girls' State session on the campus of the College of Idaho at Caldwell June 14 through June 20. They are Susan Montgomery and Irva Dee McDonald, sponsored by the Eden Auxiliary, with financial assistance from churches and civic clubs. Also attending will be Mrs. Dexter Watkins, helping on music and counseling.

HANSEN — Mrs. Raymond Butler gave the opening exercise, an article, "Glossary of Library Terms and Their Meanings," at the Excelsior Social Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Clifton Haynes.

The president, Mrs. Lyle Jones, read a poem and conducted a memorial to a recently deceased member, Mrs. W. F. Anderson, and also in memory for the deceased husband of a member, Edward Dohse.

The ways and means committee made several suggestions for fund-raising projects, but due to the busy time of year, it was decided that each member be assessed $2 for the present.

Club members will be notified of the meeting place for the June 18 meeting. Members are asked to bring personal baby pictures for a feature of the program.

Ballet Appearances Set In Boise

Premiere performances of two new ballet productions will highlight appearances by the City Center Joffrey Ballet in Boise on July 10 and 11 at the Capital High School Auditorium.

According to Robert Joffrey — how he rehearsals with his company in New York — the two new ballets are designed to bring out the virtuosity of the Joffrey Company and to invoke the lyrical romantic traditions of classical ballet. For their Pacific Northwest premieres, the ballets are designated as "New Work No. 1" and "New Work No. 2."

In addition to the two new works, the City Center Joffrey Ballet will bring to Idaho audiences an assortment of other new ballets and old favorites from the company repertoire.

The July 10 opening night in Boise will feature the highly-acclaimed, all-male ballet, "Olympics"; a new dance titled "Pas des Des Déeses"; "New Work No. 1"; and the return of an old favorite, "Viva Vivaldi."

On Saturday, July 11 in Boise, the company will offer its popular "Cello Concerto" — "New Work No. 2"; an exciting new creation by Gerald Arpino titled "Solar Wind"; and a repeat of "Viva Vivaldi."

In addition to the pair of regular performances, the New York company will present a lecture-demonstration program on Saturday afternoon, July 11. The informal presentation will feature either artistic director Robert Joffrey or choreographer Gerald Arpino discussing the dances, the dances and interesting insights into the performances. An exceptional program for dance students, the lecture-demonstration has proven an exciting and informative program to help people understand ballet.

According to Idaho ballet chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oppenheimer, Boise, tickets for the Idaho performances of the City Center Joffrey Ballet will go on sale the latter part of June. Tickets will be handled by the Boise Allied Arts Council.

The Idaho appearances of the City Center Joffrey Ballet are part of a five city tour of the Northwest sponsored by the Pacific Northwest Ballet Association. Other cities on the tour include Tacoma, Walla Walla, Seattle and Portland.

Before storing bird feeders for the summer season, treat them to a thorough washing.

THE CITY CENTER JOFFREY BALLET will be appearing in Boise July 10 and 11 at the Capital High School Auditorium. Premiere performances of two new ballet productions will highlight the appearances. Erika Goodman and Henry Berg are shown in "Cello Concerto," Gerald Arpino's lyrical and romantic pastorella to music of Vivaldi. Tickets will be handled by the Boise Allied Arts Council. Hawaiian Minister Notes

Need Of Women In Clergy

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD—HONOLULU (UPI) — The Rev. Edith Wolfe would like to see more women where few dare to enter—the pulpit. Despite skeptics who claim that a woman won't inspire the confidence of a congregation, the energetic minister has become one of Hawaii's most beloved ministers.

Approaching her 25th anniversary as an ordained minister of the United Church of Christ, the Rev. Wolfe believes now is the time for an aspiring clergy woman to make her move.

"The shortage of ministers has posed a crisis in the church," Miss Wolfe said, "and many churches are having to reconsider their private views about women preaching."

Percentage Very Small Although women ministers represent only about 2-3 percent of the nation's clergy, the clergywoman does not encourage every girl who indicates a passing interest in the ministry to pursue it.

"If they show that it's the glamour of standing before a congregation, with the candles glowing and the choir singing that's attracted their interest, I remind them about visiting the old people and being available.

at all hours for help," she said. She advises young women who want to become ministers, if they marry, that "they'll have to end their marriage to the ministry, not the ministry to their marriage."

"When people ask how a woman can give counsel on marriage, I always say that half of all the people who get married are women," the minister said.

"Not being married is a help rather than a handicap," she said. "I can be impartial and objective, and at the same time be a caring person."

Speaks as Christian "And I don't preach as a woman, but as a Christian speaking to Christians."

Instead of preaching in one church, the Rev. Wolfe has chosen to travel from one island to another, preaching to different congregations each weekend, an experience she finds "broadening and challenging."

Miss Wolfe, who preached in New England before coming to Hawaii five years ago, is aware that there are limitations placed on a woman, even one who has proved herself dedicated and competent.

Precautions

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Seven simple steps to "poison-proof" a home:

—Keep household products and medicines out of reach and out of sight of children.

—Store medicines separately from household products. Never put cleaning materials or other toxic products in cups or soft drink bottles.

—Be sure that all products are labeled properly, and read the label before using.

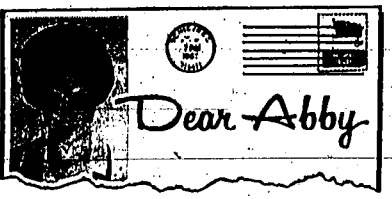

—Always turn the light on when giving or taking medicine.

—Since children tend to imitate adults, avoid taking medicine in their presence.

—Never call medicine "candy." When left alone, children may take you at your word and swallow the contents of a bottle.

—Clean out the medicine cabinet periodically. Get rid of old medicines by flushing them down the drain, rinsing the container in water, and then discarding it.

These steps were listed by Dr. Louis P. Saylor, California Public Health Director.

DEAR ABBY: My sister has two children, a boy nine and a girl 12. The girl likes to dress her little brother up to look like a girl. She puts make-up on his face, and puts curlers and ribbons in his hair. Then she gives him girl's clothes and heels to wear. He makes a very pretty-looking girl, but what worries me is the way he enjoys it. In fact he begs his sister to dress him up and call him "Susie."

I have hated to my sister to discourage this kind of play, but she sees no harm in it, and is beloved that sister and brother play so "nicely" together. Am I wrong to be concerned? My sister is divorced, so there is no father influence in the home.

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: You could be "concerned" with good reason. Quit "hinting" and TELL your sister that environment plays an important role in gender identification. In other words, boys will be boys—unless they'd rather be girls, and hers is off to a girlish start.

Per my promise of last Sunday, my TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES:

1. Defile not thy body neither with excessive foods, tobacco nor alcohol, that thy days may be long in the house which thy husband provideth for thee.
2. Put thy husband before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter and thy son, for he is thy lifelong companion.
3. Thou shalt not nag.
4. Permit no one to tell thee that thou art having a hard time of it; neither thy mother, thy sister nor thy neighbor, for the Judge will not hold her gullible who loatheth another disparage her husband.
5. Thou shalt not withhold affection from my husband for every man loveth to be loved.
6. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness and modest attire.
7. Forgive with grace, for who among us does not need forgiveness?
8. Remember that the frank approval of thy husband is worth more to thee than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers.
9. Keep thy home in good order, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.
10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "LITTLE ME" not to bother with an umbrella or a golf club to keep her brother-in-law in line. All she needs is a nice long HAT PIN! And keep it in plain view. A man is more afraid of a hat-pin than a club.

L. M. H. [ATHENS, GA.]

CONFIDENTIAL TO F. F. IN PASADENA: The "little things" add up. Did you know that the total shoplifted in the U.S.A. in ONE DAY "adds up" to more than the total robbed out of our BANKS in ONE YEAR?

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69760, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD L. ROBERSON

Karen Knodel, Roberson Exchange Nuptial Vows

Karen A. Knodel became the bride of Ronald L. Roberson in rites June 5 at the Grace Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie A. Knodel, Twin Falls; and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Crumpler, Phoenix, Ariz.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Seaman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Bridal Original floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace, fashioned with a sabrina neckline outlined with seed pearls and sequins. The skirt was fashioned with tiers of cascading ruffles ending in a cathedral train. An aloncon lace-clustered hand, trimmed with pearls, held her elbow-length veil with butterfly face veil of English silk illusion. She carried a cascading bouquet of white daisies and yellow rosebuds accented with pale yellow streamers.

Maid of honor was Joymae Robbins, with Bonnie Hine and Kara Knodel serving as bridesmaids. Candelighters were Carolyn Bolton and Janice Seaman. Sue Hobson served as flower girl and Tony Weaver, cousin of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

The bridegroom was attended by Danny Stone, with Dale Senman and Randy Elliott as ushers.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with lace and centered with a four-tiered white wedding-cake decorated in turquoise roses and bells and topped with cherubs and lace.

The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Bill Bolton and served by Mrs. Gerold Hobson and Mrs. Tom McGinnis. Mrs. Dnrrell-Beck served coffee and Mrs. Don Elliott poured punch. Guests were registered by Dixie Weaver. The gift table was attended by Connie Wilcox, Mark Stout, Mary Stone and Kristi Elliott.

The bride is attending school in Twin Falls and the bridegroom is employed by the Twin Falls Armored Car Service Inc. They reside at 345 1/2 4th Ave. N., Twin Falls.

Out-of-town guests attended from Kansas, Kimberly, Hansen, Filer, Buhl, Murtaugh, Jerome and Caldwell.

A pre-nuptial shower was given for the bride by school friends at the home of the bride. A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Knodel, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Knodel, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Wilderness Survival May Be Answer To Delinquency

STRONG ROPES HELP survival crews in reaching inaccessible places and are one of the few civilization items they rely on while living on resources of the desert and mountain regions for long periods of time. Preparing ropes for ladder making and other uses are Ned Erickson, Zeke Sanchez, Stacy McConard, Dave Johnson and Larry Dean Olsen, all from left. All are instructors and assistance in the survival training program Mr. Olsen developed at BYU.

When determination and emotional stability become a means of simply staying alive from one day to the next, the individual cannot help but carry these qualities into other phases of his character.

This is one of the theories of the survival training program which has been conducted through Brigham Young University for a number of years and extended to residents of South Central Idaho through survival treks in desert areas south of Twin Falls.

Larry Dean Olsen, who directs the program, has just completed a course for survival instructors at Mineral Hot Springs in Hagerman Valley where his parents reside.

In addition to survival instructors, a number of qualified students participated. Training included such matters as making weapons for killing and catching fish and animals for food, erecting life saving shelter, scaling rock walls and mountain faces, building fires without matches, use of ropes in making ladders and in ascending and descending canyons and mountains.

Mr. Olsen said the survival program is entering a new field as a result of recent experiments. Because of its character building aspects and the fact wilderness survival brings about a self analysis, it is being adopted as a means of rehabilitation. Many delinquent, or troubled young people are being exposed to wilderness survival as a means of straightening out their own problems, and Mr. Olsen says the experiments have been most successful.

"In the survival hikes and under survival conditions there is simply no time for delinquency," the director commented.

One of the factors stressed through the wilderness survival activities is that determination rather than physical condition controls the degree of success.

Leadership is another important phase of the training programs and Mr. Olsen teaches leadership at BYU when not engaged in survival work.

Those participating in the training session usually began their day with a plunge into Snake River or a clear creek in the Hagerman area at 6 a.m. Endurance tests included individual hikes or running through desert areas, often as far as 13 miles.

David Johnson, assistant director of the program, will return to the local area in August for one of four 10-day survival adventures open to interested persons.

Each training session is concluded with a visit to the Arts and Science Center in Twin Falls, where Norman Herrett explains many of the relics and collections from early man whose entire lifetime was a wilderness survival challenge.

SNAKE MEAT is a delicacy of the wilderness, says Zeke Sanchez, one of the survival directors, as he shows live snake, itself a survivor of the 10 day trek in the Hagerman Valley area during training session for leaders.

Rare Owls Sighted In Region

Catching a glimpse of the great horned owl is a rare opportunity for Magic Valley residents, but more rare still is the opportunity to photograph the adult and chicks as they are seldom seen in the daytime.

Such an opportunity, however, was afforded Stan Thomas, Twin Falls photographer and camera repair expert. He was notified by two Idaho State Police officers who spotted the nest in a tree adjacent to U.S. Highway 83, about five miles from Rdgeron.

Finding of the nest made it possible for the photographer to catch some color and black and white film of the mother and her two chicks. The adult, said Mr. Thomas, is about the size of a hen turkey and the chicks about like an adult chicken.

Frank Mogenson, state police officer, first spotted the nest in the unusual location in plain view of passing traffic. He and his assistant Boy Scout leader, Chet Hillman, also a state officer, took Boy Scout Troop 67 to view the large birds and then notified Mr. Thomas, who photographed them. They have now left the area.

Although the Great Horned Owl is a native of all of North America, his numbers are not great. Tufts of feathers around the ear give him his name and distinguish him from other owls, although the Pacific Horned Owl and Northwestern Horned Owl, smaller in size, also have the unique tufts.

plain items in the museum. Members of the survival instructor training session listen to lectures and inspect artifacts and museum collections first hand.

BRING THEM UP RIGHT, say Larry Dean Olsen, right, and his wife, Sherrel. Their 10-month old son, Reuben, was almost born on the trail. His mother was on a wilderness hike one week before he was born and was back with infant in back pack, a few weeks later. The three participated in the 10 day leadership training session in Hagerman Valley last week and the program included desert survival activities.

ADULT OWL WATCHES with piercing gold eyes as photographer, Stan Thomas, takes pictures of her, her offspring and nest. Generally a nocturnal bird, finding of the nest near Rdgeron, enabled the photographer to get some daylight pictures. He used a 35 mm camera with 600 mm telephoto lens mounted on a gun-stock type holder. The pictures were shot from about 70 foot distance.

HORNED OWL NEST is generally one abandoned by other large birds. This one in the fork of a large tree about 25 feet above the ground shows the mother bird with back to camera, hovering over halfgrown chicks.

LIGHT DOWN COVERS the body of the young great horned owl, not yet steady in flight or while perched on a branch. Horns which are actually tufts of feathers are just beginning to show. The bird remained near the nest; under watchful eye of mother while being photographed but within one to two days the entire family had flown from the area.

"HINDING" ATOP CUPBOARD, members of the fourth grade class of Mrs. Dorothy Guest at Morningside School wait for her return to the classroom and shouts of "surprise". Balloons and crepe paper, hastily attached to light fixtures during lunch break decorated the room for the teacher's surprise party.

SURROUNDED BY HAPPY youngsters, Dorothy Guest was more than surprised when her 10-year-old students planned a hot day of school party in her honor. Gifts piled on her desk included those from individual class members and a large candle with wreath holder of miniature artificial fruits, nuts and greenery. Many other teachers in the district probably experienced similar tributes.

"THANK YOU FORE..." reads a note on the blackboard as fourth grade student momentarily forgot spelling lessons. Participating in the special greeting to their teacher are Lynn Whatcott, Lori Christensen and Kathy Jones, from left.

TAD HANEY POURED. With some help from mothers the youngsters served punch from large punch bowl with cookies and soft drinks available for everyone.

Tax Issue Probed

Members of the Twin Falls County Human Rights Advisory Committee will investigate what members feel is discrimination against the single taxpayer.

In the regular June meeting, members reviewed recent cases in the local area which have been settled and approved a report on these matters to go to the state committee.

It was suggested a letter be drafted to be sent the Internal Revenue Service asking for an explanation in tax cases. Members noted in the local area, a woman who may no longer be married but is still responsible for the support of several children is required to pay a much higher tax rate than a married man with the same number of dependants.

Chairman Robert Stradley said it is not the purpose of the inquiry to battle the issue with the IRS, but to start some corrective action to benefit such persons.

Edd Bossard was appointed to prepare bylaws for discussion and approval at the July 6 meeting of the group.

Surprise! Dear Teacher

TIMES-NEWS Book Review

A surprise party, planned and carried out by 33 fourth graders is certain to carry more than its share of surprises.

This was the case on the last day of school at Morningside grade school when the class of Mrs. Dorothy Guest decided to give their teacher a party.

Apparently plans had been a foot for some time, but there were no security leaks. Mrs. Guest was not just surprised, she was flabbergasted. School principal Dennis Mossinger said word didn't get out even to his office until just before the lunch time party.

While other children were enjoying playground picnic lunches, Mrs. Guest's 10-year-olds were busily decorating the classroom. Crepe paper and balloons, strung up in a most non-professional manner, a large "thank you" note on the blackboard and a five-foot banner across the front of the room expressed the students' appreciation for their teacher.

Two of the class members baked cookies and some help was solicited from mothers who arrived at school at lunch time with punch and a large punch bowl.

"When they did all of the planning is a mystery to me," commented the teacher. "They certainly didn't leave a clue or whisper a word during class." Mrs. Guest said it was about the nicest thing that has happened to her in her nearly 20 years of teaching. She said the 33 youngsters in her fourth grade class this year were outstanding in their behavior and attitude throughout the year.

"Wyoming Wife" by Rodello Hunter should prove interesting to Magic Valley residents familiar with the spectacular Grand Teton country.

As the author sat in the boat, chilled to the marrow, she wondered what a supposedly sane, intelligent woman was doing in the middle of that cold black lake fishing for monsters.

This is the story of one home and hearth-loving woman's initiation into the rugged hunting, fishing, camping-out life so dear to her husband. It is a book about the beautiful wild country of the Grand Tetons.

Combining a honeymoon with an antelope hunt was the beginning of Rodello and Jim's marriage. They returned from this trip to make their home in Freedom, a small town in Star Valley, Wyoming.

Here the summers are idyllic, but the winters are not. Winters come in hip-deep with the barometer falling — the temperature falling and the snow falling.

A very happy winter evening was spent when several neighbors gathered together to make a sausage called "kibasa" or "kaboasa." The men were up to their elbows in the meaty goop.

Two hundred thirty pounds of meat seemed to be miles of links spurring and piling on the kitchen table.

The harbinger of spring is not the robin in Freedom, Wyoming. It is Martha Brog on her tractor. She is the wife of Ernest Brog, whose know-how with Swiss cheese gave the Star Valley its major industry.

Mrs. Hunter reflects on human nature as they fished in Yellowstone Park. She talks of the visitors who try to see everything in eight hours — buy postcards and a sticker — "Of course, we saw Yellowstone Park on our trip." She grieves over the few "animals" who are careless in their personal habits

Wyoming is a man's country. The status symbols are acres of land, new machinery, herds of cattle, not fine houses and new clothes. To date, the author hasn't found a male who will admit the state was designed for masculine population.

Wyoming had the first woman governor, first woman justice of peace, and was the first state to give women the vote.

Finding the poem, "The Pilgrim's Lament" on the back of the jail door in South Pass left the Hunters as jubilant as the miners who first struck gold there. I — along with the author, coveted some of the articles left in this ghost town when the miners just left their worldly goods to search elsewhere for gold.

"The author is profoundly moved with feeling that she is a part of the beauty around her, and that it is a part of her. Her thoughts expand to the peoples and problems of today and she realizes we are an integral part of each other."

The last chapter in entitled "A Gift from a Wyoming Wife." Here she shares recipes and hints.

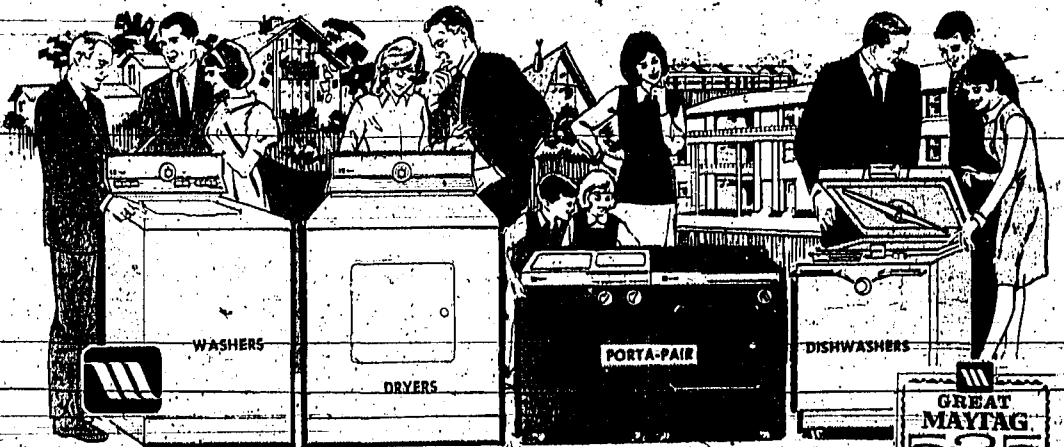

The deep feeling about Star Valley and the life she lives is expressed in her poem "Haven."

"Every man must find a stillness That will lift the loudness of living Some seek it in a symphony or in a poem or in a prophecy. Some search and find it in simplicity and seclusion But each man must find his own peace, So that he can live — and die."

Fish Planting Is Booming Business

BY JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Dept.

Wind and high, muddy waters did not dampen the holiday mood of Idaho anglers the last weekend in May, the opening of the general statewide trout season. Many knowledgeable fishermen, dry fly artists as well as bait dunkers, claim the Gen State has the finest rainbow trout waters in all the West; and the Fish and Game Department, under the direction of John R. (Dick) Woodworth, is doing a bang-up job of rehabilitating many fine trout, steelhead and chinook salmon streams.

Salmon and steelhead restoration programs are complex and varied. Strong indications the past several years point toward successful completion — provided no further deterioration of down-river fish passage and habitat occurs in the years to come. For example, about 25 percent of the 1969 and 1970 steelhead catch in the main Salmon River from North Fork to Salmon contained fin-clipped or eroded dorsal fins indicating the fish were from smolt releases of Niagara, Pahsimeroi or Lemhi fish.

The steelhead hatchery at Niagara Springs on the Snake River is one of the largest steelhead hatcheries in the world. It is operated by the Idaho Fish and Game Department and financed by the Idaho Power Company. The new Federal steelhead hatchery at Dworshak Dam on the North Fork of the Clearwater is even bigger.

Idaho state trout hatcheries now produce over a million pounds of assorted species and sizes a year to keep popular streams and lakes on the vacation lists of many anglers.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department operates 17 fish hatcheries and three rearing ponds to supply the needs of these hatcheries and the statewide fisheries management program. Twenty-eight million eggs of all species are taken from fish in Idaho, and 14 million fish eggs are received through purchase or exchange from other states or agencies, according to Paul Cuplin, state hatchery supervisor, who adds: "The two rainbow trout broodstocks are at Hayspur, Idaho's oldest hatchery, and American Falls. A Kamloops broodstock and a Dolly Varden broodstock are maintained at Clark Fork Hatchery near Clark Fork, Idaho. Several million kokanee eggs were taken during the 1969 spawning season. Most of these were from the early kokanee spawners at Moose Creek, a migration to the ocean. Now the tributary of Island Park fish are released directly into Reservoir in the Island Park Divide. Late spawning kokanee in the Pend Oreille drainage are young chinook salmon with taken sometimes from Priest-Oregon moist-pellets.

The Pahsimeroi steelhead trap, constructed and financed by Idaho Power Company, is located about a mile upstream from Ellis store. The Fish and Game Department leases the same facility to trap chinook salmon for rearing in the hatchery, and American Falls. Pahsimeroi ponds. These were built as acclimatization ponds on Pahsimeroi for releasing steelhead. Cuplin says the ponds proved unsuccessful because the young steelhead smolts were fed and did not start the long downstream migration to the ocean. Now the tributary of Island Park fish are released directly into Reservoir in the Island Park Divide. Late spawning kokanee in the Pend Oreille drainage are young chinook salmon with taken sometimes from Priest-Oregon moist-pellets.

THE MONEY BOX
By Frank Schell
From S. A. K., Twin Falls, Idaho: What is the value of an 1875 twenty-cent piece? I understand they are very scarce and where could I sell one?
Answer: The 1875 is the least scarce of the twenty-cent pieces, with a mintage of around a million and a half. However, they do bring a good premium. Depending upon the condition of your coin, it would be valued from $12.00 up to $27.50. If you will drop a card or another letter to the column, and include your name and address, we will be very happy to put you in touch with a buyer.

From B. L., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have saved a great many Roosevelt dimes. Are they of any value over face value? The oldest I have is 1949. What is their value in silver? Where can I sell them?
Answer: Dealers charge over face value for brand new Roosevelt dimes, but they do not particularly want to give the collector much over face value. However, if they are silver dimes — prior to 1935 — most dealers are paying about 10 percent over face value for the silver content alone. This would make your dimes worth about 11 cents each. The 1955 Philadelphia dimes do bring a premium but you would probably have to have them in rolls, to make much on them. They are quoted at about 35 cents each, in fine condition. The 1955 D (Denver) and S (San Francisco) are worth about twice face value.

From D. D., Burley, Idaho: I understand gold coins are very valuable. Could you give me an idea of what they are selling for?
Answer: Since you do not specify the denomination, it is difficult to tell you what you want to know. In general, gold coins are worth about three times face value, in uncirculated condition — but the scarce dates are much more valuable, and there is no way of telling what you might have. Gold coins appreciated rapidly some time ago, but have dropped about 25 percent in the past four months. Twenty dollar gold pieces, uncirculated, went up to about $200.00 each, but have dropped down to about $60.00 recently. Also, the condition is very important, since well-circulated coins are worn and do not command anywhere near the price of the uncirculated.

From A. R., Buhl, Idaho: I would like to know which of the nickels I should watch for to make money on them. I am in a position where I can look at many of them, and want to start watching for the good ones. I hear that some of them are worth twenty or thirty dollars apiece. Is this true?
Answer: I assume you are asking about Jefferson nickels (the ones now in circulation). The first Jefferson nickel was struck in 1838 and some of these are still in circulation. The 1938 Philadelphia two mint mark brings about 15 cents in Extremely Fine condition, the 1938-D about 95 cents and the 1938S about $2.00. The 1939D and 1939S are the scarce ones, the Denver coin being worth around $5.00 in Extremely Fine, and the San Francisco about $1.25. The 1943D (silver nickel) commands a premium — selling about 90 cents — and all the silver nickels are worth a small amount over face value. The 1950 Denver mint nickel is a very good one to watch for — it will sell for around $8.00 in circulated condition.

The rest of them are very easily obtained and not worth anything over face value if you find them in circulation. Questions on coins and currency should be sent to the Money Box, c/o The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Market Gives Up Some Of Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Stock Exchange looked like the home of the brave last week as the market surrendered a small portion of last month's sharp advance in some of the slowest trading of the year.

"The list still was consolidating its gains of late May, and it probably will take some new developments to break the spell," Newton Zinder, E. F. Hutton & Co. analyst, commented.

Lucien Hooper, analyst for W. E. Hutton & Co., said there was little institutional activity, and the public's appetite has been dulled by some highly unpleasant experiences.

Hooper said the bellwether practically everyone who has bought stock over the past 18 months has been sorry, and it takes a long time to restore market confidence.

Other analysts suggested that demand for stocks was restricted by several factors, including events in strife-torn Jordan, delay in President Nixon's economic report to the nation, and an announcement by the Soviet Union that it was increasing its military aid to North Vietnam as a result of increased U. S. involvement in Indochina.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy sought to reassure the nation that the economy is basically strong and that inflation would be brought under control.

Kennedy said, "Our economy is strong," and he predicted inflation will ease soon and the stock market will improve during the rest of the year. But his remarks fell on deaf ears on Wall Street where traders apparently have become accustomed to such talk with little proof to back it up.

One analyst said he thought the market was headed for a 50 percent retracement of recent big gains. This, he said, would put the Dow Jones Industrial Average at about the 670 to 680 level. Another view was that the Dow would move down to the 665-675 range before major support developed.

The closely watched barometer of the 30 blue chip issues finished the week at 684.21, a loss of 10.82.

The UPI Market Indicator, measuring all stocks traded, fell 2.52 to 68.59, and the New York Stock Exchange common stock index showed a loss of 1.12 to 40.54.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index slid 1.96 to 74.21.

Of the 1,732 issues crossing the tape, 1,273 declined, 325 gained. There were 219 new lows set, 11 new highs.

Turnover sagged to 38,992,370 shares from 71,960,090 shares the previous week, and also was considerably below the 50,852,321 shares which changed hands during the year ago period.

The daily average turnover for the week of around 7 1/2 million shares compared with an average daily turnover of nearly 11 million shares for the first five months of the year.

Point-size losses cropped up most frequently in the electronics, although declines of a point or more also were noted in the rails, motors, aircrafts

Investment Firm Lists Dividends

Gene Sturgill Investments of Twin Falls has announced the following payments on mutual funds:

Fidelity Fund, Inc., has declared the 15th quarterly dividend of nine cents per share payable June 25 to shareholders of record June 5.

Equity Fund, Inc., declared the 15th quarterly dividend of six cents per share, payable June 30 to shareholders of record June 8.

Value Line Securities, Inc., two cents per share, payable June 22 to shareholders of record June 5.

Investment Company of America, eight cents per share, payable June 26 to shareholders of record May 29.

American Telephone was the second most active issue, rising 1 1/2 to 974,800 shares. The firm's financial crisis was pointed up by a Government decision to grant the railroad heavy financial aid.

Paul A. Gorman, the new chairman of the Penn-Central, said the firm expects a second quarter loss, but not as deep as in the first quarter. Gorman succeeded Stuart T. Saunders, who resigned in a top level shakeup.

Telex Corp., in third position on the active list, gave up 1/4 to 14 1/4 on 371,600 shares.

Other stocks on the active list off 2 or more were Certain-List Products 3 1/4, Xerox 4 1/4, Commonwealth Oil 2 1/4, Stewart-Arner 2 1/4, and Carter Wallace 4 1/4. The last reported a sharp drop in operating net for the fourth quarter ended March 31.

Lower in less active turnover were Corning Glass, down 1 1/4, Schlumberger 5/8, Minnesota Mining 4/8, ARA Services and Mesa Petroleum 4/8 each, and De Soto Industries and Diebold 4/8 apiece.

Also lower were Bethlehem Steel 1/4, Chrysler 2 1/4, General Motors 1/4, Eastman Kodak 3/8, Standard Oil of Ohio 2 1/4, American Airlines 2, United Aircraft 2 1/4, national Cash Register 3/4, Motorola 2 1/4, McIntyre Porcupine 2 1/4, and Wallace Uldre 2 1/4.

Soviets Seek Accord

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Communist party First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev said Friday Russia would strive to overcome deep differences with the United States as part of a policy designed to "prevent world war."

He said the Kremlin believed there were forces within the United States ready to cooperate in a warming of U.S.-Soviet relations, described Thursday by President Nikolai V. Podgorny as "practically in a frozen state."

The burly, dark haired Communist party general secretary followed Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, who spoke Wednesday, in delivering a nationally televised "campaign speech" for Sunday's elections to the Supreme Soviet.

pagno glass in a toast to the president of Indonesia saying, "I realize that the position that I am in is a unique one, one that will not come again, since I am the first president to every pay a state visit to Indonesia. The next American president who comes here will not be in the position I find myself."

But few could doubt that he was setting historical precedent when he put in a telephone call to the Apollo 13 astronauts on the moon. "This certainly has to be the most historic telephone call ever made from the White House."

But he doesn't mind sharing the honors. He told astronaut Charles Conrad Jr., "You weren't the first on the moon — you were the first to sing from the moon, right?"

Nixon the 37th president, has several other firsts. He was the first president to be named baseball's No. 1 fan. He was the first to vote a bill on live television and the first to attend a space launching at Cape Kennedy.

He was the first president to visit an Iron Curtain country and the first president to have a director of communications.

He is the first president to be born West of the Rockies and the first to hold religious services in the White House.

Klan Chief Says Units In Military

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Robert M. Shelton, imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, said Thursday the Klan has units in the armed forces, both in the United States and abroad.

Shelton made the statement after being told the Army was reopening its investigation into charges a Ku Klux Klan klavern is operating in an American unit based in West Germany.

"Yes, we have Klan units in the Army and in the Army in Germany," Shelton said. "And, before it's over, we're going to have the Klan in every town and village and hamlet in the United States."

"What's wrong with a man wanting to be a white man and join a fraternal organization like the Klan," Shelton said. "We haven't heard of those pseudo-intellectual congressmen making investigations of black power insurgents in the ranks of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps who openly advocate the overthrow of the very forces in which they serve," he said.

The Army investigation, ordered by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resnor, was announced by Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., in Washington.

Flower Theft From Graves Is Condemned

Editor, Times-News: I am wondering just what type of person would stoop so low as to steal flowers off graves.

The plant was in a redwood tub, the small size tub. F. SMITH (Oakland, Calif.)

Democrats Believed 'Responsible'

Editor, Times-News: The game is the same but the atmosphere's different. The Democratic convention is a responsible one this year, with the delegates realizing that a two-party system and a realistic gubernatorial race; the party must be united behind one strong candidate.

In the past the Democrats have been saddled, or saddled themselves, with internal division or gambling. This resulted in elections in which the people weren't given their rightful choice, which brought about Republican walkaways each time. Not this time! A GOP victory would have to be earned, against a good man with a solid platform and a united party.

It is not enough to say that only one party can win, but that both parties have given it all they've got to assure the people of Idaho of the best possible leadership.

Three fine, qualified men go from the convention to the people in the Democratic primary this year. The winner, the people's choice, will go on to make this an election that the people of Idaho can be satisfied with the results.

The two-party system, with two strong, well-represented parties, possibly more, is the American way. It will be the way of the State of Idaho this election year.

Ashton Clergyman Says Nixon Has War Powers

Editor, Times-News: The Twin Falls pastor, Robert J. Saman, who commented on the powers of the President and seemed to think he had nothing to do with peace or war does not have much appreciation of his power, it would seem.

The facts are that FDR literally took the United States to war by his own single-handed efforts. The greatest "infamy" of Pearl Harbor was his own contribution to it. Read the "Pinal Secret of Pearl Harbor" by a U. S. admiral, or Dan Moore's analysis of the ability of U. S. code-crackers before Pearl Harbor.

God has never expected "pencemakers" to do anything else but that, as the Beatitude of the Sermon on the Mount plainly suggests Christ clearly says in the Sermon on the Mount that we should be out to influence and change the world for good as His followers (agreed that there are "traitors" and we do need God!)

We cannot wait for His coming to do this. We must work and live for "peace on earth," which is a clear reflection from the Old Testament and is certainly the message of Christmas as well as Easter. Further, as the magnificent Book of Revelation says, when rightly interpreted, man wants and can have peace here as well as hereafter. The United Nations is very imperfect but it is the best we have.

It is absurd to expect less on earth than we will have in Heaven. The two are clearly related; the ideal and the real have always been tied together in the ethical and religious teachings of the Bible. John Foster Dulles thought this way.

Why would Jesus have spoken clearly of politician Herod as a "fox" if He did not wish to influence people about the man who killed the prophet, predecessor and contemporary of Jesus, John the Baptist? He cut off the head of one of God's noblemen. Is this happening in Vietnam and does Nixon have anything to do with it? Presently it appears as though he has everything to do with it, which makes him close to an American dictator, does it not?

When it comes to peace and war, "domestic tranquility" we are a democracy and the Constitution of the United States is being sorely violated in a tortuous manner. So is the U.N. Charter!

President Boasts About Landmarks

By HELEN THOMAS WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: President Nixon likes to boast about the historical "firsts" of his administration.

The press sees the President very seldom these days, but when Nixon was making regular public appearances, he rarely failed to note the occasion in landmark terms.

One who noted this and said, "Somebody should write a book about the 'making of the precedent.'"

With his penchant for marking "firsts" of his tenure, Nixon said at a White House dinner honoring composer Edward "Duke" Ellington:

"I have been here when an emperor has been toasted. I have been here when we have raised our glasses to a king, to a president, and a prime minister, but in studying the history of all the great dinners held in this room, never before has a duke been toasted."

When he flew to New York to soothe the ruffled feelings of French President Charles de Gaulle, Nixon said, "Tonight is the first time a president has ever substituted for the vice president."

When he was honored at a state dinner in Jakarta, Indonesia, Nixon raised his cham-

Scientists Hope To Find Remains Of Noah's Ark

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Embodied in glacial ice 14,000 feet up the side of a high mountain in eastern Turkey is a large mass of hand-hewn timbers.

A team of American scientists and explorers will fly to Turkey this month in an effort to determine if the wood could be the remains of Noah's ark.

Four circumstances encourage the expedition to believe it may be something more than a wild goose chase.

—The site is Mt. Ararat, specifically identified in Genesis 8:4 as the place where Noah's ark came to rest as the waters of the great flood began to subside.

—The wood has been identified as white oak, and no white oak trees grow within 300 miles of the mountain.

—Scientists at the University of Bordeaux in France and the Madrid Institute of Forestry in Spain have concluded from the amount of lignite, the degree of petrification, and the cell structure of the wood that it must be about 5,000 years old. (Radiocarbon tests in U.S. laboratories, however, suggest that the wood came from trees that grew from 100 AD to 600 AD.)

—Chemical tests have yielded evidence that some of the wood had been waterproofed with bituminous pitch.

"There seem to be only two logical possibilities," said Ronald Noehberg, a member of the expedition.

"Either we must assume that some ancient people went to a great deal of trouble to hand-hew timbers, haul them 300 miles overland, and carry them 14,000 feet up the side of a mountain in order to erect a building for some purpose; or we must conclude that a gigantic flood deposited a large, ship-like object on the mountain."

Explorer Fernand Navarra in 1955 discovered a mass of wood embedded in a glacial ice pack at the 14,000 foot level of Mount Ararat. He estimated at least 50 tons of wood were visible through the ice. It appeared to be organized in a bow-shaped structure, and included hand-hewn timbers 150 to 200 feet in length.

In 1969, a privately financed U.S. foundation called Search sent Navarra back to the mountain with diamond-tipped boring tools to obtain samples of the wood. These are the samples that have been tested at scientific laboratories in Europe and America.

The main search expedition of eight members plans to leave Washington about June 15. They will fly to Istanbul,

CHINESE CRITICAL
HONG KONG (UPI)—A Red Guard document smuggled out of Red China described Russian visitors to China as "lazy and gluttonous."

The document, obtained by diplomatic sources, cited the visit of a song and dance group of the Russian army to Changsha in central China as an example.

"Its members were lazy and gluttonous, and they constantly looked around for good things to satisfy their gluttony," it said.

Gross Discrimination
OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian government gives a male employee a holiday with pay when his child is born, but a woman must give birth on her own time.

This fact, came to light this week in Treasury Board President C. M. Drury's replies to written questions from a member of parliament.

Drury revealed that although a male in the civil service gets a day off with pay when his child is being born, a woman gets no such government benefit.

Does the government intend to extend the courtesy to women, Drury was asked. "No," he replied.

Optimism Voiced Over Thai Plans

By LEON DANIEL
BANGKOK (UPI)—American officials here are cautiously optimistic about Thailand's decision to send volunteers to fight in neighboring Cambodia but acknowledge they cannot foresee the long-range results of that policy.

"We feel that this kind of initiative is something to be encouraged," one of them said this week.

But another conceded Thailand's plan to send Thai volunteers of Cambodian descent across the border to fight contains elements of risk.

"We don't know, for example, what effect this might have on the Communist insurgency in Thailand," he said. "I suspect west Cambodia is sort of a target of opportunity for the Communists, but if they really have decided to take over Cambodia, a Thai reaction there could lead to a Communist reaction here."

On its face, the Thai proposal seems modest enough. It calls initially for training some 1,200 volunteers in jungle warfare for eight weeks and sending them to fight under the command of the Cambodian army in its effort to oust the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. Thailand also says it will send military equipment to Cambodia.

The volunteers would be trained at bases where U.S. advisers are stationed, but American officials here insist "this is strictly a Thai operation and nothing special is being set up for them."

These officials do not believe that Thailand will be lured into a full-scale war on Cambodian soil. However, the Thais have been making noises about sending their 72,000-man Vietnam contingent to Cambodia if the situation worsens.

"They just don't have the luxury of that option," one said, explaining that Thailand does not have the military manpower to risk exposing its borders by marching en-masse to the aid of the government of Premier Lon Nol, who ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk as Cambodia's ruler last March. American officials said Thailand would be in big trouble if the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh falls to the Communists, but added that whether or how much Thais should aid in its defense is a matter to be decided by Thailand and Cambodia.

Thailand's willingness to send volunteers to fight in Cambodia is a measure of the government's concern as the war moves closer to the Thai border.

The lighter side of the razor sprouting phenomenon, but we blades and other shaving needn't go into that now. A more important point, in my judgment, is its sociological significance.

For what we have here, in effect, is a new and potentially troublesome explanation for that familiar masculine bane, the five o'clock shadow. The potentially troublesome effect, is a new and potentially troublesome explanation for that familiar masculine bane, the five o'clock shadow.

ASH, England (UPI)—Army engineers have erected an antitank barrier in front of the garden wall of Arthur Rappkins' home after he complained that cars and trucks kept crashing through it. The house is on a hillside in London.

aspect may be illustrated thusly: Husband gets home from office at 5 p.m., wife says, "Did you forget to shave this morning?" "No, I didn't forget to shave."

"Then why is your beard so much heavier than usual?" "Maybe I need a new blade in my razor."

Once word of the British study gets around, that old worn-out blade excuse will no longer be acceptable.

"Maybe what you really need is a pair of blinders," wife will say.

We could be getting into a situation where for the first time in history a five o'clock shadow will be grounds for divorce.

We also could be getting into a situation where sex appeal will be measured by its impact on the beard.

"Went to the new Raquel Welch movie last night."

"How was it?" "Great! By the time the first reel was over there wasn't a clean-shaven man in the house."

Or, something along this line might develop:

"Girls, is the man of your dreams still smooth-cheeked after an evening in your company? Then maybe you've been using the wrong kind of toothpaste."

"Before your next date, try brushing with Bedezle!—And when you're out together dancing cheek-to-cheek, you'll find your face being scratched by his whiskers. It could be the beginning of a beautiful romance."

Reported First Rail Is Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—History books say the transcontinental railroad in the United States was completed with the nailing of a golden spike on May 10, 1869, at Promontory Point, Utah.

Not so, says Rep. Donald G. Brotzman, R-Colo. "Despite the famous golden spike ceremony at Promontory Point, Utah, in 1869, a true continuous rail line did not come until more than a year later," Brotzman said Thursday. "Traffic on the Union Pacific main line was interrupted until 1872 between Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa, by the delay of completion of a railroad bridge over the Missouri River."

A bridge was built over the Missouri at Kansas City and rails were driven west across Kansas where "the line was linked on August 15, 1870, at Comanche Crossing near what today is Strasburg, Colo.," Brotzman said.

Brotzman and Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the American Association of Railroads, both active in the Golden Spike Centennial Commission, will participate in the Comanche Crossing centennial ceremony at Strasburg Aug. 15.

Student Is Lauded For Patriotism

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—An Ohio State University student who grabbed a fallen American flag to save it from a group of demonstrators was honored Friday by two congressmen.

U.S. Reps. Chalmers Wylie and Samuel Devine, both R-Ohio, presented Kurt Schmitt, 19, with an American flag that had flown over the U.S. Capitol building in Washington.

Schmitt was one of six students attempting to protect the flag during a campus demonstration May 31.

The flag was pulled down by between 30 and 40 demonstrators. Schmitt caught it and ran to a nearby ROTC building where he sought refuge.

"I didn't care that much when buildings were burned or classrooms blocked," said Schmitt, "but when they tried to tear down that flag that was something much bigger."

What You Should Know About

These days, "shades" are a fashion accessory—but don't overlook their basic job of protection.

THERE was a time when sunglasses merely served their basic, practical purpose—to protect the eyes from sun glare. But today, "shades" have become for many an important fashion accessory. Nor are sunglasses confined solely to daytime summer wear. They are being worn night and day, summer and winter, in an infinite variety of shapes and colors.

Whole advertising campaigns are based on the glamorous aura of sunglasses. Such Hollywood stars as Jill St. John ("Isn't that Jill St. John behind those Foster Grants?") and Leslie Caron have been photographed in exotic locales wearing beautifully designed sunglasses. The recent boom in sunglasses has pushed annual sales to an unprecedented $400 million level say industry spokesmen.

With the flood of styles and tints now available, there is more than meets the eye in selecting the right pair for you. Some glasses, for example, have coloring so light that they afford little protection from the sun.

Powerful sunlight can make you irritable, tire your facial muscles—even impair your vision. According to the Better Vision Institute, inferior lenses may be full of tiny irregularities which may interfere with sharp, strain-free seeing. They may cause "image degradation," eyestrain, headaches, fatigue, and nausea. Moreover, cheap lenses do not give scientific, ultra-violet nor infrared protection for your eyes.

When it comes to buying sunglasses, there are a number of things to look for that will help you to make the proper selection. First, experts seem to be in unanimous agreement that neutral grey or sage green are the best tints.

The least amount of distortion takes place with the grey lens. Green lenses run a close second.

These lenses give the best color perception since eye protection increases in proportion to the darkness of the lens, according to Bausch & Lomb researchers. Stay away from fancy colors such as red, blue, bright green or yellow. They can seriously distort the natural colors of objects and do not provide adequate glare protection.

The best and most expensive sunglasses are those made from optically ground and polished glass. Low-cost lenses produced from flat glass may have imperfections and not be distortion-free.

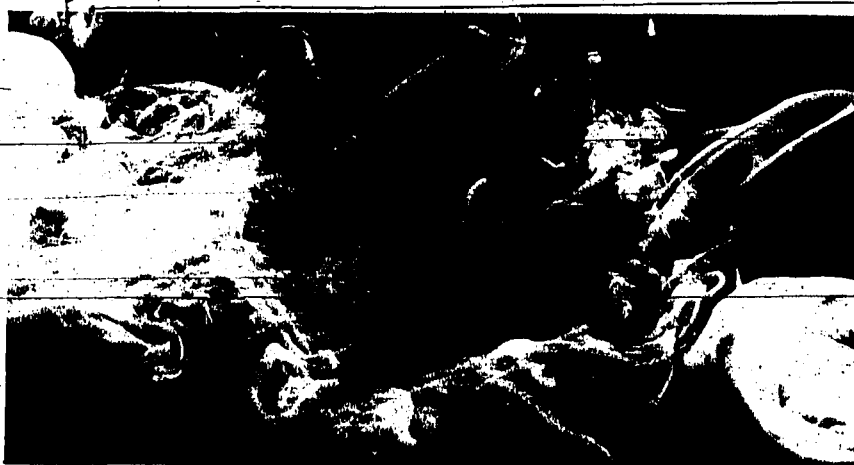

The majority of sunglasses made today have plastic lenses, and they can be made with excellent optical qualities. However, while plastic lenses can do a very good job of reducing glare and the effects of ultraviolet rays, they are not effective when it comes to more powerful infrared rays.

Sunglasses

your eyes from glare

By J. ROBERT CONNOR

Far left, sunglasses have light tint for indoors or out. Men's "Apollo 11" are especially glare-resistant. "Red Baron" sports a topaz-tinted lens.

A leading maker of plastic lenses is Cool-Ray, Inc., producers of Polaroid sunglasses. The lenses are made like a many-layered sandwich with a polarizer, or glare barrier, between two sheets of plastic.

Reflected glare, the blinding light that bounces off reflective surfaces like water, snow, and roadways, is made up mostly of horizontally vibrating polarized light. Lenses should veil this sheen of polarized light and permit only the useful light through to your eyes. Whereas ordinary sunglasses darken all light, proper lenses selectively eliminate harsh glare light.

When you have decided on the type and color of the sunglasses you want, take the time to examine them carefully. Look through the lenses to check for distortion. The light intensity should be reduced and the color density of each lens should be the same.

Hold the lenses a few inches in front of each eye and rotate each lens individually, looking at a distant object to make sure that there are no air bubbles, wavy lines, or distortions in the lens.

Experts say that a lens that permits as much as 50 percent of the light through to the eyes is worthless as a sunglass. The lenses worn by skiers or beach enthusiasts on a bright day should transmit no more than 20 percent of the light to avoid the bright reflected glare.

An important point to remember is that your eyes use 25 percent of your nervous energy. You can imagine the effect on your entire system when your eyes have to compensate for an abnormal condition such as the distortion found in lenses of inferior quality. Eye muscles will try to adjust to seek a clear image with a faulty lens.

Prices for most sunglasses run about $1.50 in drug and chain stores and about $3 to $15 in department stores. Prices for good optically ground glasses range from about $10 to $28 and up. A variety of special glasses also is available. One style has coated gradient-density lenses, dark at the top to protect against overhead glare and almost clear at the bottom, permitting an aircraft pilot, for example, to see the instrument panel. There are also special glasses for hunters and bontors.

With a little care, you can select a good pair of sunglasses designed to reduce the sun's glare and protect your eyes. If you need prescription glasses, get them, or drop in at your optician or optometrist and ask him to help you select a good pair. For today's on-the-go people who seek fun in the sun, sunglasses are not a luxury, they're a necessity. ♦

LOVE AFTER DEATH:

The Strange Experience of Bishop

This fantastic story may be inspirational to some, unbelievable to others; but no one can doubt

By TERRY SCHAERTEL

Life for Diane Kennedy changed dramatically and irrevocably when she enrolled in a summer course at Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, Calif., in June, 1966. It wasn't the course content that altered Diane's life, but rather the teacher—Bishop James Pike.

Diane was 27, Bishop Pike 53. They were strongly attracted to each other and an affection, a love, grew that transcended both the age difference and, finally, even death.

Diane, a teacher of education and theology and director of youth work at First Methodist Church in Palo Alto, Calif., and James Pike, former Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of California, were married in December, 1968. Their life together was short but filled with meaningful work, love, religious dedication, discovery—and tragedy. Out of the tragedy came, for Diane, a feeling that death need not be final, can indeed be a beginning to a new spiritual communication.

The story which began in an air-conditioned classroom at Berkeley and reached a climax in the searing desert heat of Israel sounds almost too fanciful to be true. But Diane Pike tells of her experience with the utmost conviction:

"Jim and I went to Israel last year to drink in the origins of Christianity, to get a feeling for the wilderness where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found and where the New Testament reports Jesus spent 40 days fasting."

The Pikes started out for a short drive from Jerusalem and Bethlehem that day in late August, preliminary to their planned expedition with guide and supplies. The rented car broke down in an inaccessible, untraveled spot. After an exhausting two-hour hike, unprotected from the 120-degree temperature, they knew they were lost. They lay down on the rocks and waited for what they felt would be certain death.

However, toward evening, Diane felt a sudden surge of determination; she must not give up, she must try to get help. Relying on God for strength and safety, she started out on an incredible trek alone, with no food or water, walking, climbing, falling, crawling, through the jagged cliffs and canyons of the barren Israeli desert.

Ten hours later, bruised, bleeding, weak, and dehydrated, with a broken ankle she'd had to ignore, she stumbled into a small construction camp. She had no idea in which direction she had come. A search party was organized, its efforts ending six days later when Bishop Pike's body was finally found on a wilderness cliff.

In 56 years this remarkable man had lived fully. He had been admitted to the bar of the U.S. Supreme Court at 26, served as a senior trial attorney for the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and as an officer in Naval Intelligence during World War II. He had been both a devout Roman Catholic and an agnostic before he joined the Episcopal Church and began a career in its ministry.

He had been married, become a father, and been divorced. Midst controversy, aroused in large part by his questioning of the total validity of the terminology of some of the basic doctrines of Christianity, he had assumed an inactive role in the California Episcopal Diocese he once headed and become a staff member of the prestigious Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. He had taught and written books on law, theology, and ethics.

Bishop James Pike was buried in the Protestant cemetery in Jaffa, Israel, beside the Mediterranean Sea. His young widow returned to their home in Santa Barbara, Calif. They had been married eight months.

Back in California, members of the board of directors of the Foundation for Religious Transition (since renamed the Bishop Pike Foundation) urged Diane to share her unique experience with the world, with both admirers and critics of the controversial bishop, while memories remained vivid. The result is her book, "Search—The Personal Story of a Wilderness Journey," published by Doubleday.

Diane has also been busy adjusting to yet another way of life. In her widowhood she is very much alone. Yet she speaks as if her husband were still with her. She continues her story:

"I feel there are three levels of adjustment to grief one has to make,—spiritual, emotional, and physical. "Spiritual has to do with the question of death. Everyone's death, his, mine. What does it mean? What does life mean? Of course, neither Jim nor I feared death. We both believe in God and a life hereafter. Jim looked forward to life after death with joy. Part of the future for me will be learning to know and relate to Jim in a new way through the 'barrier' of death, an experience which has already begun.

"I don't hear words, and I have not 'seen' him, except in dreams. The best way I can describe the communication is this: I tune in on Jim's 'vibrational channel.' When I knew him in the flesh, I became very sensitive to a sense of his presence; now that Jim is no longer able to be physically present, if I open myself to a sense of his presence, I feel that same vivid sense of communication. It is easier to tune into that than a facial image; I know Jim no longer looks like he did.

"In the first weeks after Jim's death, most of the messages which came through dreams had to do with my adjustment to the absence of his physical body, and the nature of the relationship we could have now.

"There was one specific message of quite a different nature, however, the courage and strength of this young widow that came to me after I had decided to write the book. I woke up one morning, having had a dream, and received the titles of the last three chapters and a sketchy outline of their contents. So that when I wrote them up, I had the strong feeling I was writing what Jim would have said, as well as what I wanted to say myself.

"I have also asked him about persons who have died—and about his relationship with them and have had what I felt was a direct response to those questions.

"I am not going to bother him with things that are not essentially his concern any more, such as running the foundation. However, if I needed a level of insight or understanding in a larger sense, I would feel free to ask about that.

"As a matter of fact, I have a request to Jim now for a name for our book on "the historical Jesus." We had worked through the book in synopsis form; now I'm writing it up according to what we had planned to do."

Meditation is the preparation essential for spiritual communication, according to Diane Pike. This practice undoubtedly enabled her to experience her vivid, detailed vision in Israel the night before her husband's body was located. She was awakened from sleep by it, and it did not fade when she went to the adjoining room to share it, as it was occurring, with her brother, Scott, who had flown over to be with her and help in the search. The vision lasted 45 minutes.

In it she saw her husband's death as peaceful, willing, and full of joy, a wonderful religious experience. She also saw his reception into the after-life of "the communion of saints." The searchers found him—as she knew they would—in the position revealed to her.

"I remember thinking after I identified Jim's body, I could understand why non-believers are so tormented. How could anyone without faith adjust to death if you thought your loved one really ended in that horrible physical state. Yet I never even had a nightmare over it. I felt I'd loved this body when Jim was in it; he's not using it now, so it's good and proper that it go back to the earth so it can be used for new life. Ashes to ashes, dust to dust.

"After Jim's death, I found myself not only waiting prayers to God, but also sending little thoughts to Jim, such as—'I'm okay, don't worry about me . . . wish I could be experiencing what must be a marvelous experience for you . . . I love you.' And I felt that I was heard. It occurred to me perhaps someday I could communicate with others, too.

"The second level of grief, emotional, has to do primarily with how one feels about oneself. It has nothing to do with life after death, but with our philosophy about relationships. And guilt. Many people in grief torture themselves with what they should have done or said—like clearing up misunderstandings or voicing loving thoughts of 'I like you . . . you look good today, and now it's too late.'"

Diane would slip in and out of the present tense when speaking—as if somehow Bishop Pike were still alive.

"Jim and I are very expressive persons. We always told each other our feelings. There were no words left unsaid, no hostilities unaided. I can't tell you what a comfort that is. I cannot think of one thing I could have said or done had I known Jim was about to die. He had always believed a relationship should be this way, though he never experienced it.

Diane gives last loving touch to the coffin at husband's burial in Israel.

Episcopal Bishop James Pike and Diane Kennedy were married December, 1968.

I had acted it out more.

"In our relationship, he discovered the freedom to be the way he'd wanted to be, and I found real fulfillment in what had been my lifestyle—but I'd never found anyone who could so fully respond to it. It was a chemistry where two personalities interacting made a new one. Because we lived so deeply and with a large variety of experiences, I believe there was more fullness in our brief relationship than in many which last years. I have no regrets.

"I was fortunate that I didn't suffer on any of those levels, but I suffered greatly on the third, the physical. It is the most painful. It has to do with your body adjusting to not being close to another body with whom there has been an active interchange of physical energy. It is especially so in a husband-and-wife relationship, though I think it would also be so for a mother, on the death of a child, having carried it in her body. The pain affects the emotions because our body and emotions are so directly related. The extrasensory communication is a comfort, but it is not a substitute for the person, for Jim being there. You are single again—and that's a difficult adjustment."

Like most widows, Diane Pike has many friends who intended to be comforting to her. Most were, but there is a lesson in some of the well-meaning but mistaken ways they only made her grief worse.

"Crying is almost the only way I've found to relieve the physical pain. A loving, comforting embrace helps, or just a friendly presence sitting there nearby. It didn't help at all to say words to me—certainly not 'cheer up' or 'don't cry' or 'time will help."

"However, unrelated words did help, supporting ones, like 'Diane, we count you as one of our dearest friends . . . we care very much about you.' The affirmation of an ongoing relationship is very comforting. My mother, for instance, during my worst moments, embraced me warmly and said 'I am so sorry you are going through this.' That was very healing, because it was an acknowledgement of the fact of my suffering, letting me be me, and not telling me to be different."

The important thing for friends of the bereaved to avoid seems to be telling them how they should feel.

"I think the question which upsets me most is 'What are you going to do? Sell the house?' I am a strong person emotionally and even I don't know. I doubt that I'll be able to think of plans for a year at least."

Bishop Pike's widow's main energies now are devoted to continuing his work. She is president of the Foundation, which has the aim "to be of help to many persons, both clergy and laymen, who are conscious of the fact that they are in a period of very difficult transition with regard to institutional religion and/or their personal faith and beliefs." She is also continuing their original plans to bring small groups of interested persons to Israel, to walk where Jesus walked. In August, there will be a two-week study tour "to discover the roots of our Christian tradition." (For further information, write the Bishop Pike Foundation, Box 5146, Dept. FW, Santa Barbara, Calif. 93103.)

"I know God is there before me," she concludes. "The future will unfold its meaning and promise." ☛

June is Dairy Month

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ For more than thirty years June has been the month designated by the industry to point up dairy foods. Convenience, flavor, good nutrition and versatility are characteristic of any one—whether your choice is ice cream, milk, buttermilk, sour cream or whipping cream, cottage and cream cheese, or other cheeses. For that sumptuous bridal banquet or for a back-yard bash, surely dairy products belong to summer.

Molded Spinach Cottage Cheese on Platter

- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 eny. unflavored gelatin
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons minced green onion

1. Cook and drain spinach, reserving liquid. Add enough water to liquid to make 1/2 cup. Set spinach and liquid aside.

2. Soften gelatin in the 1/2 cup water in a saucepan; add bouillon cubes. Set over low heat, stirring occasionally, until gelatin and bouillon cubes are dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in spinach liquid and lemon juice. Set aside.

3. Beat cottage cheese until fairly smooth with mixer or in electric blender. Blend with sour cream and then gelatin mixture. Stir in spinach, celery, green pepper, and onion. Turn into a 6-cup mold. Chill until firm.

4. Unmold onto a chilled large platter and surround mold with halved hard-cooked egg whites filled with a mixture of sliced hard-cooked egg yolks, dairy sour cream, prepared horseradish, and seasoned salt. If desired, alternate slices of summer sausage and filled egg halves around the mold. 6 to 8 servings

Cheddar Macaroni Salad

- 1 pkg. (7 or 8 oz.) elbow macaroni
- 1 to 2 cups cubed Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup sweet pickle relish
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 3 tablespoons chopped green onion
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 3 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard

1. Cook macaroni according to pkg. directions; drain.

2. In a large bowl, put macaroni, cheese, pickle relish, green pepper, green onion, and a blend of remaining ingredients; mix well. Cover and chill. Serve salad garnished with cherry tomato halves and watercress. 6 to 8 servings

Butter Balls

Scald, then chill butter paddles in a bowl of ice and water. Measure butter by tablespoons (for uniformity) and drop into the icy water. For each ball, place a portion of butter on the grooved side of one paddle. Using the second paddle, grooved side down, work paddles lightly in a rolling motion until a ball is formed. Drop into icy water. Later pile into a serving dish and refrigerate until ready to use. Garnish with parsley sprigs.

Strawberry Sour Cream Pie

Vanilla Wafer Crumb Crust (see recipe).

- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup sugar

4. When ready to serve, garnish pie with the whipped cream and strawberries (see photo). One 9-in. pie.

Vanilla Wafer Crumb Crust

- 1 1/4 cups vanilla wafer crumbs* (about 34 wafers)
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 cup butter, melted

1. Mix the crumbs and sugar thoroughly in a bowl; blend in butter. Turn mixture into a 9-in. pie plate and press crumbs firmly into an even layer over bottom and up sides of plate, building up slightly around rim.

2. Bake at 350°F. 5 min. Cool thoroughly before filling.

One 9-in. crumb crust

*To prepare crumbs, place cookies on a long length of waxed paper or aluminum foil. Loosely fold paper or foil around cookies, tucking under-open ends. With a rolling pin, gently crush to make fine crumbs. Or put cookies into a plastic bag and gently crush.

Ham and Cheese Roll-Ups

- Swiss cheese, cut in finger-shaped pieces
- Sliced cooked ham (about 1/2 lb. thick)

Memory: Clue to Your Child's Development

The years from one to five are vital ones as the ability to remember expands

By FLORA RHETA SCHREIBER

Author of "Your Child's Speech: A Practical Guide for Parents for the First Five Years"

By fourth year, child begins to count in sequence up to 10.

FFF
FFF

WHEN Jacqueline Kennedy was five years old and became separated from her nurse in Central Park, she calmly went up to a policeman and gave him her phone number.

When her mother arrived, Jacqueline announced that she had her nurse but her nurse had been lost.

This anecdote, denoting self-reliance on the part of a five-year-old, could not have taken place in a four-year-old or a three-year-old. Obviously it cannot take place until the child is old enough to remember his own phone number. And it illustrates a fact that practically all parents overlook—that a child's behavior is conditioned by the stage of memory development he has reached.

It is useless, for instance, to say to a child of two, "But I told you not to do that," when the telling took place a month before. He just cannot remember back that far.

Nor is there any point in asking a two-year-old to get the "red" pitcher. The two-year-old has no memory for color.

It is helpful therefore to know of what acts of memory a child is capable as he moves from the first year, during which memories are simply responses to direct appeals to the senses, and to strong emotional experiences, chiefly painful ones, to the virtually adult memory he acquires in his fifth year. This "timetable" of normal development determines the kinds of instructions the child at each age is able to absorb.

During his second year, you can give your child some small sense of responsibility and can expect him to carry out a few simple commands.

With the second year comes, too, a sense of time and also the ability to remember a person who is not present. A 19-month-old boy, for example, kept murmuring all through a Sunday morning, "Helen's sleeping." His mother soon realized that it was his way of recalling that the previous Sunday they had an overnight guest named Helen. How the boy purred when he realized his mother understood what he was saying. Moments like this, when rightly interpreted as milestones along memory's path, can be the means of deepening relations.

To the second half of the second year belongs the important capacity for storing up memories which become the bedrock of later learning. Passages from Sophocles read to a baby (who had no other contact with Greek) from the time he was 15 months until he was 18 months, for instance, made it possible for him at eight and a half years to memorize these passages after 317 repetitions while he required 433 repetitions to memorize passages that had not been read to him when he was a baby.

In your child's third year, you can take advantage of his growing sense of time—of present, past, and future—by teaching him to tell time.

Be precise about time. Loose phrases like "just a minute," which may mean many minutes, confuse the child. At this age, delighting in hearing about his own unremembered past, he often asks you to tell him about "when I was a baby." This is your clue to filling in memories for him and giving him a sense of their chronological order.

By now the child can describe in detail events that took place a month or two, and in some cases, even a year before. Now you can realistically say, "But I told you not to do that."

And now you can say get the "red" pitcher, for the child of this age has developed memory for color.

The fourth year witnesses the charged overflow of rapidly developing memory. The child can now be expected to tell you whether it is morning or afternoon and how old he is. He can count in sequence up to 10. His rattling off a sequence of numbers, from three to 10, however, is in most cases a mere matter of rote memory. He does not really know the meaning of numbers. If you show him several objects, he can count only three of them. He can, in all likelihood, remember four digits and the future tense has entered his vocabulary.

During this year the child's memories pour out in stories, in endless, unrelenting narratives. If you and he look at two pictures and you ask him to point to one of them, he will point to both. "This one is bigger. This smaller. This one is nice."

One thing leads to another, and the four-year-old talks and talks. He makes many, many free associations.

More and more, since the end of his third year, the child has shown facility in understanding what is not present. Even so, he cannot yet easily imagine himself in a situation beyond his experience. If you ask him what he would do if he were separated from you in a crowded store, he is likely to be unable to answer.

His capacity for generalizing, a process of drawing inductions from memories, is steadily growing, however. When asked what he must do when hungry, he replies not, "I eat," as he did before, but simply "eat." He thus shows that he knows not only that he eats but others do, too.

This fourth year is noteworthy, too, for the true onset of permanent memory. What permanent memories he has had before, as in the case of the 15-month-old who absorbed Greek passages, were chiefly unconscious.

These permanent memories, which first appear when an impression is made in the brain of sufficient depth to be retained through life and which are almost always precipitated by strong emotions, are the ones that will linger into old age.

The major gain of the fifth year is an ability to remember concepts. When you tell a four-year-old that one man is considered as good as the other, he is likely to ask which man is the "one" and which the "other." At five, however, he understands that in speaking of "one man" and the "other" you are using general ideas and do not mean individual persons. This new capacity for generalizing means that you can begin to talk ideas to the child and expect him to understand what you mean.

Now the child understands not only what is but also what could be. Ask him what he must do before he crosses the street, and he will tell you, "Wait for the light to change," or, "Wait till the policeman signals," or something similar. Ask him what he would do if he lost his mother in a crowded store and he will answer, "Look for her," or "Get somebody to help me find her."

He should, of course, not be taxed beyond his mental capacities. Since most five-year-olds can remember only four digits—a house address, for example, he should not be scolded should he not remember a telephone number.

From this "timetable" you can gauge how good or bad your child's memory is for his age. To improve his memory, within the limits of each year's capabilities, you can increase the stimuli. The new memory for color in the third year can, for example, be stimulated by referring to the colors of clothes and other objects. The ability to deal with concepts in the fifth year can be the spur to dealing with the child as a reasonable human being.

An understanding of the various levels of children's memory can help you to be fairer to your child and promote family harmony. ♦

BOB HOPE AT GRADUATION: Commencement of the Gags

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT exercises are solemn proceedings—unless comedian Bob Hope takes a turn at the rostrum. Then the gags begin to flow (see the samples on this page drawn from Hope's appearance last year at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio), and the academic robes to shake with laughter. An invited graduation speaker nearly every June, Hope imparts his share of wisdom, too, and is taken seriously enough to have been awarded 15 honorary degrees, including one last week from the University of Nevada. •

"Remember the good old days when a student would write home, 'Dear Dad, got an A in business management, send money for laundry.' Today they say, 'Flunked picketing, mail bail.'"

"I'm sorry I didn't go to college. I didn't know how much I missed until I saw the picture, 'The Graduate.'"

"Many colleges are no longer giving Bachelor of Arts degrees. After four years you become a certified guerrilla fighter."

WORLD'S FIRST SPOT-REDUCING DIET!

Designed by America's best-known diet doctor—to smooth out ugly bulges that have never given way to any diet you have ever tried before!

Based on an entirely new medical principle, it works two ways to give you a better figure than you may even have had as a teenage! Like this...

1) First, it carves anywhere from 5 to 10 to 15 pounds off your body in the very first week! And up to 10 pounds a week from then on, as only the first step of this wonder-working new medical diet!

2) And then—after you have lost as much as 20 or 30 or even 40 pounds in the first 6 weeks alone—you then concentrate on those ugly bulges no other diet has ever been able to touch before! Still, through nothing but diet alone, you then see up to...

- 4 inches MORE gone from your waist . . .
- 6 inches MORE gone from your hips . . .
- 6 inches MORE gone from your buttocks . . .
- 4 inches MORE gone from your thighs . . .
- 2 inches MORE gone from your calves . . .

Until you can hardly believe that the figure you are looking at in the mirror is your own! And all through the application of a new medical principle by America's most famous diet doctor!

Like this . . .

Most Diets Remove Skin-Fat Only! But This Diet Pulls Deep Fat And Excess
Protein Right Out From The Muscle Areas
Themselves! THAT'S WHY IT SMOOTHS OUT
UGLY MUSCLE BULGES THAT YOU CAN'T EVEN EXERCISE AWAY!

Now you are beginning to understand the powerful logic of this new reducing plan! It is so important to your future health and appearance, however, that we must go into a few more details about it with you right now:

Fat—deposited right underneath your skin. You can feel it if you squeeze the skin. This is skin-fat, and it is the fat you usually get rid of in ordinary diets.

Any good diet will burn this skin-fat away. This diet does too—but far more quickly than you have ever dreamed before! As much as 5 to 15 pounds in the very first week, as started! (That's why the doctor says that this diet has its own "Built-In Will Power"—because you lose weight so incredibly fast, this way, that you wouldn't break this diet for the world!)

But then, after this massive quick-weight loss—after this skin-fat has been burned right out of your body—this new medical diet goes one step further that opens up a whole new world of beauty to you!

Now it goes after the DEEP-FAT in your body—the fat and excess protein that is "interlocked" with the muscles of your waist, your hips, your buttocks, your thighs, and all the other ugly "problem-bulges of your body"!

These are the areas ordinary diets really can't touch—because their food-mixtures reinforce these muscle-fat bulges rather than carve them down! These are the areas that laugh at even hack-breaking exercises—because they only make the muscles there GROW, and don't have the slightest effect on the fat!

But This New Diet Causes These Muscle-Fat Bulges TO FEED-ON-THEMSELVES!
To Gently, But Rapidly, Pull Out
Excess Fat And Protein Right Out
Of These Bulges! So These Bulges
Look Almost As Though You Had SMOOTHED THEM AWAY WITH AN ERASER!

Now for the final point—and perhaps the most convincing fact of all: This new QUICK INCHES-OFF DIET is given to you by perhaps the most successful reducing specialist in the world! It is backed and proven by over forty-five years of medical experience of Dr. Irwin Maxwell Stillman, who gave you last year the revolutionary "Doctor's Quick Weight-Loss Diet."

But now Dr. Stillman has gone far beyond mere quick-weight loss diets! He has taken his previous Quick Weight Loss principles, and literally MULTIPLIED their power to give you a more beautiful new figure! Where you not only skyrocket down to your ideal weight—even easier than before—but also where you curve away up to 6 to 10 inches from the very problem spots that have always resisted trimming before! Thus, Dr. Stillman has done what might have previously been considered impossible. He has actually improved his previous techniques! He has combined what is probably the world's fastest and healthiest system of losing POUNDS, with a brand-new system of carving off PROBLEM-INCHES—all you get the slimmest, healthiest, youngest-looking figure you have ever known in your life!

Prove Every Ounce Of It—Entirely At Our Risk!

The rest is up to you, of course. Right now, look bluntly at your figure in the mirror. Ask yourself these questions—all of which are now within your reach!

- How would you look one week from today about 10 pounds lighter?
- How would you look two weeks from today about 20 pounds lighter?
- How would you look three weeks from today about 30 or more pounds lighter? And with your face as radiant, and livelier and younger-looking than you feature!

And then, go on even further—
After you've lost that weight, how would you look with another 6 inches carved off your waist? Another 6 inches carved off your hips? Another 6 inches carved off your buttocks? Another 4 inches carved right off your thighs?

We suggest, of course, that you check out this diet, and its effect on you as you go along, with your own doctor.

No one has ever told you this kind of weight loss, and inch loss was ever possible before. IT IS NOW! Its source is the Coupon below. All you risk to try it is a 6-cent stamp. It works for YOU, or you don't lose a penny!

What's Your Gardening I.Q.?

QUIZ

By KEN and PAT KRAFT

Here are a few true-false questions to test your gardening "I.Q." All deal with the increasingly popular hobby of home vegetable gardening, which now is carried on by an estimated 40 million Americans.

Be careful—some of these questions are "planted." A score of eight right is good, and 10 right is excellent. If you got all 12 right, you are a champion gardener.

1. A vegetable garden made in the raw earth around a new home is more likely to do well.
2. Every seed packet tells how to grow its contents.
3. The smallest practical space for a kitchen garden is about 10 feet square.
4. The most critical period in a plant's life is when it is ripening its crop.
5. The best bets for a home garden are the vegetables that have given satisfaction for many years.
6. Flowers and vegetables do not grow well when planted near each other.
7. All the seeds in a packet should be planted within a month after opening the packet.
8. Only the "seed potatoes" can be planted for a crop.
9. You can raise excellent vegetables without spraying or dusting.
10. The best time to harvest corn is very early in the morning.
11. Among occupational groups, a high percentage of doctors tend gardens.
12. You can grow your own vegetables for approximately what they cost at the store.

ANSWERS

1. True. Such soil is not worn out from overplanting and is apt to be especially healthy, even if littered with debris. Spade in organic-matter such as peat-moss, add fertilizer, and plant with confidence.
2. True. The basic information is in digest form on the packet. Check it for time of planting, spacing, planting depth, and such.
3. False. As an attractive edging for a path, you can grow beets, cress, garlic, carrots, herbs. And practically any vegetable will grow in a tub, a box, or even a bucket.
4. False. The most critical period is when the seed is germinating. If it dries out for even a few minutes it may die. Keep soil moist, with a covering of sheet plastic, burlap, newspapers, or a board till first sprouts appear.
5. False. Better varieties are constantly being bred, including fine modern hybrids that quite often grow where no older variety thrives.

6. False. Such companion plantings are often thought to help each other. There is some evidence that marigolds, for example, repel nematodes.

7. False. Leftover seed can be stored by putting the packet in the refrigerator in a closed plastic bag.

8. False. Though certified seed potatoes are most dependable, you can plant in your garden the potato you bought to eat. This is a good use for potatoes already starting to sprout.

9. True. While success is more certain through the use of proper chemical controls, the most important plant health factors are sun, air, food, and water.

10. False. Corn makes sugar during sunny hours. If possible, harvest it late in the afternoon—and ideally just a few minutes before you cook it.

11. True. A poll by a large seed house found that a higher percentage of doctors garden for relaxation than do members of nearly any other group. Doctors also frequently "prescribe" gardening for their tense patients.

12. False. Even counting all the running expenses, just season a first-year gardener we know raised superb lettuce, for instance, for under two cents a head. This is not unusual.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They, Themselves, Suffer From Hemorrhoids?

Exclusive Formula Gives Prompt; Temporary Relief From Pain, Itching In Many Cases... and Actually Helps Shrink Swollen Hemorrhoid Tissues—Caused By Inflammation

News about a most effective medication for hemorrhoids comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use for relief of hemorrhoids, fifty-eight percent of the doctors reporting named one particular formula which they either use or recommend to their families. This medication in case after case gives prompt, temporary relief for hours from pain of tissues and actually helps shrink swelling of inflamed hemorrhoid tissues. Tests upon hundreds of patients showed this to be true. The medication used in these tests was Preparation H®—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Preparation H also lubricates the affected area to protect the irritated surface and so helps make bowel movements less painful. There's no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.
