Nixon Sets Date For Lottery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has set July 1 for the nation's second draft lottery following a Supreme Court ruling that could produce a flood of applications from young men seeking conscientious-objector status.

Selections under Director Curtis W. Tarr, at a news conference Tuesday, said the ruling, which allows registrants to invoke the claim of conscientious objector on moral or ethical as well as religious grounds, will not apply retroactively.

He said it will not apply to anyone who has been ordered to report for induction—and also said it does not mean a youth can seek exemption as an objector to "this particular war"—Vietnam.

Tarr said guidelines were being sent out to local draft boards across the nation advising them how to handle objector applications in light of the court's decision of two days ago. Tarr conceded that local boards would have a tough time with some applications.

Nixon signed an executive order eliminating state and local quotas in the drawing of the July 1 draft lottery for youths who turn 19 during 1970.

The lottery held last December set numbers based on birthdates for men who were already 19 to 25 years old.

Under the new lottery order, all eligible males whose names begin with J and who were born in 1951 on whatever day is drawn first would be among the first to be called regardless of where they lived.

The alphabetical order of the lottery set in December—with J the first letter drawn—will still apply. The next 14 letters, in order, are G, D, X, N, O, Z, T, W, P, Q, V, U, C and F.

A HEAVY turnout at the polls in Newark, New Jersey, ended with a decisive victory for Kenneth Gibson in his drive to unseat incumbent Mayor Hugh Addonizio. Here the new mayor-to-be flashes the victory sign to his campaign supporters at campaign headquarters. (UPI telephoto)

Mr. Babcock was a graduate of the University of Idaho and the University of Michigan Law School. He had practiced law in Twin Falls since 1929, and served three terms as prosecuting attorney for Twin Falls County.

During World War II, Mr. Babcock was a member of the Twin Falls County Selective Service board. He was a member of the American Bar Association, the Masonic Lodge and the Shrine.

Services Held For Policeman

LEWISTON (UPI)—Funeral services were to be held today for Ralph Russell, 31, a police officer who was shot to death early Monday as he questioned two men.

Law enforcement officers in four states continued to search for the two men who were described as southerners who had been seen in several north Idaho taverns over the past two weeks.

Russell, a seven-year veteran of the police force, was found lying on the ground in an alley near his patrol car by another police officer who had heard four or five shots and came to investigate.

Clutched in his hands were two draft cards, presumably taken from the two men before they were shot.

Bid

MOSCOW (UPI)—C.S. Builders, Pullman, Wash., Tuesday submitted the apparent low bid of $209,543 to construct an all-weather track and field facility at the University of Idaho.

George Gagon, university engineer, said the facility will be built just west of the present Neale Stadium and will feature a rubberized asphalt track with nine lanes and will have a 2,000 seat grandstand to accommodate all university track and field events.

The bids were sent to the board of regents for review and approval.

German Official Released

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Terrorists freed kidnaped West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Holleben Tuesday night. He appeared early today outside his home and in German and Portuguese offered "a salute to the people and government of Brazil" for saving his life.

Brazil's military government freed 40 political prisoners and sent them to exile in Algeria Monday in ransom for Von Holleben.

Von Holleben was seized Thursday night by terrorists who killed his bodyguard and wounded two other police.

Von Holleben, 61, was turned loose by the terrorists on a corner of a wooded area of Rio's Tijuca district. He hopped what he thought was a taxi. It turned out to be motorist Sergio da Costa Apolinario, 29, who offered him a ride home, 16 miles across the city.

"By his accent, I knew he was a foreigner," said Apolinario, a lawyer. "When I looked into his face, I recognized he was the German ambassador."

Later Von Holleben appeared on the veranda of his residence with his son, Wolf, 23, his stepson, Johann Christian, 32, and his wife, Ina. He addressed a crowd in the street below.

In German and Portuguese, Von Holleben told the gathering, "I feel happy and grateful to the Brazilian government for the steps they took for my return safe and sound to my family."

A 17-offer salutation to the people said "government of

Rhodes Is Backed By Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House has made it clear it has no plans to remove Joseph Rhodes Jr. from the presidential commission on campus unrest.

Agnew called for Rhodes' resignation after reading a New York Times article Monday that quoted the youngest member of the commission as saying of the shootings at Kent State University in Ohio and Jackson State College in Mississippi:

"One of the things I want to try to figure out is who gave what orders to send police on campus and were they thinking about 'campus burns' when they pulled the trigger."

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, however, Agnew was expressing his "personal view" and had not decided "the matter with Nixon or any members of the cabinet."

Economy Of Nation World's Strongest

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Nixon proclaimed the American economy "the strongest in the world" today but he urged business and labor to tone down price and wage demands to help control the spiraling cost of living.

In a televised speech to the nation, Nixon announced plans to appoint a national commission on productivity which would issue periodic "inflation alerts" to focus public opinion on excessive wage and price boosts.

He conceded that his administration's fight to control inflation is behind schedule and unemployment—now at a five-year high—increased more than expected.

The President ruled out both mandatory wage and price controls and direct government pressure on individual businessmen and labor leaders—the "jawboning" tactic of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations—which he called "controls in

Success

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Tuesday that the American people have been given the impression by government officials that the Cambodian intervention was a success.

He said success cannot be measured in numbers of weapons confiscated or tons of rice destroyed. It can be measured in the long run by whether the conflict improves prospects for a political settlement of the war.

Newsmen Cited In Defeat

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Bitter over the defeat of Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio, many of his supporters Tuesday night turned on newsmen, screaming "nigger lovers' Commies!"

Burled glasses and ashtrays and turned the mayor's election night headquarters into a shambles. Two television cameras were wrecked.

Even before the beaten mayor could offer his concession of defeat to black engineer Kenneth A. Gibson, some of the almost 1,000 Addonizio backers at the Thom's Restaurant began shouting epithets, making obscene gestures, and screaming for the "death" of NBC, CBS and ABC.

The networks and the Evening News of Newark appeared to be the principal targets because the supporters believed they were instrumental in Gibson's victory. The News had endorsed Gibson.

disguise."

He also told Congress he does not want standby controls because he would not use them.

Nixon insisted that "the economy is basically sound but he said: "Unemployment has increased; the price index continues to rise; profits have gone down; the stock market has declined; interest rates are too high."

"The momentum of four years of inflation was stronger than had been anticipated," he added. "The effect on unemployment was greater than we foresaw. The pace of our progress toward price stability and high employment has not been quick enough."

Three Wounded While Firemen Battle Blaze

CHICAGO (UPI)—Three persons, one a fireman, were wounded by a shotgun blast and a policeman was injured Tuesday night when a crowd gathered to watch firemen put out a burning mattress in the uptown district.

A short time later, a youth was wounded by pistol fire in what police said seemed to be a related incident.

Just before the fire, four persons were wounded, one seriously, when two men invaded a nearby tavern and beat, stabbed and robbed patrons, police said.

The incidents occurred in the North Side uptown district, an area composed of Appalachian whites, Puerto Ricans and a few blacks. Police took two men into custody at the scene of the fire.

It was not immediately determined if the tavern

One Killed In Burley Accident

BURLEY — A Burley man was killed and another hospitalized in serious condition as the result of a two-vehicle collision about 7 a.m. today at a rural intersection near the box factory.

Sheriff Ray G. Mitchell said the victim, Byron C. Gibbs, 42, 2427 Belmont Drive, Burley, was dead at the scene. The other driver, Kenneth Caray, 58, Route 2, Burley, is at Cassin Memorial Hospital. Both men were alone in their car and were on route to work, the sheriff said.

Mr. Gibbs was driving a Jeep Wagoneer west, while Mr. Caray was traveling north in a Ford pickup truck. The vehicles collided at the intersection one mile south and one west of Burley. Both vehicles spun around, hitting a light pole which was broken off by the impact.

There is no stop sign at the open corner, the sheriff said. Neither of the drivers was wearing seat belts, he added. Both vehicles were demolished. Mr. Gibbs' body is at Payne Mortuary.

robbery was connected with the fire and shootings. The two men who robbed the tavern were black and the patrons mostly white. The crowd at the fire was mixed, and there had been some arguments, police said.

Runway Lights At Airport Installed

High intensity approach lights at the Twin Falls City-County Airport, Joslin Field, are complete and are now in operation. It was announced today by Harry Merrick, airport manager.

Mr. Merrick said at a meeting of the airport commissioners that the re-located beacon is also in operation. Both projects are a part of the improvement program now underway at the field. Biggest portion of the program was completion of the main runway extension which now permits Air West DC-9 jets to land here.

The airport head said that the main runway will be closed for one or two days sometime during July so that the contractor can sealcoat the entire length and so that a crew can put a center stripe on it.

"We are now conferring with Air West officials as to the best time for the necessary airport closure," Mr. Merrick said. "Other improvement work is being done at the field but this will not delay any flights."

He said he was informed by Air West officials that substantial passenger increase has been recorded since the first jet landed here. At the present time Twin Falls now has direct flight connections between Boise, Lewiston, Spokane and Seattle and between Salt Lake City, Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

appeal.

HOISE (UPI)—Assistant Attorney General Howard Manly says a lawsuit he had filed an appeal in the case testing the constitutionality of the method of placing the proposed constitutional revision before the public.

Raymond L. Smith filed the original suit against Secretary of State Pete Conranna, Judge Martin Callister ruled June 9 that placing the proposed revision on the general revision ballot without calling a constitutional convention was unconstitutional.

The suit asked that Conranna be enjoined from placing the proposed revision on the ballot. Manly said he would have to wait for the clerk's transcript of record in the court case before filing his appeal brief.

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—A Marine lance corporal's case of malaria forced a recess today in the court-martial of a fellow Marine accused of taking part in the murder of 16 Vietnamese women and children.

The U.S. Marine Corps Court ordered the delay in the trial of Pfc. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Winton, W. Va., accused of helping three other Marines shoot to death five women and 11 children at a hamlet of the village of Son Tung south of Da Nang Feb. 10.

Military prosecutors told the court a key witness, Lance Cpl. Michael S. Krichten of Hanover, Pa., was suffering from a 102-degree fever and could not testify. They said Krichten was improving rapidly, and court officers said it was possible the court-martial would be resumed Thursday afternoon.

Defense sources said Krichten was a member of a Marine "killer patrol" that entered the hamlet and said he had been granted immunity to testify.

The court judge, Lt. Col. Paul St. Amour, Bedford, Mass., ordered the prosecution to attempt to produce two alleged Vietnamese witnesses to the slaying. He denied a request for pretrial testimony of the witnesses had given by inserted into the court-martial record.

Yakima Indian, Age 117, Dies

SALKUM, Wash. (UPI)—Mary Kiona, believed to be one of the nation's oldest American Indians, died Tuesday at the age of 117 in the western Washington mountain country where she lived for more than a century.

Mrs. Kiona was listed on the rolls of the Yakima tribe, of which her father was a member, as born in 1853. But she was believed to have been born in 1853.

Mrs. Kiona's husband died in 1908. She had two children, including a son, who died so many years ago that when interviewed in 1964 she could not remember his name. Her other child was Minnie Placid, with whom she lived in this crossroads town.

Minnie acted as Mary's interpreter when she talked with white men in formal conversations. But no spoken words were necessary between her and her many white friends who trapped for furs and logged the timber on the slopes of the Cascade Mountains.

On these trips, she explained, her only companion other than the horses was her totem, "half squirrel, half fish." It told her, she said, where to find what she was looking for.

Presbyterians Okay Organ Transplants

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—transplants and affirmed a 1969 report by the standing committee on comity and union alipped by with hardly a murmur of opposition to its call for continued study of the eventual merger of the church with the United Presbyterian Church and the United Church of Christ.

Unrest In Church Said Caused By Loss Of Confidence In Operation

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—A special committee reported to the 110th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. today that a loss of confidence in the Presbyterian form of government has caused unrest in the church.

Prepared by the ad interim committee on the state of the church, appointed by the 1969 assembly, the report said the loss of confidence was evidenced by:

- An increasing trend toward defection from congregational-inde-
- dent church government;
- A proliferation of so-called "para-church" organizations;
- Attempts to govern through financial pressures;
- And through formation of the reformed theological seminary at Jackson, Miss.

Among the committee recommendations was one that called for the assembly to deny officially any authority over the seminary at Jackson and to reaffirm its support of the established church schools.

An increasing trend toward defection from congregational-inde-

The organ transplant approval was contained in a recommendation written by the church's permanent theological committee which noted that "in the spirit of Jesus Christ who gave himself for us... all Christians should feel free... to make gifts of their bodies or parts thereof for the purposes of transplantation into those who may have need of them."

There was no debate regarding acceptance of that report, but a recommendation rejecting the request for action submitted by the Central Mississippi Presbytery calling for reconsideration of the 1969 ruling on evolution drew an impassioned argument from at least one commissioner before it was approved.

Dr. Robert Strong of Montgomery, Ala., in arguing for a reversal of the evolution statement, said there was no basis in fact for the theory of evolution—"that man evolved from beast."

Several known opponents of such a move made it clear they were allowing largely unopposed adoption of the recommendation only because they called for further study.

At Tuesday's session, a many years studying the matter and moved that instead of rejecting totally the overture by the Mississippi Presbytery, the assembly accept one part of it.

The part involved would recognize "that God created man, male and female, after his own image, and as God's image-bearer man is immortal soul. This man is distinct from all other earthly creatures even though his body is composed of the elements of his environment."

A committee member said the committee had not considered as its assignment the task of restating or rewriting the resolution that passed last year's assembly, and Strong's proposal was voted down.

After two days of preliminary the floor action was the first of the assembly that was to run through Friday.

T.F. To Host 1971 State Elks Parley

Officers said the girl apparently rode her bicycle into the path of a vehicle driven by Leora Douglas, 38, Buhl, at North 3700, and E. 3200 roads. Passengers in the vehicle were LaVern Douglas, 44, Buhl, and Jack Jardine, 30, Twin Falls. None of the occupants of the car was injured in the accident, which occurred about 1-p.m. Tuesday.

County To Get Big Tax Slice

Twin Falls will receive $248,764 this week as Idaho Power Company completes payment of 1969 property taxes totalling more than $5 million for the third year, Albert Carlson, company president reported Wednesday.

The utility's full 1969 property tax in Twin Falls County is more than $407,520. Of that amount, about $314,041 will be used for the support of education in the county, Mr. Carlson stated.

"In less than 10 years, Idaho Power's taxes have increased more than 52 per cent and they will continue to increase as we add new facilities to help supply the rising demand for electricity," he said.

Garnishment Of Wages Outlined

Congressional findings and restrictions on garnishment have been presented to the State of Idaho, according to Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward.

Creditors may not garnish net pay of less than $48 weekly. Garnishments of 25 per cent may be removed only if the net wages are $64 weekly or over, Judge Ward stated.

No employer may discharge any employee for the reason that his earnings have been subjected to garnishment for any one indebtedness.

An Old Law

Like old soldiers, most old laws never die but merely fade into disuse. Rarely does a law that has been essentially ignored for half a century suddenly obtain a new lease on life and an urgent application to a modern problem.

Such a rarity is the lately rediscovered Refuse Act of 1899, which forbids:

"... anyone, including any individual, corporation, municipality or group, from throwing, discharging or depositing any refuse matter of any kind or any type from a vessel or from a shore-based building, structure or facility into either (a) the nation's navigable rivers, lakes, streams and other navigable bodies of water, or (b) any tributary to such waters unless he has first obtained a permit (from the Corps of Engineers) to do so."

"Refuse" includes all foreign matter, such as solids, chemicals, oils and other liquid pollutants, with the exception of municipal sewage in liquid form. "Navigable waters" is water sufficient to float a log or boat at high water.

Pay-TV

In the early days of the automobile, there were laws requiring horseless carriages to be preceded by someone walking with a lantern and sounding a warning to alert the countryside to the onrushing infernal machine.

Fortunately for the automobile industry, blacksmith interests were not strong enough to keep such laws enforced. In our own time, however, tacks have been strewn and booby traps planted for some 20 years in the path of another innovation — pay-TV.

Pay-TV, or more accurately, subscription television (STV) would permit subscribers to receive Broadway plays, late-issue movies, sports events and other programs not broadcast over conventional television by virtue of a signal-unsrambling device attached to their sets.

Tried on an experimental basis in New Haven for a number of years, subscription television finally received a go-ahead on a nationwide basis from the Federal Communications Commission, after hurdling a seemingly endless series of legislative and legal obstacles leading all the way to the Supreme Court.

But now, realizing that they can't ban STV outright, opponents are trying to hedge it in with so many restriction that no entrepreneur in his right mind would try to start a subscription television station.

A bill recently introduced by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., and slipped through the House Commerce Committee while half its members were absent, would, among other things:

Permit not more than 45 per cent of the total program hours in any 24-hour period to consist of feature films and sports.

Ban any advertising at any time, not just during subscription broadcasts, as already required by the FCC's stringent regulations.

In other words, STV would be prohibited from doing that which it is designed to do best — present lengthy movies or sports events in their entirety without interruption; and would be forced to depend upon subscription fees for its entire income, in turn forcing subscribers to subsidize programs they may not want to watch.

About the only thing missing is a requirement for a man carrying a lantern.

This bill should be killed forthwith and progress be allowed to proceed unimpeded.

MR. SPECTATOR

A Modern Lesson?

Got a note from E. T. Edgerton, Kimberly, and he sent along a couple of interesting articles. One was a copy of the Scottish Rite program from Spokane in which an article stated that the downfall of the United States was plotted 50 years ago. It concerned the "Communist Rules For Revolution" which were found by allied troops in 1910.

These have previously been published in Mr. Spectator. Mr. Edgerton also slipped in another interesting piece of literature, being excerpts from The Decline And Fall of The Roman Empire which Edward Gibbon wrote back in 1788. The author listed — and Mr. Edgerton sent them along to us — five reasons for that fall. Here they are:

(1) — The rapid increase of divorce, the undermining of the dignity and sanctity of the home, which is the basis of human society.
(2) — Higher and higher taxes and the spending of public money for free bread and circuses for the populace.

(3) — The mad craze for pleasure. Sports every year becoming more exciting and more brutal.

(4) — The building of giant armaments when the real enemy was within the decadence of the people.

(5) — The decay of religion — faith fading into mere form. Losing touch with life and becoming impotent to guide the people.

APT SOBRIQUET

Japanese in gray flannel suits are doing what all their beribboned generals and admirals could not do. Throughout Asia, Japanese businessmen have become so numerous that hotel clerks find it essential to speak Japanese, reports E.J. Kahn, Jr., of New Yorker magazine.

PROFIT IN PRESERVATION

The beauty of our national parks and other recreation areas may well be more than scenery-deep. According to a government commissioned study of the Cape Cod National Seashore, they can be economically attractive also. After establishment of the seashore in 1961, land values in surrounding areas increased more than 100 per cent, permitting a cut in property taxes, and both employment and wages went up noticeably. The latter by some $8 million a year, a good return on the National Park service investment of $19 million for land and facilities and its annual seashore payroll of about half a million.

The primary purpose of the seashore is to preserve the environment — 21,000 acres of Atlantic dunes. But as it's turning out, preservation can also be very good business.

WASHINGTON — In a long and friendly conference with President Nixon at Camp David recently, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told Nixon he would retire before the 1972 election in order to assure that his successor will be appointed by the present administration.

Hoover is a vigorous 76, which means he would be 77 on Jan. 1, 1972. He would like to stay on the job indefinitely, and he has the mental and physical resources to do so, barring a serious illness or sudden decline. President Nixon has been quoted by one FBI aide as saying that Hoover "has the physical vigor and mental alertness of a man of 40."

But neither Nixon nor Hoover can be sure, at this time, that Nixon will be re-elected to a second term in November, 1972. Thus, on his own initiative, Hoover has declared "in the country's best interests" to leave his post in plenty of time to permit Nixon to appoint his successor. One highly-placed source said the Hoover retirement will come sometime next year.

Hoover's successor will come from outside the FBI. That is what Hoover told Cartha B. (Deko) DeLoach, the bureau's No. 3 man, when he put the question bluntly to his chief. As a result, DeLoach, who generally has enjoyed a cordial relationship with the press and members of Congress, will retire on July 29 to become a vice president of PepsiCo, Inc., the soft-drink manufacturer.

DeLoach has no hard feelings. Indeed, he is said to agree that Hoover's successor, should, as a matter of policy, come from outside the bureau. But DeLoach is 49 and has seven children. It is understandable that he wanted to look ahead.

As reported in this space on Dec. 16, 1968, the President's first choice for the FBI directorship is Supreme Court Justice Byron Raymond (Whizzer) White, former All-American football star at the University of Colorado, a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University, and a campaigner for John F. Kennedy in 1960. Despite his tie with the late President, White is described by one Nixon aide as a man of "absolute integrity — just about as non-political as you can get."

But there is another reason Nixon would like to tap White for the FBI job, and it is political. By naming White to succeed Hoover, Nixon would be assured of another opportunity to name a Supreme Court justice. He has already named two — Chief Justice Warren Burger and Associate Justice Harry Blackmun, both moderates slightly to the right of center. The President wants to reshape the Court to a more conservative image before he leaves office, and, always a realist, he knows his reelection in 1972 is not guaranteed.

White would be a good choice from a political viewpoint. His liberal credentials collected during the 1960 campaign would help him with those to the left of center, and his generally moderate to conservative posture on the Supreme Court has won him stature with Republicans.

White, 53, became intimate with John Kennedy during Naval service in World War II. At the Democratic convention in Los Angeles, he delivered 13 1/2 of Colorado's 21 votes for Kennedy. Subsequently, President Kennedy appointed him Deputy Attorney General and then to the Supreme Court.

Other possible successors to Hoover have been mentioned by administration people. They include Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleinfelder, former Deputy Attorney General Lawrence E. Walsh, and John E. Ingersoll, director of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. A dark horse is Commissioner of Customs Myles Ambrose, a young New York Irishman who served with distinction under President Eisenhower as Coordinator of the Treasury Department's law enforcement agencies.

But White has the inside track, partly because he has the endorsement of a man Richard Nixon admires. That man is J. Edgar Hoover.

Sleepy Hand

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have trouble with my right hand going to sleep every night about 2:30 or 3 a.m. It wakes me up. I go put it in warm water and rub it until it comes back to life.

Could you tell me what causes this? It is OK during the day. I am 81 and in good health. — J. K.

This is not an uncommon complaint, and generally due to pressure on a nerve or interference with circulation. But where? Which nerve? That's the question.

Here are the principal answers:

1 — The position of your arm when sleeping may exert pressure somewhere — on a nerve or blood vessel.

2 — You may have changes (osteoarthritis) in the bones in the neck. Since nerves serving the arm and hand emanate from the spinal cord, a bony knob on a vertebra may press on the nerve there — especially when you are lying down, which could explain why your trouble occurs only at night.

3 — A condition called carpal tunnel syndrome can cause numbness of the hand. This involves pressure from fibrous tissue where certain nerves pass through the wrist to the fingers. It can be worse when the arm is in certain positions. For the first two conditions, a person sometimes can find an answer himself, by learning to sleep in some other position or sometimes by using a larger or smaller pillow, changing the position of his neck.

For the second possibility, neck traction can be very helpful. For diagnosis of any of the conditions, the services of an orthopedist (bone specialist) are very helpful, and for the third one listed, you definitely need a specialist's care. In that case, steroid injections may help, or surgery on the wrist may be needed.

You mention putting your hand in warm water and rubbing it. I'm sure the warm water does no harm, but I wonder whether it does any good. Wakes are that your hand "comes up" just because you have changed position and relieved pressure somewhere. You might try the rubbing, or maybe not even do that, and see whether the numbness doesn't go away just as fast.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a fungus spot on the back of one hand and believe it was caused by a cat licking it. What can I do to prevent this fungus? — J. C. P.

Let's just say you have a spot on your hand. Maybe it's fungus — maybe something else. It could (if that were responsible) be an allergic reaction to the cat's saliva. A cat's tongue is rough; some irritation could be involved. My suggestion is to avoid the cat-licking. If there's no improvement, see your doctor or a dermatologist for an accurate diagnosis and treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is meant by a low-voltage heart? — D. L. S.

The heart beat produces small electrical impulses — tiny but strong enough to be recorded and measured when an electrocardiogram is made. "Low voltage" means that these electrical impulses are of lower than normal amplitude. This can be due to several conditions: low thyroid activity, or low potassium level in the blood, or it can result from weakness of a heart muscle damaged by heart disease.

Note to Miss S. C. B.: An inverted nipple may be harmless or it may be a sign of disease especially in older women. You should have your doctor decide which it is in your case.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Thosteson regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

What Is Wrong?

WASHINGTON — People who have been wondering why things have been unraveling so badly in Washington these days may be interested in the explanation of a distinguished Chinese scholar who visited the Capitol last week. Dr. Chun Ling is an expert in Feng Shui, otherwise known as the study of things in relation to where they are placed.

"Americans," Dr. Chun Ling said, "do not put much significance into what is in good harmony and bad harmony, but if buildings are not in harmony with each other, it is impossible for people to be in harmony."

Dr. Chun Ling said that the most striking example of this could be illustrated by the fact that the White House faces north and the Capitol of the nation faces east, and both have their backs to the Washington Monument. When buildings face in different directions, they do not have common goals.

"The Supreme Court faces Lincoln and that is good, but Lincoln from his tomb must look at the back of the Senate and House of Representatives, and this is bad."

Dr. Chun Ling also said, "It is very sad the President's office is located in the west wing of the White House, because this puts him on the side of the Pentagon and away from Health, Education and Welfare."

"The Feng Shui expert said it is no accident that the Pentagon is as strong as it is in Washington. The Pentagon is much larger than the Capitol and White House, and the two smaller buildings cannot control the bigger one. Not only that, but the Pentagon has too many faces and too many entrances directed in all directions. This multi-faceted design has forced the Pentagon to get involved in every direction it faces."

Dr. Chun Ling pointed something out to me that I had never noticed before, which shows you how important the study of Feng Shui can be. "The Pentagon is across the Potomac River and that is why the State Department, Capitol and even the White House have no control over it."

One of the most interesting things that Dr. Chun Ling said was that because the White House faces north, it looks on Lafayette Park in the center of Lafayette Park is the Jackson Memorial consisting of four giant antique guns. These guns have dominated every recent President's thinking. When the President is trying to think, it's inevitable that the guns in Lafayette Park can suggest military solutions to world problems. Dr. Chun Ling believes the guns should be removed at once and replaced with flowers.

When studying the science of Feng Shui, Dr. Chun Ling says that it is very important to know on what axis our nation's leaders sleep. If they don't sleep on the same geographic poles, they can disrupt the flow of the earth's magnetism.

I had my doubts about Dr. Chun Ling's last statement, and so I did some Feng Shui research on my own. It appeared there was a lot to what he said. For example, I discovered that Sen. Fulbright sleeps south to north and Martha Mitchell sleeps west to east. This is why they have never been able to see eye to eye on anything.

So now let's see if we can get straight some misguided blacks who, shouting about "rights," are driving whites indoors.

There is no nicer guy on the pro golf tour than Gary Player. He is a kind, generous and gentle man. Five years ago he donated his entire National Open purse, $26,000, to cancer research and the development of junior golfers.

Gary Player does not go around proclaiming himself for brotherhood; he lives it. Recently he offered to play a series of exhibition matches with leading American Negro golfers; the proceeds to benefit the United Negro College Fund, a genuinely magnanimous gesture.

But because he is from South Africa and because the government of South Africa segregates the races, Player has been harassed, embarrassed, picketed and threatened with physical harm. Player refused to criticize his home government while on tour in the United States, insisted that sports be divorced from politics and that he be judged as an athlete and as a man.

But some of the same people, who used to glory "guilt by association" as their pursuit in their persecution of Player on over less valid grounds.

Similarly, the splendid athletic teams of Brigham Young University have been subjected to bitterness, boycotts and violence because their parent Mormon Church does not allow black priests. The Church does not allow women priests, either. Nor does it allow nonchurch members to become priests.

BYU has black students, black athletes (and Oribeans and Jews and Aztecs and Spanish-Americans).

In the days when Marian Anderson was barred from singing in Constitution Hall, she was welcomed to sing on the BYU campus.

Nonetheless, some students from other schools in the conference have initiated protests, boycotts and fights: Wyoming, New Mexico, Colorado State, University of Washington, Stanford has severed athletic relations with BYU.

At the risk of sounding vitriolic, Stanford will benefit from this severance to the extent that hereafter they'll suffer one less loss per season. But Stanford's reputation for religious tolerance will not be enhanced.

It was in athletics that American Negroes made some of their earlier and more dramatic strides, demonstrating in public and in a way nobody could refute — not just equality — but many inspiring examples of black ascendancy.

In those days as in these there was inevitable religious rivalry, for example between Notre Dame and Southern Methodist, but neither renounced or ran from the other. Each sought, ethically, to excel the other.

That's the way to do it. If you can't join 'em, whip 'em! But do (if it's all square; any darn fool can throw things.

Technology Seen Ecological Hero

By DUSTON HARVEY
STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Technology — marked by many as the villain in the battle to save our environment — can be prodded into the role of ecological hero, but it will take lots of "people pressure" and untold billions of dollars.

That's the view of Dr. Rolf Ellassen, a Stanford University civil engineer who has spent three decades working on air, land and water pollution controls.

Ellassen is optimistic about man's ability to avert ecological disaster because he believes the necessary scientific and engineering know-how already is available and because he thinks pessimism is useless.

"We have become too preoccupied with disaster — with an ecological doomsday," he warned in an interview. "We must take a more hopeful stand; otherwise, we might as well give up and just have a hell of a good time if we're doomed anyway."

"One of the things we've got to watch out for is that technology has become the target of so many so-called ecological conservationists. Technology is being held responsible for the ecological crisis they say exists."

"Now we technologists could avert the crisis if this country were to insist on using technology more extensively to control pollution and to create a better environment for man and his future generations."

That means spending money and putting pressure on politicians and industry, according to Ellassen. It also means controlling population growth because "people are the ones who are really causing the so-called environmental crisis."

His specific suggestions include nationwide air pollution controls, reclamation of sewage water for reuse and tough water pollution laws, more nuclear power plants, antinuclear ordinances, and recycling of solid wastes, especially paper.

The costs will be enormous and the public, which will eventually pay the bill as taxpayers and consumers, must keep the pressure on elected officials and, through them, on industry.

"We need pressure on elected officials so they can be made to understand the gospel," he said. "President Nixon felt those pressures. He wasn't very anxious at first, but switched onto the environmental bandwagon."

"Remember, when pressure gets tough, politicians would rather not fight than switch."

As for business, Ellassen feels it must be forced to end pollution through legislation.

"We've tried persuasion, and it hasn't been too successful. Some industries have come along and done some things which are all right. But so many have done terrible things," he observed.

"The maximizing of profits doesn't allow you to spend much money on pollution controls. Many company managers would like to be good neighbors, but they're afraid they can't justify the cost. Some welcome control laws — they give them a crutch."

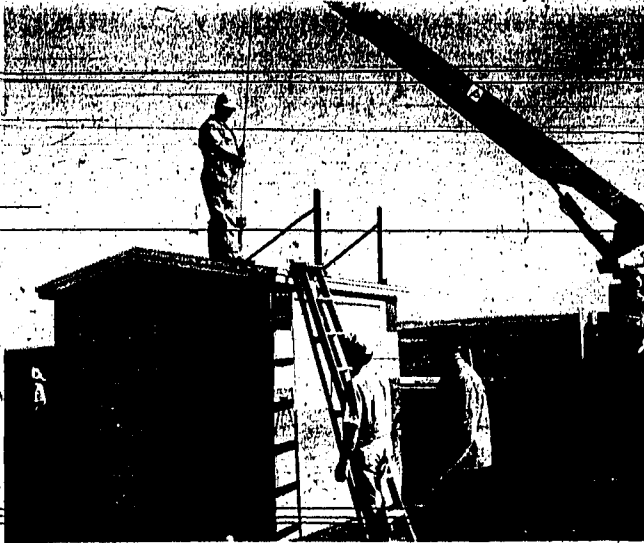

Ellassen insists such controls must be reasonable and not so stringent they bring industry, transportation and other segments of the economy to a halt.

While voicing general optimism about technological solutions, he does admit some past engineering efforts have created worse problems than they solved.

"We're using water where we shouldn't be using it. Los Angeles is a case in point. They should have shut off the water there long ago. There are too many people and there's not enough air for them."

"When one resource of nature is limited, such as air, then we shouldn't come in — we as engineers — and say we'll give them more water even if there isn't enough air, and let them kill themselves or whatever they do."

"We should shut off one resource when we've reached the limit of another one. And put the people somewhere else, perhaps."

HAVING BEEN STORED at the City Garage during the winter months, the tourist booth, sponsored by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce was moved Monday to its former location by the Perrine Bridge. The Water Department supplied the hydraulic used in moving the building. On hand to help were Howard Johnson, superintendent of parks and recreation; Arnold Bryson, parks and recreation foreman, and Tab Harding, member of the Tourist and Convention Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

T.F. County Clerk To Speak At Idaho Association Of Cities

County Clerk Harold Lancaster will speak Friday to the Idaho Association of Cities in Coeur d'Alene, concerning the new court system being adopted by Idaho.

The new system will be effective Jan. 11, 1971, Mr. Lancaster stated.

"Cities will now come out ahead if they signify city ordinance violations as such," said Mr. Lancaster.

"The new system will give 80 per cent of the money received for a fine to the city and only 10 per cent to the state."

The new court reform will eliminate police, justice and probate courts, according to Mr. Lancaster.

If a violation is specified a motor vehicle violation, then 10 per cent of the money received for the fine goes to the state general fund, 22 1/2 per cent to the county current expense fund, 45 per cent to the state treasury highway fund, and 22 1/2 per cent to the general school fund, with no funds coming to the city. The only funds the city can receive are those collected for a violation against a city ordinance.

Five petition filing fees will be charged under the new court system.

Prospects Good For Britain To Join Common Market Bloc

LONDON (UPI) — The six European Common Market countries have set June 30 as the date for opening talks with Britain on her membership bid.

After two French vetoes the way suddenly looks clear for Britain to join.

But opposition now is boiling up in Britain itself. The market issue could well become the most explosive in Britain's general election June 18.

The six market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg — swept aside the last roadblock when they agreed on April 22 on how to finance their farm policies.

On May 12 they set June 30 as the date to start talks with Britain and three other countries which also have applied to join — Ireland, Denmark and Norway.

Under present plans a ceremonial opening session will take place June 30 at Luxembourg, capital of the Common Market's smallest member country.

A first working session is likely in July. Then the ministers will go home for their summer vacation, leaving serious negotiations until the fall.

But now from the British side the picture is far from clear.

True, Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath — with just three weeks now left to them in the election campaign — have stated repeatedly they want to take Britain into the booming six-nation community from which she was barred twice by former French President Charles de Gaulle.

But Wilson and Heath recently have started hedging their statements around with qualifications that they will take Britain in "if the terms are right."

Wilson told Parliament March 26 "we are negotiating with determination to get in — on the right terms."

Heath declared on May 3 "the six must show themselves ready to allow Britain to join on terms which are tolerable in the short term and clearly and visibly beneficial in the long term."

Both have stressed that, if necessary, Britain could stand on her own feet outside the market.

Although all three main British political parties — labor, the Conservatives and the Liberals — officially support joining, opposition to it has erupted right across party lines.

"Christine Jorgensen Story" Coming Out With X Rating

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Who'd have dreamed a few years ago that "The Christine Jorgensen Story" would reach the screen as a motion picture with an X rating?

Christine's story, in fact, is almost puerile compared to many pictures released in the past year.

Miss Jorgensen's story of sex transformation will beat "Myra Breckinridge" to the theaters by a matter of days.

It is a simple case of females getting the best of males once again. Christine was surgically transformed from a man to a woman 20 years ago while Gore Vidal's fictitious Myra went the other way, so to speak.

Christine, blonde, bosomy and apparently as feminine as one may perceive by superficial observation in the Brown Derby at lunchtime, is somewhat satisfied that her life story is not causing a furor.

"An awful lot of attitudes have changed in the past few years," Christine said in a voice not unlike the late Tallulah Bankhead's.

"The picture isn't X-rated because it's not dirty. We show what happened surgically with charts. There are a few shocking scenes, but nothing vulgar."

"It's a factual account of my life. There is some literary license taken, just as there was in my book."

Christine plays nightclub now and then, acts in road company plays and now is writing a screenplay. But the freak show attitude of her early appearances has evaporated.

In this day of "Oh Calcutta," "Hair," and sex-pictures from Denmark, Christine's story is as controversial as "Snow White."

Christine is a talkative individual, hip and delighted that the operation she underwent has become more or less commonplace with sex transformations taking place in hospitals in the United States.

Asked if she preferred being a female to having been a male, she responded: "I really don't know. I was always a female in my thinking and attitudes."

"This movie couldn't have been made five years ago," she said. "But the kids want to push back barriers."

"I have a percentage of the picture, and supervised the dialogue and screenplay. I worked so hard I really didn't think of the film as my own biography until it was finished and I saw the complete picture."

Assassin is a term originally applied to members of a Muslim sect founded in the 11th century.

Preparing For Role In New Movie Was Torturous For Richard Harris

NEW YORK (UPI)—Boisterous actor Richard Harris is a staunch believer in "emotionally and physically" preparing himself for an upcoming movie.

For a recent movie—much of it played in the buff—Harris lost 2 inches around the waist and with "utmost sacrifice" went on the wagon for four months.

"When I read the script and saw what a physical role it was, I decided to drop the booze, Harris said.

"Physically it was torturous. I didn't use a stunt man. I got dragged behind horses, hung up in ropes—my chest is scarred, a tooth is broken, my back is hurt. By God, I wouldn't do it again!" he roared.

Harris, a top box-office draw but an unlikely film idol with a gently frazzled face and thinning frizzled red hair, said his nude portion of the film, "A Man Called Horse," was in good taste—but "I wanted to show more."

Harris, with amusement and a slight tinge of bitterness, noted that one of his injuries occurred during filming of an Indian ritual scene when a rope suspending him in mid-air broke and the actor plunged to the ground.

"There I was lying on the floor dying—the director rushed over and cradled me in his arms—then he glanced outside and bellowed, 'My God, forget about Richard. Look at that sunset, we've gotta film that.' He and everybody deserted me and went out to shoot the bloody sunset—with me there on-the-floor-dying."

The 39-year-old Harris, his eyes gleaming and with the Irishman's typical love of a good story, chortled that he got his revenge.

"I started flying planes—uninsured and without a bloody license. Took the director up one day and—varoom! zooooom! varoom!—scared the bloody daylight's out of him. When we landed he said I'd probably have crashed just to get even with him."

Critics were not ecstatic over the movie but an undaunted Harris snapped, "I never read critics. I prefer to read my exploits in the press. That's the more serious part of my life," he guffawed, reminiscing about his more notorious drinking bouts.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Unless British public opinion polls are heading into a debacle of historic proportions, Prime Minister Harold Wilson is on the verge of accomplishing what even his best friends a year ago would have said he could not accomplish.

The polls say his Labor party not only will win the June 18 general election—regarded as an impossibility a year ago—but could win it by a landslide. British elections traditionally are tame affairs compared to American politics but this campaign has been especially colorful.

A couple of eggs have splattered upon the prime minister as he has travelled the three-week campaign trail.

A bag of talcum powder hit Mrs. Wilson.

But even these signs of political interest have been comparatively rare.

One issue that might have stirred voter interest has been carefully avoided, as if by consent on both sides. That is the question of British entry into the European Common Market.

All three major British parties, Labor, Conservative and Liberal, are committed to close British association with the continent through the market. The British public, sensing a rise in the cost of living as a result, is less than enthusiastic.

The only really controversial figure in the campaign is Enoch Powell, once a member of Conservative party leader Edward Heath's shadow cabinet, fired by Heath for his extreme racial views.

Powell has declared that "traitors" have infiltrated in country's civil service and has accused government officials of playing down the actual number of colored immigrants in Britain.

Heath has been sweating out Powell's challenge.

United Nations World Youth Assembly Endangered By Shortage Of Financing

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—For the first time in history—money permitting— young people aged 16 to 25 are scheduled to gather here in July from all corners of the globe to discuss their world and its problems in a United Nations World Youth Assembly.

The optimistic observers of the youth scene look on the projected assembly as the greatest gathering of its kind ever conceived.

The more jaundiced fear it could develop into a "Woodstock-on-the-East-River"— a hippie-haunted happening replete with the menace of drugs, permissiveness and lack of inhibition that might leave the United Nations never to be the same again.

The more practical conjecture is that the assembly may, indeed, never be held—because of a shortage of financing.

The youth assembly was voted by last year's U.N. General Assembly as part of the celebration of the world organization's 25th anniversary. It is scheduled to be held in the General Assembly Hall and adjoining committee rooms from July 9 to July 18.

Subject to the raising of a budgeted $733,500 through voluntary contributions, 750 young people from all over the world are expected to take part in the assembly under the theme, "Peace, progress and international cooperation."

Going into the stretch of the planning phase, the organizing committee had raised about $20,000—with little or no prospect of collecting more from the customary more-or-less cheerful givers such as the United States and the other great powers.

One ranking U.S. diplomat explained the closed American purse this way: "You could scarcely expect the youth to come here untrammelled and unhindered if we subsidized them in advance with a government appropriation for the Assembly."

The hope was that tax-free contributions from individuals and foundations would make up the difference between cash on hand and what is needed.

A planning committee—comprising representatives of 13 International Youth Organizations, ranging from the Boy Scouts to the World Federation of Democratic Youth—has been meeting in Geneva since last January to plot the course of the Assembly.

It has agreed that there will be up to five participants—the designations "delegate" or "representative" are frowned upon—from each of the 126 U.N. members.

In addition, the planning committee will select up to 126 added participants. This was decided to insure "universality"—meaning that young people would be invited from the two Germanys, North as well as South Korea, North and South Africa and to territories such as Hong Kong, Brunei, Surinam, Puerto Rico, Rhodesia, Namibia, Angola, Mozambique, Portuguese Guinea (Bissau), Pacific Island territories and dependencies in the Caribbean.

Brazilians Are Mum On Cabinet

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The cabinet of President-designate Brig. Gen. Roberto Levingston will not be revealed until just before Levingston takes office Thursday, the ruling military junta announced today.

Earlier, it was expected the names of two key ministers would be issued after a meeting between Levingston and junta members, Army Lt. Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, Adm. Pedro Gnavi and air force Brig. Gen. Carlos Rey.

David Kaplan, junta information secretary, ended speculation today after the four had remained in conference for more than 12 hours. He said there had been "no appointments" to the eight-man cabinet.

"The president of the nation will announce them next Thursday, shortly before he is sworn in," Kaplan said.

The most important posts to be filled are the economics and interior ministries.

All eight of former President Juan Carlos Onganía offered their resignations when the junta ousted Onganía from office June 8, but consented to remain until a new cabinet could be formed.

Kaplan said Levingston would be sworn in as Argentina's 34th president in the White Room of the Government Palace at 10 a.m. EDT Thursday.

THEY'RE NOT BIG but the intention is there. The College of Southern Idaho has eight coeds on its maintenance crew for the summer, and this week — Flag Week — the girls decided to do something to prove "all college kids aren't militant and anti-America." That something was they stars and stripes all over campus. Judy Fuqua of Gooding even trimmed her blue overalls with one of the small banners. A "slow moving vehicle" sign on one of the maintenance department's tractors also rated a flag.

As the day grew warmer the girls shed shoes and jackets and flag trimmed "good guy" white hats, remnants of the Democratic convention at the CSI Fine Arts Center; where the girls spent a good share of Monday cleaning. The driver of the truck at right, taking a backward glance, also got a reminder that it's Flag Week. Signs, vehicles, cars and kids all over the campus were embellished with red, white and blue streamers or flags, which the coeds purchased with their own funds.

"Hopefully the weather will be clear," Director Bartlett said.

Judge Delays Ruling In Lewd Conduct Case

The case of Glen Rock, 35, Twin Falls, was taken under advisement by Judge Harry Turner Tuesday following trial in Twin Falls Police Court. Rock is charged with lewd and lascivious conduct by indecent exposure. The defense was given 10 days in which to file a brief and the state five days after that to file an answer. Judge Turner's decision on the case will follow those briefs. During trial Tuesday the defense moved to dismiss the case on grounds that the state had not proved the defendant actually was the man committing the act in question.

Local Men To Attend Cities Meet

Two members of the city council and a number of department heads will be attending the Idaho Association of Cities, June 18, 19 and 20 in Coeur d'Alene.

Major current interest topics to be discussed are regulation for mobile homes and junk cars. Other topics will include the study of solid waste and air pollution and public employees collective bargaining, according to City Manager Jean Millar.

Beef Industry Is Honored In Proclamation

Mayor Frank H. Feldtman has proclaimed Father's Day as an appropriate time to honor the beef industry and its contribution to the state. "I respectfully urge all business organizations, producers and consumers to cooperate in the observance of Beef on Father's Day, and urge all housewives to serve nutritious beef on this day, that beef may have its rightful place among meats served on special days, and the importance of the beef industry to our city's economy be recognized," Mayor Feldtman stated. Mayor Feldtman reminds the people of Twin Falls that the beef industry has been long established as one of the most important segments of the economy.

County-Wide Clean-Up Rescheduled Saturday

There were three pick-ups of trash picked up along one mile of county road last Saturday when 25 people turned out for the county clean-up, Commissioner Heber Loughmiller said.

Even though the clean-up had been canceled because of bad weather, enthusiasm for the project brought 25 people to participate.

The clean-up has been rescheduled for Saturday. All Twin Falls citizens are asked to bring a large container, if possible, and meet at 8:30 a. m. at the old hospital building.

From there, the workers will be divided into work parties and taken out to clean trash and debris from roadways, public property and recreational areas. Other areas may contact the county commissioners for information as to where their particular group will meet.

The waiting period ended at 5 p. m. Monday evening, allowing the city to begin improvements of the areas as soon as possible.

Q - I would appreciate your thoughts on purchase of Bio-Dynamics at this time. If you do not recommend this company, would you suggest another issue for gradual appreciation? - L.O.

The field of biomedical electronics has an impressive future. Billings, which should reach $350-400 million this year, are expected to hit $1 billion by 1975. But looming on the horizon is the ominous threat of strict government regulation. This, the protracted market decline and probable reductions in government spending in support of research and the Medicare-Medicaid programs have sharply depressed issues active in this field.

Bio-Dynamics, however, has its own internal problems, difficulties which led to the collapse of this issue from a high of 11 1/2 to a recent low of 9 1/4. A 30 percent drop in earnings, after special charges, was reported for fiscal 1969-1970, the second year of dipping profits on rising sales. Until management is able to resolve these difficulties and turn earnings around, I would avoid this issue.

As an alternative, I would favor Damon Corp., active in the fields of education, electronics and medicine. Damon's Electronics business (common) is a leading supplier of credit fillers and related devices. It possesses a stable base of rapidly growing diversified operations in the field of education. The company supplies equipment and chemicals co-ordinated for use with science curriculum programs developed by several prominent publishing companies. In acquisition in 1969, also, Damon in the scientific toy hobby field.

Although medical products and services now account for 60 percent of the company's business, an active acquisition program may increase this proportion. The company provides diagnostic services through a network of 113 laboratories with 23 facilities, all acquired since early 1968. A long-term market agreement was reached with a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson covering an automated microchemical blood analysis service developed recently by Damon.

Shares, which are traded at about 4 1/2 - estimated 1970-71 earnings of 76 cents a share, should be acquired cautiously. (Mr. Spear welcomes questions for use in his column but cannot answer all mail personally.)

Time For Living By ROGERS FRANKLIN. You remember that old-time comedian who used to say that people are more interesting than anybody? I was thinking of this yesterday when I was sitting with a typical club group and we were discussing important things that should be done right here where we live, right in our town.

Wherever we go and wherever we look, something needs improvement. The trouble is, lots of us are quick to say, "Let George do it," an easy dismissal into, "Let someone else do it."

But that's not what happened in the group I attended. Almost before I could pull up a chair, one man rose to describe four people he heard of who impressed him so much he wanted all of us to hear about them. He told us about one woman and three men, all in their late years, who have made such an indelible mark on their community that they'll never be forgotten. Two of the men are almost ninety years old. The third man is past seventy. The lady? Male gallantry prevailed.

Since ladies come first, he described how she opened a crusade in her hometown, in the same city as I happen, almost 80-year-old Helen. A Binder had been the spark plug in another field of civic betterment, bringing the culture of good music to the little of South Florida's "Mr. Music" for revitalizing people's spirits, with concerts, opera, musicals, and staunch encouragement - to all young musicians.

But he did even more to make life worth living. Fifty years ahead of the U.S. Supreme Court, he had launched the credo that no human being should be defamed because of race, religion, color or place of birth. What he created was the now-famous Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith Brotherhood. Today the Anti-Defamation League is a vital arm in defense of all human rights. Not surprisingly, he was recently toasted as "The Octogonarian Superman!"

Another small giant of a man (he's barely five feet tall) is Dr. John G. Nothardt, Poet Laureate of Nebraska. He's 89. His achievements - forever dissolve the myth that poets are bad dreamers. He's been devoting himself to helping us understand the Ogallala Sioux Indians. Few people cared about them until he began projecting their "soul" into his books. He's the only white man to discover and respect their thinking. And we're the richer for it. Also, he stands as one of the ten men of greatest meaning in Nebraska's 100 years of statehood.

Finally, there's Felton ("Doc") Jenkins of the little town of Richfield, Minn. who's made Richfield illustrious all over the world; in his basement he has seven transmitting posts manned by other retirees, many in wheelchairs, working out radio-telephone tie-ups to put parents in touch with their wounded sons in Vietnam, or to help anyone in times of disaster and emergency. Children count with him, too. He's put classrooms talking with each other all over the continent, to exchange friendly, right from his own doorstep.

That's what's important about these four citizens. On their own doorstep they found their own way to be civic-minded - to give of themselves to aid others. And that's the big point this speaker was making at the club group yesterday. If these four people can do something, why can't we? There's not a one of us who can't get at least one good idea that can be put to work to improve the place we live in.

Wall Street Chatter: NEW YORK (UPI) - "Now that blue-Mondays are now again," in retrospect it can be seen that the "violent" Memorial Day rally was "too deceptive," the Dines Letter believes. The letter suggests that if the April-May decline is viewed as "a downside break" below the 1966 low then the rally was simply a break-out pullback which had little chance of getting much above 700. It says the market now is testing the May 26 bottom and if the bottom is penetrated, Wall Street will see "a continuation of the killer wave of selling."

Art World Is Termed "Last Great Bastion Of Prejudice"

LONDON (UPI) — At first glance, and even more so at second and third glance, Miss Smock doesn't look like a person who should have any problems getting along in the world.

She is a beautiful, girl talented enough to share an art show with two of the most famous names in the world of art — Picasso and Giacometti — and to have her work on exhibit in many museums.

But the problems are there, lurking in the garden flat in which she lives, and whose graceful ironwork entrance is a vague reminder of her native New Orleans. She is black — a racial choice she made herself. Her face is a pale oval and she has Indian, Irish, French, Spanish, Jewish and African ancestors.

It is from this that her problems stem although many black and talented people are successful in many fields.

"Not in art," said Miss Smock. "It's one of the last great bastions of prejudice. It's white controlled and very few black artists get a chance to show their work."

As proof she cites the ratio of black to white artists in the American National Collection of Fine Arts — 100 to one. She is one of the 11 blacks represented.

Surrounded by her powerful, brooding woodcut prints, it is hard not to think Miss Smock may have confused professional jealousy for race prejudice at least in some instances.

She is too attractive, too intelligent, too gifted not to find social acceptance. Still, she insists the lot of the black artist in the United States is far more difficult than that of his white counterpart. And it is only by persistence that at 32 she has participated in six group exhibitions and had several one-woman shows of her own.

Her works now hang in the Smithsonian and at least eight other museums and institutions.

Mrs. Martha Luther King, Sidney Pottler, Lady Eudora Eblum and other collectors have her prints.

Miss Smock's prints hang side-by-side with new paintings by Picasso and lithographs by Giacometti at the cultural Center of the University of Geneva.

KATHY KOURTJIAN, a 20-year-old social science part time student at Michigan State University, enjoys her half-a-bath tub divan on the balcony of her residence. Kathy and her roommate found the $10 tub in a junk yard and are in the process of transforming it into a respectable piece of livingroom furniture. Kathy said, "It has been quite a conversation piece, when I'm sitting in the bathtub on the balcony — trucks going by sometimes say things." (UPI telephoto)

City Officials Selected By Girls State Delegates

CALDWELL (UPI) — Delegates to girls state, held at the College of Idaho, elected city officials Monday for the nine girls state cities.

The girls also received instruction on parliamentary procedure from Mrs. Gladys Eades, board head about city government from Boise City Councilman Jack Farley; were told about county government by Ada County Commission Chairman Rubin Swenson, and about duties of state officials from P.K. (Pat) Harwood, a former legislator and director of public affairs for J.R. Simplot Co.

Helen Wilson, Dean of women at Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, told the 274 high school girls the political organization "that goes by the name of the United States of America consists of no fewer than 155,000 governing units, school boards, conservation districts, municipalities, states, the nation, et cetera."

"She urged the girls to get involved in government — even if its only by ringing doorbells and getting people out to vote."

City officials elected Monday were:

Ranger City — Kaye Cushman, Blackfoot, Mayor; Trish Spessard, Idaho Falls; Barbara Watts, Murtaugh; Nancy Pray, Boise; and Lisa Cerveny, Caldwell; city council.

Apollo City — Kris Jensen, Pocatello, mayor; Jenny Link, Boise; Cheryl Cope, Montevideo; Connie Lee, Jerome; and Janice Cook, Twin Falls; city council.

Gemini City — Jane Hopper, Boise, Mayor; Phillis Champ-lin, Kimberly; Kris Langager, Lewiston; Jeanne Jacobs, Kimberly; and Nanette Brown, Blackfoot, city council.

Luna City — Terrie Wortman, New Meadows, mayor; Ellen McAnin, Coeur d'Alene; Vicki Wheeler, Boise; Nancy McKinney, Caldwell; and Carolyn Rhodes, Twin Falls; city council.

Satellite City — Paulette Tish, Greenleaf, mayor; Jeanne Yamamura, Idaho Falls; Debby Gillis, Fruitland; Cory McAnulty; Coeur d'Alene; and Julie Pursons, Nampa and Janet Field, Grand View, tied; city council.

Nimbus City — Gwen Henderlinder, Boise, mayor; Teresa Edwards, Heyburn; Ann Curtis, Boise; Nyla Sauer, Rigby; and Shaha Weaver, Soda Springs; city council.

Meteor City — Dobbie Price, Malad, mayor; Lucille Ashboe, Pocatello; Arlene Huga, Weiser; Margaret Walker, Wallace; and Julie Purcell, Idaho Falls; city council.

Mariner City — Adrienne Wheeler, Meridian, mayor; Kris Jacobs, Rexburg, Penne Main, Jerome Gerry Reid, Firth and Claude Naeve, Emmidaleton, city council.

Venus — Julianne Ercanbrack, Dubois, mayor; Vicki Bloomsburg, Lewiston; Lonna Burton Rexburg; Ann Ellis, Pocatello; and Peggy Wright, Rigby; city council.

Today the girls will begin county meetings, the two political parties — nationalists and federalists — will begin organizing, and primary elections will be held.

Singapore To Clean Up Air Before It's Dirty

SINGAPORE (UPI) — This island republic off the coast of Malaysia has jumped on the ecological bandwagon and is now to clean up its air even before it gets dirty.

As of now, traffic and factories on the 378-square-mile island are polluting the air no more than a dash of pepper dusts on a tossed green salad. But the day could come when tropical showers and rusty sea breezes are no longer sufficient to wash away the smoke and carbon into Singapore's equatorial sea.

To prevent air pollution, the government already is going about the task of environmental control in a manner credited with being far ahead of any industrial center in Asia or, relatively, the rest of the world.

Dr. Werner Strauss, an Australian industrial scientist who spent a month advising Singapore officials on anti-air pollution measures, gives the government high marks for the security given to the task.

Officials point back to the University of Melbourne this month, he said Singapore is doing more for its environment than any other world over should have done when industry was in its infancy.

As a result, he said, Singapore will accomplish in six or seven years what it will take the rest of the world to accomplish in 60 or 70.

It is a two-prong attack the government is making, one against air pollution caused by vehicle exhaust fumes and the other against that caused by the disposal into the air of industrial wastes.

Progress is more marked on the first front, where a simple but tough approach has already reduced visible exhaust smoke. Unable to require anti-smog

"Seventh Day" Of Israel's Six-Day Blitzkrieg War Is Longest Day Of All

TEL AVIV (UPI) — In six scorching June days three years ago, Israel pulverized the combined Arab armies with a military blitzkrieg that stunned the world. But the seventh day has been the longest day of all. On June 5, 1967, the third war in the Middle East in less than two decades began and by June 10 it was over. In six days Israel had increased the size of land it held, threefold, and decreased the border area it had to defend fourfold. The armies of Egypt, Jordan and Syria were shattered wrecks of their prewar strength, and a wave of confidence swept Israel that at last peace would come to the Middle East. More than 1,000 days later, Israel is still at war, against Arab armies that are stronger now than they were on June 5, 1967. Furthermore a new threat has been added to an already dangerous situation—the possibility of Soviet pilots flying operation missions for the Egyptian air force. Thus Israeli leaders see the present situation in the Middle East as potentially more alarming than the critical days in May three years ago. Then, they had only the Arabs lined up against them. Now they risk direct Soviet intervention. Nobody here underestimates what that could mean—but, led by Premier Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, the Israeli government has said repeatedly it is willing to take the risk if the future of the Jewish state is endangered. Dayan, now more paunchy and less sprightly than when he took over as defense minister shortly before the Six Day War, has not mellowed in the melstrom of Israeli politics. Basically he is still a fighting man and his frequent verbal broadsides have zeroed in on one recurring theme—if Israel is to exist it has no alternative but to fight. He repeatedly has made it clear that though the Soviet presence in Egypt worries him it is not going to frighten the Israeli armed forces out of the fight. "We are not budging from the ceasefire lines under military pressure, no matter who the source of the pressure is," he has said. "If anybody wants to throw us out of the ceasefire lines by force of arms we will fight and we will fight alone." He really was only telling the Israelis what they already knew. Looking back to the 1967 war, and the 1956 war, and the 1948 war of independence and the skirmishing before that, people who have lived here all their lives cannot remember when they were not fighting. In these days of supersonic jet battles over the Suez Canal and the artillery barrages that cause them, sabra veterans in their middle 40's look back to good old days when a submachinegun was almost the ultimate weapon. A veteran sergeant major, who must remain anonymous because he is still an active reserve, was wounded in 1948, fought again in the Sinai campaign in 1956 and was wounded again in 1967. Today he says he is quite prepared for the fourth round, if that becomes necessary. "It is very simple, if you are an Israeli living in Israel and believe in a Jewish homeland. The only alternative to war is peace, if we don't have the peace we have to fight." It is the sons of veterans like this who now man the Israeli frontlines along the Suez Canal, the Gulf of Suez, the Syrian Golan Heights, the Jordan River and the Lebanese frontier. According to the veterans, and Israeli military leaders too, they have it easier than their fathers did. "Before the Six Day War our frontlines were hopeless," the sergeant major said. "The Jordan border wandered all over the place, at one point to within a few miles of the Mediterranean. The Syrians had the jump on us from the Golan Heights and the Egyptians had all of Sinai to play with and air bases within seven minutes' bombing time of Tel Aviv." "Now we have natural defensive lines with built-in antitank barriers." But that stunning six-day victory which provided these new defensive lines merely has become an important set piece battle in what promises to be a long struggle. "What many Israelis thought on that seventh day three years ago was the end has been only another beginning."

"Bread, Butter Fights" Plentiful In Israeli War

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Despite the daily communique in the Israeli-Arab conflict, hundreds of clashes go unreported—the nonheadlined "bread and butter fighting," as some call it. Several months ago, in an effort to speed up release of military communique, the Israeli government press office installed a network which simultaneously rings telephones in the homes and offices of all accredited foreign correspondents and news agencies. The network is used to broadcast major military communique, but they are in a sense also remarkable for what they do not announce. Less than "major" actions are saved-up-for weekly army summaries of "incidents not individually announced." These incidents can add up to a lot of fighting. For example one recent summary, covering May 10-16, reported 302 "incidents" of which only 51 had been considered of sufficient importance to be included in the press office network announcements. Most of the network-announced actions involved air clashes and strikes, attacks on civilian targets and fighting involving army casualties. The unannounced 311 "incidents" involved mainly attacks on Israeli troops in which it was said no casualties were suffered.

Of the 311 summarized actions, 215 took place along the Suez Canal, 70 along the Jordan ceasefire line, seven on the Lebanese front, six on the Syrian front, five in the Gaza strip and two in "other sectors" meaning occupied areas. The May 10-16 summary reported that during the 24-hour Israeli independence anniversary holiday, May 10-11, troops manning the Jordanian front alone were in action 10 times. This while in the cities and elsewhere Israelis were dancing in the streets.

In most of the May 10-11 actions, mortar, bazooka or machinegun fire was aimed at Israeli outposts or against patrols along the Jordan River, the summary said. Israelis returned the fire. On May 12 there were 15 exchanges of fire between Israelis and Arab forces; on May 13 there were 16, on May 14, 13 exchanges. May 15 brought five firefights, and there were six on May 16. During this same period there were along the Suez Canal—although unworthy of mention at the time—81 artillery attacks, 102 mortar attacks and 52 exchanges of small arms fire. In this persistent war, there are few holidays.

Candidate Eyes Aid To Farmer

SHELLEY (UPI) — A republican candidate for governor said Monday a revision of the role of the Department of Agriculture was needed to allow it to aid farmers. Dick Smith, a Roxburg potato grower, said, "This industry must be protected. To accomplish this, one of my first moves if elected governor would be to revise the role of the Department of Agriculture, making it possible to lend services that will assure protecting the potato marketing system. Smith said many Idaho farmers "face economic disaster" due to the cost-price squeeze and that property tax had become burdensome "to the point of discouraging needed agricultural business expansion."

Flood Relief

VIENNA (UPI) — Flood relief from Communist China will help Romania maintain relative independence within Soviet-led Eastern Europe, Romanian diplomats said today. A Communist Chinese promise of free "massive aid" will enable Romania to resist Soviet pressure to force Romania to conform more closely with Kremlin policies, diplomats sources said. A month of floods has killed at least 300 persons, washed out 3 million acres of prime farmland and caused heavy damage to Romanian industry.

Small Home Museum Is Source Of Pleasure To Filer Woman

By MARJORIE LHERMAN
Times-News Correspondent
FILER — Her own small museum in which she displays treasures of bygone days, has been a source of great pleasure for Mrs. M. J. Macaw, Idaho pioneer, who observed her 83rd birthday anniversary last April.

Mrs. Macaw has lived in the state for more than 60 years. Born in Oklahoma, she moved to Idaho in 1907, and in 1910, after her marriage, moved to the large house in the northeastern part of town, which was her home until several years ago when the old house was torn down and a small home was built for her next to a daughter's house. Mr. Macaw died several years ago. Moving from the large house into a smaller one meant many of her treasured antiques and collector's items would have to be disposed of for lack of room, so the family built a small museum in the back yard so she could keep and display her collection. Like a true collector, Mrs. Macaw delights not in just one item but collects many, ranging from bottles, buttons, lanterns, lamps, and many others. Some of her bottles are desert glass, purplish by the sun. Most of them, like her rock display, have been given to her by friends.

She has an impressive assortment of keys, some of which she has gilded and mounted in picture frames, others which she has strung on cord. She also has many buttons which she has strung. Buttons now rate as one of the leading collector items.

Beaded purses, dolls, old eyeglasses, insulators, jugs, coffee grinders, irons, and many more interesting items make up her display. Some of her antiques have been sold through the years, while others are in the home of her daughters who also enjoy old and treasured things.

Mrs. Macaw and her daughters, Mrs. Frank Musgrave and Mrs. Elmer Haag, both Filer, are always on the lookout for new and unusual finds. Several years ago they were able to buy a number of inkwells from an old schoolhouse in Oakley. Purple from age, these bring 10 times their original price on the antique market today.

When the Filer freight depot recently closed, they purchased one of the luggage carriers, which they have placed on the lawn of their yard. Like all true collectors, they watch for closing of old stores, estate sales, and ads in papers offering antiques for sale.

Up until three years ago, Mrs. Macaw was able to spend much of her time in her museum. She broke a hip 10 years ago and is confined to a walker, but when her health permits, she enjoys browsing among her treasures. She is a member of the Twin Falls Historical Society, and in the past has made many a tour with the group.

Her attractive small home and museum are next door to the Musgrave home, while a grandson, Mickey Knight, lives next to the Musgraves. The Knight home is finished almost entirely in antique furniture which members of the family have refinished.

Mrs. Musgrave lists purple desert glass as her favorite, and has a large window wall which displays her many fine pieces. She also has many specimens of colored glass, dishes and furniture.

The yard joining the three houses has a large pond in front which is covered by a scenic white-painted bridge built by Mr. Musgrave. A number of pet ducks swim in the pond. Nearby, a small water wheel, also made by Mr. Musgrave, turns merrily in the water of a small ditch.

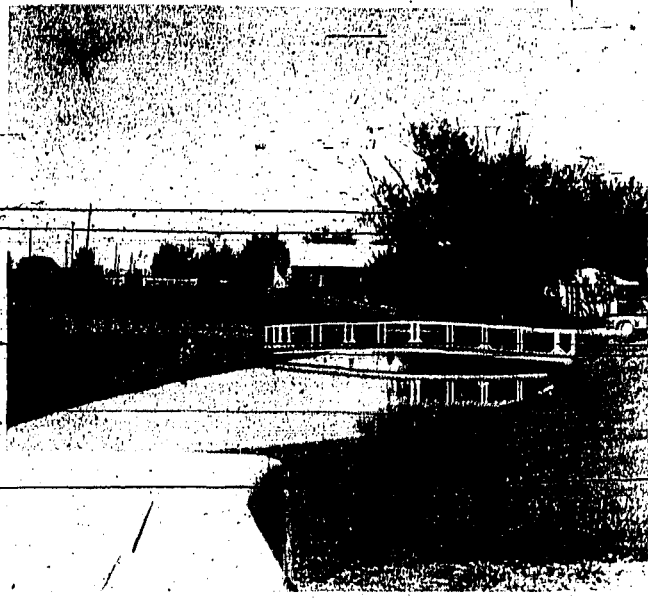

Mr. Knight, who returned in January from service in Vietnam, has a number of interesting pets he keeps on the place. These include a pet burro which roams at will on the grounds, a talking crow which they keep in a large pen in the back, several Canadian honker geese, the ducks on the pond, and three peacocks which occasionally unfold their beautiful plumage for visitors.

Looking almost like a miniature park, the colorful grounds of the three places with the unusual yard accessories, bright flowers and shrubbery, and array of pet animals, make this one of the show places of the area.

BOTTLES, LANTERNS, ROCKS, keys and buttons are but a few of the many things Mrs. M. J. Macaw, Filer, collects and has on display in her own museum behind her home northeast of town.

Mrs. Macaw, 83, has enjoyed her collection of antiques, many of which she has had for years and others which have been given to her by friends.

THE ATTRACTIVE LAWNS in front of the Macaw and Musgrave houses contain a small pool where tame ducks may swim. The white wooden bridge and water wheel were made by Mr. Musgrave. Shown at left is a burro, one of the family pets.

This seminar is one of a series held around the state to inform vendors of the changes in non-resident license fees and changes in commissions for license sales to the vendors, according to Ed Scholes, regional conservation officer at Jerome.

The cost of the non-resident license was boosted from $100 to $135 for a combination hunting and fishing license and from $25 to $35 for a game bird license. The deer only license for non-resident went from $25 to $50. Seminars have been held in Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, McCall, Boise Idaho Falls and Pocatello. One is scheduled in Salmon for June 30.

All vendors in the area should plan to attend as there will be representatives from the Boise Fish and Game Office to give instructions and answer questions. Mr. Scholes said

Narcotic Situation Detailed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The increasing number of young Americans being imprisoned in foreign countries on narcotics charges was the subject of a sharply etched segment on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" Tuesday night.

The magazine-type series also offered a provocative report on the views of American soldiers going to, and returning from, Vietnam. Both segments were timely, pertinent television of the kind that has made "60 Minutes" a notably fine network entry.

Particularly intriguing about the narcotics report was the underlying reminder that laws in many foreign nations are much tougher in this area than those in the United States.

The program pointed out that 148 of the Americans were in jail in Mexico, 23 each in Great Britain and Italy, 19 each in Israel and Greece, and 58 in Spain. It was on Spain that the report focused.

Among others, he interviewed, in a Malaga jail, an American boy who admitted giving hush to a friend who was caught and then informed on him. The boy got the minimum sentence—six years and one day. Another jailed young man—referred to as AWOL from the Army.

In the Vietnam segment of "60 Minutes," correspondent Mike Wallace first traveled with a platoon of soldiers going to the Southeast Asia War. And he ran into the usual mixture of opinions—some for, some against American participation there.

One unusual comment came from a young man who said he felt the Kent State killings were necessary. Another soldier said he was against the war and, but then, figured some men made it back from Vietnam, and decided to take his chances. A poll on board the plane showed that most of the soldiers favored American participation in the war.

Returning from Vietnam with a platoon of veterans, Wallace got similar results in another poll. In fact, the vote was more one-sided. This portion of the trip also contained statements that marijuana was easily available to, and widely used by, soldiers.

As for racial relations among the men, it was generally agreed that black and white got along best in smaller units, where their lives depended on each other.

One thing almost all the returning veterans agreed upon, said Wallace, was their opposition to the demonstrations and protests at home.

Atomic Program To Expand

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congressional testimony here Tuesday showed that an expansion program at the Atomic Energy Commission's Rocky Flats site will cost $20 million more than originally figured, nearly a 40 per cent over-run.

Rocky Flats is a major defense installation located northwest of Denver and is operated by Dow Chemical Co. for the AEC.

The testimony was released before a subcommittee of the appropriations committee considering public works, including the AEC.

The expansion program is now estimated to be $78 million, Air Force Maj. Gen. E. B. Giler testified Tuesday. Rep. Joe L. Evins, D-Tenn., told the general that figure would be more than $20 million above the original estimate. Giler testified that the overrun was primarily due to "the impact of rising labor costs, more complete production definition which resulted in better, and more advanced engineering facility design," and some design variations.

Cleveland Mayor Says Federal Aid Is Needed

By KENNETH R. CLARK DENVER (UPI)—Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes says "the English vocabulary doesn't permit a description" of how urgently the cities need federal aid. Debate on a resolution aimed at cutting war spending may plead the case eloquently for him today.

"Disturbing symptoms are tearing our nation apart now, not just threatening to," he said Tuesday. "We have got to make it clear to Washington there will be no retreat from our position."

Stokes, a bitter critic of the Nixon administration and its handling of the Vietnam War, agreed with Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier on a resolution calling for cuts totaling $4.5 billion in military and space spending, with the money to be channeled into urban areas of housing, welfare and unemployment.

Maier said he polled 20 of the 600 mayors and city officials at the U.S. Conference of Mayors during an informal caucus aimed at securing the percentage for the resolution. The percentage was small, but Maier said those concurring included two of the conference's most influential mayors—New York City's John V. Lindsay and Richard Daley of Chicago. Despite support from Lindsay and Daley, Maier predicted the issue would spark a battle.

"We have no intention of backing off the fight," he said. "The resolution is not a softening of the mayor's position and if we're going to fight, we're going to fight."

Fire

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI)—A 45-year old hotel porter set fire to the apartment of his 69-year-old girl friend today to keep her from breaking off their romance, police said. They said Juliane Kuppelo is in critical condition from burns after Franz Hingeneuer set fire to her flat.

"I always loved Juliane and I still love her," Hingeneuer told police after his arrest. "But when she wanted to break up the romance I decided that nobody else should have her."

Police said Hingeneuer poured gasoline through the mail slot at Juliane's door, then lighted it.

Maier said he did not believe his resolution, if adopted, would have any effect on Nixon administration policies.

Prices Of Food Are Moderate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that food shoppers will find only a moderate number of items featured at food stores this weekend.

At the meat counter this weekend a fair amount of beef roasts and steaks will be offered. And in pork, bacon, Boston butts and hams will be available. In poultry, broiler-fryers will be the lone standout. Vegetables bins will offer a fair supply of lettuce, celery, and cucumbers.

Among the fruits, the main offerings will be watermelons and oranges. At the fish counter, the U.S. Department of Interior advises that fish sticks and portions, canned sardines and fish filets are top values.

Manson Was Willing To Have First 12 Jurors Name New

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Charles Manson was willing to have the first 12 prospective jurors selected at random try him for the Sharon Tate-Labianca murders. The trial judge ignored him.

Jury selection proceeds instead today in normal fashion but it was apparent the job would take weeks as one person after another was excused for reasons ranging from personal hardship to preconceived opinion on the guilt or innocence of the "Manson Family."

The court clerk picked the names of 12 persons out of a steel box and they were seated in the jury box. Superior Court Judge Charles Ober asked if any of them had any conscientious objection to the death penalty.

Thomas R. Tosoya replied that he could not vote for the death penalty under any circumstances.

At that point, Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, stood and told the court that the 35-year-old ex-convict, accused of seven murders last August, was willing to accept the first 12 citizens seated in the box without questioning them further. Ober did not reply.

By the end of the day nine prospective jurors had been dismissed. One was a Scotsman who said he already had paid for airline tickets for a visit to his native land and was afraid his money would not be refunded. Two were discharged for unalterable opposition to the death penalty.

In another courtroom just down the hall, another member of the "Manson Family" was indicted for the murder of musician Gary Hinman three weeks before the slayings at the Tate and Labianca homes on Aug. 9 and 10. Robert Bonsolet Monday was sentenced to the gas chamber for Hinman's murder.

Maier, first had testified against Bonsolet and later recanted her story regarding Hinman's death. As a result, the prosecution withdrew its promise of immunity.

Study Unit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon was expected to announce today he will appoint a commission to bring public opinion to bear against inflationary increases in wages or prices.

Informed sources said the wage-price panel will be featured in the President's long-awaited economic address, which also will assure the public that the economy is basically sound.

The speech will be carried to the nation by radio and television at noon EDT.

The proposal is a departure for Nixon. He announced at his first news conference after inauguration he would scrap the Kennedy-price guidelines the Kennedy and Johnson administrations tried to maintain. He said then the guidelines were ineffective and unfair.

At that time Nixon also renounced the use of "jawboning," the technique of presidential persuasion that reached its apex in the confrontations between President John F. Kennedy and the steel industry and President Lyndon B. Johnson and the copper industry.

Nixon was almost certain today to not go so far as to recommend that kind of "jawboning" or to institute wage and price guidelines.

On the eve of Nixon's speech, the Senate Democratic Policy Committee unanimously adopted a resolution urging Nixon to re-establish wage and price guidelines.

Dog Control Law Stated At Jerome

JEROME — The Jerome City Council heard the first reading of a new dog-control ordinance in Tuesday night's meeting, setting provisions for notification of owners.

The ordinance provides that the city will post a written notice of all dogs picked up, giving the descriptions and locations where they were found. The notices will be posted for three days at the City Hall, and owners will have just two days further to reclaim their pets. They must pay all licensing fees and costs involved, the ordinance provides.

Armory To Be Built In Burley Gem Bankers Elect Officers At S.V.

BURLEY — A new National Guard Armory may be built in Burley in 1971, with the city part owner of the $233,000 project, the City Council was told in Tuesday night's regular meeting.

A letter concerning the Armory and the ownership proposal was read, asking that the city pay 10 per cent of the construction costs and furnish the land. The structure would be 15,000 square foot in size.

Council members agreed to bring up the proposal at the conference of the Cities Association in Coeur d'Alene this week, and to invite a speaker from the association to the July Council meeting.

SUN VALLEY — New officers were elected for the ensuing year of the Idaho Bankers Association during concluding business sessions here Tuesday.

Elected were S. M. Melkie, president, Idaho Bank of Commerce, Rexburg, president; James Phelps, senior vice president, First Security Bank, Pocatello, vice president, and A. M. Walden, vice president, Idaho-First National Bank, Coeur d'Alene, secretary-treasurer. Outgoing president Fred Humphreys, executive vice president, Idaho First National Bank, Boise, presented Mr. Melkie with the president's pin and gavel to conclude the three-day convention attended by about 485 bankers and their wives.

Speakers during Tuesday's concluding session were Mrs. Anna Foster, vice president of the Valley National Bank of Arizona, and Dr. Roy Moor, vice president and an economist, Drexel Harriman Ripley, Philadelphia, Penn.

"There has been a shift in the banking industry from the old fashioned banking techniques to a broadened scope of financial services to help mold the development of a community." "First rate banking is no longer enough. Our future role in community life is to meet the obligations of local leadership. We must help solve community, social and economic problems."

She added that the people of today are concerned about the ability of the government to govern, of the capability of the individual to cope with life of erosion of authority within institutions that compose society, of the influence of a community of life, and of what the individual can contribute to the quality of life. "It is up to the bankers to help mold the development of a community." "The general outlook of the economy of the country is BLAH, but definitely not bear," Dr. Moor said, explaining that his BLAH means indifferent, rather than declining. "I do not anticipate a V-shaped economy for corporate earnings in 1971, with the present down followed by a rise. I do however believe the earnings will follow the flat, remaining steady, but not declining."

"The stock market has moved away from the economy in the past four months," he added, "and now represents the effects of social change. The recent drop is not due to panic selling, but rather to a slow down in the economy, with lower prices due to value changes. The volume figure of stocks sold is actually low."

"I believe there will definitely be a slowdown in the rate of inflation in the next three months. Although it will not be great, it will improve the economic climate of the country."

The day concluded with a banquet. Dr. William Davis, president of the Idaho State University, served as toastmaster.

Control On Animals Sought In Burley

BURLEY — Horses are welcome on the open range, perhaps, but keep them out of town. That was the plea of a group of Burley residents who petitioned the Burley City Council this week to control animals within the city limits.

The residents, residing on the north side of town, were told that an ordinance is on the books, but it does not include horses in the animals to be controlled. After considering the matter, the Council instructed the city attorney to draft an ordinance to include horses.

The North Side residents also asked for controls to prevent accumulation of junked cars on private property. The Council agreed on this petition, also, and ordered the proper legislation written.

In other matters, the Council tabled a proposal for a new dog pound after receiving a report that material costs alone will amount to $1,100. Budgets of all departments will be reviewed before an expenditure of that size could be authorized, the Council said.

Broken water pipes at the city swimming pool and in the City Hall were reported, and repairs were authorized.

In the tradition known to earlier times, the stage was late in arriving and was greeted on the street by the townspeople who joined in congratulating the couple.

Hailey Boardwalk Is Setting For Real Western Wedding

HAILEY — It was a real western occasion recently when Gloria Stewart and Jerry Griggs exchanged wedding vows in an evening ceremony on the boardwalk at the Hiawatha Hotel here.

Riding in on stagecoach June 12, the wedding couple was escorted by members of the Hailey Hellers Riding Club, of which Mr. Griggs is president, and were greeted by a large number of townspeople who witnessed the event.

Given in marriage by her father, Donald Stewart, May, the bride wore an appropriately-styled western gown, with a fitted bodice of peau de sole and a chiffon over-lafeta skirt. The wrist-length sleeves were accented by ruffles which also lined the neckline. A bow accented the waist in back. Her veil was held by a potted crown of lace trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations with white rosebuds.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Rev. Thomas Hill, minister of the Mackay First Methodist Church, who traveled to Hailey for the occasion. He was attired in the traditional tall coat and black top hat, and carried with him a well-worn Bible.

The bride was attended by her sister, Donna Stewart, as bridesmaid. Accompanying the bridegroom was his nephew, David Griggs, Challis. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Griggs, Castleford.

The bridegroom and his best man were also appropriately attired in western shirt, slacks and hat to help create the mood.

In the tradition known to earlier times, the stage was late in arriving and was greeted on the street by the townspeople who joined in congratulating the couple during the informal reception which followed the ceremony.

Albert Knight was the stagecoach driver, with Doc (Lee) Evans riding shotgun.

Escorting the bride on horseback was Larry Young, while Wally Young and his daughter, Tammy, escorted the bridegroom. Others riding in the escort were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin McCoy, Ernie Manzer, Keith Madison and David Griggs. The riders are members of the Hellers, which sponsored the wedding.

Meeting in the lobby of the Hiawatha Hotel for the reception, the couple greeted guests before a table covered in white and accented with a four-tiered wedding cake, frosted white and trimmed with white bells and blue bows. A ceramic bride-and-bridegroom stood watch on top. The cake was prepared by Mrs. Frank Zoll of the hotel staff.

Small spider chrysanthemums accenting the bride's table, were arranged as a stagecoach and were accompanied by shaded blue tapers entwined with Lilies of the Valley.

Karon Hill, Challis, niece of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake, while Mrs. Clara Dowton, May, served punch and coffee. Terry Griggs, Challis, niece of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. Carol Schwobal, assisted by Mrs. Betty Watson, were in charge of the gift table. White Spider chrysanthemums and statlet adorned the gift table.

The arrangement was given by and Mrs. Jack Hill and family, Challis, sister of the bridegroom.

Special guests included Mrs. Blanche Stewart, San Miguel, Calif., and Mrs. Anna Jasperson, Paso Robles, Calif., both grandmothers of the bride,

• YOUR BANK CARDS WELCOMED

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: When our daughter graduated from high school, she was described as "a highly intelligent, well-adjusted, clean-cut girl," so we were confident that we could send her away to college.

Well, she has completed her sophomore year and we have just learned that our confidence in her was badly misplaced. During her first year we noticed that her friends appeared to be the "hippie type" but she defended them, saying they were "good kids" and they all looked like that.

Last summer she worked at a resort. We visited her frequently and noticed nothing amiss. However, now we know that she sometimes slept with boys who were casual dates. Also, she slipped away one weekend to attend a "rock concert" with three "guys" she hardly knew, and slept in one room with them.

How does a well brought up girl turn into such a tramp? She had love, a happy home, and a religious background. My wife is under a doctor's care now and seems headed for a nervous breakdown.

Perhaps if you publish this letter, some other kids will see it and stop short of wrecking a happy family. We have another daughter, younger, and it sickens me to admit that my wife and I have lost all desire to bring her up. We feel that teaching decency and honor to today's children is useless.

DEFEATED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: In spite of the best parental guidance, and the ultimate in examples of "morality" at home, our young people today are faced with temptations we never knew. [Drugs, freaky friends, the horrifying fear that there will be no "world" soon. Who knows?]

In any case, even the your eldest daughter fell under the influence of her peer group. I urge you not to abandon your responsibility as parents now. And the younger one deserves your best efforts, too. These are times when our children need our love and understanding most.

DEAR ABBY: I am not a hippie. I am not a rebellious student. I am a girl, 18 years old. I don't drink or smoke. I don't use pot or LSD and I don't stand on street corners waiting to be picked up.

I am a virgin and no boy puts his hands where they shouldn't be. I have plenty of dates. So what's my problem?

In your column you labeled me (and countless others) as having no respect for ourselves. Why? Because we walked with a boyfriend with our hands around each other's waists, or we sat close together in a car. So what's wrong with an expression of affection and love these days? Would you rather we hid our feelings in the back seat of a car? Would that be more "proper"? No one would see us there.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Aw, come on! There is nothing wrong with young lovers [and older ones, for that matter] expressing honest affection in public—TO A POINT. But that "point" ends when they put their hands where they shouldn't be, exchange passionate kisses before God and everybody, and give the general impression that they are in a bedroom. [Or would like to be!]

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST CURIOUS": You are mistaken. A baby CAN be born in the eighth month of pregnancy and weigh 9 1/2 pounds. This is common in families where there is a history of diabetes.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Get Taste Of Job Training

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (UPI)—First-graders in Ohio schools will get a taste of job training if a program that originated here catches on.

Thirteen teachers at the Elm Street Elementary School in nearby Perryburg are enrolled in a course at Bowling Green State University to teach them how to teach the practical arts. A few of the teachers already have put the course to work.

One first-grade class established an assembly line to make pen holders for gifts. Another class made leather jewelry, using authentic Indian methods. Other projects, using real tools, include the making of butter, knitting with student-made looms and producing paper.

"I've always taught about the world of work but we felt our curriculum didn't go deep enough," said Mrs. Lawrence Jensen, of Perryburg, one of the teachers in the course.

"The things we're learning in this course introduce our students into any number of occupational areas including construction and manufacturing jobs." The students use hand drills and jig saws among other real tools.

Dr. Richard A. Swanson, who teaches the course, said he hopes the teachers will be given the chance to use what they've learned in their classrooms.

"This is part of the growing interest in getting people ready for the world of work," he said.

Burley Miss, Hadley Reveal August Date

Perry Cottingham, Burley, announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of his daughter, Mary Lee, to Raymond B. Hadley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hadley, Sandy, Utah. Miss Cottingham is the daughter of the late Mrs. Esther Cottingham.

The bride-lect attended Ricks College and will be graduated in August from Brigham Young University. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa. Miss Cottingham is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Mary Harding, Burley, and niece of Mrs. T. R. Larson, Twin Falls.

Miss Cottingham has majored in English and minored in psychology and plans to teach after graduation.

Mr. Hadley is a senior at Brigham Young University and is affiliated with Lambda Delta Sigma. He served a mission for the LDS Church in Japan.

An Aug. 10 wedding is planned at the Salt Lake City LDS Temple. An open house will be held in Sandy, Utah, and a reception hold in Burley. The couple will reside in Cleveland, Ohio, where Mr. Hadley will attend Western Reserve University for graduate work in dentistry.

For safety's sake, the Greater New York Safety Council says toys for boys eight years of age and older ought to exclude air rifles, chemistry sets, dart games, bows and arrows, dangerous tools and electrical toys unless used under parental supervision.

State Officers Attend Local American War Mothers Meet

State officers were present at the June meeting of the American War Mothers at the present 50-star flag.

Among officers were Mrs. Katie Schmidt, Burley, state first vice president; Mrs. Mrs. B. F. Vico reported on the refreshments for the Flag Day Tea.

Mrs. Armgo was elected secretary-treasurer to represent the War Mothers in the Patriotic Organization for 1971.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Armgo, Meridian, provided refreshments in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Armgo, for their Golden Wedding Anniversary. Mrs. Lora Doss cut and served the gold decorated anniversary cake. Mrs. Willie Pariah poured tea and coffee. Mrs. Bessie Bartlett assisted. The refreshment table was covered with gold lace and accented with gold-colored candles, yellow chrysanthemums and a bowl of dark red roses.

State officers and the visiting chapter president spoke briefly. Mrs. Emma Stone was in charge of the guest book at a table covered with gold lace and accented with yellow-iris from the garden of Mrs. Pariah. Cards received by the honored couple were on display including one from Mrs. Ethel Beck Harrison, New Jersey, junior national president of the American War Mothers.

Appropriate music was furnished by Mrs. Gordon.

Reunion Slated

A Mink family reunion will be held on Father's Day at the Municipal Park in Boise at Fireplace No. 7. This will be the 21st annual reunion and approximately 300 persons are expected to attend from six to eight states.

Those attending are asked to bring food enough for their family and their own table service. Coffee and ice cream will be furnished. Prizes will be given for the youngest member present, the largest family and for traveling the farthest.

trumps. West had little trouble with his first five discard which were four clubs and a diamond.

South's four-spade bid was all purpose. Maybe he would make it. In any event he did not expect to be hurt.

West felt the pressure all right. He certainly wanted to bid clubs, but a five-club bid might be disastrous.

He opened the jack of hearts... South won with the ace and led the king of trumps.

CHASKA, Minn. (UPI)—Leo Trevino is one of the few U.S. Open qualifiers who has been plugging practice time at

San Diego Moves From Basement, Drops Cards

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Left-hander Dave Roberts, taking over for injured starter Mike Corkins in the second inning, blanked St. Louis on six hits as San Diego defeated the Cards 4-0 to move out of the basement in the National League's Western Division for the first time since April 10.

L. A. I. Pirates 0
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Grabarkowicz hit a solo homer in the fourth inning and Don Sutton hurled a four-hit, two-day night as the Los Angeles Dodgers scored a 1-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Murrell's solo homer that started a four-run rally in the seventh inning, lifted San Diego into fifth place—004 ahead of Houston. Clarence Gaston capped the inning with a three-run double.

Sutton did not give up a hit until after one out in the fifth when Bill Maseroski doubled. And the closest the Pirates came to scoring was in the eighth when Richie Hebner tripled down the third base line with two out but Al Oliver flied out the next threat.

Steve Carlton suffered his third straight loss to the Padres. A 17-game winner in 1969, Carlton's record is now 3-

Bob Venal started for the Pirates and allowed only four hits in the seven innings he worked to take the loss, his seventh against five wins. For Sutton it was his eighth win against five losses.

Bears' Inspirational Leader, Piccolo, Loses Cancer Battle

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brian Piccolo, the Chicago Bears running back whose courage helped teammate Gale Sayers make a remarkable comeback and gave inspiration and hope to persons afflicted with cancer, lost his battle with the dreaded disease Tuesday.

Chicago (UPI)—Gale Sayers, choked with emotion, said Tuesday he was saddened by the death of teammate and friend Brian Piccolo of the Chicago Bears.

After shooting a par 72 Monday, he said "I think this is going to be my week. I have spent six days getting ready for this tournament. Not only physically but mentally...I've set my mind to winning this one. If I can get by the little man from South Africa (Gary Player) I figure I have it made."

Sayers said "Brian was a very close friend. I considered him as close to me as my family, my wife, my children. I'm going to miss him very much."

On the basis of their numerous practice rounds, Trevino and Player were pegged as the early favorites. Defending champion Orville Moody, who shot par the first time he played Hazlett, said "I had the chance to pick a course on which to defend my title, it would have been one exactly like this one."

Piccolo, who was an understudy to Sayers on the Bears roster, died Tuesday morning of cancer in a New York hospital. Sayers, who came back from a serious knee injury to lead the National Football League in rushing, had credited Piccolo with helping speed his recovery and rehabilitation.

Death came only three weeks after Sayers, in New York to receive an award for his award. Brian should be the one to get this award. He's the one that knows about courage, Sayers said during the May 25 dinner of the New York Pro Football Writers Association.

Despite leading all college ball carriers with 1,044 yards during his senior year at Wake Forest in 1964, Piccolo, a 205-pound athlete, was passed over in the college player draft, supposedly because of his lack of speed.

He signed with the Bears as a free agent in 1965, the same year as Sayers. While Sayers, voted the National Football League's rookie-of-the-year, gained instant stardom, Piccolo saw limited service, being used mainly as Sayers' replacement at left halfback.

CHASKA, Minn. (UPI)—Juan "Chi Chi" Rodriguez discovered "a little secret" last weekend, and the Puerto Rican golf star said bluntly today that with it, he will win the U.S. Open.

"I was beginning to worry that I was through as a golf pro," he said. "I've been playing in all the tournaments, but I haven't been making the cuts."

Model for model, Chevies are priced lower. Chevy-pickup prices start below the others. And model for model they stay below—all along the regular pickup line. By as much as $201.04* below in the case of a Chevrolet 1/2-ton Fleetside—America's most popular pickup body style.

Met's 8, Reds 1
NEW YORK (UPI)—Cleon Jones' two-run double sparked a three-run seventh inning outburst and Jim McAndrew throttled Cincinnati on eight hits Tuesday night as the New York Mets beat the Reds 8-1.

More V8 power—Biggest standard Six. The one that underprices all the others, overpowers them in the bargain. You can order a 400 V8 that no popular pickup can come within 50 horses of. And it sips regular fuel. Just like all good Chevy V8s and Sixes. Speaking of Sixes, our standard 250 cubic-incher makes everything else in the field seem sub-standard.

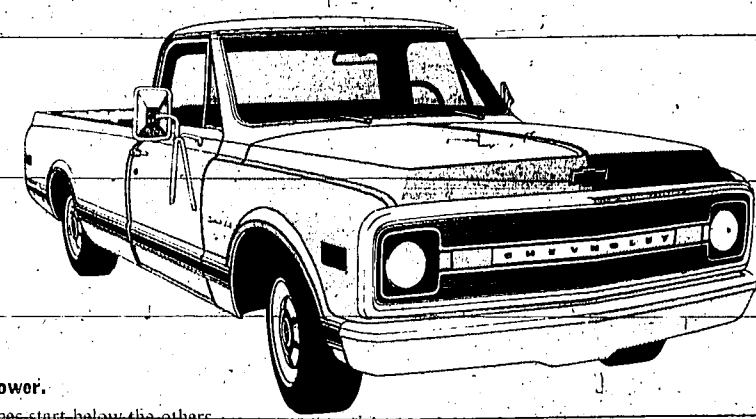

Job-proved independent front suspension that keeps Chevies running smoother, longer. For as much as $201.04* less than the others, as standard equipment you get Chevy's famous Bump Exterminator up front and beefy two-stage coil springs in back. What you don't get is a ride full of shocks and jolts to upset passenger and/or load. Chevy did away with rough-riding trucks more than a decade ago. We must have had the right idea, because now most pickups employ some form of independent front suspension. The closest competition is 1.5 million units behind, however.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clay's attorneys, encouraged by a Supreme Court decision deferring conscientious objections from the draft, said Tuesday they have begun proceedings to have the former heavyweight champion's draft evasion conviction reversed. "We'll ultimately find out by court decision whether his conviction will be reversed," said Bob Arum, one of Clay's attorneys, "but the Supreme Court decision obviously covers him."

Chevy's pickup pricedown: As much as $201.04* less than the others.

Double-wall cab and box. Chevy cabs get two tough walls of steel in all vital areas. Roof, Cowl, Sills, Doors. And rear body panels. What it means to you is more security, a quieter ride, and extended truck life. Also, there are smooth one-piece fender liners within the front fenders to turn back rocks. And ward off rust.

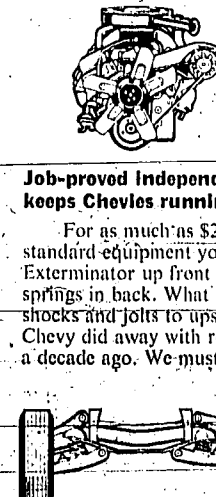

At all Fleetside boxes get the double-wall treatment, too. And unlike some other pickups, Chevy double walls are full depth in both the sides and the tailgate. The inside wall takes all the bumps. The outside wall takes all the compliments. Chevy's a lot of truck—for a lot less than the rest.

Chevies live longer. These are the official figures showing how Chevies outlive other trucks. Going back as far as 1955, for example, over 56% of the Chevies built in that model year are still on the job. No competitive make has as many as half of its 15-year-old models still working. And in all the years since, no other make can match the steadily high percentage of Chevies still going strong.

Based on R. L. Folk & Co. statistics.

Brazil-Italy Final

Conjures Memories Of Bitter Battle

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The footballers and the experts agreed Tuesday that it will be a Brazil-Italy final in the 1970 World Cup soccer championships.

Brazil rated a big edge over Uruguay and Italy got the nod over West Germany in the forecasting of Wednesday's semifinals. The finals will be played Sunday.

Brazil meets Uruguay at Guadalajara's Estadio Jalisco while the European teams meet at the Aztec Stadium at Mexico City.

The Brazilians are eager to get to grips with the Uruguayans. Men with long memories remember the only other time they met in the World Cup, on July 17, 1950, in Rio when Uruguay came from behind to win the Trophy 2-1.

"The Brazilians were odds on favorites to win the then-league style championship and needed only a draw to clinch it. But, to the astonishment of the soccer field, the Uruguayans won 2-1. Sixteen Brazilians committed suicide that day, according to official announcements at that time."

WSU Hopes To Equal Finish Of Last Year

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—Washington State University track coach Jack Mooberry predicted Tuesday "40 to 50 points should be enough to win it," as he and his 1969 squad prepared to leave for the NCAA track and field championships at Des Moines, Iowa.

Mooberry, at Drake University, starts Thursday and WSU hopes to at least repeat last year's third place tie. The Gators were second in 1968.

"Unless some school gets hot," Mooberry said, "40 to 50 points should be enough to win it. I don't think that will happen."

Mooberry rates the University of Texas as El Paso, UCLA and Oregon as the teams to beat but said, "Someone like Villanova could be in there."

The Gators are returning 30 of the 40 points they scored at the meet last year, including John Van Rooyen, who will be seeking his third straight discus title.

Other past winners from last year are Rick Riley, a second place finisher in the six-mile run, and Art Sandison, who was second in the 600.

Santa Clara Top Two Seeds Claim Hires Aide Easy NCAA Victories

To Coach

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI)—Dick Garibaldi, the most successful basketball coach in Santa Clara University history and one of the top coaches in California the last eight years, resigned Tuesday, and Carroll Williams, his assistant, was named successor.

Pat Malley, Santa Clara Athletic Director, announced Garibaldi's resignation and Williams' appointment, ending two days of speculation.

Garibaldi, who led Santa Clara to three straight West Coast Athletic Conference Championships and three NCAA post-season playoff berths, quit to take a lucrative position with the Converse Rubber Co., manufacturer of basketball shoes and other sports equipment. His territory will include all of northern California, Nevada and Utah, in the area of promotion and sales.

Malley served Garibaldi for his service at the Mission school.

"We are extremely indebted to Dick for elevating Santa Clara basketball to the level of national prominence it enjoys today," Malley said.

Laver Seeded No. 1 Man At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Arthur Ashe of Gun Spring, Va., and Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., will compete in the 1970 Wimbledon tennis championships as the highest ranking Americans but the honor for top seeding went, as expected, to Australian Rod Laver and Margaret Court.

Ashe, No. 5 seed, at Wimbledon last year, was rated No. 3 in the men's singles with Smith, top-ranked in the U.S., this year, was seeded seventh in official seedings announced Tuesday for the tournament which starts next week.

Californian Billie Jean King, last year's runner-up to Britain's Ann Jones—who will not defend her title—was listed as Mrs. Court's top rival and Rosie Casals of San Francisco was ranked No. 5.

Biggest surprise of the two lists, announced by the All-England Tournament Committee, is the inclusion at No. 6 of Yugoslav "Ejko" Franulovic, a master of the hard courts but as yet not an overpowering grass court player.

Franulovic was eliminated in the second round of last year's Wimbledon.

Behind Laver, Newcombe and Ashe in the men's listings are Australia's Tony Roche, Aussie pro Kerry Rosewall, Franulovic, Smith and Romania's Ilie Nastase (who won this year's Italian title).

Missouri Loop May Add West Texas

CANYON, Tex. (UPI)—Missouri Valley Conference faculty representatives Tuesday scheduled a special meeting to vote on West Texas State University's application to join the conference.

The meeting was scheduled for Saturday in Dallas. Officials of the conference and West Texas State also called a news conference following the vote and indications were the Buffaloes would be admitted.

The conference announced last month it wanted to expand into an eight-team football league and a 12-team basketball loop. West Texas State made application for the conference March 1 before the proposed expansion was announced.

Indians And White Sox

Make Trade

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Cleveland Indians Tuesday acquired right-hand hitting outfielder Buddy Sisk from the Chicago White Sox for pitchers Barry Moore and Bob Miller.

"We've got the right-handed hitting outfielder we've been seeking," Dark said. "We need him to give us balance. We've traded two pitchers for a kid who has a future."

Bradford, 25, is now undergoing two weeks of military training and will not report to the Indians until about June 28. He had been shirking the center field position for the White Sox with Ken Berry. He was hitting .185 in 38 games.

Sisk, 28, was 1-1 with the Sox in relief, with a 5.45 earned run average. He will be assigned to the Indians' triple-A farm team at Wichita.

The Indians also called up pitcher Mike Austin from Wichita. Austin was 4-1 with Wichita with a 2.44 earned run average.

Pros Sign Michigan State Sophomore

Gymnasium Opens For Basketball

DETROIT (UPI)—Ralph Simpson, The Michigan State University sophomore who set a school scoring record in his only varsity season, has signed a $1 million professional contract with the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association, the Detroit Free Press reported Tuesday.

The Detroit newspaper said it had learned that Simpson would receive a bonus of $250,000 plus an annual salary estimated at $50,000. He also reportedly would receive $700,000 in long-term benefits to be invested now and paid between the ages of 40 and 60.

The 20-year-old Simpson was a teammate of Spencer Haywood at Pershing High School in Detroit. Haywood was signed by the Rockets last year for a reported $250,000.

The Free Press said Simpson signed the contract three months ago but the agreement was not announced until Tuesday.

He added Thursday is the final registration day for those interested in participating in the city tennis tournament this weekend.

Gymnasium Opens For Basketball

The Twin Falls High School gymnasium will be available to open basketball at 6 p.m. Thursday, announces Chad Browning, city recreation director.

Browning said the gym would be open each Monday and Thursday night for the next six weeks.

He added Thursday is the final registration day for those interested in participating in the city tennis tournament this weekend.

Hollywood Movie Star System Moves To Video

By RICK DU BROW - HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - A cynic once wrote that all good ideas go to television when they die.

Well, Hollywood's movie star system is dead. And now it is moving over to video.

It's well known by now that such headlines as Henry Ford, Glenn Ford, Tony Curtis, Shirley MacLaine and James Garner are going to do regular network series within the next year or two.

And James Stewart is the latest big catch, signing to do a weekly half-hour situation comedy on NBC-TV the season after next - with his role reported to be that of a college professor.

The question in all these signings, so far as the public is concerned, is: Why are movie stars, who used to look down on television generally, finally succumbing to its weekly lures?

There are a number of answers.

First, to be blunt: While some who have signed can still pull their weight on a movie marquee, others really aren't major motion picture boxoffice attractions any more, despite their often superior talent and famous names.

So they are cleverly and they hope - gracefully moving over to video while still big enough to command huge television fees.

The big new movie audience is very young, and anti-rar system, at least in a Hollywood kind. Yet there are occasional exceptions like Steve McQueen and Paul Newman. And sometimes a new star is even made - like Elliott Gould.

But you won't see any of these in a regular television series - certainly not so long as they are hot as major movie headlines.

Among other reasons, there is an element of the security that movie studios used to offer - a steady place to work for a reasonable length of time. Movie today, on the other hand, are a changing, insecure business - with no bit securing long stands.

But why is television coming up with some incredible deals to lasso stars when they are so hard to guarantee to succeed - and why is it willing that the success of a series to make a real profit?

For one reason: the networks are under increasing competitive pressure these days - with the future sure to bring opposition lures such as cable television and video cassettes. And pre-sold star power is a pretty shrewd commodity for middleaged home viewers.

In short, the money is probably worth it as the networks fight themselves for the big fight ahead - and beef up their stables.

Britain's Schools Deteriorating Into "Blackboard Jungles"

By PETER J. SHAW
 LONDON (UPI) — Teachers complain "blackboard jungles" are creeping into Britain's education system.
 "Cracks have appeared in the popular image that schooling in Britain, public as well as private, is a gentlemanly affair where strict discipline soon slaps down the odd rebel."
 Now the rod is largely spared because of the threat of legal action by parents.
 Teachers in state (public) schools are complaining of a "slow but certain deterioration in general discipline" that includes violence toward teachers and fellow pupils.

 The decay has yet to strike the hallowed halls of famous public (fee-paying private) schools like Eton and Harrow where the embarrassment of expulsion remains a successful deterrent.
 It is spreading through state-run comprehensive schools, Britain's equivalent to public schools and junior high schools in the United States.
 The latent distress signal was sent by an organization of London secondary teachers called Joint Four. In a report based on incidents compiled through headmasters and senior teachers but intentionally lacking in specific numbers, Joint Four:

 —Called for "a national policy to protect teachers against abuse and assault in the classroom."
 —Said "there is growing concern among teachers about the standards of discipline and work in secondary schools ... there is evidence a situation is developing which militates against good teaching."

 The report declared:
 "There is a slow but certain deterioration in general discipline which can take the form of chronic classroom misbehavior, challenges to teachers' authority including open defiance, truancy and pilfering."
 "Cases of 'more serious' vandalism or of violence toward staff or fellow pupils occur. But it is the constant disturbance caused by multiplied instances of comparatively minor misbehavior that is becoming increasingly serious."

"Hours of valuable teaching time are being wasted."
 The Joint Four report suggested the breakdown in discipline rested at least in part on overlarge primary school classes, overlarge secondary schools where teachers and children failed to know each other and a rapid turnover of teachers throughout Britain due to poor pay.
 "The growing frequency of cases of assault on teachers by pupils must be stemmed," the report said.
 "The London Education Authority should take legal action against the parents. In proven cases the child in question should be expelled."

 The report said "most teachers are reluctant to acknowledge the extent of the discipline problem since it appears to reflect on their professional ability."
 It also said "there are too many young and inexperienced teachers who need much more instruction in basic classroom control."
 Kenneth Hooton, Joint Four spokesman and headmaster of a London comprehensive school, said the report intentionally omitted specific incidents and figures "because through publicity they might make the position worse."

 Statistics on discipline breakdown are elusive.
 The National Union of Teachers says there are occasional violent incidents of children attacking teachers. But it contends there has been no recent significant increase in violence in the classroom. The union and Joint Four are separate entities.

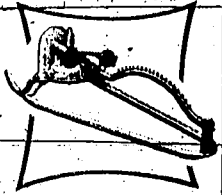

The Inner London Education Authority, London's major school governing body, is currently examining reported incidents in London schools. It may eventually publish its findings but is reluctant to cite figures or make "blanket statements" now.
 It admits there is a discipline problem, however.
 Part of the Joint Four report was based on information gleaned by the Assistant Headmasters' Association.
