President, Mrs. Nixon Celebrate

THURMONT, Md. (UPI)—President and Mrs. Nixon quietly observed their 30th wedding anniversary and a Father's Day weekend Saturday at Camp David with a serving of Mexican tacos adding spice to the President's celebration.

In commemoration of the fact that he and his wife spent their honeymoon on a leisurely trip to Mexico after their 1940 wedding, Nixon instructed the staff at the Catactin Mountain camp to have a supply of tacos on hand.

Navy Wives Seek Help For Spouses

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Two Navy wives departed for Paris Saturday in hopes of gaining information about their husbands from the North Vietnamese delegation in the French capital.

Mrs. Jeannette Cornell and Mrs. Marie Estoch, accompanied by their children, planned to stop in Washington to confer with officials of the State and Defense Departments before going on to Paris.

Mrs. Cornell's husband, Lt. James Cornell, was shot down over North Vietnam in 1968 while flying an A-4 Skyhawk. Mrs. Cornell said Hanoi released her husband's name and picture.

Lt. Cmdr. Michael J. Estoch was listed as missing in action over North Vietnam in 1967. His wife has heard nothing since.

Effects Of Inflation Depicted

CHICAGO (UPI)—A color television priced at $500 today selling for $2,871.72 in 30 years? A median price American home listed at $25,600 today going for $147,032 in the year 2000?

Unbelievable as they sound, these values would become a reality if the current 6 per cent inflation rate continues for the next 30 years, the United States Savings and Loan League said Saturday.

The league cited these and other figures, based on a statistical calculation of adjusting a family's income upward 6 per cent each year on a compounded basis.

Using this scale, the American breadwinner earning $10,000 in 1970 would have to earn $57,435 in 2000 to maintain a "comparable standard of living," the league said.

Clean-Up Campaign Collects Tons Of Trash Along Roads

BY CAROL BURNAM Times-News Staff Writer Saturday's "Johnny Horizon" county-wide cleanup effort, delayed a week by rain, brought a collection of an estimated 30 tons of trash from county roads, and the elimination of a sizeable collection near Buhl estimated at 450 tons.

The Buhl trash had been dumped in an area mistaken for a county dump, according to Bill Chaney, chairman of the cleanup drive.

Approximately 400 people from 13 service groups, assisted by other county residents, participated in the campaign which swept county roads, and

New Front Opened Inside Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—A 4,000-man South Vietnamese task force opened a new front inside Cambodia Saturday, pushing across the border into a Communist stronghold softened up by waves of U.S. Air Force B52 Stratofortresses.

Military sources said the drive was launched by men of South Vietnam's 23rd Infantry Division who swept across the frontier into the Se Bang River valley, one of the few Cambodian border areas still untouched in the allied offensive against Communist sanctuaries which began April 20.

No fighting was reported in the first 12 hours of the new drive which concentrated in an area west of South Vietnam's Central Highlands opposite Darlac Province. The target was about 100 miles south of the point where the border of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos meet—a region dominated by Communist forces.

Allied sources said the South Vietnamese task force, including armored units and artillery batteries, brought to 34,000 the number of South Vietnamese soldiers operating on Cambodian soil. About 12,000 U.S. troops are operating in Cambodia, but President Nixon has said all will be withdrawn by June 30.

B52 crews dropped hundreds of tons of bombs on jungles in northeast Cambodia Friday night and Saturday morning in advance of the South Vietnamese push.

The thrust was largely a South Vietnamese show, but eight Americans were reported killed. Deeper inside Cambodia, in another border area south of the new front as Communist forces suddenly intensified opposition to the Allied campaign.

First Phase Set In Mall Project

Workmen will begin tearing out sidewalks and pavement in the Twin Falls downtown business district Monday, preparatory to reconstructing Main Avenue as a shopping mall.

The Downtown coordinating committee said the work will start in the 200 block, east and south — the State Hardware block, and will proceed west, a block at a time.

Portions of Main Avenue will be closed to all vehicular traffic during the entire construction period. Pedestrian traffic will not be allowed while sidewalks are being torn out, but as soon as there is no longer a safety hazard, pedestrians will be allowed to cross again.

On the ladder of success, don't step back to admire your work.

Today over two million persons in this county wear hearing aids, including people of all ages, in all walks of life. Among famous people who have worn or wear hearing aids: Winston Churchill, Eleanor Roosevelt, Bernard Baruch, and singer-comedienne Nanette Fabray.

To make a long story short, there is nothing like having the boss walk in.

Did you know that some hearing aids can be adjusted to "fill in the missing parts" of each person's hearing? This is important, because, like fingerprints, no two hearing losses are alike, and simple amplification may not be enough. Our "custom-fitted" hearing aids are truly remarkable. Can we show you how they may help you hear better?

How Do You Like Two-Way Traffic On Main Avenue? Confusing?

Mohday Main Avenue underwent a traffic change from a one-way street to a two-way street. Several people, both local and out-of-town, expressed their opinions about the change.

Lo Roller, Twin Falls, says, "It's a good idea. It gives people a chance to get around downtown and it helps business."

"It's wonderful!" feels Bob Greenslate, Twin Falls. "It will bring more people downtown and they won't have to go so far to get there."

Gene Helms, Twin Falls, security guard of First Security Bank, is against the change. "There are going to be a lot of wrecks," he warns. "It's too confusing."

A San Diego visitor, Francis Peck, says, "I find the signs confusing. When you come from a side street onto Main Avenue it doesn't say which way it goes."

Mrs. John West, Twin Falls, says, "It's better the other way. Now it's too confusing."

"It's good this way," feels Mrs. Beverly Zimprich, Twin Falls. "It was too confusing the other way, because you had to go down Second Street and come back to get on Main Ave."

Watch Out, Locusts, World's Changing Fast

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Let's hear it out there for mother nature!

Once again this spring she has successfully performed her famous 17-year locust trick, one of the most difficult, spectacular, fascinating and mystifying stunts ever seen on the face of the earth, or wherever else you might look.

As always, she pulled it off right before the eyes of many of us. And still nobody can figure out how she does it.

Emergence of the 17-year locusts, (actually, of course, they are cicadas, not locusts at all, but most people call them by the name of their much more destructive kin) undoubtedly will land mother nature in the hall of fame of legerdemain along with such other masters of prestidigitation as Blackstone and Houdini.

Other Tricks are Easy

Compared to the locust trick, pulling a rabbit out of a hat is as simple as sawing a woman in half. The idea is to take a baby locust, bury it in the ground and, without any further action visible to the naked eye, get it to remain there for exactly 17 years, at the end of which time it crawls out, mates, lays a few eggs, eats some shrubbery and dies.

The first time I saw the locust in 1953, I wrote it off as a lucky fluke. There is, I told myself, no way to train insects to stay underground exactly 17

Washington Window

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Anyone who wonders why President Nixon felt it necessary to set up a new office of executive management at the White House will find the answer in a massive loose-leaf catalog which has just come off the presses.

It is the most comprehensive attempt ever made to list and describe all of the domestic programs through which federal money, advice or service is made available to individuals, organizations, cities, counties and states.

It identifies no fewer than 1,019—that's right, more than a thousand—such programs.

The catalog was compiled by the Office of Economic Opportunity on the basis of official reports from 57 federal departments and agencies. Its publication is a triumph for Rep. William V. Roth Jr., R-Del., who has been needling the government for several years to publish such a compendium.

The stated purpose of the "Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance," which anyone may buy from the government printing office for $6.75, is "to aid potential beneficiaries in identifying types of assistance available and how they may obtain it."

There is another use to which it can be put, however, and in the long run it could prove to be most important to taxpayers.

In this catalog, President Nixon and his new deputy for management, George P. Schultz, can find valuable clues to areas in which there is needless overlapping, duplication or even direct contradiction between government programs.

At present, the government's left hand often doesn't know or care what its right hand is doing. As the catalog reveals, it is far from unusual to find 8 or 10 different agencies working in the same field with little or no coordination.

How much overlapping and duplication exists among these programs no one can possibly say at present, because the government has never heretofore made any serious attempt to find out.

Hard Rock Minors Get "Top Band" Break At Jaycee Summer Dances

TRYING TO KEEP the "rock music" down to a whisper, police officer Buck Wilson stands in a phone booth where he can still keep water on the dancers. Two policemen and 18 Jaycees were on hand to maintain order at Thursday's dance.

By CAROL BURNAM
Dressed in bell-bottomed pants, leather jackets, ponchos, vests, boots, tennis shoes and bare feet, approximately 50 people "rocked-out" at the American Legion Hall Thursday evening.

The Jaycees are sponsoring dances for the young people on Thursday evenings during the summer months to give them something to do and some place to go.
The "Fragile Lime," a rock group from Seattle was praised by Thursday-night dancing group.
"The music isn't heavy," said Pam Royal, local girl. "It's not country western, it's variety of good music."
Playing songs like "Proud Mary" and "You've Lost That Loving Feeling," the band was rated a "top band" by the dancers.

"I thought it was going to be a teeny-bopper band since it's sponsored by the Jaycees, but it's a groovy band like we used to have at the National Guard Armory," said John Jensen, Twin Falls.
Many of the young people asked why the dance was not held at the National Guard Armory, since all other popular bands have chosen that place for dances.

The National Guard Armory does not have a good reputation," said Tim Marrow, manager of the bands. "The Big Mountain Production Company wants the parents to be satisfied with the dances, as well as the young people who attend them. With the Jaycees sponsoring the dance, we know that there won't be any problems with liquor or fights."
John Mai, a member of a local band, the Fifth Wall, remarked that it was "great to be able to have good groups coming into Twin Falls. It only saddens me that there aren't many kids here."

Several young people complained about the small number who attended the dance.
"Kids say there is nothing to do in this town, but now that we have good bands coming into everyone stays at home and does nothing," said Miss Royal.
Some of the young people argued that the $2 asked for admission was too high and Mr. Marrow agreed to question his company in regards to lowering the price for girls, since most teen-age girls do not work and find themselves short of money.
"I don't care how much it costs, it's great to have a good band with good singers," said Conrad Cuellar, Twin Falls.
For the most part, the young people agreed that "they really dug the band."
Thirteen Jaycees and two policemen were available to handle any problems that the young people might have had, but there were no problems, according to Doug Vollmer, manager of the American Legion Hall.
The dance started at 8 p.m. with four people there and by 10:00 p.m. the majority of the 50 young people had arrived, and were dancing or sitting along the walls just listening to the music.
Future dances will be held at the American Legion Hall at 8 p.m. Thursdays and the public is invited. No alcoholic beverages are allowed.
"There is a danger that the dances will be discontinued if the support does not increase. It's your thing, do want you dig," said the lead singer for the Fragile Lime.

Something Different To Give On Father's Day

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hey kids!—Worried about what to give Dad this Father's Day? Really want to show the Old Man that you think he's right on? Then be the first on your block to try out these groovy suggestions for honoring him June 21:
—Get your hair cut and weave it into a tobacco pouch.
—Call him long distance and pay for it yourself.
—Bring back the family car with a tankful of gas, an oil change and a lube job.
—Tell him you believe in putting yourself through college as an experiment in self-ignition.
—Let him describe what it was like when he was your age. Be sure to ask him about the big band days of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman, and about such cars as 1938 Ford roadsters with rumble seats.
—Tell him you think marriage is basically a sound social institution.
—Have a date with a boy who, when introduced, smiles, shakes hands with Dad and says "I'm very pleased to meet you."
—Make your summer dresses and beach clothes out of discarded protest banners.
—Stop using the word "dumb" as a predicate adjective, as in, "That's dumb."
—Tell him you plan to spend raise such a well adjusted family in such a fine way during such trying times.

Italy accepted an Allied armistice Sept. 3, 1943.
PLANS "QUIET TIME"

Hard Times Are Here In Acting Profession

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is a bad time for actors.
Many are selling their homes, limousines and other status symbols to keep solvent. The unemployment insurance lines are liberally sprinkled with famous faces and names.
National economics aside, there are simply too many actors and too few movies and television shows to keep them busy.
Some have opted out for other kinds of work. Others are hanging on, awaiting a miracle.
One major star announced grandly that he was prepared to offer his services to television after a long and heady career in movies. All three networks wished him well and declined with thanks.
Henry Fonda, Jimmy Stewart, Shirley MacLaine, Tony

Curtis and other film stars who disdained television are hugging the medium with the abandon of a new-found love.
Despite the scrambling around, actor Leslie Nielsen has managed to remain employed in feature films, movies-for-television and in video series.
He ascribes the anemic plight of the actor to too many members of the Screen Actors Guild and the fact that American performers aren't protected from poaching by English actors and other foreigners.
"In England actors are protected by their unions and the government," Nielsen said.
"They don't allow Americans to come over there and work in their films except on a quota system."
Nielsen has been sufficiently busy to refuse a guest role in the opening segment of an established television show to enjoy a two-week vacation. After that he faces a mountain of work.
He will star in the title role of "Bracken's World," a dramatic television series which limped along last season without a major male character.
The show will drop Dennis Cole and Stephen Oliver, leaving Nielsen with five leading ladies.
Until now, the character of Bracken has been limited to an off screen voice, or a hand picking up a telephone. In episodes this fall Nielsen will be Bracken, affording him his first opportunity to play a role other than an action-adventure hero.
"It will also prevent him from standing in unemployment lines."

TV NOTES

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC's "The Virginian" series will begin its ninth season in the fall under a new title, "The Men from Shiloh." James Drury and Doug McClure, program veterans, will remain as the Virginian and Trampas, respectively. Stewart Granger and Lee Majors will be important new players on a regular basis. There will be greater use of guest stars of major caliber. The time element will be advanced about a decade into the 1890s.
Film star Glenn Ford joins television's comedy-drama ranks in the 1971-72 season in a weekly half-hour series to be made by 20th Century-Fox Television for the CBS network. No title yet, but Ford will play a detective sergeant who operates a juvenile center.

EXPLANATION DUE
LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson, asked today about his party's election losses despite earlier favorable public opinion polls said, "I think the public opinion polls have a lot of explaining to do."
SETS RECORD
HONG KONG (UPI)—The Sing Tao Sports Club set what it said was a world record Sunday by cramming 38 persons into a Volkswagen.

"The CBS Tuesday Night Movies" is a summer series of films that will bow in the 7:30-9:30 p.m. spot on June 30, continuing through Sept. 8. It will fill the "Lancer" and Red Skelton time. The network will continue its weekly Thursday and Friday two-hour movies.

Ered Astaire, who has had some television exposure this season in "It Takes a Thief," will appear in a western for the first time in one of the made-for-video films for ABC's "Movie of the Week" program. The film is a sequel to the recent "The Over-the-Hill-Gang" and is entitled "The Over-the-Hill-Gang Rides Again." Walter Brennan, Edgar Buchanan, and Chill Wills of the first movie, will appear in the sequel.

Dog Pound Has Busy First Half

An estimated total of 273 animals will have been brought to the animal shelter by the end of June, Keith Saville, Twin Falls humane officer, reports. This total will exceed the number brought in last month by 67.

The Humane Shelter has accommodations for 120 dogs per month when the dogs are kept for a 72-hour waiting period before being destroyed.

If the animals are to be kept alive for this waiting period, the owners must take precautions to insure their dog's safety by licensing the dog, for immediate notification of the found dogs, and by giving the dogs a warning and a final shot, Mr. Saville said.

When such a strain is put on the humane shelter's facilities, as there has been the last two months, it is not always possible to keep dogs alive for the 72-hour waiting period, he stated.

By ERIK VAN EES
SKUKUZA, South Africa (UPI) — A drought parching half of South Africa and South West Africa is worrying humans, but it is the animals who, at this point, are thieving. For thousands of the smaller animals in this largest of South African game parks, there is no water.

Drought brings out the instinct for self-preservation in humans and animals alike, and in the wild it pays to be big and powerful.

The elephant, the buffalo and the other larger beasts use their bulk and ferocity to shoulder aside the smaller and weaker at the watering places. And the grey rhebok, springbok, impala, klipspringer and kudu must stand aside when the big game comes along.

There are some 50 major watering holes in the park, but many already are practically no more than mudbaths, and the streams that feed them are down to trickles.

Rocco Knoebel, director of the National Parks Board, said that at present the big animals "are concentrating in great numbers at the water holes, drinking them dry and moving on to the other water holes. The small game remains thirsty."

He described the situation as "serious but not yet critical" since there is sufficient grazing to ensure game will not die of thirst. "But good rains are needed soon," he said.

The game park is not alone in its anxiety. If heavy rains do not fall soon in the vast stretch of South Africa and South West Africa that have been declared drought-stricken areas, farmers in Rand Province alone stand to lose over $7 million in the next three years.

In the next few weeks, farmers plan to drive about 36,000 head of cattle to emergency grazing lands farther north. The drive should have started earlier but the tiny wizened bushmen of the Kalahari and Namib deserts who can survive for a week on an ostrich shell full of water found their own secret water holes dried up and went in search of others.

When inspectors came to check out the water holes, they found some of them filled with stones; thrown in by bushmen trying to raise the water level. Clearing of the water holes and wells is now underway.

In Outshoorn, while families have been restricted to 65 quarts of water daily in Cape Town, anyone caught having his garden hose connected to a tap faces an immediate fine of $140. There people have almost forgotten what it's like to water a garden or wash a car.

From V. L. Twin Falls: metal content change. In 1946 the mint returned to regular copper-nickel composition on the coin.
The half-dime was minted until 1873, so it was not discontinued until seven years after the "nickel" was born. The half-dimes of 1869, are not particularly scarce.
Philadelphia minted about 800,000 and New Orleans over a million. In Good condition, they bring about $3, very fine about $5 to $9.
From L. S., Buhl: Has the United States ever had a fifty dollar gold piece? If so, what are they worth at the present time?
Answer: The United States has never coined a fifty dollar gold piece for general circulation. In 1915, to celebrate the commemoration of the Panam-Pacific Exposition, the United States issued a set of gold coins: $1, $2.50, and a fifty dollar gold piece, both in a round coin and an octagonal shape. These fifty-dollar gold pieces are presently worth somewhere around $3,500 to $5,000 each — especially in the original presentation cases. I believe the Mint also experimented with a fifty dollar coin, for the California miners, but it was never issued.
This column wishes to thank its readers for the cooperation we have had in our search for Idaho merchant's tokens and nickels. We are presently putting together the second book on these pieces of metal, which will push the total number photographed to about 1600 individual tokens. We are still very much interested in finding other tokens and appreciate any information our readers can give us.

Railroad Loses Loan From U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration has yielded to congressional critics in withdrawing a promised $200 million loan to ease the financial difficulties of the nation's largest railroad, Penn Central.

The Defense Department in a surprise announcement Friday reversed an earlier decision to back up the emergency loan for the ailing railroad. The reversal came only hours after two sharp protests from Congress.

Without the 8 per cent loan guaranteed by the Pentagon, Penn Central has said it will be unable to meet obligations that fall due in two weeks and could go bankrupt.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee ordered an investigation of the Pentagon's authority to make the loan under provisions of the exploding Defense Production Act.

And eight Democrats on the House Commerce Committee, which eventually would have to pass on legislation necessary to implement the rest of the government's plans to keep the railroad solvent and running, said the loan should be held up until all legal issues are settled.

In recent days, members of Congress have become increasingly critical of what they called a request to "ball out" Penn Central from problems its management should have avoided.

U.S. Puts Money On Cambodians

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—The United States has placed its money on the Cambodian army, the longest shot in Asia. The 40,000-man force is weak, poorly-trained and ill-equipped.

A major rebuilding program is under way, and both Cambodian and Western diplomats are convinced the United States is not going to let this country go down the drain despite President Nixon's pledge that direct intervention with ground troops will end June 30.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong commanders are pressing their campaigns in Cambodia in a move to crash the Cambodians before they are strong enough to hurl back the invasion.

The crisis for Cambodia began March 18 when army elements in Phnom Penh, taking advantage of Prince Norodom Sihanouk's absence from the country, voted him out of office and installed an army general, Lon Nol, as premier.

Computer May Aid Driving

ROLLA, Mo. (UPI)—A computerized version of that back seat driver who sometimes drives you to distraction may one day soon save your life.

At the University of Missouri at Rolla, two men are testing a computerized driver-assistance system which would pick up information stored in magnets in the road and guide you on your way.

Dr. Ken Dunipace and Dr. Stanley Marshall at the university's transportation institute are working on the system. They say this is how it will work:

Magnets will be installed on the road at certain spacing. A sensor in your car will pick up road information from the magnets and feed it into a computer installed in the rear of your car. Information will then be relayed to the driver visually by means of arrows and dots on the windshield.

"We will probably use a technique called virtual imaging, which will cause the arrows and dots to appear to be on the road," Dunipace said. "The driver won't have to refocus his eyes to follow the arrows and dots. It's a lot like the information projected on jet plane automatic landing and terrain avoidance systems."

The arrows and dots will tell you which way your wheels should be headed, and will also outline the way the road is turning up ahead where you can't see, Dunipace said.

The need for some form of driver assistance to help reduce the soaring number of automobile accidents is agreed upon by almost everyone, but there is still some disagreement as to what type of system should be used. Dunipace thinks his system is both feasible and economical.

"Probably the system would be installed in all new cars by automobile manufacturers when first put into use," Dunipace said. "And it would cost only about $100 for each car."

Magnets cost only about 50 cents each, he continues, so the cost of installing them in the road would be relatively inexpensive, compared with installing a whole new automatic highway system such as those which call for electric cables to aid drivers.

The director of the Missouri division of highway safety, Robert Burgess, is enthusiastic about the system.

"The research to this point looks interesting and appears to have a tremendous potential," Burgess said. "We now need to determine the feasibility and economic soundness of the system. So far, the future seems to hold positive outcomes for both feasibility and economy."

University of Missouri researchers say the computerized system could be on the highway in five years and it may eventually do more than just tell you which way to turn.

Dunipace said it could be refined to meter a driver's performance over a period of time and tell him what skills he needs to improve. Further refinements could tell the driver whether he is alert enough for highway driving, could give him a little nudge if he makes a mistake, and could warn him of icy or wet road conditions ahead.

Nol moved quickly to reverse Sihanouk's policies of tolerating North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops on Cambodian soil.

Hanoi, according to the best information available here, responded with a strategy change in mid-April which gave Cambodia the highest military priority in recent equipment.

The schema was to overrun Cambodia and expose South Vietnam's western flank and drive a Communist wedge between Thailand and South Vietnam.

At least part of Hanoi's timetable was jolted April 29 when South Vietnamese troops struck across the frontier in an offensive against Communist base camps and sanctuaries along the border. U.S. troops joined the campaign two days later.

Now, with American infantrymen gradually withdrawing, more and more of the burden of defense is falling on the Cambodians. South Vietnamese troops are in Cambodian territory to stay "as long as they are needed," according to Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, and they are already involved in a crash program of training the Cambodians to fight.

Despite the boomstick status of the Cambodian army, military experts are convinced it can meet the test—given time. Thousands of weapons for the troops have been flown in from South Vietnam, including many rifles and machine guns captured from Communist forces. The Cambodian air force is small, but the Communists have no air power.

The task ahead is hard. Entire companies of Cambodian soldiers were shocked to learn, in the first stages of the war, that the rifles they drilled with in training actually kicked when fired. Many soldiers had never fired a shot, even at a practice target.

The Communists also have problems. Their supply lines into Cambodia are long and under attack in many areas, and the ancient hatreds Cambodians bear Vietnamese are making it difficult for the Communists to obtain cooperation from peasants in the countryside.

UCLA Prof Is Fired By Board

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—After 10 months of trying, the University of California Board of Regents Friday finally was able to remove Angela Davis, an admitted member of the Communist party, from the faculty at UCLA.

The board voted 15-to-6 with three abstentions not to rehire the 26-year-old black assistant professor of philosophy, citing that she was guilty of unprofessional conduct for making extremist speeches at troubled campuses during the academic year.

The decision not to renew her contract came during a closed three-hour meeting and overruled recommendations for renewal from the UCLA faculty's ACADEMIC SENATE, UCLA Chancellor Charles E. Young, and the philosophy department.

The board's efforts to fire the controversial Miss Davis began shortly after she was hired last September when she informed them of her Communist party membership in a letter. The regent's first attempt was Sept. 19 when they ordered UCLA officials to fire her, citing a 1949 ruling against the hiring of Communists. That order was overturned in court but appeal efforts are still pending.

Then, last month, the board voted to take the decision whether or not to rehire Miss Davis completely out of Young's hands. Such personnel matters are normal in the jurisdiction of each campus chancellor in the nine-school system.

Gov. Ronald Reagan led the battle to get rid of Miss Davis but insisted after the decision that she had not been "fired."

Russ Laud Flight By Spacemen

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet scientists expressed satisfaction Saturday with the Soyuz 9 space mission and said it demonstrated that "man, with his inherent creative endeavor, preserves his characteristic qualities" under weightless conditions.

The near 18-day flight of cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov showed "in practice the possibility of mans effective activities in the course of a long space flight," said E. Kharadze, director of the Abastumani Astrophysical Observatory in Georgia.

The flight was made to test the cosmonauts' ability to work in space for a long period, as they would have to do if an orbital platform was set up.

The Soviets see such platforms as their top priority in space. Kharadze raised the possibility of new astronomical discoveries from future orbital observatories, an idea echoed by the director of the Kazakhstan Astrophysical Laboratory, G. Idlis, who claimed that "terrestrial optical astronomy is gradually approaching its limits." Both men published articles in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

"Now we can be sure that, in the near future, astronomers will be able to observe the universe under extra-atmospheric conditions from orbital observatories," Kharadze said. Idlis said orbital observations would be important because they would eliminate "the disturbing influence of the earth's atmosphere."

Nikolayev and Sevastianov, who landed Friday after setting an endurance record of 17 days, 16 hours and 59 minutes, were getting "used to the earth" as they went through extensive physical examinations.

They were flown from the Balkonur Space Center in central Asia to Moscow and taken to a special hotel in "Star City," a suburban community where cosmonauts reside, to rest and prepare their preliminary reports.

Move Stuns Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, in a televised address to the nation, April 30, 1970: "This is my decision."

"In cooperation with the armed forces of South Vietnam, attacks are being launched this week to clean out major enemy sanctuaries on the Cambodian Vietnam border."

The President's announcement stunned the nation.

It came a week after the administration said an additional 150,000 Americans would come home by May, 1971; by recent standards, the campuses were simmering but silent; and Congress was plodding along, eyeing a Labor Day adjournment and the political campaigns of the fall.

Overnight, all that changed. The campuses exploded, the fury of the students reaching a new high; lawmakers grudgingly assenting to Nixon's pullout pace turned against him; the country, already deeply divided by the Vietnam War became even more polarized by the invasion of Cambodia.

The decision triggered death not only in Cambodia but in the millands of the country when four Kent State University students, embroiled in a protest against war, were gunned to death by National Guardsmen. Cambodia and Kent State fused into one issue.

Nearly 100,000, mostly young, engulfed the capital to protest in front of the White House. Nixon, who ignored a similar protest in November, left his mansion in the early dawn hours to establish a dialogue with some students at the Lincoln Memorial. He failed.

In November, the students protested and left. This time they stayed—or were replaced by others. For the first time, they were not only long haired radicals but also crew cut moderates.

an early adjournment as Democratic leader Mike Mansfield pushed all business aside to deal with the war issue.

Giant Jet Pauses At Utah Field

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (UPI)—Thousands of northern Utahns captured a stately view of the new C-5 Galaxy cargo jet—billed as the world's largest aircraft—as it lifted off from here late Friday morning and circled Ogden before heading west.

The mammoth aircraft, spewing huge black clouds of vapor as it taxied down the Air Force runway, lifted off at 10:15 a.m.; more than an hour behind schedule, for Edwards AFB, Calif.

It had been at Hill since Tuesday for loading and unloading tests for Minuteman missiles which are partially constructed at this northern Utah air base.

One spectator described the take-off as "it didn't look real it was so gigantic."

When it took off the craft circled Hill field, flew over Ogden, went back over Hill and then turned south to Salt Lake City.

LEADER BOB AUTENRIETH, right, Jerome game biologist, instructs crew of ten members of the Fish and Game Department's Explorer Post-307 in the work of nest searching about eight miles southwest of Oreana. They are paid the going rate for labor, and live in trailer houses in foothills of Owyhee Mountains. The boys are divided into two teams of five, fanning out over the desert about 15 feet apart to search for sage grouse nests. Later the boys will work with a population of sage grouse near Triangle after birds have migrated 25 miles to that area.

Fish And Game Department Study Of Sage Grouse Nears Completion

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Comparison of a migratory population of sage grouse in Owyhee County with two sedentary populations, which do not move far in the Shoshone Basin and Little Lost Country, is nearing completion. Altogether, the work has been a seven-year study of one of Idaho's few native upland game bird species.

Owyhee sage grouse migrate about 25 miles, starting on four strutting grounds, on Bates Creek some ten miles southwest of Oreana, where the birds winter at lower elevations in short sagebrush and, after mating, walk through the foothills of Cinnabar and War Eagle mountains to Oreana.

According to Bob Autenrieth, Jerome game biologist and leader of the sage grouse study for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, the goal is to learn what kind of vegetative cover or nesting habitat—sage grouse hens choose, and the distance from strutting grounds to nests. A total of 600 markers have been placed on these birds the past two summers in Owyhee County, and four grouse (a pair of cocks and two hens) have been outfitted with tiny radio transmitters this spring.

Autenrieth, of course, would like to catch a sampling of hens on the strutting grounds, wire them for sound, and monitor their movements for about three months, learning how long after brooding it is before a hen starts nesting, what kind of habitat is needed, how long she remains in the nesting area after the brood is hatched, and what route hen and chicks take as they walk from winter to summer range.

Comparatively little is known about sage grouse. The Lewis and Clark Expedition described them in 1803, and sage grouse was officially classified in 1851 as Centrocercus urophasianus, the spiny-tailed pheasant. Some Indian dances have mimicked the antics of male sage grouse for centuries, especially the ceremonial beating of wings, hopping into the air, and emitting loud booming sounds on traditional mating grounds each spring.

Rangeland for the state's largest grouse species has shrunk to less than half its historic size because of changes in the semi-desert lands adjacent to the broad curve of the Snake River across the southern part of Idaho. These flat lands are near water, and sagebrush is replaced by irrigated row crops and pasture. Not too remote are the days when sage grouse "darkened the sun" as they flushed from meadows and hunters boasted of shooting enough to fill a wagon box in a day — of shooting such large numbers that only young birds were saved.

Favorite hunting places in the old days included Gamas Prairie, Owyhee, Antelope Creek, Copper Basin, Shotgun Valley and others. These locations still have sage grouse, but in remnant numbers, although the last two seasons have been excellent. Total kill figures, according to hunter questionnaire data, were 11,700 in 1969; and 13,400 in 1968. Other harvests were 51,700 in 1967; 34,800 in 1968; 24,400 in 1965; 28,700 in 1964; 21,200 averaged from 1959-63; and 19,000 from 1954-58.

The use of radio telemetry is not new this year to the sage grouse study, since three hens were "bugged" in the Shoshone Basin. None of the trio nested successfully or brought off a brood of chicks and only one appeared to take nesting seriously at all. The Owyhee phase of the study now is three years old, having started in 1967 as a joint project of the Bureau of Land Management and Fish and Game Department. But the Bureau of Land Management withdrew the following year and the department is completing the job alone. Autenrieth says most of the work can be accomplished this year.

Autenrieth employed ten members of the Fish and Game Department's Explorer Post 307 to work as nest searchers in the short sagebrush southwest of Oreana. A group of trailer campers in the foothills along Bates Creek housed them, providing bun houses and kitchens. Three of the boys who worked as nest searchers on the Owyhee project last year returned and are working as high-aid. They are Gary Copeland, Pocatello; Larry Stumpf, Twin Falls; and Richard Rows, Shoshone.

This year some 40 cocks have been outfitted with back markers, and some of them should be shot in the Triangle region by hunters this season. Others should be observed soon in that area by the work crew. If birds marked near Oreana are seen in the Triangle area, it will verify observations of Bureau of Land Management field men and ranchers that these birds are migratory, do come from Oreana. Information gleaned by studying sedentary sage grouse populations indicate that hens nest within a radius of about two miles from strutting grounds. Autenrieth says that migratory hens may be strung out from the strutting grounds for miles along the migratory route before they actually settle long enough to nest.

A total of 600 markers have been placed on sage grouse the past two summers in Owyhee County. Hunters returned to the department 35 markers retrieved from sage grouse last fall, and 80 from the 1968 seasons. All birds have leg bands, plus paunchos, if hens. Paunchos are plastic clothlike material that fits over the head and partly covers the back. Cocks have wing or back markers. Most of this work will be completed this year, particularly if hunters continue returning markers from birds they bag.

Autenrieth says that Owyhee County has one of the largest sage grouse populations in the state. Workers have counted 3,600 cocks on 80 strutting grounds. He adds that just dominant cocks are seen and counted. Yearlings have 75 status and just hang back in the sagebrush. He estimates total numbers of sage grouse in western Owyhee County to be in the neighborhood of 10,000 birds, including yearlings and hens.

Mostly cocks have been marked for the reason that catching hens is hard to do. Roosters on strutting grounds, and later on during the dry season, congregated on meadows and near water holes, are caught with cannon nets.

But hens are shy, secretive "loners" who come out of the sagebrush to the strutting grounds fleetingly. They blend so well with their surroundings — especially at night — that spotlighting hens is as hard as finding a needle in a haystack. One of the hens outfitted with a radio transmitter this year was a yearling and made no attempt to nest, but yielded important information nonetheless concerning sage grouse migration. The second "beeper" hen laid a clutch of seven eggs and incubated them until she abandoned the nest for unexplained reasons. Examination of the eggs showed perfectly formed chicks, about two days short of the time when they bits of down would pip through the shells. Her efforts were not in vain, however, because she inadvertently yielded valuable information concerning movement from strutting to nesting hens in the Oreana area may be more strung out than in the sedentary sage grouse populations already examined.

SWIRLING WATER of the Malad river, long a tourist attraction near Tuttle, on Highway 25, is the focal point of the proposed Malad River Gorge state park, approved by the State Parks Board. Purchase of the land has been authorized, but work has not yet begun at the site, about a mile north of the Tuttle community.

SPRINGS EMERGING from the Malad River canyon in the background have long aroused interest for their seeming connection to other "lost water" which comes out of the Snake River Canyon in Hagerman Valley. The springs, plus the sheer lava sleep canyon wall are part of the scenic attraction at the proposed 600-acre site where the State Parks Board plans a new park with nature trails, camping facilities, overlook and restrooms.

Malad River Gorge Park To Offer Scenery, History

TUTTLE—A combination of scenery, history and geology will be available for tourists near Interstate 80 when the proposed Malad River Gorge park becomes a reality.

The 600-acre site, located a mile north of the Tuttle community, has been approved by the State Parks Board and purchase of the land already is authorized, although no work has been done yet, according to officials of the Magic Valley Recreation Council who have worked long to realize the dream of a state park.

Camping facilities to accommodate up to 100 camping units, as well as restrooms, information center and overlook areas are planned at the top of the canyon overlooking the steep Malad River gorge. Guided tours for naturalists and photographers and two miles of access roads will be included.

Nature trails are proposed along the rim with retaining walls for protection. Walls of the canyon are of sheer lava. The Malad, sometimes called the shortest river in the world, is only about four miles long and its source is the convergence of the Big and Little Wood rivers.

At Tuttle the river plunges under the railroad and Highway 25 bridges, swirling over huge rocks into a 150-foot chasm. In the springtime the river is a wild torrent, but sometimes goes almost dry in summer.

The canyon, long a tourist attraction with its sheer walls and falling water, provides opportunity to study Idaho's underground water and some 1,000,000 acre feet per year of lost water re-emerges as springs flow into the Malad canyon.

Of historical interest is the site one quarter mile east of the main Malad canyon where the Kelton road and north alternate route of the Oregon trail crossed the river. Ruts left by iron-wheeled wagons still are plainly visible.

The old Kelton trading post is on the north side of the river. Stones from the building later were used to build two diversion dams across the river. After 1872 the road was used for shipment of goods east as well as west.

Hijackers Get Rough Treatment

MONTREAL (UPI)—Instead of being treated as heroes, Americans who hijack airliners to Cuba got "bad treatment" from the Castro government, said a State Department official.

Frank Loy, U.S. assistant deputy secretary of state, is chairman of the U.S. delegation to the emergency assembly on airline security convened by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) a branch of the United Nations.

The assembly, only the second emergency meeting in the history of the organization, went into its third day of sessions Thursday, attended by delegates from 119 nations.

Of Americans who have hijacked airliners to Havana, "not one we know of received the status he hoped for, that of hero, or whatever," said Loy. "They received bad treatment at the hands of the Cuban government; they were jailed and so on."

He said this was based on the reports of 10 hijackers who later returned to the United States from Cuba.

Loy said the subsequent treatment of hijackers seemed to have received little publicity in news reports on hijackings—an issue raised in a paper presented by the U.S. delegation to the conference Wednesday.

"I don't think we have any criticism of the press," Loy said.

T.F. Girl Trains As Stewardess

SONYA BALLEISEN

Sonya Balloisen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Balloisen, 1410 9th Ave. E., will begin training June 29 for a career as a stewardess for Pan American Air Lines.

The five-week session held at Miami, Fla., will prepare her for European flights from the East Coast. Sonya's background in French qualifies her for overseas routes.

Sonya is a graduate of Lewis and Clark College, Portland, Ore., where she received her degree in Elementary Education at the commencement exercises June 14. She wore the tricolors of France—red, white and blue—at the ceremony because she studied the previous year in that country in the American Heritage Program of Northwest Colleges.

She was one of 38 students chosen from approximately 150 applicants to study in Avignon in Southern France, and in Paris, from February to September. Sonya lived with a French family from whom she learned about the social customs of France. Family living also provided her the opportunity to perfect her fluency in the language. She studied art, history, French, and international affairs at a French University.

Sonya traveled to various cities in Europe during her seven-month stay, visiting, among others, Singen, Germany, the sister city of Twin Falls. She was received as an official guest of the city by the mayor, a friend of the family.

Damages Sought In Crash Suit

Court action was filed Friday in Fifth District Court by Mr. and Mrs. James F. Brock for injuries received in an accident. Named as defendants were Mark James Rupert, driver of the car causing the accident, and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert A. Rupert, owners of the car causing the accident.

Damages in the amount of $20,683.00 are being sought by Mr. and Mrs. Brock for lost earnings, damages to auto, medical expenses, expenses of travel, and general damages for their injuries and pain.

Mr. Brock, Twin Falls, alleges that on Sept. 3, 1969, James Rupert, Twin Falls, struck Mr. Brock's car from behind, when his vehicle was stopped in obedience to a red light.

Mr. Brock also alleges that James Rupert was driving the auto with the owner's permission, and any negligence on Mr. Rupert's part is the responsibility of the owners.

Improper Turn Causes Mishap

Homer Hazard Hoobler, 71, was cited at 5:14 p.m. Friday, for making an improper left turn and striking the vehicle of Judith Kay Reed, police report.

Mrs. Reed and her two daughters were traveling west on Main Avenue when Mr. Hoobler pulled from a parking place and struck her rear fender and right door, according to the police report.

Although $350 damage was done to the Reed car and $85 damage to the Hoobler stationwagon, none of the Twin Falls occupants was injured.

Filer Girl Gets Music School Scholarship

FILER—Miss Laura Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Vincent, Filer, has been notified that she has been accepted at the University of Rochester, Eastman School of Music, and has been given a scholarship of $2,400 for her four years of undergraduate work.

Laura was among more than 700 applicants auditioning for openings for 20 pianists. Laura has been studying the piano for 12 years and has won numerous honors and scholarships to summer music camps.

2 Cars Crash, No Injuries

Leland M. Johnson, 17, Twin Falls was cited for following too closely after his vehicle struck the rear of a car owned by Geraldine Francis Dickard, 21, Kimberly, at 3:15 p.m. Friday, police report.

Mrs. Dickard was stopped for a flashing red light at the corner of Main Avenue East and Second Avenue East when Mr. Johnson's vehicle struck her vehicle from behind, the accident report states.

Mrs. Mathew Furner was a passenger of Mrs. Dickard's car and Lealie Clappier was a passenger in Mr. Johnson's car.

Golden Gate Doesn't Want To Be No. 1

A LIFE MEMBER of the Twin Falls Lions Club is Faren C. Faler, right, as he receives his life membership certificate of the club from W. R. Nutting, president of the local club. Mr. Faler is a past international director of Lions Club and has held all major offices on both the local and district levels.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Golden Gate Bridge is trying very hard not to be No. 1.

The span, opened on May 28, 1937, is a symbol of man's engineering genius. It was the "bridge that couldn't be built," and for many years was the world's longest single span, an honor the Golden Gate lost in 1964 to the Verrazano-Narrows Bridge in New York. The New York structure measures 4,260 feet between its supports, besting its predecessor by 60 feet.

But the Golden Gate still is the leading location for self-destruction in the western world.

That means the most suicides. It has surpassed the Eiffel Tower in Paris, which was built in 1889 and thus had a 48-year start.

The Golden Gate Bridge has been the termination point of at least 382 lives and probably a lot more.

"The true number of suicides is considerably greater," said Dr. Richard H. Selden, a clinical psychologist at the University of California who specializes in suicidology.

"There is a strong possibility that many persons have jumped from the bridge, been swept out to sea, and their deaths unrecorded," he said. The tidal flow at low tide beneath the six-lane structure is tremendous. It is more than three times the flow at the mouth of the Mississippi River. One-sixth of San Francisco Bay empties into the ocean at the bridge.

Selden and several of his colleagues think a fence should be placed along the sides of the bridge as a step to suicide prevention.

However, Dale W. Luhring, the span's general manager, says a suicide barrier would require extensive work and run into engineering difficulties.

Luhring emphasizes that such a barrier might someday be a possibility but right now it doesn't look like it.

But there are other things that can be done. Bridge authorities are using several methods to reduce the suicide rate from the Golden Gate Bridge.

In 1968 there were 30 known suicides from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Pretty-Boy Newscaster No Longer Is TV Must

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ned Calmer believes the day of pretty-boy television newscasters is over and the era of specialized broadcast reporting has begun.

Calmer is a considerable authority on such matters. After becoming a foreign correspondent for the Chicago Tribune Paris office, then for the New York Herald Tribune's Paris edition, he turned to broadcasting, a career he pursued for 27 years.

He recently took advantage of an "early retirement" program so, he explains, he could give himself time to think—and to write. One result is "The Anchorman," a recently published novel about the business he knows so well.

"Television news is getting farther and farther away from the concept of 'pretty boy' newscasters and anchor men," he said. "There was a time when the 'pretty boy' flourished, but I think that day is over."

Matinee idol

That doesn't mean a matinee idol profile will disqualify anyone from television broadcasting and he pointed out that some particularly distinguished looking—as well as talented—types remain on the air.

"Look at Howard K. Smith," he said. "He's a very good looking man. And Eric Sevareid looks like he ought to have his face carved on Mt. Rushmore."

task of reading that he doesn't even have time to edit.

"Walter Cronkite calls himself managing editor, so you can see how he regards the job. David Brinkley writes his own copy because there's so much to be done, one man just can't do the job."

That's why Calmer believes anchor men of the present kind are on the way out, that they will give way to teams of specialists, each of whom will take over the spot when the major emphasis of the news is in his area of knowledge.

Malta Is Feeling Push Of Soviet Influence In Mediterranean

By FRED BARRY
VALETTA, Malta (UPI)—The Soviet flag can be seen with growing regularity off the shores of Malta these days. The tiny, sun-washed island, which got its independence from Britain six years ago, is feeling the push—diplomatic as well as naval—of Soviet influence in the Mediterranean. The crowding of Russian vessels into the waterway was recently highlighted by a Turkish government report of the number of Soviet ships which passed through the Dardanelles Straits in 1969. Turkey said Russia sent 283 ships through the Turkish-controlled straits linking the Mediterranean and Black seas, 10 times the number of all other foreign naval vessels combined. Mikhail Smirnovsky, Russia's non-resident ambassador to Malta (also ambassador to Britain), recently made a rare visit to the Mediterranean island seeking expanded trade and cultural relations.

Last year, Smirnovsky asked Prime Minister Giorgio Borg Olivier to grant Russia resident ambassadorial status. Olivier refused. The Maltese leader told the Russians the present arrangement whereby the two countries maintain communication through London was adequate for their rather meager exchanges in trade and culture.

But Britain's 200-year-old ties with Malta seem to be weakening. The two countries are currently locked in a financial dispute and Malta says Britain owes it $55.2 million under the 1964 agreement which made Malta independent.

In accordance with the 10-year agreement, Britain has been giving Malta a sum of money on a 75-25 per cent grant-loan basis for the past five years. For the second five-year phase, Britain wanted to reverse the formula. Malta refused the offer and no compromise has been reached. Britain also decided to skip Malta's July international trade fair, an event it since participating in since its inception a decade ago. It stepped the Russians.

Soviet officials announced this month they will send a pavilion to the fair this year for the first time. Britain was criticized for the move in Maltese trade circles. Diplomatic sources said this could mean the Soviet Union wanted to open a tourist office less duty on British goods imported to the island than on products from other countries. During his Maltese visit, Smirnovsky did not publicly mention possible Soviet financial assistance to Malta. But he said he wanted a better deal in trade and culture with Malta. At present, the Soviet Union exports $360,000 in goods to Malta against $86,400 received in imports from the island. The Soviet ambassador also expressed the desire for more Russian tourists to visit Malta. Diplomatic sources said this could mean the Soviet Union wanted to open a tourist office on the island which, they said, could be used for other propaganda purposes. The sources said Smirnovsky also suggested Russia build a cement factory in Malta since the island imports quantities of cement from Russia. This would give the Soviets a chance to bring exporters, engineers, and other workers into the Mediterranean island, they said. The Soviet Union, which already uses Malta's drydocking facilities for commercial ships undergoing refit or repair, is also said to be pressing for a Soviet-Maltese navigation agreement which would give Soviet vessels further rights and privileges in Malta.

Fete To Commemorate U.N. Charter Signing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Twenty-five years ago, while the United States still mourned President Franklin D. Roosevelt and B29 bombers pounded Japan, diplomats from all over the world signed the document they hoped would "save succeeding generations from the scourge of war."

This week diplomats gather again in commemoration—some of them, older and grayer, the same people who signed the charter of the United Nations in the War Memorial Veterans Building here on June 26, 1945.

The original charter will be returned to be displayed in a glass case guarded by U.S. Marines during the ceremonies. The diplomats will arrive by jet Thursday and attend an official reception in the City Hall Rotunda that evening. A commemorative session, featuring four hours of speeches, is scheduled Friday in the opera house followed in the evening by a black tie banquet at which U.N. Secretary General Thant will be the principal speaker.

In 1945, hundreds of delegates and an entourage of 5,000 foreign ministers, princes, heads of state and rising politicians who would lead the postwar world gathered for more than two months to set up the United Nations.

Among them were young diplomats like Nelson Rockefeller and 37-year-old Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, who will be back for the silver anniversary.

A young reporter and war hero named John F. Kennedy covered the sessions for the old International News Service. A brilliant diplomat named Alger Hiss was secretary general of the conference.

For department stores "it was a nine-week 'fire sale,'" according to a local newspaper of the period. The supply of hamburgers vanished, and one store was cleaned out of white cloth by Arab delegates.

Jan Masaryk was described as a man with a big, bald head "who in two minutes could magnetize every woman in the room."

When the charter was completed, the earl of Halifax told delegates, "None of you will ever cast a more important vote in your life."

As the nylon flags of 50 attending nations were ironed for final ceremonies in war memorial auditorium, President Harry S. Truman and his "flying White House" arrived aboard a C54.

He promised to submit the charter for ratification to the U.S. Senate "at once."

On June 26, Wellington, King of China used a writing brush to become the first to sign the bluebound charter.

Truman proclaimed the greatness of the day as he stood behind his secretary of state, Edward R. Stettinius, who signed for the United States.

On the 10th and 20th U.N. anniversaries, the city of San Francisco paid the cost of a celebration, but this time the city government says it can't afford it.

So private citizens are raising $200,000 to pay all expenses for the trip here by U.N. permanent representatives and officials.

The speeches during Friday's session will re-examine the degree to which the United Nations has lived up to the hopes it inspired.

In 1945 the struggle for Okinawa Island in the southwest Pacific ended as the Japanese surrendered to American troops.

In 1960 the start of the Chinese-Russian ideological split on communism was voiced. Premier Khrushchev of Russia said at a Communist party congress, "Under present conditions, war with capitalist nations is not inevitable. The Red Chinese delegate replied, 'War is inevitable as long as western imperialism exists.'"

In 1963 Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini was elected pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church. He chose the name Pope Paul VI.

In 1965 President Johnson signed a $4.7 billion income tax bill.

BYU's Mann Breaks World Hurdle Record

Champ Nips Collett For First Time In Long Duel;

Cal Claims Team Crown

des-moines, Iowa (UPI)—Ralph Mann of Brigham Young shaved a half a second off the world record in the 40-yard intermediate hurdles Saturday, and California won its first NCAA outdoor track and field championship since 1922.

The Golden Bears scored 40 points, winning the 440-yard relay and finishing second in the triple jump, to claim the title. Mann and UCLA's Wayne Collett both broke the world record of 49.3, which was set by South Africa's Gert Potgieter in 1960. Mann ran 48.8 and Collett 49.2.

"I got him between the seventh and eighth hurdles," Mann said of his struggle with Collett. The two have run against each other ever since high school in Southern California, and Mann said he had never beaten Collett before.

Mann received a standing ovation from the 12,500 appreciative fans in Drake stadium when the world record was announced. The BYU junior paraded in front of the stands shaking clenched fists. Once he kissed his hand, leaned over, and patted the Tartan track.

"That's a fabulous track," he said. "I don't know what might have run if it hadn't rained."

Collett jumped off the blocks like he was running the 100-yard dash. It was not until the last 100 yards that Mann pulled even and passed him. Mann's time also surpassed the NCAA record, of course, one of three meet records set Saturday. The old meet mark was 49.6.

Oregon's Steve Prefontaine, the three-mile winner, and Bowling Green's Sidney Sink, the 3,000-meter steeplechase champion, also set records.

Prefontaine's 13:22.0 broke the old meet record of 13:33.8 set by Jerry Lindgren of Washington State in 1968. Sink's 8:40.0 shattered the previous record of 8:44.4 by Jim Barkley of Oregon State in 1969.

Sink set his record at the height of a driving thunderstorm which sent the crowd scurrying for shelter early in the afternoon. The rain stopped, however, before Villanova's Marty Liquori defended his mile championship in 3:59.9. Liquori had to save off a late challenge by Dave Wottle of Bowling Green, who finished second in 4:00.1.

World record-holder Curtis Mills of Texas A&M was soundly beaten by Villanova's Larry James in the 440-yard dash. James won in 45.5, while Mills was third behind Murray State's Tommy Turner in 45.8.

California, which Friday became the first team ever to go one-two in the 100-yard dash, won the 440 relay in 40.3 Saturday. The race was run at the end of the rainstorm with Eddie Hart, the 100 champion, anchoring.

The Golden Bears won the championship in the triple jump when Rich Dunn, the team's No. 2 jumper, snared second place with a leap of 50 feet, 3 1/4 inches. California's ace jumper, Jim Fraser, hurt his knee on the first jump and did not place.

Another of the many fine races was the 880-yard run, won by Kansas State's Ken

Cryder Finishes Fourth In Meet

ORANGE.—Scott Cryder of Twin Falls finished fourth in the pole vault in Orange County Invitational track meet Saturday night, clearing 16 feet, 6 inches for the second straight week.

The event was won by Dick Rallsback at 17-1. Two other Idahoans were in the meet, Tom Von Ruden of Notus, running for the L. A. Striders, winning the 880-yard run and Jim Blaisdell of Malad going unplaced in the broad jump.

Chi Cheng Breaks Mark In Meet

ORANGE, Calif. (UPI)—Sensational Chi Cheng of Nationalist China won the 440-yard dash in 52.5 seconds, one-tenth of a second off the women's world record, and Italy's Francesco Aresu-upset Chuck Labenz in 4:02.2 in the mile Saturday in the Orange County Invitational track and field meet.

Miss Cheng, 26-year-old, Cal Poly of Pomona student who shattered the women's world 100 and 220-yard dashes, was voted the athlete of the meet. She also captured the 100-yard high hurdles in 13.2 to equal her lifetime best and took the open 100 in 10.3.

Aresu ran the final 440 yards in 55.2 seconds to beat Labenz, of Arizona State who was seeking to go under four minutes for the fourth straight weekend. Labenz was second in 4:02.6.

Dick Rallsback and Sam Caruthers each went 17 feet, 1 inch in the pole vault but Rallsback, former UCLA standout, was declared the winner on fewer misses.

World record holder Jay Silvester had his best discus throw of the year, going 209-5, while John Carlos, the No. 1 sprinter in the world, captured the 100 in 9.3 and the 220 in 20.4.

Other winners included Kerry O'Brien of Australia in the two-mile run in 8:41.2. Tom Von Ruden of the Pacific Coast Club in the 880 in 1:49.3 and Gerald Conley of Pacific Coast Club in the 440 in 46.9.

Lee Evans, the Olympic champion, pulled up about 35 yards from the tape in the 440 and complained of feeling sick.

Boise Sweeps 2 From Twin Falls 5-1, 4-3

The Boise Gerns jumped on the Twin Falls Legion team for two big innings, one in each game Saturday night, and rode them into a 5-1 and 4-3 doubleheader sweep.

Twin Falls stays in action Sunday, hosting the Boise Senators in a doubleheader beginning at 11 a. m. Meanwhile, the "B" team swept two from Boise, Joe Adams won the first game in relief 6-4 and Wes Remyale and Mike Anderson combined to claim the second 8-5.

Boise took a quick lead in the first inning of the opener when Gary Gobie walked and, two outs later, Ron Gobie singled him in. Twin Falls tied it in the

Savage Takes Malboro 200 Pole Spot

BRIDGEHAMPTON, N. Y. (UPI)—Svedd Svand of Santa Ana, Calif., a blond 23-year-old who has never won a major auto race, gunned his all-American racing team Plymouth Barracuda into the pole position for the $25,000 Malboro Bridgehampton 200 mile Trans-Am Sedan championship race Sunday.

With Dan Gurney, his all-American racing team boss, over in Zandvoort, Holland, for Formula One race, the young ex-motorcycle champ had a record fast lap of 103.1 miles per hour, well ahead of the track record of 100.04 mph set last year by Mark Donohue of Media, Pa.

Donohue placed his Penske racing team Javelin in second spot with a qualifying time of 99.72 mph. That is a full three miles an hour slower than Savage's pace. In the second row were Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., in a Bud Moore Ford Mustang and Sam Posey, Sharon, Conn., in an autodynamic Dodge Challenger.

The Brigham Young junior set the world mark after nearly two hours of heavy rains in Des Moines.

"Hoek, I thought the track would be slow," said Mann. "If it would have been dry today, I don't know what Collett and I would have done."

Borowiak Is NCAA Tennis King

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—UCLA's Jeff Borowiak, attacking with a varied game, defeated Stanford's Sherman Roscoe Tanner in straight sets Saturday for the NCAA singles championship.

Borowiak, a curly-haired junior from Berkeley, Calif., whipped Tanner, the first freshman ever to reach the finals, 10-8, 9-7, 7-5, at University of Utah.

The UCLA ace, despite frequent double faults on service, took command early in the match played in 80-degree heat, and steadily built up pressure on the 18-year-old Tanner.

Borowiak, seeded fifth, displayed a potent serve and kept his younger opponent off balance with backhand smashes down the lines and unreachable placements over the net.

Tanner, the tournament's most feared server, ran into early trouble by failing to keep his first service in play consistently and had to take much of the steam off his second efforts.

Borowiak clinched the first set by breaking service in the 18th game to win, 10-8. With the score at duce in the deciding game, Tanner lost the next two points and the set by hitting two return shots just inches outside the baseline.

Borowiak had his serve broken twice in the second set, but scrambled back both times to regain it and won the set, 9-7, when Tanner buried his forehead shot into the net. Tanner broke service in the first and fifth games after Borowiak committed double faults, but was unable to maintain the advantage.

In the first game of the third set, the scrappy Borowiak saved his serve despite committing three of the 10 double faults which plagued him in the 48th game match.

The contest came to an unexpectedly quick finish in the 12th game of the third set when Tanner's attempted backhand of a volley from Borowiak hit the net and bounced backM tanner's first serve in the deciding game was declared a fault, and his eases-up second serve was quickly returned by the attacking Bruin.

Angels Pin 4-0 Shutout On Brewers

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Jim Spencer broke a scoreless duel with a solo home run in the seventh inning and Jim Fregosi drove in two more runs with a double in the eighth Saturday night to provide the California Angels with a 4-0 win over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The late-inning hitting enabled Clyde Wright to post his ninth win against five losses. But the Angel southpaw needed the help of rollover Ken Tatum, who came in with runners on first and second and one out in the eighth to retire two pinch hitters.

During the Angels' three-run rally in the eighth, Milwaukee manager Dave Bristol was ejected by first base umpire Jim Odum for arguing too strongly on a called strike.

Somebody said down and figured out Southern Cal triple A team. I mean a team of kids that are playing triple A ball this year. One of them would be a senior this year and the rest would have been underclassmen if they hadn't signed pro contracts," Roebuck said, footnoting the potential of the already champions.

Roebuck said this free agent draft of baseball is being used by college coaches in a power situation such as that found at USC. "They tell a boy we've got a baseball scholarship for you if you are drafted in the first five rounds." They are saving recruiting money, too, just by picking up the draft list and finding the names. They figure if the boys are good enough to be drafted fairly high, they are good enough to play college ball so they call them and offer scholarships. They get some that way, too. And it saves them a lot of money. One recruiting trip will pay for a lot of telephone calls.

Bill Lucas, Atlanta's assistant farm director, is more familiar with Florida State, the team USC beat in the NCAA finals. "Last year FSU won it all," Lucas says. "You know how many prospects they had on that club? None, that's how many."

Roebuck said on his personal recruiting scale, USC had two, but more than that had been drafted.

Senators Shatter Buhl Legion 15-0

BOISE — The Boise Senators exploded for 10 runs in the top of the seventh inning Saturday night and rolled over the Buhl Legion team 15-0.

Hunter, Donat (4), Rutherford (6), Roledo (7) and Ballard, Shift (6), Keeney, (7) and Barigar.

GO-BETWEEN HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China said 960 million Hong Kong dollars ($160 million) worth of goods, mainly medicines, to Nationalist China during 1969 through the free port of Hong Kong.

allowing all stockholders in the Cowboy corporation to see the opener free. It is, as it were, the first dividend declared on the stock first issued in 1952.

Bill Lucas, assistant farm director for the Atlanta Braves, and Paul Snyder, Cowboy field skipper, feel the club will be competitive in the Pioneer League. So far the Braves have three catchers, five infielders, seven pitchers and two outfielders in town. However, Atlanta's No. 1 and No. 2 draft choices, Ron Broadus, Clute, Tex., and Paul Divine, Galveston, Tex., both pitchers, will join the club along with five other players.

Currently in camp are catchers Tom Helerie, Garden Grove, Calif., and Howard Duckworth, Boerne, Tex., both returnees from last year's team, and newcomer Sigmund Gancasz, Flushing, N. Y.

The infielders are Jack Pierce, San Jose, first base; Cal Kelly, Richmond, Calif., second base; Nelson Cans, Venezuela, shortstop; Mark Mengo, San Jose third base; Joe Brookings, Hallsville, Tex., third base. Kelly, Cans and Mengo were here last year with Cans making the switch from the outfield to shortstop.

The two outfielders are Luis Galindez, Puerto Rico, and Jim Nagelosen, Fort Mitchell, Ky., who was one of the Cowboys' leading hitters last year.

Snyder said Nagelosen would be shifted to his normal position, centerfield, after seeing duty as a rightfielder and third baseman last year. "Nagelosen had a good enough year to have gone up but due to his job (teaching school) he couldn't get away for spring training and that hurt him."

The pitching staff to now is composed of Gary Hagon, Elton, Ill.; Ed Children, Richmond, Va.; Dave Ford, Birmingham, Ala.; Mike Knox, Waterloo, Ia.; Domingo Figueroa, Puerto Rico; Luis Serrano, Venezuela, and Glenn Landenberg, Vonkers, N. Y.

In addition to Broadus and Divine, Atlanta expects Wilson Stallworth and Dave Bogacki, both from New Jersey, and Manuel Rudy, Puerto Rico, to join by Monday.

Lucas is very high on the hitting ability of Manuel Rudy, who comes here as a second baseman. "I think that he could become the hitting star of the Braves' organization," Lucas smiled. But he and Snyder cautioned that fans can't expect great things immediately.

"This first year in organized ball is so very important," says Snyder. "This is where the boys learn to get their feet on the ground and improve on their abilities. It also is probably the first time they've been away from home. It takes a lot of adjusting for them."

Lucas said the Braves are still trying to sign several other players, most of whom will be assigned here. "I know of two outfielders that we think are fine prospects who will be here if they sign," he said. "These 24 boys we'll be starting the season with won't comprise the entire team."

TUTORING THE PITCHERS, Walter "Boom Boom" Beck, in dark glasses, and Ed Roebuck, kneeling, give pitching theory to the Magic Valley Cowboy hurling staff. Beck again will remain with the club during the season to handle the pitchers. The Cowboys open against Caldwell here Thursday night.

DISCUSSING PROSPECTS for the Magic Valley Cowboys are Bill Lucas, left, assistant farm director for the Atlanta Braves, and Paul Snyder, who will be the Cowboy field skipper.

Snyder began working his charges out Friday in preparation for Thursday opener here against Caldwell.

Fiddle Isle Wins Invitational Turf

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Fiddle Isle came between horses in the stretch and staged a prolonged duel to defeat Forty Marcy by a neck Saturday in the second running of the $100,000 Invitational Turf Handicap at Hollywood Park to set a course record for 11-2 mile.

Carrying top weight of 128 pounds, Fiddle Isle raced the testing turf course distance in 2:25 3/5 to break the course record of 2:28 3/5 set two years ago by Forty Marcy.

Three lengths back of the leaders was Governors Party while Pinjara, a stablemate of the winner, was fourth in the field of nine.

Fiddle Isle, a 5-year-old son of Bagdad, set an American record for 1 1/2 miles on the turf of 2:25 in the San Luis Rey Handicap at Santa Anita. In his last start, he equalled the American mark for a mile on the turf of 1:34.

At the start of the race, Society II went out in front and the Irish-bred horse opened up a lead of four lengths around the first turn. Forty Marcy was closest in pursuit until the horses turned into the stretch for the first time.

There he surrendered that role to Fairfleet II, a New Zealand mare, but laid in third position as the contenders went around the clubhouse turn and into the back stretch.

Pinjara moved up heading into the final turn to battle Forty Marcy as Society II started fading. But as the field turned into the stretch the final time, Jockey Bill Shoemaker had Fiddle lupe in a hard drive as he cut through the field to challenge at the head of the stretch.

Fiddle Isle's drive got him to the front but Forty Marcy, under the whipping of Jorge Velazquez, kept driving and the pair finished a neck apart.

At Santa Anita, he finished third in the San Juan Capistrano as Fiddle Isle and Puicken Tree dead-headed for first. In an invasion of Hollywood Park in April, he was second in the Century Handicap to a Western invasion this Quilche.

Jacklin Widens Lead To Five Shots In Open; Hill Second Despite Fine For Complaints

CHASKA, Minn. (UPI)—Slim Tony Jacklin, playing a wet golf course with amazing consistency, widened his lead in the U.S. Open golf championship Saturday with a two-under par 70 for a 54-hole total of 211 and a four-stroke lead over his nearest challenger, hard-bitten Dave Hill.

Jacklin began the round with a three stroke lead on Hill, and they played together. But it was Hill, who was fined $150 before the game began for his criticism of the golf course, who lost ground with a 71-215.

At one point during the round Jacklin was six strokes in front of the field, and he never lost his poise regardless of how close Hill, or anybody else in the field came. Gay Brewer at one point, when he birdied four of five holes, came within two strokes, but he fell back before the finish.

Jacklin, with his big lead, became a top heavy choice to coast home in Sunday's fourth round and become the first Englishman in 50 years—since Ted Ray in 1920—to win the U.S. Open crown. He also could become the first man since Jack Nicklaus in 1967 to hold both the British and U.S. Open titles at the same time. Jacklin won the British Open last year, and will defend his title next month.

Hill Says Fine For Scoring Course Won't Muzzle Him

CHASKA, Minn. (UPI)—Dave Hill, who says they can take his money but they can't shut him up, hardly even batted an eye Saturday when he was fined $150 and severely reprimanded "for unbecoming conduct" before going out to play the third round of the U.S. Open championship.

Joe Dey, the golf Commissioner, announced the fine and reprimand and the irreproachable, 33-year-old Evergreen, Colo., pro offered to pay the money on the spot but Dey said that wouldn't be necessary. Dey's action against Hill was a result of remarks made about the Hazeltine National Golf Club course by Hill after he finished Friday's second round.

with a three-under par 69 that left him in second place, only three strokes behind the leader, Britain's Tony Jacklin. Hill didn't leave anything to the imagination in describing the heavily dog-legged, par 72, 7,151-yard layout. Among his remarks to the press were such gems as: "If I had to play this course every day I'd find another game."

"My two boys could come up with a better hole than that one (the eighth). A monkey is as good as a man out there, and "The man who designed the golf course had the plans upside down."

5-Run Rally Carries Astros Past Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI)—Jesus Alou's bases-filled single featured a five-run fifth inning and Johnny Edwards and Bob Watson homered Saturday night to lead the Houston Astros to a 9-4 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Alou delivered his single after Watson's double, a fielder's choice and George Stone's error—the first of three Braves errors in the inning—filled the bases. All three runners scored when Rico Flacco batted the ball for the first of his two errors in the game and a fourth run scored on an infield out by Marty Orlin.

Denis Menke tripled in the final run of the inning after an error by Sonny Jackson. Edwards hit a two-run homer in the sixth after Watson's single and Watson led off the eighth with his homer.

Reliever Jim Bouton pitched 4 1/3 innings, allowing six hits, to pick up his third victory of the season although Fred Gladding retired the last batter.

Cubs 8, Cards 3

CHICAGO (UPI)—Billy Williams' triple and Ernie Williams' single by Jack Hill featured a six-run explosion in the first inning Saturday and Bill Hands pitched an eight-hitter as the Chicago Cubs downed the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-3.

Hands, picking up his ninth victory against five defeats, gave up eight singles while walking three and striking out three as he beat the Cardinals in 10th time in his career.

Similarly, Dey stressed Hill wasn't being fined for what he had said about Jones in the locker room. "The locker room is the players' private domain," Dey said. "Hill was not punished for anything he may have said there."

Jones, who has been in the business of designing golf courses for the past 40 years, appeared at the course, on his birthday, incidentally, and answered some of the attacks on Hazeltine without ever specifically referring to Hill by name.

Pirates 4, Expos 2

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Jerry May's two-run, tie-breaking single capped a three-run rally in the fifth inning Saturday and paced the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 win over the Montreal Expos.

He said it was true there are many dogleg holes on the course (10 in all) but asked what difference did it make if a golfer's first shot landed in the proper target area?

He said Jack Nicklaus had come here with "a negative attitude" about the course, and also added that Hazeltine was "a thinking man's course."

Phils 2, Mets 1

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reliever Tug McGraw walked pinch-hitter Ron Stone with the bases loaded in the ninth inning to force in the deciding run and Chris Short pitched a four-hitter Saturday night as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the New York Mets, 2-1.

Deron Johnson opened the ninth with a single off Jerry Kosman and Rick Joseph beat out a bunt. Ron Taylor relieved and Jim Hutto sacrificed and Oscar Gamble was intentionally walked to fill the bases.

McGraw came on and walked Stone, who was batting for Doc Edwards on five pitches to force in pinch-runner Grant Jackson.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the third when Edwards reached base safely on Bud Harrison's second error, took second on Short's sacrifice and scored on Tony Taylor's single.

WEST BROADWAY — IDAHO FALLS — 522-4480

THROUGH THE SLOT, this band of Snake River canyon based pigeons, visible to the left of the rocky point, draw the fire of three gunners. From right are Kirk Eberhard, Halley, Jim Gannaway, Twin Falls, and, just visible over the sagebrush, Jack Yarbrough, Twin Falls. The pigeons offer different and difficult targets for shooters interested in keeping their eyes sharp.

Take 1 Pigeon Flyway, Splatter With Case Of Shells: You've Got Gunner's Humble Pie

If you would like to keep your shooting eye in shape for next fall's hunting seasons, pick up a case of shells, find a natural fly way and spend one afternoon shooting holes in the sky above the Snake River canyon.

The growing number of pigeons along the canyon have become a problem for area farmers. And pigeons are not on the Idaho song bird list, meaning they are legal targets the year-round. Although shooting pigeons with 22s has been a sporadic but rather frequent sport in this area, using shotgun hasn't been.

There are no tougher targets than pigeons. Although to the casual observer they appear to fly straight, looking at the same bird through a sighting proves it to be anything but straight. Try to hit the birds flying into a wind and it is like trying to hit a knuckleball. They dart and dodge from side to side and up and down for no apparent reason. Another of their unnerving traits is their reaction to a shot. Most birds flare up, particularly ducks, making the second shot probably the most predictable in the field of shooting. But pigeons generally dive straight down and a band will burst into several directions. That's when the turning and squirming starts, making the second shot five-times the problem of the first.

Averages Soar As Mart Celebrates

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hopes that the nation's inflationary woes may be abating triggered a big celebration on Wall Street this week.

The Dow Jones industrial average soared more than 38 points, while other more broadly based indicators also scored healthy gains as advances battered declines 1,079 to 478.

The government reported that the cost of living continued its steady climb in May, but at its slowest pace since the beginning of the year.

"It could be a one month fluke," one analyst commented, "but at least it's the first sign that the administration's anti-inflation campaign may be working."

President Nixon's long-promised economic report, however, prompted nearly 10 points in the DJ industrial on Tuesday.

There was little reaction to the actual address from the investment community since it contained few surprises.

Nixon said he planned to appoint a national commission on productivity which would issue periodic inflation alerts to focus public opinion on excessive wage and price boosts.

Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co., said Wall Street probably was disappointed in Nixon's speech. He noted that no one expected Nixon to go as far as wage and price controls, but they had expected more force in the jawboning area.

Nixon ruled out both mandatory wage and price controls and direct government pressure on individual businessmen and labor leaders—jawboning.

"Another analyst said investors had expected something more specific to be applied to the wage-price spiral.

The President called the American economy the strongest in the world, but he conceded that his administration's fight to combat inflation is behind schedule and unemployment—now at a five year high—increased more than expected.

Other members of the administration also voiced concern over the timetable on inflation.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors (CEA), told the Organization of Economic Cooperation for Development in Paris that the battle against inflation is being won, but results are behind schedule.

Herbert Stein, a member of the CEA, said he expects unemployment this year probably will average around 5 per cent. He also conceded that the inflationary spiral was subsiding more slowly than expected.

Helping bolster the list late in the week were expectations of a sharp increase in the short interest in stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

After Friday's close, the Big Board reported the biggest monthly increase over in the short position. The increase for the month ended June 15 was 3,340,855 shares, and brought outstanding short interest to 37,240,185 shares.

Traditionally, Wall Street holds that a rise in the short position—created mainly by traders who expect stock prices will be sufficiently lower at some future date to turn a handsome profit for short selling—is potentially bullish.

For the week, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chip stocks showed a gain of 36.22 to 720.43.

The New York Stock Exchange index, which reflects the change in all common stocks, gained 1.52 to 42.06, and the S&P 500 index of all stocks traded jumped 1.57 to 70.16.

Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks rose 2.64 to 77.05. There were 208 new listings, 17 highs.

Turnover aggregated 47,970,650 shares, up from 38,992,370 shares the previous week, but considerably below the 56,456,660 shares which changed hands during the year ago period.

FAA Probes Death Of Boise Pilot

BOISE (UPI)—Federal Aviation Administration officials were continuing their investigation into a plane crash that claimed the life of a Boise pilot.

Robert E. Bullock, 29, Boise, was killed when he plunged more than 300 feet to the ground after he abandoned his burning single-engine airplane near the Boise City airport Friday.

Police said the pilot was in routine training mission when the plane apparently developed some type of engine trouble. The pilot had radioed back to the control tower and was headed back to the airport when the aircraft caught fire.

Witnesses at the scene said Bullock was on fire when he bailed out of the crippled plane. His parachute never opened and officers say he probably was killed instantly upon hitting the ground.

Motorist Frets Over Traffic On Blue Lakes

Editor, Times-News: As tourists enter Twin Falls from the west, they see where all the cars go; entering from the east, where all the people go; and upon entering Blue Lakes Boulevard North, they can see why they go.

Twin Falls can either be the easiest town a tourist ever drove through, or the hair-raising. For the traveler who crosses the Hansen bridge and enters town via Kimberly Road, the route through town is exceptionally well laid out, with a minimum of traffic lights. The same is true entering Twin Falls from the west going through town and leaving via Kimberly Road.

There is an abundance of motels along this route, many filling stations, at least two of which are all-nighters, and some good restaurants and drive-ins. Kudos for a planning job well done.

But for the traveler who wishes to see the rim-to-rim bridge and the scenic canyon below, there is the penance of driving down Blue Lakes Boulevard North, which resembles a fashionable demolition derby. There is a Jekyll-Hyde personality factor involved with Twin Falls motorists. When driving downtown, these people are cautious, sensible drivers, and with plenty of room to spare they allow even more for the other fellow. These same people will stop without signaling, turn without the slightest indication, run each other into curbs, and stall traffic-four blocks to get to their favorite shopping center on Blue Lakes North.

Probably the easiest way to tell which way a tourist has entered town is to watch their expressions as they leave via Addison West and see all those wrecked cars. If they shake their heads in wonder, they went through the downtown section, but if they grimace and say aloud, "No wonder," they've traveled down Blue Lakes North.

Driver Notices No Signs Point Way To Canyon

Editor, Times-News: My family and I just returned from a trip to Pennsylvania. During this time we endeavored to see something of the nation in which we live: Man-made and God-made. We have a great country out there just waiting to be seen.

We turned off the Interstate and down toward Twin Falls. Before we knew it we came over a hill and down onto the Perrine Bridge. A waterfall cascaded down before our eyes. Beneath us was the canyon—one of the most spectacular scenes we had seen in all of our journey!

Then it struck us. There had been absolutely no evidence that this beauty existed as far as signs on the Interstate were concerned. Even coming into the city toward the river—no signs! Nothing to indicate the existence of the Falls, the canyon, the bridge, the Thousand Springs, the world's largest trout farm, Balanced Rock, etc., etc. In every other state we passed through there would have been information aplenty.

I can only conclude that the leadership of our area is ashamed of what they have; or that it is lacking in awareness, creativity and ability to lead.

Financial Help Asked For Expensive Surgery

Editor, Times-News: The following news item was taken from the Kellogg Evening News of Kellogg, Idaho. It concerns a friend of mine that needs a kidney transplant. The cost for this operation—and follow-up care will run between $25,000 and $40,000. The article includes an address to which anyone interested in helping their fellow man could send a few dollars to help this family.

"An appeal was made today to all local residents to help raise money to finance a kidney transplant for Mrs. George (Frankie) Margason.

"Mrs. Margason is a life-long resident of Kellogg, 27 years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tapper and the mother of two small boys.

"Mrs. Margason has been hospitalized in Sacred Heart hospital in Spokane, Wash., awaiting transfer to the Seattle Kidney Center to undergo a kidney transplant. Dr. Thomas Marr, attending physician, has been in contact with the Seattle Center and their medical staff have advised this procedure be done as soon as possible.

"Although all medical arrangements have been made, the Seattle center requires a minimum guarantee of $14,000 before they will proceed with the surgery.

"Mrs. Margason is employed at the Bunker Hill Smelter and although insured through the mine, he cannot possibly raise the amount needed without the help of the people of this district.

"The figure of $14,000 is the combined total of $10,000 for the recipient and $2,740 to cover surgical costs for the donor. Mrs. Margason will receive the kidney from her sister, Kay Tapper.

"The cost for compatibility tests necessary to qualify as a donor is in excess of $500. In addition to this, money is needed to help defer the hospitalized eight weeks to ward off possibility of rejection and required to remain in Seattle for an additional four months for follow-up care, daily medication and functional tests. The cost of this is additional to the $40,000 needed to cover the surgery.

"Total cost has not been estimated, but may be as high as $25,000 and this is why help is needed.

"Donations by mail or person will be gratefully accepted by the Kellogg Jay-C-ettes. Mrs. Susan Tomby, president, 2 E. Mission, Kellogg; Mrs. Margason's sister, Mrs. Walter Kellogg; 16 E. Kellogg, in Kalani; Kay Tapper, Box 155, Silverton, Idaho, and Kellogg Jaycees, Box 770, Kellogg. All contributions are tax-deductible and receipts will be issued upon request. Please make checks or money orders payable to: FRANKIE MARGASON FUND. It will be appreciated if the names and addresses of donors accompany all contributions made by mail.

"If you can find it in your heart to help Mrs. Margason, please make your donation today. You will have the undying gratitude of her entire family and friends." Thank you.

Forum Rules Idaho Legislator Asks Support For President

Forum letters must be concerned with topics of general interest and must be of a reasonable length.

The editors of the Times-News reserve the right to refuse publication if, in their opinion, the subject matter is of a libelous nature, is not in good taste or is repetitious and has previously been thoroughly covered in the forum.

All letters must bear the signature and address of the writer. The name of the writer will appear when published unless there is a personal request that it be withheld and the reason for such a request stated. This request will then be considered by the editors and it will either be granted or the letter will be returned to the writer.

Editor, Times-News: In January of 1969, Richard Nixon became President with a promise to try to bring about an honorable end to the war in Vietnam. He said he had a plan to end the war. Since that time he has been criticized for not revealing that plan. This criticism is unfair because any plan would involve the application of military force coupled with negotiations in Paris. To be effective and tactical any plan, especially the details of operations conducted by the military, must remain secret until such operations are implemented. This is obvious to insure that the element of surprise works to our advantage and against the enemy.

In the meantime he has publicly announced in advance both the time of withdrawal and the number of troops to be withdrawn. He has yet to let the nation down on these pledges and is continually reducing the numerical involvement of U.S. fighting men in South East Asia. In addition, he has said that the South Vietnamese military is rapidly gaining the ability and confidence to handle more of the actual fighting. Recent operations in Cambodia carried out by the forces of South Vietnam also lend credence to these views.

Several weeks ago the President launched massive surprise attacks against the Communist supply depots just across the South Vietnamese borders inside Cambodia. The attacks had all the elements of good military planning. They were massive, swift, and executed with a maximum of secrecy.

The operations have been most successful in that the Viet Cong have been, for all practical purposes, dismantled for at least six months. They should be unable to launch anything approaching a major operation for this length of time. In addition they will never again feel secure in massing so many supplies, equipment, and munitions so close to the border without involving a much greater security force to protect these bases. This will involve troops previously used in front line operations.

The tactical victory in Cambodia could force the Communists to negotiate more earnestly at the presently stalled Paris Peace talks. All these fruits of victory can be

Safety Petition Gains Backing From Nigeria

Editor, Times-News: After the Times-News found its way into the remote village of Madagho, deep in the mangrove jungle of the midwest state of Nigeria, West Africa, where I have resided as a registered alien for the past three years, I read the article appearing in the News Forum, dated May 17, concerning the safety conditions along Filer Avenue West.

I am the father of Carl Leo Nelson, who was brutally killed on the evening of Oct. 18, 1965, while crossing Filer Avenue near his home on Fillmore Street.

To expect that tactics can be debated in the halls of Congress is foolishness as the most important element of surprise could not be preserved. There has never been a major successful military campaign conducted by a committee of men such as the U.S. Senate.

Throughout history every major successful tactical military victory can be attributed to the brilliance of one man. Men such as Hannibal, Caesar, Napoleon, Washington, Lee, Rommel, Patton, and MacArthur.

The operations in Cambodia are tactical maneuvers against the same enemy whom we are fighting in South Viet Nam. The President should have the leeway to attack that enemy anywhere from which that enemy is directly operating against our troops and the Cooper-Church amendment should be defeated.

Writer Complains Over 'Game' Of Politics

Editor, Times-News: I wonder how many people besides myself are getting fed up with the political games people play. How much better off might this country be if the politicians tried to cooperate more and fight each other less?

I agree that there needs to be some kind of counter-balance here; but must they continue to strive to make fools of each other at the expense of the American public? Must they jeopardize the well-being of an entire nation or nations just to cut down the opposing party and strengthen their own? Isn't it time they put public interests before party and selfish interests?

While at home last summer a speeding motorist bounced his car on and off the curb in front of my home. I reported this to the chief of police. I also spoke about placing a caution light in this area; also a crosswalk painted which would add to the safety of pedestrians crossing Filer Avenue at this point. I soon learned I was wasting my time.

He agreed it should be done, but did not know where the money would come from. After returning to my home, my wife and I considered paying for the light ourselves.

Some years ago we became involved in a discussion of who was the worst good bridge player in the world. We never could come to an agreement on this point but we do feel that today's West might well be the man.

He opened his fourth best club against the very normal three notrump contract. Normal, but unfortunate in that South had no real play for nine tricks.

East won with the ace and, with no club to return, led the deuce of spades. West won with the king and South carefully played the queen from dummy.

West was all ready to lead back the 10 of spades when he saw his partner would collect three more spade tricks but this queen play gave him cause to stop and reflect.

A beginner, a poor player or a fair player would not reflect long. He might pause TIZZY

For a moment, then he would lead a spade and get those same three spade tricks. A good player would do the same but remember this West is our candidate for worst good player in the world.

As a good player he was familiar with that type of queen play in order to set up a finessing situation against a jack. He then decided that South did hold the ace and 10 of spades and for some reason wanted to be able to win the next spade in his own hand.

Anyone with a common sense could see that South would have plenty of diamond entries to his own hand but our worst good player had no common sense: He led a heart and instead of being down one South made his contract plus two over-tricks.

What do you do now?

A—Bid six clubs and give up the grand slam if you are conservative. If you are an optimist bid five-never-bump-and-ask-for-kings. If your partner holds two kings you have seven. If he holds none you won't be past six clubs. If he has one it may be in diamonds or he may not need it.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three clubs your partner has bid one spade over your one heart. What do you do now?

BRAINS - Say you own a horse, a cow and a mule. And the barn catches fire. How would you go about getting the three animals out to safety? So inquired a subscriber, and I asked a veterinarian. Said he: "By the time you get there, the mule will have kicked the door down and be gone. So you shoot the cow out, then blindfold the horse and lead it away last." If accurate, this gives you a rough idea of the relative intelligence of mules, cows and horses.

MIRACLES - The Second Chance Club is an unorganized association of citizens who in one way or another have miraculously survived almost certain death. I belong. How about you? Long-time president of the group was a seagoing carpenter named McWhirter. During World War I, a German submarine shot out from under him the British ship Aboukir. He was rescued by the British ship Hogue. It was promptly torpedoed by the same sub. He then was rescued by the British ship Cressy. It too was immediately sunk by that sub. All within one hour. Here's to Mr. McWhirter - clink! - wherever he be. Incidentally, it was that trilogy of terror which led to the rule now common among all navies - that no ship engaged in sea battle shall stop to pick up survivors.

CONSIDER THIS - He died in 1966, but a half dozen of his relatives still get Christmas presents from him every year. With each goes a card: "Merry Christmas from your late Uncle Willie!" This is in Belgium. And the gentleman in question arranged the aforementioned remembrances through an outfit there called "Gift Perpetual." The organization contracts for $5, 10, 15 years or whatever to mail such presents to beloved survivors. Lawyers set up the service when making out wills.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Among those who drink hard liquor, how much does the average man in this country put away every year?" A. About a gallon and a half. During Prohibition it was a couple of gallons. Q. "How come you never hear about any tornadoes in Europe or Asia?" A. All I know about that is approximately 49 out of 50 of the world's tornadoes crop up in the United States.

YOUR HEART, PAUSING after every beat, rests one-sixth of the time. So reports a medical fellow. In other words, if you worked as hard as your heart, you would be up and at it 20 hours a day. DIVORCED MEN get sick about twice as often as do married men. Divorced women, however, do not get sick any more often than do married women. Or so the statistics indicate. Can you explain this peculiarity?

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON, wherever possible. Address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 3760, Santa Monica, Calif. 90407. (c) 1970, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A HAPPY VACATION turned into stark tragedy near Ventura, Calif., when four-year-old Martin Kidder, son of David Kidder, Lakewood, Calif., seen clutching his son's hand, was struck and killed by a freight train (stopped in the background). The vacationing family had stopped for a rest and Martin and a brother were playing on the tracks. Apparently, noise from a nearby freeway drowned-out the sound of the approaching train. Mr. Kidder saw the train in time to grab his older son, but could not reach Martin. (UPI telephoto)

AN ARTIST'S CONCEPT of expanded airport facilities to accommodate both the Boeing 747 and the giant supersonic transport (SST) depicts the size of the planes at Seattle. By the time the SST begins carrying passengers, most major airports will have been modernized to handle these and other advanced-technology jets. Both the 747 and the SST will have doors and passenger cabins about the same size and height, and loading ramps and facilities at airport will handle both planes. (UPI file photo)

Historic Second Draft Lottery Due Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you are an able bodied male born in 1951, Wednesday, July 1, will be a crucial day in your life.

On that day, the Selective Service System, with which you registered last year when you reached 18, will conduct a new draft lottery to determine the order of induction next year for men who attain 19 in 1970.

The lottery is fairly simple: each of the 365 days of the year will be selected at random. The first date selection will be No. 1 in the 1971 order of induction. The second will be No. 2 and so on until a number has been assigned to each day of each month.

Every young man in the 1970 "pool" thus will have a rough idea of his draft status. If the number assigned to his birthday is low, and if he qualifies otherwise, he can figure on being called up. If he makes a high number, he can make at least tentative plans that do not include military service.

Much depends, of course, on President Nixon's plan to withdraw all U.S. combat forces from Vietnam according to a secret timetable and on the international situation generally.

Defense Secretary Melvin A. Laird hopes to reduce the armed forces from their current level of about 3.1 million to 2.9 million on July 1, 1971, and perhaps eventually to 2.5 million. But any major new crisis could upset these plans, with a resulting effect on draft calls.

The July 1 lottery will be the second in seven months. Last Dec. 1, the order of induction for 1970 was determined for some 850,000 men who reached their 19th birthdays in 1969 or still were 26 or younger.

The number of men affected by the new lottery will be much smaller since only the 19 year olds of 1970 will be touched. Selective Service officials said there are 140,198 men in this group now classified as IA (eligible for induction) or IAO (eligible for induction for noncombat service because of conscientious objections).

In addition, about 450,000 men with 2S student deferments will reach 19 this year. They will not be called up as long as their deferments are in force. But the drawing will determine their place in the callup in whatever future year they become eligible.

Officials said it is impossible to say exactly when each number in the new order of induction will be called. National Selective Service will assign monthly quotas to each state and local draft boards will then call up men in order established in the lottery. The number of men available to each board can vary widely, however, and it is impossible to say how far down the list any one board will have to go to meet its quota.

Congress still has not acted on Nixon's request for authority to establish a uniform national induction system under which Selective Service could announce, for example, that all numbers from 1 to 45 would be called up in January; 46 to 62 in February and so on.

The new lottery will feature two big changes from the December drawing. First, there will be no random drawing of the letters of the alphabet. The letters were matched with the last names of men with the same birthdays to determine who would be inducted first. Officials said this procedure was of no value.

The other change will be in the actual selection of the dates. Some mathematicians and statisticians complained that the December method—which involved dumping capsules containing the dates into a huge "fish bowl" and then selecting them by hand—was unscientific and actually did not give a true random selection. Most of the critics said only a computer could do the job right.

But Selective Service officials feel that public reaction to computer selection would be adverse. They intend to improve the previous system, including the use of some new "hardware," but are keeping the actual method secret until late in June.

Lack Of 'Sense' Can Prove Fatal

NEW YORK (UPI)—A father and son sailing through the waters of a New Jersey lake on a recent Sunday met sudden tragedy when the aluminum mast of their boat picked up current from a 35,000-volt high tension line crossing the small body of water.

The 14-year-old boy was knocked off the boat by the shock and drowned. The father was burned severely but recovered. Police said either the mast touched the line or the high-voltage current leaped from the line without actual contact taking place.

The boy was among the first of an estimated 1,300 pleasure boaters who will die in water accidents in the United States this year. The father had the dubious distinction of making the list of more than 1,000 who will be injured.

This accident might be termed bizarre, unusual, unpredictable—but most fatalities resulting from boating mishaps are not.

For example, a good many of the 1,300 persons who died on the water in 1969 met death because of a lack of common sense—failure to observe the most basic boating rules and regulations.

Those most often violated probably include overloading and resulting capsizing; failure to have life saving equipment and failure to use it even when it is aboard; overpowering of boats; failure to take precautions against fire when fueling; failure to heed weather warnings; lack of knowledge of the waters in which boats are operated.

To the credit of pleasure boating, the federal and state governments and public and private groups are carrying out intensive educational programs to prevent such carelessness incidents.

The big problem, it seems, is to get boatmen to take a few hours a week to attend these educational programs, most of which are offered free of charge.

In announcing that fatalities from boating mishaps in 1969 reached 1,350, an increase of six-tenths of one per cent over the previous year and the highest since 1965 when the fatality figure was 1,300, Coast Guard Commandant Ann. Willard J. Smith had this to say:

"Tragically, a great many of those who died had life saving devices available but failed to use them.

"It has taken tremendous efforts by all concerned to keep the number of accidents relatively steady in the face of a rapid increase in the number of boats.

"We must constantly seek ways to reduce the number and severity of boating mishaps."

In considering last year's increase in fatality figures, it should be noted that there were nearly 800,000 more numbered boats plying U.S. waters in 1969 than in 1968—4,864,074 compared with 4,067,731.

It should also be noted that boating injuries in 1969 were 1,004 compared with 1,284 the previous year and the lowest figure in four years. Also, boating accidents reported to the Coast Guard in 1969 were 5,239 compared to 6,427 in 1968. And property damage from boating accidents dropped from $6.63 million in 1968 to $6.37 million last year.

'Snag' Halts Firm Faces Proposal To FCC Charge Clear Junk Of Fraud

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (UPI)—A two-month program to dispose of junked automobiles has run into a snag. A spokesman for the firm hired to haul away the 2,000 abandoned cars in the Traverse City area estimated only about half actually would be disposed of.

He said most were on private property and authorities could not remove them without the owner's consent, and many of the owners were getting sentimental about their old rusting hulks.

"It's easy to get attached to a car, especially if it's been a good one, and you've had others that were lemons," said Chuck Whiteford, an employee of the firm hired by General Motors Corp. to haul away the junks.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has charged Amco Automatic Transmissions Inc., which advertises as "the world's largest transmission service," with illegal practices. The FTC said in a complaint Thursday Amco's 200 shops advertise simple transmission adjustments for $4.50, "auto-garage service" for $13.75 and removal and inspection for $23.

"Although such services may be performed from time to time," the FTC said, "these advertised offers are inane in that their real purpose is to get leads to prospects in order to sell them much more expensive repair jobs."

The FTC said Amco has refused to reassemble transmissions

CSI Women's Dean Will Host July Tour; College Credits Available

Education is of prime importance in this day and age — and what is a better way to learn more about other peoples and countries, than to see them first hand.

The chance for many Idahoans is right around the corner as Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women at the College of Southern Idaho, moves into the last phase of planning for a 22-day grand tour through eight countries: France, Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Monaco, Italy and England.

As hostess for the tour, "Enchanting Europe — 1970," Dr. Thompson has outlined an outstanding schedule, leaving Twin Falls July 11 and returning Aug. 2. Since education is her business — it's interesting to note she has arranged graduate or undergraduate college credits (if prearranged) for all travelers interested.

Various highlights of the tour, to name just a few, will include the sites of Paris, Amsterdam and its winding canals, a steamer excursion on the River Rhine, Venice, Florence, Rome, the glamorous Riviera, the Swiss Alps and London — and — its Westminster Abbey.

One of the optional features of the tour will accommodate those wanting to spend a few extra days visiting New York City — perhaps to see the "first annual New York International Art Show at the Coliseum. Noted as the "largest exhibit in history of art," the show is open to the public Aug. 1 through 9.

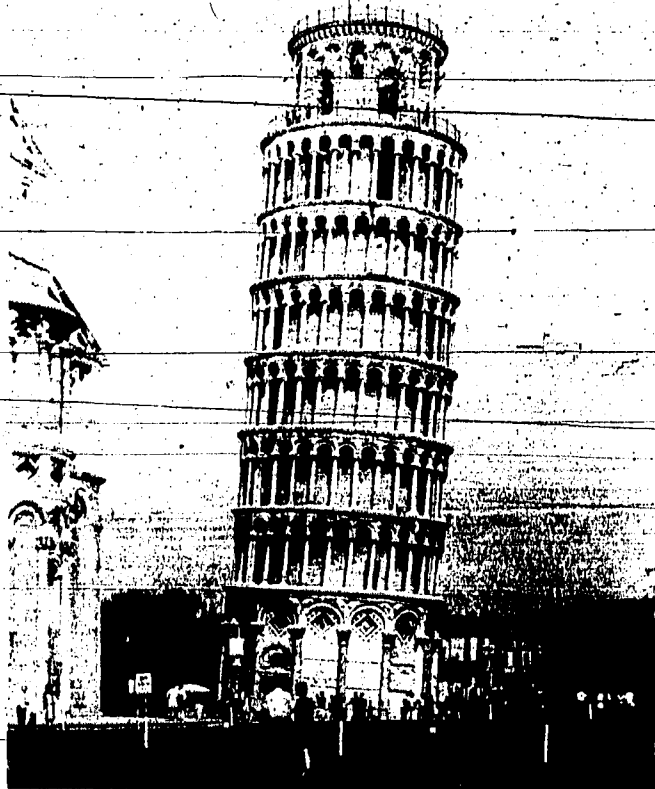

Being hostess for the tour is a real natural for Dr. Thompson as she, as dean of women for the college, is the official hostess for college functions, to say nothing of her expert counseling and listening abilities very well known by her students and peers.

Dr. Thompson, working directly with Magic Carpet Travels, has a detailed color brochure, "Enchanting Europe — 1970," available for all interested, outlining the tour, the cost and other necessary information. Persons interested in joining the Idaho travelers should contact Dr. Thompson or the travel agency.

THE FRENCH ALPS will be included among the sites to be viewed by Idahoans as they participate in the 22-day grand tour of Europe, with Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women at the College of Southern Idaho, as official hostess.

IDAHO TRAVELERS will be motoring down the blue shores of the Mediterranean through coastal resorts to visit Pisa, cultural center of Tuscany, and later viewing the leaning Tower of Pisa, shown here.

Migrant Children Benefit From New Center

Where there's a need — there's a way, and local women from various organizations have combined efforts to provide a way — making possible a Day Care Center at the Twin Falls Labor Camp.

The center provides baby-sitting facilities for the workers' small children, enabling them to go to the fields without taking the youngsters, pre-school children, with them. Each year school is held at Bickel School for school-age and kindergarten children, usually lasting six to eight weeks. Many of the youngsters who should be attending the school are unable to because of the responsibility of caring for the younger brothers and sisters while their parents work. By providing care for the small ones, the older youngsters are able to participate in the school activities.

The center is sponsored by the YWCA, Magic Valley Council of Churches, Migrant Ministry, Church Women United and the Catholic Women's Organization.

With the aid of other interested women, Mrs. Roma Ricks has been very instrumental in organizing the center — watching it become a reality and making necessary plans for a bigger and better facility next year.

Women from the labor camp are hired to care for the children, with the assistance of several younger baby sitters who speak both English and Spanish. According to Mrs. Ricks, with the interested and cooperative assistance of Larry Loyd, manager of the Labor Camp, a playground was seeded this year and should be ready for use next season. This year, she noted, the center has only been able to supply care for the children. Next year it is hoped to get some type of learning process in operation, depending on available money and personnel.

According to Mrs. Marvin Molyneux, YWCA director, volunteers are needed who could give an hour or two in caring for the youngsters. Also needed are any small toys, color books, strollers or baby jumpers and blankets. Anyone having some of the needed items can take them to the Labor Camp or call the YWCA. The center is operated solely on local funds obtained through the efforts of these interested women. More than $250 was realized from a recent authentic Mexican dinner held at the "Y" building, with this money used for needed supplies and aides.

A good lunch is provided for the more than 30 youngsters each day by women from the Baptist, Valley Christian, Presbyterian, Methodist, Catholic, Lutheran Church and Church of the Brethren. Although more than 50 children are registered at the center, only about 30 are there each day. Current plans indicate the center will be in operation approximately six weeks, until the majority of the workers move on to other field jobs.

Further information concerning the center can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Molyneux, 733-4384; Mrs. Ricks, 733-5777.

ADJUSTING THE COAT for little Johnnie Martinez as he plays on the swing is Janie Hernandez, one of the daily helpers at the newly organized Day Care Center at the Twin Falls Labor Camp.

ONE OF THE LITTLE ONES attending the Day Care Center is Yvonne Martinez. More than 50 youngsters are registered at the center, which is sponsored by various women's organizations in Twin Falls.

THE SLIDE IS a real attraction for little Sergio Hernandez as he plays at the center. Women from the Labor Camp are hired to care for the children, with the assistance of several younger baby sitters who speak both English

Mary Jackson, Clarke Say Vows

Mary Anne Jackson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Jackson, became the bride of Don Ray Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Clarke, Rexburg, in rites at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple June 6.

President of the temple, Earley A. Arave, performed the ceremony. After the ceremony, members of the wedding party and close friends were entertained at a brunch held at the Westbank Moel by the parents of the bridegroom.

A reception honoring the young couple was held Friday evening in the Second Ward LDS Cultural Hall in Twin Falls.

The bride wore a gown fashioned of organza and Venise lace. The fitted bodice was highlighted at the yoke with garlands of lace. The short, puffed sleeves and Victorian neckline were edged with matching lace. The bouffant skirt was flared to the back in a chapel-length train. Her headpiece of nylon and flower garlands held a long veil with a shoulder-length tier edged in lace. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Susan Jackson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Pamela Warner, Britta Orton, Carol Trivitt and Kathy Andreason. Dale L. Clarke, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Don Wilburt, sister of the bridegroom, attended the guest book. Mrs. Norman Jackson was in charge of the gift table. Organ music was played by Mrs. Glen M. Andreason, Magna, Utah.

Among the wedding guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Haynie, Mrs. Shelton Sowards, and Sally Sowards, all Manassa, Colo. Many relatives and friends of the bridegroom attended from Rexburg, Idaho Falls and Salt Lake City.

The bride was entertained at showers given by Kathy Andreason in Provo, Utah; Mrs. George Warner and Pam Warner and Mrs. W. H. Andreason and Mrs. Kenneth Moon. She was also entertained at a brunch at the home of Mrs. Ray Lincoln, with Mrs. J. T. Anderson as co-hostess.

The bride and bridegroom were graduated from Brigham

Young University May 20, with the bride receiving her B. S. Degree in fashion, merchandising and the bridegroom his degree in business administration.

After a honeymoon in the Northwest, including Victoria, B. C., the young couple will reside at 600 Dawnview, Pullman, Wash.

Mr. Clarke has been awarded an assistantship at Washington State University, where he will work on his masters degree in business administration.

Nationwide School Districts Consider Extended Year Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some 600 school districts nationwide are considering the extended school year (ESY)—and here's where most communities balk.

Parents, especially in northern climates, apparently don't want children home for an extended period during the winter. (This happens when vacation quarters are rotated throughout the year, instead of occurring only in summer.)

Such parents believe children need a long, lazy summer. They also argue that families need to vacation together with all the children free at one time.

Mrs. Adams said the only person crusading for ESY with missionary zeal is George I. Thomas, of the Office of Research and Re-evaluation, New York state Department of Education.

He favors a plan he calls "multiple trials." Under this plan, students enter and leave a program at any time during the year. Thomas believes its appeal is that it offers visible savings—space to handle more students for fewer dollars.

SLIDES SHOWY
FAIRFIELD — Slides of Germany were shown by Rev. Robert Rush at the June meeting of the Prairie Schooners Couple's club in the Community Church Recreation Room. Mr. Rush served in the Air Force in Germany. President Donald Groff led the group in patriotic songs in honor of Flag Day. Tammy Miller read a poem. Rev. and Mrs. Rush served refreshments.

Though the idea of the extended school year has been cropping up every so often since 1924, there are no studies to show that better education results.

Velma G. Adams, formerly executive editor of School Management and author of the report, said:

Mrs. Lawrence Knigge, president, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Freda Thier read the inspirational thought, "Keeping Youth." Guests included Mrs. Viola Hatline, Mrs. Snore Erickson, Mrs. O. D. ## Double Wedding Is Planned

Decorative Wood And Flower Demonstration Presented

DEAR ABBY: My son is marrying the daughter of one of the town's most socially prominent families. I am a working widow with limited means. I am giving the bride couple a wedding gift, plus the rehearsal dinner. These, plus the clothes for the wedding, are all I can possibly afford.

There will be luncheons, teas, and evening parties honoring the bride couple. I cannot afford to take time away from my work to attend day time parties, and I can't afford the kind of clothes I would feel at ease in for any of these affairs, with the exception of the wedding itself.

Would it be a breach of etiquette for me to refuse these invitations? Thank you. MOTHER OF THE GROOM

DEAR MOTHER: Are you being perfectly honest with yourself for wanting to ditch the bride parties? Clothes? Surely you could be appropriately attired without too much expense. Time away from work? That, too, could be managed for this once-in-a-lifetime occasion! If you feel socially inferior, you needn't. As the mother of the groom, your contribution to the wedding is easily the most important of all. Go, and enjoy yourself!

DEAR ABBY: I was invited [a month in advance] by a bachelor friend to dinner to meet his mother, who was visiting him. He said there would be other guests and we would dine in the restaurant in the apartment building, but to come to his apartment "for cocktails" at 7:30 p.m.

I arrived at the appointed time and he greeted me with the news that he had a "cold" and had cancelled out the other guests since he wasn't in the mood to entertain a group. I told him he should have cancelled me out, too, but he insisted that he wanted ME to come anyway.

I had a few drinks with him and his mother, and since nothing was said about going to dinner I wondered if perhaps he intended to whip something up in his apartment, but he didn't move.

As time went on I wondered if perhaps the restaurant in the building wouldn't be closing soon, but naturally I didn't mention it.

Finally the conversation lagged, and at 10:40 p.m. my friend offered to call a taxi for me.

I said my good-byes without dinner. The following morning I telephoned my friend and apologized for keeping him up so late.

What did I do wrong? WASHINGTON, D. C.

DEAR WASHINGTON: Perhaps when he told you he had "cancelled out" the other guests because he had a "cold," you should have taken the hint, met his mother and departed. But since you didn't, after one hour, since there was no mention of dinner, you should have gone home. In any event, you had no need to apologize.

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter from "IRRITATED," who dislikes having small children answer the phone when she calls.

I used to work for a telephone answering service, calling doctors, repairmen to service television sets, juke boxes, oil burners, refrigerators, etc. Nearly all these men had to be called at home. It is irritating when some child grabs the phone and says, "WHO IS THIS?"

After burning up several times over this, I finally came upon a satisfactory solution: I just hang up without saying a word, wait about five minutes, then I call again. If the child answers again, I hang up again. By the third time I call, the mother's curiosity has gotten the better of her, and SHE beats the child to the phone. It works nicely. Furthermore, you don't have to say anything nasty to the mother. I just say, sweetly, "I have a very important message which I didn't think I should entrust to a child to deliver." Cordially, CLAIRE IN SEATTLE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

JEROME—Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Bartlett and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Olander announce the engagements of their daughters, Linda Bartlett and RoseAnn Olander.

Miss Bartlett will wed David Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gibbs, Kennewick, Wash., and Miss Olander will marry Richard Lohman, son of Mrs. Velma Lohman, Twin Falls, and Herman Lohman, Greeley, Colo.

A double wedding is planned by the couples, however, a definite date has not been set because both young men are now taking basic training with the Army in Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Miss Bartlett and Miss Olander were graduated from Jerome High School in 1969 and are presently residing in Tacoma, Wash. Mr. Gibbs was graduated from Jerome High School in 1969 and attended the College of Southern Idaho one semester. Mr. Lohman is a 1969 graduate of Twin Falls High School.

Final Meet Of Season Held By Chapter No. 42

SHOSHONE—At the last meeting of the season of the Lincoln Chapter No. 42, Order of Eastern Star, held recently at the Masonic Temple, Shoshone, plans were made for a picnic at 7 p.m. July 21 at the Mary L. Gooding Park.

The picnic will be for members of the Star, Masonic Lodge and Jobies and their families. Past Matrons Club will meet Monday at the home of Mrs. Clyde Rapp.

Mrs. Kenneth Crothers, worthy matron, reported on Grand Chapter she attended at Twin Falls last week. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pendleton, Shoshone, were officials at this, she being the grand representative to the grand jurisdiction of North Carolina, and he being assistant grand sentinel.

Mrs. Mans Coffin and Mrs. Frank Finlayson contributed to the birthday fund.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple was honored at a luncheon attended by close friends and relatives in the Jade Room of the Hotel Utah, hosted by parents of the bridegroom.

From Hawaii, Evelyn Wiggins and Francene Wiggins, aunts of the bridegroom, brought flowers to adorn the tables and orchid leis for the newlyweds and their mothers.

That evening, the young couple was honored at a reception at the White House in Ogden.

For her wedding and reception, the bride wore an empire-styled gown of silk organza with alencon lace forming a high neckline and also deep cuffs on the long bouffant silk organza sleeves. Applied alencon lace flowers cascaded down the front panel of the gown and were connected by seed pearl stems and leaves. The detachable tunnel train was appliqued with lace flowers and pearls. Her butterfly silk illusion veil fell from a headpiece of alencon lace flowers, pearls and silk organza. She carried a bouquet of Talisman rosebuds, yellow miniature carnations and gardenias.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Val C. Parrish, her sister-in-law, as matron of honor, and Connie Freestone, Vernal, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kay Morris, Menlo Park, Calif., cousin of the bride; Lynnal Larkin, sister of the bridegroom, and Karen Galvez, Kent Larkin, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man, with Steve Moulton, Bob Barclay, Paul Neuen-schwander, and Val Parrish and Ray Parrish, brothers of the bride, as ushers.

A highlight of the reception was the traditional wedding serenade of the couple by the La Diananda Sorority sisters of the bride.

Mrs. Hal T. Morris and Mrs. Dan Morris, Menlo Park, Calif., and Annette Hinds, Overland Park, Kan., arrived in Ogden for the festivities.

In Ogden, the bride was extensively entertained and in Twin Falls, Mrs. W. H. Anderson and Mrs. Gene Hill hosted a miscellaneous shower for the bride at the Anderson home.

Flowers, They're
 Man!

SUMMER MAY OFFICIALLY begin this week, but on Camas Prairie it's still spring — and the wild flowers on the mile-high valley prove it. The wild pansies, violets, shooting stars and yellow bells of the very early spring are gone, but the next cycle of the prairie's natural decoration is in full bloom. The exceptionally wet weather has combined with the valley's naturally rich soil to provide a colorful display. These flowers were all photographed on the prairie itself. On over Couch Summit into the Sawtooth and a higher elevation, these and different types of wild flowers are just now beginning to bloom. The flowers, starting at center, are a large yellow sunflower, probably of the balsam root family, backed by the foothills of the Sawtooth range to the north; and continuing, clockwise, starting at 12 o'clock, wild Flox, sometimes called Sweet Williams, which range from almost white to a darker pink; 2 o'clock, Indian Hyaclinth, whose slender stems support clusters of large, delicate, blue bell-shaped blossoms; 4 o'clock, wild sweet peas, which crawl amid range grass and bloom in a soft pink shade; 6 o'clock, small white daisies with yellow centers, one of several types of daisies, ranging from white, to yellow in the early spring, and soft lavender in the later months; 8 o'clock, Blue Lips, so named for their shape, and blooming in bright blue clusters, and 10 o'clock, yellow lupine, which, like the blue lupine, has attractive sage green leaves.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC WATER HEATING FOR A NEATER, CLEANER WORLD

Food Stamps — Blessing Or Just Financial Drain?

BY LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer

What price food stamps? Do they help the needy — and boost the economy of the community? Or is the federally funded program only another example of Big Brother at his most undesirable, intruding where he is not wanted?

A survey of the food stamp program in Twin Falls will elicit all these opinions — views ranging from strongly favorable to vigorously opposed. Spokesmen of the state Department of Public Assistance, whose caseworkers, trained in qualifying welfare applications, analyze and authorize petitions for food stamps, are avidly in favor of the program.

The DPA personnel believe that the program will solve many problems, not only for the needy but for society as a whole. They claim that food sales have increased and will increase even more; that needy people are eating better than ever and that they are even paying off some of their bills with the money they save.

Grocers are cautiously optimistic, but hesitate to quote figures or sales. They admit that there has been a slight increase so far, but, since the program started less than a month ago, say that it's too early to determine the long-range effect.

On the county level, opinions are voiced strongly — and often in opposition. Harold Lancaster, Twin Falls County auditor, said that the program could conceivably cost the county heavily, despite a saving in tax money formerly used for aid to the needy.

The food-stamp program, according to Patrick Payton, a caseworker for the DPA in Twin Falls, was initiated as a stimulant to sales for the agricultural industry's surplus, and to bolster the general economy of the nation, as well as to help those in need.

The program is funded and administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, with the DPA stepping in to qualify the recipients of aid. These requesting permission to buy the coupons must present a detailed outline of their income and expenses to the DPA, as the purchase of coupons is entirely dependent on the need.

FOOD STAMPS CAN make a difference in grocery shopping. Dale Ford, Twin Falls grocer, displays the difference between what a needy family might buy with "hard cash" and with food stamps. On the left, $3 worth of groceries does little to fill a market basket; on the right, the $23 worth of food that the $3 cash can buy through food coupons would go a lot farther to feed a hungry family.

The program is designed to help needy people in all income ranges, up to a maximum net income of $352 per month for a family of eight, and down to a single migrant worker arriving in town with no job yet and only a few dollars in his pocket. Each person must be re-qualified each month, at least for the time being, to establish average income levels, Mr. Payton said. A complex set of statistics determines the amount of food stamps each family is allowed to buy. The qualification form, along with a signed identification card, is taken to a participating bank where the coupons are purchased. Each coupon book must be signed with the same signature used on the identification card as a cross-check on the user. The coupons are not transferable and may not be sold or gambled away — a violation could bring severe penalties, as the program is a federal one and any violation is a federal case.

The coupons, sold in $2, $5 and $10 denominations, may be exchanged at any grocery store for their face value — but they are good only for foods that may be "eaten or drunk" and are produced by American growers. With the exception of coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas, no foods of foreign origin may be purchased with the stamps. This would include canned meats that are marked "product of Argentina," for example.

The grocers accumulate the stamps and turn them in to the USDA for redemption at their full face value.

So far, food-stamp customers have shown remarkable skill in buying their foods, often buying case goods of fruits and vegetables to last through the month. Twin Falls grocers have reported. All report a noticeable increase in overall food volume, including a sizeable business in food stamps.

Mr. Lancaster, however, feels differently. He said that the banks require a service fee of 60 cents from the county every time a customer buys a supply of food stamps. In some cases, where a family is paid weekly or twice monthly, they may buy their stamps twice a month, costing the county $1.20 for the transactions, Mr. Lancaster said.

TIMES-NEWS Book Review

BY LUCILE WOLFE

The interesting thing about 1898. The author has written the book is that it was first many other entertaining books copyrighted in 1892 and last in and short stories.

Twin Falls Public Library

"The Casting Away of Mrs. Lecks and Mrs. Aleahine" by Frank R. Stockton is the story of two middle aged women who decided to take an ocean voyage to the Orient. Mrs. Aleahine was going to visit her son in Japan and Mrs. Lecks, who was also a widow, did not feel it proper that her friend should go alone on such a long journey. The two women lived in a small town in Pennsylvania and they might need each other in time of danger.

On the ship, which the ladies boarded at San Francisco, they met a young man also bound for the Orient. When their ship was wrecked near the Sandwich Islands, the three of them, by accident, were in a small boat that proved to be unseaworthy. They managed to get to an island that was the private property of a French-American family.

The three later were joined by another shipwrecked party which consisted of a missionary and his daughter and three sailors. They all remained on this small island until the food was exhausted, then went to a larger island and were later able to board a ship which was returning to the United States.

While on the small island, Mrs. Lecks decided it was only right that they should pay for the provisions they were using. She suggested a certain amount be placed each week in a ginger jar she found in the very comfortable and well stocked house the owners had built there. The many complications that followed this suggestion make delightful reading.

The circumstances of the meeting with the owners of the island and the return to the home of Mrs. Lecks and Mrs. Aleahine of all the people who were together for so long complete the story.

CANDIDATE NAMED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The Indiana state Republican convention Thursday nominated Rep. Richard L. Roudebush, R-Ind., to oppose Democratic Sen. Vance Hartke in the November election.

Roudebush, unopposed, was nominated by acclamation. The Democratic state convention gave Hartke an unopposed nomination for a third term bid two days ago.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—Don't throw away ice cubes left in glasses. Put them in flower pots and let them melt. Water your plants with no danger of spills.—ROSE-MARIE

DEAR POLLY—When I have just a few small items or one dress to dampen for ironing, I wrap them in my plastic rain cap.—J. M. C.

DEAR POLLY—Masking tape will pick up those few grains of sugar always missed when spilled sugar is cleaned up.—MRS. G. J. F.

DEAR POLLY—A turned-over dinner plate makes a good hand rest while applying nail polish.—THELMA

DEAR POLLY—A great way to dry glasses without leaving lint—use a silk or nylon cloth. I discovered this when I dried windows with an old nylon slip. (Polly's note—The hotter the glass, the better this works).—TINA

DEAR POLLY—We keep divided silverware trays in bathroom drawers to hold make-up, combs and odds and ends.—MRS. J. M.

DEAR POLLY—Slip the cooking oil bottle into a plastic bag. Make a cuff at the top, hold by a rubber band round the neck of the bottle, to catch drips that might otherwise smear the shelf.—RUTH

DEAR POLLY—Save those plastic foam meat trays. Use the small, narrow ones for disposable drip catchers for spoons on the stove. When lined with foil they make great relish trays for picnics or church suppers and they're disposable! Paint cans fit like a dream in the large ones. There's no drippy ring left on the floor and there's room for the paint brush.—MRS. C. A.

DEAR POLLY—I saw a clever idea at a recent rummage sale—buttons sewn on file cards. We all have odds and ends of buttons—perhaps just the kind someone else is looking for.—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—I keep two plastic bags in my dresser drawer. In one I store my good nylons; in the other, the "round the house" ones with small runs.—ANN

DEAR POLLY—Rubber gloves will slip off more easily if you hold your gloved hands in cold water for a few seconds before removing gloves. You can feel the gloves loosen as your hands cool.—CATHERINE

FOR STANLEY RESOR,

Secretary of the Army

Has a Medal of Honor ever been awarded to a military chaplain for bravery or any other service?—Mrs. L. D. Allen, Detroit, Mich.

● Since its inception, the Medal of Honor has been awarded to six military chaplains. They are: Chaplain John M. Whitehead, Civil War; Chaplain Francis B. Hall, Civil War; Chaplain—Milton L. Haney, Civil War; Chaplain (Commander, USNR) Joseph T. O'Callahan, World War II; Chaplain (Captain) Angelo J. Liteky, U.S. Army, Vietnam; and Chaplain (Major) Charles J. Watters, U.S. Army, Vietnam. (Editor's Note: An article by Captain Angelo Liteky, "What Our GIs In Vietnam Are Really Like," appeared in FAMILY WEEKLY on June 29, 1969)

FOR EDDIE ALBERT

I have heard that you eat only "natural foods." Do you grow any of it? What is included in your diet?—Mrs. Ellen M. Cross, Texarkana, Texas

● Not at all. On the contrary, my time is now so fully occupied with work at the office, meetings, speeches, visits to stores and markets, and with research that time in my home has become a rare luxury.

● It's true that I eat many organically nurtured foods, many of which I grow in my own garden. However, I also eat some non-natural foods. My diet consists mostly of naturally produced food and some chemical supplements.

FOR BESS MYERSON GRANT,

Commissioner of Consumer Affairs, City of New York

Do you spend more time in your home as a Commissioner than when you were on TV programs?—Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Epworth, Iowa

● Not at all. On the contrary, my time is now so fully occupied with work at the office, meetings, speeches, visits to stores and markets, and with research that time in my home has become a rare luxury.

FOR RON SANTO, Chicago Cubs

What is your favorite size bat?—Mark Pinkerton, Marion, Ind.

● My favorite bat size is 34 inches long and 32 ounces in weight.

FOR GLEN CAMPBELL

I have never seen a guitar like yours before. Was it especially made for you?—Deal Giglia, Somers Point, N.J.

● My guitars are manufactured by the Ovation Guitar Co. and are available to the public.

FOR MILTON BASS,

author and columnist
Do you believe, as is stated in your new novel, "Force Red," that there would be a danger of the nation being taken over by an all-volunteer army, such as the one recently proposed by President Nixon?—L. L. Smith, Chicago, Ill.

● I think there is grave danger of such a situation. The French<sup>1</sup> only narrowly averted it after the loss of Algiers. (The military has too much say on our country's policies right now, and I shudder to think what might happen with a force that has no civilian nucleus of draftees.

FOR DINA MERRILL,

address
Have you added maxi skirts to your wardrobe?—Mrs. J. M. Waco, Texas

● No. I like my skirts about four inches above the knee.

FOR JACK DEMPSEY

Recently I read about the computer fight in which Rocky Marciano beat Cassius Clay for the all-time heavy-weight championship. Is it possible to predict how two men who never fought would react?—John Davidson, Green Bay, Wis.

● Every fighter changes strategy for each opponent. Each has his own style. One punch can change the outcome. You can't predict it.

What in the World!

Cool As Hell. Now that it's officially summer (as of 12:43 this Sunday, EST) you may be interested in unique ways to escape the coming heat. So we pass along this you-know-where-you-can-go suggestion from Hell—Hell, Michigan, that is. For the curiosity seekers who come to this central-Michigan resort spot to see what it's like in Hell, the one thing they won't experience is too much heat: the town prides itself on the fact that practically every place is air-conditioned. What visitors can experience, however, is spending a night in a cozy motel on Hell Creek, mixing it up with the weekend brigade of townfolk who dress up in devil's costumes for fun and photos, and shopping for spartan souvenirs. Since the community's postmark is, of course, "Hell," the favorite tourist sport is mailing an ersatz snowball (available at a curiosity shop called Den of Antiquity) from Hell. It doesn't melt.

Low-Keyed Campaign When wives—of husbands who believe a woman's place is in the home—want to go back to work, they need to launch a domestic campaign, but a low-keyed one. "Not an offensive one, or they'll get the job and lose the husband." This is advice from Letty Corrin Pogrebin, a top publicist and a happy wife with three youngsters. She has just written a book, "How to Make It in a Man's World," and gave FAMILY WEEKLY some unpublished inside tips for wives hoping to take their, first post-children job: "First, talk about wanting to go back to school or brush up on former skills or merely check out available jobs. Later, speak of the need for adult stimulation, for something beyond self, kitchen, and kids. Emphasize that a job is not an escape, not a plan for giving up homemaking. As a convincer, you can cite American Journal of Sociology statistics showing that families of working women feel their lives are enhanced because the lady of the household is less tense, emotionally warmer."

Uniform Trend In years to come, are people going to be less individual, more uniform? It looks like it. The company which had half the American male population of 1915 in overalls now makes "uniforms" for the white-collar worker. Leighton Rosenzthal, president of Work Wear Corporation, predicts that within 10 years half of the American women will be wearing couture-designed "career clothes" on their jobs. He says many large companies will pay for their rental and maintenance—and compete for the best-looking ensembles to lure increasingly hard-to-get clerical help. But won't girls lose their individuality? Just the opposite, Mr. Rosenzthal thinks: "Women will put the money they save on other clothes into more cosmetics, hair pieces, more glamorous evening—and leisure clothes, and health-club memberships."

The Mystery of Premenstrual Tension

Quarrels, accidents, even crimes are caused by this monthly affliction; but for most women the condition responds to medical treatment

By THOMAS KERENYI, M.D. Obstetrician/Gynecologist, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City As told to Martin D. Staiman

Recently, a Denver housewife, after bitterly quarreling with her husband and crashing a tray full of dinner dishes, piled into the family car and drove off to meet a bus—head on.

Like some three million housewives and mothers, she was a victim of the overpowering emotional and physical strain called premenstrual tension.

It's estimated that the number of premenstrual tension sufferers who go untreated or who treat themselves ranges between 15 to 20 million a year in the United States alone. The most common of all female nervous disorders, it occurs about a week to 10 days before menstruation, builds to a climax, and usually abates rather dramatically with the onset of menstruation. For most women, it passes like a whimper. But it's amazing what can happen while it lasts!

A recent study showed that in 500 serious auto crashes involving women drivers a significantly high proportion was found related to the menstrual cycle.

Four times as many unpremeditated crimes of violence are committed by females in premenstrual days as on other days. In fact, current studies of both juvenile delinquents and adult female criminals suggest that their destructive activity is at a height during this time.

It's estimated that premenstrual tension accounts for female-job absenteeism of eight to nine million days per year and may cost industry as much as $5 billion a year.

Bringing it closer to home, a large percentage of marital quarrels and severe emotional conflicts between women and their children occur during these "black days."

During this time, women are most prone to accidents, and schoolgirls do very poor work, are forgetful and unpunctual, says Dr. Katharina Dalton of the University College Hospital in London.

Premenstrual-tension symptoms include a number of physical ones, such as headaches, backaches, and a feeling of heaviness. Some women gain as much as three to six pounds, mainly due to water accumulation in the body tissues; and experience swelling of parts of the body.

Beyond the physical are the psychological tolls: irritability, depression, tenseness, jittery nerves, anxiety, temper tantrums, and lassitude. These are the symptoms that are really dangerous.

Not all women fall prey to or suffer all of the symptoms. A study made among normal, healthy females indicates that nearly one out of three females suffers pretty regularly from some form of premenstrual tension, and at least four out of five experience one or more of its symptoms from time to time.

Premenstrual tension is rare among young girls, who are most likely to complain of menstrual cramps. But it frequently starts in the 20s and worsens in a woman during her 30s. Premenstrual irritability seems to be much commoner among married women than single girls. It hits 50 percent of the women of childbearing age. Whatever merits or demerits the "pill" may have, about half of the six to eight million women on it get relief from tension, and almost 90 percent from menstrual cramps.

What causes this witchy time? Doctors agree on one thing: the cause of premenstrual tension are as complex as woman herself.

Overproduction of some hormones in relation to others has been offered by some medical authorities as an explanation. This hormonal imbalance causes the body to retain an abnormal amount of salt and water. The increase of fluid retention can account for feelings of heaviness and swelling of breasts, legs, and other body extremities. Other researchers also note that the blood sugar level goes haywire. This fluctuation in blood sugar level is thought to be responsible for the anxiety, depression, jitters, lassitude, and irritation.

But whatever the basic cause may be, the result is a physical condition that responds to medical treatment. And when the physical condition is effectively treated, the symptoms, both physical and psychological, are usually relieved as well.

Because each woman's symptoms and complaints vary and may be peculiar to her situation, treatment can range from use of simple pain relievers to psychotherapy. In trying to reduce the water retention, normalize the blood-sugar level, and treat symptoms, physicians use many different kinds of prescription and nonprescription drugs, along with simple high-protein, low-salt diets.

The new medications include hormones, tranquilizers, sedatives, and diuretics (compounds which reduce water in body tissues). Among the popular drugs on the market are Pre-Mens tablets, Pre-Mens capsules, Dapriol tablets, Cyclox tablets, Pamprin tablets, and Trender tablets. Some of these—such as Pre-Mens tablets and Pre-Mens capsules—are designed to help prevent or alleviate the premenstrual-tension syndrome through multidimensional relief of basic underlying factors.

In any case, it's always advisable to consult your family physician about what specific treatment should be prescribed for your particular premenstrual symptoms.

Both physicians and psychiatrists stress that you shouldn't confuse slight premenstrual discomfort with helplessness. If you feel merely a little edgy or tired for a day or two, you're probably a lucky lady who takes the cycle in stride.

If your edginess seems more like a cliff-hanger, then discuss your problems both with your family doctor and husband. Tell your husband how guilty you feel over your loss of control, and be honest enough not to use these days as a license to nag. In fact, recent work by Dr. William Masters and Mrs. Virginia Johnson of the Reproductive Biology Research Foundation in St. Louis, suggests that sexual relations culminating in orgasm may also relieve premenstrual irritability. This is something you should talk over with your husband—especially if you notice yourself having an increased sex drive before your period; many women do.

Above all, don't resign yourself to premenstrual tension. The myth of this needless misery should be forever dispelled. If you suffer from it regularly, often, or just sometimes, you can do something about it. Thanks to new medical research and knowledge, you can use the results to maintain your dignity, efficiency, and happiness on the job or at home. ♦

"Let's Start Talking Sense"

In an exclusive interview, this famed-oceanographer answers vital questions about what the seas can—and cannot—do to solve man's problems

Jon Lindbergh emerges from midge sub after returning from undersea survey in Pacific.

The oceans, which cover 70 percent of the earth's surface, have been talked about as a potential living space and source of unlimited amounts of food when and if man exhausts land resources. Are such claims realistic?

It is true that the oceans have enormous potential, but in the present flurry of interest about them many people, including some who should know better, are coming to regard the oceans as an alternative to land. Too many people feel we can be less concerned about our problems of overpopulation, pollution, inadequate food, and diminishing natural resources because we have the oceans as an ace-in-the-hole.

Those who look to the ocean for ultimate answers are deceiving themselves. For instance, Government officials and others who talk about building cities on the ocean floor to relieve the earth's overpopulation are dreaming science fiction. The technology to build underwater cities of steel and concrete capsules into which we could stuff people would be possible but vastly expensive. It would be much cheaper and even perhaps more desirable to live in a hole in the ground. And the idea that people of the future will be swimming down underwater streets with aqua-lungs on their daily rounds of activities has little more realistic possibility than does the idea of moving the world population to the moon.

It is another myth, although a popular one, that the ocean as a food source can prevent the mass starvation that is expected to begin in many countries in a few years because of excess population. The most optimistic, reliable estimates are that we can multiply the quantity of food we derive from the sea by perhaps 20. Pessimists claim we have already reached our limit. I think the truth is somewhere in between. The ocean may allow us a little more time but if we are unable to control the real problem—the population explosion—we will quickly have far more hungry people and no new oceans to ball us out.

Is there danger that pollution may cut that time even shorter?

Yes, pollution of the ocean is a serious threat from several standpoints. Both by accident and design, we use the ocean as a cesspool. Oil from leaking wells and tankers, and human and industrial wastes are obvious examples of pollution. Less visible but much more dangerous are DDT and other persistent pesticides washing down from forests and farmlands. These are affecting the oceans even in the remotest parts of the world. Some of these pollutants are now contaminating and even killing certain sea life and may eventually upset the oceans' whole ecological balance. Certain other chemicals and radioactive wastes are also potentially very dangerous.

This, of course, threatens the ocean as a food source. Already some table fish caught off California have been banned from commerce because of their high DDT concentration. Shellfish from New York waters may be spreading such diseases as hepatitis. High concentrations of persistent pesticides, such as DDT, are known to affect the basic life functions of the tiny planktonic organisms that live in the ocean. These organisms produce most of the oxygen we breathe. So it can easily be seen that their alteration would be a most alarming factor.

What about mineral wealth? Are vast quantities of gold, magnesium, zinc, aluminum, silver, uranium, and other valuable metals waiting on the ocean floor and dissolved in the sea water for us to mine?

The ocean can be broken down into two general regions—the continental shelves and slopes which are geological extensions of the continents themselves, and the deep-sea basins, which average over 10,000 feet in depth.

The sea floor under the continental shelves is believed to contain about the same proportion of hard-mineral wealth as the land. There are, however, many more problems involved in finding and extracting it. From what we can determine, the deep-sea floor appears to contain considerably less mineral wealth than the land. Rock of the deep-sea floor is largely basaltic, and such rock generally is mineral-poor.

However, there are some exceptions. For instance, manganese nodules, averaging a few ounces in weight, but occasionally ranging up to several hundred pounds, cover extensive areas of the deep-sea floor all over the world. There are trillions of tons of these, containing some very desirable metals: nickel, copper, cobalt, manganese.

The problem is that the richest ones tend to be very deep—15,000 feet or more. We have not yet been able to develop a method of recovering and refining them at a cost that makes it worthwhile.

With regard to minerals dissolved in sea water, we already obtain much of our salt and most of our magnesium from sea water. We also recover bromine and certain other resources. However, some of the more romantic elements in solution, such as gold, are unlikely to be recovered economically in the near future.

Realistically speaking, what benefits will we derive from the oceans in the 1970's?

During this decade we will probably quadruple our oil and natural-gas production from the ocean. About 75 percent of our energy sources are from petroleum products. We are now pumping oil from the ground in the lower 48 states faster than we are discovering new reserves. Natural gas, which is one of the cleanest energy sources, is already in a state of critical shortage. For these reasons, it is vitally important that we develop sub-sea hydrocarbon resources.

We can expect in the '70s to recover significantly more hard minerals from the continental shelves. Already there is important off-shore tin-dredging activity in the Far East. The British are obtaining more than 10 percent of their sand and gravel to make concrete from off-shore. We can expect the same in the U.S.

Diamonds are being mined from the sea floor off Southwest Africa, and although the operation is relatively small, it became profitable during the last year. Much of the world's titanium ore, used in spacecraft and supersonic aircraft, now comes from beaches in Florida, Australia, and Brazil. We can expect to see the development of such are lying off-shore. There are interesting prospects for off-shore gold mining, particularly if the price of gold should be raised.

ABOUT JON LINDBERGH

The son of pioneer aviator Charles Lindbergh and authoress Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Jon M. Lindbergh began his undersea career as a Naval demolition expert. Since then, his extensive experience and enterprise in ocean research have been credited by Scientific American Magazine with "helping to establish a new branch of engineering." He now serves as consultant to Ocean Systems, Inc., a company engaged in sea exploration, is chairman of the Oceanographic Commission of the State of Washington, and makes his home on Bainbridge Island, Wash.

I think we'll see important changes in the fishing industry. We will to a far greater extent practice controlled "farming" of fish rather than rely so heavily on the catch-as-catch-can hunting that goes on today. Already in Japan, commercial fish and shrimp farms have been set up in shallow, protected salt waters where the fish are fed and "harvested" under controlled conditions. One company in America will attempt to harvest shrimp commercially from a farm off Florida this year. Many others are doing extensive research in the cultivation of lobsters, salmon, pompano, and other very high-value sea life. There has been speculation that fish will be contained in these "farms" by air-bubble fences, or perhaps they'll be herded by ultrasonic waves or by trained dolphins.

One of the key elements in the success of future "aquaculture" lies in experimental work by Dr. Lauren Donnellson at the University of Washington. He has made dramatic advances in the genetic manipulation of fish. He has produced special strains of salmon that return from the sea one year earlier and several pounds heavier than their parent "wild runs." This could do for the fishing industry what the replacement of the long-horn steer by the modern beef cow has done for the meat industry.

Also the ocean contains a vast new potential source of drugs and antibiotic compounds which we have only begun to develop. For example, there are reports that we may be able to get medicine from octopus saliva that can control high blood pressure and correct the irregular heart beat often associated with coronary attacks. Some researchers say that antibiotics to kill a wide variety of microbes and viruses may be perfected from sponges. Barnacle secretions may offer dentists a new way to glue fillings into teeth.

Is it possible that conflicts will arise between countries over ocean resources?

The limits of national jurisdiction in the ocean are not well defined. While rights of navigation should remain as broad as possible, a nation's sea-floor legal boundaries logically extend to the base of its continental slope. But since this boundary is at present legally uncertain, there may be a lot of loud talk, if not actual conflict, because many nations have exaggerated ideas of easy riches to be plucked from the ocean.

Some scientists and politicians have argued that we have devoted too much attention to space while "neglecting" the oceans. Do you agree?

I think that some ocean spokesmen who are jealous of space spectaculars have helped create a false controversy between the oceans and outer space. Actually, the two areas are so dissimilar you can't legitimately compare them. In terms of usefulness to our daily lives, the ocean has far more potential than space; at least in the foreseeable future. But this age will not be remembered as the time when man exploited the sea.

FLIP ship (floating instrument platform) stands upright in water or "flips" to give scientists stable lab for sea study.

History will look at this period as the time when man landed on the moon. Space exploration is important for the inspiration it gives us and perhaps for what it does for our national prestige.

A proposal has been made by some members of Congress that the United States create a "wet NASA," a multimillion-dollar Government agency to investigate and develop ocean resources. What do you think?

It's true that our ocean programs have been spread among a multitude of agencies and often uncoordinated. This needs improvement. But I question whether "everything" should be put into the same pot, into one agency just because it is "wet." Management of off-shore resources ties in closely with management of on-shore resources, and ocean programs often have more relationship to some land programs than they do to other projects connected with the sea.

What is the proper role of Government then?

The basic role of the Government should be to coordinate in both the public and the private spheres the nation's development and use of the sea. We have a fixed amount of coastline. With the present expansion of our population and our economy, we must plan our use of the ocean wisely if we are to obtain the maximum over-all benefit and properly apportion all the different uses—transportation, industry, resource extraction, conservation, recreation, and fisheries.

The proper management of our coastal zones is particularly important since most of our population lives in close proximity to these areas, and mismanagement is of long-standing and in some cases far advanced. For example, landfill, including trash and garbage deposits, has eaten up about 40 percent of San Francisco Bay, and if filling continues, it is believed that the resulting decrease in water surface there will bring a major alteration of climate to the Bay region.

A power company in Florida proposes to pour enough heated water from nuclear power plants into Miami's Biscayne Bay not only to radically affect marine life but make large parts of the bay too hot in summer for swimming.

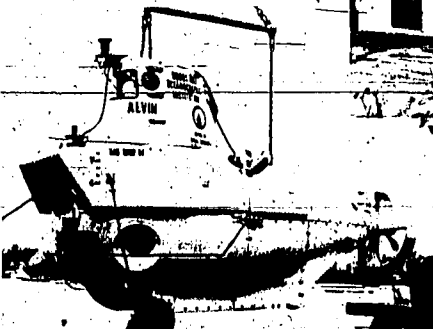

The U.S. should firmly establish its jurisdictions over our adjacent sea floors to the base of the continental slope and discuss with other nations the orderly development of the deep-sea floor. We should not wait until some moment of crisis to tackle these political problems.

Tough pollution control must be enforced by government with all deliberate speed if we are to preserve many of the oceans' benefits. Experts estimate that unless changes are made, industrial waste poured into the oceans will multiply by seven in the 1970s.

If we start right now talking sense about the oceans and taking sensible actions as well, our benefits from the sea will be magnified many times over, and our use of it will accelerate for the next 100 years. *

What Makes Jean Seberg Run?

To keep up with lovely Jean Seberg, you need your own private jet and a pair of comfortable track shoes! Even her best friends have to go to their local movie-houses to get a glimpse of her these days.

After finishing "Paint Your Wagon" in the U.S., then a film in Italy, she dashed off to the Spanish island of Majorca, where she and her estranged husband, author Romain Gary, keep a villa. But attempts to reach her there failed since there is no phone and only a nearby restaurant as a forwarding address. Was she back home in Paris, where she "shares" an apartment with Romain and their six-year-old son Alexander Diego? No, she was in Hollywood filming "Airport."

Well, actually she wasn't in Hollywood because she suddenly flew back to Paris to be with her son. Meanwhile, Jean was already making plans to move—lock, stock, and make-up kit—to a remote section of Mexico, where she would be filming "Macho Callahan."

Once cornered and settled down for a chat, Jean talks about her faltering marriage to Romain Gary and, lovingly, about her son Diego, and where she's going to live next. "I broke up our marriage," Jean was quoted as saying in a Hollywood column. "I am a bad liar, and I tell Romain everything," Jean allegedly said. But friends close to the couple know that Jean and Romain are two very different personalities—he can be overbearing, and she can be terribly independent.

"Romain and I will remain friends," said Jean as she plotted out her future. "There's no reason not to just because we're divorcing. But I don't want to make my home in France any more, where all-of-my-friends-are-his-friends. I can't establish an identity of my own. I'm also beginning to miss speaking English. The solution will be to get a house in England, where I have friends. When I'm not working, I'll divide my time between London and Paris, where Diego will be going to school." Diego is Romain's only child, and he wants his son to be raised as a Frenchman.

Jean admits that age (she was 30 last November) has helped her to accept disappointments and defeats a little more gracefully. And she has had her share of setbacks. The petite blonde from Marshalltown, Iowa, managed to appear in a number of film flops early in her career, including "Saint Joan" and "Bonjour Tristesse."

Her previous marriage to playboy-lawyer Francois Moreuil was also unsuccessful, but through him Jean met French film director Jean-Luc Godard. He cast Jean in "Breathless," with Jean-Paul Belmondo, which was a turning point in both her career and life.

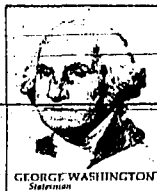

The film was a smash international success, and Jean was once again in demand. In Hollywood, Jean and her husband were introduced to the then French Consul-General, Romain Gary. A friendship began between Jean and Gary, which turned into romance. They were married in 1963.

They had homes in Paris, Greece, the South of France, Majorca—and all, it's said, were kept in Gary's name, though Jean contributed substantially to the financing. All along, she retained her American citizenship. Her homeland ties have remained strong. So has the chill of her profession, which she admits she cannot give up. "Acting is my craft," she insists. "When work calls, I pack up my make-up box and I am off."

"I am like the man who sharpens scissors and goes from place to place plying his trade. I never know where I will be next. I couldn't ask a husband to keep up with that, could I?"

AMERICAN FREEDOM WILL SOON BE 200 YEARS OLD. This is but a fortnight in the history of civilization. In this short time a great country has been forged out of the toughness of the American spirit. Free men and women did it. Many of them from humble beginnings.

It is time that the men and women who have contributed most to our American heritage be given an appropriate tribute—a permanent commemoration that can serve as an inspiration to the youth of today, and tomorrow.

The Franklin Mint has resolved to do just that —to establish a permanent Gallery of Great Americans at Franklin Center, Pennsylvania, near the birthplace of American freedom almost two centuries ago. The Gallery will become a constantly expanding, living center of national pride with permanent exhibits dramatically telling the stories and portraying the achievements of the Great Americans honored.

To give as many people as possible the opportunity to become acquainted with the Gallery,
The Franklin Mint will also produce and distribute a series of finely engraved commemorative medals immortalizing each of the men and women who are selected to be included in this historic shrine.

A distinguished group of citizens, acting as an advisory board, has selected one person in each of twelve categories to be honored in the first year.

be minted in Solid Bronze and Sterling Silver during 1970, and soon thereafter their achievements will be magnificently portrayed in individual exhibits in the Gallery.

Who should follow these men and women into the Gallery of Great Americans in 1971? What other Great Americans are most deserving of this exceptional tribute?

The selections for 1971 and future years will be made by you, and by other interested citizens—in the most democratic manner, by ballot. Our board of advisors' nominations for 1971 appear on the ballot at the right. Now, the choice is yours. Cast your vote for one nominee in each category—or, if you prefer, write in your own selections.

Long after this historic celebration is past, the commemorative medals struck in response to this balloting will form an imperishable record of our nation's history—just as minted likenesses of Pericles and the Caesars are part of our legacy from Greece and Rome.

25th Anniversary Commemorative Medal

In The Cause Of Peace, Justice and Progress

On June 26, 1945, delegates from 50 nations signed a Charter pledging "... respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all"—thereby founding the United Nations. • Today, as this world body prepares to mark its 25th Anniversary, it represents our strongest moral force in the quest for worldwide peace and freedom. But the task is monumental. Much remains to be done. And much depends upon popular support throughout the world. • With the conviction that this anniversary celebration should involve as many people as possible, the United Nations General Assembly has authorized the minting of an official commemorative medal proclaiming the anniversary theme—Peace, Justice, Progress. • This outstanding collector's item minted by The Franklin Mint, will be a lasting symbol of an historic milestone in man's progress toward international goodwill and brotherhood.

FAMILY WEEKLY COOKBOOK

Back-Yard Clambake

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

End some of these lazy summer days out-of-doors feasting on meals cooked leisurely in foil packets put onto a hot grill. As the food cooks to a delicious succulence, sit back, relax, and enjoy yourself while whetting your appetite for the feast to come.

Back-Yard Clambake

The amounts given in this recipe are for one packet; allow a packet per person.

- 18-in. heavy-duty aluminum foil,
- 28-in. length
- Cheesecloth
- Seaweed or rockweed (available at fish market), thoroughly washed
- 1 doz. unopened steamer clams, well scrubbed and rinsed
- Half of a 2½-lb. broiler-fryer chicken (split lengthwise), rinsed
- 1 (1 to 1½ lbs.) lobster, well rinsed
- 1 ready-to-cook ear of corn (fresh or frozen)
- 1 baking potato, scrubbed, rinsed, and cut lengthwise in quarters

1. For each packet, line the length of foil with a piece of cheesecloth several inches longer than foil.
2. Form three layers on the piece of cheesecloth using seaweed, clams, chicken, and lobster in that order. Tuck in the corn ear (halves, if long) and potato quarters. Sprinkle lightly with salt and grind pepper over all. Bring the cheesecloth up to cover the food. Bring two opposite edges of foil together over mixture and wrap securely using a drugstore fold; turn up ends and fold to seal.
3. Set packet on a hot grill and cook 1 hr., or until chicken is tender. (Cover grill with hood if necessary during cooking.)
4. Carefully pour the broth from packet into a cup for dunking the clams or for drinking. Accompany with melted butter or margarine. Serve with crusty bread, which has been wrapped in foil and heated on grill; slice before serving.

clams, then chicken, corn, and quartered potato. If clams are not used, pour ¼ cup canned clam juice cocktail over all along with the seasonings.

Frank-Vegetable-Medley

- 18-in. heavy-duty aluminum foil, 4 long lengths
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder
- ¼ teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
- ¼ teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
- 6 tablespoons olive, or other salad, oil
- 2 large zucchini, sliced
- 2 large ripe tomatoes, cut in wedges
- 1 small green pepper, cut in strips
- 6 green onions with tops, sliced
- ¼ cup antipasto sauce
- 8 frankfurters

1. Pour wine vinegar into a bottle or jar having a tight-fitting cover. Add garlic; then a mixture of salt, chili powder, oregano, and basil. Cover and shake well. Add oil; shake until blended. Set aside.
2. Bring edges of each foil piece up slightly. Divide zucchini, tomato, green pepper, green onion, and parsley evenly among the packets. Vigorously shake mixture in bottle and spoon about 2 tablespoons evenly over vegetables in each packet.
3. Slit frankfurters almost through lengthwise, spread cut surfaces generously with barbecue sauce, and gently press together. Put 2 frankfurters into each packet.
4. For each packet, bring two opposite edges of foil together over mixture and wrap securely using a drugstore fold; turn up ends and fold to seal.
5. Set packets on a hot grill; cook 20 to 25 min., turning packets over once. Open packets and gently mix vegetables and frankfurters with their juices before serving. Serve with crusty bread, which has been wrapped in foil and heated on the grill.

THE MOST COMMON FOODS IN YOUR KITCHEN

destroying your health!

Now—world-renowned nutritionist Carlton Fredericks, Ph.D., and famous physician and teacher Herman Goodman, M.D., reveal to you the astonishing evidence of how "innocent" foods on your pantry shelf may be ROBBIING you of your physical well-being...CORRODING your emotional health...and BLURRING the fine edge of awareness your child needs for top grades in school.

Yes, this book—a vitally important, we predict it will create a vital revolution...not only in the medical field, but in the supermarket also—reveals one of the authors' methods of recognizing and curing one of the most dangerous and unrecognized illnesses:

- an illness not detected by the average "conventional medical check-up"
- an illness so widespread, it afflicts one of every ten Americans at some point in their lifespan
- an illness linked to the causes of asthma, rheumatic fever, allergies, epilepsy, ulcers, alcoholism, and attacks/mistaken for strokes.

—Yet, with all of the above, an illness the authors believe YOU CAN CURE AT YOUR KITCHEN TABLE!

Yes, these distinguished authors will tell you their method of turning depression into joy; fatigue into vigor; tension into relaxation; in short, the way to a GLOWING NEW HEALTH—merely by preventing certain foods from "starving your brain."

CARLTON FREDERICKS, Ph.D., the nutrition expert, has been for many years of radio and television broadcasts on the subject of public health education. Besides innumerable magazine articles and syndicated newspaper columns, he has published several books, including How to Live Well, Your Key to Good Health, Food Poets and Poets, Carlton Fredericks' Law, Carbohydrate Diet, and Carlton Fredericks' Great Manual for Weight Watchers. Dr. Fredericks has also taught nutrition at the College of the City of New York, Brooklyn College, and Fairleigh Dickinson University.

HERMAN GOODMAN, a prominent New York physician, was educated at Columbia University and at the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He has been associated with the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, Beth Israel, the West Side Clinic and Hospital, Bellevue, New York University Medical College, and the New York Department of Health. He is a fellow of the American Medical Association and of the New York Academy of Medicine, and a diplomate of the American Board of Dermatology and Syphilology. Dr. Goodman is the author of a score of books and several thousands of medical, pharmaceutical, and scientific articles.

For here is what may very well be happening RIGHT NOW to yourself and your loved ones: Certain foods you eat every day (and have heard told are good for you) ARE ADVERSELY AFFECTING YOUR HEALTH! They are actually "starving your brain" by reducing the sugar in your bloodstream...preventing energy and nutrients from reaching the main centers of your brain and nervous system. This "starving" results in scores of alarming and painful symptoms.

The First Thing You Must Do—IMMEDIATELY—Is To Find Out If You Or Anyone In Your Family Is Being Injured By These Foods

Think about the members of your family, very carefully. Think about yourself. Have there been signs in anyone of constant fatigue? Of a lack of zest? Of a heightened sense of irritability? Of a sign (signifying "small" problems?) Of periods of extreme (and unwarranted) depression? Have there been recurring cases of asthma, allergies or ulcers? Especially those which doctors have not helped to your satisfaction? If the answer to any of the above is "Yes," you'll learn from the authors—these renowned experts WHO HAVE HAD THE COURAGE TO BRING THIS INFORMATION TO THE PUB-LIC—why a "complete checkup" may not reveal the true cause...more importantly, why this illness is so often diagnosed incorrectly (to the great danger of the patient)! For example: One man suffering from this "common food" illness was told by a dozen physicians that he was the victim of neuritis, of brain tumor, of claudication of one of his lower limbs—when actually HIS ILLNESS WAS COMPLETELY CURABLE AT THE KITCHEN TABLE!

Yes, the authors will show you why this illness can "masquerade" in nearly a hundred forms, and why it has been diagnosed incorrectly! Yes—the authors will tell you why it is a "MUST" that you take the important Test they show you as part of your regular medical check-up. And why doctors "frown" at this Test and usually give it only at your utter insistence? Yet this Test is so important, it can save you thousands upon thousands of dollars, as well as years of painful and depressing medical treatment.

For we repeat this basic and extremely important fact: Your illness can very well be cured RIGHT AT YOUR KITCHEN TABLE!

Discovered By A Physician In 1924—

—Yet "Hushed Up" For More Than 40 Years!

You read correctly—the shocking fact that this illness—which affects one of every ten Americans—was discovered and reported to more than 40 years ago, and the conclusions reached by Doctor S. Harris, the discoverer, have been verified and substantiated countless times by leading doctors throughout the years. Clinics, lab experiments and controlled tests HAVE PROVED CONCLUSIVELY THE EXISTENCE AND DANGER OF THIS "COMMON-FOOD" ILLNESS!

YET THE MAJOR THESIS REVEALING THIS ILLNESS HAS BEEN SO IGNORED THAT IT WAS PUBLISHED ONLY BY AN OBSCURE BRAZILIAN MEDICAL JOURNAL!

HOW WIDESPREAD IS THIS ILLNESS?

- A leading psychiatrist discovered that more than 40% of his patients were suffering from this "common-food" illness!
- 40% of patients facing psychiatric treatment including institutionalization CAN BE HELPED BY ELIMINATING CERTAIN FOODS FROM THEIR DIET!
- An experiment proved that out of nearly 700 neurotic patients, more than 600 responded favorably to a proper diet!

Why has it been so ignored? Could it be that certain food manufacturers don't want you to know. (Remember: YOUR knowledge of this illness might save YOU from prolonged and costly medical care.) Could it be that certain pharmaceutical companies don't want you to know? (Remember: the authors show that this illness requires neither FOOD, NEITHER DRUGS, to cure.) You'll learn the vital facts about your "everyday" foods—and then YOU can judge for yourself how "pressure groups" may be working against your health and your pocketbook!

Yes—you'll learn How Countless Numbers Have Saved Themselves From Expensive and Prolonged Medical Treatments—MERELY BY REMOVING CERTAIN FOODS FROM THEIR DIET!

As we stated before: This "common-food" illness can masquerade in a host of different forms. Read the examples below carefully to see if any sound familiar—if this illness may possibly be affecting YOUR family. Consider the story of a former Billy Rose Showgirl. Without warning or reason, she began feeling weak and apathetic, so much so that she went to her physician, who, finding nothing unusual in a conventional medical checkup, sent her to a psychiatrist. Finally, after years of psychiatric treatment (without improvement), she heard one of the authors of this book on radio. Immediately she went to her physician and demanded the all-important Test described in this book. This Test confirmed the fact that CERTAIN EVERYDAY FOODS WERE DESTROYING HER HEALTH! Refraining from these foods resulted in a complete cure within seven weeks!

Or take the history of a key employee of a major radio station. Without realizing why, she began feeling depressed—so depressed that she considered suicide on several occasions! In addition, she acquired certain irrational fears. One of them—claustrophobia—made it almost impossible for her to ride the subway to work or take the elevator in her floor! Completely ignorant of the fact that it was merely certain foods that were destroying both her physical and mental health, she was nearly fired from her job. Fortunately, she heard about the important Test the authors insist upon. The diagnosis: HER BRAIN WAS LITERALLY BEING "STARVED!" Within weeks, and without surgery and pain, she was cured, and SHE HAS BEEN SYMPTOM-

READ WITHOUT RISKING A CENT!

We believe this book is so important—an absolute necessity for every family—that we are making this book available to you with ABSOLUTELY NO FINANCIAL RISK ON YOUR PART!

Here's what You Do When You Receive This Book:

1. You turn to page 90 and learn about the "myth" regarding the so-called connection between cholesterol and heart attacks.
2. You turn to page 81 and learn about the single vitamin that restored fertility to more than half the "barren" women it was given to.
3. You turn to page 80 and learn the one basic element it is important, for you to have at every meal.
4. AND MOST IMPORTANT, you look in the table of contents for YOUR PARTICULAR PROBLEM, and then read what foods the authors say to add to or eliminate from your diet.

FIVE FOR MORE THAN TEN YEARS!

Even more startling is the case of a young practicing physician! Not only did he begin to experience anxiety, acute weakness and attacks of dizziness, but he underwent a complete change in personality. "The symptoms grew so severe, he was forced to withdraw from his practice! Prolonged visits to other physicians and to psychiatrists proved of little value. Finally, and so fortunately for him, he underwent the Test and FOUND OUT WHAT THE CAUSE REALLY WAS! Today he is enjoying his practice again, rid of every negative symptom he had experienced!

You'll also learn how so many others have escaped "cripping" symptoms, simply by removing certain foods from their diet—such as:
► the psychologist who began to lose his sense of concentration and his memory span, began to experience fainting spells, and because of this, actually began contemplating suicide—ALL BECAUSE OF CERTAIN FOODS!

► the four-year-old boy with asthma so bad, it took "all his strength to breathe" (Eliminating Two Causes of Food Poison: His Diet Cuzco His ARTIMA AFTER SEVERAL DOCTORS HAD BEEN TOTALLY UNABLE TO HELP HIM!

► the elevator operator who started having blackouts, which led to anxiety and depression, and after having to leave his job, began suffering delusions of persecution! After being improperly diagnosed as having latent homosexuality, he was luckily enough to find out that it was ONE SPECIFIC FOOD WHICH WAS ALMOST AS DANGEROUS TO HIM AS CARBOLIC ACID!

► the young woman hospitalized with a bleeding ulcer, whose symptoms disappeared when she went on a certain diet.

Do These Examples Sound Familiar?

For it has been evidenced that one of every ten Americans is being virtually "CHILLED" BY CERTAIN FOODS EATEN EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR! These foods are part of every pantry in America! Yes—it could be someone in your very own family...or perhaps a close friend.

All we want you to do is to discover the TRUE REASONS for symptoms you might have, and to eliminate certain potentially-dangerous foods from your family's diet (as specifically stated in this book). Therefore, we want you to read this book for a full sixty days—entirely at our risk. We want you to actually WITNESS THE CHANGE IN THE PHYSICAL, MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL HEALTH OF YOURSELF AND YOUR FAMILY. And we want you to see how CERTAIN FOODS are linked to the very causes of anxiety, depression, phobias...as well as outbursts, rheumatic fever, allergies, ulcers, alcoholism, and more!

If after that time, you are not convinced that this complete and truly informative text is not one of the most significant and beneficial medical advances of our time, simply return the book in good condition and we'll give you a 100% refund—no questions asked!

But we repeat this important fact once again: It is a virtual "must" that you read this book FOR THE PROTECTION OF YOUR FAMILY. So send in the NO-RISK Coupon Now!

Sex Appeal and You

It's the rare person who doesn't want to be attractive to others—particularly members of the opposite sex.

Nothing is more flattering to the male ego than to feel that women find him both interesting and intriguing. And a woman, whether she is married or single, likes to feel that she has what it takes to attract and hold a man. This true-false quiz presents findings which take the guesswork and speculation out of what things make a person attractive to the opposite sex.

1. A man is most susceptible to a woman's charms during the late afternoon hours.

2. If a girl you are interested in tends to avoid your gaze, it's a sign the attraction isn't mutual and your personality isn't registering with her.

3. A quick way to make a favorable impression on a member of the opposite sex is to draw him out about his pet peeves about people.

4. You will make yourself more attractive if you cultivate a subtle air of mystery.

5. You would be more attractive to the opposite sex if you wore extremely good-looking, had a terrific sense of humor, were highly intelligent, and exuded an air of complete self-confidence and assurance.

6. To attract a man and hold his interest, it's important that a girl be a good conversationalist.

7. A man interested in a certain girl will usually do best using the romantic approach since women are more romantic-minded.

8. Everyone likes to be appreciated, and a shrewd and sure way of boosting your stock with the opposite sex is to bestow flattering compliments whenever possible.

ANSWERS

1. False. And, contrary to notions about the effects of moonlight and music, a recent biological study by the British Medical Research Council shows that men are most romantic-minded and most vulnerable to a lady's charms between 4-o'clock in the morning and noon.

2. False. The exact opposite is far more likely to be the case: she avoids prolonged eye-to-eye contact because you are registering so strongly with her that she is fearful of being swept completely off her feet.

3. True. University of Texas studies show that, other things being equal, when two people discover they share a common enemy or aversion, their mutual attractiveness immediately increases.

4. False. Georgia State College studies show that in most cases the opposite is true, that people who reveal their true selves, are far more attractive to others.

5. False. Studies show that people who have all these traits are likely to come on so strong that other persons feel overwhelmed.

6. False. Surveys show that one of men's pet peeves about women is that they are long on conversation but short on listening.

7. False. Studies at Florida State University have shown that women are far less romantic-minded than men, take a much more matter-of-fact attitude toward love and romance—and are more prone than the male to be ruled by practical than by romantic considerations.

8. False. Not only is it not sure-fire, it's often sure to backfire. At best, the flatterer's gambit is a risky one. If the recipient sees through him or senses that he is insincere (and a woman's intuition is often a man's undoing in this respect), then he runs the chance of being immediately branded a phony.

Are The Foods You Are Eating Today STARVING YOUR BRAIN?

Check the three vital symptoms below—and then read how ORDINARY FOODS—used in a new way—may actually be able to REFUEL your vital brain cells, ACTUALLY AVOID OR BANISH MANY KINDS OF MENTAL TROUBLE!

Yes, Dear Friend:
Please believe this—

The man or woman who is a "nervous wreck"—who is "torn apart" by anxiety and tension play after day—may actually be a victim of his own starved brain!

The man or woman who is plagued by a "fading memory"—who no longer can rely on his own good mind—to feed back to him the vital information he must have—may also be a victim of that same starved brain.

And, most tragic of all, the man or woman who suffers from really drastic fatigue, depression, overwhelming fits of temper, and other signs of possible schizophrenia or paranoia or other mental disturbance—may also be a victim of his own starved brain!

And now every one of them can do something about it! Can fight that damaging BRAIN STARVATION with ORDINARY FOOD! Can do it in their OWN HOME—with nothing more than a few simple directions, and food you can get in any supermarket!

What Doctors Discovered About The Vital Food Substance That Keeps Your Brain "On The Job".

What is this vital substance that is so absolutely necessary to your well-being? It is BLOOD SUGAR—your body's natural fuel—carried by your bloodstream to every gland and organ. And only recently have doctors discovered that millions of people have TOO LITTLE natural sugar in their blood!

Yes, if you feel that your brain is hampered in any of those three critical ways OR if a loved one shows signs of the mental trouble that strikes one family out of every three, your brain may not be receiving enough BLOOD SUGAR. So you are STARVING YOUR BRAIN no matter how well-balanced your diet seems to be!

Can You Restore The Blood-Sugar Balance Of Your Body— And So Restore The Vital Functions That Have Gone Wrong?

Yes, it is possible, practical and EASY in millions of cases! You are invited to send for the book that explains the simple method—a book you read without risk. In it, you are going to see, simply and clearly:

The precise kinds of ORDINARY FOOD, sometimes with a few "extras", that can restore health to many suffering minds, and has brought even the severely insane back to useful, happy living.

How the same ORDINARY FOOD also works wonders for such common ailments as headache, fatigue, irritability, memory lag, anxiety, depression.

How the same ORDINARY FOOD also refuels the entire body, to help you get into splendid youth-condition from head to toe.

Based On Years Of Breakthrough Medical Research!

Behind those statements stands the work of such physicians as Dr. Abram Hoffer and Dr. Joseph Tobin; Nobel Prize winner Dr. Linus Pauling; famed nutrition expert Judge Tom R. Blaine, and other researchers of equal stature. The entire book is the dedicated work of Judge Blaine, who has witnessed thousands of cases to help you see the nutrition cause of your own problems—and how a simple, pleasant way of eating may quickly help you banish troubles like these.

Are you depressed, nervous, unhappy? Read a doctor's story about a woman with marriage troubles who had been deeply depressed and miserable all her life. She got rid of her misery—thanks to simple changes in nutrition and a vitamin you can buy in any drugstore. (page 41)

Does any member of your family suffer from schizophrenia?

Read a letter from a young man who conquered schizophrenia—not through psychiatry—but through simple changes in nutrition. This letter also reveals significant food traps for schizophrenia. Even if you are not schizophrenic, avoiding these same food traps may make a priceless difference to your health and peace of mind. (page 104)

Do you suffer from gastro-intestinal sluggishness? (This and scores of other common symptoms) can be a warning of blood-sugar deficiency. Read about a simple food supplement that is known by several names but by no name! See how it aids the entire gastro-intestinal tonus. (page 156)

Extra added bonus—do you (or are you) threatened by heart failure or stroke? See why your present diet may contain a "heart mistake" food that nobody ever warned you about before. And why you may be avoiding a delicious type of food that should not bother your heart in the least! (page 136)

Why Did It Take So Long To Discover The Importance Of The Natural Brain-Food Diet In Both Mental And Physical Health?

Because, as you will see in Judge Blaine's fascinating book, blood-sugar deficiency is the GREAT MASQUERADE! Your own doctor will confirm that people have been treated for years for other conditions (such as ulcers, arthritis, every kind of indigestion, exhaustion, blurred

FIVE MINUTES THAT CAN CHANGE YOUR LIFE

The moment you receive Judge Blaine's easy-to-read book, turn to pages 37 and 38. In five minutes or less, read the MASTER FOOD-LIST for "brain-food" nutrition! Meats! Sea-foods! Vegetables! Dairy products! Desserts! Drinks! The list will delight you—and so will the delicious, hearty meals you eat... plus special snacks between meals and at bedtime!

Also in this important book: FOOD SECRETS that brought a full recovery from symptoms of arthritis and scintillating special FOOD SECRETS that make old age well—FOOD SECRETS that help your eyes, help teeth and gums, help the skin to be firm—and youthful—FOOD SECRETS that strengthen the entire system of adrenal glands—plus all the especially important FOOD SECRETS (so easy to follow!) that help to strengthen and tonic YOUR MIND, no matter how many years you have suffered!

Try it at our risk, today!

vision, paranoid delusion) before it was discovered that blood-sugar deficiency may be the possible cause of all these diseases—and many more! (Of course, we suggest that you consult with your own doctor if you suffer from any of these serious ailments.)

Of course, there still are dihard medical men who go on treating symptoms instead of the basic causes of illness and debility. There still are drug companies who do not like to hear that the best medicine, in some cases, is food alone. There still are psychiatrists charging $30 an hour, for scores of treatments when a month of proper "brain-food" diet, costing no more than your ordinary diet, may do the job. (And a simple test, described in this book, can tell you unmistakably if you suffer from low blood sugar, rather than, for example, high blood sugar, where these rules do not apply.)

So it took courage to write this book—the courage of a dedicated jurist and health researcher who says that WRONG NUTRITION dooms millions to misery; and that the right kind of "brain-food" nutrition can often lift such people onto a high new plane of mental balance, efficiency, and the kind of physical well-being that money cannot buy.

HIS MAY BE THE MOST CONTROVERSIAL BOOK YOU EVER READ!

For in it, a crusading Judge opens an entire new vista of hope for the ill—especially for the mentally troubled—and strikes at the very roots of some orthodox beliefs about medicine.

Tom R. Blaine was a practicing attorney in 1920. He has been an Oklahoma state judge since 1943. He began to suspect that ever many "insane" people, juvenile delinquents, and actual criminals were in trouble because they suffered from low blood sugar; that is, they simply were not getting enough food for their bodies.

Working with physicians and laboratory men, he proved his theory and expanded it. The fact is that almost anyone, of any age, who suffers a lack of vitality, nagging ill-health, and lingering mental unrest, may be a victim of low blood sugar. And the best, safest, easiest way to restore the normal content of sugar in the bloodstream is with food and food supplements—exactly as Judge Blaine describes in this trail-blazing book!

Try it at our risk, today!

I've watched the ads for colds and flu
And acid indigestion,
And I accept the claims of all the cures
Without a question.
But now that I have learned the names
Of all the pills to swallow,
I find I don't feel well enough
To watch the show to follow.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

When LBJ was in Vietnam on an inspection tour, he put on Army fatigues and walked among the troops. One GI called out to him, "Hey, soldier! You look just like President Johnson."

"I am President Johnson," LBJ replied.

The soldier shook his head in amazement. "Boy," he finally said, "you sure must have a tough draft board."

Both my sister-in-law and I were expecting our third child. Since each of us had two little girls, my mother-in-law expressed a natural-enough desire to be blessed with a pair of grandsons. She must have irked my young niece, who burst out:

"Boys, boys. All I ever hear is boys. Even at Sunday School we sing him—not hers."

NEW YORK DOCTOR DISCOVERS A DRAMATIC NEW BREAKTHROUGH TO CURE OVERWEIGHT.
10,000 PATIENTS LOSE POUNDS AND INCHES QUICKLY AND SAFELY WITH NEVER BEING HUNGRY.

'I lost 85 lbs. of ugly fat in only 2 short months!'

YES, THIS IS MY ASTONISHING STORY OF HOW I LOST 85 POUNDS OF EXTRA WEIGHT IN ONLY 60 DAYS
... NO DIETS ... NO CALORIE COUNTING ... NEVER HUNGRY AND COMPLETELY SAFE.

In the summer of 1967 I noticed a report written by a New York Doctor who was specializing in Internal Medicine. The doctor wrote that he had helped 10,000 overweight men and women to lose all the weight they desired. These people included Doctors, Nurses, Dietitians, Life Insurance Experts, Actors, Models, and others who had never been able to reduce successfully no matter how hard they tried. Yes, these people were permitted as many meals as they wanted — No calories to count. They ate as much or more than ever ... Were never hungry AND TO EVERYONE'S AMAZEMENT SAW POUNDS MELT AWAY WITH UNBELIEVABLE SPEED IN THE FIRST 3 DAYS OF FOLLOWING THIS METHOD. Some people actually LOST 25 POUNDS THE FIRST WEEK. After carefully examining the medical report, I decided to give this Doctor's Method a try.

I STARTED TO FOLLOW THIS DOCTOR'S SENSATIONAL PLAN AND TO MY BITTER AMAZEMENT I LOST MORE WEIGHT IN THE FIRST 3 DAYS THAN IF I HAD EATEN ANYTHING AT ALL. After eating such amazing results in ONLY 3 DAYS I continued on — NEVER HUNGRY EVEN ONCE — to lose a total of 85 pounds in only 2 SHORT MONTHS. Never once did I suffer any ill effects from this quick and dramatic Weight Loss. I had tried many times before to starve myself to lose weight but with this method — with no calories to count and with the big weight loss the very first week gave me the confidence I needed to continue on. Now I can lose weight as quickly as I desire and as can you. YES! The more I ate to satisfy my body the more weight I would lose. Now even though I love to eat I have no problem to keep my weight down to what it should be. I urge every overweight man or woman to start my method immediately for these extra pounds and inches are impairing your appearance, your health AND endangering and shortening your life span. OBESITY IS THE NUMBER 1 HEALTH HAZARD IN AMERICA TODAY! YES, THOSE EXTRA POUNDS WILL KILL YOU ... SLOWER FOR SOME ... QUICKER FOR OTHERS.

Get to Know Cheese

Here Are Helpful Pointers for You On Buying, Storing and Cooking With This Favorite

Making natural cheese is an art centuries old—and one which "immigrated" to the United States with happy results. It consists of separating most of the milk solids from the milk by coagulating with rennet or a bacterial culture or both, and separating the curd from the whey by heating, draining and pressing. Most cheeses in this country are made from whole milk. (But both milk and cream are used for certain types of cheese; and, for other types, skim milk, whey and mixtures of all these are used.)

The term "natural cheese" applies to cheese in its original form as contrasted with pasteurized process cheese, cold pack cheese, cheese foods and spreads, or food or club cheese. These are blends of natural cheeses which have been shredded and mixed.

The labels of natural cheese and other types of cheese carry important descriptive information you should check when shopping. Look for the name of the product; Cheddar cheese, Swiss cheese or Blue cheese. Don't confuse the brand name with the name of the cheese. The age or degree of curdling also may be indicated on the label.

CURING OR AGING

After cheese is formed into its characteristic shape, it's given a coating of wax or other protective coating or wrapping and is allowed to cure or age for varying lengths of time depending on the kind of cheese being made.

Mild—Cheese cured two or three months may be termed "mild"; has little flavor development and slightly rubbery body.

Medium—Cheese aged up to six months may be termed "medium" or "mellow"; it is mellow-bodied, smooth textured. Characteristic nutty flavor of aged cheese only slightly apparent.

Aged—Cheese aged over six months may be termed "sharp" or "aged." Preferred for cooking as it melts easier and blends well with other ingredients. Adds richer flavor than a younger cheese. (Aged cheeses cost more because of added costs of curing.)

KEEPING CHEESE ON HAND

Refrigerators and wrappings are the two best friends cheese ever had. Warm, moist air is the enemy. Refrigeration (40°F.) preserves the original flavor and appearance of cheese and insures full-size, best-quality long holding power at refrigerator temperature, will result in additional curing and a sharper flavor.

Wrappings, such as waxed paper, plastic film, aluminum foil or plastic bags should be used in close contact with the cheese to exclude air to keep it fresh and moist. Of course, mold is easily scraped or cut from the surface of the cheese.

Cottage cheese and cream cheese are quite perishable and should be used within a few days of purchase.

Cheese with an aromatic or strong odor such as Limburger should be stored in a tightly covered jar or container. Such cheeses are best curing and are at their best when used within a short time after purchase.

Cheddar, Swiss and Italian varieties of cheese that have been kept too long and become dry can be grated and used for flavoring.

SUCCESSFUL CHEESE COOKERY

When cooking cheese, always keep the heat low. Cheese needs just enough heat to melt and blend with other ingredients. High heat or long cooking makes cheese tough and stringy. Dry heat, prolonged baking or high temperatures will produce leathery textures.

Add cheese to other ingredients in small pieces; it spreads more evenly and cooks in a shorter time. When making a cheese sauce, add the cheese just at the last minute and cook only until it melts. If cheese is to be grated or shredded, the job is easier if you work with cold cheese taken directly from the refrigerator.

Except for soft, unripened cheeses such as cottage cheese or cream cheese, all cheese tastes better served unchilled. This usually requires from 20 minutes to an hour at room temperature to bring out its distinctive flavor and texture. Cut off and eat out just what you'll use; wrap and return the rest to the refrigerator.

For descriptions and suggested ways to enjoy some popular American-made cheeses, check the chart.

Royal Way with Melon a la Mode

To crown dinner with a regal touch, that's refreshing as well, here's the easy idea—a mixture to look at and to eat.

Bring cantaloupe and ice cream to the table in the shape of fanciful little crowns. Halve the melons scallop-style. Fill with strawberry ice cream, "jewel" with melon balls—fresh berries, too, if you like. Voila!—Desert fit for a king.

CANTALOUPE A LA MODE

1 pint strawberry ice cream
Strawberries, optional

Halve cantaloupes in "scallop" fashion; remove seeds. Scoop out several melon balls. Fill each half with a large scoop of ice cream; garnish with melon balls and strawberries, if desired. Yield: 4 servings.

Super Summer Salads

Perhaps your idea of a super salad is one that can do main course duty. In that case, try Ham Salad with Dill Dressing, a combination of meat chunks, greens, potatoes, artichoke hearts and a dilled-sour-cream topping.

If individual-serving salads are your yen, pick Pineapple Crab Meat Salad — fruit, crab meat and almonds served prettily in scooped out pineapple shells. Perfect to start a luau or impress a ladies' luncheon.

Molded salad fans will find Avocado Mold intriguing. Orange, pecans, fresh-tasting cottage cheese and pliant yogurt are among the flavorful ingredients.

A thick, tart, cooked dressing puts Sour Cream Cole Slaw in the out-of-the-ordinary category. This cooked dressing should be chilled before sour cream is folded in; then you toss and serve it with the crisp slaw.

All four recipes make marvelous eating — which is what super-salads are all about!

HAM SALAD WITH DILL DRESSING

DRESSING:
1 cup dairy-sour cream
½ cup chill sauce
½ cup chopped sweet pickles
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon dill weed

SALAD:
1 can (1 lb.) sliced potatoes
1 package (9 oz.) frozen artichoke hearts
1 pound fully-cooked ham
Salad greens

To prepare dressing: In a small bowl combine sour cream, chill sauce, pickles, lemon juice and dill weed. Set aside ½ cup of dressing; cover and refrigerate remaining dressing. To prepare salad: Drain potatoes well, add the ½ cup dressing and toss lightly. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour. Meanwhile, cook artichoke hearts according to package directions; drain and chill. Just before serving, cut ham into ½-inch cubes. Line salad bowl with greens; place potatoes in center. Surround potatoes with artichoke hearts and ham; toss with remaining dressing. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Especially for Fruit Salads

CREAMY CITRUS DRESSING: In a bowl blend together two tablespoons each orange juice, lemon juice and honey with 1½ teaspoons grated orange rind, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, and ¼ teaspoon paprika. Fold in 1 cup dairy sour cream OR plain yogurt. Cover and chill. Yield: 1½ cups.

HEAVY ORANGE CREAM DRESSING: Blend together two tablespoons each honey and orange juice. Fold in 1 cup dairy sour cream OR plain yogurt. Cover and chill. Yield: 1½ cups.

PINEAPPLE CRAB MEAT SALAD

2 packages (6-oz. each) frozen crab meat, thawed
1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange segments, drained
½ cup toasted sliced almonds

DRESSING:
1 teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon pineapple juice
¼ cup dairy sour cream

Cut whole pineapple in 8 sections, leaf end to bottom keeping the leaves intact and cutting through them. Cut along shell to loosen edible part of fruit, being careful not to puncture shell. Set aside shell. Remove core and dice pineapple. In a bowl combine pineapple pieces, crab meat and oranges. Set aside 2 tablespoons of almonds; add remainder to pineapple mixture. To make dressing: In a bowl combine celery seed, salt and pineapple juice; fold in sour cream. Toss dressing with fruit-crab mixture; fill shells, garnish with reserved almonds and serve immediately. Yield: 6 servings.

SOUR CREAM COLE SLAW

1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery seed
Dash of pepper
½ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
4 tablespoons (½ stick) butter
1 cup dairy sour cream
8 cups shredded cabbage
½ cup grated carrot

In a 1-quart saucepan combine flour, sugar, salt, celery seed and pepper; gradually stir in vinegar; then add water, onion and mustard. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook two additional minutes. Blend small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks; return all to pan. Cook 1 minute. (Do not boil.) Remove from heat; add butter and stir until melted. Cover and chill. Fold in sour cream. Combine cabbage and carrot; pour on sour cream dressing and toss lightly to blend. Makes 6-8 servings.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Turn six medium tomatoes stem end down; cut each in six sections, cutting only ¾ way down. Gently spread sections apart; chill. Combine 2 cups cottage cheese, ¼ cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives, ¼ cup shredded carrot, ¼ cup chopped pecans and 2 tablespoons chopped onion, toss lightly. Place tomatoes on sautéed greens, fill with cottage cheese mixture, and serve immediately.

1 package (10 oz.) frozen corn OR 2 cups fresh corn
2 tomatoes, sliced (10-12 slices)

'Captain's Dinner' Makes Fine Fare For All Landlubbers, Too.

With boating growing in leisure-time popularity, many's the first mate who finds herself adrift with a hungry crew these warm-weather weekends. If your family has just joined the fleet, perhaps you find two-burner cooking a voyage into the unknown.

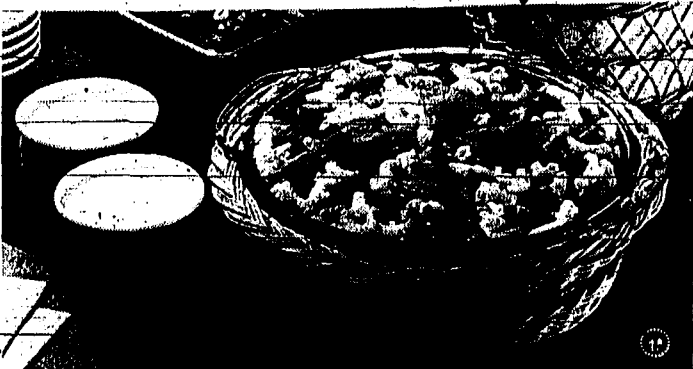

Take some tips from this "Captain's Dinner" menu for smooth sailing.

Remember that cooking and eating space are limited. Keep food simple and hearty — like Beef and Beans, a trio of beans with sweet-sour sauce and meat balls which owe their delectable lightness to evaporated milk, used as an ingredient.

To accompany the main dish, use ready-to-serve items that demand no galley slavery: Rolls and butter, refreshing milk and fruit and cheese, a favorite dessert you can vary.

Try Swiss and Cheddar with fresh peaches; Munster and Brick cheese with plums; Cheddar, Swiss or Munster with grapes.

Do as much ahead-of-time preparation as possible. The casserole can be made and refrigerated at home, carried aboard and kept chilled before stove-top re-heating on the boat. Or, bring it hot in an insulated casserole if you plan to eat immediately after casting off.

*Good luck indeed for a potluck supper gathering is Ham and Cheese Casserole. Onion and celery seed add flavor; green pepper and pimiento add color to the meat-macaroni-cheese dish.

Dairy Products Promote Pet Health

Rover, Kitty and Friends Down 35 Million Pounds Annually

The dairy industry's customers don't all come with two feet. According to Pet Food Institute estimates, over 35 million pounds of dairy products are used every year in formulating commercially prepared pet foods.

Ingredients such as dried skim milk powder, dried whey and other elements make a significant contribution to the pet foods on grocery shelves today. Dairy products furnish Rover and Kitty with calcium, B vitamins, phosphorus and other minerals.

In fact, nutrition research shows that dogs and cats require the same basic nutrients that sustain their human friends: protein, carbohydrates, fat, minerals and vitamins. But pets need these nutrients in different amounts and proportions than people.

Variety

The average large supermarket stocks an astonishing — sometimes bewildering — variety of pet foods. But there are only three basic types: maintenance foods, supplements and treats. Dairy products are found mostly in the maintenance foods — complete rations, one-dish meals which are available in canned, dry and semi-moist form.

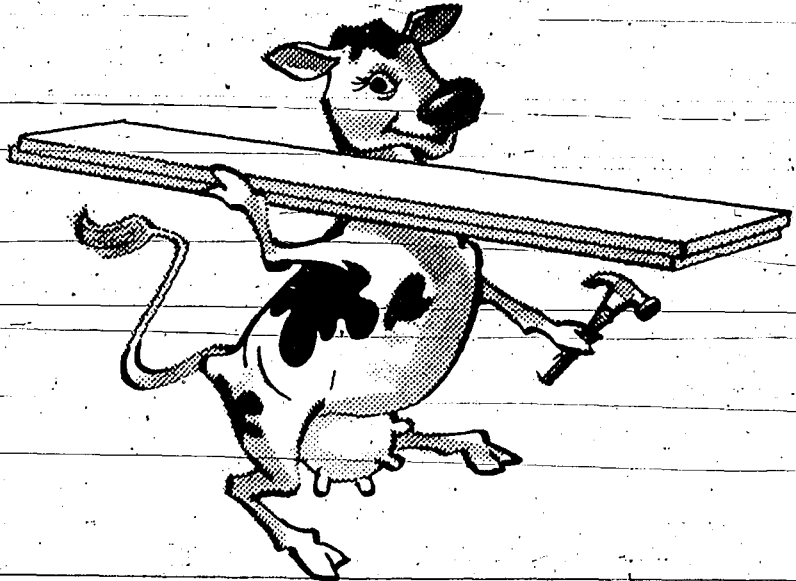

Maintenance foods are combinations of ingredients formulated to provide pets with all the nutrients they need. Supplementary foods contain primarily meat, fish or poultry. Though not complete rations diets, they are highly nutritious and very appealing to most pets. Supplementary foods are recommended for occasional meals or for mixing with one of the maintenance foods. Treats are for between-meal snacks, of course.

Though it may seem that Rover and Kitty are ready to eat anytime, anywhere, how much should you really feed them? Study the feeding instructions on pet food packages. They often recommend average portions for different breeds, or suggest portions for each pound of an animal's weight. Using this guide, keep a close eye on your pet's waistline. If his ribs begin to show, he needs more; but, if he starts to bulge, then you should cut down the amount of food.

Feeding pets at the same time each day gives them a sense of security and trains them to eat the right foods instead of being finicky — or underweight, dull coat and dry skin, a lethargic or irritable disposition are often caused by improper diet. On the other hand, proper feeding contributes to a glossy coat, well-formed body and alert disposition.

The old adage, "You are what you eat," applies to pets as well as people!

Dairy Data

Only about 10 million pounds of butter are churned on today's dairy farms, compared with nearly a billion pounds churned on U.S. farms in 1900. Most dairymen buy their butter at the store, just like everybody else!

A woman, Nancy Johnson, invented the hand-cranked ice cream freezer in 1846, but, alas, she forgot to have it patented. So the glory went to man, one Mr. Young, who didn't come along with his gadget 'til 1848.

Active Year for Pretty Californian As 15th American Dairy Princess

When candidates from 30 states gathered for the selection of the 1969-70 American Dairy Princess in Chicago last year, their first meeting was an informal group picture-taking session. One returned from it to report positively to her mother, serving as her contest chaperone. "It's got to be the girl from California."

She was right. The red roses and sparkling crown went three days later to Frances Mary Bispo, 20, a dark-eyed brunette from Merced, California. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bispo, she lives with her parents and two younger brothers on a 30-acre dairy farm with a herd of 45 Holsteins.

Royal Appearances

Her coronation started the 5'6" Merced Junior College sophomore on a round of activities as official representative of American Dairy Association's dairy farmer members, speaking up for milk.

She poured milk for the Western Conference champion Oakland Raiders football team during a photo assignment. As guest of honor, she greeted the 4,000 dairy-men and their families who gathered for the year's largest dairy convention — the second annual meeting of Milk Producers, Inc. — in Fort Worth, Texas. There she shared billing with such notables as economist Dr. Walter W. Heller of the University of Minnesota, Texas governor Preston Smith, and Bill Dana, the "Jose Jimenez" of television fame.

At International Milk Day in Buffalo, New York, Frances was joined by other dairy royalty — princesses from England and Wales, Canada, the Province of Ontario, and New York State. She was interviewed at the Los Angeles County Fair for a segment of the NBC television program, "Agriculture, U.S.A." which was aired on 50 stations throughout the country.

Frances will spend the $2,000 cash scholarship, which goes with her title, on furthering her education. She feels her experience as American Dairy Princess will be valuable to her in whatever career she pursues.

Frances Bispo, Merced, California, will have a busy June Dairy Month as the 15th American Dairy Princess.

She'll cap her year as American Dairy Princess with a flurry of June Dairy Month appearances. And though she'll end her reign with some regrets that it's over, she will have more time to devote to her favorite pastimes — riding, baseball, basketball and sewing — after she crowns her successor the last of June.

Nutrition Notes

Don't eat "like a lady." A government survey pointed an accusing finger at the fair sex, saying that women, 35 and over, generally are the worst offenders where selection of a good diet is concerned.

The same government report called attention to a "hidden hunger" for calcium in millions of American diets, and went on to say: "As most everyone knows, milk is the best source of calcium in our food supply . . . ."

"To help you achieve your calcium need, nutritionists recommend that children drink three or more 8-ounce glasses of milk each day; teenagers and pregnant and lactating women, four or more glasses; and adults, two or more glasses, daily, or its equivalent in other dairy foods."

Easy Eating Goes with Dairy Month

Suppose milk were a seasonal specialty like corn-on-the-cob or peaches.

Not so long ago, something very like that was actually the case. In point of fact, that's the reason June is Dairy Month, instead of November or February.

Oh, yes, milk was available year 'round but, as summer approached, cows, under the benevolent influence of balmy air and more plentiful grazing, increased their milk production to its yearly peak.

Not only was the milk supply more lavish, so were the other dairy-fresh foods made from milk — including cottage cheese, butter, sour cream. The Milk Season was deliciously on!

That's why, in 1937, when National Milk Month made its bow, its sponsors chose to hold it from June 12 to July 10. By 1939, it had become a calendar month basis with a national campaign to promote greater use of the dairy products in such plentiful supply.

The coming of summer, after all, signals a change in life-style for most of us. Along with bulky overcoats, we shed a lot of the formality that goes with the "indoor" season. Clothing—and living pace become a bit more casual — and so does eating.

Today's Farmer Efficient Toiler, Big Customer

Today's farmer is a mighty efficient man. His productivity has been climbing more than five percent per year, "roughly twice the rate for industry," the Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has pointed out. In 1969, U.S. farmers produced over 20 percent more products on six percent fewer acres than in 1957-60.

In terms of persons supplied by one farmworker, the man who produced enough for himself and six others at the turn of the century was producing enough for himself and 42 others by 1969—with the aid of supply and marketing industries.

Marketing farm food and fiber alone provides about 5 million non-farm jobs for which payroll and fringe benefits are $25 billion. Thirty percent of jobs in private employment are agriculture-related.

Besides being a major supplier to the U.S. economy, agriculture is a $50 billion customer. Among the purchases: 6.5 million tons of steel in the form of tractors, other motor vehicles, machinery and equipment; more petroleum than any other single industry — and more electricity than Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Baltimore,

From Loaf of Bread

Pleasing Cheese Appetizers

Fixing crowd-pleasing appetizers is almost as easy as slicing bread — if you slice the loaf lengthwise, top it with lots of shredded Cheddar and a variety of garnishes. Serve these Cheese Loaf Appetizers hot from the oven to a horde of hungry teens or a gathering of "over 30's." Whatever the crowd or the occasion, they'll fit right in!

CHEESE LOAF APPETIZERS

- 1 loaf unaliced sandwich bread
- Butter (12 oz.)
- 3 cups (18 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- Green pepper strips
- Parsley
- Assorted garnishes:

- Shrimp, cooked and cleaned
- Rolls anchovy fillets
- Cherry tomatoes, halved
- Pimiento-stuffed olives

Cut double thickness of heavy duty aluminum foil to 12 x 16 inches; place on 17 x 14-inch baking sheet. Trim crusts from bread; cut loaf into 4 lengthwise slices. Place slices side by side on foil. Toast both sides under broiler; butter. Sprinkle with cheese.

Bread will be cut in 8 equal crosswise sections after baking to make 32 appetizers. Therefore, arrange choice of garnishes with green pepper and parsley so they will be in center of each appetizer.

Bake 15 minutes in preheated 325° oven. Place under broiler 1-2 minutes or until lightly browned. Cut; carefully slide foil with appetizers onto serving tray. Serve immediately. Yield: 32.
